LORD MORDEN'S DAUGHTER

— OR —

THE TRAGEDY OF THE CEDARS.

CHAPTER XXXI.

"I don't believe it," pursued the valet. "It is false; I can prove it! By Heaven! and that smiling villain is with you! Master, I beg of you to listen to me!"

"This comes of making a confidant of one's servant," Melville said, plaintively. "Really, there can be but one master."

"Peters, you can say all that you wish to say to me at home," Locksley replied, reprovingly. "You are standing in my light if you make matters awkward now, and you do not wish to do that, I know."

Peters relinquished his hold on the horse's reins, and met the malevolent glance of the viscount with a savage, threatening glare.

"I believe that he has lied to you, master," he said. "And I shall not follow you to 'The Cedars.' I have important work here!"

"Drive on," the viscount called to his cabman.

"One moment," growled the valet, and he thrust his face close to that of the schemer. "You will not injure him! You will not injure him! You will not hurt a single hair of his head! His well-being alone is your safeguard."

"You are mad!" said Melville, with a ghastly smile.

"I repeat what I have said," was the ominous rejoinder. "I have much to do here at present, but I will come later to see how my foolish master fares at your hands, and I will come well supported."

"I will not suffer this," was the hoarse cry of the viscount.

He tried to signal to the driver to go on, but the valet laid upon his wrist a grasp of steel.

"One moment," he laughed. "I wish you to understand me and obey. I do not think you will dare to disobey me. If you do, I will ask you what has become of Sir George Moncrieff? Good-night, master. You are safe for a time at least!"

As the horse plunged away into the darkness, Melville heard his mocking laughter; it rang in his ears like the gloating of a demon.

Ten minutes earlier he had had visions of wealth and ease, but they were changed, and the noose of the hangman's rope dangled before his eyes.

"For a time," he thought. "I am balked, for a short time."

He showed his teeth, through his parted lips, and they were set in a firm line.

"This valet saw the affair by the horse-pond! He alone is in my path now. The man beside me is a cipher comparatively."

He smiled, and muttered: "For a short time!"

CHAPTER XXXII.

Dora had approached "The Cedars," a pale, trembling anxious girl; she left the house of mystery a determined woman.

Frank Rogers was waiting for her at Charing Cross station, and he marvelled at the change that marked her features.

He had news of importance, but he refrained from speaking until Dora made some sign.

"I am glad that you are here, Mr. Rogers," she said, "and I want you to take me to the office of Mr. Fairfax, the barrister, at once."

"You have no news of Mr. Locksley?" he asked. "I would suggest, madam," he added, after a moment's hesitation, "that you confide in me. I have all Mr. Locksley's private affairs in hand, even in preference to Mr. Fairfax."

"I shall intrust everything to you," Dora replied. "I desire to consult Mr. Fairfax upon the question of the validity of my marriage—to inform him of my true position, and then we will move Heaven itself to search for my husband."

Frank hailed a cab, and in ten minutes Dora found herself in the presence of the young barrister.

He met her eyes gravely—questioningly.

"I cannot understand where Mr. Locksley can have gone to," he said. "I am astonished that he has not communicated with me—that he has not carried out arrangements that we made."

He hesitated to speak outright, and paced the floor in great agitation.

"I have heard to-day," Dora faltered, "that my marriage was no marriage at all. Will you tell me my exact position?"

"It was this suggestion, Mrs. Locksley, that took Edmund away from you on your wedding day. My sudden illness was a little fiction of mine. The marriage holds good until set aside by a judge in chancery. It may be that you would get the decision, but the position is a painful one, and it was decided that the ceremony should be performed again on the following day, at Streamham, with an ordinary license. Edmund left me in good spirits with this arrangement in view, to see his father, and I have heard not one word of him since."

Dora then related her interview with Viscount Melville, and Fairfax vented his rage and indignation in no measured terms.

"There is a foul plot—a base conspiracy afoot," he said, "and it is in some way connected with the elder Locksley's secluded life. My dear Mrs. Locksley, do not anticipate that Edmund is seriously hurt or anything of that kind. Remember that we are living in the nineteenth century—in the days of police, and the electric light and my friend is no child to be made away with."

"I am glad," she murmured tearfully, "that I may call myself by the name he gave me—for a time, at least. I will visit you again to-morrow, Mr. Fairfax, and in the meantime I shall not be idle."

She could see that he was aroused to action, and felt grateful to him for his kind sympathy.

She accompanied Frank Rogers to a cafe, where he chose a quiet corner.

He ordered tea a Dora's request, and then reported upon the work he had in hand.

"As it is of vital importance to you, Mrs. Locksley, I should like your approval, and must prepare you for surprises," he told her. "I cabled advertisements to a number of colonial newspapers, and on my own responsibility offered a substantial reward for information concerning Lord Alfred Morden, who is supposed to have died in India seventeen years since. I signed these notices with one word only—Dora. I have already received a cable from a detective in Africa. Here it is."

Dora took the slip of paper and read: "Met Lord Morden five years since, travelling incog. Send particulars. Following this was the address of the police headquarters of a colonial city."

It was hard for Dora to control her agitation, and she trembled from head to foot.

"Oh, Mr. Rogers," she exclaimed, "there is hope—there is hope!"

"There is more than that, Mrs. Locksley," returned Frank, pale with excitement. "To my thinking there is absolute certainty that your father, Lord Alfred Morden, is in the land of the living, and that if we can only bring our advertisement under his eye, we shall have him claiming you before long. Now all I want is your permission to advertise in the chief London dailies, to advertise in a way that will appeal to his lordship's heart if he has one."

"If you think that my husband would approve, I have nothing to say," Dora told him; "but this is of a secondary consideration, even the finding of my father, until Edmund comes back to me."

She gave way for a little while, and wept bitterly, while Frank turned away, alligently engaged with pencil and paper.

"I will put this advertisement in the papers, Mrs. Locksley," he said, at length; "it will not occupy an hour, and while we are waiting for results, every moment shall be engaged in searching for Mr. Locksley. You have no reason to fear anything worse than an accident. Big strong men are not spirited away, in these times."

He spoke cheerfully, but his heart misgave him.

Mrs. Hill: "Does your husband object to cats?"
 Mrs. Hill: "Yes, indeed. He says I feed all his cats in the neighbourhood. Won't you stay and have tea?"

NERVES AND FAINTING SPELLS

Sent Woman to Bed. Great Change After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Sarnia, Ontario.—"After my girl was born I was a wreck. My nerves were too terrible for words and I simply could not stand or walk without pain. I suffered with fainting spells until I was no longer any good for my household duties and had to take to my bed. The doctor said I should have an operation, but I was not in a fit condition at that time. My neighbor said, 'Why don't you try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?' I am sure it will do you good and will save those doctor's bills." So I was advised by my husband to try it after I told him about it. I am very thankful to say that I was soon able to take a few boarders for a while as rooms were scarce at that time. My baby is 17 months old now and I have not yet had an operation, thanks to your medicine. I have recommended the Vegetable Compound to a few people I know and have told them the good it has done me. I know I feel and look a different woman these last few months and I certainly would not be without a bottle of your medicine in the house. You can use this letter as you see fit, as I should be only too glad for those suffering as I have to know what it has done for me."—Mrs. ROBERT G. MACDONALD, R. R. No. 2, Sarnia, Ontario.

A recent canvass of women users of the Vegetable Compound report 98 out of 100 received beneficial results. C

Italy's Action Against Communists

2 TONS OF LITERATURE SEIZED.

ROME.—Alarmed at the outbursts of criminal Communist activity in Europe, the Italian police are keeping a special watch on Italian Communist circles.

Searches of suspected houses have been carried out in many localities and many arrests and detentions have been made, especially in Naples, where the police took more than a hundred persons in charge.

In Rome the authorities have seized about two tons of propagandist literature packed, addressed, and loaded in motor-torries ready for distribution. The Italian police believe they have unearthed a Communist insurance plot to embrace the whole of Europe. The plot is operated by the Moscow Cheka, which sent out instructions for the organization of the proletariat in Central Europe, the Balkans, and Italy.—Exchange.

18,000 Pounds Cheaper FOREIGN SHIPBUILDING TENDERS AND BRITISH.

Tenders which the Blue Star Line invited recently for eight refrigerated meat ships have now been received and are being considered.

These ships are to be each of about 12,000 tons dead weight, and the Shipbuilding and Shipping Record understands that the lowest Continental price is from £18,000 to £20,000 per steamer lower than the lowest British tender.

Efforts are being made to bridge the difference with a view to retaining the contracts in this country.

No Central Bureau to Control Traffic in Arms

Premier Baldwin Declines to Set a Time Limit on Debtor Nations--Germany Intends to Carry Out Dawes Plan--Proposed Changes in B.N.A. Act Will Not be Considered this Session.

GERMANY WILL CARRY OUT DAWES PLAN.

BERLIN, May 18. Foreign Minister Stresemann announced to-day to the Reichstag that the German Government will continue to carry out the Dawes plan.

47 DEAD IN MINE EXPLOSION.

DORSTFELD, Germany, May 18. The number of known dead in the mine explosion here Saturday has now reached 47 with 27 injured.

DECLINES TO IMPOSE TIME LIMIT.

