FIGHT ON WITH LONDON ELECTRIC

City Will Serve Notice on Company to Get Its Poles Out of the Way.

WHAT WILL RESULT BE?

Looks as Though Negotiations For the Purchase of the Company Will Receive a Severe Jerk.

In spite of the fact that negotiacions are in progress for the purchase of the London Electric plant, immediate steps will be taken by the commissioners to clear the city's line

The commissioners assert that the high tension line from the sub-station on the Hamilton road to the Horton street plant is being held up by the company. Little work has been done $2,000. That was also refused. on that line, owing to the fact that the company's poles are of such an uneven nature that the commissioners cannot erect their wires under present conditions.

The London Electric will have to remove their poles or make them uniform in height, in order to allow the city to construct the line to the powerhouse. The order is a blanket one, and will cover the entire system of the company in London.

This line is the important one, so far as the city is concerned, as it will be impossible to supply power to the city until it is built.

Cause of Trouble.

As a matter of fact, this part of the construction work has been the cause of much heart-burning on the part of the commissioners and the engineering staff, and repeated conferences have been held between the city representatives and the company officials. No solution has been arrived at, up to the present time, and with Niagara power but three weeks away, and the city's lighting contract expiring in a month's time, it is necessary that immediate action be

SHORT OF FOOD

Wreckage of Boat Carrying G. T. P. Supplies Is Serious.

Arthur, Oct. 29. -- Two thousand men in the construction camps of the National Transcontinental Railway, north of Nipigon, are threatened with a food famine by the grounding of the steamer Ombabika, operated by Revillon Bros., on Lake Nipigon, at Jackfish Island. Whether it will be possible to release the boat cannot be stated now, but if not there is likely to be a serious shortage of food in the construction camps before supplies can be taken in over the

CITY DECIDE TO GO TO ARBITRATION

Notice Has Been Served Regarding the Parke and Gerry Flats.

Notice has been served on the owners of Parke and Gerry flats that arbitration proceedings will be commenced at once. City Solicitor Meredith has forwarded the legal papers on behalf of the city and the proceedings will be carried to an issue at an early date. Valuators have been named by the city and they have forwarded their eport to the commissioners."

As a result of their report an offer of $3 500 was made for the Parke property. This was refused, the owners merely desiring the price agreed upon when the land was first select ed as part of the property needed for the artesian well scheme, namely, $4.

An offer was also made for the Gerry Flats. It is not known what amount was spoken of in this deal. but it is understood that it was about

PRETTY SMALL BUSINESS

Mr. Stevely Is Not Pleased With the Strictures of the Watch-Dog of the Council.

Ex-Mayor S. Stevely was named delegate from the London & Port Stanley Board to go with the deputation to Ottawa on Tuesday last, and the criticism of Ald. Richter as to his right to go at the city's expense is not well founded, it is claimed. Mayor Beattie has the official list of delegates named and Mr. Stevely's name is one of those therein. This MR. The official list from the council and the London & Port Stanley board is as follows: Mayor Beattie, Major Beattie, M. P., Senator Coffey, Ald. Eckert, Ald. Jeffries, Ald. Saunders, Ald. Ashplant, Ald. Fitzgerald, Ald. Underwood, T. H. Purdom, K. C., Geo. C. Gibbons, K. C., Ex-Mayor S. Stevely, Arthur W. White, J. I. A. Hunt, and Col. Gartshore.

Mayor Says It's Unfair. These were the accredited delegates

according to the two statements. "I think it very unfair to Mr. Stevey, to question his right to go," said Mayor Beattle. "He was mentioned at Consul-General Foster and Mr. Pepthe meeting. It is pretty small business, and there is no justification for any such statements whatever. Why I should be brought into the discussion puzzles me. It is simply an unfair attempt to mix me into someto places where I am not invited. My friends know that." Are Not Alarmed.

