Down at police headquarters, surrounded by stern-faced inquisitors of the law, sits a medium-sized man of commonplace appearance, with his fixed gaze directed on the floor, who presses his lips firmly together and listens with an air of assumed indifference to the persistent stream of questions, arguments, objurgations and admonitions while his captors seek to induce or compel him to talk. It was just after the daily organ recital in the splendid Temple of Music that the dastardly attempt was Planned with all the diabolical ingenuity and finesse of which anarchy or nihilism is capable, the would-be assassin carried out the work without a hitch, and should his designs fail and the President survive only to divine providence can be attributed that beneficient result.

There was an instant of almost complete silence. The President stood complete silence. The President stood still, a look of hesitancy, almost of bewilderment on his face. He retreat-ed a step, while a pallor began to steal over his features. THE PRESIDENT ALONE WAS CALM.

Inside on the slightly raised dais was enacted within these few feverish moments a tragedy, so dramatic in character, so thrilling in its intensity that few who looked on will ever be able to give a succinct account of what really did transpire. Even the actors who were playing the principal roles came out of it with blanched faces, trembling limbs and beating hearts, while their brains throbbed with a tumult of conflicting emotions which could not be clarified into a lucid narrative of the events as they

BROKE NEWS GENTLY.

Buffalo, September 6-Immediately exposition Grounds, Director-General W. I. Buchanan started for the Milburn residence to forestall any information that might reach there by telephone or otherwise. Very luckily he was first to arrive with the infoirmation. The Niagara Falls trip had tired Mrs. McKinley, and on returning to the Milburn vesidence she took leave of her nieces the Misses Barber, and the President's niece, Miss Duncan, as well as their hostess, Mrs.

Milburn, and went to her room to Mr. Buchanan broke the news as gently as possible to the nieces, and consulted with them and Mrs, Milburn ast to the best course to pursue in breaking the news to Mrs. Mc-Kinley. It was finally decided that on her awakening, or shortly thereafter, Mr. Buchanan should break the news to her, if, in the meantime her physician, Dr. Rixey, had not arrived. Mrs. McKinley awoke from her sleep at about 5.30 o'clock. She was feeling splendidly, she said, and at once took up her crocheting, which is one of her favorite diversions. On Mr, Buchanan's arrival at the Milburn home he had telephonic comcourse to pursue, lest Mrs. McKinley, hearing the continued ringing of the 'phone bell, might inquire what it

While the light of day remained,
Mrs. McKinley continued with her crocheting, keeping to her room. When it became dusk, and the President had not arrived, she began to feel anxious concerning him.

THEY DON'T KNOW US.

An obscure Ottawa minister recently went to Boston and in giving an address before some club there discussed Canada's future and Canadian national affairs in a way which has awakened considerable sharp criticism in Canada, According to the United States papers he made an annexation speech and said that Canadians hated Englishmen. Upon his return to Canada he was brought to task about his objectionable utterances and made a more or less satisfactory explanation about his remarks. The great trouble about such irresponsible talkers is not the damage they do to Canada but the false impression they give to the people of the United States, sensible comments the Brock ville Times. Unfortunately, the people of the United States are for the most part ignorant of Canada and Canadian affairs and do not seem to care to learn. Their ideas of Canada are formed for the most part by newspapers which deliberately misrepresent Canada as a backward dependency of Great Britain whose inhabitants are anxious to be annexed to the United States and are restrained only by force from Downing street. So that what with deliberate misrepresentation on the one hand and ignorance on the other, and occasionally the wild vaporings of some renegade nonentity, Canada is wholly misun-derstood by the mass of the people of the United States. The desire of Canadians is to live upon the most friendly terms beside their relatives of the United States, but instead of encouraging this sentiment the press of the U. The newspapers there discuss the invasion of Canada in case of war with Great Britain and estimate that it would only take about three weeks. Is it any wonder that a self-respecting people resent such

A WORKINGMEN'S MISSION

An obscure Ottawa minister recent ly went to Boston and in giving an address before some club there discussed Canada's future and Canadian national affairs in a way which has awakened considerable sharp criticism in Canada, According to the United States papers he made an annexation speech and said that Canadians hated Englishmen. Upon his return to Canada he was brought to task about his objectionable utterances and made a more or less satisfactory explanation about his remarks. The great trouble about such irresponsible talkers is not the damage they do to Canada but the false impression they give to the people of the United States, sensible comments the Brockville Times. Unfortunately, the people of the United States are for the most part ignorant of Canada and Canadian affairs and do not seem to care to learn. Their ideas of Canada are formed for the most part by newspapers which deliberately misrepresent Canada as a backward dependency of Great Britain whose inhabitants are anxious to be annexed to the United States and are restrained only by force from Downing street. So that what with deliberate misrepresentation on the one hand and ignorance on the other, and occasionally the wild vaporings of some renegade nonentity, Canada is wholly misun-derstood by the mass of the people of the United States, When they happen to visit Canada they are there-

The desire of Canadians is to live upon the most friendly terms beside their relatives of the United States, but instead of encouraging this sentiment the press of the U. ## THE OLIVE BRANCHES | "Pleasant Dreams"

A Discourse Full of the Breath of the Hills and the Fields

SIGNIFICANCE OF THE PALM.

God and Man Is to Get Up on the Mount of God's Blessing and Pluck the Olive Branches and Wave Them Before the Throne.

Washington, Sept. 1 .- This discourse of Dr. Talmage is full of the breath of the hills and fields and is a summer sermon; text, Nehemiah viii, 15, "Go forth unto the mount and fetch olive branches and pine branches and myrtle branches and palm branches and branches of thick trees to make booths."

It seems as if Mount Olivet were unmoored. The people have gone into the mountain and have cut off tree branches and put them on their shoulders, and they come forth now into the streets of Jerusalem and booths. Then the people come forth from their comfortable homes and dwell for seven days in these booths or arbors. Why do they do that? Well, it is a great festal time. It is the feast of tabernacles, and these people are going to celebrate the travel of their fathers and their deliverance from their troubles, the experience of their fathers when, traveling in the desert, they lived in booths on their way to the land of Canaan. And so these booths also became highly suggestive I will not say they are necessarily typical, but highly suggestive apology? Had not you better sub-of our march toward heaven and mit to a little humiliation? "Oh," you say, "until that man takes the sarily typical, but highly suggestive temporarily here, as it were, Canaan of eternal rest. And what til he is ready to take the first was said to the Jews literally may be said figuratively to all this audiwhen would this world be saved if ence. Go forth unto the mountain olive branches and pine branches and myrtle branches our stakes too deep into the earth; we are on the march. The generations that have preceded us have gone so far on that we cannot even hear the sound of their footsteps. They have gone over the hill, and we are to follow them. But, blessed be God, we are not in this world left out of doors and unsheltered. There are gospel booths or gospel arbors in which our souls are to be Go forth unto the mountain and fetch olive branches and pine branches and myrtle branches and palm branches and branches of thick trees and build booths.

