The Sealers And Their Lives

(Reprinted from the "Yorkshire Post," Saturday, April 4th, 1914.)

(From a Correspondent.)

Newfoundland is the most British of our British possessions: its people are the descendants of English, Scotch and Irish, scarcely a foreigner being found in the country. It is the oldest of our dominions beyond the seas, the nearest to the Motherland, and strange to say, probably the least known of our self-governing Colonies. It stands as the gateway to the new world, holds the key to the great river St. Lawrence, and is the Gibraltar of British North America; having a singularly important strategic position, a sentinel out at sea. The Colony cherishes its independence, and refuses to be wooed into confederation with Canada. It proudly maintains its own Governor, and upholds with dignity its Parliament, the Lower House containing 36 members, elected by the people, and the Upper House having about 20 members, appointed for life by the King, and possessing the title of "the Honourable." In size, it is one-third larger than Ireland, having an area of 42,000 square miles. It has a coast line of nearly 6,000 miles, owing to the deep indentations of its enormous bays and inlets. There are very few inland towns or settlements, most of the people living on the coast, to be in close proximity to the fishery, its staple industry. Its cod fisheries are the richest in the world, and cod seems to be as prolific in its waters now as when the country was discovered by John Cabot, the famous Venetian navigator, who sailed from Bristol over 400 years ago, and entered a magnificent Harbor on the south-east coast, on St. John the Baptist Day, June 24, 1497, and fittingly called the name of the place Saint John's—now the well-known capital of Newfoundland, with a population of 40,000 inhabitants.

was used for this purpose before it was fitted out for the South Pole Expedition and the Southern Cross, reported lost, but now said to be safe, was Sir Ernest Shackleton's old ship—staunch vessels, which have played an important part in making the fame of some of Great Britain's most heroic sons.

The Character of the People

Previous to the ships sailing, there was perfect order; not a single man being reported to have lost his passage through drink or carelessness. The country is practically crimeless, most law-abiding, moral and temperate. Probably, indeed, the Island is the most temperate in the world. The moral character of the people is very high, and their kindness and hospitality are proverbial; charity and consideration for those in distress are notable in all classes. It is among these people that this awful calamity has fallen, men sent adrift on floes of ice under the severest Arctic conditions through a terrible blizzard, almost unprecedented in the history of the seal-fishery. These brave men, knowing the risks they run, simply clamour to secure a berth to the ice, as the local phrase puts it. They go out to the ice-floes in search of the young seals, commonly called "white coats," because they are covered with a beautiful creamy fur at birth, palid as the snow-clad waste on which they lie; this whiteness remains until they get a few weeks old, after which they gradually change colour. They are killed, not for their skins, but, like whales, for their oil. These "white coats" are born on the ice, and before they are old enough to take to the water the men from the sealing ships land on the ice and hunt for them, right across a large expanse of ice extending for miles over the deep Atlantic; it is really a vast field of continent of ice. The "whitecoats" grow rapidly. At birth they weigh about five pounds, but within a month are nearer fifty, at which weight they are fit to kill, their coat of fat being three to four inches thick, though their only sustenance during all that period has been their mother's milk. They are in their prime by the middle of March.

Trained to know the ice, Newfoundlanders have done valuable service in Polar exploration. The discovery of the North Pole by Capt. Peary was in some measure due to the energetic and indefatigable labours of Capt. Bartlett, a native of the island, and his picked crew of Newfoundlanders, who thoroughly understood Arctic conditions and how to manage an unruly team of dogs harnessed to sledges. Dr. Grenfell—Grenfell of Labrador—tells how some of these hardy fishermen, at risk of their lives, rescued him from the very jaws of death when drifting out to sea on a pan of ice with his team of dogs, the ice parting before he had crossed the large bay miles from land.

The Women do Their Part.

A stranger seeing these men prepare to go on board a sealer might think them lightly clad, yet they are really well protected by good warm under-clothing. But no clothing, however thick or warm, could keep out the intense cold when men are suddenly cast adrift on a lonely patch of ice, exposed to a temperature many degrees below zero, and a furious blizzard raging around them. They usually dress in home-spun woolen made by the women, knitted out of pure wool which has been spun on some primitive spinning wheel in a fisherman's cottage resting in a quiet spot by the sea shore. Many of these thoughtful women keep a few sheep in order to secure sufficient wool to clothe the men who go in the spring to the ice-fields.

For several years the seal fishery has been exceptionally fortunate, and no awful catastrophe such as the one now reported has had to be recorded. When such a calamity does happen it touches the whole colony, as each and all are bound together in a bond of fellowship.

The Southern Cross with a crew of 175 men has since been given up as lost, making a total loss of nearly 250 men.

