As Hiram Sees It

The Settlement, Aug. 23. "Hiram," said the Times reporter, as he and Mr. Hiram Hornbush sat on the veranda and watched the changing tints in the eastern sky, following a wonderful sunset, "this human life is a puzzle. When I was a boy the world to me was made up of just two sorts of people — those who wanted to sing some day in a heavenly choir, and those who were destined to believe as the others did but who were determined to make an entirely different kind of noise through all eternity. Since then many things have happened. The world has grown smaller. We are now next door neighbors to the far off heathen of our boyhood, and they don't seem to be half a bad lot, measured up alongside of ourselves who build churches and hospitals and things like that."

GOOD THINGS COMING TO THEATRES OF ST. JOHN

Splendid Vitagraph At Imperial Monday

"The Lion and the Mouse" With Alice Joyce in the Lead—Famous Stage Production

In days gone by and up to the present the Vitagraph Company has presented some of the most successful and artistic film productions. Some time ago the Imperial screened "Within the Law" and on Monday and Tuesday a companion play, "The Lion and the Mouse," is to be shown. Years ago in the primitive days of the film business the Lubin Co. put on this subject but the new Vitagraph edition is most sumptuous and complete. It is truly a wonderfully powerful picture and displays the talents of Alice Joyce and the cast-mentioned in the regular advertisement in this issue—to perfection. As one of the more serious type of studies the side of the period society fiction so popular nowadays, it is a very satisfying form of screen entertainment.

POLICEMEN TARGETS FOR CURIOUS PEOPLE

Questions, Weird, Amusing and Fanciful, Vary With the Seasons or Night and Day

Queries That Puzzle—Stranger is Surprised at Ignorance Shown of World Treasure at the Museum of Art, New York

(New York Times.)
 Policemen are asked probably more strange, curious and diversified questions than any other class of men. A policeman with a beat in the heart of the city or in a district where the current of human life runs fast and thick receives and answers more questions a day than he could possibly remember. When such a policeman, who occupies one of Broadway's busiest posts, was asked about this eager, questioning public, he said—

"Setting the public right is part of our business. Some days my head grows dizzy and my voice becomes hoarse answering the innumerable questions that are hurled at me by men and women in the street. You might suppose that women would ask the most questions, but it is my experience that in this respect the sexes are pretty evenly divided. Naturally most of the questions asked are those of direction. How to get to this or that place, or where is such and such a place or building. This sort of questions vary with the seasons."

"Just now I am asked many times a day the best and quickest way to get to Conny Island, Long Beach and other nearby beach resorts. The majority of people asking questions are, as you might divine, strangers in our city, yet you would be surprised to know how many natives ask to be directed, and how many of them are pretty much lost here except in their own particular neighborhood. A few days ago an unusually well dressed and well spoken young man who confided that he was from the west wanted to know if there would be all right for a fellow going to be patronizing the Municipal Bath at Conny Island. He said he had plenty of money, but objected to paying for the privilege of taking a dip in the ocean, as in the town on the Pacific when he came from there he had to be paying for their baths. I told him that our free baths were primarily intended for bathers who were too poor to pay, and that since the free baths were usually crowded, he might make some poor devil lose the fun of a cool plunge. He thanked me for the advice and did not do that. I'll go down to the Municipal Bath," he added, "and pick out the four most famous looking bathers I can find, and give them the best bath on the island. I didn't see anything in that point of view, but I understand."

"I can usually spot strangers, not from their clothes or dialect, necessarily, but because they are always great in visiting our museums and other places of interest and in taking bus rides. You would be surprised to know the number of out-of-towners who want to be directed to Grand Central, Riverside Drive, the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the American Museum, Fifth Avenue, and the Aquarium. On the other hand, men are always asking how to get to this street or that. A man will often rush up in great excitement and ask where is such and such a place, and I would be surprised to know the number in the Bronx. If you know anything about the Bronx you must know that it probably has more new and uncharted streets than any of the other boroughs. I know a good many contractors and politicians from the Bronx who, although they have lived here for many years, will tell you that they don't pretend to know the names of half the streets. When I can't give the definite information and suggest that the questioner try the city directory at the nearest drug store, ten to one he regards me playfully and wants to know what the taxpayers pay cops for, anyhow."

"We are supposed to carry in our heads a certain fund of general fact regarding some individuals persist in regarding us as walking encyclopedias in the latest and most approved encyclopedia. Such an individual, wearing a soft hat, flowing tie, and brown beard, asked me to direct him to the Metropolitan Museum. This was the first time I had seen a certain masterpiece of Rubens in the collection. I confessed I knew little of the art, and he shook his head, sadly remarking that he was surprised that I could dwell in a city which contained many of the world's art treasures and be ignorant of them. The man was equally indignant because I had not told him if any relics of George Washington were to be found in the New York Historical Society. My wife, who was with me at the time, is situated and what is to be found about the library, so I am able to inform them that very often exhibits of one kind or another are held there, and they depart satisfied."

"There are many inquiries about restaurants. These range from the way from information regarding the cheap lunch rooms to high-priced places. Several persons asked recently if there was a restaurant on or near Broadway where a table d'hôte dinner could be had for thirty or forty cents. Many men want to know where they can get a good sirloin steak at a popular price. I am also asked by these questioners if tipping here is universal, and what size tip one is expected to hand out."

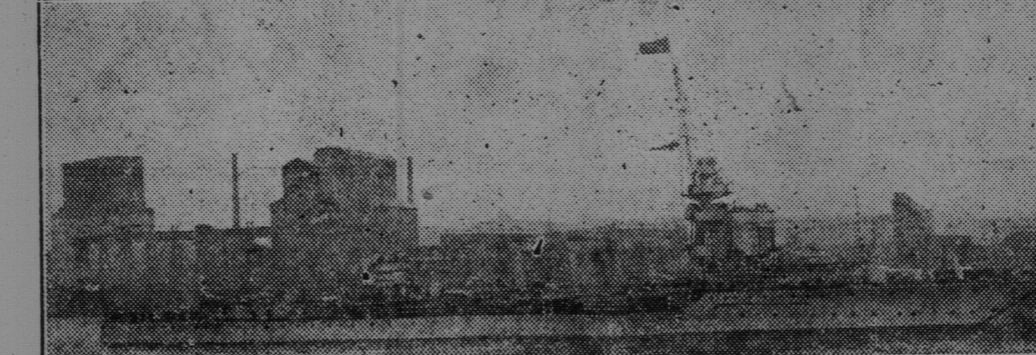

"Another policeman who has a post at night in Times Square in speaking of persons seeking information at night said—

"The night folks are different from the day. Any number of persons want to know why it is the best play in town. I tell them frankly I do not know. I am familiar, however, with most of the current plays, their successes and failures. If they are seeking comedies, I mention a few that I have heard were good. Many want to know what is going on all night if the Bowery and Chinatown are still worth a visit; if the town is as closed up as it appears; if there are any meetings being held in the neighborhood at which one might be entertained or amused. Most of my questioners are strangers. I find that few natives ask questions."

"Women, as a rule, ask different questions from men," said a policeman with a post in the shopping district. "They want to be directed to their favorite stores. I am often asked what is the best department store at which to shop. I, of course, play no favorites, so I recommend them to the stores on my post. I am asked all sorts of questions such as where to buy the best lingerie and hosiery. Many men shoppers also ask me for advice. They seem to think that if any one knows where good socks, shirts, or shoes may be had at a reasonable price a policeman ought to know. There are other persons who seem to regard policemen as errand boys. A middle-aged man, wearing spectacles, approached me one day and set his suitcase down at my feet. "You're an officer of the law," he said, "I'm a stranger here and I want you to mind this grip for five minutes while I go across the street and get some cigars."

"I told him politely that I had other duties to perform besides keeping an eye on people's grips, and he became indignant. He told me in the town he came from constables were more polite. This man, however, was an exception to the average stranger to the city, patient and kind. What mistakes strangers make are usually due to ignorance of local conditions. Indeed, the wholehearted and wholesome sort of chap that I would gladly give out of my way and stretch a point to give him a helping hand."