Ald. Stevenson and Ald. Rose are not alarmed on the charge of going where they were not invited, and if Ald Richter raises the point in the council or in the London & Port Stanley board they will have their answers ready for him, and Mayor Beattie will explain how they were invited, and how they came to go. "When some of the delegates could not go, I consulted with the members of the board, or as many of them as I could get, and these gentlemen were invited to go," said Mayor Beattie. That is all there is to it. It is not a very serious business, so far as I can

Montreal, Que., Oct. 29 .- Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, returned today at noon by special train from his tour over the system to the Pacific coast, more highly impressed than ever at the progress apparent all through Western Canada. Sir Thomas was accompanied by C. R. Hosmer and R. B. Angus, two directors of the company, and T. P. O'Connor, M. oped portions of the wheat belt. The C. P. R. president looked closely into the irrigated area, on which a special class of occupiers have been settled on the ready-made farms and was greatly pleased to hear from the lips of the people themselves how exceedingly well satisfied they were with their condition and prospects. The result was most encouraging to the company, which will continue this in-

Thoughts on Thanksgiving

His Lordship, Bishop Williams:-"How thankful we should be for our country, for its fertility and its richness, for our government, for its freedom and the blessings we enjoy under it, for our christian civilization, and the christian liberty we have in Canada. These things should make us very thankful on this Thanksgiving Day."

Rev. J. G. Inkster.—There are four great reasons for thankfullness at this time. First, the harvest tells of the fulfillment of God's promise. He that goeth forth bearing precious seed shall doubtless come again bearing his sheaves with him. God has kept that promise.

"Secondly, we must consider the munificence of God's provision. He has not only provided sustenance, but He has provided abundantly.

"Thirdly, there is the minuteness of His provision. He has not only provided for man, but for the bird, and the little animal, so that none should lack. "Fourthly, man's industry has been rewarded." The farmer was anxious during the days of the spring and summer, for fear that his labor would be in vain. Now he worries no more, and we rejoice with him in the bounty of God's providing." "Our national inheritance is something for which we loyal Canadians should give thanks. The last great West is ours to develop, and mould its great wealth and fertility to our physical and spiritual advantage. "We should give thanks to God for our laws, religious liberty. for an open Bible, for our home life, for the sanctity of the Sabbath, and the widespread brotherhood of man, for the bountiful harvests, the broad spirit of philanthropy, and the comparative absence of poverty, the high standard of morals, and for all the good things which have crowned the year with blessings. We owe our Father our heartfelt thanks. Our Thanksgiving should be thanks-living."

ALMOST A RIOT WHEN BRIAND SPOKE

Violent Debate in Paris When Railway Strike Question Came Up.

SOCIALISTS AGITATED

One of the Stormiest Scenes Since Turbulent Days of Great Revolution.

Paris, Oct. 29.—The debate on the railway strike, in which the Government has been bitterly attacked in the chamber of deputies by the Socialists, took a new and dramatic turn today. The session was not only the most violent in the history of the French Parliament, but rivalled in disorder and turbulence the sessions national convention during the French revolution. Premier Briand himself was the pivot on which the drama turned, and the general verdict is that certain government victory has been changed into possible defeat. Smarting under the repeated attacks cialists, and others, the premier leaped to his feet and defending the cabinet's suppression of the strike as a revolutionary outbreak, exclaimed: "If the actual laws had been sufficient we would not have hesitated to resort even to illegality to preserve the fatherland." An uproar followed. The Socialists umped up and were joined by a number of Radicals. With shouts of anger they moved towards the tribune, cry ing, "Resign! Dictator, Resign! Desks were banged and the cham ber was a perfect bedlam with the noise of shouts and cheers. One Socialist tried to fight his way to the tribune to strike Briand.

Throughout all, the premier calm and dignified, and for quarters of an hour patiently waited to make himself heard. Finally, M. Brisson, president of the chamber, amid cries and imprecations from the Socialists, adjourned the debate.

mmense Quantities of Perishable Goods Is Accumulating at Different Points.

New York, Oct. 29 .- The Metropolitan district is still in the grip of the express strike. Nine companies are now affected; more than 5,000 men are out, and rioting continues.

A special order was issued at nolice headquarters tonight holding practically the entire New York police force of more than 9,000 men in reserve for an emergency.

In Jersey City the police, battered by days of street disorder, are still rying to cope with the situation unaided except by private detectives, but tonight Gov. Fort instructed the Third Regiment, N. J. N. G., to prepare for active duty at a moment's notice. Tomorrow determined effort will be made by the companies to distribute the vast amount of express matter that has accumulated, and upon the result of the day will depend whether the Fine Exhibits Destroy Wrong Impressions About the Climate Here.

