 190 Yonge St. Canada's Greatest Store. Toronto
 YONGE AND QUEEN STREETS, November 13, 1896.
 This store closes at 6 o'clock Saturdays as on other days.

It would make interesting reading if the express companies could tell of all the business they get from this store. We might go farther and include the railroads and postoffice. With mail orders literally pouring in from all over, and tons of merchandise going from us to towns and villages throughout Canada, there's a mint of business every day that shoppers see nothing of. Our only reason for mentioning it is to show the immense outlet we have here for worthy goods of every sort.

This business is its own argument. Travellers will tell you that our parcels and packages go everywhere, which means that we're in close touch with thousands of families all over the Dominion.

Home Comforts!

The kind of business we like best of—all-furnishing homes with everything that goes to make life comfortable, and anticipating every need of housekeepers and home-owners. The second floor is an enthusiastic shopping place for that reason—plenty of novelties in housefurnishings and more for your money than you ever knew before. Buying goods in immense quantities brings them to us at the lowest possible prices, and selling everything you can possibly want in the way of—

- Carpets and Curtains!
- Furniture and Draperies!
- Pictures and Wall Papers!

makes this business of direct interest to every family everywhere. The Wall Paper business last week was something really exceptional, and now we're waking things up with such low-priced goods as these:

- | PICTURES. | | WALL PAPERS. | |

Everything for the home! Think what it means to write that and mean it. The second floor is a good-sized exhibition at all times, but there's more to see now than ever before. A direct importation of genuine Oil Paintings adds to the interest. You may want to see them, even if you don't want to buy.

THE AQUEDUCT PROJECT.
 The World has taken little stock in the Georgian Bay Ship Canal and Power Aqueduct Company. We did not like some features of the scheme, and we certainly offered more than opposition to the proposal that Toronto should give over the water franchise or any portion of the supply of water to our citizens to a monopolistic corporation. The tendency of the times is not that way. It runs rather in the direction of the municipalization of many more franchises and the abandonment of none of the present ones.

But Mr. Macdonald's project is not confined to supplying water to Toronto. He proposes to develop power by damming the Humber at three or more places; of storing the water of that river, and of implementing the first dam a tunnel through the ridges from Lake Simcoe to the Humber valley. This is his first project, and, after an examination of his plans and of the reports of the engineers who were connected with the old Ontario canal scheme and a personal inspection of the Humber and the possibilities there, it seems to us that the power scheme is one well worthy of the consideration and the encouragement of the citizens of Toronto. It seems to us that by the construction of the first dam a lot of power can be economically generated, and that if the volume of power can be greatly increased by the construction of a second and third reservoir further up the stream. Nor does the tunnelling of the Ridges appear to be a very formidable undertaking, as they were cut through there would be an immense water supply and practically unlimited power at the disposal of Toronto. The power scheme comes first naturally, and there ought to be no opposition to it—indeed, it ought to receive the heartiest encouragement, and to that extent The World asks the citizens of Toronto to give it their best consideration.

The supplying of water to municipalities is another matter. If Lake Simcoe water is good for use, and we believe it is, it will be high time to consider whether the city will use it or not when it is running past our door. But no one will consent for the present, or perhaps at any time, to even buying water in wholesale lots from an aqueduct company. The city ought to be the heartiest encourager of Mr. Macdonald's scheme, and to do this he ought to confine his efforts to the power project and to selling water to the farmers living on the banks of his ditch.

Then as to the question of navigation: That is also something for the future. It is not the high time to consider the heartiest encouragement, and to that extent The World asks the citizens of Toronto to give it their best consideration.

WILL STAND BY JOHNSTON.
 The City Solicitor wrote, stating that the defendants' costs in the case of Johnston v. City of Toronto, Gas Co., was $125.26, and a certificate of taxation has been served upon the City. He advised that the resolution of the Board of Councils, passed on the 21st of the month, authorizing the City Solicitor to defend the City in the Johnston case, was not intended to cover the costs of the City in the Johnston case, but that the City Solicitor should be authorized to defend the City in the Johnston case, and that the City Solicitor should be authorized to defend the City in the Johnston case.

