FIGURES DO LIE.

Prices are only Relative

REGAL ENGINES are the highest priced engines, yet they are the cheapest.

They are the highest priced engines because they cost more to build. They are the cheapest engines, because they will last twice as long as any other engine.

They are also the cheapest engines because they save your time, and "Time is money."

If you shut your eyes to this real bargain in engines, you will be the sorriest fisherman who ever signed an order.

You will lose more money than you can afford to lose, and your oil bills will be twice as large.

REGAL ENGINES use less oil, have more power, run with less trouble and give more genuine satisfaction than any other engine on the market.

We are, in the near future, going to ask all cash for REGAL ENGINES, so buy one before we make this change, as we intend to make them the "Hall Mark" engines of Newfoundland.

We ship REGAL ENGINES complete with full book of instructions, and when once installed in your boat, any child can run one.

REGAL ENGINES are higher priced than other engines, but are the cheapest in the long run, because they run the longest.

The One Best Seller!

THE MILLION DOLLAR MYSTERY.

(By Harold McGrath.)

Cloth 60c.; If mailed, 2c. more.

At the foundation of the plot of this exciting mystery story, there is a secret organization in Russia. Then are given glimpses of country house society, the modern boarding-school, the fashionable restaurant, the enterprising twentieth century newspaper reporter, the romance and mystery that may be linked together by two halves of a bracelet, the love of a father for his daughter, the devotion of an old family servant, the intrigues of a band of thieves and blackmailers and plenty of the old love that is always new, not to mention the million dollars about which the whole thing revolves and which, in these times, has an especially pleasing ring. All these result in a story that keeps the reader with pulses tingling.

CHAPTER XLV.
As correctly as he could judge, it was now somewhere about eight o'clock, if the servants could eat at all under the circumstances, they were at supper. It was just possible for him to get clear of the house unobserved.

Slowly, listening at every step, he went down the back stair-way, and had reached the outer door of the small hall when he saw a servant coming along the passage. A candle was burning on a stand beside the door; there would be no time for him to unlock it before he was seen by the woman, unless he extinguished the light.

He snatched up the candle-stick, and—as is so frequently the case—the candle fell out. He put his foot on it and sprang for the door, but it was locked from the outside. The maid had seen him and sent up a shriek, and with an awful oath he turned and fled up the stairs.

As he did so, it seemed to him that a light was following him, moving with him; suddenly this light increased and spread to a flame, and he knew that the candle had ignited his dress; but he still fled upwards, followed by the shouts and screams of the women servants and the cries of the men, who, though they rushed into the hall, stood there as if paralyzed. With the flames still flaring round him, he ran like a madman towards the old lumber-room, swung the door to behind him, and with frenzied fingers tore at the burning garments. He got them off at last, and flung them, still burning, from him, heedless where they fell. With the strength of a madman he dragged a heavy barricade against the door and piled the scarcely less heavy trunks on top of it.

While he was thus engaged—absorbed in his task—he was vaguely conscious that the room had grown light with another light than that from the moonbeams; but as he turned, he saw that the burning clothes had fallen on some rubbish on the floor, and that the room was in a blaze.

He sprang to the window, through the smoke which already rendered breathing difficult, and forcing it open, stepped out on to the wide ledge, but only to shrink back appalled.

He was standing at the top of the great house, with a space between him and the ground which no man could pass through and live. The flames mounted higher as he stood clinging to the edge of the window, the smoke grew so thick and dense that he could not see through it. A roar as of a storm deafened him; voices clove through it now and again yelling "Fire!" and presently there came a hammering at the door and cries of:

"Open the door! Open the door!" He laughed—he was raving mad, not with the madness of despair—and seizing a chair, flung it, futilely, on to the top of the barricade.

"Open it, if you can, d—n you!" he yelled, hoarsely. Cries of horror responded to this taunt, and as he ran to the window, and was seen by the crowd below, other cries of terror, and even of pity, rose to him.

"Jump! jump!" yelled a voice. He paused, looking down with eyes blazing from his blackened face, and it was thought he would take the hopeless advice; but at that moment

Vigorol THE HEIR OF Lancewood

The latest medicine on the market is the Great French Tonic VIGOROL. Every home should have it. VIGOROL tones the whole system. Run-down men and women can be made strong and healthy. It tones you at once. That tired, dragging, sleepy feeling is removed, and you become bright and cheerful. The blood is purified, pimples and blotches are removed and a clear skin is the result, and life becomes worth while. Do you need toning up? Well, then get a bottle of VIGOROL at all drug stores.

Two years later—just about the time the new Raton Hall was nearing completion—three young persons were sitting, in the glow of a summer evening, under the verandah of a luxurious bungalow, and looking out upon the exquisite view upon which Rath—and Stella—had so often gazed from the door of the old hut which this more elaborate and fitting building had replaced. But before the house was now a velvety lawn, and in the offing a yacht anchored; it had just arrived.

Rath was lying back in his hammock-chair, with his hands behind his head, his eyes resting dreamily upon his sweetheart—and his wife—who was watching a chubby boy playing on the lawn where his mother had sat when she told his father that she was a girl and not a boy.

But though her eyes were watching the future Earl of Raton, half of Stella's mind was engaged in an argument with the third person present—a pale and thin, but extremely pretty, young lady who sat with clasped hands and a slight frown on her pensive face.

"What I say, Mary, is—is it fair? I do love fairness!" "Hear, hear!" commented Rath; he had paid several visits to the House of Lords since his accession.

"Rath, I will not be mocked; especially before the child!" said Stella severely. "Who's mocking you, you little wild-cat? Besides, the little beggar doesn't understand; he's too young."

"I am not so sure. It is wonderful how he notices things, isn't it, Mary, dear? But I'm not going to be led off by a side-trail. I repeat: I love fairness, and I do not think you are fair, Mary."

"I think she is, now," Rath put in. "She isn't dark, anyway."

Stella turned her back on him with lofty and wifely contempt, and continued, with that air of candour which only a woman can use with full effect, and then only to her own sex: "If a man has done wrong, it is right that he should be punished."

"But as a woman has—let her off," murmured Rath. (To be Continued.)

THE HEIR OF Lancewood

CHAPTER I.
"I will give them as coming from you—with your permission. There is just one thing more I should like to say to you. You are proud. I know you would not like your disappointment, your sorrow to be gossiped over by everyone in the Abbey. If you refuse to recognize these orders in any way, it will be so. If, for example, you leave me to tell Mrs. Spenser what she has to do, she will think either that Sir Arthur has ignored you, or that you are too angry to speak. Pardon me if I put matters too plainly—it is only that I may serve you the better."

"So far you are right," said the young girl, sadly. "Oh, Mr. Dorman, what a trouble to fall on me this fair sunny morning! How little I dreamed of it! Is it all a dream? Can it be possible? Nothing around me has changed, yet how changed am I! The sun still shines, the flowers still bloom, even this little white dove is still on my shoulder—yet the whole world is changed to me. How shall I bear the change?"

