SIG. H. A. SIPPRELL DESCRIBES TRIP

Kept Daily Diary of Events as 140th Crossed Ocean

The following is condensed from a diary kept by Signaller H. A. Sipprell of Hartland as the good ship Corsican carried the 140th overseas:

S. S. Corsican
Sept. 26, 6 p. m.

Shortly after arriving in Halifax we marched a mile and a half to the wharf, from which we soon after embarked in a small boat to the transport upon which we are very comfortably located.

We were very much surprised when we were introduced to our state-rooms to find such tidy, comfortable quarters. Each state-room accommodates four passengers, and I was fortunate to get in the one occupied by Signallers Galbraith, Skidmore and Ford. We are lying at anchor in one of the basins here and we do not know when we shall be creeping out into ocean, and away to the Mother Country.

Sept. 27—4 p. m.

The last glimpse of land has been lost to our vision and the only objects to be seen now is a cruiser, which is in the lead, and five transports following in a little out of file course. I am a bit ahead of my story for I forgot to say that, this morning at 6 a. m. I was awakened by the vibration of the engines in motion and a slight rolling of the vessel. I dressed quickly, rushed up on deck to find that we were making our way out of the basin past the inland and through a narrow opening at the end of the submarine net, out into the briny deep. Except for a few cheers from near lying vessels, we were quite unnoticed. The weather was fine and the great deep was quite undisturbed. The Corsican (Allan Line) was in the lead this a. m. when commencing the voyage but after a few hours out we were instructed to take our place in the rear, on account of the position of the 6 inch gun which she carries on her stern. Signallers from the 140th Batt., have their posts of duty on the bridge, and three at a time are to be found there constantly during the day and night, to catch any signal, made with a flag or day-lamp, by day, or a light at night. These signallers are relieved every four hours. My turn of duty is tonight from 8 p. m. to midnight. The food on board is about the same quantity and quality as we received when in training.

Sept 27—6.45 p. m.

Supper over, which consisted of pressed or canned beef, eggs, bread and butter, tea and jam. I went up on deck to watch the sun-set in mid-ocean.

Ahead of us is the cruiser ploughing its way through the trackless ocean, and the four sister ships, loaded with live cargo clad in the kings uniform going over to do their bit for King and country.

Sept 27

Four hours of continuous duty on the bridge with two other signallers. Except for one message that was sent to us from the troop-ship ahead of us, our turn of duty was exceptionally quiet. The night was calm and the heavens well lighted.

The slight moaning of the great deep seems to have a peculiar soothing effect and it would have been no effort to have fallen asleep on the bridge last evening, but the sense of duty keeps the eyes fixed on the lights ahead.

Sept. 28, 8.25

A new day out in mid-ocean. The sun shining brightly. A cruiser and four transports beside our own is all the eye can catch as it scans the entire circle to where the water and heavens meet. A few cases of sea-sickness have developed during the night. At 12 noon, two other signallers and myself on the bridge above, where the view is perfect, and the sea-breezes very refreshing, are engaged in Signal duty. During our four hours on the bridge we sighted three small schooners a long distance from us.

7.45 p. m. A stronger wind is blowing this evening than last, but fortunate it is with us and helping to drive us ahead on our course.

At 8 p. m. tonight the 136th Batt., Signallers will take their turn at signalling on the Bridge, and will take their turn at signalling on the Bridge, and will continue at the same for 48 consecutive hours after which it will be our turn again.

Sept. 29, 8.10

Two days and two nights spent on the great deep.

This morning the water is more uneasy and the vessel is rolling considerably, so much so that some of the fellows are asking "what is the matter with the floor this morning". This morning I find it much easier to walk by gripping the hand-rails.

A few more cases of sea-sickness has developed, but the majority are standing the commencement of the voyage well. The men are in good spirits and evidently some are thinking of home and loved ones that they have left behind as their favorite song is "Keep the home fires burning".

At 8 p. m. darkness has again covered the face of the deep, and a much stronger wind is blowing, is lashing the waves in fury against the sides of our craft.

The fierceness of both wind and waves do not impede our progress for our vessel is well built and her engines are strong, consequently we push on through the darkness as well as in the light of day.

Sept. 30, 7 a. m.