WONT THROW AWAY MONEY
 The City Engineer wrote, pointing out that the city has to provide the filling under the approach to the John-street bridge, and under the Esplanade agreement the ramp forming the approach to the bridge is to be constructed by the city. About 25,000 cubic yards of filling will be required. He reported that the amount to be expended in filling the harbor or island shore, depositing it in the Waterworks slip, and then pumping it into the John-street slip by the city sand pump.

REPAIR STREETS.
 At a recent meeting of the council it was ordered that repairs be made to the streets on Dundas-street, Bloor to Humber-street, at a cost of $1500, and constructing a bicycle path on Arthur-street, from Bathers to the City Hall. The City Engineer reported that the work for the repair of the streets had been completed, and that the City Engineer had received the amount of money required to finish the work. The City Treasurer and the City Engineer submitted several tenders, which he had obtained from firms in the city, and he recommended that the City Engineer should be authorized to accept the lowest tender, and that the City Engineer should be authorized to accept the lowest tender.

THE NEPOTISM ENQUIRY.
 The Board then resumed the discussion of nepotism. Ald. McMurich said that he had written to the Mayor regarding the appointment of Mr. Johnston to the position of City Engineer, and that he had received a reply from the Mayor stating that the appointment was made on the basis of merit, and that the Mayor was satisfied with the appointment. The Board then adjourned.

THAT COSTLY CITY HALL.

 but there was a danger if new tenders were asked that they might put up prices. A HUGE BLUFF.
 Ald. Lamb: How much would it cost to board up the doors and windows and let the building stand for three or four years?
 Architect Lennox pointed out that to award separate tenders for one or two trades would cause no end of trouble and result in a lot of extras. On the other hand, a single contract covered the whole work there would be no trouble between the various trades. The erecting wiring and steam heating will have to be done before any other interior work can go on. Unless the contract for these trades is let now, the entire building will have to be closed down in a week or two.

CONTROLLERS SQUABBLE.
 Ald. McMurich: Are you going to let these men stand around idle while you are waiting for a report from the City Treasurer?
 Ald. Lamb: Oh, you have been negotiating with E. A. Macdonald and the Mayor, but that is not going to make you Mayor!
 After some further cross-firing the discussion was adjourned until 10 o'clock.

ANOTHER MONEY BILLY.
 At the closing session of the Board the City Treasurer presented figures showing the position of the court house account. Architect Lennox strongly urged immediate action, as he was afraid that if new tenders were called for the probable $20,000 more owing to a rising market. The tender now before them was $700,000 more than it would have been a month ago.

Yet Cranks in B. C. Would Ask for Legislation TO PREVENT FOREIGNERS From Locating Mineral Ground in the Pacific Province.

An agitation for an American Consulate in Rosland-The First Bar of Bullion Taken Out by the Cyanide Process in British Columbia Brought From Cariboo-Clarke Wallace as a Mine Owner-General Ontario Mining Notes.

It is learned that it is the intention of some members of the British Columbia Legislature, at its next session, to bring forward a bill to prevent aliens from locating mineral ground in the province. Such a move would surely be a foolish one. Had it not been for the expropriation of the wealth of the Kootenay, would have been unknown to this day. What the country wants is more aliens, and they will not remain aliens long any way, for as soon as they become used to the privileges to be enjoyed under British rule they will take out naturalization papers and become good citizens.

TWO WED

SHE BROKE DOWN AND WEPT

Mrs. Sternaman's Straight Story in Court.

SHE WAS UTTERLY WORN OUT

For Four Weeks Had Not Taken Off Her Clothes to Rest.

She Worn Out She Fell Into a Daze, and for That Her Mother-in-Law Accused Her of Poisoning and Neglect of Her Husband—Statement of the Dead Man Just Prior to His Death, in Which He Sought to Protect His Wife from Prosecution—Her Story Concluded.

Buffalo, Nov. 12.—The examination in the case of Mrs. Olive Sternaman was continued this morning by United States Commissioner Fairchild. Mrs. Sternaman this morning identified two letters which her husband had written. One was written by him in reply to a letter received from his mother before his marriage to the defendant. The mother had urged him not to marry the widow, and had hinted to him that she was suspected by some people that she had poisoned Chipman to get his insurance.

