Life's Lessons.

I learn as the years roll onward
And I leave the past behind,
That much I counted sorrow
But prove that God is kind.
That many a flower I longed for
Had a hidden-thorn of pain,
And many a rugged by-path
Led to fields of ripened grain.
The clouds that cover the sunshine,
They cannot banish the sun,
And the north shiver out the brightest
When the weary rain is done.
We must stand in the deepest shadow
To see the clearest light,
And often through wrong's own darkness
Comes the cheering strength of right.
The sweetest rest is given
After a wearisome day,
To see the heavy burden of labor,
That borne from our hearts away.
One can't know the infinite peace
That falls on the troubled spirit
When it sees at last release.

The Latent Spark.

The street car slid noisily along, humming the harsh, disconnected song of its journey, frequently interrupted, by stops at the street corners to admit perspiring town-bound passengers. For March had produced an unexpected "hot spell" in the Southern California town. And women in hastily "done up" last summer's organdies, and those in their latest style spring suits, alike eagerly sought the breezy outside seats. Among those sitting outside were two passengers to whom you would have given a second glance had you seen there. A little mother clasping a baby tightly in her arms, with a somewhat defiant and a very resolute expression in her doll-like eyes at her, important responsibility expressed in every line of her body, pressed in every line of her body, and had she not been solemnly warned by the baby's papa and the baby's grandmamma as to the extreme danger of bringing baby out without nurse? And having braced the possible accident and their displeasure, it was necessary to be extra careful, and prove how utterly absurd had been their fears.

"For what could be more simple," argued the little mother, "than to take baby down right and buy her a bonnet and come right back?—and sure can't go, for it's too late now."
So there they sat, mother with a feeling of half-naughty triumph, and baby with no feeling at all on the subject, for she had scarcely lived a year in this world of ours and was untroubled by its complexities. She retained the heaven of her infancy and the trailing clouds of glory still enveloped her also against white raiment, the dainty simplicity of which testified to the sufficiency of her lot; as, too, did the appearance of her mother.

A man swung himself heavily on to the last filling car. Tall, powerful, unkept was he, and bringing with him an unsavory atmosphere. He threw himself into the vacant space by the mother, which was the only one left outside, and she drew her baby and her skirts further from him as he did so. Had she been given the insight as to who and what the man really was, in that moment when he did realize that he wasn't at all nice, she undoubtedly would have left him in sole possession of the whole of that seat. For he was a peculiar specimen of the parasite family—one who had made his precarious living by stealing the earnings of others. A burglar in short, and he seated himself by the little perfection of babyhood and her not unworthy mamma.

But baby, not of this world, and unable to see its standards, saw nothing amiss in the near proximity of this ugly creature. Close inspection of the ten graduated pink camoes they call toes (bared to the banny breezes of this southern climate) ceased, and as the large, round, blue eyes were channeled was going to cut in ahead of him. All this bewildered the little mother. She decided to run in front of the car, but stopped midway at the sound of the motor horn. Then losing all control of her ideas, grasping and clutching the baby wildly, in a panic she began that fatal dodging back and forth, fearfully conscious of hoarse shouts, and directions impatiently hurled at her: "Go ahead! What yer doin'! D'yer want to be killed?"—not unkindly meant, but confusing of anxious faces watching her on all sides, and a woman on the striking waving a striped parasol and shrieking hysterically: "They're going to be killed! They're going to be killed!" That second of time charged with such imminent danger leaped into into ages of suffering for the frightened, remorseful woman. Suddenly she felt two firm hands upon her, and she was lifted up by strong arms. A way seemed to clear miraculously before a dominant will, and she and the baby were deposited safe and sound on the edge of the pavement.

"Oh, they told me not to come out alone, and I'll never do it again," were her first gasped out words. Then she turned to her rescuer, who had passed to make a peculiar clucking noise to the baby, in an ineffectual effort to reassure her, for she had shared somewhat, though uncomprehendingly, in the general alarm. Her late responsive neighbor in her presence.

"Oh, how good you are! You have saved my life and baby's. What can I do to repay you? Anything! You may see anything. I mean it! Her eyes were lifted anxiously to his face. She hoped earnestly that he would ask a great deal in reward, feeling vaguely that only in that way could she make amends for that first hairy imposition she had formed of him. The man stood hesitatingly before her. He tilted his hat backward and scratched the back of his head, and when at last he spoke he felt like that old woman in the nursery rhyme—"Oh, lawk-a-mercy on us, this is none of it!" For it could not possibly be Jim Blake (with many aliases) say in."

