Moncton, June 7.—In the County Court at Dorchester today the only criminal case, that of the King vs. J. E. Trites of Moncton, charged with assaulting Constable McArthur of Sheliac, was disposed of, the charge of resisting was withdrawn but the accused was convicted of common assault. Judge McLatchey imposed a fine of $25 or sixty days in jail. The fine was paid.

Hampton, N. B., June 8.—For about a month past two women whose names are said to be Adamson and Chappell, have been engaged in professedly religious work among the people of Smithtown and have awakened anxieties in the minds of some parents as to the outcome of their teachings. At first they secured the use of a schoolhouse for their meetings, but of late they have gone from house to house, and are willing to open their premises for the dissemination of the new religion. They claim to be followers of Edward Coe, W. G. McClun and others of the ilk, and are known as the Go Preachers, No Church, No Denomination, No Sect, Pilgrims, Martyrs, and other special designations. They have no creed, no doctrines, no ordinances, but baptism, and that is a mere formula. They read and expound the Scriptures according to their own notions, and have a knack of winning the attention of the young. They do not take collections nor ask for subscriptions, but accept the hospitality and free-will offerings of persons interested. Pamphlets denouncing those who claim allegiance to this cult, have come from England and Ireland to residents at Smithtown, in which they are charged with all sorts of crimes against religion and morality, and especially as being agents for the white slave traffic. The fears and anxieties of parents at Smithtown are being aroused, but so far there seems to be little or nothing on the part of these non-conformists to excite the attention of legal authority to suppress or control them, although there is some talk of having them arrested under the vagrancy act, if some one can summon up courage to take this course.

Report in Ottawa That Huge Hull Industries Are Being Disposed Of To a Strong English Syndicate.

Ottawa, June 7.—That the great Eddy industries on the Hull side of the river at the Chaudiere are being sold, reports received at Ottawa, J. H. Rowley, of the Eddy Company, has just returned from a trip to the old country, and the report is that business was a business one, having for its object, the dispersal of the Eddy works to an English syndicate. It is understood that the deal has been practically completed. The industries were founded by the late Ezra Butler Eddy many years ago, and today represent millions. Most of the mills were destroyed in the great Ottawa fire, but were at once rebuilt.

SAINT JOHN, FRIDAY MORNING, JUNE 9, 1911.

"MR. FACING-BOTH-WAYS."

An outstanding feature in the visit of the Colonial Premier to the Imperial Conference is the marked change in public sentiment towards Sir Wilfrid Laurier. On previous occasions there has been nothing to mar the unity of the gathering of the representatives of the Sister Nations to confer with the Mother Country. There may have been differences of opinion, but the conferences were hailed as a welcome reunion of the members of the British family. Today there is a jarring note. The silver-tongued orator of Sir Wilfrid does not ring true. That he has lost the high position he held in the estimation of the British people is abundantly evident. The Imperialism he professes is discovered to be something very different from Imperialism as people in the Old Country understand it. There is a strong feeling that he is "facing both ways," and the leading journals do not hesitate to express the prevailing opinion.

The London Globe bluntly tells the Canadian Premier that the nation has an invincible objection to the substitution of "soft soap" for the guidance of true statesmanship and declares that his doctrine as to Canada's independence of Imperial war is a flat negation of Empire. "We admire his measured, graceful periods," says the Globe, "but we own to a prejudice in favor of candor. We are glad to be assured, as Sir Wilfrid assures us two or three times a week, that a 'new star has arisen in the West, but we should be glad to know which way that star is travelling. We do not feel that Sir Wilfrid Laurier is a very felicitous interpreter of Canadian feeling at the present moment. We honor the distinguished man who has led the Liberal Government fourteen years in Canada, but we are beginning to have a suspicion that the Imperialism he professes is something very different from what we would have supposed. There is room for more clear thinking and clear speaking on Sir Wilfrid's part than he has thought it wise to utter. We are not a nation to be afraid of hard words, when hard words are necessary, but we have an invincible objection to the substitution of 'soft soap' for the guidance of true statesmanship."

