Sir Ian Hamilton Leaves Quebec For England and is Given Hearty Send-off — Minister Talks on The Profession of Arms

(Canadian Press)

Quebec, July 25.—Hon. Col. Sam Hughes, minister of militia, here to see Sir Ian Hamilton off to England, declared that in the tour of inspection just finished, he had never before been so impressed with the earnestness shown by those who had taken part in the work carried out this year. This augured a new appreciation of the value of patriotism and the desire to fit themselves for national defense.

Referring to his remarks at a banquet of Halifax, the minister said he had received hundreds of letters from all over the country, approving of his action in this respect. The keynote of many of these letters was that the militia could not understand why the militia had not been run on business lines in the past and why the same energy, earnestness and discipline was not exacted from the militia as would be required by a business man from the man in his employ.

For himself, he could say that no one more appreciated the good work being done by the officers and the permanent forces, but he considered it was up to the good officers to purify their regiments of the despicable ones, whose actions did harm to the forces as a whole. They should either reform them, or get rid of them. He knew of no career where there were such opportunities, provided a man were earnest and strove as much after efficiency as he would in other pursuits.

General Hamilton, left for England by the Empress of Ireland. He was given a hearty God speed by a large crowd assembled on the dock. A guard of honor was furnished by the 9th Regiment Voltigeurs of Quebec, the crack French-Canadian regiment of this city, with its band. The band of the Royal Canadian Garrison Artillery was also present.

Gen. Hamilton, accompanied by Hon. Colonel Hughes arrived at the dock at 8:45 o'clock yesterday afternoon and inspected the guard of honor. At the conclusion of the inspection he shook hands with all the officers and accompanied by the minister of militia and several officers went on board. As he ascended the gangway he was greeted with prolonged cheers.

BRITISH M. P.'S IN MONTREAL; ALL MIUM SEEM TO HAVE AGREED ON SAYING NOTHING TO REPORTERS

Montreal, July 25.—There was a pact of taciturnity made among the British parliamentarians who arrived in this city last night for a trip across the dominion and other parts of the empire. In the vessel and on arrival at the Ritz-Carlton hotel they all maintained a dignified reserve which was so assiduous that, had it been reported that any member of the party had passed a courteous "good evening" to a newspaper man, there would doubtless have been an official denials forthcoming.

MOVE BY TURKEY COMPLICATES WAR SITUATION IN THE EAST

Ambassadors of Powers Worried and Fear That General Disturbance May Result From Invasion by Ottoman Troops

(Canadian Press)

London, July 25.—Just when the situation in the Balkans seemed to be taking a more favorable turn, Bulgaria having recognized the fact of her defeat and being willing to negotiate for peace, the situation caused by the reappearance of Turkey on the scene is changed, and the whole affair has now taken a most serious aspect.

A feeling of approaching consternation has been caused by a report that the Turks were advancing towards Philippolis and King Ferdinand of Bulgaria has asked intervention of the powers.

The utmost secrecy is observed as to the results of the discussion of the ambassadors at their conference yesterday.

Some steps should be taken and the Enos-Midias line frontier for European Turkey observed that the ambassadors have as yet apparently been unable to reach a decision as to how this is to be accomplished.

In ambassadorial quarters there is a feeling of uncertainty in regard to the future and there is no expressed view as to how they can reach a common agreement or the steps to be adopted.

According to dispatches, the authenticity of which is undoubted, Turkish forces, whose strength is unstated, but which are apparently Kurdish cavalry, invaded old Bulgaria and occupied Jamboli, sack it and other towns and villages. Jamboli is about forty miles north of the frontier and sixty miles from Adrianople.

The Bulgarian legation in London has official information that "the Turks penetrated Bulgarian territory in the direction of Hissligatch and occupied Vakov, Constantinovo, Soujak and Derent. The first two were burned. The cavalry occupied Karagha, half way to Hissligatch and Jamboli and also the Cavjilovo Valley. Panic prevails among the population."

New York, July 27.—A cable to the Tribune from London says:

News of an exceedingly grave character reached London last night, and is confirmed in authoritative quarters. It may be summarized as follows:

A Turkish force whose strength is not stated, but which appears to consist of Kurdish cavalry, has invaded old Bulgaria, the town of Jamboli has been occupied, and according to official telegrams, sacked, with other towns and villages. Against this fresh act of aggression on the part of Turkey, Bulgaria has already lodged a protest with the powers.

By carrying a campaign of reconquest from Adrianople into what cannot possibly be claimed as anything but Bulgarian territory, Turkey has created a new situation full of dangerous possibilities. So far as can be judged, the force which has made this incursion is 4,300 o'clock this afternoon to continue the discussion.

THE SURFACE PAVING. The city's contract with the Warren Bitulithic Company for the surface paving at King Square, Union and Germain streets was the subject of discussion at the noon meeting of the city commissioners today. Questions affecting the total price of the work have arisen and these matters were under consideration. The commissioners will meet again at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon to continue the discussion.

GREAT DISCOVERY IN SURGICAL WORK ANNOUNCED

London, July 25.—Great interest was taken in the meeting of the British Medical Association at Brighton yesterday, when Sir Berkeley Moynihan, professor of clinical surgery in the University of Leeds, described the discovery by an American surgeon, George W. Crile, of Chilo, Ohio, who has found a method of anaesthesia whereby the area of operation could be shut off from the brain for several days if necessary.

The Daily Express, commenting editorially considers that the discovery is perhaps one of the greatest in modern surgery.

MOVE 60 OF WORST FROM SING SING

Second Term Men Are Taken To Auburn

FEARED SERIOUS TROUBLE

Each Convict Chained to Car Seat and Guards on Watch For Attempts at Rescue by Friends — Mutiny, Attempt to Burn Place and Murderous Attack on Negro

(Canadian Press)

Ossining, N. Y., July 24.—Sixty convicts, the dregs of the New York city criminal class, were taken one by one from their cells in Sing Sing prison today and placed aboard a train for the state prison at Auburn. Recent riots in Sing Sing caused the warden to take no chances and each convict was heavily handcuffed and shackled and then chained to his place in the railroad car, which had been brought inside the prison enclosure. A hundred prison guards did the work while in the state armory not far away, a company of the non-military waiters were called to protect the town in case the transfer of convicts resulted in a prison mutiny.

The crisis to which the stormy events of the last two days have been leading was expected at Sing Sing today, because the second term men, who are being transferred to Auburn have led the recent mutinies. They were enraged because so many of them were to be sent up state far from their friends and relatives in New York city.

Little Peace Last Night. There was little sleep in the prison last night. At intervals some of the prisoners would start to howl and bang on the cell doors, the din would increase and the warden would order a shift of cells and continue until the angry convicts had worn themselves out. It was about midnight when the warden's night shift of guards was relieved by the keepers who had charge of transferring the sixty second term men to Auburn.

When the first convicts were brought out of the cell, Sing Sing suddenly awoke. The town of Ossining rushed to their cell windows and cursed and howled and yelled threats at the keepers.

The task of the prison authorities was by no means over when they got the convicts aboard the train. The train to which this car was attached they expected to find friends and relatives of the convicts and they made an attempt to release the second term men might be looked for anywhere between Ossining and Auburn. For this reason there were almost as many guards on the train as there were men.

After he had rid the prison of the second term men to be transferred to Auburn, Warden Clancy expects to have no more trouble keeping order.

Mutinies This Week. The rest of the second term convicts are to be sent away tomorrow. To them and a few of their more desperate sympathizers the warden attributes the mutinies that broke out at Sing Sing this week, the first in the prison shops which caused more than $100,000 damage and an attempt to murder a negro convict whom the mutineers regarded as a traitor.

The attempt to burn the shoe shop yesterday was frustrated and a strike among the shoe workers was foiled because the warden had been warned of them in advance. Some of the convicts believe that this information reached Mrs. Clancy through a negro known in the prison as "Texas Jack."

Last evening as the shoe workers were filing out of the workshop five of the convicts, with shoe knives in their hands, leaped upon the negro and slashed him so savagely that he is dying.

MAY NEVER GET BODIES OF THE FIRE VICTIMS. Binghamton, N. Y., July 25.—Yesterday the first of the Binghamton clothing factory fire victims was laid at rest. Early this morning the work of recovering bodies was resumed but the discovery of only two corpses yesterday leads to the fear that other victims have been completely cremated.

The Prevailing Note in Retailing

In a recent newspaper advertisement we saw the following sentence: "Not only is our merchandise of the very highest quality, but our store service is studiously polite, efficient and obliging."

This kind of retailing is what the public has a right to expect and does expect. It is the kind of retailing that the progressive merchants are offering to their patrons and telling them about in the columns of the best newspapers.

When one goes shopping in these days of progressive retailing it is best to start out fortified with as much of the available information it is possible to secure.

A careful reading of our advertisement columns from day to day, when only a few minutes' time is at hand, shows one where one may secure satisfactory service and attention.

THE HALF HOLIDAY

The weather man has been kindly as a rule on Saturday afternoons this summer and tomorrow he says he is going to give us nice warm weather.

No Better Off Than Five Months Ago

Sand Point Situation Demands Immediate Government Action — Board of Trade Men Have Been at Work But Results Not Rapid Enough—Not Even Grain Conveyors Yet Arranged For

(Canadian Press)

The traffic department of the board of trade has not been idle with regard to the needed improvements at West St. John. In reply to an inquiry by the board yesterday, Percy W. Thomson, who is chairman of that department, said that his committee had been constantly busy for several months, and he had himself as chairman written more than ninety letters dealing with the various matters that were under discussion.

So far as the Times has been able to find out, however, the efforts that have been put forth by the board of trade and the city council, with the endorsement of the Montreal people, have not been very successful, although some progress has been made and the members profess themselves to be hopeful of more.

Not Ready for Coming Winter. It will be remembered that when this question was brought up by the board of trade committee early last spring several improvements were declared to be urgently necessary in order to overcome the congestion at Sand Point. In the first place, it would be necessary to have the berth completed for use next winter.

