THE POPE IS DEAD.

PEACEFUL ENDING OF A LONG LIFE.

Cardinals, Relatives and Members of the Papal Court Surround the Death Bed—Great Piazza of St. Peter's Scene of Wild Confusion.

Rome, July 21.—The Pope died shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. His last moments were comparatively peaceful and painless, and were preceded by a period of insensibility. Around the bedside at the final moment were the Cardinals, the relatives and members of the Papal Court. Before lapsing into unconsciousness the dying Pontiff feebly moved his lips, his last articulate words being those used in bestowing a benediction. Gradually the shadow of death spread over the Pontiff, his extremities became cold, his features assumed the fixed rigidity of death, and Dr. Lapponi noted his last fluttering heartbeats, which gradually became slower and slower, until they finally stopped.

Profound silence reigned in the Pope's bedroom, only broken by the doctors rising to render their expiring patient more comfortable, by the sobs of the ever-faithful valet, Pio Centra, or the murmured prayers of Mgr. Filiferi, the Papal Confessor, himself 84 years of age, who sat by the bedside to the bedside. Softly he recited the prayers for the dying, the Pontiff at one moment appearing to follow them as though conscious of what was transpiring, but he could not speak. Then the dying Pope murmured something to himself, in which those bending over him heard the words "father" and "mother." Dr. Lapponi, who almost constantly had his fingers on the Pope's pulse, felt it grow gradually weaker and weaker, at the same time the Pontiff's extremities began to get cold, his lips became blue, his eyes sank more deeply into his head, his breathing was more difficult, and there were strange rattlings in his throat.

Finally, the Pope was asked to bless his nephews and all the others present. He attempted to raise himself, and the extreme emaciation of his person, covered with a fine nightshirt, was rendered more pronounced by the surroundings. The portiers dividing the door were drawn back to the utmost to admit as much air as possible, while the light filtering through the green shades of the window rendered his sunken eyes and shrunken features absolutely ghastly. The doctors again examined the dying Holy Father, and this time found that he was at the extreme limit of his powers of respiration. His eyes began to close, and he uttered a faint cry, and Leo XIII. entered into the real agony of death, which was recognized by all present kneeling. The last conscious act of the Pontiff was to turn his eyes towards the great crucifix on the wall, after which he suffered from a paroxysm of choking, during which he passed away.

Then the silence of the awe-stricken assembly was broken by the sonorous, solemn voice of Cardinal Serafino Vannutelli, the Grand Penitentiary, intoning the requiem aeternam (rest eternal). The occurrences in the death chamber immediately following the Pope's demise were of impressive solemnity. Couriers had been despatched to summon those who are delegated to perform the first religious offices toward the dead Pope, and soon the chanting of the Franciscan Monks was heard, as, two by two, in coarse brown habits and with sandaled feet, they proceeded to the room in which Leo lay dead. From time immemorial the Franciscans have been penitentiaries of St. Peter's. Following them came the Noble Guard to watch over the Pontiff's remains, the brilliancy of their uniforms contrasting strikingly with the sombre attire of the quantity-garbed monks and the solemn dignity of the chamber itself.

The only sound heard was the measured chanting of the monks kneeling beside the couch of death. Two Noble Guards took up positions at the foot of the couch, and stood there rigid and silent as statues, with swords drawn and reversed, pointing to the floor. The death chamber presented much the same appearance as it did at the time of the final illness of the Pope. The great piazza of St. Peter's was soon a scene of wild confusion. As word of the Pope's death became known, although the public had day after day expected the tidings, the shock of the actual event was none the less profound. Everywhere people stopped to bless themselves and to whisper prayers, while here and there were seen women on their knees before the street shrines, offering prayers for the soul that had just taken its flight.

Within the massive colonnade fronting St. Peter's great crowds surged to the very doors of the Vatican, even struggling to gain access to the corridors leading to the death-chamber. Across the entrance to the colonnade hung the massive chains, which are usually let down to permit the free circulation of visitors. Three ponderous iron barriers were now looped across the entrance, and behind them mounted his machine and shot away like an arrow. He was quickly recognized as the signal that the death of the Pope had occurred.