"Bravely—as the ladies of your race have ever borne trouble," he said. "No, I shall not bear it bravely; even thinking of it makes me a coward. If it were some great trouble that would call all my virtues—hereditary virtues, such as courage and fortitude—into play, well and good; but it is not. There is not a fault, or a defect, or a meanness in me, that this will not force into a gigantic growth. I can foresee it."

"It may not be so bad, Miss Neslie. May I say one thing more to you?" "Say what you will," was the indifferent reply.

He looked at her beautiful downcast face. "A little mouse once," says the fable, 'set a lion free; the humblest slave might save his master's life. Let me, without presumption, say that, if by giving my life I could serve you, I would give it. My small talents, my mind, my heart, are at your disposal. I would die for you. Do not, because I am humble—because I am of no account in this great world—despise the offer of my entire devotion. Let me do all I can."

"You are very kind," she said, listlessly. "Kind!" he repeated; and then he checked himself. It would not do to speak impulsively to Vivien Neslie. "Look round," he said, "and carry this picture in your mind, Miss Neslie—remember the old sun-dial, the white lilies, the rich red roses, the gladioli, crimson and gold, the tame doves, the blue sky—bear the picture in mind, and then remember the words written as they were beneath the picture—I would give even my life to serve you." The gift of foresight is not mine, but I venture to prophesy that the time will come when this morning, this picture, and, above all, these words will return to my mind and yours."

"They may do so," she said, indifferently. "They will, and, when they do, Miss Neslie, if ever in sore need you want a friend—if ever the strength of a man's arm, the subtlety of his intellect, the devotion of his heart, the sacrifice of his life, can serve you, I offer them to you."

"You are very kind," she declared, listlessly, as with a bow she turned from him and went toward the house. (To be Continued.)

Italian Soldiers Behave
(London Daily Chronicle.)
The Italian soldier gets a very high character from Richard Bagot in his "Italians of To-day." To see an Italian soldier drunk or in any way misconducting himself in a public place is exceedingly rare—so rare, indeed, that it would create a very disagreeable impression on the witnesses. Indeed, the men of any one of the more important Italian regiments who misconducted themselves in a public place would, in addition to the severe punishment administered by the regimental authorities, undergo a very bad time of it at the hands of their own comrades."

HEADACHES
Thousands of men and women suffer from headaches every day, other thousands have headaches every week or every month, and still others have headaches occasionally, but not as regular intervals. The best remedy is often made to find the cause of many of these headaches, and in most other cases, knowing the cause, he does not know what will remove it, so as to give a permanent cure. All he can do is to prescribe the usual pain relievers, which give temporary relief, but the headache returns at small, and treatment is again necessary. If you suffer from headaches, no matter what their nature, take Anti-Kamnia Tablets, and the trouble will be taken care of at all drug stores in any quantity, 25c worth or more. Ask for A-K Tablets.

SICK-HEADACHES
Sick-headache, the most miserable of all sicknesses, loses its terrors when A-K Tablets are taken. When you feel an attack coming on, take two tablets, and in heavy cases, the attack will be warded off. During an attack take one A-K Tablet every two hours. The real and complete relief which can be obtained in no other way. Genuine A-K Tablets bear the K monogram. At all drug stores.

CHAPTER II.
Lancewood Abbey is one of the show places of England. Every book of picturesque views contains an engraving of it; artists of eminence without number have sketched it; people traveling within thirty miles of it turn aside to see it.

A grand, picturesque pile, massive in structure, time has colored the stones, and round some of the tallest towers and turrets luxuriant ivy clings. The gardens that surround it are brilliant with many-hued flowers; over the stone balustrades of the terraces passion-flowers droop and hang. It is the very best ideal of one of those stately homes of England so famed in story and song. Vivien Neslie avoided the grand entrance. She went round to one of the side entrances, a small postern door overhung and half hidden by drooping sprays of wistaria. She went to the housekeeper's room, where Mrs. Spenser received her with all respect.

Back From the North.

The Bowring coaster Prospero, Capt. A. Kean, returned from the Northward last evening having reached as far as Quirpon. The round trip was made in eleven days which was a record, considering the amount of freight and number of passengers handled. With the exception of one day beautiful weather was experienced and the many passengers on board enjoyed the trip immensely. The Prospero brought a full freight for here, including 1,200 barrels of herring from Green Bay and as passengers—Mesdames Mookler, Young, French, Scammell, Elliott, Scammell, Hann, Moore, Templeman, Rowe, Blundon, Misses Walsh, Clarke, Penny, Churchill, French, Osmond, Hewitt, Scammell, Hodge (2), Rose, Fifield (2), Guy; Messrs. H. L. Pearce, H. Dawe, D. A. Parsons, Const. Patton, Ensign Miller, F. Lockyer, B. Elliott, T. Dawe, M. McCarthy, P. Coleridge, Sergt. White, J. Milley, Sergeant White, Sergeant March, and 3 stowage.

Germans Corner all Cod Liver Oil.

New York, July 8.—Germany has cornered the supply of cod liver oil, and American dealers are doubtful whether they can obtain sufficient stock for next winter, according to a drug market authority.

Dealers in cod liver oil said they understood the Germans are using it as a lubricant in place of petroleum oil, said to be difficult to obtain in Germany.

Norway, the centre of the cod liver oil trade, is said to have not more than 20,000 barrels which have not been contracted for by Germans.

THE NORTHERN TRIP.—The S.S. Prospero will be fitted with round-trippers on her next trip north. Already over fifty people are booked to go.

BASTILLE STORMED 1789. In this year the long-smouldering fire of revolution burst into flame in France. The first act of the people of Paris was to destroy the Bastille—the symbol of feudalism in the land. Only seven prisoners were found within its walls. This marks the beginning of that period in France known as the Reign of Terror.

Austria Has Apologized

Vienna, July 9.—A formal apology has been made by the Austro-Hungarian government to United States Ambassador Penfield, because of an abusive article printed in the Nieu Wiener and the American people in connection with the second note protesting against German methods of submarine warfare. As a rigid censorship is exercised over Austrian papers, Ambassador Penfield had informally asked the Foreign Office if the article represented the opinions of the Austrian Government. The result was an apology and a sharp reprimand for the official censor.

INSANE PATIENTS.—Three patients came by the Prospero from different places north and were brought to the Lunatic Asylum last night.

 Will anyone finding a silver hat pin with a round pink stone in the top kindly return same to the owner, J. V. H.

Two brooches, one silver and one enamel, belonging to D. V. C. R., kindly return to this office.

Information is desired concerning a Turkish Towel; also a silver pencil, Fountain Pen and part of a gold chain belonging to C. H. (Lost in Dew-drain).

Yesterday in spite of the downfall of rain Mr. and Mrs. Herder managed to motor to the Camping grounds to see their daughter Phyllis, who celebrates her thirteenth birthday to-day. In honour of the occasion a supper will be served in Come-By-Chance Tent at 8 p.m.

Owing to the warm weather the "Girl Guides" are being permitted to go in for a second swim to-day. There is great excitement in the camp.

Brownie Cameras are the Best.
 Misses Evelyn Goodridge and Dorothy White went to St. John's by this morning's express but will return this evening at 5.30.

