Prescriptions without one mistake-

That's our record in 12 years. Our dispensing business is growing larger every day. This growth is due, not alone to the fact that we never make mistakes -physicians know, and our curtomers know, that we use only the best and purest drugs, and that every article is fresh and of full strength. This department has our personal care and attention every day and every evening. We buy in large quantities, and get the lowest prices and the highest discounts. This saves us a lot of money, and we divide the savings with you. Open on Sundays for dispensing

TOPICS OF TALK IN OLD LONDON

This Continent's Elections Excite Much Interest.

Queen Victoria the Friend of the Horse.

She Puts a Veto on the Practice of " Docking."

Prince of Wales Takes to Eye-Glasses-"Lancet" on Tobacco - Capt. Mayne Reid's Widow Feels the Pinch of Poverty.

[Special Cable Letter.]

London, Nov. 10.-The elections in the United States and Canada held the Interest of Great Britain throughout the week to an unprecedented extent. Mr. McKinley's re-election meets with ery. almost unanimous approval of the press and public, while the foreign office expresses undisguised relief that it will not have to deal with a new set of diplomats in this critical stage of affairs in the Far East and in other parts of the world.

GROWTH OF IMPERIALISM. Among the columns of comments apmon to all an expression of surprise at the return to power of the existing governments of Great Britain, the United States and Canada, and rightly or wrongly the deduction is drawn that this reversal of the usual order of things is due to the wondrous growth of "imperialistic ideas" among English-speaking peoples.

BULLER'S RETURN. Amid this unusually keen appreciation of events occurring on the American continent, the return of Gen. Buller excites only a faint ripple of enthusiasm. The sobriquet, "Ferryman," is too fresh in the public mind to allow the complimentary references now made to him to have much force, though he will be the object of many demonstrations.

DELAGOA BAY RAILWAY AWARD. The ancient controversy on the subject of the Delagoa Bay Railway award should at last be settled with hard cash next week. Communica-tions are still passing on the subject between Washington and London, but only one minor point remains unsettled, and this should not prevent the bondholders from receiving their money in a few days.

THE 'PINO JUNTA. other international matter likely to come up between the United States and Great Britain is the suggestion to suppress the Filipino Junta at Hong Inquiries reveal that no instructions have yet been received at the United States embassy to this end, though should the United States ambassador be instructed to apply for suppression of the Junta it is likely his request will be granted. THE QUEEN A FRIEND OF THE HORSE. Those who have long agitated against the docking of horses' tails have won ı great victory. The Queen, in sending out an order that none of her horses be treated in that way, also announced that she had persuaded the Prince of Wales to follow her example. With royalty taking up such a vigorous stand it is likely that the docked norse will soon be as rare in London as full-tailed horses are at present.

THE PRINCE'S "SPECS." Another startling change in appearance is the Prince of Wales wearing eyeglasses. The future king has long enjoyed good eyesight, but now, on the advice of an eminent oculist, he has had recourse to this fashionable form of spectacles. They are selected the best obtainable lenses, are framed in tortoise shell, and form an altogether elaborate addition to the royal countenance.

THE LANCET ON TOBACCO. Lord Roberts' recommendation that the returning soldiers be welcomed with gifts of tobacco instead of liquor, calls out a singular indorsement from the Lancet, which declares that tobacco, used with due moderation, is second only in value to food itself in the case of men enduring long labors and short rations. CAPT. MAYNE REID'S WIDOW. The widow of Capt. Mayne Reid, U. S. A. (author of "The Rifle Rangers," "Scalp Hunters," etc.) has been discovered in a poverty-stricken condition, in spite of the popularity his novels once achieved. The widow is a daughter of Mr. George Hyde, who claimed be related to the first Earl of HISTORIC CHURCH IN DECAY. Holy Trinity Church, situated close of Washington's ancestor's tomb bearing a coat of arms which is supposed to be the origin of the Stars and Stripes, is threatened with destruction unless £200 is subscribed for its repair. What makes the church of interest to Americans is the tablet erected to the memory of Col. Legge, who married Eliza Washington, died in 1670, surmounted by the Wash-ington arms, consisting of five alter-nating bars of red and white, acove which are five pointed red stars. These, it is said, suggested to George Washington the American national flag.

AMERICAN COMPETITION. The latest discovery of successful American enterpilse in England is in the boot and shoe trade. Duily the American article is gaining headway. One agent, after three years' work, got 1,200 large customers, his turnover this year amounting to many thousands of pounds. According to the Dally Mail the ability of the American firms to compete so successfully is chiefly due to the superiority of the American lasts, which are modeled on the human foot, and also the large outputs of well regulated factories, in which work is done by the piece in-stead of on time, as prevails in Great There is no concealing the fact that Britain, with the very latest machin-

Mr. F. F. Proctor, of New York, has been in London for some weeks, invespearing in the journals there is com- tigating the possibilities of the introduction here of continuous performances. BOY RODE CAR FREE

Conductor Couldn't Collect a Nickle and He Was Atraid to Put Him Off.

The street car conductor had a pained, weary look on his face as he returned to the rear end of the car and sorted out two bad nickels and a plugged dime which had been passed him in the semi-twilight

'What's the matter with you?" asked the red-haired man standing upon the platform. "Well," said the conductor, "I found

"Well." continued the conductor. "that freckled-faced boy is big enough and old enough to pay fare. I know it. His mother knows it. Everybody in that end of the car knows it. "I worked my way down the aisle toward her end of the car, collecting

"'What for?' says she.
"'For the boy.' says I. 'He's too old to ride free, and he's too old to ride half fare.'

"Well. I insisted on having my fare, and finally pulled the rope and stopped the car.

> He Will Accept No Proffered Seat in Parliament.

Hon. Hugh John Macdonald Accuses the Prohibitionists of Going Back on Him in Brandon-Says He Will Not Re-Enter Local Politics.

Montreal, Nov. 10 .- Sir Charles Tupper announces his retirement from politics. When he arrived here yesterday he found offers from a number of the newly-elected Conservatives to resign in his favor, but Sir Charles was firm in the declaration that under no circumstances, even if offered a seat by acclamation, would he consent to re-enter political life. moved," said Sir Charles, "by these expressions of good will, but my decision is final. For four years I have worked in season and out of season for the good of the party, to the best of ability. I have shortened my life by the privations incident to cam-paign work. My friends and colleagues in the house are good enough to say very kind things about me and that work. They are too considerate but I thank them cordially for the ex-

"In the quiet of my home-life I will not be an indifferent spectator of public events. I will take the greatest pleasure in seeing the Conservative party now united to a man, in its place in the house and before the country waging the battle by younger men, full of vigor, hope and endurance, and having behind them a good cause, the securing for the people of Canada of wise legislation, righteous laws and fair play to all creeds and nationali-ties. As I step out of public life I am proud to be able to say that I never used nor countenanced the using of any but one policy in each and all the provinces. I defy any man to say that I have ever reflected upon cences. It is instanced that when any nationality or done other than "Patience" was first produced at the help to cement the bond of union between all the races, as Canadians with a common heritage and a common future. God forbid that there should be anything but peace and good-will throughout the Dominion. There is a great future for the Conservative party, and its future has not at any time in four years looked as bright as today.'

A bystander said, at these words: "That is very generous of you, Sir Charles, as you are quitting public life, to give to the new men a message so full of hope.

DECISION IRREVOCABLE When he reached the Conservative rooms in the Standard Chambers there was a large number of prominent Conservatives waiting to express their sympathy and the hope that he would change his decision. To all these Sir Charles bowed his acknowledgments, and said: "Gentlemen, with all seriousness, this relief from public life is a boon, the greatest I have enjoyed for years. Remember my age. The party would not listen to the idea of my resigning; I could not insist upon doing so against a united protest. And now the good people of Cape Breton county have given me the opportunity. I made no great effort to win Cape Breton, for I felt my duty to my party was to be in the fight, to help my supporters rather than to concentrate my efforts upon one seat. I was in the county only four days. I have nothing but what is pleasant to say of the electors of Cape Breton, and at this moment, as I leave the arena, my heart goes out to all Canada in the hope that peace and prosperity may

HON. HUGH JOHN'S STATEMENT. Winnipeg, Nov. 9 .- Hon. Hugh John Macdonald, accompanied by Mrs. Macdonald, has returned from Brandon. He expressed regret at the failure of the Opposition to carry the country, and at the defeat of its leaders. While admitting the courage shown by Mr. Foster and Sir Charles Tupper in attacking the very strongest position of the government, he realized that their loss to the party would be severely feit, but hoped they would obtain seats elsewhere. "I am proud to see," said Mr. Macdonald to a reporter, "that Ontario has spoken so plainly against the broken pledges and corrupt practices of the Laurier Administration. It gave a splendid majority for us, and succeeded in entering a strong protest against the government, even in the face of its overwhelming attempt to carry it with money and patronage. Ontario is to be congratulated on having spoken so plainly against a party that has broken every pledge it ever gave to the people of this country. I am proud that Ontario has upheld the honor of Canada." "What about the prohibition vote?" Mr. Macdonald was asked. BLAMES THE PROHIBITIONISTS. "I am sorry to say that, judging from this election, what is commonly called the prohibition vote, is a myth. I am afruid that the men who talk prohibition are first Liberals or Conservatives, then after that prohibitionists. The result has proved that there is no such thing as a purely prohibition vote. I believe the result also means a setback for prohibition, from which it will not recover within the next twenty years. Politicians are only human, we only learn by experience, and they are so human that my experience will teach them not to sacrifice themselves for the sake of a party which deserts them at the polis. The liquor men know where they stand, and no liquor man will sacrifice his interests simply because it is his party which is doing it. The trouble is, the prohibitionists vote with their political party, and the liquor men, both Conservative and Libvote and work against the party which favors probibition. In the future the prohibitionists may thank themselves if neither of the great political parties consent to take up their cause. Mr. Macdonald expresses his intention of resuming law practice and says he will not re-enter politics. MR. TARTE'S VIEW. Ottawa, Nov. 9.-Hon. J. I. Tarte returned to Ottawa this morning, and received the congratulations of hundreds of his friends. He pointed out that the race and religious cry in the Province of Quebec had nothing to do with the result in the campaign. "To support my statement, I need only point to the choice of sixteen English-speaking Protestants in Quebec. The press say that Laurier won among his own people because he was a French-Canadian, but the facts, as I have stated them, are there for anyone to see. Why, the election alone of Mr. Loye against Mr. Bergeron, one of the Tory leaders, is itself sufficient ence of the province from which I

OSHKOSH, WIS., SEPT. 22, 1900. Warner's Sa'e Cure Co., Rochester, N. Y.:

Gentlemen,—Eight years ago I suffered greatly with kidney trouble. I consulted several physicians but their medicines did me no good. A friend of mine in the drug business suggested that I try Warner's Safe Cure. I followed the suggestion, and after using a couple of bottles I noticed a slight improvement. I continued its use for about 18 months, and am happy to say that it completely cured me. I have waited several years before giving this testimonial in order to see if my cure was permanent. come. The result achieved is a fearful lesson to the Conservative party, and one of which we can be justly proud. The people of Quebec support the Liberal Government because it is a good and progressive government, and has done so much to bring about the great prosperity which is everywhere so evident throughout the province." Mr. Tarte expressed heartfelt regret that the shortness of the campaign had not permitted him to appear more frequently in Ontario, in order to disa-buse the minds of the electors of the gross misrepresentations about himself, which, he feared, had injured the prospects of many good friends of the Sarnia, Nov. 9.—The most hotly-con-tested election in the annals of West Lambton has been fought and won by the Reform standard-bearer, Mr. T. G. MR. CLANCY'S ELECTION. Chatham, Nov. 9 .- First reports announced Mr. D. A. Gordon, the Liberal candidate, elected by about 150 majority, but later returns changed it into a defeat, and the probability is that Mr. James Clancy will again sit for Both-well. The result in Bothwell as regards Mr. Clancy's majority is still in doubt, but the return of the old member is confirmed. As near as reports bear out, Mr. Gordon received majori-ties in Wallaceburg, Camden and Thamesville, reaching about 240. But Zone, Bothwell town, Dawn, Dresden, Sombra and Chatham township are reported to have given Mr. Clancy majorities. There has been great difficulty in getting returns from outlying sections of Kent and Bothwell.

ELECTIONS IN NEWFOUNDLAND

The Liberal Party Well Sustained-Only One Opposition Candidate Elected.

Halifax, Nov. 9 .- A special from St. Johns, Nfld., to the Chronicle, says: "The Reid-Morine party will likely be annihilated politically. So far only one member has been elected for them, in Brigus district, while the Liberals have thirteen. Bay de Verde, formerly a Tory stronghold, returns two Liberals, Habor Main does likewise. In Carbonear, Maddock, Liberal, defeats Powell, Reid's surveyor, by a quadrupled majority. Ferryland, formerly half-Tory, gives two Liberuls, and both Morineite candidates lost their de-posits in St. John's East. The three Morineites lose their deposits in St. John's West, and three Morineites will likely do the same in Harbor Main. Morine's men will barely poll onethird of the vote. Morris, Premier Bond's lieutenant, will probably poll the largest majority in St. John's West ever given in the colony.

Twenty-two seats are yet unreported, but it is likely that the Reid-Morineites will be unable to get more than eight or ten seats. The aggregate vote of the country shows an immense majority for Premier Bond. MacKay, who carried Brigus for Reid, had his majority reduced from 515 to 54.

