Autumn Fashion Display Continues Friday and Saturday

To secure a glimpse of the future fashions is every woman's desire. Mrs. Westermann, America's foremost fashion artist, gives us a peep behind the curtains of the authorities of fashion, telling something of the early modes.

No seeress ever had a more difficult task in conjuring a vision than fashion writers have in predicting just what is to be "the thing" this fall. The smart shops and exclusive designers, however, are willing to venture some modest opinions as indicated in the ad-SUITS are most interesting, for it is quite settled that they are to be becomingly pretty. They are rather given to contradictions, however, except in their simplicity. Some have jackets with wide lapels, others narrow and the cape effect collar is shown on the more elaborate suits. SKIRTS are seemingly predicted to remain forever full, some are quite determined to wear circular flounces. Some of the high-toned shops are emphasizing cape jacket effects at present. The jackets are almost universally nipped in at the waist, with full hips and flaring, the length in some instances being about the knees. Skirt lengths, notwithstanding the maledictions of cartoonists and paragraphers, remain short, possibly to encourage the boot makers. And the boots, by the way, are prone to follow the color of the suit or to be gray. MATERIALS are indefinite, but plain colors, navy especially leading, with plaids gradually superceding checks. Strik-

These are exceptionally pretty in checks, as shown on Fifth avenue. Taffeta sleeves are the smart thing at present, though sheer fabrics are more popular. Both reception and evening dresses will still retain their side drape effects, with much fullness at the hips. Now I have written entirely too much, but there is such a lot to say and so little space to say it.

Proof of What Standard Drug Stores Tell You Regarding High-Priced Combines

READ what the Toronto Globe, one of Canada's leading dailies, in a thoughtful editorial of August 18th, has to say of the Tyranny of the Trusts, Combines and Monopolies. This is just what we have been fighting since we came to London. We have defied these Trusts and Combines and Associations all along, and still challenge them in their unfair menace to the liberties of the buyers or sellers.

Owing to our limited space we cannot publish the whole editorial, but this is the pith of what it has to say. The editorial is headed:

AVERT DANGER OF CHEAPNESS

Price-cutting, it is announced, will be entirely prevented by an agreement and understanding arrived at between representatives of the manufacturing and wholesale interests, in conference with the organized retail merchants. The manufacturers can easily quire wholesale dealers to establish the wholesale corporations can watch one another with scrupulous care, any that might yield to the temptation to enlarge business by lowering charges would be promptly reported. The resources of the organized manufacturers in such cases are varied, from the imposing of fines in price lists and their reductions of discounts to the absolute refusal of goods on any terms. The long arm of the law is nothing to the long arm of the combines. Wholesale corporations can take effective measures toward any retaller guilty or suspected of price-cut-ting. His punishment would be certain authority.-The Globe, Aug. 18, 1916.

Your Child's Eves---Do They Need Help?

Though we sympathize with the child who is compelled to resort to glasses, yet, if the eyes need them, it is wrong to deprive them of this comfort. If your child evinces a desire to avoid study, complains of headaches or drowsiness, it may be due to imperfect refraction of the eyes. At all events, don't be in doubt about this, but have us make a careful examination.
