Town and County News.
No QUORUM at the School Board last night.

HOUSEKEEPERS are taking advantage of this fine weather, and are papering their rooms, judging from the large quantity of wall paper that Day is now selling.

SOCIAL.—The usual monthly social of the Wesleyans will be held in the basement of the church on Thursday evening next, commencing at 6 o'clock.

Mr. McKellar was in town yesterday, and inspected the progress of work on the Model Farm. The builders are actively at work, the only trouble being a scarcity of workmen.

A LARGE BIRD.—On Saturday last Mr. R. H. Knowles, of Hespeler, shot a white crane, which measured six feet five inches from tip to tip of the wings, and four feet ten inches from the toes to the extremity of the beak.

CORRECTION.—In our prize-list of the Provincial Exhibition, under the head of Galloway cattle, it should read—Best aged cow, Wm. Hood, 2nd Thos. McCrae, 3rd Wm. Hood; best three-year-old cow, 1st and 2nd Thos. McCrae, 3rd Wm. Hood.

NOT DEAD YET.—The little word "not" makes a great difference sometimes, and its omission in a paragraph we published lately has caused us to do an unintentional injustice to our Tory contemporary the London Herald and Prototype. We are happy to say, then, that the old Prototype is not dead, but, as it remarks, "is alive and kicking" as vigorously as ever at the Crisis. May no such knotty point again arise.

AGGRAVATED ASSAULT.—Wm. McCutcheon, of Mount Forest, was arraigned on Thursday before a bench of magistrates composed of Messrs. Thos. Swan, James McMullen and David Yeomans, on a charge of having committed an aggravated assault upon a little girl of some ten or eleven years of age, also a resident of the village. The charge was fully sustained and the culprit was committed for two months to the common goal at hard labor.

WARNING.—No less than three teams were seen to make a start on their own account yesterday afternoon, in different parts of the town, in consequence of their not being properly fastened; and one cart through some cause was thrown on its beam ends during the frantic endeavors of the horse to get away. We think it would be a very simple matter either for our Town Fathers, or the merchants themselves, now that the busy season is approaching, to have a few iron rings put down at the outside of the walks in front of their places of business, and thus avert any such accident as it was our duty to chronicle the past week. There are very few of our friends from the country but would tie their teams if proper fastenings were put down. It would not be a bad idea to have notices posted up in the hotels about these fastenings, and also that owners leaving teams untied are liable to a penalty.

Funer of Col. Saunders.
The remains of the late Col. Saunders were laid in the English Church Cemetery on Monday afternoon. The funeral procession left his late residence, Ashgrove, soon after two o'clock, and proceeded to St. George's Church. The procession was a lengthy one, consisting of from 60 to 70 vehicles, containing most of the leading men of the town, and several from different parts of the country. The Town Council attended in their corporate capacity—a resolution having been passed to this effect at a special meeting held on Saturday night. Arrived at the church, the coffin was carried into the aisle, and the burial service was commenced by the Rev. Mr. Alexander. The melancholy procession then re-formed, and proceeded to the cemetery, where the concluding words of the burial service were pronounced by the Ven. Archdeacon Palmer at the grave, and the body of the deceased was committed to its last resting place. During the day the flag on the Town Hall was flying half-mast high.

Outrage at Brantford.
Chief George H. M. Johnson, of the Six Nation Indians, while in the discharge of his duty in protecting the woods of the Indian Reserve, was, early on Saturday morning, surrounded and set upon by five or six white men, who inflicted such serious injuries on him as may prove fatal. He is confined to his bed, and yesterday was still occasionally delirious from the injuries received on the head, besides which he has a broken finger, bruised arm, and contusions on the side, from which he suffers much. He also received a ball from his own revolver, which had fallen into the hands of the enemy, which passed through his coat and vest. The police are on the track of the villains. Chief Johnson is most inoffensive, though, in the performance of his duties, parties may suffer for infractions of the laws in giving or selling liquor to his people or in cutting and removing wood.

