LAW RESPECTING NEWSPAPERS

Subscribers who do not give express notice to the contrary, are considered, as wishing to continue their subscriptions.

If Subscribers order the discontinuance of their papers, the publisher may continue to send them till all arrearages are paid.

If Subscribers neglect or refuse to take their papers from the office to which they are directed they are held responsible till they have settled their Bill, and ordered their papers to be discontinued.

If Subscribers remove to other place without informing the publisher, and the paper is sent to the former direction, they are held responsible.

Napoleon's Mercy.

Napoleon was conversing with Josephine, when one of his officers entered and announced a young woman from Lyons—"What is her business with me?"

"Some petition," answered de Merville, the officer.

"Show her into our presence," said Napoleon.

The officer re-appeared with the lady leaning on his arm, whose face, as could be discerned through the thick folds of a veil, was very beautiful. She stopped as she approached the door.

"Mademoiselle," whispered the guide kindly pressing her hand, "take courage; but answer promptly whatever questions the Emperor proposes, he details hesitation." Then ushering her into a spacious apartment, he bowed and retired.

The trembling girl, perceiving Napoleon on her left, her fondest hopes depended, first, on herself and her timidity; she thought only of Napoleon, exclaimed, in a voice choked with emotion,—"Mercy, sire! I sue for mercy and pardon." She could articulate no more.—Josephine stepped from her partial concealment, and then approaching the group, contributed by her sympathizing words of encouragement, to restore the courage of the young petitioner as she bade her rise.

"Your petition, Mademoiselle," said he.

Henrietta Armond (for that was her name) looked imploringly at the Emperor and exclaimed:—

"Ah, sire, I ask pardon for Louis Delmarre, who is condemned to be shot to-morrow. Oh, grant him your most royal pardon."

A cloud gathered on the brow of Napoleon as he interrupted her with—

"A deserter, madam, he has twice deserted. No, he must be an example for the rest of the regiment."

"What is the cause of his desertion," cried Henrietta, in agony; he was compelled to join in the army against his will."

"What are the causes of his desertion?" interrupted Napoleon.

"Two weeks since," answered Henrietta, "he received the news that an only parent, a mother, sire, was on her deathbed, and longed, day and night to behold her son again.—Louis knew that relief or release was impossible. His mind was filled with one thought—that she might close her eyes forever, ere they rested on a son she loved so fondly."

"Did she die?" asked the Empress with interest.

"No Madam," replied Henrietta, "she is now recovered. But hardly had Louis received her blessing, been folded in her arms, ere he was torn from her grasp by the officer of justice, who dragged him thither. O! must he die? Mercy, sire, I beseech you."

"Mademoiselle," said Napoleon, apparently softened, "this was the second offence named the first, you omitted that."

"It was," said Henrietta, hesitating and coloring, "it was—that he heard that I was to marry Conrad Ferant, whom I detest as much as he does."

"Are you his sister, that he feels so great an interest in your fate?" asked the Emperor.

"Oh, no, sire," said Henrietta, her lovely cheek assuming still deeper, the hue of the rose, "I am only his cousin."

"Ah! only his cousin," repeated Napoleon, glancing at Josephine with a half-suppressed smile.

"Oh sire," cried Henrietta, "think of the anguish of his widowed mother, when she recollects that the affection for her is the cause of his death."—"What," she continued, "can I do to save?" and the poor girl forgetting the presence of royalty, burst into tears.

The kind hearted Josephine glanced at the Empress with an expression of sympathy.—She noticed the workings of his face, and felt at once it would be very uncertain whether Louis Delmarre was to be shot the next morning.

Napoleon approached the weeping girl.—She hastily looked up and dried her tears.—"Mademoiselle," said he, "would you give your life to save his? would you die, could Louis Delmarre be restored to life, liberty and his mother?"

Henrietta started back, deadly pale, looking fixedly at the Emperor for a moment, then turning away, she buried her face in her hands.

After a silence of some minutes, Henrietta looked up, an air of fixed determination resting upon her face, "I am willing," she said in a low voice.

Napoleon looked at her in surprise, as if he had not anticipated so ready an answer to his proposal.

"I will see you again," said he; "in the meantime accept such arrangements for your accommodation as I shall direct."

As soon as the door closed upon the fair petitioner, Napoleon walked to the window against which Josephine was leaning and said:—"I see how it is; Louis Delmarre is the lover of this young girl. True to woman's nature she has braved difficulty to be for his release."

"How strong must be the love she bears for him," said the Empress.

"Ah!" responded he, "I have a mind to subject that same love to a severe test.—Much do I doubt whether she will give her life for him. Nevertheless, I will see."

"Sure," cried Josephine, "you are not serious. Louis can be pardoned without the death of Henrietta."

Napoleon drew near the window; they conversed in a low voice.

Henrietta stood alone in a magnificent apartment. Hours unobserved, so intensely she was absorbed in reverie, and a small folded paper was tightly grasped in her hand.—On it were traced these words:—

"A deserter is condemned by the laws of the army to suffer death. If you wish Delmarre restored to liberty, the means are in your power. Ere the day dawns, he may on his way to join his mother, whom he much loves."