Men who make their country wreathe them
 As her noble sons,
 Men who never shame their mothers,
 Men who never fail their brothers,
 True, however false be others,
 Give us such men!

(The above was written by Rev. James Bell, late of the C. of E. Cathedral, St. John's, and formerly Rector of Bay Roberts.—Editor.)

Sealing Fleet Leave St. John's

On Friday morning, March 13, with beautiful weather, and under most favourable conditions, the steel fleet of seal ships sailed for the icefields, the wooden ships having, according to the usual custom, left a few days earlier. The ice was only a few miles from the land. The fleet numbered 21 ships, with crews aggregating 3,734 officers and men. Most of the sealing ships are powerfully built steel ships, especially designed to contend with the terrific pressure of ice to which they are liable when a storm or blizzard may arise. The older vessels are wooden, they are getting scarcer every year, and are not able to resist pressure to the same degree, nor do they carry such a large number of men, probably 175, whereas the bigger ones have a crew of 270 all told.

Among the wooden ships at the fishery this year were the late Captain Scott's ship, the Terra Nova, which BAY ROBERTS, FRIDAY, JULY 17, 1914.

The Dredge Doing Good Work

Deepening Harbors

The Government dredge Priestman, Capt. Wm. Bartlett, arrived here from Spaniard's Bay on Friday afternoon last at 4.30 o'clock. While at Spaniard's Bay considerable dredging was done from the public wharf at Mint Cove out for about 500 yards, a deep channel about 70 ft. wide being made. This will admit of coal and lumber vessels getting right into the public wharf and Mr. J. F. Sheppard's wharf and discharging their cargoes without any trouble.

An attempt was also made to dredge near the public wharf at Northern Cove, but bedded rock and a cliff was encountered, which made it impossible to do anything. Work has been going on here for several days, both dredging and surveying. Several loads of silt have been taken from the bottom near the public wharf opposite A. E. Mercer's place. When this is completed more dredging will be done at C. & A. Dawe's east wharf.

A channel, 80 ft. wide by about 500 ft. long, will be made at the west end wharf, so that large and heavily-laden vessels may haul alongside. This wharf when deeper water is obtained will be used considerably by shipping of various kinds. This pier is a very convenient one for the general public, not only for unloading vessels but for rebuilding, repairing and cleaning vessels.

Capt. Dawe Appointed Magistrate
Capt. Henry Dawe has been appointed Magistrate for the coast of Labrador for the present season. The S.S. Stella Maris has been chartered by the Government, and Capt. Dawe will command the ship in addition to his other duties. The Stella Maris will cover the coast from Battle Hr. to the far north. We believe that the captain will do his utmost to administer justice and equity to all parties concerned.

Wedded to the Truth

Trying to make others believe as we do is a poor business. It is a very different business from trying to win others to the truth. The man who points another to a star may help him toward the light, and, in helping, may get nearer the light himself; but the man who points others merely to his own opinion is without a star for himself, and does not know but that the star he points out to others is a firefly's lamp. A lever of truth is not wedded to false opinions; he is wedded to the truth.—Ex.

How Seals Cut Steps in Ice Cakes

How seals cut steps in the perpendicular sides of ice cakes in order to rise from the water for the purpose of breathing was recorded by members of Captain Scott's ant arctic expedition with the aid of a moving picture machine. It was discovered that the seals, which formerly were supposed to leave the water by leaping, actually cut steps in the slippery surface with the great canine or eye teeth. As soon as the teeth are placed in position, the head is moved rapidly from side to side until the ice has been cut away sufficiently to afford a footing for the front flippers of the animal. Each step has to be laboriously cut after this fashion until the body is far enough out of the water to be thrust up the rest of the way by a kick of the hind flippers.—Popular Mechanics.

Brief News

At Glasgow, Scotland, 25,000 men took part in the Orange demonstration.

Miss Etta Snow went to Jackson's Cove, N. D. B., by Thursday evening's train on a visit to friends.

See and hear the English Double records. Splendid song. Only 60 cents each. C. E. Russell, General Agent, Bay Roberts.

In Italy there are now 600 Protestant churches, with a total membership of 25,000; numerous Protestant schools, medical missions, and fifteen religious newspapers.

Coley's Pt. Methodist congregation appreciated the privilege of hearing Rev. Isaac French on Sunday afternoon. Mr. French is doing good work on a difficult mission at Trinity.

I once asked a minister if he had heard a certain adverse thing about another man. He replied, 'No, I haven't heard that, but I heard this about him the other day; and he told me a perfectly delightful story of some fine trait in the man.'—Cleveland M. McAfee.

