NOT GUILTY SAY ACCUSED

Seven Men Charged With Wheatley White Cap Affair Before Judge Houston

Another Case Said to be Following—Was Randall Also Assaulted?

Constable Wm. Tremblay, W. J. Martin, Jas. McDonald, Wm. Mills, E. Gibson, Wm. Curt's, and O. Lounsbury, of Wheatley, were brought in by High Constable Coogan last evening and spent the night at Hotel Rankin.

At eleven o'clock this morning they were arraigned before Judge Houston at County Court and pleaded not guilty charges of riot and assault on Thos. Culmage. They elected to be tried by jury. O. L. Lewis is defending the accused, while Crown Attorney Smith was in charge of the prosecution.

Preliminary hearing was set down for Thursday next at 11 a. m. Bail in $500 was given, Dr. J. E. Campbell and J. D. Dobbyn being the securities.

This morning's London Free Press contains the following despatch:—Wheatley, July 28.—Seven men were arrested to-day in connection with the Dulmage outrage.

Coming close upon the story of the outrage—so close it looks as if lawlessness is spreading in the district—an assault was made upon John Randal, of Coatsworth, near Wheatley.

SET UPON ON ROAD.

The man was not liked, and it is alleged he was set upon by a number of men while walking along the road, brutally beaten and then dragged up and down in the dust.

A man named Edwards and Millard Hyatt, both well known in the district, have been arrested and lodged in the county jail at Chatham.

The Dulmage case by no means has become a cold topic in Wheatley. In anticipation of the arrests which have been threatened every day for some

LEVEL CROSSING AGAIN

Two Fall Victims to C. P. R. Express at Mount Forest.

Mrs. Felix Curran, Wife of a Well-Known Farmer, Instantly Killed—Her Grown-Up Daughter Seriously Injured—Perhaps Fatally Injured—Driving in Covered Buggy and Did Not Notice the Train's Approach.

Mount Forest, July 29.—While driving across the railway tracks from this town last evening, Mrs. Felix Curran, wife of a well-known farmer, was instantly killed and her grown-up daughter seriously injured, and perhaps fatally, injured by the C. P. R. express, Toronto bound.

They were driving a covered buggy and did not notice the train's approach. The horse was also killed.

Killed On the Track. Prescott, Ont. on the steamers Toronto, was killed on the G. T. R. tracks in the city during the night. How it happened is unknown. Early yesterday morning his remains were found beside the track, his head severed from the body. Deceased was about 25 years of age.

Killed on Railway. Hamilton, July 29.—Louis McKenzie, son of David McKenzie, 226 North Emerald street, a youth about 17 years of age, was killed near Oakville on the G. T. R. tracks yesterday morning.

A DEATHLY JOKE.

Strange Accident to a Young Son-in-law in City of Montreal.

Montreal, July 29.—Little Germaine Nadeau, a 4-year-old child, is dying at her home, 444 St. Denis street, as a result of a joke she tried to play while asleep.

The child, who sleeps with a sister only a year older than herself, has long been a sleep-walker, much to the anxiety of her family. Sunday night she got out of bed in her sleep and was heard by her sister to chatter something about "playing a good joke on brother" by hiding from him.

Before she could be detained, she had made her way to the window, opened the shutter and plunged through to the pavement three stories below. There is little hope of her recovery from the effects of the fall.

Baby Scalded to Death.

Kingsport, July 29.—A baby, 16 months old, son of William Cummings of Chambers, in Lennox County, was scalded to death. His mother had emptied boiling water into a tub, when the little fellow backed up towards the vessel and tumbled over its side. A few hours dreadful agony was endured before death ended his sufferings.

CITY'S BARGAIN WAS SOUND

People Voted for Railroad Loan Without Interest For Advantages to be Received

Loan Will be Returned as Provided—Dr. Thornton's Mathematics Somewhat Wild.

After reading the letter which appeared last night over the signature of Dr. A. W. Thornton, the ordinary citizen may have retired to slumber impressed with the idea that he and the city had been gold-bricked in the financial arrangements made with the electric road. This was possibly because the said citizen had given the matter a little thought as Dr. Thornton had when he wrote the letter referred to. More mature reflection would have convinced both that the city pays for the railway exactly what it bargained to pay and that the Council of last year did not hand the keys of the civic strong box to the railway company.

The proposition upon which the citizens voted was to lend $50,000 to the company, WITHOUT INTEREST, the company to repay the loan in twenty-five equal annual consecutive instalments of $2,000 each—the first to be paid five years from now.

Dr. Thornton boldly asserted the city would receive not a cent of this back, which the ratepayer thought would be repaid in full within 30 years. He further intimated that the proposition would cost the city an additional $50,000—the interest (on the $50,000) advanced during the first five years before the company has started to repay the city. In short, he asserts that the road will cost the city $50,000.

The proposition started by this morning's newspaper, THE HOAX, WILL COST THE CITY MERELY the interest on the sum—$50,000—which they borrow to lend the road. This, in round figures, is $36,745.00, less some substantial reduction on the mentioned later—an amount a little more than half the sum the Doctor asserts the cost to be in his article on scrambled finance, aforementioned.

In order to thoroughly reassure those who may have been misled by the letter in question, The Planet reproduces the approximate figures, which give the correct solution.

The loan is advanced the railway company in two instalments, the first of $35,000, the other of $15,000.

Amount required yearly to pay the debentures for $35,000 and interest at 4 per cent...$ 2,024 05

Amount required yearly to pay the debentures for $15,000 and interest at 4 per cent... 867 45

$2,891.50 is raised yearly for 30 years, making the amount raised in the period $86,745.00, which amount pays the $50,000 borrowed to lend the company and all interest on it. So, we have ascertained that the proposition costs the city $86,745.00. The railway company repays $50,000, leaving the cost to the city $36,745.00. This is further decreased by the amount the company's yearly payments would earn for the city—$2,000 a year will earn $60 in interest—twenty-five such will earn $2,500—reducing the cost of the road to the city to $34,245.00.

These figures are approved of by civic officials, and endorsed by the leading bankers of the city. Dr. Thornton asserts his statements are made "after consultation with some of the leading financial experts of the city." We cannot understand whom they are, as all the bankers disclaim having done such, and none approve of the figures of this estimable financier. On the contrary, we have the following expressions of their opinion:—

Mr. W. T. Shannon, the local manager of the Standard Bank, the institution through which the city effects its financial deals, stated that, in view of the fact that his predecessor, Mr. G. P. Scholfield, had estimated that the proposition would cost the city in interest materially less than half of the doctor's figure and that the principal was secured, would give no expression of opinion. He said he had no conversation with Dr. Thornton and merely glanced at the letter in question.

Major Geo. Massey, manager of Bank of Montreal, when seen stated that Dr. Thornton's figuring was incorrect and that the proposition cost the city the interest only.

An unsuccessful effort was made to see Wm. Pringle, of the Merchants Bank.

J. E. Thomas—"At the end of the 30 years the debt is paid and the city will be out only the interest they have to pay to borrow the money." The city gets value received for their money in added prosperity and new families brought into it. Moreover the company's property is assessed for school purposes.

Ex-Ald. Thos. Scullard—"The posi-

WELL DONE, RIDGETOWN!

Dr. Del. Marr and His Stalwarts Carry Off the Famous Bowling Trophy

Description of Their Triumph, Which Was Modestly Taken—The Score

The Planet very heartily extends to Dr. Del. Marr, P. Bawden, J. H. Bawden and W. V. Little, of Ridgetown, most cordial congratulations on their conspicuous triumph at the big bowling tourney at London. It was a magnificent win and Kent County is proud of its champions from the good old town on the Ridge.

The London Free Press says of their victory:—

Ridgetown wakes this morning to find itself famous in the world of bowls and kitties.

On Tuesday from the little hamlet, Kent County, came a small band of white-clothed bowlers each with one eye on a week of solid fun and the other on a bit of silverware known from one end of Canada to the other as the Labatt trophy.

No particular attention did this small band attract unto themselves. True, it was well known that they had bowlers in that town. Does not the renowned "Bob" Porterfield call it home, and is not "Bob" a bowler. Yet by all the seven-headed dragons he is. For right onto forty years (Ed. says 60 years) has his position amongst bowlers been unquestioned.

