MUTINY ON A TRANSPORT. San Francisco Aug. 15 .- After leaving Manila the transport Warren, carrying the Colorado regiment, ran up against a typhoon, which battered her up considerably and she also had to face a mutiny among the men. As a result 24 of the Warren's crew underwent trial and were sentenced for terms varying from three months to two years, and the Warren is sailing for San Francisco with a green crew of Filipinos. The mutiny was brought about by one of the men claiming he was sick and refusing to work. He was placed in irons. Every man in the crew then quit work and declared they would not resume until their comrade was re-leased and sent to the hospital.

the London Street Railway is an irre- privileges over public streets for long futable argument in favor of the principle of arbitration. In the great mining strike in England, when everything else failed, Lord Rosebery contrived to induce the parties to submit their dispute to arbitration, whereupon the differences were adjusted, and peace once more smiled where had previously raged industrial war.

The London Free Press quotes the Toronto Globe as saying that compulsory arbitration is not possible under free contract. We do not remember to have seen in the Globe the statement attributed to it by our local contemporary; or the quotation may have been clipped baldly, apart from the context. We do not agree with the opinion attributed to the Globe. According to theories of fine-spun logic, there are many things that are "not possible," but which practically are found to be not only possible, but workable as well. Compulsory arbitration is not only possible in New Zealand, but workable and satisfactory. In New Zealand compulsory arbitration is brought to bear on disputes, even between private employers and a certain number of employes more is such interference justifiable in to the decision of such tribunal."

And in the Commercial Courses Western Ontario Places-Advice to Unsuccessful Pupils.,

The reports of the boards of examiners in connection with the examinations for coremercial specialists, commercial diplomas and for the high school and matificulation examinations-Forms III. and IV.-have been considered by the educational council, and below are given the names of the successful candidates at the different centers.

The marks of unsuccessful candidates will be sent within ten days to the principals of high schools or public school inspectors. No marks will be sent or given to candidates by the department. Certificates of successful candidates will be sent to principals and inspectors about the 1st of Sep-

Unsuccessful candidates should not appeal until they have consulted the high school principal after receiving their marks. Appeals to be entertained st be made to the deputy minister the 20th of September.

'Passed" under eitner Form III. or IV. implies an examination in the subjects prescribed either under the present or former regulations. The certificates issued will indicate more definitely the character of the examination passed. Candidates awarded these certificates obtained 50 per cent on the total, besides passing in each subject.

"Matriculation" implies that the candidate has been awarded a certificate of Part II. of junior matriculation, or has obtained pass standing in some subjects of junior matriculation. This certificate has no value as qualifying for a teacher of non-professional standing. "Part II." under Form IV. implies that the candidate passed in the required subjects, either under the present or the former regulations, 50 per cent on the total having been obtained definitely the character of the examination passed.

Honors in matriculation will be awarded to such candidates as submit proof of standing and forward their certificates to the department for indorsation. In the case of certain candi dates whose names are reported in the following lists, it will be necessary before certificates can be awarded that evidence be furnished (date and center of previous examinations) to show that they were entitled to write under the provisions of the former regulations. Many People in that Town Being Cured by Doan's Kidney Pills.

Word has been received from Lind-cay that Doan's Kidney Pills are cur-ing people in that town of backache, kidney disease, bladder weakness and urinary troubles.

Mr. Christopher Oryell 4 William street, Lindsay, Ont., the well-known proprietor of the handsome barber shop and bathrooms, and for twenty years a resident, says:

"For six years I have had serious kidney and urinary troubles with a great deal of pain over my hips, in the small of my back and in my shoulders. was sometimes so sore I could hardly bear to touch myself, and felt tired and worn-out nealy all the time. My sleep was disturbed and did not rest me. 'Hearing Doan's Kidney Pills highly spoken of as a good medicine for kidney disease, I thought I would try them, and got a box. That box gave me so much relief that I bought two more, which I have taken, with the result that I now have no pall of unit ary trouble of any kind. I sleep well Cruickshank. M Dandy, L E Fortune. GENERALLY ACTIVE Bradstreet's Report of the State of Trade in Canada.

Toronto, Aug. 15.—Bradstreet's review says: The holiday season at Montreal has made little or no difference in trade this month. Buyers continue to visit the market, and travelers' orders are pouring in, calling for liberal supplies of fall goods. Nearly all departments of wholesale trade show unusual activity for this time of year. Toronto wholesale trade has been fairly active this week, a large num-ber of orders having been booked. The conditions of wholesale trade are very healthy just now, payments being very prompt and the percentage of purchases for cash by the country trade being large. Business at the coast is active. The awmills are now very busy on orders both for the home market and for export. The demand for funds for merchantile purposes as well as for mining enterprises, lumbering, etc., is very good, and rates are steady.

Jobbers at Winnipeg report a very good husiness for this season. Active preparations are being made for harvest operations, and much help will be needed from the east in the way of labor to get in the wheat. Prices of various staple lines continue firm.

The Nerve Fluid Fountain of Life.

Without the nerve force which runs the machinery of the body, there could be no motion of the limbs, no action of the heart; in short, there could be no life.

The nerve fluid is the fountain of life, and so long as the nerves are healthy and well nourished, there are no aches or pains, the organs of the body perform their functions,

The management of the Hamilton Baseball Club has reserved for next year Pitchers McCann and Bradford, Catcher Conwell, Third Baseman Hagerty and Left Fielder Schrall. Three of these men, McCann, Schrall and Hagerty, have gone to Detroit and have joined the Western League club of that city. Hagerty and Schrall have been sold, but are reserved by Hamilton to hold them should Detroit not require them for next season. They are to receive $125 a month each. McCann will pitch tomorrow and will be given a fair treal. If satisfactory he will be bought. If not, he will get $100 for the month and will be returned to Hamilton.

Elton, Hagerman, Richardson and Snyder have been let go. Hamilton's team for next year will be made up of new young players.

FOR THE FANS.

The Reds won 14 straights, including Saturday's pair. Pitcher Evans, of Providence, struck out 80 men in 11 games. The Louisville grand stand burned Saturday. Loss, $15,000; insurance, $5,-000. A temporary stand will be erect-

At St. Paul Glenalvin dislocated his right elbow and will not be able to play any more this season. He will probably come on to his home in Detroit. The Pittsburgs, strange to say, lead decision in the 9th round. The men the league clubs in extra hits, the fought under straight Queensbury rules, Phillies second. Philadelphia has made most doubles, Pittsburg most triples, and Washington most home runs, thanks to "Bucky" Freeman, the former Detroiter.

