BIG DOCKET FOR MONDAY.

Forty-Five Cases Greeted the Magistrate on His Return.

The Booze Brigade Was Out In Numbers.

Several Cases of Theft and Serious Offences.

A record roster greeted the eyes of Magistrate Jelfs at the Police Court this morning. Forty-five offenders awaited trial, and the offences ranged from an innocent game of "craps" to theft. The magistrate was in good trim to handle the big list, as this was his first morning since his vacation of ten days. He entered the court room with a smile, but one glance at the roster was sufficient to change that smile to a frown.

Ben Frank, Toronto, pleaded guilty to a charge of trespassing on the property of the Hamilton Street Railway Company, and was fined $2. Defendant was jumping on the cars at the corner of King and James streets, selling tips on Stratford, Ont., June 28 .-Frank Roughmond paid the extreme penalty of the law this morning when he was hanged in the yard of Stratford jail for the murder of Mrs. Mary Ann Peake, September 20 last. There was no apparent change in the negro's demeanor as he walked to the scaffold and he maintained an attitude of indifference to the last. The drop fell at one and a half minutes to five and ten minutes later Roughmond was pronounced dead. Twenty-five to thirty persons witnessed the execution and there was no hitch in the pro-

Barton People Mixed Voters' List and Assessment Roll.

Some of the ratepayers of Barton Township have been surprised to learn that their names are not on the voters Reeve Gage said he was surprised that people would cite the voters' list as being a copy of the assessment roll, and would lay a complaint, such as the above, based on the voters' list, and should censure the clerk because the should censure the clerk because the two lists do not agree.

Before the name of a ratepayer can appear on the voters' list he must be assessed for a certain amount, and those who are not assessed for that amount cannot have their names on that list. In the late petition for annexation those in favor thought they had a majority according to the voters' list, but when the number was compared with the assessment roll there was a shortage. On the assessment roll were 984 names, but not on the voters' list, because not that number were assessed for the required amount. Mr. Gage whee it thoroughly understood that the two lists are entirely different things.

ROSE SHOW.

Magnificent Display at Home of A. G. Pettit.

(Special Despatch to the Times.) Grimsby, June 28.—A perfect succ was the magnificent rose show of the Horticultural Society at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Pettit on Saturday evening. The flowers were placed day evening. The flowers were placed on long tables in the diming room, and under the glare of the gas light the riot of color was fully exemplified in all its degrees. The large rooms were crowded with members of the society and their friends. In fact, the throng was so large that it overflowed out to the lawns. Here, too, was a galaxy of bloom, for Mrs. Pettit is an ardent rose collector, and her blooms of every description are worth going miles to see and admire. There is no lovelier rose garden in the district than this one.

The show is the finest that has yet been held by this society, and the enthusiasm over its success was quite unbounded.

A number of clergymen took occasion yesterday to commend to their congregations the Y. M. C. A., and its effort to raise a fund for the boys.

The total reported on Saturday was more than announced for publication, as quite a number of subscriptions were secured after the preliminary report was issued at 11 o'clock for the newspapers. The rivalry among the teams is increasing daily and the efforts being put forth by several of them indicate that No. 10 is not sure of first place until the end of the campaign. International Secretary C. S. Ward states that it is characteristic of Y. M. C. A. "short term" campaigns for the clock to operate against the law of gravitation, and that the minute hand goes upwards more quickly than downwards. This being interpreted, means that the reports for the second half of the campaign, or the first three days of this week, ought to be better than the first half, the last three days of last week. The canvascloses on Wednesday and heroic efforts will be required to reach the goal of $50,000 on that day.

The evening congregation was addressed by Rev. Mr. Couch, who has been in charge of Gore Street the last two years. The text selected was Rev. i. 5, 6, from which was preached an eloquent and thoughtful sermon. The two services, together with a union session in the afternoon of the Sunday schools, made a specially interesting day, and marked the beginning of a commendatory union which promises good results in the years that are to come.

Yesterday witnessed the coming together of the congregations of Gore and Wesley Churches, and forming a united body, to be known henceforth as the Central Methodist Church. The day was most auspicious for church attendance, and certainly the members and friends of Central Methodist Church did not fail to show their deep interest in the inaugural services. Very large congregations assembled both morning and evening.

The two pastors, Rev. Dr. Tovell and Rev. I. Couch were the preachers for the day. Dr. Tovell had charge of the morning service and gave the inaugural address. The text chosen is found in Col. iv. 12: "Stand perfect and complete in all the will of God," and suggested the things the Central Church should stand for in all the future of her history.

At the police court this morning the motley crew were arraigned before Magistrate Jelfs, charged with gambling on the Lord's day. George Kerr, K. C. appeared for them, and pleaded not guilty. Detective Sayers was called and said he had suspected that gambling was going on at the club for some time. On Saturday evening he was watching the place through one of the back windows. Middle aged people have made three distinct steps towards the downward journey, elderly ones have crawled still nearer the abyss towards which all men's steps are bent.

have come to pass, have passed and are forgotten.

Nearly forgotten or quite is that nine-days' wonder excited by the great bank note forgeries, the marvellous escape of the forger, and the murder of his two accomplices, which he effected in the moment of his disappearance.

For months afterward the world was full of curiosity and eager interest concerning the great crime and the greater criminal. The papers were unctious in their descriptions of the manner in which the fraud and the murders were committed and the appearance and numerous disguises of the wonderful and daring individual who had so successfully perpetrated them.

Enormous rewards had been offered for his capture, and detectives with moses like bloodhounds, and the acuteness of weasels, had been spurred to extraordinary exertions, but not only could they find no trace of the man's whereabouts, but they were baffled in a remarkable degree in their efforts to make out a clear history of his past life and former exploits.

That he had assumed a hundred dis-

That he had assumed a hundred disguises and passed under as many aliases was well known.

His last appearance in the character of the Venetian chevalier had been the closing of a long series of shifting impercionations. What his present one was, for whether he was in the country or not the wise-headed, hawk-eyed detectives could not say.

the wise-headed, hawk-cyed detectives could not say.

Sufficient that the Baron de Moniporte had lost a considerable sum of money, several valuable gems, and his character of cautious astuteness; that the Duchess of Sparkleton had likewise been victimized to the extent of some valuable gems, and that Lady Melville had not escaped blackmail. But of the particulars of the last-mentioned lady's losses the officials could not gain any information, for a few days after the expose and flight of the criminal, her ladyship left town for the benefit of her health, and was travelling few knew where.

All was nearly forgotten and the world was gleaming, flickering and blinking with lazy contentment in the hot July sun as if forgery, killing, marrying and giving in marraige, with all the other little iotas which go to make up the insignificant sum of life, were things of no existence.

the insignificant sum of life, were things of no existence. It was not in London and exasperating. It was not at Rivershall, but delicious. For there towered the tall, shelter-and-shade-giving oaks, and there ran the ever-singing river to cool the air and soothe the troubled, weary spirit. Not that the spirits lying in a dazzling cloud of white muslin and soft-timed drapery under the shelter of the old oaks tree on its banks required soothing, for the voice of Lillian Melville was set to a happy, blithe tune, and the responding a happy, blithe tune, and the responding one of her companion, Miss Lucas, was, though quiet, not troubled.

Lillian Melville had grown into the fulfilment of her girlhood's promise, and was a beautiful, some said, for her own and men's peace.

was a beautiful woman, too beautiful, some said, for her own and men's peace.

The quick, expressive, delicate outline of the girl had grown into a lovely, elothrilled one to the core, and eyes that the transfer of the mental of the core, and eyes that the transfer of the mental of the core, and eyes that the transfer of the male sex ever looked in the depths of those dark, melting eyes but remembered them too well—too well, for, though no flirt, Lillian could not but sinspire love, and all who had yet proclaimed it in their manner—none had dared to more definitely—learned that beined the beautiful face lay a heart not easy to woo nor lightly to be won.

"So you think, Kate, that it is near dressing time? I wonder how you know. Do you tell by the sun or by your appetite? The afternoon has melted away—yes, that is the word—melted, dissolved, and mingled with the air in such an insensible, intangible way that time has had no sense or being for me.

"There! "she added, laughing lightly. "There! Was that not prettily expressed? Quite Schillerish, quite Kateish."

"There! Was that not prettily express-ed? Quite Schillerish, quite Kateish. Did it not do your heart good? It should, for I believe—really, I learned it from you—you dear, tormenting creature."

"You have learned very few things of me, Lily," replied Miss Lucas, raising her cold, expressionless eyes for a moment to the sweet, laughing face before her, then dropping them again to the needlework in her hands—the hands that were never idle, never empty.