Immediately the crowds dashed into the piazza, shouting for the few available cabs, and elbowing and struggling to get forward toward the front to ascertain the details. Soon the whole square was in tumult, but the Government troops hurried from the neighboring barracks, where they had been held in reserve, and restored order. They flanked the esplanade and took possession of every artery of the Borgo district leading to the Vatican. For the time being all traffic was suspended, and the whole region, from the ironing walls of St. Angelo Castle to the door of St. Peter's, was within the firm grip of the Vatican authorities and the Government troops.

ROYAL VISIT TO IRELAND.

DEPARTURE OF THE KING AND QUEEN.

Their Majesties Enthusiastically Cheered on the Way From Buckingham Palace to Euston Station.

(Associated Press Despatch.)

London, July 21.—King Edward and Queen Alexandra, accompanied by Princess Victoria and their suites, left London at 1 p.m. for Ireland. Though the day was gloomy, large crowds gathered in front of Buckingham Palace and along the route to Euston Station and enthusiastically cheered their Majesties, who drove to the depot in semi-State landaus, escorted by a detachment of the Household Cavalry. The King wore the uniform of an Admiral. Elaborate arrangements were made for the comfort of the distinguished travellers. The departure platform was closed to the public this morning, and the royal train was beautifully decorated. Amid the cheers of the people ringing in their ears, the King and Queen left London for Holyhead, where the royal yacht is awaiting their Majesties. They expect to reach Kingstown at 9 o'clock to-morrow morning.

The royal train arrived at Holyhead at 6:03 p.m. Their Majesties were received at the pier head by Vice-Admiral Lord Chas. Beresford, the municipal authorities and the commanding officers of the fleet. Addresses were presented, and the party embarked for Kingstown.

YOUNG WOMAN RESCUED.

Struggling in the Hands of Two Tramps.

Belleville, July 21.—Yesterday afternoon Engineer Brown of this city prevented an outrage by two tramps three miles east of Kingston. He was coming west with his train, and while looking out of his cab window saw a young lady a short distance from the track struggling in the hands of a couple of rough-looking men. He at once stopped the train, and with his fireman, started to the rescue. The tramps made for the woods and disappeared. The young lady was almost exhausted. She said she was walking with a gentleman friend when the two tramps accosted them. They overpowered her escort and attempted to drag her to the woods. They were only frustrated by the timely arrival of the train men. Her escort had been so badly ill-treated as to be unable to give any assistance.

MURDERED IN HIS OFFICE.

The Fate of a Louisiana District Attorney.

New Orleans, La., July 21.—District Attorney J. Ward Gurley was assassinated in his office by Louis W. Lyons, formerly a clerk. The murderer then fatally wounded himself. Several years ago Lyons was arrested charged with the theft of a diamond pin, but was acquitted. He entered suit against the complainant for damages, retaining Mr. Gurley as counsel. He lost his case, and held Gurley responsible. It is believed that this prompted the shooting.

MR. AYLESWORTH ACCEPTS.

Will Act for Canada on the Alaska Tribunal.

Ottawa, July 21.—A cablegram has been received by Hon. Clifford Sifton from Mr. A. B. Aylesworth, consenting to act in place of the late Judge Armour as representative for Canada on the Alaska tribunal. The tribunal will meet in London on September 3rd, when written argument will be presented. It is thought that all the meetings of the tribunal will be held in the English metropolis. Hon. Mr. Sifton will have to attend the meetings of the commissioners in London, but it is not known when he will leave here. He will probably be required to go about the last week in August. Whether Mr. Aylesworth will accept an appointment on the Supreme Court Bench still remains to be ascertained. There is no hurry, however, for this appointment, as the court does not meet until October.

ROBLIN WINS IN MANITOBA.

STANDING OF THE PARTIES LITTLE CHANGED.

Government Claims Big Majority—Returns so Far Show 20 Conservatives Elected, 10 Liberals and 8 Seats Doubtful.