SAYS BURTON WILL SAIL SHAMROCK IV

Lipton Names Skipper For His Yacht in Next Cup Race

London, July 21.—(Correspondence of Associated Press)—Since his return to London from America, Sir Thomas Lipton has set about the task of completing his arrangements for next year's contest for the America's Cup in earnest, says The Yachting World. The most important decision so far arrived at, Sir Thomas told a writer in that periodical is to send the 28-metre Shamrock to America early next year to act as a trial boat in the tuning-up spins of the challenger, Shamrock IV. Asked who would have charge of the British boat, Sir Thomas replied that W. O. Burton had consented to sail the challenger in the race for the America's Cup and also take charge of the 28-metre Shamrock.

"Naturally he will have his own professional skipper," Sir Thomas added. "Mr. Burton will also be responsible for engaging the crews of both boats and, in fact, he will be in entire charge of the whole of the trials and the actual race on the other side. Charles E. Nicholson, her designer, is going over at an early date for the purpose of thoroughly examining Shamrock IV."

"Do you think any alterations are likely to be made in her?" Sir Thomas was asked.

"It is a matter which I am leaving entirely to Mr. Nicholson's judgment. Many experienced yachtsmen are of opinion that Shamrock IV. is far and away the best boat I have ever had to represent me in this great contest."

"If you lose this time, will you challenge again?"

"I have the greatest hopes that I shall be successful in this, my fourth attempt to bring back the cup, but if I am not successful I can only say that I shall give Mr. Nicholson an order to build another boat."

REAL GOOD BILL AT OPERA HOUSE

Well Diversified, New Programme Enjoyed By Large Audiences Last Night

The new bill in the Opera House last evening attracted capacity houses. The programme was diversified and contained good dancing, musical numbers, clever comedy. It would be hard to pick out the most popular number as they were all good and received rounds of applause. Alice Thornton was the first on the programme and entertained the audience with songs and dancing. She has a nice stage appearance and is undoubtedly clever, but some of her songs and chatter could be eliminated without detracting from her programme.

Mrs. Mace followed and gave a most pleasing number of selections on the xylophone, bells and other instruments. Her programme was well chosen and she made a decided hit being forced to respond to an encore.

The Robbins Trio was a number which was greatly appreciated. The three members are all good singers and the audience showed their appreciation of their good work by frequent and profuse applause. They also were forced to respond to an encore.

Marcus and Booth, two young men, made one of the biggest hits of the evening. They had a good line of chatter and are clever eccentric dancers. At the completion of their programme the applause was so intense that they had to return behind the foot lights and sing another song and even then the audience did not seem satisfied with the programme in a sketch called "An Astronomer's Dream of Mars." This act was featured by a comedian who sang an original and intensely interesting and created considerable interest.

THE CARNEGIE WILL

(New York Times.)
 The publication yesterday of an account of the alleged will of Andrew Carnegie, which is to be filed in this city next week by Elliu Root, brought forth the statement from an authoritative source that night that the will described had been made many years ago by Mr. Carnegie and represented a long period of careful study on his part before he signed it, but that it has since been superseded by a later will drawn up by Mr. Root, with the actual making of which Mr. Carnegie had little to do.

The decision of Mr. Carnegie to revoke the will on which he put so much thought and individual study and to substitute for it a document which merely carried out his ideas but represented the actual labor of Mr. Root, is said to have been due in part to the marriage of his daughter, Margaret, who was his chief heir in the first will to Rossell Miller. At the time of her marriage Mrs. Miller's father made a generous financial provision for her and for this reason the late Mr. Carnegie found it advisable in some respects to modify his final testament.

While the will to which Mr. Carnegie devoted so much of his individual effort was an elaborate document, amounting to more than 4,000 words, the will drawn up by Mr. Root, which will distribute the remaining portion of the fortune is not more than half as long, and could be read by the average person in ten minutes. In both documents Mr. Carnegie makes moderate bequests to a score or more of personal friends and associates, and in each the Home Trust Company of Hoboken is named as trustee and executor.

The Home Trust Company is Mr. Carnegie's own organization, of which Robert A. Franks, of 185 East Sixty-sixth street, long his business adviser, and treasurer of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, is the president. Reciprocal legislation in New York and New Jersey, in which a trust company in either state is permitted to act as trustee or executor of an estate in the other, permits the Home Trust Company to qualify here as if it were a New York institution.

It was learned last night that the will which would have been offered for probate had not circumstances induced Mr. Carnegie to request Mr. Root to draw up an entirely new document rather than to express his wishes through the office of a solicitor. The original document, was drawn entirely in the offices of the Home Trust Company with the trust company's attorneys assisting the philanthropist in putting it into legal shape. Mr. Carnegie devoted many days in a room on the top floor of the trust company's Hoboken building in putting the will into exact form desired, and when he had finished he felt entirely satisfied. When he decided to make such extensive changes that he felt they could not be expressed properly in a codicil his health would not permit him to do the same amount of labor again, and he decided to entrust the matter to Mr. Root.

In addition to administering the Carnegie estate, the Home Trust Company will continue acting as pensioner to nearly 800 persons who for years have relied almost wholly on monthly checks from Mr. Carnegie for their living. All of these had been known personally by Mr. Carnegie in the early days of his success, and some even dated to the telegraph operator phase of his career, when he manipulated a key on the Pennsylvania Railroad.

These monthly payments run from $25 to $50 and will be continued during the lifetime of each pensioner from a fund for that purpose established by Mr. Carnegie outside of his will. One of the pensioners is said to be a Scotchwoman who has lived in a high station of life who was abandoned by her husband and left penniless when he absconded some years ago from a position of trust.

A statement that Mr. Carnegie aided hundreds of persons who lost money in the collapse of the Carnegie Trust Company, because of their mistaken belief that he was connected with it, was declared last night to be untrue by a person acquainted with the facts. The fact that he did advance a large sum of money in an effort to save the trust company from failure was known at the time, but he has not persisted any of the depositors who got back only forty-four per cent in the liquidation of the institution.

The statement, based on alleged information from a member of Mr. Carnegie's family, that he paid an income tax on a fortune of only $80,000,000 and that the sum to be disbursed in his will is not larger, was declared last night to be untrue.

The Home Trust Company was organized entirely to care for Mr. Carnegie's financial transactions and he and his organizations were practically the only customers. It was incorporated in New Jersey in 1901 with $100,000 capital, and in response to his wishes has made no statement except those required by law. The officers other than Mr. Franks as president are George W. Never, and T. Morris Carnegie, Andrew Carnegie, 24 James C. Greenway, and Harry Whitfield, trustees.

The last statement showed total resources of $208,128, made up as follows:

Applications, giving full particulars, course desired and the institution preferred, must be filed on or before Sept. 1, 1919, with the supreme secretary, Knights of Columbus, New Haven, Conn. All applicants must be prepared to meet the ordinary qualifications demanded by the institution for which they apply.

RENT PROTESTING

(Boston Globe.)
 Among the complaints of rent protesting received yesterday by the Special Commission on the Necessaries of Life, which the commission is investigating is one from a resident of Aberdeen street, who says he has been notified that September 1 his rent is to be advanced from $26.50 to $30.

In Massachusetts avenue there is one block, the commission has learned, which contains ninety apartments and where each tenant has had his rent raised $5. This means an increase of $5,400 a year for the entire block. Complaints of a similar character have been received from residents of Batavia street, Huntington avenue and streets in that vicinity.

A tenant of an office building in Mill street has written the commission that his rent up to May 1 of this year was $45 a month. Since that time he has paid $32.50. Now, he says, he has been notified that his lease expires Sept. 1 and that if he wishes to renew he may sign a three-year lease at $1,650 a year—an increase of approximately 200 per cent over the May figure.

Residents of Watertown are preparing a statement for the commission as the result of an indignation meeting in that town. Other sections of Greater Boston are to take similar action. The commission looks for a big hearing at the State House on Aug. 28.

SUSPECT ARRESTED IN $85,000 ROBBERY
Police Capture Man Two Years Ate Valuable Jewels Were Stolen From F. H. Allen

New York, Aug. 24—A man describing himself as Arthur Gerard, a chemist, living at a house on Seventh avenue between Thirtieth and Fourteenth streets, was arrested as he got off a municipal ferry boat at St. George, Staten Island, and is held at the head-quarters of the New York police.