"Ah, do not I love him, too?" murmured the young Henrietta. Pressing her hands upon her heart, as if to still its tumultuous beating, she paced the apartment. The door opened, and the Chevalier de Merville entered. He paused ere he articulated "Mademoiselle."

"I am ready," replied Henrietta. "my decision is made."

De Merville appeared to comprehend the import of her words. He looked upon her in reverence as well as admiration, as she stood with a high resolve impressed upon her beautiful brow.

"Follow me, Mademoiselle," said he.

They traversed long corridors and numerous suits of superb apartments, and descending a staircase, quickly reached the outer court, communicating with the guard house. Entering this, Henrietta was ushered by her guide into a small apartment, where she was soon left to herself.

On the chair was flung a uniform of the regiment to which Louis belonged. On the table lay a large plumed cap. Henrietta comprehended it in a moment. Quickly donning herself in the uniform, she stood before the mirror, gathered up her beautiful brown tresses in a knot, and placed the cap upon her head.—She almost uttered a cry of joy at the success of her transformation: she knew that she was to be led to the fatal ground at the morning's dawn. The bullet which was to have struck Louis to the heart, she shrank not from.—Love triumphed over woman's nature. "Louis's mother will bless me in her heart," she whispered.

"Louis himself will never forget me.—Ah, often has he sworn that he loved me better than all things else." Drawing a lock of his raven hair from her bosom she pressed it to her lips, and then she breathed a prayer to heaven.

Morning dawned. The sound of footmen aroused Henrietta. She started up—grasped the band of hair, awaiting her summons.—The door opened and two soldiers entered repeating the name of Louis Delmarre; they suddenly led her forth to die. The soldiers, whose bullets were to pierce the heart of Louis, had taken their stand and only awaited the word of command from the Emperor, who was stationed at the window, commanding a view of the whole scene.

"Oh!" cried Josephine, who stood by him, but concealed by the window drapery from the view of those below. "O Sire, I can endure it no longer, it seems so much like a dreadful reality. Mark the devoted girl. No shrinking back. See, she seems calmly awaiting the dreadful moment."

"Stop," cried Napoleon from the window. "Louis Delmerre is pardoned. I revoke the sentence."

A loud burst of applause from the lips of the soldiers followed this announcement. No one of them but loved and respected his comrade.

The next moment, ere they could press around to congratulate the supposed Louis, De Merville had eagerly drawn the bewildered Henrietta through the crowd back to the cell whence she emerged but a few moments before.

"Resume your dress again, Mademoiselle," hurriedly whispered he, "lose no time.—The Emperor wishes to see you; I will return very soon."

Henrietta was like one in a dream, but a gleam of delicious hope thrilled her soul; she felt the dawning of happiness break upon her heart.—Soon again resuming her pretty rustic habiliments, De Merville re-appeared, and once again she trod the audience room of the Emperor. Lifting her eyes from the ground as the lofty door swung open, she beheld Louis.

An exclamation of joy burst from the lips of each, as, regardless of others, they rushed in each others arms.

Napoleon stepped forward, "Louis Delmarre you have heard from my lips the tale of this lovely girl's devotion and courage.—Do you love her as she deserves?"

"I could die for her," answered Louis, proudly.

"Well, well," cried the Emperor, "this severe test of love will suffice. So dutiful son, so faithful a lover, will doubtless make the best of husbands.

"You, Lieutenant Delmarre, are discharged from your regiment. Return to your native valley, with Henrietta as your bride."

"Here," said the benevolent Josephine emerging from the recessed window, "there are one hundred louis d'ors, as thy marriage dowry, Henrietta."

A charming blush suffused the face of the beautiful girl, as she received the purse of the Emperor.

"Long live Napoleon!" exclaimed Louis, as with a heart too full of grateful emotion for further utterance, he took the hand of Henrietta, and making a grateful obeisance, left the apartment.

A Dying Wife to Her Husband.

The following most touching fragment of a Letter from a Dying Wife to her Husband was found by him, some months after her death, between the leaves of a religious volume, which she was very fond of perusing. The letter which was literally dim with tearmarks, was written long before the husband was aware that the grasp of a fatal disease had fastened upon the lovely form of his wife, who died at the early age of nineteen:

"When this shall reach your eye, dear G—, some day when you are turning over the relics of the past, I shall have passed away forever, and the old white stone will be keeping its lonely watch over the lips you have so often pressed, and the sod will be growing green that shall hide forever from your sight the dust of one who has so often nestled close to your warm heart. For many long and sleepless nights when all my thoughts were at rest, I have writhed with the conscious pain of approaching death, until at last it has forced itself upon my mind; and although to you, and to others it might seem but the nervous imaginings of a girl, yet dear G—, it is so! Many weary hours have I passed in the endeavour to reconcile myself to leaving you, whom I love so well, and this bright world of sunshine and beauty; and hard indeed, is it to struggle on silently and alone, with the sure conviction that I am about to leave all forever and go down alone in the dark valley! 'But I know in whom I have trusted,' and, leaning upon His arm, I fear no evil! Don't blame me for keeping even all this from you. How could I subject you, of all others, to such sorrow as I feel at parting, when time will so soon make it apparent to you? I could have wished to live;—only to be at your side when your time shall come, and, pillowed in your hand upon my breast, to hear death clasp from your brow, and usher your departing spirit into its Maker's presence, embathed in woman's holiest prayer. But it is not so be so and I submit.