"I want work. Any kind would do. I thought 'p' 'spos—could you—could you help me to get it?"
"Oh, yes, of course—but that would be nothing at all. Mr. Harris will send you a check, and I can give you work at my own home. We need a gardener, a sort of nudger-gardener, and to help with some of the house work such as washing carpets and—"

She had unconsciously assumed the air of the lady and the intelligence of office manner chilled the man's not very firm purpose.
"I guess 'p' 'spos," I guess that would about let me out—the carpet warding. It would hardly satisfy the yearning yearnings of my mate."

Mrs. Harris, when telling her husband about it later, said that he had a rather sarcastic manner just then. But she answered him sweetly enough. "Well, Mr. Harris employs a great many men. I am sure he would give you something. Please let me send you to him. Anyway, take my card—and will you give me your address?"
"No—that is—I don't need no reward, I guess. I guess I ain't done nothin' that that baby's smile ain't more'n paid for!" And he walked away with that lumbering gait he assumed for purposes of disguise. To tell Mr. Harris about it later, Mrs. Harris said:

"What could I do? I could not run after him. So he had to go unrewarded. I'm so sorry; I somehow feel that he needed help badly."
"I wonder why he's out of work in those good times?" said the baby's papa.
"Late that night, while baby slept snug in her little basket, the burglar was trudging along a country road—a road stretching up to a dark, imposing wall of mountain, which seemed to intersect it. The rhythmic sweep of the dusky outline against the sky reaching as far as could the eye on either side the deep, solemn mystery of the Sierras, gave a thrill of dignity and grandeur to the quiet of the street, and was about to be broken when the hoarse shriek of the vice broken here and there by a graceful oak, left by respectful hands a touch of beauty in the midst of industry. The night was dark, warm and oppressively silent. The breath from the mountains came heavy with sagebrush and the pungent scent from the sycamores in the canyon.

Our friend the burglar tramped along the dusty road through the shadow of a double row of pepper trees which formed an arch of green over the highway. His head was bent and he seemed to be thinking deeply. At last he stopped in the shade of an ancient row of cypress trees, which in their youth had formed a verdant hedge, but which now vied with a neighboring eucalyptus in height. Almost immediately he was joined by a short, wiry man, masked and slouched hatted, who seemed to have sprung up out of nowhere. They walked together in silence for a few moments. The robbery of a little grocery store with a post-office attachment was the project in hand. The said grocery and a rival, a meat market and blacksmith shop, scattered among Mexican dwellings and a few superior cottages, made up the lone village. Great ranches stretched from it in all directions. At last our burglar spoke, or rather blurted out:

"Well, pard, I guess you'll have to see this thing through by yourself."
"Why, 's game queried?"
"For me it is."
"Why?"
"I dunno—can't make out what's come over me. I can't break into that store, that's all."
"What's the matter? Got religion?" sneeringly.
"I guess, unless I can tell what's come over me; only somethin' has an I'm just sick of the business."
"Yer afraid!"
"Ain't afraid o' nothin' but me; I tell yer I couldn't go through with it. Why, pard, I'd be calling the cop

"You'd think I'd run my neck into a noose like that, Jim Blake? I see myself! Looks mighty as though you was going to split on me!"
"No, I ain't. But I won't persuade yer. Comin' back my way? No? By."

"Aw, Jim, ye ain't really going to quit the game? Yes? Why you've pulled off some of the best things ever done."

"I know it. God help me! There was anguish in his tone. But I ain't never killed no one, an' I can bring now an' do some good things to kinder square up the bid ones."
Then he turned abruptly, ashamed of this show of emotion before his companion, and with a short "Good night," hurried away.

"D'gers if I don't feel letter already," said Jim, as he hurried to the mile distant car lines. "Guess I'll have to go and beat them carpets some for a start."
And he did beat the Harris's carpets, but not for long, for the spark of good developed fast and soon drew him up to better things.

Deadly Anaemia.
CASTS A SHADOW OVER THE LIVES OF THOUSANDS OF WOMEN AND GROWING GIRLS.
"Not enough blood" is the simple meaning of the term anaemia, though it should scarcely need explaining, for, unfortunately, anaemia is one of the greatest evils in this country, afflicting women of all ages, including young girls. The signs of bloodlessness are plain enough—pallid lips and cheeks, and aching back, frequent headaches, with breathlessness, heart palpitation and great weakness. The only effective treatment is to strengthen and build up the blood, and it is by this power of making new, rich blood that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have cured anaemia in more cases than it is possible to place on record. Among the best cured of this trouble by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is Miss C. N. Roberge, of Sorel, Que., who had been in poor health for several years. Miss Roberge says: "I believe that if I had not taken Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, I should have died."