Winnipeg, July 20.—The Manitoba general elections, held to-day, resulted in the return of the Roblin Government by substantially the same majority as in the House just dissolved. All the Cabinet Ministers are elected, with the possible exception of Mr. McFadden, Provincial Secretary, who is ten behind, with one poll to hear from. Premier Roblin was elected by about 166 in Dufferin, Attorney-General Campbell by 174 in Morris, Treasurer Davidson by 124 in Beautiful Plains, and Minister of Public Works Rogers by 150 majority in Manitou. All the contests in Winnipeg were very close, the combined majority for the three seats not exceeding 250. Hon. J. D. Cameron's defeat in South Winnipeg is especially regretted, as he stands head and shoulders over his opponent in political ability. Returns up to this hour give the Conservatives 20, Liberals 10, and 8 doubtful seats.

The Results.

Assiniboia—Preston (Lib.) 24 ahead, 3 polls to hear from.

Turtle Mountain—Johnson (Cons.) elected by about 175 majority.
Dauphin—Gunn (Cons.) elected by about 130 majority.
Rockwood—Riley (Cons.) probably elected by small majority.
Returns from other constituencies are very incomplete. The Government claims 27 seats to 4. The Cabinet have all been re-elected with the probable exception of Dr. McFadden in Emerson, where the vote is very close.

A FIREMAN'S FALL.

Stepped off his Engine Over a Ravine.

St. Thomas, July 21.—Robert Parker, aged thirty, who came here from King Lake, a few weeks ago, entered the employment of the Lake Erie and Detroit River Railway as fireman at 8 p.m. on Saturday. At midnight, while the train was standing on Mill Creek bridge, he stepped off the engine and fell to the ravine below, a distance of forty feet. He is still unconscious, and is believed to be fatally injured.

WIND'S WORK

Crown Attorney H. D. Smith spent Sunday at his summer cottage, Hill's Wharf, Morpeth. Mr. Smith says that the fishermen told him that Friday night's storm was the worst that they had seen in a long time. There was more drift wood around Hill's dock than Mr. Smith had ever seen, and enough of it to keep the summer residents in fuel all summer. Among the drift wood were the ribs and the bottom of an old boat which had evidently been washed up from somewhere in the lake. The shore was also strewn with crawfish, which had evidently been washed out of their home at the bottom of the lake. The cottagers were terrified and were out holding down their dwellings for fear they would blow away.

S. STEPHENSON - Proprietor.

THE LATE POPE

The long-expected has come. The Pope is dead.

At length the frail old body, so long sustained by the marvellous will power of the aged pontiff, has succumbed, and Pope Leo XIII, his life, and his good works, have passed into history.

PARALYZED BY PROSPERITY.

It is remarkable that nearly all of the great achievements of the world have been accomplished by men under the stern spur of necessity. Very little has been accomplished by men and women of leisure, or by those who have not been spurred on by want. There is something in ease and comfort which draws the energy out of a man. Necessity, in a way, takes the exertion out of effort, and not only makes it endurable, but even after a while, pleasant.

We often see a poor but ambitious boy from a farm work his way through school or college under the greatest difficulties, and establish himself in business in a way which challenges admiration and raises the hopes of all who know him for a most brilliant future; yet, strange to say, as soon as this young man has got fairly well established and secured an income large enough to support a family upon comfortably, his ambition begins to wane, and his energy gradually to ooze out. He likes to take a few days off to go fishing or hunting in the country. After a while he does not rise so early in the morning as he did, or stay quite so late at his office at night. In other words, there is a general letting down of standards or release from the strenuous life.

A young man would not for a moment admit that he is not just as ambitious as ever and determined to reach the goal he has first marked out for himself, but everybody who knows him realizes that there is a gradual suspension of activities, like the cessation of a volcano after a violent eruption. He seems to take life easily. In fact, he gradually becomes like a locomotive which has been running at a frightful speed until the fires have cooled under the boiler, and speed has been gradually slackening until the engine has come almost to a full stop.