Now. if we are to-day going succeed in building this gospel arbor we must go into the mount of God's blessing and fetch the olive branches, and whatever else we must have we must have at least two olive branches, peace with God and peace God, I do not mean to represent pine branch of the text suggests the God as an angry chieftain, having a belpfulness of our holy religion. It grudge against us, but I do mean to is full of health—health for all, affirm that there is no more antagonism between a hound and a hare, between a hawk and a pullet, tween elephant and swine, than there is hostility between holiness and sin. And if God is all holiness and we are all sin there must be a treaty, there must be a stretching forth of olive branches.

There is a great lawsuit going on now, and it is a lawsuit which man is bringing against his Maker. That lawsuit is now on the calendar. It is the human versus the divine, it is iniquity versus the immaculate, it is weakness versus omnipotence. began it. We assaulted our Maker, and the sooner we end this part of the struggle, in which the finite attempts to overthrow the infinite and omnipotent—the sooner we end it the better. Travelers tell us there is no such place as Mount Calvary, that it is only a hill, only an insig-nificant hill, but I persist in calling it the mount of God's divine mercy and love far grander than any other place on earth, grander than the Alps or the Himalayas, and there are no other hills as compared with it, and I have noticed in every sect where the cross of Christ is set forth it is planted with olive branches. And all we have to do is to get rid of this war between God and ourselves, of which we are all tired. We want to back out of the war, we want to get rid of this hos-tility. All we have to do is just to get up on the mount of God's blessing and pluck these olive branches and wave them before the throne. Peace through our Lord Jesus Christ! Oh, it does not make much difference what the world thinks of you, but come into the warm, intimate, glowing and everlasting relation-ship with the God of the whole universe! That is the joy that makes a hallelulah seem stupid. Why 3 do we want to have peace through our Lord Jesus Christ? Why, if we had gone on in 10,000 years of war against God we could not have cap-tured so much as a sword or a cavalry stirrup or twisted off one of the wheels of the chariot of his omnipotence. But the moment we bring this clive branch God and all heaven come on our side. Peace through our Lord Jesus Christ, and no other kind of peace is worth any-no other kind of peace is worth anything.

But then we must have that other olive branch, peace with man. Now, it is very easy to get up a quarrel. There are gunpowdery Christians all around us, and one match or provocation will set them off. It is easy enough to get up a quarrel. But, my brother, do you not think you and better have your horne saw-

ess. \ It makes weak women strong and sick women well on the house tops, and they twist down snathing and impaired; I had bearing down snathing; can't express how halfy I these tree branches into arbors or did feel. Had tried several kinds of medicine ed off? Had not you better make an step I will never be at peace booths or arbors, on our way to the with him. Nothing will be done un-Christ had not taken the first step? We were in the wrong. Christ was and in the right, all right and forever palm branches and mystle branches and palm branches and branches of thick trees to make booths.

Yes, we are only here in a temporary residence. We are marching on. There is no use in our driving our stakes too deep into the earth; his enemies and just take an olive branch, not stripping off the soft, cool, fragrant leaves, leaving them all on, and then try on them that gospel switch. It will not hurt them, and it will save you. Peace with God, peace with man. If you cannot take those two doctrines, you are no Christian. But my text goes further. It says, "Go up into the mountain and fetch olive branches, and pine branches." Now, what is suggested by the pine branch? The pine tree is healthy, it is aromatic; it is evergreen. How often the physician says to his inbrenth of the pines. That will invigorate you." Why do such thousands of people go south every year? It is not merely to get to a warmer climate, but to get the influence of the pine. There is health in it, and this health for the mind, health for the soul. I knew an aged man who no capital of physical health. He had had all the diseases you could imagine. He did not eat enough to keep a child alive. He lived on a beverage of hosannas. He lived high, for he dined every day with the King. He was kept alive simply by the force of our hely religion. It is a healthy religion, healthy for the eye, healthy for the hand, healthy for the feet, healthy for the heart, healthy for the liver, healthy for the spleen, healthy for the whole man. It gives a man such peace, such quietness, independence of circumstances, such holy equipoise. Oh, that we all possessed it, that we possessed it now! I mean it is healthy if a man gets enough of it. Now, there are some people who get just enough religion to bother them, just enough religion to make them sick, but if a man take a full, deep, round inhal-

But the evergreen of my text also uggests the simple fact that relig suggests the simple fact that religion is evergreen. What does the pine branch care for the snow on its brow? It is only a crown of glory. The winter cannot freeze it out. This evergreen tree branch is as beautiful in the winter as it is in the summer. And that is the characteristic of our And that is the characteristic of our holy religion. In the sharpest, coldest winter of misfortune and disaster it is as good a religion as it is in the bright summer sunshine. Well, now, that is a practical truth. For suppose I should go up and down these aisles I would not find in this house 50 people who had had no teached. But there are some of you trouble. But there are some of you who have especial trouble. God only knows what you go through with.

Oh, how many bereavements, how many poverties, how many persecu-tions, how many misrepresentations! And now, my brother, you have tried everything else, why do you not try this evergreen religion? It is just as good for you now as it was in the good for you now as it was in the day of prosperity. It is better for you. Perhaps some of you feel almost like Muckle Backie, the fisherman, who was chided one day because he kept on working, although that very day he buried his child. They came to him and said, "It is indecent for you to be mending that boat when this afternoon you buried your child." And the fisherman look-ed up and said: "Sir, it is very easy for you gentlefolks to stay in the house with your handkerchief to your eyes in grief; but, sir, ought I to let the other five children starve because one of them is drowned? No. sir. We maun work, we maun work, though our hearts beat like this

You may have had accumulation of sorrow and misfortune. They come in flocks, they come in herds, upon your soul, and yet I have to tell you that this religion can console you, that it can help you, that can deliver you if nothing else will. Do you tell nie that the riches and the gain of this world can console you? How was it with the ecclesiastic, who had such a fondness for money that when he was sick he ordered a basin of gold pieces to be brought to him, and he put his gouty hands down among the gold pieces, cooling his hands off in them, and the rattling and roiling of these gold pieces were his amusement and entertainment. Ah, the gold and silver, the honors, the emoluments of this world, are a poor solace for a persurbed spirit. You want something better than this world can give. A young prince, when the children came around to play with him, refused to play. He said, "I will play only with kings." And it would be supposed that you would throw away all other solace before this regal satisfaction, this imperial joy.