"I don't care about that," said Hackett. "There's been fight enough over this land. I want you to take enough so you are perfectly satisfied, and then we can get along pleasantly. Go ahead and help yourself!"
The man passed, abashed. He had been ready to commence the old struggle, both tooth and nail, but this move of the new neighbor stunned him. Yet he was not to be outdone in generosity. He looked at Hackett.

"Squire," said he, "that fence ain't going to be moved an inch. I don't want the land. There wa'n't nothin' in the fight anyway but the principal of the thing."

If the farmers could arrange in some way to give their men work all the year round they would find far less trouble in securing good help. As it is now in most cases the farm hand is taken on about the first of April and cast adrift about the first of November to shift for himself. The rest of the year the hired man has to bite his board or seek employment in the town or city. Once he lands in the town, where there is steady work the year around along with regular hours, the man is lost to the farm forever. He will never go back unless he is starved to it.

The vacancies in the Provincial Government consequent upon the changes caused by the recent General Elections have been filled by the appointment of Hon. George E. Faulkner, of Halifax, R. M. MacGregor, of Pictou, and J. W. Comaus, of Digby, to the Executive Council.

The Line Fence.
A good lawyer learns many lessons in the school of human nature; and thus it was that Lawyer Hackett did not fear to purchase a tract of land which had been "lawed over" for years.
Some of the people wondered why he wanted to get hold of property with such an incubus of uncertainty upon it. Others thought that perhaps he wanted some "real halting" and would pitch in red-hot to fight that line fence question on his own hook.
That's what the owner of the adjoining land thought. So he braced himself for trouble when he saw Hackett coming across the field one day.
Said Hackett, "what's your claim here, anyway, as to this fence?"
"Your fence is over my land two feet at one end and one foot at the other end."
"Well," replied Hackett, "you go ahead and set your fence over. At the end where you say I encroach on two feet, set the fence on my land four feet. At the other end put it on my land two feet."

WOLFVILLE, N.S., JULY 14, 1911.

Editorial Notes.

The city of Hull, England, owns the street car system—the profits on which for the last ten years have been over $700,000. After paying all charges for operating expenses and interest for the year ending March 31, 1911, there was a surplus of $87,567, which was applied to the general expense account of the city, reducing the tax levy that amount. The system is kept in first class order. The fare is two cents, which carries the passenger from one end of the line to the other. Workman's tickets for the morning hours are only one cent.

The present would appear to be a very opportune time to have Main street straightened. By the recent burning of the Masro mill and the blacksmith shop at the bridge the way for making this change is opened up. Now that our streets are being graded for the making of permanent roads there will be a considerable amount of material which might be used in filling in the creek and improving the locality. The straightening of Main street and the filling in and beautifying the creek at the bridge has been an ambition of many Wolfville people for many years, and might now easily be accomplished, much to the advantage of the town.

Dominion Parliament will re-assemble on the 18th inst., and preparations are being made at Ottawa to render the heated term as comfortable as possible by the use of electric fans, and tons of ice per day will be used to cool the heated air passing through the ventilators. The leader of the Opposition has announced in favoring re-distribution before a general election, so that it promises to be a long session even if reciprocity should not be carried to a vote. There is some likelihood of the Government bringing in a 'closure rule' which could be passed in spite of any obstruction. Its passage, however, would probably be stubbornly resisted so that the session is bound to be prolonged.

The Secretary of Industries and Immigration, at Halifax, informs us that a London firm manufacturing concrete mixtures sand and ballast washing machines, ganging machines for sand, cement, etc., desire to enter the Canadian market. A Scottish firm manufacturing enamelled bricks, tile and pipe, also enamelled fire clay sinks, tubs and sanitary goods generally, seeks Canadian resident agents. A Lancashire pottery manufacturing company would be pleased to consider offers from Canadian producers of best quality felspar. Replies to these trade inquiries will be promptly transmitted to the High Commissioner to the Industries and Immigration Department, Halifax.