Three names were entered on the big score sheets, and amongst them appeared Dr. Del. Marr. There and then was curiously accused. Del. Marr is the name who led a Ridgetown rink from round to round, entered the semi-finals against London's big four, skipped by "Ned" Weld, bowled them over and yesterday defeated Skip W. B. Smith's rink from the Toronto Victorias in the final of the big event of the biggest tournament ever held in Canada.

It was the greatest game of bowls ever played on London greens, and was won by the Ridgetown rink on its merits.

Interest in the match was intense and around the entire four sides of the upper greens were visiting bowlers and citizens four and five deep. The applause was generous and impartial, showing unmistakably the predominating feeling of fair play that exists amongst the lovers of this great game.

The bowling of both rinks was brilliant, but it must be said that the work of the Ridgetown men was the staidier of the two.

It would take uncountable columns to review a quarter of the good shots that were made during the game. Wick's shots to no end were made across the green. To lie shot was impossible and to reach the Ridgetown bowls was not thought possible. The Toronto skip took plenty of ice, and with a beautiful draw, drove two of his opponent's bowls out, but, however, failing to lie shot. It was the play of the game.

Dr. Marr took the lead from the first end, scoring one point in each of the first, second, fourth and fifth and two in the second, a total of six shots, before Toronto tallied. Skip Smith scored one in each of the sixth and seventh, but in the next Dr. Marr's rink got 5, and from then on it was only a matter of the number that Dr. Marr's rink would be up at the finish.

The work of "Pete" Bawden, the doctor's third man, was easily the best of the eight players, and he was a tower of strength to the Ridgetown rink. Quiet, unassuming and at all times wearing "the smile that won't come off," he found great favor with the big crowd gathered around.

The rinks and scores by ends are as follows:—

SOCIETY

Miss Eberts is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Wescott, in Kingsville.

Mrs. D. S. Paterson and son Murray are visiting in St. Thomas.

Mr. K. McBeth left this week on a couple of weeks' holiday trip.

Miss Jean Ross, of Toronto, is the guest of her uncle, Dr. J. H. and Mrs. Duncan.

Miss Marguerite Douglas, of Dunbar, Ont., is the guest of Miss Ila Stevens.

Mr. F. O. Harrison, of the Standard Bank staff, returns to-morrow from his vacation.

Miss Kathleen O'Hara, of Toronto, is the guest of Mrs. James Fleming, King St. West.

Mr. Montgomery, of the Bank of Montreal staff, has returned from a very pleasant excursion.

Mrs. Falls gave a charming little tea last Monday for Chatham's society who are summering at the Eau.

Miss Edith Holmes, King St. West, returns to-morrow from a visit to her friend, Miss McPhillips, of Windsor.

Mr. and Mrs. Wescott, of Kingsville, who have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Phil. Coate, returned home on Thursday.

Miss Mary Shannon and her guest, Miss Helen Wallace, and Miss Lucy McKelvey have returned from Erie Beach, where they have been spending a week.

A SAD CASE

Mrs. Roxanna Webb, the aged colored woman who entered the County House of Refuge about three months ago, has returned to her relatives in town and says she will not go back to the Home. Her complaint is that she was not treated well by the other inmates in the House. She is in the meantime a burden on her relatives, who are in a position to make extra provision for her and they are at a loss to know where to send her. The authorities are looking into the case. This is the woman who, it will be remembered, was found lying senseless near the Maple Leaf Laundry on Murray street. She was left with a good farm free from debt and it is said that excessive interest on loans made on mortgages soon landed the farm in the money lender's possession.

WERE SUCCESSFUL

Frank Richardson and Claude Brundage returned from Pittsburgh last Thursday night, where they have been representing Chatham on the combined Detroit, Cleveland and Chatham team, which has been playing in the Pittsburgh cricket tourney this week. Both report the best of times. The combined team came out of the fray with two wins and a loss, defeating Chicago and Pittsburgh and losing to Zingari. The latter has also the same record and has to play the combined team for the trophy which was in competition. The match will be pulled off later in the season.

Pittsburg subscribed $1,500 to entertain the visiting cricketers and, according to the reports of the boys, they spent it all. There was a smother, a ball and a general good time. There is talk of getting a combined team to go to Chicago in September to compete in a tournament being held there.

THE CIVIC RATE

In conversation with civic officials yesterday morning The Planet learned that the rate for the current year will, probably, be in the neighborhood of 28 mills. Ald. Marshall will report the exact figure at the next regular Council meeting. There seems to be some difficulty in ascertaining whether there is a floating debt which will have to be met. The auditor has reported there is one, and the treasurer says there is not. This, also, will have to be settled before the rate can be struck.

The tracks of the electric road, near the corner of Wellington and Raleigh streets, are fully four inches below the level of the street. This is exceedingly dangerous and should be attended to.

Of course, the Banner is entirely wrong in its report of the bridge trouble, when it says the differences between the city and the company are settled. The trouble is merely deferred. But of course we can't spend our time pointing out these inaccuracies. Life is too short.

$200 DAMAGES

A case of considerable interest affecting the rights of farmers and railway companies was tried at the County Court at London last week. Dugald Black, a farmer of the Township of Elfrid, sued the C. P. R. for damages for the loss of two colts which got out of his yard owing to the bars getting down, and got over the cattle guard of the defendant company and were killed on their track. His Honor charged the jury that the company were liable unless it was shown that the colts got out through the negligence or wilful act or omission of the plaintiff or his agent. The jury answered all the questions submitted to them in favor of the plaintiff and assessed the damages at $200.

BABY'S OWN TABLETS

Cure Hot Weather Ailments and Summer Complaints.

In the hot weather the little ones suffer from stomach and bowel troubles, are nervous, weak, sleepless and irritable. Their vitality is lower now than at any other season. Prompt action at this time saves a precious little life. Baby's Own Tablets is the best medicine in the world for little ones. They speedily relieve, promptly cure and give sound, refreshing sleep. And they are guaranteed free from opiates and harmful drugs. They always do good — they cannot possibly do harm, and no home should be without the Tablets, especially during the hot weather months, when dangerous troubles come suddenly and almost unperceived. Mrs. Adam Martindale, Chillydormes, Que., says: "I have used Baby's Own Tablets for diarrhoea and stomach troubles and always with the most perfect success. They are better than any other medicine I know of." Sold by all druggists or by mail at 25 cents a box by writing to Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. See that every box bears the name "Baby's Own Tablets" and the picture of a four-leaf clover on the wrapper. Anything else is an imitation.

District Dashes

Mr. Con. E. Shea, of Chatham, and Mr. Chas. A. Faber, of Chicago, drove out from Chatham on Wednesday last and visited for a few hours at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Gernay. Mr. Faber not only won in these parts for a score of years — Merlin Mirror.

Seated in a pew in the Ontario street church on Sunday morning last were three sisters whose average age is 81 years. They were: Mrs. Plumsteel, Sr., 83, Mrs. A. D. Wiltzie, 81, Mrs. Robert Barber, Seaforth, 79. They are bright, cheerful and active and beloved by their families and a host of friends. It is likely that a like incident occurred in any other church in the Dominion last Sunday. —Clinton News-Record.

A report brought here by a traveler from Ruthven is to the effect that Rev. J. C. Reid, of Cottageville, of this circuit, is dead in Chicago, as a result of hydrophobia. Dr. Oliver telephoned Ruthven to ascertain confirmation of the report and although Ruthven people are sanguine of the report, yet it is generally believed to be true. Mr. Reid was bitten by a dog, as were also two other persons of Ruthven. Mr. Reid was removed to a hospital in Chicago for treatment and is reported to have died while under treatment. Merlin confidently hopes that the report is not true. —Merlin Mirror.

NOT AN EMPLOYEE.

To the Editor of The Planet: Re fat man's race, P. M. Picnic. In your report of 24th inst. you say the authorities refused to let me run on the grounds that I was a professional and you very ably defended me in that view of the case. I desire the public to know that the ground of barring me was that the race was confined to employees only of the Pere Marquette Railway Co. I was invited to run by Mr. A. Skirving, referee.

NOT FOR PUBLICATION.

The Planet does not believe that "Civis" intended his letter for publication and we have accordingly returned it. The Planet's letter box is open to all reasonable discussions of the public acts or statements of any citizen, but is not for dealing in personal matters. Our correspondent undoubtedly has the right to differ from the position of Ald. Austin or Dr. Thornton and to express his views thereon — and such correspondence is desired, but The Planet cannot allow itself to be the medium for anything further. We trust our correspondent, whom we hold in esteem, will understand this position and the resultant return of his communication. —Editor Planet.