LONDON, May 18. Replying to a suggestion to-day in the House of Commons, Premier Stanley Baldwin declined to impose a time limit on France and other debtor countries in which to formulate proposals for the settlement of their debts to Great Britain.

NO CENTRAL BUREAU FOR ARMS CONTROL.

GENEVA, May 18. The crisis in the international conference for the control of the traffic in arms and munitions which has been created by the refusal of the United States to have the League of Nations Council appoint a control office for arms control was averted to-day by the decision to abandon the plan to establish the proposed central bureau.

SHEPHERD ON TRIAL FOR MURDER.

CHICAGO, May 18. Caught in the trail of disaster that has followed the McClintock fortune for generations, William D. Shepherd, the last titular owner, to-day faced trial for murder. He stood charged with slaying by typhoid germs, the last possessor of the $1,500,000 legacy. William Nelson McCormack, a youth, who, as a ward of Mrs. Shepherd, had lived with them 16 years. Shepherd counter-charged that it was a plot fostered by a dozen cousins of McClintock to break the will in order to come in for a division of the fortune and thereby deprive him of his inherited rights. He entered an absolute denial of the twenty-one counts of the murder indictment. State's Attorney, Robert E. Crowe, will direct the prosecution. Young McClintock died on December 4, 1924, a few months after reaching his majority and signing a will drawn by Shepherd and attested by Shepherd's house servants. Shepherd was made chief beneficiary with an $8,000 annuity for Isabelle Pope McClintock's fiancée, who married him if he recovered.

FRENCH BANKER DESTROYED--CREW SAVED.

ST. PIERRE, May 18. The French steamer Phippi arrived here to-day with the crew of the three-masted fishing schooner, Aralla, of St. Malo, which caught fire on May 13, while at anchor on the Grand Banks and was destroyed. The Phippi arrived on the scene in time to take off the ship's company, numbering 35.

PRINCE PLAYS GOLF.

PORT ALFRED, Union South Africa, May 18--Lured by perfect weather, the Prince of Wales spent to-day playing golf. He will leave to-night for Grahamstown.

MEMORIAL SERVICE FOR MILNER.

LONDON, May 18. Premier Baldwin and almost every member of the Cabinet, together with distinguished statesmen of every shade of political opinion, to-day attended a memorial service at Westminster Abbey for the late Viscount Milner, former Secretary of State.

NOT READY TO DISCUSS CHANGES.

OTTAWA, May 18. It is not likely that the proposed changes in the British North America Act to curtail the power of the Canadian Senate will be formally discussed in the House of Commons this session, Premier King said to-day in answer to a question asked by Mr. Meighan.

WHY PAY 90c. to $1.00 Per Pound for PACKET TEAS?

The consumer must pay for the fancy lead or tin container, be it little or much, and the cost is usually about 5c. to 10c. per pound.

When you buy packet teas you get 5c. to 10c. less value per lb. than if you buy Standard well-known grades of loose tea from a reputable house. In addition there is the cost of special advertising to keep each brand before the public.

I recommend "ROSALIND" as a fine Sturdy AUTUMNAL FLAVORED LOOSE CEYLON TEA, to which NO fancy charges for packing, etc., are added.

This TEA is giving every satisfaction and the price is 75c. lb. Lower priced tea if required.

ben, Leader of the Opposition. The Premier said he doubted if there would be time and added that the Government had not yet considered an agenda for the provincial conference which it proposed to call for considering such changes in the constitution.

POISONED BY MUSSELS.

VANCOUVER, B.C., May 18. Four Chinese cannery employees at Menzies Bay, fifty miles north of Albert Bay, Vancouver Island, have died from poisoning after eating mussels, according to a wireless message received to-day. A coroner has left for the scene.

THREE DEAD IN PISTOL FIGHT.

STAMFORD, Conn., May 18. Three men, all Italians, are dead, while three others are being sought by the police following an unprovoked street corner gun battle here yesterday.

RAISED TO PRIESTHOOD.

QUEBEC, May 18. Rev. Abbe Jeremiah Howard, of St. Grace, Nfld., was elevated to the Priesthood yesterday in the Grand Seminary by His Grace Mgr. Langlois, Auxiliary to His Eminence Cardinal Begin.

FEAR NON-UNION MINE COMPANIES.

WHEELING, W.Va., May 18. Overflooding of coal market by non-union mining companies, with resulting two years of idleness and distress in the union coal field of Ohio, was predicted by G. J. Albans, Secretary of the Pittsburg Vein Operators' Association, in an address here last night.

STEAMER REFOATED.

HALIFAX, May 18. The Danish steamer Hans Amensen, which stranded near Whitehead, Guysboro County, Friday evening, May 8, while on a voyage in ballast from New York to Montreal, was refloated this afternoon by the Halifax wrecking tug Reinder. It will be towed to Halifax for permanent repairs.

Thos. Meighan Stars in "Woman Proof"

ADAMS AND CHENEY REVDITIONS APPLAUDED BY MAJESTIC PATRONS.

"What's seldom seen or heard is wonderful," the foregoing may be rightfully attributed to the program at the Majestic Theatre last night. Adams and Cheney certainly excelled themselves. Those who heard "Liebestreu" by Kreisler, the famous violinist certainly appreciated it, but the selections of the Woodmen also The Light Opera Airs virtually caused an outbreak of applause which came as a voluntary tribute to the artists who were time and again called upon to respond to encores.

The Feature.

Appearing in one of the most delightful picture comedies seen here this season, Thomas Meighan, popular Paramount star, scored an emphatic hit in George Ade's "Woman-Proof." Mr. Meighan is seen in this picture as Tom Rockwood, a civil engineer who is required by the terms of his father's will to marry within five years after the latter's death in order to inherit an estate of a million or more. His brothers and sisters who are bound by the same command are ready to marry, but Tom fails to find a woman whom he can love, and as the final day approaches, and Tom still remains unmarried, it becomes evident that the entire estate will go to an old people's home.

At the last moment he meets and loves a beautiful girl played by Lila Lee, but there are serious hitches in their love romance which threatens to spoil all the plans of the Rockwood family. Be sure and see this bill at the Majestic to-night or to-morrow afternoon and night.

Successful Concert and Dance

At the Star of the Sea Hall last night a successful concert and dance was held, the proceeds for which go towards defraying cost of the Night School which was held during the winter. The programme was organized by Mr. J. Canning and consisted of songs, duets, pianoforte solos, selections on the French Horn, and selections by the Mount Cashel Band. Amongst those who took part in the concert were:--Mesdames C. J. Cahill and B. H. Norris, Misses Howlett, O'Brien, Veitch, Haynes and Meaney, and Messrs. W. J. Darcy, O. Drover, J. Canning, and A. Bulley. A short dance at which the Mount Cashel Band furnished the music concluded the evening's entertainment. Refreshments were served by the Star of the Sea Ladies' Auxiliary, who are also giving the treat for the boys of the Night School on Wednesday evening at seven o'clock.

MINARD'S LINIMENT FOR THE GRIPPE.

West Coast Fishery

The following reports have been received by the Secretary of the Board of Trade during the week:--

Hare Bay, Cul de Sac to Francois, District of Burgeo and La Poudre--Total landed to date 4,300 qtls., for the previous week 400 qtls. There are no traps in the water, but 50 dories and skiffs and eight boats are operating. No bankers have arrived. Herring for bait purposes plentiful. Five boats have arrived from the western shore averaging 40 qtls. per boat.

Eagle Pt., Long Harbor Pt. to Mall Bay--Total landed to date 20 qtls. No traps in water. Dories and skiffs fishing 15. Prospects very poor with cod nets at present. Herring plentiful. Nothing doing with trawls yet.

West Point to Otter's Point--Total landed to date 360 qtls., for past week 180 qtls. No traps in water. There are 26 dories and skiffs fishing. Prospects are very good, though herring bait is scarce.

Belleoram to Rencontre East--Total landed to date 2,900 qtls. Three bankers have arrived, including the S.S. Cape Agutahs, which is being reported as a banker. The shore fishery is poor, though bait is plentiful.

Richard's Harbour West to Raymond's Point East--Total landed to date 4,975 qtls., with 250 for the week. There are 120 dories and skiffs operating. Prospects are poor, but there is sufficient herring for bait purposes. The weather has been exceptionally moderate for the past week, only a part of one day were the men prevented from fishing. A very poor catch, however, has been made, there being not over 30 or 40 qtls. per boat taken, whilst in some cases not half this amount was secured.

Great Harbour, Comraige Bay to Coomb's Cove, Bay de L'Eau--Total catch landed to date 1,755 qtls., with 605 for the week. 35 dories and skiffs were responsible for 105 qtls. One banker has landed 500 qtls. Prospects are good; herring plentiful. Fishing was not so good as during the previous week, the weather being foggy.

Wedding Bells

GALWAY--GLAVIN.

The marriage took place on Wednesday, April 29th, at St. Joseph's Church, Somerville, by Rev. Fr. Fitzgerald, of Miss B. Galway to Mr. Thomas Glavin. The bride was prettily attired in cream satin with veil and orange blossoms and carried a shower bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley. She was attended by her sister, Miss Mae Galway, who wore an Indian pink dress with hat to match and carried a bouquet of tea roses. The groom was ably supported by Mr. D. Head. The groom's present to the best man was a white gold watch, and to the bridesmaid a handsome string of pearls. The bride received many useful presents including a handsome clock, a case of silverware and several cheques. A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, 1 Hillside Park, Somerville, Mass.