The extremely hot weather of last week while the high school examinations were going on throughout the province has caused a renewal of criticism of the educational authorities for the policy of arranging to have there important exercises take place at the most unfavorable season of the year. The display of a certain amount of intelligence on the part of those who direct our public schools is not an unreasonable expectation of the public. The criticism appears to us to be not only timely but very natural from those who witness the misery of the wilted candidates agonizing over difficult questions while heat and humidity struggle for first place. This ACADIAN has referred to this iniquity before—and will probably do so again.

Prof. A. S. Mackenzie, Ph. D., F. R. S. C., a member of the faculty of Stevens Institute of Technology, Hoboken, N. J., a graduate and former professor of Dalhousie, has been appointed to succeed Dr. Forrest as president of Dalhousie University. President Mackenzie is a native of Pictou. After graduating from Dalhousie he took the degree of Ph. D. at Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, and also took courses at Cambridge and at German universities. Returning to Dalhousie he took charge of the department of physics, and was at this time elected a fellow of the Royal Society of Canada. It is only a little more than a year since he resigned his position as a member of the faculty of Dalhousie to accept the professorship of physics in the Stevens Institute.

Baby's Own Tablets Cure Summer Complaint.

Baby's Own Tablets should be kept in every home where there are babies or young children. At no time in the year is baby in such danger as in summer. At the first sign of illness the Tablets should be given to the little one, for summer complaints come on so quickly that unless prompt aid is at hand baby may be beyond help in a few hours. The Tablets never fail to relieve the sick child, and if occasionally given to the well child will keep him well. Mrs. Deane Martin, St. Denis, Que., writes: 'I have a baby three months old who suffered from colic and constipation. Caster Oil was of no help at all, but Baby's Own Tablets speedily cured him, and now I always keep them in the house.' The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Twenty houses as a loss of about $100,000, were destroyed in Biddford, Me., on Saturday night, by a fire which threatened to destroy the business district.

Stay in the East.

A former resident of the east, who is living in the west and who has done well in the west, was asked by the Sussex Record for a frank statement concerning western life and conditions. He states the fact above all others which he would emphasize is that the west is a country where capital is necessary so successful, and that it takes more money each year to get into the game. Most of the money made in the west has been made in real estate, and that business, this gentleman states, has been overdone. Prices for land have become exorbitant and in many places are such as will not be justified for years to come. He points out that a slump in land values or an interruption of real estate sales would mean disaster to the 'little fellow.' Moreover money is tightening, and the banks are insisting on a more conservative policy which makes it more difficult for men of small capital.

Turning to other branches of business the Record's informant states that it is not easy to walk in and get a good position in western cities, for thousands of people are pouring into the centres and competing for employment. In the winter months especially, the problem of the west is how to find employment for all. The man who has money enough to start in business (and he would require three dollars in the west for one in the east), has good opportunities, but very keen competition. Summing up the situation this western man advises any individual who has a good living in the east to stay in the east; for there is just as much worry and hard work in the west as here, and a lot of real estate men must be weeded out involving difficulty for small dealers in other lines of trade. The west, he says, is all right for one man in a hundred; but he must have capital, and the demand for money men is constantly becoming greater.

There is a lesson in this for the people of Nova Scotia. During the past spring a large number of young men went west. Some of them went to accept positions, others in the hope of doing better there than here. Their going was a loss to this province, and it may be questioned whether in the end the majority of them will get any more out of life than if they had stayed at home.

The High Commissioner-ship.

Referring to the approaching retirement of Lord Strathcona from the Canadian High Commissioner'ship, the Montreal Witness well says that 'a majestic figure is withdrawing from the stage of Canadian history, and particularly from those scenes in which our history is imperial. In his retirement, Canada is losing from its highest service, one whose position has raised him high above the ordinary level of his past life, and whose age and wealth have placed him close to those beyond all sordid questions of gain; one to whom there is no successor; indeed most Canadians will be apt to ask ever Sir Wilfred Laurier, if we shall ever look upon his like again.' Referring to the rumors as to his successor, and that some politicians 'supposed to be in the way at Ottawa, and some men of large wealth have been mentioned,' the Witness adds that every high-minded citizen must agree with 'that as great a place on the stage of history as the high commissioner'ship must be in the years of imperial development on which we are entering, is not a shelf for an awkward politician, and that it is one that no number of millions can fill. We have no one to name for it nor have we heard the name of one who would satisfy the country. We can only say to aspirants, that after Lord Strathcona, it will be a very difficult one to fill to the nation's satisfaction.'

