PARIS, Sept. 13 .- Gen. Mercier, Minister of War, and many conspicuous visitors from other countries watched the maneuvers of the eleventh and fourth army corps near Orleans today. A heavy battle was fought in torrents of rain in the morning. Gen. Mercier gave a luncheon to the high officers and foreign representatives. He thanked the generals, especially Gallifet, for the successful execution of the maneuvers, and proposed the health of President Casimir-Perier. Toasts were drunk also to the French army and the armies of friendly powers. Baron Fredericks, Russia's rep-

BOMBAY, Sept. 13 .- A serious riot has occurred in Poona, in the Bombay Presidency. A congregation of Mohammedans were praying in a mosque, when a procession of Hindoos, accompanied by native bands of music, passed on their return from their temple. The Mohammedans became incensed at having the devotions disturbed by the music and attacked the Hindoos. The latter were quickly reinforced, and a terrific battle ensued, which resulted in the defeat of the Mohammedans. The Hindoos then sacked the mosque and attempted to burn it; but were finally pacified, and the building was saved. In the melee one man was killed, but a large number were severely

LONDON, Sept. 13 .- The big recordbreaking Cunarder Lucania has again added to her laurels by reducing the time of the eastward passage between New York and Queenstown by over two hours. She was sighted off Brow Head at 1:05 o'clock this morning. Allowing her two hours and a half for the run from Brow Head to Daunt's Rock, the time of her passage will be 5 days, 8 hours and 25 minutes, as against 5 days, 8 hours and 47 minutes, the eastward record held by her sister ship the Campania. It is possible that the Lu cania will make the run from Brow Head to Daunt's Rock in less than two hours and a half. The Lucania sailed from New York Sept. 8, and passed the Sandy Hook light ship at 2:35 p.m. of that day.

LONDON, Sept. 13 .- The Times will pubish tomorrow this dispatch from its Rome correspondent: "The Ministerial papers endeavor to tone down the rapprochement between the Quirinal and the Vatican, The Vatican organs deny any concessions on the part of the Government. Both parties are anxious not to wound the feelings of their extreme followers, and the Vatican probably is anxious to reassure the French Republicans that a thorough reconciliation is impossible while the Pope claims any portion of Italian territory. Nor is it desirable from the Italian point of view, as it would greatly hamper the Government's action on several vital questions. But the peril of both Church and State arising from Anarchism and Socialism impels all elements of order to coalesce. Crispi made the first advance, thus placing before the Clericals the alternative of accepting and thereby leading to the wished for modus vivendi or refusing, and thereby placing themselves in an odious light before all Europe. It appears that the Vatican adopts the former. Despite the denials of the recognized organs the creation of the apostolic prefecture of Eurythrea is a concession to the Government. ### DEATH OF JESSE M. SYMONDS.

Mr. Jesse M. Symonds, of the ADVERTISER business office, died at 6:20 Thursday evening, at his residence 70 Stanley street, South London.

The sad news had been hourly expected. Deceased had been lying on a bed of sickness since August 17, and for the last 23 days had been unconscious. He fell a victim to a virulent attack of typhoid fever, supposed to have been caused by over-exertion at Port Stanley last month while camping. Returning to the city he resumed his duties, and though feeling far from well, did not realize the seriousness of his condition and strove to shake off the approaching fever. He was finally forced to succumb. The skill of five doctors, the care of a trained nurse, and the patient's own remarkable vitality were insufficient to save his life. At times his death seemed a matter of moments, but he would rally unexpectedly and inspire fresh hopes for his ultimate recovery. For many hours pre-vious to his death he was so low that respiration was hardly perceptible and he passed away without a gleam of consciousness. The news of his death, though the public were prepared for it, will be heard with a shock. As a proof of the universal regard in which he was held it may be stated that during his long illness the ADVERTISER office has been daily flooded with inquiries from all classes as to his condition, accompanied by expressions of deepest sympathy and earnest wishes for his recovery. The deceased was endowed with a cheerful temperament which was the outward token of a good heart; and wherever he went the sunshine of his presence warmed acquaintance into cordial friendship. His buoyant disposition, his energy, his rare sociability and unfailing courtesy, made him a conspicuous figure among his fellow-citizens, and a distinct favorite. He will be sorely missed. He had qualities of head as well as heart, and they adapted him to his business calling. The ADVERTISER can gratefully testify to his faithfulness and efficiency. Its commendation will be indersed by its patrons, with all of whom his relations were most pleasant. And by none will his demise be more sincerely regretted Mr. Symonds started with the ADVER-TISER in 1880. For ten years he occupied the position of collector and had charge of the circulation department. During the last four years he has been solicitor of advertising. Deceased was well known all over the west, where his calling brought him into contact with merchants in every line of business. On several occasions he rad taken extensive trips to the Eastern States in the interest of this paper.

No picnio or athletic sports were complete without the genial Jesse. He was intensely fond of baseball, and despite the lack of an arm he could pitch and bat as well, if not better, than many ball players with the full complement of limbs,

In early life he learned his trade at the London Furniture Company. Leaving there he went to work for D. S. Perrin & Co., and on the third day of his connection with the factory he had the misfortune to have ais left arm wrenched off at the shoulder by coming in contact with a pulley. Nothng daunted by this accident, he took a ousiness course at the old business college of Jones & Yerex. Then he entered newspaper work with the vigor and success that characterized him in everything he undertook. He was a man of magnificent physique, in the prime of life, but, as it often happens, the stronger the constitution the more violent the fever and attendant complications.