This is one of the great dangers of a youth who starts out to become a self-made man—the danger of losing energy—the temptation to allow comfort to rob one of ambition, until a promising life becomes a common life, and great ability is doing the work of mediocrity.

Somehow, when the spur of necessity is withdrawn and a man finds that it is little easier to get a living than it was formerly, and that he is not absolutely obliged to stick quite so closely to business, it requires great resolution, persistence, and determination to run with the same head of steam as when pushed on by want, and spurred forward by expectation.

RIGHT YOU ARE.

Brantford Expositor.

The Expositor has persistently taken the ground that, save at American consulates, the Stars and Stripes should not be displayed on Canadian soil. We have taken this ground not because of any feeling of hostility toward our neighbors, but rather because we believe that the absence of flag demonstrations is calculated to conserve international amity and good-will, and that it is not truly patriotic to make a practice of displaying any other flag than that of one's own country.

THE LOWER PROVINCE VERSION.

St John Globe (Liberal).

Hon. Mr. Blair's resignation is due to causes which have been at work for some time, and which culminated in difficulties over the railway commission bill and over the Grand Trunk Pacific scheme. As regards the former, the minister of railways met with much opposition on some important points from the Liberal side of the house, and amendments were carried of which he did not approve. Then, too, his friends argue that members of the cabinet did not give him the support with it which he ought to have had, and that the burden of the active work as well as of defence fell upon him, and that this was a heavy burden physically and mentally, but the crisis was reached over the Grand Trunk measure. The minister of railways not only did not agree with the government policy, but he differed radically from it. He did not want to have the intercolonial paralleled, but he did want to have it extended from Montreal to the wheat fields of the west as a government undertaking and controlled and managed by the railway department. There was a possibility, however, of this being got over without a break between the minister and his colleagues, until it became apparent that it was the intention that the portion of the road which is to be constructed at the public expense and to be owned by the government should not be built by the railway department itself. This seemed so clearly a lack of confidence in the ability of the minister as to be almost equivalent to an expression of doubt in his integrity, so that in self-defence, if for no other reason, he took a determined stand.

THE WORD "AMERICAN."

Printer and Publisher.

From time to time, men who are generally dubbed "cranks" are to be found writing indignant letters to the press on the arrogance of the people of the United States in adopting the term "American" for their own particular use. With a great many of these protests little sympathy can be had. If the people of the United States do not give up the use of the word, as applied peculiarly to themselves (a thing which there is no prospect of ever doing), it is simply ridiculous for Canadians to think of forcing them out of it. They possess the word by right of usage. What can be done, however, is not to humor them in the use of it. The greatest offender in this respect is the press, and if some of our telegraph and news editors would cull out the word "American" from the copy, it might make the reading of the papers more pleasant for the "kickers." Because the people of the United States have appropriated the word is no reason why Canadians should be forced to use it as applied to them.

ADVOCATES LASH

In Granting Divorce, Minneapolis Judge Makes Some Stinging Comment.

Minneapolis Journal:—Judge J. F. McGee filed a memorandum yesterday afternoon in which he advocated the establishment of the whipping post in Minnesota. The suggestion was made in connection with the divorce case of Minnie M. Price against Wm. L. Price, the court stating that, in his opinion, "fifty lashes on the bare back" of the husband might "awaken in his depraved mind a sense of duty that is apparently lacking now."

In his order Judge McGee grants Mrs. Price an absolute divorce. The memorandum accompanying the decree reads as follows:—

"This case presents one of the most brutal and cold-blooded instances of a wife's desertion that has ever come under my notice, and illustrates the necessity for the establishment of a whipping post as a part of the penal system in the state.

"The defendant holds a good position and receives $100 per month. On June 1, 1901, he notified his wife that she had better pack up, take the child, Cecil Sterling Price, and go to her parents in Iowa. That he didn't think he would live with her any longer, but if he changed his mind he would advise her of the fact.

"The reason for this course, as disclosed by the evidence is, that the defendant asserts that the plaintiff does not love in the way that he likes to be loved, and is not sufficiently responsive.

