Lessen Your Living Expenses!

"Be economical," is the cry in England, and this slogan has the same significance in Canada. We all must economize. There is more actual waste in our dress expenses than any other item. When a garment becomes soiled we throw it aside, when for a few cents it could be restored to original freshness and beauty by Dry Cleaning. A saving of at least 35 per cent. in the expense of dressing is possible by using the processes of Dry Cleaning and Dyeing.

Our agents will gladly give you full particulars.

The Congestion From a Bad Cold Loosened Up in One Hour.

If Rubbed on at Night You're Well Next Morning.

NERVILLE NEVER FAILS.

When that cold comes, how is it to be cured? This method is simplicity itself. Rub the chest and throat vigorously with "Nerville." Rub it in good and deep. Lots of rubbing can't do any harm. Then put some Nerville in the water and use it as a gargle; this will ease the cough, cut out the phlegm, assist in breaking up the cold quickly.

There is no telling how quickly Nerville breaks up a hard racking cough, eases a tight chest, relieves a pleuritic pain. Why, there isn't another liniment with half the power, the penetrative qualities, the honest merit that has made Nerville the most popular American household liniment.

A large 50c. bottle of Nerville cures ills of the whole family, and makes doctor's bill small. Get it today. The large size is more economical than the 25c. trial size. Sold by dealers everywhere.

THE HEIR OF Lancewood

CHAPTER XXX.

"I do love you," she replied. "I did not understand at first. I could not tell that strange change had come over my life. I thought it was due to my removal from scenes of strife and dissipation to a home of peace. Now I know that it is because I love you."

The light from the western sky illuminated the pale noble face. Adrian St. Just looked at it in wonder; it was like the pictured face of a saint, but there was in it none of the radiance or brightness of happy love.

"I shall always cherish your love," she said gently; "it will live in my heart forever—it will never die."

"My darling," he returned, "you make me so happy!"

She held up her hand.

"Nay, listen. I love you," she said softly—"I love you with all my heart, but I can never marry you."

He looked up in utter wonder. "Why not?" he asked.

"Because I cannot leave Lancewood. Nay, do not try to persuade me. I know all that you would say, all that you would advise. I know that most girls would seek refuge from such a home as mine in marriage, setting aside love. I cannot marry, because my father left the honor of his house in my hands, and if I leave Lancewood I fear all honor will leave it too."

"But you can do so little, my darling—and you suffer so much. If you could do anything, I would not seek to prevent it; but you are quite helpless."

"I know it all," she sighed. "It is as you say a hopeless struggle with evil. Still I must endure it. Do you think, Lord St. Just?"

He interrupted her.

"You have said that you love me, my darling; do not call me 'Lord St. Just' again. Call me 'Adrian.'"

She was too earnest, too dignified, for the petty affectation of coyness with which some girls would have received these words. She listened to them in all simplicity.

"Do you think, Adrian," she said, wistfully, "that if I yielded to my love and to you, that if I married and left the scene of so much unhappiness, do you think that I should ever be happy?"

"I hope, I believe so," he replied.

"No, never. I am not happy now, but I have the consciousness that I am doing my duty. If I went away from Lancewood, I should feel that my duty was neglected and my father's command disobeyed. He left his honor in my charge. I must guard it."

Lord St. Just began to find that she was most terribly in earnest. He despaired at the thought.

"Vivien, you cannot mean that you intend to sacrifice your whole life to the chimera of duty—this morbid feeling that you are needful for the honor of your house? You cannot intend to sacrifice yourself and me—your sweet bright life, your love, your happiness—to this notion?"

"I must do it," she replied.

"But you have said you love me, Vivien."

"So I do. You are my only love. My first and last love; I shall know no other. But I cannot marry you—do not ask me."

"Then, my darling, what do you mean to do? You cannot be so cruel as to send me quite away from you."

"I do not wish to be cruel," she said, slowly.

"You will not engage yourself to me by any promise of marriage?" he asked.

"No," she replied; "the sorrows of my life have made me something of a fatalist. Love brings its own fate. If we are to be married, dear, in the years to come, something will happen that will remove my difficulties; if not, I shall go on loving you until I die."

"And I," he said, "would rather love you even without that faint hope of marriage, than be the husband of any other woman living."

There was a few minutes' silence. The golden light died in the west, the wind ceased to stir the crimson leaves, the song of the birds was almost hushed.

"These are hard terms, Vivien," said Lord St. Just. "You will not allow any promise of marriage between us, you will not give me any hope of calling you wife, although you love me!"

"I cannot," she replied. "It is the same to me as though I stood by the grave of my love. I must not desert my post, let me be unhappy as I may—I must remain at Lancewood."

"And what of my unhappiness, Vivien? My life will be a blank without you."

She looked at him with tenderness that he never forgot.

"I am more sorry for you than for myself," she said gently; "but you will not urge me to do what is not right."

"May I come to Lancewood to see you?" he asked.

"No, I should not like to see you there."

"At least you will write to me—you will allow me to write to you, Vivien? Oh, my darling, how hard it seems."

"I shall be pleased," she replied. "Your letters will be the only gleam of sunlight that will come to me."

"Vivien," cried Lord St. Just, "can you not reconsider your decision? It is so cruel to me, dear."

"I cannot," she replied; and he saw her lips grow white with pain.