"Yours is the privilege in watching, through long and dreary nights, for the spirit's final flight, and of transferring my sinking head from your breast to my Saviour's bosom!—And you shall share my last thought; the last faint pressure of the hand, and the last feeble kiss shall be yours; and, even when flesh and heart shall fail me, my eye shall rest on yours until glazed by death—and our spirit shall hold one last fond communion, until gently fading from my view—the last of earth you shall mingle with the first bright glimpses of the unfading glories of that better world, where partings are unknown. Well do I lay me the spot dear G—, where you will lay me;—don't have me seen by the plants, or we watched the mellow sunset as it glided in quivering flashes through the leaves and brightened the grassy mound around us with stripes of burnished gold, each has thought that one of us would come alone; and whichever it might be, your name would be on the stone. But you loved the spot; and I know you'll love me none the less when you see the same quiet sunlight linger and play among the grass that covers your Mary's grave. I know you'll go often alone, when I am laid there, and my spirit will be with you then, and whisper among the waving branches, 'I am not lost but gone before!'"

THE BIBLE.

A nation must be truly blessed, if it were governed by no other Laws than those of this blessed Book; it is so complete a System, that nothing can be added to it or taken from it, it contains every needful to be known or done; it affords a cure for a King and a rule for a Subject; it gives instruction and encouragement to a Senate; authority and direction for a Magistrate; it cautions a Witness; it requires an impartial verdict of a Jury, and it teaches the Judge with his Sentence; it sets the Husband as Lord of the Household, and the Wife as mistress of the table, tells him how to rule, and her how to manage; It enjoins honor to Parents and enjoins obedience to Children; It prescribes and limits the sway of the Sovereign, the rule of the Ruler, and authority of the Master; it commands the subjects to honor and the Servants to obey; and promises the blessing and protection of its ACTION, to all that walk by its Rules; It gives directions for weddings and for burials; It promises food and raiment, and limits the use of both; It points out a faithful and an eternal guardian to the departing Husband and Father; it tells him with whom to leave his fatherless Children, and in whom his Widow can trust, and promises a Father to the former and a Husband to the latter; It teaches a man how to set his house in order, and how to make his will; It appoints a dowry for his wife, and entails the right of the Firstborn; and shows how the younger branches shall be left; It defends the rights of all, and reveals vengeance to every Debaucher, Over-reacher, and Oppressor. It is the first Book; the best Book; and the oldest Book in the World; it contains the choicest matter; gives the best instruction; and affords the greatest pleasure and satisfaction that ever was revealed; It contains the best of laws, and profoundest mysteries that ever was pointed; It exhibits Life and Immortality from Everlasting, and shows the way to Glory; It is a brief recital of all that is past, and a certain prediction of all that is to come; It settles all matters of the heart, resolves all doubts, calms the Mind and Conscience of all their scruples; It reveals the only living and true God, and shows the way to him; and sets aside all other Gods, and describes the vanity of them; In short it is a Book of Laws to shew right and wrong, a Book of Wisdom that condemns all folly, and makes the foolish wise; a Book of Truth, that detects allies, and confutes all errors; and a Book of Life that lights the way from everlasting death. It is the most compendious Book in all the world, the most authentic, and the most entertaining history that ever was published.

The last development of the "spiritual rappings" is said to have occurred in the Parish of Dumfries. A farmer who had found himself a sufficient medium for making all the Tables in the house run after him, hop, skip and jump, the so many chickens after their clucking instructor, wisely took it into his head to turn the spiritual sciences to a practical account, and succeeded so in magnetizing his barn, that during its lively hoppings he inserted a pair of new sills instead of the old ones! This is equal to the case of an old gentleman in Halifax, whose wife is said to have got grey in one night, in very grief for the establishment of Responsible Government!—[Frederick Rep.

We are much gratified in learning that the report of the Hon. Mr. Hincks having resigned the premiership of Canada for a Railway Commissionership of £2,000 a year, is without foundation.

It would indeed be a piteous case if the first Minister of the Crown, in the first Colony of the British Dominions, would, after having expended his whole might in the introduction of Railroads, then turn round and sell his honorable and useful position for "a consideration" which he had himself made to order. We observe that that portion of the press which gave publicity to this remarkable somewhat, have plastered it over with the unction that Mr. Hincks had taken the Committee on account of his wish for returning to "the quiet of domestic life," an old method truly 1—[bid.]