"With this as a base, supplemented, in all probability, by some other woman, the defendant casts his wife and child practically on the charity of the public.

"This case illustrates, as stated at the outset of this memorandum, where the whipping post could be used to advantage.

"Fifty lashes on the defendant's bare back would, in my judgment, awaken in his depraved mind a sense of responsiveness to duty that is apparently lacking now."

LACTATED FOOD

Is the Safest and Best Diet for Infants and Young Children.

Nearly 82 per cent. of the children that die under two years of age, die from diseases which have their origin in faulty nutrition. When this enormous proportion, with the facts which show conclusively the cause that have operated to bring about this heavy mortality, is duly considered, it is at once evident that by proper nutrition many of them might be saved.

In the study of what constitutes proper nutrition, there is no correct theory except it be founded upon the study of the composition of human milk. This has been done in the preparation of LACTATED FOOD; and the success that has attended its use in every part of the world proves it to be the most perfect of all prepared food for infants and weak children. Lactated Food truly saves babies' lives. Give it a trial, dear mother. All Druggists in Canada sell Lactated Food.

BOTH DENOUNCES THE SYSTEM OF GOVERNMENT.

The Standard Calls For His Deportation From South Africa—May Run For Parliament.

New York, July 20.—A cable from London to The Sun says:—The announcement in Parliament this week of future military arrangements for South Africa, coupled with Gen. Louis Botha's manifesto denouncing the present Chamberlain-Miner system of government there as despotic, marks a new stage in handling England's greatest colonial problem. There is no doubt that the intention is to govern the Transvaal as a Crown colony in the strictest sense of the term, that is to say, solely by officials appointed from England, backed by a large permanent military garrison. The tentative schemes mentioned by Colonial Secretary Chamberlain, during his South African tour, of advisory councils on which elected Boer delegates would sit have been abandoned. This adoption of strict officialism marks the practical failure of the so-called conciliatory factors. The Government has decided to pay £2,000,000 yearly as an additional cost of this garrison, that is to say, that much more than what it would be if the same number of troops were left in England.

The necessity for this outlay and the open abandonment of even an experiment at elective autonomy have revived the discussion of the possibility of a new Union. Mr. Orange River, formerly High Commissioner of South Africa. Even from the Conservative press there have been frequent protests against his being responsible places, such as resident Magistrates and repatriation commissionerships, by young Oxford graduates without the experience of men of affairs. Even the Daily Mail has taken this standpoint. Its opinion is that the independent maintenance of the entire selection of officials has alienated the general sympathy of the community there that it expresses the hope that he will return from his month's holiday in Europe.

The letter of the former Colonial Secretary Chamberlain's tour as a dismal failure and the present regime in South Africa as a barren record of promises that have not been fulfilled, has angered a section of the Conservative press organ, The Standard, calls for his deportation from South Africa, and says he should be made to live abroad like Mr. Kruger.

MAKES MR. HAYS TIRED.

Denying that G.T.R. Has Purchased Glover Leaf.

Montreal, July 20.—Mr. C. M. Hays, Second Vice-President and General Manager of the G.T.R., in the course of an interview said emphatically: "We will make no further western extensions outside of Canada. I am tired of denying any purchase of the Glover Leaf line. We have made no negotiations for it; we do not want to buy the Detroit Shore line, and we have bought it to get an entrance into Toledo."

OFFERED MR. AYLESWORTH.

Ottawa, July 20.—The vacancy on the Supreme Court bench created by the death of the late Mr. Justice Armour has been offered to Mr. A. B. Aylesworth. The position carries with it representation on the Alaska Tribunal, which is not known, whether Mr. Aylesworth will accept the Judgeship, he having declined the offer on previous occasions. It is understood that he is indisposed to act for Canada on the Alaska Tribunal. Rumor also connects Mr. Aylesworth's name with a position on the Railway Commission.

CRISIS IN SPAIN.

All the Members of the Cabinet Resigned.