Slightly foggy this morning but evidences of a bright day. The wind is still blowing strong and the waves leaping fairly high against the sides of the vessel. While standing on deck near the bow of the vessel, and talking with a comrade, I expressed my wish to taste of the water of the ocean to see how salt it was I had not

GOVERNMENT TO PAY $10 A TON FOR HAY

Inspectors at Every Station and all Hay will be Re-pressed at Woodstock

Official announcement is made by the Federal Department of Agriculture that a quantity of hay will be purchased in Carleton and Victoria Counties this season for the British War Office.

The department in making the announcement adds that the price for baled hay will be $10 per ton f. o. b. cars and also that the hay will be compressed at Woodstock. At least 60 per cent of the hay will be timothy, the balance to be clover or other tame grasses mixed, of good color, sound and well cured.

The hay will be inspected at the railway stations in Carleton and Victoria counties, by inspectors appointed by the department and only hay that will pass the above grade will be accepted. The inspection will be strict in regard to quality and weight—only net weight at the car door will be allowed.

The War Office has intimated that much less Canadian hay will be required for army use this season compared with last year, and farmers are warned against unnecessary expense in baling hay of a lower grade than is mentioned above, unless they are satisfied that they can find another market for it.

The hay will be bought and shipped to the compressing plant through the following dealers: Strong & Noddin, D. W. Smith & Sons, Phillips & Estey of Woodstock, H. G. Smith, McCain Produce Co. of Florenceville, Bohan Bros. and Gallagher & Co. of Bath.—Gleaner.

CHILDREN HELP

A splendid example is being set by the school children of the country districts of New Brunswick in organizing and carrying out entertainments on behalf of the Belgian children. In every section of the province the appeal made by Dr. Carter, taken up enthusiastically by the children and ethusiastically supported by their elders, is producing the much-desired result. With the war's end yet far in the distance, it must be plain to all that Belgium's needs are great, and it is eminently fitting that the children of New Brunswick should have a share in the responsibility and care of the children of the stricken land.

Walter B. Tompkins Dead

The death of Walter B. Tompkins occurred at Bristol on Thursday evening, Oct. 26, after a lingering illness. The deceased was born at East Florenceville, Oct. 28, 1833. He carried on carriage making and farming in Bristol for about 60 years. He was a strict adherent of the Baptist faith, being a deacon in the church for the greater part of his life. His wife, who was Miss Lois Boyer, one daughter, Mrs. Hiram Banks, and a grandchild survive him. Allison Tompkins of Robinson is a brother. The deceased was a kind husband and father and was held in great respect by a large circle of friends as was shown by the representative gathering that attended the funeral service which was held at his home on Sunday, Oct. 29. Rev. E. C. Jenkins of East Florenceville was the attending pastor and spoke from the text "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord."

The following hymns were beautifully rendered by the choir of the Baptist church: Asleep in Jesus, Shall we gather at the River, Hear what the Voice from Heaven Proclaims.

The pall bearers were Charles Armstrong, John Rogers, Sanford Estabrooks and Oakman Boyer.

Interment was made in the family lot in the Baptist cemetery at East Florenceville.

Our little girl, Hattie, was troubled with Kidney Disease. The Doctor said she was threatened with Dropsy. Her limbs and body were all swollen and we began to think she could not live. Finally, we decided to try 'Fruit-a-tives'. She began to show improvement after we had given her a few tablets. In a short time, the swelling had all gone down and her flesh began to look more natural. Now she is the healthiest one in the family and has no signs of the old ailment. We can not say too much for 'Fruit-a-tives' and would never be without them."

KEEPING AHEAD

It was an American business firm who had some forty-three years ago showed the world how to perfect the medicinal properties of cod liver oil and make it pleasant to take which immediately popularized cod liver oil throughout the whole world.

Not content with this great success, however, Scott & Bowne have continued to evolve methods and machinery to keep Scott's Emulsion finer, purer and richer than the imitations which patterned after their plans, and today every precaution that human ingenuity can devise is employed to keep Scott's Emulsion the finest and the purest medicinal food in the world.

The refining of raw cod liver oil as practiced with the crude equipments available along the Norwegian coast has never squared with the ideals of Scott & Bowne and they have just completed a spacious refining plant adjoining their laboratories in Bloomfield, N. J. which is refrigerated to the climate of Norway and equipped with unusual sanitary devices which will forever insure a supreme quality of cod liver oil in every bottle of Scott's Emulsion and place it above and beyond all commercial substitutes which may contain the usual suspicious or adulterated oils.

BACKACHE GONE!