"I must bear it like a man," he said, "although it almost unmans me. I thought, when I had prevailed upon you to say that you loved me, all difficulty was ended. That is the first step I find. Let me do one thing, my darling—let me avow myself your lover—let me tell all the world how sweet and how great a pleasure I have won."

"Not yet," she replied. "I think the wish nearest to Lady Neslie's heart is that I should marry and leave Lancewood entirely in her hands. I would rather that she knew nothing at present—it would but increase my difficulties."

He kissed the soft hands that lay in his.

"Your wish shall be my law. I have won from you the admission that you love me; I should be wanting in grace and courtesy if I complained after that. Vivien, you will remember one thing—it is by your own wish and desire that our love remains for the present a secret; but you will not forget now that you have one who is all the world to you. I stand in the place of father, brother, friend. My darling, you will tell your trials and difficulties to me now; and, believe me, they will seem all the easier to bear because you have some one to share them. Should a time come when you need a friend, one word will bring me to your side and I will defend you against the whole world."

They sat for some time longer, while the last rays of golden light died away and the stars began to appear; still he found so much to say, and she was so pleased to listen. Then they re-entered the house. Vivien retired at once to her own room; she wanted to be alone with her happiness. Lady Smeaton went to Lord St. Just.

"I hope you have good news for me," she said.

"Dear Lady Smeaton," he replied touched by her kindness, "I have not gained all I wanted; but I have made some little progress. I do not despair."

On the following day Vivien returned to Lancewood. It was keen sorrow parting with her friends—above all, with her lover; but, as she drove through the pleasant smiling country, her heart grew warm with in her, thinking of her love. She thanked Heaven for it—this love which had changed her whole life—this sweet happy love which had dawned upon her like the smile of an angel. Oh, if it would but please Heaven to take pity on her, to help her to save Lancewood, and to give her her love!

The drive from Smeaton Park to Lancewood was a long one. As the carriage approached the Abbey it seemed to Vivien that there was an unusual commotion in the park. She heard the sound of music; she saw flags flying; she saw tents erected and a crowd of people moving amongst the trees.

Presently the carriage drew up at the front entrance. There was no one to receive her. The servants seemed to be all out of the way. Repeated summonses brought a bewildered-looking footman on the scene.

"What is the matter?" asked Miss Neslie. "What is going on here?"

"A fancy fair, miss," replied the man.

The house seemed to be deserted. She walked through the grand entrance-hall, through the long suites of rooms, and saw no one.

"Where is Mr. Dorman?" she inquired of the footman, who followed her.

"In his room, miss, was the answer.

"Ask him to come here to me in the library," she said. "Say that I have returned, and wish to see him."

A few minutes afterward Gerald Dorman stood before the woman whom he loved so well. Looking into the beautiful face, he saw a subtle change there. The haggard, worn expression had disappeared, the exquisite coloring had all returned; the dark eyes were splendid in their depth and fire. Vivien held out her hand in kindly greeting to him, but Gerald could not speak. He could only look into the face that was all the world to him.

"You seem surprised," she said, with a lovely, laughing smile. "I am pleased to see you, Mr. Dorman—why do you look so astonished at me?"

"You are changed," answered Gerald. "Something—I cannot tell what—has disappeared from your face; and something—I cannot tell what—has taken its place."

She blushed crimson. Was it so plain then, this love of hers—so plain tent that people could read it in her face?

"I have been very happy," she said. "It was so grateful to be at peace and to be free from discomfort. I met such pleasant people and such kind friends. But, Mr. Dorman, what is going on here?"

"A fancy fair," he replied—"her ladyship's last whim. I am almost sorry that you came home before it was over. I should not imagine that there has ever been such a motley crowd at Lancewood before."

"A fancy fair! But why has Lady Neslie introduced that?"

"I cannot tell you, Miss Neslie. The whole neighborhood has talked about it. You must indeed have been happily and busily engaged not to have heard of it."

Again her face flushed at the remembrance of how she had been engaged.

"Lady Smeaton never spoke of 'Lancewood,'" she said, "knowing that it was not a pleasant subject to me. Even if they knew of it, no one would tell me."

"Every one in the country knows of it," declared Mr. Dorman. "There could not be greater preparations for the coming of age of a prince. Gunter's men have been down for the last two days from London; we have Wall and Tinford's bands. The picturesque part of the affair baffles all my powers of description. There are tents with gypsies who tell fortunes, Tyrolean peasants, Swiss peasants, Italian 'casants. There is dancing, shooting, very kind of amusement."

"And who are the guests?" asked Miss Neslie.

"I have seen few familiar faces amongst them," he replied. "Her ladyship has been seeking popularity lately amongst the very mixed society of Hydewell, as the county families positively decline her invitations. The visitors, many of whom are staying there only on the pretext of watching the waters, as well as others who are not recognized by the county people, have accepted, and they, with their wives and families, form a greater part of the guests."

The Neptune Off.

WAS HELD UP BY CREW.

After a delay of several hours waiting for some members of her crew to turn up, the S. S. Neptune got away last evening at 5 o'clock for North Sydney to load coal. She will then proceed to the Baker Isle Straits and, after discharging her coal cargo, will load codfish in that region for foreign market. The Neptune is expected to be absent from here eight or ten weeks.