The Death of Mr. Symons.
We take the following additional particulars from the Hamilton Times:—Mr. Symons on Saturday made arrangements with a friend of his to visit his parents at Galt, yesterday, and the lively had been daily engaged. He and several companions spent the evening together, separating about half-past ten o'clock, when deceased went to his lodgings, on Main street, in the stone block where Mr. Papp's law offices are situated, and where Mr. Freeman's offices were some time ago. He and two other young men had rooms in the upper story. Symons went there. About half-past eleven o'clock Mr. Bartlett, another lodger, in ascending the flight of stairs to that flat, stumbled at the doorway over the body of his friend. The alarm was given and enquiries made into the affair. From what can be learned, or rather conjectured, it appears that young Symons had retired for the night, and was awakened about eleven o'clock by the scratching and whining of a small dog at the closed door at the foot of the

Dr. Sangster in Berlin.
To the Editor of The Daily Mercury.
Sir: Having listened to the lectures of Dr. Sangster during the 3rd and 4th inst. in Berlin, which lectures were confined exclusively to educational topics and methods of teaching the different branches now taught in public schools, I have no hesitation in stating that it has never been my privilege to listen to another gentleman who presented so many undeniable facts in reference to teachers' duties, and in exposing the faults common to many teachers as did Dr. Sangster; and, I may add, at the same time convey so much useful and practical knowledge. His lectures received the hearty approbation of about two hundred teachers and many others who were not teachers. As a speaker he is fluent, audible, and somewhat humorous, at the same time making use of the choicest language.

Would it not be well if the authorities of our county would make an effort to secure his services in Guelph for a couple of days? as I feel sure that the manner in which he deals with the real educational topics and modes of teaching could not fail to have a beneficial effect upon every conscientious teacher.
R. H. KNOWLES.
Hespeler, Oct. 13.

Life in the Wilderness.
Mr. Edward Ellis, son of Squire Ellis, of Lincoln, accompanied the first expedition to Fort Garry, and remained in the service until last spring, when he became connected with the Boundary Survey Commission. He writes that the detachment of the expedition to which he belongs is now stationed at Turtle Mountain, 180 miles west of Dufferin. They expect to winter at Wood Mountain, 400 miles west of where they are at present, and they are desirous of moving on, as it is becoming very cold—the ice on their water barrels having already become so thick as to require the pounding of a mallet or some other heavy instrument to break it. The Sioux Indians frequent that region, and Mr. Ellis states that he has had some interesting interviews with them, and has succeeded in gaining their favor. He says they are very affectionate when they see take a liking, but render themselves troublesome by an irresistible desire to pilfer and carry off what belongs to others. In return for some trinkets presented to them by Mr. Ellis, the chief with a number of his braves waited on him one morning before daylight, and presented him with a great buzzard's wing, "black as night." This, in their estimation, was conferring a very great honor, as a wing of this bird is the emblem of their tribe. It is now floating with his own ensign on the flag-staff over the depot where he resides. The music Mr. Ellis has become accustomed to in those western wilds would sound strange to his friends at their firesides in Ontario. It often consists of the screaming and chattering of nocturnal birds and the howling of wild animals, with now and then the report of the hunter's gun, and occasional unearthly shrieks of the Indian returning hungry and gaunt from the chase.—Com.

EGGS—AMIE FOR TURKEYS.—The St. Thomas Times says:—Mr. G. D. Carless, of Orwell, has a turkey; last spring she commenced and laid at the rate of one egg per diem for 87 days in succession. She took a respite for four days, and then went at it again, laying an egg every day for 48 days consecutively, making in all 135 eggs in 139 days. If there is a turkey hen in the country can beat this we should like to hear all the particulars.

This week's Woodstock Times contains the valdictory of its old proprietor and editor, Mr. McCleneghan, who has been appointed Postmaster of Woodstock, and with it, the announcement that Messrs. Ross and McElheran have succeeded to the proprietorship. Mr. McCleneghan's connection with the Times has extended over a quarter of a century, and in severing the ties formed during that time he manifests deep regret. The London Advertiser speaks well of the new proprietors, who were formerly employed in that office.

The Lindsay Post says that an iron mine of great value has been discovered in the township of Snowdon. This mine is on the banks of the Burnt River, and is within a hundred yards of the projected Victoria Railway. It is some twenty-three miles from Cobocouk and fifteen miles from Cobocouk. No doubt the iron deposits cover a large area.

The By-law for a bonus of $10,000 to the Hamilton and North Western Railway was voted on at Georgetown on Monday and carried by an almost unanimous majority, only two voting against it.

Smart Naval Battle.
Ironclads at Work.
Marshal Bazaine's Trial.
The Yellow Fever.
M. Ranc Condemned.
Madrid, Oct. 18.