The following members are elected: Ferryland—Cashine and Ryan, Lib-Carbonear-Maddock, Liberal, majority. Harbor Main-Morris and St. John, Liberals Bay de Verde-Woods and Knight. Harbor Grace—E. Dawe, Liberal. have been consumed. The fire was Brigus—MacKay, Tory, 54 majority. still burning furiously at daybreak.

THE TURF. AT NEW YORK.

New York, Nov. 9.—A track ankledeep in mud, and a cold, bleak wind, made the conditions most unfavorable for racing at the Aqueduct today. The attendance was light and confined chiefly to the regulars. Three favor-ites were successful—Belle of Orleans galloping home easily in the first, when Lady Contrary swerved in the stretch; Himself, who made his field look cheap in the second, and Minor Daly in the fifth, who came up strong in the last few strides. The other winners were: Rochester, at 9 to 2, in the third; Charentus, at 6 to 1, in the fourth, and Charawind, at 7 to 1, in the last race. The fourth race, a handicap, at 1 mile and 70 yards, was the feature of the day. King Barleyoorn was the favorite, with King Bramble a strong sec-ond choice, but both were in the ruck at the end. To a bad start Charentus got off two lengths in front, and Shaw. taking full adventage, kept him there to the end, winning, ridden out, one-half length from Greyfeld, who was a heck before Herbert. King Bramble ran second to the head of the stretch, but then he stopped, and Herbert and Greyfeld, both off badly, went on and fought at out with Charentus. First race, selling, 5½ furlongs—

The Gerrymander Must Go.

The shrewd Minister of Trade and Commerce does well to point out that to the gerrymander-that atrocious device of the Conservative Government to secure a majority of seats with a minority of the votes-must such advantage as the Opposition has secured in Ontario be traced.

There can be no mistake on this score, as anyone will see who contrusts the conditions as they existed before the perpetration of this outrage with the result obtained in the election on Wednesday last.

The gerrymander, though undertaking to provide but for two absolutely necessary changes, interfered with the boundaries of over forty ridings in Ontario, and played a game of battledore and shuttlecock in the constitutiencies. The whole endeavor was to kill Liberal votes and give an untair value to Conservative votes.

What we are now interested in is how far this gerrymander interfered with a fair expression of public opinion. It is true that in Wednesday's election, as in some previous contests, local or personal influences so acted as to enable Liberal candidates to secure seats in constituencies gerrymandered to give an unfair advantage to the Conservative candidates. This was the case in Haldimand, Monck, Welland, North Bruce, West Middlesex, West Northumberland and South Welling-

The following sixteen seats were lost to the Liberals because of the gerrymander: East Lambton, North Middlesex, North Perth, Center Wellington, North Wellington, Bothwell, Wentworth, North Lanark, Brockville, South Ontario, North Ontario, Muskoka, East Simcoe, South Norfolk, West Peterboro, South Grey, In ungerrymandered East Middlesex, the Liberals would have fair prospects of success, while the specially established Liberal "hives," South Middlesex and West Ontario, would be dissolved, their very large Liberal majorities going to the ridings to which they legitimately belong, and thus aiding in returning Liberal members.

The intention of the gerrymander, as Hon, Edward Blake pointed out when the scandalous measure was before Parliament, was to provide that but 10 out of 30 seats in Ontario should the fair proportion, observing county boundaries, would be at least 18.

How well the gerrymander has worked for the Opposition is shown by these comparative tables: Number of members returned in gerrymandered constituencies:

Conservatives 51 Independent 1 Two seats to be polled 2

Only by the aid of the gerrymander, therefore, has the defeated Conservative leader escaped as signal a condemnation in Ontario as was meted out to him in other Provinces.

Sir Charles Tupper Retires.

Sir Charles Tupper announces his intention of retiring from public life. In the case of a man of 80 years, this decision will not be a surprise, especially after the result of the recent general election. While we cannot uphold the methods of Sir Charles Tupper, his utter defeat both in the country and in his own constituency renders it unnecessary at this time to dwell on his political defects. Fighting hard and stubbornly, traversing our wide Canadian continent and speaking constantly, he has shown a vinn and vigor quite unusual in a man of his years. The most poignant element in his rethement from public life and leadership will be the prompt willingness of the Conservative party to receive his resignation. He has had his day. Who will succeed? Not Tupper, jun.

Not Hugh John Macdonald. The most outstanding men for the leadership are Sir Mackenzie Bowell, Mr. Clarke Wallace, Mr. W. F. McLean, and Mr. Foster. Sir Mackenzie, like Sir Charles Tupper, has had his day, Hugh John Macdonald is a Mght-weight. Mr. Clarke Wallace is not without both vigor and ability, and he is known to be ambitious, but he would hardly command the composite support necessary. Mr. McLean is quite a fighter. Mr. Foster is probably the likeliest to be made leader. He is a fine speaker, and industrious. His defect is a certain coldness of temper and a tendency to disputatious acridity over unimportant things, while sometimes overlooking the weightier matters of the law. However, to do Mr. Foster justice, he appears to be the best man in sight for the Opposition leadership. He would, at all events, fill the vacancy very respectably until some Conservative of strong ability, tact and breadth of view is thrown up.

This is not a matter of importance to the Conservative party alone. If an efficient Opposition is a necessary part of our system of government, the leadership of the Conservative party is a matter of importance to the country at large. The Conservative party of the past is now a mass of ruins. Sir John Macdonald is long dead. Sir Charles Tupper has retired. Probably the best thing the Conservatives could do. meantime, is to make Mr. Foster leader until a stronger man comes to the

W. F. McLean, M.P., Wants a Convention.

The Toronto World, whose editor, W. F. McLean, M.P., aspires to the leadership of the Conservative party, talks out as follows:

"Ontario is the deminant factor in the Conservative party today, and Contarto Conservatives must henceforth essent themselves. The policy of the Conservative party must, for a time at teast, be largely shaped by them. Since Sir John Macdonaid died the policy of the party was made much of it outside of Ontario, and some of it was distasteful to the rank and file of the party in this province. Ontario Conservatives owe it to themselves to get together, to size up the situation, to bluze out a new and straight road, and then to go forward. The Legislature of Ontario must be regenerated and the Ross Government sent to the crematory. But only a caucus of all the Conservatives of Ontario will effect these ends and start the ball rolling in the right direction.'

Our contemporary may be expected to be a little excited for a few days yet. Still, if the Opposition can pull themselves together, all the better. As for Mr. Ross, he has never been beaten

The Montreal Witness, agreeing with the Toronto World that the Conservative party needs reconstruction, goes on to remark: "What the elections have most notably done is to denounce the Tupper machine with its reckless disrespect for any moral feeling in the people, with its puerile methods of appeal to men's selfishness and prejudices as though they had neither reason nor honesty. The verdict does not mean that there is no honesty in the Conservative party. There may be quite as many honest men in it as in the Liberal party. There are no doubt men, some of them still out of parliament perhaps, from among whom leaders can be found who can build up an Opposition to which what is good in the country can attach itself with hope of reform. It means, however, that the machine is rotten and has gone to smash. Any attempt to put that old machine together will be fatal for the party. Only by throwing the whole thing on the junk heap is there any hope of better things."

South of the Lakes.

There is one element in the recent United States elections in which we can rejoice, namely, that what is called "tail twisting" is not such a potent factor as it once was. The people of the United States are quite capable of settling their own Ontario, but this is offset by gains in internal affairs, and they do not need other English-speaking Provinces, to allow the discussion of their foreign relations to be complicated by whelming. HER FLESH WAS NUMB AND DEAD

Remarkable Case of Mrs. Robert Chambers, Bass River, N.S.

After Two Doctors Failed, Milburn's Heart and Nerve Fills Gave Her Back the Use of Helpless Limts and Cured Her of Weakness and Dizzy Spells.

No remedy has ever presented such a record of severe cases that have been cured by its use as Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. This time we give an acount of the cure of Mrs. Robert Chambers, Bass River. Colchester country N. B., case was of a peculiar nature, that defied the skill of two good physicians. This is the statement she herself

"I can hardly recommend Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills too highly for the good they have done me. For nearly a year I suffered from severe pains in my head, hands and feet. My flesh was all numb and dead. I tried .two doctors, but they seemed to do me no good. A friend of mine sent me a book about Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and I saw how much good they had done others so I thought I would try them. I got a sample box first, then purchased three boxes and now am cured completely.

"For more than a fortnight before I started using the pills I had to creep around the house and took dizzy and fainting spells, and often had to be led to the door to get my breath. I could not sleep well and often would wake up thinking I was smothering.

"Now I can walk anywhere and have good use of my feet and hands and can do my own work. The color has come back to my face and I feel in better health than I have for many

Mr. 'McGugan's (Liberal) Majority, 756, Which is 16 More Than Last Time.

Pending the formal declaration in South Middlesex, we may say meantime that Mr. McGugan's full majority is 756, or 16 more than in 1896. The majorities were as follows: Caradoc, 281; Lobo, 246; Westminster, 223; South London, 4; Delaware, 2.

POLITICAL POINTS

Center Wellington gives Mr. Mc-Gowan (Con) 251 majority Addington-Mr. Bell (Con.) has 519 majority, with five polls to hear from, which will probably slightly reduce the majority. Westminster, final, Mr. Morri-

"A CAVALIER OF FRANCE."

"A Cavalier of France" is a most picturesque play. The period of the play is one of the most romantic in the world's history. France always was and, in fact, still is a land of poetry and flowers. Buring the reign of Henry III, the spirit of adventure was rampant, every court gailant fought for his particular lady love, and defended his name and hers with his good sword. The scenery has been especially built for this play, the costumes made by New York's most fam-ous costumier, guaranteeing a per-formance that will be the delight of everyone fortunate enough to procure seats, for today's matinee and night. The football players of Peterboro and London will attend the evening performance.

to the house. NO CLEW. Calgary, N. W. T., Nov. 10 .- An inquest held on the body of J. M. Huggard, the rancher, who was murdered on Wednesday night, brought out the facts that robbery was not the object of the murder. Huggard's watch and money were found on his person. No

clew to the murderers. VERDICT AGAINST HOWARD

GOULD. New York, Nov. 10 .- Frank Mowbray, a valet for Howard Gould, son of the late Jay Gould, sued for $25,000 damages for breach of contract, and got a verdict today for $5,000. Mow-bry says Mr. Gould engaged him as valet for life at $80 per month, after he had lost the sight of one eye and sustained other injuries as the result of setting off a damp skyrocket on Mr. Gould's yacht on July 4, 1893, and that he was discharged immediately after the statute of limitations barred a suit for damages on account of the injuries he had received. Mr. Gould declared that he had discharged Mowbray for Consumption. ed for sale.

Now that the excitement of a political campaign has abated, the public can settle down to the consideration of other and no less important questions, and we direct attention to the movement that has been initiated in Landes for the prevention and cure of consumption. The public meeting call-ed for Tuesday evening, Nov. 18, in the City Hall is the outcome of the efforts of some of our citizens physicians and laymen-to awaken the public mind to the importance of this matter, both to the individual and to the community, and we trust there will be a large attendance.

It does not require statistics to prove that no more serious disease exists in any country than consumption. There are few people who have not personal knowledge of this disease and its ravages, either among relatives or friends. The mortality rate for this Province in 1899 was ten in every thousand of the population; and one in every ten deaths was from consumption. Not less than 2,315 people in Ontario alone died from this cause in

The consensus of modern medical opinion is that this is a preventible disease. With proper precaution a large proportion of these deaths might have been prevented. It is worth while trying to save those people who die every year from consumption. It is worth trying to prevent the suffering and misery and bereavement that follow in the wake of this "white plague." It is better to save the life of one resident than to encourage the immigration to this country of two. We spend money to bring people into Canada; let us expend a little surplus energy in trying to preserve the lives of those that are here.

We simply call attention to the matter now, and may discuss later any practical schemes suggested on Tuesday evening. We understand Dr. Bryce, secretary of the Provincial Board of Health, will give an address, and several others will speak. Members of the City and County Councils will be present, and it is possible an association may be organized on the lines of the provincial association which was lately formed for the purpose of stamping out this dread disease in so far as such a result can be accomplished. The matter of establishing a county sanitarium will also be considered-a measure which is now meeting with approval, and is being carried into effect in other countries. No doubt the meeting will be very interesting. We hope it will also be profitable.

Canada and the United States.

Canada is undoubtedly the best thing both for the Canadians and for their neighbors in the United States. The two Governments have several important international questions under nego- dented in this war occurred. tiation, and it is desirable that these negotiations should be carried on and completed without a change of actors or of party politics on either side. The Alaska boundary dispute, the seal fishery question, and other unsettled matters between the two countries may now be brought to a satisfactory conclusion.-Chicago Tribune.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Ottawa, Nov. 10 .- Hon. John Charlton was one of the first to wait on Sir Wilfrid Laurier today to congratulate him on the great victory which his government had obtained. He had a very pleasant interview with the THE REVENUE INCREASES.

The statement of revenue and expenditure of the Dominion for the quarter ending Oct. 31, was issued by the finance department today. The revenue for that period was $17,329,553, an increase of $1,328,872 over the same term last year. The expenditure was $10,148,234, an increase of about $1,000,-000 over the same four months of 1899, making a betterment in the finances for the past quarter of over $300,000.

The was a substantial increase in the revenue of every department of the service for the current year. Deducting the ordinary and capital expenditure from the revenue, there remains a surplus of $5,306,170 for the current

Of the National Sanitarium Association.

The Work Shows Most Gratifying Results ---Interesting Letter From Medical Supt. Elliott, of the Muskoka Coilege.