The Orange Demonstration and Parade at Bell Island on Thursday was a great success. Several hundred brethren took part in the parade and attended Divine Service in the Methodist Church. About 50 visiting brethren from Portugal Cove, Topsail, Sauline, Pouch Cove and Bay Roberts were present.

Rev. R. H. Mercer was heard at Central Church on Sunday evening in one of his characteristically eloquent addresses. Mr. Mercer has won golden opinions and abundant spiritual and financial success on the missions on which he has labored. He is now stationed at Musgrave Harbor.

A few Orangemen went from Bay Roberts to Bell Island by the S. S. Hawk Thursday morning to take part in the demonstration. They enjoyed the trip and visit, and the Bell Island brethren did everything possible to make their visit a pleasant one. Bell Island is certainly a revelation to one who sees it for the first time.

W. R. Chennell and J. Beamish Saul, two of the oldest Past-Masters of Antiquity Lodge (No. 1) A. F. and A. M., died in adjoining beds in the Montreal General Hospital within twenty-four hours of each other, and were later buried in adjoining lots in Mount Royal Cemetery. Mr. Chennell died at noon on June 13, while Mr. Saul died before noon on June 14.

We learn that a Sunday School Picnic will come to Bay Roberts from Bell Island shortly. There is a strong growing intimacy between Bay Roberts and our sister town on Bell Island which should be encouraged and supported. It should be possible to arrange for weekly excursions of one kind and another between the two places, especially when the trip on the Bay can be made in from one and a-half to two hours.

The Duke's Visit

The Duke of Connaught on H. M. S. Essex arrived at St. John's from Blanc Sablon in the Straits on Tuesday, having to cancel his proposed visit to Bonavista owing, it is said, to weather conditions, much to the disappointment of the citizens of the northern town.

On Wednesday morning the Duke officially landed and various functions occupied his attention until Thursday night.

A Big Orange Demonstration

London, July 14.

The Battle of the Boyne was commemorated in Ireland with tremendous enthusiasm, but was more noticeable for the absence of disorder than on past occasions of this kind.

Following the usual custom a great procession marched from Belfast to Drumlurg where Carson made a speech defying the Government either to totally exclude Ulster from Home Rule or to come out and fight.

The Daily Mail Belfast correspondent thus describes the march of 100,000 men to Drumlurg: 'Rattling and roaring like maxim guns the drums of Ulster proclaimed the victory of the Boyne and when, in future, I recall the Twelfth of July, I shall hear the drums at Drumlurg where hundreds of big drums thundered the orange rejoicings.'

These drums were not thumped with drumsticks in single heavy notes, they were flogged with loaded canes welded by men with wrists of steel and the noise was the noise of Maxim guns with boiler rivets working in chorus. For five hours along five Irish miles the drums delivered their mighty message of Ulster's defiance to the world!

The S. U. F. Visit

In our last issue we unintentionally omitted to make reference to the visit of the S. U. F. and their friends. The event took place on Monday, July 6th, a large crowd coming from St. John's. The day was fine, which is one of the factors in making any outing a success. The train reached here about 11 a.m. Sight seeing was enjoyed until 1 o'clock, when the visitors partook of dinner provided specially for them by a number of housekeepers.

After dinner a game of football was played and races for the children were arranged on the Western Union Athletic Association's field. While some enjoyed the day sight-seeing and visiting friends, others went for drives to various outlying places, which in this section are numerous. 'Bay Roberts being practically the 'Hub' of this part of Conception Bay. At night a dance was held in the R.C. Academy Hall, return being made to St. John's about 3 o'clock the next morning.

ANOTHER BODY IDENTIFIED

Quebec, July 4.—Of the four bodies brought up from the Empress yesterday, one, that of a man, was identified by a bank book. He is one of the Salvation Army contingent, and is a Mr. Simper. One of the women recovered should be easily identified, numbered S. 052. In addition to this she was wearing a necklace, and no less than six rings.

Dr. T. C. McLeod and Mr. D. G. Fraser represented the local Masonic Lodge at the Masonic reception to the Duke of Connaught in the Masonic Hall at St. John's on Wednesday night.

The Cost of Living

ADVERTISING turns over stocks rapidly, and therefore multiplies profits. This means that prices in a shop which advertises can be short rather than long. Of this you may be sure: Prices in a shop which advertises are not MORE than in a shop which does not advertise. The chances are that they are oftentimes lower. This, also, is generally true: You will find better goods, better values and better service in those shops which turn over their stocks rapidly. This means, as a general thing, shops which advertise.

A Note to Merchants
Advertising costs you nothing—it is paid for by the profit on increased sales. Advertising is easy—it is simply saying in writing what you say to the customers in your shop. Turn over stocks quickly, if you would make more money.
