UNION SERVES FORMAL NOTICE UPON COMPANY

Street Railway Employees To Use Injunction Method To Prevent Lower Pay.

CONFERENCE WITH FIRM WILL ALSO BE PROPOSED
President Colbert Intimates Determined Opposition Awaits 3-Cent Reduction.

Saturday afternoon the London Street Railway Company was notified by officials of the street railwaymen's union that "there would be no acceptance on March 1 of the proposed three-cent an hour reduction."

In addition to this the company was invited to a conference with representatives of the union, following which it will be necessary, the men say, to take such legal action as will restrain the company from carrying out its proposal.

This is the first time that the men have officially notified the company that they cannot accept the proposed change in wages, and the decision, although anticipated for a considerable length of time, came after a special meeting of the union executive Friday evening.

Should the company decline to open negotiations it is freely admitted by the men that injunction proceedings will be resorted to in lieu of a strike.

The men claim that the company would be deliberately violating the street railway act should it place any revised schedule of wages into effect without seeking the advice of a board of conciliation.

In discussing the question today John Colbert, president of the union, was emphatic in his contention that the men would fight the company, and desired to point out that among the various municipalities of the province the street car men of London were the lowest paid.

The president intimated a struggle to the finish loomed.

Students Can't Agree Why Love Is Blind

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Feb. 18.—Twenty-one young men and women, members of the university biblical club, who were studying for the ministry here, have answered the question, "Why is love blind?" propounded at the last meeting of the club and here are some of the answers from the women:

"Because he respects other people's feelings."

"So that lovers will not be embarrassed."

"He is too much taken up with the matter in hand to notice other people's feelings."

"He must be blind because he does not profit by his past. Pedagogically speaking, he has merely recapitulated."

"It's luck he is blind or he'd work himself to death."

From one of the men came:

"Take a look around the old town at the spectacles. If he weren't blind would he have made any such combinations?"

HOLDS UP BANK IN EDMONTON

Lone Bandit, Unmasked, Steals $2,000 in Daylight Robbery.

Edmonton, Alta., Feb. 18.—A daring daylight robbery took place at the North Edmonton branch of the Union Bank at noon yesterday, and the masked bandit who held up the manager single-handed at the point of a shotgun, made his escape with about $2,000 in cash. The entire force of the city police are in pursuit of the man, who became lost to view in the bush in the vicinity of Beverley. At 10 o'clock last night no arrests had been made. The bandit operated alone, according to all evidence at hand, although he told the bank manager that a false move would bring bullets from another man. The holdup left the bank by the front door, and a few minutes after the manager emerged and fired three shots after him. That was the first intimation outsiders had of the crime, but they joined in a whole-hearted pursuit.

The posse, following tracks in the snow, found the trail, leading in the direction of Beverley, but could not sight their man. A party of surveyors working in the vicinity gave the last clue as to where the bandit was last seen, and the local police authorities took up the chase from this point.

AHRENS TO STAY IN KITCHENER

CLAIMS BOTTOMLEY GAVE HIM WAR STOCK TICKET

London, Feb. 18.—(Canadian Press)—In the course of the opening of the trial of Robert Bigland yesterday at the Shropshire assizes on a charge of inciting three persons to blackmail Horatio Bottomley, M. P., during the Wrokin-by-election in 1920, Bigland's counsel alleged that his client had lent money to Bottomley, and Bottomley in 1918 had given him a ticket in what he called was stock combining, saying that he had arranged that, Bigland or his nominee should win the third prize of £2,500 in war bonds. Counsel added that the prize was actually won by Bigland's niece, Bigland went to Wellington, said counsel, with the idea of returning the money and clearing his conscience.

CLAIMS PRICE OF WIVES HAS DOUBLED IN SOUDAN

London, England, Feb. 18.—Lord Dewar, speaking at a meeting of the Leysian Mission here, said that profiteering had spread everywhere since the war, even into the Sudan, where it had extended to the price of wives.

"In the Sudan before the war," he said, "a wife could be got for four spearheads. Now the price has doubled; one has to pay eight spearheads. In the cattle country it used to be four cows; now the price is seven cows."

RADIAL ISSUES LIKELY SOURCE OF BIG DISPUTE

Far-Reaching Question May Involve Future of Public Ownership.

GOVERNMENT WILL NOT GUARANTEE RADIAL BONDS

Sir Adam Beck Leads Faction Seeking More Authority for Hydro Commission.

(Written for the Canadian Press by R. K. Carnegie.)

Toronto, Feb. 18.—By Canadian Press.—With the opening of the Ontario Provincial Parliament, the forecast is heard on all sides in the legislative halls and corridors at Queen's Park that the measure around which will revolve the greatest arguments during the session, will be the hydro radial bill, which the government plans to introduce. It is just possible, of course, that the separate school question will burst like a comet into the political sky and bedim other issues, which now appear brilliant and imposing, but with the exception of that possibility the radial bill looks like the big dispute.

It is a far-reaching question, on the disposal of which may largely depend the future of public ownership in this province. It is of great importance to the more densely settled portions of Ontario, but it should, and no doubt does interest the more thinly inhabited constituencies.

Many a man who 15 years ago was as little concerned with the hydro-electric projects as he was with China's problems, is today using hydro energy to light his house and all his silos, so that it is hard to prophesy which townships will be outside the electric railway schemes of the future.

Guided by Commission. The view taken by the Drury Government is that if municipalities want to build and operate, they are free to do so by obtaining a majority vote of the ratepayers, but that the government will not assist them to finance the schemes, either by guaranteeing bonds or by any legislation which would give anyone the right to fix the slightest responsibility on the province as a whole for losses which these railways may entail.

The Sutherland commission, which the government appointed early in its regime, went extensively into the radial projects, which had been proposed under the Conservative Government, and pressed again when the Farmer-Labor coalition came into power. This commission came to the conclusion that if these railways were built, the most of them at least would be more apt to produce deficits than profits for some years to come. The Drury Government has been evidently guided by a great extent by the finding of this commission, as well as the history of the steam railways in this country.

If the municipalities want to take the chances, well and good, but the government will not be responsible to the extent of giving the investors the protection of a railway which would contract a bond in case of failure, as well as a group of municipalities.

The premier has since gone farther and opposes the proposal that municipalities issue debentures which would be turned over to the Hydro-Electric Commission, so that this commission could then sell bonds to finance the undertaking with the debentures as security for the bond issue. The ground for opposing this is the opinion that if the Hydro Commission issued the bonds, the provincial government could not escape financial responsibility in case of failure, whether it actually guaranteed the securities or not.

Opposition Assured. This attitude is pretty sure to be opposed by those members of the opposition who stand for a vigorous prosecution of hydro radial schemes. While they may not be prepared to go as far as to want the province to guarantee the bonds, they will insist on much more generous provisions in the bill by which to enable the municipalities to sell the securities than the government has seen fit to include.

There will be minor points on which the status of the Hydro-Electric Commission in regard to radials. The original draft of the new bill provided that the municipalities behind any radial scheme could select any commission they chose to manage the project, and in this way could select the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission.

URGE NATIONAL SYSTEM

Speaker Challenges Bishop Fallon To Accept Education Freed from Religion.

Ottawa, Feb. 18.—A public school ratepayers' meeting in St. George's parish hall last night to protest against any redivision of taxes to further benefit separate schools, formed themselves into a Public School Defence League, with a nominating committee empowered to form an executive that will institute a local campaign. The committee is headed by J. R. Hill, chairman of the public school board. Public School Trustee Harold Shipman presided at the meeting, which was attended largely by local Orangemen, Protestant clergy and laymen.

Mr. Hill pointed out that if Ottawa taxes were divided according to the school population, separate schools would get the majority of taxes. Also that many companies serving the public in Ottawa voluntarily paid a proportion of their taxes to the separate schools.

The new tax move was characterized by Rev. R. Jefferson as another illustration of the Roman Catholic Church's desire to further its political ambitions. What he most regretted was that it should stir up racial and religious feeling in Ontario and Quebec which had begun to die down.

Laud Ontario Law. "Give us Ontario's law, and the Protestant minority in Quebec will be well satisfied with what the Roman Catholic minority in Ontario claims unjust treatment," Rev. J. A. MacFarlane of Quebec, said. "In many parts of Quebec 76 per cent. of the neutral panel goes to the Roman Catholic schools and 20 per cent. to Turn to Page 3, Column 3.

AHRENS FREED BY KITCHENER JURY VERDICT

Maintains Composure That Marked Conduct During the Trial When Discharged.

COURTROOM TENSE AS DECREE BRINGS FREEDOM

Foreman Announces Decision After Deliberation of Three and a Half Hours.

Special to London Advertiser.

KITCHENER, Feb. 17.—Carl Ahrens, charged with the murder of his wife in the Grand River on the evening of Nov. 16, is a free man, having been declared not guilty by a jury at 8 o'clock tonight and promptly discharged by Justice Latchford following the rendering of the verdict.

The jury was out three and a half hours. It was a dramatic moment when the jury returned to the court room. The court had been adjourned from 6:30 until 8 o'clock, and Justice Latchford had just resumed his bench duties with a civil case when the foreman of the jury rapped on the door and informed the waiting sheriff that a verdict had been arrived at.

When the verdict was delivered no signs of emotion showed on Ahrens' face.

He maintained the same attitude of composure that had characterized him during the trial.

Discharges Prisoner. In discharging the prisoner, Justice Latchford said: "The jury, after patiently deliberating and considering the evidence, has found you not guilty of the most serious charge that can be laid against any man. You and you alone know in fact whether you murdered your wife or not. If you are innocent you have the satisfaction of it. If guilty in fact I am sorry of it, because I feel that in the most joyous moments, when loving eyes look into loving eyes, a face will rise before you and come between such pleasures. You are discharged."

Ahrens then left the courtroom accompanied by Governor Cook of the county jail.

In the corridors he was surrounded by friends who were overcome with joy at the verdict.

His lordship was quite impartial in his charge, placing stress upon strong points of the crown's evidence, and discarding other points which might lead to an unfair inference in connection with the accused.

Amends Statement. He amended his previous statement to the grand jury that the case was one of murder or nothing, and stated that the jury might bring in a verdict of guilty of manslaughter if from their deliberations they were convinced that Ahrens had brought his wife into a position of peril knowing that a slip of the pole she used in propelling the boat would precipitate her into the water, and after that had happened he did not make a very reasonable effort to save her life.

He especially counseled the jury that if they were truly convinced of the story Ahrens told in evidence was a true story they were to bring in a positive verdict of not guilty.

The principal points emphasized by his lordship in going over the evidence was the fact that although there was a friendship existing between Carl Ahrens and an unnamed Toronto woman there was nothing in the evidence to show that they had had at any time intimate relations. He declared, however, that the friendship was of sufficient strength to attract Carl Ahrens away from the employment, association and pleasure of the attractive summer camp on several occasions to visit this lady in Toronto.

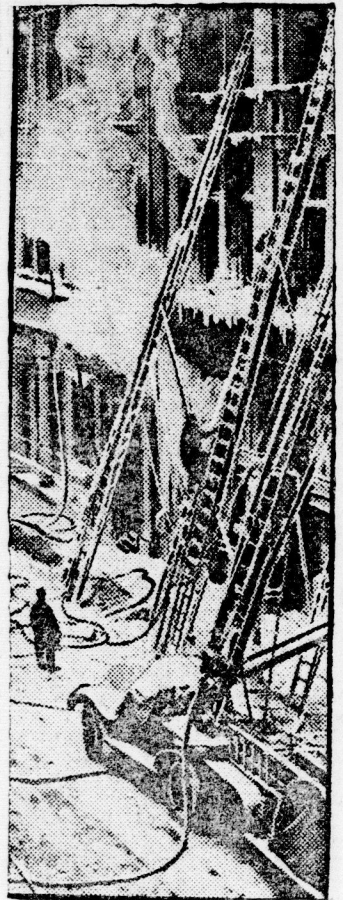

Cites Auto Lack.

His lordship also dwelt upon the fact that Ahrens had provided a motor car to take his wife to his parents' home when she arrived, and had also provided a motor car to take her for a medical examination for insurance the next day, but that he did not provide a motor car to take her to the camp in spite of the fact that to go by street car he had to get off at a point two miles distant from the Webber farm and walk a slushy road and cross the river in an uncomfortable punt to get to their destination.

Another feature of the evidence, which was emphasized by Justice Latchford, was the fact that when the body of Mrs. Ahrens was found, it was in a humped-up position with the clothing over the head.

Ahrens' reason for taking his wife to the camp was also dwelt upon by his lordship, who stated that pictures of the camp and camp life were shown to Mrs. Ahrens, with the result that she expressed a desire to see the place.

CRITICIZES WORK OF ARMS PARLEY

Norman H. Davis Fears U. S. Embroidery in European Alliances.

New York, Feb. 18.—Criticism of the Washington conference on armaments and Far Eastern questions was voiced in an address last night by Norman H. Davis, former United States under-secretary of state, who said it had been "anything but an American diplomatic victory."

Mr. Davis, speaking before the council on foreign relations, centered his attack upon the four-power treaty, which, he declared, left the British and Japanese fleets in control of the Far East. It also seemed, he argued, that instead of getting rid of the Anglo-Japanese alliance, the United States had entered it, enlarged it, and changed the territory covered by it.

Through the treaty, he said, Japan obtained from the United States a pledge of good behavior in the Pacific without giving a reciprocal assurance. The United States' entry into the pact, he added, might lead this country into the European system of alliances, such as have made wars general instead of localized, rather than toward the League of Nations "for any other genuine association of nations."

TO BUILD ROAD FROM TORONTO TO QUEBEC

Toronto, Feb. 18.—"There will be a good surfaced road from here to the Quebec boundary by next fall," said Hon. Frank C. Biggs, minister of highways, today. "It will not be a paved road, but it will be good, serviceable highway that will greatly improve the conditions of motor traveling between here and the sister province."

The minister pointed out that the Quebec government had started taking soundings for a bridge across the Ottawa River, not far from where it joins the St. Lawrence. At that point there is a portion of the province of Quebec on the west side of the Ottawa River. There is a splendid road from Montreal to where the bridge is to be built. The Quebec government will only have to build the road from the new bridge to the Ontario boundary, and there will be a splendid automobile road right from Windsor to Montreal. The minister expressed the opinion that this would be a fact by next fall.

HEART-BROKEN WIFE ASSURED OF EARLY PROBE

Claims Her Letters to Imprisoned Husband Never Delivered.

SECRETARY LANCE GETS WORD FROM DEPARTMENT

Mrs. McDonald To Remain in Home of London Citizen.

"Clara isn't writing; she doesn't care any more," writes despondent William Angus McDonald as he sits and broods in his lonely cell in Kingston Penitentiary.

"Here I am heart-broken. I write and write, and he does not get my letters," claims Mrs. McDonald hysterically as she seeks information as to why her husband does not get her mail.

McDonald is the London man sent to Kingston for five years for what is alleged to be the crime of another. Today a legal battle is under way to secure his release, that he may return to his wife and three little children.

Numerous crosses have beset this little family in the last few months. The husband, it is charged, has been unjustly branded a convict. The wife endeavored to battle for herself and children, undertook work. She fell and broke her wrist. Then members of the family she was caring for developed quickly that dreadful malady, the white plague. Mrs. McDonald, with her little girl, were in their midst.

Letter to Relatives.

Then comes the letter from her husband to relatives, "Clara don't care." It was only after the joint efforts of Dr. W. T. B. Mitchell at Westminster Hospital and the father of the children being cared for by Mr. McDonald and Egbert McManis, arrangements were finally made to get 11-year-old May McDonald into the Byron Sanatorium. She was taken there Friday. She is stricken with the illness, it is believed, that in eight weeks proved fatal to her mother. Six-year-old Nellie is also afflicted, but her condition is materially better than that of her sister.

In her utter helplessness, due to her broken wrist, with her little girl by her side, also in danger of contracting the dread disease, and with her worry about her husband and her dependent children, the doctors believed that Mrs. McDonald was in grave danger of contracting the disease herself.

Condition Improved.

However, today her state of mind is much improved. Mr. McMane does not want her to leave as she is proving as nearly as possible a perfect foster-mother for his motherless little children.

She must now wait for the all seeming slow movement of the law to see whether her husband will obtain his freedom.

The latest word which reached the city on Friday afternoon is encouraging. It was from the minister of justice at Ottawa and was addressed to Secretary Ed. Lorne of the Soldiers' Aid Commission. The important part of the letter read:

"The case of William Angus McDonald is now being investigated and will in due time be submitted to his excellency the governor-general."