Borden's Great Tour.

R. L. Borden finished his tour of the prairie provinces last Saturday night, with meetings at Morden and Souris, set, Manitoba. The tour lasted 18 days and during that period the opposition leader addressed 35 net meetings, which were attended by 50,000 people at thirty points. Mr. Borden met the organized farmers, who tendered him memorials and resolutions, the chief question being the passage of the reciprocity agreement. Mr. Borden also was tendered thirty five civic receptions and at many places briefly addressed gatherings from the rear of his special train. The total territory covered in the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta was 32,000 miles, and the average distance covered during the 18 working days was 177 miles.

This tour creates a new record both in respect to the territory covered in the time, and the number of meetings held. Everywhere Mr. Borden received a generous welcome, and before he left for Ottawa, he expressed satisfaction with the results achieved and his appreciation of the hearty hospitality and warm welcome of the western people.

Mr. Borden's many friends in this his native county are proud to hear of the esteem in which he is held throughout the Dominion.

The D. A. R. station at Bear River was burglarized on Saturday, while the agent was at dinner, and $740 stolen from the till. Chief Bowles, of Digby, was summoned and was soon on the track of the rascals and there is but little doubt that they will be captured.

King George and Queen Mary, with the Prince of Wales and Princess Mary, are visiting Ireland.

Wolfville Boy Makes Good.

The following, which appeared in Tuesday's Halifax Herald, will be of interest to many of our readers. Mr. Davison is a Wolfville boy and Wolfville people will be pleased to learn of the appreciation in which he is held in his adopted home:

Bridgetown, July 7.—The federal election campaign in Annapolis county was stated by a very large and enthusiastic convention of the liberal-conservative party held here to day. Despite the fact that the busy season is claiming the attention of the farmers, the gathering was exceptionally large and delegates were present from every polling district.

The recent local election has left the party in fine fighting fettle. N. H. Phinney is the first liberal-conservative member to be returned from the county in over a quarter of a century in a local contest. Much of the success of the campaign, which was splendidly conducted throughout, was due to the brilliant platform work of A. L. Davison, who came within only nine votes of his successful colleague. His addresses at Annapolis Royal at nomination and declaration were especially forceful. In recognition of Mr. Davison's valuable services to the party he was to day presented by the convention with an address and a purse of over $700.

The following resolution was unanimously passed:

'Resolved, that this convention assert its unswerving loyalty to R. L. Borden as the leader of the liberal-conservative party and express its appreciation of his sound, courageous and patriotic attitude in reference to the various public issues which confront the Dominion; that it applaud in particular his uncompromising opposition to the Tariff-Reducing reciprocity pact, believing as it does that such a policy would be calculated to interfere with the cultivation of closer trade relations with the mother country and the consequent consolidation of the empire; that it is calculated to jeopardize our industrial development and menace our home market, and would be especially injurious to the important fruit industry of the Annapolis Valley as tending to permit the fruit producers of the western states to monopolize the growing market of our prairie provinces and force the products of middle Canada into greater competition with our own apples in the English market.'

An exceedingly practical address upon the lessons of the past election and means of improving party organization was made by the provincial organizer, Dr. Joseph Hayes. This is the first appearance of the organizer before an audience in this county and he made a splendid impression.

The nomination committee reported that Mr. Corbett, who contested the county at the last federal election, had refused for business reasons to again become a candidate, but had suggested the nomination of Mr. Davison, pledging the latter his hearty support in the event of his entering the field. In the suggestion of Mr. Corbett the committee unanimously concurred and submitted his name to the convention. By a standing vote an amendment was adopted. The motion was spoken to by Mayor West, of Annapolis; Mayor Harlow, of Bridgetown; Mayor Jones, of Middletons; and a number of other delegates, all of whom expressed their appreciation of the choice and their assurance of success with Mr. Davison as a standard bearer.

Upon being presented with the nomination, Mr. Davison explained that he had not intended to again enter a contest as a candidate in Annapolis county. He, however, asked time to consider and promised an early reply. The growing popularity of Mr. Davison and his present strong hold upon his party would make his election almost a certainty should he enter the contest, and liberals should admit that his return would reflect credit upon the country.

Strong hopes are entertained that he will favorably consider the nomination.

Director of Pianoforte at Acadia Seminary.