Some people, who apparently depreciated any agitation that might appear to reflect upon the government, expressed their belief that this berth would actually be completed. The matter was forcibly brought to the attention of the government, however, but it was shown that under their contract the company need not proceed fast enough to have the berth completed for use next winter.

It was urged that the work might be accelerated, to use Mr. Winston Churchill's expression, but nothing came of it. This steamship berth will not be ready for use next winter.

PUBLIC OPENING OF RIVER GLADE SANITARIUM IN SEPTEMBER BY MR. BORDEN AND SIR WILFRID

Mrs. Jordan Adds to Other Munificent Gifts Equipment of Forty Bed Public Ward—Other Plans Gone Into at Meeting Yesterday

(Canadian Press)

Premier Fleming who returned last evening after a meeting of the Jordan Sanitary Commission at River Glade spoke very enthusiastically today of the way in which the work there is progressing.

"There are already eighteen patients in the different pavilions," he said, "and we believe that in Dr. Townshend we have one of the most capable men we could get for the difficult work of superintending the sanitarium."

"Visitors who have been at all the institutions of a like character in different parts of the world," he said, "praise us for what while ours is small in comparison with most of them, it is excellent by none in the general excellence of the work done."

"The work on the pavilions is progressing rapidly; they have cost in the neighborhood of $3,000 each and are thoroughly equipped. The alterations on the main building are also well under way. We hardly expect that the large ward which we intend putting up will be ready before next year."

The premier said that it was decided yesterday to hold the public opening of the sanitarium on September 18. The programme and names of the speakers will not be announced until after the next meeting of the association which will be held in St. John in about two weeks' time.

Those present at River Glade yesterday were: Mrs. Jordan, Hon. J. K. Fleming, F. W. Sumner, F. C. Robinson, Dr. A. F. McAvaney and Dr. Landry.

HARD COAL UP HALF DOLLAR ON AUGUST 1

The price of hard coal will be advanced fifty cents on August 1, in St. John. The reason given by the local dealers for the rise in cost is that freights have increased to such an extent that it is impossible to bring the coal here from the states without raising the price. Cargoes can be had from New York to St. John, but there is no return freight for the vessels and consequently freights have gone up to $1.50 as compared with $1 in former years.

It is not because of a coal scarcity, but owing to the fact that the schooners which depend largely upon the lumber output here for their return freights are unable to procure the same. The price of nut and egg is now $7.50, while chestnut is $7.75.

VISITING EXPRESS PRESIDENT

John Pullen, president of the Canadian Express Company, Montreal, who arrived here yesterday on an inspection trip, coming from Halifax, left this morning for Fredericton. He took advantage of the opportunity to combine pleasure with business and made the trip by the river steamer. After an inspection of conditions in Fredericton he will return to St. John before proceeding to Montreal. H. C. Creighton, superintendent of this division, is accompanying Mr. Pullen on this trip.

COURTENAY BAY

Although there have been some setbacks and some unfavorable circumstances with which they have had to contend, D. R. McDonald, of the Courtenay Construction Company, said this morning that their contract is progressing very satisfactorily. The breakwater is now out from the shore a distance of 2,200 feet to the place where the angle occurs and has been carried about 600 feet beyond the angle. At the present rate of progress he expects they will reach the end of the breakwater some time in January.

PERHAPS MOTOR FIRE EQUIPMENT FOR ST. JOHN WORK

Commissioner McLellan Home Today After Seeing Much in Boston

Commissioner McLellan returned to this city at noon today after a strenuous week in Boston. In spite of the excessive heat the commissioner was busy from morning to night making an inspection and study of the various civic departments in which he is particularly interested. In addition to fire and police work he had an opportunity to witness street making and paving operations from beginning to end and profited by it.

Modern fire fighting apparatus engaged much of his attention and as a result of his visit it is possible that he may recommend the purchase of a motor-driven combination fire engine, chemical and hose-wagon. He also was interested in the gasoline tractors, fire-patrol boats, a new style of hydrants and some other apparatus which may be required in St. John later on.

IMPROVING ELKS' BUILDING

Extensive improvements are being made to the property acquired by the Elks some months ago in Wellington Row, which will enhance its value and make the rooms more attractive for the members. A large assembly hall has been provided for. It will be 62 by 42 feet and will be for use as an auditorium and hall for exemplifying degrees. There will also be a bowling alley, billiard room and quarters erected for the servants and steward. The masonry work is being done by A. R. C. Clark, the carpentry by Alfred Dodge, the painting by James Pallen, and the steel work by Fleming & Sons.

CROCKET WANTS TO BE JUDGE NOW

Talk of Appointment When Hazen Comes Back

A WAR OVER NOMINATION

McLeod, Pinder and Others Said to Want to Run for York—Alexander Gibson Has Been Ill But is Getting Better

(Special To Times)

Fredericton, July 25.—The latest report in political circles here is that O. S. Crockett M. P. will not wait for the retirement of Chief Justice Barker from the bench but will take the judgeship created by the act of assembly last session and his appointment will be made as soon as Hon. Mr. Hazen returns from the Pacific coast.

The pending vacancy in the representation of this county is causing quite a stir in Tory circles and several aspirants are looming up. Hon. H. F. McLeod is being boomed for the vacant seat and it is said has the hearty support of his colleagues in the local government. J. K. Pinder, M. P., is hot foot after it, and has the active support of A. R. Slipp, M. P., and other influential Tories who are at loggerheads with the McLeod wing of the party. John A. Young, M. P., is also canvassing his friends for support and the name of R. B. Hanson, barrister, has been mentioned. The bye-election to fill the vacancy would likely be held in the autumn.

Alexander Gibson Sr., of Marysville, who has been suffering from an attack of la grippe is much improved today. The veteran captain of industry will be ninety-four years old on August first.

H. Morrison, manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce at Portage la Prairie and his brother, A. Morrison, of St. John, are visiting here.

HALE MANTOBA M. P. TO COURT; CONTEMPT IN ELECTION CASE

Morrison, Whose Return is Protested, Was Given Until June 30 to Appear, But Has Not Done So

Winnipeg, July 25.—The commitment of Alexander Morrison, M.P., for contempt of court, is being set in connection with the proceedings which followed the filing of a petition against his election for Macdonald.

Mr. Morrison has failed to comply with an order of the court to appear for examination, and to produce certain documents and today an application for his commitment will be made before Justice Cameron. The court order specified that Mr. Morrison appear for examination and produce certain documents before June 30, but up to date he has not appeared.

MRS. PANKHURST IS SAID TO BE VERY ILL

London, July 25.—Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, who was released last evening from Holloway jail after an imprisonment lasting only since Monday, is reported to be in a very critical condition. Three consultant physicians have been called in by the attending physicians.

The consulting physicians take such a serious view of her condition, that they ordered immediate resort to a transfusion of blood. Mrs. Pankhurst's weakness and inanimation from the effects of her "hunger and thirst strikes," are so extreme that great apprehension is felt by the doctors as to the outcome, "she could be no worse," was the statement made by one of the attendants today.

Lady Sybil Smith, daughter of the Earl of Antrim, Mrs. Pethick Lawrence and Miss Evelyn Sharpe, were sent to prison today for a fortnight on a charge of disorderly conduct during an attempt to hold a militant suffrage meeting at the entrance to the lobby of the House of Commons yesterday.

All the accused refused to file securities for their good behavior and as an alternative were sent to jail.

SERIOUS SITUATION IN COAL STRIKE TERRITORY

Calumet, Mich., July 26.—Disregarding orders of the western federation of miners against violence, many of the 15,000 striking miners yesterday created enough disturbances to result in the ordering out of troops. By tonight there will be nearly 2,400 state soldiers, including cavalry and artillery in the mining fields of the upper peninsula of Michigan.

There were no concerted attacks on mine property or persons about the mines, but several persons were injured in sporadic brawls. So bad did the situation appear to Sheriff Crane that he asked Governor Ferris for militia early in the day.

The governor ordered Adj. Gen. Vandercok to rush soldiers to the strike zone. A plentiful supply of ammunition and two field guns with shrapnel will arrive today.

LONDON SEASON WAS DULL ONE

Relief To All As It Comes To a Close

CANADIAN WOMEN

Matter of Their Presentation At Court Becoming One That More and More Needs Attending To—Duke of Connaught's Court-staff

(Times' Special Correspondence)
 London, July 15—In another fortnight or so from this date one of the most ordinary London seasons in the memory of the present generation shall have come to a close. Its dullness has been no fault of royalty; the king and queen were only too pleased to accept invitations as much were they asked. But they were not. The fact is, society is sulking at present. It is furious with the present government and it says it is impossible to entertain and keep up with the new taxes.

The younger set of today is never keen on the presence of royalty at dances; it means so much decorum. Much as everybody was pleased to see the queen at the Fete of Versailles, her entrance nevertheless had the effect of first sending a blast of icy air through the dancers, who stood stock still when the national anthem was sung. Even the troop of jolly foreign princes had to be on their best behavior. What the London season would have been like without this gay throng of princelings this year it is hard to tell. They are the one element that has put life into it and kept people amused.

Lord Rosebery has already had his invitation to stay at Balmoral with the king and queen this autumn. The young princess think the world of the ex-prince because for one thing he enters thoroughly into all their ideas of sport and knows all about it. One of Lord Rosebery's pet aversions is to see a gun in a woman's hand and neither of his daughters ever shudders one or the other.

Though not a golfer he is a great authority on the game and the boy prince and Princess Mary, having taken it up with great zeal of late go to him for information on knotty points. He was the special guest Princess Mary recently invited to her confirmation. Something of the splendid horsemanship of Her Royal Highness is also due to admirable tips she has had from him from time to time.

All his friends are aware how absent minded Lord Rosebery is. Recently, the queen was consulting him, as she often does, as to whether she should get one of the royal secretaries to send a card to a certain lady and her husband for the court ball, when, looking her straight in the eye, he replied: "It is a nice-hole course." He was thinking of the new golf links he had recently put down at Dalmeny. Fortunately Her Majesty has a keen sense of humor so she was not offended.