It was while Mr. Allen was in Washington and had accompanied General Joffre and the French military commission to Newburgh on May 11, 1917, that some one stole thousands of dollars worth of jewelry which had been left locked in a drawer in the dresser in his room. At the time it was reported that the robbery totaled more than $200,000, but later some of the gems first thought to have been taken were discovered in a safe deposit box.

One of the butlers employed by the Allen family, who had accompanied Mrs. Allen when she visited the city, was reported to the police of various cities in the United States at the time, were two pearl necklaces worth $10,000, and a brooch, pearl and diamond also valued at $10,000. The robber opened the drawer with a skeleton key.

Ambassadorial Privileges.
(New York Sun.)
Most people know that they and their households are immune from arrest, an Embassy being considered a geographical part of the Ambassador's own country. But there are many privileges less well known. The Ambassador is the only person about a court who has the right to turn his back on the sovereign or ruler at the conclusion of an audience. And, curiously enough, he always exercises this right, turning to bow after walking three paces. This, of course, refers only to State occasions. This worked oddly in Queen Victoria's time. To turn one's back on a lady would be rude, to retire backward would be to resign a privilege, so the Ambassadors always compromised by edging sideways toward the door like a crab.

Another highly prized privilege of the Ambassador—one that sovereigns most often regret—is that of being able to demand an interview whenever he chooses, at any hour of the day or night. The sword is the Ambassador's emblem of honor. It is a long rapier with a blunted point. One great diplomatist, the Lord Dufferin, use to say that the only practical use he ever found for it was to poke flies with and fly bills on.

Long before the war German intellects often discussed the general anti-pathic shown to individual Germans travelling or residing abroad. The explanation most frequently offered was that this dislike was a curse contingent upon greatness; that its roots were the envy and fear generated by stupendous rise. This theory, naturally, reached the climax during the war, when propagandists pointed to the universal hatred of things German as the strongest proof of German superiority. In a pamphlet recently issued in Switzerland, Dr. Walter Neter expresses the conviction that the principal reason for Germans being generally disliked is not their greatness, but their "egregious sheep soul." This "sheep soul" is responsible for the fact, he says, that "in Germany all individuality is being flattened out by the steam roller of regulation and mediocrity. It (the sheep soul) tends to uniformity, thought and feeling to the extent that, while we are industrious and proficient in money making and in our special callings, in general matters of intellect and will we are far behind the stage in which we were left by Bismarck, the real enemies of the Fatherland are those who preach order for order's sake, work for work's sake, and the state as a purpose in itself."

MAKE THEM LIGHT UP.

There is a law under which persons driving vehicles within the city limits are compelled to carry lights at night, and for some time past it has not been very well observed. Presumably there is such a law in the county, more honored in the breach than in the observance, and if there is not such a law for St. John county and for the province at large it should be introduced and enforced in order to prevent accidents which are certain to occur if things go in this respect as they are now going.

Men and women who drive motor cars are subjected to a great deal of criticism by their fellow citizens who go about or who drive horses. Some of the criticism is warranted because undoubtedly there are both reckless and incompetent motor car drivers though, to be fair, these are not the rule, but the exception. Most of our roads are narrow, and though the principal ones are being widened near centres of population, in most cases there is no room to spare and night driving necessarily demands more than ordinary caution and coolness if risks are to be minimized.

At this time of year when traffic on the roads about St. John is usually heavy, a comparatively small number of teams carry lights and the experience of every day, or rather of every night, very strongly emphasizes the necessity for a change in this respect. These vehicles should be lighted, not only for the protection of their own drivers and passengers, but for the protection of motorists also. On winding roads, even when within the regulation speed, motor cars, particularly if there be fog or mist, are often practically on top of teams before the man at the wheel can see them.

Motor traffic has grown with surprising speed during the last year or two, and there is every likelihood that the next two or three years will bring a still more rapid increase in the number of cars. Keeping in mind what conditions are now, and looking ahead to what they will be when the number of cars has doubled, it is clearly time for vigorous action along the lines of safety. Precautions such as those indicated are not in the interest of any one class, but of all who use the roads. The city, the local government and the automobile association might well confer on these matters, and the result should be of no little public benefit. It may be that the existing regulations are sufficient if observed. If that be the case enforcement must be brought up to the required standard. If further legislation is necessary there should be no delay about securing it and the understanding should be made general that enforcement will be strict.

KEEP THEM OFF THE STREETS.

The practice of the young of both sexes sauntering about the streets at night has not been lessened by frequent exhortations from the police court bench. It is a serious matter that demands action, particularly in the interests of those who find their evening recreation in this aimless wandering. No good can come of it; much harm may, and does.

Time was when parental control was firmer than it is in the present day; when fathers and mothers either compelled their boys or girls to remain indoors after nightfall or, permitting them to go out, knew where they were going and in what company. Can this be said of all homes in St. John today? We hardly think so.

It is true that conditions have changed with the years; there is much of public amusement to draw the pleasure seeker and to take away the home attraction that should be such a steady influence upon the children. There is no quarrel with legitimate, wholesome amusement and it would be regarded as puritanical to preach such a doctrine. The purpose of this article is not to find fault along those lines, but to speak a cautionary word against the attraction of the streets themselves.

The observant one need not walk the principal streets very long without accumulating a sufficiency of evidence bearing on conditions. Flippant action, coarse jesting, language of doubtful quality are on every hand. And uneasiness is often caused young women, out on perfectly legitimate missions, by their being made the targets for insulting innuendos by some lounging youth, who would be better at home or in a night school or library improving his mind. But the young men are not alone to be criticized, for they are matched in many instances by girls who seem to revel in, looseness of street deportment. It is not a pleasing spectacle. The police must know those who are given to these practices. A list of the names laid on the police magistrate's desk would make a very effective start for a reform. The streets should be made as free as possible from the company of those of whom we write. If parents will not or cannot bring this about, will the police?

If automobile drivers will persist in speeding past street cars discharging or taking on passengers there will be a serious accident some day, and then use less regrets. The law demands that drivers halt their machines when approaching a street car from or into which people are moving. It must be obeyed.

USE The Want Ad Way

A RICH COUNTRY.

One of the finest agricultural sections of New Brunswick will be given access to the markets of the world by the opening of the Valley Railway. Following the banks of the river throughout its entire course, the new section of the railway will serve a fertile country of almost unlimited possibilities for development. Among the first settlers who came to New Brunswick the river valley appeared to many as the promised land flowing with milk and honey, and the efforts of these settlers and those who followed them brought much of the land to a high state of cultivation. In recent years its development has not been so rapid as its resources would seem to justify, but this has been largely due to the fact that in agriculture as in industry the element of competition must be considered. The farmer who cannot conveniently reach a railway station labors under a heavy handicap, no matter how productive his farm may be.

The rolling hillsides and the rich intervals along the river offer ideal opportunities for those who seek a living from the land, and the railway connection now provided will make it possible for residents in that territory to take advantage of these opportunities. In the future, instead of being forced to dump their crops on the market in the autumn or take long chances in holding them over until the spring, the farmers along the Valley line will be able to store their produce and dispose of it when market conditions offer the best return. Those already located in this section will profit greatly by the opening of the railway and no doubt many new settlers will be attracted to the region by its natural resources, plus railway facilities.

The New Brunswick Telephone Company has given notice of an application for increased tolls, both local and long distance. If the company has legitimate claims for such increases and can demonstrate them to the satisfaction of the public, it should get a reasonable advance upon present prices. But the Public Utilities Commission was created in order that it might stand between the unorganized public and the organized corporations, particularly public utilities corporations, and see simple justice done. First, all the facts. Not some of them. All the cards on the table. Then we shall see.

Though President Wilson's veto of the daylight saving repeal bill has been overruled at Washington and daylight saving will be no more during the life of the present congress, the New York Times says that "the friends of daylight saving will not put up meekly with this defeat. Work should begin at once to collect, consolidate, and strengthen public opinion in favor of this sensible and salutary practice. The daylight saving law should be restored to the statute books. It can be, and it will be, if the majority will make even a tenth the effort that has been made by a clever and loud minority."