Miss Clara Perlin received a visit from her brother Albert, this afternoon. He is a member of Peild College Division of the Newfoundland Boy Scouts, and is a Captain of his patrol.

The presence of Miss E. Goodridge was greatly missed when the girls took their morning dip, nevertheless the girls enjoyed their swim.

The Scouts were much pleased to see in Tuesday evening's "Daily Star" concerning their outing, though all the remarks were not strictly accurate. A reference was also made to the paper.

After the 5.30 meal to-night a walk will be taken to a nearby hill, a climb of about 25 minutes. Other girls will go trouting. It is to be hoped that they will have good luck.

A substantial mail bag was received in the camp to-day, nearly every one received a letter and some were lucky enough to get two.

Short gymnasium dresses with coloured stockings are favoured by the campers.

The hair should be worn in two braids—one over each shoulder.

Ethel M. Dell has surpassed herself in her latest novel: "The Keeper of the Door." This book has been read with greatest enthusiasm.

A Great Celebration.
 Last night being the occasion of the birthday of Miss Phyllis Herder, the event was celebrated by a supper near the camp fire. The guests all sat around the table which was attractively decorated with crackers of multicoloured colours. The refreshments served were coffee, scones, currant buns, cakes and chocolates. The birthday cake was delicious, and when supper was finished the guests joined hands around the blazing camp fire and sang with heart and voice that good old song: "Auld Lang Syne." After that the crackers were pulled and the air resounded with shrieks of merriment as each one found her treasure hidden in the bon-bons.

The proceedings were finished up by a romping game of Tursey after which the girl guides retired to their camps and were soon lost in the Land of Slumber.

Blasty boughs make jolly good camp fires.

Sorrow in the Camp.
 To-day the girls find it very difficult to keep the Scout rule which bids them to be always cheerful.

This is the last day we shall spend so happily together until we meet again in September, as the camp breaks up to-morrow morning.

A most enjoyable time has been spent at Third Pond and every one is sorry to leave it. Owing to unfavourable weather there has not been as many long tramps as the girls might have wished but nevertheless a great part of the neighbouring country has been explored.

Long will this happy time be remembered among the girls and those of Seldom-Come-By tent, especially wish to thank Miss Smeaton, Commander-in-Chief of Girl Guides Camp, for her great kindness and Ever Ready Hot Water, Night and Day.

FOR THE NURSERY.
 "The bath ready for baby, when baby is ready for the bath" should be an adage of every housewife—who should also keep in mind that any trouble saved to the nurse makes for a well-ordered, contented household.

Gas Water-Heaters, whether of the instantaneous or circular type, offer the convenience of available hot water "upstairs, downstairs, and in my lady's chamber,"—without any labour at all—Independently of the state of the kitchen fire.

FOR THE BATHROOM.
 An uncertain supply of hot water in the bathroom is a frequent cause of annoyance.

Hot water can only be secured, usually, by getting the cook to act as stoker, but at what a cost!

Think of the coal that is wasted—the fatigue of coal carrying—the after labour of grate cleaning—and the discomfort of a hot kitchen in warm weather!

A Gas Water-Heater is economical, because it only heats the water actually required; and labour-saving, because there are no coals to carry, no flues to clean, no ashes or dirt to remove.

The master of the house has hot shaving water and a hot bath whenever he wishes without delay or trouble.

HOT WATER FOR THE HOUSEHOLD.
 When "Spring-cleaning days" encroach the busy housewife, then the convenience of an unlimited supply of hot water on the upper floors is brought home to her with special force.

But at all times—apart from convenience—a gas water-heater makes an irresistible appeal to the housewife from the point of view of dealing with the domestic problem.

Later-day domestics are difficult to keep unless due consideration is shown by saving them unnecessary drudgery—and in the category of unnecessary drudgery may be included the toil of carrying hot water or coal upstairs, the cleaning of grates and the removal of dirt and ashes.

The gas water-heater renders such labour superfluous—may 13/4

Brave Merchantmen

The story of the escape of the Anglo-Californian from a German submarine reads like a modern instance of old-time maritime adventure. Steamers and submarines were alike unknown when Marrayat and Cooper gathered material for their novels, but many a brave merchant captain saved his ship from the enemy at the cost of his own life by grimly holding on to his course until he shook off his pursuers or relief came.

Then merchantmen went armed and there is record of a fleet of East Indianmen actually beating off a squadron of French warships. Now all that is changed, but the spirit of skilled devotion continues and many a brave man hurled to peril stands on the bridge of a merchant steamer. Great Britain draws from this class its reserve of naval officers and could not draw from a worthier source. One merchant captain, more fortunate but not more brave than the captain of the Anglo-Californian, has been decorated for running down a German submarine. Two can play at dangerous games, as the submarines have more than once found out.—From the Boston Transcript.

British War Slang.

The Rev. E. J. Hardy, in his book, "The British Soldier" (Fisher Unwin), gives a few more of the amusing nicknames invented by "Tommy" at the front. All shells are "souvenirs." Some are called "Will-o-the-Wisps" and "Humming Birds," some "Sighing Sarahs," some "Porridge Pots."

"Woolly Marias" are shells that burst in double puffs of white, woolly smoke.

"Baby" and "Mother" are far-reaching guns of ours. The latter is so called because it takes good care of our infantry. Another gun has the name of the "Hot Cross Bun," because it is hot, shorts as it always cross, and takes the bun by its ability to hit what it is fired at nearly every time.

Bullets are called "Haricot Beans." German soldiers are known as "Sausages" and the Ulster Lancers as the "Ewe Lambs." The Kaiser himself is no more to our men than "Will-o-the-Weed" or "Crazy Bill." In letters from the front there used to be puzzling references to "Asquiths."

Now we know this is the name for French matches, because you have to "wait and see" what happens when you strike one.

The outer line of trenches, where the men are posted to draw the German fire, is known as the "drawing-room"; the inner line where the attacks are really met, the "reception room"; and the ground at the rear, where the dead are buried, the "dormitory." When a Taube aeroplane approaches British lines the men call out, "Here comes a stormy petrel."

The emergency ration becomes the "imaginary ration"; barbed wire entanglements are "fly-traps" and "spiders' webs."

If you must write a sermon, don't label it "Romance." We hear about a novel that is a gem, but we take it to our hovel, and there sit down to read, expecting something classy, and find it is a frost; the publishers were brassy who stuck us for the cost. Don't fool the weary Croesus, don't touch him for his kale; don't hand him out a thesis, and say it is a tale. Builders of the "Big Ditch"

There has just been issued by the Historical Publishing Company of Washington, D.C., a magnificent illustrated history of the construction and builders of the Panama Canal. The editor of this great history is Mr. Ira E. Bennett, with associate editors, John Hays Hammond, celebrated mining engineer; Capt. Philip Andrews, U. S. N.; Rupert Blue, Surg. Gen. U. S. Public Health Service; J. Hampton Moore, Pres. Atlantic Deeper Waterways Ass'n; Patrick J. Lennox, B. A., and William J. Showalter.

