lorip Scandal Discussed In the Heuse and Missing Documents Cause Demand for Judicial Investigation Which Bir Wilfrid Refuses to Grant on An Insinuation-Hon. Mr. Fielding's Bank Bill.

Ottaws, June 20.—In the House yes-terday, Hon. Mr. Fielding introduced a bill to amend the Banking Act. He explained that as the law now stands a bank must not have less than five di-rectors and not more than ten. Bankrectors and not more than ten. Banking corporations with numerous branches spread over the continent and with shareholders in various parts of Canada find it inconvenient that the number of directors should be limited to ten. The Bank of Montreal has expressed a desire to enlarge the board and also te appoint an honorary president. The Government is of opinion that the matter were better dealt with by a general law. The bill therefore proposes that the board of directors of a bank shall consist of not less than five, but there is to be no limitation above that number. As Mr. Fielding expressed it, "A bank may have as many directors as time and experience may show to be necessary. The bill was read a first time.

Alien Labor Difficulties.

Alien Labor Difficulties. F. D. Monk (Conservative, Jacques-Cartier) called attention to the affairs of the Great Northwestern Telegraph Co. He went into the history of the company and explained the combination of minor companies by which the G.N. W. has attained its present position. Then he proceeded to make his tion of minor companies by which the G. N. W. has attained its present position. Them he proceeded to make his point, which was to the effect that the G. N. W. has been engaging the services of a number of American citizens to take positions of importance in Canada. Mr. Monk mentioned several employes who are in this position in Ottawa, Montreal and Torouto. While making no reflection on the ability or good clitizenship of the gentlemes concerned, he suggested it might be well for the Government to look into the matter and apply remedy if it were found that Canadians are being treated unfairly. He thought that as long as there is an Alien Labor Law in force it was the duty of the Government to protect the men of our own ecounty.

"We had an Alien Labor Law in force it was the duty of the Government to protect the men of our own ecounty.

An inquiry Under Oath.

Mr. Foster protested that no departmental enquiry would be satisfactory. What was wanted was a commission, or special committee with power to examine under oath.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said that the Government would not investigate an insinuation. When charges were misde the Government would grant as fivestigation. A charge of fraud had been made against McDonald, and this charge was to be suquired into by the County Court Judge Myer of Winnipes. Enterprising Firm of Blight & Fielder Awarded Work on New Pavements.

City Council Last Night — Ex-Ald. Lambert Calls Attention to Serious Matters.

It is a tribute to the enterprise and ability of the local firm of Blight & Fielder that, in spite of a strong outside competition, they last evening, on their merits, awarded the civic contracts for paving. The people have confidence in the careful and efficient work of this energetic firm and it was felt that not only was the tender the lowest, but, moreover, their work would be of the best. Blight & Fielder are establishing a splendid record for excellent public work throughout the municipal offices. The leasing of its to the bank would, he claimed, be entering into competition with the citizens and be a permanent affair, altogether different from the temporary leasing of Harrison Hall. To derect a bank front would definitely annul the project of future separate municipal offices.

The matter will be considered by the Council.

Ex-Aid. Warren Lambert addressed the Council last night on behaff of a majority of the owners of property situated on Wellington street, between William and Dake street. A majority of the names of the residents of the street, 51 out of 60, was obtained on the petition for a pavement. An opposition paving company interfered and had names taken off. Unfair means were used, Mr. Lambert believed. He asked that the Council hold another investigation. He thought that things could be proven.

Innor Coven inveted the residents of the street to meet the Council on Monday night, when the Council will look into the matter.

The refreshing glasses of fee water furnished by A. W. Merritit to the members of the Council and the reporters last evening were much appreciated. The electric fans made the hot Council chamber a little cooler, but the noise of the buzzing fans annoyed the aldermen.

Ald. O'Keefe presented a number of petitions requesting respectively that James Dunn, Thomas Fielder and A. T. Arnold be appointed inspector of the Head St. pavement. These petitions were referred to the Board of Works with power.

Ald. Westman presented a petition for a granolithic sidewalk on the east side of Lacrofx street. Referred to Engineer.

Lidiapudzy, Manchuria, June 20,—The Japanese are advancing from the centre and westward and are driving in the Russian screens south of Palltun. Farther west they turned the Russian extreme right at Liaoyangwopeng, saturday night (Liaoyangwopeng), fanking the Russians out of position after a night-long fight.

The Japanese force consisted of an infantry division, four hatteries of ertillery and 30 squadrons of cavalry. Gen. Mistchenko's cavalry subsequently retrieved some of the lost ground. During Mistchenko's operations, Prince Frederick Leopold of Prussia (representing Emperor William with the Russian army) received his haptism of fire. According to information received at headquarters, the Japanese are moving northwest from Corea in three columns, which include 50,000 infantry and field and mountain artillery. WISE MEN IN POLITICS.