But my text takes a step further, and it says, Go into the mountain and fetch olive branches and pine branches and palm branches. Now, the palm tree was very much honored by the ancients. It had 360 different uses. The fruit was conserved, the sap was a beverage, the stems were ground up for food for camels.

The base of the leaves was turned into hats and mats and baskets, and from the root to the top of the high- window. Come into the booth. Come tree grew 85 feet in height times, and it spread leaves four and five feet long. It meant usefulness, and it meant victory — usefulness for what it produced and victory because it was brought into celebrations of triumph. And oh, how much we want the palm branches in churches of Jesus Christ at this time! A great many Christians do not amount to anything. You have to shove them off the track to let the Lord's chariots come along Usefulness is typified by the palm

Ah, we do not want in . the church any more people that are merely weeping willows, sighing into the water, standing and admiring their long lashes in the glassy spring: No wild cherry, dropping bitter fruit. We want palm trees, holding something for God, something for angels, something for man. I am tired and sick of this flat tame, insipid, satin slippered, nambypamby, hightytighty religion! It is worth nothing for this world, and it is destruction for eternity. Give me 500 men and women fully conse crated to Christ, and we will take this city for God in three years Give me 10,000 men and women fully up to the Christian standard. In ten years 10,000 of them would take the whole earth for God. But when are we going to begin? We all want to be useful. There is not a man in be useful. There is not a man in the pews that does not want to be

When are we going to be Ledyard, the great traveler, was brought before the Geographical So of Great Britain, and they wanted him to make some explorations in Africa, and they showed him all the perils, and all the bard work and all the exposure, and after they had told him what they wanted him to do in Africa they said to him, "Now, Ledyard, when are you ready to start?" He said, "To-morrow morning." The learned men were astonished. They thought he would take weeks or months to get ready. take weeks or months to get ready Well, now, you tell me you want to be useful in Christian service. When are you going to begin? Oh, that you had the decision to say, "Now, now!" Oh, go into the mount an gather the palm branches!

But the palm branch also mean victory. You all know that. In all ages, in all lands, the palm branch ages, in all lands, the paim branch means victory. Well, now, we are by nature the servants of satan. He stole us, he has his eye on us, he wants to keep us. But word comes from our Father that if we will try to break loose from this doing of wrong our Father will help us, and some day we rouse up, and we look the black tyrant in the face, and we fly at him, and we wrestle him down, and we put our heel on his neck, and we grind him in the dust, and we say, "Victory, victory, through our Lord Jesus Christ!" Oh what a grand thing it is to have sin un-der foot and a wasted life behind our backs. "Blessed is he whose transgression is forgiven and whosesin is covered."

some one says, "How about the future?" What, says the man I feel so sick and worn out with the ailments of life. You are going to be more than conqueror. But, says the man, I am so tempted, I am so pursued in life. You are going to be more than conqueror. I, who have so many ailments and heartaches, going to be more than conqueror? You unless you are so self-conceited.

going to be more than conqueror? Yes, unless you are so self-conceited that you want to manage all the affairs of your life yourself instead of letting God manage them. A Discourse Full of the Breath of the Hills and the Fields

SIGNIFICANCE OF THE PALM.

The Only Way to End the War Between God and Man Is to Get Up on the Mount of God's Blessing and Pluck the Olive Branches and Wave Them Before the Throne.

Washington, Sept. 1.-This discourse of Dr. Talmage is full of the breath of the hills and fields and is a summer sermon; text, Nehemiah viii, 15, "Go forth unto the mount and fetch olive branches and pine branches and myrtle branches and palm branches and branches of thick trees to make booths."

It seems as if Mount Olivet were unmoored. The people have gone into the mountain and have cut off tree branches and put them on their shoulders, and they come forth now into the streets of Jerusalem and on the house tops, and they twist appetite was much impaired. I had beginn these tree branches into arbors or did feel. Had tried several kinds of medicine booths. Then the people come forth from their comfortable homes and dwell for seven days in these booths or arbors. Why do they do that? Well, it is a great festal time. It is the feast of tabernacles, and these people are going to celebrate the desert travel of their fathers and their deliverance from their troubles, the experience of their fathers when, traveling in the desert, they lived in booths on their way to the land of Canaan. booths also became highly suggestive-I will not say they are necessarily typical, but highly suggestive of the fact that we are only living here, as it were, in booths or arbors, on our way to the be said figuratively to all this audi-Go forth unto the mountain palm branches and branches of thick trees to make booths. Yes, we are only here in a tem-porary residence. We are marching on. There is no use in our driving our stakes too deep into the earth; we are on the march. The generations that have preceded us have gone so far on that we cannot even hear the sound of their footsteps. They have gone over the hill, and we are to follow them. But, blessed be God, we are not in this world left out of doors and unsheltered. There are gospel booths or gospel arbors in which our souls are to be comforted. Go forth unto the mountain and fetch olive branches and pine branches and myrtle branches and palm branches and branches of thick trees and build booths. if we are to-day going to succeed in building this gospel arbor we must go into the mount of God's and whatever else we must have we must have at least two olive branches, peace with God and peace God, I do not mean to represent pine branch of the text suggests the God as an angry chieftain, having a bellpfulness of our holy religion. It grudge against us, but I do mean to is full of health—health for all, When I-say peace with affirm that there is no more antag-onism between a hound and a hare, between a hawk and a pullet, tween elephant and swine, than there is hostility between holiness and sin. And if God is all holiness and are all sin there must be a there must be a stretching forth of olive branches.

There is a great lawsuit going on now, and it is a lawsuit which man is bringing against his Maker. That lawsuit is now on the calendar. is the human versus the divine, it is iniquity versus the immaculate, it is weakness versus omnipotence. Man We assaulted our Maker, and the sooner we end this part of the struggle, in which the finite attempts to overthrow the infinite and omnipotent-the sooner we end it the better. Travelers tell us there is no such place as Mount Calvary, that it is only a hill, only an insignificant hill, but I persist in calling it the mount of God's divine mercy and love far grander than any other place on earth, grander than the Alps or the Himalayas, and there are no other hills as compared with and I have noticed in every sect where the cross of Christ is set forth it is planted with olive branches. And all we have to do is to get rid of this war between God and ourselves, of which we are all tired. We want to back out of the war, we want to get rid of this hostility. All we have to do is just to get up on the mount of God's blessing and pluck these olive branches and wave them before the throne. Peace through our Lord Jesus

Oh, it does not make much difference what the world thinks of you, but come into the warm, intimate, glowing and everlasting relation-ship with the God of the whole universe! That is the joy that makes a hallelulah seem stupid. Why do we want to have peace through our Lord Jesus Christ? Why, if we had gone on in 10,000 years of war against God we could not have captured so much as a sword or a cav-alry stirrup or twisted off one of the wheels of the chariot of his omnipotence. But the moment we bring this olive branch God and all heaven come on our side. Peace through our Lord Jesus Christ, and no other kind of peace is worth any thing.

