CHAPTER XIX.
A Suspicious Scene.

"Great many people here? Yes, Becca. I hope you are enjoying yourself. Where have I been? Well, that's a long story. So you have missed me, have you? I wonder," almost to himself, "whether any one else has?"

"Lor, yes, sir. Mrs. Brown says The Chequers isn't the same without you."

"Oh, Mrs. Brown," remarked Cyril, disconsolately. "Has—has Lady Norah been well, Becca?"

Becca shot a mischievous glance at him from her black eyes.

"Lor, yes; and so gay! I never see a young lady so happy and light-hearted. She's singing and laughing all day. And she's been out so much lately. All the grand folk make so much of her, they do."

Cyril stifled a groan. Singing and laughing all day! And he had spent a fortnight of mental torture. And now he came back to find her dancing with Guildford Berton, who seemed to be her shadow.

He looked at that gentleman as he bent over the chair in which Norah was seated, and for the first time Cyril realized how handsome a man Guildford was. Perhaps he had been paying her attentions all the time he, Cyril, had been away? He had probably seen her every day at the Court, had walked and ridden with her, had spent hours in her society whispering to her, as he was whispering now. And she had been light-hearted and gay! Had she forgotten him? He asked himself. She had not looked his way yet. Surely she must know that he was in the room, and could have given him one look of recognition, of welcome.

There can be no love where there is no jealousy, or vice versa, and Cyril was scarcely himself that night, unfortunately. At another time he would have thrust aside the thoughts that were torturing him, but he had had a fortnight of suspense and impatience; he had rushed down from London without his dinner, and was tired and overstrained, and the merry demons who delight in tormenting mankind had got firm hold of him, and were enjoying themselves amazingly.

And still he danced without a mistake, steering Becca through the crowd as he would have steered a duchess, and thinking a little of her as if she were a lay figure.

They attracted some attention. Becca was slim and pretty, and the delicious exercise, combined with her pride in being the partner of the handsomest man in the room, had set her eyes dancing and given a warm flush to her dark face; and the spectators were looking on admiringly and curiously.

"Who is that gentleman dancing with that pretty girl with the black hair?" asked a dowager sitting just behind Norah.

"Oh, he"—replied the gentleman she addressed, who had got Cyril's name from Lady Ferndale, but knew no more, and was yet anxious to appear well informed and gratify the dowager's curiosity—"oh, that is Mr. Cyril Burne, a rising artist; quite a clever young fellow." And he is dancing with the girl he is engaged to. Quite a love affair of the old romantic kind, I assure your ladyship.

"Indeed," responded the dowager. "Well, they are well matched, I'm sure. What nice hair the girl has! And he is—yes, really he is, very handsome."

Norah heard this, and her face flushed for a second, and her heart ached. How could he whirl round with that vain and giddy girl while she sat waiting for him? Had she not waited for a whole fortnight? Why did he not come to her and, making any excuse he liked, take her away from the hateful man who persisted in following her like a shadow, and murmuring in her ear?

Oh, that game of cross-purposes! The music ceased at last, and Cyril, driven desperate, took Becca to a seat, and it is to be feared, left her rather cavalierly.

"You must give me another dance, Becca," he said, not meaning it in the slightest, scarcely, indeed, knowing what he said; and, resolved to go straight to Norah, he began to thread his way through the now confused and entangling throng.

But he had not got half-a-dozen yards before Lady Ferndale met him. She was on the arm of a gentleman who bought pictures and flattered himself that he was a critic; and good-natured Lady Ferndale, who was always on the lookout to do some one a good turn, had bethought her of introducing the patron of art to Mr. Cyril Burne.

"Oh, Mr. Burne," she said, "let me introduce you to Mr. Romley. You and he will be able to talk pictures," and with a kindly smile, away she went, and left poor Cyril in the art patron and critic's clutches.

Mr. Romley proceeded to talk pictures at once, and poor Cyril, though he tried his hardest to get away, and cast wistful, despairing glances toward Norah—still seated next Mr. Guildford Berton—found himself, like the wedding guest, firmly buttonholed by this ancient mariner, who was delighted at getting some one upon whom he could pour out his artistic twaddle.

Cyril listened—or, rather, did not listen—answering in abstracted monosyllables to the stream of insanity and pompous ignorance, and edging further and further away from his tormentor; and he had just succeeded in escaping when the band struck up again, and he had the mortification of seeing Norah going off on the arm of a tall guardaman.

If he could have seen the look Norah cast in his direction, he would have been somewhat comforted and encouraged; if he could have guessed with what impatient pain she was asking herself why he avoided her, why he preferred to dance with Becca, and talk to any old fogey, rather than come to her, he would have broken away from the bore who buttonholed him, and flown to her side; but he did not guess what was passing in her mind, and it seemed to him that she was avoiding him, as it appeared to her that he was keeping away from her.

To those two longing, wretched hearts the music made horrible discord, the room was stifling, the light bewildering.

Cyril would not dance again, but wandered round the edge of the waltzers, looking at Norah as the guardaman deftly steered her through the maze, and at last he found himself outside the marquee. Two or three men were walking up and down smoking cigarettes in the darkness, which, in comparison with the brilliance within, seemed Cimmerian, and Cyril, in no mood for company, kept away from them and lit a cigarette himself. Presently they halted near him, but not seeing him, and he heard one of them say:

"Yes, it looks like it. Confound the fellow! It seems as if none of us had any chance against him."

"No," assented another with a sigh. "Not to be wondered at when you come to think of it. He's better looking than any of us—yourself included. Charlie. Women admire that kind of man; dark, mysterious, romantic."

"More like a confounded foreigner than an Englishman," grumbled the young fellow who had just spoken, the son of a neighboring peer, and one of Norah's most devoted slaves.

"Got the best of the running, you see, Charlie," resumed the other man; "sees her every day; and then he's one of the clever chaps, don't you know. Can talk and all that sort of thing. Yes, he's got all the odds in his favor, and I'm afraid he'll carry off the prize. At any rate, he's making all the running to-night."

"Yes, sticks to her like her shadow," grumbled Lord Charles. "I heard her promise him another dance after supper, and I'll be bound he takes her in."

Cyril listened half-absently. It never occurred to him that they were talking of Norah and Guildford Berton, until suddenly he heard her name.

"Yes, Charlie, my boy," said his friend, "you may look upon yourself as a gone coon. The divine Norah has slipped through your fingers. Accept my sympathy and another cigarette. Mr. Guildford Berton will be the happy man!"

Cyril started, and his face crimsoned, and then went white. These men had put into words the doubts and the dread that were haunting him and driving him half-mad.

He flung his cigarette away, and was turning to go into the ballroom again, scarcely knowing why, when he heard a stifled sob near him in the darkness, and, peering into it, caught the glimmer of a woman's dress, a few yards from him.

He went up to it, his own misery moving him to compassion, and put out his hand.

"Is anything the matter?" he asked in a low voice. "Who is it?"