AN INQUISITIVE READER.

Editor of The Planet: Mr. Editor, I want to ask a question that I think many ratepayers would like to have answered. If Chatham goes in for long and expensive lawing, what proportion of the law costs will Dr. Thornton pay?

TAXPAYER.

WHERE THE REPORT ERRED.

To the Editor of The Planet: Dear Sir,—Before proceeding to show that my letter of yesterday was fully warranted let me make one correction. In the letter, as published, one little word is left out that makes a world of difference in my attitude toward you. I think if you look up the M.S., you will find I wrote in reference to yourself "I do not think you are a party to such misrepresentations and therefore respectfully request you, etc., etc." In the letter as published the word "not" is left out and does unfairness to me as well as yourself. I have no copy of my M.S. but if the word "not" is not there I meant to be. My idea was that you had not given sanction to the stenographic report shows to be incorrect and unfair and I therefore requested you to make amends.

Now, sir, I wish to state that the stenographic report is absolutely correct and, therefore, does me justice; and I thank you for publishing it verbatim. But the official report and that published in your paper differ widely. The difference is very material. The stenographic report makes me state that I WOULD NOT SWEAR that I could detect the difference in odor between port and cherry wine; your report makes me "without wavering" swear that I could. Again, your report makes me state I could do so as to get the official gives the very opposite. Does the difference not strike you, Mr. Editor? I consider that any intelligent person, who has handled or drunk the different classes of liquor in the eyes of right-minded persons, can distinguish between the particular odors emanating from their presence in the system; I know that one who is soaked in liquor cannot do so readily, especially in regard to himself.

The official report puts me right in the eyes of right-minded persons; your paper's report makes me swear what I did not, what I could not swear, and what would not be believed if I did swear to it. Furthermore, I must still maintain that your paper's report showed much bias. I cannot say whether the reporter was prejudiced, but what he wrote is manifestly one-sided; and I leave it to your readers to judge. If he had no interest in the affair why did he not report the facts in reference to the appeal, on both sides, and leave them with the people. Court cases should be reported in the spirit as well as in the letter of fairness and correctness. The case in question, I hold, was not so reported. If your reporter made the mistakes unwittingly and without knowledge of decorum in such cases, represented unfairly, let him admit it, and, under the circumstances, do what a gentleman would; if he meant to do as he did, and as many of your readers here interpret his action, I request you respectfully to see that he does what would be only fair under the circumstances. I claim no privilege, I ask for no favor. I am willing to accord even the opponents of sobriety and temperance the fullest and fairest hearing. But I ask for fair play, not so much for myself as on behalf of the cause of law, righteousness and temperance, that I earnestly seek to uphold and represent, however feeble it may be carried out.

With the request for a little space for the above, and thanking you in anticipation, I remain, Yours for fair play, GEO. GILMORE.

Blenheim, Ont., July 27th, 1905.

July 29.—Miss Tuckett, of Ridge-town, has taken a position in E. G. Thompson's store.

Mrs. W. Mogg, 3rd concession, who has been suffering from rheumatism for some time, has again come to the Hotel Santa for treatment.

Mrs. Charles Vivian and Mrs. T. Johns have returned from visiting Mrs. A. N. Shotwell, Mt. Clemens, Mich.

A large number from here expect to take in the excursion to Niagara Falls on Thursday next.

During the electrical storm yesterday afternoon the barn on Duncan McMillan's farm, on the Centre Line, was struck by lightning and totally destroyed by fire.

The members of the novice rink of bowlers returned last evening. Although not successful in winning, they report an excellent time. R. L. Gosnell's rink also was unsuccessful.

Mrs. Ambrose Moore, St. Thomas, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. Burke.

Misses Mary Buck and Odella Phair are visiting friends in Detroit. T. G. McCallum lost a horse this week by impaling itself on the fence in the pasture field.

Miss Sterling, Kent Bridge, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. John Graham.

SURE TO BE A FAILURE. Oh, John! exclaimed Mrs. House, keep! I'm sure our dinner party to night will be a horrible failure.

What's the matter? asked her husband. The cook quarreled with her beau this morning.

When Governor Simcoe laid the foundation of London, Ontario, one hundred years ago he knew it would grow to be a great city, but had not thought of the Western Fair.

The Western Fair gives the people of this country an excellent opportunity for a pleasant outing at a minimum of cost, and at the same time develops their store of practical and useful knowledge.

Its educational features have always been carefully fostered by the Directors. This year several important improvements of an instructive nature have been added. The celebrated post Highland Regiment Band will give three concerts daily during the exhibition. The entertainment department will be better than ever, and will include leaping the gap in mid air on a steam automobile.

Who's your Ruler— your Brain or your Stomach?

Indigestion lost the battle of Waterloo. A box of Fruit-a-tives might have changed the map of Europe. Napoleon abused his stomach by injudicious eating. At Waterloo, his stomach retaliated. Acute indigestion kept him from the field for some time. And the day was lost. A box of Fruit-a-tives—and the Bonapartes might still be on the throne of France.

Most people don't realize what a good friend, or a bitter enemy, their stomach can be. If they treat it right, they forget they have a stomach. If they abuse it, they never forget for a moment they have one—and a mighty uncomfortable one it is.

The stomach is a muscular churn that secretes gastric juice. When food enters a well-taken-care-of stomach, there's plenty of gastric juice ready to liquify the lumps, break up the fats, separate the starch, etc.

To do this completely, the stomach churns the food—sends it whirling round and round until thoroughly mixed and dissolved.

If your stomach does all this with never a pain—heartburn—"heartburn"—then you don't need Fruit-a-tives.

Fruit-a-tives put a tired, overworked stomach on good terms with itself. They strengthen the stomach muscles so the churning will go on with all its old time vigor—assist the secretion of the digestive fluid and encourage complete digestion.

Heartburn, flatulency, heavy feeling after eating, indigestion, dyspepsia, sour stomach—are simply the result of tired stomach.

Fruit-a-tives take away the CAUSE of all these troubles.

Fruit-a-tives

or Fruit Liver Tablets.

"I want to say a word in regard to Fruit-a-tives. I have had Stomach and Liver Trouble some ten years and have tried different remedies, but Fruit-a-tives are the best of all. I am better than I have been for years and cannot praise them too highly. I have tried many different kinds of medicine for my son. He had Bilious Attacks ever since he was three years old, and since he began taking Fruit-a-tives he has been so well. If it is ever my chance to recommend Fruit-a-tives, I will always be ready to say a good word for them."

MRS. JOHN COLINE, Aylmer, Ont.

Fruit-a-tives are fruit juices in tablet form. An Ottawa physician discovered that by combining the juices of apples, oranges, figs and prunes in a peculiar way, the medicinal action of the fruits was intensified many times.

While Fruit-a-tives are helping the stomach to get strong and well, they are also making the liver active, curing Biliousness and Constipation, purifying the blood, making you eat and sleep well.

One box of Fruit-a-tives is a drug store in itself, as far as keeping the whole family in good health is concerned.

Make sure that your druggist gives you "Fruit-a-tives"—not something which is said to be "just as good."

For sale by druggists everywhere, 50c. per box, or sent direct by mail on receipt of 50c. for one box or $2.50 for six boxes.

How Are You Cutting Your Field?

Many farmers cling to the opinion that in moving or reaping a square field, time is to be saved by going round and round it. As a matter of fact this is not true, and if one will but pause to think, the advantages of the strip method, will become at once apparent. While it is true that the number of rounds will be the same in either case, by dividing the field into strips and cutting each separately, many of the short turns are done away with, as is also the repeated crossing of furrows on land that is ridged. Time may also be saved by circling round the end instead of stopping to turn and cut across as in the square method. It is also an advantage to have one side of the field all ready to go into the barn at the same time. A little thought on simple operations like this often saves considerable time, and no good farmer needs to be reminded of the value of time at this season of the year. Unrelenting attention to seemingly unimportant paltry details is the price of success in farming as in any other calling.