Referring to Sir Wilfrid's declaration of Canada's independence in time of Imperial war, the Globe is equally outspoken. It says: "If Britain is at war with a great power, that great power will not refrain from attacking Canada simply because Sir Wilfrid issues a statement that, while he loves the Mother Country with all his heart, he wishes to stand aside when her quarrels are being settled. If Sir Wilfrid thinks the risk is greater than the profit, let him say so. We shall then see how many Canadians agree with him, but let us not pretend that the Empire can attack, or be attacked, in watertight compartments that way. That way lies disillusionment and disaster. It is not sound statesmanship to mistake the fundamental facts of the situation."

But by far the most scathing criticism of Sir Wilfrid's attitude and policy appears in the London Times of May 28. In the third of a series of articles entitled "Quiet Talks With Prime Ministers," his record for inconsistency and double dealing is reviewed with a touch of sarcastic humor which makes the writer's charge that he is no true Imperialist sink all the deeper. Appearing at a time when all the premiers of the Overseas Dominions are assembled in London, the article has an added significance. Addressing Sir Wilfrid, the writer says:—

"We are at present being dazzled, soothed, delighted, flattered, 'licked to death,' as the Americans say, with encomiums, in which, of course, your 'silver-tongued' orations play a conspicuous part. As I read your speech of Tuesday night—I love the United States, but let me say that much as I love them I, a Canadian of French origin, love Britain still more—when I read these affecting words, and heard and saw in imagination the thrill and quaver and the gesture of hand to heart with which they were delivered, I found it hard to believe that only a few weeks ago you were debating whether you should come to England at all for the Coronation and the Conference. You were fighting for Reciprocity with the United States, and Mr. Jordan was fighting for the alternative policy of Preference to England. The Leader of the Opposition agreed to a truce in order that you might run over and make beautiful speeches on the unity and freedom of the British Empire—an Empire so free that one has even the right to leave it.

"If I could believe, like that wily old politician, Aristides, that 'the whole gain and sum of life to man is oratory,' I should listen to you with unmixed pleasure. You are a master in the art of epideictic. The Empire is your greatest theme. You preserve it in a fine syrup of beautiful words. While we are listening to you we quite forget poor Mr. Jordan, who is fighting in his heavy-handed way for such a sordid and practical thing as British trade. You please us, you flatter us; he is only willing to trade with us. It is no longer true that we are a nation of shopkeepers; we are in the second generation. Though the ruling motive of our fathers in building the Empire was commerce, trade is now 'sordid'—especially in the family. You are tactful not to mention it. We prefer beautiful shows, flags, fine dresses, gold lace, aristocracy (without functions), Royalty (without power). It is the greatest pride of our theatre that it has demonstrated the possibility of walking upstairs; and our Imperial Government takes an equal pride in showing the world that it is also possible to walk downstairs. This we are doing to the flattering music of such silver-tongued oratory as yours.

"In venturing a note of criticism I feel that I am almost profane. I feel like Mr. Pancks when he committed his act of sacrilege upon the venerable Casby. You remember the passage: 'Quick as lightning, Mr. Pancks . . . whipped out a pair of shears, swooped upon the Patriarch behind, and snipped off short the sacred locks that flowed upon his shoulders.' But, after all, an Empire cannot live on fine words, any more than it can live on sentiment or liberty or territorial magnitude. It has been said that nations and States are united by three things—common trade, common sense, common race. The last we need not speak about, since we have got it. The second you deny us.

For you say that we are not to depend on you in case of war.