But then we must have that other olive branch, peace with man. Now, it is very easy to get up a quarrel. There are gunpowdery Christians all around us, and one match or provocation will set them off. It is easy enough to get up a quarrel. But, my brother, do you not think you had better have your horne saw-but sighs. She knows that the pai that rack her will not stop for derkne and that if sice sleeps her dreams of the sufferings of the day.

Why not sleep soundly and rise refreshed at morning, with strength and courage for the day's duties?

Weak, nervous women, sufferers from backache HO. from bearing-down pains, and other womanly ail-ments, have found a perfect cure in Dr. Pierce's Fa-Pierce's Favorite Prescrip-tion. It heals the womanly diseases which cause the pains and nervousness. \ It makes weak women strong and sick women weil which did me little or no good to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Pr to find part on Str. An desire no says and Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, in paper covers, is sent free on ed off? Had not you better make an pical, but highly suggestive apology? Had not you better sub-march toward heaven and mit to a little humiliation? "Oh," you say, "until that men takes the first step I will never be at peace with him. Nothing will be done un-Canaan of eternal rest. And what til he is ready to take the first was said to the Jews literally may step!" You are a pretty Christian. When would this world be saved if Christ had not taken the first step? and fetch olive branches and pine We were in the wrong. Christ was branches and myrtle branches and in the right, all right and forever right. And yet he took the first step. And instead of going and getting a knotty scourge with which to whip your antagonist, your enemy, you had better get up on the radiant mount where Christ suffered for his enemies and just take an olive branch, not stripping off the soft, cool, fragrant leaves, leaving them all on, and then try on them that gospel switch. It will not hurt them, and it will save you. Peace with God, peace with man. If you cannot take those two doctrines, you are no Christian.

But my text goes further. It says, "Go up into the mountain and fetch olive branches," and pine branches." Now, what is suggested by the pine branch? The pine tree is healthy, it is aromatic; it is evergreen. How often the physician says to his in-"Go and have a p. t ents: valid breath of the pines. That will invig-orate you." Why do such thousands of people go south every year? It is not merely to get to a warmer climate, but to get the influence of the pine. There is health in it, and this is full of health-health for all, health for the mind, health for the soul. I knew an aged man who no capital of physical health. He had all the diseases you could imagine. He did not eat enough to keep a child alive. He lived on a beverage of hosannas. He lived high, for he dined every day with the King. He was kept alive simply by the force of our holy religion. It is a healthy religion; healthy for the eye, healthy for the hand, healthy for the feet, healthy for the heart, healthy for the liver, healthy for the spleen, healthy for the whole man. It gives a man such peace, such quietness, such independence of circumstances, such holy equipoise. Oh, that we all possessed it, that we possessed it now! I mean it is healthy if a man gets enough of it. Now, there are some people who get just enough religion to bother them, just enough religion to make them sick, but if a man take a full, deep, round inhalation of these pine branches of the gospel arbor he will find it buoyant,

But the evergreen of my text also suggests the simple fact that religion is evergreen. What does the pine branch care for the snew on its brow! It is only a crown of glory. The winter cannot freeze it out. This evergreen tree brench is as beautiful in the winter as it is in the summer. And that is the characteristic of ou holy religion. In the sharpest, coldest winter of misfortune and disaster

est winter of misfortune and disaster it is as good a religion as it is in the bright summer sunshine. Well, now, that is a practical truth. For suppose I should go up and down these aisles I would not find in this house 50 people who had had no trouble. But there are some of you who have especial trouble. God only knows what you go through with. knows what you go through with. Oh, how many bereavements, how many poverties, how many persecu-And now, my brother, you have tried everything else, why do you not try this evergreen religion? It is just as good for you now as it was in the day of prosperity. It is better for you. Perhaps some of you feel almost like Muckle Backie, the fisherman, who was chided one day because he kept on working, although that very day he buried his child. They came to him and said, "It is indepent for you to be mending that cent for you to be mending that boat when this afternoon you buried our child." And the fisherman looked up and said: 'Sir, it is very easy for you gentlefolks to stay in the house with your handkerchief to your eyes in grief; but, sir, ought I to let the other five children starve be cause one of them is drowned? No. sir. We maun work, we maun work, though our hearts beat like this You may have had accumulation of sorrow and misfortune. They come in flocks, they come in herds, upon your soul, and yet I have to tell you that this religion can console you, that it can help you, that it can deliver you if nothing else will. Do you tell nie that the riches and the gain of this world can console you? How was it with the ecclesiastic, who had such a fondness for money that when he was sick he ordered a basin of gold pieces to be brought to him, and he put his gouty hands down among the gold pieces, cooling his hands off in them, and the rattling and roiling of these gold pieces were his amusement and entertainment. Ah, the gold and silver, the honors, the emoluments of this world, are a poor solace for a perburbed spirit. You want something better than this world can give. A young prince, when the children came around to play with him, refused to play. He said, "I will play only with kings." And it would be sup-posed that you would throw away all other solace before this regal satisfaction, this imperial joy. But my text takes a step further and it says, Go into the mountain and fetch olive branches and pine branches and palm branches. the palm tree was very much honor-ed by the ancients. It had 360 different uses. The fruit was conserved, the sap was a beverage, the stems were ground up for food for camels. The into the booth. tree grew 85 feet in height some times, and it spread leaves four and feet long. It meant usefulness, five and it meant victory - usefulness for what it produced and victory because it was brought into celebra-tions of triumph. And oh, how much we want the palm branches in the churches of Jesus Christ at this time! A great many Christians do not amount to anything. You have to shove them off the track to let the Lord's chariots come along. Usefulness is typified by the palm tree. Ah, we do not want in the church any more people that are merely weeping willows, sighing into the water, standing and admiring their long lashes in the glassy spring. No wild cherry, dropping spring: No wild cherry, dropping bitter fruit. We want palm trees, holding something for God, some-holding something for man. thing for angels, something for man. I am tired and sick of this flat, tame, insipid, satin slippered, nambypamby, hightytighty religion! worth nothing for this world, and it is destruction for eternity. Give me 500 men and women fully consecrated to Christ, and we will take this city for God in three years. Give me 10,000 men and women fully up to the Christian standard. In ten years 10,000 of them would take the whole earth for God. But when are we going to begin? We all want to There is not a man