The Intransigente iron-clads had been defeated by the National squadron.

A fight took place on Saturday afternoon near Cartagena and lasted about two hours. The insurgent vessels were considerably injured, and compelled to return to Cartagena harbour. The Government squadron consisted of the Atmazza, Victoria, Carmen and two smaller vessels. Admiral Loboz was in command of the Intransigente fleet, numbering four vessels.

The fight lasted two hours, when the Intransigente fleet was defeated and driven back to Cartagena, their vessels being badly damaged. The insurgents showed great spirit, but handled their ships badly, the Nunancia at first having to bear the brunt of battle alone. The fire generally was at too long a range, but at the close of the engagement, while the Victoria was endeavoring to intercept the retreat of insurgent frigate Tetuan, broadsides were closely exchanged between these two vessels.

Additional particulars of the fight show that the rebel ships failed to support each other. The Nunancia fired wildly. The Tetuan behaved with the greatest gallantry, and was frequently cheered by the spectators on shore, among whom were hundreds of foreigners.

Madrid, Oct. 13.—In the naval battle off Cartagena 13 men were killed and 47 wounded on the rebel fleet. Snor Mayen, a member of the Junta, was killed on board the Nunancia.

Paris, Oct. 13.—The Council of War before which M. Ranc was summoned to appear has declared him guilty, and passed sentence of death in contumacious.

The Journal de Paris declares that the recent elections demonstrate the necessity for a restoration of Monarchy to prevent impending anarchy.

The trial of Marshal Bazaine was resumed at noon to-day. The attendance was larger than on any day since the opening. The President of the court began his examination of the accused, stating that he should consider that the prisoner's responsibility commenced with the 12th of August. He, however, put several questions in regard to events before that date. In reply to questions concerning the disaster of Forbach, Bazaine said he had no knowledge that orders were given to General de Failly. He was present at the Council of War held by the Emperor on the 9th of August. It was then resolved that his army should be brought to the walls of Metz, and a movement in that direction began on the 11th. After reaching the city he received no orders to obtain more ammunition: He complained of the carelessness of the Intelligence Service. He did not receive precise information of MacMahon's situation until the 13th, and the orders to throw a bridge across the Moselle reached him only the day before. He denied that he could be held responsible for delay and subsequent failure to destroy bridges to prevent the enemy's pursuit. Telegraphic despatches were read showing that Bazaine intended to contract the flank movement of the Germans but the Emperor prevented him from carrying out his plans. The Marshal in answer to further questions, especially concerning the 15th of August, stated that he agreed with the Emperor to march to Verdun, but delay was caused by the battle of Borny, and he was otherwise hindered; he was unaware that the Emperor intended to depart from Metz. He declared positively that the Emperor left no special orders, and it was well understood, however, that in the event of strong resistance the army was to remain at Metz, a few days at least, and not to go beyond Verdun in any case. After the battle of the 16th of August and Canrobert agreed with him that it was impossible to advance; responsible officers informed him that his supplies were insufficient. He declared that he gave Canrobert all the aid he asked. At St. Privat he blamed L'Amiralault for not calling up reserves. In justification of his conduct after the 18th of August he cited the orders he had received to be cautious. The accused betrayed much excitement during this examination, which was long and searching.

Paris, Oct. 13.—The Republican Deputies to the Assembly waited on ex-President Thiers to-day and tendered their congratulations on the victory in the Provinces yesterday. Mr. Thiers expressed his gratification at the result of the election, because it would strengthen the hands of the opponents of the Monarchical schemes. The deputies have also sent a telegram to Mr. Rannaut, expressing their joy at his success. The members of the Left Centre will meet on the 33rd instant, the extreme Republicans on the 25th, and the Moderate Republicans on the 27th, to designate the members of a General Committee of Management.

It is said that Don Alphonso and wife have recrossed the frontier into France. A special telegram to the Times says General Ceballos has ordered the people living in the neighborhood of Cartagena to quit their houses, as a general bombardment by sea and land will soon be opened.

Memphis, Oct. 13.—The mortuary report to-day is more favorable, and it is thought that the scourge has succumbed to the vigorous sanitary measures adopted by the Board of Health.

Chicago, Oct. 13.—The benefit given by the Exposition managers for the Memphis sufferers realized $15,000. The Union National Bank will re-open its doors and resume business to-morrow.

The Reason Why.