Personal

Capt. Storey, who was landed at this port from his ship S.S. Andania about three weeks ago, suffering from a severe attack of Diabetes, is now well on the road to recovery and he expects to leave Hospital in time to sail for England by the next Digby. Constable Vall of St. Mary's, who entered the General Hospital for treatment a few days ago, had a successful operation performed at that institution yesterday.

Shipping

S.S. Hitherwood, the second boat of the Canada Steamship Line, left Montreal at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon. She is due here at the end of the week. S.S. Digby leaves Halifax to-day for this port from Boston.

One of the most popular of the new blue shades is Madonia.

SUGGESTIONS FOR SOLVING CROSS-WORD PUZZLES Start out by filling in the words of which you feel reasonably sure. These will give you a clue to other words crossing them, and they in turn to still others. A letter belongs in each white space, words starting at the numbered squares and running either horizontally or vertically or both.

Motor Wisdom Which Applies to All

LET'S TRY FOR A SAFE SEASON
ON THE STREETS.

May marks the opening of the motoring season—it we can still think of any special season for this activity. We have largely abolished seasons with motor cars. Yet it is about May 1 that flocks of new cars appear on the roads. It is with the coming of beautiful New England spring days that swarms of pleasure cars throng the statehighways on Sundays. It is with the coming of longer daylight that evenings bring forth crowds of men and women and children in their cars. What will be the death list this summer?

The legislative session which has now come to an end has given a deal of time to trying to diminish the perils of the highways. It has had in mind the pedestrian in town and village and city centre, who finds his or her life in jeopardy every day from reckless or thoughtless or incompetent or careless drivers. It has had in mind the careful driver who knows when he starts out on a journey by highway that he is to be in constant danger of being smashed up by some wild driver who will come swooping upon him.

Now the Legislature is through with its work. It is not now responsible for safety on the highways. The responsibility now transfers from the lawmakers to those who are to enforce the laws they have made; and which is even more important, to the shoulders of those who drive automobiles; and this includes nearly everyone. The motor car is no longer the vehicle of a few. It is not a class carriage. The well-to-do and the less so occupy about as much space on the highways. A flivver is quite as much of a problem as an eight-cylinder car. The workmen driving to his work is just as much a source of peril, and is just as responsible, as the youth prancing about in a 10.00 speedster.

We shall not have road safety until every individual starting out with his motor car, whether to drive in town or to go shopping or to take a pleasure trip or to hurry across the state or start on his vacation—whatever he has in mind—shall begin with the thought that on his own individual back rests the whole problem of safe roads.

The causes of many observed accidents on the highways are not touched by laws and regulations at all. If you drive much about New England, and take note of the accidents you see, or whose cars draw your attention, you will probably come to the conclusion that a large proportion of these accidents occur in one of three ways: Collisions at cross roads, or entering side roads; sliding on curves; collisions caused by taking blind curves on the wrong side of the road. Yet there is no hard-and-fast rule or law that will prevent these accidents. Their prevention depends on the common sense and caution of the driver. Maybe that is a slender reed.

How fast can you take a curve? No one knows. An experienced driver may think his car will take any ordinary curve at 35 or 50 miles an hour. He may do this for a hundred times. But he knows, if he knows anything, that when he takes a curve at high speed there is a tremendous pull of the road. He must know that some day something will happen—a bit of gravel in the road, a bad fire, a bit of ice or clay mud, a "shimmy" in the front wheels—and will make his 101st time a catastrophe. The wise driver NEVER takes curves fast—even if the law allows him 35 miles an hour. Slow up at ALL curves, ALWAYS.

It appears to be a temptation to many drivers, who do not class themselves as reckless, to cut corners, to take a wrong curve on a state highway on the wrong side. This works all right except when there happens to be another car coming the other way on the right side of the road. When that occurs, either there is a sudden stop or a crash. Nor is the reckless corner-cutting driver alone responsible—though maybe he ought to be. When you approach a blind curve, even though you are on the proper side of the road and undoubtedly have the right of way, keep in mind the thought that there may be a fool driver around the bend who is cutting a corner. Slow up and be ready for a quick stop. And—don't be afraid to sound your horn at curves. It is not the sign of a green driver or to sound the horn at blind corners. It is the sign of common sense. That's what horns are for.

When you come to a cross road or an entering street, assume that a car is going to come out of it. Usually none come; sometimes one does. One collision does the damage. A thousand escapes do not balance a single collision.

An excellent rule of driving for every motorist to keep in mind is to assume that around every corner is a fool driver. This means that responsibility for your own safety is not removed by any optimistic thought that others are obeying the laws and the local regulations and the dictates of common sense. There is a rhyme which appeared some time ago—we think in the Transcript—which every motorist ought to commit to memory and to recite every time he starts out. It is this:

Here lies the body of Jonas Jay.
He died maintaining his right of way.
He was right, dead right, as he sped along—
But he's just as dead as if he'd been wrong!

Another wise precaution: Lock your car every time you step out of it. If it is no more than to step into a store to buy a paper, or to go into your own home to get something you have forgotten. In Lynn a few days ago a six-year-old boy climbed aboard a small truck parked outside the home of the driver, started the car moving, and jumped out. The truck collided with a touring car, and both machines were damaged. No automobile should ever be left unlocked for an instant when the driver is out of his seat.

When you park your car be sure that it will not start rolling even if the brakes slip.—Boston Herald.

Just Folks.

By EDGAR GUEST.

THE WORST OF CHILDREN.

There are things I don't like about children.
There are things which I wish I could cure:
I don't like 'em with mumps, or with bruises and bumps
And the pains which they have to endure;
I love 'em around me, but shudder with fear
Whenever a child with the whooping cough's near.

Now toothache's all right for a grown-up, I say,
But a child shouldn't have it at all;
And I surely can't see why these fevers should be Permitted when people are small;
Why can't we who are old and grown used to life's shocks
Have the measles and mumps and the child's chicken pox?

I can stand for the mischief and stand for the noise,
But I can't stand the sob and the sigh;
And I can't stand to see any child about me
With a feverish drop in his eye;
Now why can't they wait 'till he's grown up and stout
Before taking his tonsils and adenoids out?

I'm at peace with the world when my children are well,
I can smile at the wrong which they do;
But I've no peace of mind when I come home and find
They are down with some malady new;
I don't like to see little tots sick abed,
Why can't grown-ups have mumps and the measles instead?

For pain in the back—try Juniper Pills—25c. at STAFFORDS.—apr27,imo

EXAGGERATION.

Punktown boosters, in their ardour, sometimes knock the truth askew, and this sort of thing comes harder on the town than knocks would do. I have evermore insisted that no falsehoods be expressed; I have wotted, I have wisted, that the truth is always best. Punktown's merits are so striking she is sure to gain renown; let the pikers do their piking in some less desirable town. Come a stranger to our city, and his given name was James, and his story roused the pity of all delegates and ladies. He had lost his costly dwelling in a distant, windswept clime, where tornadoes come up yelling, pulling stunts which are a crime. "Now I wish to dwell forever," he remarked, with falling tear, "where no cyclones come to sever all the ties a man holds dear. Where a man won't see his stable blown away in storm and wreck; where the wind won't blow the gables from the north end of his shack." And the boosters cried, "Oh stranger, if in Punktown you abide, you will never be in danger, here no cyclones are supplied. So the stranger bought a shanty just beyond the public square, and he settled with his suitcase in a calm contentment there. And he just was nicely settled when a windstorm came along; it was rude and highly mettled, it was truculent and strong. And it tore his shack to stivers, and it blew away his hat, and he's using ink in rivers, telling all the world of that.

Some of the topcoats are quite nicely tailored and inishish in effect.

Godets, sounces, platts and garyery introduce fullness quite cleverly.

Better and Better

Dependable ten years ago, and five years ago, and more dependable than ever to-day, Dodge Brothers Motor Car simply represents the latest phase in a process of continual betterment.

The first cars Dodge Brothers built established a world-wide reputation. The cars they are building to-day incorporate the accumulated refinements of those ten intervening years.