If automobile drivers will persist in speeding past street cars discharging or taking on passengers there will be a serious accident some day, and then use less regrets. The law demands that drivers halt their machines when approaching a street car from or into which people are moving. It must be obeyed.

Sugar, at twenty cents over the counter, as predicted at a convention of Canadian wholesale grocers in Ottawa, will not bring cheer to the housewife already sadly reprieved to make the weekly budget and the pay envelope match.

"I wasn't exactly looking for new ideas," admitted Senator Sorghum. "What I'm hoping to do just now is to get some of those old ideas that gave pretty good service back into working order."

Submitted.

After a young lawyer had talked nearly five hours to a jury, who felt like trouncing him, his opponent, a grizzled old veteran, arose, looking sweetly at the judge, and said:
"Your honor, I will follow the example of my young friend who has just finished, and submit the case without argument."

His Blessing.

A sergeant was so much given to using bad language on the parade ground that some of the men complained, and the C. O. interviewed him and told him not to let it happen again.

The following morning the sergeant was in charge of a very ragged squad, and after keeping silence for a considerable time, he eventually burst out with:
"Bless you, my pretty dears; you know what I mean."

Burd Quick Seating

STOP JOINT PISTON RINGS

In all replacement jobs there is nothing better than the Burd Quick Seating Stop Joint Piston Ring—the outside edges the quick seating feature—wear down quickly, producing a "seat" in harmony, with the hard glass-like surface of the cylinder.

This ring is made of the same high-grade piston ring iron used in all Burd Ring products, and for a piston ring of medium price there is nothing on the market to equal it.

GERMAN OFFICERS DRILL BOLSHEVIKI

Lured by Large Salaries, They Instruct Army of the Soviet—Feat Denekine Menace

Washington, Aug. 23—German army officers, lured by large compensations, have become instructors in the Bolshevik army. This information has reached the state department through Swedish sources. Leon Trotsky, Bolshevik minister of war, following a recent visit to the southern fighting front, reported to the Bolshevik high military council "the imperative need of crushing the forces under Gen. Denekine before winter sets in." In order to do so, Trotsky has recommended that all youths eighteen years of age be mobilized, and that all former officers be brought into service on the southern front.

Gen. Denikine, the Cossack leader, has scored a brilliant success in Southern Russia, supported by large quantities of modern equipment, including airplanes and tanks, furnished by the Allies. While trying to crush the Kolchak forces on the Siberian front, the Bolshevik high command has been badly beaten by Denikine.

While Trotsky may be able to arrest the forward movement of Denikine, it is doubted here that he can crush the veteran Cossack commander. Meanwhile the Bolsheviks are suffering further reverses in the Baltic Provinces and recently lost an important naval engagement with British ships in the Gulf of Finland.

The State Department advises today that the Bolsheviks are negotiating with German interests with a view to having the latter re-organize railway lines in Soviet Russia. German interests are reported to be seeking large land concessions in Russia.

JUDGE ROBSON MAKING INQUIRY VERY THOROUGH

Winnipeg, Man., Aug. 22—Judge Robson, today, sent questionnaires to employers and officers of every union involved in the recent strike here. The questions indicate that Judge Robson intends, when the commission resumes on September 1, to investigate fully the charges of discrimination made by the strikers, as well as the increase in the cost of living, which is held responsible for the unrest that brought about the strike.

RECENT WEDDINGS

Birmingham-Whitman.
Garnett W. Birmingham was married to Miss Laurie D. Whitman at the residence of Mrs. W. C. Good, 39 Carmarthen street, by Rev. John C. Berrie on August 20. Mr. Birmingham is the son Henry Birmingham, Victoria Corner, Carleton county, who has been for some years in the Bank of Montreal, at one time stationed in this city but now in Ottawa. Miss Whitman is the daughter of Isaac Whitman, of Canoe (N.S.) and a relative of the Rev. George Whitman, ex-president of the Nova Scotia Conference. Her mother was Miss Morrison, whose father formerly lived in this city.

Manderson-McGregor.
At Lewisville, Westmorland county, Wednesday evening, at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. P. McGregor, Rev. C. W. Corey united in marriage Robert F. Manderson and Miss C. McGregor. The groom was a sergeant in the 110th Battalion and was wounded at Givency in 1915. He was invalided home and subsequently did recruiting work in Canada. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful presents, among which was one from the Sunday school class of the Lewisville Baptist church, of which she was a member. The happy left for Boston next morning and on their return will reside at Lewisville.

RECENT DEATHS

J. M. Kinnear.
Sussex, N. B., Aug. 22.—The sudden death of our esteemed postmaster, J. M. Kinnear, which occurred at 5:20 o'clock this evening came as a great shock to the town. Mr. Kinnear, who was apparently in good health, was driving his automobile and had just returned from a trip in the country. On leaving his car and going into his house he complained of not feeling well. His wife gave him a stimulant and called the doctor, but he was dead before the doctor arrived, which was only about five minutes.

Mr. Kinnear, who was seventy-three years of age, was a man widely known and highly respected. He was postmaster for upwards of twenty years, and was a kind and obliging official. He was also well known throughout the province as a chack shot, having crossed to England on several occasions with the Bisley team.

Deceased is survived by his wife, two sons, Major Guy and Horie, manager of the Imperial Bank, Edmonton, Alberta, and one daughter, Mrs. Frank Warner Brown, of Twin Falls, Idaho. The funeral will be held on Monday at 3:30 o'clock, service at Trinity church, conducted by Rev. Mansel Sheven, interment at Sussex Corner.

Henry A. Vradenburg.
Henry A. Vradenburg of Belyea's Cove, died on Thursday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. C. Wetmore, Belyea's Cove. Mr. Vradenburg was ninety-four years old and leaves a family of six children, three sons and three daughters, also a large number of grand and great grandchildren. The funeral will be held at Belyea's Cove today (Saturday) on the arrival of the steamer Majestic.

Hugh L. Doherty.
London, Aug. 22.—Hugh L. Doherty, former lawn tennis champion of England, died yesterday at Broadstairs, a summer resort in Kent.

BODY OF ALEXANDER BECK FOUND IN QUEBEC HOLD PARTIALLY DISMEMBERED
Port Colborne, Ont., Aug. 22.—The body of Alexander Beck, missing since the explosion at the government elevator here, has been discovered in the hold of the barge Quebec. The remains were partially dismembered. No trace of the body of Albert Dunlop has been found. The barge was successfully floated last night.

Girls in England are said to have grown larger during the war. Waists now measure on an average 26 to 28 inches, while size 7 1/2 in gloves and sizes 7 and 8 in shoes are sold.

NEW HOME OF KAISER TWELVE-ROOM HOUSE

Amerongen, Aug. 22.—(By the Associated Press)—The former German empress personally selected "The House of Doorn," which William Hohenzollern has purchased, as the future home in which she and her one-time imperial husband hope to settle down and live the lives of country gentfolk in Holland.

The former emperor has not yet seen "The House of Doorn," but it is anticipated in Amerongen that he will soon pay a visit to Doorn.

Although the deeds for the sale of "The House of Doorn" were signed only last Friday at Amerongen by the Baroness van Heemstra de Beaufort, the owner of the estate and the ex-empress's secretary, von Heleman, former Empress Augusta Victoria, decided in favor of the purchase early in August when she made a visit to Doorn.

The house, though rich in history and imposing in appearance, has only twelve rooms, in addition to small chambers for servants. From the main highway tramline, which is only 200 yards away, a view of the house, in the midst of a park, is presented to all passersby. The front of the house is accessible only through the gatekeeper's lodge. Fronting the building is a rose garden and a park filled with stone-benched shady nooks and a stagnant pond filled with water lilies. The ivy-covered building resembles an old English country house.

The House of Doorn was finished in 1856 and was fitted out in order to serve for the Knights of St. Martin. It was damaged in the strife in following years and was rebuilt in the seventeenth century. The estate once consisted of 800 acres, but it is said that only about sixty acres were included in the sale to William Hohenzollern. The price has not been stated.

The Baroness de Beaufort still occupies the house. It is not expected the former empress will leave Amerongen for three months. There are no moats about the House of Doorn and no walls like those surrounding Amerongen Castle.

The former empress' heart again is troubling her. Dr. Feerster made frequent visits to the Castle of Amerongen yesterday and today.