London, Oct. 29 .- Hon. W. H. Grimmer, of the New Brunswick cabinet, intends to authorize a more active advertising campaign for his province, now that it has a London headquarters, in the windows of which is a very fine display of New Brunswick apples.

The first arrival of this year's crop fetched exceptionally good prices despite the fact that there were plenty of the best English varieties in stock. In one of the best fruit stores in Piccadilly the other day peaches were marked, "Peaches from Canada," and priced at 1 shilling-or one dollar for a basket of five.

Inquiries are growing for this fruit. The shipment of Ontario peaches has been a better advertise- $100,000. ment than Canadians can imagine, for it has knocked on the head many fairy stories about climate and giventhe fruit land investment business a

Whether he is the original one returned from the dead cannot be told, but in any event another mystery has been added to the diamond's long list.

May Yohe Wore It on Sage. The diamond became well-known in America when it scintillated on the breast of Lady Francis Hope, once the beautiful May Yohe, when, after her marriage to the son of the Earl of Newcastle, she returned to the vaudeville stage. She fell a victim to its baleful influence. After a brief married life she eloped with Putnam Bradlee Strong, son of ex-Mayor Strong, of New York. With him she travelled all over the world, growing less and less prosperous year by year. Last February she became the proprietress of a cheap lodging house in Seattle, and then lost even that, and music halls in the cellars of San Francisco. British Drill-Master Writes Play Expounding Code of Youths.

London, Oct. 29.—Having trudged their way all over England and awakened the British Islands with their drum corps at all hours of the day and night, the Boy Scouts now are to be dramatized. The play dealing with the movement is entitled "A Turn." Its author, George L. Bennett, at one time an actor, is a "Scout mas-

One of the maxims of the Boy Scout is that he always must be prepared to do a good turn without hope of reward. In this play a patrol company is encamped in a wood close to mansion of a kindly peer. While the lads are seated about the camp fire a couple of tramps appear and beg a meal. The patrol leader overhears a remark from one of these wanderers about "cracking a crib." He tracks the tramps when they leave the camp, follows them to the mansion and finds that they are going to aid a sort of Raffles burglar, who is a guest in the peer's home, The Scouts not only prevent the robbery, but they round up the entire band and prove the conspiracy. LONDON, MONDAY, OCT. 31.

THANKSGIVING.

Snow on Thanksgiving Day! That is what our New England friends, on, always wish for; perhaps not the solid blanket with which we have been favored, but a little gauzy coverlet. The first American Thanksgiving was held on a November day. amidst the snow-covered rocks of dreary Cape Cod. In the loneliness of the wintry region, the Pilgrims felt of the Providence who had brought them safe to shore, and in whose service they had even left Old England.

Thanksgiving is that it links us by soft ties of love to two great peoples. Not only does the festival suggest a solidarity of the American continent, but it stirs a patriotic and reverent memory of those stalwart Englishmen, the forefathers of Liberalism and Democracy, who refused to bend the knee to Stuart tyranny, and who, though they migrated to an alien people of the United States. They called their adopted country New England. Thanksgiving is a festival of establishment, though on American soil. On a day like this we think of the Americans, who have taken their tone and direction mainly from New England, as a grand branch of English democracy, one with ourselves in love of liberty and in Christian faith. There has never been, in fact, any deep antagonism between our neighbors and the masses of Britain. Goldwin Smith said that the Oliver Cromwell was at Washington. The English middle class, mostly unrepresented in the oligarchical parof the eighteenth century sympathized naturally with the equally unrepresented American Revolutionists. Today, while desiring no rolitical union with the republic, Canadian and British Liberals wish her well and are prepared to meet her half-way in friendly intercourse. To the English ancestors of our neighbors we are grateful for this day of happiness. To the Americans themselves we owe much. The example of their free institutions has made for liberty everywhere. In merely material things our debts are many. Sew ing machines, binders, machinery of all kinds, the incandescent light, ananthracite coal, for these we are into American genius and are glad and thankful that we have made an contribution, by our poets educationists, and other men of genius, to the enhancement of American life. In the gracious mood of this day we will admire the rollicking good nature of our neighbors. Though Dickens, usually so kindly a writer, stabbed them sharply in "Martin Chuzzlewit," they have always loved him. In their universities Can adians are awarded great prizes without adverse discrimination. They love and study our English poets with an enthusiasm at least equal to our own, and are contributing millions to such funds as the Shakespeare monument. Their lavish spending in our Empire is almost a reproach to them.