One of the largest bets ever recorded for a long time on the result of the league was made in New York Thursday. "Honest John" Kelly, the well-known referee and sporting man, is reported to have wagered $3,500 with an

The Thamesville baseball club have asked for the services of Cooper and Lohman, of the Londons, for Thursday, of this week. The village team evidently purpose walloping somebody's pets. The request will be granted.

It is remarkable the industry that baseball has created within a few years. Take for instance the house of A. G. Spalding & Bro., of Chicago and New York. This firm's goods are sold all the world over, and are standard with a number of athletic clubs, baseball leagues, etc. Besides manufacturing athletic goods, Spalding's Baseball Guide is issued each year by the American Sports Publishing Company, 16 and 18 Park Place, New York, at 10 cents per copy.

Crawford, the hard-hitting outfielder of the Grand Rapids team, is by all accounts the property of the Cincinnati team. A special from Grand Rapids is to the effect that the Cincinnati club has an antion on him A member of the has an option on him. A member of the Louisville party disputes this claim. He insists that the Louisville club, and not Cincinnati, will get the youngster. "Dreyfuss is up there now to get him," said the Louisville man. "He loaned the Columbus team, which is now Grand Rapids' representative, Rube Waddell. He let Loftus have Waddell with the understanding that the Louiswith the understanding that the Louis-ville club would have the pick of the Grand Rapids plyers at the end of the season. Crawford is the man that Dreyfuss has picked. Both Waddell and Crawford will be with the Louisville club just as soon as the Western League season is over."

FROM BROCKVILLE.

St. Lawrence River Town Knows the Value of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Mr. W. H. Odell Is One of the Host Who Praise Dodd's Kidney Pills-Was Cured of Lame Back-What He Told an Inquirer.

Brockville, Aug. 14.-People all along the St. Lawrence River are well aware what a blessing it is to have a box of Dodd's Kidney Pills in the house, seeing that Dodd's Kidney Pills correct instantly any fault in the action of the kidneys. Raftsmen, loggers, lumbermen, fishermen, bargemen and farmers especially, they being exposed so much to the weather and so often wet to the skin, find Dodd's Kidney Pills a blessing, exposure always making its attack through the kidneys. Lame or aching back is the first symptom; Rheumatism and Bright's Disease the final stages when backache is neglect-

Mr. W. H. Odell, brick manufacturer, Downey street, box 476, Brockville Ont., has this to say about Dodd's Kidney Pills: "I have suffered for over a year with Kidney Disease. I have had the pain in my back so bad I could not stand to work. I saw the advertisements of the cures made by Dodd's Kidney Pills, and I tried them. I have taken six boxes, and I am completely cured. I must say Dodd's Kidney Pills are a miracle in the way of curing backache."

Mr. Odell was written to recently, and asked if his cure by Dodd's Kidney Pills was entirely satisfactory. Here is his reply:

"Brockville, June 28, 1899. "Dear Sir,—I received your letter of 22nd May, and I intended to answer it before this, but I am ashamed to say neglected to do so. Dodd's Kidney Pills have done me the world of good. are a splendid cure for the kidneys, and I am always ready to say so. I remain, your truly, W. H. ODELL." Dodd's Kidney Pills are for sale at all druggists at fifty cents a box, six Coxes $2.50, or will be sent, on receipt of price, by the Dodd's Medicine Co., Limited, Toronto.

Ministers' Movements

The first after-parliamentary utterance of a public character will be made by Sir Richard Cartwright to a Toronto audience on Thursday next, and he will no doubt have something to say about the work of the late session, as well as about the prospects of the Dominion in this its growing time. Later on, other members of the Administration will no doubt be heard from. The Premier has been requested to speak at many places, and it is understood that he has consented to address gatherings at several places in this Province. Then Hon. Clifford Sifton, Minister of the Interior, who is one of the most noted of London's "Old Boys" - though the youngest member of the Governmentis under a promise to the Liberal Association of this city to deliver an address on public affairs here some time this year. As this will be the first visit of Hon. Mr. Sifton in his capacity as a Minister of the Crown, the many pld friends of the honored Middlesex family will be interested in the anhouncement. Several of the Ministers, we learn, are also likely to visit the Northwest and British Columbia. Among others, Hon. David Mills, Minister of Justice, and Hon. Sydney Fisher, Minister of Agriculture, have definitely promised to take a trip to that section of the country, which is making such marvelous progress. Both these statesmen have institutions in the Northwest and the Pacific Province, specially under their charge, and they are naturally anxious to add to their stock of knowledge regarding them, as well as with reference to the constantly grow-Ing responsibilities of the Central Gov ernment for the effective development of Newer Canada. It is well if, after the turmoil of a busy session, those charged with the administration of the affairs of this vast Dominion are able to devote some time to visiting various sections of the country, thereby ascertaining at first hand the aspirations and needs of the people, and better fitting themselves for performing their multifarious duties. We in Ontario will always be glad to welcome statesmen from other parts of the Dominion, and we are quite sure that our Ontario statesmen will be given a cordial reception when they either visit the sister provinces in the east or the newer territories in the Far West. We are all in the same partnership, and each is interested in aiding the progress and

The city of Toronto will get this year from $175,000 to $200,000 from the street railway company. In addition to a large mileage tax, the company pay the city eight per cent of their gross receipts up to one million dollars. On all receipts above one million the company pay ten per cent. The Toronto Telegram says:

"The street railway receipts for the expired ten months of the fiscal year have passed the million dollar mark. The company therefore contributed 10 per cent on their receipts for July, for a part of June which were looked last month. The check overlooked last month. The check which City Treasurer Coady received today called for $12,721 03. The increase in traffic continues at a marvelous pace, as the following table of comparative returns shows:

	4 4 7 5 7	Gross		Civic
100	the least to	Receipts	s. P	ercentag	ge.
July.	1899	$117,688 8	80	$12,721	03
July,	1898	103,670	06	-8,293	60
	1897			8,504	00
	1896			7,020	90

The corporation operating the Toronto Street Railway can pay this heavy tax and yet make enormous profits, paying regular dividends on six millions of watered stock. While Toronto is fortunate in securing some return for the franchise, the city realizes that It made a bad bargain and that it might just as well have had the mil-Hons that are going into private pockets. There was a suspicion of jobbery about the present arrangement when it was put through the city council. The Ottawa Journal points out that Ottawa street railway stock stands at double the market price of the Toronto Street Railway stock, yet all the city of Ottawa gets out of the franchise this year is $7,500. In Hamilton the street railway company some months ago got renewal of their charter on easy terms by putting on a poor mouth. This company almost immediately sold out to a big corporation and no doubt made a substantial rake-off. The charter, fortunately for Hamilton, was renewed only for ten years. The city of London gets neither a mileage nor tenders should be punished and the any better conditions for the next 26 dence presented thus far, years. The company have all along been at war with the City Council in the matter of car service, road repairs, snow removal, advertising, etc., and now are at war with the public. The experience of Ottawa, Toronto, London, and to a lesser extent, Hamilton, reveals a deplorable surrender of public interests and public rights.