One of the most interesting portions of the book is that dealing with the feeding of the immense army of laborers. A few paragraphs concerning one of the foods chosen and supplied by the Commissary Department, are quoted (beginning page 428) as follows:

"Visitors to the canal who were privileged to get a glimpse of the routine inner life will recall a familiar picture of workmen going to their places of labor carrying round yellow tins.

"Often, as they went, they munched a food poured from the tin into the hand. This food, which played no inconsiderable part in 'building' the canal, was the well-known article of diet, 'GRAPE-NUTS.'

"The mention of Grape-Nuts in this connection is peculiarly pertinent. Not merely because Grape-Nuts is a food—for of course proper food was an integral part of the big enterprise—but because it is a cereal food which successfully withstood the effects of a tropical climate. This characteristic of Grape-Nuts was pretty well known and constituted a cogent reason for its selection for use in the Canal Zone. . . .

"This food is so thoroughly baked that it keeps almost indefinitely in any climate, as has been demonstrated again and again.

"One finds Grape-Nuts on trans-oceanic steamships, in the islands of the seas, in Alaska, South America, Japan, along the China coast, in Manila, Australia, South Africa, and on highways of travel and the byways of the jungle—in short, wherever minimum of bulk and maximum of nourishment are requisite in food which has to be transported long distances, and often under extreme difficulties.

"The very enviable reputation which Grape-Nuts has attained in these respects caused it to be chosen as one of the foods for the Canal Zone."

Grape-Nuts

FOOD

—scientifically made of prime wheat and malted barley, contains the entire goodness of the grain, including those priceless mineral elements so essential for active bodies and keen brains, but which are lacking in white flour products and the usual dietary.

There's a reason why Grape-Nuts food was chosen by the Canal Commissariat. There's a reason why Grape-Nuts is a favorite food of hustling people everywhere!

Newfoundland Aeroplanes.

Mr. H. G. Wells advocates a big increase in the use of aeroplanes. He says it is as easy to build an aeroplane as an automobile, and that the right kind of men can be trained as aviators in anything between one and six weeks.

"An aeroplane costs scarcely more than a shot from a big gun. If it is lost it means only one or two lives. It would be cheaper to launch 2,000 aeroplanes at Essen than to risk one battleship. Two thousand aeroplanes could smash Essen to bits, and if we lost a thousand of them in the raid it would still be cheaper in money and lives than the victory of Neuve Chapelle."

The Dominions of the Crown are taking up the matter enthusiastically and many of them are raising money to present aeroplanes to the War Office and the Admiralty. Last evening a number of gentlemen met the Governor by invitation to consider what should be done by Newfoundland. There were present Sir Edgar Bowring, Hon. M. G. Winter, Mr. J. A. Clift, K.C., Mr. J. W. Withers, Mr. R. B. Job, Mr. W. S. Monroe, Mr. J. C. Hepburn, Mr. C. P. Ayre, Hon. J. Harris, Mr. C. Steer, Mr. W. B. Grieve, Mr. A. B. Moine, Mr. W. G. Gosling, Hon. G. Knowling, Mr. H. D. Reid and Mr. W. F. Lloyd. His Excellency explained the object of the meeting and after some discussion it was decided to appoint a small committee to add to the membership of the committee and to get the appeal going for two aeroplanes. His Excellency then retired and the officers were appointed; Mr. W. G. Gosling being appointed Chairman, Mr. C. Steer, Secretary, and Mr. J. A. Clift, K.C., Treasurer. Those with Messrs. R. B. Job, Hepburn, Moine and Lloyd form a sub-committee to get the subscription under way, Mr. Hepburn being the Chairman of the sub-committee. Efforts will be made to give the subscriptions a good send-off in a day or two. A number of substantial subscriptions have already been promised. But it is hoped to make the subscription representative of the whole island, as the aeroplane will bear the arms of Newfoundland.

Football.

Saints Win From Collectians. A goodly gathering of spectators attended last evening's football match between the St. Andrew's and Collectians, the former winning by one goal to nil.

The weather was ideal and the game was clean and closely contested. The new men in the Saints ranks made a decided improvement.

The players were:—Collectians: Goal, Wornell; backs, Heath, Pike; halves, Pike, Barnes, Pike; forwards, Ellis, Coultas, Kendrick, Searle, Gear.

Saints: Goal, Ewing; backs, Spry, Foster; halves, Reid, Munn, Elton; forwards, Ferguson, Kerr, Bastow, Ewing, Crawford.

Archiepiscopal Reception.

His Grace Archbishop Roche held his first reception in the Archiepiscopal Library last evening from eight to ten o'clock. The reception was informal and over one thousand persons of all denominations attended. Lieut. Col. Conroy acted as A. D. C. to His Grace and the other officers of the C. C. C. acted as orderlies. Assisting the Archbishop were Rt. Rev. Monsignor St. John, Chancellor of the Archdiocese, Rev. J. McDermott, Administrator; Revs. Dr. Greene, Fr. Nangle and Fr. O'Callaghan.

The Library was tastefully decorated for the occasion and during the evening teas and lemonades were served, while the orchestra furnished a select musical programme.

Play Ball on the Knock-Out System.

To-morrow evening the Baseball League will meet to arrange a series of games to be played on the knock-out system at Mount Cashel garden party this day fortnight. The winning team will be presented with a cup donated by Mr. H. D. Reid. The proceeds of all the games will go towards the garden party funds. The trophy will be on exhibition to-morrow at the store of Mr. Mark Chaplin.

An Appeal.

The proposal that the Colony of Newfoundland should furnish two aeroplanes for the Imperial Air Force, has met with general approval, and a committee has been formed to collect funds for that purpose.

Living as we are, far from the scene of conflict, peacefully and quietly following our usual vocations, it is hard to realize that the British nation is fighting for its life. Yet such is the case.

Think what this means. The future of the Empire and of each part thereof—of Newfoundland as well as of England—depends upon this issue.

In the past we have enjoyed the fullest security without being asked to pay any part of the cost, but now we are called upon to help to the best of our power and ability in the defence of the Empire.

Fifteen hundred of Newfoundland's sons have volunteered for the Army and one thousand more have joined the Navy; an opportunity now offered to help another most important branch of the service—the branch that supplies vision and intelligence to both Army and Navy. His Majesty the King, Lord Kitchener and Mr. Lloyd George, have all strongly urged the necessity of increasing the number of aeroplanes. It is proposed that all the colonies shall furnish one or more aircraft, to be named after the localities giving them, and many colonies have already responded to the call.

Newfoundland must have its representatives among the Imperial Air Fleet. The committee hopes that it may be possible to send two Gnome Vickers Gun Biplanes complete with gun, to cost $11,250 each.

Give what you can to help, be it much or little, and give quickly, as the need is great.

Subscriptions will be received by the Treasurer, Mr. J. A. Clift, K.C., and will be acknowledged in the daily papers. W. G. GOSLING, Chairman Aeroplane Com.

Amusements.

BRITISH THEATRE. Another powerful programme is being offered to patrons of the above theatre commencing to-day. Each reel is of the highest class in its particular theme. The feature is a most beautiful production and is a remarkable photoplay. The society drama entitled "The Ordeal" is a thrilling and most entertaining story of the clarification of love by fire. The Vitagraph Co. is represented by one of its usually interesting subjects and the great American humourist, George Ade, "Obliged" with another farce. The pianists and effects work very harmoniously together rendering appropriate and pretty music.