Really music is quite de mode here this year. People go to the opera, of course, but it is more to find out what kind of jewels and gorgeous cloaks are being worn by their dearest enemies. It is dancing—poetic and weird dancing, mad dancing, questionable dancing, especially as exhibited by the Russian artists which draws. Such performances fill a room with all the celebrities and fashionable women in town.

entertainment in private houses is the thing which attracts and even the royalties like it, particularly if there are smart music-hall sketches, dialogues and amusing French songs.

The Duke of Connaught

The long stay of the Duke of Connaught and his suite in London is very satisfactory to Canadians who are spreading the season in London, as they are thereby enabled to resume, in the enjoyable setting of the gaities of the metropolis, the friendships formed at Ottawa, and the pleasure of their visit is thereby considerably increased. Having regard to the large number of Canadian women who are frequently guests at Rideau Hall and who in many cases spend a portion of the year in London, comparatively few are seen at Their Majesty's courts.

The members of the governor-general's staff have been very energetic in introducing their Canadian friends to their respective circles and in consequence Canadian women have been more frequently seen at public and state functions. This led one visitor from the dominion to express the hope that the governor-general and his staff could spend part of every year in London—of course during the season. With their intimate connection with court officials it is an easy matter for them to have courtesies extended which under ordinary circumstances would be hard to secure.

Court Presentations
 There has been some dissatisfaction that the honor of presentation at court is not available in larger measure to women from the dominion, and I have heard many suggestions for improvement. There are some people who incline to the view that an excessive desire to appear at court, or to partake of the hospitality of some distinguished leader of society, indicate "snobishness"; but if that view be held it is not an indictment of practically the whole of England and to enjoy what is best in the social world of London is a very natural and a very womanly desire. Canadian women like women of any other nation come to London for social prestige. It is no use disguising the fact that Canadian women who have the entree to Rideau Hall find it unsatisfactory that similar courtesies are not extended to them here, and I am only repeating the thoughts of many of them in this letter. There is a general feeling that a change should be made. Of course it is possible to get a society woman here to introduce one at court, but that often means a consideration—in plain words a cash payment—and appearance at court by payment is, so far as my experience goes, repugnant to women from Canada.

With the continual increase in the numbers of Canadian visitors to London this question is assuming and will continue to assume larger importance. The more fully it is examined the more unsatisfactory does the present position appear. If you make the comparison between American and Canadian women in this particular you perceive a startling difference. There are fewer Americans than Canadians visiting London; yet they go to court in far greater numbers. The reasons need not be analyzed but probably the most potent lies in the social activities of the American ambassador and his wife.

Another reason is that American women have married so extensively into the English aristocracy and are resident here. A "command to court" is a conventional expression and means that some person who has been presented has introduced the name and recommended the person and very many Canadian women wish for the permanent presence in London of a person or persons who would take the kindly interest exhibited by the members of the Duke of Connaught's staff.

"WALKING OUT" AS PROFESSION

Young Men Who Hire Themselves as Escorts

WHERE BEAUX ARE SCARCE

London East End Provides an Odd Method of Increasing the Income Agreeably — Girls Pay to Be Taken Walking or to Playhouse

(London Tit-Bits)

To the girl who is able to choose from a legion of admirers the man whom she is pleased to honor with her smiles it must seem incredible that there are hundreds of her less favored sisters who are glad to pay for lover-like attentions such as she can afford to look coldly on every day of her life.

But, after all it is quite intelligible when we consider that in this country, as in most others, there is by no means a Jack for every Jill, so far do the females outstrip the males in number; and that it is as natural for a girl to desire a lover as for a duck to take to the water. It is at once her birthright and her duty to have one; and she will do her utmost to get one, the object of pity or ridicule to her more fortunate sisters.

In the East-end of London and the manufacturing towns of England especially, the finger of scorn is always ready to be pointed at the girl who has no Lothario to dance attendance on her, to escort her to picture palace or theatre; and this is a situation which no daughter of Eve could tolerate.

The consequence is natural. The maid who cannot attract a lover by her charms is often very willing to pay for his company; and there is never any lack of gallants eager to play the role of squire to her for a consideration. In the busy streets on Saturday evenings you will see them by the score, dressed in such finery as their pockets can afford, ready to act as escorts of dames. The girl who wants their escort, signals to them with critical eyes, signals to the one who takes her fancy and they disappear together to spend a few hours at a picture palace or in listening to the latest comic songs at a local music hall.

Of course, it is all perfectly proper. The lady hands her purse to her squire, who acts as paymaster for the outing and receives a couple of shillings as the reward of his chivalry, while she considers the money well spent for the pleasure of showing the world that she is at least not among the homeless maids.

The professional "walker-out" is really a man to be envied by his fellows. He gets abundant recreation and amusement at no cost to himself, and he makes quite a substantial addition to his other earnings in the most agreeable fashion.

If he is a smart man, good to look upon and the man of whom a girl may wish to see her escort—he has no lack of engagements. In some fortunate cases he is booked for months in advance. In one case known to the writer a handsome young factory worker, who is the proud possessor of a few hundred pounds, has no vacant date for fully six months ahead, and his earnings make a good addition to his wages.

"Tommy" Always Popular

But it is not every man who can aspire to this honorable office. The professional walker-out must be a man of good character. The loofer and the one too fond of his "cups" either has no chance or gets short shrift. He must be handsome, but he must at least be well dressed and an entertaining companion. The shabby man may look in vain for employment; the dull dog is soon sent about his business.

When money is scarce two girls will combine to secure the company of one gallant, sharing the expenses and also the fee, which is no more for two than for one. And, perhaps curiously, there is little or no jealousy, although the same man may play the squire to a dozen maids on as many consecutive days. In many cases, too, the "walker-out" finds regular employment by conducting his employer nightly to the music-hall, where she is playing some small part, his usual remuneration being a slice and a glass of beer.

It is by no means always the unattractive girl who thus gets companionship in this strange way. Many a pretty and lonely maid finds this a useful avenue while escorting a girl who desires his company who shall blame him? But whether he be one of the king's soldiers, a stalwart constable off duty, or a good-looking coster, the "walker-out" plays an important part in the life of hundreds of girls in the East end who, without him, would lack male companionship, and have to endure the pity or contempt of their more fortunate sisters.

RECENT DEATHS

Many will hear with regret the death of Mrs. Steves, widow of Dr. J. T. Steves, Jr., which occurred yesterday afternoon at 8 o'clock. The deceased had been in failing health for some time and last Saturday underwent an operation in the General Public Hospital. She lingered until yesterday, when she weakened and passed away. She leaves six sisters, who are Mrs. Brexton, of Blyndford (Ont.); Mrs. Travers Gray, London (Eng.); Mrs. C. Dickson Otty, Hampton; Mrs. E. R. Vall, of Sussex; Miss Murphy, of Halifax, and Mrs. W. R. Avery, of this city. She was a daughter of the late Dr. Jasper Murphy, of Fredericton, and a sister of Judge Wetmore. The funeral will be held Saturday afternoon.

The death of Mrs. Alexander Rice occurred suddenly at her home in Brussels street last night. Besides her husband, Mrs. Rice is survived by one step-daughter, three brothers and four sisters, all of the city.

"I simply can't account for this trouble with my teeth—and I've been so particular to keep them immaculately clean always." This is the complaint of thousands.

It's just this way, Madam. You've spent your time watching the highwaymen robbers of tooth-health—Decay Germs—and forgot all about their sly insidious accomplice—"Acid Mouth." Acids are constantly forming in the mouth. They are constantly "working." But they work "incognito."

PEBECCO TOOTH PASTE

And here lies the danger. These mouth-acids, unmolesied; unsuspected, gradually dissolve, break down, the enamel. The tooth then becomes easy prey to decay germs.

Look out for "acid mouth," that flicher and falcon of healthy tooth life. Pebecco Tooth Paste users have a good chance to keep their teeth for life.

Meanwhile Mr. Boyden is holidaying at St. Andrews, N. But now Mr. Boyden has gained a little ripper judgment. No longer does he declare "We cannot and will not wait and deliberate until an impending storm shall have burst upon us in fury and disaster." Mr. Boyden is a very much tamed and deliberate on some method of avoiding the impending storm which will burst upon him in fury and disaster when the Canadian electors are given the chance to express their opinion at the polls regarding his government.

Having in mind the hope that the Connolly berth might be completed, it was urged that the contract be awarded for another berth, which even if not fully completed would protect steamers lying at the Connolly berth. The government agreed to this proposition, and awarded the contract for another berth, which, however, will not now be urgently needed since the Connolly wharf will be ready for use by the new wharf, which therefore be built in a much more satisfactory and permanent way than is provided for under the contract as awarded.

It was also proposed that one of the existing berths, No. 6, be made longer, by extending out to face the main wharf construction. This, however, was objected to by the Canadian Pacific Company, and the government, which would narrow the entrance to the slip and make it more difficult to dock the boats. None of the other steamship companies had any fear on this score, but the scheme was abandoned.

There remained but one other thing to be done, and that was to construct grain conveyors at berths 5, 6, and 7. After months of correspondence it was finally learned that the C. P. Railway would not build these conveyors. Of course the city of St. John could not be expected to construct them. The government thereupon asked for estimates for the construction of the conveyors, and these are now under consideration, and the board of trade committee hopes to hear very soon that the contract has been awarded and the grain conveyors on those berths, or on Nos. 5, 6 and 7 at least, made ready for use next winter, so that the matter be necessary to quit the steamers lying at those berths to haul the cargo to the slip to get their grain cargo.

The Breakwater

There were some other matters which the board of trade committee has been pressing upon the government. One of them is the extension of the breakwater at Partridge Island. The committee took the ground that it was useless to dredge the main channel into the harbor unless the breakwater were extended to the island, for otherwise the silt dumped from the scows off Mahogany Island would be washed into the channel again. A grant was made by the government for this breakwater, but apparently it will all be used for repairs to the existing breakwater, and nothing will be done toward its extension.