The annual meeting of the National Sanitarium Association was held on Saturday, Nov. 3, at the National Club. Terento. Among those present were: Sir Wm. Meredith, vice-president, in the chair; W.E.H.Massey, D. E. Thomson, Q.C., Hugh Bain, W. J. Gage, J. J. Craobe, and Mayor Meikle, of Gravenhurst.

The third annual report of the association was presented. The work in the Muskoka Cottage Sanitarium has shown most gratifying results. This institution was opened only three years ago, and already 371 patients have been received, of whom 47 are still under treatment. The great benefits of the system are shown by the following figures: Number discharged apparently cured, 67; with disease arrested, 95; with marked improvement, 78. Generally speaking the patients have not remained long enough to reap the full benefits of the sanitarium; but the average stay has increased each year, and this year amounted to 129 days. With a longer p eriod of treatment, there is no doubt that the results would be still more decided. Local Local physicians frequently advise those entering the institution to remain for a month or six weeks only. By the end of that period the more alarming symptoms may have subsided and the patient leaves the sanitarium before permanent benefit has been obtained. This is one of the adverse conditions which prevents the attainment of re sults toward which the management is steadily aiming.

At the beginning of the hospital year on Oct. 1, 1899, 48 patients were present, and during the year 141 more have been admitted, making a total of 189 on the books. Of these, 43 were from the city of Toronto, 130 from other parts of Ontario, 4 from other provinces of Canada, and 12 from the United States. Out of the total, 122 patients remained in the institution over three months, and of these 109 gained in weight, 6 lost in weight and 7 neither gained nor lost.

The total receipts of the Muskoka Cottage Sanitarium were $19,020. This was made up from amounts received for patients' board, Ontario Government aid, hursing fees, transients' board, etc. The expenditure for the year amounted to over $20,000. Two items in the expenditure show the expensive character of the treatment. viz., butchers' meat, $3,148, and milk $1.263.

The general policy has been to admit ony those whose condition afforded reasonable hopes of cure. For adsonally direct the vigorous military | vanced cases an infirmary is greatly operations to be carried on against the | needed but this cannot be established needed, but this cannot be established without additional financial support. For the same reason the trustees are compelled to delay the opening of a free department for the poor.

The facts recited should appeal to intelligent people everywhere for they speak more eloquently than any special pleading in commending this pioneer enterprise to the benevolence of all large-hearted and philanthropic Canadians.

The greatest harmony and enthusiasm prevailed at the meeting. Lord Strathcona was re-elected president, Sir Wm. R. Meredith vice-president, and W. J. Gage, of Toronto, treasurer. The annual report was condensed to a statement of the bare facts, referring among other things to the short time that has elapsed since tuberculosis was thought to be an incurable malady, the scientific progress that has been made toward its cure, and the general attention to organized effort in most civilized countries. In this connection it is slowly awaking to the significance of the subject. The support and countenance of such well-known clittens. I have a well-known clittens at the Such well-known clittens. I have a well-known clittens at the support and well-known citizens, gives good ground for the hopeful expressions in the report. And here we may add a few extracts from a letter received recently, tracts from a letter received recently, ing in Germany. The writer is Dr. J. H. Elliott, medical superintendent of the Muskoka Cottages, who has been spending a year in Europe to study the methods pursued there. Writing from Nordruch, Oct. 24, he says: "I have worked my way thus far in-to the interior and out of the beaten paths of travel in my visit to the German Sanitaria. I have been in insti-tutions, both large and small, for 50 patients and for 200 patients, some placed in hollows with only a view the extent of the lawn, others with endless variety of mountains, valley and which gives a glimpse of what is do-

river in sight; some with money to back them, others struggling to get along; many which it is a pleasure to live in, and many which is a disgrace to those in charge. I have seen none equal to ours in comfort of the patients, or which is as well adapted for keeping them free from dust, or which have site as excellent as ours. The one part of the German Sanithe extensive plant for lighting, disin-taria which attracts our attention is fection, heating and laundry, and their complete and huge kitchen and kitchen appliances. With many of them more attention has been paid to this part than to the dining-room and to the patients' rooms. All are lighted electricity-a separate machine house for all the plant away from the patients-and have large accommodations for supplying light throughout the night, when necessary, for lighting any dark passages, and for supplying power for laundry plant during the

"Connected with huge pressure boilers is a large disinfecting boiler, a steam chest for disinfecting the mattresses and clothing under superheated steam, a most excellent idea, and something we should have if we have our new power house in the near

"What a time one would have in endeavoring to treat Canadian patients along the same lines as the Germans treat theirs, who pay 2½ to 5 marks per day. The gates are locked, no one is allowed in or out without permission. They are fed on boiled pork, half-cooked ham and vegetables, men and women are never allowed together, and many other minor points. And at 21/2 to 5 marks per day they have to eat off a linoleum-covered pine table, sit on pine chairs or benches, use the cheapest cutlery and thickest possible coffee cups with no handles. But Germans seem accustomed to it. "It is very rare to find a room in a sanitarium with an oiled floor, linoleum seems everywhere in use, both in sick rooms and in the corridors. It is expensive, but wears well. In some of the institutions this is no doubt due to the stringent rule forbidding patients entering the main hallway with their boots on. On entering the doorway, they go into a room on one side and there take off their boots and put on slippers with thick woolen soles for such time as they are inside.

"As for Nordrach-that much-talked of place-there is indeed little to see. It is interesting that they have a mountain stream that gives power for It is interesting lighting, and with two new turbines they have sufficient extra power to utilize electricity for heating some of the rooms. But at $22 50 per week, ing and laundry extra, one should be able to have a good plant, especially with such cheap and poor buildings. From the medical report we clip one short extract, which may serve as a valuable pointer to many who do not expect to go to a hospital: Sanitarium treatment produces its worderful results from the judicious combination of many agencies. The pure air, the dry climate, the strict regularity and the constant outdoor life, the careful supervision of exercise, the restriction of the diet to what is best suited to the patient, the sympathy of numbers all working to the same end—all these are comparatively lost in a boarding-house. . . The average time spent in the open air by the patients of the Gravenhurst Sanitarium varies from 6 to 13 hours per day, according to the season. It is an easy matter-all doing the same thing. During the past winter a number of lectures were given in order that the patients might understand and follow intelligently the instructions that they might further the broader work of the institution in educating the nation to a rational treatment of this disease, thus benefiting, indirectly, many suf-ferers which our limited capacity prevents us from reaching directly. It appears, also from the report, that the cost is only $7 a week to patients, and one cannot help wondering that

Baking Powder Absolutely Pure

Makes hot breakfast-breads wholesome—no yease. germs, no alum. Makes cake, biscuit and pastry of superior fineness, flavor and delicacy. Makes food that will keep moist and sweet. Is most economical, because it is the purest and greatest in leavening strength. In the easy, expeditious preparation of the finer cakes and pastries Royal is indispensable.

> Care must be taken to avoid baking powders made from alum. Such powders are sold cheap, because they cost but a few cents per pound. Not only will they spoil the cake, but alum is a corrosive acid, which taken in food means injury to health.

TORONTO, Nov. 9 .- There was not much change in the conditions of trade at the western oattle market to-Business active in some lines, but dull in others. The demand for choice cattle was good, but the supply Farmers are not anxious to ship now. A great many of them have tied up their cattle, and will leave them for some weeks to get fat. Some cattle will, of course, come forward to fill local wants, and a few exporters will be shipped. Outside of these lines it is not anticipated that there will be heavy offerings for some weeks. Prices of butchers cattle have stiffened a little, but this is the only change of any consequence in quotations. Receipts were 35 loads, including 450 cattle, 1,000 sheep and lambs, 20 calves and 1,000 hogs. Export cattle—There is some call for choice exporters but few are call for choice exporters, but few are offered; buyers seem willing to take all that comes at present prices; there is at this season a rush to get good cat-tle to the other side of the Atlantic, owing to the approaching close of navigation on the St. Lawrence. Shipnavigation on the St. Lawrence. Shippers are therefore in a position to handle more cattle now than later on; prices are steady, at $4 40 to $4 60 per cwt for heavy, and $4 20 to $4 40 for lights; several loads of fine cattle sold today at $4 40 to $4 55 per cwt. Butchers' cattle—All offerings are being taken up, and prices are firmer for medium to good cattle; there is a steady demand for the local trade, which is more active now than it was which is more active now than it was a week ago; choice cattle sell readily, and more are wanted; if in fine condition they would sell at $4 to $4 40 per cwt; good are quoted at $3 50 to $4, medium at $2 50 to $3 25, and common at $2 to $2 50; the offerings today were comparatively light, and only the better grades sold well. Feeders—Only a few were to be had, and trade is quiet; there is no change in quotations, and $3 25 per cwt seems to be the average price of the majority of the cattle sold. Export bulls—One of the largest animals ever seen on this market was sold this morning; it was an export bull weighing 2,350 lbs, and in fine shape; he was sold at $4 871/2 per cwt, and was worth it all; such a price is exceptional; there is a good demand. but it is very seldom that such an animal is offered; the regular quotations are $3 50 to $4 for heavy, and $3 to $3 50 for light. Stockers—Trade dull and prices unchanged; few were offer-the quotations range down to $30. Sheep and lambs—Trade continues active, and good prices are obtained for nearly all the stock offered. The run was heavier than usual today, amounting to 1,000 head, and the market is now well supplied. The only feature was a drop of 121/20 per owt in the price of lambs; the highest quotation for them now is $4 1214; butchers' sheep are also easier, and are selling at $2 50 to $3 each; exed, and they sold slowly; fight are worth $2 25 to $3 per cwt, while off colors and heifers bring $1 75 to $2 25.

Milch cows-No good ones were offered, and the situation is unchanged; good cows are wanted, and the best will bring $55 each; from this figure

YELLOW BOOK'S REVELATIONS

The French Proposals in Regard

Met Opposition From the Other Powers-U. S. Cabinet Discusses Eastern Affairs.

Paris, Nov. 10 .- The Chinese yellow book, which was distributed in pardarch M. Delcasse, the French minwaters, was opposed by a majority of the powers, Lord Salisbury saying that in view of the uncertainty it was ed it would not participate in a naval demonstration, which was contrary to its policy. Count Von Buelow, Gerthan minister of foreign affairs, under date of April 4, also thought the trouble in Shan Tung Province had completely calmed down.

bassador at Washington, under date of April 5, replying to M. Delcasse's inquiry as to the one American vessel with British and German ships, being sent to the Gulf of Pe Chi Li, said the Washington Government thought the growing agitation of the secret societies justified precautions which ought stration of the powers as Minister Conger requested. Secretary Hay thought the fears manifested in China were exaggerated. M. Cambon, on June 8, reported a conversation with Secretary Hay, who said Minister Conger was only instructed to do what was essential to protect American interests. Mr. Conger did not desire to amalgamate his action with that of the European pow-

THE SIEGE OF PEKIN. A long graphic report from M. Pichon, the French minister at Pekin, of the siege of the legations, includes the following extract from his diary: "July 2.—During the night the Americans and Russians captured a barricade, which the Chinese had con-structed a short distance from their own. It was necessary to take it at the point of the bayonet. An American captain was wounded and two marines were killed. The Chinese lost heavily. The proceeding was brilliantly carried out, and does great honor to those who took part in it. This barricade will henceforth be occupied by the Ameri-cans and Russians, and appears to be one of our principal safeguards."

TORTURED, THEN KILLED. Canton, Nov. 9.-The reformer, Szki Nup, the leading man in the anti-dy-nastic party, organized by Sun Inat Sen (who was sentenced to death in connection with the recent Yamer explosion here), was repeatedly tortured in order to extort a confession from him, but he refused to make a state- 2,238,943 in 1890. This is an increase of ment in connection with the explosion. AT WASHINGTON.

Washington, Nov. 10.—Two of the three hours that the session of the cabinet yesterday lasted were occupied in a discussion of foreign affairs. Re-ference was made to the expressions in portions of the European press that the United States policy regarding China would undergo marked change immediately after the election, and it is authoritatively announced that after a most exhaustive review of every step of the Chinese difficulty, from his inception up to the present moment, delivered by Secretary Hay, the cabinet ratified every detail, and moreover, unanimously expressed its judgment that the policy so far pursued should be continued without change to its logical conclusion. Accordingly, the present legation guard at Pekin will be maintained, and such troops as yet remain to be withdrawn, according to the original programme, will be sent

FOUNTAIN OF YOUTH

And Elixir of Lite, the Dreams of the Alchemists and Mistics-Their Modern Equivalent.

Among the many deeply-rooted delusions of the dark ages, none were more widely believed in or sought after than the mysterious fountain of youth, which had power to make old people young again, and the philosopher's stone, which, among other wonderful properties, was reputed to be able to pro-long life indefinitely. The progress of enlightenment and learning has long ago swept away all vestige of belief in these superstitions; but science has brought in their stead more rational and tangible benefits for mankind. Everyone today has the opportunity to prolong life by keeping the body healthy. While the elderly cannot have their youth restored, they can enjoy the health and spirits of youth. The letter given below is irrefutable evi-dence of the truth of this statement. The foods mentioned in it cure and prevent such bodily ills as constipa-tion, indigestion, and kindred troubles. By furnishing strength and vitality to the body they enable the system to throw off and resist the attacks of other diseases. This letter, received by the Battle Creek Sanitarium Health Food Company, 651 Colborne street, is from Mr. T. C. Thornbill, the well-known watchmaker of Talbot street, London: "Dear Sirs,-I consider it a privilege to testify concerning your foods, Gran-ose and Granola. I eat them with relish, and find they give me a condition of health such as I never knew before. I am, through them, a changed person, and I am thankful they were brought to my notice, for my bodily condition and my spirits are today those of a healthy young man. BOYCOTT STOPPED

President Mahon Told Car Men They Were Wrong.