"As to the first, you had built your part of the bridge, and you are now pulling it down again, piece by piece, and using the material for a new connection with the United States. It is not the mere loss of so much Preference that matters. It is that you have sought to lead Canada from one tendency into another. In 1894 you definitely turned your back on the United States, and thereby gained the position of which you have since been so picturesque an ornament. Sir John Macdonald and his friends, the United Empire Loyalists, had made the National policy. Fiscal independence, the East and West Route, and trade in the Empire were its component parts. You and your friends had stood for Reciprocity with the United States, and it was by abandoning that policy that you gained and held power. Thus you became at once an Imperialist and a Nationalist, for it is the peculiar glory of our Empire that it fosters the growth of nations under its many-folded flag. You saw Canada becoming symmetrical and strong, with its manufacturers balancing its agriculture and its tariff enabling it to resist the suck and pull of its great neighbor. Your reward for so intelligently retaining the policy of others was to be called an Imperial statesman and to rest on the support of the British Canadians. At the same time you contrived to retain the support of the provincialists of Quebec by retaining the Canadian sentiment in favor of helping the Imperial Navy. Thus successfully and for many years you have played the part of Mr. Facing-Both-Ways.

"But, as you said in your beautiful speech on Wednesday night, 'a star arose in the West,' a new and solid population of American farmers on Canadian soil. Kruger would have refused them a vote and restricted their numbers. Your finer democratic sense saw in them a new factor of power. Your naval policy had made you unpopular in the East; you would change horses and, with the West and Quebec, you would be able to do without the Loyalist vote. Thus you threw over the Imperialists both in Canada and throughout the Empire and returned to Reciprocity, the policy of your youth. It was a lightning change, and although it dazzled many it shocked and startled others. For the perplexed recognized that not only was our hope of Imperial unity threatened, not only was any fiscal system for the Empire, or any preferential treaty between Canada and the Mother Country, made difficult or impossible, but the nationality and unity of Canada itself were menaced by the change. The Canadian West would be cut off from the Canadian East and bound tightly to an American interest. Canadian manufactures would be deprived of their raw material for the benefit of their American rivals, who would also be nearer the Canadian market. Canada would be divided into two and her industrial growth stunted. The mutual interplay of agriculture and manufacture necessary to the symmetrical growth of a nation would be checked. The short-sighted man says, 'Let us sell our wheat and our timber.' The long-sighted man replies, 'No, let us sell our flour, our biscuits, our furniture, our paper. Let us not sell our raw material, but the manufactured article. Thus only shall we reap the full profits of our products and establish ourselves on the community of interests that makes a nation.'

"You say, 'It is restricted Reciprocity and we will go no further.' But you remember the fable: The fly invited the spider to step into his parlor. The fly replied, 'I will only put in one foot; the rest of me will remain outside.' The spider was satisfied. Why? Because he knew the foot would stick. Thus? Because he knew you were in sorrow than in anger. If you are sapping Imperial interests you are also undermining Canadian nationality. For our part, it were foolish to throw stones. We have had our chance and lost it. Only some of us who had thought we were conferees and now find ourselves mistaken, think that real faith would have endured longer, that true love would have suffered more. That, perhaps, is sentiment, and sentiment, nowadays, is only allowed to Free Traders.

"Let me end on a practical note. Where is the sense in supporting the 'All-Red Route,' for which it is said you are now going to fight, if at the same time you are diverting trade north and south? Surely these things hang together. If we are to have an Imperial trade service we must foster our Imperial trade. If we cannot have sentiment, let us at least have logic."

Germany's postal department plans to introduce letters of credit enabling the travelling public to draw money at any postoffice. On depositing a sum of money at the starting point, the traveller receives and signs a letter of credit, with his photograph affixed, and is thereby assured that he will not lack funds even in the remotest village. Negotiations will be opened with other countries with a view to making the institution international.

The fact that this is the oldest city in the Dominion does not argue that it should be superannuated with the pension just yet, and if we really want to compete with other cities we should as citizens do some bustling on our own account instead of making Quebec a laughing stock by harassing the Government with incessant requests to be sponged with more porridge.