It was also urged that a breakwater be constructed from Partridge Island eastward to the Island buoy. Such a breakwater is very greatly needed to protect the channel. The government promised consideration, and at present the committee had been pressing so strongly for other things, they felt that they should not urge this matter so vigorously.

The board of trade and the civic authorities therefore have not been idle, but it would seem that the time has come that nothing more than has been done could have been done at West St. John this year, but with a government which has abundant resources, very little in the way of construction work is impossible. It is not too late yet to ensure at least some additional facilities for handling freight at this port before the period of congestion arrives, for that is not until well on in the winter.

A Baltimore woman who had never had a garden was unexpectedly afforded the opportunity to possess one where she could do just as she pleased. It was therefore, with careful study that she perused the seed catalogue. One day her husband came home and found her deep in its illustrated pages. She had a long list of seeds written on a sheet of paper, which, she announced, contained the seeds which she wished her husband to procure for her.

"You want these flowers to bloom this summer, don't you?" asked her husband, after looking at the list.

"Why, yes?"

"Well, then, it may interest you to learn that those you have put down here don't bloom until the second summer."

"O, that's all right," said the wife, "am making up my list from last year's catalogue."

When stringing beads or sewing them on to any material always have the thread well waxed. It will be stronger and easier to work with, as it does not become knotted easily.

HALIFAX, ST. JOHN AND OTHERS

Some claims which are made in behalf of the port of Halifax and which appear in a recent issue of the Financial Times in London, are somewhat interesting to St. John people. The Financial Times says it received its information from "the assistant superintendent of immigration for Canada." He says:— "Halifax harbors one of the safest in the world. No other port in Eastern Canada has so clean a sheet. At most, if not all of the competing ports, including New York, on the same coast, ships have to wait for the tide. In addition to accessibility and safety, Halifax has the further advantage of cheapness. For every five dollars of port charges and docking expenses in Halifax, from seven to ten dollars must be paid in any other port seeking a share of Canadian trade."

The Financial Times adds on its own account that Halifax is an ice free harbor, and it says further:— "The Canadian Pacific Railway has long been connected with the port of Halifax, and is now doing a good deal to improve the connection, while the Grand Trunk and Canadian-Northern Railways are now making it their objective also." The people of St. John will have no objection to the port of Halifax receiving a boost in any English journal, but if comparisons are to be made, St. John must be glad to have it said concerning this port that the record shows it to be quite as safe as the port of Halifax, and that it is the actual terminus of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and also the port at which the Grand Trunk Pacific has purchased a site for its Atlantic terminals. Moreover, the harbor of St. John has never been frozen, and during the coming winter the port expects to share with Halifax the distinction of being one of the main ports of Canada, besides being its chief freight port in winter.

When all this has been said, however, it must be admitted that unless the federal government undertakes to see that the port of St. John is provided with increased facilities, and that without any delay whatever, this national port will lose a good deal of traffic which, with proper facilities it would assuredly get. The Times prints today a statement of the present situation regarding the facilities for handling business at West St. John. So far as next winter's business is concerned, we are no farther ahead than we were five months ago. It is true that a contract has been awarded for an additional wharf, but that was only asked for in the expectation that the Connolly wharf would be ready for use next winter. Since the wharf would have been much better to have awarded a contract for a new wharf, to be constructed of wood with concrete above, but to have taken more time and asked for tenders for a structure made entirely of concrete. No progress at all has been made with regard to the extension of the breakwater to Partridge Island, or the construction of the breakwater eastward from Partridge Island, nor is it yet certain that grain conveyors will be provided for berths 5, 6 and 7. The steamship companies will not tolerate such congestion as that of a port of last winter. The business will go somewhere else. It is up to the people of St. John to agitate for better facilities for handling ocean borne traffic at the west side wharves.

THE NAVAL QUESTION The Times yesterday referred to the contents of a pamphlet dealing with Admiralty intervention in the sphere of Imperial politics, with special reference to the naval question. The writer of this pamphlet, which is published in England, begins by observing that the last few years will signalize an epoch in the history of the British Empire. They will be most remarkable, he says, for the determination of the Dominions to share definitely and appreciably in the naval defence of the Empire. The writer points out that the moral value of whatever help the Dominions may give is and must be much greater than its naval value, for as Mr. Churchill has said: "It would be ridiculous to tell us that one or two ships more or less make any essential difference having regard to the rest of the fleet." Mr. Churchill has further said that the coming forward of these new nations to testify to the enduring life of the Empire, "has already produced an impression throughout the world of more value than many Dreadnaught ships."

threaten that ultimate unity of sympathies on which in the last resort Imperial strength must rest; that this unfortunate result is due to the temporary success gained by the principle of Imperial contributions in its conflict with the principle of Colonial local navies; that these successes may in large part, if not altogether, be attributed to the action, direct or indirect of the British Admiralty, and that in this action the Admiralty have been inspired by motives which, whether or not they approach their full significance, they are at least unwilling to confess."

The big industries in Cape Breton are prosperous. All the industries in the maritime provinces are busy. The House of Lords goes on rejecting bills passed by the Commons, and thus hastens the time of its own reform.

The people of St. John are realising more and more fully what they lost when the government was defeated, which Hon. Mr. Pugsley was a member.

Why should the city of St. John have to worry about grain conveyors on wharves built by the federal government? The government owns the wharves, the C. P. R. owns the elevators, and why should the city be asked or expected to build or assist in building grain conveyors? If the city is compelled to take any such action, it will be because the federal government has failed to do its duty.

Every home, every office, every workroom should have the Telegraph and Times' dictionary. Tomorrow noon closes the campaign. $4.00 dictionary, 98c.

THE COAL MARKET OUTLOOK Coal markets are holding remarkably firm in view of depressed conditions. Anthracite is moderately active, under a restricted production. Bituminous strong with producers in full control of the market.

The eastern hard-coal trade is sluggish, the demand coming mostly from New England and the west. The steam grades are in fair condition, except pea, which is going into storage. Companies have few orders, but there is apparently no effort to sell; the partial suspension at the mines has restricted the production to within the limits of the demand.

The eastern bituminous shippers are concentrating their entire efforts upon filling contracts, and are not looking for any new business. Buyers are beginning to complain about delayed deliveries, which latter are probably due to the coal being diverted to more profitable markets. Contract figures on the West Virginia grades are being well maintained, and indications are that there will be sufficient of a shortage to justify an advance. The better grades are all well sold up, and, while there is some tendency to sag in the spot market, the season's prices remain firm.

In the Pittsburgh district, a better car supply followed the suspension in mining over the Fourth of July holiday, so that production has been slightly heavier. Quotations on slack are much firmer than customary at this period, and other prices are being well maintained, though no premiums are reported. The bank failure in Pittsburgh may so embarrass the Connelville coke producers, many of whom were relying upon this institution for accommodations, that the operators will be forced to recede from their demand for higher prices. In the adjoining markets, few coal producers are willing to contract over a long period, and it is feared that the heavy crop movement is going to result in a severe car shortage this fall. —Coal Age

The little agricultural village had been billed with "Lecture on Keats" for over a fortnight. The evening arrived at length, bringing the lecturer ready to discourse on the poet. The advertised chairman, taken ill at the last moment, was replaced by a local farmer. This worthy introduced the lecturer and terminated his remarks by saying: "And, now, my friends, we shall soon all know what I personally have often wondered—what was Keats?"

BIRTHDAYS OF NOTABILITIES

FRIDAY, JULY 25 Rev. Nathaniel Burwash, the chancellor of Victoria University, Toronto, was born near St. Andrew's, P. Q., seventy-four years ago today. He has had long career as minister, professor and head of the university.

George Agnew Reid, one of Canada's chief artists and now president of the new College of Art, Toronto, was born in Wingham, Ont., fifty-three years ago today.

Right Hon. Arthur James Balfour, former prime minister of England and one of the most prominent statesmen of the day, observes his sixty-fourth birthday today.

LIGHTER VEIN

LOOKING AHEAD "In the event that I should consent to your marriage with my daughter, I want first to ask you a question." "And that is?" "Will you promise after you become her husband not to object to my table manners?"

IT'S ALL OFF

Lisa—"When yer goin' ter git married." Polly—"Any dear?" Lisa—"Never." Polly—"Why?" Lisa—"Why?" Polly—"Well, yer see, I won't marry Bill wen 'e ain't sober, an' 'e won't marry me wen 'e is."—Tattler.

HAD IT LOCATED

"Which tooth are you going to have pulled, Sam?" "Upper six, sir," answered the Pullman porter.—Kansas City Journal.

LOST HOPE

He—"I was a fool when I married you." She—"I know that, but I didn't realize that you couldn't improve."—Boston Transcript.

UNREASONABLE

"John, you never listen to half the things I say to you," she complained. "Well, dear," he replied, "I have to wait part of the time."—Chicago Record-Herald.

OCEAN VIEW

Knicker—"There isn't any ocean view from the piazza." Proprietor—"They will never find that out; it is full of bridge tables."

PAW KNOWS EVERYTHING

Willie—"Paw, what is dollar diplomacy?" Paw—"Putting the collector off until next week, my son."

FINE

This sure would be a dandy world, life would be one big bubble. If money could be borrowed just as easily as trouble.

Keep Your Skin Right

With the advent of warm weather the sun's rays cause many annoying forces that are hard on the skin. On hot days the skin is parched and easily cracks—result a leathery appearance that is not beautiful. Direct sun rays cause horrid spots, as well as undue perspiration. Keep your skin in the best condition by applying

PEERLESS COOLING CREAM

It prevents sun and wind burns, opens the pores and allows the skin to breathe. The most beneficial cream to use in hot weather.

STOLEN IN ATHENS HID IN BALTIMORE; POLICE MAKE FIND

Bust of Girl Child, Three Thousand Years Old, Has Interesting History

Baltimore, July 24.—A piece of Greek sculpture, the bust of a girl of about five years of age, stolen from the National Museum at Athens, fifteen years ago, and said to be of priceless value and 8,000 years old, was recovered by the local police. The figure was dug up in the cellar of Charles Nemphos, a Greek confectioner at Hampden, a suburb.