All that was mortal of the late Mrs. Edward Simons was laid to rest yesterday afternoon at Belvidere Cemetery. Amongst the mourners was a large concourse of citizens. Rev. Fr. Nangle recited the prayers at the Cathedral.

The funeral of the late Mogue Power also took place yesterday afternoon and was very largely attended, including representatives in regalia from the Holy Name and Mechanics' Societies. At the Cathedral Rev. Fr. Nangle officiated. Interment was at St. Michael's Cemetery, Torbay.

Marine Notes.

The three masted Danish schooner Aroki berthed at Bowring's north side premises yesterday afternoon and began loading fish for the Brazilian market. The Aroki is an unusually large sailing vessel and will take a big cargo of cod. The work of loading affording employment to many laborers.

The S. S. Storeland which is at Rocky Bay, loading pit props from Cape Barré, will finish tomorrow, when she will sail for England.

The S. S. industry is now at Campbellton loading pit props for England from the Horwood Lumber Co., which we understand is shipping five such cargoes this year.

"VIC" Prohibition Meeting.

The meeting held at the Total Abstinence Hall last night to initiate the coming Prohibition campaign, was attended by a fairly large and representative gathering, despite the disturbed condition of the atmosphere. On motion Hon. J. A. Robinson was moved to the chair and briefly referred to the object of the meeting. Hon. John Harvey, in response to a request from the gathering consented to act as temporary Secretary. Rev. Dr. Curtis in a brief address emphasized the necessity for immediate and thorough organization. Rev. Dr. Jones followed and spoke of the good that must ensue if the prohibition measure is carried. On motion, a committee of five was appointed to nominate the various committees to take charge of the campaign for organization, literature, platform and finance. The following were elected: Mr. R. B. MacDonald, Convenor; Messrs. W. J. Ellis, A. Soper, H. E. Cowan and A. Templeton. In a response to a request from the gathering, Hon. John Harvey briefly discussed the subject, and expressed his intention of giving his support to the Prohibition policy, not because he regarded the principle of restriction of personal liberty as desirable but because he was personally convinced through personal knowledge and observation that St. John's would be greatly benefited by the saloons closing. Mr. H. E. Cowan also spoke in an earnest and eloquent manner, urging that the campaign be conducted with all fairness, reminding his hearers that not always are temperance advocates temperate in their language. Mr. F. J. Woods followed and expressed the opinion that those who are prepared to assist in the campaign should come out openly and do their utmost for the cause. It was after the passing of a resolution for all present to actively support the movement the meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

FAMOUS BATTLE SPEECHES.

Much might be written of historic battle speeches of commanders. Nelson's utterances must, of course, take the first place, not only because of their undoubted authenticity, but because each of his great victories was preceded by his own particular motto. "Victory or Wellington's Abbey" were his words before the opening of the Battle of the Nile. "I have only one eye, and have a right to be blind sometimes," he said at Copenhagen as he placed his telescope to his blind eye when the signal for recall was hoisted on the admiral's flagship. "I really do not see the signal," he added, and sailed on to victory. The immortal "England expects every man to do his duty" flew at Trafalgar, where the hero of the original sentence being "England confides," but the latter word being found in the signal code, it was changed to "expects," to avoid spelling out the word. Waterloo (the site of which has again been a battle ground), was productive of several famous phrases. Wellington's "Up Guards, and at them" is endeared to the hearts of every true Briton, though, unfortunately, the Iron Duke denied having used the particular words. In all probability he said something like "Stand up, Guards!"

Prohibition Meeting.

The meeting held at the Total Abstinence Hall last night to initiate the coming Prohibition campaign, was attended by a fairly large and representative gathering, despite the disturbed condition of the atmosphere. On motion Hon. J. A. Robinson was moved to the chair and briefly referred to the object of the meeting. Hon. John Harvey, in response to a request from the gathering consented to act as temporary Secretary. Rev. Dr. Curtis in a brief address emphasized the necessity for immediate and thorough organization. Rev. Dr. Jones followed and spoke of the food that must ensue if the prohibition measure is carried. Japan Stripped Forts to Give Russia Guns.

Thousands of Small Factories and Households Busy on Cloth and Leather for the Armies—Millions Also Being Made—Turn for Better Expected When Russia Gets Supplies.

Tokio, July 20. (Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—Now that the danger of war with China is over, all Japan and Korea are engaged in making supplies for Russia and her Allies.

The war brought big financial loss to Japan, but the gaps are being filled in part by the furnishing of guns, ammunition, and general necessities to the armies at the front—particularly the armies of Russia.

Officially, Japan has given increased practical expression to her friendship toward Russia by going to the limit of dismantling some of her fortifications on the northeastern coast of the Empire. Big coast guns stripped from these fortifications have been shipped to Vladivostok and then forwarded to Galicia to strengthen the big-gun artillery of the armies of the Czar.

Americans who visit Japan are especially astonished at the almost limitless number of tiny shops in the big cities of this nation—miles upon miles of streets filled with them—all occupied in making something when they are not selling something. These shops are really the factories of the Empire. It is here that cloth goods and innumerable articles needed to keep huge armies in supplies are turned out, handed over to commission merchants, assembled in great quantities, and distributed to Russia, France, and even England. The correspondent of the Associated Press is informed by a reliable authority that practically every household in Korea is hard at work making cloth for Russia. It is sent to Moscow and other points and manufactured into uniforms, blankets, coverings, and wrappings.