Canada has special, almost unique, reasons for entering into the spirit of the day. The year has seen a record trade and revenue, an abundant harvest, another nail driven into the coffin of war by the happy settlement of our century-old fisheries dispute. In no country is there a higher standard of comfort, a more equal diffusion of wealth, a greater inheritance of natural wealth, relative to population. Canada has indeed a wonderful destiny if her people develop moral qualities to match the bounty of nature, and make it subserve the higher life,

"the things that are more excellent." Many of us no doubt, have suffered loss in this year of grace. The nation has been bereaved of a great King. There are firesides desolate for the want of a loved one's presence. But, after all, we rejoice with those that rejoice, we believe in life and its blessings. It is better to have loved and lost, if trust remains strong that

GOLD NEAR SOO

Remarkably Rich Strike Reported to Have Been Made.

Sault St. Marie, Oct. 28-News has reached the Soo of one of the most important gold discoveries made in Canada during the past decade. It is claimed that the ore which comes down from the district in the vicinity of Hoban, on the main line of the C P. R., carries free gold in large quantities, the richness of which has not yet been determined, as no assay has yet been made. The lucky prospector who first got on the ground and recorded a claim is William Norquist, of the Soo. Norquist made the discovery ast July, and kept the matter quiet until he had located five claims, which have all been recorded. However, it would appear that news of the new mining district leaked out, and prospectors from Haileybury and Sudbury are flocking into the country, which composes township 49, range 27, Alcoma district. The location secured by Norquist is six miles from Pie Siding, twelve miles from Hoban, due north, and 120 miles from the Soo Norquist is negotiating for the sale of his property to a firm in Colorado

Would Not Allow Him to Marry Princess Alexandra.

PORTUGUESE FAVORABLE

Whole Future of Country Would Have Been Changed Had Wedding Taken Place.

London, Oct. 29.-One young woman n England at least is deeply interested in the Portuguese revolution. That is Princess Alexandra of Fife, the niece of King George, who, if her mother and the queen mother of Portugal had had their way, would have been queen of Portugal before this. Perhaps if she had Manuel would not have lost his throne, for the Portuguese people are keenly alive to the value of the alliance with England and the great trade in port wine and fruit which they do with Great Britain. When Manuel came to England about a year ago he came wife-hunting and his choice was Princess Alexandra. His mother, whose friendship with the Duchess of Fife dates from their school-girl days, was keenly Augusta Stowe-Gullen, Dr. Margaret anxious that the match should be arranged, and the Duchess of Fife was equally eager to unite the two houses, but King Edward and the Duke of Fife vetoed the match. The late King had a veritable flair for politics, and he felt rather than knew that Manuel's throne was shaky, while the Duke of Fife, who is a Scotchman, and has all the Scotchman's canniness, didn't see the force of an alliance with one of the poorest kings in Europe.

Prince Christopher. Since then there have been rumors bout Princess Alexandra's marriage to Prince Christopher, one of the younger sons of Prince George of Greece, but this has been vigorously denied. The chief foundation for it seems to rest in the fact that Prince Christopher is the favorite nephew of Queen Alexandra, and she would like so wealthy as her grand-daughter is sure to be.

future is a good deal of a problem to England. the royal family. She is a niece of the king, of course, but she is also the daughter of the man who is known as "the bourgeois duke." The Duke of Fife was merely an earl before his marriage to the late King Edward's daughter, and he has never been rearistocracy. This is perhaps his own fault, for he is notoriously frugal, although he is one of the wealthiest men in the kingdon, and as a result he

O. Buckmaster, K. C. The new proposals of the London county council are: 1-To lessen the hours of work of oy labor from 6 to 6:30 in the morn-