The Toronto Star says teresting to keep an eye on than the wise one who wants it to be understood that he is on the inside of polities, and who keeps up the pretence that he is familiar with strange and wonderful mysteries which he might disclose if to do so were not an enormity of which he would be incapable. He would have you know that the game of politics is deeply mysterious; that there are strange combinations, secret treaties, far-reaching understandings, delicate bits of mechanism that dare not be touched. except by delicate hands like his own. Asked how the battle is going in a bye-election, he will shake his head and confess himself disturbed by private information, or he will confide in you that it is all right and that he has his reasons for saying so. The man is deceiving himself and you. He is "pretending" like a child "playing house." He has not barometers all over the country. He knows no more how a bye-election will go than you do. The private information he has got is the personal opinion of somebody who will probably bet on the result and lose The politician or the working newspaper man who, when asked how an election will go, simply confesses that he does not know, is looked upon as a poor creature alongside one of these mystery men, who foretells' results and hints at hidden stores of knowledge with which he could overpower his acquaintances if what he learns in the inner temple of politics were fit subject for discussion with ordinary mortals. | Some men, oth; erwise very sensible, indulge in this play-acting, this pretence that polities is a mysterious game into which only a few marvelous persons have insight. There is mighty little behind all this wise head-wagging.

A bye-election goes according to the way the people vote, and three men meeting on the corner, with their dinner pails in their hands, can, by consulting the opinion and voting intentions of each other, arrive at a surer indication of the way the woting will result, than by consulting the most pompous pretender to a knowledge of the inner workings of politics that can be found in Toronto or anywhere else in the Pro-

Politics is not so deep and mysterious as some make out. Two parties contest for power, and the voters are influenced by one thing and another. Perhaps even the pretence of some men imposes on a percentage of the people and yields results. But the game is not complex, nor is it the most important of human interests Morality, public and private, is more important to the individual and to the State. There are fifty interests more important to a man than party politics. It ranks near the foot of the list of those things that really engross a man's thoughts and purposes. And yet those who "perform" in the game appear to assume that it comes first and is the chief thing in the lives of the people. It is a misconception that has ruined many newspapers, and makes many decen fellows great bores wherever they are met with.

HOW TO GET CONSUMPTION.

Ninety per cent. of the "lungers Ninety per cent. of the "lungers" contract consumption by allowing power of resistance to fall so low that a favorable condition for, the development of the baccilli is provided. In a healthy system consumption can't take root. But where there is weakness and debility, there you find tuberculosis. For developing strength and building up the weak, nothing equals Ferrozone. It makes the blood nutritious and the nerves enduring. The way it converts food into nutriment, the appetite M gives is surprising. Just what the man verging on consumption needs,—that's Ferrozone. DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the Inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; sine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is aothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

During the recent fog a military man, advanced in years, lost his way completely in the nocturnal vapor. Rumping against a stranger, he explained his misfortune and gave his address. "I know it quite well," said the stranger, "and I will take you there."

It was some distance, but the guide never hesitated for a moment on the whole route.

"This is your door," he said at last, as a house loomed dimly before them. "Bless my soul," said the old gentleman, "so it is. But how on earth have you been able to make your way through such a fog?"

"I know every stick and stone in this part of London," said the stranger, quietly, "for I am blind."—London Chronicle.

'DR. LUKE OF LABRADOR'

DR. W. T. GRENFELL AS HE AP-PEARS AT CLOSE RANGE.

Many-Sided Man of Immense Virility He Tells the Plain, Picturesque Story of His Fisherfolk Up in the Land of the Icebergs and the Fogs -A Fine Specimen of Pure Man-

Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell, Engelee

Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell, Engelee, Labrador — or if one should choose. "Dr. Luke of Labrador," came out of his room with a quick, percussion tread; a stocky, dark-suited man, slight moustache—but before anything else could be noted, he had the reporter's hand in a bear's grip and had shot himself down in a chair.

By this time the presiding genius of Labrador could be noted more accurately—a broad, fresh face, eyes—co.or not discernible, but so keen they were probably as blue as the sea they photograph habitually. A strong, chose-knit man, not an ounce of him out of commission; muscles like iron and nerves like electric wire; cunning to steen his schooner Strathcona among the feepacks, daring with his keel on the rocks; preacher, doctor, ship's captain and pilot, saw-mill operator, educator, judge and jury, and community-builder. He is the stout-hearted father of a weird people that go down to the sea in ships and cast out their nets amid the fogs and the storms. What wonder that Dr. Grenfell is a perfect gentleman—when, with such a life, he amid the fogs and the storms. What wonder that Dr. Grenfell is a perfect sentleman—when, with such a life, he is so many-sided a man?