Korea also is making big quantities of boots and ammunition cases. Major Papowski and other Russian officers have just arrived at Seoul to take over the fourth consignment of orders manufactured by a tanning company near Seoul and consisting of 50,000 pairs of boots and 30,000 ammunition cases.

The Japan Celluloid Company at Asoh, near Kobe, has abandoned temporarily the celluloid business for a more profitable business of making explosives. This company recently received an order from the Russian Government for 440 tons of gun-cotton to be delivered before the end of the year. A test of the explosive having proved satisfactory, the first instalment, consisting of fifteen tons, was dispatched to Petrograd. The factory is said to be turning out two to three tons of explosives daily.

Leather materials, belts, pouches and sacks are manufactured at Tokio. A series of temporary sheds have been erected on vacant land near the houses of the Diet and are busy night and day.

The production of rifles in Japan is limited in capacity compared to other countries, and Japan is anxious to fill out her own reserve stock. The available number of rifles for the reserve strength of the Japanese armies is estimated at 500,000 and it is understood that the general staff of the army is desirous of increasing the number to 1,000,000. It has learned a lesson from the unpreparedness of the Allies with respect to guns and ammunition and from the vast expenditure of munitions demonstrated to be necessary to the successful conduct of modern wars. Japan, therefore, means to ready herself along the lines revealed by the international war.

This has naturally reduced the quantity of manufactured material available for Russia, still Japan is doing a good deal, especially in the making of powder and small ammunition. The powder is sent over to Russia and there used for the manufacture of shrapnel and explosive shells.

"The private output of guns and ammunition is, generally speaking, controlled by the Mitsui and Okura companies who attend to the distribution of the orders. Guns are being manufactured at Tokio and Osaka, and at the steel works in Hokkaido which is partly controlled by English capital. It is understood also that the Mitsubishi company at Nagasaki and the Kawasaki company at Kobe are sharing in the manufacture of guns.

A good part of this output was held up by the recent congestion at the port of Vladivostok. When Japan's contribution to the munitions of Russia actually reach their destination it is expected here that there will be a noticeable change for the better in Russia's power of offense and defense.

6,000 Enemy Aliens Free Case Without a Precedent

In Law Settled by the Travellers' Insurance Company of Hartford.

London, Ont. July 28.—A case entirely with out precedent in American, Canadian or English law was settled to-day when the Travellers' Insurance Company of Hartford, Connecticut, agreed to pay the relatives of William York, of Brantford, Ont., five thousand dollars. York was lost on the Lusitania, and just before leaving Brantford bought a $2,500 accident policy in the railway station for two dollars. George S. Gibbons, of this city, acting for his family claimed purely and simply that his client was murdered by a German submarine crew. The company has a clause in its policy regarding death by war, but decided rather than fight it out in the courts to admit its double liability, and a cheque for five thousand dollars is being sent the dead man's wife, now in London, England.

London, August 2.—J. L. Garvin, writing in The Observer, reviews the first year of the war and with regard to the future says:

"Until the German man power is still further reduced, upon the principle which Germany was among the first to recognize and by methods which the Allies can devise in common, there can be no escape in the West from the conditions of siege and counter-siege, or from the logic of a war of attrition. But this leaves far more scope for a movement of surprise than might appear at first sight.

"There is only one thing that can be trusted with certainty to turn the balance in favor of the Allies. We shall have to bring into play the biggest fighting factor by far that yet remains unmobilized in Europe. That factor is the yet unemployed military strength of Great Britain. This is a thing which has been hitherto wanting in the war; it is the one thing needful to win the war; without it there can be no victory, and with it success is sure.

"One master function of the organization of Government leadership in this country is to concentrate upon the swift development of a military man-power. Lloyd George is concentrating upon the output of munitions. The Allies have much more than twice the male population of the Central Empires, yet we are still speculating upon when Germany may next strike, instead of imposing our own initiative on the enemy.

"For a full initiative, under modern conditions, there is required a large superiority of numbers, capable of being mobilized in the eastern theatre, of simultaneously threatening, in pursuance of a concerted plan, many points widely removed from each other. The Allies cannot seize the mastery in that sense until Great Britain places in the field more than twice the number of troops that the Germans in the eastern theatre. We are supposed to have 3,000,000 men enrolled, we may assume that so far as two-thirds at least, of those are concerned, their existence has not yet made itself felt in the European theatres, where it is, that she has yet thrown into Europe. "No close student of war at home or abroad can doubt for a moment that what is needed to make assurance doubly sure for the Allies is for Great Britain, after a year of war, to rise to a bigger view of her military requirements and to make bolder use of her military means. The effect of that will be the same as though another great Power could be added to the Great Alliance.

"We can be on the safe side only by running the risk of doing too much; we dare not run the risk of doing too little, and this country will not be equal to its duty to the Allies and to the issues of existence that are at stake for the Empire until we have created a factor that can alone insure the overwhelming of the enemy east and west by adding the military power of 4,000,000 Britons in arms to that silent supremacy at sea which is as complete as Nelson ever won."

DRUNKENNESS TO BE PUNISHED IN CONSTANTINOPELE.

Constantinople, via Berlin, August 11.—A special tirade issued by the Sultan to-day makes public drunkenness a crime punishable by military court martial. The order will be effective for the remainder of the war. Another order prohibits the use by shopkeepers of newspapers and magazines. The order will be printed on the ground that such use is sacrilegious and especially to be condemned when Islam is at war.