CRESCENT'S GREAT HOLIDAY PROGRAMME.

The management of the Crescent Picture Palace have selected a great holiday programme for to-day; there is a two part Edison comedy feature: "Grand Opera in Ruberville." A great selectivity drama "The Case of the Vanished Bonds," adapted from "Below the Dead Line," by Scott Campbell. "The Fables of the Regular Beany" by George Ade, the famous author of "Fables in Slang" and "Father's Timepiece," a Vitagraph comedy with Billy Bunter and Constant Talmadge. Added to the above is good music and singing, a cool and well ventilated theatre, a big show rarely to be seen in this city. The management will give half the gross proceeds to the Aeroplane Fund.

A BIG SHOW AT OURS. There was a good house at each performance last night at "Ours" in the West End. The play is all of a very high class order and the audience enjoyed them, clear and bright and all interesting subjects; they are all carefully selected. The Irish song by the little girls in dainty Irish costumes, was another tribute to Mrs. Rossley's teaching. A complete change to-night.

Here and There.

EXPRESS DUE.—A local express from Port aux Basques, is due in the city about 9 o'clock to-night.

MENTIONED IN DESPATCHES.—Field Marshal French, in a recent despatch, mentioned the name of Lieut. A. M. Jackson, R.E., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Jackson, of this city, for gallant and distinguished service in the field.

ALL WELL.—Last evening Mr. A. J. Harvey received a wireless message from Capt. C. Taylor, of the a.s. Bonaventure, which is now on her way to Port Nelson, saying that all was well on board.

Swollen Joints and Muscles, chilblains, piles and skin eruptions are promptly relieved by applying Davis Menthol Salve. 25c. tins prepared by Davis & Lawrence Co., Montreal.

LONDON, July 13.
The Governor, Newfoundland:
The Komberg, which has laid in the Ruffi River since October last, has been attacked by two British monitors and totally wrecked.
The French Government report the recovery of part of the trenches near Souchez. The German attack on the Labyrinth was completely repulsed. Two German attacks have been repulsed at Bois la Prete.

COMMONS VOTES THANKS.
LONDON, July 13.
The Commons to-day voted thanks to General Louis Botha, General Jan Christian Smuts, and the forces of the Union of South Africa, upon the successful conclusion of the campaign in German Southwest Africa. Premier Asquith, who moved the resolution, paid a tribute to what he characterized as a remarkable campaign, which had been brought to a remarkable conclusion. German Dominion in Southwest Africa had ceased to exist, he said, and asked the House, in his peroration, to testify the admiration of the whole Empire, and its gratitude to the illustrious General who has rendered such inestimable service to the Empire, which he entered by option, and of which he has become one of the most honored and cherished sons, and to his dauntless and much enduring troops, whether Burgers or of British birth, who fought like brethren side by side in a cause which is equally as dear to them as to us, the broadening of the bounds of human liberty.

"WIN THE WAR FROM THE AIR!"
LONDON, July 13.
With the slogan, "Win the War from the Air," English aviationists to-day launched a movement for the creation of a Ministry of Aviation, the building of a fleet of ten thousand aeroplanes to deluge German ammunition works, and supply works, with bombs. L. B. Desbriels, lecturer on aeronautics in the Royal military academy at Woolwich, is the real leader of the campaign to create a gigantic air fleet and secure experts in aviation. The movement has been public sentiment through lectures and newspaper articles behind the idea that England's salvation is in the air, to batter down the Rhine bridges by daily air raids. Trench warfare in France is ended, said the statement issued in support of the new movement to-day. Send ten thousand aeroplanes carrying fire bombs, over the Krupp munition works and the German armies will be paralyzed. Destroy the bridges over the Meuse over which supplies are transported, and the German army and Kaiser will be on his knees.

LONDON BUDGET.

Chancellor of the Exchequer Reginald McKenna, announced in the Commons to-day that subscriptions to the new War Loan have reached the unprecedented figure of nearly £600,000,000, not including small sums received at post offices.
In the eastern war theatre the Russians are entering on a new phase, the Russians having been successful in their counter-offensive against the Austrians in the region of Krasnik. They have taken new positions on the hills north of that town, and apparently are waiting for the Austro-Germans to make a move.
The Balkan situation is again in the limelight as a result of disclosures that the Austro-Germans offered Roumania alternative concessions either to continue neutral or join with the Germanic allies. Confidence is expressed in British, French and Italian circles that the Balkan States will not join the Germans, but it is considered likely that owing to the failure of the Russians to hold Ga-

CONSTIPATIENS

Read This—
It must be remembered that the bowels should move freely once a day to ensure perfect health. When such is not the case the poisonous waste material is absorbed into the system, thus producing a self-poisoning. The causes of Constipation are many and varied. Among the more common may be mentioned: poor stomach digestion, a deficiency of bile in the intestines, a lack of secretion in the bowels, and a want of the natural muscular contraction of the intestines from above downward.
Abbey's Effervescent Salt, sold everywhere at 25c and 60c, stimulates and restores the stomach digestion, increases the flow of bile into the intestine, causes a flow from the intestinal glands, and restores the natural downward action of the intestines, rendering it easy to secure a free action of the bowels, which is one of the most important requisites to health.

GENEVA, July 13.
Without notice the Germans have stretched a chain across the frontier bridge of Lorchach, a Swiss town on the Rhine, 15 miles north of Aarau. Since Sunday, the German frontier guards have exercised severe control and it is almost impossible to cross the frontier. It is supposed that this measure has been taken following recent attempts at espionage.

MUNITIONS ACT.

LONDON, July 13.
The Coal Miners' Union is the first to feel the power created by the munitions measure. The men's leaders protested before the passage of the bill that the mines should not be included among those subject to compulsory arbitration. Developments are awaited with keen interest. Upwards of 156,000 miners are involved. Mr. Runciman explained that the effect of the proclamation was to make a strike or lockout a heavy financial offence unless differences were referred to the Board of Trade for settlement by some method provided by the Munitions Act. The executive committee of the Miners' Federation of Britain, to-day decided to appeal to South Wales Miners to continue working until a satisfactory settlement had been reached. The committee also decided to recommend to all county associations that joint machinery be set up between the owners and workmen for the settlement of all disputes that might arise in the industries.

LONDON BUDGET.
War Loan Brings in Over £600,000,000.