2-To mise the age of lather boys in barbers' shops from 12 to 14 years

3-To make conditions with regard to the withholding or suspending of licenses of boys trading in the streets. Opening the inquiry on behalf of the London county council, Cecil Walsh referred to the fact that the present bylaws had been laid down as a result of an inquiry made in 1905, but it was eligible for a British title which not until 1908 that the machinery which was necessary for dealing with such measures in such a large area a

Mr. Chan to Mr. Walsh, first mentioned the re markable fact that, of the 10,466 boys under 14 years of age engaged in street trading in London on July 31 Chambers, an Englishman, 35 years of 1909, half were engaged in the newsage, committed suicide here last night paper trade, while about 900 girls were also employed in various businesses. The present bylaws allowed children to trade in the streets under 14 years of age, but limited the hours of working, and the proposed amendment was put forward to prohibit such trading by boys under the age of 14 and by girls under 16. Witness also remarked that considerable difficulty had been experienced in getting children to wear the badges. which were now issued, authorizing them to trade, one of the reasons being that the lder boys laughed at them. With regard to the 900 girls who were employed, more than half of them were flower girls, and these were more exposed to dangers than were the girls who acted as costers, and who usually accompanied their parents. Alec, hastily examining his prize, found that three chambers were loaded. He was about to search for a crack in the door through which he could fire at least one telling shot, when his ear caught the prancing of horses on the paving-stones. Joan, thoroughly enlightened now as to their common peril, had behaved with admirable coolness sice Alec implored her not to stir from the corner between door and window. She was sure they would all be killed, and her lips moved in fervent prayer that death might be merciful in its haste; but she was not afraid; that storm of tears had been succeeded by a spiritual exaltation that rescued by a spiritual exaltation that rescued her from any ignoble panic. The easiest way to do this is to sew it over a circle on a piece of paper, tear-over a circle on a piece of that storm of tears had been succeeded So, when her eyes met Alec's, and she saw that questioning look in his face, she smiled at him with a radiant confidence that was astounding at such a street was full of hussars, and directly beneath, mounted on an excited horse, beneath, mounted on an excited horse, Stampoff was giving furious orders which evidently demanded an energetic storming of the hotel entrance.

Alec threw open the window and leaned out. "Just in time, old friend!" he cried. Stampoff heard him and looked up. "God's bones!" he roared. "Here is the King safe and sound. At them, my children! Dig them out with your sabres! Don't leave a man alive!" "Stop!" shouted Alec. "No more slaughter! I forbid it!"

Stampoff wheeled round on his charger

Stampoff wheeled round on his charger Stampoff wheeled round on his charger and addressed the press of soldiers who had been unable to take any part in the street clearing, since the mob broke and fled when the first rank of plumed caps and flashing swords became visible.

"You hear, my children," he vociferated. "Don't harm anybody who does not resist. The King's command must be obeyed!"

Joan, of course, could only guess what was being said; but she could not fail to recognize the sounds of conflict on the recognize the sounds of conflict on the stairs. to the cup of coffee I left in the restaurant. Meanwhile, Joan must be taken to her room. She is going to faint, and the Lord only knows what has become of her maid!"

Alec was at Joan's side before Felix had made an end. "You will not break down now, sweetheart," he cried. "All danger is over, and, with God's help, you will nover witness such a scene in Deldanger is over, and, with God's help, you will never witness such a scene in Delgratz again."
"I feel thred," she sighed. "I know quite well I am safe, Alec. Somehow, I hardly thought you and I should die today. We have things to do in the world, you and I; but those horrid men frightened me by their shrieks. It must be awful to pass into the unknown—like that!"

She sighed again. To her strained vision Alec suddenly assumed the aspect of Henri Quatre's gilded statue on the Pont Neuf. It did not seem to be in the least remarkable that the statue should leap from his horse and take her in his arms. She was absolutely safe and content. She felt she could rest there a while in safety. when the door was opened, the So, when the door was opened, the King experienced no difficulty in carry-ing Joan through a scene of bloodshed that would certainly never have been blotted from her mind had she remained conscious. Stampoff's commands had been obeyed, and the place reeked of the shambles; but the girl was happily as eedless of its nightmare horrors as the hirty-one men who lay there dead or dying.