To have seen Miss Lucas without the long, thin strip of embroidery, that was always in progress but never appeared in its finished or utilized state, would have been as curious a sight as two

"Oh, that's not just, it is cruel," re-Ton, that's not just, it is crue, retorted the other. What, rather, have I not learned, dear Kate? What was I but an ignorant, untaught savage of the deepest, darkest dye, when, three years since, you came like a simple—no, not simple—earnest missionary, to reclaim, teach and civilize me."

Again the pale, set face was lifted, and again dropped.

"One thing I shall never succeed in Again dropped.

"One thing I shall never succeed in teaching you, Lillian, and that is to moderate the wild talking you seem to have acquired. Do you ever think seriously of the effect such random speech must have on strange cars?"

"Yes," laughed the pupil, undaunted by her companion's gravity. "Yes, of ten; but, Kate, try as I will to bridle my tongue, I am compelled to acknowledge that, if thought is always free, speech you never are that, though; but I shall is sometimes. Oh, don't be angry—no, never forget the good old duke's look of unmitigated horror when I told him that the poor man's rights near his palace, was a man and a brother! Kate, though they all looked so shocked, and poor papa grew red and fidgeted with his napkin, they knew it was true; they were not moved a hair's breadth at the duke's calling the man a scoundrel and a low, radical rascal. But there, Kate, I am sorry: I couldn't help it. It came out hefore I knew what I had said, and—"
Here the girl broke off with a low ripple of laughing music.

"Here the girl broke off with a low ripple of laughing music."

"Again transport the governess, who was going towards the house—"I want to tell you something that Miss Lucas should hear. Shall I detain you. Miss Lucas!"

"No, Sir Ralph," replied the governess, turning back and walking by his side, calm and sedately, ready for the communication.

"You remember," said Sir Ralph, to Lilian, "Expressing a wish to learn Italian, Lily?"

"One you mean that you do not care to learn now?" asked Sir Ralph, placidly, to well accustomed to the vacillation of his beloved daughter's whims to be surprised.

"No, no, I do want to still, dear papa," she replied; "but I mean that the was good of you to remember it," and set stoked the hand which lay in hers. "Well," said Sir Ralph, "I might not have done so, my dear, perhaps, had it not been brought to my remembrance by Packer."

"By Packer, How?" said Lilian.

Miss Lucas shook her head.

"It was wrong," she said, with the same inflexible, unchanging voice. "The Duke of Sparkleton is a great nobleman, too old to be censured by one so young and inexperienced, least of all by a girl."

"There now," said the girl, pouting, "that is always the way you crush me, Kate. I am not a girl, in your sense of the word. Why, do you know how old I am?" she exclaimed, opening her beautiful eyes with deep gravity.

"Not twenty," replied her companion, looking at the face, which in its expression of sudden, calm, earnestness, was shadowed by a look of pride.

"Well, is not that old? Another ten, forty, and that is very, very old for a woman. Twenty," she repeated, in a lower voice, and with a wietful gaze fixed on the river. "Twenty! It seems a long life—twenty years—yet how short. Why, Kate"—tairning with a resumption of gravity—"I have not begun to live yet, I confess. Some girls at twenty have gone through a world of things—run up the gamut of the emotions—have loved, hated, joyed, sorrowed! Now, I—well, my life has been one pleasant, sunny dream, with the old hall there for a sleep palace, and dear, dear papa, as a guarian to keep the wasps and hornets sleep palace, and dear, dear papa, as a mardian to keep the wasps and hornet rom me."

The fixed eyes were raised again, th The fixed eyes were raised again, this time with a concentrated regard that was neither one of love, hate nor curiosity, simply concentrated and expressionless, as if the orbs were of glass, masking the real, seeing eyes looking through them.

"A dream, Lillian; have you never "A dream. Lillian; have you never thought of the awakening?"
"Never." replied the girl, looking dreamily out upon the river again. "I do not know what you mean. What awakening could there be? I am content to sleep on, unlike the princess in the story, who was called to life and love by a strange knight's embrace."

The governess looked at the rapt face

The governess looked at the rapt face of the speaker and commenced rolling up the piece of embroidery.
"Come," she said, "I hear the church clock chiming five. We must go."
"Must we! I do not hear it striking. What ears you have, Kate. I think you see farther and hear quicker than most cople. Papa thinks so, too."
The set face twitched with a slight

"Sir Ralph is always generous in over-rating my poor abilities," said the thin, compressed lips.

Lilian laughed:

"You are ever grateful for a very little praise, Kate," she said, putting her arm within her companion's affectionately.

"I wish I were as good and quiet and

"We have been seated in the shade, Sir Ralph; I do not think it was too hot for Miss Lilian." Sir Ralph bowed to the calmly spoken decision, as had grown to be the custo with him, in regard to most of Miss Lucas' opinions.

"That is right, then: I feared Lilian had been alone, and indiscreet enough to rest in the sun."

She was wont to smile at his over-regard for her safety and minor comforts, and sometimes to rebel against the extreme, the too anxious consideration which Sir Ralph would show for her fickle whims and wishes. "I happened to be speaking of a deed which he had brought me for signature and praising the clear and legible way in which it was regressed. He replied that it was rather extraordinary that it should be so well copied, for that it was the work of a young man unacquainted with that kind of legal work. Then, being on the subject, I suppose, proceeded to tell me that the young man was an extremely clever and deserving person. He was an Italian, it keems person. He was an Italian, it seems—I do not think Packer said that he was, by the by—but from the fact of his speaking Italian and being dark and evidently a foreigner. Important Masonic Ceremony In That Place Yesterday.

Monument to Capt Kerr Erected by Brethren.

Splendid Address by the Gran-Master, A. T. Freed. One of the most important Masonic vents of the year was held at Burlington yesterday, the unveiling of the mon

About 250 of the brethren in regalia walked to St. Luke's Church, Burlington, headed by a contingent of Knights Templars, who were followed by Indian mmissioners, Bro. Gordon Smith and six stalwart representatives of the Six Nation Indians. The 13th Regiment was represented by Col. W. E. Moore and represented by Col. W. E. Moore and Major Ross; the 91st by Capt. Stewart and Lieut. Stevens; the Battery by Lieut. Taylor and Dr. O'Reilly. The 20th Halton, the 37th Haldimand Rifles were also represented. The "Old Barton Lodge" has reason to feel gratified at the splendid success of this fine historical event. The lodge at Burlington, which had its divine service also yesterday, was crowded out by the great attendance. The services were conducted by the Rev. Mr. Harvey, at the church, which was beautifully decorated, and the sermon was one directed to Masons which was beautifully decorated, and the sermon was one directed to Masons especially, by Bro. Bro John Hoodless took charge of the ceremonies.

But the few regular troops in Canada acquitted themselves nobly; the men of Canada sprang to arms in defence of their homes and their liberties; and the Iudians gallantly mached to the aid of dians gallantly marched to the aid of their white brethren. At Mackinaw, at their white brethren. At Mackinaw, at Detroit, at Queenston, at Chateauguay, at Lacolle, at Stoney Creek, at Benver Dam, and Lundy's Lane, and on many another hard-fought field, the invaders were hurled back, and whon, at the intercession of the Emperor of Russia, Great Britain granted peace to the republic, there was not a soldier of the United States in Canada, save those who languished in its prisons or slumbered beneath its sod. The armies of the republic were baffled and beaten back, its treasury was bankrupt, and its mational flag had ceased to wave on the ocean.

'Among the first to take up arms was William Johnson Kerr. He. took command of the Indians of the Six Nations, and was engaged in nearly all the battles along the Niagara frontier. "On the 23rd of June, 1813, Lieut. Fitzgibbon, with fifty regular troops, was stationed at DeCew's house, near the spot at present occupied by the power house of the Catract Power Company. Captain Kerr and his force of Indians was at the Beaver Dam, about two miles cast of the position of Lieut. Fitzgibbon. United States troops, in strong force, occupied the whole of the Niagara frontier, their headquarters being the town of Newark, now Niagara-on-the-Lake. This army was too strong to be openly assailed by the meager forces of Gen. Vincent; but detached parties watched the enemy's line, cut off marauding parties and gave him such annoyance that it was resolved to attempt reprisals. One of these was to be the capture or destruction of Lieut. Fitzgibbon's command at DeCew's. On the evening of June 23. Boerstler was ordered to take command of an expeditionary force consisting of the 14th regular infantry with detaphwest.

"At this moment Lieut. Fitzgibbon appeared upon the scene with his company of regulars, and, making a quick and accurate survey of the situation, sent an officer to demand the surrender of the enemy. After some parleying, the demand was complied with, and the whole of the enemy's force surrendered, except a few who had skulked off through the woods and escaped.