"What did you wish to know?" he said, in a light musical voice with a clear English accent. His keen eyes looked hard at the visitor.
"As much about the man Dr. Grenfell as possible, as much as possible.

"As much about the man Dr. Gren-fell as possible; as much as possible about the strange life and work that make such a man—for you must ad-nit, Doctor, that men of your stamp are not common. Confess, first of all, that you are the original of Dr. Luke." He smiled as he clasped his left knee. "Well. I know Duncan extremely well." He smiled as he clasped his left knee. "Well, I know Duncan extremely well. He spent three weeks with me in Labrador. I have tried to make him say that Dr. Luke is not me—but as most of the stories are about my work. I'm afraid I must plead guilty. That book helped our mission wonderfully. I have great faith in Duncan. He has a strong, serious aim in literature met weeks. erious aim in literature—not merely

"We have a saw smill at Engelee?" he said, quietty. "We don't saw rocks."

"Spruce trees and codish and rocks—twelve years among those. Then you have no aristocracy as yet, Doctor?"

"Indeed, yes. The Eskimos are the oldest families in the land. Poor beggars, with all their blue blood, they're got to come down to common codishing no like plain white men, for the seals are scarce and the walrus are almost extinct. Cod is the coin of the realm. But as to life in Labrador, why, bless me, it's a hundred times ahead of Iceland. Twe been all round Iceland, and all over it—not a stick of timber and nothing to burn but sod-peat; the most desolate country on God's earth, except, perhaps, North Norway. Yet those Norsemen are good people."

And it began to be evident that here was a man who, if a deep, conscientious call had not taken him to Labrador for life, might have known as much about the Sandwich Islands as fobert Louis Stevenson, or as much about Siberia as George Kennan. The Doctor is a pe-fessional sallor, having Honer Louis Stevenson, or as much about Siberia as George Kennan. The Doctor is a perfessional sailor, having taken out his master's papers before he left England in 1892. But the big fractical aim of the man is rooted in first far-off beak work of his; those three storm-besten fisher villages in a constitute of the control of the con coast-line circuit of 300 miles, with their population of 30,000, from May till November, and 4,000 from Christ-cas and New Year's. He lives in the fourth village, Engelee.

The Intrepid Navigator. "We have a grant of 125 square mins at Engstee from the Newfoun land Government," he said. "The savmill built out houses, our store, our wharf and our two freight ships. Our main vessel is the Co-operator. Her mill built our houses, our store, our main vessel is the Co-operator. Her p an was sketched on a plank by a man that could neither read nor write. We want a bigger one now—say, 125 tone."

"What is your freight route?"

"From Engeles to St. John's, Nfid., with lumber, 65,000 feet at a load, for which we get 313 a thousand; back again with salt and goods for the stores; down again with codish. We built the Co-operator ourselves. She has a crew of twelve."

"But your own time is taken up with the hospital steamer, is it not?"

"Yes, the Strathcona runs six months every year. I am her capiain. We carry patients from the fisheries to the hospital, and distribute literature. Our people are learning its read. We have now a circulating library. It began with colored newspapers, which I threw off in bundles at the fishing stations a few years ago. The interest tuken in these was so remarkable that I wrote to Mr. Camegie, asking for a gift. I got it. We shall spend it in books."

"Did you also gua.antee ten per cent a year for maintenance?"

"Ah! jolly well not!" was the laughing reply. "You'll never catch me guaranteeing anything when almost any day the Strathcona might go to smithereens on a rock."

The Strenuous Life in Labrador.

"Have you much sickness among your people."

"Considerable. Our three hospitals ree kept pretty busy. I'm taking up two Boston surgeons with me this summer. Blood-poisoning is our chief trouble. There are always accidents, of course, and a large number of our people have consumption, caused by conlagion from shack ife."

"No appendicitis, I suppose?"

"No, nor any nervous prostration," he said, with a smile. "Our people are not inseginative. It's a good thing they're not. They don't plue for inland civilization. Do I? Well, I don't give myself time. There's too much practical work. Every day I regret that I swer had a good technical education. District water and a good technical education. Backed up by over a third of a century of remarkable and uniform cures, a record such as no other remedy for the diseases and weaknesses peculiar to women ever attained, the proprietors of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in legal money of the United States, for any case of Leucorrhea, Female Weakness, Pholapsus, or Falling of Womb which they cannot cure. "Still we are always convented. Our greatest need is money to carry on the work. Our people we are teaching as far as possible to help themselves. They are hard-working folk who will not beg. The men have fine physiques. They are simple-mannered people, Seldom do they quarrel. When they do or there is any dispute I am usually the judge and the jury. If the man who is in the wrong doesn't admit it or make reparation, I tell him I'll put the law to him down at St. John's, and if that doesn't bring him to reason I'll probably give him a taste of Labrador jiu-jitsu."