Cigurmakers Strike in New York About Ended-Bishop Potter Before the Industrial Commission.

Detroit, Nov. 10 .- W. D. Mahon, international president of the Street Car Men's Association, has just returned from Marion, Ind., where he has succeeded in having the Trades Council there raise the boycott a gainst the Traction Company, of that city. 'It was not a good business proposition to put a beyeott on a street railway company in the winter," said Mr. Mahon, "and besides the car men were not organized, so that the public were being discommoded without any good results being accomplished.

The trouble arose from the discharge of some men who had made applica-tion to start a union, but the company insisted that the cause of their discharge was the necessity of reducing the force. It promised that the men could join any union, and not be in fear of losing their situations, so I had the boycott called off."

New York, Nov. 10 .- The long strike of the cigarmakers, which started nine months ago in Kerbs, Wertheim & Schoffer's factories and involved twelve other large firms, has been declared at an end.

The cigarmakers, who struck in the factories of Harburger, Homan & Co., Bowell & Smith and Hirschern & Mack. 1,500 in number, have declared their strikes off, unconditionally, and have returned to work on the old terms against which they struck. One thousand more, employed by Oscar Hone & Co., and Porter & Co., who were among the strikers, will also return to work unconditionally.

Washington, Nov. 10.—Bishop Henry
C. Potter, of New York, testified before the industrial commission. He spoke on sweat shops, arbitration and other questions. He said he had more confidence in voluntary organizations to meet evils that grew out of the sweat shop systems that in legislation. He advocated a perman-ent committee to mediate between capitalists and labor organizations. He was disinchined to favor compulsory arbitration. With reference to the recent anthracite coal strike, the bishop said he placed more value in sound public opinion solving the trouble than any coercive measures, and thought the remedy really lay in the intelligent organization of labor. Compulsory arbitration, he conceded was less an evil than a long strike

Committed for Trial.

At the court house yesterday afternoon, Wesley Benner, the picture agent arrested at Thamesford by Detective Ward on Wednesday, appeared before Squire Lacey and was committed to stand trial on two charges of fraudulently taking a horse, buggy, clothing and other goods, on which ho-tel-keepers had a lien. Benner is a swell young man, who is said to be in the habit of jumping his board bills. He was a guest at Thomas Pinfold's hotel, Rodney, for several days in Oc-tober, and he left one night by the window route, it is alleged, without settling his account. He took his horse and rig with him. From Rodney he went to Glencoe, where he stopped at McRae's hotel, remaining there for some days and giving McRae a lien on the horse and rig and some clothing as security for his board. With the assistance of a rope, Benner left his room between midnight and daylight, only to be arrested three days later at Thamesford, where he was stopping at a hotel.

Where to Get Shoe Bargains

Boots and Shoes are being sold at the Bargain Shoe Store, 143 Dundas street, at less than manufacturers' prices. If you will require any new footwear this fall or winter, it will certainly pay you to purchase at that establishment now. The price you would have to pay for one pair of shoes at other stores would very nearly buy two such pairs at the Bargain Shoe Store. We are advised that while the present stock lasts, boots and shoes will be sold at lower prices than ever known in London before for such goods. It is not old, shelf-worn stock one is getting when purchases are made at that store, but new, up-to-date, reliable footwear. We would advise our readers to not let this opportunity pass. A good supply of superior footwear may be procured at the Bargain Shoe Store now for a very small outlay. The proprietor, F. A. British Ship Dismantled --- Severe Losses on the Lakes.

DISMANTLED.

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 9 .- The British ship Flintshire is reported 500 miles out and partly dismantled as the result of several severe storms. She is making for this port under a jury rig. The Flintshire sailed from here on Sept. 23 last, grain laden, for Queenstown, and her departure was made notable by the fact that upon crossing the bay she suddenly ran into a terrific gale and was unable to land the pilot, Capt. Scott, who was carried down the coast several hun-

NEW ENGLAND BLIZZARD. Boston, Nov. 9 .- From all parts of New England come reports of extremely unseasonable weather, and a storm of supprising strength, in which lightning and hail were mixed and the wind almost cyclonic in its whirling and freakiness. The storm did not inflict such heavy loss to shipping and property as might have been expected from its seeming violence. The wind, being only from the westward, did not give ON LONG ISLAND SOUND.

SANDY HOOK LIGHTHOUSE IN

On the coast the wind became so high that the marine observer in the Sandy Hook tower was forced to leave his post, because the building swaved so much that he feared it would collapse. Just before he left he reported that there were tremendously high waves at sea. Some time earlier in the day an unknown sloop, lying in the Horseshoe, inside Sandy Hook, dragged her anchor and was driven high on the beach.

Ask any reputable physician what is the cause of the most bodily derangements and the greatest suffering and he will undoubtedly tell you con-stipation or inactivity of the bowels. will also add that this need not be the case if people would pay proper attention to this most important func-

Through ignorance, neglect, or a sense of false modesty, people allow the bowels to get into a state of chronic constipation, and there follow kidney disorders, torpid liver, indigestion, and a complete upsetting of the digestive, filtering and excretory systems. Appendicitis, inflammation of the bowels, Enght's disease, and all the dreadfully painful and fatal complications of these diseases are usually set up as a direct result of neglecting to keep the bowels healthy and regular.

Many people imagine that they can prescribe for constipation, and so dose selves with salts and other strong, harmful, and weakening drugs, which effect an action of the bowels, but if taken repeatedly deaden and paralyze the system so that it is rendered unable to act for itself, and will not respend to the influence of curative

VESSELS ADRIFT. On Lake Superior four consorts were torn from their steamers, and three of them are still adrift or have gone ashore. The steamer Stafford was wrecked at Good Harbor, Mich., and may be a total loss. Several large steamers were driven back to Chicago after being exposed to the gale for a few hours, and large boats were generally seeking shelter on Lakes Superior, Michigan and Huron.

BITING COLD. The wind, which at many places attained a velocity of over 40 miles an hour, was accompanied by fine snow, and was biting cold, made it bitter work for the mariners. So far as known, no lives have been lost. ON LAKE ERIE.

Cleveland, Ohio, Nov. 9. — The ter-rific storm which swept over Lake Erie yesterday and last night con-tinues with unabated fury today. The few vessels arriving here today enter the harbor with difficulty. The captain of the passenger steamer City of Erie, which arrived here early today from Buffalo, reports that he sighted the mast of a sunken vessel sticking out of the water 25 miles north of Cleveland. There were no tidings today of the steamer Kaliyuga, which was reported last night to be adrift and helpless about 35 miles off Cleveland. When sighted she was laboning heavily, having lost her rudder and shoe. Tugs were started out early today in search of the disabled vessel.

SNOWSTORM AT MONTREAL. Montreal, Que., Nov. 9. - A heavy snowstorm, the first of the season, set in early this evening, and by mid-night quite a quantity of snow had fallien. The storm demoralized the railway arrangements, nearly all the incoming trains being late.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—The storm was over this morning on the upper lakes, except lower Lake Huron. No tidings have been received of the boats missing on Lake Superior. The missing boats are: Barges—A. H. Barr, off Sable Point: Commodore, off Grand Marais; Keating, off Whitefish Point, and Mason, off Ludington. During the storm the wind reached a velocity of 40 miles an hour.

Detroit, Nov. 9.—Reports from correspondents show that a regular blizzard prevails in many portions of the At Belliuire the snow is inches deep and still falling. All Southern Michigan got a taste of it, over a foot of the beautiful being recorded at Hartford. Up in Arenac county the weather is very cold and a high wind is causing the snow to drift.

AFTER 34 YEARS

An Escaped Bank Burglar Goes Back to Prison.

Plattsburg, N. Y., Nov. 9. - County Judge Shedden has ordered that Max Shinburn, the famous bank burglar, be placed at the disposal of the New which prison he escaped in 1866, while serving a sentence for robbing the Walpole, N. H., savings bank. Only two witnesses were sworn at the hearing George White, alias Geo. Bliss, of New York, who was inducted with Shinburn in 1865 for robbing the Walpole Bank and who has since served terms at Windsor, Vt., and other state prisons, and Wm. McKay, of New York. They both swore that they knew Max Shinburn, who escaped from Concord and that the prisoner was not weekly review says: There is a stronger tone in cotton and wool, the former large because of reports of fears of crop damage, while the latter is firm at former quotations on a volume of business equal to enlarged totals. Cereals are, as a whole, duli of interest. Wheat is practically unchanged. Corn is fractionally higher, while hog products are rather slow and weak. It is from that long-time barometer of trade, the iron business. that relatively the best reports as to the demand and prices come. Hopefulness as to improvement in fall demand, now that the election is over and cold weather has arrived, is reported in all sections, but nowhere is the feeling of confidence so marked as in the south. In the west drygoods, clothing, shoes and hardware, are moving better. In the east, leather, shoes, wool, tobacco and coal are firm, and the outlook for business is regarded as favorable. Wheat including flour, shipments for the week aggregate 3,555,507 bushels, against 3,-612.421 last week. Corn exports for the week aggregate 3,287,627 bushels, against 3,920,110 last week. Failures for the week in the United States number 161 against 165 last week. Canadian failures for the week number 17, against

16 last week. DUN & CO.

Dun & Co.'s report says: Iron is in an encouraging condition. violent speculation is threatened, but in numerous instances better demand has caused small advances. British exports of yarn and cloth in October showed a loss, making the to-tal for the year very heavy. Russian ports send out wheat freely, and even in Argentine the outlook for the crop is less discouraging, although the qualsome districts will be inferior. Speculative selling here for foreign account meets every advance and exports are behind last year's. Western receipts are fairly large, but the movement of corn into sight and out of the country is extremely light. A heavy cut in the price of refined sugar by all the large interests brings standard granulated to $5 60. Speculation in hides appears out of proportion to 'business in boots and shoes. Prices at Chicago have advanced for some months, with scarcely any re-uction, and leather has only partially responded, while boots and shoes average the same price as two months ago, when the bottom was reached after a long season of declining values. Tardy winter weather is making havoc with textile industries, and almost counteracts the election. Wool is more active at Boston than any previous time this year. Manufacturers buy in moderation, but sales

Warning

Lord Salisbury Makes an Important Speech

At the Lord Mayor's Banquet in London.

Britain Must Maintain a Perfect Condition of Defense---Integrity of China Must Be Maintained.

London, Nov. 9.-What is probably cans, by reason of the following remarkable utterance of Lord Salisbury, who, in the presence of 900 guests, including United States Ambassador Choate, the members of the cabinet, and many of the leading men of England, spoke as follows on the American elections:

"We believe that the cause which has won is the cause of civilization and commercial honor. We believe those principles to be at the root of all prosperity and all progress in the world. Therefore, we claim that we have as much right to rejoice in what has taken place as the distinguished gentle-man (referring to Mr. Choate) who sits at my side.'

This was followed by loud and pro-This was followed by loud and pro-longed cheering, which made the gold THIS MAY BE plate on the oaken shelves shiver. Lord Salisbury's incursion into the internal politics of the United States was preceded by an apology, in the course of which he said: "One of the circumstances which has gratified me most during the last year is the very healthy, friendly feeling displayed be-tween this country and the United States. I hope Mr. Choate will forgive me if there is any irregularity in my expression. It is quite wrong for the secretary of state to make any observations with respect to the internal politics of another country, but I am soon to give up my office, and in view of this abandonment which is close at hand, I hope Mr. Choate will forgive me for expressing the supreme satisfaction with which all of us have heard of what has recently taken place in the United States."

Mr. Choate, replying a few minutes later to the toast of "The Diplomatic Corps," declared that Lord Salisbury had stated with such truth, simplicity and earnestness the result of the election that he (Choate) would not attempt to add to it, although he would venture to congratulate the noble lord upon the fact that his remarks had been made after instead of before the election. (Laughter.)

lapse. Just before he left he reported thampshire authorities and taken back to serve an unexpired term of nine cast an extraordinary gloom over the they had originated in this city all the years in Concord prison, N. H., from gorgeous banquet. Following directly after the colonel commanding the City Imperial Volunteers, Lord Salisbury startled his hearers, who caught the drift of his remarks, by satirizing the war fever, although praising the courage of the soldiers, and declaring that the passionate admiration of military valor evidenced by the populace must produce a change of attitude on the part of the outside world when viewing English character. Then, with lowered voice, and almost trembling accent, he went on to speak of the price of victory and the ravages of death, dealing especially with the Queen's bereavement in the loss Prince Christian Victor. Finally, with bent head and hands clasped, he uttered a hope, almost a prayer, that Lord Roberts might be spared the sorrow now hanging over him by reason of the critical condition of his daughter. Tears sprang to the eyes of women, and men moved uncomfortably in their

New York, Nov. 9. - Bradstreet's WAR FORCED ON GREAT BRITAIN The premier then reviewed the events of the last twelve months. Mr. Kruger and the Empress of China, he went on to say, had forced war upon Great Britain. He maintained that the British war office deserved great credit for the way in which it had handled these emergencies.

"Despite nebulous and fictitious attacks we should be glad to improve all the defects of the war office,' continued, "and our utmost efforts will be devoted to that task; but I should rather deprecate any unnecessary examination into what has occurred. You will not add to the enthusiasm of your troops by so doing."