The reason why the magnificent Retail Grocery Establishments in the Alma Block and on Lower Wyndham Street, belonging to John A. Wood, are so very popular with the intelligent public:— Because the Goods are all of the best quality. Because the Prices are invariably the lowest. Because the Clerks are courteous and obliging. Because the Stock is the largest to select from. Because the goods are always clean. Because the Weights and Measures are always correct. Because, in fact, the proprietor understands his business, desires to please his customers, makes good use of his capital, and buys for cash in the best markets, and always deals liberally with those who honor his stores with their custom. These and many other weighty reasons have contributed very largely to make the name of John A. Wood, as connected with the Grocery trade of Guelph, so well known, and his stores so very popular.

Guelph Evening Mercury

TUESDAY EVEN'G, OCT. 14, 1873.

The English Press and the Scandal.

Ministerial journals are bothered by the unanimous way in which the English press condemn Sir John A. Macdonald. The Mail falls back upon the general stupidity of English journalists on Canadian affairs, and triumphantly brings up some blunder, made by the Irish Times, in refutation of the whole English press. It concludes with the following remark, which we venture to suggest, is a little high-flavoured:— "The dullest boy in our Common Schools is better informed on the subject at issue than the brightest of the brilliant coterie of writers who are describing to England the present circumstances of her daughter. What the Grit organ means by quoting their opinions to the intelligent people of Canada, we know not."

The Ottawa Times does exactly what to say. It is not that there has been political corruption in England, and then aptly remarks that the tu quoque, retort or "You're Another," is no argument. It also is very severe upon the general ignorance and stupidity of the English newspapers; and gets off the following choice morsel, which we give as a specimen of the argument indulged in by the Tory press just now:—

"The severity with which the Saturday Review comes upon the Premier is something surprising. But there is one answer to all this. The Canadians can manage their own affairs. It is not said, even by his bitterest opponents, that Sir John Macdonald appropriated a dollar of the election funds to his own account. The fact that the charter is not, and was never possessed by Sir Hugh Allan is a naked proof that it never was sold to him!"

It is undoubtedly a fact that some English newspapers, and notably the great Thunderer, have in former times displayed a deplorable ignorance of Canadian internal affairs. But this was chiefly the case regarding questions of purely colonial significance, of which an intelligent appreciation can hardly be obtained by writers not personally acquainted with and interested in the facts—much less by those looking down upon Canadian matters from a lofty height of insular self-sufficiency. The Pacific scandal, however, differs widely from a mere dry and intricate question of colonial policy. The facts are simple, and easily to be apprehended by an observer away from the scene of action; especially as the circumstances are of Imperial importance, embracing wide interests, and are to a great extent devoid of the strong local coloring which renders our politics difficult of comprehension by those not "to the manner born." The whole case is sufficiently exciting and interesting to ensure a careful reading of its details; and the English journalists have before them the leading newspapers on both sides of Canadian politics. Reform as well as Tory, containing full reports of facts as well as mere editorial expressions of opinion. The points at issue, too, are chiefly those relating to the working of the British Constitution, in which no journals in the world can be better versed than those now in question. Add to all this the fact that Canadian affairs have lately attracted more attention in England than they have for many years past; and who can doubt that the leading English papers are uttering no idle words in the unanimous condemnation they are pouring upon our corrupt and degraded Ministry?

Toronto Tories say that David Glass will be "all right" when the House meets, but that he is holding back for a good price—thus acknowledging their belief that Sir John's work of bribing is not through with. The London correspondent of the Globe says that Mr. Glass repudiates the estimate made of him by the Conservatives, who least that he will be found voting with the Ministry when the House meets. His mind as regards prorogation and the right of Parliament to inquire into the acts of Ministers remains unchanged.

The idea for the reconstruction of the Cabinet seems to have been abandoned, and considerable speculation is rife as to who can be got from Quebec to support Langevin in the coming crisis. Several Quebecers in town denounce Langevin, and do not scruple to accuse him of having appropriated Sir Hugh's money, and assert that he invested it in bank stock for himself, instead of helping his friends.

Senator F. Girard arrived at Ottawa on Saturday. He says Louis Riel will be elected for Provencher, and that he will come down and take his seat in the House of Commons. He also says that it was Attorney-General Clarke who caused warrants to be issued against Riel and Lepine, as he thought by that means he would get them out of the way, and secure his own election for Provencher.