Sternaman's reply to his mother was written Oct. 6. He defended Olive vigorously. Mrs. Sternaman testified that after her husband's mother visited Buffalo, and told of the talk in Canada about the possibility that she (the defendant) might have poisoned her first husband and was poisoning Sternaman, the latter was greatly worried by the talk, and he said that he wished to be certain that no scandal should harm her. He wrote a statement, which he gave to the witness to be produced if it ever was asserted that his death was owing to poison or any act of hers. The statement, which was written June 10th last, was as follows:

THE DEAD MAN'S STATEMENT. To all whom it may concern: I, Geo. H. Sternaman, having had very peculiar attacks at times during the past six months, and of which no one but my wife and a few of her relatives know anything, write this to you to let you know that I should die while in one of them, that no person can say that I was caused by her hands in any way that I died.

The only cause or reason of my having this is when I get downhearted or worrying about anything that does not go to please me. I would have written and told my mother, but I knew that she would only worry and fret about it, and probably not do any good either; that is the reason that I write this, that it may be read and shown at any time providing I die whilst in one of those peculiar spells. I have never had a doctor, because I always came out of them all right. I hope what I have written will convince all that they may not think that my wife had anything to do with such an uncommon death.

Signed by me this 10th day of June, 1896. Geo. H. Sternaman. A STRAIGHTFORWARD STORY. Mrs. Sternaman told in an apparently straightforward way the story of her husband's long illness, and of her difficulty in obtaining medicines and caring for him. She testified that her husband's medicines cost about $5 a week, and that it was with great difficulty that she managed to get money to buy them and run the house. Finally she ran out of money and wrote to her husband's mother, asking that she loan her some money. She received $5. Finally the family got so poor that Sternaman determined to go to his mother's home in Canada. He wrote to his mother and asked if he and his wife and children could go to her home. He received no reply to his letter. Sternaman and his wife went over to Rahman Centre, to his mother's home.

When describing his condition there and the way in which she was treated by his mother, the defendant broke down for the first time during the examination, and wept freely. She testified that her mother-in-law accused her of being too lazy to get breakfast for her husband, whereas she had not taken off her clothes for four weeks, was worn out, and was doing without the mother-in-law took advantage of the fact and got some tea and toast for Sternaman. The defendant testified that she consented to a post-mortem examination after Sternaman's death, because she had done nothing wrong, and she wished to satisfy those who had been led to believe by Sternaman's mother that she might have poisoned him. She paid for the examination.

THE MOTHER'S MOTIVE. To show the motive of Sternaman's mother for starting and pressing the charge of poisoning against the defendant, Mr. Thayer offered in evidence a letter written by the mother to the defendant on Sept. 18, last. In it the mother stated that she had been expecting Mrs. Sternaman to send her money, and was disappointed at not receiving it; she referred to the expense of the household while her son was at her home in Canada; she stated that she thought she ought to have $20 or $25, and that Sternaman's brother ought to have something for the time they had spent in driving around on errands, etc. The mother also informed the defendant that one of her sons had determined to learn the trade of carpenter, and ought to have Sternaman's tools.

This letter was written some time after the mother-in-law began to talk about poisoning. Mrs. Sternaman went to friends and took their advice; she did not reply to the letter. Mrs. Sternaman's direct examination was finished at 12:15 o'clock. The evidence will be forwarded by the United States Commissioner to the Secretary of State, who will decide whether or not the woman shall be surrendered for extradition.

THE FLOUR OUTPUT. Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 12.—The Northwestern Miller reports the flour output last week at the following centres as follows: Minneapolis, last week, 331,335 barrels, week previous, 325,210; last year, 286,040. Superior-Duluth, last week, 35,000; week previous, 36,000; last year, 14,210. At Minneapolis the production this week will probably exceed 500,000 barrels. The flour market was comparatively quiet last week. The sales, approximately 25,000 barrels, being practically all domestic. Foreigners are largely out of the market. With cash wheat at cents higher, flour has been advanced about 40 cents a barrel. Most of the mills have a considerable volume of orders ahead, and are running strong to get as much flour in transit by lake as possible.