WANTS TO GATHER THE "OLD BOYS" TOGETHER

Quebec, Aug. 18, '19.

To the Editor of The Times:

Sir—There is a small school in the city of Quebec which claims, on behalf of its graduates, a remarkable record in the great war. As there are in your district a large number who come from Quebec, and many others who will no doubt be interested, I give a brief summary of its claim.

The High school of Quebec has had for years an average attendance of less than 100 pupils. In spite of this 264 of its graduates served in the war, thirty-eight of whom were killed. Amongst those who served there were: Promoted to lieutenant-general, one; major-general, four; brigadier-general, one; colonel, eight; majors, sixteen; knights of the Bath, three; Chevalier Legion of Honor, one; Victoria Cross, three; D. S. O., eight; M. C., seventeen; flying medal, one.

Surely this is a record that will take some beating, even in the public schools of the old country.

The old "High" is, by the way, probably the oldest English school in the dominion. It was founded in 1804, and has been in practically continuous existence ever since. During all this time a constant succession of boys has passed through its classes and into the world, where a remarkable number have distinguished themselves. Among them are such men as Sir Richard Turner, K. C., B. V. C.; D. S. O., Sir David Watson, K. C. B., Sir Charles Fitzpatrick, P. C., K. C. M. G., Lieutenant-governor of the province of Quebec; H. Gale, mayor of Vancouver, etc., etc.

An earnest effort is now being made to gather all old boys, in whatever part of the world they may be, into one big association, and knowing there must be a considerable number of them among your readers, I take the liberty of asking them, through your columns, to communicate with myself, or with the association, when we shall be delighted to send them all information possible.

"The man away from home" is the one we want to reach and we want to try to link him up again with his old home town, his old school, and his old classmates.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your courtesy,

I am, yours very sincerely,
EDW. C. JOSEPH,
President High School of Quebec
Old Boys' Association.

REDROSE TEA
TEA is good tea

ABOUT 170 years ago tea sold in England for $14.60 a pound. It was a luxury which only the wealthy could afford.

Thanks largely to the great increase in the area of tea plants under cultivation in India during the past fifty years, there is enough tea grown to-day to supply tea to the world at a price even the poorest can afford.

A cup of "good" tea—Red Rose Tea—costs only a fraction of a cent. There is hardly anything sold in the grocery store that gives more value or more pleasure for the money.

Consisting chiefly of ASSAM teas—the richest and strongest of Indian teas—Red Rose is exceedingly fragrant, flavory and economical. It is a tea of real quality and real value.

Sold only in sealed packages.

PUBLIC HEALTH NOTES

Water Supply and Drainage in Villages

In two former notes something was said of the advisability of villages and small towns not already incorporated for water and sewerage purposes becoming so, and, in addition, some remarks concerning how to procure a good and safe water supply were made.

As already stated in one of these notes, it is doubtful if much is gained in a sanitary way by introducing a public water supply in any community without, at the same time making adequate provision for drainage, that is, for carrying off the waste water once it is used. In fact, in some respects, the situation is made worse than it was before the public supply was laid on if public drainage be not instituted. The amount of water used in the case of a public supply is always very much more than when water has to be more or less laboriously obtained from individual sources, such as wells. The waste water is not so profused often results in forming very pronounced nuisances, unless special means are undertaken to prevent this.

Practically, these special means consist of installing cess-pools or septic tanks. Although these terms are generally supposed to denote definitely separate appliances, in practice they largely mean the same thing—the septic tank usually being taken as of a somewhat more careful construction than the cess-pool. The latter, as it is usually found, simply consists of a hole in the ground, a few feet deep and of varying diameter, into which the waste water is led by a pipe laid a few inches underground.

Often it is cased or walled with loose stone in order to prevent caving in. Its efficiency depends altogether upon the porosity of the earth surrounding it, its contents being intended to drain away through its open sides and bottom. In many instances, where the amount of waste water is comparatively limited and where the surrounding soil is favorable (a sandy loam) a cess-pool of this nature will give an amount of fairly satisfactory results. The water is greatly enhanced if the location of the cess-pool be changed once or twice yearly, or, better, according to the amount and character of the liquid and solids it carries with it which enter the cess-pool. But this, as will be noted, entails a good deal of work, which is frequently not forthcoming.

Ordinarily, two evils result from cess-pools. The soil about them becomes soaked with sewerage products, or as it is often expressed, becomes "sewerage-sick," and is no longer able to purify these products by bacteriological action, and a real nuisance is the outcome. In other cess-pools, the cess-pool being so close to the house, the odor takes care of its contents by soaking overflows and is more obvious if not a really more dangerous condition of affairs comes about.

The septic-tank, properly understood, differs from the cess-pool in that it does not depend upon soakage or seepage to get rid of its liquid contents, but is built water-proof. Many years ago, when septic tanks were first introduced, high hopes were entertained of them in the way of purifying sewage. It was thought that, notwithstanding large amounts of semi-solid matter that might be introduced into them, this matter did not seem to accumulate in the tank and that such a receptacle required cleaning out only at comparatively long intervals. In addition, it was discovered that when cleaned, the solid material remaining was, when dried, quite innocuous as respects odor. This matter came to be known as "sludge."

In consequence of this ability of the tank to dispose of solids, it for a while, took high rank as a means of the disposal of sewage and was thought and said to "purify" it. But as the knowledge of bacteriology advanced, it became known that no real purification took place in the liquid discharged from the tank. The chief function of the tank is to liquify the solids, but not, as a result to purify them. The method of this liquification is too technical a matter to go into in this note. It suffices to say that it is by means of these species of bacteria which are capable of living without air. A somewhat similar process, though not at all by the same means, takes place in an animal's stomach during digestion.

The outflow, then, from a septic tank, though entirely liquified, is far from pure, it contains as much poisonous material as ever, but, by reason of its liquid quality, is far more easily handled than in its original condition. Several places are open for its purification and disposal. It can be distributed in the soil, frequently changing its site of distribution in order to prevent the soil from becoming sewerage-sick. Or, if the amount be comparatively small, the outflow can be conducted into a further receptacle, water-tight, and sterilized. For the latter purpose "bleaching-powder"—chloride of lime is the most practical agent. It may be asked, why not sterilize it in the first instance, as it enters the septic-tank? If such were done the action of the bacteria there, in liquifying the solid material, would be at once stopped, and the tank would quickly fill up with accumulated solid material.

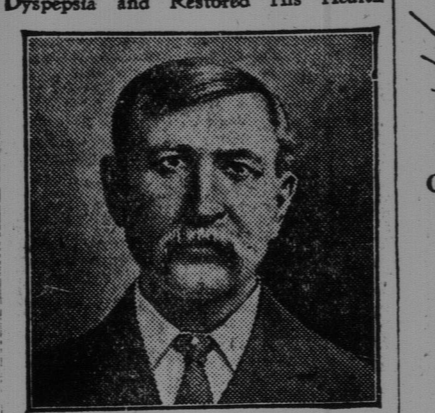

An alternative plan to either of the two mentioned for purifying the outflow from a small septic tank is to expose the liquid to the sun and air by causing it slowly to dribble or drift over a broad, slightly inclined plane, say formed of cast iron sheets, after collecting it into a single rivulet. This is a very effective and inexpensive way when it can be arranged, and where the slope of the land permits of it. In this way, other organisms can have access to it, similar to those found in the soil, the action of which will render it harmless and innocuous.

Perhaps something may be said, in a further note, of sewerage systems in villages and small towns. It appears that the simple remedies of nature generally suffice to cure beasts of their ailments and that they are guided to them by instinct. They are in a communication to the Biological

FRIENDS THOUGHT HE WOULD DIE

FRUIT-A-TIVES' Conquered Dyspepsia and Restored His Health

MR. ROBERT NEWTON.

"I was a terrible sufferer from Dyspepsia and Constipation for years. I had pain after eating, belching gas, constant headaches, and did not sleep well at night. I lost so much weight—going from 185 pounds to 146 pounds—that I became alarmed and saw several doctors, who, however, did me no good. Finally, a friend told me to try 'Fruit-a-tives'."

