TWELVE PAGES—ONE CENT

RECORD RUN TO THIS PORT BY ROYAL GEORGE

Six Days, Seven Hours and Twenty-Four Minutes

RUSH WORK ON MAILED

All Transferred in Hour and Forty-Eight Minutes, Which Also is a Record—Lake Michigan is in Today With Nearly 300 Passengers

With the arrival of the Royal Mail steamer Royal George in port this morning some records were smashed, one the trans-Atlantic trip to St. John, which the Royal George accomplished in 7 days, 7 hours and 24 minutes, and the unloading and getting away of the steamer's large mail cargo, which was done in one hour and forty-eight minutes.

The steamer tied up at the wharf a little before eight o'clock this morning and at 8.36 a start was made on the discharge of the 2,397 packages of mail. At 10.24 the last package was placed in the car and six minutes later the train was drawn out of the shed and shunted to the Union Depot where the passengers were taken on, and at 10.40 o'clock local time, or about two hours after the first bag of mail was taken out of the ship, the train was on her way to Montreal.

The 2,397 packages of mail matter and parcels post filled seven cars, four for Upper Canada and the west, one of excess and two for the maritime provinces. The Royal George, which is under the command of Captain F. J. Thompson, left Avonmouth at 8.08 p. m. on Dec. 31 and at noon next day had made 232 miles. Her daily runs for the following days were 437, 460, 480, 428, 427 and 290 miles. The actual time consumed in making the voyage of 2,600 miles was 6 days, 7 hours and 24 minutes. The steamer was delayed one hour by fog on Jan. 5 when in longitude 52.52 W, which would reduce her actual sailing time by one hour. This is the fastest time that has been made across the Atlantic to St. John.

Although the weather for the most part was cloudy and overcast during the voyage, the vessel was compelled to contend with much adverse wind, but two of the days were marked with very rough seas. The ship came through without accident, however, and landed her 165 passengers in good order. The passenger list was composed of eighteen first, thirty-three second and 114 third class. The following are the first cabin passengers:—L. D. Bruckeridge, L. E. Callaghan, C. H. Cross, J. F. Galbraith, R. B. Henderson, Mrs. Henderson, E. J. Horcroft, T. E. H. Jolly, A. D. Leybourne, J. McGrath, R. F. McMeekin, T. Molloy, J. B. Savage, J. Shirley, R. Smith, G. H. Stoker, J. T. Taylor and T. Graeven.

One of the officers on the Royal George, speaking to a Times reporter this morning said that, although the weather was foggy outside the harbor, no difficulty was experienced in coming up to this port, was safer and more convenient for steamers, as great caution had always to be taken in coming into Halifax harbor. In fact, he said that in real foggy weather, it was impossible to come in there at all on account of the treacherous ledges and shoals.

Besides the passengers and mails the Royal George brought a fair cargo of general freight. A second special train, carrying the rest of the passengers, left the Union Depot at 11.47 o'clock this morning. The Royal George is tied up at the Intercolonial pier, Long Wharf, Lake Michigan In.

The C. P. R. steamer Lake Michigan, Captain H. Parry, arrived in port this morning from London and Antwerp, and docked about ten o'clock at No. 3 berth, West Side. The Michigan brought 290 third class passengers, mostly for the west. They went forward by special train early this afternoon.

The Lake Michigan left Antwerp on Dec. 24 and had a rather rough passage, although not out of the ordinary. Christmas Day was celebrated on the ocean in due style, with Christmas dinner and concert. The steamer also brought out a fair cargo of general freight.

JOSEPH CHAMBERLAIN, THIRTY-SEVEN YEARS IN BRITISH PARLIAMENT, IS RETIRING

Veteran Statesman Feels Younger Man Should Take His Place and Son Will Be Candidate—Public Life to See Him No More

part in the parliamentary struggle and help you to maintain the supremacy of the Unionist cause in Birmingham." Mr. Chamberlain will leave Highbury, his residence in Birmingham, next week for London, and after passing a few days there, will proceed on his usual winter visit to the south of France.

There has been no change for the worse in Mr. Chamberlain's health recently. He is, however, nearly eighty years since he spoke in the house of commons, and nearly three years since he appeared there, and then only for a few minutes on the opening of the session of 1911, when he was assisted into the house, so that he might take the oath.

after serving as a member of the house of commons since 1876, during all of which time he has represented Birmingham. In a letter to the president of the Unionist Association of Birmingham, Mr. Chamberlain writes:—"Before leaving for the south of France, I think I ought to communicate to you the decision at which I have arrived to retire from parliament at the next general election. I have not come to this decision without many regrets at the severance of a connection which has already lasted over thirty-seven years, and has been marked on the part of my constituents by ever-growing confidence and support, but I cannot hope again to do my work in parliament, and I feel that our city and the constituency of West Birmingham need the services of a younger man, who will take an active

MISSING SOUTHAMPTON RAILWAY CONTRACTS FIGURING IN COURT CASE

(Special to Times) Fredericton, N. B., Jan. 7.—J. E. Stewart, the plaintiff in the stand all morning in the hearing of his case against the Southampton Railway Company. He proceeded to tell of the early organization of the company in association with J. K. Pinder, M. L. A., who, he said, had cautioned him not to discuss the railway with any other directors. The most striking part of the evidence was the testimony concerning the disappearance of the plaintiff's copy of a contract with the company while he was staying at Mr. Pinder's house in October, 1910. The day it disappeared, he said, Pinder left for Fredericton and the witness followed on the next day and saw Pinder and charged him with the theft.

HUSBAND KILLED; LEARNS BY PAPER

Aviator Scout Shot by Federals in Mexico

ENGINE FAILED HIM Stopped When Over Enemy's Camp and He Was Captured—Wife Anxiously Waiting To Hear From Him When Newspaper Story Came

(Canadian Press) New York, Jan. 7.—A woman in Paris yesterday picked up Gil Blas, a newspaper, and there read a translated report of an article by Arnold Kruckman, aviation expert, telling of the execution of Didier Masson, a French aviator, by the Federals in Mexico last September.

The woman was Madame Masson and until she chanced on the article did not know she had been widowed. For months she had not heard from her husband. Daily she had looked for news concerning him for she knew he had been employed as a scout by the Constitutionalists last spring.

The details which Kruckman obtained show that at sunrise, one morning, the little aviator was bound and led to the claybanked shores of Las Guaymas, where a grave was dug. Soldiers there shot him.