Homemade Tablets to Purify the Breath

Some harmless breath purifiers may be made at home, and charcoal tablets are among the best. A delicious tablet consists of one ounce of pulverized charcoal, one-quarter of an ounce of gum mastic, one ounce of powdered sugar, three ounces of powdered chocolate, one-half dram of powdered vanilla, one-half dram of powderedorris root, two and a half grains each of oil of cloves and oil of peppermint. Put the powders and the gum into an earthen bowl and mix together over a very gentle heat, stirring to keep it smooth. As it cools after being taken from the heat beat in the oil. Pat and cut into squares. Like the others, these may be eaten several times a day. Rinsing the mouth frequently with antiseptic aromatic washes is to be recommended.

PEONS OF OLD MEXICO.

Indian Farm Laborers That Are Really Beasts of Burden.

The Mexican peon is the backbone of the republic. Without him the great landed estates, or haciendas, would lie in idleness, while agricultural and commercial interests would stagnate. Of a cast iron constitution, he can endure, apparently without effort, the hardest sort of drudgery. His energy comes from a diet that consists chiefly of ground peppers, beans or frijoles and a large quantity of tortillas. He works from 6 to 6, enjoying in the meantime his two simple meals. In general, the Indian farm laborers are of a submissive and respectful disposition. Like the negroes of the south, they are not far from the main building, so as to be on hand whenever their services are required. They usually insist, however, on celebrating their holidays, which lessens their real usefulness about 25 per cent. The holidays are numerous and afford the laborer many opportunities to quaff from the stupefying pulque bowl. Their stock of surplus change is not apt to be excessive. It cannot be more than 20 cents a day. Field hands in the states of Guanajuato, Michoacan and Queretaro receive a cartillo of corn in addition to their wages of 12 cents a day. One hacienda who voluntarily raised the wages of his hands to 18 cents a day found himself without laborers for two days of the week. As the extra wages supplied living means for the entire week, what was the need of working?

These laborers are of all sizes and ages; but, whether young or old, all bear alike upon their brow the depressing and degrading leathern thong that makes of them beasts of burden. The effect of this customary strap on the shape of the head is seen in the fact that the peons the country over have peak shaped heads tending toward the shape of the pointed hat. The supply of laborers is, so to speak, perennial. The young muchacho receives his training in watching the sheep and the goats, acting as messenger or prodding the burros in the pack train. When he is about sixteen years old he takes his place with the regular laborers and begins to cast his eye about for a helpmate. The wife may prove useful and earn a small wage at some such operation as sowing seed. Her life will be a monotonous one. A strip of cloth serves as dress and skirt, a strip of leather provides a sandal, and in the hot regions the clothing for the boys is even as simple. All that is required is a jorongo, which consists of a yard of cotton cloth with a hole for the head and two depending flaps to cover breast and back. There is no possibility of their clothing impeding their movements. When the woman takes her husband's meal to him far out in the fields, she takes the little toddler with her fastened securely in her rebozo.

Longfellow's Meaning.

Teacher—"Now, Willie, I want to see if you can remember that little verse I recited to you yesterday. Come, now: 'Lives of great men all remind us—what's the rest?'"

Willie—"I don't just remember the words, but I think I know what they meant."

Teacher—"Well? They remind us—"

Willie—"That we kin go to the seashore an' play in the sand all the time."

Cows With Nervous Prostration.

The Minnesota experiment station has discovered that the cow suffers from the characteristic disease of twentieth century civilization—nervous overstrain. She has temper tantrums. She is overcivilized. "The high strung cow has no place in the dairy scheme. She should be eliminated," says Professor Haecker.

Fattening Lambs.

A good way to fatten lambs and now in common practice in some localities is to sow rape in corn and then turn in the lambs and let them eat rape and corn both. No combination involving so little expense and labor will produce greater growth in sheep and lambs.

Jolly Jack Tar.

"Jolly" is the word generally associated with the jack tar. He is the picture of health, and the health bubbles over in mirth and merriment. When people are sick, especially when sickness attacks the lungs, the doctor often advises a sea voyage. But in the large majority of cases the sea voyage is impossible.

It is to the men and women of the workaday world to whom sea voyages or change of climate are impossible, that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery comes as the greatest earthly boon. The effect of this medicine upon those whose lungs are "weak" is remarkable. Even where there is bronchitis, spitting of blood, emaciation, weakness, conditions which if unchecked or unskillfully treated lead to consumption, "Golden Medical Discovery" in ninety-eight cases out of a hundred works a perfect and permanent cure. It strengthens the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, so that the body in all its parts is not merely fed but nourished. And it is by nourishment that Nature builds up the body to resist or throw off disease.

"I had a terrible cough something over a year ago and could find nothing to stop it, or to do me a particle of good," writes J. M. Farr, Esq., of Cameron, Screven Co., Ga. "I chanced to see an advertisement of your invaluable 'Golden Medical Discovery.' Before I had taken half a bottle I was entirely well."

International Bible Lesson for Tomorrow.

Manasseh's Sin and Repentance.—II. Chron., 33, 1-13.

Golden Text—"Righteousness exalteth a nation, but sin is a reproach to any people."

In this lesson we have about the darkest day in the history of the Kingdom of Judah and a sketch of one of the most wicked of rulers. At 12 years of age he came to the throne an adept in sin far beyond his years. Note the outline of his sins in seducing his subjects to evil, from verses 3 to 8, as given by the Spirit of God.

1—He rebuilt the high places—destroyed by his father—when God had forbidden it.

2—He reared up altars unto Baal and Ashera, or Venus, for licentious worship.

3—He worshipped the host of heaven, sun, moon and stars.

4—Built altars for their worship another altar in the Temple of God.

5—He offered human sacrifice by fire, even his own children.

6—He used enchantments and witchcraft, consulting witches and wizards.

7—He was a very devoted spirit.

8—He set a carved image—an idol he had made himself—in the Temple of God.

No blacker catalogue could be written of any ruler; had enough to be bad ourselves, but to plan to make others bad is devilish, and this man was thus controlled of Satan. If we sin willfully we may be sure, unwittingly we will drag others down. A sinning father drags down his family. A sinning Sunday school teacher drags down the class. A sinning preacher contaminates his whole flock.

No wonder Manasseh's conduct provoked God's just anger for he made the people do worse than the heathen whom the Lord destroyed.

Assyria's armies were let loose on idolatrous Judah—its history repeating itself to-day—and Manasseh was carried in chains a captive to Babylon. When he was thus afflicted he besought the Lord his God and humbled himself greatly before the God of his fathers and played unto Him. He was entreated of him, and brought him again unto his kingdom. Blessed is the affliction that brings men and women to their senses, spiritually. When he repented, God pardoned and restored, as with King David, Saul of Tarsus and thousands of the slaves of sin and Satan.

The wonderful grace of a loving God, the abounding efficacy of the blood and righteousness of our Lord Jesus Christ and the power of the Holy Spirit creates a thorough revolution in this wicked King, who, when restored brings forth fruit meet for repentance, as true repentance always does.

THE RICH AND THE POOR NEED PE-RU-NA.

Mr. Geo. A. Hughes.

Many Suffer With Catarrh and Don't Know It.

The Phase of Catarrh Most Prevalent in Summer is a Run Down, Worn Out Condition Known as Systemic Catarrh.

"Pe-ru-na is the Medicine for the Poor Man."—Geo. A. Hughes.

CATARRH assumes different phases in different seasons of the year. In the early summer systemic catarrh is most prevalent. That tired, worn-out feeling in nine cases out of ten is due to a catarrhal condition of the mucous membranes.

Mr. Geo. A. Hughes, 808 Mass. Ave., Indianapolis, Ind., writes: "Pe-ru-na has done me more good than anything I have ever taken. I am forty-five years old now, and feel as good as I did at twenty. I was very thin and run down, but Pe-ru-na acted just right in my case. I am a carpenter and sometimes need a tonic. Pe-ru-na is the medicine for a poor man."—Geo. A. Hughes.

A Congressman Uses Pe-ru-na in His Family.

Hon. Thos. J. Henderson, Member of Congress from Illinois, and Lieutenant in the Union Army for eight years, writes from the Lemon building, Washington, D. C., as follows:

"Pe-ru-na has been used in my family with the very best results and I take pleasure in recommending your valuable remedy to my friends as a tonic and an effective cure for catarrh."—Thos. J. Henderson.

Pe-ru-na cleanses the mucous membranes and cures the catarrh wherever located.