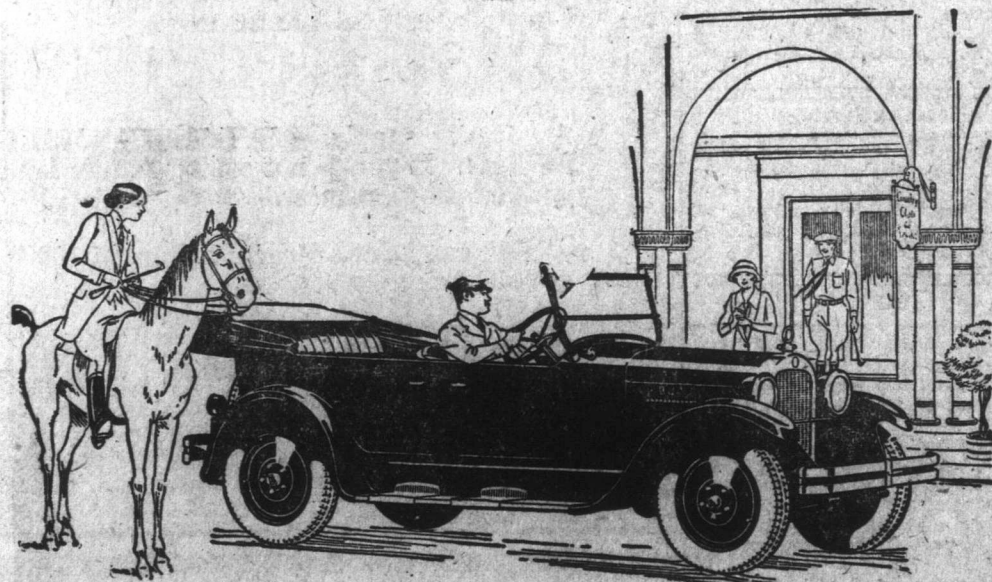

That important improvements in the comfort and appearance of the car are made from time to time, implies no basic departure from Dodge Brothers traditional policy of PROGRESSIVE rather than SEASONAL development.

Relieving the Burden of Taxation

The Chancellor of the Exchequer in delivering his Budget speech declared that an Economy Committee was to be given the task of cutting $10,000,000 each year progressively off the expenditure of the Government Departments.

This expenditure at present is about $800,000,000 as compared with $197,000,000 at the commencement of the war. Since that year the amount raised by direct taxation has increased from $3 11s. to $15 18s. per head of population. While these sums may not particularly impress the reader, the more than four-fold increase shows clearly that when the burden is referred to as overwhelming, the expression can by no means be regarded as a figure of speech.

In Newfoundland in 1914-15 expenditure was $4,008,623. In 1923-24 it amounted to $10,022,137, which means that in order to meet current expenses at present we are called upon to pay about $36.00 per head of the population. In 1914 it was $16.00.

While it is evident that our position with regard to the amount which we pay in taxes is by no means as onerous as that of the people in Great Britain, who have other burdens in addition to those included in the figures quoted, the increase in our taxes during the past ten years must be made the chief question to be considered, and a way found to lighten them.

To this vital question we understand the Government will give its undivided attention prior to the next session. They have been criticized because a solution of all the difficulties has not already been found, but most of those who have indulged in criticism forget that they were chiefly instrumental in imposing the burden, and when the commissioners were appointed to make recommendations for a revision of the tariff, they were at the same time instructed that their powers did not permit them to make any reduction in the revenue which the revised tariff would provide.

Mr. Winston Churchill upon succeeding to the Chancery position found a surplus of over $3,000,000, which was the result of Mr. Philip Snowden's careful administration of the financial affairs of the country. The Minister of Finance and Customs, upon assuming control of his Department, found that he had to meet unpaid bills left by the last administration amounting to $97,706, and in addition a deficit of over $1,600,000. Despite that handicap, he was able to give the producers in the country a large measure of taxation relief by placing their chief requirements on the free list, without impairing the efficiency of the public service or adding to the burden of the other sections of the population.

It may confidently be expected that the Government will by the next session be able to present a tariff which will further ease the burden, and that no effort will be spared to effect a reduction in the cost of the country's public service. The encum-brances are the growth of years, but are by no means useful or necessary appendages, and few will regret their disappearance.

A Hooligans' Rendezvous

We have been asked to call attention of the authorities to a crowd which nightly collects at the corner of Colonial Street and Bond Street and which are a source of annoyance to people living near there, also to passers-by. On Sunday evening last church-goers, who remonstrated with them because of their conduct in throwing stones at Fella College fence, playing "football" with an empty tin and generally making themselves a nuisance, received nothing more than considerable abuse, and the property in the neighbourhood shows many effects of the pranks indulged in. The visit of a plain clothes policeman to the vicinity every now and then might have a good effect.

Control the Street Traffic

It is a frequent occurrence to see motor cars, particularly at dinner hour and at six o'clock, speeding over Prescott Street, sometimes two abreast at a rate which, even within legal limits, cannot be considered as anything but dangerous. Duckworth Street, Gower St. and Bond Street, are crossed without any let up, regardless of traffic moving east and west, and the traffic regulation which says: "At no street intersection or curve in a city, town or village, where the driver has not a clear view, the rate shall not exceed ten miles an hour", is absolutely disregarded. Yesterday at six o'clock, within a few minutes we witnessed three car drivers violate the traffic regulations, on the junction of Duckworth and Prescott Streets, and two drivers of coal carts who committed the same offence, and there was no one to pull them up. A traffic officer stationed at this busy crossing would be of the greatest service in compelling motorists and others to respect the rules and the rights of pedestrians.

PEPYS BEHIND THE SCENES

May 18th—At the Club this day, Phipps tells me a droll tale of how a member of the watch, seeing a woman lying on the ground and a motor coach speeding up the street, did ask a man standing near if the coach did knock the woman down. "Indeed, no," replied the man. "The coach did stop to let her pass and she did faint from the shock of it." Falling into discourse of our fish markets, he tells me how it was given him on good authority that there is yet 100 thousand quintals of fish in the country and the markets are overstocked, yet has every hope that the year will be a prosperous one. By despatches out of America, news of the rum fleet now high dived away, being that the excise officers do pursue the bootleggers with more force than ever before. "Yet do I venture to think that the country will never be dry, nor can any number of excise officers make it so even with the most extreme vigilance. This night, my wife and I to the Nickel house, there to see the "Originals," and she all of a twitter being the first time in many months that I have taken her to a play. But, Lord, I did never see a better performance, and above all else, Mr. Pearson impersonating a woman, did make such a pretty wretch that methinks all the men that were there did lose their hearts to him. I greatly pleased with the whole thing, I am determined to go another time to see it.

A Splendid Revue

Jolly, Melody and Vivacity of "The Originals" Captivate The Audience.

The audience which filled the Nickel Theatre last night to witness the first production of "Stepping Out," by "The Originals," were quickly convinced that there was no other possible name for that talented troupe. Artistic settings, tuneful music, lightning-like changes, humorous skits, delightful singing and splendid elocution made the two and a half hours of the revue all too short, and it is certain that all who were present will take the earliest opportunity to see them again. It was the chance of a lifetime for a laugh, and it is seldom that we have seen an audience let itself go in such unrestrained mirth. In fact it was impossible to do otherwise. The whole programme is a rare combination of humor and melody, and the players are past masters in both. Certainly the Originals went right over the top, in spite of the fact that it was the opening performance, and after a long journey, and they carried the whole house with them in an irresistible rush.

The whole public had heard a great deal about "Miss" Gene Pearson, but no one was quite prepared for the dazzling beauty, who appeared as Madame Helena, at the re-union of the original members of the "th Battery," in an amazing gown and thrilled the audience with "her" soprano voice and graceful acting. "Mrs." Alan Murray also, in the role of Madame's maid, which perhaps did not call for such grace of action or such melodious singing, was no less a surprise. The impersonations of these performers throughout the revue and that of Mr. Leonard Young, as the dear Duchess of Dishwater, were somewhat of a revelation, and we are quite convinced that there is more truth than fiction in the rumor that at several places where the troupe appeared, callers at the green room refused to be convinced that they had been deceived by appearances.

Mr. Bob Anderson, as John Willie Shuffelbottom, scored a well deserved success in his numerous roles. His inimitable stage appearance and his ready wit, thoroughly entertained the audience, and perhaps we are not far astray in saying that St. John's has seldom, if ever, been visited by a more versatile and gifted comedian. Solos, duets, quartettes, sextettes and choruses, were all rendered in a delightful manner and Mr. Dunn in "Pasliacti," won a hurricane of applause. One of the most striking scenes was "Heroes," a satirical tableau vivant exceedingly well conceived and effectively carried out. It strikingly illustrated the tragic side of the hero in misfortune after the glamour of war had passed.

Those of the audience to whom vocal music makes the chief appeal, could desire nothing better than Bernard Langley's (Sgt. Major Pep) solo "Drinking," "Jog Along Jasper," "Rolling Down To Rio," by the Original Quartette, "Come Sing To Me," by the Pierrots, or "In The Night Time," by Lionel Broadway. In his various character sketches and particularly as the Rev. Mr. Philpott, Norman Blume made a tremendous hit.

It is impossible to do full justice to all who helped in this brilliant programme, but we feel certain that the gentlemen who make up the cast will be thoroughly well known by the music loving public in St. John's before their week's engagement is over, so that they will receive the appreciation they so fully merit is certain.

The executive staff and in particular Mr. Frederick Gordon, the musical director, are to be highly complimented on the general excellence of the Company and the efficient manner in which the revue was staged.

Car Went Over Bridge

Last evening a motorist accompanied by a little child whilst coming out the Blackmarsh Road went over the bridge at the head of Mundy Pond. Fortunately the drop was not very great, and the child received only a few scratches. The car was slightly damaged. A woman who was getting a bucket of water at the point where the car went over had a narrow escape being killed as the machine missed her by only a few inches.