Toronto Says Negotiations Opened—Not Running Rights, But The People's Road Itself, What is Wanted

(Canadian Press) Toronto, Jan. 7.—The Canadian Northern Railroad has laid 1,260 miles of track during the year 1913, and has furnished the money to pay for it.

Asked if the Canadian Northern intended to obtain running rights over the I. C. R., Sir William said that in the event the C. N. R. doing anything with regard to this railway, the company would endeavor not to get the running rights over the line, but to buy it. That seemed to be the natural outcome of things, the Intercolonial being the natural eastern end of the C. N. R.

HIRSCH OF RAGTIME FAME, IS AN BRITISH WHO'S WHO

Harry Lauder and Mrs. Pankhurst in New Volume

KIPLING AND HIS WORK

London Letter Says His Pen Does No Cross the Page so Rapidly as it Did in India—The Newspaper Men

(Times Special Correspondence.) London, Dec. 28.—Louis Hirsch, the composer of ragtime, must be a proud man, this day, for he has just been awarded a definite certificate of greatness in Great Britain. Hirsch is the man who composed "The Gaby Glide," not to mention "The Wedding Glide," to which all England has one-strapped and Turkey-trotted, and now to the wonderment of all, his name is enshrined between the covers of that vastly dignified work of reference, "Who's Who," to be in which, along with the royal family, the peerage, and all sorts of big-wigs of one kind and another is a kind of fame in itself. Harry Lauder also appears in it for the first time, this year. Mrs. Pankhurst and her daughter, Christabel, also make their debut in the new volume. "Who's Who," by the way, has grown almost as big as a family bible, and now contains 2,816 pages, and nearly 40,000 biographies of living persons.

Kipling's Pen Works More Slowly. Rudyard Kipling, so one of his friends tells me, is no longer the fluent, easy writer he was in the old days in India, when, week after week, he wrote one of those inimitable "Plain Tales from the Hills" in the "Civil and Military Gazette" at Lahore. His latter-day method is much more painstaking and arduous. In his country home at Burwash, in Sussex, he is the autocrat of the study. For long periods he shuts himself up in it, and will not let a soul approach him. All the members of his household know that they must not interrupt him. Today, he spends hours and hours in writing and rewriting, and in polishing, even more than Tennyson or Stevenson did. It is a most laborious process, and that produces almost an obsession. Even when he is with his family he will suddenly disappear to make a correction, or to add a line which he has just thought of. And when a story is finished in this fashion his labors are not ended, for it is his fate to send out to his publishers perfectly clean sheets without an erasure or correction on them, so that a fair copy has always to be written out. Encouraged by the success of the dramatized version of his "Garden of Allah" and "Bella Donna," Robert Hichens has been busy in adapting yet another of his novels for the stage. The work is what some persons consider his best, "The Woman With the Fan." Mrs. Patrick Campbell who created "Bella Donna," probably will play the part of the heroine. "Those of us who were lucky enough to be at the luncheon which the Foreign Press Association in London gave in honor of Anatole France, last week, are not likely to forget the brilliant and witty little speech which the grey-haired master paid his compliments to the newspaper calling. "Journalism taught me a great part of the art of writing," declared M. France. "The two things most useful in writing are ease and simplicity. Journalism teaches those things so well that the style even of great writers like Chateaubriand gained from journalistic experience. "Most journalists have wit," he went on, "because they have been contradicted so often," at which there was hearty laughter. "Everybody knows," the speaker continued, "that the foreign correspondents in England practice moderation without losing the quality of partiality, for an impartial journalist would be a monster. "One wonders how many of the Kipling's readers know that he was christened "Joseph Rudyard Kipling." I was in a curious legal case now proceeding here of Lake Ruydard, a beautiful sheet of water in North Staffordshire, from which the poet derived his second, and best known name. It was at a picnic at Lake Ruydard that young Lockwood Kipling first met Miss Macdonald, his future wife, and they commemorated that happy occasion by giving their son the name of Rudyard. The "Joseph" came first until his distinguished bearer lopped it off.

Why He Got It. "My boy, when I was your age I was lucky if I got twenty-five cents a week spending money. And here you want five dollars." "I know dad, but then I've got a much clearer father than you had." "And evidently I've got a much smoother son than my father had." Detroit "Free Press."

In the Air. Let those contemn who will, and laugh At castles in the air, None that produce more happiness Can be found anywhere; So great and grand these structures are, The strength of such renown, That even those who put them up Can never pull them down.

Free Advice About Your Manly Strength

TO MY READER: Whether or not you lack an abundant vigor, here is free offer which will surely interest you, and through which you may easily profit from now on to the end of a ripe, healthy, advanced age. I have compiled a little treatise for self help (book form) which I am pleased to send absolutely free by mail in a perfectly plain, sealed envelope to any man anywhere who writes for it. Over a million copies have already been thus distributed to those who write for it from all over the world. There is no obligation whatsoever involved in this offer, nothing which you are required to buy, nothing which you are required to pay for in any way, either now or in the future. It is just simply an out-and-out free proposal. In this little book of 72 pages, 8,000 words and 80 half-tone photo reproductions, I have endeavored to give a straightforward talk to men, young and elderly, single and married, a concise compendium for self-reference, a perfectly plain discourse upon those important personal matters relating to the vital strength of men, the preservation of vitality, its possible self-restoration, its legitimate uses and its wanton abuses. Every man should be in possession of this book. One part describes a little drugless mechanical vitalizer, which I make and distribute, but whether or not you wish to use one of these vitalizers is for you yourself to determine. However, aside from anything it contains in reference to my vitalizer, the book should be read by all for its own real worth. Therefore, please use free coupon below.