There was nothing indelicate about this wholesome, practical philosophy and hot the shadow of a brag, says the Toronto News. The big-shouldered sailor-doctor get up to receive another caller. Almost as abruptly as a pile-driver he took leave of the reporter with another tremendous handgrip—the strangs clad figure whose bighearted, level-headed virility is too modest even to be picturesque.

Every once in a while little Britain in her plentitude of civilization throws out a man with the aboriginal instinct; a. Stevenson, a Rhodes. "Dr. Luke of Labrador." Is another of these distinguished extles. He made money—money for the far-out fisher folk of Labrador, the toilers of the sea.

Solal to Settlers Great Activity in the nagami District.-Mile of Track Laid Daily Just Now-College Boys in Camp Learning Frontier Life.

Mr. T. G. Sauthworth of the Colonization Department, who has just returned to Toronto from the Temagami district, brings reports of great activity of all kinds going on there. The railway contractors are working double tides, and a mile a day is the ordinary track-laying record. One or two soft spots have delayed progress, and a trestle or two kept back work for a fews, but there was no serious trouble. The contractors are at work on the grade north of Liskeard, and the line will be ready to Liskeard by the fail.

The work everywhere is being expedited by the telephone line, which is being built, and owned by the Government, and which follows the railway. All train orders are sent over the telephone, no telegraph system being employed. Telephones are also placed in the gravel pits, and elsewhere where required.

The telephone runs from North Bay to Temagami, and as far be-

The telephone runs from North Bay to Temsgami, and as lar beyond as the railway has been carried, and there is also a line from Liskeard te Hallaybury. The innovation is one of the most practical and valuable that could be thought of in connection with the construction of the railway, and its utility to the settlers is the new district gives rise to much comment. The telephone will be carried north along with the railway, and my prove to be the nucleus for a Government-owned system in the north country.

At Temagami there are two interesting camps, one in charge of Prof. Cochrane, physical instructor of Upper Canada College. There are about 35 boys here, aged from 10 to 16, whe are taught to swim, spar, chop wood, fish and adapt themselves to frontier life. A similar camp for boys from the United States is conducted by Dr. S. Gregg Clarke of Ashville, N.C. The boys are from various schools and colleges, and pay a fixed sum for their outing.

The first issue of The Temiskaming The first issue of The Temiskaming Herald, a four-page paper, has just made its appearance. wards the erection of a hospital at New Liskeard.
Another visitor in the north country was Fruit Farmer McIntyre of Niagara, who has just returned from two months prospecting, having gone as far north as the Abitibbi River. He had some friends with him, and made a first hand study of the country to obtain an opinion of its agricultural capabilities.

He speaks highly of the Black River, which he examined carefully, and commends as a home for permanent agricultural settlement. The land is of good quality equal to that of Temiskaming, while the timber is better, the apruce being of larger dimensions.

The party carped for some days at Isoquois Falis, a magnificent water power on the Abitibbi. The further extension of the railway will most probably follow the Black River course as the way to James Bay.

Climatic Faradox.

It is not generally known that at certain seasons of the year it is warmer in Greenland than in southern Europe. And this occurs during the long sunless winter of the Polar regions. The cause which leads to it is not unknown in other countries. Thus in Switzerland a warm dry wind, called the foshin wind, at times blows down from the snow covered mountains in autumn and winter and suddenly melts and carries off the snow, drying up the atmosphere.

In northwestern Canada there is a similar wind called the chinook wind. So in Greenland at irregular intervals a warm wind blows down from the snow covered interior, bringing an extensive thaw in January and February. As a result we have the extraordinary fact that during eight consecutive days in November and December in one year it was warmer in Jacokshaven, in latitude 69 degrees 20 minutes, than in northern Italy. Upernaviz, another town of Greenland, was, during part of the time, warmer than the south of France.

The Christian Watchman relates the following striking anecdote of Washington in illustration of the practical good sense which he manifested in everything. The incident speaks volumes upon the character of the Father of upon the character of the Father of His Country: "His personal friend, Governor Morris, was about going to Europe, and Washington, along with several letters of introduction, gave him his charge, to buy him at Paris a flat gold watch, not the watch of a fool or of a man who desires to make a or of a man who desires to make a show, but of which the interior con words suggest about men as well as watches, 'the interior well cared for and the exterior air very simple.' Boys, remember Washington's watch and be just like it yourselves!"