Mr. Symonds was closely identified with Oddfellowship in life. At the time of his death he held the highest position in the gift of the lodges comprising the district, that of district deputy grand master, and in his official capacity had visited every lodge in the London jurisdiction and many others in the west. As a member of Dominion Lodge, he had occupied all the subordinate chairs, and it was his second term as D. D. G. M. He had always taken an active interest in degree work and was the organizer and captain of Dominion Lodge degree team. He had been representative to the Grand Lodge several times, and was truly called "the life of London Oddfellowship." He was also an officer of Adelphian Encampment, and was a member of the committee on bylaws at the last Grand Encampment meeting held at Chatham this year. There were few men better learned in the ritual of the order or more capable of exemplifying it. He was also a member of Court Victoria, No. 10, Independent Order Foresters, and of the National Union. Deceased was married at Mitchell on Feb. 25, 1891, to Miss Lucy Spence, of this city. He left no children. His father, formerly sexton at the Chapter House, died last spring, and his aged mother survives him. One sisterlis living-Mrs. Portwood, Queen's avenue-while another sister, the widew of Detective Murphy, died about a year ago. One brother, Harry C., formerly of this office, is now a resident of St. Louis, Mo. Another-Robert B .- has resided in San Francisco for a number of years. The bereaved relatives will have the sincere sympathy of the entire community, and more especially the young and devoted wite, whose health has been very poorly of late, and who is now utterly prostrated at the unexpected taking away of her partner in life. The funeral will be in charge of the Oddfellows, and many of the brothers from Mount Brydges, Strathroy and other places in the jurisdiction have already forwarded condolences and signified their intention of being present at the last sad rites. Deceased was an adherent of St. James'

Episcopal Church, South London.

THE CONFERENCE.

The Christian Endeavor Question May Be Raised Again.

Committees at Work-Their Recommen dations-A Suggestion as to Conference Auditors.

Thursday Afternoon.

Dr. Burns reported on the visit of the conference's representatives to the Presbyterian General Assembly at St. John, N. B., last year. The official representaives could not attend, and Dr. Chapman. Dr. Stewart and Dr. Allison represented them. The delegates received kind and cordial treatment at the assembly's hands. of the Christian Endeavor Society as that John N. Lake, treasurer of the union church relief fund, reported that the following trusts had been relieved during the past eight years: Arkona, Strathroy, Kincardine, Palmerston, Listowei, Sombra, Goderich, Wyoming, Chatham, Aylmer, question between Methodism and Christian Walter's Falls, Toronto (Agnes Street), Kingston (University Street), Belleville, time with the Y. P. S. C. E. Mr. Prescott, West Cape (in Prince Ed. Courtice had said "Let us have a ward Island), Emerson and West strictly Canadian society." Mr. Rowell Lynn (in Manitoba), and by order of the asked where Christian Endeavor originated last General Conference, the St. Lawrence and where its stronghold was. Was it not Camp Ground Company. These had been the United States ? Although he did not aided at various times to the amount of $16,145 98, besides the sum of $17,954 27 paid in interest on appropriations to these various trusts and on borrowed money. five trusts besides the St. Lawrence camp ground were unrelieved in full-Kingston (Brick street), $12,000; Toronto (Agnes street), $5,000; Emerson, $2,000; Goderich, $1,300; Belleville, $200; St. Lawrence camp ground (not yet due), $150; total $20,650. An increase of 1 cent a head in contributions was urged to relieve the debt more rapidly. Collections in four years amounted to $17,550 35; paid on interest account $9,141 49; paid on appropriation, $7,875. Expenses of members of committees during the year were $74.10. The report was referred to the committee on embarrassed trusts.

The decapitated report on conference was ordered back to the committee, presumably for interment. Several motions and amendments to make five conferences instead of six by the joining of Niagara and London, and a few minor changes in the outlines of the other conferences, were sent along as pall-bearers.

Mr. Lavell, M.D., Kingston, stated that taken from Toronto without their consent, and that it was resolved by the Bay of Quinte Conference that if the proposal of the commission did not carry they should go back to the Toronto Conference. He moved accordingly. The report of the Sunday school and Enworth League committee then came up. and with it the proposal to name the Methodist Young People's Society of Epworth League the "Epworth League of Christian Endeavor."

Rev. A. C. Courtice led the debate in the affirmative. "The head of the church." said Mr. Courtice, "wants the unity of its followers, that they may be all in one and Endeavor from Boston," said Rev. J. E. one in Him. That means spiritual unity and practical unity as far as it can be interfere with the loyalty of our church. | and stability. He is in attendance on the

They should get beyond greeting and beyond touching the ends of their fingers. They should put their hearts together and feel that they had one experience, and should put their hands together and feel that they had one work, and when they got together with one common experience something would be accomplished which would be better than all the compliments that they could put on a thousand platforms. "Let us develop a distinctly Canadian policy," said Mr. Courtice. In the adoption of the name Epworth League they became affiliated with the young people's society on the other side of the line. In his judgment it was far better to cultivate affiliation with the Christian Endeavor Societies of the Baptists, Presbyterians and Congregationalists of our own country.

Cries of "Hear, hear" and "No, no." "If the fraternity is to exist," said Mr Courtice, "let it exist over there, and if the affiliation is to exist let it exist here." Mr. Newton W. Rowell, Toronto, championed the negative side of the debate, and moved an amendment in effect that the name remain as it is at the present, "Epworth League," the local societies to have the option of adding the words "of Christian Endeavor." The majority of the young people's societies of the Methodist Church had declared in favor of it, as the official title, and he asked that the General Conference should reaffirm the declaration of the former conference when it gave the society the official name of the Epworth League. The conference had been deluged with Christian Endeavor literature in an endeavor to secure the vote of the other side. Several delegates-"That's so." "Hear, hear. Why should this literature have been thrust upon them? He thought the Endeavor Society had made a mistake in the attitude it had assumed to further its

"We have not stolen their objects and aims," said the talented young lawyer, "for the first Epworth League in this world originated in Oxford, England, a century and a half ago." He pictured the attitude of a child refusing to take the parental name and also with the Anglican idea of union. They (Anglicans) wanted union with all other bodies, but they must all become one of them. When it came to the Endeavor it was Christian Endeavor every think any the less of it for that, yet Mr. Courtice's argument failed.