"The fight at Beaver Dam had an important bearing upon the result of the war, and materially contributed to the final victory. To Captain Kerr and his brave Indians must be given due meed of praise. His name should be kept in remembrance by all Canadian Masons who love their craft, and by all sons of Canada who love their country.
"The thunder of the guns has died away, and the hatreds and jealousies of the last century are silenced with it. The citizen of the United States passes with indifference over fields where his ancestors strove to conquer Canada. The ancestors strove to conquer Canada. Near the scene of the conflict of which I have spoken the falling waters generate power which, transmitted to distant towns and cities, gives light to the people and turns the wheels of busy industry. 'The old order changeth, giving place to new,' and we no longer fear that fratricidal strife shall array our brethren of the great republic against this fair Dominion. Nevertheless, it is proper that we should remember the heroic deeds and the great sear lifes of our fathers—what they did and what they suffered in order that they might hand down to us a heritage of freedom and the dower of empire. Rev. C. Sinclair Applegath

Pleased Large Congregations. Large numbers of the members and dherents of Ryerson Methodist Church turned out yesterday to hear the first ermons by Rev. C. Sinclair Applegath, as pastor. Mr. Applegath had very instructive and helpful messages and propounded his texts in such a manner as to command the attention of his listeners from start to finish.

In the morning he selected as his theme Thessalonians v. 25: "Brethren, pray for us." He said the text was one of the little gems of the Bible and could be compared with the diamond which sparkled without assistance. An imitation of a diamond can be detected by its lack of lustre and so the text was one that had been inspired of the spirit of God and bore His mark upon it. The special time for prayer should be any time, and if it is understood aright the spirit of prayer would be obtained whereby it would be the same to talk to ers from start to finish. spirit of prayer would be obtained whereby it would be the same to talk to

TIMES FIGURES CORRECT

The Spec having estimated that the city will lose $200,000 through the Hydro power contract, its esteemed contemporary the Times hastens to prove its zeal as an estimator by figuring out that the loss will be a round half-million. No use attempting to outdo the Times in ground-and-lofty estimating.—Hamilton Herald.

That is intended to be trushingly "smart," but it succeeds only in being silly. There was no question of Times silly. There was no question of Times estimates involved; the "estimating" was done by Mr. Lobb, of the Hydro Electric Commission; the Times work terms and conditions as may be mutuwas one of arithmetical computation, ally agreed upon. and we observe that the Herald has not impugued the substantial correctness of

Mr. Lobb's figures showed that on the of $3,525 a year; on 1,000 h.p., $4,700 a

The Mayor and city officials add items not taken into account by Mr. Lobb, and find that the loss may be $9 a horse-power. At that rate the annual loss would be $6,050 on 750 h.p.; $9,000 on 1,000 h.-p.

The loss on Mr. Lobb's computation, would be $205,489.94 in the 30 years on 750 h.-p.; $274,141.60 on 1,000 h.p.

The loss on the City Hall estimate of the price reaching $25 would be $235,-884.40 on 750 h.-p.; and $525,952 on 1,-

Any reader can test our computation for himself. One dollar deposited at the beginning of each year at 4 p. c. interest, compounded semi-annually, will in 30 years amount to $58,328. It is a simple question of multiplying that sum by amount which we lose annually in the Hydro deal as compared with the contract with the local company.

If we take 1.000 h.-p., and the Mayor's estimate of $25 a h.-p. be realized lose $9 a h.-p. a year as compared with the Cataract price or $9,000. Multiplying that 9,000 by 58.328 we get, not round half million" as the Herald charges us with saying, but $524,952. Mr. Lobb's figure showing a loss of $4 .-70, gives a 30-year aggregate loss of $274,141,60

And that is why the Herald indulged in a sneer, instead of dealing with the facts and figures and attempting 'to refute them and show them to be wrong

But the Herald affects to be "sporty." and now that the Spectator has present ed to it a chance to help along its favored charity with $10,000-either the the ratepayers) we look for it to prompt ly cover its contemporary's money. The Spectator proposes to back its statement that the Hydro power will cost more than the $16 Cataract figure with the following deposits: $2 per h.p. higher, $5,000; $4. higher, $2,000; $6 higher, $2,000; $9 higher, $1,000, or such smaller sums as the Herald chooses to fix. charity or charities he chooses.

In view of the Herald's sneer, quoted at the beginning of this article, it may be interesting to point out that it now has a chance to take for charity $1,000 Spectator money, if Hydro power does not cost the city $9 a horse-power more than the $16 figure of the Cataract contract. A loss of $9 a horse-power on 1, 000 h.p. would in 30 years cost the city not merely the "round half million" at 'ground-and-lofty estimating,"

Now, will the Hydro organ accept the challenge, or will it confess that it has formation as to the state of British been engaged in a disloyal conspiracy to betray the ratenavers to their hurt and to sacrifice the interests of the city?

A BRITISH VIEW.

The Manchester Guardian is not enthusiastic on the presenting of Dreadnoughts by the colonists to the British navy. It says that there is little evidsace to support the idea that the Bri- Times approves of the course of the tish fleet is any larger than it would defend, or that if the colonies did their share in naval defence the share of the notherland would be less. It even admits that the naval defence of Canada can hardly be said to cost Great Britain anything. Undeterred by the abuse of those jingoes who regard it as infra dig. and unpatriotic to consider the Monroe doctrine in connection with the defencethat by leaving the United States navy out of their calculations, the British statesmen frankly concede that they recognize that that doctrine works out to Canada's greater security. The Guardian's study leads it to conclude the defence of the overseas Dominions has nothing to do with the size of the national budget. It seriously doubts that colonial contributions, however generous, would reduce the British estimates for defence. "Why," it pertinently asks, has no one suggested that one Dreadhought be knocked off our programme because of New Zealand's offer?" Every gift, it contends, would create a corres onding obligation and tend to compliate the problems of defence as well as of politics. It is fully convinced that ough colonial gifts are esteemed as ols of unity, and in time of real their value should not be dis-

"The service rendered this way will have much greater and more perm-Dreadnoughts to the Imperial navy, gratifying as the spirit which dictates these is. ONE MORE STEP.

The Special Power Committee of the Council on Saturday afternoon decided to send up a recommendation that the Council apply to the Hydro-Electric Com. mission for 1,000 horse-power on such

This is what the committee was pected to do, as the result of the recent vote; and its action will probably, in due course, lead to an understanding order we stood to lose $4.70 a horse-power over the guaranteed Cataract Solicitor cautioned the aldermen as to of the legal situation created. The City rate. On 750 h.-p. that would be a loss the probable consequences of the course on which they have set out, saying that he did not wish to be charged later on with having failed to warn the aldermen before they tied the Council up to another contract. His advice was to try to induce the serving of an injunction so that the liability of the city could be determined. There appeared, however, to be a general belief that so far as the Cataract Company is concerned, it will merely fulfil its part of the contract to the letter, confident that, if the city defaults, the Council will be obliged to make good any losses which may be caused to it.

a few of the advocates of the Hydro scheme to Pilate-like wash their hands of all liability for the ugly mess into which they have brought the city in this matter. Their attitude is expressed by the statement of Ald. Morris, a member of the special committee: "We are the servants of the people, not their mas-ters; and they have spoken." This takes no account whatever of the gross deception which has been practised upon the people in connection with this Hydro scheme. Its advocates have never placed the matter frankly before the public. Even the statements circulated at the recent vote, and the speeches made at the meetings held in the Hydro interest were of the most misleading and unreliable character. Some of them were knowingly and designedly false, and were made with the object of betraying the ratepayers. And a plebiscite taken under such conditions and at which but a small fraction of the vote was polled, is now put forward as the excuse for Spec's money or its own (the Spec's, if violating a most advantageous agreethe Herald is not an arrant deceiver of ment and plunging the city into litigation, to say nothing of entailing serious injury to her growth and progress.

It would be well if a decision of the courts could be obtained at once; but if the local company chooses to stand upon its rights and place upon the Hydro advocates the onus of the difficulties raised, the public will hardly blame it. And, unfortunately, it is hardly likely the winner to award the amount to what that the men who are looking after their own personal interests in committing the city to this Hydro scheme will be found to show much solicitude for the ratepayer for whose taxes they have so at, but an expedient to be put up with keen an appetite.

A resolution was moved declaring that national defence was the most urgent queswhich figure the Herald sneered as tion of the day for the Empire, but it was very wisely withdrawn, $524,952, the amount stated by the ing newspaper men appear to have enieved their outing and perhaps some of them have gathered a good deal of inpinion with which they were brought nto contact, but, further than that, the Empire is very much as it was before they struck the shores of the United Kingdom, Why should such a conference have been expected to shape defence pol-As the London News points ou "the conference which is seriously going to discuss Imperial defence does not conference in abstaining from passing any definite resolution as to defence. These amendments are a kind of club intended to be used against Canada, Ontario and Quebec forbidding the export of pulp wood from their Crown Lands. As a coercion measure it will prove a flat failure.