6,000 Enemy Aliens Free Case Without a Precedent

PREFERENCE FOR HUNGARIANS.

Asked how many enemy aliens had been interned or repatriated since July 12, Sir John Simon, the Home Secretary, yesterday gave the following figures:

7,325 applications for exemption refused.

6,092 applications granted.

700 still to be dealt with.

Repatriated 5,802.

Number now interned, 9,325.

Uninterned, about 6,000.

As British subjects had been treated better in Austria and Hungary than in Germany Austro-Hungarians had received more consideration than the Germans. The Internment Committee had practically finished its work.—Daily Mail, July 28.

Only Thus Can Enemy be Overwhelmed, Says Garvin—Seems to Hint at Conscription.

London, August 2.—J. L. Garvin, writing in The Observer, reviews the first year of the war and with regard to the future says:

"Until the German man power is still further reduced, upon the principle which Germany was among the first to recognize and by methods which the Allies can devise in common, there can be no escape in the West from the conditions of siege and counter-siege, or from the logic of a war of attrition. But this leaves far more scope for a movement of surprise than might appear at first sight.

A Remedy For All Pain

"The efficiency of any drug" says Dr. C. P. Robinson, "is shown to us by the results we obtain from its use. If we are able to compare a medicine with a placebo, we are able to determine its value. We certainly are warranted in its use. One of the principal symptoms of all diseases is pain, and this is what the patient most often complains of. It is something that relieves his pain. If we can arrest this promptly, the patient is most liable to trust in us for the other remedies which will effect a permanent cure. One remedy which I have used largely in my practice is Anodyne Tablets. Many and varied are their uses. I have put them to the test on many occasions. They have never been disappointing. I found them especially valuable for neuralgia. They appear to prevent the pain from returning. They are also excellent for rheumatism, neuralgia, and all pains. They are also excellent for the relief of neuralgia, and all pains. They are also excellent for the relief of neuralgia, and all pains. LATEST From the Front.

Messages Received Previous to 9 A.M.

OFFICIAL. LONDON, Aug. 17. The British transport Royal Edward was sunk last Saturday in the Aegean by a submarine. Full information is not yet received, but it is known that about 600 were saved. The transport carried about 1,350 troops, and crew of 20. A German submarine shelled White Haven and Cumberland coast villages yesterday. No serious damage was done, and there were no casualties. The Russian Government reports the enemy driven back in Courland, and the continued bombardment of Kovno. The Italian Government reports fresh progress in the Sissina Valley, in Carnia, and in the Montafone district.

ANOTHER LINER SUNK.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 17. Reports were brought over on the steamer Dominion to the effect that the American liner Merion, requisitioned by the British Admiralty as a troopship, sank by fire of Turkish batteries at Dardanelles. The Merion took out from Liverpool for Dardanelles a general cargo of food supplies and many soldiers, being practically a troopship.

NO NOTIFICATION ABOUT CANADIANS.

OTTAWA, Aug. 17. No notification so far has been received by the Militia Department from the Imperial Authorities of the presence of any Canadians on the Royal Edward. While it is generally believed detachments of Canadians are being sent to the Dardanelles, it is known that several other transports are being used.

THE FIGHTING IN FRANCE.

PARIS, Aug. 17. A French statement last night says a fairly spirited cannonading at various points on the front, notably at Hoisingen and at Quenoveres, and in Lorraine in the vicinity of Arracourt and Leining. The fighting with hand grenades in the Argonne, at Fontaine Auxcharmes and at Haute Chaveuse. At this latter place the German came out from their trenches yesterday evening to deliver an attack but our fire drove them back to their lines.

PLEA FOR CONSCRIPTION.

LONDON, Aug. 17. Colonel Arthur Lee, member of parliament, at home on short leave, told his constituents, when leaving this afternoon that nothing less than compulsory service would solve the difficulties which Britain is facing. This conviction, he said, had been burned in by his experience at the front and was shared by nearly all who had been in contact with the realities of the war. We need compulsory national service, he continued, because nothing else can solve our difficulties with regard to money, munitions and exports. We need it to hearten our soldiers serving abroad. The present freedom to shirk and stay at home, while others give their lives to defend us, and turn a deaf ear to the urgent call of one's country, is not what we understand by British freedom.

GERMAN SUCCESSES IN THE EAST.

BERLIN, Aug. 17. One of the outlying forts on the Niemen River and Gesia, to the south of the main fortification, has been captured by the Germans. Three forts at Novo Georgievsk also have been captured.

RETURN FROM BERMUDA.

HALIFAX, N.S., Aug. 17. The steamer ship arrived here from Bermuda with the Royal Canadian Regiment on board. These have been replaced at Bermuda by the 38th Battalion which will land here and remain for some time before being sent abroad.

CROWN PRINCE'S PROPHECY.

GENEVA, Aug. 17. A correspondent of the Journal La Suisse de Geneva on the Vosges front, states that an army order, recently issued by the German Crown Prince, was found on prisoners taken by the French, in which occurs the following phrase: "We shall take, we must take Verdun; then the war will be finished by December at the latest."

TO BE DECLARED CONTRABAND.