"Epworth League is good enough for me," concluded Mr. Rowell, "Epworth Eight years ago they started with a debt | League comes down to us freighted with in the bank of $12,000 and nearly $2,000 | sacred associations from that home of the of accumulated interest. This note had Epworth League of old who strode this been replaced by borrowing from private world like Colossus and the sound of parties the sum of $13,426 22. Today only whose voice awoke the nations. It stands ever a league offensive and defensive which John Wesley wished to organize. Let us stand by the old paths in this case, because I believe it to be in the interest of the Methodist Church." Applause of several moments' duration tollowed the conclusion of Mr. Rowell's address. It was but a repetition of what had greeted him as he made point after point in eloquent manner during the time he had the floor. Gray-headed ministers shouted "bravo" and words of encouragement as the youngest member of the conference proceeded, and a couple of hundred visitors hung over the gallery, their interest being manifested by very frequent applause. Mr. Rowell's stay in Toronto has not interfered in any way with the powers of debate that distinguished him during his residence in London. Dr. Rose, Montreal, produced a telegram from J. W. Baer, secretary of the United Society of Christian Endeavor, sent in reply to a query of his. He asked if the Uxbridge and Bowmanville districts were united society would push literature or interfere in any way with the Epworth League were the name of Christian Endeavor to be adopted. The reply emphatically declared that the society would not. "We can't afford," said Dr. Rose, as Methodists, to keep out of this church the broader society. We can't afford to throw out this broad resolution and take the narrow guage resolution."

Dr. Mills, Guelph, complimented Mr. Rowell on his excellent, brilliant and powerful speech. "We cannot afford," he concluded, "to have our young people looking to Boston rather than Toronto. "We really don't need the Christian Lanceley, "to promise us that they won't They will do that if they are let alone." (Applause.) "Shall we force them into connection with this Boston institution?" asked John T. Moore, Toronto. Children could not belong to two parents, Mr. Moore went on to say, and the delegates laughed until they learned that Mr. Moore was Irish. "There's a loyalty to Endeavorism that is above the lovalty to Methodism." was Mr. Moore's next statement.

The very idea quickly brought about the estants to declare their oneness of faith and join together. Dr. Briggs scored Dr. Rose. "The very thought," said he, "that we should get leave from across the line as to what literature we should furnish our young people!"

Thursday Evening. Committees in group "Q" met during on behalf of the people who have given the the evening. The most important work accomplished by the committee on superintendency was a recommendation that the name of the head of the conference remain as at present, "the general superintendent," instead of "bishop." The New Con-nexion and Bible Christian element in the committee vigorously opposed any change that would appear to savor of Roman Catholicism. It is not unlikely that the minority portion of the committee will renew the struggle in conference. The committee on embarrassed trusts adopted the report of Rev. J. M. Lake, Hamilton, treasurer of the union church relief fund. The committee passed a rescjution of thanks to Mr. Lake, and recommended his reappointment. The committee on missions rescinded the work of Wednesday night when it adopted a motion of Dr. Sutherland respecting the formation of the general board of missions. Instead it adopted the following: "The general board shall be composed of the general superintendent and the officers of the Missionary Society (ex-officio) and 24 other members-12 ministers and 12 laymen-to be appointed as hereinafter provided for. For the purpose of representation on the general board the connexion shall be divided into four districts as follows: Eastern district-All theterritory comprised in the three Maritime conferences. East central district-The territory west of the Maritime conferences and east of the line northerly to the northern limit of the work. West central district-The territory west of the line of Yonge street and east of the Manitoba conference. Western district-All the territory comprised conferences. From within the districts ened condition. as above defined the General Conference shall elect representatives for a term of four years, in the following members; east central district, eight members; west central district, eight members; the only organized "Union" from the western district, four members. Tobacco Factory in Canada.

Novelty Tailors, 179 DUNDAS STREET.

The committee on missions in the General Conference shall select from within each of the above districts and report to the conference twice the number of names required, and from the list so reported the General Conference shall elect by ballot, without discussion, the requisite number of persons from such district to constitute the general board of missions for the ensuing quadrennium."

Friday Morning. Group "B" committees met this morning at 9 o'clock. The matter of a reduction in the price of Sunday school periodicals was referred by the book and publishing committee to the western section of the book committee. It was also recommended that the book committee be authorized to open a depository or book room in Winnipeg, if expedient, during the next quadrennium. Other recommendations were: That one page of the Guardian be reserved for the use of the ce responding editorat Winnipeg. That a grant of credit of $10,000 be made to the eastern section of the book committee. That the general superintendent's address be printed in supplement form by the Guardian, Toronto, and the Wesleyan, Halifax. That two pages of the Guardian be reserved for Epworth League and young people's work. The committee on itinernacy debated for three hours the composition of the transfer committee and then adjourned without reaching a conclusion.

The committee on superannuation in the matter of the amount raised by the circuits for the superannuation fund amended the report of the commission by providing that instead of its being a claim on the quarterly boards it should be optional with the boards to make it part of their appropriations or to raise it by special subscription. A special committee was appointed to look into the various scales proposed for the assessment of ministers' salaries and circuits. The conference met in regular session at 2 o'clock, and this evening Dr. Hoss, of the Southern Methodist Episcopal Church, will be accorded a public welcome in the church. MAY BE RAISED AGAIN. A leading D. D. today expressed the belief that the question of the Epworth League and Christian Endeavor would again be raised in the conference before its final adjournment. He asserts that he is confident that some arrangement can be made whereby the C. E. movement and all the young people's societies can be fully recognized by the conference and yet kept under the supervision of the denomination. It is noteworthy that Rev. Dr. Potts did not vote on either side on Thursday afternoon.

A NOTABLE ARRIVAL. The ADVERTISER received a call today from Mr. John N. Lake, formerly of Toronto, but now a resident of Hamilton. Mr. Lake resided in this city about 25 years ago, and he expresses his surprise at the growth and beauty he sees on every hand and the evident signs of prosperity General Conference as treasurer of one of s funds. He is a life-long and "old-time Methodist," and tells the ADVERTISER that his grandfather was one of the first local preachers appointed by Losee to preach in the old Midland district, which included Kingston and the country west of that city, 100 years ago. The past four years he has spent principally in New York, and jocularly remarked that he was an "American citizen." "Why," our representative asked, "have you taken the oath of allegiance?" "No." He repudiated the idea. "Well, were you born over there?" "No." He was born near Kingston. "Well, how are you an American citizen?" Lifting himself up proudly, he said, "I am a citizen of that greater America lying north of the United States. I am 200,000 square miles more of an American citizen than the best of them," and, laughingly, "I have told them so over and over again.