THE CANADIAN FARMER AND RECIPROcity

(Montreal Star.)

The Hon. George E. Foster, in an article in the North American Review, on the Reciprocity Agreement says:—"And now the stress upon Canada on the ground that it opens to our farmers a market of 90,000,000 people. A slight analysis serves to modify the strength of that appeal. How much of that 90,000,000 market is accessible to our surplus eggs, butter, cheese, fruits, vegetables, live stock, grain and meat products? Distance and cost of transport cut out tenths and more. The remaining fraction is scattered along four thousand miles of frontier and its demands are modified by contingencies of season and locality. Even then our products, wherever they do go, must compete with similar products raised nearer by and with cheaper access and better organized distribution."

"There is a good deal of force in this argument. The Canadian friends of the treaty are weary of talking about the magnitude of the market opened by it to the Canadian farmer. The market in the United States for Canadian farm products is probably no greater than the market in Canada for similar products raised by the United States farmer. Some products will be taken to the coast, and then to very remote markets, provided always that those markets are in countries of dissimilar or inadequate production. The market for such American oranges, bananas and pineapples would be greatly lessened if we open the same articles here. Mr. Foster also points out that the treaty opens the markets of Canada to twelve times as many producers—to say nothing of the twelve most favored nations—and that the wheat of our more thickly populated country is shallow compared with that of the United States. Moreover, the American trusts could easily flood our more accessible markets.

"What strikes us as being even more damaging to the Canadian farmer is that the Treaty removes the only possible outlet for the surplus produce enjoyed by the American farmer, who will be enabled to forestall the Canadian farmer in his own market. The Canadian farmer, if he is to be always to the advantage of the consumer, there would be some compensation for Canada, although we think that the treaty is justly depriving the Canadian farmer of his legitimate and reasonable protection. For instance, the American farmer can supply Canadian markets with fresh fruit and vegetables long before the Canadian farmer. True, there is little to admire about the fruit except the price. It is flavoured or heavily treated, and much of it is unwholesome, but its price compels admiration, and it deprives the Canadian farmer of a chance to get in a better article. At present most of the fruits pay twenty-five per cent. duty and the fresh vegetables pay ten per cent. The Treaty would allow the Canadian farmer to be begged to fall into raptures put them all on the free list.

"The Treaty also proposes incidentally to make of Canada a slaughter market to be used by the Beef Trust of the United States and the American pork packers at their convenience. The time perhaps is approaching when the beautiful dream of the late Senator Dolliver, of Iowa, that 'when the American hog is in a bad way, he will travel untrammelled through the markets of the world,' if the American Canada free and to travel untrammelled in brine at 14 cents a pound, the world should be his; for there is no country in the world better qualified to produce the pork for which it has so great a demand.

W. E. D. Stokes, Millionaire Hotel Owner, Carries Two Bullets, but will Probably Recover—Actress Arrested.

New York, N. Y., June 8.—W. E. D. Stokes, millionaire proprietor of the Hotel Astoria and widely known as a horseman, was shot last night by two young women in their apartment. His condition was such this morning that his physicians say he will likely recover. The young woman, Lillian Graham, an actress and Ethel Conrad, an illustrator, formally charged with the shooting, were taken to police headquarters on the charge of collapse. Three Japanese servants in the apartment house on West 50th street where Stokes was shot, are held as witnesses to the shooting. Miss Graham will be held to await the result of Stokes' injuries. Anti-toxin was administered to him today and a further examination will be made to ascertain whether or not the two bullets still remain in the millionaire's ankle and thigh. Mr. Stokes' attorney says that his client went to a desk at one side of the apartment house on receiving a message from Miss Conrad to obtain some letters. Stokes denied that he had ever written any letters and when he reached his apartment his counsel says the door was locked behind him and "Miss Graham immediately drew a revolver and pointing to a pad on the wall, she said, 'Give me $25,000 and sign this agreement.'"