Took Precautions

About a month ago a serious throat affection broke out amongst horses in the city and in order to prevent the spread of the disease Inspector Barber, of the S.P.A., advised that the water be shut off from the drinking fountains. This plan was adopted and apparently successful as the disease has now practically disappeared. The Council accordingly have turned on the water at the different fountains to-day.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

THE IRISH FLAG ON THE HIGH SEAS.
 ROBOKEN, N.J., May 19.—The Irish flag will return to the sea to-morrow morning when the North German Lloyd steamer Bremen departs on its initial trip for Ireland. This will be the first time in 500 years it is said that the flag has flown at sea. The steamer will call at Queenstown. The German Steamship Co. decided to fly the Irish flag on the Bremen when the regular service to Ireland was begun, it was explained.

PROPAGANDISTS OF ABD-EL-KRIM BEST.
 PARIS, May 19.—Abd-el-Krim, the leader of the Rebel Rifian not only is mobilizing important forces in front of the French along the Ouergha River in Morocco, but is declared to be utilizing an extensive efficient propaganda organization behind the French. Marshal Lyantay is taking steps to clear out from the pacific regions of Morocco, the agents of Abd-el-Krim who everywhere are insidiously spreading the idea of revolt.

ESTRONIA'S DEBT TO U. S. A.
 WASHINGTON, May 19.—Secretary Mellon as Chairman of the United States Debt Commission is expected soon to receive a definite proposal from the Government of Estonia for a funding of that nation's debt to the United States. Estonia owes the United States $17,784,000.

FRANCE INVESTIGATING THE DEBT QUESTION.
 PARIS, May 19.—Pending the preliminary conversations on France's debt, the French Government is going ahead with the task of trying to find out exactly how much France borrowed from her allies and associates during the war, the conditions under which such debts were contracted, and the rate of interest agreed at the time. Also it will establish the credit side of France's ledger, totalling the amounts owed to France by the allies and associates and the legal conditions under which these obligations fall. The report on the amounts owed to France by her allies and associates will show that France had an amount due her which should quite materially reduce her war time indebtedness.

PRINCE'S AFRICAN TOUR EXTENDED.
 CAPE TOWN, May 19.—It was officially announced to-day that the Prince of Wales' tour of South Africa will be extended one week. He will leave Cape Town for South America on July 29th, instead of the 22nd, as planned, and will thus have a week's rest at Cape Town after concluding the African tour.

SECOND READING OF BUDGET BILL.
 LONDON, May 19.—The House of Commons began a lengthy debate on the second reading stage of the Bill embodying Chancellor Churchill's Budget, in connection with the insurance plan for granting pensions to widows, the principal criticisms of the measure have come from the Labor Party on the ground of its contributory principle, and who are apprehensive that the contributions demanded from employers of labor will prove a serious handicap to trade and industry.

BRITISH JOURNAL CRITICIZES U. S. PROPOSALS.
 LONDON, May 19.—The Morning Post commenting upon the action of the United States in soliciting funding proposals from European debtors, criticizes the United States' attitude on the question, and deplores the present step. Assuming that considerations of international policy have something to do with the matter, the newspaper described the action of the Washington Government as another illustration of the unhappy influence which legislators exercise too frequently in these Democratic days in the realm of foreign affairs.

FRENCH REINFORCEMENTS IN RABAT, May 19.
 General Billotte has arrived with heavy French reinforcements on the Rifian front in the Chechouan region. The troops began organizing strong defenses in this territory, which is directly menaced by concentrations of Rifians. The situation is otherwise unchanged, French headquarters report.

EXTREMES OF TEMPERATURE.
 SASKATOON, Sask., May 19.—With the aid of cooling breezes Saskatchewan is beginning to revive after the hottest day of the year. At mid afternoon yesterday thermometer in the city stood at 95; Sunday they touched 85; last Friday they were just a few degrees off freezing point.

Susu Sails North
 S.S. Susu, Capt. Jacob Kean, sailed for the Fogo Mail Service route, at 9 p.m. The Susu took a full outward cargo for intermediate ports, besides the full complement of passengers—Willis Tulk, J. Brenson, Mrs. Wicks, Miss Gillingham, Mrs. A. Blackwood and Miss Blackwood. The body of Mr. Alpheus Wicks was also forwarded by the ship for interment at Greenspond.

Magistrate's Court
 A man convicted for a breach of Sub-section 3, Section 24, of the Alcoholic Liquors Act, and a second charge for disorderly conduct on the public street, was fined $10 or in default 30 days imprisonment.
 A second man charged with a breach of Sub-section A, Section 25, of the Alcoholic Liquors Act, was convicted and fined $10 or 30 days.

Oporto Market

Messrs. Lind and Couto, Fish Dealers, Oporto writing to the Board of Trade underdated April 23rd, say. Since we last wrote you demand for British fish has not been very active, which is a pity as our market is much overstocked. Norwegian and other cured are attracting considerable attention. The Iceland fish cured here is now on sale. A further shipment of 3755 bales of French codfish arrived here on the 8th, inst by S. S. Duplex. Fortunately the weather has been fairly cool up to the present but we may expect warm weather at any time, in which case inferior qualities will have to be cleared at large reductions. As it is, prices of all qualities have fallen and if demand does not improve the situation will soon become very serious.

Caribou Will be Launched June 10th

Word was received by the Railway Management yesterday from the shipbuilders in Holland, stating that splendid progress is being made on the new ship Caribou, and she will be ready for launching by June 10th. Capt. Stewenson will then take command of the ship and proceed to England where she will be outfitted. Steward John Pike, who is at present on the Kyle, will leave for the Old Country in a few weeks to look after the supplies, etc.

Personal

We regret to learn of the serious indisposition of Mrs. Frank Morris, wife of His Honor Judge Morris of the Central District Court. Mrs. Morris was stricken suddenly whilst attending the theatre last night and lapsed into unconsciousness. This morning she showed but very little signs of improvement.
 Sir John Crobble and Hon. M. S. Sullivan have been called out of town on important business and will be absent for a day or two.
 Mr. Ken Goodyear, accompanied by Mrs. Goodyear and child, left by the express to-day for their home in Grand Falls.
 Mr. W. I. Bishop, of the contracting firm of Bishop & Co., leaves by Sunday's express for Montreal.
 Among the many Newfoundlanders who were successful in gaining distinctions in Canadian Colleges this year was Mr. Thomas Harris. He returned by yesterday's express for the holidays having successfully completed his course at St. Francis Xavier University, Antigonish and obtained the degree of Bachelor of Arts. Mr. Harris is the eldest son of the Deputy Minister of Public Works and is an ex-pupil of St. Bonaventure's College.

Government Boats

Argyle left Argentinia 6.45 p.m. yesterday, going west.
 Clyde left Lewisporte 9.30 a.m. yesterday.
 Glencoe leaving Argentinia after arrival Wednesday's train.
 Home left for Greenspond 9.30 last night.
 Kyle left Port aux Basques 8.35 p.m. yesterday.
 Malakoff left Salvage 1.05 p.m. yesterday, outward.
 Fortis left La Polla 6 p.m. yesterday, coming east.
 Prospero left Concho 9.15 a.m. yesterday, coming south.
 Sagons left Curling 5.30 p.m. yesterday, outward.

A Deserving Appeal

A case at Torbay well deserving of the small amount of assistance required has been brought to our attention. A boy of 15 years of age, named George Woodfine, who lost his sight some years ago, is desirous of proceeding to Halifax to enter the School for the Blind. All arrangements have been made with the Institution, but the sum of $100.00 is required for clothing and other expenses. His mother is dead, his father was killed out west in an explosion, and his uncle, who has looked after him since then, is unable to provide the necessary cash.
 We feel certain that in such a worthy cause the assistance needed will readily be forthcoming. No doubt Rev. A. Tulk, the Rector of Pouch Cove would be very willing to receive any contributions.

IN THE REALMS OF SPORT

CADET FOOTBALLERS MEET.

A very enthusiastic meeting of the C.C.C. football team and their supporters was held on Sunday, at which all arrangements for the coming year were made. Rev. Fr. Pippy, Chaplain, occupied the chair, and made a brief address after which the following officers were elected for the year:—
Captain—M. Maddigan.
Vice-Captain—M. Flynn.
Secy-Treas.—J. Reardon.
League Delegate—W. Caul.
The Cadets have much new material to select from this year and will put a strong aggregation in the field.

FOOTBALLER HAD NOSE BROKEN.

While Mr. George Hunter was playing football last night with the Guards he received a nasty blow from the ball which broke his nose. He was conveyed by motor car to the surgery of Dr. Smith and had the injured part set. It will be some time before he will be well enough to again participate with the team. This was the fifth casualty in the Guards' line-up since beginning practice.

BOXING.

Bombardier Wells—Another Pathetic Knock-Out.

(By TREVOR C. WIGNALL)
The most pathetic feature of the big programme of boxing at the Albert Hall, London, recently, was the knock-out suffered by Bombardier Wells in the third round of his 15-round contest with Jack Stanley, the Deptford ex-policeman.

Neither in appearance, stamina, speed, nor boxing ability was Wells more than a shadow of his old self, and it came as no surprise when, after eight minutes of very poor fighting, he was put down for two counts and then deposited in what is now regarded as his customary position—flat out on his back with his arms at his sides and his closed eyes turned towards the roof.