Sold out in Washington. Seattle, W. T., Nov. 12.—The Mining Record prints data showing the output of gold in the territory for the current year to be $4,670,000, against $3,000,000 in 1895. The output for 1897 is $5,000,000.

MEN AND THINGS.

Mayor Fleming now poses as the custodian of the $500 to be given in charity. But why was it voted just when he was going to Roseland, and why did he retire from the position of "custodian" when served with an order to examine? It would be interesting to have ascertained to whom one-fourth of his salary had gone in charity.

No public officer of our city should be bankrupt. It is no disgrace to be poor, but it is a crying shame that our Mayor and some of the aldermen should be execution-proof. It has the effect of putting them in positions equivocal and open to remark, and it induces in them a recklessness of speech and action that is not consistent with the methods in which a large city should do business.

It is unfortunate that, owing to our system of newspaper reporting, more prominence is given to the "scrapping" between members of the Board of Control than to the business done by that august body. We hear the witty retorts of Controller McMurrich, the enraged periods of Controller Lamb and the smart familiarities of the Mayor, and inessentially we gather the impression that the Board is a bear garden instead of business meeting. The tone of our civic dignitaries seems very low and their time seems to be chiefly employed in elevating the relationships of their employees, as if there were a table of prohibited degrees hung up at the City Hall. Does it not all point to paid commissioners of good standing as the most effective system of city government?

The Court of Appeal has frittered away the Queen's prerogative. If it is exercisable in Ontario by Mr. Hardy, why should he not appoint Provincial barons and baronets and take His Honor's pleasure as to appointing the Justices of the Peace? How can Sir William Meredith and Sir Thomas Galt hold their titles after this pronouncement? It would be a graceful act to confer on Mayor Fleming, when he retires from dispensing charity, the title of Lord Mayor, and to knight the architect of the city buildings, Oronyatekha, too, has elected the highest building in town and ought to be recognized on the Premier's birthday.

The Rosedale bridge might be made secure from the jumper in a very simple way, a wire netting a little below the level of the flooring on each side would prove a difficulty to be negotiated that would puzzle the most ingenious. It is not an unusual attribute of a high bridge that it should attract the fools who want to end their existence. The high bridge between Bristol and Clifton was used for this purpose for some time after its erection, until some better method of execution became popular and the monument in London proved equally fascinating in its early days.

Mr. Greider now thinks that Mr. Israel Tarte's name should be changed back to Jacob, for he has imitated him time and time again. Sir Oliver Mowat has struck on a very ingenious way of carrying out the Inter-Provincial resolutions. It never would do to raise the Provincial subsidies, but if they can get a large slice out of the Dominion because the Minister of Justice won't send counsel to England to fight his client's case the Provinces may get an increase that will be "legal," you know.

The sailings of the regular lines from New York to Europe for May, 1896, were 50 steamers. From Montreal, they were 44. There are 12 different lines running out of the St. Lawrence. Canada stood, in 1894, as sixth in point of tonnage in the world. Those ahead of her were: 1 Great Britain, 2 United States, 3 Germany, 4 Norway, 5 France.

The appointment of Major Kitson as head of the Military College is no doubt a good one. One thing is very evident: it is of immense value to the cadets who pass out of the college into the British army to do so under the eye of a man who has been on the active list and who, when he rejoins his regiment in five years, is in a position to help them on. A retired officer like Gen. Cameron is of no use to them in after life and necessarily is out of touch with the most modern methods. Nor does he keep up that animated interest in the science of war that an officer does who is to return to the army as a combatant officer when his term is up.

It has been suggested that H.M.S. Canada should be acquired when she is put out of commission by the Dominion Government as a training ship for Canadian navy officers and men. It is an excellent idea, she is one of the best of the screw cruisers and is admirably fitted both by name and rig for the purpose.

ONLOOKER. The Canada's Record. New York Tribune. It is late in the season for swift voyages across the Atlantic, but one record has just been made. The new steamship Canada, of the Dominion Line has made the fastest trip ever made between Liverpool and Quebec, the time being a trifle under seven days.