Reader, the whole world is today alive to the importance of a better general understanding of sex hygiene. The much discussed science of eugenics is teaching the great mass of people that strong, healthy, rugged parents beget equally sturdy children. Manhood, no matter where or in what condition of life we find it, is the single power that most fascinates both men and women. The one who radiates this manly influence, this result of a vigorous, sturdy nerve force, is the one who forges to the front, while weaker people stand aside. It is my opinion that any man may hope for a complete restoration of his manhood and vigor, if he but make up his mind that he WILL conquer him-

Let Me Send You This Book FREE If you live too far to call, or if you cannot call, please fill in the coupon below and send it to me. You will receive free, sealed, by return mail, my 72-page illustrated book, containing 8,000 words, a complete compendium of useful information for men young or elderly, single or married, who want the truth about the subject of vital strength, its preservation, its possible self-restoration and its legitimate uses and wanton abuses. SUMMER HAIR TONIC

Parisian Sage, the Hair Renewer is Now Sold All Over Canada

Since its introduction into Canada, the sales of Parisian Sage have been phenomenal. This success has led to many imitations and cheap copies. Look out for them, they are not the genuine. Remember that baldness is caused by dandruff germs, those little hard-working, persistent devils that day and night do nothing but dig into the roots of the hair and destroy its vitality. WHAT DYSPEPTICS SHOULD EAT

A PHYSICIAN'S ADVICE. "Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach trouble are, nine times out of ten, due to acidity; therefore stomach sufferers should, whenever possible, avoid making food too acid in its nature, or which by chemical action in the stomach develops acidity. Unfortunately, such a rule eliminates most foods which are pleasant to the taste as well as those which are rich in blood, flesh and nerve building properties. This is the reason why dyspeptics and stomach sufferers are usually so languid, enervated and lacking in that vital energy which can only come from a well fed body. For the benefit of those sufferers who have been obliged to exclude from their diet all starchy, sweet or fatty food, and are trying to keep up a miserable existence on gluten products, I would suggest that you should try a meal of my food or foods which you may like, in moderate amount, taking immediately afterwards a teaspoonful of bisulphated magnesia in a little hot or cold water. This will neutralize any acid which may be present, or which may be formed, and instead of the usual feeling of uneasiness and fullness, you will find that your food agrees with you perfectly. Bisulphated magnesia is doubtless the best and most correct and antacid known. It has no direct action on the stomach; but by neutralizing the acidity of the food contents, and thus removing the source of the acid irritation which inflames the delicate stomach lining, it does more than could possibly be done by any drug or medicine. As a physician, I believe in the use of medicine whenever necessary, but I must admit that I cannot see the sense of dosing an inflamed and irritated stomach with drugs instead of getting rid of the acid—the cause of all the trouble. Get a little bisulphated magnesia from your druggist, eat what you want at your next meal take some of the bisulphated magnesia as directed above, and see if I'm not right.

THE BAPTIST MINISTERS

(Maritime Baptist.) Rev. G. F. Howard, of Cross Creek, York County, will have the sympathy of his many friends in a time of domestic affliction. Mrs. Howard fell a few weeks ago and broke a bone in her arm, on account of which she will be laid up for some time. Also a married son is in the Boston hospital, seriously ill.

Rev. F. S. Hartley, Oakland City, Indiana, among other things writes the following, which will interest his many friends and others—"My church is prospering in all departments of work. The fact is things are moving all too smoothly to call forth some of the hardest work from either minister or people. A few weeks ago I attended service at the Primitive Baptist church. These people are very strict Calvinists, do not believe in any progressive ideas, will not tolerate an organ in the church—will not have Sunday schools or missions, and are feel-worshippers. I was present at this ordinance. They administered it in a very dignified manner, and cannot be criticised for the manner of administration, but for the stress and interpretation placed upon it. A Happy New Year to you and the Maritime Baptists."

Calista McKay, pastor of the churches at Newcastle, was ordained at Newcastle Creek on January 1, nine ministers were present at the council for ordination and Rev. C. P. Wilson preached the sermon. Rev. J. J. Bonnell, the former pastor of these churches, though in feeble health, was able to be at the ordination service.

Rev. Gideon Swin has returned from the hospital, St. John, to his home at Petrolia, and is in a fair way of recovery.

At a baptismal service at the Metropolitan Tabernacle, on Thursday, one of the candidates was a Church of England clergyman, Rev. A. E. Foster. Educated at the London College of Divinity (St. John's Hall, Highbury), Mr. Foster was ordained by the Bishop of Rochester in 1888 to the curacy of St. Peter's, Greenwich. After holding other curacies he was appointed vicar of Christ Church, Richmond, Surrey, in 1891. He built the present church, and remained seventeen years. Then he accepted a living in Preston, but resigned owing to illness. In a short address at the close of the service Mr. Foster said that the first great influence in his life as a boy was that of the late Rev. C. H. Spurgeon. He had been led to his present position by a study of the New Testament. He was leaving nothing and joining nothing. The future was in God's hands, but his service would probably be along undenominational lines.

At the Second Baptist church, Bridgeport, Conn., the work is progressing favorably under the leadership of their pastor, Rev. P. W. Ridout. At the New Year's Communion, last Sunday, twelve persons were given the hand of fellowship.

An ordination council is called to meet at Rowena, N. B. on January 14, to consider the advisability of ordaining their pastor, F. C. Burnett, licentiate.

mother a few days ago by announcing that he had decided to take up cigarette smoking in all its branches. Mother tried all the old ones without result. Son showed not the slightest interest when he was revealed as dying a premature death, losing his memory at an early age or being conveyed struggling to a padded cell. It was then mother tried the pinch hit. "Very well, son," she said, "if you smoke cigarettes, so will I. It isn't a nice thing for me to do, but I am willing to do anything you do." Greatly to her surprise (for Mother had figured it was a safe play), Son promptly took her up. As a result, when Father came home he found Mother and Son each with a lighted pipe blowing rings toward the ceiling. Mother and Father had a talk that night and decided on another play. Pursuant to which Father told Son at breakfast that he was going to bring him home a big cob pipe. "If you're going to smoke," Father said in his foxglove, "smoke a pipe. I'll get you a good one and some tobacco that will make a hit with you."

"All right, Father," said Son heartily, "bring on your outfit."

"That day Father bought a pipe and some of the strongest tobacco known to the trade. He told Mother confidentially when he got home that two whiffs of it would curl Son up like an autumn leaf in the fern.

After supper Son called for his pipe, filled it to the brim and lit it up. Father and mother watched while the smoke clouds rose, each ready to catch him as he reeled and hold his head. But Son gave no indications of any other emotion than those of the keenest enjoyment. He blew smoke through his nose, inhaled it, and shot it upward in graceful wings; and when the pipe was emptied filled it again, leaned back in his chair and began to talk between puffs, about the Mexican war.

N. B.—The pipe and tobacco have disappeared from the mantel and in their place is a long, little, old-fashioned switch.—Kansas City Star.

TAKE A DOSE OF NATURE'S REMEDY

Throw away your half-filled bottles of dope and poison, your patent nostrums and doctors' concoctions. You know they haven't done you any good, and that your stomach is all upset—as the result of filling it with these poisons. You know they have weakened your nerves and taken the life out of your blood.