LONDON, To-day.
The session of Parliament yesterday, was marked by a series of the most important announcements by Ministers. After the Commons had by the suggestion of Premier Asquith, who moved it in an eloquent speech, passed a resolution expressing gratification at the success of General Borden in conquering German Southwest Africa, Chancellor of the Exchequer Reginald McKenna announced the subscriptions of the new war loan reached the unprecedented figure of nearly £600,000,000, not including small sums received at post offices.
President of the Board of Trade, Walter Runciman, aroused the House to further cheers by the statement that in view of the failure of South Wales coal owners and miners to reach an agreement on the wage dispute, the Government had decided to apply to the mining industry the Munitions of War Act. This makes it an offense to take part in a strike or lockout until the differences had been reported to the Board of Trade and the Board had referred the matter for settlement by one of the methods prescribed by the Act. A very serious view was taken of the refusal of the miners to accept a compromise, for even in the face of the decision of the Government they are threatening defiance. Most of the coal for the navy comes from South Wales. Even before the trouble arose, the supply was affected by the enlistment in the army of 50,000 of the younger miners, which eventually made it necessary for the Government to stop recruiting in the mining district of Wales. The crisis was first threatened three months ago when the miners gave notice to terminate the existing agreement on July 1st, and in lieu of these they proposed a national programme, giving an all around increase of wages. The owners objected to the consideration of the new terms while the war lasted. The miners accept the existing agreement plus a war bonus. After a series of conferences, Union officials agreed to recommend a compromise, which was arranged through the Board of Trade. The miners, however, voted yesterday against this, and the Government is obliged to take action. The miners assert their demands would mean more than sixpence a ton and argued that as the owners were receiving much more for their coal than previously, they could well pay it. As a matter of fact, Runciman to-day also introduced a bill in the Commons to regulate the price of coal.

In the Lords, the Marquis of Lansdowne, member of the Cabinet, without portfolio, stated that 22 or 23 British Divisions are now in France and Belgium, and expressed the opinion that although recruits flowing from the country would not much longer tolerate the anomalies and injustices of the voluntary system which was taking an unusual proportion of married men, again that the National Register would be useful should it be found necessary to introduce compulsory military service. He intimated also that the munitions question is now being satisfactorily handled.

THE NATIONAL REGISTER.

LONDON, To-day.
Six divisions of the British Army went out at the very outset of the war. They have been followed by others and yet others, and unless I am mistaken we have approximately 420,000 to 440,000 at this moment in the European theatre. Lord Lansdowne made this statement in moving the second reading of the National Registration Bill in the Lords this evening, and added all the time War Secretary Kitchener had been recruiting armies and streams had been flowing in a volume which was a matter of surprise to most people, the stream of equipment did not flow so satisfactorily, but prodigious efforts have been made to remedy the errors, and he was glad to think these efforts had been attended with a considerable amount of success. The bill, said Lansdowne, was not intended to introduce compulsory service, but if compulsory service ever became necessary, the National Registration would greatly assist in introducing it.

WAR TO END IN OCTOBER, THE KAISER IS SUPPOSED TO HAVE STATED.

LONDON, To-day.
The German Emperor, according to the Times, in a speech to a deputation of bankers, who had insisted on an interview in order to point out to the Emperor the financial difficulties of the situation and the grave risk attending the pursuance of the campaign through another winter, stated the war would end in October. The bankers are alleged to have declared that even if the war was brought to an end immediately and an indemnity obtained, Germany's position would be difficult, but that if the war was prolonged, the German Empire would become utterly bankrupt. It was in reply to these representations, according to the Times, the Emperor understood to have declared the war would end in October.

THE LATEST HORROR OF THE HUSS.

THE HAGUE, To-day.
Reports received from the Belgian and Dutch frontier are to the effect that many persons are being killed by the high voltage of the electric wire fence which has been constructed by Germans along the entire border. Every morning, it is asserted, there are found from half a dozen to a dozen charred bodies of Belgians, including women and children, who during the night had attempted to cross the fence and were electrocuted.

(Lond) Almost in the same condition when he left the trenches, only a few hours previously, Sergeant Mich O'Leary was presented to the King Buckingham Palace, and received from His Majesty the Victoria Cross which he so gallantly won at Cambrai. It was on Feb. 1 that the Irish Guardsman when forming part of the storming party which advanced against the enemy's barricades, led to the front and killed five Germans who were holding the first barricade. Then he attacked a second barricade about sixty yards from the front, which he captured after killing three of the enemy, and making prisoners of two more. It was only the little red ribbon that led to the hero's identity, and the whisper went round, "He's Sergeant O'Leary." Sergeant O'Leary, comrades related, has had letters from all sorts of people begging to let them know when he was coming home and they would have been glad to meet him. "Bands," he said, "don't want any bands." Wealthy people wrote to him wanting him to their guest; he could have been staying at London in luxurious cars; instead he walked through the barracks and declined to be fussed. His comrades were entering him to tea, when, at a quarter five, came the summons to present himself at the Palace in order to receive the Victoria Cross, the hero having heard that the hero was still in the rough and grimy boots of the trenches, and there was no time for any nice adjustments of uniform, equipment, so the sergeant went over to the Palace practically in the old frock, accompanying the Guards. The King and Queen in the grounds of the Palace, and then Princess Mary. Shortly O'Leary's arrival, Queen Alexandra and Princess Victoria arrived to see the giving of the decoration.

Too Perfect Unselfishness.

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

The usefulness that is so pure and absolute that it becomes invisible, like the atmosphere about us, to be accepted as unthinkingly as the air we breathe is a beautiful thing and yet a pitiful one. There was once a young girl who loved pretty things like all young girls, perhaps more than some, because she had a certain delicate, evanescent prettiness that needed the help of pretty clothes to bring it out. This young girl married, as young girls often do, and by-and-by there were babies, as there sometimes are even in these days. And she loved the babies and laid her delicate prettiness on the altar of their health and gave her whole life to them, and in about the time it takes to tell it (so it seemed to her) they began to grow up. Scrimping on Someone's Part, Whose. Now two of them were daughters with all the delicate prettiness of their mother and all her old longing for pretty things. Unfortunately, means in this little family were limited and pretty clothes meant infinite contriving and planning and scrimping on someone's part—you may guess whose. It was a very long time between new gowns for the little mother. And when they did come they were plain, sensible things, designed to wear and not get out of style rather than to be becoming. Sometimes the little mother used to look in the glass and imagine herself in a pretty, stylish gown and wonder if it wouldn't bring back some of the old prettiness and wish the girls— And then she would be ashamed of the half thought and would tell herself that she would rather have their love and gratitude than all the pretty clothes in the world. And did the girls appreciate her sacrifice? Well, they didn't remember to tell her so, but she felt that from their own love of pretty things they must realize what it meant to go without them and she laid the omission to the thoughtlessness of youth. A Creation of Silver and Rose. And then one day she had an old school chum visiting her, a woman who had never married, who looked five years younger, and from whose age a becoming gown took away five years more. Just as the mother came down the stairs the girls were admiring their visitor's gown, a creation of silver grey and rose. "I think your mother would look dear in something like that," said the visitor. "Mother," laughed one of the girls, "I can't imagine it." "Mother is very plain in her tastes," explained the other. "She doesn't care for things like that." "She doesn't care for things like that!" They Didn't Realize! The mother heard and understood. They didn't know. They didn't realize. Her sacrifice had been so complete, so unquestioning that they didn't know it existed. How very often the sacrifices of wives and mothers and fathers are accepted like that! The wife who says she'd rather stay home with the children while the husband goes sailing, the father who decides a pipe is better for him than cigars, the mother who develops a taste for plain sensible things—how

Convicted of Indecently Assaulting Children.