"Now, Ledyard, when are you ready to start?" He said, "To-morrow morning." The learned men were astonished. They thought he would take weeks or months to get ready. Well, now, you tell me you want to be useful in Christian service. When are you going to begin? Oh, that you had the decision to say, "Now, now!" Oh, go into the mount and gather the palm branches! But the palm branch also mean But the palm branch also meant victory. You all know that. In all ages, in all lands, the palm branch means victory. Well, now, we are by nature the servants of satan. He stole us, he has his eye on us, he wants to keep us. But word comes from our Father that if we will try to break loose from this doing of wrong our Father will help us, and wrong our Father will help us, and some day we rouse up, and we look the black tyrant in the face, and we fly at him, and we wrestle him down, and we put our heel on his neck, and we grind him in the dust, and we say, "Victory, victory, through our Lord Jesus Christ!" ## WEST KENT CONSERVATIVES CHOOSE WINNING CANDIDATE

John S. Fraser, of Wallaceburg, Selected.

AN ENTHUSIASTIC CONVENTION—SPLENDID SPEECHES—"HE UNITED PARTY IS ASSURED OF VICTORY.

The Liberal-Conservative Conven-tion opened about two o'clock this afternoon in the I. O. O. F. Auditorium with a large and representative number of delegates present.

The convention was called for the purpose of choosing a candidate to represent the Conservative party of West Kent in the coming Provincial President Scullard, of the West Kent Conservative Association, occupied the chair and conducted the meeting in a very prompt and business-like manner.

Judging by the feeling which pre vailed throughout the whole meeting there is no doubt that Conservatives re stronger than they have ever been and will put up a strong argument in the election. After the collecting of the creden tials President Scullard called the meeting to order. In doing so he said :-

"I must congratulate the Conservaives of West Kent on the large and representative meeting. We are here to perform a very important duty. We are here to select a man who will represent the Conservatives in the coming election. We are not cast down by the result of the recent election. In fact, we never had more reason for being hopeful. I hope that the man you choose will be the unanimous choice and will be a thorough Conservative representative. The past has shown that the country should be governed by the Conservatives. There to believe they are the masters, and is a continually growing feeling to this effect and there is no doubt in my mind that a change of affairs will assuredly take place. I feel very strongly against a party who would corrupt a people who have no knowledge of the value of their franchise. There are enough unbuyable men in the riding to elect the Conservative candidate, and I feel sure that they will do their duty."

The following officers were then to believe they are the masters, and not the servants of the people. They come to believe they are the masters, and not the servants of the people. They come to believe they are the masters, and not the servants of the people. They come to believe that the office has been given to them as their right! It spoils them. This exception has been made in the case of the present government is well educated in the old game of the deluding the people, and, the best people in the Reform party are heartily ashamed of them. I rely for success on the re-

The nominees were then called up-on for speeches, Mr. Clancy was first.

He gave a very interesting address but declined the office as he had already been honored with a seat in the Dominion House. He spoke very encouragingly of the prospects of the candidate who would represent the constituency. "We are going to win. If we don't win we ought to win. At the last election Mr. Ross was defeated in the country with the exception of six or seven seats we ought to have had. They stole ballots and used every They stole ballots and used every imaginable ruse to deceive and defeat the people. Mr. Ross has no place in the minds of the people of this country and in order to win he has to resort to these means, but we are not going to allow that state of affairs this year. We have nothing which the men who are at present in power have promited us. We have not everything we need or what are our just dues. Our educational matters especially are much in need and can't get redress from the present men who are in power because they are tied hand and foot with men who have a 'pull.'

YOUNG ROWDYISM.

Residents of Stanley Ave. complain that a gang of very bad boys make night hideous by their yellings, howlings and hootings on the street. Last night the people thought the fire br gade was tearing along the granolith pavements. The young urchins had carts and little wagons loaded with all kinds of truck, including a big cow bell. The complainants say it does not speak very well for the parents' training of these boys when they bold-ly insisted they had a perfect right to make all the noise they wished on the public street. It is up to them to know better at the police court next time. Their names have been down.

I smiled wisely. Everyone thinks his case peculiar. In reality it generally proves unusual only to the one oncerned in it.

My book was turned face down, on indow sill. I was ready to listhe window sill. It was teady ten, but Alyn did not go on at once. He sat quietly gazing out of the window across the river. The smile was still on my face as I suggested: deep windows draped in soft, dainty curtains and frilled with plants and frowers. The air was heavy with the scent of roses. This peculiar case certainly has its

It has a heroine, yes.

Alyn's eyes were so frank as they met mine. His gaze had not been so direct nor his face so clear the last time I had seen him. A year's absence from his old associates had cerainly been good for him It was a asure no look at him.

Just now his expression puzzled me. could not fathom it, but it invite ie to continue. Have you her photograph with you asked ?

He drew out of his vest pocket a small red leather case and opening it handed it to me. It needed but one glance at the painted oval to make ne exclaim impetuously : No one could double that for an isstant.

Such a picture. A dainty little head covered with short curling hair; delicate, loving, teasing face; dark, ull bewitching eyes. The throat was bare, and an indistinct mass of white gauze ended the portrait. You must love her, I said. I spoke with conviction.

I'do, returned Ayln, most sincrely. Still his expression puzzled me. An inscrutable smale played over his face, but he delayed beginning the story he had volunteered to tell. And she? I hesitated over the inquiry remembering what manner of man it was who had gone from us a year ago.

A gentle expression passed over Alyn's face. I think she is very fond of me, he replied simply, I'stretched out my hand and Alyn grasped it warmly.
I'do believe, he said earnestly, that if ever a man was fortunate that man is I. Will you care to listen?

I used to tell you things when I was, a boy, he added apologetically. I picked up my sewing, always lying ready against such times as this, and leaned back in my rocker.

Alyn reached for the picture. leaned his head on one hand and his elbow on the table. In the other hand he held the case where his eyes could rest on the face. became grave.