There is a little joker or two in this Hydro legislation that the power municipalities do not seem to have noticed. The municipalities have no rights under the contract, and the commission cannot They must just pay what is demanded and put up with it. Moreover he agreement may be altered in any way "the Lieutenant-Governor in Coun which is the Government-likes, and they have no recourse. In all but paying the bills Whitney is "it." And if power cost twice as much as the "esti mates" the obsessed municipalities must

In his speech in the Legislature discuss ply, Mr. McNaught, M. P. P., in speak ng of pasteurization pointed out that the treatment of the milk according to this system was not the goal to be aimed He compared it with boiling dirty, im pure water to be used for drinking purposes. "You may kill the germs, but you have left the dirt in and taken the life out of the water, and it is not nearly so palatable as it was before it was boil ed." That is true: moreover, pasteuriza tion, as it is usually performed, does not certainly kill many of the more dan gerous disease germs. The secret of ob taining pure milk lies in beginning with healthy herds, and producing the milk under conditions of perfect sanitation.

Power Committee Decides to Take 1,000 Horse Power.

City Solicitor and Mayor Advise Caution In Matter.

ending the council to apply to the Hydro-Electric Commission for one thousand horse power for Hamilton, the special committee on Satur-day afternoon passed a resolution, the wording of which, the aldermen will cause the Cataract Company to open fire in the legal battle likely to ensue before the situation is adjusted. Mayor McLaren and his colleagues frankly admitted that the resolution was an invitation for the company to serve an injunction. They want to have the legality of the Cataract contract threshed out in the courts at once to avoid the possibility of the city being tied up to two contracts.

There was talk of injunction proceedings on Saturday, but the aldermen waited in vain. Those who profess to know say the company has no intention of making any such move. It will assume a "stand pat" position until it is time to enforce the contract.

A FINE POINT THIS.

While the committee were scanning the Hydro contract the city engineer called attention to the clause which says that municipalities shall use at all times, first class, modern, standard and commercial apparatus to be approved of by the commission. His interpretation of this was that the commission at any time it saw fit might order the city to rip out its machinery and he advised the alderment to inquire about this.

The city will reserve the right to instal its own meters at every point where it takes power so as to keep a thorough check on what it is paying for. The aldermen igure out this is the only way of letting the people know the expense they will be under.

The following resolution was then moved by Ald. Morris and seconded by Ald. Anderson after some manoaeuvring:

SOLICITOR ADVICES CAUTION.

SOLICITOR ADVICES CAUTION.

The City Solicitor cautioned the aldermen about the lawsuit which he thought was almost sure to follow. The reason he drew attention to this was because he did not want to be charged later with being negligent, and not explaining to the Corncil before it tied itself up to another contract, just where it stood. With all deference to Justice Anglin's opinion on the power contract. Anglin's opinion on the power contract, Mr. Waddell said there was no doubt that he had instructions to draw it for a five-year contract. He advised the aldermen to do anything they could to encourage an injunction so that the city could find out at once its liability.

could find out at once its liability.

This view was strongly supported by the Mayor. 'I take the ground,' he said, "that if the company thinks it has any rights it would be conferring a favor on both parties by settling the point now rather than after we are tied up, putting us in the position of having to pay for both.

'I have been opposed to this all the way through,' declared Ald. Allan, "but if the people want Hydro power they have a perfect right to have it." He refused, however to second Ald. Morris' resolution, although he did not oppose it.

"True," said Ald. Peregrine, "but we have a contract entered into by last year's Council which we cannot violate."
Ald. Peregrine asked that his vote be recorded against the resolution, which he had no objection to if the city made some arrangement with the Cataract.
Ald. Morris made some objection to having the minutes of the meetings printed in the Council proceedings, but the committee thought otherwise and backed up Mayor McLaren.

FLOWER DAY.

Delightful Services In Knox Church Yesterday.

Nature in all the radiance of bahny une was reflected at the annual flower day service in Knox Presbyterian Church yesterday morning. Banked high around the padpit beautiful ferns, wild flowers yesterday morning. Banked high around the publit beautiful ferns, wiid flowers and a wealth of potted plants filled the edifice with their fragrance, while dozene of canaries made the building echo with their sweet notes. It was essentially a service for the young people, who filled the gallery, and, under the direction of Harry Alsan, the organist, unassisted by the choir, sang an especailly appropriate hymn, while the congregation remained seated. The musical portion of the service was a pleasing feature, including a tenor solo by Mr. W. J. McBretney, of Toronto, who was with the pastor, Rev. E. A. Mitchell, in the evangelistic campaign in the Kootenay, and a quartette, "The Wayside Cross," by Messrs. Chester Walters, Geo. Ogilvie, W. J. Smythe and Geo. Pendlington.

From the starfish the pastor in his sermon drew many striking and helpful lessons for the young folks. The starfish, he pointed out, was wonderful in what it was, in its peculiar growth, in what it was, in the pointed out, was man like the starfish, after cutting it off, they could raise themselves from ignorance to wisdom. The ability of this peculiar fish to hold to a hard, smooth surface in a time of storm emphasized the lesson that boys and girls should cling to the Rock of Ages during the storms and difficulties of life. The starfish was wonderful, too, position until it is time to enforce the contract.

George S. Kerr was at the meeting, but he volunteered no information as to whom he was representing.

"Are you appearing for the people?" asked his Worship casually "Which people?" was Mr. Kerr's non-commital reply. Then the committee got down to business.

"Outrageous," observed Ald. Allan when the account of E. B. Merrill, the electrical expert, who assisted City Engineer Macallum in getting information for the aldermen, was presented. It was for $110, made up of $50 a day for attendance and $10 for travelling and hotel expenses. The account was passed after some of the aldermen suggested the advisability hereafter of finding out in advance what experts' fees were likely to be.

The starfish was wonderful, too, because in the early stages of its growth it was difficult to tell what it was going to be. In this way it resembled many little boys, who, while apparently rough and uncouth, frequently turned out to be excellent men. One of the most important lessons to be drawn from this fish was the fact that all its parts worked harmoniously. In the Sunday school ed harmoniously. In the Sunday school or church, where all the officers, the scholars and people did not work harmoniously, there could not be success.

BROADWAY THRILL.

Detective and Burglar Struggle on Nine-Storey High Cornice.

New York, June 26 .- As a result of desperate hand-to-hand struggle on a desperate hand-to-hand struggle on the roof of a ten-storey Broadway building, while hundreds in the street below looked on, George Clayton, 23 years old, of No. 201 East 66th street, was taken to St. Vincent's Hospital this afternoon with a bullet wound in his leg. The man who fired the shot and who narrowly missed being hurled to the street was Detective Toner, of the Central office, who was trying to arrest Clayton and two companions for attempting to break into

Then Clayton climbed a ten-foot cor-nice which overlooks Broadway and de-fied the detectives to come after him. Toner took the dare, and in a moment both men were struggling on the corboth men were struggling on the cor-nice, Toner trying to get his man to the roof, while Clayton was doing his best to throw the detective off the building. The bullet lodged in Clayton's leg, and he dropped to the roof.

uty Grand Master, gave the introductory address. He said some wondered why they were not decorating all the graves, and the explanation was that the ground was too wet at such an early season, but that preparations were being made so that this would be possible another year, and the decoration would take place later in the season. Under the circumstances the plot only was to be decorated this year.

The plot was then decorated, and after the band played "Nearer, My God, to Thee," Bro. A. H. Blackeby delivered the address. He said they were not making a pilgrimage of sorrow, but to decorate the last resting place of those members who had passed away and to keep fresh in their memories the virtues of the departed brethren. Some were lying in unknown graves; others had trophies and monuments reared over their heads, but all were equally dear to the order, which knows no sex nor station in life. NORTHWEST.

Needs of the Church Told by Baptist Field Secretary.

Church was occupied yesterday morning by the Rev. Walter Daniel, B. A., reprewest. Two years ago the Baptists of Ontario subscribed $11,000 to Northwest missions; last year over $20,000 was raised, the Laymen's Missionary Movement being an important factor in the large increase. This year they are looking forward hopefully to increasing the amount to $25,000. The speaker said there were three conditions existing in the Northwest. First, a very extensive area to cover; second, its rapid-development by incoming immigrants; third, opportunity for work in the four western Provinces. On each of these points he spoke cloquently and earnestly. He said the Baptists must work hard, not in the spirit of rivalry, but side by side with the other denominations. There are 12,000 Baptists in the Northwest, besides over $,000 members of eastern churches, who cannot get to church, and how to get in touch with them was a live question. In glowing language the speaker described the possibilities of the Northwest from a commercial and political standpoint. He thought Braudon College ought to have a Scandinavian, a German and a Russian department. In twenty-five years' time the west will have the biggest population and will rule.

"What is our aim?" asked the speaker. "The west must be spiritualized and each one present can do a part in this great work."

WOMEN OF WENTWORTH.