The London correspondent of the European Times, writing from London on Friday P. M., says:—

"The excitement about the House of Parliament this P. M. is very great. The real question as to the stability of the Ministry will be tried to-night, and as the Chancellor of the Exchequer has pledged himself to stand or fall by the scheme, it is certainly worth seeing all the preparations for a severe conflict. That the Ministry will be successful, there seems to be but little doubt; still the meetings which have been held in opposition to the Budget in metropolitan boroughs have been numerous and enthusiastically attended, and the metropolitan members will go to to-night fully armed for the discharge of their various fuses and rockets against the Derby, d'Israeli Cabinet."

INDIA AND CHINA.—The overland mail from Calcutta had arrived at Trieste. By the telegraphic despatch in anticipation of the mails we learn, that the second portion of troops from Rangoon had started for Prome under command of Gen. Goodwin in person. It was intended to advance upon Avabehn. By the same despatch we are informed, that the insurrection in China was spreading, and that the troops of the Celestial Empire had in several instances been defeated.

PRUSSIA.—Some of the correspondents at Vienna intimate that Prussia will eventually prevail in the wearisome controversy respecting the customs union. It is said that a simple trade treaty will be proposed between all the German States.

European Intelligence.

Belgium.—The law regarding the press had passed the Chambers. Its provisions are very stringent.

Austria.—However pacific the intentions of Louis Napoleon may be, the papers at Vienna are sounding the old alarm that a deeply laid plot has been formed for a revolution in Savoy, of course with the object of annexing that coveted territory to France. The Austrian Ministerial organs go further, and declare that even in Piedmont a very strong French party exists, which would be glad to form a more close union with France. The articles are exceedingly warlike. They declare that Tradedski has demanded reinforcements in Italy, and that his demands will be acceded to.

France.—The English and Belgium Ministers have formally presented their letters accrediting them to the Imperial Court.

Rumors of Ministerial changes are again rife.

The Emperor has set at liberty a great number of political prisoners, and an article has been published in the Moniteur offering the Imperial pardon to all exiles except those guilty of the highest crimes, who are suffering from their former disobedience to the government, upon promising that they will abstain from similar conduct in future.

The Ministry of the Empire have resolved not to sanction any new Railways in any part of France until those in course of construction are completed, or at all events further advanced.

Prince Albert, of Saxony, is a rival to Louis Napoleon for the hand of the Princess Victoria Vasa, of Livorno. The intended alliance of the Emperor with a Neapolitan Princess is still currently spoken of in Paris.

THE CELT AND THE SAXON.

A Roman Catholic clergyman, the Rev. Mr. Loneragan of Boyownra, near Cushel, has addressed a letter to the Ulsterman Telegraph in Dublin from which we extract:

"I have resided for many years in England, and had the best possible opportunities for knowing the real character of the people in all their grades, from the highest to the lowest. I am, therefore in a situation to assure your correspondent that the English, in very truth, are a sober people. An Englishman, after a hard day's work, goes into a public-house, takes his glass or his pint in peace, and comes out sober; or if, by accident, he should get beyond the line, he is as quiet as a lamb, and as silent as the grave, unless he sings some national song, such as—'Britons never, never shall be slaves.' To deny that the English are intelligent, would be to deny the light of the sun. Look at their manufactures, their system of agriculture, and their astonishing bridges and tunnels, and then tell me if they are not intelligent. Every Englishman understands his business thoroughly, does it honestly, and in a manner the most complete. Is there anything more required to constitute intelligence? If so read the poets (not Irish, Scotch, or foreign poets) their historians, their orators, their mathematicians, their expounders of the law. You deny that they are religious—or charitable. If you are correct, I ask you, why have they contributed so largely and so often, towards relieving our countrymen in a state of starvation? Why did they support the French priests when reduced to the uttermost need and distress? Or, why are they so bountiful to all refugees, many of whom would otherwise perish in the streets? Instead of gratefully acknowledging these noble traits of character, you find it more convenient to run back a course of 300 years, to introduce matters with which the present generation of Englishmen (and it is of them we are speaking) had no more to do than you or I had with the battle of Cullinst. You travel to London for the purpose of showing that the English are not a moral community?"

Let me inform you that you stand upon slippery ground, and that the sooner you learn the better. If you remain there a little longer you will find, to your surprise, that a certain class will stare you in the face. Abandon that locality, my good sir, and choose a different company, which you may do to your satisfaction in all parts of England. They are no more the English; in the proper sense of the word, in the matter before us, than a similar class in Dublin are the Irish, or the three tailors in Tooley-st are the people of England. An Englishman may appear sometimes lofty and stiff, but that appearance soon wears off, and after he has perhaps, shown some Waterloo consequence and it may be has cursed all nations but England he becomes gentle, kind, generous, and as every one knows, hospitable to strangers. Alarm not yours! If about the consciences of Englishmen—they are in safe keeping. The voter as he never quarrels with his own bread and cheese, goes with his faithful to the hustings; but, although he may do the opposing candidate and his supporters, still he really does not trouble his conscience about the relative merits of the parties engaged in the combat, as he well knows that they have only one object in view—that is, the interest, the power, the glory, and honour of England. The English, in truth, are not responsible for their press, talented and respectable as it certainly is; and it must be observed that although The Times occasionally gives us an awkward left-handed blow, still it frequently raises the strong right arm in our defence. Upon the whole, taking the English as a nation, as lovers of justice and fair dealing, sincere in their professions, steady in their friendships, honourable in their engagements, proud of their institutions, and determined to maintain them—my conviction is, speaking impartially, that they have not, and that they never had, an equal, much less a superior, in the world."