Alec bore her out into the street. The Alec bore her out into the street. The sight of him was greeted by a sustained cheer from the troops and the loyal citizens who were now threatening a riot of curiosity and alarm, since the news had gone round that the King was being done to death by rebellious soldiery in the Furst Michaelstrasse, and Delgratz was hurrying to the rescue.

Joan, revived a little by the fresh air and bewildered by the shouting throng that messed around the King, opened her eyes. "Where am I?" she whispered, delightedly ignorant of the fact that she was nestling in Alec's arms under the Skirts are tight, but they are not banded in so closely about the feet. day, Nov. 3rd Bigger, better, grander than ever, we launch forth our Annual Mill End Sale Thursday morning. No need to go into detail, how we have planned for weeks to secure sufficient quantity, superior quality and great price concessions in order that this Mill End Sale for 1910 shall eclipse any previous sale in our history. Success has crowned our efforts, several mills contributing the pick of their surplus stocks, discontinued lines, mill ends and factory seconds, for this big bargain event. Most of the goods are absolutely perfect; some are slightly soiled or have insignificant and hardly noticeable imperfections. All are thoroughly dependable and worth far more than the ridiculous sums at which they will be offered.

Wolverines Outplayed Opponents and Showed Real Class on Saturday.

Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 29 .- It came out today - that class which the Michigan football team had failed to show in three successive games-and the maize and blue 'varsity trounced the Syracuse football organization by a score of 11 to 0. Outtackled, outblocked, outpunted, out charged and outgeneraled, the orange went down to defeat, but the Wolverines did not run away with the game, for thase Methodists battled nobly, in the face of the maize and blue attack, and the men from Ann Arbor fought desperately for every inch of slippery territory that they gained. Two touchdowns and a goal kick completed the scoring.

Opening with a terrific attack, the Michiganders drove the opposing line before them, and then shot Joe Magidsohn across for the touchdown just seven minutes after Conklin had booted the ball on the first kickoff. Then until the watches were eating up the last five was crossed. Michigan was close to the orange goal; Conklin had tried four times than Queen's. E. O. #### PLAN SETTLEMENT OF NORTH COUNTRY

Vigorous Colonization Campaign Winnipeg Conference Called With on Behalf of Temiskaming and New Ontario.

Toronto, Oct. 29 .- The Ontario Government has under consideration a colonization policy for the Temiskaming district and the county served by the Ontario Government line.

It has been urged that the settling of he agricultural lands should be tunned over to the Ontario Railway Commission. Ever since he became chairman of the ommission Mr. J. L. Englehart has conducted a vigorous publicity campaign on behalf of the north.

Under the present arraignment, the colonization branch of the department of agriculture is held responsible for the settling of the land. But the land is under the direction of the department of lands, forests and mines, and the roads and bridges are built by the department of public works. Under the present system the results are not any too encouraging. Instead of a stream of settlers

The commission has been actively calling public attention to the lands of the north. Next spring a special car will be equipped to display the products of the northland, and it will be sent from town to town, in Ontario. The Government's dea is to put down a settler on every five miles or so, along the railway. In this way a nucleus for a settlement would be established, and districts would soon

Montreal. Oct. 29.-Ernest Lemoyne. bank teller in the employ of the Hochelaga Bank, was arrested yesterday afternoon and held by Judge Lanctot on a charge of failing to account for $80,000 worth of property belonging to Mrs. Lecompte. widow of a Ste. Therese merchant. Efforts to obtain bail for the young man were futile. Mrs. Lecompte, in the complaint which she laid before Judge Lanctot, said that some months ago Lemoyne, who is a well-known young man about town, and is of a prominent and highly respected family, made her acquaintance and that of her daughter through a friend. He visited the ladies often, and in a short time, his friends were told that a marriage had been arranged between the young couple.

According to the story told by Mrs. Lecompte, the accused persuaded her to the lieutenant-governor feelingly and give a procuration as trustee for her late husband's estate. This she did, because he told her he would be able to dispose of the properties at advantage through his financial connections.