It was an inglorious exit, and it was made the more so by the fact that Wells, for the first time in his career, left the ring amid hoots, much laughter, and only the faintest of faint cheers. He should know now that his fighting days are over.

WONDERFUL FIGHT.

The chief contest, between Elky Clark, the fly-weight champion of Europe, and young Johnny Brown, of London, was the best fly-weight fight that has been seen since Jimmy Wilde fought Tancy Lee before the war. It ended in Brown being knocked out in the 20th round, after he had given a display that was in every way excellent.

Sufficient punishment was given by the men to finish a dozen ordinary fights, but I could not have been alone feeling sorry that the affair was not capped in the 17th round, when Brown's condition gave ample proof of the punishment he had taken.

To be felled like a tree in the last instant—and only rarely have I seen a boxer drop as did Brown—was bad luck; much better would it have been if the referee had intervened earlier on and so saved Brown from a series of smashing punches that may conceivably affect his future.

In the other contests Johnny Brown, our bantam-weight champion, beat Andre Routis, the bantam-weight champion of France, the latter being disqualified in the fifth round. C. Smith of Deptford, beat C. Chetwond, of Leicester, on points. Van Dyk, Holland, knocked out Danny Frush, London, in the second round.

Len Harvey, the Plymouth light-weight, gained a very easy points victory over Karel Veld (Holland) in a 15-rounds contest at St. 9th, at the Ring last night.

DE MAR ENTERS.

BUFFALO, May 14.—Clarence De Mar, four times winner of the Boston Marathon race, to-day entered the Knights of Columbus marathon, to be run from Niagra Falls, Ont., to Buffalo, on Memorial Day. De Mar will represent the Melrose, Mass., Post No. 90, American Legion.

NEAR RIOT AT BRAVES' FIELD.

BOSTON, May 14.—Pittsburg defeated Boston to-day, 7 to 1, in a game punctuated in the eighth inning by a near-riot which took several policemen to quell. The trouble started when Earl Smith, Pittsburg catcher, ran toward the grandstand for a foul fly which he failed to catch. He became embroiled in an argument with W. J. Lewis, of Boston, a spectator. They were preparing to "fight" when, onlookers said, Smith struck the spectator a glancing blow. Police and others intervened and Smith was ordered out of the game and the crowd swarmed on to the field. As he passed down the steps to the visiting steps quarters beneath the grandstand, a chair, thrown by an unidentified spectator, landed on top of him. Although the game was one-sided, and the feeling was not strong, the police had difficulty for a time in handling the crowd. The score:—
Pittsburg . . . . . 7 11 3
Boston . . . . . 1 5 0
Batteries:—Morris and Smith.

INVESTIGATION IN NEAR RIOT.

BOSTON, May 15.—A complaint, charging Earl Smith, catcher of the Pittsburg Club, of the National League, with assault and battery, was sworn out in court to-day by Walter J. Lewis, of Brooklyn. A summons returnable to-morrow, was issued for the baseball player. Smith was the centre of a storm at Braves' Field yesterday, when he "resented" ragging by one of the spectators at the Braves-Pirates game. Lewis charged that the player struck him. Smith has been suspended by the National League, pending an investigation.

"RECORD MADNESS" NOW SAYS RUNNER.

"Real Competition is Giving Way too Much to Franke Races to Beat Time" Says Olympic Champ.

In a recent interview, Arnold M. S. Strod-Jackson, the former British miler and Olympic champion declared that "record madness" had stirred the track and field world over the last year, particularly last winter, with Paavo Nurmi and Willie Ritola, the flying Finnish twins, in the major roles. "Real competition is giving way too much to the frantic race to beat time," went on the former British star. "By this I do not mean to belittle Nurmi. He is a marvel. I saw him at the 1920 Olympics. He was good then, but he is much faster now. I am thinking more of the popular clamor which those who put on the track meets have tried to satisfy. Record-breaking has caught the public's fancy apparently, and every effort has been made to capitalize this demand. The result, it seems to me has produced not only a collection of doubtful marks at odd distances, but has emphasized the commercial side of the picture too much. However, my views may be somewhat old-fashioned on this subject. Times are changing, and we may be witnessing the development of a new era in sport. I firmly believe that intercollegiate competition can do the game much good, particularly the relations as have brought about international rivalry between Oxford and Cambridge, the British universities, and the leading American colleges, Harvard, Yale, Pennsylvania, Princeton, and Cornell.

"How would the best of my day fare with Nuni?" he repeated in answer to a question. "That's hard to say. The Finn, undoubtedly, is the best of them all, but I always have held that a runner had something in reserve—an ability to outdo himself under unusual conditions. John Paul Jones, I think, was the greatest miler of my day. I pick him in preference to the other two American stars—Kiviat and Taber.

"Perhaps Alfred Shrubbs, the old English star, would have given Nuni his greatest test over the longer distances. But these things are purely guesswork. It is hard to compare accurately the stars of to-day with those of another time."

Remains Forwarded for Interment

Mr. Alpheus Wicks, formerly of Murray and Co.'s employ, passed away yesterday after a long illness at his residence, 70 Brazil's Square, Mr. Wicks up to a few years ago resided in Greenspond and was a man well known for his sterling qualities. He leaves to mourn besides a wife and two children, one brother, Herbert, caretaker at the M.G.A. rooms, for whom much sympathy will be expressed. The funeral took place at eleven o'clock this morning to the S. S. Susu, when the body was forwarded to Greenspond for interment. The obsequies were largely attended, including a Guard of Honor from the S.U.F. of which he was a prominent member.

Packed House at Casino Last Night

IMMENSE AUDIENCE SEE "ARE YOU A MASON?"

Last night's crowded house at the Casino was aroused to the highest pitch of enthusiasm with the Arlie Marks' production of the renowned comedy "Are You a Mason" which has been repeated by popular request. They screamed with laughter and applauded to the echo.

THE PLAYERS—The dainty Arlie Marks was artistically and realistically perfect in the role of Annie. Lindsay E. Perrin in the leading role was, as usual all at home, and in the second act provides the big laugh of the evening in his female impersonation. As an impersonator Mr. Perrin is right there with the goods and as for bringing the laughs, he never fails. Ray Wasmund as Frank Perry stood out distinctively with a likable personality and the ability to handle an important role. Paul Brady gives a flawless performance of Ernest Morrison, an Architect. Paul is certainly the right calibre for a role of this sort and he puts it over with perfect ease and assurance. Walter DeLuna as John Halton, gentleman farmer was the exact reproduction in make-up, mannerism, interpretation and portrayal of the role. W. L. Phillips in the character of Amos Bloodgood fitted the role to perfection and was also responsible for a good share of real comedy. H. Webb Chamberlain carried the role of Hamilton Travers with perfect realism, being possessed with a clear distinct voice of splendid diction. Miss Agnes Stutz again scored well in her character role. The remainder of the company were particularly well cast.

THE PLAY—The production is one of laughter and excitement throughout. There are many complications and amusing climaxes which are so welcome that the audience is kept in suspense from beginning to end. The vaudeville is itself a feature of great importance.

To-night's play is the much talked of bill of pathos and human interest with a nice sprinkling of comedy, entitled "The Sidewalks of New York." Also appearing in this bill are a number of local boys and girls. The story is of a wait of New York's east side who finally finds herself an heiress. Tickets are selling rapidly for this play and also for "Mothers Irish Rose" which will be played to-morrow night only.

Imprisonment for a Year

WITHOUT A FINE FOR SMUGGLING MERCHANDISE MAY BE IMPOSED IN CANADA.

TORONTO, May 14.—The Globe this morning says: "Imprisonment of at least one year, without the alternative of a fine will be the penalty contained in the amendment to the Criminal Code to stop the smuggling of merchandise into Canada, according to a well known manufacturer, who said last night he had received word from Ottawa that the Government proposed to take drastic steps to stop the illicit traffic in merchandise between the United States and Canada. This manufacturer was one of a number who had spent many thousands of dollars in gathering evidence to show the extent of the traffic. He believed imprisonment without a penalty would have the desired effect."

Current Radio

EDITED BY JOHN M. CLAYTON.

Almost any super-heterodyne can be improved in stability and sensitivity if a high plate voltage is used on the first detector. This necessitates the use of a C battery as the usual grid leak and condenser will not furnish the proper grid voltage bias.

From 60 to 90 volts on the first detector will require a C battery of from 6 to 9 volts. In our diagram above we present the hook-up showing how to wire in the C battery. Note that the positive terminal of the C battery is connected to the positive of the A battery, the negative of the C being connected to the pick-up coil which is coupled to the detector inductance, the other end of the pick-up coil going to the grid via the loop.

The usual grid condenser-grid leak combination will work with detector plate voltage up to about 45. Beyond

WHY PRETTY MOUTHS ARE RARE.

Which do you think is rarer, a pretty nose or a pretty mouth? Neither of them, I think, are especially common.

Pretty skin, pretty teeth, pretty hair—all these are far easier to find than a thoroughly pretty nose or mouth.

Of course one reason is that a nose isn't such a pretty thing in itself, and must have absolutely perfect outline to be admirable.