Prof. Edward Fletcher, who has accepted the appointment of Director of Pianoforte in Acadia Seminary, was graduated from Harvard University in 1904, with the degree of A. S., and Special Honors for work done in Musical Theory. While completing the Academic Course at Harvard he enjoyed the privilege of studying piano playing under Felix Fox, the well-known Boston teacher.

After graduation, Prof. Fletcher decided to go abroad to perfect himself as a Piano Virtuoso, and with that end in view went to Leipzig, Germany, and entered the Conservatory. His four years there were equally divided under Wisniewsky and Tschannler, who were the most celebrated pedagogues of the Institution at that time. As a graduation test he played the G Major Concerto of Beethoven.

Prof. Fletcher is a pianist of great technical facility and marked interpretative power, and although his public appearances have been few, owing to his natural preference for teaching, his repertoire contains all the most representative works of Piano Literature. He has also had a large experience as a chamber music performer, and is a sympathetic accompanist.

As a composer, Prof. Fletcher has great many works to his credit, most of them in large forms, such as Symphonic Concerto, Suite for Piano, Piano and Violin and a Trio for Piano, Violin and Cello. In the smaller forms he has written a great many Piano pieces, Songs, etc. He has recently published a work on Piano Technique entitled, 'Virtuoso Technical Studies.'

Prof. Fletcher was Director of Music at Simmons College, Abilene, Texas, and for the last year has been professor of Piano Playing and Theory at Oxford, Ohio. At both of these institutions he has received the highest commendation both as a Teacher and Performer, a Colleague and a Christian Gentleman.

With all confidence 'Acadia' commends Prof. Fletcher to the music-loving public and to all who are interested in securing for themselves or their daughters the very best musical advantages.

Tax Reform in Saskatchewan.

Everybody knows that the Progressive West is years ahead of Eastern Canada in its tax laws and it appears that the West is determined to continue to lead.

At the session of the Saskatchewan Legislature which has just closed, a decided move towards allowing cities and towns to adopt the Single Tax System gradually but within four years, was made. In cities and towns the assessment is now 100 percent of the value of the land and 50 percent on buildings and improvements. The latter may now be decreased at such a rate that in four years there will be no assessment on buildings and improvements. The City Act has recently been amended to allow bona fide tenants to vote at municipal elections, under reasonable conditions.

This amendment to the City Act of Saskatchewan is very similar to the proposal so vigorously argued by the press of Ontario during the past year that Municipalities be allowed to tax improvements at a lower rate than land values.

Throughout the rural areas of Saskatchewan the assessment is a flat rate per acre, regardless of value, and there are no taxes levied on the farmer's personal property, buildings or improvements. At the recent session of the Legislature provision was made whereby rural organizations might assess at a certain rate per acre on a valuation basis, but this will not likely be adopted as yet with great extent until the year 1912.

The Single Tax system is used by about 20 villages out of 125 organized in Saskatchewan.

Little, But Great.

From one point of view, it is the little things that have made the great inventions. Until 1820, for instance, most people were content to rub along with the tinder-box when they wanted a light.

Actually, the first lucifer matches were invented by Chance in 1805, but were seldom used during their first fifteen years of existence.

There are people still living who can remember when stamps were carefully cut out with scissors. It was not until a hunting man was in a hurry one day that the perforation idea was hit upon.

No knife or scissors being handy, he used his spurs to cut out the stamp, by running the rowel along. Then he tore off the stamp—and saved future generations a considerable amount of trouble!

Help for Those Who Have Stomach Trouble After doctoring for about twelve years for a bad stomach trouble, and spending nearly five hundred dollars for medicine and doctors' fees, I purchased my wife one box of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, which did her so much good that she continued to use them and she has done her more good than all of the medicines I bought before.

Don't expect the average nursemaid to give the intelligent attention you would yourself give; had she your brains she would not be a nursemaid.

Don't fail to make your hay in these precious, respective days. The world lies beyond.

Don't say, 'Oh, do be quiet' or 'Do sit still.' Remember that bones and muscles must develop. Make a place for them to do so.

Don't permit a scar to be implanted in your child.—Home Herald.

When the language of business is applied to the practices of politics, as in this from Success Magazine, the effect may be instructive as well as startling:

Two negro men came to the outskirts of a crowd where a Senator was making a campaign speech.

After listening to the speech for about ten minutes, one of them turned to his companion and asked, 'Who am dat man, Sam?' 'Ah don't know what his name am,' Sambo replied, 'but he certainly do recommen' himself mos' highly.'