Stokes' lawyer says that he refused and that "thereupon Miss Graham fired two shots at him." Stokes got the revolver away from Miss Graham who then, according to the lawyer, called upon Miss Conrad to fire. Miss Conrad also fired and as the millionaire backed into the hallway the Japanese servants set upon him. Miss Graham in a statement says that Stokes came to her apartment and demanded letters which he admitted were written by him. When told that she had no letters, Miss Graham alleged that Stokes "threw one of a perfect fury and caught me by the throat and began to choke me."

Miss Graham then alleges that, fearing violence at his hands, she shot at him. The actress says that Stokes wrenched the pistol from her and shot at her.

REBELS WIPED OUT JAPANESE TROOPS.

Victoria, B. C., June 8.—The steamer Kamakura Maru yesterday brought news of the annihilation of a Japanese force in Formosa on May 8 by the rebels against whom the Japanese had been campaigning for the last three years. The rebels, three tribes which made peace were incited to fresh rebellion by two tribes which remained obdurate. Forty men of a force sent against the Formosans were ambushed and after three fighting but ten escaped. The dead were mutilated, their heads being carried off by the head hunter.

Siberian newspapers brought by the Kamakura Maru from the Orient state that trouble is likely to develop soon between Russia and China.

The Novaya Jan, published at Harbin, commenting on the state of affairs in Manchuria says the Chinese government is evidently at present organizing two armies, one south of Harbin and another gathered near the Chingun Mountains on the road from Tselistair to Hlagovetshen.

The movements of the Chinese troops are conducted under the pretense of putting down the Hung Huzes. There is great apprehension among the Russian committees on the right bank of the Amur and many Russian firms are closing up. There is also said to be much unrest along the Mongolian frontier.

GOVERNOR GENERAL WANTED MORE SPEED.

Toronto, June 7.—"The governor general is immune," declared Magistrate Rupert E. Kingston today, when asked what he thought of the case of automobile speeding in which Earl Grey asked that the car be speeded up. "Of course, however, the police could get after the chauffeur, but I think the case should be dropped," Magistrate Ellis may have a different think, however, on Tuesday next.

ZAM-BUK SAVED THIS BABY... Mrs. M. Hayes, of Montreal, says: "A horrid rash came out all over my baby's face and spread until it had totally covered his scalp. It was irritating and painful, and caused the little one hours of suffering. We tried soaps and powders and salves, but got no better. He refused his food, got quite thin and worn, and was reduced to a very serious condition. I was advised to try Zam-Buk, and did so. It was wonderful how it seemed to cool and ease the child's burning, painful skin. Zam-Buk from the very commencement seemed to go right to the spot, and the pimples and sores and the irritation grew less and less. Within a few weeks my baby's skin was healed completely. He has now not a trace of rash, or eruption, or eczema, or burning sore. Not only so, but cured of the terrible condition, he has improved in general health."

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Ida Sproul. Harry Morris acted as groomsmen. Miss Beatrice Sproul, a sister of the bride, played the wedding march. Many beautiful presents of silver and cut glass attest the popularity of the contracting parties. The happy couple will reside at 115 St. James street.

The Polymorphian Plans. The Polymorphian Club met last evening in the office of R. J. Armstrong, Charlotte street, to further discuss the plans for the Coronation Day parade. The meeting was large and enthusiastic. The plans have begun to assume more definite character. There will be several features in the parade, which promises to be interesting. At the meeting last evening a general committee was appointed to work out the details of the parade. The supervisory committee will meet on Monday evening next in the office of R. J. Armstrong.

Coronation Day. The meeting held in the Court House last evening to deal with the Coronation Day Celebration, was not a large one, and the session was brief. It was reported at the meeting that a number of sailor suits had been received to be used on the model ship which will appear in the parade. The opinion was expressed that the militia should parade in the morning and also fire a salute at noon. It was also felt that it would be preferable if the general procession could be held in the afternoon and that all the organizations take part, than to have a number of disjointed turnouts.