CONFERENCE AUDITORS. NO MORE SCIATICA. Valentine Fisher is Cured of His Troubles to Have No Return-He is Doing a Flourishing Fruit

Tree Business, Collingwood, Sept 10 .- About a year ago a telegraphic dispatch from here told how Valentine Fisher, who has suffered for years from Sciatica, and who was so crippled by the disease as to be unable to work and was generally thought at death's door, was cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills. That the story was no fiction was known by all citizens of this place. That the cure is a permanent one is now just as generally known, for since his recovery, Mr. Fisher has been hard at work selling fruit trees for Chase Bros., of Rochester, N. Y., and has traveled the whole of this section for this firm with most gratifying success.

Coltart, writing to the Chatham Banner regarding the French River disaster, says: "When we came to the foot of Fivemile Rapids and found all the provisions nicely laid on the rock at the foot of the whirlpool, our Indians said that the young men had taken everything out of their canoes ready to row up, one to steer and two to paddle; that before they got half way up they became completely ex-hausted, and the bows of the cance being turned by the surging waves, would cause it to rush over half a dozen times before it would reach the whiripool. Farmers' Day Was Decidedly Record-Breaker.

Upwards of 88,600 Visitors Passed the Turnstiles-American Visitors' Day Marked by a Large Attendance-Sems of the Notable Exhibits Described.

TORONTO, Sept. 13 .- The attendance yesterday (Farmers' Day) at the exhibition grounds was a record-breaker. Upwards 80,000 visitors passed the turnstiles. The receipts were over $19,000, which exceeds dollars. Today is American Visitors' Day, and despite the unsettled weather another great crowd is on the ground. The bicycle races have been further postponed until tomorrow, the track being in a wet condition. The officers of the Grand Lodge of Patrons and Patron members-elect were

No one would now think of erecting any costly residence or large business or public that Toronto has taken such a marked adfew years. It is but a short time ago that brick occupied a position quite subordinate pying the entire stage. A steamboat plies to stone in architecture. That is no longer across it, making a capital bit of realism. the case. Pressed brick of the best class is now so perfect and so pleasing in its character that whether employed in harmony or contrast with stone, cut, hammered or unhewn, or whether the brick is made to depend for effect upon its own beauty and finish, the effect is alike satisfy ing to the artistic sense. It is not desired to be claimed that everything which anvbody chooses to call a pressed brick is necessarily good. The contrary is sometimes the case, for, unfortunately, there are on the market certain so-called pressed bricks which have no reason for existence at all except that their makers

Not only do their proprietors possess what is practically a monopoly of the exact kinds of clay needed, but by the use of large capital, the employment of the most skillful, scientific and other help, and the closest kind of industry, they have been able to place themselves literally beyond competition. As a proof of the high esteem in Dollars don't grow spontaneously. They only necessary to state that the company | The gentleman named simply appropriated is at this moment furnishing material for the largest works that are going on in Toronto, Montreal, Halifax, Ottawa and many other places. The palatial residence of Mr. Andrew Allan, of Montreal, now being built of the red bricks from the Don, has been described as "a poem in brick-work." The mansion of Mr. Meredith, local manager of the Bank of Montreal at that place, is another notably successful work. The Merchants' Bank of Halifax, the Mission Hall, corner Jarvis and Queen, Toronto, the impressive building of Mr. S. F. McKinnon, at the corner of Jordan and Melinda streets, and the Union Station, are other people's labor. The chief cardinal other instances of work now progressing that will endure and give pleasure to the eye for generations to come; while for completed works it is only necessary to look to almost any important residence, church, public institution or business block in Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton, London, Ottawa, Halitax, Guelph, Galt, Bowmanville, Oshawa, Belleville, Berlin, Kingston, > ality a prefound and lasting and most beneficial change has been made in the appearance of our cities. The Don works' exhibit at the fair arrests the attention of every passer-by. The enameled work is particularly interesting, showing, as it does, to what lengths ingenuity and artistic taste can go in transforming as unpromising a subject as a brickbat into a real work of art. The buff bricks of this company, also, are articles with which there is no possible comparison elsewhere in Canada. They are not colored artificially, as are certain bricks offered by persons who possess neither the knowledge nor the materials necessary to produce a really good article. The beautiful color they bear is that produced naturally by the burning of certain very carefully selected clays, and so it will endure indefinitely, even increasing in beauty as its tone is mellowed by age. The red bricks, too, are easily and away ahead of all competitors, and being, too, of the natural colors are not subject to fading or washing away. The products of the Don brick works are in fact such as any country might be proud of, and very few people in Toronto have any idea of the present, and much less of the future, importance of an industry, which, although in its infancy, is fairly entitled to a place in the front

SOL SMITH RUSSELL. Sol Smith Russell chens his annual engagement on Monday evening for two nights, when he will appear in his very successful new plays, "Peaceful Valley" and "The Heir-at-Law." Mr. Russell is a wholesome, clean, as well as a very droll and amusing actor. That one may be funny without becoming vuigar, that comedy may stop short of suggestion without loosing zest, and that it is as easy to evoke laughter without at the same time calling a blush to the cheek, are facts all previous records by several thousand in the sphere of humor that Mr. Russell early recognized and has ever respected. He loses no friends he has made and steadily gains new ones.

In Montreal an important case has arisen under the Dominion Franchise Act. The measure excludes from voting those of the Mongolian or Chinese races and the query is whether Mr. Takahashi, a Japanese merchant in that city, who is a naturalized Canadian, is a "person" under the definition of the act. If he is a "person," it appears, he can vote. There is no question that Mr. Takahashi is a good citizen of Montreal. He has been an earnest member of the Volunteer Electoral League, and he has done his best to see that other citizens vote properly. He says:

"A vulgar error teaches us to believe we are all contemporaries if we live in the same epoch. Nothing could be sillier. Some of us are still in our middle ages; some of us belong to the nineteenth century; a few are already children of the twentieth, the twenty-first, or the twenty-second."