Annual Convention of the Institute at Waterdown.

The annual convention of the Woman's Institute of North Wentworth was held in the Township Hall, Waterdown, 200 delegates being in attendance. The hall was prettily decorated for the occasion with flags, bunting and flowers. Mrs. Cornell, Rockton, District President, oc eupled the chair. The meeting was open-ed by singing "The Maple Leaf," after which Mrs. Cornell in a chort speech ex-pressed her pleasure at securing such a large number of delegates present. She spoke of how to interest young girls in institute work. Being a member of the institute, she claimed she would be of vast assistance to any woman in her housework and charact. cupied the chair. spoke of how to interest young girls in institute work. Being a member of the institute, she claimed she would be of vast assistance to any woman in her housework, and advocated the taking up of the following subjects at meetings: "Home life, schools, etc. She disapproved of the habit so prevalent amongst members of beaving everything to be dedecided by the president. Matters that could easily be settled amongst themselves. A paper on "Beautifying the Home," prepared by Mrs. W. G. Drummond, and read by Miss Cummings, of Millgrove, showed careful preparation contained many useful huits as to the cheapest way this can be accomplished. She denounced the practice of purchasing expensive articles of furniture and advocated the buying of cheaper household effects. The children, she claimed, should be made fair sharers in the beauties of the home.

Mrs. J. E. McDonough, District Secretary, read her annual report, which was a very gratifying one, and showed a substantial increase in membership and also in amount of funds collected. The institutes are at the present time in a flourishing condition. Owing to the unavoidable absence of Mr. Putnam, Tororto, who was billed for an address, Mr. Farmer, one of his assistants, was substituted, and ably addressed the meeting on institute work. He spoke of the unselfish interest that is being taken by women, in home work. Woman's Institute matters, he claimed, were for home and country. He also touched on various other subjects of interest to the country, viz. ecience, invention and commerce. The true greatness of mational life, he claimed, lies in the home, a national development of its resources. He spoke of the untiring, unselfish labor given by our mothers and said that a haphazard drifting along will not produce the same results.

Mrs. P. D. Crerar, of Hamilton, delivered an able address on "Sanitariums for Consumptives," and gave a synopsis of what is being done not only in her home city, but also in Toronto, Gravenhurst and other places, towards conquering the white plague and spoke of the kindness of Mr. Grafton, of Dundas, and other friends in fur ton, of Dundas, and other friends in fur-nishing the funds to build and equip ad-ditional buildings for Hamilton Sanator-ium, making it one of the most thor-oughly up-to-date on the continent. She also quoted figures to show the large number of patients received at the insti-tution last month, which was over 100. She announced that a free dispensary had been opened in the city, where the afflicted could be examined by one of the Sanitorium staff and receive free treatment.

Miss McMurchie, of Harriston, Provin cial demonstrator, gave a demonstratio on "Table Setting and Serving of Meals. Her address was interesting and instructive. She also gave some useful hints as to the kind and quality of linen to be used for table cloths, and also in the se tion of dishes, etc. Tray cloths and centre pieces should be of white linen. She also advocated the assigning to children the duties of serving meals and the setting of the table.

The musical portion of the programme was furnished by the following well-known artists: Solos and duets by the Misses Robertson, Waterdown, and Mrs. Weir, Hamilton; instrumental solo, by Miss Webb, of Flamboro.

Mrs. (Dr.) J. O. McGregor, on behalf of Waterdown Institute, read an address of welcome to the visiting delegates. Mrs. McDonough replied on behalf of the visitors, thanking them for their kindly address of welcome.

Lord Charles Beresford to Press Conference.

Imperial Trade Routes Should be Protected by Oversea States.

London, June 27.-(C. A. P.)-Lord Esher presided at the concluding session of the Imperial Press Conference The adjourned discussion of Imperial defence was resumed. The chairman told the delegates he night it impossible to agree upon thought it impossible to agree upon a definite scheme of Imperial naval defence. "If, however, you can agree upon a plan which will give you good asilors and good officers, then good ships and the right type of ships are bound to follow," he said.

"Your true guides will ultimately be not the British Admiralty, but your own expert officers, who will have learned their naval lesson in the main battle fleet, who will be in touch with the strategical plans of the British Admiralty, and also in touch with your own sentiment and your own neieds."

The necessities of Imperial mili-

with your own sentiment and your own neieds."

The necessities of Imperial military defence, Lord Esher said, were summed up in these words: "Imperial General Staff." He then emphasized the necessity of organizing the whole resources of the nation for the purposes of defence. In future victory would rest with the organized nation.

LORD CHARLES BERESFORD.

Lord Charles Beresford thought the grave notes in the statesmen's speeches during the conference were due to the fact that they knew the nation was not prepared for defence. He thought owing to deferred liabilities and other things it was impossibe for Britain to maintain the two-power standard without the aid of the five sister nations. "Don't let us be in a hurry, but don't let us be too long; let us meet together on the same platform and discuss how each can help the other."

form and discuss how each can help the other."

Admiral Beresford suggested that the oversea States could do most by protecting the weakest places—namely the Imperial trade routes. They should have mobile defence forces, and he advocated an interchange of cruisers, pointing out the pleasure it would be to British sailors to see a Canadian or Australian ship leading the line.

THE NAVY PERSONNEL.

THE NAVY PERSONNEL.

Having praised the personnel of the navy, which had never been better in the last fifty years, he referred to the "mad infatuation" which resulted in sliminating repairing stations over the world. He suggested that the oversea States might put those in repair. He concluded by declaring that when it came to war the oversea fleets must come under a great strategic bureau, which will be at the Admiralty, but is not there now. (Laughter and applause.)

Lord Beresford's reference to the absence of a strategical bureau at the Admiralty called out a sharp rebuke from W. T. Stead, who declared that no man should use his position in society or his popularity in the newspapers to intrigue against and villify man (Admiral Sir John Fisher) whom the King and two successive Ministries had placed in office.

Sir John French dealt with the question of an Imperial General Staff, in order to wed together the scattered forces of the empire, and asked the delegates to use their power in furthering this object. (Hear, hear.)

Thomas Temperley, of Bathurst, Australia, moved a resolution that national defence was the most urgent question of the day for the empire. The Australian home delegates monopolized the ensuing discussion.

A FECKLESS RESOLUTION.

A FECKLESS RESOLUTION.

Towards the close Mr. J. A. Macdonld, of Toronto, rose and said he oped the resolution would not be ut; first, because it either meant too ttle or too much; second, because it ould not express the result of the conference. The result, he said, is hat we all know and see each other's tandpoint and obligations, and we go ack wint a wide outlook and a sense
if empire relationship and empire obigations which could not be expressd by a feckless, thewless, pithless back with a wide outlook and a sense of empire relationship and empire obligations which could not be expressed by a feckless, thewless, pithless resolution. The conference had not been a junket, it had been a serious affair largely because it was not bound by any resolution, and they would go back truer Empire men.

Referring particularly to defence, he said if Canada had 20,000,000 people, no power could wipe it off the map, but with a nation of 80,000,000 alongside her, the behooved Canada to be wise. Their international boundary was 3,000 miles without a gun and without a ship. He desired to see that one instance of the humanity of cilivization retaineed undisturbed. (Applause.)

Mr. Temperley withdrew the resolution.

ADMIRAL BERESFORD'S PROMISE. Lord Charles Beresford, at the conclusion of the conference, promised Mr. J. A Macdonald and Mr. J. S. Brierley that during his visit to Canada he would peak at the opening of the Toronto Exhibition and before the Canadian Clubs at Toronto and Montreal.

The greatest gratification was expressibly the Canadian delegates at Admiral Beresford's prompt acceptance of the invitation to speak at Toronto and Montreal. He, on his part, spoke of the deep pleasure it would be to him to address undences of Canada.

of the end of high cable charges throughout the Empire.

The News says it is true the Imperial Press conference has been allowed lucid intervals in which to discuss literature and cable rates and make Provincial tours, but from the beginning to the end Imperial defence has been their favite subject, and though it is quite right for journalists to be well up-to-date, some one might perhaps have reminded them that the conference which is seriously going to discuss Imperial defence does not meet till next month.

The Times says the conference has been in every way a memorable success. Like the Mail, it expresses confidence that the announcement regarding the Pacific cable rates is only the first instalment of a general reduction in rates and emphasizes the belief that the influence of the conference will prove no less valuable in other directions. The Times thinks the conference did wisely in abstaining from embodying its views on Imperial defence in any definite resolution. "In this respect," it says, "the conference discharged that which is essentially the proper function of the press in preparing by public discussion for more or less concrete action, which will be taken by that other conference

SPOKE WORDS OF FAREWELL.

Three Methodist Ministers Closed Their Pastorates Here.

Rev. Treleaven's Earnest Words at First Methodist.