He dillated upon the strengthened ties between the mother country and the colonies during the year, and poked fun at the delay consequent upon the European concert when dealing with China. It was not appropriate for him, he declared, comment upon negotiations while in progress, but he said he would make an exception in the case of the Anglo-German compact. "This" he re-marked, "represents the feelings of most, if not all, the powers allied."

CHINA AND THE OPEN DOOR. "It is impossible to lay too much emphasis upon the integrity of China and the open door, and I think it a matter of great advantage that the powers should have expressed themselves in favor of the fundamental principles; for, of they are achieved, the issue of the China problem need not concern us very anxiously." He maintained carnestly that the idea of invading China with "our scanty force," or "of approaching the stupendous task of governing China, instead of leaving it to be governed by the Chinese" was most dangerous.

Relapsing into pessimism, Lord Salisbury admitted that the trend of recent events has almost put an end the hopes of the Russian Emperor and others who took part in the peace conference at The Hague. A FERVID APPEL

His speech closed with a fervid appeal to the people of England to maintain their defenses in such a perfect condition that "we shall not be exposed to any sudden interruption of the peace upon which our presperity "The supreme condition," deconds." exclaimed the premier, 'is that no reform, no improvement, is of the slightest value unless security against external interference is obtained by putting our defenses in such a position that no accident may happen bevond our borders that shall make our security doubtful." The majority of Lord Salisbury's hearers believed that this warning referred to the possibility of French an-

Downing street, which, he said, was named after a Massachusetts boy. In concluding his address he expressed his belief that "so long as Lord Salisbury and Mr. McKimley continued to hold the reins of government there will be no danger of any disturbance of the honorable and friendly relations now existing between the United States and Great Britain.

PRESS COMMENTS. London, Nov. 10.—The Standard and Dairy Telegraph dilate editorially upon the importance of Mr. Choate's assurances regarding Anglo-American amity at the Guild Hall banquet last night. The Daily Telegraph thinks the American ambassador's tone was quite significant, and regards his glowing eulogy of Lord Salisbury as perhaps the most remarkable feature of the banquet.

The Times says a Guild Hall audience always looks to the American ambassador to contribute to the en-joyment of the evening, and it very rarely looks in vain. Mr. Choate fully maintained the reputation established by his predecessor. He managed to relieve a seriousness which threatthe most brilliant of all public func- ened to become too marked for a contions in England, the Lord Mayor's vivial occasion by turning aside from banquet, took place this evening. It the paths of pointies. Lord bans-bury ventured upon the pardonable will be memorable, even to Ameri- irregularity of expressing the universal feeling of this country re-garding the presidential election. Had its issue been different we should not have abandoned our faith in the ability of the American people to avert many of the evil results that might have been inferred from Mr. Bryan's electoral speeches, but since things turned over so happily there is no indiscretion in expressing our satisfaction at the striking triumph of political common sense and commercial honor. The Times, like other morning pa-pers, is evidently not altogether pleased with Lord Salisbury's lukewarmness on the subject of army re-

KRUGER'S GOLD

Mystery in the Arrival of $2,500,000 at New York.

New York, Nov. 10 .-What Wali street understood was the consignment of $2,500,000 of South African gold to the National City Bank, about which there has been so much mystery, has arrived on the steamship Kaiserin Maria Theresa. The gold, which came in 50 wooden boxes, was taken to the United States assay office. Each box was marked with the initials "P. P. K." and this circumstance started the report that the gold had come from President Paul Kruger, now ex-president of the South African Republic, whose full name is Stephen John Paul not disclose the origin of the gold, merely stating that the boxes had been shippeed by the London agency of the Deutsche Bank, and were consigned "To order." The value of the consgnment was put at £508,000. the boxes were opened at the assay office it was found that packed in sawdust they contained gold bars, every one of which was a United Except in its references to the Unit- States assay office bar. According to way from 1898 to the current year. Based upon the number upon some of the bars, a few of them had left this city as recently as July last.

Just why the boxes were marked "P. P. K." was not learned, and officers of the city bank when questioned were evasive in their replies. The suggestion was made that if the gold really represented "Kruger gold" there had en a substitution in London of United States assay office bars for the actual South African gold. Also on the Kaiserin Maria Theresa was £50,-000 of gold from abroad consigned to the Hanover National Bank. Most of the consignment was in the form of British gold bars, but there were also a number of bars marked with the stamp of the mining company of New Zealand. The two lots together brought up the total of gold arrivals thus far

FORTUNES WASTED

In Attempts to Cure Dyspepsia and Other Stomach Troubles.

If Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets Were Used These Diseases Would Vanish From Canada at One-Hundredth Part o the Outlay.

"Give me the money that is paid to doctors every year, for their vain effort to cure Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Wind on the Stomach, Foul Breath, Catarrh of the Stomach, and other stomach troubles, and I'll clothe every ill-clad person, feed every hungry one, build houses for the homeless and build a church or a schoohouse at every cross-road in the Dominion. So spoke a physician a few days ago. He did not overestimate the enormous waste of money in this direction. Hundreds of thousands of dollars are thrown away yearly on this purpose. If all who suffer from these diseases would quit doctoring, and use Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, hundreds of thousands of dollars would be saved, and these stomach diseases would be unknown in Canada. For Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets cure these complaints, as certainly as the sun melts the snow If you don't believe it-test them. They'll convince you by curing you. The doctor who restricts himself to the treatment of one disease, can cure that disease when the physician who treats all diseases fails. Just so with Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets and stomach diseases, Dodd's Dyspepsia 'Tablets were made to cure these diseases only. They are not cure-alls. But Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets DO cure all stomach troubles. They have never failed yet. They will not fail

THE DISCIPLES' CONVENTION

Sixth Annual Meeting of the Western District Held at Iona.

Iona, Nov. 9.-The sixth annual convention of the western district, Disciples of Christ, opened here at 2:30 p.m. yesterday. The convention was called together by the president, Rev. E. E. Crawford, who in a pointed address asked the delegates present to throw off any strange feeling they might have.

Mrs. Charles Pearce, on behalf of the church here, heartily welcomed the delegates, and J. B. Ferguson, of Eagle, responded. The minutes of the tagonism.

Eagle, responded. The minutes of the Mr. Choate's speech consisted chiefly last meeting, held in Rodney, were of a humorous sketch of the history of read and adopted, after which a social hour was introduced by the president. It was clearly pointed out that success is due to devotion, and what we require is more stick-to-itiveness.

The meeting opened in the evening with a fifteen-minutes song service, led by Fred Lumley, and prayer by Rev. W. Ballah, St. Thomas. Prof. J. T. Bridwell was called on for a Bible reading. Following this Mr. Fred Bell, St. Thomas, read a paper on "The Y. P. S. C. E. a Dynamo in the Church." Points principally illustrated were so by the material dynamo. Francis E. Clark found out the electricists in the recommendation of the second tricity in the young people, and centralized it in the church, but yet did not confine it there. The young people are the encouragement of isolated points, and also the stimuli to the colleges of our land. Close contact with God is the power of develop-

The reports of the C. E. work were given by Fred E. Lumley, showing encouraging work. Miss Margaret encouraging work. Miss Margaret Sinclair, Lobo, was the next called, and she gave an excellent paper on "Keeping Our Pledge." This was very instructive and contained many excellent thoughts.

This preceded a paper on "Missions the Heart of the Church Life," by H. Erwin Stafford, St. Thomas. This was short, but full of concentrated thought and truth. John A. McKillop, West Lorne, led the parliament. The president re-marked that Y. P. S. C. E. stands for your principal source of Christian energy. J. H. Coultard, David Dick and Rev. W. Ballah made brief remarks on the papers. The meeting closed with a hymn and praper by Rev. C. Sinclair, London. There were about 50 delegates in attendance.

"I am quite sure, my lady, that you need not be anxious. No accident could have happened on a bright night like this. You see for yourself that it is

"Yes, I see," she answered. What she would have liked would have been to go out herself in search of

It occurred to him that, if there had been any little contretemps, it would be far better to have the staid old housekeeper present than the young maid.

The first thing that Mrs. Pickering did when she saw her mistress' white face was to get her some wine. The two stood together in the cold moonlit hall while the old butler went to the lodge - gates. Once Lady Allanmore gave a start, for they thought they heard the sound of voices; but when she went to the door she could see no one. It was some time before Frodsham returned, and then he brought no news. The woman at the lodge had seen nothing of the master. She told him that the outer gates were un-locked, and he had passed through; he had looked down the road, but there was no sign of Sir Karl Lady Allanmore wrung her white jeweled hands.

'Oh. Frodsham. I am afraid something has happened to him!" she cried. But still the old man scouted the idea of danger. Sir Karl would come walking up presently, and would laugh at them for their pains.

"Take my advice, my lady," he said, "and do not get anxious. Sir Karl here he could not lose himself if he ried. He went on business, you say, my lady? Then he has been detained. But, Frodsham," cried the mistress. with tears in her eyes, "he would not be detained, I am sure. He would be

SHE PATIENTLY BORE DISGRACE

A Sad Letter From a Lady Whose Husband Was Dissipated.

How She Cured Him With a Secret Remedy.

"I had for years patiently borne the disgrace, suffering, misery and privations due to my husband's drinking habits. Hearing of your marvelous remedy for the cure of drunkenness, which I could give my husband secretly, I decided to try it, I procured a package and mixed it in his food and coffee, and, as the remedy was odorless and tasteless, he did not know what it was that so quickly relieved his craving for liquer. He soon began to pick up flesh, his appetite for solid food returned, he stuck to his work regularly, and we now have a happy home. After he was completely cared I told him what I had done, when he acknowledged that it had been his saving, as he had not the resolution to break off of his own accord. I heartily advise all women afflicted as I was to give your remedy a trial."

"Sir Karl," but no answer came.
"Sir Karl is nowhere in the park," my lady," said the old servant at last.
"It will be better for you to come back to the Hall; and, if you still feel anxious, I will call some of the men, and they can go in different directions to look for him."

She grasped at the suggestion, and the butler gave a great sigh of relief when he left her to the care of Mrs.

"Persuade her to lie down," he said in a low voice. "She will wear herself out; he may not be home for hours yet. I know what masters are! every lady made such a fuss if her husband was not home at eleven, I do not know what servants would do.

Dolores followed the housekeeper's advice. She lay down, and tried to compose herself, tried to believe that there was nothing wrong; but sprang up with a sudden cry of alarm when she heard the clock strike one. "Call Frodsham!" she cried. must send all the servants out. Oh, how can they sleep when their master is perhaps in danger? We must not delay any longer." A horrible feeling came over her that she would never see him again. If he had entered at that moment she would have almost died of joy. "My lady," said the housekeeper, "If you would but let me speak. We serr vants see so much more than you ladies do. No harm can have come to Sir Karl. If you send the servants to look for him he will not be pleased. People might talk and laugh about it, and he would not like it. If it should get known that, because Sir Karl was out until one o'clock, you sent servants to scour the countryside for him, it would not look well, and he would be angry. Gentlemen don't like everything exposed to the world in that fashion. Think of it, my lady, before the servants are called." "I will try to be patient; but do you think he will ever come home again?"

"Of course he will, my lady; and by this time tomorrow you will have had many a hearty laugh over this. There are so many things that could have detained him. Perhaps he has called in somewhere, found a gentleman's dinner party, and has not been able to get away. Do cheer up, my lady; there is nothing to fear!"

Lady Allanmore lay quite still listening to the stream of comforting words until the clock struck four: then, with a white, dazed face, she looked at the housekeeper, and cried in a voice the woman never forgot:

"It is four o'clock. I tell you that he will never come home again! I feel it. You yourself-are you not anxious now?

Frodsham was called in again. Then It was decided that the men-servants should be roused from their slumbers, and sent out in different directions. The housekeeper had just remembered some anecdote of some gentleman who, walking home quickly at night, had fallen and broken his ankle, and who lay on the high road until his servants found him in the morning. Something of that kind might have happened to Sir Karl.

The idea was enough. The servants were called, and came in, looking sleepy, and wondering what was the matter. Sir Karl, they were told, had gone out at half past seven the previous evening, intending to return at half past nine, but nothing had been heard of him since. The men were all there, including James Ashford, the weather, she has since been able to groom who had driven the Squire it without the least inconvenience. home-Dolores, whose wits were sharp-

"No, my lady;" but to himself he muttered, "I shall have to tell." No precise directions could be given to the men. Some went one way and some another. The rumor spread quickly in the house that something was amiss, and one by one the women servants came down. Dolores, persuaded by her maid, went upstairs to her own room and lay down.

"It will be all right now," the wo-man told her. "The men will be sure to come back with good news." Notwithstanding her distress, she fell asleep; and that one hour's sleep made the awakening more terrib still. She dreamed that he came back. that she heard his hurried footsteps up the stairs, that the door opened and he entered, with the same bright loving look on his handsome face. He went up to her, took her in his arms, and said, "My darling, have I frighten- A Clever Ruse by Which a Beginner ed you; I am so sorry. I have been at White Cliffe. He whispered sweet-est and most loving words to her; she was his love, his darling. With his arms twined around her she told him all her fears. He laughed at them. She heard the sound of his laugh so dis-tinct; "My darling Dolores," he said, "rest assured that while I am on earth, nothing will ever keep me from you.' But, alas! it was only a dream! No after hours-not even when the truth was made known to her-were so terrible as this hour.

City Growth is Checked.

[Chicago Tribune.]