Madrid, July 20.—After a long discussion on the navy vote in the Council all the members of the Cabinet tendered their resignations to Premier Silveira, who laid them before the King. His Majesty thereupon requested Senor Silveira to form a new Cabinet, but the Premier declined, and the Marquis Villaverde, formerly Minister of Finance, was summoned to the palace. The Ministerial crisis is the result of differences of opinion regarding the reconstruction of the Spanish navy, raising its strength to approximately what it was prior to the war with the United States.

Wild Birds in Germany.

A correspondent of the London Mail at Dresden writes that the Germans are far in advance of some other people in caring for the wild birds in their towns. During the winter shelters from the snow are erected in public parks and private gardens for them and plentifully supplied with food of various kinds, including mountain ash berries for thrushes and blackbirds and other seeds for the smaller birds. This mixture is sold at a very cheap rate in shops for the purpose. In springtime one may see many birds nesting in special wooden boxes placed in the higher trees, out of the reach of cats. The boxes are of different sizes, to suit starlings, sparrows or tomtits.

Wouldn't Lie Twice.

Nora had been told to say at the door that her mistress was not at home when certain callers appeared upon the scene.

It evidently went much against the grain for her to make herself responsible for one so small a white lie, but she promised to do so, and with certain modifications, she kept her word.

"Is Mrs. Blank at home?" queried the caller.

"For this was some Mrs. Smithers, she ain't," said the maid, "but hivin' her, if you ask me again, I'll not lie twice for anybody livin'!"

AN INFANT MAGICIAN.

Mozart at the Age of Four Composed a Difficult Concerto.

As a child of three Wolfgang Mozart's wonderful playing on the harpsichord was the talk of Salzburg, and a year later his compositions were being played in public by his father. He was only four years old when he composed a concerto so difficult that even his father, one of the most skilled violinists in Germany, could not play it. "Of course," said the infant magician, "no one can be expected to play it without diligent practice." A year later, when Wolfgang was only five years old, he was invited to give a recital in the hall of the university, when the magic of his tiny fingers worked his auditors to a pitch of the wildest enthusiasm.

At six he made a tour of Germany and became the idol of the courts, the empress herself taking him on her knees and hugging him in an ecstasy of admiration, while Francis I. embraced him and called him "my little magician." Shortly after he had passed his eighth birthday Mozart was electrifying England, was being petted and caressed by George III. and his queen and was publishing sonatas, a symphony and an anthem, which created a furore among music lovers from one end of the country to the other.

A Remarkable Clock.

Japan possesses a remarkable time-piece. It is contained in a frame three feet wide and five feet long, representing a moonlit landscape of great beauty. In the foreground plum and cherry trees and rice plants appear in full bloom. In the rear is seen a hill, gradual in ascent, from which apparently flows a cascade, admirably imitated in crystal. From this point a threadlike stream meanders, encircling rocks and islands in its windings and finally losing itself in a faroff stretch of woodland. In a miniature sky a golden sun turns on a silver wire, striking the hours on silver gongs as it passes. Each hour is marked on the frame by a creeping tortoise, which serves the place of a hand. A bird of exquisite plumage warbles at the close of each hour, and as the song ceases a mouse sallies forth from a neighboring grotto and, scampering over the hill to the garden, is soon lost to view.

Same Old Excuse.

An old minister returned to his alma mater after forty years of ministerial service, and was being conducted over the old place.

"Same old corridors," he ejaculated as he entered—"same old corridors!" They took him to the dining hall. "Ah, me! Same old dining hall!" Then he opened a study door. "Same old study—same old study!"

Half round the fire a screen was drawn, and behind it he saw a student talking with a young lady.

"Dear me!" exclaimed the old minister pensively. "Same old practice—same old practice!"

The student sprang up indignantly. "Excuse me, sir, this is my sister!"

A smile broke over the ancient one's face.

"Ah, and the same old explanation—same old excuse!"

How Being Died.