The Apple Trade.

The Monetary Times, commenting on the improved condition of the apple crop as compared with the same period a year ago, says it is expected that the quantity exported from Ontario and Nova Scotia last year, some 800,000 barrels, will be exceeded by the 1899 shipments. Prices are a matter of uncertainty. Farmers are looking for $1 25 per barrel in the orchard, a price which local merchants think too high, considering the promise of a large harvest in both Canada and the United

The immense development of the apple trade, says the Times, is shown by an address delivered recently by Mr. Charles Forster, a fruit commission merchant, at the Detroit convention of the National Apple Shippers' Association of the United States. It was not until the latter part of the seventies that the business of exporting apples grew to large dimensions. In 1880-81, about 1,300,000 bushels were sent abroad. The average of the next three years was about 238,000 barrels per season, and in 1893-4 only 175,000 barrels were shipped. In 1896-7 the exports rose to 3,000,000 barrels. Mr. Forster expressed the opinion that new markets could, and should be opened, so as to relieve the British market of the glut which frequently robs the export business of its profits. Mr. Forster pointed out that there would soon be 5,000,000 barrels to send abroad if they could be taken care of. It was the duty of the association, as a body, to urge the packing of nothing but good stock, and to learn, through American consuls, how best to enlarge the field of distribution, so as to cover markets in Europe not yet opened. Mr. Forster generously added:

"It is for us to take hold of the subject in a broad-minded spirit of trade patriotism that counts a dollar made in any market of the world as so much gained for Yankee and Can-adian enterprise. By shutting our Canadian brethren out of our American markets we have given them a contemplated by the framers of our present tariff laws. We must now unite with them in the opening of new markets abroad to take the 5,000,000 barrels of apples which before long we shall have to send. Europe will take them if we but learn how to distribute them properly."

It is questionable whether Canadian exporters should not continue to act independently of their American brethren, so as to preserve the identity of Canadian products; but expressions of good will like Mr. Forster's are duly appreciated, and it is satisfactory to note that some Americans see the real effect of their foolish tariff policy.

Lobengula, the Matabele Prince, took London's society's attentions as real, and no doubt thought to please it by marrying one of its members. And now London society is shocked.

That extremely veracious journal, The London Advertiser, has discovered that Deputy Returning Officer Farr is a Conservative and voted for McLean. -Chatham Planet.

Not at all. If some of the witnesses are to be believed, Farr on election day was too drunk to know in his own mind whether he was a Conservative or a Liberal, or whether he voted for McLean or Holmes. It is impossible to conclude from the evidence whether Farr was a rogue or merely a fool. At any rate, there is no proof that his ballot box was tampered with-the blank and the uninitialed ballots can be explained on other grounds than fraud. We hope Farr will be apprehended and made to tell all he knows. If corrupt practices are established, the of

Mr. J. Wilkinson, for 26 years proprietor and editor of the St. Thomas Times, publishes his valedictory in the Saturday issue of that paper. It is a modest and eloquent farewell. Mr. Wilkinson has always been temperate in his political references, but the salutatory of the new publishers scarcely follows his example.

The total mineral production of the United States last year was $709,816,000, compared with $648,804,000 in 1897. Canada's mineral production last year was about $40,000,000. It is growing more rapidly, in proportion, than that of the United States.

The upward tendency of Canadian trade is shown by a glance at the table of exports and imports for the past

HUMOR CURE For All Who Suffer from Skin and Scalp Humors.

To successfully treat torturing and disfiguring humors of the blood, skin, and scalp, with loss of hair, requires a humor cure, and such is CUTICURA RESOLVENT, greatest of blood purifiers and humor expelling remedies.

Cuticura Resolvent

Extends its purifying influence by means of the pores to the surface of the skin. allaying irritation, inflammation, itching, and burning, and soothing and healing external humors, because of its power to neutralize MUMOR-GERMS which float in the blood and circulating fluids. Hence its success in the treatment of distressing humors of the skin, scalp, and blood, with loss of hair, which fail to be permanently cured by external remedies alone.

Cuticura Resolvent Exerts a gentle but constant influence upon the bowels, liver, and kidneys, purifying the fluids of these organs, and maintaining them in a normal condition of health, thus removing a common cause of

PALE OR NERVOUS?

DIAGNOSE YOUR OWN CASE.

While it is true that nervousness often occurs as a primary affection, in many instances it is but secondary to other troubles. Thus any disorder of the digestive system-the stomach, liver, bowels, etc., nearly always is attended by nervous symptoms. In no class of diseases, however, is nervousness so marked as in those diseases that relate to the delicate organism of women.

DISEASES OF WOMEN are always attended by symptoms that are en-tirely remote from the seat of disorder. Paleness, weakness, nervousness, are often experienced long before the true character of the disease is discovered. Headaches, Sunken Cheeks, Palpitation of the Heart, Im-paired Digestion, Torpid Liver and Costiveness are all prominent symptoms that attend those ailments peculiar to women, symptoms that may mislead until disease is firmly

Dr. Arnold's English Pills for weak people readily correct the above symptoms, whether they occur as primary affections or whether they are secondary to female disorder. They are the best remedy ever devised for the relief and cure of suffering women, for they give strength and tone to the delicate organs. They correct all ailments, heal ulceration, and chronic inflammation, and permanently overcome all the distressing nervous symptoms that attend those functional and organic diseases of women.

They impart strength to the whole system, and insure a regular dis-charge of every bodily function. They give the glow of health to all pale or sallow complexions. They are pronounced by medical men to possess most wonderful curative properties, and they are certainly a boon to all suffering women.

ARNOLD'S ENGLISH

They are a post-tive cure for all those conditions that result in inflammation, ulceration and falling of the womb, and other uterine displacements. They have been tried and tested, and will cure.