With the results of the twelfth census as yet incomplete, enough is already on hand to show at least one unexpected development. It is the fact that the growth of population in cities of over 25,000 inhabitants during the decade just closed was less by nearly 20 per cent than during the 10 years ending in 1890. Complete returns may show that the percentage of gain in the country as a whole has also decreased, but it is not likely that the same large percentage of decrease will be maintained. It is also probable, if not quite certain, that the purely agricultural population has not increased at any greater rate than during the between 1880 and 1890 if indecade between 1860 and the same perdeed, it has maintained the same percentage. The conclusion is therefore the whole countryside was aroused, and I was chief witness as to how well the scheme succeeded."—Pittsburg News. that the greatest per cent of increase in population will be found in the cities and towns which have less than 25,000 population. If these conclusions are correct it is a matter for decided congratulation. One of the greatest problems of modern times has been and is that of proper living for the congested populati of the great cities. For the last half century the movement of population to the great cities has been so large and so rapid as to alarm public men. who found continually new and dangerous conditions developing more swiftly than they could be handled. This movement has been noticeable within the last few years and has been supplemented by the location of many newcomers in same suburban towns who a few years ago would have been likely to make their homes in the crowded quarters of the cities. Many factories have also moved their plants out into the country, near some large city, and their employes have followed them. Altogether the shifting of the resi-

Miss Emma Huskinson, a Captain in the Salvation Army, Tells How She Regained Health Through the Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

[From the Sun, Orangeville, Ont.] Among the oldest and most highly spected residents of Orangeville is Mrs. John Huskinson, whose daughter Emma has for a number of years been an acute sufferer from the after effects of malarial fever. A reporter of the Sun, hearing of the wonderful effects which Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have had on Miss Huskinson, called at her home to inquire into the truth of the rumor. After stating the reason of his visit, he was kindly received by Mrs. Huskinson, who gave him the following facts of the cure: "Some years ago," said Mrs. Huskinson, "my daughter Emma, who is now captain of the Newmarket corps of the Salvation Army, was attacked by malarial fever. She was under a doctor's care for a long time and although she recovered sufficiently to go about, the after effects of the fever left her very weak. and the doctor did not seem to be able to put any life into her. She had frequent headaches, was very pale, and the least exertion would greatly fa-tigue her. We thought a change might do her good, and consequently she went on a visit to Toronto. While there she was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and at once purchased a supply. Before she had finished the second box she noted a marked change for the better; her appetite improved, her color returned, the feeling of exhaustion had disappeared, and by the time she had taken half a dozen boxes she was enjoying the best of health, and all her old-time vigor had returned. Although her work in the Salvation Army is hard and exposes her to all kinds of weather, she has since been able to do

"Some time after my daughter's cure ened by suspense, felt sure that she I was myself completely run down, saw an expression of surprise pass over and to add to my trouble was seized with a severe attack of rheumatism. Remembering the benefit my daughter had received from Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, I decided to use them, and before I had taken half a dozen boxes felt fully recovered, and have been in the best of health ever since. My advice to all ailling is to use Dr. Willitams' Pink Pills for Pale People." Dr. Williams' Pinks Pills have restored more weak and ailing women and girls to robust health than any other medicine ever discovered, which in part accounts for their popularity throughout the world. These pills are sold by all dealers or may be had by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2 50. by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.

BEATEN BY HIS FATHER

Came Out Ahead in the Race.

"I once lost a bicycle race to my father in a very humiliating way," said a former well-known Pittsburg cyclist the other day. . It was a ten mile road race, and there wasn't one of all my father, for he was really just learning to ride. I was the only scratch man in the bunch, the others being given various handicaps. My father got a lead of twenty minutes, and we all started. It took some time to overhaul the rest, but I finally passed all but my father, and I haven't caught sight of him yet. Before I had proceeded far I saw a crowd of farmers running toward me with pitch-forks. I couldn't imagine what was up, and I spurted, hoping to pass them. On the contrary I went into the ditch by the roadside.

'The way those farmers acted was discomforting, and I came to the con-clusion that it was a case of mistaken identity, and that I was going to be killed as some one else's proxy. They lunged at me with their forks, but they showed no disposition to seize They surrounded me as I got up, but I watched my chance and cut through an opening.

They ran after me for a few hundred yards, but I was soon out of sight. I was feeling pretty sore, for that little accident meant the loss of several minutes to me. Two other mobs appeared on the scene, but I escaped them after a slight delay. The upshot of the matter was that my father came in first, while I was not even a close second. "When we were sitting at home that night my vanquisher made a clean confession of how he won that race. He said he realized the hopelessness of winning by fair means, so every time he passed a farmer on the road he made the startling announcement that a crazy man was coming behind him in close pursuit. He implored them to try and head them off while he rode on to the asylum and procured aid. He had repeated this declamation until the whole countryside was aroused, and

Author of "Home, Sweet Home" Loved a Fair Girl in Georgia.

Chapter in His Life Revealed by a Negro Servant's Death.

Rob Roy, the negro servant who carried the quaintly folded and carefully sealed love letters written 70 years ago by John Howard Payne, died regently in Athens, Ga., says a Chattanooga (Tenn.) correspondent of the Chicago Inter-Ocean. Rolo Roy was 15 years old when he was chosen by John Howard Payne, the author of "Home, Sweet Home," to deliver the tender missives, transcribed by a quill pen, and addressed to Miss Mary Harden, a girl famous for her wit and The poet's letters were answered in the shape of a three-cornered notes, many of them bidding Payne to dine at the great house on the hill owned by Gen. Edward Harden, one of the wealthiest Georgians of his time.

It was in the early '60's that Payne came south to investigate the condition of the Cherokee and the Creek Indians, and to find out whether these wards of the nation wished to be sent by the government to a home beyond the Mississippi. Payne, who had returned to America in 1832, after an Mr. Payne o visit the Indians and absence of eighteen years in foreign lands, believed that it was not in the line of enlightenment and Christianity, on the part of the general government to force the Indians to leave their homes in Northern Georgia and to go wherever the government might de-Believing this he determined to satisfy himself of their true feeling in the matter, and it was while on this mission of justice and humanity that he visited Athens, Ga., for the purpose of enlisting the aid of Gen. Harden, to whom he had letters of introduction from prominent men in Philadelphia and New York, Gen. Harden was one of the most influential men in Georgia. It was he who had entertained Gen. Lafayette in Savannah on the occasion of Lafayette's visit in 1824. In Gen. Harden Mr. Payne found a ready and willing friend in his work. The general made arrangements with Chief John Ross of the Cherokees for Mr. Payne to visit the Indians and gather the information sought. While these preliminary conferences with the Indians were taking place, Payne often met Mary Harden, who was then 18 years old.

Payne stayed at the village tavern, but he was a frequent visitor at the Harden home. Rob Roy, the house boy at the Harden mansion, was sent to act as Payne's body servant, and the negro fared well with his new mas-In speaking of the famous song writer, old Rob said, just before his death: "It's a sure fact Mr. Payne was the cleverest man I ever met. a nice man. When Mr. Payne departed from Athens for the Indian country he left heart in the possession of Mary Harden; and, so far as has ever been known, the southern girl remained true to her first love until her death, about eight years ago. If Payne ever had any other sweetheart the fact never became known, and when, nearly twenty years later, the great author closed his eyes in death, in Tunis, to enter his eternal "Home, Sweet Home," it is fair to suppose that his last thoughts were of the only woman he had ever loved, the woman in the far-off southland. Payne was among the Indians only a few days before he was arrested at the instance of an Indian agent named Curry, who said that his presence among the Indians caused trouble between them and the white people. Curry had no legal right to order Payne's arrest, but he did so, and as soon as Gen. Harden learned of the outrage he hastened to the governor in Milledgeville and obtained the necessary papers for the immediate release of his friend.

With Rob Roy, Gen. Harden immediately set out for the Indian country, and of the trip the old negro said:
"Mars Edward was as mad as a wet hen when he heard of the arrest of poor Mr. Payne, and when he went after him- it wouldn't have been healthy for anybody to much, for Mars Edward had done spent a lot of time cleaning up his big pistols, and he was a hornet when stirred up. There was no steam cars in those days around here, and he went horseback. I led a fine horse for Mr. Payne to ride back home on. When we got there it didn't take Mars Edward long to 'nounce his mission among the Indians. That man Curry that had Mr. Payne arrested hung his head and looked like a sheep-killing dog when Mars Edward done told him it was an outrage that Mr. Payne had been arrested. Mr. Payne was afraid Mars Edward would do something brash, and he asked him to be easy, that Curry was ignorant. And he was, too. He didn't know as much as one Mars Edward's cornfield niggers. I knows he didn't, 'cause Mars Edward

But, I tell you, I felt sorry for poor Mr. Payne riding over them rough roads. He looked so pale and sick like and peared like he didn't have a friend on earth, but he did, for Mars Edward would have gone through fire and brimstone for him. And old Rob Roy was mighty spry in them days.

"As we done come along over the mountains, Mr. Payne hummed that song, 'Home, Sweet Home,' and it was the first time I had ever heard it, but I heard it many times after that, for Miss Mary used to sing it often after Mr. Payne done left Athens-before she got old, you know, before Mars Edward and the old missus died, and before Miss Mary done got so curious like and lived all by herself in that big Harden house. Miss Mary used to sing it mighty sweet and touching, but I didn't like to talk about it for I know Miss Mary done thought a powerful heap of the man who wrote the song, and when I used to say something to her about the time Mr. Payne was here, she would say, 'Hush, Bob hush: I don't want to talk about those old days.' Yes, yes, Miss Mary thought a powerful heap of him, and I can't blame her, for Mr. Payne sure was a nice man, and when I would do anything for him he would always say, "Thank you, Bob;" that showed his raisin'—he warn't no poor white

And thus has passed away the last of the actors in the love affair of the author of the dear old song that has moved millions of hearts, and though the humble negro played but a shall part, it filled his days with gladness to know that what he had done was appreciated by his young mistress and by Mr. Payne, who, in one of his letters to Miss Harden, sent his respects to Rob Roy, and said that his kindly

AROUND THE LAMP.

SLEEP AND VENTILATION. Many people, even those accustomed to being out of doors all day, think it necessary when night comes, to shut every window. This is a very erroneous idea. During the long hours of the night, when all doors are necessarily obliged to be shut, surely fresh air is needed through the window. Some people say that they sleep more soundly if the window is shut. There is no doubt that their sleep is heavier, but at the same time it is not so re freshing as if they slept in purer air. So much carbonic acid gas being evolved from the lungs acts like a nar-cotic in a close room. We all know how sleepy and heavy we feel in a crowded church, theater or concert room. Open the window at the top. Once the habit is acquired it will certainly be continued. Accustomed to sleeping in a fresh room, one feels suffocated if the window is closed.

THE BELL SLEEVE.

The new bell sleeve is already great favorite and admired and envied wherever it is seen. When in fashion during the second empire, it bore the name of pagoda. It is plain on the shoulders, whence it gradually expands toward the wrists, where it forms a wide bell-like opening, displaying the wrists and a part of the arm, it is lined with silk and flounced with lace within when intended for full dress, the lace falling gracefully over the bejeweled arm beneath.

For less dressy wear it has an inner sleeve of muslin, lace, tulle or any other transparent material, made full and drawn into the wrists by a ruching frill of lace or a bracelet of velvet, silk

CLOTH GOWNS.

Cloth street gowns are at present occupying the minds of tailors and dressmakers, not to mention the people who are to wear the costumes. It will not be many weeks now before it will be time to wear them. The first gowns that are turned out are quite simple in design, made with the plain skirt and smart coat, but the cloth gowns for winter wear are exceedingly elaborate, and grow more so every day, for the latest designs call for so much heavy trimming. The skirts, slashed at the sides to show panels of contrasting color, show also a mass of embroidery and braiding of rich, cut work, or some material that is brocaded, or has a pattern embroidered on it. The fronts of the waist that show through the open jacket are of lace or embroidery, or of satin or brocade, with beautiful designs of handwork, embroidery in colored silks outlined with silver or gold.-Harper's

"It is said that a change of work is as good as a rest. may be But it is always well to bring such assertions down from the general to the particular. On this principle of a change of work the whose brain is already exhausted goes off on her bicycle in the hope of relieving her nerves by trying her muscles. It does not occur to her that the expenditure of nerve power is still going on while she is taking exercise. What she requires is rest. Children in need of repose, are often cruelly sent out to play, when every step is a pang to them, 'What, headache again?' says the thoughtless parent or teacher. Well, go out; that will do you good. READING FOR CHILDREN.

To many of our children the pleasures of reading are locked and sealed by the attempt to force books upon them at an age unfit for their reading. Why should the young be compelled to associate pooks which would be a source of pleasure with the memory of hours spent in weary study? I would put a child into a library where no unnit books are, and let him read at his choice. A child should not be discouraged from reading anything that he takes a liking to, from a notion that it is above his reach. If that be the case the child will soon find it out and desist; if not, he of course gains the in-struction, which is much the more likely to come from the inclination with which he takes up the study. Happy the child who has the use of a library, and who for a certain part of every day is allowed to read at random; who is "turned loose in the rich pasture of literature to browse where he pleases.'

It would be a wise practice in every school, with as much regularity as the morning prayer, to read aloud some fine or instructive passage from a book which is accessible to those who wish to read more. It is not needful that every word of what is read aloud should be understood by the hearers. If that were the case, the Epistles of St. Paul would be a sealed book to all but scholars. Children derive impulses of a powerful kind in hearing things which they cannot entirely comprehend; something they can always grasp, and what they cannot understand they either supply by some strange meaning of their own or let it pass by unheeded. It is said a mother read to her children, who were under twelve, the whole of Spencer's "Faerie Queene." They had no conception of the allegory, but they took the shield of the red-cross knight in their play and lived over again in their imagination the life they had learned about .-Sewanee Review.