The street car conductor, charged with indecently assaulting two little girls, aged 8 and 9 years old, respectively, was finally disposed of yesterday evening in the Magistrate's Court. The case was heard in private before Justices of the Peace C. H. Hutchings, K.C., and F. J. Morris, K.C.

The evidence of the prosecution in effect was that on the morning of Friday, July 2nd last, the complainants left their homes and boarded a street car to go on an errand for the father of one of them. While en route the defendant, named Noseworthy, carried on his outrageous conduct. Noseworthy, however, gave a complete denial of the charge and swore that he never even saw the children on the day in question.

The Judges in summing up believed the evidence for the prosecution in its entirety. Their Honors emphasized the heinousness of the offence and said it was the first time in the history of the street car service that a complaint of such a base character had been heard of; also mentioning the fact that defendant, who was the guardian of the street car for the convenience of the public and the paid guardian over little children when not accompanied by their parents, had only been in the street car service some three or four months. For each charge of assault Noseworthy was convicted and fined $100 or 3 months imprisonment, making a combined fine of $200 or 6 months imprisonment; also to furnish two bonds in $200 each for his future good behaviour or go to jail for an additional three months.

Latest News of Northern Fishery.

There is quite a contrast in the fishery north, according to news brought along by the coastal steamer Prospero last evening. From Conche south to Twillingate the codfishery is the worst on record and as a matter of fact people in the intervening places had not got a fish to eat. At Grey Islands there was a good commencement and then a bad falling off. At Herring Neck, Fogo, Seldom Come Bay and Gander Bay the fishery is good as far as traps are concerned but there is nothing doing with hook and line. At Wesleyville and Greenspond the voyages promises to be the best on record. The fish are actually "feeding the rocks" said our informant. Already there are large catches ashore at both these places. There is a great scarcity of salt north and yesterday one man at Seldom had 300 quintals of fish and not a pinch of salt to put on them.

How to Prevent Acid Stomachs and Food Fermentation

By a Stomach Specialist. As a specialist who has spent many years in the study and treatment of stomach troubles, I have been forced to the conclusion that most people who complain of stomach trouble possess stomachs that are absolutely healthy and normal. The real trouble, that which causes all the pain and difficulty, is excessive acid in the stomach, aggravated by food fermentation. Hyper-acidity irritates the delicate lining of the stomach and with and retard the process of digestion. The stomach is usually healthy and normal, but irritated almost past endurance by these foreign elements—acid and wind—all such cases—and they comprise over 90 percent. All of stomach difficulties—the first and only step necessary is to neutralize the acid and stop the fermentation by taking in a little warm or cold water immediately after eating, from one to two teaspoonfuls of bisulphated magnesia, which is the best and only really effective antacid and food corrective known. The acid will be neutralized and the fermentation stopped almost instantly, and your stomach will at once proceed to digest the food in a healthy normal manner. Be sure to ask your druggist for the bisulphated magnesia, as I have found other forms utterly lacking in its peculiarly valuable properties.—F. J. G.

Prisoner Arrives.

Sergeant White arrived in the city last evening from Bonavista Bay in charge of a woman who was convicted of a serious charge recently and sentenced to three months imprisonment. On arrival the prisoner was conveyed to H. M. Penitentiary in a cab. The woman was charged with ill-treating her husband, who was an invalid. She was tried at Catalina on this and another charge and sentenced to six months imprisonment.

Prospects are not very bright, but caplin is still fairly plentiful for bait. Traps are getting from 2 to 3 qtls. of cod daily, but hook and liners are doing nothing. From Mosquito Point to Bryant's Cove.—Twenty-six traps and 45 boxes are fishing, and the total catch is 1,480 qtls. with 470 for last week. Prospects are not very good, but bait continues plentiful.

The Lunenburg schooner Arcania came to port from the Grand Banks last evening for repairs. The Arcania was in collision with the tanker Gordon M. Hollett eight days ago while the latter vessel was bound to the Southern Shore for bait. The Hollett was wrecked and bore up for St. John's immediately, arriving here the following day. The Arcania was badly injured near the bow and she was found to be leaking, hence her visit here to have the damage remedied.

Pit Prop Ship Makes Record Trip.

Word has been received that the mammoth sailing ship Neath, which loaded pit props at Alexander Bay and Gambo for Messrs. Bowring Bros. Ltd., has reached Cardiff after a passage of less than nine days, which is exceptionally quick for a sailing vessel. The Neath, it will be remembered, went ashore at Beach Point, near Alexander Bay after completing her cargo, but was successfully refloated and sustained only very slight damage.

Big Salt Cargoes Due.

The steamers Nascopie and Ballerby are due to arrive here from Cadiz on next Sunday and Monday, respectively, bringing large cargoes of salt consigned to Job Bros. & Co. We understand that one of the ships will go to Hr. Breton to discharge and the other will unload here. The arrival of these ships will relieve the existing salt famine.

VESSEL REFLOATED.—The schr. Maggie, owned by J. Nolan, of Salmonier, which went ashore some time ago while coming out of St. Mary's Bay with a load of lumber has been refloated and is now undergoing repairs. The damages done to the vessel are not extensive.

When Sergt. O'Leary Received the V. C.

(London Paper.)

Almost in the same condition as when he left the trenches, only a few hours previously, Sergeant Michael O'Leary was presented to the King at Buckingham Palace, and received from His Majesty the Victoria Cross, which he so gallantly won at Cuirin. It was on Feb. 1 that the brave Irish guardsman when forming one of the storming party which advanced against the enemy's barricades, rushed to the front and killed five Germans who were holding the first barricade. Then he attacked a second barricade about sixty yards further on, which he captured after killing three of the enemy, and making prisoners of two more. Sergeant O'Leary thus practically captured the enemy's position by himself, and prevented the rest of the attacking party from being fired upon. Sergeant O'Leary came home on seven days' leave and on the day of the presentation he visited his comrades at Wellington Barracks. "With the dust of the trenches still upon him, and carrying his pack and rifle, he presented himself at the gate of the barracks and was not at first recognized.

"He is the coolest customer," subsequently exclaimed a sergeant of the Irish Guards, "you would not have thought he had the V.C. at all." It was only the little red ribbon of the V.C. on his breast which gave a hint as to the hero's identity, and the whisper went round, "He's Sergeant O'Leary." Sergeant O'Leary, his comrades related, had had letters from all sorts of people begging him to let them know when he was coming home and they would have hands to meet him. "Bands," he said, "I don't want any bands." Wealthy people wrote to him wanting him to be their guest; he could have been driving about London in luxurious motor cars; instead he walked diffidently to the barracks and declined to have a fuss. His comrades were entertaining him to tea, when, at a quarter to five, came the summons to present himself at the Palace in order to receive the Victoria Cross, the King having heard that the hero was at the barracks. O'Leary was still wearing the rough and grimy boots of the trenches, and there was no time for any nice adjustments of uniform or equipment, so the sergeant walked over to the Palace practically as he stood. He was accompanied by Colonel Proby, commanding the Irish Guards. The King and Queen were in the grounds of the Palace, and with them Princess Mary. Shortly after O'Leary's arrival, Queen Alexandra and Princess Victoria arrived and saw the giving of the decoration. His Majesty pinned on the cross, shook hands very cordially with Sergeant O'Leary and said a few words of congratulation on the heroism he had displayed, concluding by wishing him long life to wear the Cross and a happy future. The Queen and Princess Mary also shook hands with the newly decorated V.C. and Queen Alexandra and Princess Victoria followed suit.