American Markets. CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—Wheat today developed into a strong bull market, and closed at an advance of a cent over Saturday. The continual falling off in primary receipts and generally disap-pointing spring wheat threshing revance, and the market wavered for a short time, September selling at 71%c, but the strength of the foreign markets and some poor threshing reports from the Northwest gave confidence to the bulls, and all offerings were readily ab-sorbed, advancing to 71%. A period of comparative easiness followed. Outside selling orders came in in sufficient quantities to depress prices. The mar-ket declined to 71%c for September, and though railies were frequent, the tendency until the afternoon was lower. 860,000 bushels. The weather in the 8,689; Northwest was favorable, and the cash $5 18. demand was poor, but this did not discount the effect of the crop prospects, and in the last hour a strong buying movement set in which carried prices steadily upward. Maitre Laborie, Dreyfus' Counsel, Improved.

His Physicians Believe Their Patient Out of Danger.

His Wife a Close Attendant at His Bedside-The Assailant Still at Large-The Wounded Man's Pockets Rifled.

Rennes, Aug. 15 .- Maitre Labori, counsel for Capt. Dreyfus, who was shot from ambush here yesterday, while on his way from his residence to attend the court-martial, after a night of terrible agony, is somewhat better this morning. The attending doctors, however, are still unable to sound the wound.

M. Labori's assailant has not been arrested.

The doctor said that M. Labori was bearing the agony he was suffering with marvelous fortitude. He is being watched by his wife. He has spoken but not of himself, always about the trial. We have strong hopes that he will pull through. It will be 48 hours, however, before we can speak with certainty of his condition. M. Labori lay on the ground half an hour before the ambulance came, with the sky menacing a storm, which came within a few minutes after he reached home.

ATTITUDE OF THE PRESS. The Paris papers, without distinction, express indignation at the outrage of which Maitre Labori is the victim. The Temps deplores the state of disorder into which the Dreyfus affair has dragged the country. The Liberte holds the government responsible as the "apostle of the mob of anarchy that has existed for the last two

The Journal Des Bates says: "The revolver shot is bound to be the end, and one fine morning it will be followed by the horrors of civil war, if violence, hate, contempt for justice and law, and all the fanatical anarchy and homicidal passions continues to poison the air we breathe." Government says: Today we have only assassins. morrow it will be civil war." The Figaro says in all the long series of crimes on the pages of our history, this is the first time when an assassin has struck down an advocate, and that, too, at the very hour when preparing to plead in defense of his client, to establish the truth and to confound accusers.

Further details regarding the shooting of M. Labori show that he left his house accompanied by Col. Picquart, and the latter's brother-in-law, M. Cast. M. Labori was laughing and chatting with his companions when he was shot. The party was passing the Qual Richmond, and was about to cross to the Chautebrand bridge, when a man fired at M. Labori. The wounded man fell to the ground. He tried to raise and put his hand to the wound in his back, and brought the hand back covered with blood. As he lay there with his clothes covered with the dust in which he had fallen, he said, in a faint voice: "I beg you to give me my stick and my papers. Go and tell them," he added, with a supreme effort, "to suspend the proceedings." CLEMENCEAU MAY BE CALLED. There is some talk of M. Albert Clemenceau, the youngest of the two brothers, coming as a substitute for M. Clemenceau was one of Zoia's counsel at his trial, and has followed the Dreyfus trial very closely. While he lacks the magnetic influence of Labori in pleading, he is extremely skillful in cross-examination.

EVIDENCE OF A PLOT. The attempt upon the life of M. Labori was evidently the result of a plot. A letter was sent to the commissary of police in the morning warning him that it was intended to make an at-tempt upon the life of Gen. Mercier, consequently the police and detectives surrounded the general and left the other principals in the drama unprotected

HIS POCKETS RIFLED. The pockets of Labori's coat were rifted while he was lying on the ground. Not only were the pockets of his coat emptied, but an attempt was made to steal the wallet in which were important papers referring to the important papers referring to the courtmartial, including his notes for the cross-examination of Gen. Mercler. M. Labori has himself related the incident. He had just fallen and saw one of the two men running to his side. One of these said: "His coat must be taken off. He will be too hot." The speaker then took the wounded lawyer's coat and another man seized the wallet. M. Labori, however, retained his presence of mind and refused to allow the wallet to be taken out of his hands, putting it under his head for a pillow and holding it with one hand. The coat was shortly afterwards put on again. On arriving at his residence, M. Labori asked his wife to feel in his pockets and see if their contents were safe. Mme. Labori found the pockets com-pletely emptied. Luckily, no papers of importance were in the pockets, which only contained personal letters, including menacing letters received on the previous day.

The rifling of the lawyer's pockets of the papers, and the attempt to steal his wallet, while no effort was made to appropriate his watch or money, are regarded as clear evidence of a plot in which several were implicated.

Startling Confessions.

Show that 25 per cent of men and women suffer the tortures of itching piles. Investigation proves that Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment has never yet failed to cure itching piles, and all of these men and women could end their sufferings at once by using it. Scores of thousands have been cured by this treatment. Everybody can be cured in the same way.

Whilst we are considering when we are to begin, it is often too late to act. -Quintillian. Give Holloway's Corn Cure a trial. It removed ten corns from one pair of

At the last meeting of the Toronto Trades and Labor Council, the executive committee was instructed to confer with Jos. T. Marks, of London, and empowered to take whatever steps they deemed necessary to raise funds to support the London street railway strike. Since then the executive have had two meetings, and will give a grand benefit concert in aid of the de-fense fund on the evening of Sept. 9, under the auspices of the Toronto Trades and Labor Council. The Toronto Musical Protective Society held a special meeting, and decided to tender the services of a band of 100 of the best musicians from the different bands in Toronto, free of charge, as well as an orchestra. Mr. Marks is engaged in visiting every union in Toronto in the interest of the street railway men. and is meeting with a most cordial and encouraging reception. On Wednesday evening he will meet with repre-sentatives of the different trades unions in Hamilton, to make final arrangements for a big benefit concert in that city. It is intended to have a series of these concerts in every city in Canada. The Toronto Trades and Labor Council are also developing other schemes to assist the men in London if the strike is prolonged.

ROBBED IN CHURCH

Daring Theft of a Purse From a Rear Pew.

A peculiar robbery occurred in the Maitland Street Baptist Church on Sunday evening. When the service had concluded, Miss Susannah Froman, one of the congregation, left her seat near the door to greet some new members of the church who were passing down the aisle. Miss Froman left a wrap, a handkerchief and a purse in her seat. On returning a moment later the purse was gone. It contained between $5 and $6, which belonged to the funds of the mission band, of which Miss Frohman was the treasurer. The thief was probably one of the youths who had been sitting in the rear of

Mr. Shoebottom said he missed about $11 worth of cigars and tobacco, some sugar and tea and other articles.