In Harper's Magazine Collins Shackelford tells the true story of the fatal expedition of the explorer Bering, from whom Bering Strait is named. Here is his account of the adventurer's death after the loss of his ship:

"Bering, who had been for some time totally disabled, was brought ashore on a hand barrow in a boat and placed in a sheltering hollow, where his still faithful men—a mere handful—had cleared the snow from the sand. Even then he was dying. His great age and the hardships he had undergone on this voyage made his struggle for life hopeless.

"His slow passing away was pathetic and pitiful. In effect, he paraded, buried himself alive. He lay under the shelter of a tent made from an old seal. Long suffering had made him childlike and petulant. Each day and all day his weakening hands were constantly busied scraping down upon his body, beginning at his feet, the sand from the ridges on either side.

"He would submit to no interference with his occupation, insisting that the sand warmed him. When he died, his body was already half buried, and it needed but a little work on the part of his skeleton comrades to inclose this hero of the arctic regions in a coffin of frozen sand."

The Tired Ones.

An aged Scotch minister, who was very boastful, once said to his good friend:

"Think of it, I preached two hours and twenty minutes last Sunday!"

"Didn't it weary you very much?" inquired the other solicitously.

"Oh, no," said the minister. "But you should have seen the congregation."

His interest.

Gertrude: You say you're only been there two weeks and have an interest in the business?

Vansant: Yes, I was two hours late this morning, and the boss told me I'd better take some interest in the business in the future. Magazine of Humor

A. H. PATTERSON, Esq., Chatham, Ont.

Dear Sir,—I have thoroughly tested the Perrin No. 2 2-Furrow Riding Plow with the John Deere two furrow plow. I must say that the John Deere Plow is not what is required for all kinds of plowing, and is a dangerous plow to work with, which I know to my sorrow, having broken my collar bone, from plow upsetting.

I kept the Perrin Plow in preference, returning the John Deere Plow. I consider the Perrin a much better plow in every respect.

CONSPIRING WITH CUPID

By Epes W. Sargent

Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McClure

As all Branscome had decided that Charles Schermerhorn was the fit and proper mate for Mabel Howard, that independent young woman properly decided to transfer her somewhat unsettled affections to Frank Caswell. Branscome folks pointed out that Schermerhorn had been her girlhood's sweetheart, was now well to do, and their union would crown a very pretty little romance.

On the other hand, Caswell was practically a newcomer in the village, having made his advent two years before, when Branscome arrived at the dignity of supporting a national bank. The directors had brought him up from the city to act as receiving teller and to teach the Branscome boys how to conduct a bank. He had proceeded to make himself generally liked, and the only thing that could be urged against him was that his very evident fondness for Mabel Howard threatened to destroy a Branscome romance.

Oddly enough, Caswell and Schermerhorn were the closest of friends. Despite dire predictions of personal encounters nothing marred the course of their friendship, and Schermerhorn seemed to find very satisfying consolation in the company of Grace Payne, Caswell's half sister, who kept house for him.

So matters stood when Anabel McPherson decided to give a Halloween party. Miss McPherson, known as Anabel to the entire village, was old Captain McPherson's daughter, and inheriting her father's estate, she had become the richest woman in the village. Much given to novel reading, Miss Anabel had never married, fearful that each suitor was seeking her fortune rather than her hand. At forty-two she was still a single and by no means unattractive woman, with a kindly heart and a head filled with romantic views from a window that had just been raised and a moment later someone opened the door in the hall to admit a gust of icy air, and the flames flickered perilously. With a shriek Miss Anabel rushed to close the window, but, as the heavy sash dropped with a bang, an excited clamor arose at the table and she heard with sudden contraction of the heart some one laughingly announce "Caswell wins!"

She made her way to the table, and there, still burning brightly, but almost consumed, was the candle she had named for Frank, while a smoking wick crowned a full inch of wax on the other.

In an instant a babel of talk arose, and under cover of the excitement poor Miss Anabel stole over to the window seat to get the better of her disappointment.

The quartet whose love affairs were shaking gossip little Branscome to its very foundations walked home slowly in the crisp autumn moonlight. Caswell bent fondly above Mabel's drooping head.