WANTS COURTS TO SIFT BISHOP FALLON'S PLEA

W. D. McPherson, K.C., Doubts Legality of Separate School Proposals.

BELIEVES JURISTS MUST DECIDE NEED OF CHANGE

Would Not Permit "Channel of Separation" To Be Further Deepened.

TORONTO, Feb. 17.—The arguments of Bishop M. F. Fallon of London regarding the constitutional rights of Roman Catholic schools in Ontario as propounded in a Massey Hall address here, were challenged today by W. D. McPherson, K.C., in a lengthy survey of the case in Cook's Church.

Mr. McPherson divided the subject under two headings, first the question of "Secondary Education," and, secondly, the question of "Apportionment of Taxation."

By detailed references to the act of 1867, to the British North America act of 1871, to various educational authorities of that period, and to Bishop Fallon in his "open letter" and in his address, Mr. McPherson contended that on neither of these questions have the Roman Catholics of Ontario ground for any extension of their present privileges.

More than that, Mr. McPherson stated that Bishop Fallon and his supporters are primarily wrong in the method by which they seek to gain their ends.

Before petitioning Parliament for redress of constitutional grievances, he argued, the existence of such grievances must be found by the courts, whose duty it is to interpret the law. It is to the courts, therefore, and not to Parliament, asserted Mr. McPherson, that Bishop Fallon should apply for information, definition and decision.

Should Go to Courts.

Suggest "Book of Martyrs", Teapot, Umbrella as Royal Wedding Gifts

LONDON, England, Feb. 18.—"What wedding present would you like to give to Princess Mary?" was the theme for essays given to a class of 10-year-old girls in a North London school. One child replied: "A fur coat—I would let my mother choose it, for she knows a good thing when she sees it. It would be lined with red satin, and have her name in gold letters across the center of it."

Another thought a white teapot cover would be of the most appropriate—with the princess' photograph and that of her husband on one side of it, and the flags of the United Kingdom on the other side. "A very nice umbrella to use when it is raining," a bookcase with books like "From Log Cabin to White House" and Fox's "Book of Martyrs."

One child said she simply wished the princess health, wealth and happiness.

lie procedure in petitioning Parliament, Mr. McPherson said:

"The granting of a remedy, if any is necessary, of course, rests with the Legislature, but before the remedy is required to be pronounced it must first be ascertained by the courts that there is a grievance which the petitioners are entitled to have remedied."

The first question, that of "secondary schools," Mr. McPherson said, depends on the act of 1867, and is therefore constitutional. He reviewed carefully the 28th section of this act, and showed the distinction between common schools and grammar schools. The latter, which Bishop Fallon had claimed to be the only schools of the time, Mr. McPherson said, were in reality secondary schools.

"The authority of the common schools, ending therefore," he said, "at the time with the primary work and not being equipped or capable of being equipped with the necessary authority, funds, teachers or appliances for carrying on the secondary work, and the separate schools and their trustees being limited to the same powers and authorities as the common, how can it be successfully argued that separate schools could encroach upon the work of the grammar schools. The territory for grammar school work was already fully and exclusively occupied by the grammar schools, the name of which was changed to high schools and collegiate institutes by the Legislature of Ontario in 1871, by chapter 33, entitled 'An Act to Improve the Common and Grammar Schools in the Province of Ontario.'"

No Taxes Diverted.

Dealing with the second question of "apportionment of taxation," Mr. McPherson said:

"I am unaware of any case where taxes levied for the support of separate schools have been diverted from that purpose. If there are any it should not be difficult to have them remedied. The existing law is sufficient."

If there are cases where separate school supporters who are exempted from taxation for common school purposes have been refused the exemption, surely the present law will protect them.

Concluding his address Mr. McPherson said:

"Why should the channel of separation already so long and so deep be lengthened or deepened by making it applicable to secondary education and duplicating any part of the existing machinery in our high schools and collegiate institutes? They have been adequate for 50 years. Let them continue their splendid work."

DOUBT WISDOM OF BOND ISSUE

St. Thomas Trades Council Believes Domestic Use of Gas Will Wane.

RESOLUTION URGES CARE

Advices Unbiased Party Peruse Adopted Cubical System of Measurement.

ST. THOMAS, Feb. 17.—Because they believe that electric power is rapidly displacing gas for domestic use in this city, the local trades and labor council passed a resolution Thursday night calling upon the city council to proceed slowly before voting in favor of a debenture issue of $130,000 to pay for the installation of a vertical retort system in the local plant.

It was stated that information was secured from the service department of the hydro-electric system, to the effect that the use of electricity for domestic purposes has increased 50 per cent during the past six months. For this reason they believe that the situation should be investigated thoroughly before further money is sunk in the plant.

Laud Executive's Economy.

The resolution reads: "While we believe that the present manager of the municipal gas plant and the committee are deserving of much praise through their changing the plant from a losing proposition to a paying concern; and while we believe that a certain amount of gas will always be required, we do think it unwise to expend $30,000 on the plant when consumption may drop considerably in the near future, owing to the encroachments of the hydro-electric. We suggest that the city go slow on the proposition to see how things will turn out before taking action."

The board of education and all workmen of the city will be invited to attend a special mass meeting to be held at the Engineers' Hall by the council Wednesday night next.

It is proposed to ask members of the board of education to explain the need of a technical school in this city.

The council decided to send a communication to Premier Drury asking that the eight-hour day and he fair wage clause be enforced on all government contracts.

Pass Second Resolution.

A resolution was also passed calling upon the city council to appoint an unbiased party to measure buildings under the new plan of the cubical system of fixing assessments, recently adopted by No. 1 committee of the council.

The resolution reads:

"Now that the city council has decided, after long consideration, to adopt the cubical measurement of buildings for assessment purposes, a system which was indorsed by the trades and labor council, we would recommend that the council appoint a disinterested party to go over the work and make correct measurements of buildings which is the first basis of the system."

"We would also recommend that records of measurements with all details entered therein be kept in a convenient place at the city hall for the perusal of any who might be interested."

WANT CHANGE IN TIME SAME DAY

MONTREAL, Feb. 17.—To those cities and towns which intend to adopt daylight saving time this summer, the Railway Association of Canada is appealing for uniformity.

It is pointed out by C. P. Riddell, general secretary of the association, that the railway time-tables will have to be revised in spring and autumn to meet the different needs of summer and winter traffic, and "we are, therefore, suggesting to the municipal authorities that wherever they adopt daylight saving this year, it should start on the same day, and end on the same day as those on which the summer train schedule begins and ends, that is on the first hour of Sunday nearest May 1, and the first hour on Sunday nearest October 1, respectively.

"Trains will continue to run on ordinary suntime, except where suburban services running in and out of cities that have adopted daylight saving may be adjusted to the convenience of the public in such districts," he said.

Delorme To Stand Trial At June Term of King's Bench

MONTREAL, Feb. 17.—Abbe Delorme will not stand trial for the murder of his brother, Raoul Delorme, until the June term of the court of king's bench, it was announced today. The evidence will not be ready by the time the March term opens. The audit of the books and other points in connection with the case have yet to be cleared up.

The will of the murdered man is now the subject of much speculation. Since it was produced at the final session of the inquest by Notary Belanger, with whom it had been deposited by Father Delorme, detectives have been endeavoring to ascertain whether Raoul wrote it as well as signed it.

In this connection it has been stated that a professor of Ottawa College, where Raoul was a student, drew up the will at the request of the young man, and the latter had then copied it out himself.

In order to definitely settle the matter, several attempts to shoot a line aboard having failed, The West Carfax, bound from Rotterdam for Galveston, in messages intercepted earlier in the week, said her fuel and food supplies were exhausted. She carries a crew of 40 men.

SURE SOURCE OF LIQUOR IS FOUND

Guelph License Officials Arrest Pair Believed Operating Illicit Still.

ADOPTED CLEVER RUSE

Engaged Suspect To Obtain Whiskey, Then Intercepted Him Leaving "Place."

Special to London Advertiser.

GUELPH, Feb. 17.—By the arrest of William and John Brohman, license officials believe they have uncovered the source of illicit whiskey in that section of the country around Ariss on the Little Germany road, where the accused were found and a good sized still alleged to be located on the farm.

For some time it has been suspected that an illicit trade was going on in this vicinity, as on January 9 last a young man who attended a dance in the township of Peel was caught with bootleg whiskey in his possession, and ever since that time the officials have been on the alert. It is a peculiar incident, but the same young man who was caught with the goods on him at the dance was the same fellow the officers used in their attempts to get the owners of the still.

Last night this young man was sent to the Brohman place to see if he could purchase any whiskey, and he succeeded in getting a gallon of it, paying $30 for it. When he was coming away from the place he was intercepted by the officers and the liquor taken away from him. This morning a search was made of the place for the still, and it was located by Inspector Grant and Detective Greenaway buried in the snow some distance from the house.

The two Brohmans were at once placed under arrest and word sent to Inland Revenue Officer Feick at Kitchener, who sent out two officers to take them to Kitchener, where they will be arraigned tomorrow. All of the officers arrived back in Guelph this afternoon.

RAILWAY BRIDGE TO COST $350,000

Pere Marquette Road Plans New Structure At Border.

SARNIA, Feb. 17.—Expenditures of $350,000 for a jack-knife drawbridge over Black River across from Sarnia, and additional expenditure near Sarnia for road bed improvement, is announced here tonight by President Frank H. Alfred of the Pere Marquette, as a part of the road's $5,000,000 program for 1922-23.

The new jack-knife bridge over Black River will replace the present drawbridge, which is of the turntable type. Its construction is to be started this year, but will not be completed until 1923, engineers for the road estimate. Approximately $100,000 will be spent this year, and $250,000 next year, is estimated.

Advantage to navigation on Black River is seen in the change, for the new bridge would not block the river channel at all, while the present bridge makes two narrow channels near the mouth of the river. The bridge will be the bascule or winter pulled draw type.

For track laying and new rails $900,000 has been appropriated for the current year, including the purchasing of 15,000 tons of heavy rail and fixtures.

The Port Huron-Grand Rapids division and the Sarnia-Wallaceburg division are to be improved in this work, as is the Toledo-Ludington division. Between Sarnia and Chatham on the Canadian side, new ballast will be placed on the road bed.

PROTEST AGAINST CATTLE EMBARGO

TORONTO, Feb. 17.—Addressing the annual meeting of the Ontario Cattle Breeders' Association today, Hon. Duncan Marshall urged the society to take some active part with regard to propaganda respecting the removal of the cattle embargo in Great Britain. Canada requires a market for her cattle, he said, more so in the coming days than in the past.

As a result of this address a resolution was passed protesting against the continuance of the embargo as unfair and unjust, and calling for its removal, and the placing of Canada on the same basis in this respect as the Irish Free State.

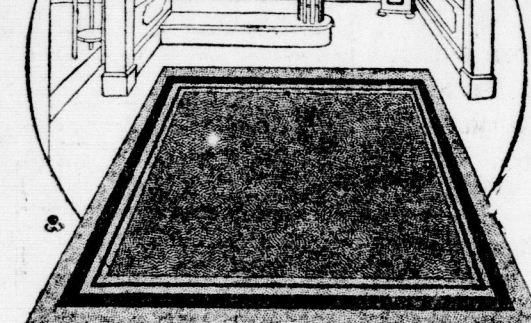

BONOMI WILL PRESENT RESIGNATION TO KING

Rome, Feb. 18.—As a result of yesterday's adverse vote in the chamber of deputies the cabinet of Premier Bonomi decided to present its resignation to King Victor Emmanuel, and the resignation of the ministers will be formally announced in the chamber today, according to a semi-official note issued this morning.

FAILS IN ATTEMPT TO GET LINE OVER SHIP

Boston, Feb. 17.—The coastguard cutter Tampa reported today that she had come up with the drifting ship, ping board steamer West Carfax at a point about 300 miles southeast of the Nantucket lightship. The message said the cutter was trying to send a line to the vessel by drifting, several attempts to shoot a line aboard having failed. The West Carfax, bound from Rotterdam for Galveston, in messages intercepted earlier in the week, said her fuel and food supplies were exhausted. She carries a crew of 40 men.

Each Store must carve out its own destiny, just as each must live our own life.

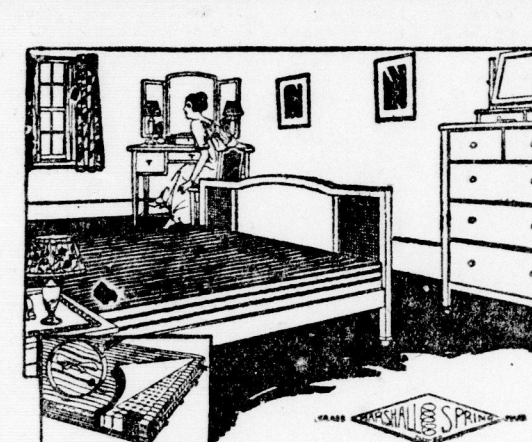

The policy that was outlined by the founders of this business forty-four years ago has seemed sufficient, inasmuch as it has been found necessary to change only minor details.

"NEVER TO OVERESTIMATE A QUALITY," "NEVER TO OVERSTATE A PRICE," are as good rules to follow today as forty-four years ago. This is a great wall about this business, a wall that no power can destroy—for once a breach is made, this business cannot endure.

There is just one quality and one price—the quality is in the merchandise and the price is on the ticket. Add to this, THE GOLDEN RULE IN BUSINESS.

WILL CARE FOR BABES OF SUICIDE

Hamilton, Feb. 18.—The man who is accused of being the father of the two children of Olive Rutledge, the young woman who threw herself out of the seventh-story window of the Bank of Hamilton building, will not be at the inquest next Monday evening. He is not in Hamilton; in fact, he is not in Canada. His friends state that he had been making payments to Miss Rutledge, but that she wanted an agreement under which a regular stated payment would be made. The lawyers were busy in drafting the agreement when Miss Rutledge committed suicide.

The family of the man involved have intimated that they will continue to do something for the children, and they are paying the funeral expenses for the mother.

Makes a Family Supply of Cough Remedy

Really better than ready-made cough syrup, and saves about $2. Easily and quickly prepared.

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you probably could not get as much real curative power as there is in this simple home-made cough syrup, which is easily prepared in a few minutes.

Get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a 16-oz. bottle and fill the bottle with syrup, using either plain granulated sugar syrup, clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, as desired. The result is 16 ounces of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made and saves easily $2. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

This Pinex and Syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the nasty throat tickle and heals the sore, irritated membranes so gently and easily that it is really astonishing.

A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma, there is nothing better.

A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations to break up severe coughs. To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. TO OPEN MOOSE LODGE IN CITY

Organizers Complete Arrangements for Inauguration of Branch Society.

HAS ENROLLMENT OF 60

Founders Set Objective of Two and Fifty Members in London.

Having completed its charter, the new lodge of the Loyal Order of Moose will hold its inaugural initiatory meeting on Friday, Feb. 24, in Oddfellows' Hall, Bank of Nova Scotia building.

Organization of the lodge of the Order of Moose in this city has been going on for a short time past, and now with an enrollment of 60 completing its charter the lodge will be duly and formally opened.

The lodge will be opened, Feb. 24, members of lodges from Toronto, Hamilton, Kitchener, Stratford and St. Catharines will come to London to take part in the putting on the initiatory work for the new lodge.

As soon as the new lodge is under way, a campaign will be set on foot for new members. The objective of the organizers of the lodge, J. F. McSwiney and W. H. Thibodeau, is 250 members in three months, and they say that present indications point to the attainment of the objective within less than the time stipulated.

London Lodge of the Loyal Order of Moose, No. 1205, will be the name of the new lodge.

Through the order is well founded in a strong membership basis in some other Canadian cities, this is the first time that it has attempted organization in London.

The principles of the order are based on fraternalism and brotherhood.

PUBLIC CHANGE OPINION

TOWARDS JAZZ MUSIC

The attitude of the public of late seems to have changed toward music. They have begun to like things that were formerly considered classic and only for opera and the concert hall. Even in the jazziest homes there is a section of the album where real records are kept. Of course, rhythm and tone are the fundamentals of jazz, yet when people hear classical music that they know set jazz they particularly enjoy it. It is no longer new to see a man play a trombone walking around his chair or blow a horn through his hat, or playing two instruments at the same time and simultaneously playing the traps. That sort of stuff doesn't get by any more. The novelty has worn off. People do enjoy, though, renditions of favorite composers such as Grieg, Massenet, Schubert, Chopin and Puccini. They are always popular—even for dance music.

FIND BARRY NOT GUILTY OF KILLING YOUNG BOY

Peace River, Alta., Feb. 18.—John Barry was last night found not guilty by a jury of the murder of 7-year-old Ludwig Sabbe, whose body was found, suffocated in the North Hart river. The prosecution was to the effect that Barry had a dominating influence over Mrs. Sabbe, the boy's mother, which she was unable to withstand, and the crown endeavored to convict Barry on the charge of murder. The inference was that she was a hypnotic subject and that whatever Barry wished she was forced to obey.