"I think GIN PILLS are the finest thing for the kidneys. When first I came to Canada I had a bad backache and was in my bed, that made me quite ill. A friend gave me six of your GIN PILLS and after I had taken one dose I felt less pain. I then got several more and before half of it was gone I had lost all the backache. It was wonderful. What a pain they have in their back. I say 'You should try the GIN PILLS.'"
—Mrs. J. E. Dickson.

Back Was Lame and Ached; Could Do Very Little Work

Suffered Much From Kidney Disease for Years, but Cure Came With the Use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Doctors had tried to cure this man but failed to get at the cause of his trouble, probably because they relied on medicines which act on the kidneys only. The strong feature about Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills is their combined action on liver, kidneys and bowels. In many of these cases the disease is so complicated that ordinary kidney medicines fail to be of any benefit. Under such conditions Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills usually touch the spot and effect a cure.

Had they been only moderately successful Dr. Chase would never have selected them for world-wide distribution. As it was, the demand for these pills resulted naturally from their superior merit, and there was nothing else to do but supply them in large quantities.

Mr. Simeon Shieloff, Broxbrook

Orchards, Broxbrook, B.C., writes: "For several years I suffered greatly from kidney disease. I was weak and could do very little work. My back was lame and ached and I suffered much from headaches. Tried doctors and obtained no relief. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills were recommended by a friend, and after taking four boxes I think I can say that I am cured, for I feel as well as I ever did."

This statement is endorsed by Mr. Harry Anderson, J. P., who writes: "This is to certify that I am personally acquainted with Mr. Simeon Shieloff and believe his statement in regard to Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to be true and correct."

Hartland school teachers and pupils have changed the date of their Children's Day concert to Friday evening, Nov. 10. They are sparing no pains to make the event a most pleasing one. It should, and no doubt will be, very well patronized, for the cause is one that is entirely worthy. It is sad to know that tens of thousands of children are suffering cold and starvation in Belgium, but it is pleasing to know that $2.50 will sustain a Belgian family for a month.

The basket social given by the Somerville school last Friday evening was a very enjoyable affair. The sum of $29.25 was netted from the sale of baskets; and $5.00 more was given by Clyde Rideout of Hartland.

There will be a concert and basket social in the Orange Hall at Victoria on the evening of Wednesday, Nov. 15 for the benefit of the Belgian children. Come and bring your baskets and help along a good cause. The affair is got up by the teacher and scholars and a splendid program is in preparation.

Specific for Bronchitis

The turpentine used in Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linedeed and Turpentine is not the ordinary commercial article, which is little used because of its unpleasantness of taste, but is specially extracted from tamarac and spruce gum and so combined as to be at the same time pleasant to use and wonderfully effective in the cure of the affections of the throat, bronchial tubes and lungs.

Killcollins-Carson

A pretty wedding took place on Wednesday, Nov. 1, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Killcollins of River de Chute when their eldest daughter, Elva Lenora, was united in marriage to Wardlow Albert Carson of Hawshaw.

The bridesmaid was Miss Wilma Scott of Bairdville, and the groom was supported by the bride's brother, Clayton Killcollins. The ceremony was solemnized by Rev. E. L. Grant of Clearview, in the presence of about 50 guests. The bride received many beautiful and useful presents. After congratulations supper was served and a very pleasant evening was spent.

GIVE "SYRUP OF FIGS" TO CONSTIPATED CHILD

Delicious "Fruit Laxative" can't harm tender little stomach, liver and bowels.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need cleansing at once. When peevish, cross, listless, doesn't sleep, eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which contains full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups.

A Pointer for Local Merchants

The advertising manager of one of the largest mail-order houses in Canada in a talk before the members of an advertising club recently gave some interesting information on how they secured much of their business. He said:

"We have a bureau whose duty it is to read each week the country newspapers from all over the country.

"There is not a paper of any consequence in our trade territory that our bureau does not get. This bureau looks over these papers and when we find a town where the merchants are not advertising in the local papers, we immediately flood that territory with our literature. It always brings results far in excess of the same effort put forth in territory where local merchants use their local paper."

That is the mail-order situation. The local merchant who does not use his local paper for advertising has only himself to blame when worth-while business goes by the mail order route to Toronto.

Let us help you with your advertising. Just give us a hint and we'll show you how our service will make money for you.

Increase Production

Learn of Their Contents and the Manner of Production

The base of Essex Fertilizers is animal matter—Blood, Bone, Tankage—combined with quick-acting chemicals such as Nitrate of Soda, Sulphate of Ammonia, Acid Phosphate and Potash. The chemical ammoniate gives the plants a quick start, the blood or meat tankage carries it through the middle season, and the bone comes into play in maturing the crop, giving the maximum production.