"I have a confession to make," he said. "It may not have been quite fair, but when that draft came I shielded my candle."

Mabel laughed nervously, and her voice was low and uncertain.

"I—I guess I wasn't quite fair either, but I don't want dear Miss Anabel marrying me off according to her yellow backed novels, and—I blew out Charlie's candle."

A deep chuckle interrupted their mutual confessions. Schermerhorn's rich, wholesome tones announced:

"Let the good work go on. When I saw things were going against you, Frank, I opened the window, hoping to blow out both candles and stop the nonsense entirely."

"And I?" chimed in Grace Payne, laughing. "Well, I opened the door to help on the draft. It wouldn't do to let the Halloween sprites confirm the decision of Branscome in pairing us off. Poor Miss Anabel! And I believe she did it all on purpose."

"Never mind," said Schermerhorn cheerily. "She shall be bridesmaid or maid of honor or anything you girls like when the weddings come off, for, really, she brought matters to a climax."

And he patted Grace's little hand, snuggling against his great arm, while Frank Caswell and Mabel disappeared within the portals of the Howard home.

MISS ANABEL RUSHED TO CLOSE THE WINDOW.

fancies. It was her delight to make the affairs of others her own, and this Halloween party was given for the express purpose of setting matters straight between Schermerhorn and Mabel Howard. Well versed in the superstitious lore of love, she decided that with a little assistance Cupid might yet achieve a victory and bring the pair together.

Among the tests for the evening Miss Howard had decided upon that of naming candles. Different names would be given several wax tapers; the last one left burning would indicate the name of one's future husband. She used tiny wax tapers, homemade, and by giving one twice as thick a wick as the other she argued that one would burn twice as rapidly, and, thus prepared, in a fever of anticipation she awaited the coming of her guests.

There were the usual tests of suspended apples, floating apples, popping chestnuts and mirrors. Finally, with great glee, Miss Anabel brought out the two tapers.

"Here's a test for Mabel Howard," she announced ingeniously, for, as a mistress of ceremony, she had seen to it that Mabel had taken no prominent part in the earlier tests. "This," she said, as she placed the candle on the table, "I shall name Charles and this," producing the one with the quicker wick—"well, suppose we name it Frank."

Mabel blushed redly at this very pointed allusion, and half started up as though she would leave the room. Caswell laid a detaining hand gently upon her arm.

"Don't," he whispered. "She means well and to leave now would only serve to make a bad matter very much worse." Mabel sank back in her seat, but presently all were crowded around the table where the two candles were burning brightly. Caswell was not superstitious, but the spirit of the hour was upon him and he noted with some concern that his candle was burning away much faster than the other. Miss Anabel noted with pride the approaching success of her expedient, and her gentle heart throbbing, she hovered over the candles.

Caswell's candle was now within half an inch of the candlestick, while fully two inches of Schermerhorn's remained. Suddenly a gust of cold air

HIS TROUBLES NEVER CAME BACK

Ernest Grant took Dodd's Kidney Pills—They Removed the Cause. He Had Backache and Urinary Troubles for Twelve Years Before He Used the Great Kidney Remedy.

Montreal, July 20.—(Special)—Ernest Grant, 287 1-2 Urban street, this city, is among those who never let an opportunity pass to say a good word for Dodd's Kidney Pills. He has his reasons for this, and here they are in his own words:

"I had been troubled with Backache and Kidney disease for twelve years," says Mr. Grant. "My urine was very dark and high colored. I would lose my rest at night on account of having to rise so often to urinate. I could get nothing to help me."

"I tried several remedies, but all failed until I used Dodd's Kidney Pills. When I had taken four boxes I was able to go to bed and take my rest, my Backache left me and I was cured. It has never come back."

"When Dodd's Kidney Pills cure, the disease never comes back. They remove the cause."

An Inspiration. "The days are getting longer," she remarked finally, tiring of the long silence.

"Yes," replied her bashful escort, suddenly inspired. "I noticed that the week you were out of town."—Syracuse Herald.