Ilt was a year ago. One night, or morning rather, I landed on the ferry on the way to my lodgings. I couldn't get a street car nor a cab. In fact, I was too drunk to think of either, so I stumbled along just keep-ing straight enough to escape the police. In front of my lodgings is an electric light. A slight fall of snow had whitened the pavement and made distinct this case beneath the light just strength and sense . had nough left to pick it up, tumble up the stairs and stretch myself out on my couch.
Alyn snapped the case shut and

Some time the next day I awoke and the first thing that attracted my attention was this-open on the floor and her eyes looking up at me-me in that condition.

An expression of disgust good to see came over the man's face. I quickly shut the case and put my self and my room in order. sat Hown and studied her. Still absorbed in his narrative Alyn opened the case again and dropped his eyes on the photograph.

I told you this was a peculiar case and you will think, I fear, that am a peculiar man. But the more I'looked at her the more I wanted to look. I never parted with the minia-ture. I carried it around in my pocket and thought and thought about her, until she became a living presence to me, a beautiful woman always with me. I became absent-minded. The fellows complained, but I came to have an engagement always when they wanted me. My en-gagement was with this—the lady of the miniature. I had lost my heart to her. About the original of the photograph I reasoned this way. She would not be carrying her own miniature around in all probability. It must have been lost by a friend, and probably, here was the hard part of it all, by her lover. If I advertised it he would claim it and I should not meet her.

I didn't advertise. I did something far more irrational (I spent my spare hours searching. I visited stores and walked the streets. I haunted the residence part of the city I went to the opera and scanned the boxes rather than the stage. Need less to say, I did not find her; yet I never lost hope. I felt I must find her and look at her. I felt this afresh her and look at her. I felt this afresh every time I opened this case. I would not give up the search. When I had exhausted every resource of my own I did something which I had shrunk from doing before; I hunted out the best detective in the city and told him to spare neither time nor money in finding her.

Within two weeks I received a note from him. He was obliged to leave the town suddenly. He wrote;

I've found her at 320 Water avenue. Imagene Munroe. Will give you particulars when I return to-morrow. She is anxious to recover the miniature.

But I could not await the next day, and saw no reason why it woould necessary. I had the photograph and would take it to her. Because of it SHOT BY A COMPANION.

The accident nappened in the Township of Aspandel, about two miles from the Village of Norwood. The two boys, Thomas Chattane, who was shot, and John Kelley, son of Daniel Kelley, both about 12 years of age, went home from school together. When they got to the Chat-tane residence they found the parents from home, and while playing in the house took down the gun to examine it. Not knowing the gun was loaded, young Kelley pointed the weapon and snapped it off several times at the boy Chattane. He then got a cap, put it on the nipple, and again pointed and fired, and, to his horror, the gun which had been loaded with shot, went off. The whole charge entered the abdemen, piercing the stomach and bowels. The boy is still alive, but the physician says there is no hope of his

INTERESTING DUELS. THE YANKEE AND THE ENGLISHMAN WHO DIDN'T FIGHT.

and Who Just Missed a Bishopric. Dancing Under Compulsion-A Famous French Female Duelist.

The stories of American duels are of great interest and are among the most famous in the whole history of dueling, but they are too well known to be repeated. The majority have been desperate tragedies when good men and true have been led to kill each other often through misrepresentations that lost the world many a noble and helpful life. One, however, that was not so disastrous was between an American and a hot headed foreigner. What the quarrel was history stateth not. Perhaps it was so small as to be quite overlooked, but at all events it was arranged that the two take their places on kegs of powder, with a lighted fuse placed in the bunghole of each. The kegs, of course, were empty. but as the foreigner saw the fire slowly burning down to the supposed volcano below him his courage failed him and he Still more interesting is the story of the Yankee skipper and the Englishman In the earlier days there was not much love lost between the two factions, conlove lost between the two factions, con-sequently it was no very hard matter to pick a quarrel, especially when each thought the death of the other would be a service not only to his country, but to the world. In this particular case the skipper of a weather beaten Yankee whaler met an Maglishman in a foreign port and had an altercation with him, perhaps over a matter of precedence, A duel was arranged, and at the appointed time the Englishman appeared, ringing with him two swords, as though the Yankee had the choice of weapons. He nferred that the armory of the contained no such luxuries. But the skipper would not accept the proffered weapons, whereupon the other brought out a handsome pair of dueling pistols. These, too, were refused, and the Englishman demanded in astonishment what his opponent did want to fight with, whereupon the Yankee replied he had brought his weapons with him and produced a pair of well sharpened harpoons. The Englishman, of course, protested, but as the choice of weapons did not lie with him he was obliged to accept the harpoons. When the Yankee raised the murderous looking piece, the Englishman knew that arm, experienced in piercing the dodging could not fail to miss him. The unwieldy harpoon began to shake in his awkward hand, and he flung it down, eaving the exultant Yankee master of the situation.

Another interesting duel fought without the use of ordinary weapons had for one of its principals the Duke of Richmond, then viceroy of Ireland. His title to fame rests on the fact of his being a great duelist and a six bottle man, able to drink all his staff and gentlemen guests under the table. On a visit to a friend in the west of Ireland the duke complained that he had no one to drink with him, and his host, wishing to remedy this de ciency, sent for a curate famous for his liquor drinking. After five bottles had been disposed of by each the curate com-plained that it was too slow work and proposed bumpers of brandy. These were mmediately filled and as quickly emptied. Fresh bumpers were then filled for each, but as the representative of the church stretched out his hand to receive one he tell helpless to the floor. On the followmarking that if he had been victorious in the drinking duel his curacy would have been exchanged for a bishopric.

A little earlier than this the famous

Dr. Young, going with some ladies to Vauxhall, then the rendezvous of all the beauty and fashion of London, played on the German flute to amuse them. Just behind them came a boatload of officers and when the doctor ceased playing one of them insisted that he should continue or be thrown into the water. Wishing to avoid a dispute before his friends, he con tinued; but, arriving at his destination he sought out his tormentor and demanded satisfaction with swords and without seconds early the following morning When they met, however, and had taken their places, the doctor instantly drew out a huge horse pistol and, pointing it at the officer's head, compelled him to dance s minuet. The officer had no choice but to obey and for a quarter of an hour kept up the dance. The doctor then lowered his pistol, saying as they were quits they might now arrange another affair with seconds and the officer might have satisfaction.
But if England was an uncomfortable place to live in those days, France was still worse. Such a state of affairs ex-isted that in 1041 was instituted the "Savior's truce," whereby duels were prohib ited from Wednesdays until Mondays. But, like all other forbidden things, the duel rather grew in Savor than decreased. Montaigne says, "If three Frenchmen were put into the Libyan desert, they would not be a month there without fighting and quarreling." Cases are re-corded of father and son facing each other in mortal combat, brother arrayed against brother and the dearest of friends killing each other for absolutely nothing except perhaps a misplaced word. Even the women of France have fought, though, indeed, it was no very unusual occurrence in any country for a wife to disguise herself in her husband's armor when he was unable to meet the foe hin

One of the most famous of the women duelists of France was Maupin, one of the performers at the opera. Serane, the famous fencing master, fell in love with famous fencing master, fell in love with her and gave her many valuable lessons in the art. One evening at a ball Maupin was very rude to another lady and was requested to leave the room. She replied she would if those gentlemen who had espoused the lady's cause would accompany her. This they consented to do, and after a hard combat she killed them all. Then she quietly returned to the ballroom.