"In a week there was improvement. The constipation was corrected, and soon I was free of pain headaches and that miserable feeling that accompanies Dyspepsia. I continued to take this splendid fruit medicine and now I am well, strong and vigorous."

50c. a box 6 for $2.50 trial size 25c. At all dealers or sent postpaid on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited Ottawa.

Society of Paris a distinguished naturalist sets forth the fact that medicine as practiced by animals is thoroughly practical. Animals instinctively choose such food as is best suited to them. It is maintained that the human race also follows this instinct, and the French scientist blames medical men for giving insufficient attention to the likes and dislikes of their patients in this respect. This instinct, he believes, is a guide that may be relied upon.

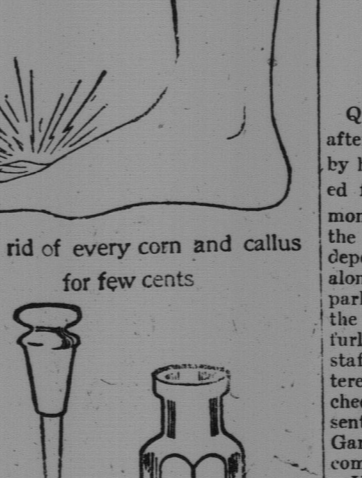

A large number of species wash themselves and bathe—elephants, stags, birds, ants, etc. Animals rid themselves of their parasites by using dust, mud, clay, etc. Those suffering from fever restrict their diet, keep quiet, seek darkness and airy places, drink much water and at times plunge into it. When a dog has lost its appetite it eats that species of grass known as "dog's grass." Cats also eat grass, catnip, etc., when sick. Sheep and cows in the same circumstances seek out certain herbs. An animal suffering from chronic rheumatism invariably keeps as much as possible in the sun. The warrier ants maintain regular organized ambulances.

Ants First Aid. When Latreille cut the antennae of an ant, other ants immediately covered the wound with a transparent fluid from their mouths. If a chimpanzee is wounded, it stops the flow of blood by placing its hand on the wound or dressing it with leaves and grass. A terrible case of an injured eye. It remained lying under a counter avoiding heat and light, although it had been its habit to keep near the fire. It adopted a general treatment—rest and abstinence from food. The local treatment consisted in flogging the upper surface of its paw which it then applied to the wounded eye. Cats also when hurt treat themselves by the simple method. Delaunay cites the case of a cat that remained for some time lying on the bank of a stream; also that of a cat which had the singular habit of remaining for forty-eight hours under a jet of cold water.

Frezzone is the much talked of other discovery of a Cincinnati genius.

WANT MR. WETMORE TO CONTINUE The St. John Housing Board held another session yesterday afternoon with the resignation of Mr. H. Wetmore, president. Considerable business was transacted and various features of the Housing Act were taken up and discussed. The resignation of Mr. H. Wetmore was placed before the meeting, but was not accepted as it was thought advisable to retain Mr. Wetmore's valuable services to the board. Owing to the fact that he could not give all the time required to the work he tendered his resignation. Mr. Wetmore's resignation will add another member to the commission and ask the city council to ratify their action. Mr. Wetmore's resignation will stand as a member of the housing board, although not giving so much time as at present.

While many verbal applications have been received by the different members of which are in the nature of inquiries, still the board feels assured that such applications will very soon be followed by a formal offer. An application was received from an owner of lots in one of the principal avenues in close proximity to the city, offering a price for lots on a basis of their present rental fee. However, owing to the scarcity of land easily accessible within the city limits, the commission hopes to operate the greater part of the act, and to the rocky nature of most of the ground, the cost of the lots plus the costs of improvements runs to more money than the act provides for and few of the applicants feel inclined to furnish the additional amount over and above the fifteen percent which they are required to provide towards the cost of the completed property. The commission is now working under the advice of an architect in regard to suitable sites before allowing construction. It is the intention of the board so far as possible, to confine its activities to city lots before going to outside districts. For Chicago a certain saloon displayed for years a large sign reading, "Free beer tomorrow." Those who read the sign Monday and asked for a free drink "Tuesday" were requested to read the sign again.

SIR WM. OSLER AT SEVENTY YEAR (Toronto Globe). The celebration of his seventieth birthday has brought Sir William Osler many quizzical reminders of his semi-jocular disparagement of middle age. Sir William may have regretted that indiscretion in the past, but he is now, reverberating through the English-speaking world, but if he had any vanity it must have been checked by the whirlwind of publicity which he has had since he was elected to the position of Regius Professor of Medicine at Oxford University, and it adds that he will always be known as an American doctor. Which goes to prove that there are some things Canada does exceedingly well, and that one of them is presenting men to the United States. Sir William was thirty-five when he crossed the boundary line. The man who has crossed the summit of himself on his own thesis. If we hold him to it he must have done most of his permanent work in Canada as a Canadian. The United States had only five years of his period of highest usefulness, but our neighbors are supreme in public opinion, and since they have done so much to trumpet Sir William's name far and wide they feel that they have the first call on him. Great Britain has had him for the past fifteen years and has given him Baronetscy and a birthday demonstration, which imply that his record there has not been wholly senile. Nine cities claimed Honorary degrees, and three countries claim Sir William's living. He must be glad that he did not die at forty, or even at sixty.

Admiral Mayo told at a dinner in Washington a story about slugs. "It's the greatest benefit as a tople and regenerative. Henceforth I shall not be without it. I am in a position to testify for the benefit of others to the remarkable and immediate helpfulness of this remedy, and I unhesitatingly recommend Nuxated Iron to those who feel the need of renewed energy and the regularity of bodily functions."

"But in my opinion you can't make strong, keen, forcible men and healthy women whose careworn faces, dragging steps and generally weak, tired appearance show unmistakable signs of that anemic, run-down condition usually brought on by lack of iron in the blood. There can be no strong, healthy, beautiful women without iron and in-sufficient refining processes and modern cooking methods remove the iron of Mother Earth from so many of our most common foods this iron deficiency should be supplied by using some form of organic iron just as we use salt when we cook. Iron is absolutely necessary to enable your blood to change food into living tissue. Without it no matter how much or what you eat your food merely passes through you without doing good, and as a consequence you become weak, pale and sickly-looking just like a plant trying to grow in a soil deficient in iron. Pallor means anaemia. The sign of an anemic woman is pale, the flesh flabby. The memory fails, and often they become weak, nervous, irritable, and melancholy. Give such a woman a course of Nuxated Iron and she often quickly becomes an entirely different individual—strong, healthy and rosy-cheeked. I have used Nuxated Iron widely in my own practice in most severe, aggravated conditions of iron deficiency. I have induced many other physicians to give it a trial, all of whom have given me most surprising reports in regard to its great power as a health and strength builder."

PRINCE OF WALES FORMALLY OPENED QUEBEC BRIDGE

Quebec, Aug. 22—At 8 o'clock this afternoon the Prince of Wales, attended by his chief of staff and his suite, motored from the Citadel to the Montcalm monument on Lansdowne park, where the prince amidst the acclaiming crowds deposited a wreath. He then proceeded along Grand Allée to the battlements, where he laid another wreath on the Wolfe monument and afterwards untied the Union Jack at the new flag staff for the park and as the flag fluttered in the breeze the prince was cheered to the echo. He was then presented with an address by Sir George Garneau, chairman of the battlements commission, and the prince was then received at the Quebec Bridge about 4:30 o'clock.

The officials and guests on the train numbered about one hundred and fifty and at the north entrance to the bridge, the prince unveiled the plates, upon which were inscribed the names of the federal ministers, the engineers and the contractors, who had had a hand in the construction of the giant structure. The prince then proceeded slowly across the bridge and on the south side the prince unveiled two more plates. As the train crossed and re-crossed the immense span, the engineers who had erected it explained to the royal guest, how the undertaking had been successfully accomplished. On the return of the train to the south side the prince declared the bridge officially opened.

His Royal Highness was the guest of the Garrison Club at dinner last evening. The prince was accompanied by his chief of staff, Rear Admiral Sir Lionel Halsey and he was received by the president of the club, Mr. J. G. M. de Meillon, briefly thanked His Royal Highness for so kindly performing the ceremony.

It is not one of the very few preparations I feel should be kept on hand for regular use. It is sold in this city by Watsons Drug Store.