Get back to Nature. Consider how she cures and gives her assistance. Nature will cure you if she has the power. This power is electricity. That's because electricity builds up—supplies nourishment, strength to the body. Drugs destroy, tear down, because they contain poison instead of nourishment. Of course poison will ease pain. Why? Because it paralyzes the nerves. The nerves are delicate wires that enable you to feel pain. If you poison your nerves with drugs you can't feel the pain until the stupor wears off. Then the pain comes back and you have to repeat the dose until Nature removes the cause.

If you have a pain in your back you can stop it for a few hours by stupefying the nerves with poisonous drugs. But to cure that pain you have got to remove the cause. That pain is sometimes caused by kidney trouble. So can't you see that to remove the cause you must restore the kidneys to a healthy condition?

The reason the kidneys, liver, stomach or other organs become weak or debilitated is because they lack electricity. This must be restored, either artificially or by Nature, before they can do their work properly.

Weakness in men is caused by an exhaustion of electricity. Get back that force and you will have your strength.

Dr. McLaughlin's Electric Belt puts a stream of electric life into your nerves while you sleep, and these conduct the force to every organ and tissue of your body, giving health and strength to every part.

It removes the cause of disease, and when the cause is removed Nature will restore health. The only sensation is a soothing glow. I have perfected my appliance so that it conveys a stream of electric life direct to the part that is ailing, so that the great force of current goes where it is needed and none is wasted.

Dear Sir,—I have used your Belt for a few months now, and it has done a lot for me, more than all the doctors' medicine that I have taken, and I tried several different ones for about a year. I don't think you can recommend your Belt too highly, and I will recommend it to any person in need of it. ERNIE LEESON, Copenhagen, Ont.

NOBODY IS DECEIVED
Does the editor of the Times or the editor of the Telegraph dare to assert that Mr. Ames deliberately sought to affront a political section of this community...

This is a good enough doctrine to be promulgated in the province of New Brunswick, which prides itself on its intelligence and progress, and we may thus profit by the remarks of the president of a republic which hitherto has been extremely backward in educational matters.

Mr. Ames was announced to speak before the Canadian Club on the building of a battleship, not on a political question upon which public opinion is so sharply divided.

A NEEDED INSTITUTION
There is no reason to doubt that the movement to establish in the maritime provinces a home for delinquent girls will succeed.

Concerning that non-political navy speech by Mr. Ames the Fredericton Gleaner joyously observes:—The utter absurdity of the Laurier contention that battleships can be just as readily built in Canada as in Britain...

There seems to be little prospect of a conference between the leaders of the government and the opposition in the mother country over the Home Rule question.

Brussels Street Baptist Church in this city has the faculty of calling very able men to its pulpit, as is shown by the demand from much larger churches for their services.

Mr. James R. Brown, who will speak at the monthly meeting of the board of trade, represents the Tax Reform League of Canada.

A PERUVIAN INSTANCE
Reference was made in the Times the other day to action taken by the congress of Peru to establish full religious liberty in that republic.

A Void
Have you ever been stuck for a thought of something to do or to say? Have you ever been hopelessly caught in a trap of despair and dismay?

THROAT Troubles ARE Dangerous
because the swollen glands and inflamed membranes often affect other tissues and impair their healthy action.
Scott's Emulsion stands alone as nature's corrector of throat troubles; its cod liver oil is speedily converted into germ-resisting tissue—the glycerine is curative and healing, while the combined emulsion up-builds the forces to avert the weakening influence which always follows throat troubles.

SCOTT'S EMULSION is best for three important reasons—it relieves the trouble, it prevents a relapse; it is not charged with alcohol or stimulating drugs.

ARCADIA IN GERMANY

The Little Bavarian Town Of Rothenburg Ideal

A CONTENTED PEOPLE

Every Man a Householder Who Owns Farm and Grows Produce Equal to 30 Per Cent of His Wages—Strikes Unknown; Crime Rare

Times Special Correspondence

Berlin, Dec. 26.—Mediaeval Rothenburg, perched high above the deep blue Taubern, is Germany's Arcadia. It is the place where all men are (relatively) rich, all women virtuous, all children happy. It is at once Europe's oldest and newest town. Other towns with hoary pasts, narrow streets, picturesque gables, houses, grey fortress walls, and damp dungeons compensate for their picturesque beauty by being socially backward and when you ask them why the houses smell and the children are ragged, they say, "You can't expect everything." But Rothenburg is an exception. It is as old and as picturesque as Venice and as tidy and progressive as brand-new Berlin. No town equals it for antique loveliness; and no town has such good municipal institutions, such excellent drainage, such fat balances in the savings bank.

Rothenburg is a town of more than 8,000 inhabitants some five miles south west of famous Nuremberg.

It is a wonderful place for tourists, a still more wonderful place for Rothenburgers, for it is Germany's only town which has no poor people. Also it has no millionaires. The most prosperous citizen makes toys and penholders; and there is no great gap between him and the least prosperous. There are no work houses and no paupers; and if a man is temporarily out of work that matters little, for the Rothenburgers own his own house, has money saved, and also has on a small scale—a farm of his own. Also Rothenburgers are old and misty as Kaiser Charles the Fifth, live cleanly and neatly; and their streets are the cleanest in all somewhat slovenly Bavaria.

No Rent to Pay

The Rothenburg municipality resolved to realize its aim by ensuring that every citizen should have a stake in the town. First it set out to fight the vicious practice of farmers living in rented houses. Rented houses, it decided, are economically as vicious as would be rented clothes or rented food. Rothenburg municipality, therefore, started on a policy of creating house-owners. By special regulations it made it easy for men to buy the houses they lived in, and money at low interest to the buyers. The town lost nothing, because the houses are good security. They are enormously valuable owing to the wood-carving chimney-pieces, and windows. The business was equally profitable to the inhabitants, who found that the interest on the loans amounted to less than ten per cent. And no longer anyone was tempted to tear down the old houses. Rothenburg also ensures that newly built houses shall be owned by the man who dwells in them. It makes it hard to put up new houses. Rigid provisions are enforced to ensure that the old buildings are put up. For a few years their obvious fitness offends. But their past as they get mellow and mouldy. In this way Rothenburg manages to keep their middle ages appearance better than other towns. Compared with it Nuremberg is an indiscriminate mixture of styles.