Afflicted with Erysipelas For Ten Years.

Cured by Four Bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters

Mrs. N. Peister, of Brighton, Ont., was Gured Two Years Ago and Has Had No Return Of It-Since.

Read what she says :-- "It is now about two years since I was cured of a terrible attack of Erysipelas, with which I had been afflicted for about ten years. I had tried almost everything, including medi-cine from several doctors, but could get no relief. I had given my case up as hopeless, but I procured five bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters, and it completely cured me. In fact, the every less than cured me. In fact, the cure has been ermanent. After the collapse of the Confederacy ex-Senator Wigfall, a member of the Confederate congress from Texas, fell in with a party of Union soldiers in that state. Being well disguised, he entered freely into conversation with the soldiers of the guard, in the course of with "old Wigfall" if they were to catch him. "We should hang him, sure," was the prompt reply. "Serve him right." exclaimed Wigfall. "If I were with you I'd be pulling at one end of the rope myself!"

To the Mayor and Aldermen of the City of Chatham:

I hold no brief to act for the citizens of Chatham, our as one of them, desire to draw attention to a peculiar condition of affairs, which may possibly have escaped your no-

Probably the most important busiless ever transacted by any Board of Aldermen of this city is that now before your honorable body, touching the relation of the City to the proposed Radial Railway.

This is not a question of morals or sentiment, but is purely and simply a commercial transaction, and as such, has but two sides to it, viz. the City's side and the side of the Railway Company.
I need not say that the Railway Company is represented by men per-fectly capable of looking after its best interests. To you, the Mayor and Aldermen of the City is entrusted the duty of looking after the City's interests) You have the following declaration of office:-

"I, ly promise and declare that I will truly, faithfully and impartially, to the best of my knowledge and ability, execute the office of Mayor (of Alderman), to which I have been elected in this city, and that I have not received, and will not receive, any payment or reward, or promise of such for the exercise of any partiality or malversation or other undue execution of the said office, and that I have not by myself or partiner, either directly or indirectly, any interest in any contract with or on promise and declare that I will interest in any contract with or or behalf of the said Corporation."

Are you all to-day in a position to fulfil the provisions of this declar ation !

Alderman Bell is solicitor for the Railway Company.

Can he occupy the dual position of solicitor for the Company and at the same time guardian of the City's in-

I do not mean "Can ne legally de so?" but can he faithfully and im-partially do so according to his def claration of office? Alderman O'Keefe is a shareholder in, and drugetor of, the Railway Com-

Personally, I am very much in favor of the railway and of dealing generously with the company, but we cannot afford to have it said, even by street rumor, that the city's interests are being jeopardized.

The aldermen to whom I referred will remember that the same high authority to which I have already alluded, admonishes us to abstain from "even the appearance of evil."

The result was very interesting. Eleven young men were found on the premises and their names were soon jotted down in Officer Dodson's little book. There was a general rush for the door when the officers of the law appeared, but none of them escaped the eagle eyes of Mesars. Massey, and Dodson.

A thorough search of the premises was made but no liquor was found. A good many bottles were found but they were all empty—the boys had evidently been there long enough to consume all the "booze" in sight before the galders made their appearance.

The Directors of the Electric Railroad and the Industrial Committee are Having a Strenuous Time Over that Agreement.

This is to ensure that the service will not grow anti-quated and will be kept modern. The company objects strenuously to the clause and is trying to have it struck out.

TAXED THE DAGO

The Italians have struck for higher pay and are jabbering around the offices of the electric road to day. They all threaten to return to Detroit—in fact some have done so. In this connection there arose an interesting development. One of the returning Italians was charged a politax of $2 at Detroit. This is payable by any person other than a try. Nevertheless, in the face of this practice, Judge Anglin hands down a decision in the Divisional Court at Toronto, deciding that the Alien Labor Law of Canada is ultra vires of the Canadian Parliament, because it tends to dissurb the treaty obligations entered into by Mother country by the Treaty of Paris, whereby citizens of either Canada or the United States were to be allowed to pass unmolested from one country to another. The effect of this decision is to leave Canada with no Alien Labor Law and no method of retaliating against this petty practice.

Many visitors to the palace have expressed an earnest desire to see this gallery, where, it is declared, the apparition of Catherine Howard sometimes appears. The story goes that when charges were leveled against her, Henry VIII, ordered her to be detained in her apartments. She escaped, and was running through this gallery to seek an audience of the King when her guards captured her and dragged her back. The apparition is seen after nightfall. The Queen, dressed in white gown, glides quietly down the gallery, nightall. RUNAWAY

Jno. Campbell Driver for Geo. Stacey Butcher had a Lively Time on Thames St. Last Evening.