There are no remedies for catarrh just as good as Pe-ru-na. Accept no substitutes.

Why Tea Quality Varies

YOU know how the quality of strawberries from the same patch will sometimes vary from one day to another.

One day sweet, compact, well ripened, well colored, richly flavored—next day it rains, is cloudy, following picking is soggy, sour, green, coarsely-flavored, poor.

Tea, also, on account of its volatility of flavor, after picking and during the curing process is very susceptible to weather changes. A few hours of sunshine or bad weather after picking may make the difference between good and poor tea.

So that while one picking may be first class, the next from the same garden may be very poor.

I select only the pickings which come up to the Red Rose standards of richness and strength in Indian, and delicacy and fragrance in Ceylon teas, and thus that "rich, fruity flavor" of Red Rose Tea is produced and maintained.

"But it will not be too rainy this afternoon for you to play ball, will it?" asked his mother.

"No, mother," replied little Tommy respectfully, "because you can always play better ball in the rain than in the sunshine."

"I don't see how, Tommy."

"Why," replied Tommy, "it's because when it is raining there is lots of mud and that makes it so slippery that you can slide on your stomach better."—New York Times.

CHINESE MUSIC.

What Dr. Whewell, Master of Trinity, Knew About It.

The remarkable extent of the knowledge possessed by Dr. William Whewell, at one time master of Trinity, Cambridge, is well illustrated by the following story, taken from the "Life and Work of Dr. Momerie."

Two of the younger dons, growing rather jealous of the master's reputation for omniscience, determined that they would discover something of which he knew nothing. They pitched upon the subject of Chinese music. How should he know anything about it? They did not, so they went to an encyclopedia and read the subject up.

The next time they met Whewell at a dinner party they led the conversation gradually in the direction of music, when they began to discourse upon the music of the Chinese and gave out all their recently acquired information.

Whewell was silent, much to their satisfaction. Evidently he knew nothing about the matter. But just as they were beginning to rejoice in their triumph he said:

"Might I ask, gentlemen, where you got your information?"

"Oh, yes," they replied. "We picked it up out of such and such an encyclopedia."

"Ah," said Whewell, "I was thinking so. I wrote that article thirty years ago, and it's full of mistakes."

THE ELECTRICITY HABIT.

There Is One Thing In Its Favor—It Is Usually Beneficial.

"Of all the habits the one that sticks closest to a fellow is the electricity habit," said a young doctor. "The drink habit and the cocaine habit are mere summer fancies compared with it. But there is one thing to be said in its favor—it is usually beneficial. The electricity habit is contracted just like any other habit. A few currents are administered during an illness. They strengthen and stimulate, and the first thing the patient knows he finds the tonic indispensable. Even after he gets well he craves the treatment. I know one young woman who makes a fair living by calling at the homes of electricity victims and dosing them with a few shocks from a galvanic battery. Most slaves to the habit have their own batteries, but they are afraid to apply the treatment to themselves. That is practically a groundless fear, for there isn't one chance in a thousand of a person giving himself an overdose. Still they prefer an experienced hand to manage the current. Not all the electricity fiends are invalids by any means. Many of them are now as well as they ever were, yet they have become so addicted to the habit that they require the weekly, semi-weekly or possibly daily electric thrills to tone them up."

THE KISS IN THE TUNNEL.

The Way a Man Had Revenge For an Act of Discourtesy.

"Courtesy always pays; discourtesy never does," said a famous Frenchman. Let me tell you a story of an actual happening.

"Two women occupied a compartment in a railway carriage with one man, a stranger. They were extremely rude to this man. In whispers that he could overhear they criticised his costume, his figure and his manner. He, to be revenged, did a singular thing.

"The blackness of a tunnel enveloped the car, and under cover of the darkness the man kissed the back of his hand loudly and repeatedly. Then when the train entered the light again he looked from one woman to the other with a significant smile.

"They exchanged glances of suspicion.

"Was it you he kissed?"

"No, of course not. Was it you?"

"And neither lady would believe the other's denial, and each in her inmost heart believed the other had encouraged the kiss. The man looked cool and complacent. When finally he rose to go he said, lifting his hat with a jocular air:

"Have no fear, ladies. I shall never tell which of you it was."

The Sage Plant.

Sago is a nutritive, farinaceous substance obtained from the pith of several species of palms growing in such hot countries as Java and Sumatra. The stem, about fifteen to twenty feet long, is cut into pieces and the pith dug out and placed in a vessel having a sieve bottom. Water poured into the sieve washes the flour thus exposed into a second vessel. When the water is poured off and the residue becomes dry it is known as sago flour. The pith left behind forms what is known as common brown sago.

Revised Version.

"It's curious that women are never great poets or great musicians," said Mr. Meeker.

"What did you say?" asked his wife belligerently.

"I was merely remarking that women are too sensible to squander their energies on poetry and music to the extent that some men do."

Don't Sift Ashes;

—ruin your clothes, injure your hands, raise a dust, the meanest, dirtiest job a man can do—and no work for a woman.

What then? Waste good coal? Increase expense?

No, use a furnace that burns all the coal, that does not shake down some ashes and a lot of coal.

Use a furnace with a grate that drops ashes, but holds the coal—a furnace with such perfect combustion that all the coal is burnt and gives off all the heat that's in it.

That is the Sunshine Furnace made by McClary's—the only furnace that's built to burn all the coal and shake down nothing but ashes.

Built with an ash-pan, no shovelling, no sifting, no dust, no spoiled clothes, no exasperating, expensive waste.

The most modern furnace built, the best burner and best heater—the easiest furnace to manage—the very best.

Write for our furnace booklet, it is worth reading.

The Sunshine Furnace is sold by all enterprising dealers.

CORRECT ATTIRE.

He Who Dresses In Good Taste Shows That He Respects Himself.

When our country was in the log cabin stage of its growth correct dress was not held in high regard, and obviously so. The stout hearted pioneers were too busy hewing paths and blazing trails to cultivate life's finer side.

Theirs was the rough work of field and camp, of hammer and saw. But times, men and manners have changed, and a new conception of dress has sprung up. Young men especially recognize the direct relation of correct dress in business and social preference.

The well dressed man carries his introduction with him—he is master of himself and of the situation. He commands the respect of others because he shows that he respects himself.

It is true that there are some men of wealth and position who slur their clothes and even some who feign to scorn the niceties of dress. The habits of a careless youth have left their imprint on such men, and it is quite certain that their disdain of dress played no part in their success and detracts measurably from their enjoyment of it, for, after all, the ripest fruit of success is the esteem of one's fellows, and who can esteem the sloven? In talking to a man one's attention naturally roves to his clothes, his hair, his teeth and his finger nails. Dandruff on the shoulder, stains on the waistcoat and unshaven face, untidy hair, creases in the coat, a soiled collar, a mussed cravat, proclaim in trumpet tones that a man lacks the truest refinement—respect of self—Success.

Many a woman becomes a wife rather than become an old maid.

HAD BLOOD POISON 12 YEARS

The New Method Treatment Cured Him after Drugs, Mercury, Hot Springs, &c., all failed.

Wm. H. Patterson, of Saginaw, Mich., relates his experience: "I do not like notoriety and especially of this kind, but I feel I owe this much to the $2 & $5 for the great good they have done me. I had a serious blood disease when 14 years of age. The skin and blood symptoms gradually developed. Pimples and ulcers formed, running sores broke out, hair became loose, pains in the bones and joints. After treatment despoiled stomach, foul breath, itchy skin, etc. It is needless for me to say I tried doctors. I grew to hate the looks of one. I visited Hot Springs twice for four months each time. It helped me temporarily, but in six months after returning home I was as bad as ever. Finally a doctor friend of mine advised me to see Drs. Kennedy & Kergan. He said he had known of them for over 20 years, and as they made a specialty of these diseases and treated the worst cases by the hundred they ought to be expert in curing them. I was afraid of advertising doctors, but I took his advice. They agreed to treat me under a guarantee or no pay. I investigated their financial standing and found they were perfectly responsible, so I commenced the new method treatment. The eruptions disappeared in two weeks, the bone pains in four weeks and in four months I was entirely cured. Yes, sir, I can recommend the New Method Treatment for Blood and Skin Diseases."

A WISE PAIR OF KINGS.