CLEANING WOOLEN DRESSES. Those who wish to clean woolen dresses that have been ripped up preparatory to remaking or to sponge winter costumes so that they will look bright and fresh again should try the following:

Cut into small pieces a quarter pound of white castile soap and pour over it one quart of soft water. Let it stand over night, then put it on the back of the stove, where it will dissolve, but not boll. When well dissolved add four quarts of rain water, stirring the soap thoroughly through it. Then add one ounce of liquid ammonia, one-quarter ounce spirits wine and one ounce of Stir vigorously until well blended and bottle. When used for sponging it may be used clear or diluted with water. But when used for washing any fast colored woolen goods take two or three tablespoonfuls to a gallon of water.

FOR BEATING CARPETS. The most convenient thing in the world for beating rugs and carpets is a piece of rubber hose. This may be fastened to the end of a broomstick. like an old-fashioned flail, or can be used without a handle. While stout enough to dislodge the dust, its flexibility prevents the wear and tear given by the ordinary stick or rattan

LEMON JELLY.

Put a pint of cold water into a saucepan with the thinly paired rind of a lemon. Let it boil up and then simmer for ten minutes. Squeeze the juice of two large juicy lemons into a basin, taking care that the pips do not go in and pour the hot water on to the juice. Add half an ounce of sheet gelatin (if the weather is very hot allow rather more) and sweeten to taste with loaf Stir gently until the gelatin and the sugar have melted and strain the liquid through muslin into a china mold which has been rinsed with cold water. When adding the sugar it should be remembered that jelly will taste sweeter when it is not than it will when ft is cold.

APPLE CHARLOTTE.

Cut some slices of bread about a quarter of an inch thick, butter them on both sides, and lay some of them at the bottom of a buttered pie-dish. Fill the dish up with apples, cored and sliced; add brown sugar to taste, two cloves, and the zest and juice of a temon. Put some more buttered slices of bread on top of the apples, and cover them with apple peelings to prevent their burning. Put the dish in a moderate oven for a couple of hours At the time of serving remove the anple peelings and turn the pudding on to a hot dish.

A very useful discovery has lately been made and patented by P. M. Lawrason, in the form of a concentrated dry powder of ammonia, for household use, washing, bathing, and for use in sinks, dish-washing, and other purposes, and as a disinfectant. It does not hurt the most delicate skin, but will soften and make smooth. For sale by grocers. Every household st have a package (Patented 1900.)

Some Parlor Games We Owe to China.

Instead of bishops and knights Chise chess has a general, secretaries. elephants, horses chariots, cannon and soldiers. There is also a river between the opposing forces. But otherwise the game is very similar to its distant and-according to Chinese ideas-degenerate descendant played by ourselves. There are 64 squares on the board and 16 pieces on each side. Chess riginated in China B. C. 1120.

Kites in China, says Answers, are generally square shaped. They are the universal amusement of all ages and classes. Our kite flyers might take many valuable hints in kite flying from Chinese boys. The light silk string and the reel to wind it on are much ahead of our rough cord pulled in by hand. Kite flying comes here as a spring amusement, a custom apparently direct from China, where anyone flying a kite at another season ould be laughed at. Pegtops schoolboys owe to Chinese receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only.

No game has crossed to us from the East less altered than backgammon. Chinese backgammon men, boards and dice are almost identical with those used by ourselves. The Chinese name for backgammon, literally translated, is bottle chess.

Why the Chinese should call domi-oes "foreign tablets" is a mystery, noes seeing that they and the Koreans have played games with dominoes for 10 or 12 centuries past. In numerals and size Chinese dominoes are similar to very much into account as well as ex-ercise." those used in Europe and America. are a little differently arranged, and the number of pieces is not quite the same. A set consists of 21 pieces, 11 of which are duplicated, making 32 in the complete set. The Chinese have more domino games than ourselves, including a curious one called "Tortoise. There seems little doubt that dominoes came to us from the East, instead of being, as claimed, the invention of two ench monks.

Willie's Lesson of Love

Last summer Tommy Jones and me Were climbin' all around And found a bird's nest in a tree Away above the ground. We took the little thing away With all the eggs inside; And, oh, the words ma had to say-

I just sat down and cried!

'You wicked, naughty boy," she said "To pain the birdie so! Oh, He that watches overhead Will punish you, I know! It is a sin to take the nest, And rob the bird of joy,

Now promise God you'll do your bes To be a better boy."

So when I said my prayers that night I promised God I'd do The best I could to make it right. As ma had told me to. carried crumbs that very day And left them at the tree And tried to get the bird to stay And make it up with me.

She flew away last fall, and that Was all I seen or heard About her till they brought ma's hat Home yesterday! That bird Was there as fine as life, stuck through With wires you couldn't see, To make her look as though she'd flew Down from the nearest tree.

If God hates Tommie Jones and me, As ma let on that day, I'd kind of like to know what he Above us has to say About the one that went and shot The little bird like that, 'And also of the one that's got It fastened on her hat? -L. E. Kiser in Chicago Times-Herald.

What Man May Do.

"Endued with power from on high." -St. Luke, xxiv., 49. If I say that every man creates the world in which he lives I am strictly within the limits of a truthful state-

A man's environment is the smallest part of his world. The world which is made by circumstance, by the accidents of birth and wealth, of social position, or even of genius, has less to do with his happiness than the world which he creates for himself and in which his real life is passed.

If I were a magician I might give you fame, or beauty, or valor, or untold and inexhaustible riches, but in bestowing all these things I should not necessarily make you either contented or useful It is even possible that I might merely add fuel to the consuming fire of your selfishness or avarice. gifts might prove a curse rather than a blessing. They are frequently real obstacles in the formation of a notife chlaracter, and the man who possesses them may perhaps remember only his rights and forget all his duties, may close his heart to the sympathy and charity which are the chief elements of a grand and beautiful life. Indeed. It has become almost an inevitable fact that he who begins his career with what the majority of people think the most desirable things is apt to end it in disappointment and in a conspicuous lack of high achievements.

The boy who is cradled in wealth is by no means to be envied, for he is surrounded by dangers which will com-pass his ruin unless he is exceptionally strong. It is a misfortune to have everything at the start, for the ten-dency is to go wrong. He alone knows the worth of money who is compelled to work for fit, and he alone knows the full meaning of life who stands face to face with difficulty, and who attains success after a hard struggle. You are not made, therefore, by your

PIMPLES

These Troublesome, Disfiguring Blemishes can be Removed by the all Powerful Blood Purifying Burdock Blood Bitters.

The nasty little pimples that come on the face and other parts of the body are simply indications that the blood is out of order and requires purifying.

They are little irritating reminders to you that you need a course of treatment with Burdock Blood Bit-

When B.B.B. makes your blood pure then the pimples will vanish and your skin become soft and clear. Here is evidence worth consider-

Mrs. Morrice Ketch, Bristol, Carleton Co., N.B., writes: take great pleasure in recommending Burdock Blood Bitters to every one troubled with pimples. I was for years that I would break out with them at times on my face and back. I tried all sorts of remedies, including doctors' medicine, but everything failed to cure me.

"At last I heard of B.B.B. and thought I would try it.

When I had finished taking two bottles I felt a great deal better, so kept on using it until I had taken in all six bottles. It has completely and permanently removed every pimple from my body and I never felt better in my life than I do at the present time, outward circumstances, and they are of much less importance than you think. Not what is without, but what is within, determines your character. If I want to know what you are, I must find my way into your heart. I do not for your bank account, because that belongs as much to your heirs as to you; neither do I care for your palace, or your gallery, or your lands, or your pictures, because these are yours only temporarily, and ere many years you will make your exit and leave them all behind. You will, flowever, carry your soul with you wherever you go, and for that reason I do not know what you are worth until I make the acquaintance of that soul. If that is not what it should be, you will miss such trinkets as wealth can buy and find yourself a poor man in the future life. But if your soul is rich, then you are rich forever, and not even death can rob you of your possessions. I insist, then, that if you wish to live in a beautiful world you must create it. It may be a difficult task but with the help of God it can be done. It is, indeed, the kind of work he intended you to do, and for which he has given you the requisite ability.

For example, if you have hatreds in your heart, or if your heart is filled with envy, ill-will and ill-nature; if you have an uncontrolled temper, or are ready at all times to sacrifice honor to gain; if you are narrow in criticism and suspicious of those about you; if you can see a bad motive, but never a good one, you have already exercised your creative faculty and made a very hell for yourself. You may enjoy a mean and contemptible sort of filthy happiness, which is stained and soiled by the suffering of others, but that is all. You live in that world, getting all you can, but giving nothing. Your attitude towards others forces them to assume the same atti-tude toward you. Your hand is against every man; you live with a constant thorn in the fiesh. It is your world, and you are responsible for what is in lit On the other hand, if you are charitable and kindly, if love and the desire to be helpful are the supreme incentive to action; if you are charitable in judgment, generous in your dealings and honest in your transactions, you make a heaven for yourself which is filled not only with self-respect and a consciousness of rectitude, but with the goodwill and sympathy of all around you. The love you give is returned with interest. The life you live is a blessing to everyone who meets you, and all the earth is enriched by your words, your deeds, your example. With God's help you have wrought a miracle, for you have made a world in which he delights to dwell and to which the angels of heaven will come as your

We are not weak; we are strong if our faith is strong. This life may be made beautiful or wretched by qualities of mind which we cher cherish. God has placed almost infinite power in our hands, and we are responsible for its use. If we recognize these facts we shall live a heavenly life because we live the true life.

TUNING A PIPE ORGAN

It Takes Two or Three Days and Is a Nerve Trying Job.

[New York Sun.]

"The misuse which many pipe organs suffer is a wonder to me," said a veteran organ tuner and builder. Church organs cost from $1,000 $10,000. They are very sensitive to changes of temperature and yet many are heated and chilled once a week ail winter and allowed to get damp-soaked in summer. The same people who neglect an organ will take good care of a piano costing a tenth or twentieth as much.

"An organ is a good deal like a human being when it comes to changes of the thermometer. Sudden drops put a man out of tune, and it's the same with the instrument. It needs an even, moderate temperature during the winter instead of a roasting on Sunday and a freeze the rest of the week. In summer a stone or brick church gets damp. A slight fire once a week will keep the organ dry. "A pipe organ requires tuning at least once a year, and the best instruments are looked over two or three times in that period. It is a two or three days' job and needs two men. Besides the tuner up in the organ an assistant must be at the keyboard to hold down the keys. Temperature has to be considered even in tuning. All the pipes must be brought to pitch at about the same degree, and this degree should be that which the organ usually has when in use. "I believe that pipe organ tuning is the most nervous work one can tackle. In fact, after long experience come to believe that I tune with my nerves. No, I don't refer to the nerves of hearing. I get my impressions that way, but I tune with my nervous system. My assistant strikes a chord. If it is not true I feel a nervous stress and strain. As soon as the chord is true my nerves become harmonious

It sounds funny, but it's true. Two or three days may seem like a long time to take to tune an organ, when you stop to think of the 1.700 pipes in a large modern instrument it isn't so long. A large organ will have a compass of five octaves, or 61 keys. These instruments have 28 registers, and a pipe to each key and register brings the number to 1,708. Not every key and register has a pipe, but as some have two it amounts to that. The pipes are of all sorts and sizes, most of them wood, but many of metal. A small number of the large and long wooden pipes never get out of tune. They are too long. For many years the fancy pipes at the front of an organ were only or namental, but nowadays these sound as well.

"I find that pipe tuning is a mystery to most people. They can understand how the plano strings are tightened and loosened, but changes in the pitch of pipes queer them. It isn't strange either, for the average organ has five kinds of tuning. Of course, the pitch depends on the length of the pipe. The pitch may be raised by shortening the pipe or by stopping the open end. A number of the wooden pipes are stopped by wooden slides. Handles are attached and the pipe is tuned by moving the slides up or down. Other woods have set in the top a piece of metal, which is rolled or bent over partially to stop the pipe.

Ribbon strips are cut in the sides of the tall metal pipes and rolled down. These break the column of air and act the same as cutting off the top of the pipe. Another kind of pipes, the reeds, are on a different principle. length of the reed controls the pitch. A wire presses tightly against the reed, and is moved to lengthen or shorten the vibrating length.

Latest in the World of Work in the Stone Lathe.

The Machine Turns Huge Square Blocks of Granite Weighing 310 Tons, 67 Feet Long and 8%x7 Feet, Into Beautiful Cylindrical Columns, Which Will Each Weigh When Completed 160 Tons.

Look at this immense block of granite and think of the amount of Work that must be put upon it to convert it into a periectly round highly polished column. Then look at the companion picture taken only a few days later with the granite already reduced to cylindrical form ready for the polishing process. The machine which works this rapid transformation is the latest triumph in the industrial world. It is called a lathe, and the work that it has been doing since it was installed has demonstrated that it is a success. It renders possible of easy and inexpen-Dive accomplishment construction that has heretofore been very difficult.

This lathe was built in Philadelphia, and has been installed in the granite quarries at Vinalhaven, Me., where columns of many sizes are be-Ing turned out for the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, New York City. In fact, this machine was primarily

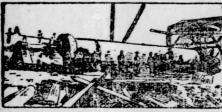

BLOCK OF GRANITE FOR ONE OF THE COL-

UMNS-WEIGHT, 310 TONS; LENGTH, 67 FEET; HEIGHT, 81/2 FEET; WIDTH, 7 FEET. conceived and built for the special work called for by the plans for this great new cathedral of the metropolis, which is to have no less than thirty-two granite columns fifty-four feet long by six feet in diameter. which will weigh when completed 160 tons each. In addition to this it will have innumerable columns of smaller dimensions.