Geo. Stacev, the King St. butcher, has been having hard luck with his meat delivery wagon lately. Not long ago he hada runaway on Thames Sti and now he is up against a far more serious one on Emma St. Mr. Stacey is at present in the position that he wants to dispose of his horse, but he cannot recommend him to any intending purchaser as a tame; quiet tending purchaser as a tank, quiet beast.

Last evening about nine o'clock John Campbell was driving the rig down Emma street, near the Nursea' Home, when the spirited horse caught sight of a small boy carrying a basket of laundry. The horse made one leap in the air and he was off. Mr. Campbell was thrown out, as lalso were two small boys. Willie Houle and a little chum, who were in the rig at the time. The rig turned over but this did not stop the horse. He dashed over Miss Hendershoft's front yard plowing up the earth, as he went along, and then attempted to get into Mr. Terry's potato patch. Here he was stopped. Frank, Christner was passing at the time and had bompission on Mr. Terry's potatoes and stopped the excited animal.

The rig was completely smashed and the horse sustained a few injuries. Mr. Campbell and the boys were thoroughly shaken up, but otherwise, uninjured.

THE DESPISED TOAD

POPULAR HATRED OF THE ANIMAL IS OF GREAT ANTIQUITY.

In Legendary as Well as In Supersti-tions Lore the Uncouth and Mis-chapen Creature Plays No Small Part-The Belief In Tond Stones.

The unfortunate toad has from time The unfortunate toad has from time immemorial been an object of distrust and aversion, especially among the common people. A pleasing tale runs that a gentleman, walking along a country lane, came suddenly upon a village boy belaboring the crushed body of a toad with a heavy stick and exclaiming at each blow, "I'll larn 'e to be a tead!" exclaiming at each blow, "I'll iarn 'e to be a toad!" whereat the indignant newcomer, seizing the miscreant by his collar, vigorously applied a cane to his legs, remarking, "I'll larn you to be a boy!" The popular hatred of the toad, indeed, is of such antiquity and is still so general as to seem in-eradicable. That the creature is not dangerously poisonous it is horaless dangerously poisonous it is hopeless to attempt to convince the ordinary rustic. Doubtless this belief has its origin in the aerid secretion which the toad has the power of emitting when disturbed or annoyed unduly and which will cause a dog that has incautiously picked up a toad to foam at the mouth. Again, the uncouth ap-pearance of the creature has had much to do with the feeling of repulsi with which it has always been regarded. "Squat like a toad" is the phrase by which Milton describes the evil one essaying to reach the ear of Eve.

Superstition, in truth, has laid a firm hold on the toad's misshapen figure. The belief, not only in the existence of "toad stones," but in their efficacy as a sovereign remedy for certain ills. which is still common in parts of the country, is of very ancient date.
"There is to be found in the heads of old and great toads," says Fenton, writing in 1569, "a stone they call borax, or stelon, which, being used as rings, gives forewarning of venom." In the Londesborough collection is a silver ring of the fifteenth century in which one of these toad stones is set. They were supposed always to bear on their surface a figure resembling a toad, being somewhat similar trinkets. one may imagine, to the scarabæus ornament of the Egyptians. Another early writer remarks, "A toad stone called 'crepandia,' touching any part envenomed by the bite of rat, wasp, spider or other venomous beast, ceases the pain and swelling thereof." It was believed that when brought near to poison the stone sweated and changed color, thus conveying to its wearers a timely warning of danger.
It is to these peculiar amulets that

Shakespeare is supposed to refer in "As You Like It:"

Sweet are the uses of adversity, Which, like the toad, ugly and venomor wears yet a precious jewel in his head. Is it not probable, however, that the poet, being a poet, is here alluding to the eye of the toad, an object, as all who are really familiar with the appearance of this humble batrachian will agree, than which there are few more beautiful in nature? Perhaps the most familiar supersti-tion in regard to toads is that, still rife, which supposes them capable of exist ing for an indefinite period in the inteing for an indefinite period in the interior of rocks, stones or hermetically sealed cavities. Numberless "authentic instances" of this remarkable power have been brought forward from time to time. The following examine from an old book is typical: "In 1793 Mr. George Wilson, a mason, met with a toad, which he wantonly immured in a stone wall that he was then building. In the middle of the then building. In the middle of the wall he made a close cell of lime and stone, just fit for the magnitude of its body and seemingly so plastered as to prevent the admission of air. In 1809, sixteen years afterward, it was found necessary to open a gap in this wall for a passage of carts, when the poor creature was found alive in its strongcreature was found alive in its stronghold. It seemed at first in a very torpld state, but it soon recovered animation and activity and, as if sensible of the blessings of freedom; made its way to a collection of stones and disappeared." It is known that toads can exist for a long time without food, and it is generally believed that they live to a great age, and doubtless these two peculiarities have had much to do with the superstition in regard to their supposed penchant for a hermit's life. The fallacy, however, was completely exposed by Dean Buckland, father of Frank Buckland, the great naturalist, who went to the trouble of testing the truth of the theory by an exhaustive series of experiments. It need only be remarked that home of his victims survived the incarceration.