The sob was repeated, and a voice said:

PARIS, Nov. 27.
Bulgarian forces on the Macedonian front launched a counter-attack against the Serbians in the Cerna River region last night, the war office announces. The Bulgarians were repulsed with heavy losses.

NO SUBS. REPORTED.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.
Steamships arriving here to-day from European and West Indian ports reported they caught wireless warnings yesterday to watch out for belligerent submarines, but all brought word that no craft of that type had been seen.

PROGRESS OF ITALIANS.

LONDON, Nov. 27.
The Italians continue to make progress in the region west of Monastir.

FRENCH ANNOUNCEMENT.

PARIS, Nov. 27.
The French announcement on the progress of hostilities on the French front, issued at the war office, reads as follows: There has been the customary cannonading at various points on the Somme front and in the sector of Douaumont and Vaux. The night passed quietly on the remainder of the front. A group of French aviators last night bombed the aviation fields at Guisancourt and Matigny. The missiles thrown reached their mark.

SAFE CONDUCT REFUSED.

LONDON, Nov. 27.
The Foreign Office has sent Ambassador Pigo a note definitely refusing to grant safe conduct to Count Adam Tarnowski Von Tarnow, the new Ambassador to the United States.

A CORRESPONDENT'S PROPHECY.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.
The Times this morning says: According to Will Irwin, war correspondent, who returned here yesterday from France, the war will end when France and Belgium have been cleared of German troops. For the Allies to make peace on any other conditions, he said, would mean the death of English and French nationality. Irwin said the Allies would continue the offensive along the twenty-eight miles of the Somme front all the winter every fine day. It was impossible to operate during the heavy rains, as mud was so deep that artillery could not be moved. There can be no question whatever as to who will win, said Irwin, but the war is only about half over. The Germans are putting up a wonderful fight, but they can't win.

ROUMANIA.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.
A News Agency despatch to-day from London says: News from German sources caused a renewal of hope here to-day that Roumania will, after all, extricate herself from the precarious position in which she was placed by Von Falkenhayn's brilliant strategic campaign. The prime basis for this hope is the utter lack in all German official reports of any claim to large captures of prisoners or war munitions. If the Roumanian army had been tactically trapped by the encircling movement around Orsova and the Tarnu River in reaching over Craiova, it was regarded as certain that the Berlin official reports would have chronicled big captures of men and supplies. It is known here that the Roumanians succeeded in removing their artillery from Craiova before that city fell into the hands of the enemy. The other source of hope was the report from a German correspondent at Von Falkenhayn's headquarters, that further progress beyond the conditions of the roads, bound from bits of news led military experts here to reconstruct the story of an orderly retreat of the Roumanian forces from the angle from which the two armies of the Teutonic forces are now exerting pressure. There was no disposition, however, to disguise the fact that the Roumanians are still in peril.

RECAPTURE PRIZE.

LONDON, Nov. 27.
The Admiralty make an announcement of an incident which it says is interesting in showing what happens when a commander of a German submarine departs from his custom of sinking all ships he meets and follows in a particular instance the procedure of civilized warfare. On Nov. 18th, according to the statement, a German submarine captured the Norwegian steamer Oltor, bound from Newport to Gibraltar, and placed a prize crew aboard the vessel. For a time the sub. accompanied the vessel, and continued its act of piracy on other ships, but eventually the Oltor separated, apparently intending to make for a German port. She was intercepted by a British warship and recaptured despite attempts to blow her up, and brought to a British port where the prize crew are now prisoners.

PASSENGERS' TALK.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.
Passengers arriving here to-day on the White Star Liner Lapland, said they were awakened early yesterday by a shock such as might be produced by a ship striking some submerged object. The impact was so severe some of the passengers said, they were thrown from their berths. Wireless advices received the day previous, giving warnings that submarines were suspected of being in the travelled lanes, caused some of the passengers to believe that the Lapland rammed a U-boat. Capt. Bradshaw, of the Lapland, was reticent on the subject. Other officers of the ship said the shock, if any, might have been caused by heavy water hitting the vessel.

ARABS DEFEAT ITALIANS.

BERLIN, Nov. 27.
Arabs under Halif Ben Askar have defeated a force of Italians near Dehbat, on the frontier of Tripoli and Tunis, according to a despatch from Constantinople to the Overseas News Agency. The Arabs then penetrated Tunis and engaged the French forces. The message adds that the battle is still in progress. Losses of the Italians were heavy, says the message.

TRUKISH ADMINISTRATION RE-ESTABLISHED.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 27.
Addressing the Turkish administration in Tripoli is now being completely re-established as it was prior to the Turkish-Italian war. The Italians, it is declared by a despatch to the Overseas News Agency, dare not abandon the five cities they still occupy on the Tripoli coast.

AMUNDSEN'S 1918 EXPEDITION.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.
Ronald Amundsen, explorer, is here to buy hydro-aeroplanes for his expedition in 1918, he said on his arrival here to-day on the Danish steamer Frederick 8th from Copenhagen. The flying machines, he said, would be constructed so as to travel over smooth ice as well as on water, and will be used in interior exploration starting from the ship, which will take the party into the Polar regions. The vessel will be so constructed that the plates can rise from and land on its decks. The explorer added that another purpose of his visit was to lay food supplies for the trip, because the prices in Europe were prohibitive. Amundsen said the ship will be ready for launching in March. The work of equipping will begin in July, 1917, but no effort will be made to get away before the following year. The start originally was planned for 1917, but was delayed on account of the war. The exploration will take him this time north of the Polar regions.

MINERS STRIKE.

FERNIE, Nov. 27.
Miners of Fernie, Michale, Blairmore, Coleman Hill, West, Frank and Bellevue all went out on strike this morning. Fernie and Michale Coke Ovens employees are working, but those at Fernie are restless, and indications are to-night or to-morrow will find the Fernie coke oven men on strike in sympathy with the miners. Drumheller is working to-day, and so far negotiations have failed.

Between 1,000 and 1,500 miners in Leithridge district are on strike to-day along with others in the district in an endeavor to enforce their demands for further war bonus. They state they will remain out until their demands are complied with.

ANOTHER CONTROVERSY.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.
Another controversy between the American Government and the Austrians is in prospect as a result of the refusal of the British to grant a safe conduct to Count Tarnowski, the newly appointed Austro-Hungarian Ambassador to the States. In the absence of official advices on the subject, officials state the department is not in a position to-day to discuss formally or forecast the course the government is likely to pursue. It was made evident, the unfavorable action of the British Foreign Office came as an unpleasant surprise. It was learned the State Department so far had not made a formal request for his safe conduct, but has confined itself to the transmission of the request of the Austrian Government for such courtesy. Therefore, it is probable, if the issue is to be made up, it will be necessary for the States now to make such request on its own account.

NEW ADJUTANT-GENERAL OF CANADIAN OVERSEAS FORCES.