Search for the bust was instituted here following a visit of Dr. Alexander Vouros, the Greek charge at Washington, D.C., who came here with the bust. Doctor Vouros came here with the bust, and went to the office of United States District Attorney John Philip Hill.

To Major Hill was unfolded the story of the disappearance of this gem of Grecian art, of the efforts of the pean governments to recover it for the last decade, and of clues involving a Baltimore Greek.

Major Hill decided that it was not a case of smuggling, but a problem for the local police. Accordingly the case was laid before the state's attorney, and on the basis of information furnished by the Greek diplomat, a search warrant for Nemphos' home was issued.

Oceans Will Practically Meet When Panama Canal Dyke Comes Down

Panama, July 25.—Col. G. W. Goethals, chief engineer in charge of the construction of the Panama Canal, has notified Lieut.-Col. David Du B. Gailard, chief of the central division of the canal, that steam shovel work in the Culebra cut section will hereafter be conducted on the assumption that Gan- gona dyke will be dynamited on October 16. While it had previously been announced that this dynamiting would take place after October 1, this is the first time the actual date has been named.

The destruction of the dyke will allow Gatun Lake to flood the cut, thereby practically connecting the Atlantic and Pacific, although actual navigation of the canal probably will not be attempted for some time thereafter. Excavation in the cut hereafter will be confined mainly to removing the remaining hard rock sections between Culebra Slide and Empire, a distance of one-half mile.

EXPLOSION IN QUEBEC FACTORY KILLS SEVEN

Beloeil, Que., July 24—Seven lives were snuffed out at Beloeil today when an explosion of nitro-glycerine blew one of the isolated buildings of the Canadian Explosives Company to pieces and scattered the dismembered bodies of four men and three girls in every direction.

An instant after the explosion the shock from producing other explosions. The search for the bodies was started at once and it is expected that as much of these victims as can be found will be identified without difficulty. The head and half the trunk of Miss A. Eli were found covered with wood but the bodies of the other victims were too hopelessly torn into fragments to permit of identification on the spot.

Montreal, July 24—Evidence of a sensational nature is promised at the inquest if the statements of villagers can be taken. It is alleged that machines were used for packing cartridges, which had been condemned by government inspectors only a few days ago. However, it will be difficult to prove these facts, as every one of the employees in the building was killed.

MORNING LOCALS

Two lads from the Boys' Industrial Home, Leo McElin, aged sixteen, and Arthur Lockart, aged twelve, made their escape yesterday by loosening the bricks in one of the walls which had been weakened by the blasting nearby. The boys were captured soon afterwards and taken to central station. This is the fourth time McElin has escaped from the home.

A large number of people were present at the picnic held by the Church of the Good Shepherd, Fairville, at Westfield yesterday. The different booths were well patronized, and the usual games and sports were enjoyed by the children.

Dr. W. B. Wallace, Grand Master of the New Brunswick Grand Orange Lodge, Col. A. A. Armstrong, Past Grand Master, and Hon. Robert Maxwell, Past Deputy Grand Master, left last night for St. John's, Nfld., to attend the annual meeting of the Grand Lodge of British America.

A letter was received yesterday from

Mr. Volckman, of Ottawa, representative of Sir Robert Perks and others interested in the Georgian Bay canal project, asking the board of trade for information regarding the quantity of grain shipped, and the facilities for shipping at this port.

There may be a strike amongst the members of the Journeymen Barbers International Union. At a meeting last night it was decided that unless the employers agree to accept the union's constitution as it is before Monday next, a strike will be declared and the employees will remain out until their demands are granted. Some of the employers object to the request for the Monday half holiday.

Further honors have been bestowed upon Sister Alphonsus, principal of St. Joseph's school. In addition to having one of her pupils lead the city in ported by Sergeant Kilpatrick for selling beer in his store, 346 Main street, on Saturday last, was fined fifty dollars or three months in jail for the offence. Magistrate Ritchie, in imposing the fine, said he was sorry to have to do so on account of the man's infirmity, when he felt sure there were many able-bodied men doing business in the same way who had not been reported.

Extensive Repairs to The Old C. P. R. Wharf at Sand Point

The extensive repairs to the old C. P. R. wharf at West St. John which were undertaken by the city this summer are now nearing completion and the wharf will be in good condition for the coming winter season. The work was made necessary by the government's dredging operations in preparing the site for the new wharf which is being built to the south of the C. P. R. structure. In order to allow the dredging to be completed it was necessary to remove the corner of the wharf and this was replaced by the government. While the end was out, however, the winter storms played havoc with the wharf and left it so greatly weakened that it was necessary to carry on this summer were necessary. In view of these circumstances it is quite probable that the city will ask the dominion government to pay for the repairs or at least to contribute towards their cost.

Model Millinery Co. Offer Rare Bargains in Warm Weather Headwear for Ladies, Misses and Children—Sale Opens Tomorrow Morning

A clear-away sale of modish feminine headwear that will probably prove the bargain event of the season, opens tomorrow morning at the salon of the Model Millinery Company, 29 Canterbury street.

Both floor and shelf space are needed at once for the incoming fall stock which is expected here daily, and, to facilitate rapid selling, all lines of trimmed and untrimmed hats, feathers, bows and accessories have been reduced without thought of profit, thus affording a rare opportunity to lay in a supply of the most recent developments in warm weather millinery at prices which must, inevitably mean a tremendous saving to the purchaser.

The sale, as already stated, begins tomorrow morning, and the firm's show-rooms will remain open until ten o'clock in the evening.

PUBLIC OPENING OF RIVER GLADE SANITARIUM IN SEPTEMBER BY MR. BORDEN AND SIR WILFRID

(Continued from page 1). A Montreal despatch says it had been at first intended to invite the Duke of Connaught to formally open the institution, but as it now looks as though the duke will not return to this country until later, it is expected that Premier Borden and Sir Wilfrid Laurier will be jointly open the sanitarium.

It was decided yesterday to equip a public ward in the building with accommodations for forty tuberculosis patients. This ward is being equipped by Mrs. Jordan's personal expense. A proposed dam and a bridge over the Follett River will not be completed until next spring. The building of this dam will provide a beautiful artificial lake, which may later be utilized to run a power plant. The commissioners decided upon the site of the memorial fountain being supplied by Mrs. Jordan. A banquet will be held in New York at the time of the exposition and it is expected that the governor general of Canada and the president of the United States together, with diplomatic corps and ambassadors of different countries, will be present.

BRYAN LAYS HIS CARDS ON THE TABLE. WILL HIS CRITICS?

As Secretary Bryan Looks Chatsquating

(Times' Special Correspondence)

New York, July 23.—Mr. Bryan's summer lecturing gets him money by injuring no man.

There is no compulsion upon anybody to attend a Bryan lecture. He has no corner on the lecture field, as Morgan has on credit or Rockefeller on oil. Those who want to go and pay because they want to pay. And the complaint which receives sympathy among the people isn't that he lectures so much, but that he doesn't make dates enough.

How many of the critics of Bryan who are jibing him for being "out for the staff" are themselves working for nothing or indifferent to their incomes?

If Bryan were like some of his predecessors in the department of state he would not say a word about finances, but quietly take his own precautions, perhaps by accepting secret retainers from powerful interests.

The frankness with which he lays the facts in his situation before the people is most wholesome. It may help to check the growing pressure upon men in office to be extravagant, a pressure which undoubtedly is largely responsible for the frequency of grafting.

Watch the newspapers which are trying to belittle Bryan and see how many of them are owned or steered by bankers.

RUBBER-TIRED TRAFFIC AND CEMENT PAYING

We venture to say that if an engineer who knows what really first-class concrete is will take a tour around various pieces of construction work where concrete is being mixed and placed, he will not find one place in ten where there will not be something to criticize in the way the concrete is being handled.

It is, of course, held up as one of the virtues of concrete that it will stand so much abuse. It can be mixed too wet or too dry, with its ingredients carelessly measured and more or less variable in proportion, the mixing may be very imperfectly done and more or less dirt and street offal may find its way into the finished mass, yet for many places where concrete is used the finished concrete will show up all right.

When we come to the use of concrete for street paving, however, we have a case where the best is none too good, and very fortunately it costs only a trifle more to lay concrete in a first-class manner than it does to lay it in the usual slipshod, slovenly way.

A point worth special emphasis in connection with concrete paving is that the revolution in traffic conditions through the change from the horse to the automobile which has gone on during the last half-dozen years is very greatly favorable to the use of concrete construction. It will generally be agreed that the place where concrete paving will be most apt to show rapid wear is where it is subjected to the impact of heavy loads and heavily loaded steel-tired wheels. With rubber-tired vehicle traffic, however, a smooth concrete surface should show very little wear; and on roads, now becoming increasingly numerous, where automobiles form the great bulk of the traffic and horses and steel-tired trucks are few, a concrete paving surface should, if laid in the best manner, show most excellent results.—Engineering News.

So-called stomach troubles, such as indigestion, wind, stomach-ache, and inability to retain food, instead of indicating that the stomach is out of order, are in nine cases out of ten simply evidence that fermentation is taking place in the food contents of the stomach, causing the formation of gas and acids. Wind distends the stomach, and causes that full, oppressive feeling sometimes known as heartburn, while the acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach.

A MINIATURE MONTE CARLO

Lives Wrecked at Gambling Places Near Paris

TWENTY CENTS ADMITS ONE

Humble Worker, Absconding Clerk and Prodigal Son Find Welcome

—Public Outcry But Meantime Lease Renewed For 18 Years

(Times' Special Correspondence)

Paris, July 14.—Just eight miles north-east of Paris is a lively little town of about 10,000 inhabitants named Enghien, which is euphemistically described as a "health resort." Its attraction, however, is so potent that the Northern Railway Company finds it profitable to run 150 trains a day to and from Enghien, and frequent trains from the centre of Paris take you there in an hour. Economical people who like a little exercise may walk there in two hours.