LONDON, Aug. 17. It is believed in official circles that the Cabinet at its meeting to-morrow will make a final decision, declaring cotton contraband of war. It is no longer denied that the Government intended to take this step. The delay is attributed to its desire to obtain the formal consent of Britain's allies, as this nation intends that the burden of responsibility for making this declaration shall not fall on her shoulders, which it is felt here have been compelled to carry more than their share of blame for interference with neutral shipping. It is known that the informal consent of the European powers allied with Britain has been secured. Another significant indication of the declaration forthcoming, was the postponement of a mass meeting set for to-day, calling upon the Government to make cotton contraband.

they will have to fall back further than the Breslittovsk line, as Berlin reports to-day that General Litzman stormed and has taken forts on the southwest front of Kovno, capturing 4,500 prisoners, and 240 guns. This probably means the early fall of the fortress itself, between which capture and the Vlna, Warsaw and Petrograd railway there cannot be much delay. Another fort northeast from Novo Georgievsk has also fallen, and a corridor is being closed around the fortress. Other armies from the west and south are advancing toward Breslittovsk line. There has been continued activity among diplomats in the Balkan capitals and among Balkan representatives in other capitals. The Serbian Minister who has been a frequent visitor at the Foreign Office saw Sir Edward Grey again to-day, while another caller was the Rumanian Minister. There has been no development in the situation, however. Italians, according to telegrams from Rome, commenced another general offensive against the Austrians, but there has been no news of movement from any other fronts.

ISSUES WARNING. PARIS, Aug. 17. Albert Thomas, Under Secretary for War, has issued a warning to manufacturers working on war materials, informing them that the scarcity of railroad rolling stock will make it difficult for delivery of coal unless ordered considerably in advance of the time it actually is needed. He advised the use of waterways for transportation fuel.

AWAITING OFFICIAL NOTIFICATION.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17. A decision of the Allies to declare cotton contraband was admitted to-day in the highest official quarters, though a formal statement on the subject is withheld until official notification is received here from London and Paris. It will be learned in a day or two in some sort of official statement being forthcoming detailing the reasons of the Allies for declaring cotton contraband.

GREAT STORMS AT GALVESTON AND IN TEXAS.

DALLAS, To-day. A wireless message from Galveston to-night gave the only direct news from the storm stricken city. No definite news of loss of life has been reported but the desperate situation which the citizens of Galveston found themselves indicated vaguely by a statement from the late afternoon radiogram. Boats were taking people from the buildings on the main streets to the United States transport Buiford. A hurricane swept down upon the island city on Monday and extended its devastation inland yesterday. Last night wire communication was impossible beyond the coast. Town being absolutely cut off from the coast country. Beaumont, Houston, Taylor, Temple and other cities in south east Texas are thought to have been hard hit. Last reports from those places tell of unroofed buildings, uprooted trees and other damage.

McMurdo's Store News

WEDNESDAY, Aug. 18, '15. For the external application of medicaments no form is more widespread or more suitable than the plaster. Nowadays plasters are usually made of an India rubber paste which forms the base, in which the drugs to be used are incorporated and the mixture spread thinly on stout linen, a thinner linen being spread over the face of the plaster to protect it until the time for action arrives. Plasters are suitable in many cases of pain and soreness, and of course do not interfere with the action of any others that may be used. We have a very wide variety of plasters, and can generally recommend the most suitable for any of the minor ailments. Price 25c. and 50c. each.

Reids' Boats.

The Argyle left Flat Islands at 4.30 p.m. yesterday, going west. The Clyde left Change Islands at 2.40 p.m. yesterday, inward. The Dundee left Greenspond at 1.10 p.m. yesterday, inward. The Meigle leaves Humbermouth this evening. The Sagona arrived at Grady at 8 a.m. yesterday, going north.

Personal.

Rev. Bro. J. E. Ryan, of Mount St. Francis, who had been spending a brief vacation at Placentia, came back to the city by last evening's train, and leaves by the s.s. Stephano on Saturday next on route to Victoria, B.C., to start a new Christian Brothers' School. Mr. W. J. Ellis, who was ill for a few days, is able to be about again. Mr. W. B. Nicholson, Canadian Trade Commissioner, arrived in the city by yesterday's express from Canada where he spent a vacation. The newest of silk stockings are either in stripes or plaids in gay coloring.

Narrow Escape

A drowning accident was barely averted on the local fishing grounds last evening. While Messrs. Lewis and Stevenson were about to set a herring net their boat was struck by a heavy sea and capsized and both men were thrown into the water. They were heavily clad and struggled strenuously until they reached the bottom of the overturned boat, hanging on like grim death until two other fishermen named Pearce and Hoskins, who were fishing on the grounds in a dory at the time, came to their aid just in the nick of time as the boat was being carried towards the breakers. Messrs. Lewis and Stevenson were more than thankful to their rescuers and believed that a few minutes longer it would have been all up with them.

Here and There.

BOWRINGS' SHIPS. The Portia is on her way to Channel from North Sydney, bound this way. The Prespero is due to-morrow from the northward. DURANGO OVERDUE. The s.s. Durango is now overdue from Halifax to this port, being 54 hours out at noon to-day. She is, no doubt, detained by fog. In consequence the English mail is extended until noon to-morrow. "OURS" IN THE WEST END. There will be an entire change of pictures to-day at the popular Little Theatre, all carefully selected to suit all patrons. Little Anita will be heard in a charming song. A delightful clean, cosy and ventilated house to spend an enjoyable evening.