Even Rarer Than Pretty Noses. One would think that a pretty nose would be even rarer than an attractive mouth, but one who watches mouths closely because he has to (he is one of the big army of people who have to do most of their hearing with their eyes instead of their ears), says that it is astonishing how rare a thoroughly attractive mouth is.

Of course the young girl with good teeth and a well shaped mouth is not so uncommon, but his idea of a thoroughly attractive mouth is one that is not only well shaped, but has beauty in its lines of character.

And so many times the lines of character are not beautiful lines.

If you don't believe it, look at the with the sagging corners is not pretty. Doubtless the sag would be gone if you saw these same people animated and talking, but as they sit alone thinking, their mouths are apt to settle into these downward lines.

"Why has my motley diary no jokes?" wrote Emerson. "Because it is a soliloquy, and every man is grave alone."

There were no trolley cars in Emerson's days, but there were stage coaches; perhaps he had been watching the mouths of the people opposite him in the stage coach when he wrote that impression in his notebook.

What Makes Mouths Unlovely. Then besides the sagging mouth, there is the mouth that has lines of meanness around it. No other feature so quickly reflects any tendency of character as the mouth. Meanness, self-will, vulgarity, conceit, querulousness—how inevitably they carve their peculiar and distinctive markings about the mouth, and how unlovely they often make it.

No wonder a thoroughly pretty mouth is rare, since to produce one there must be first good lines and good teeth, and then on top of that, the rare courage and love of life that keeps the mouth from sagging at the corners, and the sweetness and loveliness that makes all the markings around it appealing. That is a pretty large order to get all in one person, isn't it?

King and Queen at the Cinema

SEEING THEMSELVES ON THE SCREEN.

The King and Queen paid their first public visit to a cinema recently when they witnessed the naval film, "Zebrugge," in aid of Earl Haig's British Legion Fund.

Inside the entrance hall of the Marble Arch Pavilion, Earl Beatty welcomed their Majesties, who braved the terrors of a battery of cinematograph operators and photographers.

The Queen's first question on entering the building was, "Have I been here before?" She laughed gaily when told that it was her first appearance.

Elaborate arrangements had been made for filming the Royal patrons, and as soon as the King and Queen had taken their places, a special motor car dashed away with the film of their Majesties' arrival, and, within ninety minutes, the finished films were taken back to the cinema, and the King and Queen saw themselves on the screen.

Amongst those present at the performance were three of the four surviving V.C.s who were present at Zebrugge. Others in the audience included Major T. B. Cohen, the legless M.P., who was presented to the King and Queen, and Admiral Sir Roger Keyes.

NOTE—This film will be shown at the Nickel theatre after the engagement of the "Originals."

Little Jack Rabbit by David Cory

When Uncle Lucky Lethindfoot, soon as the Policeman Dog had made the charge, the old gentleman bunny, learned what Danny Fox had done at the Old Bramble Patch, sneaked into the little white bungalow and nearly carried away Lady Love, the little rabbit's pretty mother, and Cousin Cottontail,—he hopped out to the kitchen to tell Miss Mousie, his careful housekeeper, "I'm going to drive down to the Court House right away quick. This time I shall make sure that Judge Turkey Gobbler sentences the old fox for a year and a day in the Rabbitville Jail." Quickly putting on his old wedding stovepipe hat and buttoning up his pink waistcoat, dear Uncle Lucky slipped on his overcoat and hopped out to the garage.

"Hey, there, Old Red Rooster," he shouted, "I'm going to Rabbitville. Keep busy while I'm away, don't waste a minute of the day—I mean, don't lose a penny of your pay," and with this parting command, the funny old gentleman bunny hopped into the Luckymobile and drove away. Down Lettuce Avenue he sped, waving his jaw now and again to the Traffic Bow Wow Cops until, by and by, after a while and a honk and a smile, and more than a mile, he reached the Court House.

Behind his desk in a long black robe sat the Turkey Gobbler Judge. My, how stern he looked, and how crimson glowed the gills at his cheeks. I think Danny Fox will shiver at the sight when he is brought before him.

"It is please your Honor," began dear Uncle Lucky, "Danny Fox has been up to his old tricks again. He nearly stole Lady Love and Cousin Cottontail from the Bramble Patch. May I ask you to sentence him for a year and a day in jail?"

"Just then came the Policeman Dog with the old fox.

"Wait a minute to see what I'll do," whispered the Turkey Gobbler Judge to dear Uncle Lucky. Then, "What have you to say for yourself?" he asked, scowling at the prisoner, as car—the Luckymobile, as he called it; the swiftest car in all Rabbitland. Why, sometimes, dear boys and girls, it went so fast that the hind wheels couldn't keep up with the front wheels, and then of course the dear old gentleman bunny had a dreadful time. I don't wonder, do you?"

"Hey, ho, where shall I go?" Sighed the dear old gentleman rabbit. "A year and a day is so far, far away; it ought to cure Danny's bad habit," and hopping into his motor car he drove back to his little red-shingled house on the corner of Lettuce Avenue and Carrot Street.

Nothing Like These Results A Year Ago or Now

It is no trick to build a car that will go 65 or 70 miles an hour if it has a power plant big enough to haul a freight train.

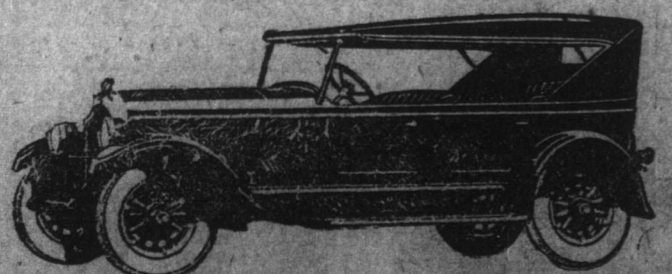

It's a great achievement to get over 70 miles an hour out of a motor of 3-inch bore and 4 3/4-inch stroke, with gasoline mileage safely above 20 miles per gallon.

And that's the wonder of the Chrysler Six—a wonder so different and so superior that Chrysler was forced to build over 32,000 cars to meet the first-year demand.

Of course you don't want to drive your Chrysler over 70 miles an hour. In fact you may never go that fast. But there is something you do want that only a speed-ability of 70 miles can give.

That something is sure, steady power for steepest hill or deepest sand, a pick-up to flash you out of a traffic tangle, starchy dogged pull so you can throttle to five, even two miles an hour, on high without "backing."

That's Chrysler performance in a nutshell. You surely must drive the car. It's the only way you can fully appreciate that it is the best built car you ever rode in. We're always eager to demonstrate the Chrysler.

Death of Sir Eyre Crowe

A ZEALOUS PUBLIC SERVANT.

The death took place at Swanage on April 28th of Sir Eyre Crowe, Permanent Under-Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs since 1920 aged 61, after 40 years' service. He was born at Leipzig, where his father, Sir Joseph Archer Crowe, was Consul-General, and he was educated at German schools. His mother was a German, and these circumstances, and the fact that he married a German, led to unjust criticism against his being Assistant Under-Secretary during the war.

One of his able and well-informed defenders, Mr. Leo Maxse, showed that Sir Eyre Crowe, far from being pro-German, "expended himself in the thankless task of endeavouring to invigorate British policy and in preventing Ministers from howling to Germany." Sir Edward (now Lord) Carson, Attorney-General in the War Cabinet, was equally emphatic.

His brilliant presentation of the British case in the Starbuck arbitration at the Hague in 1911 enhanced his already great reputation. He was an indefatigable worker.

AGREES TO SEPARATE FROM HIS WIFE OWING TO PROFESSIONAL CAREER.

NEW YORK, May 14.—Richard Barthelmess, motion picture star, and his actress wife, Mary Hay, have agreed to separate, but only because of their professional careers requiring that they work in different cities, it is stated.

Miss Hay will leave soon for England to dance in music halls with Clifton Webb. Mr. Barthelmess will remain in New York making pictures.

A statement issued by Miss Hay says that neither party will seek a divorce, and that their two-year-old daughter will remain with Mr. Barthelmess while the mother is abroad, after that spending six months at a time with each parent.

The couple were married five years ago. A month ago, Mr. Barthelmess removed from their home to a hotel. For several months Miss Hay has been dancing in vaudeville and night clubs with Webb as partner.

More Comfort for the Navy

By "JACKSTAFF"

Great events are often but modestly heralded.

In the current issue of Admiralty Fleet Orders the bald intimation that "cups, Pattern 40, and saucers, Pattern 57, are to be substituted for basins, earthenware, Pattern 91a, in seamen's messes," announces the final stage in revolutionizing the domestic life of the British Navy.

From time immemorial Jack has drunk his grog, his tea, and his cocoa from a basin. And in so doing he has only continued a habit of our great-grandfathers. When they took a "dish of tea" they sipped this then new beverage from a little basin. The earliest tencups, as we should call them, had no handles. In this matter the Navy rather set the fashion than copied it, for a basin had been the sailor's drinking vessel long before tea came into use.

The old tarpaulin who built up our sea power was a tough soul, who lived as hard as he fought and knew little of domestic comforts. His table equipment was of the scantiest kind, including neither crockery nor knives and forks. Like Queen Elizabeth, he ate with his fingers. The broad-bladed "pussers' knife," which he wore attached to a lanyard and used in his work about the ship, also served to cut up his food.