In legendary as in superstitious lore the toad plays no small part. It may not be generally known that the feurde-lis of Francs was originally in shape a toad. Thus at least runs the tale.
Clovis, king of France, bore on his banner the device of three toads, or "botes," as they were called in old French. His baptism gave great umbrage to the Arians, who rebelled and assembled large host against him under King Candat. Clovis while on his way to meet the heretics was granted a vision, wherein he saw in the heavens his device of three toads miraculously changed into three lilies "or" on a banner
"azur." Such a banner he caused instantity to be made, calling it his "liflambe."—London Globe.

"Thank you," said the man, much mollified. "Those servants are so care-less, and my niece, who looks after the children, is confined to her room by Circleville's telephone system was circlevilles telepione system was not very complicated. The three gris who presided in the central office were not kept occupied as in a larger city because this was a new institution in the pretty inland city and subscribers were not coming in fast enough to sat-isfy the telephone company. Only one of the girls halled from Circleville. The other two were from Chicago, and if was Margaret Baxter, one of the Chicago girls, who had answered Mr.

Dickson's imperative calls.
For the next few minutes she was kept busy plugging in and sut on her board. But all the time a queer little smile hovered about her lips and a light almost tender shone in her eyes.

"It would be very funny," she said to herself, "if it should all be straightened out by telephone, and I would not be at all surprised if that is just what Jack hoped for.' ed suddenly and rang up 234 J.

A rather thick voice with a distingt brogue answered this call with a sulien "Hello." Margaret's face turned grave and firm lines showed about her "Why has no one answered the telephone?" she said rather sternly. "I have been ringing you on and off for fifteen minutes."

"Sure I've somethin' to do beside unnin' up them stairs to answer this bell. It's a wonder a woman can't eat her breakfast in peace."

Margaret connected 234 J with 719
M, sighing softly to herself, "Poor Charley and his bables at the mercy of that woman."

The conversation at the wire claimed her attention. There were reasons why she felt she had a right to listen. "Hello, Mary, is this you?"

"Yes, sir."
"How is Master Reginald?" "Fine, sir."

"What did he eat for his breakfast?" "A peach, a bowl of rice and milk and five cakes."

"Now, Mary, I've told you repeated ly not to let him have hot cakes." "Then, sir, you'll have to stay at home and keep him from it. It's a home and keep him from it. It's a cook I am and no nurse."

"Well, well," said the man anxiously, as one who realized he was in a predicament and needed the good will of every one. "I'm sure while Miss Billen is sick you will look after the children, and I will not forget it when I pay you next week."

This bit of diplomacy slicited no reply from the other end of the wire.

"Has Miss Bessie gone to school?"

"She has not. Sure the string's off her hood and one o! her rubbers is lost entirely, and I told her she'd best-stay home till her Aunt Ellen could get about."

"Dear, dear," said the man, and a prodistous sigh seemed to choke his This bit of diplomacy slicited no

"I guess so," he replied reluctantly and hung up his receiver.
At her end of the wire the woman slammed up the receiver with a crash which made central flush just a bit the Excelsior Hardware company.

"Sure, it's the same old thing," she said snappishly as she tossed the soap into he dish pan. "Frettin' his soul out about those two children. It's no place for me and you, Tim. Either the old man or the young un ought to marry. What with church and parthles and a fly be night nature into the hargain, Miss Ellen's no good at all, at all. When she's in the house she's in bed, and when she's not in bed she's out of the house."

Tim shoot his flead and marched out to the stable, and Mary turned to face a shrinking little figure in the doorway.

had been leading back in a chair, staring up at the ceiling. Finally he called his stenographer and dictated a letter.
It was addressed to Charles Dickson and wound up as follows:

"While you're in Chicago I wish you would stop in to see your aunt Mary Graves. Things are not going right at the house, I feer. Ellen is too trivolous and found of society to do what is entirely right by us and the children.
Your aunt Mary is a capable woman and would pull things together in less than no time."

But even with the letter started on

But even with the letter started on its way Mr. Dickson felt uneasy. Aunt Mary was capable, but was she sym-pathetic enough to deal with those children? He recalled the gentle ways and the fair face of the dead daughterand the fair race of the dead dangater-in-law. He wished somehow Aunt Mary would wave her hair about her face affil smile once in awhile. But she was better than the more uncertain element he had dreaded—a stepmother for his beloved grandchildren.