THE INTERMEDIATE department of the Dundas Center Methodist Church Sunday school held a most successful night Friday evening. After the serving of supper in the dining hall musical and literary program was enjoyed in the school auditorium. A number of which was the presentation of a play by the members of the E. Clarke's class. Musical numbers on the program were a piano solo by Annie Walde; a cornet solo by James Brown, and several selections by the Sunday school orchestra. A recitation by Frank Clarke was much enjoyed. About 100 were present.

OTTAWA CARPENTERS DEMANDS ADJUSTED

OTTAWA, Feb. 18.—An amicable settlement of the wage dispute between the local carpenters' union and the contractors has been arrived at, and a new wage rate of 70 cents an hour struck, to be in operation until May 1, 1922.

The carpenters had demanded a wage scale of 75 cents an hour, while the contractors had not been prepared to grant more than 65 cents.

Dr. Cl. T. Campbell Leaves Estate of $15,078.93 To His Widow

THE late Dr. Cl. T. Campbell, who died Feb. 2, leaves an estate valued at $15,078.93 to his wife, Mrs. Charlotte T. Campbell, according to the will filed for probate at the court house.

Medicines, medical and surgical instruments and medical books were left to Dr. C. E. Jarvis of London.

All books, pictures, badges and jewelry and everything else relating to Oddfellows were left to the Grand Lodge of Ontario, I. O. O. F., to be delivered to their grand secretary, Toronto.

The remainder of the library, with the exception of such books as may be desired by Mrs. Campbell, go to the Western University.

BANQUET CHURCH CONCERT HELPERS

Knox Church choir entertained those who helped in the presentation of the operetta "O'Hara San" at a banquet in the church schoolroom Friday evening, Feb. 17.

Solos by Miss Margaret McCullough, Morris Westland and George McCormick were greatly enjoyed, as was also a reading by Miss Topley Thomas.

The following toast list was proposed: Rev. Symington proposed a toast to "The King and Canada"; "The Church," by Col. Gartshore; "The Guests," by Dr. Ballantyne, responded to by T. D. McCullough and R. Malton; "To the Ladies" by several single men of the assembly, and a toast to "The Choir," proposed by Mr. Charles Percy, was responded to by the singing of "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

About 130 guests were present. Decorations were carried out in a scheme of red and white.

Mr. Charles Percy outlined the choir program for the coming year, which is to include several variations of the usual choir work.

WILL NOT OPEN VICTORIA SCHOOL

"All the facts will be on the table before the school is finally taken over," Trustee A. E. Silverwood reported Saturday morning relative to the new Victoria public school.

Trustee Silverwood commenced an unofficial inspection of that institution Friday afternoon in an effort to determine the actual source of the lumber used for the flooring in that school. He explains that while he is of the opinion that matters will adjust themselves satisfactorily.

He intimates that there has been certain misunderstanding as to the respective qualities of lumber.

"Contrary to expectations earlier in the week, Victoria School will not open Monday."

WELCOME ADVENT OF IRISH DOMINION

South Africans Also Interested in New Autonomy of Rhodesia.

London, Eng., Feb. 18.—Canadian Press cable. In the course of the speech from the throne at the opening of the South African Union parliament yesterday the governor-general, Prince Arthur of Connaught, welcomed on behalf of the people of South Africa the establishment of the free Irish state as a sister dominion in the British commonwealth of nations.

The governor-general announced that the government accepted the invitation to the Genoa conference, as the union's interest were closely bound up with the solution of the economic problems of Europe. The speech said that the relations of union with Rhodesia in connection with Rhodesia's attainment of self-government would be discussed at a conference.

The governor-general said the government was considering a reduction of railway rates in order to assist in the development of the country's productive resources.

Referring to the Rand strike, he said it was seriously affecting the prosperity of the whole country, and announced the government's intention to appoint a board to inquire into the merits of the strike and present the result of its inquiries to parliament.

LUNENBURG SCHOONER IS ABANDONED AT SEA

New York, Feb. 18.—The British steamship Argalia, from New Orleans to London, wireless today that the Lunenburg, N. S., schooner Kathleen Spindler had been abandoned at sea in a leaking condition about 150 miles west of the Bermuda Islands, and that she had rescued the crew.

The Argalia will proceed to London.

LIVERPOOL TUGBOAT MEN GO OUT ON STRIKE

London, Eng., Feb. 18.—The shipping trade in Liverpool is dislocated, and liners are unable to enter or leave port today, owing to a strike of the tugboat men, says an Evening News message from Liverpool this afternoon.

The strike of the men is against the owners' demand for increased hours with a reduction in wages.

WILL DECIDE ON TECH ADDITIONS

Board of Education Will Convene in Special Session to Discuss Extensions.

ATTENDANCE INCREASES

Ruling That Ontario Government Will Provide Half Cost Still in Force.

When the members of the board of education convene in special session early next week to determine its building plan for 1922 one of the most important phases to be considered from every available point of view will be the proposed extensions at the London Technical and Art School.

On October 28 last the board authorized the preparation of plans for such additions as a gymnasium, swimming tank, auditorium and two classrooms. These plans were subsequently approved by the 1921 advisory vocational committee, and again by the 1922 committee. At the last regular meeting of the board this question was left in abeyance, to be discussed when the entire building plan is out of the way.

With recent legislation the Commercial High School is now a part of the Technical School, and in addition to this, the enforcement last year of the Adolescent Attendance Act added enormously to the attendance.

The increased daily attendance alone, as Principal Beal explains, has compelled the use of the lunchroom and all other available space for classroom purposes. With a day enrollment of nearly 600 students the school is taxed to its capacity.

Taxed to its utmost.

The department of education in Toronto has already deplored the serious lack in the school of any provision for physical instruction. Mr. Beal points out, and the board also has endorsed the need of this, as well as the desirability of assembling-room accommodation, both in the primary and secondary school building program.

When the institution is taxed to the utmost at this moment, the principal emphasizes the fact that in addition to a normal increase bound to be noticed, as in the public schools will be the addition in September next of probably from two to three hundred adolescents.

The government holds that all children under the age of 18 years and who have not obtained their entrance must attend school. There is only one place for them—the technical school. It is explained further that legislation has already been enacted elevating the age limit from 16 to 18 years, and this will be made effective for next year. The school authorities hold, therefore, that the city must look to the future if it hopes to comply with the provincial regulations.

Has Signed Approval.

The ratifiers are also reminded by Principal Beal and his associates that the Ontario government has still in effect a ruling that it will provide one-half of the cost of the proposed extensions, and has already, as a matter of fact, signified its approval of the additions planned.

It is pointed out, however, that no other province like Ontario has taken advantage of this privilege. Seemingly the various boards of trustees throughout the province have been quick to seize this opportunity of enlarging its educational facilities.

This leads to the possibility, however, that at any minute the federal government, from whom this grant is indirectly obtained, may under pressure from Quebec or other of the provinces, cancel the same. Then again, from another angle the auditorium itself would prove of an immense value to the city for conventions, mass meetings and the like.

PLAN OTTAWA SCHOOL FIGHT

The Protestant—not the public schools. Roman Catholics take $2,000,000 annually from the Protestant schools in Quebec.

Mr. MacFarlane believed that Roman Catholics of Quebec, without ecclesiastical interference, would welcome national non-sectarian schools. There was no lack of harmony, racial and religious, except where there was ecclesiastical interference. Change in the Ontario law would mean further disaster in small places where there was proper support for one school only.

Farmer Sued by Cure.

As an example of the "lovely lady" in Quebec, Mr. MacFarlane cited the case of a Templeton farmer sued by a Roman Catholic cure because of the farmer's meeting with a Corpus Christi procession. The farmer had been on his way to church in a car and had allowed 21 feet for the procession to pass. Mr. MacFarlane said. Finally driving along half in the ditch his car had been faced by a hole and he had turned it up on to the road, but because he had not stopped the cure had hailed him into court and he had been fined. The Orangemen of Ottawa, he said, were appealing the case.

R. H. McDonald attacked Bishop Fallon's three-hour Toronto speech, challenging him to accept national schools in which there would be no taint of any religion.

MISS A. L. ARCHER, who has completed 25 years of service with the Anglican missions in Japan, has been forced, on account of ill-health, to spend a year's furlough at her home here, and is now in San Francisco on her way to London. Miss Archer was ordained a deaconess in 1898, and was sent from the Church of St. John the Evangelist to the mission fields.

The London Advertiser

LONDON, ONTARIO, SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 18, 1922.

Place Advertiser Files From 1863 In Library of University

At a meeting of the library board of Western University Friday afternoon it was announced that arrangements were being made whereby the files of the London Advertiser, dating from 1863, would be placed in the library, where students and others might have easy access to them.

The arrangement will facilitate the task of preserving these files, which the library board deems to be of rare historical value to the city and county of Middlesex, in that they are the only complete set of newspaper files which date back beyond recent years.

The files record all the notable happenings spanning a period of approximately sixty years and, according to the estimation of the board, are the only records of the noteworthy occurrences in this district throughout the years past.

Dean Fox addressed the meeting and commended the library on the work that it is doing. The outstanding progress the library was making is clearly shown in the fact that during the month of January, 1921, the library had loaned out only some 600 volumes, while during the same month in 1922 more than 1,300 books had been taken from the shelves for reading.

Miss Marjorie Ross, librarian of the Western University, announced at the meeting that 66 first year students had been successful in library science, a course that is being given at the university.

This is a course which gives the student instruction as to how he can make the most use of any library.

WILL OPEN COURSE IN SOCIAL SERVICE

First Lectures To Be Given in Y. M. C. A. Building Tuesday Night.

The programs for the special course in social service have just been issued by the Western University Extension Department. The first lecture of the course will be given on Tuesday, February 21. Two lectures a week will follow every Tuesday and Friday at the Y. M. C. A., commencing at 8 p. m.

The subjects to be taken are as follows: "The Home and Church as Social Factors"; "Ethical Aspects of Recreation"; "The Scope of Charity"; "Relief and Pauperism"; "The Needy Family"; "Case Method Explained"; "Notes on Social Service Work in London, England"; "Unemployment and How to Deal With It"; "The Health of the Family"; "The Subnormal Problem"; "Some Pitfalls in Social Work"; "Child Welfare"; "The Problem of the Underprivileged Boy"; "The Household Budget"; "Home Preparation of Food"; "The Mothers of the Next Generation"; "Life and Health for London Children"; "Newer Methods of Family Social Work"; "Principles of Home Nursing"; "The Juvenile Court"; "The Problem of Domestic Relations"; "Charity and Charity Organization"; "How Mothers' Pensions Help in Social Conservation."

Following each lecture there will be time allowed for discussion. Tickets for the course can be secured from Lieut.-Col. W. J. Brown, Bank of Montreal Chambers.

Obituaries

BRUCE CARTER.

A military funeral will be given Bruce Carter, who died at his residence at Thamesford Friday. A firing party from London will attend. Bruce Carter was a private in the 18th Battalion. He served overseas four years, and was wounded three times. It was his last wound that proved fatal. Shortly after his return to Canada it was found necessary to amputate a leg in order to save his life. After the operation his relatives were hopeful of an ultimate recovery, but a few months ago he was again taken ill and death resulted. Bruce Carter enlisted when he was 19 years old.

The funeral of James Fallahe, who died on Monday, was held Thursday from the family residence, 388 Dufferin avenue, at 8:30, to St. Peter's Cathedral, where requiem high mass was celebrated by Mons. P. J. McKeon, assisted by Fr. O'Donnell and Fr. Mahoney subdeacon. Interment was made in St. Peter's cemetery. The pallbearers were Mr. Sullivan, W. J. Connor, James Connor, Ed. Shea, Dan Nolan and Mr. Packman.

MRS. MARY LACEY.

The funeral took place Saturday of Mrs. Elizabeth Mary Lacey at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. George Street, 208 Edward street. Mrs. Lacey, who was 84 years old, was the widow of R. F. Lacey.

The funeral, which will be of a private nature, will be held Sunday afternoon.

STRESS FACILITIES OF EDUCATION IN LONDON

The educational convention to be held in the new collegiate institute Friday and Saturday of next week under the auspices of the Union Mothers' Club is an event that will be of interest, not only to parents, teachers and educationalists in the city, but to the whole of Western Ontario.

The object of the gathering is to bring together all interested in educational problems, and at the same time to emphasize the facilities of London as the educational center of Western Ontario. The program will deal with many phases of educational problems from the kindergarten to the university.

Many prominent educationalists are on the program. The Mothers' Club of the city are being congratulated on their enterprise, and from the number of organizations throughout Western Ontario who have already reported that will send delegates, the success of the convention is assured.

MAKES RECORD AT TORONTO.

Miss Muriel Gidley, daughter of Major Gidley, postmaster at Leamington, made the highest record of any junior candidate in the recent Toronto Conservatory of Music examinations held last week at London. Miss Gidley is a pupil of A. T. Craig, organist and director of music at the Leamington Methodist Church.

TEACHERS TO HEAR SALARIES REPORT

Delegation Will Meet Board of Education On Monday.

Members of the board of education anticipate a busy time Monday next when the most important business of the year will be considered.

With a complete report after several weeks of intensive study, the salary committee will meet a delegation from the public, collegiate and technical school teachers, following which a report will go before the board for ratification. It is expected that but a week will then elapse before the salary committee will have made the several readjustments in readiness for the March payroll.

At 4 o'clock No. 3 committee will meet and complete its estimates for 1922, the same to be ready for the board. At 4:30 a special meeting of the board will take place with three important items for consideration—teachers' salaries, the year's building program, and consideration of a request for an increase in salary made by L. E. Carrothers, school architect.

Town Topics.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Say not thou, I will hide myself from the Lord; shall any remember me from above? I shall not be remembered among the many people for what is my soul among such an infinite number of creatures?—Ecclesiasticus 16:17.

AMONG so many can he care?
Can special love be everywhere?

A myriad homes, a myriad ways,
And God's eye over every place?

I asked, my soul bethought of this:
In just that very place of His
Where He hath put and keepeth you,
God hath no other thing to do!

COURT PRIDE TO MARK FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY

Court Pride of the Dominion, No. 550, of the Ancient Order of Foresters, will mark the fiftieth anniversary of the organization of their lodge by a banquet to be given in the Masonic Temple on Monday, 20th of February.

The function will be something out of the ordinary, and many Foresters and guests are expected to attend. Several prominent speakers will address the banquet.

Court Pride of the Dominion was organized in 1872, being one of the oldest lodges in Canada, and the oldest in London.

AWAIT RESULTS IN TAYLOR SLAYING

District Attorney Replies To Letter Purporting To Have Come From Sands.

Los Angeles, Feb. 18.—Investigators of the murder of William Desmond Taylor, film director, were awaiting today to see anything would result from the announcement of Thomas Lee Woolwine, district attorney, that Edward F. Sands, missing former butler-secretary to Taylor, would not be prosecuted on an embezzlement charge entered by his former employer if Sands could prove himself innocent of the slaying of Taylor and untangle the murder mystery.

Woolwine's announcement followed receipt of a letter purporting to have been written by Sands. The writer stated he was in Los Angeles, but could name the murderer and solve the mystery of the slaying. He inquired whether he would be set free in case he surrendered and proved innocent of the slaying.

He asked that the district attorney publish his reply "in any of the Los Angeles papers," and Woolwine made public the letter and the answer, the latter being addressed "To Edward F. Sands, through the public press."

Woolwine stated he had no means of knowing whether the letter was genuine, but that he and his investigators thought it better to "treat it as such" in the hope that it was.

EXPECT HIGHER CITY VALUATION

Assessors Now Making Rounds Will Likely Raise Assessment $2,000,000.

PASS $65,000,000 MARK

Property Advances in West London Will Change Totals Materially.

The assessors of the city, now making their daily rounds, are again adding another notch to the assessment, and the outlook is that when the 1922 figures are ready, the total assessment of the city will be well past the $65,000,000 mark.

The assessment for 1922 is a little over $65,000,000.

When the Richter scheme of assessment was put in force there was not time in 1921 to include London West under the new plan for 1922. London West has now been revalued and it is believed that the $1,500,000 assessment will now be close to $2,000,000, if not over it.

There were also several other parts of the city that were untouched, and they have also been attended to. In many parts of the city, however, the assessors in their new valuation just took in the buildings, with the result that this year the assessors are making an increase in the land. And a number of persons spoken to, residing in different parts of the city each said that their assessment had been jumped up $300.