The world is very curious as to what took place in the cabin of the Polar Star the other night. The conference between the two sovereigns occurred, like the burial of Sir John Moore, darkly at dead of night, and that in itself makes it more portentous. The good guessers offer a new theory every day. The Kaiser counselled peace with Japan and reforms at home. He had an axe of his own to grind—he wants a Hohenzollern prince on the throne of Norway, and he is willing to pay Cousin Nicholas a size of Norwegian territory for his good offices.

It makes very little difference what was said by him of the Mailed Fist to his brother of the Weak Back, but there is food for laughter in the spectacle of these crowned anachronisms getting together on the sly and shaking their fists at destiny. If anything, the Kaiser looks a little more ridiculous than the Czar, because his assumption is greater. William II. aspires to be a sort of universal mentor. His advice to the Czar was in a way gratuitous. At least it would be characteristic of the German Emperor to let his Russian conferees know that he had wisdom on tap, and that all he had to do was to turn the faucet. As a matter of fact the Kaiser must often feel oppressed by his own sagacity. To such a man it is positive torture to keep quiet. Hence all this solicitude for the Czar. If the Kaiser couldn't get his big thoughts out of his system they would suppurate, and he might end in the insane asylum.

It seems quite probable that the Kaiser advised the Czar to grant reforms which would prevent the spread of Socialism in Russia and Germany. The Kaiser is bright enough to see the danger in front of his nose, but his advice looks very much like looking the stable after the horse is stolen. Socialism is bound to spread in spite of all the monarchs in the world. It is the shape the spirit of liberty takes when it is, cribbed and confined by the restraints of arbitrary power. When it has accomplished its constitutional objects it adopts a less positive guise, is known as democracy, and acts as a wholesome check on any encroachments that might threaten responsible government. William and Nicholas can no more stay the spread of Socialism—which is democracy rampant—than they can keep the rain from falling or the wind from blowing. Wherever liberty is in chains there, by the law of compensation, there must be Socialism. When the Kaiser told the Czar to throw sops to the people, and so prevent the downfall of autocracy, he did about as wise a thing as Canute, who bade the flood tide back out of his royal presence. —Toronto Star.

A GOOD OUTLOOK.

In commenting on the bountiful harvests and the effect that they will have in manufacturing districts, the Buffalo Express furnishes some valuable information and statistical figures which demonstrates the splendid outlook for the Canadian and American farmers. It states that according to trade journals merchants in many agricultural communities are increasing their orders for fall and winter goods. It is expected that in other communities a similar course will be followed within a week or two, or as soon as it can be definitely known that spring wheat is practically out of danger. It will be recalled that about this time last year black rust appeared in the Northwest and this was largely responsible for the decline in the yield of spring wheat. Reports from the Northwest say that some fields are slightly spotted now, but it is not thought that the blight will become serious enough to cut the crop down to last year's figures. There would have been a loss of more than 70,000,000 bushels before those figures could be reached. Winter wheat is virtually out of danger, so if the weather is favorable in the next two weeks, we will have a total wheat crop of about 705,000,000 bushels.

In this connection it is important to note that recent despatches showed that the Russian Government estimates a fair yield of wheat in some sections of the empire, and a very large yield in others. Russia is one of the great exporters of grain. In the last fiscal year it ran far ahead of the United States in spite of the war. We exported only 4,291,061 bushels of wheat, as compared with eleven times that much in the preceding year, and 28 times as much in 1903. One must go back to 1866 to find figures nearly so low as last year, and then the exports were 5,579,103 bushels. When flour is included the exhibit is somewhat better. Our exports of wheat last year, with that allowance, amounted to 43,797,178 bushels, as compared with 120,241,719 in 1904, and 200,946,962 in 1903. Not since 1872, have the exports of wheat and flour combined fallen below those of the year just ended. In 1872 the total was 37,738,487. With a crop of more than 700,000,000 bushels, we will have about 150,000,000 bushels for export, and in addition some 60,000,000 bushels which are now in store or moving towards the market, and which have come over from the last crop. Attention is also called to the fact that our corn exports in the year just ended amounted to 88,505,867 bushels, as compared with 55,606,354 in the preceding year. This gain of more than 30,000,000 bushels probably was largely due to the shortage in the wheat crop. This year a much larger corn harvest than that of last year is indicated. It will be interesting to observe what effect on prices this abundance of grain will have, particularly if Russian crops turn out as predicted.

NEEDED REFORM.

One of the weak points in connection with the imperial parliamentary system is brought into prominence by the present situation. In pursuance of his threat, John Redmond, the Irish Nationalist leader, aided and abetted by the Liberals, is obstructing business. One of the results of this is said to be that a number of important bills in the interest of municipalities must go over until next session, causing vexatious delays in the prosecution of public works that have been planned. These are measures that would be better in the care of a legislative body other than the House of Commons, suggests the Hamilton Herald. It should not be required of the men who are elected to manage the affairs of the empire that they devote so much of their time to "parish politics." The reform that seems to be needed is the creation of bodies similar to the Provincial Legislatures in the Dominion, and the transfer to them of supervision over matters of a purely local character in which no imperial interests are involved. There are obstacles to this change, it is true, not the least of which is the conservatism that is so dominant a characteristic of the British nation, but the demand for it is likely to grow more insistent as the manifest defects of the existing system are disclosed more clearly.

DEVONSHIRE'S MOTION

Lord Minto Declares It to Be Cold Rebuff to Colonies.

Former Governor General of Canada Takes Up Cudgels in the House of Lords—Motion Disapproving Chamberlain's Proposal Finally Lost by 121 to 57—Fierce Attacks Made Up on Chamberlain and Balfour.

London, July 28.—The dullness of the House of Lords was somewhat relieved when the Duke of Devonshire spoke to his motion calling attention to Mr. Chamberlain's recent utterances and expressing disapproval of any proposal to establish a general penal tariff or to give any colony a preferential tariff based on taxation of food. He asked the Ministers whether they intended to put any proposals before the Colonial conference if it met.

Before the present Government went out of office he was anxious to know whether Mr. Balfour's and Mr. Chamberlain's policies were now merged into one. If so, was it by Mr. Chamberlain's policy or Mr. Balfour's advancing. He thought there was a good deal of evidence to show that Mr. Chamberlain had captured Mr. Balfour.

Mr. Chamberlain cared nothing for retaliation. His policy was one of encouragement by his silence. He was not surprised at Mr. Chamberlain's audacious claim that the Prime Minister's policy was practically the same as his own.

Lord Minto, in moving the amendment, said the Duke of Devonshire's resolution could only be taken as a cold rebuff by our kinsmen beyond the seas. The idea of preferential trade with the mother country was one which had most fascinated the politicians of Canada. It represented to them their opinion on the solution of the difficulty. Before he left the Dominion, Chambers of Commerce and other manufacturing bodies were unanimously in favor of it. They could not afford to treat this Imperial question without full acquaintance with the sentiment of the Colonies.

Lord Robertson fiercely attacked both Mr. Chamberlain and Mr. Balfour. He urged the Conservative party to make it clear it was not a tool of Mr. Chamberlain, and to put an end to the reign of quackery.

Lord Goschen's View.
Lord Goschen found fault with Mr. Balfour's reticence and obscurity. He asked for a frank and unreserved declaration of the views of the Government. He believed the Colonies, before sending representatives, would prefer to know the exact policy advocated by the home Government.

Lord Lansdowne scouted the idea that the Government should pass a sentence of political outlawry on Mr. Chamberlain. They would stand by their supporters as long as their supporters stood loyally by them, even though some might go a little further than the Government did. The Government thought it would not be politic to intimate in advance that it was intended to rule out certain questions as being of a kind the conference should not be allowed to discuss.

The motion was met by moving the previous question and was lost by 121 to 57.

or the necessity of it—invades the brain."

"To come back from the East and those appalling battlefields to this gray London must be a confusing change for you?" I suggested.

"It is curious you should say that," he said: "for I have felt this time in coming back to London that it is like coming back to a people whose life is played out, whose day is only illusion. But the East seems to me to be palpitating with life, filled with vitality, and awaking as it were, to great destiny. Here—it may be merely force of contrast—the people seem to be relapsing into a drugged sleep, sick of all the clamor and action of life. The streets of London, after the color of the East are grimly depressing."