There will be found supporting the Liberal party, so long as it is the most progressive political organization in the country, such newspapers as the ADVERTISER, which have been and are pioneers in the advocacy of advanced measures for the public welfare. What we advocate today, it may hap, the leaders of the political party whose general programme comes nearest to our views, may not indorse. They may hold that the achievement is not immediately attainable. Mr. Gladstone, indeed, entertained the view that one big reform was enough to undertake at one time. We do not cavil at that view but we do say that a progressive newspaper should lead rather than follow in the promotion of that which its directors believe to be for the public welfare. The ADVERTISER, while interposing no obstacle in the way of the achievement of the programme set forth by the Liberal Convention at Ottawa. but rather cordially supporting it, chooses its post in the vanguard of public opinion, and looks forward to the time when many additional reforms may be brought about. We may hold twentieth century views, but we do not apologize for them. Faith we have that some day they will be realized.

Ireland seems to be improving, socially and commercially, since John Morley took the helm of affairs. The deposits and cash balances in the Joint Stock Bank of Ireland now amount to £35,500,000, or £800,000 more than they were in the corresponding period of 1893. The balances in the Postoffice and Trustee Savings Banks are £6,500,000, or £600,000 more than in July, 1893. This is double the highest increase In any of the twenty years from 1874 to 1893 inclusive. The railway traffic receipts for the last half year are £1,500,000, being higher than the amount in any previous half year, and showing an increase of £40,-000 as compared with the receipts for the first six months of 1893. There is no reason | highly of the celerity of the shipments and why Ireland should not prosper. What it requires is abolition of absentee landlordism.

At 6 o'clock the weather was none too assuring. A heavy rain during the day seemed inevitable, but with the arrival of the thousand and one exhibitors, workmen, officials and fakirs came a bright warm sun. The clouds rapidly crept out of sight, and at 7 o'clock the ticket sellers were ready to receive 25-cent contributions and the turn-stile guards were prepared to pass them through. The work of preparation has not yet been completed. The noisy carpenter is to be seen and heard in every direction, erecting stands, putting up additions-doing every. thing which can be done with nails, lumber and a pair of stout arms. But before another 24 honrs his labors will be well

The crystal palace presents the appearance of a beehive. Every person is hustling getting exhibits in place. They are still coming in in increased volumes, but by Monday everything will be in apple-pie

The agricultural hall is a scene of beauty in itself. The choicest samples of vegetables and farm produce are shown this year from every section of the Province. The Indians frem Oneida, Delaware, Muncey and Moraviantown occupy almost the entire east side of the hall. Their exhibits are simply surprising, and are well worthy of a trip to the Fair. The fruit shown by the tribes is of an excellent variety, and would convince the most skeptical that the red men are advanced in every branch of farming. Scattered here and there are valued collections of Indian relics. including toms hawks, daggers, hunting knives, flint heads, bows and arrows, medals (on one of which is the head of Chief Joseph Brant), belts made of snake skins and many other interesting things.

The horticultural hall is about filled up already and the effect is most pleasing. | to morrow. The many fine specimens of home flowers and shrubs, together with many foreign plants and trees of very rare varieties are simply fascinating. The hall is a whole show in itself.

In every other hall and department progress is being made. The carriage shed is nearly full and contains the output of the leading factories in Western Ontario, and the dairy shed is rapidly filling up. The Prince Edward Island exhibit has not vet arrived. Tomorrow is school children's day and he special attractions commence in front of the grand stand. The bicycle races promise to be fine.

How a British Gunboat Fooled the Japanese.

Japs Tried a Midnight Surprise on the Chinese, But Were Disclosed by British Cannon,

NEW YORK, Sept. 14 .- The following remarkable message in the original and translated is printed in the Herald this morning. It was sent in the first instance by a Japanese special correspondent servng with the fleet in the Gulf of Pechili to the newspaper in Japan which he represents. It is said that the Mikado's Government prohibited the printing of the news lest it should stir up a strong anti-British feeling in Japan and thus imperil the safety of British subjects residing in Japan. The message reads:

Hai Wei, Gulf of Pechili, Aug. 12, 1894: "At 1 o'clock yesterday morning, Aug. 11, our fleet consisting of twelve men-of war and a flotilla of six torpedo boats took advantage of the darkness and crept into the harbor of Wei Hai Wei unknown to the Chinese. Six torpedo boats were sent out for the purpose of blowing up the Chinese warships anchored within.

"As the torpedo flotilla was returning Chinese torpedo boat discharged a torpedo against it, but failed to do any damage, and for its trouble was instantly rewarded by being sunk by a torpedo discharged by one of the Japanese boats.

"The salutes from the British vessel cannot but be regarded as signals to make the Chinese know of the presence of the Japanese, as it is not customary to fire saintes at dead of night."

The Herald adds in commenting on the above: "Assuming this news to be accurate, the conduct of the commander of the English wership stands badly in need of explanation. It is an unheard of thing to fire a naval salute at night. In the United States navy regulations it is expressly provided that 'no salute shall be fired between sunset and sunrise,' and the same rule is observed in all the navies of the world."

MR. TAKAHASHI IN GOOD COM-

In Montreal an important case has arisen under the Dominion Franchise Act. The measure excludes from voting those of the Mongolian or Chinese races and the query is whether Mr. Takahashi, a Japanese merchant in that city, who is a naturalized Canadian, is a "person" under the definition of the act. If he is a "person," it appears, he can vote. There is no question that Mr. Takahashi is a good citizen of Montreal. He has been an earnest member of the Volunteer Electoral League, and he has done his best to see that other citizens vote properly. He has, moreover, assimilated himself to be able to vote more intelligently than many men who have votes.

If this Montreal merchant finds he cannot vote because of the eccentricity of the Dominion Franchise Act, he will find himself in the company of thousands of estimable citizens of Canada. Splendid Indian Exhibit-Still Preparing in the Main Building.