It is not thought that every place will be so increased, but the total over the whole city will result in a material assessment advance.

HOLD ANNIVERSARY CHALMERS CHURCH

Anniversary services will be held Sunday at Chalmers' Presbyterian Church. Rev. G. M. Young, pastor of the church, will occupy the pulpit at both morning and evening services.

Ronald Hart, the talented young organist, has arranged special music for both services. A soprano solo by Miss Mariel Atkinson and special organ music will mark the morning service. For the evening service the male quartet of the First Presbyterian Church choir has been secured. Ed. Crawford will also sing a solo.

The Sunday school orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Weames, will be in attendance and give several selections.

WILL SPEAK AT ANNUAL DINNER OF MOTOR CLUB

A. R. Greene, president of the Ontario Motor League; George Hogarth, chief engineer of the Ontario Highway Department, and W. M. Gray, president of the Kent Motor Club, will be the speakers at the annual meeting and dinner of the London Motor Club Friday, Feb. 24.

A report of the activities of the year will be presented and suggestions for a program of work in 1922 received. Nomination and election of officers for the ensuing year will be included in the events of the evening.

HAMILTON ROAD WINS SEMI-FINAL DEBATE

The semi-final debate of a series being held by the Presbyterian churches of London was contested Thursday evening between Hamilton Road Church and King Street Church. The subject was "Resolved that the world is getting better."

The decision was given to the Hamilton Road affirmative speakers. Hamilton Road debaters will now enter the finals with the First Presbyterian Church. The winner of the series in London will then meet the winners of St. Thomas and other divisions in the Presbytery.

Expect Lengthy Debates On Two Proposals At Council Meeting

TWO lengthy debates are looked for at the meeting of the city council on Monday night.

The contentious subjects on the roster are the Springbank dam proposal and the scheme to pay aldermen $5 for each meeting attended. There will be opposition to both propositions.

The commission government plan is not likely to be laid before the council at this meeting. It will likely go over to the first meeting in March. The present plan is that the drafted bylaw will go before a meeting of the heads of the various bodies before it is submitted to the individual organizations for their approval.

RAILWAY LODGE PRESENTS BALL

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, Beaver Lodge, No. 117, held their annual supper and ball in the Masonic Temple Friday night. Over 400 people were present, including several out of town visitors from Sarnia, Stratford, St. Thomas and other points in Western Ontario. The grand march was led by Mr. and Mrs. John Cox, Mr. Cox being the oldest member of the lodge in the city, and Mrs. Cox being the oldest member of the ladies' auxiliary.

The hall was beautifully decorated with the colors of the lodge, supplemented by colored electric lights and railroad lanterns.

The supper was provided by the ladies' auxiliary and served by them in the basement.

The committee in charge of the supper from the ladies' auxiliary consisted of Mrs. Burch, Mrs. Moore, Mrs. J. Richardson, Mrs. Byron, Mrs. Milligan, Mrs. Robins and Mrs. Cobe.

YOUNG MEN TO TAKE SERVICES

At St. Andrew's Church on Sunday night, Feb. 19th, an innovation in young people's work will feature the evening service. The men of St. Andrew's Brotherhood have taken the services on several occasions, the "teen age boys have taken their share in special services, but this is probably the first time the young men of St. Andrew's have taken the services. St. Andrew's Club, an organization of young men, led and taught by C. R. Sommerfeld, LL.D., and J. H. Cameron, with Gordon Marr as president, will render special music at a choir, under the direction of C. E. Wheeler, and several members will assist the minister, Rev. D. C. MacGregor, in the service of worship.

WHAT CAUSES SO MUCH SICKNESS?

Constipation Responsible For 90 Per Cent of Disease.

'FRUIT-A-TIVES' Corrects It

It is generally recognized among the medical profession that Constipation or Insufficient Action of the Bowels produces more disease than any other one cause. Constipation is responsible for at least 90 per cent of the diseases in the world today—because Constipation is responsible for the Indigestion and Dyspepsia—the Nervousness, Insomnia and Rheumatism—the Eczema and other skin troubles—the Headaches and Backaches.

Why is this? As you know, it is the duty of the bowels to carry off the waste matter in the system. If the bowels are weak or the liver inactive, then this waste matter remains in the body and poisons the blood. As a result every organ in the body is poisoned by this waste.

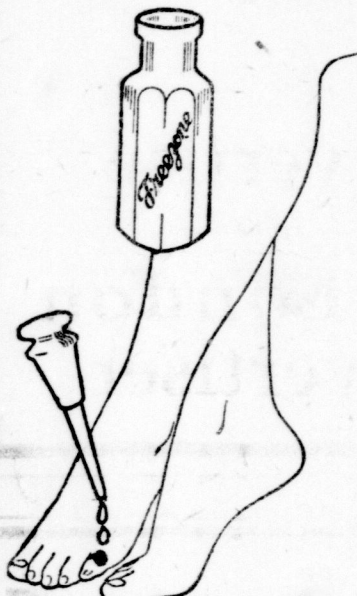

'Fruit-a-tives' has been wonderfully successful in relieving Stomach Troubles, Nervous Troubles, Liver Troubles, Kidney Troubles, Skin Troubles and Blood Troubles, because 'Fruit-a-tives' positively and emphatically relieves Constipation.

'Fruit-a-tives' will always relieve Constipation, even though the trouble has been chronic for ten, fifteen and twenty years. Thousands of grateful users proclaim 'Fruit-a-tives' the greatest remedy for Constipation that the world has ever known.

CHRISTINE NILSSON LEAVES $600,000

Famous Swedish Opera Singer Had Large Estate in England.

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 17.—The late Christine Nilsson, or Countess Case de Mirand, famous opera singer, called by many the 'Second Swedish Nightingale,' left an estate in England, valued at $1,200,000. This is disclosed by her will which, according to stockholm papers, had just been opened in London.

The value of her Swedish estate, said to be of considerable size, is not yet known. The Swedish press, however, asserts that estimates of her wealth published in many foreign papers, placing her fortune at $15,000,000, were grossly exaggerated. They add that she was noted in life for her great-hearted generosity and that the total of her gifts are known to have amounted to a large fortune.

Of her English estate, the countess bequeathed $23,000 to the Royal Musical Academy of Stockholm, and $2,000 to the Conservatory of Music of Paris, both to be used as funds for scholarships. The will includes legacies of various amounts totalling $17,000 to various friends.

The remainder of the English estate is left to the singer's step-daughter, Countess Rose Case de Mirand. Her objects of art, paintings, etc., the singer left to four Swedish museums.

The delay in opening the singer's will is said to have been occasioned by the fact that Christine Nilsson was a French citizen.

It was reported at the time of Miss

Nilsson's death that Mrs. George F. Murray, of Lynn, Mass., wife of an employee of the General Electric Company there, claimed to be the daughter of the Swedish singer, and that she might contest Miss Nilsson's will.

SORES SPREAD ALL OVER FACES AND BODIES

Mrs. Howard Houlette, Waskatenau, Sask., writes: 'I wish to tell you of the benefit we have received by using your valuable medicine Burdock Blood Bitters.'

'My children started to break out on their faces in small white pimples which kept getting larger each day. Plus would form under the scabs, and they would come off, and each time the sores would be larger; some were as large as a twenty-five cent piece, and would spread all over their bodies. I was nearly in despair and sent to the village for a bottle of good blood medicine. The druggist sent me a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters, which I commenced giving them at once.

'In about ten days I saw an improvement and they grew steadily better each day, and in one month the sores had all disappeared.'

All blood and skin diseases are caused by bad blood, and to get it pure and keep it pure you must remove every trace of the impure and morbid matter from the system by a blood-cleansing medicine such as

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS, a remedy that has been on the market for the past forty-five years, and one without an equal for all diseases and disorders of the blood.

REPORT TRADE IS ON UPWARD TREND

Canadian Creditmen Claim Grain Price Boost Creates Wide Optimism.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 17.—(By Canadian Press.)—Trade conditions throughout Canada continue on the up-grade, although, at present, slowly. The upward tendency of grain prices is creating an optimistic feeling in the West, wholesalers report, and cannot but have a beneficial effect on business this spring, states the weekly trade report of the Canadian Creditmen's Trade Association.

Easter reports, including those from Montreal, Toronto, and Quebec, state that manufacturers and wholesalers find orders on the increase, this being so in many lines which for some months past have been quiet.

Retail trade in the larger cities is about the same, more improvement being shown in orders from outlying parts.

Winnipeg wholesalers report business conditions brighter for the spring than was anticipated. Stock orders are coming forward in several lines. Retailers report business more satisfactory. Assignments are on the decrease.

Vancouver and British Columbia generally report as follows: Wholesale trade in drygoods fair; no decided improvement in logging business, but prospects good. Hardware lines not moving very fast. Grocery trade for January reported much better than in January of 1921. Retail trade, drygoods retailers report business quiet, but slight improvement this month. Hardware lines selling hand to mouth. Grocery trade somewhat quiet, but country trade needs looking up. Collections poor, especially in fruit districts as the farmers have not yet received their returns. Grocery collections better.

WILL ASK BANK SALE APPROVAL

OTTAWA, Feb. 17.—(By Canadian Press.)—Formal notice is contained in this week's Canada Gazette that the Merchants Bank of Canada and the Bank of Montreal will apply to the government for approval of the proposed sale of the Merchants Bank to the latter institution.

The Bank of Montreal will also apply to the government for approval of the increase in its original capital stock, 'required for the purpose of carrying out the agreement as approved by the shareholders of the Bank of Montreal.'

CONSUME 9 POUNDS OF TEA PER HEAD YEARLY

The London Grocers' Gazette for Jan. 8, states that the consumption of tea in Great Britain and Ireland has increased 34 per cent since 1913. They now use about nine pounds per head per annum in the United Kingdom, and the increase in 1921 over the previous year amounted to 17,000,000 pounds. This enormous consumption accounts for the great rise in the price of tea.

The consumption of tea in Canada, only amounts to four and a half pounds per head per annum, but it is increasing.

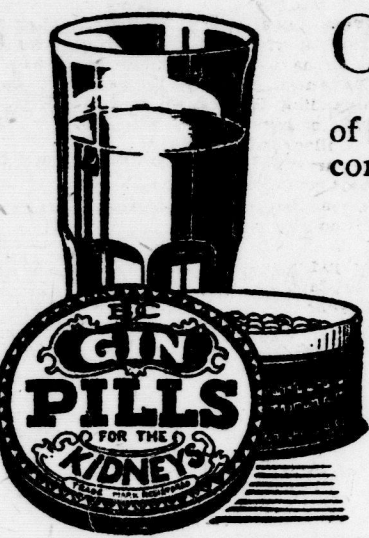

HERO PUBLISHER TAKES STROKE WHILE AT CLUB

QUEBEC, Feb. 17.—Major-Gen. Sir David Weston, K.C.B., C.M.G., Legion de Honor, former commandant of the 4th Division in France and president of the Quebec Morning Chronicle, suffered a paralytic stroke last evening at the Garrison Club, and was immediately transferred to his residence, where he was reported as improving this morning.

Sir David Watson was born in 1871.

Is Uric Acid Poisoning Your System?

ONCE let your kidneys get out of order, and immediately uric acid and other impurities begin to collect in the system. The blood stream at once becomes poisoned, and the early outward signs of kidney derangement appear in the form of headaches, backaches, constipation, dizziness, pains in the sides, etc.

Failure to take prompt corrective measures leads to serious and painful afflictions. The only thing to do is to take Gin Pills. They quickly soothe and heal the kidneys and enable these organs to resume their work of filtering the uric acid and other poisonous waste from the blood.

Gin Pills are indispensable. Keep them in your home.

CLIFFORD ELVINS, ADVERTISING MANAGER

The Canadian Daily Newspapers Association, Excelsior Life Bldg., Toronto.

Gentlemen:—

In response to your request for an expression of our opinion as to the value of newspaper advertising, we are proud to be able to say that while The Imperial Life has used only a small amount of newspaper space, and that all within the past eight years, there is abundant evidence to show that this advertising has been a factor of no little importance in establishing for this Company the prestige and goodwill which it enjoys.

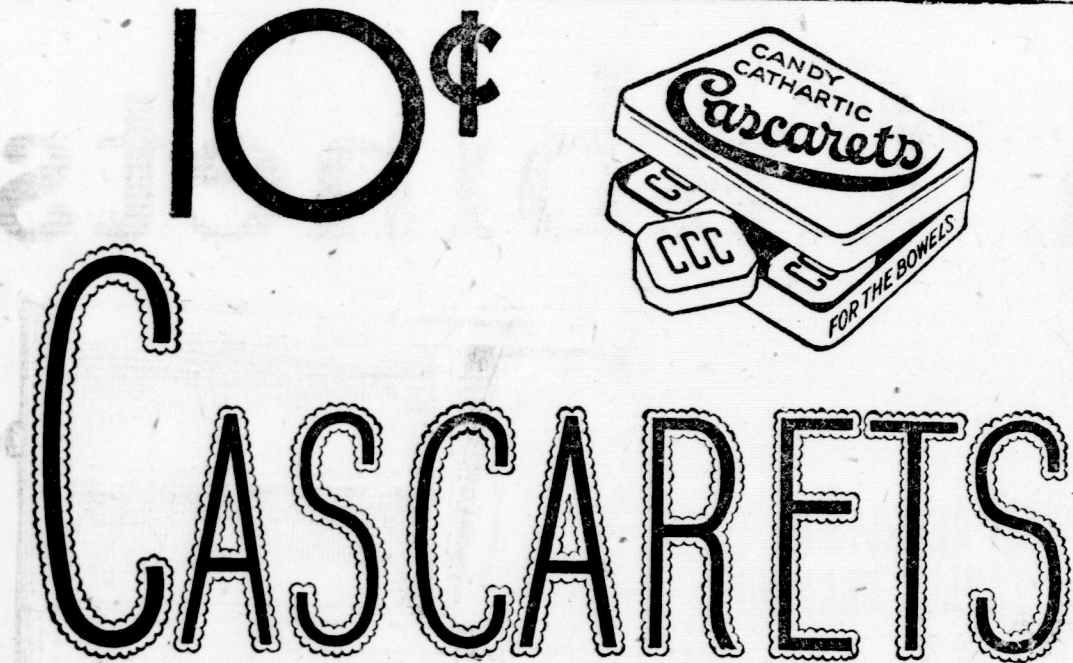

Yours very truly,

Clifford Elvins
Advertising Manager.

CE/MER.

The Imperial Life Assurance Company have proved that for gaining prestige and goodwill, no aid is comparable to that of Daily Newspaper advertising. Financial institutions have learned to reach with certainty the "inaccessible" busy man. He never misses—cannot afford to neglect—his morning and evening Daily Newspaper, often his only reading matter.

FARMERS STAND BEHIND CRERAR

Saskatchewan Grain Growers Pledge Progressive Leader Solid Support.

CONDEMN FREIGHT RATES

Pass Resolution Scoring Present Scale At Conclusion of Regina Sessions.

REGINA, Feb. 17.—(By Canadian Press.)—With long and active sessions this afternoon and tonight, delegates to the annual convention of the Saskatchewan Grain Growers' Association concluded their 21st annual convention, notable particularly for its decision to participate in provincial politics.

Election of officers and discussion of a large number of resolutions occupied the session.

Present freight rates were condemned in a forcible resolution which goes to the government and board of railway commissioners.

Hon. T. A. Crerar was endorsed unanimously by the convention as leader of the National Progressive party.

There was no discussion and the resolution put the convention on records as "in full support" of Mr. Crerar in his leadership.

It was decided that negotiations should be undertaken with the provincial government and the farmers' associations of Alberta and Manitoba with a view to regulating the supply of farm labor and standardizing farm wages. T. M. Molloy, provincial labor commissioner, urged the farmers to set a fair wage for farm labor.

George Edwards of Markinch, Sask., was elected vice-president of the association. Mr. Edwards had held no previous office in the central executive.

Hon. J. A. Maharg was re-elected president at the morning session. The government was asked to make income tax by farmers payable on the average income of three years.

A demand was made that freight rates be reduced immediately.

EMBARKS WITH EXPLORER'S BODY

MONTEVIDEO, Feb. 17.—The British steamer Woodville sailed today for the island of South Georgia, bearing the body of Sir Ernest Shackleton, noted British explorer, who died at that Antarctic outpost on Jan. 5.

The Woodville was escorted to the three-mile limit by the cruiser Uruguay, which fired a farewell salute. Commandant Hussey accompanied the body, and will superintend its burial in the little English Church graveyard at Grytviiken. Later he expects to rejoin the Antarctic expedition on the steamship Quest.