And all the time Margaret Baxter sat in front of the switchboard, plugging the jacks and thinking. Just before he closed up his desk to go home Mp Dickson was surprised to catch her voice with a new, almost friendly ac-

"Is this Mr. Dickson?"

"Yes."
"Shall I call Mary and tell her to meet have the children come down to meet

"And if you didn't call her she wouldn't remember, would she?"

"No, aq." agreed the man; "these servants she a great trial." Then as central rang off he murmured to himself: "There's a girl who will make a ine business woman some day. I would not mind having her in my

And, though he could never tell just how it happened, from that time on it was central who had the trying conversation with Mary until Miss Ellen got about, and after that with Miss Ellen herself, merely giving him a condensed report of the conversation. That was why he had a bouquet of That was why he had a bouquet of flowers sent up to the telephone exchange one day and a box of candy another. Several times he was tempted to sail in person, but he finally decided that seeing the girl face to face might prove a disillusion. Faces and voices do not always harmonize, and yet he thought of the great reflet it was to receive messages from central instead of trate Mary or butterfly Ellen. He felt sure that this particular voice stood for a face fair and womanly. Then he would recall a recent letter from his son, Aunt Mary would come for—a consideration.

But finally an inspiration came to him. Reggie was having a birthday. Ellen, with characteristic heedlessness, had forgotten this important event and had arranged to join a house party for the very night. But this should not stand in the way of a proper observ-acce of the occasion. Reggie abould have a birthday spree, and the guest of honor should be dis central girl, with whom the two children had held many

He gave a sigh of relief, which was drowned in the tumultuous greetings of the children. She was just what he had dreamed of, but what he had not dared to hope for. They had a merry evening, and when the two children were sitting down, one on either side of her, to hear what Reggie described as corking goblin stories, the sound of a latchkey fell upon Mr. Dickson's

He rose uncertainly: so did Margaret He rose uncertaint; so die statgater haxter, and so did the two children. And that was the scene upon which en-tered Charles Dickson, general repre-sentative for the Excelsion Hardware sentative for the Excelsior Hardware company, just returned from a hard trip on the road. He looked at his father, who flushed. He looked at Margaret Baxter, who smiled. He looked at the two children, who shrieked simultaneously and made a rush at him. When he had escaped from their embraces his father started to make the necessary introduction, but the rounger man waved him aside.

"I have known Margaret for some time—in fact, long before you knew her. When the children have finished their frolle and gone to bed I—well, we will explain this matter to you."

Mr. Dickson, Sr., looked from his son's dancing eyes to Margaret Baxter's flushed face and remarked dryly: "It won't be necessary. And while Miss Baxter is finishing that goblin story you had better telegraph to Aunt Mary. Tell her she need not come. We've changed our minds."

The Champion Vine.

The largest grape vine in the world is growing in the Carpinteria Valley, twelve miles east of Santa Barbara, California, and is called La Para Grande. It was started from a cutting sixty-one years ago by a young Spanish woman, Dona Ayala, it is 8 feet 4 inches in circumference, at its base, and one of the horizontal branches measures more than 3 feet in circumference. The trellis covers about a third of an acre, and sixty heavy posts support it. The vine produces as many as 5,000 bunches annually.

What promises to be a very fast and interesting game of lacrosse will be played at Agricultural Park next Friday at 2.36 between the Brantford Juniors and the Chatham team. This Brantford team is a far faster one than the team that came here from that city last season, and a good exhibition may be looked for.

The Chippewas, of Chatham, went to Thamesville this afternoon to play a team of that place. The Chippewas' line-up is as follows: — Chrysler, Bennett, Kolfage, Waddell, Kolfage, McCosh, Santry, Pritchard, Martin, Munroe, Stringer and Shelddrick. Stewart will act as field captain for the local boys.

A very interesting game of lacrosse was played on Tecumseh Park yesterday afternoon, the opposing sides being the Shamrocks and the Blenheim Juniors. It resulted in a victory for the Shamrocks by a score of 3-1. The Shamrocks hold the proud record of never having been defeated this year.

There was little freight lost, as the Minnie M. and the Germanie had made a clean-up on Saturday, but the Grand Trunk freight sheds were wiped out and are a complete loss. The child weighed only 21 pounds 4 ounces, or but about half what a healthy 8-year-old should weigh. There was no evidence of the child having been the victim of wasting sickness, and the alternative would be insufficient food. The state of decomposition further indicates that May Ward must have been dead at least 36 hours when found, which would prove the impossibility of the twe children having been alive at the time Mrs. Young says she left them playing in the yard.