MONTREAL, Nov. 27.
Word just received announces that Major-General Lumsden has been appointed Adjutant-General of the Canadian Overseas Forces, and that Col. H. C. Bickford, of Toronto, is to be his assistant officer.

ROUMANIANS ABANDON ALT POSITIONS.

BUCHAREST, Nov. 27.
The Roumanians have retired from the line of the River Alt, the War Office announces.

ARTILLERY ACTIVE.

LONDON, Nov. 27.
Our artillery was active last night in the neighborhood of LaBasse, says to-day's official report of the Franco-Belgian front. Otherwise there is nothing to report.

KILLED BY A FALL.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.
Joseph Brooks, theatrical manager, was killed to-day by a fall from his eighth floor apartment.

TO MOBILIZE PROFESSORS.

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 27.
The Berlin correspondent of the Berlingske Tidende says the German Government is considering favorably a proposal of the Conservatives in the Reichstag that the universities and other higher schools of the empire be virtually closed so that teachers and scholars may be embraced in the plan for mobilization of civilians.

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 28th, 1916.

Citizens' Committee

Appreciate The Evening Telegram's Editorial Remarks and Reporter's Account of Meetings Thought Highly of.

At the regular bi-weekly meeting of the Citizens' Committee held in the Board of Trade Rooms last night, the Vice-Chairman, Mr. Walter A. O'D. Kelly presided and a large number of the committeemen attended. Prior to commencing the regular business of the evening the Vice-Chairman in a brief but very fitting address spoke very highly of the splendid support and encouragement in their work they had received from the Evening Telegram. Other members of the committee also spoke endorsing the remarks of the Vice-Chairman and by a unanimous vote the following minute was made and ordered to be recorded in the Minute Book:—

"The Committee appreciates very highly the editorial remarks appearing in the Evening Telegram, of Friday, the 24th instant, and also the very regular attendance of the Telegram reporter at the committee's meetings and the satisfactory reports of its proceedings which have from time to time appeared in the columns of that Journal."

From business arising out of the minutes of a previous meeting the matter of the appointment of a Board of Adjustment came up for discussion. The duties of this Board would be to eliminate as far as possible slums and all places unfit for habitation, to act between landlord and tenant in the case of the former attempting to deal unjustly with the latter; this would only apply to working men's homes where the annual rent does not exceed about $120.00.

Touching on section 236 wherein His Majesty's Buildings, Churches, Schools and Charitable Institutions, shall not be subject to taxation, except such reasonable rates for protection and water as the Council shall determine, was passed without a dissenting voice.

Section 237 embracing Section 211 and 217 to 220 inclusive, wherein a new principle has been introduced into the Municipal Government of the city, whereby the Council shall have the power to estimate their expenditure for the ensuing year, and then proceed to raise the taxes if necessary to cover the shortage, after deducting the probable amount that would be yielded by the duties, license fees, rents, etc., the difference would be chiefly made up by increasing the annual water and sewerage tax which at present is assessed at 1 1/2 per cent. This, in the opinion of the Committee was high enough rate to pay for such privileges, and at the next meeting will further discuss the matter.

Rev. T. Nangle, C. F.

Appointed to the 29th Division and With Ours.

We have been permitted to read a communication from the Rev. T. Nangle, C. F., in which he states: "I have received my appointment to the 29th Division B. E. F., to-day, November 5th. It came to me direct from the Chaplain General of the B. E. F." As is well known the Newfoundland forces at the front are attached to this division. We also learn that in the Newfoundland Regiment in France there are more Roman Catholic soldiers than in all the remaining regiments of the 29th Division.

VALUABLE FISH SHIPMENTS.—The steamers Honovers and Barbara sailed from here last evening for Mediterranean ports, taking between them nearly fifty thousand quintals of cod fish valued at approximately four hundred thousand dollars.

Hymeneal.

The marriage of Mr. Harry Anderson Winter, B.A., third son of the late Sir J. S. and Lady Winter and Editor of The Evening Telegram, to Miss Frances Winter Goodridge, of Orange, N. J., second daughter of the late Fred and Mrs. Goodridge, was solemnized at St. Thomas's Church, at 3 o'clock this afternoon, the Rev. Dr. Jones officiating.

The bride who was attired in a costume of white messaline with a net veil and carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums, entered the church leaning on the arm of her uncle, Mr. Harry P. Winter, of New York, who acted as father giver. The groom was supported by Mr. P. E. Outerbridge, while the ushers were Lieut. Herbert M. Winter and Lance Corporal M. G. Winter, Jr., 1st Newfoundland Regiment. Only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties were present. After the marriage ceremony the wedding party drove to "Winterholme," the residence of the Hon. M. G. and Mrs. Winter, where the wedding reception was held after which the happy couple motored to Topsail where the honeymoon will be spent. Returning to St. John's residence will be taken up at Bee, Orchis Terrace Queen's Road. The bride's travelling costume was of blue broadcloth.

The groom's present to the bride was a handsome gold brooch mounted with pearls and sapphires. The other presents were numerous and costly testifying to the esteem and popularity in which the young couple is held.

The Evening Telegram joins with the many friends of the contracting parties in extending hearty felicitations.

Will Be Present.

His Excellency the Governor and Lady Davidson have signified their intention to be present at the Popular Evening Concert, which is to be given on Wednesday next, the 29th, in the Methodist College Hall. All men of the Newfoundland Regiment and the Royal Naval Reserve, in uniform, will be admitted free.

Fisherman Convicted.

At 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon the case of the larceny of $315, preferred against a Placentia Bay fisherman was continued before Judge Morris. Supt. Grimes reviewed the evidence from the standpoint of the prosecution and Mr. R. T. McGrath, B.L., stated the case for the accused. The Judge convicted the accused on circumstantial evidence, because the charges made by the Crown had not been, in his opinion, rebutted. He thereupon sentenced the prisoner to six months imprisonment.

Futile Campaign.

Capt. T. Fitzpatrick, Customs officer at Placentia, and Sergeant Nugent, a returned veteran and hero, who had been on a recruiting campaign for the past fortnight in Placentia Bay, are back to the city and report for no recruits, though several promises were made by young men to enlist. All the important centres in Placentia Bay were visited and stirring and convincing addresses made by the campaigners, but their appeals were in vain.

Died at Salmonier.

On Sunday, the 19th inst., there passed peacefully away after many months of suffering borne with resignation, Anastasia, wife of Patrick Critch. The deceased was a Miss Adams, of St. Mary's, born there about eighty years ago. She married Terrence Baldwin, of Tor's Cove, who died a few years after their marriage leaving her with two children Constantine and Mary, both of whom are now dead. She married Patrick Critch about forty-three years ago, and lived that number of years at Newbridge, Salmonier, a well respected resident. She leaves her husband and two sons, Patrick and Thomas to mourn the loss of a devoted wife and loving mother. To those sorrowing relatives we extend sincere sympathy.—R.I.P.—COM.