Bullock Wants To Know Who Will Come From U. S. To Testify

HAMILTON, Feb. 17.—F. F. Treleven, who acted for the negro, Matthew Bullock, when he was first arrested for entering Canada illegally, said today: "I was the most surprised man in Hamilton when I heard he was arrested again. I want it made clear that he did not return to Hamilton on my advice. I have not seen Bullock from the day he left jail, or have I had communication with any of his friends. I had no idea where he was while away from the city."

Judge Sailer, in remanding Bullock, advised the U. S. consul that it would be necessary for him to bring witnesses here to prove the charge upon which Bullock was held.

When the remand was arranged, his honor turned to the prisoner and asked: "Does this hurt you, Bullock?"

With an assuring smile, the prisoner replied: "Sure, sure, but will they bring Taylor, who charges that I attempted to murder him, here?"

On being told by the judge that he did not know who the witnesses sent by the North Carolina authorities would be, the accused man said: "Well, your honor, he's the man I want. I was thirteen miles away when the race riots started." The judge informed Bullock that he, too, would like to hear Taylor's evidence.

Branchton Farmers Unite To Maintain Wild Life Sanctuary

Special to London Advertiser.

GALT, Feb. 17.—Back in October, 1920, a meeting of the farmers in the vicinity of Branchton in North Dumfries, a few miles from Galt, was held for the purpose of co-operating to prevent promiscuous shooting by hunters, and thus to safeguard life and property, and incidentally give protection to all useful and harmless wild life.

That was the beginning of the Dumfries Wild Life Conservation Association, which has today three branches in affiliation with it, and the work is steadily growing, with the membership now around the 100 mark, and the sanctuary taking in about 16,000 acres. The territory comprised in this area, in which wild life is protected and shooting prohibited, takes in three concessions in South Dumfries and three in North Dumfries, extending from the Beverley Township line to the Grand River just below Galt.

The latest branch of the association to be formed is the Grand River Valley Wild Life Association, taking in the west bank of the river below this city, and its object is to make a bird sanctuary on the banks of the Grand River, which, below Galt, are very heavily wooded, and ideal for this purpose.

Another object of the Wild Life Conservation Association is to study the habits, propagation and seasons of fish, game and birds, and from the information obtained offer suggestions to the authorities as to the best regulations for their preservation and increase, also to encourage the protection of the song, insectivorous and other birds not classed as game, and to educate the children accordingly.

The association does not plan to prosecute, but to educate the people to take a greater interest and show more respect for wild life.

Those behind this commendable movement felt that the Grand River Valley offers the opportunity for one of the finest bird sanctuaries in America, and they are out to extend the sanctuary north of Galt to take in Cressman's Bush, south of Kitchener, which is recognized as having one of the finest collections of trees in this part of Ontario.

Membership in this association may consist of any or all property holders, who severally agree to combine their acreage to form a sanctuary, which shall be controlled by the constitution and bylaws of the association.

So enthusiastic are the members of the organization over their work that they now have a petition in circulation requesting the provincial department of game and fisheries to form a crown game reserve of the lands controlled by the association, and also to appoint an overseer to co-operate with the association to make the reserve a real sanctuary.

As an illustration of the interest that the organization of this association has created in wild life, one farmer near Branchton, in his bush, protected by two wire fences, now has three deer running at large, two of which he reared on his farm. These will eventually form a nucleus of a large herd. In the same private reserve there are partridge, squirrels and wild ducks.

A former resident of Galt, who now has a fine home in the country, by his kindness and friendliness has brought to his property a colony of cranes.

ST. THOMAS, Feb. 17.—Once again the board of education of this city has taken under consideration the establishment of classes for subnormal children. At a meeting of the internal management committee Friday night, Trustee E. C. Harvey was appointed to secure data and the estimated costs of such classes already established in cities the size of St. Thomas.

It is proposed, on the recommendation of School Inspector A. T. Taylor, to establish an ungraded class at some central point of the city which would care for all backward and mentally deficient pupils in the various schools. These pupils would receive instruction from teachers specially trained in the work.

Such a class or classes, it is estimated, would be well worth while, for, according to the inspector, one backward student in any class tends to hold the whole class back, to the detriment of the other pupils. Under special teachers the pupil would get individual as well as sympathetic instruction, enabling it to make much more rapid progress than it would in a larger class.

Favor Recommendation. The board seemed very much in favor of the recommendation, but it felt that further information was desirable.

The question of medical examination and of a larger staff of school nurses was up for considerable discussion, but no action was taken. Inspector Taylor strongly recommended more teachers and the consolidation of the work of the public health nurse, the board of health and the school nurse.

The inspector stated that the prevalence of colds in the lower forms prevented a high percentage of attendance. In a place like St. Thomas the schools were numerous and well distributed, and the percentage should have been at least 98. But although the school nurse, the attendance officer, and the teachers were rendering highly efficient service in promoting punctuality and regular attendance, they were confronted by absolute indifference on the part of many parents, and in many of the homes sanitary conditions were not what they should have been.

He believed that the consolidation of the various health-promoting forces of the city would lead to more efficient service, while the cost would not be so great.

Grant Teachers Leave. The committee voted unanimously to grant leave of absence for one year to any public school teacher wishing to avail themselves of the opportunity to teach in England one year through the teachers' exchange plan, proposed by the government. Inspector Taylor stated that perhaps two or three of the teachers would make application for leave.

An expert will be secured to find the defect in the boiler at the Myrtle Street School. On cold days at the present time it is impossible to heat the third floor.

The question of religious teaching and musical instructions, as advocated in the annual report of the inspector, was discussed at length. It was decided to leave the question of the religious training over until the meeting of the board as a whole, when a committee will probably be appointed. No action was taken in regard to musical training, although one of the teachers will be asked Monday to give an exhibition before a deputation from the board.

The percentage of attendance in the various schools throughout January was 90, an increase of 9 over the corresponding month of last year. The highest percentage was in Hiawatha School with 96, and the lowest was Myrtle with 87.

WORKERS' PARTY OPENS SESSIONS

TORONTO, Feb. 17.—Between 50 and 60 delegates to a convention of the Workers' Party of Canada, these representing districts between Montreal and Vancouver, listened interestedly here today to the chairman, John I. Kavanagh, of Vancouver, when he explained why Canada was less "revolutionary" than any other country in the world, except, perhaps, Australia.

This was because the inhabitants of this Dominion were largely Anglo-Saxon, he said, and "have a certain concept of freedom, of the inherent rights of the citizen which has been drilled into them and is now being drilled into the children in the schools."

Touching on the aim of the Workers' Party to overthrow the bourgeoisie and substitute the proletarian class, Mr. Kavanagh told how his party looked to Russia for inspiration and encouragement.

Ontario Politics.

CONVENTIONS are being held at various points in Ontario to nominate delegates for the Liberal convention at Toronto.

The situation in Ontario right now is one that will stand some investigation before a convention rushes in and forces an issue that might not work out for the best afterward.

The first thing the convention will be called upon to do is deal with the resignation of HARTLEY DEWART, who was the last officially appointed leader by a convention. The circumstances surrounding the resignation of Mr. DEWART as leader of the Ontario party are still fresh in the minds of the people of the province. He stated frankly when he resigned that he had not received the support of certain members of the party, some of them, we presume, being in the ranks of the Liberal representation in the house. Then there was the question of financing the problems and work of the Ontario Liberal party, Mr. DEWART making the charge that he had been called upon many times to pay bills out of his own pocket, in the making or sanctioning of which he had not a part. His point that he had no longer the desire or the ability to do this was well-made, and should have been attended to at once. The fact that no move has been made in a big way to meet this situation shows that Ontario Liberals have not been playing the game squarely, and are not fully awake to the situation as it confronts them at Toronto.

FOLLOWING the resignation of HARTLEY DEWART, WELLINGTON HAY has been carrying on the work at the house. Mr. HAY's health has been indifferent for some time, but, following a rest in the south, has improved. He has made a very efficient man, and has spent his time and his private means freely to carry on the work. In this it cannot be claimed that he has received the wholehearted support and co-operation of all the men in the house. It is quite possible that Mr. HAY is now able to go on and continue the work, pending certain developments that are bound to come sooner or later in the lining up of the parties in the Ontario Legislature.

THOSE WHO are urging immediate action for the appointment of a permanent leader, and calling for vigorous organization work to be started at once, claim that an election is to be sprung on the country almost at once, and some of them claim that the plunge will be made this fall.

Evidence of this intention—or alleged intention—on the part of PREMIER DREWRY is not plain, and is hardly in keeping with the facts, based on information from reliable sources. Many who are closely in touch with the situation seem satisfied that the appeal to the country will not be made until the early fall of 1922, naming October as the time. It may be that something could precipitate matters to force a contest, but members of the government are not anxious to go to the country in an election now. They contend that they were elected for a certain period, and see no reason why this should be shortened.

THEN, TOO, the situation at Ottawa has points that run very closely to the Ontario position. It is a matter of record that the premier, in the formation of his cabinet, discussed matters with PREMIER DREWRY, and also with HON. T. A. CHURCH. The reasons why these meetings brought no tangible results have also been stated many times. At Ottawa the King government expects the friendly co-operation of the Progressives, and it has been stated, on their behalf, that they intend to give support to KINK as far as they can possibly do so. This attitude will enable the Liberal ministry to carry on. Should their policy be one of opposition, the house could move on only under difficulty and constant uncertainty.

PREMIER DREWRY, on the other hand, needs the assistance of Liberal members in the working out of his policies in the Ontario house. There are points, such as the advocacy of the recall, which no Liberal member can or will support. There will be a difference of opinion on the government banking system, and the competition in this way with established institutions, which claim they are entitled to a share of the government's business, as they are tax payers and responsible for a large amount of the people's money.

In many matters, particularly the premier's stand in refusing to be stampeded into a campaign of hydro radical construction, PREMIER DREWRY has the support and approval of the Liberals in the house. The belief grows that the whole scheme of hydro radicals is engineered and speeded up from Toronto, and Toronto has always been hopelessly inefficient at sensing or interpreting public opinion. The opinion of the smaller cities, of the towns, villages and rural sections, is not pro-radical, as the Toronto agitators seek to paint. On this very large issue the Liberals and Progressives see alike.

WHAT PROVISION is made that the man who may be chosen as leader of the Liberals in Ontario will be acceptable to the members now sitting in the house? It is a fair guess that if the point were forced to a vote in an Ontario Liberal caucus right now it would be found that the result would urge that it is not the time to do what the convention will probably do, viz.: Appoint a new leader—we do not know who—and ask him to go in and take charge of a situation that has very great possibilities if allowed to stand a little while longer.

A canvass of public opinion, taking in a wide range of territory, makes it evident that many Liberals are not in favor of taking action at the present time. They believe, looking to the future, and the possible changes that may be made in party alignments before the next election, that there is danger of a convention taking action hastily, perhaps on the strength of a single speech, and without seriously considering all the facts that can be brought to bear in the situation in Ontario today, nor without considering the very apparent relation it has to the problem in the federal house.

Hon. R. G. Fisher.

THE APPOINTMENT of R. G. FISHER, K. C., of the firm of MEREDITH & FISHER of this city to the bench of the supreme court of Ontario, is announced. He is to succeed the late Sir GLENHOLME FAIRBANKS. The Bar of Middlesex is again honored by the appointment to the supreme court bench of one of its members. Those appointed in the past were the HON. JOHN WILSON, SIR WILLIAM MEREDITH, the HON. M. MEREDITH, the HON. W. P. R. STREET, the HON. HUGH McMAHON, the HON. JAMES MACGILL and the HON. DAVID MILLS to the supreme court of Canada. To these illustrious names is now added the name of the HON. R. G. FISHER.

MR. FISHER was born near London in 1862, and lived in London or near it all his life, receiving his education at Hellmuth College. He studied in the office of MEREDITH & COX, and on his call to the Bar joined the firm.

MR. FISHER was a diligent, careful student, and that same diligence and care continued with him ever since. He had a large part of the extensive practice of the firm of MEREDITH & FISHER to attend to. He had, therefore, a long experience in one of the busiest offices in Western Ontario. This will be invaluable to him on the bench.

MR. FISHER goes to the bench well equipped by nature, education and experience to perform his duties. He has a good natural disposition, and his integrity is above reproach. He will continue to be painstaking and exact. He is well liked by the members of the Bar of Middlesex and the public generally. He is a good speaker, and took a prominent part during parliamentary elections. His brother, the late HON. CHARLES W. FISHER, was speaker of the Alberta Legislature from 1905 to 1913. There is reason to believe the new appointee will maintain the high standing of the members of the Bar of Middlesex heretofore appointed. We congratulate him on his elevation to the bench of the supreme court of Ontario, and wish him long life and health in that high office.

Dancing in Schools.

IT IS SOME time since so many resolutions have been passed on any subject as that of holding dances in the Collegiate Institute in London. The controversy on dancing is not new—it has been going on in various forms for many years, and there are very grave doubts if the matter will ever be settled to the satisfaction of all.

The question of the board of education giving sanction to dances in a collegiate brings in a new element that must be recognized.

DEAR DAYS OF LONG AGO!

It has little or nothing to do with whether dancing is right or not, right, or if there is an interference with the school work or not.

The real point is that it is highly questionable for a school board to make a ruling that clashes with the desires and beliefs of a large percentage of the parents and ratepayers, especially on a question that has nothing to do with the school curriculum. Many London parents do not believe in dancing, and they have tried to bring their children up to respect this same view. Right now the children have a sanctioning ruling on the question that clashes with the ideas of their home training. It does look as though it would have been more diplomatic and fair for the board to have viewed the question from this angle.

She Told Naaman.

THE GOOD news you may possess is not going to help others until you pass it along. Edison might have had a great time with the electric light, but the rest of us would still be burning gas and coal oil lamps if he hadn't passed his secret along.

A doctor may gather up a tremendous amount of knowledge, but suffering humanity keeps on suffering until he gets out and starts to work. We hear a great deal of service now, and if we hear enough to put some action in our old bones, the world is going to be a better place. A little maid in Naaman's household knew that Elisha, the prophet of Jehovah, could cure her master, Naaman, of his leprosy. That knowledge meant nothing at all to Naaman until the man told his wife.

So there we have the best feature in the Sunday school lesson of the week. Professing Christians will talk to men they meet of everything under the sun except their religion. They claim they have it themselves—in fact, under pressure, they may admit the point. But they hang on to it, and keep it smothered with a vigor and a jealousy worthy of a better cause.

They know all about the Naaman of today, but they don't speak. If there could be some power bestowed to get action out of some of the tongue-tied professing Christians the problem of the church would be cut in two.

LITTLE 'TISERS

A lecturer the other night declared that the movies need uplifting. Quite likely, and so do a whole lot of the rest of us.

Timid children used to cling to their mother's skirts, but just at present the average child isn't tall enough to do this any more.

The average Scotchman is 3 1/2 of an inch higher than the average Englishman. At least, he is after he sits in at a Burns' banquet and hears bouquets pelted at the land o' cakes.

A Warton farmer is said to have sold two turkeys for $20, and bought a fairly old horse for $19, leaving him $1 to the good. By which his horse came in ahead of a sort of 20-to-1 shot.

It is noticed that farm sales ask 6 per cent interest where credit is given. Many a man who is paying from 7 to 8 per cent on a mortgage would be pleased to get a snuff at 6 per cent money.

It has been suggested that members of parliament should reduce the indemnity from $4,000 to $2,500. They might claim that this would make them guilty of getting elected under false pretences—going to take $4,000 and then not doing it.

After seeing the daily list of able-bodied Canadians—bless 'em—who are in Florida for the winter, it is a bit refreshing and invigorating to read this one:

"JAMES DREWRY of Norwood, over 90 years old, cut his winter's supply of wood in the bush this winter and walked three miles each day to his source of supply."

New York health commission recommends the use of the clinical thermometer to take people's temperatures in order to find out if anything is going to be wrong with them. A number of houses have these things, and by their use the inmates manage to keep thoroughly miserable. If the youngster has a cough he is chased into a position of helplessness and the glass tube thrust into his mouth. Then follows an examination and it is discovered that the thing registers a half a degree high or low, and of course there's the deuce to pay then. One way to keep miserable is to always be looking for something that's wrong with you.

READ YOUR CHARACTER

(By Digby Phillips.)

NO. 123—FLIGHTY WRITING. Handwriting in which the loops extend upward or downward from one line to another, often crossing through another word, is not at all uncommon. The chances are that anybody who searches his correspondence file will find some of it.

It denotes a trait of character which is also not a bit uncommon. It denotes what most people think the giggle denotes, but which the giggle does not at all. It denotes "flighty" nature.

Writers of such hands nearly always are lacking in poise. That is an obvious characteristic upon which you can easily check up with a moment's thought or ordinary observation.