Without the assistance of premiers, cabinet ministers, electric buttons or luncheons-without the blare of brass, the throb of drum or other pomps or vanities the Western Fair of 1894 was inaugurated this

At 6 o'clock the weather was none too assuring. A heavy rain during the day seemed inevitable, but with the arrival of the thousand and one exhibitors, workmen. officials and fakirs came a bright warm sun. The clouds rapidly crept out of sight, and at 7 o'clock the ticket sellers were ready to receive 25-cent contributions and the turn-stile guards were prepared to pass

The work of preparation has not yet been completed. The noisy carpenter is to be seen and heard in every direction, erecting stands, putting up additions-doing everything which can be done with nails, lumber and a pair of stout arms. But before another 24 honrs his labors will be well

The crystal palace presents the appearance of a beehive. Every person is hustling getting exhibits in place. They are still coming in in increased volumes, but by Monday everything will be in apple-pie

The agricultural hall is a scene of beauty in itself. The choicest samples of vegetables and farm produce are shown this year from every section of the Province. The Indians frem Oneida, Delaware, Muncey and Moraviantown occupy almost the entire east side of the hall. Their exhibits are simply surprising, and are well worthy of a trip to the Fair. The fruit shown by the tribes is of an excellent variety, and would convince the most skeptical that the red men are advanced in every branch of farming. Scattered here and there are valued collections of Indian relics. including tomshawks, daggers, hunting knives, flint heads, bows and arrows, medals (on one of which is the head of Chief Joseph Brant), belts made of snake skins and many other interesting things.

The horticultural hall is about filled up already and the effect is most pleasing. to morrow. The many fine specimens of home flowers and shrubs, together with many foreign plants and trees of very rare varieties are simply fascinating. The hall is a whole

In every other hall and department progress is being made. The carriage shed is nearly full and contains the output of the leading factories in Western Ontario, and the dairy shed is rapidly filling up. The Prince Edward Island exhibit has not vet arrived.

Tomorrow is school children's day and he special attractions commence in front of the grand stand. The bicycle races promise to be fine.

The Canadian Express Company have handled all the fine art exhibits from a carried to Queen's Park an immense highly of the celerity of the shipments and the care exercised by the officials.

How a British Gunboat Fooled the Japanese.

Japs Tried a Midnight Surprise on the Chinese, But Were Disclosed by British Cannon.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14 .- The following remarkable message in the original and translated is printed in the Herald this morning. It was sent in the first instance by a Japanese special correspondent serving with the fleet in the Gulf of Pechili to the newspaper in Japan which he represents. prohibited the printing of the news lest it should stir up a strong anti-British feeling in Japan and thus imperil the safety of message reads:

"With the Japanese fleet before Wei Hai Wei, Gulf of Pechili, Aug. 12, 1894: "At 1 o'clock yesterday morning, Aug. 11, our fleet consisting of twelve men-of war and a flotilla of six torpedo boats took advantage of the darkness and crept into the harbor of Wei Hai Wei unknown to the Chinese. Six torpedo boats were sent out for the purpose of blowing up the Chinese warships anchored within.

"When midway a British man-of-war which was anchored there fired salutes for the Japanese vessels, a very unusual thing to do under such circumstances. Upon this all the electric lights and search lights at the forts were seen to flash in an instant. and soon all the forts were in activity. An exchange of shots for over an hour followed. "Seeing that their plan to take the Chinese by surprise fell through on account of the salutes from the British, and further firing being of no avail, the Japanese re-

"As the torpedo flotilla was returning a Chinese torpedo boat discharged a torpedo against it, but failed to do any damage, and for its trouble was instantly rewarded by being sunk by a torpedo discharged by one of the Japanese boats.

"The salutes from the British vessel cannot but be regarded as signals to make the Chinese know of the presence of the Japanese, as it is not customary to fire saintes at dead of night."

The Herald adds in commenting on the above: "Assuming this news to be accurate, the conduct of the commander of the English wership stands badly in need of explanation. It is an unheard-of thing to fire a naval salute at night. In the United States navy regulations it is expressly provided that 'no salute shall be fired between sunset and sunrise,' and the same rule is observed in all the navies of the

MAX COHEN'S METHOD.

Wanted to Seize the Bride for the Cost

NEW YORK, Sept. 13 .- Max Cohen, a Williamsburgh caterer, sued Harris Falk, of 85 Seigel street, in the Second District Civil Court, before Justice Petterson, yesterday, to recover $50, the cost of a wedding supper which Cohen furnished a month ago, when Falk was married to Besca Kovinski in a hall at 181 McKibbin the wedding feast was served on dishes that had not received a rabbi's indorsement. When judgment for the full amount was rendered in Cohen, Mrs. Falk began to cry. Cohen wanted to know if he couldn't collect the judgment in cash right away. "If they don't pay it," said the justice, 'you'll have to send a constable after it. You may have to seize their piano.'

"Can't the bride be seized and held until the judgment is paid?" innocently asked "No," replied Justice Petterson; "things ere not done that way in this country.'

Suicide of a Defaulter.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 13 .- W. H. Dennison, of Olean, N. Y., state treasurer of the Select Knights, now in convention here, committed suicide tonight. It is believed that he was actuated by a desire to escape exposure as he is known to have embezzled the funds of the order.

Horrible Cruelty.

KEMPTVILLE, Ont., Sept. 13 .- John Murphy, John Brady, Rugh Brady, and Lagorie Brady are in jail here, charged with assaulting John Swords, aged 85. Thay tortured him by holding a burning torch to his feet in an endeavor to make him disclose where his money was hidden. The old man's feet will have to be amputated. The scoundrels secured $130. They were identified by Swords.

PATRONS IN CAUCUS.

The Members. Elect Decide on Their Course in the Legislature. TORONTO, Sept. 13 .- The Patron members-elect of the Legislature met tonight and decided on their course at the next session. Mr. Josh Haycock, M. P. P. for Frontenac, was elected leader of the party. and John Senn, member for Haldimand,

It was decided that the Patrons should vote unitedly in the House on all questions which the majority should decide to be Patron questions.

The Patrons of Industry are discussing a proposal to appoint a di-rector-general of the order with a good salary and headquarters in Teronto. This official would take the place of a party leader, the appointment of which is thought inadvisable, because of the eligible ones' previous connection with either of the political parties. Grand President Mallory, J. Lockie Wilson and others are said to be after the position.