Russia and Circassia.—The London correspondent of the New York Tribune furnishes the intelligence of a disastrous defeat of a Russian army of 30,000 men by the mountaineers of Circassia. The Tribune's correspondent says:

From the best sources at Constantinople, I can inform you that the Circassians have again signally defeated the Russians. The Turkish government has received these tidings, and though they seem to be exaggerated—they speak of sixty guns captured—yet there is no doubt about the fact. The mountaineers have taken the offensive, and a Russian army of thirty thousand men has been dispersed. The London papers have not yet got the information, but you can rely on it. In the main department in Constantinople great activity is displayed. They have already transformed two of their men-of-war into screw steamers. It seems that the example of France will soon be followed by all the maritime powers. The Turkish infantry is to be armed with Prussian needle guns. The new ministry exerts itself to the utmost, in order to have an efficient force for any contingency. The Grand Vizier is a most energetic man, not so easily to be bamboozled by foreign diplomacy, or cowed by threats, as Rehid was.

SUMMARY OF NEWS.

The Albany Evening Journal makes mention of an important invention by General Crosby of Chautauque, a large lumber dealer. It is a circular saw for sawing clapboards and panel stuff; or in other words, for splitting plank or boards to any desired thickness. The process, now in general use, is cumbersome and slow, comparatively; three hundred feet an hour being deemed fast work. This saw will do a thousand feet per hour, straight or bevelled; and is in construction, neat and compact.

IMPORTANT ARREST.—Starting Developments.—Yesterday, at noon, the United States Deputy Marshal arrested Mr. Kissane, of the firm of Kissane & Smith, soap and candle manufacturers of this city, who is charged with fraudulently obtaining a large sum of money from insurance offices for goods alleged to have been shipped on the steamer Martha Washington, which boat, it will be remembered, was burned on the Mississippi river, in January last, while on her way from this city to New Orleans. This terrible disaster, by which some thirty human beings lost their lives, alleged to have been brought about by Kissane, the Chaplins, and others, by means of the wildest collusion with some officers of the Martha Washington.

A large quantity of goods—more than the steamer could by any possibility carry—were insured at the highest rates; more than two-thirds of the freight on which insurance was obtained were never shipped. When the insurance money was collected, a dry-man was brought forward to swear as to the number of dry-loads hauled to the steamer. This dry-man has since turned State's evidence, and confessed that he perjured himself.

The Marshal who arrested Kissane, found the latter at the Merchant's Exchange, where the merchants of the city were assembled at 12 o'clock. Officer Bruen is now on the Arkansas river, in pursuit of an officer of the steamer who is implicated.

We hear that arrests of suspected parties were made yesterday in New Orleans. We also hear that the brothers Chapin, shoe-dealers of this city, have been arrested and taken to Columbus by special train yesterday afternoon. It is stated that one insurance office has expended seven thousand dollars in fortifying out the parties to this stupendous fraud, and in procuring evidence of their guilt. [Cincinnati Gaz.]

Dr. Howe has examined almost the entire number of cases of idocy known in Massachusetts, and the result is, in all but four instances, he found the parents of those idiots were either intemperate, addicted to sensual vices, or predisposed to insanity, or had intermarried with blood relations.

A CHRISTMAS GIFT.—On Christmas morning Mr. Stephen Cate, the Conductor of the Newton Special Train, was the recipient of a beautiful box containing a dozen silver forks. The following letter accompanied the present:

"With many sincere expressions of Christmas greetings, the Ladies of Newtonville request Mr. Cate's acceptance of the accompanying testimonial of their respect. They would acknowledge in this his constant regard for their safety and convenience as Conductor of the Newton Train, and his friendliness in all relations of life."

HALIFAX.—Hon. Mr. Howe's Return.—The report quaters likely to be best informed is, that Mr. Howe has been successful in providing funds for constructing our Provincial Railroads. There appears to be no doubt whatever that the Messrs. Sykes & Co. are men of capital, and equal to the fulfilment of any engagement that Nova Scotia may see proper to enter into with them for constructing public works. We are also given to understand that arrangements have been made whereby any amount of money may be obtained in England, at six per cent, on Provincial security, if that method shall be preferred, and Railroads let in sections or otherwise. It has also transpired that the British Government express a perfect willingness to open negotiations for building the old North-eastern Line to Quebec, upon equally favourable terms as those previously expressed, if it is desired. How far the action of New Brunswick and Canada, already taken, may tend to embarrass such a measure we cannot pretend to say.

We furnish the above as items of interest, gathered from the most reliable sources within our control. —Acadian Recorder.

THE RAILROAD.—The Chronicle of yesterday contains a short article setting forth what Mr. Howe has done in England to promote our Railways.