As a result of land owning and of running the profitable Windmills the Rothenburg municipality is rich. It spends its riches on developing a generous land policy. The municipality thinks that one of the great causes of urban misery is the divorce of the working class population from the land. The man who is not part farmer, the man who cannot till his own produce his own food, that man is only half a man. Therefore, said Rothenburg, every man town dweller though he be, must have his little farm. And it began to divide up the communal lands among its citizens, and to buy other lands, and sell them to citizens on easy terms. So now not only does the typical Rothenburger own his own house; but he owns somewhere on the fringe of the city a little allotment for himself. He can himself work in the modest perambulator or toy factory; while his wife and children have gone to the miniature farm a mile or so away. Thus the Rothenburger working-man has his own production of fruit and vegetables, and sometimes even his own animal food. His produce is estimated, average value 30 per cent of his wages.

This policy sends up industrial wages. The Rothenburger is the most independent workman in Europe. What with his own house, his own savings, and his own allotment, he can pick and choose his work. He refuses to be sweated. Strikes are unknown. Also crime is rare. There is about 60 per cent less than in neighboring towns. There is no need to steal. Also there is no possibility of the paternal municipality being severe. Men without occupations and men of doubtful character from other parts of Germany are promptly sent back to their native towns. Bad native Rothenburgers, when there are any, have a bad time. The municipality refuses to let them share in all the other bonities which by reason of its wealth it can shower down on the just. So there is no temptation to a bad Rothenburger to stay at home.

Not content with providing everything to make its inhabitants comfortable and happy, the Rothenburg municipality worries itself lest any of its cares should become dissatisfied and yearn to try his luck elsewhere. It keeps a jealous watch over its citizens and when one plans to leave, it does all it can to do to persuade him to change his mind. As a matter of fact few Rothenburgers ever leave the old town. Of those that do leave, the majority return repented in due course, after learning that the outside world, compared with their motherly home town, is hard, cruel and unsympathetic. Of the handful of families that left in the last ten years almost seventy returned.

When employed in a manufacturing company in Trenton, N. J., went to work one morning they found a woman tending the boilers. The night fireman had been taken sick, but had had time to summon his wife, who lived nearby and while he lay on a couch and directed the work, she tended the boilers the rest of the night.

Lady Bathurst Proprietor of London Morning Post

NOT MERELY NOMINAL HEAD

Watches Over Important Details of Paper Which She Inherited From Her Father, Lord Glenesk—A Stickler For Accuracy and Bars Society Gossip

Times Special Correspondence

London, Dec. 28.—Women of high social position probably have more political influence in England than in any other country in the world. And the most powerful of them all, by general consent, is Lady Bathurst, the beautiful, cultured and immensely wealthy proprietress of the London Morning Post, one of the most influential Conservative papers in England. She is a woman of strong convictions and personality, who insists upon shaping the policies of her paper, and during the last two years she has played a more important part in the affairs of the nation than is generally known—even here.

Some idea of Lady Bathurst's enormous power may be gleaned from the fact that she was the foremost figure in the recent revolt within the Conservative party that drove Arthur James Balfour from the leadership of the party and hoisted Bonar Law into his place. It was the Morning Post that led the fight against the nephew of the late Lord Salisbury and the Morning Post is wholly and completely Lady Bathurst's. She is not content with holding the purse strings and hiring trained newspaper men to do the actual work, but figuratively and actually speaking she sits in the editorial chair and runs every important detail of the great paper.

If one were asked to describe the Morning Post and its position in a sentence it would be impossible to do better than to call it the most aristocratic newspaper in London. Winston Churchill, the First Lord of the Admiralty, once said that he read Lady Bathurst's newspaper every morning to make himself respectable. Perhaps the reader will be able to picture the type of paper society goesers from the pages of the society columns in which the annual reports are paid for at the rate of $2.50 a line. Lady Bathurst rigidly excludes society gossip from its columns. It is said that those who were most interested in the days when the fate of the London Times was at stake, first became aware of the existence of the society columns in which the annual reports are paid for at the rate of $2.50 a line. Lady Bathurst rigidly excludes society gossip from its columns. It is said that those who were most interested in the days when the fate of the London Times was at stake, first became aware of the existence of the society columns in which the annual reports are paid for at the rate of $2.50 a line. Lady Bathurst rigidly excludes society gossip from its columns.

The Morning Post became a power in the hands of the late Lord Glenesk, father of Lady Bathurst. As a young man he served Paris as correspondent of the paper, which then belonged to his father. He was undoubtedly one of the greatest English newspapermen who was on intimate terms of friendship with most of the great men and women of his time. He was one of the few men in the world who were called "the Queen Victoria" and later King Edward was one of his warmest admirers and frequently visited him at Glenesk House, in Palmerston, London, known as "the finest foreign secretary in the world," and the unfortunate Empress Eugenie also were his friends.

He and Lady Glenesk entertained lavishly in town at 189 Piccadilly, and the house became famous as a political salon of the great importance. The house, which by the way, is now the home of a club—had been Byron's home and there had been "The Siege of Corinth" and "Pamela." It also had carried an unenviable distinction as the home of "Old Q," otherwise the last Duke of Queensberry, a naughty character who used to stand on the balcony overlooking Piccadilly and ogle the pretty girls as they passed by.

Lord Glenesk had a son, Oliver, whom he trained to take over the Morning Post. For a time he sat in the editorial chair but in 1903 he died. Three years later, on Nov. 27, 1906, the following notice appeared in the paper: "On the death of his son, Oliver, in 1903, Lord Glenesk made arrangements for the Morning Post should remain in the possession of his only daughter, the Countess Bathurst, and her family. All details of the arrangements have been made during the last two years by Lord Glenesk."

Curiously enough, one of the executors named in the will and now one of the directors of the Morning Post, is Lewis Harcourt, the colonial secretary, who is absolutely opposed to politics and who used to stand on the balcony overlooking Piccadilly and ogle the pretty girls as they passed by. You must not run away with the idea, however, that he has the past influence of his editorial affairs. Lady Bathurst is what one might call "a splendid autocrat," though a soft-hearted one. In one direction her influence is very strong and she is a stickler for accuracy and deals summarily with all who are unfortunate enough to offend against her standards in the columns of her paper.

Although a wonderfully interesting conversationalist and a woman of wide acquaintance, Lady Bathurst cares little for society and up to the present year entertained very little. She has a town house in Belgrave Square which of late has been thrown open for receptions and dances of an exclusive character. Lady Bathurst has a decided taste for literature and she has made a close friend of the generally accepted lights of the literary world, but seldom, if ever, the eccentric or the occasional lion of the moment.