A short time after, the complainant al. leges, Lemoyne obtained from her the probably the oldest member of the title deeds to the property. A month or so later. Mrs. Lecompte declahes, she was told that Lemoyne had offered the property much below its market value and she ought to obtain back her titles and make Lemoyne account for his trust, but this, she avers, he declined to do. The complaint, which was prepared by Bisaillon and Brossard, is made according to article 363 of the criminal code, which makes it a criminal offence for a trustee to refuse to account for his trust when called upon to do so by its rightful

When Lemovne was brought to the court house, his friends tried to obtain liberation on parole, but this Judge Lanctot refused to grant, until he has proofs that Lemoyne did not dispose of At Queenstown-Arabic, from New any of the property entrusted to him. The inquiry was fixed for next Friday.

A small model which Mr. Kenfield made and operated absolutely proved the success of his invention. Mr. Kenfield has applied for a patent on his machine, and will soon begin work upon a large machine which will be 42 feet from tip to tip, perfectly balanced and operated by a specially constructed 100 horsepower motor. The aeroplane will be constructed of strong material, and will be designed for long flights. The frame will be covered with specially made silk, which will endure in all kinds of weather. May Not Last The permanency of the relief thus forded is subject of some doubt in banking circles owing to the year-end requirements of the London and continental money markets, for which preparations must soon begin. In New York the situation was complicated by the resumption of heavy demands from the interior.

A movement of gold to Canada also set in the most the resumption of the control of set in to meet the crop moving require-ments across the border. In the pres-ence of the hardening money markets of the world, there occurred a downward swing of over a point in the price of British consols, which touched 78% for the first time in over 70 years. The tone of the speculation was sustained by the hope of an early resumption of railroad buying of materials prompted by the confidence that rate increases will be permitted by the interstate commerce commission.

The rumors in the stock market were quite explicit to the alleged terms of an agreement already reached for a com-promise on the rate increase problem and the negotiations of the railroads with the steel companies for material.

Toronto, Oct. 29.—One of the features of this afternoon's programme at the Y. M. C. A. Conference in Massey Hall, was the discussion which followed the presentation of the report on the resolutions concerning the test of active membership, passed by the International Convention held in Washington, D.C., in 1907.

The representatives of the various North American and Old World associations in attendance at the present huge gathering, represent two camps of opinion on the subject. One body is ultra-conservative in the matter of qualification requirements for admission to the Y. M. C. A., while the other includes those who would approve a less exclusive policy. Among the latter class are a number of men who favor the admission to active membership with full privileges of Unitarians, and several sects, who do not acknowledge the Christ. came, as foreshadowed. #### BROKE RECORDS

New York's Ocean Commerce Passed Billion Mark.

New York, Oct. 29.-All records have been broken during the past year in the volume of shipping passing in and out of New York harbor. The value of the imports and exports of merchandise far exceeds that of any other year in the history of the port, reaching a total of $1,587,977,314. The value of the nation's foreign commerce last year was $3,315,372,508, so that New York handled just 48 per cent of the exports and imports.

Next in order, measured by the value of its commerce, ranks Boston, whose foreign commerce last year was $199,522,973.

It is interesting to know that New York's imports of merchandise is valued at almost $1,000,000,000, of 60 percent of the nation's total, while the exports were only a little more than half this figure, or 37 per cent of that of the United States. While New York's commerce has grown at an astonishing rate, the commerce of the country as a whole last year was a trifle under that of the previous

It is now thought probable that a collapse of the Asquith-Balfour "council of eight" will be averted, that the general elections will be postponed be yond the coronation year, and that when Parliament meets on Nov. 15 Mr. Asquith will announce the withdrawal of the "Parliament bill," the Government measure to limit the Lords' vote.

A Broad Scheme. And that this announcement will be ollowed by proposals, having the joint ndorsement of the Liberal and Unionist leaders, for a broad scheme of federal home rule, in which the ambitions

THANKSGIVING DAY

Some History Concerning the Origin of Both These Popular Festivities.

Thanksgiving Day Is, However, One of Very Modern Invention-A Story for Today.

There is perhaps no day in the year which popular imagination has stamped with a more peculiar character than Hallowe'en. It is clearly a relic of pagan times, as the popular customs with which it is associated have no connection with Christianity. Hallowe'en appears to have been chiefly observed in the four countries which now form the United Kingdom, in all parts of which it was until quite recently regarded as a time of supernatural influences, when disembodied spirits walked abroad and other have 100 feet frontage, 80 feet deep, strange phenomena were wont to hap-