The charm of this town, however, lies not in its "suburban" surroundings, nor in the odoriferous lake, nor in the concert-hall. The word "casino" printed in bold type at the bottom of the artistic pictorial posters that advertise Enghien to the world explains the real attraction.

Since gambling was officially abolished in France about twenty years ago, it has flourished like the green bay tree at various seaside and health resorts which obtained permission to open a casino for the benefit of visitors. About this time an enterprising landlord at Enghien discovered that the little town possessed a lake and mineral springs, and so might be described as a health resort. He communicated these interesting facts to several impetuous deputies, who persuaded their friends to vote a short bill which authorized the construction of a municipal casino at Enghien. These deputies gambled and lost their own percentage of their winnings to the government. According to the figures published in the "Official Journal," the Enghien casino netted $20,000,000 last year. There are of course some fine roulette tables, and it is not surprising that some deputies strongly oppose the closing of this gambling hell at the gates of Enghien.

Anybody can obtain admission on payment of twenty cents and stakes of the same amount are accepted at the roulette tables. This enables the young clerk, the working-man and the little dressmaker to risk their weekly earnings on the rolling ball. As the maximum stake is $5 the small punter has about as much chance of winning as if he exchanged pocket-books with a confidence-trick man. It is a pathetic sight to see them "doubling" until they have reached the maximum—at which point their weekly earnings are raked in by the wooden-faced croupier. The upstairs rooms are devoted to baccarat, "trente et quarante" and "chemin-de-fer," but admission to these can be obtained only by joining the club at a yearly subscription of $10. These rooms are mostly frequented by people with money to lose, and the $5 limit roulette tables, where the bank wins by a mathematical certainty, are open to the public, and no questions are asked.

The doors of the casino are open to the humble worker, the absconding clerk and the prodigal son. The dishonest companion can either fritter his money away at roulette, or pay $10 and plunge at the baccarat tables upstairs. The impetuous croupier like the blustering British book-maker, cannot be expected to know the numbers of stolen notes. Although it is well known that a thief who has made a successful haul takes the first train to Enghien, it is a significant fact that no arrest has ever been made in the neighborhood of the casino. On the other hand, every train crossing the frontier is carefully watched.

In France, they believe in keeping money in the country. How many ruined homes, bankruptcies and suicides the gambling hell at Enghien is responsible for it is impossible to calculate, but hardly a day passes without the papers mentioning it in connection with some unfortunate creature's downfall.

Scandal of Great Proportions.

The scandal reached such gigantic proportions last week that a public-spirited Parisian deputy, George Berry, succeeded, after many years of effort, in forcing a parliamentary debate on the government with a view to suppressing the casino. In the course of the debate he produced a report made by a police commissioner on April 4 last. This report states that the chamber employed at Enghien are mostly "men with a bad record," and that frequent complaints are made of "irregularities" at the gaming-tables. He further offered to produce a list containing the names of forty deputies who are in receipt of monthly subsidies from the Casino Company.

Mr. Berry was not allowed to produce this document, which would have created a storm violent enough to sweep away the present government. It looked at one time as if another "Panama" scandal would shake the French parliament to its foundations, but Berry, like Clemenceau, was persuaded to keep the list of compromised deputies in his pocket. After a heated debate, lasting all day, the chamber voted the suppression of the Enghien casino by a large majority.

As the original eighteen years' concession will expire next December, it looked as if the "health resort" days were numbered, but the minority who voted against the suppression looked so cheerful that a deputy of an enquiring turn of mind happened to ask the finance minister if the concession had been recently renewed. He was informed that "a few days previous to this debate a further concession of eighteen years was granted to the Enghien casino."

As soon as public opinion a parliamentary commission has been nominated to inquire into the charges brought against the casino by George Berry, but by the time they have finished their labors some new scandal is likely to monopolize the attention of the press and the public.

TORONTO POLICE STUDY THE SYSTEM IN LONDON

(Times' Special Correspondence)

London, July 15.—Every branch of the city of London policemen's work is being explained to Toronto police, who are visiting London. Their days are consequently fully occupied and they are acquiring knowledge which should make them very effective in the discharge of their duties.

A great deal of the time is spent in learning the London method of managing traffic, particularly in the congested areas; but there is far more interesting work than this for the Toronto men, and they are especially interested in the many different tests made, by London constables in order that they may assure themselves that no one has entered or left shops or houses on their beat when they are on night duty.

The chief of police has assigned as advisors some of the smartest officers in the London force.

It is well to have visions of a better life than that of every day, but it is the life of every day from which elements of a better life must come.—Mactierlinck.

EXPORT OF CRIMINALS

Canada as a Dumping-Ground For English Thieves and Wastrels

(Times' Special Correspondence)

London, July 15.—For many years Canada has made vigorous protests against the idea which still prevails in many quarters that the dominion offers a suitable retreat for the British who has, by wrong-doing, forfeited his chance of success at home or for the weakling, whom nobody here will employ.

Such a protest, became quite necessary not long ago owing to the number of cases in the police-courts where leniency was requested and granted on the plea that the prisoners were "going to the colonies." Recently there has been pointed out to magistrates that they are requested by the Home Office not to allow prisoners to escape punishment on the grounds that they were going to emigrate. A not uncommon plea nowadays is that prisoners stole in order to raise their fares to get to Canada, where they could earn a living. Two young burglars successfully raised this plea a few days ago and were acquitted by a magistrate, whose sympathy doubtless not be appreciated in Canada.

A ROYAL VISIT

Here's a Lot of Work Attendant Upon It

ARRANGED WEEKS AHEAD

Getting Queen's Luggage Ready No Easy Task—What the Host Has to do in Preparation For Call by Royalty

(London Weekly Dispatch.)

When the king and queen honor one of their friends, as their Majesties are doing this week, by becoming the guests of Lord and Lady Derby at Knowsley, Lancashire, a separate suite of apartments is, of course, provided by the host for the reception of their Majesties; the suite must consist of at least two rooms—i. e., a bedroom, two dressing-rooms, a wardrobe-room with bedroom adjoining for the queen's dresser, and a drawing-room and sitting-room.

Queen's Luggage

The luggage arrives several hours in advance of the royal party—the queen's page is sent on in charge of Her Majesty's two assistants, dressers, and their arrival is at once sent up to the dressing room, where it is unpacked and the dresses and accessories are put in order, and arranged in the queen's wardrobe, always containing a number of Her Majesty's personal belongings in the way of specially treasured photographs, books, and various ornaments and nick-nacks which the queen likes to have arranged about her personal apartments wherever Her Majesty may be. Among these treasured possessions which the queen nearly always takes about with her are a Bible and a shawl which were wedding presents from Mrs. Gladstone.

Royal Jewels

As soon as the queen's rooms have been arranged one of the dressers, as a matter of course, goes back to Buckingham Palace; the other remains to help the chief dresser to pack the queen's luggage. The chief dresser is very busy prior to the arrival of the queen's luggage, and is responsible for seeing that everything required by Her Majesty is packed and that nothing is missing.

On the morning of the royal visit the chief dresser receives instructions from the master of the household of the apartments that have been made for the queen and her ladies-in-waiting. It is his duty to see that the queen's luggage is packed and that nothing is missing.

Queen's Photograph

Of course, all the details of so important a visit as the visit to Knowsley are carefully planned and the programme of how each day will be spent is submitted some time in advance to both Their Majesties for approval. A copy of the programme, when approved of, is given to each lady-in-waiting who is to accompany Her Majesty, and each knows exactly what hours when immediate attendance on the queen will be required.

The last evening of the visit Her Majesty usually receives her host and a few of the guests in the private drawing-room in the royal suite.

EUROPE'S TARIFFS

High Protectionist Wave Reported Subsiding

A GRADUAL PROCESS

New Revolt Powerful Because Moderate and Opportune—Disgruntled Protectionists Themselves Are Joining in It

(Times' Special Correspondence)

Vienna, July 22.—Europe's high protectionist wave is subsiding. This conclusion seems hasty at a time when import duties are higher than they ever were, and when Europe's whole continent is bound with export bounties, state-limited production, "import certificates," differential railroad freights, and other devices. None the less, here, as in America, a demand for lower tariffs is making itself felt. The collapse in England, after ten years' vain work, of Joseph Chamberlain's new protectionism is not an accident, but is unquestionably a reflection of the continental trend towards free trade. Mr. Chamberlain's initiative came at a most inauspicious time, for it began to tempt England with the delights of continental protection at the very moment when the protected continental nations were themselves beginning to doubt the merits of the system.

No Sudden Break

The new revolt against high protection is all the more potent because it is a moderate, opportunist revolt, sharply distinguished from the free-trade enthusiasts of Yves Guyot in France and of the late Dr. Barth in Germany. It is seen that protection has created vast vested interests. It is admitted that it is impossible to abolish in a day the tariff conditions amid which these vested interests have grown, because any such drastic action would disorganize business. The new movement demands a gradual and cautious reduction of tariffs, with entire abolition only where the industry concerned could certainly bear abolition. When industry and agriculture have time to adapt themselves to the lower duties, the time, it is argued, may come to lower duties still more, and in this way there would be no sudden break, and no danger of crises and heavy loss.

The great organizations which stand at the head of the European anti-protectionist work in that spirit. In Germany the only effective free trade propaganda is run by a body so working, the Commercial Treaties Association, largely a creation of a radical banker, Kampff, now president of the Reichstag. This association does not agitate for free trade at all, but merely demands that duties be progressively cut down by commercial treaties.

The strongest Austrian anti-protectionist movement is conducted in the same way. Here the chief organization is the Austrian Economic Union, which was founded three years ago by a Reichstag deputy, Chevalier von Pauth, Baron Chlumetzki, the editor of the "Oesterreichische Rundschau," and Professor Hoffmeyer. The immediate aim of the Austrian Economic Union is merely the cutting down of the extravagant high corn duties imposed in 1906. The union declines to raise the banner of all-round immediate free trade.