Mr. Brighton, baker, was working in the shop at the rear of the store. At about 12:30 he heard a noise and started to investigate, but found the doors all locked. Fifteen minutes later he heard some one jump from the roof. Constable Haystead, sworn, was in Delaney standing on the store veran-da and spoke to him. Just then he heard a noise, and Delaney said, "Did you hear that? Somebody must be in there," pointing to the store. A little later he (Haystead) saw two figures climbing out of an upstairs window. me gave chase and captured Wallerton in a lot on Riverview acenue. He later escaped.

Delaney denied any knowledge of the robbery, and said he had not seen the prisoner wallerton that night. He went over to South London to borrow a bicycle. The case was adjourned for a week. Frederick Simmons, an east end resident, was charged with refusing to

The Bride Interrupts the Marriage Ceremony.

Answered "No" to the Leading Question-The Couple Eventually Reconciled.

"Wilt thou have this woman to be thy wedded wife?"

"I will," answered the groom. Then the good priest turned to the bride, upon whom 400 or 500 pairs of admiring eyes were directed.

"Wilt thou have this man to be thy wedded husband?" he asked. "No, I will not," was the sharp reply;

The bride turned and walked out of the cathedral. Those who had come to witness the ceremony looked at each other in amazement, and it is doubtful if anyone, even himself, could tell what became of the groom. Such was the scene which took place this morning at St. Peter's Cathedral in this city.

The banns for the marriage of a wellknown middle-aged citizen and a popular young lady had been published three times in the cathedral in due form, and at the appointed hour, 7:30, this morning, a large congregation, with the proportion of the feminine sex, characteristic of such gatherings, had assembled. Rev. Father Tiernan was the officiating clergyman. The beautiful ceremony proceeded without interruption until the important question above quoted was directed to the blushing bride. Her answer was in clear, distinct tones, but not "by the book." Some of the ladies in the church swooned, and the wedding party broke up in disorder. But there is a happy sequel. Explanations followed, and through the mediation of Father Tiernan, the wedding ceremony was concluded about an hour later. Before relenting, however, the bride insisted on visiting an attorney's office, where her husband-to-be was obliged to sign certain documents in her favor relating to his property. She gained the day.

Two hundred and fifty soldiers were killed and 100 wounded. More troops left Canton yesterday. MRS. LANGTRY MARRIES

London, Aug. 15 .- Mrs. Lily Langtry, the actress, was married July 27, at the Rachael Berryhill, wife of Thomas Bathe, 28 years of age, the eldest son of Sir Henry Percival de Bathe, Bart., a retired general, formerly lieutenant-colonel of the Scots Guards, and a Crimean veteran. The ceremony was quite private, the only witness being being Mrs. Langtry's daughter. Prince of Wales is said to have been in the confidence of the pair, and he immediately sent them a telegram of congratulation. The wedding occurred the day "Mr. Jersey's" (Mrs. Langtry) horse Marmion won the Goodwood cup. Sir Henry de Bathe has seats in Devonshire, Sussex and county Meath, to which the bridegroom is heir.

ROW IN LONDONDERRY. Londonderry, Aug. 15.—An Irish par-ty wrecked a Methodist church here yesterday morning, while its opponents stoned the Catholic chapel. The mayor has issued a proclamation empower-ing military officers to act as magistrates, and additional soldiers and police have been called out. Riotous scenes began at Londonderry Sunday, owing to the celebration of the anniversary of the redief of Londonderry, besieged by James II. in 1689.

GEN. BUTLER REMOVED. London, Aug. 15 .- Major-General Sir William Francis Butler, whom, it was announced yesterday, would be relieved as commander of the British troops in South Africa, as a result of his alleged Boer sympathies, has been re-called, and Sir Frederick Walker has been appointed to replace him. Gen. Walker, who replaces Gen. Butler as commander-in-chief of the British troops in South Africa, is regarded as one of the ablest generals in the army. His appointment, therefore, is taken to indicate that the situation is graver. He was born in 1844, and entered the Scotch Guards in 1862. He served in Kaffir war of 1876-78, was military secretary of Sir Bartle Frere from 1878 to 1879, served during the Zulu war, was quartermaster-general in Bechuanaland in 1884, commanded the infantry brigade of Aldershot from 1889 to 1890, and commanded the troops in Egypt from 1889 to 1895.

Of the five pupils who passed this examination, David and Garfield Graham, who wrote in London, obtained 760 and 662 marks respectively. Roy Johnson, who wrote in Strathroy, where only 13 out of 43 candidates were successful, obtained 682 marks. Had David and Garfield Graham received all the marks they deserved (those who know the circumstances will understand what is meant), their standing would have been much higher. "My stars, Fanny! I never heard you use so many long words in my life!"

'I did tell her I didn't see why it mattered, but if you just saw her sit-ting up in bed, with her eyes shining, her eyes are a sort of yellow, which is very beautiful, you'd think anything mattered, I'm sure!'

"I wonder if I should stand up and contradict the rector?"

"You often do," said Fanny, with spirit, "and I believe you would like her immensely, because she always gats high marks in literature and the gets high marks in literature, and she means to be an author, though she is an heiress. But anybody would publish her stories! There was one-it quite reminded me of 'The Scourging Fire.

And it wasn't finished, either."

"Do tell me about it," said George.
"I can't do justice to it," said Fanny, with reverence; "but it was about a noble maiden whose wicked step-mother made her marry a young knight because her father had wrong-She had his money, you see, so she had to marry him to give it back. And she did it as a splendid act of reparation. "Yes," said George. "She confronted the great problem of self-sacrifice. Well, how did they settle it?"
"It's not settled. Their destiny, she said, was still on the knees of the gods. But she the heroing thought her these But she, the heroine, thought her step-mother ought to have told her what being married felt like. And the description of the wedding! They came in driving snow, to a little dark convent chapel, with a red light in lit—that's the part like The Scourging Fire.' And the red light fell on a skull-wasn't it horrid?—and on a name."

'Yes-yes, what name?" said George, ith flattering eagerness. "Marmaduke St. Clare," said Fanny. "And there was no one there, but an old, a very old priest, and a tall youth, holding a candle, who looked like an

"Well—where did they go to?"
"Nowhere; that's all," said Fanny.

"Exactly," said George.
It seemed to him as if he had known it all along, as if he could have supplied the names as soon as Fanny began to describe the vigorous personal ity of her first bosom friend. She went on to tell of Nella's per-fections, how good she was at games, and how clever at lessons.

"Have you got her likeness?" George, eagerly, and Fanny, with another blush, produced a midget photograph from the inside of her purse.