Happiest Girl in Lincoln A Lincoln, Neb., girl writes, 'I had been ailing for some time with chronic constipation and stomach trouble. I began taking Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets and in three days I was able to be up and get better right along. I am the proudest girl in Lincoln to find such a good medicine.' For sale by all dealers.

Never leave home on a journey without a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It is almost certain to be needed and cannot be obtained when on board the cars or steamships. For sale by all dealers.

Girls in Denmark never experience the pleasure of receiving a diamond engagement ring. They are presented with a plain gold band, which is worn on the third finger of the left hand.

Sprains require careful treatment. Keep quiet and apply Chamberlain's Liniment freely. It will remove the soreness and quickly restore the parts to a healthy condition. For sale by all dealers.

Two little girls were out walking when they passed the big brick building of an orphan asylum. 'That Minnie,' said Roy, anxious to impart her knowledge to her younger sister, 'is where the little orphan live. Mr. and Mrs. Orphan are both dead.'

You Take No Risk. OUR REPUTATION AND MONEY IS BACK OF THIS OFFER. We pay for all the medicine used during the trial; our remedy fails to completely relieve you of constipation. We take all the risk. You are not obliged to us in any way whatever, if you accept our offer. Could anything be more fair to you? In the rare cases where you should hesitate to put our claims to a practical test!

The most scientific, common-sense treatment is Resall Orderlies, which are used like candy. They are very pronounced, gentle and pleasant in action, and particularly agreeable in every way. They do not cause diarrhoea, nausea, flatulence, griping or any inconvenience whatever. Resall Orderlies are particularly good for children, aged and delicate persons.

We urge you to try Resall Orderlies at our risk. Two sizes, 10c. to 25c. Remember, you can get Resall Orderlies in this community only at our store.—The Resall Store, A. V. Reed.

Nowadays upon their heads, Women carry featherbeds, Footballs, flower pots, laundry bags, Bales of feathers and of rags, Helmets, pie plates, buttertubs, Jungle growths of trees and shrubs, Diaphans, saucapans, jardinières, Sofa cushions, flights of stairs, Baskets green and pink and brown, Right side up and upside down, Pyramids and Eiffel Towers, Garden plots of gorgeous flowers; Buckets, barrels, hives for bees, Boxes meant for fruit or cheese; Drying frames with wires and slats, Anything, in short, but hats!

Twenty-five Cents is the Price of Peace. The terrible itching and smarting, incident to certain skin diseases, is almost instantly allayed by applying Chamberlain's Salve. Price, 25 cents. For sale by all dealers.

'Father,' said little Rollo, 'what is meant by "pull"?' 'Pull' my son,' answered the man of experience, 'is personal friendship skillfully managed so that it will pay dividends.'

'What's the worst kind of advice you ever got?' A friend told me to use my own judgment.

Questions For Voters. Do we want bar rooms? If so, why? Who do we want them, and for what? Is time spent in them which could be better spent elsewhere? Is money spent in them which would do more good spent elsewhere? Is there likely to be gambling in them? Is any money worse than wasted in them? Do any fathers set bad examples there for their boys? Do your boys get good habits there that will make them good men, or habits that make them good—nothing men? Are your wives, mothers and sisters made happier by having loafing and drinking places to tempt their husbands, sons and brothers to waste time and spend their money in drinking and loafing, instead of being at home with their families? Is the bar-room a good place to educate the young men, who are to be the husbands of our daughters? If no money was spent in barrooms, would there not be more good trade and less bad debts in business, and more comfort in homes? Would anybody be hurt by having those places shut up? If so, who? And how would they be hurt? Would some men be better off today if they had never been in a bar room? Would some women and children be better fed and better clothed? Would anybody who is dead be alive to-day? Would saloon keepers themselves and their families be better, happier, or more useful to some other business? Do saloon keepers want us to do good or to get our money? Do you like the dictation of the bar-room in politics? Let us think of these questions, and vote as we think is RIGHT, not as those who only want our money wish us to vote.

Sad Results of License. On the evening of the day when the saloons were opened up at Fairbury, Illinois, after they had been closed for a period of two years, the chief of police of that city was murdered by a youth who had been born and raised in the town. Before committing the crime the young man had been drinking in the saloons throughout the day. The chief of police, who became the victim of the crime, had already taken thirteen drunken men from the newly opened saloons before he came in contact with the whiskey crazed youth. This is a striking argument against the license policy.