It simply amounts to this—that he has ascertained Messrs. Sykes & Co., to be men of ample resources; has had a more favourable offer from Mr. Jackson; has ascertained the prices of all materials for a Railway; and arranged for the borrowing of a million of money on the credit of Nova Scotia.

The choice of offers he leaves to the Legislature when it meets next month. —B. N. American Dec. 29.

THE STANDARD.

WEDNESDAY, JAN. 5, 1853

Since our last issue, another year has passed away for ever, and we have been again permitted to enter upon a new year, and commence the twentieth volume of the STANDARD. "The year that's awa", brought with it many changes, whether we look at home or abroad. How many have been called upon to lament the loss of those dear to them. Even this community has not been exempt from the ruthless hand of the fell Destroyer. Several families in our midst are sorrowing over the loss of some member of their household; and there are those who are weeping for their whole offspring which have been snatched from them within a few days.

Old England mourns over her departed illustrious Warrior and Statesman—the immortal Wellington.

America weeps at the graves of those noble and great men WEBSTER and CLAY.

Notwithstanding all these, and many other changes, we have much cause of thankfulness; New Brunswick has prospered—large crops have rewarded the labors of the husbandman; our workshops, mechanics, and laboring classes, have been steadily employed at remunerative prices; commerce has increased, and everything around denotes prosperity. Glancing at the County of Charlotte, we notice with pleasure, that it has partaken largely of this prosperous state of things; in addition to which, we have to record the great progress which has been made during the past season on the line of the St. Andrews & Quebec railroad. Altho' there is as little show as possible, no boasting, no noise (except the sound of the railway whistle), the work goes steadily, quietly, and bravely on. Several loads of wood have been brought by rail from Chatham, and the locomotive passes smoothly over the Chatham Lake bridge. We understand that the work on the line above Bartlett's has been under contract for some time, and several miles are cleared, and some portions grubbed. All is activity, energy, and life along the line. Several farmers have informed us, that they sell their produce without any trouble at good prices to the persons employed at the railroad. Most heartily do we join them in wishing success to the railway, and the spirited contractors Messrs. SYKES, BROOKFIELD & KING.

NEW FIRE ENGINE.—We learn that the new Fire Engine, which has been built expressly for the town of St. Andrews by Mr. Smith of New-York, will be shipped this month. From the description, we understand, that it is finished, equipped, and of the same power as the beautiful Engine of No. 6 Fire Company in St. John. The first step to be taken, and no time should be lost, is the formation of a properly constituted Company, of smart, active young men, residents of the town, whose avocations would permit of their attending to the duties of firemen, and who should have the right, as in other places, of electing their own officers, providing themselves with uniforms, and making rules and regulations for the government of the company. Wm. Whitlock, Esq., the agent, has been unremitting in his endeavors to procure a well finished and powerful Engine, and we have no hesitation in adding, it will be a good one.

SHIP BUILDING IN NEW-YORK.—From the New-York Journal of Commerce we gather the statistics of Ship-Building in that City during 1852. At present the greatest activity prevails among all the builders, and a heavy tonnage has recently been laid down, the high rates of freight having imparted a new impetus to the business. The statistics show the total number of vessels at present on the stocks or launched during the year, to be ninety-seven, with aggregate tonnage of 73,615; and that of this amount 51,339 has been launched, and that 21,276 remains to be launched. The vessels enumerated are classified as follows:—Launched, 11 steam ships, 30 steam boats, ferry boats, &c. 10 ships, 18 other sail vessels; on the stocks, 5 steam ships, 12 steam boats, 8 ships, and 3 other sail vessels. The total number of steam ships ever built at New-York, is 59.

If the parties who removed the Sign from the Standard Office door, on "New Year's Eve," will send for it, and get it repaired, they will do an act of justice; if not, the public shall have the benefit of their names, and legal proceedings will be commenced against them.

We commend the following remarks, copied from the Baltimore Clipper, to the serious attention and consideration of those who are so anxious to have all public officers elected. Even in the United States they find that the system of electing the Judges is fraught with numerous evils, as may be seen from extract alluded to:—

CAUSES OF INCREASE OF CRIME.—The election of judicial officers by the popular vote, has brought upon the State precisely that condition of things which was predicted. It was foreseen that Judges who had to look to the masses for a continuance of their power, would not be the safest depositories of justice; that they would seek to ingratiate themselves in the favor of those who are most usually active at elections; and that our Courts would be converted into electioneering places to secure popular favor.

LATER FROM EUROPE.—The steamer Franklin, which put into Halifax last week, brings two days later intelligence from Europe, but there is nothing of interest by this arrival.

Cotton was without change. The Flour market was dull. Wheat having declined 2d per bushel, and Flour 9d per barrel.

GREAT FIRE AT SOUTH BOSTON.—Slane's Glass Works in South Boston were destroyed by fire last Wednesday evening. The loss amounts to $100,000; no insurance. Four hundred workmen have been thrown out of employment by this fire.

Amos Lawrence died at Boston on Friday last, in a fit. He was worth two millions of dollars.