Rev. Hollinrake and Rev. Bell Said Parting Words.

"Let me urge you to the utmost of my might, in your highest and holiest interest; by the flight of time and the near approach of eternity; by the love my might, in your highest and holest interest; by the flight of time and the near approach of eternity; by the love of Him who laid down his lire for you; by the life you may win and the ceath you may shun; by the heaven that shines above you and the hell that yawns beneath, let me beseech you to become reconciled and to make this thour the hour of your decision for Jesus Christ and eternal life."

At the close of an earnest sermon, his last as pastor of First Methodist Church, Rev. R. J. Treleaven last evening addressed these pleading words to any unsaved who might be in the congregation. He had preached from First Corinthians, xv. 58: "Therefore my beloved brethern, be ye steadfast, unmovable always abounding in the work of the Lord, for se much as ye know that your labor is not in vain in the Lord." He dealt with the practical view of Christiansty, which the text gave. Christians were to labor in the Lord; they were to be steadfast and unmovable, and they had the promise that their labor would not be in vain in the Lord. Religion must be sought after with the whole heart. It must be gained step by step, repentance, grace, love—and in all be steadfast.

After the conclusion of this earnest appeal Mr. Treelaven said a few words of farewell: "You will perceive, dear friends," he said, "That I have had no new message for you. I felt that I would be untrue to my trust if I neglected to preach this old gospel which has been the joy of my heart. I shall carry away from this First Church the most kindly memories. Four years ago I came amongst you almost a perfect stranger and from that day to this I have hed reason to be thankful to God for the kind support and enouragement you have given me during the term of my ministry. I want to say to you as I said to those who were present on Thursday night, that I regret that. I have been able to do so little. I feel that I have been able to do so little. I feel that I have been able to do so little. I feel that of the pressure of outside work. I have felt that I had the work work of two men on my shoulders and liave not been able to give the attention to this church that I should have. The prosperity of the work at Crown Point this rejoiced me, when I came here I found that for 15 or 20 years Methodism had seemed to make fittle growth. There were no new churches or missions. I am had seemed to make fittle growth, There were no new churches or missions. I am glad, indeed, that during my four years I have seen three healthy and vigorous missions established and making good progress—Crown Point, Garth Street Mission in the west, and Ryerson. I want here and now to thank God that He put it in the hearts of the people of this church to help that cause so nobly, and I solicit for them your continued cooperation and support. It will do you good to help the weak. But because of all these things, and being chairman of the district for three years, I have not been able to do for this church what I would have liked. I thank you for your patience, kindness and forbearance. If you have had complaints in your heart you have kept them covered up. I hope, if the time ever comes that I shall have the privilege of serving this church the privilege of serving this church again, I will be able to devote a much greater portion of my time to its service. I am delighted with the progress the mission cause has made and with the fine advances made by the temperance cause. I wish I could be here to see the completion of the work, but I shall be glad to come back and rejoice with you in victory."

giad to come man and report in victory."

Mr. Treelaven spoke most appreciatively of the work of the choir and societies of the church and asked all to extend to his successor, Rey. E. B. Lanceley the warm welcome and continued kindness that they had given him. Just as they co-operated with and sustained him would his work be successful.

MR. HOLLINRAKE'S FAREWELL. In Zion Tabernacle last night Rev F, W. Hollinrake preached his farewell sermon to the congregation. The church was filled to capacity, evidencing the love of the members for their pastor and sorrow at his departure. The pastorate of Mr. Hollinrake has been most successful. To his successor will be handed a church in the best of condition in every respect. For his text Mr. Hollinrake chose the list portion of Revelation ii. 10: "Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life." This was his parting message. The speaker dwelt on the meaning of the word faithfulness, and told what an important trait it was when found in the character of people, It was the careful observance and performance of duty. One appreciates it in animals as well as human beings. The employer values it in his clerk, the minister in his congregation, and the Creator in His people. Mr. Hollinrake then went God, the doing of whose will should be of Revelation thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life." This was his parting message. One appreciates it in animals as well as human beings. The employer values it in his clerk, the minister in his congregation, and the Creator in His people. Mr. Hollinrake then went God, the doing of whose will should be faithful in their relations with one another; how they should be faithful to themselves in their calling, and in their convictions, even to the point of death, but, best of all, in their relations with God, the doing of who's will should be of supreme importance. Mr. Hollinrake then told of how life was marred by unfaithfulness, of the father to the son, of the minister to his congregation, of the workman to his task. "How long are we to manifest this characteristic of faithfulness?" he asked. "Unto death," which is bound to come to all of us. What use is the mechanic who quits his job on a house before it is completed? So the virtue of faithfulness: in carrying it out through life. He then spoke of the reward of faithfulness." I will give thee a crown of life." Universities conferred degrees on prominent men, the Government erected monuments to the memory of men who had been faithful to their country, but these honors are not to be compared with those given by God to life humble supporters. Turning to the young men who are members of his class, Mr. Hollinrake thanked them for the noble assistance they had rendered him during his pastorate. was well filled last night when Rev. R. H. Bell, the pastor, preached his parting sermon, and had a message that strongly appealed to the listeners. He said that although some of those present might have expected a farewell sermon, he did not purpose preaching one, because he did not think there was a farewell. Because he was leaving that church was no reason why he should thrash a man with his kind actions, as it was no place to tell what had been it was no place to tell what had been done, but he endeavored to expound his text in such a manner as to add new

He selected his text from Hebrews xiii. He said there are three or four striking definitions of sin. The deceitfulness of sin was explaned to be the misgivings that satan makes believ will be the outcome. Sometimes a preacher may make a mistake by preaching to men about sin, and not about the Christian life. When a person yields to sin "Be tian life. When a person yields to follow would be to think the same of themselves as they would if someone else were in their place. The only safe-guard against sin is to have faith in Jesus Christ and place the fullest confidence in him. Sin also deceives as to its reward and the realization is vastly different from the expectation.

Inclosing he made a strong appeal to the unsaved to turn to Christ as He was the only one who could redeem.

After ice cream, lemonade, cakes, etc., were served, Mr. H. W. Sandwell moved a vote of thangs for the kind hospitality of the host and hostess.

ST. MARK'S CONSECRATED

Impressive Service Held There Yesterday Morning.

Bishop and Chancellor of the Diocese Took Parl.

Appropriate Sermon by Venerable Archdeacon Clark.

Yesterday morning St. Mark's Church

Yesterday morning St. Mark's Church was consecrated by His Lordship Bishop DuMoulin in the presence of a very large gathering of the congregation, the church having recently been entirely freed from debt.

At 11 o'clock the door of the church was locked and opened by Messrs. W. H. F. Whateley and R. H. Labatt to the knock of the bishop, who was attended by his chaplain, Rev. Canon Sutherland, Ven. Archdeacon Clark and Rev. Canon Bull.

The petition for consecration was then read to His Lordship by Mr. Whateley, and after the reverend body had proceeded to the front of the church Chancellor Kirwan Martin read the sentence of consecration, and the service began.

Ven. Archdeacon Clark cocupied the pulpit and preached from Matthew xviii. 21: "Then came Peter unto Him and said, Lord, how oft shall my brother sin against me and I forgive him? Till seven times?"

In the last fifty years there has been great growth of power spirituality and great from the content of the con

In the last fifty years there has been great growth of power, spirituality and brotherly love everywhere; congregations have been collected, churches built and decorated beautifully. Art, said the speaker, has its appointed place in divine worship; music has spread far and wide over the land, the new hymnal has an elasticity in the service of the and wide over the land, the new hymnal has an elasticity in the service of the church, making it more of a reality. Free and open churches are now far more general and are the rule rather than the exception; consecrations and celebrations of the holy communion are in the present day far more frequent than in the days gone by. Organizations are making their impressions on the people more and more for good. This church, he said, is at last freed from debt, and is now separated from secular things. It is truly become the house of God and placed at His disposal. He exercises His functions in heaven, but also continues His work in the ministry. In building a church we are providing coor and placed at His disposal. He exercises His functions in heaven, but also continues His work in the ministry. In building a church we are providing a place where the children may be brought to God to worship Him and to be cured from the iniquity of the world. He is willing to-day to work spiritual cures as He was in the days of old, to heal the ills of body and soul, to cast out devils, iniquity and unbelief. Those same healings which He performed in Judea and Jerusalem He is willing to repeat to-day in our midst. The work done to-day by our ministers may be looked upon as done by Him. We should look upon Him as the present Saviour, ready to receive if we are ready to give ourselves up. We should be able to grasp these truths in all their fullness; then we would each visit this place in the right spirit and go away stronger, fuller of His love and more spiritually blessed. The day will come when this place will know us no more. Search and find, while we may, seek Him while He may be found, and He will send us away strengthened in our faith. There is a spiritual happiness in serving God and of doing service for Him; especially to-day in consecrating this church. Now all may come feeling that it is God's house, a shelter in a weary land and a solace in times of trouble. May He speed our appreciation of free and open churches, wherein we may pray and receive strength from the living God.