It represented a girl with long black hair, a delicate profile, and large, fierce eyes—the face, George felt, that ought to have been behind the gauze veil on that eventful morning. that eventful morning. "Isn't she uncommon?" said little

Fanny, with an adoring look.

"Yes, it's uncommon," said George.

He felt as if some strange destiny for them all might be indeed upon the knees of the gods.

The hairy puppy created a diversion by upsetting the basket of primroses, the church clock struck one, and they had to hurry home for luncheon.

There was something that appealed strongly to George in the way that this girl had sought the relief of expression, through the wild travesty of the actual

The story possessed him as his imaginations were wont to do. He dreamed grotesque endings to it, but "The Scourging Fire" remained, like other masterpieces, a fragment. He dreamed, or he imagined, the bridegroom, like the wild huntsman galloping with the stolen bride through the snow the stolen bride through the snow. And he himself, a great winged angel, swooping down upon them like an eagle and bearing her away. And then dream fashion, his personality changed, and he was struggling with the angel, wrestling with him, for he know not what, but he felt the stress and and strain of an awful struggle, without a sense of humor, was quite without the fear of making himself ridiculous, which controls the actions of ordinary youths. He was also extremely inquisitive.

Fanny was quite ready to tell him that "My Queen" and her aunt, Miss Wynne, lived in a house near Chiswick, called "The Chestnuts." Longhurst Longhurst was within easy reach of London, and George had already leave to go up to George stared at her, but failed to meet her eyes; they were restless and roving.

"I'm sure," she continued, "that you have come about the bazar entertain-ment. You want me to recite, don't you? But don't you think—don't you honestly think—I'm getting too old?" She laughed, as if challenging a contradiction.

"I've got a little touch of indigestion" stomach feels a little out of sorts." It is just such little things which if neg-lected mean the total loss of health.

The one medicine for disorders and diseases of the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It increases the activity of the whole digestive and nutritive system, clears away obstructions, stops the loss the body sustains by undigested or partly digested food, purifies the blood from the poisons resulting from imperfect digestion, and increases the secretions of the blood-making glands, "Golden Medical Discovery" has a wonderful record of cures of socalled "hopeless" cases.

You instructed me to take a course of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which I am now doing. Although unable to strictly follow directions I have derived more actual benefit from the few bottles I have taken so far than from all the other remedies together.

ake a Little Honey

Discourse Delivered in Chapel Street Congregational Church, Southport, England, by Adam Scott.

esis, xliii., 11.

For the second time Jacob is sending his sons down to Egypt to buy corn, and he tells them to take a present to the governor of that land, part of which was to be "a little honey." The commodity, it would seem, was often given as a present in the old time. King Jeroboam told his wife to take a cruse of it to the prophet Abijah when she went to intercede with him on behalf of their son, Ahijah, who was sick. Like leaven, however, is was not to be offered in sacrifice, perhaps because it formed part of idolatrous oblations. But it was regularly presented to the priests for their own use.

In far-off days sugar was not known. The Greeks and Romans, we are informed, knew it but vaguely. Theophrastus, Greek moralist and naturalist, refers to it as "honey in reeds." which, it appears, the crusaders brought into Europe. The cane we find growing in Cyprus in the twelfth century, whence it was transplanted to Madeira. But it was not until about five centuries later that the process of refining was discovered, the discoverer being a Venetian. Sugar is thus a comparatively late commodity.

Honey was the sugar of the olden time, and one attraction of Canaan was that it flowed with it. Which was true, for the land swarmed with bees, and as the branches of trees every-where were laden with natural hives the honey dropped from these and flowed along the ground. But Palestine is not the only honey land. Like corn, the sweet sustainer seems to be a special gift of God to men, and there is no country where it may not be cultivated in immense quantities. Authorities as-sert that flowers and plants of all lands are honey-producing, and of no country is this truer than of England.

And the bee lives, is nourished, and gathers the honey without any impoverishment of the products of nature upon which it feeds. We read of a Yorkshire yokel who one day trampled to death as many of the busy little creatures as he could, and purposed bringing out his horse-roller to his clover-field that the work of destruction might be more effectively done. But he was ignorant of the part these good creatures of God play in nature. He did not know that honey in the flower is a kind of volatile oil which is constantly passing into the atmosphere by evaporation, and which accordingly, if not gathered by the busy bee, wastes its sweetness on the air. If bees collect the contents of a flower in the morning, a second visit in the afternoon will find it full again of the luscious delicacy. Flowers, like dows, bear milking thrice a day. Thus does Providence provide not only in the corn "the staff of life," but in "the flowers that grow between," one of the richest and sweetest dainties in wonderful abundance.

was an awful thing to make them mar-ry, awfully rough on that poor fellow. Of which we should carry about with us wherever we go, which we should give to humble as well as to great folk. There is honey for the sweetening of the soul as there is for the sweetening of the palate, which has as its constituents humility, gentleness and sympathy. Where these are you have the compound of pleasantness, the constant manifestation of which quite as much a duty as the practice of purity, integrity, or faithfulness. This, however, is not always apprehended or appreciated.

Emerson says: "I find the Englishman to be him of all men who stands firmest in his shoes. man They have in themselves what they value in their horses — mettle and dash." Now, mettle and dash are brave qualities, but they want for their setting off a kindly bearing. The body, in its fearful and wonderful creation, is adapted to carry sweetness. as the bee is to carry its honey, and to express it in an endless variety of ways. Man is, as said a sage, a laughing animal, and in the possession of the power of laughter he is lifted above the beasts. The parrot can be taught to speak, but he cannot smile, and a sunny smile or a hearty laugh will sometimes act upon one's fellow, sick or sore through ill-treatment, or disappointment, as a remedial medi-cine or bracing tonic. The light of the sun is sweet, and so is the human eye when love has lit it up. It is but at long distance that the brilliant orb of day is veiled with darkness, and 'black looks' on our part should be a very exceptional thing. We are intended to brighten the lives of others as the sun brightens day by day the face of nature. To be rude is to conduct oneself contrary to his creation. God meant us to be gentlemen and gentle-women. Wherever we go his will is that we take with us a little honey. There is," says the eminent American I have quoted, "a best way of do-ing everything," and one's quest should be to find it, and one's purpose when found to practice it.

"Manners are the happy way of doing things, each one a stroke of genius or of love, now repeated and hardened into usage." Now this spirit of sweetness has to be cultivated in childhood. The first command on the manward side of the law is significantly: "Honor thy father and mother." It is in filial honor, felt and expressed from infantile days, that the quality of a sweet graciousness has its root, from which it grows and branches out into all sections of social life.