Mr. Maxwell does not regard war with the horror and detestation of Mr. Sted. He admits that fighting is a clumsy way of settling a dispute, but he holds convincingly that only by war is a nation roused out of perfunctory lethargy. He does not take a pessimistic view of England, but he is sure that London thinks far too much of its pleasures and its comforts, and far too little of its duties and its responsibilities. Outside London is the real England, the real physical and warrior England, but it is in the Colonies, more than in the shires of England, that he sees the strong assurance of an Imperial destiny.

and Mr. Merrill, neither of which birds, however, were pure blooded. They fought "gamy" and we are told that John Smith, Mayor of Chatham, backed Mr. Merrill's bird, while Mr. Mason backed his own. The result of this battle was that the Merrill cock came off victorious. Mr. James Higgins, councillor for Chrysler Ward, now brought forth a game bird which was pitted against the winner. Merrill's bird evidently did not relish this move and finally turned tail to the thoroughbred and dropped its pinfeathers. So our informant says the two cockfights—the first mains we believe that ever came off in this vicinity—terminated.

WAITING FOR THE MESSAGE

A school teacher was instructing a class in the elements of physiology, and told the lads that whenever they moved an arm, finger or leg it was in response to a message from the brain.

Later in the day one of the youngsters violated the rectorum of the school by propelling a soaked sponge into the hair of another lad, and was called to the front.

"Hold out your hand," said the teacher, as she picked up a ruler and prepared to do sundry damage. The boy glanced at the floor, but did not extend his hand.

"Do you hear me, Willie?" cried the teacher, impatiently, "why don't you hold out your hand?"

"I am waiting for the message from the brain," was the serious reply of little Willie. — Philadelphia Telegraph.

THE FITTEST SURVIVE

RULE OF NATURAL LAW IN SPIRITUAL WORLD PREVAILS.

MANHOOD AND WOMANHOOD

Best Types Produced If Physical, Mental, Moral and Spiritual Development Proceeds Harmoniously Together—Fine Animals Who Were Great Men in the Other Direction—First Requisite to Good Life.

Entered according to Act of Parliament of Canada, in the year 1905, by Frederick Dyer, of Toronto, at the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 23.—In this sermon the preacher demonstrates the rule of natural law in the spiritual world, and shows that physical, mental, moral and spiritual development ought to proceed harmoniously together to produce the best type of manhood and womanhood. The text is Psalms 1, 6, "The way of the ungodly shall perish."

Great was the scientific galaxy of the Victorian era. Herbert Spencer and John Tyndall and Thomas Henry Huxley and Michael Faraday and Sir Humphrey Davy and Sir Charles Lyell and Sir William Hooker and John Stevens Henslow and scores of other botanists and physicists and chemists and geologists will make the rign of Victoria famous during the coming centuries, as the contemporary poets of Shakespeare immortalized the Elizabethan reign. Yet among all the naturalists who lived in England during the nineteenth century not one will be more quoted by future generations than Charles Darwin.

The son and grandson of two great ancestors he was the overhanging dome of that great forehead there looked forth penetrating eyes which read the prehistoric genealogies of animals and vegetables. As a geologist he read the open leaves of rocks. The past ages were to him as seconds of time. He lived not in generations or in centuries, but in ages and in millenniums. Though, like Galilei, he was excommunicated by the church and looked upon as an enemy of the Cross his researches will yet be used, and are even now being used, to prove that true science and divine revelation are one.

Of all the books which Charles Darwin wrote not one has had greater influence upon the scientific world than his "Origin of Species by Means of Natural Selection." We do not accept that book in any of its religious teaching, but in that book is one sentence which in a narrow sense we do accept. "The survival of the fittest" is a sentence which will ring down the corridors of time. We find the survival of the fittest everywhere. We find the stronger plants crowding out the weaker. We find the stronger creatures of the various species trampling upon and destroying the animals and plants of their own kind.

The other day I was sitting on a porch overlooking a beautiful yard filled with roses. Suddenly I heard a great commotion in the hencoop. With that I saw a big cat gracefully leap over the fence with a little chick on her mouth. Then, off in the distance, I saw that cat run away in terror from a pursuing dog. Then, in imagination, I saw that little dog being seized by a hungry wolf. Then I saw the wolf being killed by a mountain lion. Next I saw the lion being slain by the bullet of a man. In imagination, everywhere I saw the stronger preying upon the weaker. As I sat on that porch I said to myself, "Is not Charles Darwin's sentence, 'the survival of the fittest,' not only the law of nature, but also the law of God? Yes, I said, it is true. God deals with the human race just as he deals with the vegetable and animal kingdoms, as well as with the mineral. It is not for us to vindicate that law. Our interest and duty lie in recognizing its existence and adapting ourselves to its operation. The penalty of indolence in this world is subjection and finally extinction.

Strong physically should we be. Why? Because in this rustling, bustling, pushing, jostling and high pressure age it is almost an impossibility for any man to make a success in life unless he is broad of chest, stout of limb and clear of eye. Even under the very brightest of conditions the physical strain is awful. With poor physical equipment a successful life is almost an impossibility.

many a man of clear brain, true heart and noblest aspirations has been trampled underfoot merely because he had not the physical vitality to do the work which he was called upon to do. The physical weakening of the human race is almost in the same position as is a sick cow amid a herd of stampeding buffaloes. She cannot keep up in the mad race for life, she falls. She is crushed under hoof. Her sisters and brothers pass over her prostrate form and quivering flesh. The physical weakening is in the same position as the stunted tree. The stouter tree and the taller reaches up and reaches down. With its broad branches it absorbs all the sunlight overhead and makes the stunted tree live under its shadow. With its deeper and stronger roots the tall tree absorbs most of the nutriment out of the soil. Thus, if a man is not able to stand the physical strain and do as much work as his stouter and broader chested brothers, he falls, another takes his place, and the world marches on. The physical weakening inevitably either tramples underfoot, or another pushes him out of his position in the line of the advancing human army of progress.

If you do not believe in the physical survival of the fittest, sound the chests of some of our successful men. When the great Henry Ward Beecher for the first time entered the office of Dr. Orson Fowler, the phrenologist, he claimed to his partner, "My, what a fine animal!" Mr. Beecher was a fine animal. As you look upon the picture of that magnificent head you are not surprised to hear that young Henry Ward Beecher was the finest football kicker of his class in Amherst College. But as I look upon a long row of pictures of the world's most eminent ministers of the past generation I find that almost without exception they were all good animals. It is almost an impossibility for any man to stand in the front rank of the ministry to-day without being a physical athlete. Rev. Robert Collyer, the poetic preacher of New York, graduated from the blacksmith's forge, but many ministers who are preaching in our large cities to-day could easily step from the pulpit to the blacksmith forge and strike a herculean blow, so great is their physical as well as mental stamina.

I enter the law offices of the late Senator William M. Everts. "Mr. Choate," I say, "why did your partner make the wonderful success he did?" For years he stood at the head of the New York bar. Our late Ambassador to England answers: "Because Mr. Everts was a good animal. He could sit down at his desk and work on a case day in and day out for eighteen hours out of every twenty-four. He had mental equipment, and he had also unlimited physical resources." William M. Everts was able to succeed where others failed because his backbone was as strong as if made of steel. What is true of the lawyer and minister is also true of the physician, the inventor and the merchant. The reason one class of men fails and the other succeeds is often due not more to great mental strength than to physical stamina.

"The survival of the fittest." Oh, yes, we find it in the law of physical equipment. Young men, young women, in this struggle of life are you going to allow yourselves to be trampled underfoot merely because you do not look after your physical health? Are you going to let the great opportunities of life slip from your grasp merely because you have not taken the proper physical exercise and food and sleep for your lungs and heart and stomach? Young people, by the law of the survival of the fittest God bids you take care of yourselves physically. This is a truism, but it is a truism the Darwinian teachings, as well as the divine commandments, never tire of pressing home to human hearts. I see the broad, chested farmer's boy coming to the town and pushing the pale-faced physical weaklings to right and left.

I would also tell you that there is an inexorable law of the survival of the fittest in the mental world. The man who can think the quickest, the man who can supply some long felt want in the community, is the man who is going to crowd his competitors to the wall, and there is no help for it. The same law which makes it possible for a cat to pounce upon a little chicken or a leopard to leap upon the back of which makes it possible for the million of brains to climb to his throne over the backs of men who have no brains. Communism says: "That is not right. No one man should have more than his fellows." But communism may talk from now until doomsday. Talk all you like. There is no universal law of the survival of the fittest in a mental way, and no communism except the communism of Christian love can change it.