If it is a joy, he said, concluding, to see this a free and consecrated church, think what it will be when the night is past to meet again the saints and worship around His throne with "those whom he have loved long since, but lost awhile."

She was before her marriage to Grundy a widow named Baker, and she met Grundy in this city. The courtship was rapid, so rapid that neither had time to find out very much about the other. Adgie and her lions will perform twice in front of the stand and the performance will be abso-hutely free, as usual. The wonderful female trainer performs in the smallest lion cage in the world, and makes the wild animals do as she bids, without the use of a stick, whip or revolver. While the act is sensational it is, at the same time, artistic and graceful and is out of time, artistic and graceful and is out of the ordinary. Among the bears is the largest lion in captivity. Big Prince is the monster and he weighs 1,000 pounds. The Broadviews attempted to even things up and kept with the winners for two innings, but the best they could do was to score 3 runs. The Baysides played a little loose in the eighth inning, and allowed the Broadviews to score three runs, all on errors. Carter was in the box for the Baysides and pitched the best game of his career. He struck out seven men, allowed nine hits and only 3 to walk. Nix Bolthon was a little off color. Greenwood had his hitting eye back. He knocked out a three-bagger. The teams lined up as follows:

In the last of the third inning Jim Harding, pitching for the Blue Labels, retired in favor of Frenchie. Lightheart pitched the whole game for the Stars, and did well.

The second game, between the Barristers and Eurekas, was hotly contested till the eight inning, when the Eurekas loosened up a little and the Barristers scored, winning the game, the score being 10—5. The line-up was as follows:
Barristers—Brooks p, Smith 1b, Wattes, Lahey 2b, Becker 3b, McKelvey c, Lightheart H, C. Smith c, Waite rf. Eurekas—Harris H, O'Neil rf, Rock cf, Lacas 3b, Klain p, Lee 2b, Munson 1b, Maher c, Dagleish ss.

The Eurekas have a cracking good man in that young Lucas, taking everything that came any ways near him; also making a couple of double plays. Their first baseman, Manson, showed up to splendid form; also Klain, their pitcher, the only trouble being he delays the game, taking so long to locate the home plate.

the Welland County License Commissioners, May 14, which was adjourned from last week. Mr. S. F. Washington, K. C., Hamilton, for the plaintiff; Mr. T. D. Cowper, Crown attorney, for the Crown; Mr. E. T. Malone, K. C., Toronto, and Mr. Jas. Haverson, K. C., Toronto, for the defence. Mr. Haverson claimed that his Honor had no right to try the case. The petition alleges that a tavern license was granted, the premises not having bedrooms and other accommodation required by law. The license granted by the commissioners was not issued by the inspector on account of awaiting the completion of repairs, therefore his Honor had no right to try the case when no license had been issued, although granted.

Tom Longboat defeated Alf. Shrubb in a 20-mile race. There were 10,000 people present.

Shrubb started off at a terrific clip, which Longboat followed closely for the first mile. In the second mile Longboat seemed to be tiring, and slow-ed up. Shrubb was a quarter of a lap in the lead, and going at a fast pace. He gained ground gradually, and at the beginning of the fourth mile he was a good ball-lap in the lead. As they went cn, Longboat settled down to a long, steady stride. When the fifth mile was covered he was within a hundred yards of the little Englishman. Just at this time Shrubb sprinted, and got back the ground he had lost. He was about a lap in the lead at the end of the sixth mile. Longboat was still pugging away steadily. Shrubb lapped the Indian on the seventh mile, and continued to pace him. Longboat was still pugging in the next mile, the result being that he was a few feet ahead of Shrubb in the ninth mile, but still a lap behind. Shrubb sprinted again in the second lap of the ninth, endeavoring to throw off his dusky opponent, but Longboat stuck like a leech. At the half-way post they were both going well. Time—56.16.

At the eleventh mile Shrubb was still pacing the redskin. Their positions remained the same until the thirteenth, when Shrubb, who had been repeatedly sprinting, began to limp badly. He still kept in the lead, however. His time for the fourteen miles was 118.29. Shrubb was looking ready to throw up the sponge when, after considerable sprinting, Longboat took the lead, and gained half a lap. Shrubb was limping very badly, with Longboat trunning easily. After doing three laps of the six teenth mile Shrubb dropped out at the club-house. The crowd poured out of the stands on to the track, wild with joy, and it was only with the greatest difficulty that the police were able to delear the track for Longboat ton to fine last four miles, covering the full distance in 2 hours, 2 minutes and 10 seconds. Time by miles:

1 mile—Shrubb 9.38 2-5 3 miles—Shrubb 1.5.09 4 miles—Shrubb 20.31 proved one of the most interesting and evenly contested games that have been played this season. The Scots have been having things all their own way for the past few weeks, but the St.
Luke's managed to hold them down and the final score was 1—1.

The St. Luke's won the toss, and put the ball in motion. By good combination they made considerable ground, but the Scots rallied, and made a return run up the field. The teams then had possession in turns for about five minutes, when the Scots tried one of their old combinations, and secured the first goal. When the ball was again put in motion the St. Luke's played a little stronger, and were evidently encouraged by the headway they were making against the lucky Scots, and tried a few combination tricks that puzzled the Scots, and on a long kick they tallied and tied the score.

In the second half no further scores were made, and both teams played errcrless football. The final score was 1—1.

The soccer game between the 91st and Hamilton teams also proved good from a spectator's standpoint. The city team, however, were stronger than the soldiers, and won the game by a score of 2—1. The city team won the toss and put the ball in motion, but the 91st secured the ball, and had gained considerable ground before they could be stopped. The Hamiltons then secured the hall and by good combination regained

FREE FIGHT AT RACE. Winnipeg, June 28.—Seven hundred spectators who journeyed out to the track on Saturday evening to see Acoose, Sellen and Meadows meet to settle the fifteen-mile championship of the west, and also the question of the supremacy at this distance, saw only a fizzle which nearly resulted in a free fight and riot.

Finally, upon the suggestion of Meadows as a sportsman, the three men agreed to run a five-mile exhibition race to appease the crowd and to take nothing for this, and the regular race was postponed until tomorrow evening, when it was expected the matter at issue will be adjusted. The runners put up a fine race under adverse conditions for the mere honor of winning, but Acoose fully sustained his reputation and satisfied the confidence the west has in him by beating his competitors. He covered the distance in 20.53, beating Meadows by half a lap and Sellen by about two-thirds. The course was five laps to the mile.

Less than 100 baseball fans saw Charlie Conkle's Pets go down to defeat at Britannia Park on Saturday afternoon in the Inter-City game, between the W E. P. C. and the Veritys, of Brantford. The first two up went out, Garbut got a base on balls, McHugh, the Verity's big firstbaseman, hit three for three bases, bringing Garbut home. He got to one of Southon's benders and with a terrific swing, knocked the ball to the left field fence.

In the latter part of this inning the W. E. P. C. came to life. They made two runs. Buscombe was the first man up; he got to first. Hennessy struck out.

Again in the ninth the Pleasure Club tried harder to even up. Memory walked, Passel hit a liner to the pitcher, taking Menary to second. Manager Conkle, who took Gage's place, hit a fly over short, scoring memory. It was then up to Patty Hennessy. With Conkle on second, a nice hit would have won the game. But Hennessy struck out. The Goold, Shapley & Muir team scored one in the third and one in the sixth, a passed ball by Brennan being responsible for the first and Padden's errors for the second. Smith and Simpson each allowed nine hits, the Brantford man getting seven at the plate. TELLS ABOUT THE RACE ulty, along with firmness, courage, inhabitiveness, friendship, acquisitiveness, constructiveness and strong intellectual capacity makes an Englishman what he is the world over. But some Englishmen also have a strong faculty of "approbativeness." Such a one is Alfred Shrubb. This is the element in human nature that seeks praise, applause, appreciation, and is the element with which so many are endowed over-strongly who appear upon the public platform. It it an element of mind which all first class phrenologists know has a tendency, when perverted, as it often is, to upset one's nervous system. This is "just what happened to Shrubb." From the start of the race until perhaps the eighth mile or until the lap was gained on Longboat this little Englishman used up enough nervous energy through this "sensitive centre of his brain" to have run ten miles more easily. Every time he passed my position on the stand he was greeted with a mixture of derisive hoots, groans and grunts of every description, which "got him" every time, as was evidenced by the turning of his head towards the stand, and the expression of diegust, offended dignity, and a determination to "do or die" was plainly visible to me—a man who looks into the mind. I must say this unfair treatment of such a game, manly and intelligent athlete as is Shrubb "galled" me considerably. It shows a very low development of athletic fairness and honesty in those making use of such tactics to unnerve him. Black or

Prof. D. B. McKellar, of Toronto, a phrenologist, who formerly lived in this city, writes as follows in regard to Saturday night's race at Hanlan's Island:

It is a well-known psychological fact that Englishmen have self-esteem highly developed. In truth, this faculty, along with firmness, courage, inhabitiveness, friendship, acquisitiveness, constructiveness and strong intellectual capacity makes an Englishmen what he is the world over.