AMUSEMENTS.

"HIS DOMINANT PASSION" AT THE CRESCENT. To-day the Crescent's big holiday programme consists of five all feature pictures. "His Dominant Passion"—overcome with grief, he risks his friend; after his release from prison he learns the stolen treasure is only dress, a Vitaphone drama featuring Wm. Humphrey and Leah Baird. "The Girl at His Side," a Seig Society drama. "The Slavery of Foxicus," a Kalem farce comedy. "Beyond Youth's Paradise" is a very fine story adapted from the Munsey Magazine. A great Western comedy is "Sophie Pulls a Big One" produced by the Essanay Comedy Company. Mr. Harvey Collins, Irish Tenor, is making more and more friends every day; he sings to-day: "You're more than the world to me."

TO-DAY'S NICKEL.

Don't miss the Nickel Theatre to-day, as the programme is one of the best ever presented here. It includes the singing of that well-known and very popular baritone solo: "Hail King George." All should hear this beautiful patriotic song which is a great favorite of our Britishers. "The Million Dollar Mystery" will be continued and there will be three other good subjects. "The Million Dollar Mystery" will be shown twice at the matinee and three times at the evening performance. The latter starts at 7 o'clock sharp and patrons are advised to go early. The whole show to-day is a creditable one, and being a holiday there will no doubt be large attendances.

BRITISH THEATRE.

A brilliant audience patronized the above Theatre last night and witnessed one of the most interesting entertainments. Madame Timmons was at her best—which is saying much, and the photographs were excellent. Commencing last afternoon an entirely new programme will be presented, comprising five splendid single reels and two songs by Madame Olive Timmons—"Come Merry Spring" and "Mighty Lak a Rose." She appears at 3.30, 8.30 and 10 and will be accompanied by Professor P. J. McCarthy.

ROYAL PUNCH AND JUDY AT MATINEE.

The Russells last night delighted the crowded house at Rossley's East End Theatre. They are the best performers ever in the city. Jack Russell in his descriptive songs simply received an ovation. He has a splendid voice and puts his songs over in a manner that shows the real artist. He does not claim to be a picture house singer, but all his life has hung on the dramatic and vaudeville stage. He is a very capable actor and he will show many different sketches and the finest songs next week. Olive Russell, lady baritone and double voiced vocalist, will sing. They have a great variety of novelties. Punch and Judy will be presented for the children's matinee, and Don, the trained dog, a little wonder, can do all but talk. The children will go wild over Don. Send the children to see the best show ever seen in the city, and in the safest theatre in town. No steps or stairs, a straight walk in from the street, a clean show and no objectionable pictures.

SOMEDAY!

By RUTH CAMERON.

"Masts are always dreamy to look at; they speak a romance of the sea; of unknown lands, of distant forests aglow with tropical colors and abounding with strange forms of life. In the hearts of most of us there is always a desire for something beyond experience."

Hardly any of us but have thought, some day I shall go on a long voyage; but the years go by and still we have not sailed."

"What is that station?" I asked the motorist as we swung past a rather pretty little railroad station, on our way from his summer home to the city.

"I think it is Black Rock," he answered. And then, with a touch of whimsy in his tone, "Someday I shall certainly stop and find out."

The words were few and colorless, but the tone in which they were spoken suggested much. The motorist makes that run two or three times a week, which means that he passes that station either four or six times a week. The sign is so placed that he cannot read it from the road, and so he idly wonders about it, guesses what it may be and promises himself that someday he will stop and find out. That would be an ultra simple thing to do, and yet the days and the weeks and the summers pass and someday does not come.

The Little Promises We Make Ourselves.

How many of these little promises we all make ourselves!

Someday we will speak to that interesting looking person who has sat in the seat beside us on the train so many times.

Someday we are going to get out of our hackneyed vacation habits and spend our vacation in some really novel way. Someday we are going to write a letter to the author whose books have meant so much to us.

Things We Don't Have Time For in To-day's Routine.

Someday we are going to do all the little different things that we don't have time for in the routine of to-day.

And the to-days and the to-morrows and the weeks and the months and the summers and the winters and the milestones go by and someday has not come.

"Is Heaven a place where someday really come?" questioned a wistful little person who had been promised so many wonderful things should be granted her "someday."

I wonder, too.

Question—I have been a divorcee for several years. My husband and I parted for purely temperamental reasons. Although I still cherish for him feelings of the highest respect and admiration, our social relations have been somewhat strained since the divorce. I am about to be married again and want to know if under the circumstances it would be proper to send my former husband an invitation to my wedding, and if you think he would receive it in the cordial spirit in which it would be sent.

Answer—It seems to me that your former husband's presence at your wedding would be likely to give constraint rather than pleasure to all parties concerned. Why not merely send him an announcement?

Visited The Grand Fleet.

London, August 11.—The Admiralty announced to-day that Premier Asquith and Reginald McKenna, Chancellor of the Exchequer, have returned from a visit to the Grand Fleet, where they were the guests of Admiral Sir John Jellicoe.

Before their departure the officers and men of a number of the ships assembled and were addressed by the Premier, who sent his congratulations through them to the other men of the fleet.

Drudgery.

By the adoption of modern gas appliances you may abolish drudgery from your home.