The Canadian Illustrated News says its leanings were always in Sir John A. Macdonald's favor, and that it confidently hoped the evidence before the Royal Commission would have put matters in a more favorable light for the Government. It is sorry to be compelled to confess to "profound disappointment" at the result. The Illustrated News says:—"We had expected a far more thorough and satisfactory defence from Sir John A. Macdonald." The Illustrated News adds that a change of Government must be regarded as not only desirable but certain.

It is said that the recent articles of the English papers on the Pacific Scandal, particularly those of the London Spectator, of whose editor Lord Dufferin is a personal friend, have had such influence with His Excellency that, after receiving the report of the Royal Commission, he will dismiss the present Ministry.

An inquest was held on Monday on an old man named John Brooder, who was found dead in a quarry at Ottawa. Foul play is suspected.

The 32nd (Bruce) battalion is now assembled at Walkerton for their annual eight days' drill. They are camped on the ground adjoining the drill shed.

The Rival Clansmen:

A Scottish Vendetta.
CHAPTER III.
THE M'KENZIES RAFFLED—AN UNFORTUNATE GIRL—LOCH MAREE—DANGER AGAIN—THREATENS THE LOVERS.

With the aid of a tinder box, a light was soon made, and the party were shown into the parlour, where the remains of a peat fire still smouldered on the hearth.

A gawky, red-haired, stupid looking girl, who had apparently just been awakened by the landlord, replenished the fire and brought some eatables, which she placed on the table before the hungry travellers, and the landlord himself shortly entered with his bottle in his hand.

The parlour was a comfortable room, with costly but old-fashioned furniture, and on the floor was a rich carpet. Around the walls hung several paintings and prints, chiefly representing warlike and ecclesiastical subjects, while on other parts, hung in a decorative style, were a number of weapons, both ancient and modern. The room had two windows—one looking to the front, and the other to the rear of the building—both of which were closely screened. To these things our friends did not give much attention, but rather applied themselves to the food which was set before them, to warming themselves by the peat fire, which now burned brightly and cheerily, and the two males to assisting the landlord to empty his bottle, the contents of which, greatly to that individual's satisfaction, they pronounced to be of first-rate quality.

The landlord was a man scarcely above the medium height, attired in a kilt of no distinctive tartan, but made of some home-spun material. He was cautious, cunning-looking man, but beyond that no other characteristic was very readily to be traced in his physiognomy. He seemed greatly delighted when Flora, in sweet accents, addressed them in Gaelic, and thanked him for having admitted them at the hour (it was now past midnight) at which they had arrived; and when Hector, also in the same tongue, added his thanks, his joy appeared to be overpowering, and he forthwith commenced a tirade against all Lowlanders and Sassenachs whatsoever—Gordon excepted—who could not speak the "Divine tongue," the "pure Hebrew" of the Gael.

Gordon defended that portion of his countrymen who were unable to speak Gaelic to the best of his ability, denouncing that language as being everything that was mystifying and confusing, and upholding his own Doric as the grand medium by which only thoughts could be correctly and properly communicated from one mind to another. The discussion was chiefly conducted by Gregor and Gordon, Flora and Hector only throwing in a remark occasionally. In this way an hour was pleasantly spent, and at the end of that time the girl came and conducted our heroine to the apartment in which she was to sleep during the night; and as there was only one other bedroom in the house to spare, Hector and Gordon agreed to share it. They, too, soon after retired, and sweet slumber soon visited and sealed their eyelids, and vouchsafed rest to their tired bodies, and to their harassed minds a refreshing season of oblivion.

The next morning was in great contrast to the evening preceding. The sun shone forth brightly, and the birds were singing their merry song with a full chorus. Many traces of the storm, however, were still visible. The fallen trees; the flooded paths; the foaming brooks; and a dozen other little signs around told of its fearful nature in language at once suggestive and striking.

The forenoon had well advanced when our three friends again met at breakfast, and all traces of fatigue and excitement had then vanished away. Flora looked extremely fresh and buoyant in spirits, and her vivacity seemed to have an exhilarating influence upon the others. She looked like a little goddess of beauty as she sat and presided at the breakfast table. Her pretty face was radiant with smiles, her eyes sparkled, and her cheeks glowed as she recited with enthusiasm to Gordon the heroic defence Hector had made against the attack of Ian M'Kenzie and his companion in the hut; and when she spoke of her own resolution to defend him, the manner in which her eyes flashed and the little dimpled hand was clenched showed that the true womanly qualities of courage and firmness and devotion were deeply seated in her being.