WORK AND WAGES,

Builders Strike in Chicage-Almost Rict.

CHICAGO, Sept. 13 .- The 750 men at work on the new Marquette building at Dearborn and Adams streets, went on strike today, and a riot was narrowly averted, Eighteen non-union Edison Company electrical workers, who were the cause of the strike, were attacked and forced to flee. The Building Trades' Council had notified the contractor to discharge the Edison men, and upon his refusal the strike fol-

INVENTOR EDISON, at a recent scientific scance, had a large globe of goldfish whose anatomy was distinctly outlined and every action of each organ was plainly seen. This the "wizard" accomplished by making the fish swallow minute incandescent lamps, and by invisible wire conducted the electric current. The fish, apparently, were not incommoded by their diet of electricity.

PROF. PEAL, the ethnologist, recentl described to the Asiatic Society the condition of the head-hunting Nagas on the borders of Assam. The women are to blame for the continuance of the practice; they taunt the young men who are not tattooed, and the latter go out and cut off heads to exhibit to them, fully half of which are those of women and children. The area occupied by the tribe is not more than twenty miles square, but in it during the past 40 years more than 12,000 murders have been committed for the sake of these ghastly trophies.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance. Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 75c. bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

"Tweeg, of the Indians, mud devil, ground puppy and young alligator of the Americans' was the name the naturalist gave it. That it had descended from the Allegheny Rivers were the opinions of proper one. A day or so ago the ADVERwas held by the learned to give it a name ant from cloudland and came to the conclua Grand Trunk driver, by a friend from Florida. The family recently moved into a new house on Colborne street and it was not generally known that a young suarian accompanied them. Several times it has wandered away but always instinctively headed south. He resolved on a little strategy on the afternoon of his death, and with a view to escape recapture made a detour to the north and then headed for the M. C. R .to ship as freight, it is said, but this could not be verified. Then he fell in with Master Connor and a spade. Now he is in the future abode of alligators. He was "fierce and ferocious," the learned say, but there is one little girl in London who mourns a docile, if a truant, pet.

Not for a moment did Oliver Rane think Mr. Alexander could long hold out against him, as he had secured, through his mother, the favor of Dallory Hall. Alas, a very short time showed him that this was a mis-take; Dallory Hall turned round upon him, and was doing what it could to forward his rival. Mrs. Cumberland went to Mr. North, seeking an explanation. He could only avow the truth—his wife, who was both master and mistress, had set her face against Oliver, and was recommending Alexander. "John, you promised me," urged Mrs. Cumberland. "I know I did, and I'd keep to it if I could," was Mr. North's mournful answer; "but no one can hold out against her." "Why should she have taken Mrs. Gass co this dislike to Oliver?" rejoined Mrs. Cumberland. "Heaven knows; a caprice, I suppose. She sets herself against people without reason; she has never taken to either Richard or Bessy; and only a little to Edmund. If I can do anything for Oliver under the rose, I'll do it. I have every desire to help him, Fanny, in remembrance of our friendship of the old days." Mrs. Cumberland carried home news of non-success to O iver. As to madam, she simply ignored h.m, bestowing her patronage upon his rival. How bitterly the slight touched his heart, none but himself could tell. Mrs. Cumberland resented it; but ah, not as he did. A sense of wrong was ever weighing upon his spirit, and he thought fate was against him. One puzzle remained on his mind unsolved—what he could have done to offend Mrs. North.

Mr. Alexander obtained a fair practice.

Dr. Rane barely sufficient to keep himself. His wants and those of the old servant Paillis were few. Perhaps the entire fault did not lie within madam. Alexauder had a more open manner and address than Dr. Rane, and they go along way with people; he was also an older man, and a married man, and was supposed to have had more experience. A sense of injury rankled ever in Oliver Rane's heart; of injury inflicted by Alexander. Meanwhile he became engaged to Bessy Rane. During an absence from home of madam's, the doctor grew intimate at the Hall, and an attachment sprang up between him and Bessy. When madam re-turned, his visits had to cease, but he saw Bessy at Mrs. Gass's and elsewhere.

I think this is all the retrospect that need be gone into. It brings us down to the present time, the period of the anonymous letter and Edmund North's death. Exactly two years ago this same month, May, the rival doctors had appeared in Dallory Ham; and now one of them was about to leave it. One incident must be told, bearing on something that has been related, and then the chapter shall close.

The summer of the past year had been a very hot one. A laboring man, working on Mr. North's grounds, suddenly fell; and died on the spot. Mr. Alexander, summoned hastily, thought it must have been sun "That is what my father died of," remarked Captain Bohun, who stood with the rest. Mr. North turned to him; "Do you say your father died of sun stroke, glad to be able to contribute this testi-Artbur?" "Yes, sir, that is what he died of. monial and trust it may be the means of Did you know it?" was the ready reply. "You are sure of that?" continued Mr. North. "Quite sure of that," repeated Arthur, turning his dreamy blue eyes full upon his stepfather, in all their proud truth-

Mr North knew he spoke in the sincerity of belief. Arthur Bohun possessed in an race. That innate, self conscious sense of superiority that is a sort of safeguard to those who possess it; the noblesse oblige feeling that keeps them from wrong doing. It is true; Arthur Bohun held an exalted view of his birth and family; in so far as that his pride in it equalled that of any man living or dead. He was truthful, gene rous honorable; the very opposite in all respects, to hi smother. Her pride was an assumed pride: a despicable, false, contemptible pride, offensive to these with whom she came into contact. Arthur's was one that you admired in spite of yourself. Of a tarnish to his honor, he could almost have died; to bring disgrace on his own home or on his family, would have caused him to bury his head forever. Sensitively regardful of other people's feelings, courteous in manner to all, he yet unmistakably held his own in the world. His father had been just the same; and in his day called "Proud

To have asserted that Major Bohun died of sun stroke, had any doubt of the fact on his mind, would have been simply impossible to Arthur Bohun. Therefore, Mr. North saw that, whatever the mystery might be, regarding the real cause of Major Pohun's death, Arthur was not cognizant of

CHAPTER VI.