In length the lathe that will perform this work is eighty-six feet, and when in working order it weighs 235 tons. It has swings six feet Bix inches by sixty feet long, and it has eight cutters. Each tool takes out a cut three inches deep, the entire eight cutters reducing the column twenty-four inches in diameter at one pass over the stone.

The block of granite in the illustration weighs 310 tons; it is 67 feet long, 81/2 feet high by 7 feet wide. The piece of granite to be cut is rough hewn at the corners by hand in order that it may be placed in the lathe. Once in the lathe it requires about six weeks to turn out a finished column, dressed and polished. The tool that does the cutting is a circular disk of steel seven-eighths of an inch in thickness and ten inches in diameter. It has a V-shaped cutting edge and is wedged on the mandrel and held tightly by means of a lock nut. When the tool is in operation it is set at an angle to the axis of the stone being dressed. The entire stone revolves, and as it does so it imparts a rotary motion to the cutting disks, which are forced into the stone by means of the feed screw. In this manner the tool splinters off the rock to any required depth, leaving a roughly chipped surface. When this shaping process has been completed there is attached to the tool posts in the same manner as the cutting tools a cup-shaped device holding hardened steel shot, by which the rough polishing is done. The final polish imparted to the columns in much the same manner, but powdered emery is used in this operation.

ARE TUBNED.

When one considers the length of the blocks of granite handled, the idea obtains that there must be many supports to hold the weight while the stone is under treatment, but the fact is the entire weight of the stone is held by head and tail chucks, there being no intermediate supports. This tells in a sentence the quality of the material used in the construction of the lathe itself.

When in operation the lathe is run by a fifty-horse power engine. It makes one and three-fourths revolutions a minute at cutting speed and three revolutions at polishing speed. When the belt is thrown off and the machine runs free it runs for nearly a quarter of a minute, a fact which shows how well balanced it is. The lathe was first placed in operation in August last.

Sensations of a Balloonist.

this is how the famous French aeronaut Michael Corday describes the sensations of the balloonist:

'Ascent, descent, progress - it all goes on easily and imperceptibly. The registering barometer and thermometer; the pieces of cigarette paper thrown overboard and fluttering about; the changing geographic picture of the surface of the earth; those are the only signs of movement. In the gondola absolute silence reigns, and the higher you ascend the more eager grows the desire to mount higher and yet higher."

Another aeronaut suggests ballooning as an infallible cure for nervous diseases, a treatment, we suppose. based on homeopathic principles.

WHAT IT LOOKS LIKE.

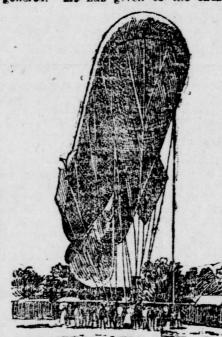

Count Von Zoppelin's Airship That Flice. as It Appears to the Spectator, When Starting Of.

If Count Von Zeppelin, the German inventor of the latest airship, really has done all that is accredited to him by the press despatches, he is one of the greatest inventive geniuses of the century. By all accounts his airship sails either with or against the wind, is Cirigible, is under the control of its manager and is capable of making great speed. If these facts be verified by further experiment and assured by the future successful working of the balloon, the day of aerial navigation has arrived. At all events, Count Von Zeppelin's airship has certainly hastened the day.

The Von Zeppelin airship is a huge affair, more than 400 feet in length and over 40 feet in diameter. It is cylindrical in shape, with pointed ends, and built of aluminium, covered with canvas. All the metal work of the airship-that of the interior framework and of the two cars suspended from it-is of the new metal and combines lightness and strength to an incredible degree. The motive power of the balloon is furnished by two Daimler motors, each of 16 horsepower, one in each car, and they furnish enough power to drive the construction at a high rate of speed. The lifting of the airship is provided for by the enormous quantity of hydrogen which it contains and its steering apparatus consists of five rudders, four of which control its lateral direction and the its ascent and descent. The body of the vast airship consists of 18 compartments, which contain 17 distinct and entirely separate gas chambers. Their separation obviates the danger of the nonrising of the balloon through leakage of gas from some of them

The inventor of the marvelous airship is an old man about 65 or 70 years of age. He has gained much military renown in his native land and attained the rank of lieutenant general. He has given to the cause of aerial flight many years of earnest research and study and all his fortune. He gained his first experience of balloons in the United States, while serving as military attache during the civil war.

His Wife a Canadian. Count Von Zeppelin, whose experiments with airships are attracting so much attention, is married to a Canadian girl. His wife is a daughter of Mr. William H. McGarvey, whose career is noticed in Morgan, Mr. Mc-Garvey was formerly Mayor of Petrolea and later Warden of Lambton. He contested the West Riding unsuccessfully against the late Mr, Pardee. In 1881 he went to Austria. and became the principal owner of the oil wells in Galicia. His daughter married Count Eberhard Von Zeppelin in 1895.

VELLOW ARC LIGHT

Violet Color Softened by Use of Combina-

While the electric arc is the most economical method of producing artificial illumination known, the violetblue color of its light has always been considered objectionable. According to Engineering, a German firm has attempted to alter the color, making it more yellow, like sunshine, by impregnating one of the carbons with salts of calcium, silicon and magnasia. As much as 50 per cent. of these salts imparts to the arc light the characteristic reddish-yellow flame of the sodium This combination carbon, only the upper one being of this composition, consumes more rapidly than the pure carbon rod, but this is overcome by making it of larger dimensions, so that even at the increased rate of consumption it will last just as long. Tests of the candle-power produced by such carbons show a remarkable efficiency.

Startling Results of the Recent Mock Battle in the Mediterranean - Resourceful Methods in Maneuvering -His Tactics Have Been Pronounced the Cleverest in Naval Annais-His Great Triumph.

It is said that mock battles and manoeuvres can give no actual idea of what would happen in similar conditions in real warfare because the element of danger is absent, and men are not so likely to lose their heads as when under real shot and shell However that may be, such manoeuvers are no doubt better than nothing, for they teach new and scientific movements and stratagems. At the manoeuvres of the British fleet held recently in the Mediterranean Lord Charles Beresford astonished the naval authorities and won a great tri-His tactics have been pronounced the cleverest in naval annals It has long been Lord Beresford's theory that torpedo boats are practically of no use. Speaking in the House of Commons, he asked the Admiralty to furnish an old warship armed under his directions, of which he would take command with a volunteer crew raised by himself and defend it successfully against the attacks of any number of torpedo boats discharging real torpedoes. He said he would sink every one of the little

This speech of his caused great excitement, although naturally his offer could not be accepted, but the theory was tested in the recent sham battle in the Mediterranean, in which the fleet was divided into two parts, one in command of Admiral Fisher and the other under Lord Beresford.

Beresford was blockaded in the port of Mitylene by Fisher's torpedo boats, and Fisher's fleet was hovering about and lying in wait outside. Beresford's task was to coal his fleet, then get out of the harbor and attack Fisher It was certainly a great task, with the veteran Fisher watching his every move as a cat watches a mouse: but, considering Lord Beresford's remarks about torpedo boats, this task was just to his liking. He secured a number of launches and put lights on them in such a way that they exactly resembled his own ships; then by means of these he decoyed the torpedo boats on a false trail, while he quietly slipped away to sea, with every light out on board his ships. Not one of his fleet was touched. This interesting performance being over, he proceeded to mislead Fisher's scouts with false signals and caught the hostile fleet entirely unprepared off the Island of Lemnos.

Fisher's squadron was steaming in parallel columns, and Beresford manoeuvred his ships so skillfully that the admiral had no opportunity to change this formation or to do anything but clear decks for instant action.

Beresford ran his ships in single file right in between the lines, enabling him to fight with both broadsides while each of Fisher's vessels could use but one. The victory was complete and undeniable, as the umpires were obliged to admit.

THE FIRST TROUSERS.

They Originated During the Pride of the Assyrian Empire. The first pantaloons or trousers were made in Assyria, says St. Nicholas. In the reign of King Asshurizirpal (883-858 B. C.) horses were introduced in the army as cavalry. Here, now, was a problem; the cavalrymen had to have some sort of a uniform, and it was impossible for him to wear a skirt and ride astride a horse. The tailors to His Majesty's armies wagged their heads a long time ever the problem, and finally decided that the only way out of the difficulty was to cut the cavalryman's skirt from hem to waistband in both front and rear, letting each side fall on its respective side of the horse. As can readily be imagined, this split skirt made an exceedingly poor article of clothing. The law of heredity, however, is full of surprises; this humble apology for a garment was destined to be the father of the original pantaloons. It took the tailors of Assyria over a century to solve the problem of the horsemen's clothing. "Why not," said one of these workers with the needle and shears, "sew together the edges of each division of skirt and thus form a separate skirt for each leg?" -- or, in other words, he invented a pair of pantaloons.

COUNT VON BLUMENTHAL

Famous German Strategist Has Been Reported Seriously Ill at His Residence in Beritn.

Count Leonard Von Blumenthal, the eminent German soldier, last of the generals who were conspicuous in the Franco-Prussian war, and one of the most distinguished strategists of the German army, is reported seriously ill in Berlin. Count Von Blumenthal was given his title of "graf" in 1883 and was made field marshal in 1828. His missions to England for the German Government were many and important In 1850 he was dispatched to Great Britain with special military propositions and was rewarded with the order of the Red Eagle. In 1871 he represented the Emperor at the military manoeuvres at Chobham, and was enlisted with other affairs of gravity in connection with the war department.

On July 30 last Count Von Blumenthal was 90 years old. He was a soldier from his boyhood. In 1827, when but 17, he was commissioned a second lieutenant in what is now the Fusilier Guards. In 1846 he had risen to be premier lieutenant in the topographical division of the general staff. His first fighting was done in the streets of Berlin during the disturbances of 1849. He took part in the Schleswig-Holstein campaign, fought in the skirmishes at Auenbull, in the battle of Colding, and in the battle of Fredericia.

Having meanwhile risen to the rank of colonel, Von Blumenthal, on December 15, 1863, was appointed chief of general staff of the combined army against Denmark. This was the first opportunity he had been given to showing his fine abilities as a soldier. For the brilliant manner in which he stormed the trenches at Dueppel he was promoted to major general, and after the peace he was made chief of the general staff of the second army, receiving the oak leaf of the Order of Merit and the star of the Order of the House of Hohenzollern. After the outbreak of the war with France Gen. Von Blumenthal was appointed chief of the general staff under the supreme command of the crown prince. When the latter was presented by the Emperor with the Iron Cross he declared that Gen. ing of the honor as was he. The great strategist has been living in retirement for many years.

REV. FREDERICK BROWN.

Clergyman Who Guided the Allied Force From Tien Tsin to Pekia.

Rev. Frederick Brown, under whose guidance the allied forces marched from Tien Tsin to Pekin, is a mis sionary and the presiding elder of the Tien Tsin district of the Methodist Episcopal mission in North China. Mr. Brown has labored in the land of the Manchus and Tartars for upward of seventeen years. In that time he has traveled much between Tien Tsin and Pekin, and, thorough ly familiar as he was with every foot of the way, no better guide for the

REV. FREDERICK BROWN. forces in their march of relief could have been found. When the outbreak of the Boxers occurred in Fekin Mr. Brown was the last foreigner to get safely away. Later he went to Che Foo, from which point he sent nearly all the unofficial cable despatches describing the situation in China. He stood upon the wall of Pekin during the first engagement, and was within a few feet of Captain Reilly when that brave officer was killed. He refused all compensation for his ser-

An Irish Bog on Its Travers.

A boy several acres in extent, situated rear Lisdoonvarna, County Ennis, says the London Graphic, October 11, began to move on Tuesday, owing, it is believed, to recent heavy rais. Gathering momentum as it reded forward, the bog pushed its way in an overwhelming mass across some low-lying lands, completely covering a dwelling house which stood in its way. The only inmates of the house were Mrs. McCarthy, a widow, aged 68, and a weman named Egan, aged 28. Both perished. Their bodies were recovered yesterday.

THE SACRED CAVE OF ZEUS

Discovered in Cretan Mountains by Director Hogarth. Deep in the tough heart of the Cretan mountains has Mr. Hogarth, the director of the British school in Athens, been digging for months, the sacred cave of Zeus being the object of his zeal. Recently he returned to London and added to what has recently appeared on the subject of his exca vations. The cave is sacred to Zeus because his mother, Rhea, is supposed to have hidden him there to save him from the cannibal propensities of his father. It lies about 2,000 feet above the level of

For some fifteen years past the natives have been finding ancient objects there. One day a man rested his candle in a niche of the stalactite pillars with which the lower cave is lined. Something glittered behind it, and this proved to be a venerable offering placed there some 3,000 years ago. Other niches in other stalactites yielded the same finds, weapons or imitation weapons, that had been offered to Zeus, and needles and depilatory instruments offered to his mother. To collect these objects Mr. Hogarth employed women because their eyes were sharper and their touch lighter than the men's. They fished the treasures out of the niches by means of the tweezers used by the natives in their charcoal fires. He gave them "back-sheesh" for everything they found. They enjoyed the work and rejoiced in the pay.

So great was the quantity of antiquitles found by these women that Mr. Hogarth believes it will take him seven years to study and classify them -London Daily Mail.