Serious Motor Accident

Michael Kennedy, a nine-year-old school boy of Lime Street, was the victim of a motor car accident yesterday afternoon and now lies at the General Hospital in a precarious condition. The facts, as accurately as could be gleaned, are briefly that shortly after 3 p.m. Mr. John Clouston, Manager of the big fish plant at Bay Bulls, left his home on Quidi Vid Road in his motor car, taking his wife and her sister for a joy ride, intending to go a few miles countrywards. He went up Military Road and when almost directly opposite the R. C. Cathedral he saw a couple of small boys ahead. Michael Kennedy was one of them and he began to run back and forth the road, seeing how often he could do this before the machine passed by. The car was going up grade and at a very slow rate of speed. As the car approached nearer to him the boy continued his manoeuvres, not seeing the danger of his thoughtless, yet boyish frolic. Unfortunately, however, on this occasion, the little lad misjudged his distance, and despite the efforts of Mr. Clouston, the dash-board of the motor car struck him and threw him violently to the ground where he lay prone until picked up, apparently lifeless, by Mr. Clouston, who meanwhile had brought the car to a standstill, and tenderly borne into the Mercy Convent. Dr. Mitchell was summoned and responded hurriedly. On examination he found the boy unconscious, that he suffered from a wound over the temple, but no bones were broken. The victim was then ordered to the General Hospital whither he was taken in the ambulance. The motor driver reported what happened to the Inspector General of Police. The occurrence is regrettable and no one is more sorry about it than Mr. Clouston, who was at the bedside of the little victim all last night at the hospital. He had not regained consciousness up to this forenoon.

Another Gruesome Find

Body of Fisherman With no Head Picked Up.

Last night Mr. R. J. Devereaux, M.H.A., received this message from Trepassay: "The body of a man was picked up yesterday morning on the east side of Trepassay Reach. The head was gone. It is believed to be another of the crew of the Bonnie Lass. The body has been confined and will likely be taken to Salmonier for interment." This is the third body found of the schooner Bonnie Lass, which, it will be remembered, met her fate in the disastrous and historic gale of Sept. 24th last while crossing Trepassay Bar. The schr. carried a crew of six all told. All hands were lost and three of their bodies have not yet been recovered.

MORE DIPHTHERIA.

Another new case of diphtheria was reported to the Health Authorities yesterday afternoon. This time the patient is a one-year-old boy of the Southside.

Recruiting Meeting Last Night.

Mr. Geo. Adams, father of two soldiers now on active service, presided at last night's recruiting meeting in the British Hall and introduced the speakers on the occasion who were Commander McDermott, R. N., and Mr. H. E. Cowan. The Naval Commander in opening expressed regret that a large number of young men suitable for the navy were conspicuous by their absence. In speaking of the Newfoundland Field Forces he said: "It will require about 130 volunteers a month to keep it up to fighting strength. If the young men in the outports would realize their duty to King and Country that number could easily be accounted for."

Mr. H. E. Cowan in addressing the audience made a strong appeal to the young men of to-day to come forward and maintain the reputation of Newfoundland as a loyal daughter of the Empire.

Mr. George J. Adams in proposing a vote of thanks to the previous speakers felt that every red-blooded man should lose no time thinking the matter over, but should come forward and come quickly, as it was at this very moment England needed men and still more men to insure our women and children against the infamies perpetrated in Belgium, Serbia and Poland. The following young men then stepped to the front and signed the roll:— W. Walters, Goulds. G. Adams, Hr. Grace. J. Murphy, Argentia. W. Manuel, St. John's. W. Morrissey, St. John's. C. Howell, St. John's.

ROSSLEY'S PICTURES DELIGHT CROWDS.

Last night Mr. Rossley opened the British Theatre to a large audience and the pictures called for great praise. The three-reel feature "A Flirting Bride," was one of the most delightful films ever seen and the acting and setting was magnificent. "A Bridge of Danger" gives forth more thrills than one could imagine; a young girl leaping from one flying train to another. Another dandy picture showing a young collegian who was determined to make money somehow. In all of the six pictures shown each one was better than the other. On Friday night Mr. Rossley will conduct his usual amateur contest. Names are already coming in and a sure cure of the blues will be in the great Havealough Competition. Don't miss any of the Rossley new films. Reservations are going ahead for Christmas.

TO-DAY'S Messages.

INDIANS IN INDIA.

LONDON, To-day. (Via Reuters Ottawa Agency)—A special dispatch from Delhi says: Viceroy Lord Chelmsford has been making a tour of India, lasting nearly three months, finding everywhere keen enthusiasm among all classes to win the war. The whole of India regards victory as certain, and almost naturally some sections of the educated classes are already speculating on post-war changes, urging domestic and political reforms more keenly and openly, perhaps than they did when the issue seemed less certain; native officers of the Indian army who have returned from France are extremely optimistic and speak of the marked superiority of the Allies military quality and resources over those of the enemy. Throughout India generous war gifts are to be received from the ruling Princes of all classes. Calcutta and Bengal Chambers of Commerce are providing a motor machine battery for the front, in addition to motor ambulance unit already provided. The manufacture of munitions and transport wagons, etc., continues steadily throughout the country. The condition of the northwest frontier is completely tranquil. Crop prospects generally, extremely favorable, wheat promising well; cotton has been damaged by late rains; trade booming, especially June cotton and tea, although high freights somewhat affecting exports.

RELUCTANT TO TALK.

NEW YORK, To-day. Mrs. Winslow, wife of Laurence Winslow, third Assistant Secretary American Embassy at Berlin, who arrived here today from Germany by way of Copenhagen, is reluctant to talk about the conditions of the Germans, said rigid diet, rules are maintained, a piece of meat three inches in diameter and one egg allowed once a week, for the rest food consisted solely of potatoes and cereals, Mrs. Winslow said.

ANOTHER AIR RAID.

LONDON, To-day. Another air raid on the eastern coast on Monday night, bombs dropped on several northern counties, no damage or casualties yet received.

SHORT POTATO CROP.

LONDON, To-day. Board of Agriculture estimates potato crop of England and Wales for the current year with decreased area by 35,000 acres 850,000 tons less than 1915. However it is only 100 tons less than a ten year average.

RAVAGED BY CYCLONE.

PARIS, To-day. The island of Sardinia, in the Mediterranean, has been ravaged by a cyclone, according to a report received in Rome and forwarded to Havas Agency.

GERMANS MAKE GAINS.

LONDON, To-day. The entire line at Alt River, Roumania, running north and south through the country from Transylvania to the Danube now in the hands of the Teutons; in all directions the invaders continue to make progress with Bucharest their objective, becoming nearer; the southern and eastern drive in Alt regions brought Teutonic forces across Topolog River, while to the south between Rochi-de-Vede and Valeni their line has been drawn considerably nearer the Roumanian capital, Alexandria, forty-seven miles east of Bucharest; has been taken by Field Marshal Von Mackensen's troops, considering the swiftness of the advance of the Teutonic Allies through Wallachia, comparatively few prisoners have been taken, although semi-official reports credit them with having captured considerable supplies and a lot of stores. Near Orsova 23 officers and 1200 men were made prisoners, while in Alt 10 additional officers and 4,000 men fell into the hands of the Teutonic Allies. In a big battle extending over a front of about seventeen miles northwest and northeast of

ABANDONING ROUTE.