Her eldest son is Lord Apsley, which title recalls that the famous Apsley House, at Hyde Park corner, sometimes called "No. 1 London," once belonged to the Bathursts, but has now passed into the hands of the Wellesleys, and is the town house of the Duke of Wellington.

Lord Bathurst has a magnificent place in Gloucestershire, called Cirencester Park, but he has the first lord of the title, a close friend of Pope, Swift and Prior. There are avenues of trees converging on the beautiful house and a very high hedge (not high planted more than 125 years ago). This place, however, is too elaborate for the modest Lady Bathurst, who prefers a simple beautiful establishment close to Cirencester House.

Five of them he found playing cards in a kitchen of a hut on the local Bowery. Four others were sitting about another kitchen in the same locality. A KICK FROM YORK Fredericton Mail - Although the Flemming government had a record-breaking revenue last year they found it necessary to call upon the various municipalities to make a further contribution towards the support of the provincial hospital. The new law went into effect on January 1st. Under the old law the parishes had to pay for the support of harmless patients at the rate of $125 a week. Under the new law they must contribute one dollar a week for the support of all patients. It means an extra tax of from $1,200 to $1,500 a year on the parishes of York county which have patients in the provincial hospital. How will the economical county councillors of York relish this dose?

The third dead, a smallpox among an exposed on the battleship Ohio, was noted at Philadelphia today.

WOULD MAKE FREDERICTON A SEPARATE CONSTITUENCY

Fredericton, N. B., Jan. 7 - At a meeting of the city council last evening a proposal to separate the city from the municipality was discussed. The city now pays one-third of the cost of administration of justice for the county. But the municipal authorities have been trying to have this increased to one-half. The city authorities consider this unjust and threaten to break away from the municipality altogether and erect a jail and court house. It is also likely that steps will be taken to have Fredericton made a separate constituency for representation in the legislature.

GREEK PREMIER TO EUROPEAN CAPITALS

Rome, Jan. 7 - The Greek premier, Eleutherios Venizelos, will arrive in Rome on Friday and after a brief stay will continue on to Paris and probably other European capitals. He is the bearer of a letter from King Constantine to King Victor Emmanuel. The Italian press, while welcoming the visit, warns Greece that she drew great advantage from the Balkan wars, not to repeat the mistakes of Bulgaria. The newspapers point out that the purchase of the battleship Rio de Janeiro by Turkey, the assumption by Enver Bey of the portfolio of the Turkish ministry of war, and the aspirations of Ismet Pasha to lead the Albanians against the Greeks are indicative of the possibilities.

IMPROVEMENTS TO THE SAFEGUARDS OF NAVIGATION IN BAY

Questions Sent Out to Marine Men From Traffic Committee of Board of Trade

The Times the other day made reference to the work of the traffic committee of the Board of Trade and to a circular letter being sent to marine men asking for suggestions as to improvements in the Bay of Fundy as safeguards to navigation. Following is a copy of the letter:

We have already secured from the Briar Island Light will be, as soon as possible, made into a quadruple flash light.

The government has also agreed to greatly increase the power of Cape Sable light, so that questions that we want answered by the commanders of the various steamers visiting the port are: 1 - Is the Lurcheer lightship in a proper position, and could you suggest a more advantageous position? 2 - Have you sufficient fog signals in the Bay of Fundy? 3 - Would a fairway fog signal and lightship be advantageous in the narrow channel between Seal Island and South-west Head? 4 - Would it be practicable to moor a lightship, suggesting a light and fog signal, there for four hours per night? 5 - What suggestions can you make for the safe-guarding of the approach to the Port of St. John?

It will be well to remember that lightships are the most expensive aids to navigation that can be provided, both in construction and maintenance, and that the best sites are not considered as reliable aids to navigation.

It has been suggested that the best position for a fairway lightship is in 45 fathoms 245, or N 240 W true from the S. W. ledge of Briar Island, and distance eleven miles from the ledge.

Another suggestion is that a light vessel with four horns be placed five or six miles off Briar Island light.

Another suggestion is that the part of the coast twenty miles south of Seal Island to St. John should be surveyed.

Another suggestion is that the Northwest Ledge buoy should be placed west of Beaton's Rocks and should be a dirty buoy instead of a red buoy.

Another suggestion is that the Cape Spencer and Musquash lights are illusive, both being two flashes, but one of the lights is not distinct enough; that the Partridge Island fixed light is practically useless, and that few ports in the world nowadays have such a light.

We would be glad to have your opinions and criticisms on the above. Your co-operation will materially aid us in our effort to improve the entrance to the port of St. John.

Thanking you in anticipation of a reply. Yours truly PERCY W. THOMSON, Chairman Traffic Bureau.

AWAITING VILLA

The Situation in Mexico at The United States Border --- Rebels by Mistake Blow Up Train On Which Are Their Own Men

(Canadian Press) Presidio, Texas, Jan. 7 - Scattered over the hills and westward along the Rio Grande the rebel forces waited last night to see whether General Francisco Villa would re-unite them and in person lead another attack on the Mexican Federal army at Ojinaga, Mexico, opposite here. The rebels are in three divisions. One is under General Ortega at a point on the river twenty miles west of Ojinaga. Another, commanded by General Herrera, is reported en route from Chihuahua with fresh supplies of ammunition. The rebel army combined is said to be in such numbers as to promise a formidable front to the last vestige of Huerta's northern military government, which, after its retreat from Chihuahua, is making a stand on the border.

General Villa's position is that so long as the Federals, with their ten or more generals, remain in the north he cannot continue his campaign toward Mexico City, because to march south without defeating General Castro would be to invite a rear attack.

Meantime, the federal army has thrown out defenses against a sudden storming of Ojinaga. Should the Villa succeed in breaking down the outer defenses there still would remain the high approaches up which the rebels would have to climb in the face of the federal guns.

General Castro said he believed with his 4,000 soldiers he could withstand an attack, should Villa be able to concentrate that many. Federal reinforcements were reported en route from Juarez.

Killed Their Own Mexico City, Jan. 7 - The rebels captured a train at Esparito, Santo. While it was approaching La Honda another party of rebels, believing the train carried Federals, exploded a mine. The train was blown up and eighty men were killed or injured.