Farm Buildings Destroyed by Lightning. Newcastle, Aug. 22—This afternoon just before 4 o'clock in a rainstorm lightning struck one of the two barns belonging to John McColl of Boom road. The building struck was between another barn and the dwelling house. All three were burned to the ground. One cow, two calves and a pig and thirty tons of hay were also burned. The horses were saved. Most of the furniture except that of the kitchen, was saved from the house. At the time Mr. McColl and two others were across the river over a mill. Only Mrs. McColl and daughter were at home. They were not hurt. The farm machinery was saved not being in the buildings. The loss is several thousands and is hardly covered by insurance. A short distance away the storm was not very heavy. The house was on the Northwest Miramichi river about ten miles above Newcastle.

ORIGIN OF TITLE OF FIELD MARSHAL

(By John A. Maxwell Edington in N. Y. Times)

Pride of ancestry and love of the ancient Scottish homeland blaze out in the Earl Haig of Bernesside, assumed by the famous soldier who commanded the victorious British armies in France and Flanders. An ancient prophecy, too, has been helped in its fulfilment, for almost 700 years ago the famous Thomas the Rhymer uttered these words, which ever since have been quoted in the southeast of Scotland:

"Tide what may betide, Haig shall be Haig of Bernesside."

This Thomas the Rhymer was an important man in his day—landed gentleman of Tweedside, as well as poet and prophet. His estate was not far from Bernesside, which is three and a half miles east of Melrose. Thomas the Rhymer was witness to an undated charter of Petrus de Haga of Bernesside, and the best authorities refer it to somewhere toward the close of the thirteenth century. Therein the prophet named "Thomas Rhymer de Erlicune." Erlicune is now Earleton, on a leader, about two miles from its junction with the Tweed.

A sturdy, warlike race they were, these old Haigs of Bernesside, with red hand in every foray, from the earliest days of which we have record of them. Some authorities think they are of ancient Pictish extraction, and others think they are descended from the ancient Britons. A Norman origin is more likely. Be that as it may, the Haigs trace their descent, by indisputable documents, from an earlier Petrus de Haga than the one who flourished in the days of Thomas the Rhymer. This Petrus de Haga was proprietor of the lands and barony of Bernesside in the reigns of Malcolm IV. and William the Lion, Kings of Scotland, which last succeeded to the Crown in 1165 and died in 1214. of the Chapel of St. Leonard's, in Lauderdale, to the Monastery of Dryburgh. Petrus de Haga was a witness. In the same era lived Henry de Haga, who was killed in the expedition of William the Lion against the Earl of Galloway in 1199. Petrus de Haga, the son of the first mentioned Petrus, in various charters is styled "Dominus de Bernesside." This Petrus de Haga, with Sir Alexander Davenant, was appointed by King Alexander II. of Scotland to pursue and apprehend John de Bisset for burning the Earl of Athol in his own house at Haddington in 1242. John, his son, joined Sir William Wallace in the struggle for Scottish independence, and was with him at the battle of Stirling Bridge in 1297. His son, Petrus, adhered to Robert the Bruce, and fought with him at the battle of Bannockburn in 1314, but was killed at the battle of Halidon Hill in 1333. John Haig, fifth Baron of Bernesside, the son of Petrus, fell at the battle of Otterbourne in 1388. Gilbert and there he was always accustomed to halt his carriage for a spell. On the day of Scott's funeral the cortege, on the way from Abbotsford to Dryburgh, halted at the brow of the hill for a minute or two, accidentally, as Lockhart, Scott's biographer thought; but when it is recalled that one of the horses in the hearse was Sir Walter's own and must have borne him over the countryside many a time the explanation is simple enough. USE The Want Ad Way

PLAYGROUNDS CLOSED AFTER BUSY SEASON

Many children are regretting that five of the city playgrounds closed yesterday. The season just concluded has been a very successful one and a very profitable and pleasurable one for the children though the average attendance has been lowered by the number of holidays and the fine Saturdays which have taken many children out of the city. There were no formal closing exercises yesterday, but the closings were marked by special efforts of entertainment by the children and the very excellent work in baskets and other lines done by them during the season was exhibited in most attractive displays. The inclement weather, with rain and thunder storms, made the attendance of visitors and parents regrettably small and this circumstance was somewhat of a disappointment to the children and to the teachers. The benefit of the work being done by the playgrounds can scarcely be over estimated and it is a pity that the unavoidable absence of the president, A. M. Belding, who is out of the city, was also a cause of much regret.

At the Alexandra grounds Miss Kathleen Lundy, assisted by Miss Beatrice Flett, has been in charge and she reported an average attendance of sixty-two children with gratifying appreciation and application. The work exhibited had a greater range of variety than at any of the other grounds, including not only basket work and raffia work but considerable linen crocheted and knitting. The children sang very sweetly for the benefit of their visitors, Mrs. W. C. Good, and were complimented on their success.

Miss Helen MacDonald, assisted by Miss Olive Harding, has been the supervisor of the King George grounds yesterday. The special good rainy day facilities were made excellent use of.

The children at the Aberdeen grounds were given a special treat yesterday by Mr. Peeler and Leslie, who were at the closing. The treat took the form of ice cream cones which were distributed by the children, Miss Kathleen Lundy, her assistant, Miss Eva Lettney, and her mother, Mrs. Galloway. Other visitors at the grounds were Judge Ritchie, J. Ritchie, H. H. McEldan and Mrs. W. C. Good.

At the Centennial grounds Miss Elsie Trentowsky was in charge and she reported an average attendance of 150. The Allison grounds will close next week.

Returned soldiers have been employed as caretakers on all the grounds, except the King George, and have given great satisfaction and assisted in maintaining discipline among the boys. The weather until the last week was very favorable. The committees for the grounds were as follows: Alexandra, Mrs. T. N. Vincent, Mrs. W. C. Good, George E. Day; King George, Mrs. W. E. McIntyre, Mrs. F. E. Seccord, George T. Day; West Side, Captain and Mrs. Mulcahy; Centennial, Dr. Margaret Parks, Miss Emily Goodwin, M. E. Agart; Aberdeen, Judge Ritchie, H. H. McEldan, Mrs. A. C. D. Wilson, R. J. Ritchie and Mrs. George Dishart.

The firemen and salvage corps, at a meeting in the ladder house last evening decided to send a delegation to take part in the Labor Day parade in Moncton in response to the invitation from that city. The delegation will be composed of fifty or sixty men and will be in charge of District Engineer Charles Jackson. A band will accompany it and the chief's wagon and a large float will be taken also.

TELEPHONE CO. WILL ASK FOR HIGHER RATES

Fredericton, Aug. 22—The New Brunswick Telephone Company directors at a meeting which was held at St. John yesterday decided to make almost immediate application for a substantial increase in their local rates and long-distance tolls. Such action was forecasted at the recent annual meeting of the company in Fredericton and it is now known that but little further time will elapse before the formal application is filed with the Public Utilities Commission.

It is understood that the application for an increase in rates has been precipitated by recent salary demands of the employees, who in some centres of the province at least are said to have recently organized for the purpose of enforcing their demands.

LABRADOR FLIGHTS HAVE PROVED SUCCESSFUL

Curling, Nfld., Aug. 22—Cruising in airplanes over Labrador disclosed great timberlands from which millions of cords of pulp wood could be cut and rolled to streams for direct shipment, members of a Boston Expedition which spent the past month there said today. The expedition was forced to halt here on its return when the steamer Granville struck an iceberg and experienced boiler trouble in the Gulf of St. Lawrence. Captain Daniel Owen, R. A. F., head of the expedition and other members of the party, left tonight by train for Boston. The expedition, which included in its equipment three airplanes and comprised a personnel of twenty persons, among them five aviators operated seventy miles north of the Battle Harbor. Two million acres of timber land was explored by air and by the ordinary methods of timber cruising. Pictures taken from the air, numbering thirteen thousand, were said to show dense growths of pulp material in such manner that the most available places could be located readily.

This use of the airplane is looked upon as opening a new field for commercial aviation. The planes cruised inland for more than one hundred miles, flying at heights of 2,000 to 3,000 feet.