BOSTON, To-day. The Trans-Atlantic steamer line running south of Nantucket shoal lightship in the vicinity of which the five ships were sunk by a German submarine U-53, on October 8th, is virtually clear of foreign traffic today; according to reports received this apparent abandonment of the regular route of shipping is believed to be due wireless warnings sent yesterday by the British cruiser Lancaster, notifying captains that German war subs are supposed to be in this vicinity, incoming ships report rough sea which would ordinarily interfere with extensive sub operations.

STEAMER DISABLED.

SEATTLE, To-day. A radio message was received tonight from Capt. ### France's Great Aviator

The "Fokker Killer" is Only Twenty-One.

In the Allies' Flying Corps it is agreed that the greatest fighting aviator in the world is a French lad, of but one-and-twenty summers. This gallant son of the tricolor is Georges Guynemer, whose name is a boast throughout France and a dread to German airmen, who have christened him the "Fokker Killer."

During his twelve months' service in the French Flying Corps he has risen from private to lieutenant, won the Medaille Militaire, been made a Knight-Commander of the Legion d'Honneur, received the Croix de la Guerre with seven bars, and has had the unique distinction of being mentioned in an order to the nation!

To be mentioned in despatches is a distinction cherished by every soldier, but to attain mention in an order to the nation means that the Government considers the heroic individual mentioned as serviceable in the very highest degree.

Strange enough the "Fokker Killer," unlike his predecessors, Pegoud, Garas, and Guilbert, hitherto considered to be the three greatest aviators, had the utmost difficulty in being admitted to the service.

When he first presented himself to the military authorities he was rejected on medical grounds. But this did not diminish Guynemer's keenness. Five times the boy tried in different parts of the country to get passed into the army, and each time he was rejected.

Guynemer was at his wits' end to know what to do. Suddenly a bright idea struck him. He pitched a tent in an aviation field near Paris and watched for his chance.

It came on the third day. A monoplane was temporarily deserted. He slipped into it and soared away up in the clouds. The commander of the aerodrome witnessed the daring feat and interested himself in this audacious youth. Finally Guynemer was admitted to the French Flying Corps under a special ruling.

During the first month he performed the remarkable feat of bringing down six German machines single handed. He pilots one of the smallest aeroplanes ever constructed, which is popularly known as "Le Vieux Charles" (Old Charley).

Georges is a Parisian. His father is a manufacturer at Compiègne. When the war broke out he was a student at Paris, living with his grandmother, to whom he is devotedly attached.

Rich Without Gold.

Many recipients of the coveted V.C. have in the past had tempting offers from music-hall managers to go on the stage and tell their tale and "fight their battle o'er again." A few have succumbed, but the rule has been refusal.

The famous Jack Binns of wireless fame, who kept the S.O.S. signal going when the liner was sinking, might have made a fortune many times over if he would have consented to exploit his bravery. But he wouldn't. He said: "I'm a wireless operator, not a music-hall artiste. I'll stick to my job." And, to his lasting honor, he did.

At one of the big exhibitions in America the enthusiastic Scots built a replica of the birthplace of Robbie Burns, the national poet. Then they sent a request to a certain old lady in Scotland, who claims descent from the poet, to come over and sit in the house as a bit of "real color."

Needless to say, the golden bait was a fine one, especially to an old woman who had never been overboarded with this "world's gear." But she said: "Na, na. I'm na gawn ta be stared at by a lot o' silly gowks wha tak' me for a new kin' o' wild beast. I reckon I'll stay in Auld Scotland." And that is what she did.

At the other end of the social scale royalties who have seen trouble have often been importuned by publishers to pen their experiences. Sometimes the bait has been taken, with a consequent loss of caste.

Some years ago the present King of Spain's mother, Queen Christina, was offered a "king's ransom" by a Yankee editor if she would only consent to allow her son, then under age, to sign an article which would be written for him. She refused, of course. Tit-Bits.

CARIBOU SCARCE.—A number of Caribou hunters who returned by yesterday's express from the Gulf Topaz, report the deer to be very scarce in that vicinity, about one hundred sportsmen have within the past two weeks gone over the famous hunting grounds, but not more than ten heads were secured. A few miles east of the railway station a large moose was seen and the tracks of several others were discovered. This with previous reports received from the north go to prove that these animals have not been exterminated, as is the opinion of many who profess to be well posted in the movements of all big game.

Bells and Shells.

According to official Austrian figures, up to the end of August no fewer than 15,200 church bells had been melted down for munitions in the Dual Monarchy, the yield of metal being returned as 7,464 tons. That averages half a ton per bell, but as there were probably a fair number of big bells included—it was recently announced that the famous 17-ton bell from St. Stephen's, Vienna, had been scheduled for the melting-pot—there may be some truth in the report which emanated from Rome a few weeks ago that in many country places the church bells had been exempted from service in condition that all the cow-bells of the district were substituted in their place.

Results at any rate, can look with equanimity on the turning of bells into shells, for if the victory is to rest with the side that can do the biggest things

Making Christmas a Farce.

By RUTH CAMERON.

There are some things that make Christmas a farce. One is self-indulgence under the pressure of generosity, or rather, thinking you are generous when you are only doing something for yourself.

What I mean is this: A well-to-do person gives her well-to-do relative some "hand" some linen, which she knows the latter wants but does not quite like to buy for herself, while the well-to-do relative in turn spends about the same amount of money for a handsome desk set, which she has been delicately given to understand the other covets. What is there wrong in their doing this? Nothing. The wrong consists in that each feels that she has been generous. How were they any more generous than if each went out and bought what she wanted?

One is letting your thoughts wander back into old times, and writing some little Christmas message straight out of your heart to some of those friends of the old days. Another is giving to the poor, and giving not in the spirit of patronage, but of one who humbly pays part of a great debt.

For The Child Of The Empty Stocking. Another is remembering that Christmas is the day of the child, and giving not only to the children of your own family and relatives, who doubtless have more gifts than they can digest, but to the child who has but little.

Another is trying to fill yourself so full of the true Christmas spirit of love and good will towards all men, that, as you go about your shopping and your Christmas preparations, some of it shall spill over into your relations with others, and make you more considerate and friendly to outsiders and more tender to your own.

England's Losses in Ships Compared With Germany's.
New York, Nov. 11, 1916.
To the Editor of the New York Times: In your issue of Nov. 8 you published a wireless message from Berlin purporting to give statistics concerning the war losses sustained by the British Navy to date. This message obviously emanated from the foreign branch of the official Wolff's Telegraph Bureau, which has sufficient candour to print on its letterheads a note to the effect that it does not guarantee the accuracy of any item of news it circulates.