London, Jan. 7 - According to the Pall Mall Gazette, negotiations are in progress for the formation of an international group of powerful financial and industrial groups with the tacit approval of respective governments to protect foreign investments and interests in Mexico.

Laredo, Texas, Jan. 7 - The Mexican government yesterday suspended for twenty-four hours duties here on all food stuffs and when midnight automatically restored the tariff more than $40,000 worth of supplies had been carried across the international bridge to Nuevo Laredo. The city is being protected against a renewal of the constitutionalist attack.

New York, Jan. 7 - A London cable to the New York American says: "The Chinese government has decided to start a big steamship company, the capital $50,000,000, of which two-fifths will be raised by the government and the remainder among Chinese residing abroad and rich Chinese in the interior."

AGAIN WOULD HAVE KITCHENER WED

London Has Another Rumor of Engagement

PRINCE OF WALES' HEALTH

Some Worry Over it—Hostesses Place Ban on Political Discussions—Night Clubs Have Captured Best Society

(Times Special Correspondence)

London, Dec. 28—As I write, society people have a great deal to say about the rumored engagement of Lady Naylor-Leyland and Lord Kitchener. I am assured on excellent authority that Lord Kitchener did propose to her some time ago. It did seem that before her late husband, Sir Herbert Naylor-Leyland, died he made her promise that if she ever did re-marry it would not be until after her son, Sir Edward, the present baronet, was engaged. That young man, as I recently remarked, says he does not want to marry for ever so long, so the course of true love is thus impeded.

I saw Lady Naylor-Leyland the other night at the Ritz, dining with a son on either side, and when it came to the cracker stage they had such good fun pulling out the prizes. They were just like three children. By the way, crackers this year are finer than ever before and often contain fascinating prizes. They hold very pretty sham jewelry, which very few are above wearing, also cigar and cigarette cases, and they cost $20 to $25 a dozen.

For the last few weeks the king and queen have been considerably perturbed about the health of the Prince of Wales. As a matter of fact when His Royal Highness returned to the university for the autumn term the instructions given by the court physician were that he might attend lectures, but must not take any notes and that he was to be playing football and motoring as much as possible. It was in consequence of his health that he was allowed two motor cars. I hear that the prince has, in the last few weeks, lost several pounds in weight and that he is made to drink quantities of milk which, fortunately, he likes.

Malt and cod-liver oil are also prescribed. The story is that he has outgrown his strength, but as he is barely the average height for his years, this does not seem correct. Hitherto, he has always been the healthiest of all the family, the younger members of which have never been robust. Though nobody insinuates that there is anything radically wrong with the heir to the throne, there is undoubted uneasiness, the more so when it is known that he has been ordered to wear the warmest clothing.

When visiting one of the large establishments under royal patronage I was shown a motor coat that was being dispatched to the prince. Of thick frieze, it has three detachable linings, one of fleecy stuff, another of leather and a third of light waterproof material. Its great feature was the collar, which I was told the queen herself had designed. It went right over the ears and was lined with opossum, a fur which is seldom used here in a man's motor coat. The wind screen cuffs were also very wide and unique in design.

Politics Under Ban Since Sir Edward Carson and a member of the government had a tongue-lash over home rule, hostesses have taken the precaution of putting on the dinner table and also in the smoking-room a notice requesting guests not to discuss politics. The Duke of Marlborough and Winston Churchill now pass each other in Pall Mall without a nod since Mrs. "Winnie" told the duke what she thought about him and his views on the land question at a recent house party at Blenheim at which the First Lord of the Admiralty was not present. Mrs. Churchill is a brilliant speaker and she has all Winston's arguments at her tongue's end. It keeps her in perfect condition. notable one in English political history than that of Iddesleigh. Indeed the earldom was conferred on Sir Stafford Northcote, the grandfather of Lady Elizabeth Northcote, almost at the end of a political career of nearly twenty years. Lord Salisbury was very much attached to Sir Stafford, who was one of the most prominent figures in the Conservative party for many years and held most of the principal cabinet positions, and when the ascendancy of Lord Randolph Churchill caused displacements in the party, Lord Salisbury showed his friendship as well as his appreciation of Sir Stafford's statesmanship by resigning the foreign office in favor of Sir Stafford, re-assuming it after his untimely death.

Sir Stafford did not live long to justify the confidence of his political chief. He died while walking up the Foreign Office steps. Lord Salisbury's oration in the house when the vote of sympathy was being passed was one of his finest efforts and was one of the few occasions on which he was moved to emotion. After alluding to the fleeting nature of human ambition he made use of those familiar words, "What shadows we are, what phantoms we pursue."

One of Sir Stafford's sons found his wife in Canada. He was a member of the Marquess of Ripon's commission sent to the United States to arrange the Alabama Treaty and from Washington he went to Ottawa where he met the adopted daughter of Lord Mount Stephen whom he married a year later.

John E. Stewart Claims Loss of Profit on Cancelled Contract

The case of John E. Stewart of Andover against the Southampton Railway of which James K. Pinder, M. L. A., is promoter and president, opened in Fredericton before Judge McKeown in the Kings Bench Division of the supreme court yesterday.

The defence in this suit urges that the plaintiff obtained the contract by making fraudulent representations.

The plaintiff claims that on September 28, while he was at Pinder's house, the contract was stolen from his valise.

He and Pinder were to be partners but the contract was to be in Stewart's name.

On September 3, 1910, a formal contract was signed giving to Stewart all the bonds and subsidies that might be granted, Stewart agreeing to build the line.

MR. CLARK, M. P. GUEST AT SYDNEY SUPPER

Sydney, N. S., Jan. 7.—"I am very much pleased with the meeting tonight," said Dr. Michael Clark, M. P., at a supper given in his honor at the Boscobell Cafe on Monday evening.

The audience here has been a repetition of the five I have already addressed. Altogether I have found Nova Scotia audiences attentive and critical, which speaks highly of the class of citizenship which is the backbone and brain of the most eastern part of Canada.

Mr. Clark left for Halifax after the meeting.

Miss Lydia Pierson, a school teacher in Woodbury, L. I., received as a Christmas present a huge pumpkin. A hole was found in it, however, and inside it was found a chicken, a dozen eggs, butter and apples and nuts filling the compartments.

Queen Square Sunday School

The annual meeting of the teachers and officers of the Queen square Methodist Sunday school was held last night.