Beautiful eyes grow dull and dim As the swift years steal away. Beautiful, willowy forms so slim Lose fairness with every day. But the smile is queen and hath charms to spare Who wears youth's coronal—beautiful hair.

Preserve Your Hair and you preserve your youth. "A woman is as old as she looks," says the world. No woman looks as old as she is if her hair has preserved its normal beauty. You can keep hair from falling out, restoring its normal color, or restore the normal color to gray or faded hair, by the use of

THE TARIFF ON BOOKS.

Proposed Changes Favored by Wholesalers and Petitioned Against by Retailers and Allied Trades.

The following article appears in the November issue of the Canadian Bookseller and Stationer: "The wholesale trade in Toronto have been discussing those questions affecting the booksellers and stationers which may soon be dealt with in Parliament. A deputation of the Ministers will shortly visit Toronto, and the views of the wholesalers are to be laid before them.

"Several reforms, it is understood, will be pressed upon the Ministers. First, the wholesalers favor the removal of the duty of 5c per pound on books and the substitution thereof of an ad valorem duty not exceeding 15 per cent. In this, it is said, they also voice the views of the Toronto retail trade.

"The trade also favors the importation of fashion magazines on the same terms as other magazines. "Another reform, referring to the postal regulations, not the tariff, is the demand that the postage on all paper-covered books shall be 1c per pound to all parts of Canada for free libraries. At present they come in without payment of duty. This the trade objects to, and proposes to restore the duty. There is a sentimental feeling for the books imported for their shelves pay duty would probably be the most popular outcry. The trade suggest that when a Canadian house files an order for a library, and some of the books are from stock which has already paid duty, there should be a refund of the duty and to knight the architect of the city buildings. Oronyatekha, too, has elected the highest building in town and ought to be recognized on the Premier's birthday.

A DIFFERENCE OF OPINION. In reference to the first of the above reforms, "The World" yesterday informed by Messrs. Munroe & Cassidy of the fact that an ad valorem duty is concurred in by retail dealers, that there is a difference of opinion on their part about the proposed change. The object of the wholesale dealers is to secure better terms for the books imported from the American and British houses. Already the various papers and booklets are credited over this proposed change, which they do not deem for the benefit of the booksellers.

IN FAVOR OF THE DUTY. The retailers' contention is that to remove the duty of 5c per pound on books and substitute an ad valorem duty not exceeding 15 per cent, practically means the cutting off entirely the manufacturing and publishing industry, excepting school books, which are protected, and books that the British and American houses would not waste their time in publishing, owing to the limited sale.

It is also argued that the whole allied paper industries would simply on account of the 5c per pound duty. The allied trades—the paper maker, manufacturer of printing inks, types foundry, and bookbinders—would regard it as a misfortune to have the duty made less.

Hence it is being circulated for signatures to keep the duty as it is.

GIGANTIC CLEARING SALE

Will continue throughout the month of November.

Thousands of dollars' worth of new goods are being sold at wholesale prices, which practically means the sacrifice of our profits for the season. The success of our great sale is something really phenomenal, and judging by the achievements of the past two weeks—this sale is not an ordinary opportunity—but rather a success that stands without a parallel—values that are a wonder to the mercantile world.

During the coming week we will offer many exceptional bargains. Important purchases of manufacturers' surplus stocks, including Velvets, Silks, Dress Goods, Mantles, Mantle Cloths, Corsets, Ladies' Winter Underskirts, Flannels, Linens, etc., etc., amounting in the aggregate to thousands of dollars, will, in addition to our regular stock, be placed on sale at prices that are below anything you ever knew before. Our great sale of Silks, Black and Colored Dress Goods and Cloakings has been the greatest on record. The prices were the kind that would naturally attract widespread attention. In addition to last week's wonderful attractions we have added many new lines, purchased at fifty cents on the dollar, and which WE WILL TO-DAY OFFER ON THE SAME BASIS. The prices below mentioned will surpass anything yet offered in the retail dry Goods trade.