In the interest of truth, may I carve a little space in order to correct and supplement the naval statistics given in the message referred to? It states that the British loss in battleships and cruisers alone now stands at 591,790 tons—a wilful exaggeration of the actual total to the extent of nearly 150,000 tons. The following is a complete list of all the British battleships and cruisers which have been lost to date: Audacious, King Edward VII, Triumph, Bulwark, Formidable, Irresistible, Ocean, Godliath, Russell, Majestic, Queen Mary, Infatigable, Invincible, Defence, Warrior, Black Prince, Natal, Hampshire, Argyll, Good Hope, Monmouth, Aboukir, Crested, Hogue, Nottingham, Falmouth, Arethusa, Amphin, Pathfinder, Hawke, Hermes, Pegasus—aggregate displacement 388,768 tons. In addition about thirty destroyers (not fifty) and twenty-five submarines (not seventy-six) have been lost.

For purposes of comparison it is worth while to set forth the corresponding German losses, about which Berlin maintains an eloquent silence. The following list takes into consideration only those losses which have been positively verified, and deals only with battleships and cruisers: "A" (Kaiser class) "B" (Kaiser class) Westfalen, "C" (Deutschland class) Pommeren, Litow, Seydlitz, Von der Tann, Blucher, Scharnhorst, Gneisenau, Yorck, Friedrich Karl, Prinz Adalbert

Wiesbaden, Rostock, Frankfurt, Elbing, Karlsruhe, Magdeburg, Kohn, Mainz, Emden, Dresden, Nurnburg, Königsburg, Leipzig, Bromen, Frauenlob, Undine, Ariadne, Hele, Albatross—aggregate displacement 300,117 tons. In addition thirty to thirty-five German destroyers and 120 submarines have been lost. We should, perhaps be justified in adding to the German list the Goeben (22,640 tons) and the Breslau (4,478 tons), for both these vessels ruying at Constantinople, are lost to Germany for the duration of the war, and it is highly doubtful whether they will ever see Germany again.

With regard to the British list, it should be observed that, with one solitary exception, i.e., the Audacious, every battleship or cruiser that has been lost has been officially announced by the British Admiralty. A diametrically opposite policy has been pursued by the German Admiralty, which habitually conceals every loss unless the fact becomes known from neutral sources. It was not until survivors from the ships had been picked up by Danish and Dutch fishermen that Germany acknowledged the sinking of the giant battle cruiser Lutzow and the cruisers Wiesbaden, Rostock, Elbing, Frauenlob in the Jutland fight. As the two Kaiser class battleships, the battle cruiser Seydlitz, (and almost certainly of the Hindenburg as well), the loss of these not unimportant units was kept dark "for military reasons."

Few impartial naval experts who are in touch with all the facts would hesitate to add 50,000 tons or more to the total of German losses, but as certain of these losses cannot be positively identified, I have refrained from inserting them in the list. It should be added that the British vessel Genista, sunk recently off Ireland, was not a cruiser at all, but a small mine-sweeper—one of the many hundreds now engaged in keeping the seas open to friendly and neutral navigation.

I do not wish to minimise the British losses, but I would point out that they represent the price paid for that command of the sea which is the Allies' greatest asset, and the sure guarantee of their ultimate victory. Considering all that command of the sea implies, and its simple, vital significance in the present war, Great Britain has purchased it at a relatively small cost. Nor must it be forgotten that, in spite of these losses, the British Navy to-day is at least one-half as strong again in men and ships as it was on the outbreak of war.

What advantage on the other hand has Germany won to offset her 300,000 tons of lost naval shipping? She remains as tightly blockaded as ever before, and her one-time immense ocean-borne trade, which represented 60 per cent. of her entire revenue in peace time, has dwindled to a few hundred tons of rubber and nickel precariously carried by a submarine. Winston Churchill once drew upon himself the wrath of Teuton scribblers by attributing to the German fleet as a "luxury." Has not the course of the war down to date absolutely vindicated his judgment?

THE SAFE DRIVER.
Along the street I drive my car, my rate of speed is safe and slow. I pull up where the children are, and give pedestrians a show. Some day pedestrians will be, by statute, from our highways cast, for any candid man they're a nuisance, first and last. But since they are permitted here, in spite of motorists' appeals, I hold it wise my car to steer so they won't get beneath the wheels. I watch the street where'er I go, and dodge all live stock gone astray, and toot my horn that men may know my juggernaut is on the way. The road rules I have all by heart—I learned the whole blamed list, complete, and no man ever sees my car upon the wrong side of the street. And while I exercise such care, while modestly my motor hums, along the teeming thoroughfare some badly located speed fan comes. He knocks the sawdust from some gent who hasn't time to climb a tree, and then, without or with intent, he slams his car right into me. I say, when from the dismal wreck I climb, and realize the worst, "The man who gets it in the neck, is he who swears by Safety First!"

AT THE CRESCENT.
Billie Reeves, the celebrated English Music Hall Comedian, and Mac Hatley figures in "An Artful Artist," a lively and funny comedy, at the Crescent Picture Palace to-day. Edgar Jones, the great Lubin star, assisted with a strong cast in a wonderful three reel feature, "Courage and the Mast," and the daring Helen Gibson in "One Chance in a Hundred," an episode of the "Hazard of Helen" railroad series. Professor McCarthy has arranged a new and classy musical programme for this big show. Don't miss seeing it to-day.

AT C. E. CATHEDRAL THURSDAY.
On Thursday next at the C. of E. Cathedral, being St. Andrew's Day, there will be an endless chain of prayer and intercession for missions. The service will open with a celebration of the Holy Communion and will be continued throughout the day. The parishioners of the different C. of E. parishes are requested to be present for a short period, from 20 to 30 minutes, at whatever time is convenient for them to make their supplications to Almighty God on behalf of the millions of people in the world who live in darkness of the blessings of Christianity.

Great Britain and Her Critics.

The British are giving most effective answer to critics who laughed and made fun when the Gallipoli campaign ended. A few more British soldiers on the western front means that Germany will have her hands full sure enough. While the French are weeping about England's failure to do her part, England is hitting the line hard, and she will continue to hit it until the last word of Europe's tragedy is written. The other day newspapers announced that Britain was preparing for greater efforts next year. Those who have read history receive this announcement without surprise. Men who fight until the last plank is shot from under them are not the sort of men to weep about what the other fellow is doing. They are true sports. In the game and out of it, they are always ready with their share, and that means a whole-hearted devotion to principle and to the rules.

"In the Way."

She says she's old and in the way,
And so with heart turned sad and gray
She thinks they wish that she would go,
And sometimes in her Corner there
The quiet silver tears will flow,
And all her dreams have turned De-
-spair—
And yet they idolize her so!
Dear heart! they love you just the same
As ere the wrinkled forehead came,
The stooping shoulders and the hands
So pale and thin. In other lands
Your thoughts have wandered, ere at -play
While love besides your rocker stands,
Ah, no, you are not in the way!
They're young, and busy, but they care;
They want you just to keep your chair,
And rest and smile and let them do
The task that comes so hard to you;
And you misunderstand, and weep,
And think they are no longer true,
And want you off someyhere asleep!
Be patient, and with heart of cheer
Trust them and understand more clear!
Not in the way, no, not to them;
Oh, let love dry the falling tear
And look forth, lady of the Dreams,
Across the far-receding streams,
With smiling lips when now appear
The visions of God's diadem!