You'll make a mistake if you depend upon them too implicitly, for they have that habit of irritating the rest of us, of changing their minds upon an instant's notice. If they have an engagement with you for two-fifteen you never know whether they will turn up at two-fifty-five or not at all; and it doesn't worry them much when they disappoint you.

They don't like routine, and they don't succeed very well in any work in which routine, accuracy and punctuality are demanded of them. And though they may have every other virtue in the calendar, you'll be taking a long chance if you rely too implicitly upon their judgment or advice.

It comes from—French "doctrinaire," one who professes a doctrine. Companion word—doctrinarianism. It's used like this: "The Russian communists are considered as political doctrinaires" (that is, they attempt to run the practical affairs of state by applying fine spun theories).

25 YEARS AGO TODAY

Here We Have Items of Local and District Interest. As Recorded in The Advertiser of 1897.

SATURDAY, FEB. 18, 1897.

Weather—Fair and a little colder.

The annual meeting of the Western Fair Association was held yesterday afternoon in the city hall. Capt. A. W. Porte, president, occupied the chair; Secretary Thos. A. Browne read the minutes, and Capt. Thomas Robson and Mr. Robert Jackson were appointed a credential committee.

A farewell address was then read to Capt. A. W. Porte, who was leaving the city, by Mayor Little, and Col. F. B. Leys then presented him with a gold watch and chain as a token of their appreciation. Mr. A. B. Greer moved the re-election of the directors as follows: Capt. A. W. Porte, A. M. Smart, Jas. H. Brown, J. S. Pearce, Col. F. B. Leys, Wm. Yates, W. R. Hobbs, George Taylor, Col. Gartshore, Col. Lewis, W. J. Reid and W. M. Spencer.

The board of directors then met for the purpose of organizing for the new year.

Col. Leys was elected president, and took the chair. The other officers chosen are as follows: Vice-president—Mayor Little. Second vice-president—Allan Bogue.

Secretary—Thomas A. Browne. Treasurer—D. Mackenzie. Superintendent—Joseph Hook. Chairman of finance—A. M. Smart. Chairman of grounds and buildings—J. H. Brown. Chairman of gates and tickets—W. M. Spencer.

Chairman of printing and advertising—W. R. Hobbs. Chairman of attractions—W. J. Reid.

The special committee appointed to consider the best method of securing city supplies and employing civic labor met in the city clerk's office last night. Those present were: Ald. Parnell (chairman), Carrothers, Bennett, Hunt, O'Meara, Johnston and City Clerk Kingston.

The annual meeting of the Agricultural Savings and Loan Company was held in the company's office on Wednesday last. The following shareholders were present: Messrs. Thomas McCormick, T. H. Smallman, Major Thomas Beattie, M.P., D. Regan, P. Birtwhistle, J. M. McWhinney, W. H. Smith, R. Bayly, Q. H. Campbell, W. Patrick, W. C.

of the afternoon to finish the lesson. The youngsters clung to the post and had to be fed and coaxed upward by inches to the little box on top and shown how to help himself. After the young birds had been taught to feel themselves, they could not be distinguished from the parents and every evening saw them at the box, so tame that one could walk past within two feet of the post and not frighten them away. The nuthatches, however, did not come for food, though they were often seen in the orchard all summer, but as soon as the weather began, they and the downies came often, and during the January just past several hairy woodpeckers and chickadees found the box for the first time, so a second feeding-place was made on a fence post a few rods away. Grandma says that "the birds quarrel just like folks—pulling each other's hair and scolding. If a sparrow comes near, the downy fluffs up his feathers and uses his long beak with good effect so Mr. Sparrow is glad to leave."

GRANDMOTHER'S BIRDS

By ALIDA M. BICE, Chandeboye.

ALL through this broad land of Canada, there must be hundreds of grandmothers like the one of this sketch, who have done their generous share in settling the land and making it a fair and comfortable home for sturdy sons and daughters to enjoy. Now, these grandmothers are more or less helpless, and dependent, where once they led and ruled the home, and therefore apt to be feeling just the least in the way or "out-of-the-rush" of things. It is "up to" those who are caring for such loved ones, to make life pleasant as possible and endeavor to make long, winter days seem shorter and more full of interest. Summertime is mostly a pleasant season in the country and on a farm, even to a semi-invalid "shut-in" like this grandmother of nearly 85 years. But winter days are apt to become increasingly difficult to make pleasant for old people, when snow banks hinder travel of any kind for days at a time and visitors "can't get in. Even young people have their days of "I-don't-know-what-alls-me" moods, so it's no wonder that the "shut-in" often feels as if a huge blue blanket smothered all cheerfulness, the plants and flowers cannot fill all requirements and even one's favorite books are a weariness.

GRANDMA of the farm house was feeling "all out of sorts" when the snow came and the cold threatened to hold steady. Her window is kept clear of frost by an occasional wash of pure glycerine, so she can enjoy anything interesting going on outside, but there seemed to be nothing of interest to see and Grandma was getting fretful, when the man-of-the-house had a brilliant idea.

"Never mind the snow," said he. "Just keep patient a little longer and you'll have lots of visitors." In a few minutes he had a small stack about five feet long fastened solidly to a foot and a half from the window. On top of the stack was an open-end box a few inches long—packed tight with suet. It was a stormy day and it was mid-afternoon before the longed-for visitors came, but about three o'clock a pair of downy woodpeckers found the generous food supply, and Grandma was delighted. They were so near that she could "see every feather." "Jim and Peggy," she named them at once. "Jim was such a pig," she reported, "he wouldn't let Peggy have a bit, but kept her running up and down the post for ever so long, and he even pecked her to make her angry, but she knew something of a woman's rights after all, for they flew away she came back alone and got some supper. I guess she found out she has a vote now." (Grandma reads the papers).

EVER since that day the birds nuthatches and woodpeckers have been a constant source of entertainment to the whole family and in place and kept full all the following winter (last summer), in the hope of coaxing the birds to nest near by, and the plan was a success, for they came every evening about the same hour for a titbit as finish for the day. It was easy to tell when the young birds were in the nest, for the old birds came several times daily and carried food away, filling and packing their beaks so full that a big lump of suet stuck out at each side of each chisel-shaped bill. Then, on one never-to-be-forgotten day, one of the old birds brought a full-grown youngster to the source of supply to teach him to forage for himself, and it took most

L. Gill, G. F. Jewell, A. Dale, Rev. J. G. Laird and others. The directors' report was submitted, and Messrs. George F. Jewell, F. C. A., and Andrew Dale were re-appointed auditors.

The scrutineers, after the ballot had been taken for directors for the ensuing year, reported the following gentlemen elected: Messrs. Thomas McCormick, T. H. Smallman, Major Thomas Beattie, M.P.; W. J. Reid and D. Regan.

At a subsequent meeting of the directors Mr. D. Regan was re-elected president and Mr. W. J. Reid, vice-president.

The Strathroy District Epworth League convention was held at Petrolia yesterday. Addresses were given by Rev. J. Nilson, Strathroy, and Rev. R. F. Irvine of Adelaide, and papers were read by Rev. Mr. Hazel and Mr. C. E. German, Mrs. Frank Harrison, Misses Nicholson, Miss Carruthers, the district secretary were delegates from Strathroy.

The morning session of the A. O. U. W. was taken up by a discussion of the assessment question. The election of officers followed: Fred W. Unitt was re-elected grand master; P. G. Graham, editor of the Brockville Recorder, grand foreman; M. D. Carder, St. Thomas, grand recorder; James Rushton, Ridge-town, grand receiver. District deputies: James Denman, St. Clair; Oliver Robinson, Erie; James Gibson, Brant; David P. Gibson, Hamilton; W. H. Lowe, Niagara; J. J. Craig, Guelph; E. Woodman, Bruce; W. Vandusen, Dufferin; W. P. Appleby, Peel; F. Nudel, Toronto; W. P. Cole, York; J. Allan, Simcoe; Isaac Wise, Ontario; W. H. Leach, Durham; Randall Cronk, Quinte; Peter Johnston, Kingston; G. C. Cumming, St. Lawrence; George G. Searis, Stormont; W. R. Stroud, Ottawa; J. P. Peirson, Lanark; W. A. Barrows, Superior.

Mr. L. W. Noble was chosen president of the Epworth League of the Dundas Centre Methodist Church at the last regular meeting. The members of the various committees were chosen as follows: Lookout, Miss L. Donald; prayer meeting, J. D. Keenleyside; music, Miss Bertha Bradford; missionary, Miss Laird; temperance, D. A. McDermid; visiting and relief, Miss Cross; good literature, Miss E. Webster; literary, J. H. Bowman; social, H. S. Dickson; floral, Miss Percival.

wood-boring beetles, besides many injurious insects. No caterpillar can spin a cocoon tough enough to resist the strong, chisel-shaped beaks of the ceaselessly busy birds, nor secure a safe hiding place for it, once woken. One season, even, shows a very noticeable decrease in tent-caterpillars, so a systematic effort to attract all the winter birds to the orchard is a paying proposition, the unsightly webs would disappear entirely in a few years, together with scale and other insects that injure the trees and destroy the fruit. And for fear someone should fancy it expensive amusement, the suet-box described cost only 75 cents for a whole year's supply. Offset against this, if any such offset be needed, the fact that since the birds have been fed and coaxed to nest in or near the orchard, there are few cocoons to be found at all, and practically none without a neat little drill hole, betraying a bird visitor, and as a consequence, there was a noticeable decrease of flying pests trying to make their way through screen doors and windows last summer.

COMMON SENSE WAYS TO KEEP WELL

SMALL INTESTINE

BY DR. R. H. BISHOP.

THE small intestine in its normal state is a tube from the stomach comes material in various stages of digestion, mostly fluid with small particles of insoluble or still undissolved substances floating in it.

Here various chemicals manufactured in our bodies work on the proteins, fats and carbohydrates, breaking up the surviving combinations, making amino acids from the larger protein fragments and dividing all the remaining double sugars into simple sugars.

In the small intestine are two systems of movements. By one the food is thoroughly mixed with digestive juices and brought into contact with the tiny fingerlike projections on the wall of the intestine which absorb the digested materials and start them on their journey to the tissues that need them.

By the other the material is moved along from part to part, always meeting fresh surfaces for absorption, and leaving less and less material to be finally pushed into the large intestine.

If conditions are not just right in the stomach, the small intestine is quickly affected. Any nervous disturbance affecting the stomach is likely to be shared sympathetically by its neighbor.

Bacteria of various kinds thrive in the small intestine and when food is not digested at the normal rate, they are likely to seize it and devote it for their own nourishment. Carbohydrates tend to ferment, making troublesome gases and irritating poisons. Proteins tend to undergo putrefaction, producing poisons more harmful than those formed by carbohydrates.

These poisons are responsible for the conditions known as auto-intoxication. Fermentation can be lessened by limiting carbohydrate food and putrefaction by reducing on proteins. The dangers of both can be avoided by care in mastication and choice of the form in which the food is taken and by stimulating normal peristalsis—the movement that carries the food downward to the large intestine.

ALL-MEN'S INN.

[Markham.]
Death is the only host with thought so large
He cannot find it in his heart to charge
He turns no guest away; madame and sir,
This in has bed for every traveler,
I'll meet you, emperor—I'll meet you, clown,
At this last tavern as we leave the town.

AN IMPROVEMENT.

"Where are you going, ma?"
"To a surprise party," dear.
"Aren't you going to take all of us?"
"No, dear, you weren't invited."
"But ma, don't you think they'd be a lot more surprised if they saw all of us comin'?"

ACID STOMACH

In five minutes "Pape's Diapiesin" ends

Indigestion Sourness Gases Flatulence Heartburn Palpitation

"Pape's Diapiesin" "really does" put bad stomachs in order—"really does" overcome indigestion, dyspepsia, gas, heartburn and sourness in five minutes—that's just that—makes Pape's Diapiesin the largest selling stomach regulator in the world. If what you eat ferments into stubborn lumps, you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food and acid; head is dizzy and aches, remember the moment "Pape's Diapiesin" comes in contact with the stomach all such distress vanishes. It's truly astonishing—almost marvelous—and the joy is its harmlessness. A large 60-cent case of Pape's Diapiesin is worth its weight in gold to men and women who can't get their stomachs regulated. It belongs in your home—should always be kept handy in case of a sick, sour, upset stomach during the day or at night. It's the most efficient stomach and stomach regulator in the world.

DISPELS ERRONEOUS IDEA OF BOYS' NAVAL BRIGADE

Member Explains Objects For Which Organization Stands.

There is an erroneous idea prevailing that boys joining the Boys' Naval Brigade are obliged at the end of their training to go to sea. This is not so. The objects of this organization are:

1. To keep before the public the fact that the British Empire owes its being to the British navy, whose uniform we are privileged to wear.
2. To train a boy so that should he have an inclination to go to sea he has a fundamental knowledge of seamanship and discipline.
3. To give the boys clean, manly sport that they may become good citizens of Canada.

Work of the B. N. B.

The Tuesday night meeting is devoted to training as follows: Physical, rifle and squad drill; signals, knots and splices, compass. In the summer boat drill and route marching are included.

At present the greater part of the time has to be spent on squad and rifle drill.

Wednesday evening the Boys' Naval Brigade have the use of the armories' indoor rifle range from 8 o'clock to 10 o'clock. Last Wednesday a shoot was held and proved highly favorable for the majority of the young seamen.

Thursday evening is band practice from 7 to 8 p.m., under direction of Mr. Nanfan, W. O. The Boys' Naval Brigade Band consists of sixteen pieces. After band practice sports of all kinds are indulged in, such as boxing, running, fencing, wrestling and regular gymnastic work.

Use Skating Rinks.

During the winter, by kind permission of Mr. E. V. Buchanan, general manager of the Public Utilities Commission, we are granted the use of the hockey rink in the Victoria Park. In the summer we are allowed to use the baseball diamond at Queen's Park.

Controlled by Navy League.

The Boys' Naval Brigade is controlled by the local branch of the Navy League of Canada. The committee consists of several prominent citizens, presided over by Capt. John W. Watt as chairman; W. Jarmain as vice-chairman, who has charge of the local B. N. B. The Rev. A. L. G. Clarke, rector of St. John the Evangelist being chaplain.

The instructors and officers of the Boys' Naval Brigade are as follows: W. Pentecost, chief instructor in charge; E. Akiens, chief instructor for physical training and gun drill; A. Nanfan, band master. These instructors are assisted by several sub-instructors, leading boys and P. O. boys.

We have under way a rifle club which is to be under the supervision and instruction of E. Akiens and committee composed of President C. Bridle, Secretary W. Harding, Treasurer N. Adams, C. P. O., and R. Barnes, L.E., S. Say, L. E., and B. Element.

ORCHESTRA ORGANIZED

Boys of La Salle School Show
Musical Talents.

The musical talents of the boys of the De La Salle school are being developed under the leadership of Mr. Payne. An orchestra has been made up, consisting of four violins, a piano, flute and a bass and kettle drum. Boys who wish to take up drum or flute are given weekly lessons.

The orchestra is progressing excellently, and it has accompanied the concert given last Christmas by the De La Salle boys.

The boys composing the orchestra are: Percy Lethbridge, violinist. Wilfrid Bailey, violinist. Allen Kelleher, violinist. Bert Niosi, flute. Anthony Brigha, base and kettle drum and trap.

Mr. H. R. Payne, accompanist and leader of the orchestra.

PHOTOGRAPHIC COMPETITION.

For the C. S. E. T. boys—Many boys throughout the city are taking pictures and developing their own printing, in order to compete at the exhibition to be held in the Y. M. C. A. in March. About 12 of the Askin Street Hawks, along with their leader, Arthur Horwood, were out in the country this week and they claim they secured many fine pictures. By the looks of the pictures, already up in the boys' division of the Y.M.C.A., we can expect a very fine competition. More details of the contest will be published later.

MAYOR OF BOYS' COUNCIL THANKS LONDON ADVERTISER FOR CHANCE TO EXPRESS VIEWS OF YOUTH.

London Advertiser,
City.

Gentlemen,—On behalf of the C. S. E. T. Boys Council of the city of London, I wish to express our appreciation to the Management of the London Advertiser for their kindness and foresight in giving the Boys of London this agency through which they can express their ideas and tell of their activities.

We very much appreciate this opportunity presented us as a part of the great boy movement of this city to stress and focus the public opinion to the great cause of the Boy.

Yours sincerely,

ALLAN KAY, Mayor,
of C. S. E. T. Boys' Council.

RED FOX TRIBE INCREASES

Members Have Plans For Boosting Organization.

The Red Fox Tribe of London was formed on Jan. 1, 1919. It has continued to flourish since that date.