On his return to Wellington Barracks, O'Leary related the famous story of the two barricades. He said he did not know what to do with all those Germans in front of him; a comrade afterwards stated. He did not know what would happen, and thought it was all over with him. He had no bayonet at the time he made the charge, but his rifle was loaded with ten rounds of ammunition. He shot the officer at the machine gun through the back of the head. That demoralized the rest, and the reason he captured the two prisoners was that he had no ammunition left. He impressed the men at Wellington Barracks as an easy-going, slow-moving giant, with a tremendous reserve of strength. His coolness was another vivid impression which remained with those who met him, and the visit to the Palace did not excite him in the least.

Sergeant O'Leary went home to County Cork by the boat express at 10.15 p.m. from Euston. He is tall and slightly built. His uniform fits him tightly, and he wears his cap set jauntily over the left ear. His nose is tip-tilted and he smiles with his eyes and looks ferocious. There was large numbers of sunburnt troops at the station, but the hero was unmistakable. He had been exactly built to fit the story. O'Leary is modesty itself, and when told that a reception awaited him on his arrival home, he exclaimed, "Bands, I don't want any bands!" All the same, he had to have them when he reached Cork on his way to his native place. O'Leary made the journey to Cork via Dublin, where I tried in vain to escape the attentions of the crowd that had gathered to welcome him. Under pressure from his admirers he produced his Victoria Cross and handed it to a young lady with the remark, "it doesn't look much, does it? But I suppose there is something in it, and I shall always treasure it." Another admirer, holding O'Leary by the hand, asked him why he charged so many Germans single-handed. It was an act of lunacy, man, the admirer added. "I did it," said O'Leary, regarding him with a smile, "for the simple reason that I thought it was my duty." At Cork railway station he was met by a great crowd, and the modest hero was obviously embarrassed by his reception. Attended by the mace-bearer and other civic functionaries, the Lord Mayor was in attendance, and besides two military bands, which played Irish airs, there was a large contingent of the local section of the National Volunteers. After the Lord Mayor had cordially welcomed him back to Cork, Sergeant O'Leary was complimented by many leading citizens. (Then he was driven through cheering streets to an hotel, where he was entertained to luncheon before leaving to visit his parents.

BACK YARDS

By GEORGE FITCH

Some Americans are rich enough to have beautiful lawns, garnished with flower beds, pergolas and other works of nature. But most of us have to be satisfied with back yards.

A back yard, under usual American conditions, is something which is fortunately hidden by the house in front of it.

It is ground which is thrown in along with the house. It is the road to the alley and the happy home of the tin can which has fulfilled its duty to society and is fading away in obscurity.

The back yard is also the principal exhibit of the American city to the passenger trains which enter it. This is why so many Europeans arrive in Chicago with a strong suspicion that the American has no more taste than the native Indian.

No one who has entered Chicago on any one of its three dozen railroads can feel quite so hostile towards the billboard as he did before he saw it spreading its protecting wings in front of half a dozen back yards at once and hiding them from the despondent traveller.

Chicago has always wondered why the citizens of older and more haughty places poke fun at its rude, unlauded ways. But if it would spend less time resenting this criticism and more time in appointing a back yard commission or hiring gentlemanly ushers to pass through its trains renting blinders to the passengers, it would fare better with its naughty visitors.

There is no easier way to size up an American family than to take a look at its back yard. If said yard contains a pyramid of ashes surmounted with an obsolete corset or a two-legged chair, the ambitious agent should not attempt to sell vacuum cleaners, portfolios of art or soap in quantities to the denizens of the house. But if the back yard is a little stanza in green with a carefully nursed tree, a neat gravel walk and a few flowers which seem perfectly at home, the family which owns it is an asset to the city and doesn't have to be watched relentlessly by the health commissioner or the corner grocer.

A quarter's worth of seeds and plenty of muscle will transform a back yard in one year from a waste pile to a beauty spot, which will speak more loudly for the family's good taste than a new piano or a $13 Easter hat.

Voted Repeal of Scott Act.

Annapolis, July 8.—A vote of the repeal of the Canada Temperance Act, more familiarly known as the Scott Act, took place in this County to-day, and resulted in a large majority of votes being cast for the repeal of the Act. Annapolis County now comes under the provisions of the Nova Scotia Temperance Act, which it is believed will prove more effective than the Scott Act has been.

Danube Terror Annoys Austrian Fleet.

Belgrade, July 8.—Beyond the Austrian town of Semlin, opposite Belgrade, and the island of Grosser Krieg, six Austrian river monitors are lying inside a boom. For space their number was reduced from seven to six by a pretty piece of torpedo work on the part of the solitary Serbian picket boat known as "The Terror of the Danube," these monitors have been singularly uninteresting.

The composition of mixed artillery force which, under Gen. Jivkovitch, has charge of the defence of Belgrade, is thoroughly well known to the Austrians. This force is charmingly cosmopolitan. The young gentlemen who have charge of "The Terror of the Danube" have great fun. They poke their way on dark nights into creeks and passages where they are not expected, and annoy the Austrians dreadfully.

The Austrians have three picket gunboats, like toy dreadnoughts, with machine-guns mounted in the turrets. Any one of them could destroy the "Terror" in a few minutes, but the "Terror" comes up when it is dark, makes rude remarks with her single machine gun, and then runs.

Recently one of the Austrian dreadnoughts chased it into a prepared mine field, and the dreadnought drifted ashore on Kojara Island.

Night after night the "Terror" goes gally on errands of the utmost danger and keeps terrorized an Austrian force of monitors and gunboats more than a hundred times its strength.

Mr. Rowell Says

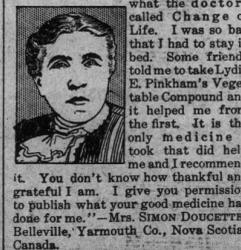

Canada's Share Should be Five Hundred Thousand.

Edmonton, Alta., July 8.—Speaking before the Canadian Club at luncheon to-day, Newton W. Rowell, leader of the Opposition in the Ontario Legislature, said that it was an undoubted fact many more had volunteered than had been accepted by the Government, and the West in this respect had put some of the older districts of the East to shame. Great Britain, it was stated, had 3,000,000 men enlisted, and if Canada had raised as many in proportion, there would be in the Dominion at least 500,000 men under arms.

Lessen Your Living Expenses!

"Be economical," is the cry in England, and this slogan has the same significance in Canada. We all must economize. There is more actual waste in our dress expenses than any other item. When a garment becomes soiled we throw it aside, when for a few cents it could be restored to original freshness and beauty by Dry Cleaning. A saving of at least 35 per cent. in the expense of dressing is possible by using the processes of Dry Cleaning and Dyeing.

Our agents will gladly give you full particulars.