Girls as Bank Clerks.

The "Financial post of Canada" says:— "The statement of Royal Bank officials to the post that they now employ about 700 women, in their various offices as compared to only 250 previous to the war, serves to draw added attention to another phase of the powerful current of these, our times. Incidentally, the management state that taken as a whole these woman are very satisfactory. They are largely young girls recruited from business colleges and the usual business channels, but of late a new element has crept into the supply. This is in reference to the fact that girls of well-to-do families who had not previously considered working are now beginning to fill the gap created by the absence of other bread-winners or else simply in answer to the more insistent demand for their services. This is stated to be particularly true in the case of the Halifax branches.

The importance of this news lies in the fact that it is symptomatic of a condition. Other banks are pursuing the same policy. Women are now generally employed in munition making in Canada. The Bertram plant at Dundas, Ont., and the Canada Cement plant in Montreal are illustrations of this fact. The available supply of such labor has only been scratched, and it appears to offer the greatest hope of replacing the ever-increasing shortage of labour. A resurvey of the chief conditions prevailing throughout the period of the war in England will show them to have been invariably duplicated in this country at a later date. Recruiting munitions! a period of depression, followed by great prosperity, labor shortage in all phases have been in variable reproduced here. And a similar result appears to be inevitable in the case of female labor. Britain has been forced to depend upon it to an unusual degree, and the sooner that Canadian industry adjusts itself to the same prospect the easier the change occur."

A Brassey Story.

Lord Brassey, despite his great age is very keenly interested in the war, and has presented his famous yacht, Sunbeam, to the Government of India for hospital purposes. Always noted for his love of an outdoor life, Lord Brassey in his younger days was an enthusiastic amateur cricketer, and many a game was played on his estate. On one occasion, the players being short of an umpire, one of his lordship's footmen was asked to fill the position. During Lord Brassey's innings a swift ball came and took the ball off neatly. "How's that?" he asked of the footman umpire. "I am afraid, your lordship," said the man politely, "I must say that you are not at home." "Not at home!" exclaimed the noble batsman in surprise. "What do you mean?" "Well," returned the footman, with a neat bow "if your lordship must have it: you are out!"

A muff of fabric can be made without much expense, and if trimmed with rabbit fur it can be very chic.

Florizel Here

With Biggest Cargo on Record—Many Newfoundland-Americans Return Home.

The Red Cross Liner Florizel, Capt. W. Martin, arrived here at 6 o'clock last evening from New York and Halifax after a fine run, favourable weather being had all the way. She brought a full general cargo, every available space on the ship being occupied above as well as below decks. New York was left on Tuesday last at 3 p.m. and reached Halifax at 9 p.m. Friday, leaving there again at 7 p.m. Saturday. The following passengers came in aboard—Mr. M. H. Barlow, Mr. F. Ellis, Mr. F. T. Fearn, Miss A. March, Miss M. Morey, Miss Margaret Clouston, Mrs. H. Barnes, Mr. G. Butt, Miss C. S. Butt, Mr. J. W. Andrews, Mr. W. Oldford and 43 second class. Amongst the latter were three people fishermen and a number of people belonging to different outboarders who had been "making it out" in Boston, New York and other U. S. cities for the past half dozen years or so; also the wives of several Newfoundlanders, now in Canadian Regiments, came along. The work of discharging the Florizel is being rushed in order to get her away as quickly as possible for Halifax where there is a considerable pile of freight awaiting shipment to this port.

Your Boys and Girls.

A little girl I know, has an allowance of twenty-five cents a week for spending money from an aunt. She has been provided with a small cheque book and bank deposit slips, and on receiving her allowance, makes out a deposit slip and deposits the money with her aunt, who has instituted herself "The Trust Company". When Betty wishes to spend any amount, however small, she writes a cheque and her aunt cashes it. She keeps an account book and her bank book and balanced monthly. She feels much interested in these business transactions, and in this way is learning to keep both bank and personal accounts. I think it is a valuable training for any child ten years, perhaps even younger.

Makes Hair Grow.

All drug stores sell SALVIA and it is guaranteed to grow hair or money back. The time to take care of your hair is when you have hair to take care of. If your hair is getting thin, gradually falling out, it cannot be long before the spot appears. The greatest remedy to stop the hair from falling is SALVIA, the Great American Hair Grower, first discovered in England. SALVIA furnishes nourishment to the hair roots and acts so quickly that people are amazed. And remember it destroys the Dandruff germ, the little pest that saps the life that should go to the hair from the roots. SALVIA is sold by first-class druggists under a positive guarantee to cure Dandruff, stop falling hair and itching scalp in ten days, or money back. A large bottle costs 60c. The word "SALVIA" on every bottle.

GERARD OFF FOR GERMANY.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27. Ambassador Gerard had a final conference with Secretary Lansing to-day, preparatory to sailing for Germany on December 5th by way of Copenhagen. The Ambassador and Secretary of State were silent about what was discussed at their conference, which lasted an hour, but in official quarters the impression prevailed that the delicate nature of the submarine situation and deportation of Belgians to Germany were discussed. As to the submarine situation Gerard will be able to say the position of the American Government is unaltered and that it expects Germany to fulfill its pledges.

15 YEARS SUFFERING FROM PILES

Mr. J. McEwen of Dundas, Ont., writes—"For fifteen years I suffered with Piles and could get no permanent cure until I tried Zam-Buk. Perseverance with this medicinal balm resulted in a complete cure, and I have not been troubled with the painful ailment since."

Mr. Henry Fougere of Poulmond, N.S., says—"I suffered terribly with Piles and could find nothing to relieve me until I used Zam-Buk. This cured me. I consider Zam-Buk the finest ointment on the market."

The above are specimens of the many letters we are constantly receiving from men and women who have ended their suffering by using Zam-Buk. Why not do likewise?

Wedding Bells.

At St. Finbar's Station, Harbour Island, Parish of Bar Haven, on Monday, November 20th, Miss Annie Conroy, of Harbour Island, was married to Patrick Green, of the same place, the Rev. Francis Cardella officiating. The pretty little Island was gaily decorated and volleys of musketry were fired on land and from the numerous boats going out to sea in commemoration of the event. The newly-wedded couple are universally popular along the whole coast line. On her nuptial day the bride wore a gown of blue cloth with mole skin trimmings and a black hat with bird of Paradise mount, and carried a bouquet of red roses. Her maid of honour was Miss Cecilia Green who was gowned in bright silver cloth of rare brilliancy and richness and wore a hat of white kid and blue plush trimmings. Mr. Walter Green supported the groom. Susie Green and Marie Williams were bridesmaids. The ushers were John Green, Berkeley Williams and Albert Warren; Master Johnny Green was ring bearer. Immediately after the marriage ceremony a reception was given to the invited guests. Mr. and Mrs. Green will reside at Harbour Island.—Com.