How is this law working out—that brains which think trample over brains which do not think? Why, you can see its results on every hand. Thirty or forty years ago every little town had its cobbler. This cobbler not only repaired the shoes and boots, but also made the shoes and boots, but one day there came along a man with brains. He said to himself, "What is the use of all these cobblers making their boots by hand? I will make machinery do the work of flesh and blood." This man of brains went to work. He built a large factory. He employed 300 hands. He made these 300 hands, with the use of machinery, do five times the work which the same number of hands used to do. He also lowered the selling prices. The shoes and boots were sold one-third cheaper than they used to be. The man of brains who drove out the village cobbler was the same kind of man that drove out the village wheelwright.

The fittest survive in the mental realm. There is no doubt about it. Now, my friends, and especially my young friends, what are you going to do about this fact? Are you going to let your brains lie dormant? Because some have been cobblers for twenty years, are you still to be a cobbler now? Are you mentally going to try to do the work of the present century and not by the present up to date methods? Are you going to resist the advancements of the times in the way some nearsighted Pennsylvania farmers did many years ago? I may not be giving these facts exactly right, but the story I am telling is substantially true. One of the prominent railroads of the east was extending its lines toward Pittsburgh. The railroad officials wanted to run their iron rails through a certain township. The farmers rose up in protest. They said, "If we allow this railroad to be built it will do all the hauling. Our farms will be broken up, and our horses will be useless, because then there will be nothing left for them to carry to market." These farmers not only protested, but in the State Legislature they defeated that railroad. The railroad officials wanted to run their iron rails through a certain township. The farmers rose up in protest. They said, "If we allow this railroad to be built it will do all the hauling. Our farms will be broken up, and our horses will be useless, because then there will be nothing left for them to carry to market." These farmers not only protested, but in the State Legislature they defeated that railroad. The railroad officials wanted to run their iron rails through a certain township. Our farms will be broken up, and our horses will be useless, because then there will be nothing left for them to carry to market." These farmers not only protested, but in the State Legislature they defeated that railroad.

But the fittest survive in the moral world as well as in the physical and the mental. The man who is honest and true and noble will always, in the long run, win over the man who is deceitful and dishonest. There is absolutely no doubt about it. All other things being equal, the survival of the fittest in the moral realm is the man who is honest and true. Suppose that it never pays to be honest or truthful in business life. The merchant who is successful in the true sense of the word is not the man who cheats his customers, but the man who will give his customers more for their money than any one else can give. A great merchant builds up his business by winning the confidence and the respect of a community, not by selling them shoddy goods. The story trader went out to years ago a new trader came to the town and pushed the pale-faced physical weaklings to right and left. The next day the Indian chief returned to the town and pushed the pale-faced physical weaklings to right and left. He commenced to trade with the Indians. He gave him one other skin, then another skin, then another skin, then another skin until he had given to him four skins. The next day the Indian chief returned to the town and pushed the pale-faced physical weaklings to right and left. He commenced to trade with the Indians. He gave him one other skin, then another skin, then another skin, then another skin until he had given to him four skins. The next day the Indian chief returned to the town and pushed the pale-faced physical weaklings to right and left. He commenced to trade with the Indians. He gave him one other skin, then another skin, then another skin, then another skin until he had given to him four skins.

As there is a survival of the fittest in the physical and mental and moral realms, so there is also a survival of the spiritual realm. Charles Darwin never meant to apply this sentence to the spiritual world, but God does. God emphatically does this in the words of my text. "The way of the ungodly shall perish." The godly shall be like a tree planted by the rivers of water, that bringeth forth its fruit in its season. His leaf shall not wither, and whatsoever he doeth shall prosper. But the way of the ungodly shall perish. It is the law of the survival of the fittest in the spiritual world. If we are one with Christ, we shall grow and keep on growing all through the eternities. We shall bear fruit millennium after millennium. If we are not one with Christ, we shall become "like the chaff which the wind driveth away." The whirlwinds of the judgment day shall sweep us away to our eternal doom.

"But," says one, "how could a man like Charles Darwin grasp a great truth like this of the natural world, and yet not grasp it in the spiritual? How could he find God's footprints in nature and yet not find God's footprints in Calvary's rocks?" Ah, my friends,

"CATALADA"

Ceylon Tea, but none of them give the same satisfaction as "Salada. Black, Mixed or Green.

Sold only in lead packets, 25c, 30c, 40c, 50c, 60c per lb. By all Grocers.

I cannot account for that. I cannot and do not pass judgment on Charles Darwin's life. I cannot understand how this great student of nature could turn his back upon God any more than I can understand how he who was once such a lover of the beautiful could warp his mind that the poets like Shakespeare and the musicians like Handel and Beethoven and Wagner could not touch his heart.

In his own words I read the following: "I have said that in one respect my mind has changed during the last twenty years. Up to the age of thirty or beyond that age, my mind was such as the works of Milton, Gray, Byron, Wordsworth, Coleridge and Shelley, gave me great pleasure, and even as a schoolboy I took intense delight in Shakespeare, especially in the historical plays. I have also said that formerly pictures gave me considerable pleasure and music very great delight. But now, for many years, I have tried lately to read Shakespeare and found it so intolerably dull that it nauseated me. I have also lost my taste for music and pictures. I retain some taste for fine scenery, but it does not cause me the exquisite delight which it formerly did." In other words, Charles Darwin became such a close student in one line of study that he allowed his love for the beautiful in art and nature and his love for God to become atrophied. Parts of his brain were mightily alive. Some parts were completely dead.

Let me read on a little further: "My mind seems to have become a kind of grinding general laws out of large collections of facts, but why this should have caused the atrophy of that part of the brain alone on which the higher tastes depend I cannot conceive. A man with a mind more highly organized or better constituted than mind would not, I suppose, have thus suffered, and if I had to live my life again I would have made a rule to read some poetry and listen to some music at least once a week, for perhaps the parts of my brain now atrophied would thus have been kept active through use. The loss of these tastes is a loss of happiness and may possibly be injurious to the intellect and more probably to the moral character by enfeebling the emotional part of our nature." Do you wonder that Darwin, who wrote such sentences as these, could let the spiritual part of his life become atrophied as well as the aesthetic and the love for the beautiful? And so, young people as well as older people, as you develop along physical and mental lines I want you to develop along the line of the spiritual. I want you to develop in Christ and through Christ, who is the highest model for all spiritual development.

"But," says some one, "I have never tried to develop myself in and through Christ." Then, my brother, is that any reason why you should not make a reason why you should not make a great preacher Esprit Fleicher because of his humble birth and because he had begun life as a tallow chandler. Dr. Fleicher replied, "Yes, my sphere in life used to be very humble, but in all probability had you begun life as I began it you would have been a candle maker all your life." Because some of us are warped spiritually is no reason why, in Christ, we cannot become "like a tree planted by the rivers of water, that bringeth forth its fruit in its season." Oh, my friends, in Christ and through Christ, will you not spiritually start anew? Then, by law of the survival of the fittest with God, you shall prosper and live forever and ever. Will you not, here and now, become one with Christ for the highest of all development?

CARRIES TROUBLE RIGHT WITH HIM

Fate of the Dyspeptic Who Has Not Learned the Relief that is Found in Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

The Dyspeptic is the man who carries the troubles of the world on his shoulders. He is racked with pain and filled with despondency. Life's not worth living to him. It's his own fault. Relief complete and permanent is within the reach of all. It is contained in Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. They digest the food themselves so there can be no indigestion where they are used. Listen to what Mr. R. A. Barton, 23 Tyndall avenue, Toronto, says: "I had indigestion in its worst form. The doctors could not do me any good and I began to think my case was hopeless. As a last resort I tried Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. I am thankful to say they had the desired effect."

"I was afraid to eat many things that would have suited my taste. Now I can eat anything that is set before me, asking no questions."

There is no such thing as preparation for the event.

The hot summer weather is now here and most people are thinking of a trip to some cool summer resort. We would advise you to call on W. E. Rispin, city passenger and ticket agent, 115 King street, who can issue tourist tickets for all summer resorts, including Muskoka, Georgian Bay, River St. Lawrence, Great Lakes and Atlantic Sea Coast points at particular low rates, and will supply all information and pamphlets.