The Drink Evil in Moscow. The consumption of liquor in the Government district of Moscow last year reached the appalling figure of twenty-two liters of spirits for every man, woman, child and infant. When it is realized that even minute doses of alcohol are injurious (Kraepelin has proved that the effects of a liter of beer are noticeable twenty-four hours after drinking) one can imagine what this flood which the Russian autocracy is pouring over the Russan people means in sickness, misery and death within the empire. Sir W. Robertson Nicoll's powerful plea, in a recent number of the British Weekly, for a league of worshipping children, who will form the habit of going to church, has attracted very wide attention and called forth many warm endorsements. All the writers lay great emphasis on the importance of getting children into the habit of going to church. It is found that where this habit is not formed in childhood there is a drifting away from the church in after years. The children are our hope for the future of the church. It is worth while making special efforts not only to get them to the House of God every Sabbath, but also to make the services so attractive for them that they may love the place of worship. There ought to be something in every service of public worship which appeals to a child and which he can comprehend. It is hardly reasonable to expect little children to be interested in a long service, none of which is intelligible to them. Whenever I had a great deal of gratitude in a poor man I take it for granted there would be as much generosity if he were a rich man.—Pope.

AT LAST, A CURE FOR RHEUMATISM. 'Fruit-a-tives Cured Me' Says Mrs. Baxter. 'I was a helpless cripple from Rheumatism for nearly a year. All down the right side, the pain was dreadful and I could not move for the agony. I was treated by two physicians without help. I saw "Fruit-a-tives" advertised in "The Telegram" and decided to try them. After I had taken one box, I was much better. When I had taken three boxes, I could use my arm and the pain was almost gone. After taking five boxes, I was entirely well again. The cure of my case by "Fruit-a-tives" was indeed splendid because all the doctors failed to even relieve me. "Fruit-a-tives" cured me. Mrs. LIZZIE BAXTER. 1101R PLACE, TORONTO, Dec. 15, '09.

In hundreds of other cases, "Fruit-a-tives" has given exactly the same satisfactory results because "Fruit-a-tives" is the greatest blood purifying medicine in the world. "Fruit-a-tives" the famous fruit-purifier regulates kidneys, liver, bowels and skin, and prevents the accumulation of uric acid, which is the prime cause of Rheumatism. "Fruit-a-tives" will positively cure every case of Rheumatism, when taken according to directions. See a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial size, 25c. At all druggists or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

During the days of gold fever in California, said an old sea captain, our ship was so crowded that you could hardly get a place to sleep. 'Captain,' said a man when we were three days out, 'I have just got to have some place to sleep.' 'Where have you been sleeping?' I asked. 'I have been sleeping on a sick man,' said the passenger, 'but he's getting better now.'

First Man (hoastfully)—I haven't taken a drop in a year. Second Man—R—seropianist or prohibitionist? Mother—Have you been a good boy in school to day, Clarence? Son—Yes, mother; I didn't get caught once.

Relieved at Once by Father Morrisey's No. 11 Tablets. Many people find that no matter how carefully they watch their diet and deny themselves such things as the other favorite diet, still after every meal gas forms in the stomach and everything seems to turn sour. Besides causing great discomfort, this condition makes it impossible to get the full benefit from the food eaten, and the body is continually starving with a full stomach. Father Morrisey's No. 11 Tablets promptly relieve this and other stomach disorders. Each Tablet has the power of digesting a pound and three-quarters of food, so that even though the stomach may be in a very bad or weakened condition one Tablet taken after each meal will insure proper digestion and prevent sourness, gas in the stomach, pain or discomfort. The case of Miss Maggie Leahy, of West Frankfort, Ill., is a sample of what Father Morrisey's No. 11 Tablets can do. Writing on Jan. 28, 1910, she says: 'Your No. 11 Stomach Tablets suit my case exactly, as I am ever so much better since using them than I had been for the last seven years. I could hardly eat anything that would not turn sour on my stomach, or cause gas. My Doctor said it was Catarrh of the Stomach. I had no relief, but gas after eating. The first Tablet I took gave me relief, and I am still continuing their use.' 'If you happen to eat a little too much for dinner, or something that does not agree with your Stomach, just take a No. 11 Tablet and you will feel all right in a few minutes. 'If you have been troubled with Indigestion or Dyspepsia a course of Father Morrisey's No. 11 Tablets will soon put your stomach into a healthy condition again. See a box at your druggist's, or from Father Morrisey Medicine Co., Ltd., MONTREAL, QUE.