In Mrs. Gass's comfortable dining room, securely ensconced behind the closed blinds, drawn today, sat that lady and a visitor. It was the day of the funeral of Edmund North, and Mrs. Gass had put on mourning out of respect to the family; a black silk gown and white net cap. It need not be said that the change improved her appearance greatly; she looked, as she herself would have phrased it, genteel today. This was her favorite sitting room; she rarely used any other; for one thing it gave her the op-portunity of seeing the movements of her neighbors. The drawing room faced the garden at the back; a large and beautiful apartment, opening to the smooth green

The visitor was Mrs. Cumberland. For once in her life Mrs. Cumberland emerged from her shell of indifference and condescended to show a little of the curiosity of ordinary people. She had come to Mrs. Gass's to see the funeral pass; and that lady made much of her, for their meetings were rare. Mrs. Cumberland was also in black silk; but she rarely wore anything else. The two women sat together, talking in subdued tones of bygone times; not that they had not known each other then; but each had interest in the past. Mrs. Gass was full of respect, never presuming on her elevation; though they were sisters-in-law, she did not forget that she had once been only a servant in Mrs. Cumberland's family. They had little in common, though, and the topics of conversation exhausted themselves. Mrs. Cumberland was of a silent nature, not at all given to gossip in general. She began to think the waiting long. For the convenience of two mourners, who were coming from a distance, the funeral had been put off till four o'clock.

"Holidays don't improve the working class—unless they've the sense to use 'em as they ought," observed Mrs. Gass. "Just look at them three, ma'am. They've been at the tap—and more shame to 'em! They'd better let Mr. Richard catch 'em. Putting themselves into that state, when he is following his brother to the grave.

taken more than was becoming, and were lounging against the opposite shutters, quarreling together. Mrs. Gass could bear it no longer; in defiance of appearances she drew up the blind and dashed open the window.

"Are you three men not ashamed of yourselves? I thought it was you, Dawson! When there's any ill doing going on, you're safe to be in it. As to you, Thomas, you'll not like to show your face tomorrow. Don't come to me again, Smith, to beg grace for you of Mr. Richard North." The men slunk away and disappeared down an entry. Mrs. Gass, in one sense of the word, was their mistress; at any rate. their master's partner. She closed the window and drew down the blind.

"Are the men paid for today, or do they loose it?" asked Mrs. Cumberland. "They're paid, ma'am, of course. It would be very unjust to dock them when the holiday's none of their making. Neither Mr. Richard nor me would like to be unjust.

"And he-Richard-seems to act entirely Mrs. Gass coughed. "Mr. North is took up with his garden, and that; he don't care to bother his head about business. It's better in younger hands.

At Death's Door .- Dyspepsia Conquered .- A Great Medical Triumph. Gentlemen, -My medical adviser and others told me I could not possibly live, when I commenced the use of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY for Dyspepsia. My case was one of the worst of its kind. For three years I could not eat meat and my weight decreased from 219 to 119 pounds. All the food I took for thirteen months previous to taking the VEGETABLE DISCOVERY consisted of milk. am now entirely cured and have regained my usual weight, can eat anything with a keen relish and feel like a new man. I have sold over 30 dozen VEGETABLE DISCOVERY since it cured me, as I am well-known, and people in this section know how low I was, and thought I could not possibly be cured. They are eager to try this grand medicine. It certainly saved my life, as I never expected to recover when I first commenced using it. I am not exaggerating anything, but feel monial and trust it may be the means of convincing others of its merit as a certain JEAN VALCOURT, cure for Dyspepsia. General Merchant. (Signed.) WOODSTOCK'S LATE MILLIONAIRE.

How He Made His Fortune-Started in Flour.

WOODSTOCK, Sept. 26. - William Charles McLeod, the well-known millionaire, who had been a resident of Woodstock for over 50 years, and who died rather suddenly after only a few days' illness Tuesday afternoon, was born in Sutherlandshire, Scotland, and came to Canada at an early age, first settling in Hamilton, and, in 1836, coming to Oxford's capital. The late Mr. McLeod, who amassed a fortune of over $1,000,000 in bank stocks, bonds, mortgages, etc., was in his 85th year. During the rebellion of 1836-37 there was a great scarcity of flour, and deceased, who then possessed some means, brought large quantities here from Hamilton, selling it as high as $12 and $16 per barrel. Afterwards he was engaged in the hardware business, but his chief occupation for overhalf a century was loaning money, until deceased accumulated the largest bank account of probably any man in Western Ontario. Deceased was married three times, his third wife (nee Miss Jennie McKenzie) and several children being left to mourn his loss. Mr. McLeod at the time of his death held stock in the Banks of Toronto and Montreal and the Hudson's Bay Company to a large extent, and upon the estate which he left it is estimated the Government will receive $70,000 succession duties. Deceased left no will. One of his daughters is Mrs. Will Hyslop, wife of the Canadian ex-champion

BRUCE.

James Nichol, a stableman at McGarry's notel, Lucknow, fell from the hay loft to the floor below and had three ribs broken. A skillful and successful operation was performed recently by Dr. Gillies, of Tees. water, and Dr. Clapp, of Formosa, on the lad Erstweiner, who was so badly injured near the latter place a few weeks ago while pulling peas with a horse rake. It was the splicing of a broken intestine. A potato was taken, a hole bored in it and then it was pared down as close as the pressure of drawing each end of the intestine over the potato would permit until the ends lapped. Then the potato was broken into little pieces. The boy is doing well. A Lucknow dispatch says that John Mc Leod (California Jack) died Tuesday at lot 2, con. 5, the house of his parents. He was a young man of fine physique, measuring six feet two. The disease that carried him off was of a strange nature, and puzzled the medical men-bleeding of the gums and inwardly. The veins of his body would swell up, and all atonce the swelling would disoppear. There is only one other case of the kind reported in Canada. The family heard of a Christian science woman from Galt who effected, or pretended to effect, cures where others failed. She came up here and the young man got better for a week or so, so much better that he was able to leave his bed and drive the lady into Lucknow last Wednesday to catch the train, a distance of six miles. He returned home and got worse. He only lived four days after her departure.