But some Englishmen also have a strong faculty of "approbativeness." Such a one is Alfred Shrubb. This is the element in human nature that seeks praise, applause, appreciation, and is the element with which so many are endowed over-strongly who appear upon the public platform. It

Sport of Kings on Saturday Best Ever.

Record Breaking Crowd Was Present.

Creel Won the Tuckett Stakes in Fast Time.

There was a record breaking crowd at the Hamilton Jockey Club track on Saturday afternoon, when the best card that was ever presented to race goers here was run off. Over 7,000 persons were at the track. The Toronto special came in two sections, bringing over 2,500. A special from Buffalo brought in 400, and there were many enthusiasts from Brantford, London, Woodstock and other points. The members' stand and lawn was filled with a fashionable gathering-society turned out even better than on opening day. The heat was intense, and many persons were overcome in the betting field, where the largest crowd gathered between races. Several of the bookies had to quit on account of the heat. Nearly fifty books did business in the broiling

New Westminster, B. C., June 28 .-The Tccumsehs lost in their first try for the Minto Cup by the score of 6 to for the Minto Cup by the score of 6 to 4, when they played New Westminster Saturday afternoon. During the first half of the contest, which was a masterly exhibition of lacrosse, the Toronto team was a match for the westerners, and played them to a draw, but by the third quarter, apparently from being out of condition for the hard pace on account of their long journey, their defence was overrun, and the Westminsters scored freely. For the last quarter the play was slow, the Royal City men seeming content with a good lead, to take it easy, and the Tecumsehs thinking it wiser to tax their fagged energies no further and save themselves for the final game Tuesday.

The first quarter was very fast, but little shooting was done, Alex. Turnbull making the only score. In the second quarter both teams put in their best licks for scoring, the Tecumseha evening up with the locals. The Indians displayed the brilliant work prophesied. Tecumsehs were fruitlessly endeavoring to stem the increasing flow of Westminster shots. Kinsman saved everything to be expected. Goals scored were from very close range. Felker, of Toronto, and Wintemute, of Westminster, both of whom have just recovered from sickness, did not appear in the last quarter, the teams playing with eleven men. In the last two minutes Westminster endeavored to duplicate the final goal scored by Querries.

The match was controlled by two referres with equal powers, O'Connel refusing to go on as judge of play. The absence of quarrels was very prominent, there being no penalties for rough playing, and no men were hurt. The Tecumsehs' statics were similar to Westminsters',—rushing in with the ball. Opinion here is that the Tecumsehs will not land the cup, but may tie the last game. Felker, Adamson, Gilbert, Querrie, Piegering and Griffiths figured for Toronto, and Alex. Turnbull, G. Spring, J. Bryson and T. Gifford for New Westminster. The lineup:

Tecumseh—Kinsman, Griffith, Graydon, Pickering, Ions, Rountree, Felker, Green, Querrie, Gilbert, Durkin and Adamson.

Third—Student King, Al Powell, Vil-Fourth-Stanley Fay, Green Seal, De-

Sixth—Sincoe, St. Jeanne, Posing.
Seventh—Lady Esther, Hooray, County Clerk.

Following is the London Free Press' racing expert's comment on the events:
Maiden, two-year-olds—In the openea I am taking King Holliday. This one is better than ordinarily rated. Lawyer Millar is almost sure to be instance flavorite. I look for him to be close up. Morocco and Gold Front should fight for the small end. The latter one is dangerous.

for the small end. The latter one is dangerous.

Two-year-olds—Autumn Girl is the one I am taking for this one. She is very consistent, and is always worth a bet. Chief Kee can turn the trick with any of last week's form. Turf Star finished absolutely last out, and a reversal of that form should meet the same fate of Pagan Bey and Moonraker.

Two-mile steeplechase—Banuel is the one I like for the suicide event. Vilhalla will try again to-day, perhaps with better success. Is a fairly good fencer. Al Powell is also good, and will be heard from.

Two-mile steeplechase—Dr. Keith will pretty nearly cop this jump. John Dilden is the contender. Com. Fountaine seems to stay up there pretty well.

Three-year-olds and up—Simcoc should come to life here to-day. St. Jeanne is sure to be close up. Posing and Great Heavens for the small end. The latter is dangerous, so have a care.

The Last Race—King of Mist will win here to-day, with Toward up. Giles will also make an effort, and at the same price to-day will make them all step. County Clerk is good, and if Reid is up is extra good. Lady Esther and Neoskalecta are also ready. Unless some scratches take place it will be a hard race.

MADE HOLIDAY OF FUNERAL.

They buried Eastman on his own grounds to-day, and the Marylanders made a holiday of it and came from all over the eastern shore to look on. The boatmen of a dozen towns along the Choptank, the Tred Avon and Miles Rivers fattened their pockets with the money of the curious 'from scores of surrounding villages.

The trains run infrequently and unexpectedly down here, but what trains there were bulged with the natives. The coffin in which Eastman was buried was bought by Willey twelve years ago, and he had used it ever since as an advertisement, keeping it in a glass case in front of his undertaking shop. He thought so much of it that he intended to use it himself when his time came, but when Eastman's body came to him, the undertaker promptly decided that it mer be buried in that coffin. Willey is a short man; Eastman was of medium height. The body would not fit. The difficulty was got over easily. They made it fit.

First there was the hearse, then a long wagon containing the grave diggers, a straggling automobile or two and a cart nulled by mules containing some ne.

MAN SUICIDED

After He Had Shot His Father and Sister-in-Law.

Ill-Health Worry Affected Murderer's Mind.

Quincy, Ills., June 28 .- Geo. Gurney thot and killed his father, Dr. Seneca Gurney, aged 79 years, wounded his sister-in-law, Mrs. Seneca Gurney, jun, aged 37, and then killed himself by sending a bullet into the right ear, yesterday. Mr. Gurney was shot in the right cheek and the back of the neck. Mrs. Gurney and her brother-in-law recently came from New Orleans, where he was a foreman for a firm of contractors. Geo. Gurney called Mrs. Gurney to

Geo. Gurney called Mrs. Gurney to his room, saying that he was not feeling well. She offered a few words of sympathy, whereupon he drew a magazine revolver from under the bed clothes and fired at her twice. Dr. Gurney attempted to go to her aid, and was shot down. Then the son killed himself. Ill-health and worry over the death of a daughter and his separation from his wife, who lives in Oklahoma, are supposed to have affected the slayer's mind.

scheme without understanding what it entailed is furnished by St. Thomas. Some of the power users there have just awakened to the fact that they will have to throw out the motors they are now using and purchase new ones to handle the Niagara power. They are already beginning to howl. The Journal of that city, says:

Many citizens are expressing their disappointment over the entanglement that they see the aldermen have got themselves into, yet nobody suggests that the new and expensive proposition should be turned down altogether for the reason that, if St. Thomas should drop out of the power union now, it would still have to pay for the 1,500 h. p. contracted for, and this would have to come out of the taxes for twenty years.

The Cataract Power Company has made all preparations to enter into the new street lighting contract on Thursday next and it does not look as if there would be any attempt to stop it. The city has heard nothing further from S. F. Washington who notified the council that on behalf of the ratepayers he intended making a motion to quash the contract. They believe the last has been heard of the matter.

Mayor McLaren this morning was requested by Leo Sullivan, Basil O'Neil and a number of other well known young men in the north end to investigate a complaint against Constable Campaign, junior. The boys stated that they were standing at the south end of the Hamilton Ferry Company's dock the other night when the officer came along and demanded their names. They say he called O'Neil a liar and when remonstrated with threatened to to slap his face. The mayor has forwarded the communication to the chairman of the board.

wellington street, setween wood and Burlington streets, $400. William Wark, brick house, corner of Victoria avenue and Hunter street, for Mrs. McClelland, $2,400. George S Kerr refused to-day to say who he was representing at the power meeting on Saturday.

"Will there be any injunction proceedings to-day?" he was asked.

"I can't say," was the reply.

A deputation from the Board of Education waited on Mayor McLaren at noon, regarding the issuing of debentures for the proposed addition to the Barton Street School, and improvements and alterations to the Victoria Avenue School. The Mayor thinks that addition school. The mayor thinks that additional accommodation for the pupils at both these schools is required. He said he hoped, however, that the School Board would keep within its rate, the deputation will appear before the Finance Committee this afternoon.