Train Delayed By Wreck. The Boston Express was two hours late arriving this morning at 1:30 o'clock, having been delayed by a wreck on the Maine Central about three miles east of Winthrop, Me. The passengers for points along the I. C. R. were compelled to wait in the depot until the 7 o'clock train which leaves this morning. The passengers stated early this morning that the wreck was a bad one and it is a wonder that all of the passengers were not killed. Six cars left the rails and toppled over on both sides of the track, ploughing up the roadbed for a considerable distance. Fortunately only one person was injured, and that was one of the train crew, who had his back severely injured.

M. J. Butler, general manager of the Dominion Steel and Coal Company accompanied by his wife arrived in the city last evening and registered at the Royal hotel.

PEACE SUPREME WITH THE FIRE FIGHTERS

Difficulty Between Chief Kerr and Members of the North End Salvage Corps has been Amicably Arranged.

Peace reigns once more in the North End Salvage Corps. The hatchet has been buried and the war clouds which loomed on the horizon are obliterated by the smoke of the pipe of peace. The trouble between the corps and the chief of the fire department which arose at the Spar Cove fire, came to a head in the police court, and culminated in the appeal to the safety board. This has been smoothed over and friendly relations once more established. This happy result was achieved chiefly through the intervention of a gentleman interested in the Salvage Corps who arranged a meeting of the parties to the affair. By the time they got together the warmth of their feelings had abated and they discovered the fact that there is much to be learned from each other after all. Mutual expressions of respect and regret were exchanged and after a handshake all around it was decided to drop the matter. It has been so long since there has been any conflict of authority, that the salvage corps men had overlooked the fact that there is and must be, someone with supreme authority at a fire. They agreed to bear this in mind in the future, and the chief agreed that in future any requests for assistance by the Salvage Corps would be made through the captain of the latter body. The committee appointed to deal with the matter, will find little with which to deal.

LOOKING FOR SITE FOR INCINERATOR

Joint Committee on Disposal of City Garbage Inspected Property on the Mispec Road Yesterday.

The joint committee on the disposal of garbage started on its work of investigation yesterday and paid a visit of inspection to Red Head. The party consisted of Thomas Gorman, chairman of the Board of Health; Aid. McDougal, of the civic committee, and City Engineer Murdoch. Their trip was for the purpose of looking over the plant of the Provincial Chemical Fertilizer Company on the Mispec Road, which was offered as an incinerator. The committee spent a couple of hours on their investigation and came to the conclusion that it would be suitable for the purpose though it might have to be enlarged to handle all the waste material of the city. Aldermen Jones and Smith of the civic committee will probably visit the place within a day or two and next week the committee will look over some of the other propositions.

DAMAGE DONE BY FIRE

Blaze, Last Night, Caused Big Reflection, but Loss will be Within $300 --- Started in Core Oven.

About eleven o'clock last night fire was discovered bursting from the core oven in McLean, Holt & Co's foundry on City Road. An alarm was sent in from box 231 and very soon two good streams were playing on the fire. The flames burst through the roof of the foundry and caused quite a reflection. After about half an hour's hard work the fire was extinguished. The oven had quite a quantity of cores and patterns in it but it is thought that the damage will not exceed $300. Dr. J. L. The Best Quality at a Reasonable Price. A Bad Headache. Is frequently a result of straining the eyes, and the cause is often not suspected because the vision is so good. But the strange thing to the sufferer is that there should be any eyestrain when he sees so well. If Eye Strain were poor vision or defective sight, then he could readily understand the headache because he would know that he did not see so well as he should. Eye Strain is due invariably to the eyes doing more work than they should, and almost always the vision is as good as normal and oftentimes better. In such cases glasses are worn not to make the wearer see better, but that the glasses shall do the extra work which the eyes have been strained to do. If you suffer with headaches come and let us tell you if Eye Strain is the cause.