Russia's anti-protectionist movement takes the same modest form. At present the worst critics of Russian protectionism are the Russian protected industries themselves. The agricultural classes have long groaned, but during the last few years the manufacturers have added their complaints. This came to a climax at the Moscow congress of manufacturers last autumn. The manufacturers—all themselves highly protected—came almost unanimously to the conclusion that Russian protection is a failure. The reason stated is that, while the manufacturers are protected with high tariffs and enabled to put up prices, they in turn suffer from the extravagant prices of raw materials which the protected monopolists in coal and iron are able to demand.

A machine manufacturer, Feodor Teichner, presented tables to prove this complaint. He showed that the Russian gets 37 per cent. higher price for pumping machinery than the Englishman gets in the open market. But the Russian, M. Teichner showed, pays 40 per cent. more than the Englishman for his raw material; and he also pays higher for the work done, although, nominally, Russian wages are half those of England.

The real cost of labor in Russia is higher than in England, because, argued Teichner, the paupered state of Russian industries has prevented the growth of a class of really skilled and efficient working men. In the end the protected Russian manufacturer's profit is about 22 per cent. less than that of the unprotected Englishman.

Disgruntled Protectionists

This revolt of the protected interests against protection is not confined to Russia. It might be said that everywhere the main source of the anti-protectionist revolt is protectionist discontent. The number of free traders on principle is small compared with the number of disgruntled protectionists, who condemn high protection because it will not work out precisely in the way they want it to. The argument of each class of producers is that while protectionism is good and desirable, it is being applied in a way to benefit others and to injure them. This is the case in Germany and Austria as well as in Russia.

High protection in Austria and Russia is undoubtedly in a worse plight than it is in Germany. Austria is suffering from a severe crisis, and in Russia, where economic conditions are chronically bad, the anti-protectionist trend is increased by a clamorous agitation against the trusts which has just led Minister of Trade Timasheff to frame a law putting all Russian trusts drastically under government tutelage.

In Germany protection is most assailed by the producer, by far the weakest political class. Also in Germany the outcry against the trusts is directed exclusively against the raw material cartels; and the aggrieved are a minority of manufacturers.

But there is another reason why German protection is relatively vigorous. It wears a certain ideological armor which guards it against the accusation of being mere class legislation and economic

LOSING TWO ARMS DOESN'T KEEP THIS MAN FROM SUPPORTING HIS FAMILY—READ HOW HE MAKES HIS LIVING

(Times' Special Correspondence) Minneapolis, July 22.—When Alex Semereaux, a railroad switchman at Odessa, Minn., lost both arms in a railroad accident two years ago, he didn't go to begging. "Guess I'll have to talk myself into a living—salesman or something like that," he pluckily told his wife. He secured agency rights on a line of automobiles. He soon found, however, that driving a car was necessary to his business. He couldn't afford an extra man for "demonstrations." He decided to try himself. Semereaux's left arm was completely severed at the shoulder, so he had a leather and steel contrivance, bearing a steel hook, fastened to his left arm. Then he conceived the idea of fastening a huge spool on the steering wheel as a means of allowing him to guide the car with his "hook."

At first driving was a painful process in low gear; now he thinks nothing of a speed of forty-five miles an hour. Two days ago Semereaux breezed into Minneapolis, bought a new car and arrives in Odessa, 200 miles away, in nine hours. He drove every inch of the way, and averaging more than twenty-two miles an hour over rough country roads is "going" driving any motorist will tell you.

DOUGS WANT HALF MILLION FOR THEIR ABANDONED FARMS

Refused to Swear Allegiance and Were Forced to Leave Saskatchewan—Colony Doing Well in British Columbia. Ottawa, July 24.—Asking for half a million dollars for the land in Saskatchewan which the Doukhobors abandoned when they moved to British Columbia and bought new lands outright rather than swear allegiance to the king, three representatives of the colony are in Ottawa to see the minister of the interior. Because, owing to religious dictates, they could not become Canadian citizens, one of the party told the Eastern Press, the people of the strange sect about four years ago had to leave their homesteads in Saskatchewan and go to the coast province, where they purchased land outright, thus rendering it unnecessary to pledge allegiance to the sovereign. They have done wonderfully well in the fruit raising business in British Columbia, where about 5,000 of them reside. There are about 3,000 more in Saskatchewan, who will ultimately join the newer colony.

Donkhobors belong to the Universal Brotherhood of Man and cannot give allegiance to any country, but they are good citizens and have not given the government any trouble for some years, said A. N. Evalenko, of Veregin (Sask.), one of the party.

At the meeting of the Trades and Labor Council last evening, the matter of holding a Labor day picnic was deferred pending an interview with the commissioners respecting the granting of a subsidy to finance the undertaking. KINGS OF THE TURF

Lord Bentinck's One Ambition Was to Win Derby

HE NEVER SUCCEEDED

Sold His Horses For Ten Thousand and One of Them Afterwards Won the Blue Ribbon Event—Lord George's Duel

(Parson's Weekly)

Lord George Frederick Cavendish Bentinck, commonly known to the racing men of his day as "Lord George" was born at Welbeck in February 1802. His one ambition was to win the Derby, as his father had done, and his repeated failures to carry off the blue ribbon of the turf nearly drove him crazy.

All the other classic races were won by his horses, and most of them more than once. In 1830 Ellis secured for him the St. Leger. Grey Mornus placed the Two Thousand Guineas to his credit in 1838. Two or three years later Cranche won for him the Two Thousand for a second time, in addition to the One Thousand and the Oaks. Yet always the one great prize eluded his grasp. One result of his moroseness was to enbroil him with the famous "Squire" his stud, buying up practically all the likely colts in England. Once he pinned his faith on a horse to which he had given the strange name of Gaper, backing it so heavily that he stood to win £100,000 by it. This was in 1842. The animal was not even placed. But at the last moment Lord George backed Colchester, the winner, for £20,000, so that he did not do so badly after all. At this time he had forty horses running in public, and upwards of a hundred altogether. The racing public almost worshipped him and everywhere he went he was received with a respect hardly accorded even to royalty itself. Morose, Bitter, Uncharitable

Yet all the while he was profoundly unhappy. As Derby day succeeded Derby day, and always a horse from some other stable galloped first past the post, his once high spirits vanished utterly. The gallant, kindly, light-hearted gentleman became morose, bitter, uncharitable. One of his most intimate friends lost £4,000 to him, and calling upon him tendered £2,000 in Bank of England notes, explaining that he was unable to find the whole sum there and then, but would pay the balance presently.

"Squire," replied Lord George, as he handed back the roll of notes, "no man has a right to bet if he cannot pay should he lose. The sum I want of you is £4,000 until that is paid your name is on the list of defaulters in the ring and on the card of the odds were nearer 100 to 1, for Osbaldeston had often killed birds on the wing with a pistol ball, and he had openly sworn to kill Bentinck."

But now, seeing his enemy helpless before him the chivalrous heart of the sturdy old Yorkshireman was stirred to pity. Osbaldeston, the deadliest duellist of his day. Dressed in Black for the Duel. The affair originated in a betting transaction. Lord George was standing on the lawn in front of the Jockey Club at Newmarket when Osbaldeston came up and said, in the hearing of every one, "Bentinck, I want that £400 I won from you at Henton Park." To this the reply was, "You want £400 you swindled me out of at Henton Park."

A great silence fell upon the assembly at these words, for it was realized that so deadly an insult in so public a place could have but one sequel. No attempt was made, indeed, to patch up a truce; it was felt on all hands that the affair was far too grave. The two men met on Wormwood Scrubs at six o'clock next morning. Lord George was dressed from top to toe in black, leaving not a speck of white visible for his formidable foe to aim at. The Squire, as if in contempt of his adversary, who was a notorious poor shot, wore his ordinary attire—a green frock coat, white dockin riding breeches, and top boots.

They tossed for first shot and Lord George won. He took careful aim at twelve paces, but missed. Then, turning sideways towards Osbaldeston, he said, without any appearance of nervousness, "Now, Squire, it is ten to one on you."

As a matter of fact the odds were nearer 100 to 1, for Osbaldeston had often killed birds on the wing with a pistol ball, and he had openly sworn to kill Bentinck.

Chat About the Boxers

FROM T. S. ANDREWS

Milwaukee, July 24.—Buck Cross, a Pittsburg 138 pounder, is a peculiar individual. Some time ago Buck was fighting like a champion and made a great showing against several of the eastern middleweights, but all of a sudden he decided to take a trip and disappeared for a time. He was also booked for an Australian tour, but at the last moment decided that he could not stand the boat ride and remained behind. Some time ago Jimmy Mason, a manager, had him matched up for an important contest at Indianapolis, but Buck could not be found and the match had to be called off with the result that Frank Klaus took it and also a big clunk of coin. the last moment decided that he could not stand the boat ride and remained behind. Some time ago Jimmy Mason, a manager, had him matched up for an important contest at Indianapolis, but Buck could not be found and the match had to be called off with the result that Frank Klaus took it and also a big clunk of coin. Then came that Buck had decided to take a trip to that he determined to retire from the turf altogether.

This decision was arrived at during the Goodwood Meeting of 1846 and with his usual impetuosity he acted upon it then and there. Going up to his friend, George Payne, he offered to sell him his entire stud at less than a tenth of what it had cost him.

"The lot, Payne," he said, "from Middleton to Little Kitchener, for £10,000. Yes or no?"

But Payne wanted time to think over the offer, and Lord George was in no mood for haggling; so when "Squire" Mastyn clipped in with "I'll take the lot, Bentinck, at £10,000, and will give a cheque before you leave the course," Lord George replied with a brief "If you please," and the bargain was completed.

Among the stud thus abruptly and strangely disposed of was Surplice, the winner of the Derby and St. Leger in 1848. Lord George was in the library of the House of Commons when the news of the first-named victory was brought him, and those present said afterwards that he reeled as from a physical blow.