FOR CHAPPED HANDS.

With the crisp days that bring roses to the cheeks, heart glad with the rest of winter comes the old problem of keeping hands soft and white and presentable. In the summer time unless one worries about tan and freckles, manuring is the only hand treatment to think about, but in winter the danger of roughened and reddened skin returned. If the hands have become rough and unsightly, a simple home remedy is the quickest way out of the difficulty. Soak half a pound of oatmeal in a half quart of water for twelve hours, strain off the water, add a teaspoonful of ammonia, a teaspoonful of olive oil and a few drops of glycerine. Rub this into the hands at night before they are thoroughly washed and rinsed. Then slip on an old pair of gloves, which have the finger tips cut off. It would be well to follow up this treatment for two or three weeks until the hands have regained their natural whiteness and softness. Be sure to keep them out of very hot water, and most important of all, is to dry them thoroughly whenever they have been washed.

Charge of the Newfoundlanders.

JULY 1st, 1916.

Onward they swept in the flower of their manhood. Our lads from Newfoundland far over the sea; Onward they swept till the last man had fallen. Had fallen for Britain, the land of the free. With guns in front and rear, With death and danger near, To them unknown was fear, Gallant Eight Hundred!

Oh, well might we love the fair land that bore us. That can boast of such sons as loyal and true! Who save of their all to keep the flag flying, The Flag of our Empire, the Red, White and Blue. Fighting for truth and right 'Gainst those who worship might. They knew their cause was right, Loyal Eight Hundred!

For no braver deed hath e'er been recorded. Then their steady advance o'er the sheltering soil, The scene of long months of horror and anguish. Amid death and danger, privation and toil. On swept that gallant band, Falling on every hand. Over drea'd No Man's Land Swept that Eight Hundred.

Photography in Warfare

Another use for photography in war has been found by the Serbians in connection with their prisoners. The Bulgars, and the remembrance of their own cruelties to the Serbs, weighing on their minds, at first feared to surrender to the Serbian Army, their impression being that the Serbs would not take prisoners. Such as did give themselves up were, of course, treated as well by the Serbians as by any other section of the Allied Army, and to show other Bulgarians that they incurred no danger by surrendering, the Serbs had a photograph taken of long files of Bulgarian prisoners drawing rations, each man holding a loaf of bread and a bowl of soup. Two thousand copies of this photograph were printed, and the Bulgarians who had surrendered were invited to write messages on them to their comrades saying how they had been received. The 2,000 picture-post-cards were then dropped by aeroplanes into the Bulgarian lines. Since then surrenders have been much more frequent, and the men who give themselves up always try to bring with them a copy of the photograph, which they regard as a sort of safe conduct. One man said that he had paid fifteen francs for his, and that he carried it always with him in case he should be captured.

STAFFORD'S DRUG STORE (Theatre Hill) is open every night. nov28, 11

Some time ago, when Sir Ian Hamilton was reviewing a certain corps, a laughable incident occurred. One of the officers was mounted on a horse that had previously belonged to a baker. A wit in the crowd, who was aware of the fact, shouted out "Baker!" and immediately the horse stopped dead, and nothing the officer could do would make it budge. Things were beginning to look serious when suddenly the rider was struck with a brilliant idea. "Not to-day, thank you!" he shouted, and at once the noble animal moved on, to the intense relief of everyone concerned.

Nothing Wasted in France.

What becomes of old sardine-tins, tomato-tins, meat-tins, fruit-tins, and tins of all kinds? In France, where nothing is allowed to go to waste, they gather them up and use them—to cut into tin soldiers.

In France, too, old boots and shoes are collected, and every part is used over again. The work is mostly done by convicts in prisons. They take the boots and shoes to pieces and soak them; then the uppers are cut up into children's shoes, or, if they are gone too far for that, a peculiar kind of pressed leather is made by some chemical action. The nails are saved and sold, and the scraps go to the farmers to fertilize the soil.

Who would have thought it possible to make anything out of old saws? Yet it is said that many of the finest surgical instruments, and some of those used by engineers, are manufactured from the steel that first did duty in saws. The steel of saws is of the very best quality and finest temper; and since it is good in the first place, it is always good.

Patriotic Jews.

It is stated by Dr. Max Nordau, a well known Jewish writer, that at the present time about 700,000 Jews are fighting in the ranks of the various belligerent nations, and that already many thousands of them have been decorated for bravery. They have earned more than 2,000 crosses of the Legion of Honor, war crosses, and military medals in France; three Victoria Crosses, besides numerous Distinguished Conduct Medals in England, and more than 8,000 Iron Crosses in Germany.

It is estimated that so far some 60,000 Jews have died in battle.

Back From the War.

(Boston Herald.)

One of the most striking by-products of the war is the many-paged volume which Sir Oliver Lodge, Britain's famous physicist, devotes to the memory of his son, Raymond. Only a few years out of his teens, the young man went early to the front for active service as a soldier, and there soon endeared himself to friends and fellow officers. His fine personality is well brought out by the letters which he wrote home, and which his father now prints as they were received. The mistakes ceased in the autumn of 1915, and after a few days of silence the family was notified that Raymond had died of wounds received at Hooge. Was that the real end of a life so full of promise? Sir Oliver did not believe it.

The father now tells how a seance enabled him to resume communication with his dead son. At the first sitting with the medium Raymond "manifested" and made mention of a photograph in which he appeared "in a group with other men." The family knew nothing of the picture, but continued the seances and was finally informed by the young man that he had been taken "sitting down," that the others in the group were standing, and that somebody had "wanted to lean on him." More than a month later it was discovered that a group of the Second South Lancashire officers had been photographed, and when the picture arrived it showed Raymond sitting down with a man's arm upon his. At one of the sittings Sir Oliver asked a question regarding the word "Argonauts," which had no meaning for him, but had been suggested by one of the members of his family. In response Raymond spelled out the word "Telegram." It turned out later that a year before his death, while motoring in Devonshire, he had sent home a telegram to say that his party was all right, and had signed the communication "Argonauts."

Sir Oliver gives other "evidence" in support of his faith that in the highest and truest sense Raymond still lives, and has simply been "continued into a life better, higher and happier than that of this physical earth." The incredulous will doubtless have much to say concerning the nature of the "proofs" offered; believers in the view that human personality survives after death will welcome this new affirmation. For most people who are eager to be won over, but not willing to be convinced prematurely, the book will appear as a human document of rare interest in which the thesis defended by Sir Oliver Lodge for thirty years past gets the re-enforcement of the family affections and finds its culmination in a vigorously scientific statement of the grounds on which the living may hope for intercourse with the so-called "dead."