In 1919 they went on a number of hikes which carried them some miles into the country. In 1920, they formed a baseball league with some nearby tribes, winning the league championship. On account of some of the prominent members being out of the city the next year the activities of the tribe were neglected.

They have erected a tribe room and are planning something interesting for 1922, among which are a possible baseball league, a camping trip and a few hikes.

A few of the boosters of the Red Fox Tribe are Ivan Westlake, who was chief at the first meeting and who has boosted the Tribe and Lone Scouts movement. Lloyd Brodie, another member who was also present at the first meeting and is still on the roll. Frank Clark, as well as the rest of the members, has done his part in making the Tribe a success.

HOLD VALENTINE PARTY

St. George Anglican Club
Entertains at Social.

St. George Anglican Club, of which Jack Johnston is president, held a very fine Valentine social last Thursday evening. The time was spent in games and guessing contests. After the games a very delightful luncheon was served in the parish room which was suitably decorated for the occasion.

The luncheon for 40 was served under the convenship of Mrs. Fred Henshaw. Garrett Jeffries was in charge of the games and to these two mentioned and also to the social committee much credit is due.

FORM LITERARY SOCIETY

A literary society was formed shortly before Christmas at the De La Salle High School. Officers were elected, the president being Edwin Walters; vice-president, Louis Darnell, and secretary, Stanley Noland. These officers have filled their positions very successfully. Shortly after the organization of the society a room paper was composed by an editorial staff elected by the members, which consisted of editor, sporting editor and joke editor. This paper is published weekly and read at the literary meeting. At these meetings the program is supplied by the members. This program consists of speeches and debates. The debates prove interesting and the speeches are a great training for public speaking. This training may later prove a great benefit to the boys, who take a great interest in it.

FORM BOXING CLASS.

The latest developments in the Otter tribe is the formation of a boxing class.

ELECT BOYS' TISER STAFF

Youthful Journalists Organize
At Meeting in Y. M. C. A.
Building.

The staff for the Boys' Own Tiser was elected Thursday, February 16, at a largely attended meeting held in the "Y" at which were present: Allan Kay, Phil Burton, E. Atkins, Jim Dey, G. McCracken, Bob Rolfe, Stew McCallum, Bert Bell, Bill Young, Jack Johnstone, E. Walters, S. Nolan, E. Darnell, Frank Clarke, M. Lerner, I. Cohen and Davey Finlayson.

H. B. Muir, of the Advertiser staff, was also present and gave the boys some very useful information on the organization of a newspaper staff.

The following boys were elected to the various offices:

General Manager—Allan Kay.
Managing Editor—Dave Finlayson.
News Editor—Bob Rolfe.
Sport Editor—Phil Burton.
Social Editor—Jack Johnstone.
Advertising Manager—M. Lerner.
Circulation Manager—Bert Bell.

Reporting Staff.

E. Atkins, F. Clarke, S. McCallum, I. Cohen, E. Walters, J. Dey, G. McCracken, Bill Young, Shannon Nolan.

The above staff will have complete charge of editing the Boys' Own Tiser, which will be published every Saturday afternoon. The staff is a live-wire organization and the paper will undoubtedly prove a success under its management.

HOLD ANNUAL SERVICE

Fathers and Sons Attend St.
George's Church.

Last Sunday marked the annual Father and Son service at St. George's Anglican Church. The service was in charge of the rector, Rev. Canon Sage. The two Bible lessons were read in a very creditable manner by Jim Dean and Jack E. Johnston. Mr. C. Beasley of Huron College preached a very interesting and beneficial sermon to the boys and fathers present, taking as his text, "And I Will Be His Father, and He Will Be My Son." The ushers were young scouts chosen from the patrol in connection with the Sunday school.

Shooting Contests.

The De la Salle Cadet Corps has weekly shooting contests on each Friday afternoon in which a certain number of boys participate. These weekly contests are a source of interest to the boys. Those who make a good shot while attending these contests are allowed to attend a general shooting match in which representatives from the schools of the city take part.

The rifle used by the De la Salle Cadet Corps is manufactured by the Ross Rifle Company. The target is placed at a distance of 25 yards from the contestant.

ACTIVITIES OF AHMEEK CLUB AID SOCIAL LIFE

Organization Now Enjoying Its Third Successful Year.

The Ahmeek Boys' Club of Knox Presbyterian Church, South London, is composed of some of the most broad-minded and far-visioned young men of the city. Few boys' organizations can favorably compare with it in any of the four phases of C. S. E. T. work.

It proudly boasts as one of its progressive members J. Allan Kay, boys' mayor of the city, and is ready to stand behind him in any assertions he may make. The club chose Allan from the many capable members in the group to represent them in the city council, and as such he easily succeeded, with their unfailing support, in capturing the mayoralty seat.

The club is devotionally inclined, as the members have conducted two Sunday evening services in the church, the most recent one on Feb. 5 of this year. It was the unanimous opinion of all present that the services were a great success and brilliantly conducted. Claude Gunther delivered a most inspiring address and was congratulated by all on his outstanding ability.

An abundance of social spirit exists among the members, and the Ahmeeks rank foremost when any social function is announced. Last year they had the distinction of putting over the best informal dance of the season, and the dance they are preparing for Friday evening, March 10, will be better than ever, as every member is putting forth all the pep and energy he possesses to make it successful.

The club also possesses some promising athletes, and has numerous shields and pennants to display as victors in the conquest. At present it has a hockey team to challenge all comers.

It is now enjoying the third successful year of its career and unlike a number of boys' clubs in the city did not burst into flame and then die out, but it is still burning strong.

We hope for the future welfare and prosperity of the Ahmeek Club, and congratulate its members and their capable mentor—Mr. T. R. Elliott, on the successful way they are endeavoring to better and strengthen the community in which they live and the city of London at large.

The club has a very competent and hard-working executive and the most efficient leader in the city. Few have as clear a conception of boys' work as Mr. Elliott. The officers of the club are: President, Robert Ferguson; vice-president, Claude Gunther; secretary, Ted McCullough; treasurer, Cecil W. A. Kemp.

GIVE SCOUTS USE OF TANK

Local Y. M. C. A. Allows Organization To Have Contests in Swimming Pool.

Many of the Boy Scouts are interested in winning their swimming badges and are delighted to learn that the Y. M. C. A. is giving their troop the privilege of running off their tests in the "Y" tank free of charge. It is expected that many of us will avail ourselves of this opportunity. Swimming is an art which one must acquire through constant training and practice. There is a part of swimming which so few know anything of, and that is "life saving." Very few London boys have won tests for life saving. David Allan, physical instructor of the Y. M. C. A., is not only a medalist but an efficient instructor, and will be pleased at any time to give information to any boy as to how he might win these tests.

ADJUDGED EFFICIENT.

The cadet corps of the De la Salle School in the last inspection, which took place last October, was proclaimed by Col. McCrimmon to be the most efficient corps in the city, considering the length of training which it received. Brother Ambrose, who was in charge of the cadets last year, is replaced by Brother Edwin, who is carrying on the work very zealously.

HAVE SIGNALLING COURSE.

The local cadet organizations of London are having a course in signalling. This course lasts three or four weeks, lessons being given three times a week in the armories. Boys completing this course are given a $5 bonus by the Dominion government. The same course was given last autumn, and a great number of boys succeeded in completing the course satisfactorily and obtaining the bonus. A greater interest is expected this year.

UPHOLDS ZIONIST IDEALS

Young Judea Club of London Has Broad and Progressive Program.

Young Judea is a league of Zionist youth. In all the principal cities of Canada and the United States, Young Judean clubs have been organized, having their head office at New York for Canada and the United States and a branch head office at Montreal.

It is an organization of the Jewish youth to further their mental, moral and physical development. Its aims are many and far-reaching.

Its main purpose is to advance the cause of Zionism, for it stands for Jewish patriotism. It aims to awaken and foster in its clubs a Jewish national consciousness and a devotion for the Jewish homeland, Palestine; to spread among its members a knowledge of Jewish history, literature, traditions, folk-songs, ideals, of all things of Jewish national character; in every way to instill an appreciation of the Zionist aims; to inspire in them a hope of the glorious future of Israel and a willingness to serve in the cause of the re-establishment of the Jewish nation on its own soil.

It inspires in them a love for the country in which they live. Thus it produces good and loyal citizens for the country and a true Jewish race.

A Young Judean Club was organized in London on Nov. 6, 1920, under the leadership of Mr. Goldstick, who was formerly a leader in Toronto. The boys are all over 14 years of age, and the principles of the club are the same as those of the organization.

About a year ago, through the generosity of the management of the Y. M. C. A., the boys were granted the use of a room in the building for their meetings, which are held every two weeks. Their programs are of a varied and instructive nature, such as debates, prepared and impromptu speeches, and history discussions.

Last fall the club participated in the clean-up campaign of the city, taking a section of the city for inspection. This work was carried on by David Cohen and Mayer Lerner.

On Sunday, Feb. 5, some of the members took part in a series of Biblical tableaux dealing with the life of Esther. The pictures were well presented and the success was largely due to the untiring efforts of Miss Topley-Thomas, who directed the tableaux.

The officers at the present time are: President, Hughie Lewis, 174 Hamilton road; vice-president, Hymie Grace; treasurer, Archie Cherin; secretary, Mayer Lerner.

At the next meeting on Saturday, Feb. 18, an oratory contest is to be the feature. The non-participating members are to be the judges.

WORKING TO DEVELOP FATHER AND SON IDEA

The Movement Has Made Progress in London During Past Weeks.

Services are being held again tomorrow in several churches.

St. Andrew's Presbyterian pulpit will see some of our boys on Sunday night to assist Rev. D. C. McGregor.

Other churches have participated in this wonderful movement of bringing our boys and fathers into closer touch with one another.

Ridout Methodist and Askin Methodist Churches had bumper crowds out to hear experts on the subject of boy life.

Banquets have been held in the last two weeks in about fifteen churches and at the Y. M. C. A.

Fathers—read our paper.

We know that the fathers are going to read our paper weekly, and we want you to buy an extra copy to send to the father of some other boy outside of the city.

Why? Because they will receive many good suggestions of how to live together, play together and study together from these columns weekly.

Leaders—Send this paper to other leaders throughout the country. Ideas are worth their weight in gold, so put a stamp on one of our Tisers and send it to a man who will make good use of it.

NO SPORT.

Old Gent—You said that dog you sold me was gentle. Why, he wants to eat the head off every dog he sees. You swindled me.

Fancier—Lor' love yer, mister, yer oughtn't keep dogs at all. A gent with temperament ought only to go in for goldfish.

READY FOR CAMP.

The Otter Tribe are getting ready for camping early. They have got all their equipment ready and even to the date set for their trips. They have planned to go to Mt. Brydges for May 24 and to Granton for July 1.

BOY OF TODAY CHANGED FROM OLD HAPPY-GO-LUCKY TYPE OF YESTERDAY

THE old idea of the boy was lazy, happy, hungry, untidy, careless, and mannerless. Today a boy is worth his weight in gold, in the eyes of the majority of people. Of course, those who still look on the boy as a humbug and a nuisance are of the narrow-minded, grouchy type.

The boy of today is the material out of which is made the man of tomorrow.

Maybe he is more willing to go fishing or play baseball than he is to run errands or study. But for all that, he is not so bad at heart, as his actions will indicate.

The boy of today is the man of tomorrow. True, but he must be fitted, both physically and mentally to take over the responsibility of manhood.

In this respect the Y. M. C. A. and C. S. E. T. are the most valued things of today. These two organizations, along with various other boys' societies, are turning out yearly thousands of high-minded, strong-bodied young men.

So dad, if Tom wants to join a boys' club, don't say "No." Say: "All right, son."

You'll find it will pay in dealing with the boys of today.

FORMING CAMERA CLUB

Boys Will Be Instructed in Art of Photography.

The London Y. M. C. A. is organizing a camera club to create better interest in photography. Early in March there is going to be a competition, and all boys belonging to the "Y" will be entitled to take part. The boys are not requested to do their own developing, but must, under all conditions, get their own prints.

If the camera club is a success, the Y.M.C.A. will install a dark room and instruct boys in the developing and printing of their own pictures. A collection of snaps is being taken, and are on exhibition in the boys' department. Any boy wishing to give snaps or obtain further information will kindly speak to Mr. Houlding, the boys' secretary, or Mr. Spearman, his assistant.

LONDON BOYS AND HOCKEY.

Great enthusiasm has been shown by the boys of all our clubs this year in the clean, out-of-door sport of hockey. We feel that the chaps in this city are greatly indebted to the taxpayers and the public utilities for the excellent ice accommodation. Hockey cushions are in greater demand than ever this year, and weather permitting, we want more next year. This "Tiser" will help us to organize more teams in each of our organizations.

TOO LITERAL.

The verger was interested in the form of a bill that accompanied the delivery of three tons of coal to the rectory. He could not understand why the bill should be made out: "One ton of coal, 55 shillings; ditto, ditto." The rector explained that the use of the word "ditto" saved the writing of the whole sentence three times.

The next Sunday morning the verger surprised the congregation by announcing: "Hymn No. 18; Art thou weary? Ditto languid? Ditto sore distressed?"

FOOLED THEM.

The English cyclist rode on through the rain. He was drenched and splashed with mud from head to foot. He saw a countryman walking toward him.

"How far to Riston?" he asked. "Eight miles in the other direction," was the answer.

"The other way!" gasped the cyclist. "But the last signpost pointed this way to Riston."

"Ah, that post was turned round long ago to confuse the zeppelins," answered the countryman with a knowing smile.

Boys' Own Advertising Manager Will Be After You

WE need your support for our paper just as you need us to buy those things which you have stocked up to sell.

When our own advertising manager calls on you, give him a welcome and more—give him an ad. for the "Boys' Own Tiser."

We are being granted so much space by The Advertiser, and we must fill that space. Phone 3670 and have Mayer Lerner or one of the other boys call for your ad.

We guarantee on our part to encourage the hearty response of all our boys to your specials. Let us have a real ad. weekly. Advertising Manager.

MAPLE LEAFS WIN GAME

De La Salle School Pupils Organize Hockey League.

A hockey league has been organized at the De La Salle school, with each room being represented by a team. A schedule was composed, with all the games being played on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays. The high school room, because of the handicap they have on the other rooms, have been divided into two teams, the Maple Leafs and Beavers.

The first game was played on Feb. 14 between the Maple Leafs and Grade VIII. The Maple Leafs won.

Line-up:
Maple Leaf Position. Grade VIII.
J. Murphy . Goal . . . J. Fitzgerald
E. Walters . L. Defence J. Warburton
D. Regan . R. . . . W. Moylan
L. Nolan . . . Center . . . G. Dignan
J. Fox . . . L. Wing . L. Dromgole
W. O'Brien . R. . . . J. Ashwell

START SWIMMING CLASSES.

Every boy should be able to swim. Hundreds will be interested to know that the Y. M. C. A. has started a special course of training for boys who cannot swim. Mr. A. B. Horwood is the instructor. In one gym class alone 23 have petitioned for instruction. Each class is limited to 10, and it is understood that the training will continue right through until the summer.

THE USUAL PROCEDURE.

An inquisitive tourist in Ireland stopped before a garden and began to question old Murphy, the wit of Ballymoybalachie.

"And how do you find the crops at this time of the year, Mr. Murphy?" asked the inquisitive one.

The old man looked up with bland smile.

"Shure," he said, "'tis by diggin' for 'em, as usual."

A Good Runner

Jill—Will you crank up the new car and run over for me?

Jack—Sure, whom do you want run over?

Too Far

Mary—I am going riding with Jim. Sue—How far are you going?

Mary—Not as far as I went before.

Sue—How far was that?

Mary—He kissed me.

Being Driven

"I saw you out driving yesterday."

"No, my wife was driving."

"But she was in the back seat."

"Just the same, my wife was driving."

The Limit

"My husband is laid up for repairs."

"Exceeding the speed limit."

"No, exceeding the feed limit."

On the Road

Frank—My engine is missing.

Wife—Oh, Frank, and the garage isn't locked.

Frank—What's that got to do with it?

Wife—The engine will be stolen before we get back.

One Week on a Gallon

"Better buy this little old car of mine. It's the greatest gas saver in the world."

"I thought you said you only got two miles to the gallon?"

"I know, but she stays in the garage half the time."

Bad Accident

"What caused the fight?"

"Mrs. Jones ran down Mrs. Smith."

"I didn't know the Joneses had a car."

"You don't need a car to run down a neighbor."

The Smallest Town

"How big is Terrapin Ford?"

"Small, very small."

"A one-horse town, is it?"

"Worse than that."

"How come?"

"A one-auto town."