H. A. Sipprell Describes Trip

long to wait before my desire was gratified, for just then a large wave leaped and broke on the deck where several of us were standing and I got a good taste of the water that is much more salt than I anticipated. We are 700 miles from Halifax.

8 p. m.
The shades of another night have settled heavily upon us, a strong head-wind is blowing and the vessel is rolling and pitching considerably. All is dark on deck and about us except the few lights indicating the stern of the vessels ahead of us.

Our Signallers are on duty on the bridge above and their post must be all but pleasant during such a night at sea.

I have read many accounts of hardships at sea—of wrecks and etc., but was quite unable to understand them until now.

It certainly must be terrible to be ship-wrecked or even in a "feboat" in such a sea as tonight.

Oct. 1, 7 a. m.
We are glad to welcome another day-break after such a tempestuous night as last. I had very little sleep, if any at all, on account of the rolling and plunging of the boat.

The wind is still blowing very hard and very few find it at all comfortable on deck.

From 8 a. m. to 12 noon I am at my post of duty on the bridge. A few messages were handled during these hours.

The ships' log-report this morning informs us that we are 1143 miles from Halifax.

Oct. 2, 8 a. m.
Four hours on watch on the bridge. Everything quiet during those hours except the lashing of the waves against our craft.

The wind is blowing a gale yet and it is quite uncomfortable on the bridge.

At 6 a. m. each day the time changes and our time-pieces are advanced 30 minutes.

No other vessels sighted except those of our convoy and we seem to be quite by ourselves on the surface of the great Atlantic.

Oct. 3, noon
The wind has almost ceased to blow and the water is very calm. Today is to be observed as a holiday on board, in memory of the first battalion starting overseas—two years ago today.

It seems to me that we are nearing the war-zone.

Oct. 4, 7 p. m.

At 4 p. m. today we were notified to adjust our life-preservers and fall in on deck, on that part of the vessel allotted to us for parade purposes. While on this parade we were told to either wear our life-preservers or carry them with us whenever leaving our cabins. It was amusing to see the boys going to their supper with their life-preservers, and carrying them all the ways imaginable.

Oct. 5, 8 a. m.
Land has been sighted—the first since leaving Halifax—and the men are in the best of spirits. No visible signs as yet of the German treachery and easy enough to see who is "mistress of the seas."

I believe we must all be proud that we belong to the nation we do—I for one am very glad of the fact this morning.

Shortly after noon today a whole fleet of torpedo-boat-destroyers took over the escorting of our transports. To see the numbers of these craft and the way they move about, after knowing the deadliness of them and how the Germans fear them, you would not wonder at the Germans keeping out of sight when these destroyers are as thick as they were this afternoon. Looking over one side only of our transport this p. m. I counted 31 craft, and the majority of them were the terrible enemies of the German submarines.

7 p. m.
Darkness has fallen again and we are ploughing our way through the Irish Sea.

There is a head-on-wind and raining lightly.

It was certainly very gratifying to me to see the manoeuvres of our escorts this afternoon as they piloted us for several hours.

Oct. 6
Our vessel is safely docked at Liverpool and we are unloading with all possible speed.

We find ourselves filing into those small English railway cars, and when we catch sight of the very small, inferior looking engine, to what we have been used to, we think it a huge joke. A few minutes later we heard the signal to start, and in a minute we were gliding over the rails very fast.

It certainly does not take all day to go a short distance over here. The scenery from Liverpool to where we are in camp was certainly wonderful. It was strikingly noticeable how green the grass plots were and how well kept.

5 p. m.
We arrived safely in Folkestone and our camp is very handy to this city. At present we have quarters in "Cessars" camp, but do not expect to be here many weeks as this is not a winter camp.

The first day in camp we saw six aeroplanes soaring above our heads. Of course they were not enemy craft. Enemy craft has been known to pass over this camp since the war commenced, but I have good reasons to believe that this is one place so well equipped for combatting with "Zepps," that the Germans fear it.

There are many things I have learned since coming over here that I know would be very interesting to you. It is true that I have not reached the front yet—but I have kept my eyes and ears open. Prior to my arrival here I did not know anything about the war or warfare.

I have met a good many of the 104th boys as they are in camp alongside of us, and our greeting was very hearty indeed.

Signaller H. A. Sipprell,
140th Batt.