At 6.45 o'clock they were entertained at supper by the ladies of the church, after which the business of the meeting was taken up. Reports from the various officers and committees were encouraging, showing that the work in the Sunday school during the last year had been successful.

During the year the sum of $600 was raised. The election of officers, which concluded the meeting, resulted as follows: R. D. Smith, superintendent; J. N. Riley, assistant superintendent; E. S. Stephenson, secretary; A. S. Walker and Willard Robb, assistant secretaries; A. B. Gilmore, treasurer; E. A. Stephenson, assistant treasurer; C. M. Lingley and L. V. Lingley, librarians; Miss J. Betts, superintendent of home department; Miss M. Thompson, assistant; Mrs. W. F. Gault, superintendent of cradle roll; Mrs. M. G. Gunn, superintendent of primary department.

It was also decided at the meeting to hold the usual Sunday school picnic in June.

The Liberal meeting which was to have been held in Kellie's Theatre next Monday evening has been postponed until a later date owing to the illness of Hon. William Pugsley. THE STREET CAR IS A MISSIONARY

Strong Reasons For Extension To The Suburbs

THE SITUATION HERE

Robert Campbell, Well Qualified To Speak On Subject, Tells Times Where—Sees Excellent Opportunities in St. John

"I do not know of anything of greater value in the development of a city than the extension of its street railway system along suburban lines," said Robert Campbell, in conversation with the Times yesterday. Mr. Campbell is well qualified to speak on such a subject, as he has devoted years to the construction of such lines and has watched the growth and development which has invariably followed.

For several months Mr. Campbell has been engaged in St. John superintending the excavations on the site of the new post office, having been brought here as an expert to hurry the work when it was found that it was not progressing rapidly enough. While Mr. Campbell is an all-around construction man, electric railways are his specialty and he has played a large part in the development of such lines in the neighboring State of Maine.

Comparing the situation in St. John with that in Bangor, Me., Mr. Campbell said that, although the latter city was much smaller, it had, including its urban and suburban lines, sixty miles of electric railway as against the total of twenty miles, including double trackage, in St. John. In almost every part of the state the development of the railways had been carried out on almost the same scale and every town of importance had its own railway lines. In the other New England states the development of the suburban lines had been carried on to even greater extent and it is now possible to travel from Boston to within forty miles of Bangor by trolley lines.

Millinocket, Maine, was mentioned by Mr. Campbell as an illustration of a town whose existence was made possible by the construction of an electric line which gives connection with a thriving community employing several hundred men and located in what was formerly the heart of a wilderness.

Among the benefits to be established by the extension of their railway lines Mr. Campbell spoke of the stimulus to manufacturing industries, the difficulties usually experienced was found in the problem of housing the workmen satisfactorily and it had been found that when the men can easily secure homes of their own which they take pride that they are much more likely to settle down and stay with a concern and that better results are obtained from the workmen. With the development of suburban lines comes the opportunity for the men employed in a city to acquire cheaply a short daily commute to their living conditions are more pleasant and where their families will have better surroundings and this has been found to be a great advantage.

Another effect upon industrial development was the opening up of larger areas for manufacturing plants. Where it was formerly necessary for a factory to locate in a congested district in order to be near their labor supply, the extension of the railway lines gave an opportunity to locate outside the city where they would have more room to expand. In such a location they could carry the residential districts out farther, where the surroundings were more attractive and the city which could offer such advantages found it easier to attract new residents.

Another advantage was found in the possibilities for recreation opened up by the suburban lines. Public parks, railway parks, country clubs and various kinds of outing associations sprang up at desirable points along the lines and the residents of the city benefited by the opportunity to enjoy more out-door life while the railway company profited by the fares.

Mr. Campbell said that in his experience it had always been necessary for the railway company to act as a missionary in opening up new territory, but that as soon as the railway lines were extended the business to support them speedily followed.

Speaking of local conditions Mr. Campbell said that he thought that St. John offered ideal opportunities for such suburban extensions and he could not understand why they had not been taken advantage of before this. He had noticed that the St. John Railway Company was making a start in this direction and he thought that they could hardly build lines, within the next few years, rapidly enough to meet the need for suburban extension.

DAUGHTERS OF EMPIRE TO BUILD WORKMAN'S HOME AS A MODEL

Self-contained House to be Erected at Moderate Cost to Show What Can be Done

An interesting attempt to contribute towards the solution of the housing problem is being considered by the local branch of the Daughters of the Empire. This organization has taken a prominent part in various public movements showing considerable originality in their past work and the new movement is well worthy of their record.

The plan has not been decided upon definitely but the idea suggested is that the order should erect a self contained house of moderate cost as an illustration of what can be done along this line and to serve as a model for others. They hope to secure a lot large enough to give a little room around the house in an accessible locality and to erect on it a frame house, large enough to accommodate a family comfortably but small enough to keep the cost at a low figure.

Until the plans have been discussed more thoroughly it is impossible to tell what the cost would be but they hope to keep the cost of the building within the limit of $1,000.

The society now has on hand more than $800 and they hope to raise the balance needed during the winter season. One scheme decided upon is a series of three tango teas which will be held at weekly intervals in the Keth Assembly rooms within the next few months and which they expect to realize a substantial sum.

Mrs. Ronald McAvity, representing the Daughters of the Empire, appeared at City Hall this morning and presented to Mayor Frink a request that the city should find a site for the proposed building. She asked that the city should either grant a deed to a lot of land or else lease a lot at a low rental. The mayor asked that the request be presented in writing, and it will be submitted to the common council at the next meeting.

COME HERE FOR WORK; THEY GET INTO JAIL

Harry Wilson and Gerald Watson, two Scotchmen charged with stealing a ride from the city to Fredericton Junction on the C. P. R. train last evening were brought before Magistrate Ritchie in the police court this morning and will have to pay the full penalty of the law. They had been drinking and as they were riding on the car just back of the engine, were in a perilous position.

S. Bartlett, C. P. R. constable at MacAdam Junction said that when he arrested them, one of the men had lost his cap and their hands were quite numb.

Watson, who gave his age as forty-five, said he was married and had three children living at Fredericton Junction and had come to the city looking for work.

Wilson said he boarded with W. Stewart and the two had paid their fare to the city in the morning. They said they went to several places looking for work but not being able to find any they had several hours to spend in the city before there was another train back to the Junction and they both drank and when train time came they had no money.

The magistrate sentenced both men to pay $50 or to serve two months in jail. E. C. Weyman appeared in the interests of the C. P. R.