A CONVERSION TO GOOD MAN-

NERS. Show me one who, as child and youth, henored father and mother, and I shall see in him the true gentleman unless he unhappily has fallen from his first estate, which in this matter does fortunately happen but very seldom. If the grace in one's early days has been neglected, then what is wanted is a conversion to good manners, and for this, as for all other aspects of life's culture, the grace of God is sufficient. The command of the Lord is that we carry about with us "a disparsed in kindly little honey" to be dispensed in kindly speech and deed. We are "to speak the truth in love;" return "the soft answer;" be "gentle towards all men." And as our Lord has thus ordained that we should scatter about us the sunshine, and here, there and everywhere drop sweetness around, so has he in nature set us the example. And what God has done for us in nature, he has far transcended in the gift of his son. Christ came to make us good, but also glad. He was the faithful and true witness, the hater of all wrong.

. . a little honey."-Gen- | yet how winsome, in graciousness and sympathy, his bearing day by day. "The bruised reed he did not break, the smoking flax he did not quench." The glory of God shone in his face, and it was the glory of a sweet and sympathetic love. He extolled what the ancients despised—humility, and elevated it into a chief and essential virtue. He gave us his new commandment, that men should love one another even as he loved them. From him is to be learned the true art and manner of life. He died to make us good, and our goodness has no "finish" unless we are characterized in measure by that divine deportment which is caught from communion with him, and which consists in the love which "is not puffed up, and doth not be-have itself unseemly." To walk with him is to scatter joy and to soothe suf-fering. To be "in him" is to have born and bred in us those fine feelings that are careful not to wound, and have their happy exercise in contributing to the happiness of others. Both in "na-ture" and in "grace" God calls upon us, to take with us "a little honey' for the sweetening of others' lives. THE POWER OF SWEETNESS.

Now, in the next place, I want to point out that sweetness is a great and effective power. Gentleness is greatness, and those who have a pleasant way are the movers and masters of men. Love has a peerless potency. By coercion you can change a custom, but by a gracious persuasiveness you can change and carry captive the human heart. Manners not only make the man, but often his way for him. Surgeons succeed not always in proportion of their skillfulness but quently from having "a good bedside manner." Manners make or mar men in their professional life. The can-didate for some coveted position, who shows a gentle breeding, has a clear advantage over his competitors who are without it. Politeness is power. One may be destitute of beauty, unable to say smart things, and have no manner of brilliancy, yet if free from irritability and ill manners his company will be coveted and his personal influence weigh well. It is wonderful how far a little wholesome good humor or reasonableness and the learning of contentment in whatever estate we are will go. There are difficult junctures in life to be got through only by the dispensing of "a little honey." I am told there is a gate on a road somewhere in the Highlands which is always kept locked. When a traveler approaches it a little girl comes out of the cottage by it and stands with key in her hand, but turns not about the lock until he says, "If you please."
"Suaviter in modo" opens many a barred gate, and if it be not "the way to the stars," it does much to help one in the way to success in this world. It is courtesy, not coercing, that carries the day. Love is mightler than logic, and "the word fitly spoken" the argument that wins.

"A little honey" will work wonders Men stupid and stubborn are often laid hold of and done anything you like with by gentle speech. This is the case in every community, and might I say especially in the church. We ministers often "miss it" from our want of a lit-

SHAM AND GENUINE HONEY. There is, I know, a honied speech that is far from being desirable. All speech that lacks in sincerity is not suitable to the saints. And there is a gushingness that is foolishness and weakness. The false tongue and the artificial are alike to be avoided. But surely we can cultivate a genuine graciousness which, when done, can do for us more than we are likely to exagger-ate. We are to minister to men, and a little honey taken about with us works wonders in making our ministry acceptable. The man of sweetness as well as of light has learned the art of managing men. One man tried to get his Church to adopt unfermented wine. The result was an uproar. Another came; sought the same reformation, and without a dissentient carried his point. To lecture and hector people fails; "to be gentle towards all men," as our apostle enjoins, is the sure way to bring out of them all that is best, and to put into them what will insure the constant overflowing of the soul of what is most serviceable and beautiful.

I have but one other word to say, and it is that for this power of sweetness and sweetening there is no substitute. There is nothing else we can take with us instead of "a little honey," and where it is wanting there is a real deficiency. The honey of which we speak, like natural honey, is of such a nature that a little goes a long way. Salt is good, but too much of it is not. A little is ample. And so it is with honey. Sometimes people are "too sweet," in which case they sicken you. There is needed but "a little honey," only it is always needed. It is not one of life's 'childish things," which are to be put away as the years increase.

It is said that Napoleon, when a boy, showed great affection for his brother

A BRAVE WOMAN. How a Drunken Husband Was Made a Sober Man by a Determined Wife.

A PATHETIC LETTER.

She writes:-"I had for a long time been thinking of trying the Samaria Prescription treatment on my husband for his drinking habits, but I was afraid he would discover that I was giving him medicine, and the thought unnerved me. I hesitated for pearly a week, but one day when he for nearly a week, but one day when he came home very much intoxicated and his week's salary nearly all spent, I threw off all fear and determined to make an effort to save our home from the ruin I saw coming, at all hazards. I sent for your Samaria Prescription and putit in your Samaria Prescription and put it in his coffee as directed next morning and watched and prayed for the result. At noon I gave him more and also at supper. He never suspected a thing, and I then boldly kept right on giving it regularly, as I had discovered something that set every nerve in my body tingling with hope and happiness. and I could see a bright future spread out before me—a peaceful, happy home, a share in the good things of life, an attentive, loving husband, comforts, and everything else dear to a woman's heart, for my husband had told me that whiskey was vile stuff and he was taking a dislike to it. It was only too true, for before I to it. It was only too true, for before I had given him the full course he had stopped drinking altogether, but I kept giving the medicine till it was gone, and then sent for another lot to have on hand if he should elapse, as he had done from his promises He never has, and I am writing ou this letter to tell you how thankful I am. I honestly believe it will cure the worst cases."

Joseph, but when they grew up to manhood this was not so in evidence. The letters that came from France to Joseph in Spain grew cold and formal, and Joseph, feeling it, complained. Whereupon Napoleon wrote: "I am sorry you think you should find your brother again only in the Elysian fields. It is natural that at 40 he should not feel towards you as he did at 12." There is truth in this, yet it is well to keep the child nature in its warmth and sweetness of affection. "A little honey" is needed quite as much in life's maturity as in youth, though it may have to be dispensed differently. We should not grow cold as we grow old, nor yet less sweet as we fall into "the sere and yellow leaf." Amiability is at once the crown and halo of age.