GAS COOKERS eliminate the drudgery of lighting fires, the handling of coal and ashes, and enable you to prepare meals in half the time required with old-fashioned appliances.

GAS WATER HEATERS are indispensable in every well-regulated household.

GAS LIGHTING is best for the eyes and the pocket.

THE PERFECTION GAS IRON is a recent addition to labour, time, and money saving appliances. This nickel-plated Gas Iron may be had complete with stand and a length of malleable tubing for the small sum of $3.00, and should be in every household.

With the "PERFECTION GAS IRON" a whole day's ironing may be done at a cost of five cents, give better results, and do more work in half the usual time. It is always hot and ready, clean and smooth. Send post card, or phone 97, and the Gas Company will send a man to give practical demonstration of any, or all, up-to-date household appliances.

NOTE.—It is important that Gas Cookers and other appliances be kept perfectly clean and free from grease. Use "SO-KLEAN" enamel cleaner. It will quickly remove all stains and grease from metal or enamel. 25 cents per packet.—1/23.

GERMANY NOW TRYING TO ROUSE FEELING IN SPAIN.

Lausanne, Switzerland, Aug. 12.—"Ever since the war began Germany has been trying to hypnotize Spanish opinion by the prospect of regaining of Gibraltar," says the Gazette.

"It is understood that Germany has now gone farther and traced an elaborate program for the division of Morocco between Spain and Germany."

"For some time German agents have been active at Madrid trying to stir up feeling against the Allies in hope of inducing Spain to try to seize Gibraltar, now owned by Great Britain."

BISHOP SONS & Co., Ltd.

SLOW PAY
When Jinks goes to the corner store, all hands are bowing to the floor, and heaving grins; the clerks rush up, on him to wait, and see if they can't sell a crate of beans or pins. The boss comes up with gaudy smile, to fuss around and talk awhile, and be polite; he's treated like an honored guest, and of the goods he gets the best, for he is white. He has the captivating trick of coughing up, without a kick, the shining plunk; he doesn't say, "Come round again, and I will try to pay you then," or other bunk. When Boggs goes shopping, merchants frown, and ask to see the money down for all he buys, and all their actions plainly say, "We do not want your trade, you jay, dadbing your eyes!" He gets the worst of goods on hand, the sugar that is rich with sand, the ghastly cheese, the greens that are no longer green, the spuds that taste of kerosene, the shriveled peas. For Boggs despises paying bills; the paying process almost kills that foolish skater; for men like him, throughout the land, no welcome word, no cordial hand, will ever wait.

Vigorol

VIGOROL removes the lazy feeling. You can feel better, stronger, with one hundred per cent. more vigor and strength, by taking VIGOROL, the Great French Tonic. Every organ will be made clean and healthy. Every drop of VIGOROL contains ambrosia essence. Headaches, biliousness, tired feeling, pain in the back and under the shoulders, impure blood and lack of ambition, is blotted out with VIGOROL. Get a bottle if you want to feel strong and full of life. Sold at all GREAT BRITAIN'S WEALTH AND HER WARS.

A Boston local financier says: "I have made recent computation that may be of some interest. I figure that if the war continues two years longer at the same rate of expenditure, about $5,000,000,000 per annum for Great Britain, the debt at the end of three years of war will be no larger for the British Empire than it was per capita at the end of the Napoleonic wars. "And I figure that to-day the British Empire has a wealth one hundred times greater than she had at the time of the Napoleonic wars, and her material resources have been developed a thousand times, measured by the English pound sterling."

A Logical and Sure Dyspepsia Treatment

During the past two or three years reports have frequently appeared in the Press concerning the remarkable value of bisurated magnesia as an antacid; and its ability to promote normal, healthy digestion by preventing food fermentation and neutralising dangerous stomach acid has often been demonstrated. Until recently druggists could supply bisurated magnesia in powder form only, from one or two teaspoonfuls of which, taken in a little water after meals, almost instantly stops all fermentation and neutralizes acid, but sufferers from stomach trouble can now obtain a 5 grain tablet which combines all the valuable antacid properties of the ordinary bisurated magnesia in a very convenient form. This new tablet of bisurated magnesia can now be had of druggists everywhere and many physicians are already prescribing them instead of the powder form. Bisurated Magnesia, No. 25 E. 26th St., N.Y.C.

THE LION

is recognized as the King of Beasts, SUNLIGHT SOAP is recognized as the King of Laundry Soaps. The rule of the Lion extends only over the animal world; the rule of SUNLIGHT SOAP extends to wherever Soap is necessary. It is without a rival for washing clothes, household linen and all fabrics even of the finest texture. It is the best Soap that skill and money can produce. Give it a trial and you will be convinced of its value.

Curious Naval Custom.

Old rules still obtain in the British Navy, among them that which forbids the health of the King to be drunk aboard ship while standing up. They always drink the health of the King sitting in the British Navy, and are very proud of the difference between them and their comrades of the land service. The explanation is simple: In the old days of wooden vessels the decks above was perilously near the head of a man even of average height, and in many cases if an officer rose with any alacrity, as all should do to drink the health of the head of the State, he nearly dashed the brains out against the ceiling of the cabin.

BREAD NOTICE!

Beginning to-day, August 10th, and until further notice, we will place in one of our loaves every day a Metal Check, which we will redeem at our office by giving the lucky party buying the loaf containing the check an order on their grocer.