Four months later, on September 21st 1848, seven days after Surplice had won the St. Leger, Lord George Bentinck was found lying dead amongst the branches in the deer park at Welbeck. The body was discovered just before midnight by one of the keepers, and was quite cold and stiff.

which, although frequently contradicted, is still repeated and believed in many of the older tenantry round Welbeck.

Lord George had an elder brother the Marquess of Titchfield. Both were in love with the beautiful Mary Berkeley, a child of that romantic union between the Earl Berkeley and pretty Mary Cole, butcher's daughter of Lambeth.

The two brothers quarrelled ferociously whenever they met. This much is yond dispute. It is known, too, Lord George, whose temper was vio frequently struck his brother, who no physical match for him.

The story is that on the day of Lord George's untimely death a fierce quarrel than usual occurred between the two that Lord George struck his brother rival repeatedly until the latter, so blow on his brother's chest, over heart. The blow proved fatal.

Joe Tarbell was again the hero of the day, when the Marathons defeated Fredericton yesterday at Fredericton by 4 to 1.

The playing of the Marathon infield was errorless, and many hard hits coming their way were handled with ease.

The Marathons scored their first two runs in the second inning, when Tarbell scored Ramsey and Waterhouse by a difficult grounder which got past Callahan.

DASTARDLY ATTACK ON BRITISH OFFICER

Attacked by Armed Arab Robbers In Persia

STRUCK WITH A RIFLE

Fights With Fist Until Felled By a Stone, and His Orderly Killed—Compensation Demanded From Persian Government

A remarkable account of a dastardly attack by Arabs on Lieutenant Bullock and a small party while traveling near Isfahan is contained in a Blue-book just published on "Affairs in Persia."

The officer himself was treated in the most barbarous manner, while as a result of his injuries an Indian sepoy orderly died. Sir Walter Townley, the British minister, has made strong representations regarding the affair to the Persian government, and has demanded £2,000 compensation for the death of the orderly and the restitution of the property taken by the marauders.

The story of the country known as Persia is full of such incidents, and it is not surprising that the British minister, who has made strong representations regarding the affair to the Persian government, and has demanded £2,000 compensation for the death of the orderly and the restitution of the property taken by the marauders.

plunder. This armor is its association with social reform.

Austria, Russia and Germany are all now engaged in statistical work preparatory to renewing their commercial treaties with other states.

The general belief is that in the next commercial treaties the tariffs will be at most very slightly cut down; but that they certainly will not be increased. Even this is a considerable gain, for two years ago the high protectionists, especially the agrarians, were clamorously demanding still higher tariffs as the only salvation against ruin.

FAIRVILLE MAN ANNOYED GIRLS IN CAR; ARRESTED
Lucky For Masson No Man With Them is Magistrate's Comment

"What do you suppose would have happened to you if a man had been with those girls you annoyed last night? You'd very likely be here with a pair of black eyes this morning." Magistrate Ritchie addressed these remarks and a few others to Joseph Masson of Fairville, who was arrested last night on charges of being drunk and assaulting two young girls on a street car in Douglas Avenue.

Christina Harrington and Dora Reid, the young ladies in question, gave evidence against Masson, saying that he had spoken to them on the car, followed them when they changed cars, and finally had taken one on his knee. The conductor had then interfered and he had been arrested.

Masson pleaded guilty to the charge of being drunk but could not remember his other actions. This called forth the remarks quoted from the magistrate. The prisoner was remanded.

Three prisoners charged with drunkenness, one of them a woman, were remanded. Another woman was fined $5 or two months in jail.

FREDERICTON TODAY AND TOMORROW; ST. CROIX AT BANGOR FOR TWO GAMES

The two games today and tomorrow between the Marathons and the Fredericton Pets will have much effect on the league leadership. The four clubs are very evenly matched now and between the leaders there is only a difference of a very few points.

St. Croix are to play in Bangor today and tomorrow and should they win the games from Bangor, they will still be leading the league by a narrow margin.

The game today is called for 8:30. Flaherty, the new catcher for the Marathons will be seen in action. Woodbury or Shankey will do the pitching and another good game of ball is looked for. The Marathons have shown more snap lately than for some time and their batting and fielding have certainly improved. Mr. Leonard will handle the team from the bench as he has returned from St. Stephen, where he was in the interests of the league.

Tomorrow the game will be called at three o'clock sharp. The pitcher for the Marathons will be Charles with Ben or Flaherty catching. McPherson is still on the sick list and may have to remain off a week or so until he gets thoroughly well. Then he will be another source of strength.

The Frederictons will probably have their new pitcher, Dave Morey in action tomorrow. The rivalry between these two clubs promises to give the public of St. John two very exciting games and it looks as if these two matches will be record makers.

SIX MONTHS OLD; CENTRAL NORTON BULL CALF WEIGHS ALREADY 370 POUNDS

A six months old bull calf purchased by J. A. Floyd & Sons, of Central Norton, from the Allandale stock farm at Hampton, which has already reached the weight of 370 pounds, has helped to open the eyes of the farmers in that section regarding the results which can be attained in stock raising in New Brunswick.

The animal, which is pure Ayrshire, is an exceptionally fine one, and will be used for breeding purposes. Mr. Floyd, like most of his neighbors has been using Holstein stock largely for dairy purposes, but he has decided that Ayrshires are better adapted to a country, where the grazing is not as easy as the original Holstein type was accustomed to.

TAKE EVIDENCE OF THE INJURED MAN IN THE HOSPITAL
Hearing in Matter of Automobile Accident on Market Square

The first hearing in the case of Astl Difeon who was driving the automobile which knocked down and injured Allan MacLean in Market square last Saturday, was held in the police court this morning. Witnesses for the prosecution told of the accident and the condition of the injured man after it. Nothing of a startling or conclusive nature came out, and another hearing will have to be held before the evidence can be completed.

Geo. Moore of the Canadian Drug Co., who was in the car with the defendant, was the first witness. He said that Difeon called for him and three ladies at Leinster Hall the night of the accident. After a short trip around the lower end of the city, they went along left side of Market square toward Dock street. As they came up the chauffeur looked the horn and the man turned back. It was too late to avert a collision and the right side of the car struck the man.

Mr. MacLean, who appeared for the defendant, the witness said that the car had not been moving fast. The man had zigzagged in front of the car and the driver had tried to avoid him, putting on the brakes. The pavement was slippery and as the driver tried to avoid the man the car skidded and hit a telegraph pole. The driver had told the witness that he had become rattled and put his foot on the wrong pedal, causing the car to jump.

Harry Ervin, reporter, said he was a Prince William street at the time but had not seen the accident. He was at the place immediately after. He had not seen the defendant Moore or the women, but only the injured man, who appeared to be dying. He asked him his address and took him to the hospital. On the way the man complained of great pain. After the arrival at the hospital he was taken in charge by Doctors Walker and Malcolm.

Dr. Malcolm, superintendent of the hospital said that at first the injuries seemed serious. At present time the indications were that the man will recover.

William Lugar, a clerk in the Bank of Montreal, and I. Chester Brown gave evidence and the court then adjourned to the hospital to take the deposition of Allan MacLean, the injured man.

THE LIQUOR RETURNED TO ST. JOHN OWNERS
Compromise Reached in the Recent Seizure of Liquor at Saint Stephen

(St. Croix Courier)

St. John, N. B., July 25.—The liquor which was seized at Saint Stephen on Tuesday, with an outcome that will naturally make it (increasingly) difficult for those who continue to sell liquor in St. John.

About a week ago Marshal Gibson of Saint Stephen, N. B., had arrived at the C. P. R. freight shed, consigned to a party unknown in St. John. A few days later, an Eastport man appeared and claimed the stuff and asked that it be delivered to him, agreeing to take it out of the country, a request which the police committee felt that it would not be wise to comply with just then.

The liquor was held and a charge laid against the C. P. R. of bringing liquor into a prohibition county.

In the meantime, McIntyre & Co., of St. John, the shippers of the stuff which had been labelled "cider vinegar," had continued to wonder where they were being let off at, in the matter of about $1,000 worth of property, and made efforts to have it returned to St. John.

All parties interested got together on Tuesday, and eventually a settlement was reached.

The town delivered the liquor to the C. P. R. to be shipped back to St. John and the C. P. R. undertook to use every precaution in future to prevent the shipment of liquor to St. John over its lines. The marshal, given permission to inspect all freight bills and examine all suspicious packages of freight.

McIntyre & Co., against whom a charge of causing liquor to be shipped illegally, paid a fine of $100 and were probably glad to get their property back at that price.

In the negotiations, the C. P. R. was represented by Mr. Green, the station manager, and Col. H. H. McLean, K.C., the town by M. N. Cockburn, K. C., and Hon. W. C. H. Grimmer, K. C., town solicitor, and McIntyre & Co. by N. Marks Mills.

MR. I R U THRIFTY?
SAVE MONEY NOW. July 25th.

Read on:

You have to buy about so many clothes and shoes anyway. You'll probably need quite a lot in that line during the next six months.

If you can buy them in the desired styles and qualities at one third to one half less than ordinary prices, it's the shrewd buyer's plan to do it.

DOLLARS SAVED ARE DOLLARS EARNED!

You are now offered something more than an ordinary "sale" chance to save a lot of money on things you will need and buy anyway, sooner or later.

You can actually buy good goods now at this Big Ben public sale at less than wholesale prices.

How can we do that? We can't and make money, that's certain. But our store contains hundreds of dollars worth of goods that we must close out AT ONCE on account of the lumber mill strike. We know there is but one way to accomplish this: Reduce prices so low that other stores can't compete. So we have done it.

It's human nature to doubt. You may doubt that we are actually selling goods so cheap; all we can say is, Come and see for yourself.

IT MEANS DOLLARS TO YOU. Come soon before the best bargains go. Yours truly, C. B. PIDGEON.

P. S. Of course you've heard about the half hour special Big Ben bargains. Take advantage of them and you'll be glad, miss them and you'll be sorry.