But of these affairs no count can be made. More people have probably lost their lives over some foolish quibble than have been killed in a dozen wars for their country's good.

Significance of Ears. A book on the ears as an index of character having been published by an English author, a learned reviewer, Dr. A. Keith mentions his own elaborate study of the ears of more than 40,000 people, including 800 criminals and 2,000 insane persons, besides those of 300 apes. He was forced to conclude that the ears gave at slew to personal traits.

HIS LAST TRIP.

The train boy watched the quiet man in the dark blue suit with some curiosity. He was a quiet man and yet strangely restless. At every sta-tion he would rise from his seat and step out on the rear platform of the car. If there was sufficient time he would go out on the station platform and walk up and down. When he returned to his seat his eyes were either on the landscape, or on his watch, or on a bundle of papers he drew from an inner pocket.

The train boy was in the habit of studying the passengers. He set this particular passenger down as an amateur who was afraid he might miss Business was dull with the train boy. It was a hot June day, and customers were scarce when the thermometer climbed up in the 80s, and the air was full of dust, and the flying landscape was almost painful (to look at in its dazzling brightness. The train boy had stacked up his goods on a seat at one end of the car, He felt little lonesome and slowly strode up the car aisle. He paused beside a seat on which sat a gray haired woman of very neat but unassuming appearance.

The boy stooped over.

Anything I can get for you, grandmai he asked in his cheery way. How about a drink of water? The elderly woman looked up and smiling shook her head. All right, said the boy, you just motion to me if there's anything you need. I'll be round somewhere. He moved along until he came to the quiet man, who for the moment happened to be idle. The boy himself on the arm of the opposite quiet man looked up at him. He was still a young man but with a face that seemed to bear the impress of much experience. He knitted his brows slightly as he looked the boy over.

Sit down my lad, he said, as he pointed to the seat in front of him, which was turned over so as to face which was turned over so as to face that because she looks like the kind of granding a boy would like to have live find my eye on her ever since she came aboard at Berwick. wiped his grimy face.
The train had been ditched and it was a bad wreck. Ahead he could see the white cloud of steam that told of the engine's position. The tender was piled above it, and behind that came the baggage and express cars and the four passenger cars, crushed against one another or lying battered and shattered along the ditch

Natural Curiosity. There are bad bargains that we remember, sometimes with regret and often a little bitter amusement. Says Mrs. E. D. Gillespie in her "Book of Remembrance." My father had taken some land in Ill-nois for a bad debt, and this he had never visited. After he had paid taxes on it for several years he was asked to sell the tract. He agreed to do it and named the price, which was the sum he had paid for t without the taxes.

The deeds were scarcely signed when my father found that a city, Peoria, was growing up on the spot. He was naturally disappointed at what seemed the ill luck of the occurrence, but several years after his annoyance was tinged with amusement. A man came to his office and asked:

"Yea."

"Did you own the site of the city of town where a clean charge sheet was presented for his acceptance, accompanied, of course, with the inevitable pair of white gloves. Having accepted the gift, he returned thanks in these terms:

"This proves that either the district possesses an unusually high standard of morality or that there is nothing in it worth stealing or that the police are not active enough to catch criminals."

Leaving his hearers in doubt as to which of the three alternatives he personally favored, the judge smiled sweetly at the local head of the police force and retired from the bench.

Animals and Pain.

A correspondent furnishes some curious instances of the apparent lack of highly developed powers of feeling pain in animals. He has, he says, seen a sparrow, shot flying, fall to the ground and in less than two minutes begin picking up grains that happened to be lying near it. On another occasion a tame rabbit was deprived by a spaniel of its tail, bone and all. It took not the slightest notice of its loss and began feeding again directly it returned to its hutch.

Their blood is poor and watery; they suf-fer almost continuously from headaches; are unable to obtain restful sleep and the least exertion greatly fatigues them. What is needed to put the system right is a tonic, and experience has proved Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to be the only never-fail-ing tonic and health restorer.

Mrs. Henry Parsons, a respected resident of Exeter, Ont., is one of the many who have tested and proved the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. For many months she was a great sufferer from what is commonly termed "a run down sys-tem." To a reporter of the Advocate she gave the following story in the hope that other sufferers might benefit from her experience:— "For many months my health was in a bad state, my constitution being greatly run down. I was troubled with continual headaches, my appetite was poor and the least exertion greatly fatigued me. I consulted a physician but his treatment did not appear to benefit me and I gradually became worse, so that I could hardly attend to my household duties. then tried several advertised remo-dies but without result, and I began to regard my condition as hopeless. A neighbor called to see me one day and urged me to try Dr. Williams Pink Pills. Having tried so many medicines without receiving benefit, I was not easily persuaded, but finally I consented to give the pills a trial. As he came up Mr. Bu-chanan was out on the lawn conversing with a reporter. "Do you know," said Mr. Buchanan, "I had a sort of premonition of this? Since early morning I have been extremely nervous and have feared that something might go wrong. Our trip to the Falls was uneventful, but what an awful sad ending to our day."

At 7.30 o'clock Dr. Rixey came out of the house accompanied by Colonel Webb Hayes, a soal o' ex-President Hayes, who is a friend of President McKinley. They entered a carriage and returned to the Eposition hospital.

After Dr. Rixey had gone Director General Buchanan said that the doc tor had broken the news in the most tor had broken the news in the most gentle manner. She stood it bravely, though considerably affected. Dr. Rixey said the President could be brought with safety from the exposition grounds, and when he left Mr. Milburn's, it was to complete all arrangements for the removal of the President.

Cleveland, Sept. 6. -The news of A False Statement

Cleveland, Sept. 6.—The news of the attempted assassination of the President, was broken to his sisters, Mrs. A. J. Duncan, and Miss Helen McKinley, both of whom live in this city, by a son of Mrs. Duncan, who hurried to the home of his mother, and gently as possible acquainted the and gently as possible acquainted the two siseers of the President of the terrible happening. Tears were shed, but both feared an attempt upon the life and showed much bravery. They had obth feared an attempt upon the life of their brother, and their fears were at last awfully realized.