The less wit a man has, the less he knows the want of.
Why is the letter E a glutton? Because it is always first in eating, and the last to leave.
It is very well to say, "Take things as they come," but suppose they don't come!
The sting of the bee carries conviction with it. It makes you a bee-leaver at once.
Never leave your hat in a passage—unless it's a bad one.
How to keep square with the world—Don't go round too much.
A fisherman baits his hook; a school boy hates his book.
Book-keeping may be taught in a single lesson of three words: Never lend them.
A farmer gathers what he sows; a seamstress sews what she gathers.
A shanghai, eating corn, takes a peck every time.
A veil is a lady's protection from the too earnest gaze of the sun of Heaven and the suns of men.

A medical writer lately asserted that "physic is the art of amusing the patient, while nature cures the disease."
Mother over her children—"Precious lambs!" Father—"Lambs? humph! then what am I?"
SCOTCH LOGIC.—On one occasion a sma' laird was waited on by a neighbour to request his name as a recommendation to a little "bit bill" for £20 at three months, which led to the following interesting colloquy: "Na, na, I canna dae that." "Why, for no, laird? Ye have done the same for others." "Ay, ay, Tammas, but there's wheels within wheels ye ken as a sma' laird; I canna dae that." "It's a sma' affair to refuse me, laird." "Well, ye see, Tammas, if I put ma name till't ye would get the siller fare the bairn, and when the time came round ye wadna be ready, and I wud hae to pay't; see then ye and me wud quarrel; see me may just as wad quarrel w'coo, as lang as the siller's in ma pouch."
Forty years' experience have tested the virtues of Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry, and it is now generally acknowledged to be the best remedy extant for pulmonary and lung diseases, embracing the whole range from a slight cold to a settled consumption. Were it not for its merits, it would long since have "died, and made no sign."

What musical instrument does a cheap public house remind one of?—Why, a vile inn, of course.

It is rumored in Toronto that the shareholders in the Mail were so much dissatisfied with the financial exhibit at the recent meeting that they propose to sell the plant of the establishment.

We understand the annual meeting of the shareholders of the Toronto Mail the other day was not exactly harmonious. Some of the shareholders, being honest men, object to the course of the organ on the Pacific Scandal, and desire a change of policy. It is understood the financial condition of matters is unsatisfactory to the verge of a climax, and that in all probability the organ of high-toned Toryism will shortly be sold to whoever will buy.—London Advertiser.

BOOK FOR EVERY MAN.—The Science of Life and Proliferation. A Medical Treatise on the Cause and Cure of Exhausted Vitality, Premature Decline in Man, Nervous and Physical Debility, Hypochondria, Impotency, Spontaneous or Seminal Weakness, and all other diseases arising from the errors of youth or the indiscretions or excesses of mature years. This is indeed a book for every man. Thousands have been taught by this work the true way to health and happiness. It is the cheapest and best medical work ever published, and the only one on this class of its worth reading. 190th edition, revised, much enlarged, illustrated, bound in beautiful French cloth. Price $1. Sent by mail, post-paid, on receipt of price. Address: PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE, No. 4, Franklin Street, Boston, Mass., or Dr. W. H. PARKER, Assistant Physician, N.B.—The authority here consulted on the above as well as all diseases requiring skill and experience, promptly.

HAVING SUFFERED FOR SEVERAL years from Dyspepsia, resulting in great Nervous Prostration and General Debility, I was recommended to take Dr. Wheeler's Compound of Serravallo's and Calceaya. Having persisted in its use for several weeks I recovered perfect health. My wife and children also, have taken it, for general Tonic purposes to invigorate and strengthen the system and promote the formation of pure blood, with permanent benefit. It energizes and sustains the vital forces in a remarkable manner.

IRON in the Blood

RUSSIAN SYRUP

MAKES THE WEAK STRONG.

The Russian Syrup, a Protection of the Blood, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The cured and v. aged blood pervades every part of the body, repairing damage, and waste, searching out, and ridding the system of disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dropsy, Liver Complaint, Diarrhoea, Chronic Diarrhoea, Bells, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or a low state of the system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its exciting effects are not followed by corresponding reactions, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures, to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass. Pamphlets Free.