The world is in constant want from each of us of "a little honey." On every side of us there are those that disappointment or difficulty has soured needing to be sweetened; hearts made sick by hope long deferred that a gladsome word will revive; the rebellious against heaven's rule that only a gracious persuading will win back to goodness and So as each time we come into our Father's house (it is in it we find all good stores), may we take from it "a little honey," and with it exercise this blessed ministry.

Do not anticipate trouble or worry about what may never happen. Keep in the sunlight.—Franklin.

A ROMANTIC HONEYMOON

Spent by . Young Couple in Yukon-Took Out $343,000 in Gold.

Honeymoon trips do not, as a rule, extend so far afield as the Klondike, but a young French-Canadian couple, Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Picotte, who arrived at the Queen's Hotel last evening from Dawson City, have just had a taste of the experience, and as they declare themselves to have been delighted with it, they may be followed by others. The conditions of transportation are now fairly pleasant, and to Mr. Picotte's better half the journey had all the charm of novelty.

Mr. Picotte is a native of St. Remi, who left his home some ten or a dozen years ago, to seek his fortune, and eventually when Klondike became the rage, found his way to the Yukon. He struck it pretty rich, and after spending last winter in Dawson City he came home in the spring and married a young lady from Maisonneuve. In June the happy couple left Montreal for a point about seventeen miles beyond Dawson City. This was the location of Picotte's famous 17 olaim on Eldorado Creek, and although the bridal party got along quite comfortably to Dawson City, the young lady had to foot it the last seventeen miles. They spent a forinight in the vicinity of Dawson, and then turned their faces homeward, Mr. Picette transacting, of course, a good deal of business during his short sojourn in the Yukon. He had forty men working; all winter at No. 17 Ekdorado, and aithough he did not boast about it, it is evident that this is one of the most valuable pro-perties in the Kiondike.

Only 175 feet out of the 400 feet claim have so far been worked over, yet Mr. Picotte paid no less than 334,000 of royalty during the present year, the gross product of this one claim being $943,000. He admitted last evening ewning half of this property, and added that he was also interested in Nos. 14 and 24 on Bonenza Croek, which have not yet been very extensively worked. He says, however, that working expenses are very high, his men being paid at the rate of $1 per hour, a day being from seven to ten hours. Wood, also, is very high, Mr. Picotte having purchesed 500 cords just before he left the last time at the rate of $12 per cord, and he says it will be much higher a little later

Mr. Picotte has purchased machinery to the value of $10,000, and this will be on the Eldorado claim in the autumn. This plant includes some laborsaving appliances.-Montreal Herald.

-Woodstock Sentinel-Review: success of young Davis, the amateur detective in the Winnipeg bank robbery case (a nephew of ven. Archdeacon Davis, of South London), is another illustration of the fact that the modern newspaper is the best training school in the world for detectives. The history of crime has shown a thousand times over during this generation that the most successful detectives are newspaper reporters. Young Davis comes of a newspaper family, and has evidently the newspaper instinct for "getting onto" things. His father and brothers, who are well-known newspaper men, are no doubt proud of him, while the old-fashioned detectives of the country are green with envy.

The invitation was from the united commercial bodies of London. The plan suggested is for the Clevelanders to spend the early part of the day in London, and then to go together to Port Stanley for an afternoon of pleasure and speech-making, the affair to take on an interesting international character. It is expected that a hundred of the members of the Cleveland Exchange, besides the ladies, will go on the outing trip."

The city reception committee was to have met last night to consider matters regarding the reception of the Cleveland Builders' Exchange, but owing to the absence of several members the meeting was not held. Arrange-ments have, however, been completed for giving the visitors a royal welcome and pleasant outing.

MRS. ROBERT SULLY. Stratford Herald: Mrs. Robert Sully died at the home of her son-in-law, Mr. Robert Kennedy, Church street, on Friday night, at the age of 88 years. The deceased lady was born in county Kerry, Ireland, and came to Canada with her brother, settling in London in the early forties. About 52 years ago she was married to Mr. Sully, who predeceased her about four years ago. For many years her husband farmed in Nissouri township, where her son, Robert, now resides. About ten years ago Mrs. Sully went to live with her daughter, Mrs. Robert Kennedy, of Downie, and removed with them to Stratford about two years ago. Mrs. Sully was a member of the Roman Catholic Church, and was respected and beloved by a wide circle of friends.

The Standard Oil Company have completed and shot their first well on the Backus farm, Dutton. It proved to be by far the best well yet. The oil raised in the tubing to the height of 165 feet, the largest showing in any of the previous wells being 125 feet. Oil men say the indications are very promising.

Galt Reporter: Mr. John Moore's hop yards at Preston will not yield a very large crop this season. The very cold winter killed many of the plants, while those that were hardy enough to survive now look as if they were only convalescent from a severe attack of tuberculosis.

James McRae, son of Wm. McRae, north of Dutton, went on the roof of the barn to patch some leak hole that he had noticed after the rain. The roof was slippery, and the young man slid off, falling a distance of about 20 feet on the hard clay ground, resulting in a bad shaking-up and a broken leg.

A few days ago Col. Thompson, of Waterford, was wheeling to Port Dover, when about one mile from his destination he collided in the dark with a young farmer by the name of Mac-pherson. Both men were seriously injured, and required the immediate care of a physician. Col. Thompson had his jaw dislocated, and besides received a cut over his left eye, which required several stitches.

The drought over part of Howard and Orford continues, and is rapidly assuming a serious aspect. In addition to the beans and corn being badly damaged, the pasture lands are burning up, and the question of feed for stock will be a tough proposition to many farmers. No rain to speak of has fallen for weeks on part of the territory affected.

Farmer's Wife Attacked and Has an Exciting Encounter.

Painesville, Aug. 15.-Mrs. Williams, wife of Edward Williams, a farmer, living near Little Mountain, was attacked the other day by a wounded eagle, which she finally succeeded in killing after an exciting encounter.
She had gone into a pasture field short distance from the house to pick blackberries. The field was thickly blackberries. covered with bushes, and was close to a large wood. Mrs. Williams had been picking for some time, when she came suddenly upon the eagle, which was injured in one wing, and unable to fly.
Mrs. Williams did not see the eagle caused by the resignation of Miss Kin-seley, teacher of mathematics, has been to run, and as she did so the huge bird sprang after her, striking fiercely at her dress with its talons. Mrs. Williams was blinded for a moment by the flapping wings, but succeeded in grasping a good-sized stick and beating off the eagle, killing it with a well-directed blow on the head. Her dress in front was torn to shreds, but except for a long scratch on the arm she escaped uninjured.