CULPRIT'S STORY. Buffalo, Sept. 6.—The police have just learned that the real name of he would-be assassin is Leon Czolgosz. He was born in Detroit and came here from Cleveland.

Leon Czolgosz, the accused and self-confessed assassin, has signed a con-fession covering six pages of foolscap which states that he is an anarchist and that he became an enthusiastic member of that body through the in-fluence of Emma Goldman, whose writing he had read and whose lecures he had listened to. He denies lecided on the act three days ago and bought the revolver with which the act was committed in Buffalo.

He has seven brothers and sisters in Cleveland and the Cleveland directory has the names of about that number living on Hosmer street and Ackland avenue, which adjoin. Some of them are butchers and others in different trades. He is now detained at police headquarters pending the result of the President's injuries.

Czolgosz does not appear in the least degree uneasy or penitent for his action. He says he was induced by his attention to Emma Goldman's least attention to Emma Goldman's lectures and writings to decide that the present form of government in this country was all wrong and he thought the best way to end it was by killing the President.

He shows no sign of insanity, but is very reticent about much of his career. While acknowledging himself an anarchist, he does not state to what branch of the organization he Czolgosz has a father living on farm about eight miles from Cleve-land, O. He is unmarried himself, He wears the button and claims to be a member of the Golden Eagles. Five anarchists placed under arrest were subsequently released after ex-

SORROW IN LONDON. London, September 6.-The news of the attempt on the life of President McKinley spread slowly in London. The first ticker reports were dis-credited; then, with the confusion and general dissemination of news arose a far-reaching feeling of sor-row and indignation which, whereever Americans were gathered, almost gained the proportions of a panic, ac-companied by feverish anxiety for further details. The thousands of Americans now in ondon were mostly at the theatres when the news arrived, and going to their hotels found anxious groups of Englishmen and Americans discussing without distinction of race what is regarded as a national calamity. Lon-don telephones, usually silent at night tingled with inquiries addressed to newspapers and American correspond-ents in the hope of securing a denial of the report. The announcement of the attempted assassination was re-ceived too late for extra editions of the papers to announce the news to the mass of English people, and they will not learn until they take up their morning papers of the attempt to kill the President.

A representative of the Associate A representative of the Associated Press conveyed the news to J. W. Mackay, Colonel Ochiltree, C. L. Pulman and J. W. Gates and many others, all of whom expressed their unspeakable indignation at the cowardly act, the deepest sympathy with President McKinley and hopes for his recovery. Added to this personal patriotic sentiment was the dread that whatever the outcome of the outrage upon the President, it would perhaps react fatally upon Mrs. McKinley.

PRESS COMMNET. London, Sept. 7-All the newspaper

this morning publish long accounts from Buffalo describing the attempt upon President McKinley's life. Despatches from abroad regarding the reception of the news which excites renewed and anxious discussion of means to prevent unarchist outrages, the urgent need of greater police precautions than ever in republics and the freeze countries.

The Daily Telegraph says editorially: "It is with the profoundest regret that the world learns to day that abother distinguished name is added to the shamefully long list of rulers who have fallen victims to the insensate wickedness of the assassin. The most unfeigned and heartfelt sympathy will go forth from every family in Christendom to Mrs. McKinley in this hour of deepest sorrow and irial. Ameriof deepest sorrow and irial. Americans will acquit us of all suspicion of insincerity when we claim that the blow will be felt with equal severity in Great Britain, as in the United

The Daily News says :- "The ghastly The Daily News says:—"The ghastly outrage by which a brave, upright, governor of men perishes as Lincoln and Garfield perished in the execution of his duty, comes home to the hearts of Englishmen with inexpressible poignancy. We are proud of America, and an act like this, which plunges the republic into bitter grief, reminds us as nothing else can do that we are members of the same house, bone of their bone, flesh of their flesh. The death of no public man outside of this death of no public man outside of this country could affect us like the death of the American President." denouncing in the strongest terms the madness of anarchistic criminals, the Daily News says it thinks the growth of the trust system is a perpetual danger to the American combination wealth.

EDWARD HEARS THE KING NEWS

Berlin, Sept. 6.-King Edward was travelling from Frankfort to Hamburg, when the news of the attempt burg, when the news of the attempt upon President McKinley was receiv-ed, and a telegram was immediately dispatched to meet him, acquainting him with the deed. The Altona Kiel Railway was strongly guarded by a large force of police, and it cannot be doubted "that this latest anarchistic attempt will result in the redoubling of police precautions upon the con-tinent in view of the various Imper-ial meetings now happening. If there had ever been any likelihood that the Czar would go to Paris, it may now be regarded as a certainty that he will not go. He had already decided yesterday to return direct to Russia from France without returning to

WAS THERE A PLOT. Buffalo, New York, Sept. 7.-The prisoner at first gave the name of Fred nieman, from Detroit, but a despatch from that city says the directory does not contain such a name. Later the police learned that the real name of the would-be assassin is Leon Czolgosz. He was born in Detroit, and came here from Cleveland. He is alleged to have said to a de-tective last night at police headquarters that he was recently in Cleve-land, and had been selected to kill President McKinley.

WAS UNCALLED FOR Yesterday there appeared in the olumns of The Planet a letter from Hugh Fitzsimons, late janitor of the alleged injustice done him in an interview with Principal Plewes, which appeared in this journal.

As a matter of fact the complaint is the result of a complete misunder standing and Mr. Fitzsimons has rred in his basty, and unfair com ments on Mr. Plewes.

What Mr. Plewes did say in his in terview with The Planet was that, wing to the fact that the School Board had arranged for the services of a janitor at Queen St. school all the day, with a view to constant looking after the fires, much of the trouble at that institution would be lone away with. There was no allusion, direct or implied, to Mr. Fitzimons or his services. Regarding the letter Mr. Fitzsimons wrote Mr. Plewes, and which he complains the Principal did not answer, Mr. Plewes says that he did receive a communication purporting to come from Mr. Fitzsimons, but, owing to the fact that it was not in Mr. Fitzsimons' handwriting and that he had been talking to Mr. Fitzsimons for some time just previously and no reference was made to the matter, he deemed the letter in the light of a joke, not bona fide from Mr. Fitzsimons at all, and consequently took no notice of it. Under the circumstances it would appear that Mr. Fitzsimons' course in rushing into print was hasty and unwarranted, and The Planet sincerely regrets the publication of the letter -Editor Planet.