CHURCH MEETING, ST. ANDREWS.

A Meeting of the Members of "All Saints Church," St. Andrews, the 23d of December, 1852. Convened by the Rector, in compliance with a letter from the Lord Bishop, "to take into consideration the expediency of establishing Diocesan Synods in this Province, for the management of the affairs of the Church."

The Rev. Dr. Alley was requested to take the Chair, and Mr. R. Ker, to act as Secretary.

It was proposed by G. D. Street Esq., and seconded by Thomas Jones, Esq.

Whereas the present state of the Church of England in this, as well as her Majesty's other Colonial Possessions, and the want of any sufficient and properly constituted tribunals therein, for the determination of questions which may arise affecting the discipline and government of that Church, has led to a wish on the part of some of its members to devise some mode of regulating and managing their internal ecclesiastical affairs; and Whereas, it has been found by experience in the Episcopal Church of the United States, that a Convention composed of the Clergy and lay members of the Church, is a judicious and wise mode of regulating their affairs, and that the Church in that Country, under that system, has rapidly increased and prospered:—

Resolved, That in the opinion of this meeting it is expedient, and would be advisable, that a Synod or Assembly composed of the Bishop, Clergy, and Laity, should under due and proper restrictions, be empowered to make such regulations for the internal management of the ecclesiastical affairs of the Church of England in this Province as the peculiar local circumstances of the Diocese might in their judgment render necessary.

Resolved, that any measure intended to carry the foregoing into effect should in the opinion of this meeting before being passed into a law, be submitted in its details to a special meeting of the members of the Church of England in this Province to be convened by the Bishop for that purpose, and should come before that meeting with the sanction and approval of the Primate of the English Church and the Bishop of this Diocese.

Resolved, that Dr. Alley leave and that G. D. Street Esq., take the Chair.

Resolved, that the thanks of this meeting be and are hereby tendered to Dr. Alley for his able and impartial conduct in the chair.

R. KER, Secretary.

[From "A Churchman's" letter we learn, that an amendment was offered to the foregoing resolutions, and was lost by a majority of one, the numbers being for the amendment 10, against it 11.]—Editor.

THE ADVANCE IN FLOUR.—The recent rise in flour of some two or three shillings per barrel, says the Rochester Union, will ensure a small fortune to some of our citizens, who have large quantities in store in the Eastern markets. We are informed that one millings establishment of this city, has over 40,000 barrels, another 25,000, a third 16,000, in New York, or now on the way there, and others have smaller quantities.

The Brethren of Salmon's Lodge of this City, and their guests, amounting to over forty in all, partook of an excellent dinner furnished by Mr. Brown of the York Hotel, on Monday evening. The fine Band of the 72d Regt., was in attendance, and we learn that the whole affair gave the most complete satisfaction to all concerned. —[Frederick Reporter.]

of Saint George in the County of Charlotte, deceased, was, on the 23rd day of September last past, duly granted by the Court of Probate for the said County, to me, the undersigned, Administrator of all the said Nevin Thompson's goods, chattels and credits of the said Nevin Thompson, for the purpose of paying his debts:

And Whereas, the real estate of which the said Nevin Thompson died seized, consists of the undivided moiety or half part of lot number Two, in the grant to Alexander McVicar and others, in Mascarene, in the said Parish of Saint George, and which descended to him the said Nevin Thompson as heir at law of his father the late Ebenezer Thompson, and which said lot is bounded as follows: On the West by land granted to Nevin McVicar; on the East by land owned by John McVicar; Northerly by land owned by John McNichol; and Southerly by the Campbell grant, (so called) and is the same lot heretofore conveyed to the said
Ebenezer Thompson, by Alexander McVicar.

NOTICE therefore is hereby Given, that I the undersigned, as Administrator as aforesaid, shall proceed to sell the above described Real Estate, under and by virtue of the said Licence by Public Auction, on Tuesday the 7th day of December next, at 12 o'clock, noon, at the Homestead, on the Premises.

Dated St. George, 25th October, 1852.

JUDSON'S CHEMICAL EXTRACT OF

CHERRY AND LUNGWORT,

FOR THE CURE OF Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Spitting of Blood, Night Sweats, Asthma, Liver Complaints, and CONSUMPTION.

DO NOT SELECT
CONSUMPTION

Can be and has been cured in thousands of cases by this only certain remedy.

JUDSON'S CHEMICAL EXTRACT OF
CHERRY AND LUNGWORT,
and no remedy has ever before been discovered that will certainly

CURE CONSUMPTION.

The most singularly marked and developed cases of Pulmonary Consumption where the lungs have become diseased and ulcerated in the case of the uterus, hopeless, as to have been recovered by Physicians and friends, by the use of this powerful remedy, and it is as though to be dying has been cured by this wonderful remedy, and is now as well and hearty as ever.

It is a compound of ingredients which are peculiarly adapted to and essentially necessary for the cure of

COUGHS AND CONSUMPTION.