If he was not satisfied with what it pleased a niggardly Board of Admiralty to serve out to him he had to supplement it out of his own pocket. In some ways officers were not much better off than the men. Until quite recent years naval officers had to buy their own "mess traps," to pay rent for their cabins, and provide their own bedding.

The Navy, preferring old ways to new, went along in this fashion for generations. But with the coming of new men with more pronounced ideas on the subject of personal comfort changes were asked for. And they were made slowly. About a decade ago cups and saucers were issued to petty-officers' messes. Seamen, however, still had to be content with basins. Now tradition is to be finally broken with cups and saucers provided for seamen too.

The Coming Peril in the Air

THE RIGHT HON. THE EARL OF BIRKENHEAD, P.C.

To the historian of the future, the outstanding mark of the Great War will be the conquest of the air and the development of the air arm which the war brought about.

It is certain that the significance of this development and the problems which it is fraught are far from being appreciated as yet either by the public in the streets, or by politicians given by the Fighting Services themselves.

We all know that the Air Services of Great Britain and of the other combatant countries were in all cases very small when the war started and they were in most cases very large when the war finished.

We know that a vast amount of inconvenience, loss, suffering and casualties to the civil population were caused by the air raids on London and other parts of Southern England, and we remember (it seems that we should do so) that the sum of casualties caused from the beginning of the war to the end was nothing to the suffering by the Armies in France in a single minor engagement.

As for the future, we are tired of war and everything connected with it. We can hope and believe that the next generation will go on and for the present the country feels that it is fully doing its duty by maintaining an Air Force which will cost £21,000,000 in the coming financial year, or three-quarters of what the British Army cost in 1914, and the equivalent of more than 4d. in the pound income tax.

This is a fair description of the mind of the average Englishman, who distrusts alarmists and distrusts experts. He is inclined to agree with the late Lord Salisbury that if soldiers were given full scope they would insist on the importance of garrisoning the moon to protect us from Mars.

As a nation we prefer to meet great emergencies by sudden and greater exertions, and like the Athenians, to trust not in the devices of national preparation, but in our own good spirit and valour.

But on one question the mind of the country for some generations past has been inflexibly and rightly attentive. That is the security of our sea communications, the protection against invasion, and the maintenance of a navy sufficient to guarantee that security and protection.

Do we yet as a nation realize that not only for the future our security from attack by air is even a more primary condition of national security than the maintenance of the Navy? It is difficult to give a confident answer to this question in spite of the great increases which have been authorized in the Air Force for the purpose of Home Defence. At sea we possess a power standard, but in the air we are yet far from reaching a power standard, and in the most important conditions it must be satisfactory to the Government, not to a private citizen.

It is not only in the air that we are in a position to be out of step with the world. In the maintenance of the Navy we are also in a position to be out of step with the world. In the maintenance of the Navy we are also in a position to be out of step with the world.

We can go further and say plainly that adequate air defences might exist in more sudden and appalling attacks than even inadequate naval provisions.

Our communications are our lifelines. These lifelines are the heart of the Empire. The neglect of sea power in the past would have allowed our arteries to be cut off and our heart to be pierced.

In other words, neglect of air power would expose us to the risk of sudden and continuous attacks upon our most vital centres of population of a severity which would within a very short time reduce the whole machinery of Government and industry to chaos—chaos from the appalling loss of life.

The nature of these attacks may be better appreciated if we remind ourselves that whereas the greatest weight of bombs dropped in a single raid over this country during the last war was three tons, and twelve tons in any one month, the present French striking force could, according to an estimate quoted about a year ago in the House of Commons by the present Secretary of State for Air, drop 170 tons of bombs in the course of a month, but in the course of 24 hours could keep up a bombing attack of 100 tons daily or nightly for an indefinite period.

Against this danger the Naval Forces afford no insurance. Indeed, our inland position, which has in the past made the Navy our sure shield, is no advantage as regards air security.

The experience of the last war showed that we could have but little warning of the approach of raiding aircraft, and within almost a few minutes of their first passing over these islands they would be within reach of the centres of population.

When, therefore, we realize what the scope of air attack might be, and consider the effect of those attacks upon the intricate structure of production and transport upon which the great and closely compact urban population of Great Britain is dependent for its daily existence, it is evident that our ability to resist would be exhausted in a period which could be measured by weeks rather than months, by days rather than weeks, perhaps by hours rather than days. There would be no process of gradual attrition or breathing time in which earlier mistakes or misfortunes might be retrieved. The security of these islands therefore requires us to be at least as vigilant to maintain an adequate Air Force as we have been, and are, to maintain an adequate Navy.

The Navy and Army Estimates for 1914-15 amounted to some £78,000,000; the combined Estimates of the three Services in the years 1925-26 are over £124,000,000, which again is the equivalent of an income tax of about

2s. 6d. in the pound; this after our triumphant efforts in a war which ended in the complete defeat of our principal opponent. Of this expenditure £21,000,000 only, or, roughly, a sixth part, is in respect of expenditure on the R.A.F. This is really oversteating the amount spent on the air, as a considerable amount, nearly half, is spent on that "air" that is used purely as an auxiliary to the Navy and Army in order to enable them to carry out purely Naval and Military work. Therefore we really arrive at the fact that what is spent on the air is certainly less than ten-tenths of what is spent on the older Services. Though there is no doubt that this Air sense and vigilance are necessary for the Navy and Army, how much more necessary are they for the defence of the heart of the Empire? In other words, not only do we maintain just as large an Army and just as large a Navy as if there were no air force, but in addition a large amount of expenditure on the Air Service is necessary to enable the Navy and Army to do their work.

The tendency of both the Navy and Army is to enlarge their demands for the supply of air units as auxiliaries to their own forces. Are the dangers to this Empire such that it will require, this increased cost to Army and Navy, or are there more vital dangers which imperatively demand adequate air protection for this country? And whatever is decided in regard to the Navy and the Army, must not our Air Service be more adequate? We must ask ourselves, too, if this is a satisfactory position, or one in which a country that is debt-laden and tax-ridden should acquiesce without an investigation as to whether, with the coming of the Air Service, it is not possible that some of the respon-abilities given to the older Services in the past should to-day be undertaken by the Air Service?

In the past the Navy and the Army operated in two distinct elements and the line of demarcation of their responsibilities on the greater questions was sufficiently obvious. But the Air also operates in its own element, and that element covers that of the Navy and the Army.

It has, further, ranges of activity which are entirely independent of the operations of sea and land forces; it has other spheres in which the functions of the other Services are so closely interconnected with those of the Air Service that it may be difficult to say whether a particular operation is primarily an Air or a Naval or Military operation.

As aeroplanes can operate over both sea and land, so it is obvious that it will often be a matter for consideration whether in any particular time or place Air Forces cannot be more economically and conveniently employed than Naval or Military forces.

The present method of control in Iraq is a case in point. In that country air control has during the last two and a half years taken the place of control by land forces and we have thereby been enabled largely to reduce the size and cost of the Imperial garrison at present maintained in that country and without any loss to the country's peace and security.

It is reasonable to believe that the experiment in the employment of Air Forces not in addition to, but in replacement of, other forms of defence which has been recognized on all hands as being so successful in Iraq, may in future be applied in other areas and to solve other problems of defence.

No person with even a layman's knowledge of Air developments in the last 10 years, or with any imaginative ability to realize what future developments of the next quarter or half a century may bring forth, will be disposed to accept dogmatic limitations upon the capabilities of the Air arm to take a large, perhaps a predominant part in solving many of the problems of Imperial defence.

Lastly, it is probable that in the development of the Air arm lies the greatest potentiality of co-operation for mutual defence between different parts of the British Empire.

Provision by the Dominions of aircraft and aerodromes on their coasts, primarily for their own defence against surface borne craft or aircraft, can be achieved at far less expenditure than an equal amount of defence in the form of naval or land forces and in addition would form a reserve of air strength in the event of any threat against the Empire as a whole.

It is material to remember that the Dominions have shown special aptitude for aviation and that their contribution of personnel to the flying services during the war was amazingly high in relation to their population.

But I would not close this article without again drawing attention to the fact of the change in the position of these islands that has taken place since the day that Bleriot crossed the Channel.

It is not too much to say that in the future, the whole population of Great Britain may be involved in precautions and measures of defence which will be imperative if the country is to live and be capable of carrying on its vital services during Air hostilities. And the geographical situation of our home land, and the geographical positions of the centres of population within them, add to the difficulties of the problem, and to the necessity for adequate expenditure on Air—Pearson's Weekly.

Why, of Course

If you want GOOD Clothes go to a GOOD Tailor. There is where you get good material, good fit and clothes that look as if they were made for YOU, and not for the other fellow.

The Ready-to-Wear! Yes, of course. They were made for the one who buys them, very seldom for the one who fits them.

But be careful and go to a good tailor. It's cheaper and better.

SPURRELL'S are good, reliable tailors, and you make no mistake in going there.

Spurrell the Tailor ST. JOHN'S. Spurrell the Tailor GRAND FALLS.
Send for Samples and measuring forms if you live out of town.