AIRPLANES MUST BE BUILT WITHIN EMPIRE

London, Aug. 22—(Reuter's Agency)—The air ministry issues details of the airplane competition which will commence on the first of March next year in regard to the development of aviation lines, and increased safety in flying. The rules are framed to ensure that the machines and engines must be designed and constructed within the Empire, except the ignition system, carburetors and instruments.

The large type of machine must have accommodation for fifteen besides the crew and must travel ninety miles an hour. The small type must carry two including the pilot and must travel one hundred miles an hour. Seaplanes must carry four exclusive of the crew and must travel eighty knots per hour.

GERMAN COMMITTEE ON WAR RESPONSIBILITY HAS BEEN NAMED

Berlin, Thursday, Aug. 21—The German National Assembly's committee to investigate the matter of responsibility for the war was named today. Herr Paterson, a Democrat, was made president of the committee, and Dr. Peter Spahn, a Centrist leader, was named as the vice-president. The sessions of the war guilt committee will be public, it was announced.

The assembly also appointed a new foreign affairs committee with Philipp Scheidemann as president. The committee will be composed of five Social-Democrats, three Centrists, three Democrats, two German-Nationalists and one member of the People's party.

KILLED BY TRAIN

Truro, Aug. 22—George Stuart Tapes, of Truro, a returned soldier employed as a brakeman on the Canadian National railways was struck by an extra train and instantly killed at 10:20 o'clock this morning, the accident occurring at the culvert north of Salt Springs, Cumberland county.

Motor Efficiency Depends on Spark Plug Service

Spark Plug service depends on the ability of its insulator to resist vibration, shock of cylinder explosions and extremes of temperature changes in all types of motors, in all kinds of weather, in all climates, and under every known load and road condition.

Champion Dependable Spark Plugs

are equipped with our new 3450 Insulator, the result of ten years of tedious research and 3450 distinct experiments.

It offers three times the breakage resistance to sudden temperature changes; and

It has two and one-half times the breakage resistance to shock and vibration; and

It has fifty per cent. more resistance to electric current when heated than the best previous Champion Insulator that made the name a synonym for dependability.

Besides these Insulator tests, Champions are subjected to an air pressure test of 140 pounds to the square inch for compression leakage and a final inspection for imperfections. "Champion" on the Insulator is your guide to better spark plugs for efficient service in every make of motor or engine, each guaranteed to give "Absolute satisfaction to the user or full repair or replacement will be made."

Wichita, Kas., Aug. 21—Joseph Wilholt, outfielder of the local Western League Club, and who will go to the Boston Americans next month, yesterday ended his batting streak in which he set a new world's record by hitting safely in sixty-nine consecutive games.

Regarding Baseballs. The Toronto Times in an article says: "Baseball promises to be like golf next season in that the loss of a ball will hold up the game. There will be no more nonchalant throwing in of another according to sporting goods dealers, the best quality of league ball now retailing at $1.25, is going to be $2.50 next year, exactly double what they are now. They admit that the quality will not be any better, if indeed it is as good, as the present crop."

Record Betting in Paris. Paris, Aug. 22—The Deauville season is traditionally at its height at the beginning of its Grand Prix week and taking the Pari-Mutuel form is a very good basis on which to judge the success or failure of the season. The amount of the bets during the last week end was more than $500,000. Such a total was never reached before, even in pre-war days, with the exception of the Paris Grand Prix.

Wonderful Wing Power of Some Butterflies. The most wonderful of ocean-fliers are the butterflies which cross the ocean in the spring. Naturalists tell us that one of the most amazing sights in the world is to see millions of these delicate creatures, like a cloud of thin pieces of paper, flying across the Channel, from the Continent to English shores when the wind is favorable.

English Houses. An Englishman's home has been considered his castle, but it is beginning to dawn upon him that it has had few of the modern comforts of a home. The Daily Mail is now offering 2,500 prizes to architects and the public for plans and suggestions to revolutionize the interiors of antique planned homes.

The Never-Old. (Edwin Markham in the People's Home Journal.) They who can smile when others hate, Nor bind the heart with frosts of fate, Their feet will glide with laughter bold The green roads of the Never-Old! They who can let the spirit shine And keep the heart a lighted shrine, Their feet will glide with fire of gold The green roads of the Never-Old. They who can put the self aside And in love's saddle leap and ride, Their eyes will see the gates unfold To green roads of the Never-Old.

USE The Want Ad Way. Woodstock Sentinel-Review: Friends of Liberalism have nothing to gain by the perpetuation of family feuds. The fact that Liberals have honestly differed on some questions of policy is no reason why they may not honorably co-operate in the promotion of policies on which they can agree. There is very important work for a Liberal party to do. Liberalism has a golden opportunity to show its capacity for national service. Liberals can well afford to fix their minds on the present and the future and leave the past to take care of itself. The work to be done will require the very best efforts the party can put forth. The fact that there is such work to do should be sufficient inducement for the Liberals to get together.

ATHLETIC. Building Stadium for 1920. New York, Aug. 20—Edwood S. Brown who was in charge of all the Young Men's Christian Association athletic activities during the war and who later was a director of the inter-allied games which were decided in the Pershing Stadium at Jottville, France, has been called to Antwerp by the Belgian Olympic Games Committee. The next Olympic is to be held at Antwerp in 1920, and ground for the new stadium there has been broken. The committee having charge of this work desired the benefit of expert experience and advice in making preliminary arrangements, as well as systematizing their organization along the lines adopted for the inter-allied tournament.

Illustration of a young boy holding a baseball bat. Text: You want him good and healthy. You want him big and strong. Then give him a pure wool jersey. Made by his friend, Bob Long. Let him romp with all his vigor. He's the best boy in the land. And he'll always be bright and smiling. If he wears a Bob Long Brand.

Wonderful Wing Power of Some Butterflies. The most wonderful of ocean-fliers are the butterflies which cross the ocean in the spring. Naturalists tell us that one of the most amazing sights in the world is to see millions of these delicate creatures, like a cloud of thin pieces of paper, flying across the Channel, from the Continent to English shores when the wind is favorable. Their stamina and endurance are extraordinary, and although some fall exhausted into the sea, the bulk make a successful crossing. The butterfly army of invasion generally includes many beautiful specimens, and as an illustration of their powers of endurance, it might be mentioned many butterflies have descended to rest on vessels 200 miles at sea. The farthest authenticated distance at which a moth has been captured at sea was recorded by a well-known scientist eighty years ago, who took specimens of a certain large moth 1,200 miles from the nearest possible land.—Tit Bits.

A "LONG" HIT WITH THE BOYS. Let the boy's opinion be your guide in buying the clothing in which he shall enjoy himself. Stiff collars and shirts that soil quickly and are uncomfortable to wear have no place in the boy's sport programme. HIGH TENDERS FOR NURSES' NEW HOME. The lowest tender received for the creation of a nurses' home at the General Public Hospital is $32,000 more than the amount voted for that purpose by the municipal council. On the original specifications, the lowest tender received was $148,000, and as only $105,000 was voted, the specifications were revised and a new call for tenders made. The lowest complete tender received at the second call was for $151,000 and this with engineer's and architect's fees will make the total cost about $137,000. The matter is to be referred to the council.

CIVIC RECEPTION FOR CURRIE AT TORONTO. Toronto, Aug. 22—Arrangements are now being made by Mayor Church for a civic reception to be tendered General Sir Arthur Currie, at the city hall on August 31. Berlin says that the Poles have cut the knot. Now it's Berlin's move to cut the Poles. Interfering with affairs in the Balkans is akin to searching for a leak in a gasoline tank with a match.

The defeat of the Bolshevik fleet was to be expected. Bolsheviks never did take kindly to water. Castles in the air seem to be the only kind of dwellings which can be built under the federal housing act.

Overheard In The Street Car. First Citizen: "Are they working at night on that Union street pavement?" Second Citizen: "I don't know, but I might get the street opened up again too soon."

Not the Issue. Toronto Globe: "Doctors in New Brunswick have combined to issue no prescriptions for liquor. The result will prove that liquor never was necessary for medical purposes."

WEST END PLAY GROUNDS

On account of the disagreeable weather yesterday the closing of the west side playgrounds was conducted indoors in City Hall, and of course much of the programme had to be done away with.