Its operation is mild, yet efficacious; it loosens the phlegm which creates so much difficulty in the cough and assists nature to expel from the system all diseased matter by excretion, producing a most delightful change in the breathing and chest, and thus, after the prescription of the very best medical men and the inventions of kind-sorrowing friends and Nurses, have failed to give the slightest relief to the Consumptive sufferer.

THOUSANDS OF CONSUMPTIVE persons have been deceived in buying medicines which were said to be infallible cures, but which have proved only palliatives, but this medicine is not only a palliative but a cure for ulcerated lungs. It contains no deleterious drugs and one trial will prove its astonishing efficacy better than any assertions or certificates in curing consumption and all diseases of the Lungs, such as Spitting of Blood, Coughs, &c. &c. in the side and chest, night sweats, &c. &c.

About 4000 certificates of almost miraculous cures, performed by this medicine, from some of the first Doctors, Clergymen and Merchants, have been sent us for this medicine, but the publication of them looks too much like Quackery, [will show them to any person calling at our office.] This medicine will speak for itself and enough in its own favour wherever it is tried.

Caution.—This medicine is put up in a large bottle and you must find the name of Comstock & Brother, Proprietors, New York, on the splendid wrapper around the bottle. All orders must be addressed to Comstock & Brother, No. 9, John St., New York.

TO OWNERS OF AND DEALERS IN HORSES.

CARLTON'S FOUNDER OINTMENT.

For the cure of Founder, Spilt Hoofs, Hoof bound Horsem, and contracted and the Fishy Feet, Wounds, Bruises in the flesh, Galled Brecks, Cracked Heels, Scratches, Cuts, Kicks, &c., on horses.

CARLTON'S RING BONE CURE.

For the cure of Ring Bone, Blood Spavin, Bone Spavin, Windgalls, and Splint—a certain remedy.

CARLTON'S CONDITION POWDERS FOR HORSES AND CATTLE.

The changes of weather and season with the change of use and feed, have a very great effect upon the blood and sinuous fluids of horses. It is at those changes they require an assistant to nature to throw off any disorder of the fluids of the body that may have been imbibed, and which, if not attended to, will result in the Yellow Water, Heaves, Worms, Boils, &c. All of which will be prevented by giving one of these powders; and will at any time cure when any symptoms of disease appears, if used in time. They purify the blood, remove all inflammation and fever, loosen the skin, cleanse the water, and invigorate the whole body, enabling them to do more work with the same feed. The action of these powders is direct upon all the secretory glands, and therefore have the same effect upon the Horse, the Ox, the Ass, and all Herbivorous animals—all disorders arising from or producing a bad state of the blood are speedily cured by them. Remember ask for CARLTON'S CONDITION POWDERS, and take no others.

CARLTON'S NERVE AND BONE LINIMENT FOR HORSES and for the cure of all diseases of man or beast that require external application, and for contracted cords and muscles, strength of back limbs, and is also used for sprains, bruises, saddle galls, scalded legs, sores of all kinds on horses.

CARLTON'S articles for Horses and Cattle are prepared from the recipe of a very celebrated English Farrier, and will cure in ninety-nine cases out of one hundred any of the above complaints. They have been used by Farmers, liverymen, stage proprietors and others, with the most marked and decided success.

CAUTION.—None can be genuine unless you find the name of J. Carlton Comstock on the wrapper of each article.

COMSTOCK'S VERMIFUGE.

This is the most extraordinary remedy for Worms ever used; it efficaciously eradicates Worms from both adults and children. It cannot harm the most delicate infant or strongest adult, and never fails to completely root out and destroy all kinds of Worms.

The cost, 25 cts. per bottle, puts it within the reach of all, and all parents who are with us will want to expose the lives of their children to those tell destroyers of youth, "Worms." Look for the name of Comstock & Brother, proprietors, on the wrapper of each bottle.

RHEUMATISM.

Comstock's Nerve and Bone Liniment, is warranted to cure any case of Rheumatism, Gout, contracted Cords, and Muscles, or stiff joints, strengthen Weak Limbs, and enables those who are crippled to walk again. Comstock & Brother, Proprietors, New York, and none genuine without their name on the wrapper.

HEALTH where 'tis SOUGHT.

Holloway's Pills.

CURE OF A DISORDERED LIVER AND STOMACH WHEN IN A MOST HOPELESS STATE.

Extract of a Letter from Mr. William Harvey, of Chapel Hill, dated the 15th of January, 1850.

Sir—Your valuable Pills have been then sent me with God's blessing restoring me to a state of perfect health, and a time when I thought I was on the brink of the grave. I had consulted several eminent doctors, who after doing what they could, for me, stated that they considered my case as hopeless. I longed to say that I had been suffering from a disordered liver and stomach, and that I was in a most hopeless state. I had been suffering from a disordered liver and stomach, and that I was in a most hopeless state. I had been suffering from a disordered liver and stomach, and that I was in a most hopeless state.

Extract of a Letter from Mr. Smith of No. 5, Thomas Street, Dublin, dated the 15th of January, 1850.

Sir—I beg to inform you that for nearly five years I have been suffering from a disordered liver and stomach, and that I was in a most hopeless state.