C. S. E. T. SKATING PARTY

Present Gold Pencil to Bill Young, Who Is Leaving City.

Thursday evening marked a very enjoyable gathering at the Boys' Council and their girl friends at a skating party held at Victoria Park.

After a delightful skate the young people returned to the "Y," where refreshments were served, after which a short sing-song was held, during which Bill Young sang a delightful solo. As Bill is leaving the city very shortly, immediately after the solo he was presented with a gold Ever-sharp pencil as a small token of the esteem in which the boys of the council hold him. The presentation was made on behalf of the council by Dave Finlayson. The happy gathering broke up after a vote of thanks was tendered the social committee for the delightful evening.

CELEBRATE 4TH ANNIVERSARY.

The Red Fox Tribe of Lone Scouts meet every second and fourth Wednesday of the month in the tribe room which they have built for themselves at 159 St. James street. They have been in the organization for quite a long time, having celebrated their fourth anniversary by a banquet on January 2 of this year. The officers of this tribe are: Mr. E. E. Murtagh, major; F. Clark, chief; F. James, sashem; L. Sadler, scribe; L. Brodie, wampum bearer.

A CASE OF LIMITS.

Simp—I can't live within my allowance."

Blimp—Well, I can't live without mine."

Juvenile Needs

The modern awakening to which is applied the epithet "the child's century," derives its main inspiration and support from a penetrating social vision and understanding which lead us more and more to see things from the child's point of view.

No longer should we feed the Moloch of short-sightedness by throwing boys and girls into jail. No longer should the child in court be looked upon as ripe in experience, in judgment and in responsibility; he must be viewed rather as what he is—a growing potentiality, an inexperienced, experimenting, learning human child.

Child study and social research in all progressive Canadian cities are writing large the query: Who did sin, this child, now before the juvenile court or his parents?

Even the police, almost notorious for their blindness, have had their eyes opened, and are now beginning to recognize that a large proportion of juvenile delinquencies are simply the overflowing of the "spirit of youth" struggling for enlargement and self-expression in the midst of an artificial environment.

In other words, the whole trend of modern child welfare work is toward endeavoring to find out what is in the child's consciousness, what his or her interests and tendencies and capacities are, and then seeking to employ such measures as will best develop the good.

One of the expressions of the modern social movement, and one that has reached its best development in its application to children, is the probation system of the juvenile court.

Conceived four decades ago as a substitute for the evils of imprisonment, and rejuvenated in 1899, the system is now in use in all of the progressive cities of Canada and the United States.

Historically, the first object of probation was to spare children (and equally so adults) from the stigma and other disadvantages and evils of incarceration. It was a humane substitute for imprisonment.

As probation developed, however, a second aim came to be to gather information concerning the subsequent conduct of those conditionally released by the court, to the end that in case of relapses the law might be vindicated.

The main duty of the probation officer was to keep posted about the behavior of those under his care.

Recently, however, the emphasis has come to rest more and more upon its educative, reformatory possibilities; no longer a mere substitute for something else and not content with simply securing evidence, its chief purpose is now generally recognized as being to effect improvement in conduct and home surroundings; to achieve, if possible, permanent reformation and rehabilitation.

Probation should seek definitely and positively to do constructive work, to mould and improve the child's habits, to stimulate his ambition and self-control, to aid him in practical ways.

Now this isn't theory. It is practice. It is being done in many places. Results are being accomplished. The juvenile court with its system of probation is succeeding wherever it is tried out.

Why has it not been tried out in London?

SCOUTS PREPARING FOR GOVERNOR-GENERAL'S VISIT

London Is Headquarters For Oldest Troop in Dominion, Organized in 1909.

London has the distinction of being the headquarters of the oldest troop in Canada. This troop, the 8th London, has been organized since 1909. This troop, under the leadership of George Metcalfe, has shown active work in this city during past years.

Preparations are under way for the intended visit of His Excellency Lord Byng of Vimy, chief scout for Canada. His excellency has the honor of possessing the Silver Wolf, the highest award in the Scout World. He has been greatly interested in Scout work in England before and during the war, and at present is greatly interested in this work in Canada.

The 8th London troop held its regular meeting Tuesday evening, Feb. 14, at 7:30. Routine work was carried out, which was followed by an illustrated lecture, the views shown were of a very interesting nature, being photos of the Scout Jamboree held in the Olympic, London, England, July 31-Aug. 6, 1920. Scouts from all over the world attended it. The lecture was given by District Scout Master Cristal. About thirty-five Scouts were present.

A meeting of the patrol leaders will be held at the residence of Scout Master George Metcalfe on Friday evening, Feb. 24. Matters pertaining to the intended display to be held in the near future.

The 9th London Troop held an entertainment for the purpose of raising money to equip the troop with uniforms. The entertainment was well attended. Following the chairman's address the troop sang "O Canada." The following artists contributed to the success of the evening, Miss Paddock, Miss J. McCarthy, the Malone brothers, Teddy Giesy, Earl McAllister, Miss Rhea Mossop and local Scouts.

The 2nd London Troop held their regular meeting last night. Routine work was carried out in charge of Scout Master R. Rolfe.

GOOD CHANCE FOR LONDON SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHERS

Teacher Training Classes Are Held Every Thursday at the Y. M. C. A.

The teacher training course for leaders of boys' Sunday school classes will be held in the Y. M. C. A. every Thursday night at 7:45 to 8:45.

Mr. G. W. Hoffer, M.A., of London Normal School, has the class on "Methods of Teaching."

8:45 to 9:30, Rev. W. R. McIntosh, B.D., will take the class on "The Religious Life of Boys."

We commend this splendid course to every teacher. We boys want the best training we can get, and we favor supporting this work of the London Religious Education Council.

KIWANIS BOYS.

About sixty boys in the city have been lucky enough to be selected by Kiwanis for the purpose of giving them a chance to make good in life. The big Kiwanis brothers will meet with their boys tomorrow at the Y. M. C. A. The purpose is to worship with the Ki-Y Club and also to wander around the building, choosing a quiet corner for a real heart-to-heart conversation. We congratulate these boys, and hope that many other clubs and units of men will pick out boys to brother—boys who are crying "Give us a chance."

HOW HE BENEFITTED.

"You may have heard of me—I am Dr. Bragby," the pompous gentleman announced in the sitting compartment.

"Ah, then, I have the opportunity to thank you for what you did to me," the quiet young fellow resumed. "I have been benefitted greatly by your treatment."

"Why—er—were you a patient of mine. Though, of course, I couldn't possibly remember all!"

"Oh, no; not I. But my uncle was, and I was his heir."

REPORTERS GET BUSY.

Our "Tiser" must have news. This means that we will have to gather items of all activities in each of our organized clubs, but it means more—those clubs which have been sleepy and dormant must buck up. Give your boys, Mr. Leader, something to do in a clean, wholesome way. See that every boy in your outfit has a job, a responsibility of some sort, and then you will be proud to phone us up and say: "We have accomplished so and so this week, and next week we are to have—of great value in character building to our boy."

Who's Who in London Boys' Community Council

THE London Boys' Council is an elected body of boys elected by the boys taking C.S. E.T. in this city. They are elected annually by the boys during the spring of each year. They function under the supervision of the London Boys' Work Board. The London Boys' Community Council is composed of the following:

Mayor, Allan Kay, 292 Wortley road.

Deputy-Mayor, Hary Boylan, Lorne avenue.

Clerk, Ron. Foote, 419 Dufferin avenue.

Chairman Religious Activities, Bill Young, 239 Simcoe street.

Chairman Social Activities, Dave Finlayson, 53 Charles street.

Vice-Chairman Social Activities, Jack Johnston, 2 Caruthers avenue.

Vice-Chairman Educational Activities, Harvey Adair, 21 Rathgar street.

Vice-Chairman Physical Activities, Phil Burton, 831 Adelaide street.

Vice-Chairman Physical Activities, Roy Allin, 531 Colborne street.

ETIMAR CLUB LEADS IN CHURCH DEBATING BODY

Interesting Discussions Are Expected To Take Place Every Thursday Evening.

Much interest is being centered around the Interchurch Debating League, of which Mr. Bob Shaw-Wood of the Etimar Club is president. The official standing of the league is as follows:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Etimar Club	1	0	1000
Knox Presbyterian	1	1	500
Nikator Club	0	1	000

The debates so far have been very interesting and very closely contested and are an indication that some very lively discussions are yet to take place. Debates take place each Thursday evening at the home quarters of one of the clubs, the home club playing host to the visiting club. The winners of this league will be presented with a silver cup upon completion of the schedule.

SHOOT FOR WINCHESTER MEDALS.

Winchester Junior Rifle Corps has 4 units of 20 boys per unit, shooting at the Y. M. C. A. weekly. These boys are not only striving to win the Winchester medals, bronze, silver and gold, but they are also as groups, in competition with hundreds of other groups all over America. Major E. E. Murtagh is instructor, and he is ably assisted by Ted Westlake, Henry Nicholls, Louis Nye. The bronze medal was won last week by the following boys: Harold Dyson, Bert Dean.

NOT QUITE THE SAME.

Mother Dear—"Do your new shoes hurt?"

Brother Dear—"No, but my feet do."

WIN ATTENDANCE PENNANT.

Hawks, Tuxis group, were successful for the second time in succession in winning the pennant awarded each month to the group with the best attendance record at church, Sunday school and midweek meeting during the month of January.

JUST AS OFTEN.

Mrs. Worth had just learned that her colored workwoman, Aunt Dinah, had at the age of seventy married for the fourth time. "Why, Aunt Dinah," she exclaimed, "you surely aren't married again!" "Yassum, honey, I has," was Aunt Dinah's smiling reply. "Jes' as often as de Lawd takes 'em, so will I."

OTTER TRIBE MEETINGS.

The Otter Tribe hold a meeting every Tuesday evening in E. E. Murtagh's home at 860 William street. The officers are: Mr. E. E. Murtagh, major; R. Brewer, chief; W. Galloway, sachem; F. Floyd, scribe; F. Galloway, wampum bearer. This tribe is comparatively young, having been organized in October of the year 1921.

IN THE STORM.

I huddled close against the mighty cliff.
A sense of safety and of brotherhood
Broke on the heart: the shelter of a rock
Is sweeter than the roofs of all the world.

KNOX CHURCH FATHERS AND SONS HOLD BANQUET

W. D. Davidson Acts as Toastmaster at Get-Together Entertainment.

A most successful banquet was held in Knox Church in conjunction with the local Father and Son activities.

Mr. W. D. Davidson acted as toastmaster. The toast of Fathers was made by Mr. Gidley and responded to by Leonard Gidley.

The following was the toast list: "The Boys" was made by Rev. T. D. McCullough, responded to by Allan Kay.

"The Ahmeek Club," proposed by Mr. Chas. Mitchell, responded to by Bob Ferguson.

"The Wingfoot Club," by C. Gunther, responded to by Jack Ferguson.

"The Excelsior Club," by Cecil Kemp, responded to by Hyles Templelin.

"The Church," by Dennis Warner, responded by Rev. T. A. Symington.

"The Clubs," by C. Gunther, responded to by Alex MacArthur.

"C. S. E. T.," by Willard Gray, responded to by Ted McCullough.

LONDON BOY LIFE COUNCIL BRINGS ALL TOGETHER

Approve Heartily of the Idea of Having Boys' Own Tiser.

London Boy Life Council is not another organization, but merely a coming together of all the agencies entrusted in boy life.

It was formed by the boys' committee of the Rotary Club in September, 1921.

The object was to draw together organizations of boys to see if there were any things which they could do better in a united way than by each working separately.

The seven most important units were:

- C. S. E. T.
- Navy League.
- Lone Scouts.
- Boy Scouts.
- Judean Club.
- Roman Catholic Club.
- The Y. M. C. A.

Each of these units was to preserve its absolute autonomy, and only unite with the others in whatever activities were agreed upon by all.

The Rotary Club presumed to organize the council because of its non-denominational, non-partisan nature, because it has no affiliation with any of the existing agencies interested in boy life.

The policy, furthermore, was to arouse greater interest in the city for leadership, and for a community understanding of the objectives of every affiliated organization.

The first initial effort was in the successful city-wide "clean-up" campaign held last fall.

The Rotary Club feels that the Boys' Own Tiser will be a wonderful agency, proving to the city that the BOY is its greatest asset, and wishes The Advertiser all success in its concrete vision of educating the public to the needs of the boy.

THE BOY WE LIKE.

[Boy's Life.]

The boy who never makes fun of old age.

The boy who does not cheat in work or play.

The boy who never calls anybody bad names, no matter what anybody calls him.

The boy who is never cruel to animals.

The boy who never lies. Even white lies leave black spots on the character.

The boy who never makes fun of a companion for something he could not help.

The boy who says "No" when asked to do a wrong thing.

The boy who is always courteous to women and girls.

The boy who would "rather be right than be president."

IMMATERIAL.

The office stenographer was mentally upset over her inability to spell "graphic." "How do you spell graphic, with one 'f' or two?" she asked. "If you are going to use any," the genial boss replied, "you might as well use two."

SEX PROBLEM.

A violinist entered a London music seller's shop. "I want an E string, please," he remarked to the gentleman behind the counter.

Producing a box, the latter said: "Would you mind pickin' one aht fer yourself, sir? I 'ardly knows the 'es from the shes."

POETRY.

She comes like the hush and beauty of the night,
And sees too deep for laughter:
Her touch is a vibration and a light
From worlds before and after.

TECHNICAL SCHOOL BOYS CREATE PARLIAMENT

Organization Will Look After School Events Throughout the Year.

The London Technical High School has organized a boys' parliament, which looks after social events throughout the year. Two leaders were, early in January, nominated, the two men being Carl Kennedy and Bob Woolford. Carl Kennedy represented the Liberator party and Bob Woolford the Aggressive. There was a general election throughout the school, and when all the results were in Bob Woolford had been elected.

Bob in his platform had introduced a system of taxation in which it was stated that first-year students pay one cent a month tax for ten months, and second-year two and third-year three cents a month. With this tax all social events were to be carried on and that all social events were to be free to all. Lately the form representatives have been collecting taxes and had practically finished, because it had been intended for the parliament to hold a social evening on Friday. This has been postponed until a later date on account of the hockey at St. Thomas.

Bob Woolford's cabinet is as follows:

Honorable Robert Woolford, prime minister; Honorable Glen Shepherd, home secretary; Honorable Paul Dawson, secretary of state; Honorable Douglas Goodge, foreign secretary; Honorable Charles Wilson, minister of finance.

NAVY LOSES TO THE SCOUTS.

Thursday, Feb. 16, the Naval Brigade warred against the Scouts at Victoria Park hockey rink, but were quelled when the Scouts knocked them for 5 goals to 1. The game was ran off in three 20-minute periods, with a five-minute rest. In the first period the Scouts kept the puck around the Naval end, scoring three goals.

The second period went about even, with the Scouts two more and the Naval lads with one.

The third period went fast and fire-like, with no score, but some slugging on both sides.

Vic Wong and D. Thompson starred for the Boy Scouts, while C. Bridle was best for the Boys' Naval Brigade. A Wildgust had to be relieved in the second period with an injured ankle. A Tucker was relieved at the end of the first period, suffering with sore ribs which he received three weeks ago. The line-up:

Referee—George Chapman.

OH! THAT ONE DUD!

Results of Boys' Naval Brigade shoot on Wednesday, Feb. 15, at the Armories was not a perfect success, especially in the opinion of some of the boys who managed to get hold of the "dud" gun, one of the 225 being out of order; someone said it shoots round corners. However, some fairly good scores were made. C. Kew headed the list with 41 out of a possible 50. We are in hopes some kind friend will donate a small cup or a medal to be shot for monthly. Someone had a .22 short on the range Wednesday night, but after using about 50 rounds without finding the bullseye, came to the conclusion that the rifle was no good.

Pampering Boys.

IS THERE a chance of overdoing the looking-after-boys business by indulgent parents? VERGNE BUCHANAN of Ingersoll spoke in London on Friday at the Kiwanis Club, and he left the people there with something to think about.

Do the boys get their spending money easy? Do they appreciate it when all that is necessary is to tap father for the required amount? Money thus secured represents no effort on the part of a boy; simply the exercising of a habit too easily formed of asking for what he knows he can get with very little urging.

The boy who works knows that money comes as the result of his effort.

Thus, it has a certain definite value expressed in the labor power necessary to accomplish the task for which the money was paid.

Give a boy access to easy money, and you have taken the first step to placing him on the skids.

When one sees the amount of money that is lavished on some youngsters the thought cannot be suppressed that the chances of some neglected children are better and safer, looking to the future.

On the Side.

Boy—How much are your eggs per dozen?

Grocer—Fifty cents a dozen for the cracked ones and 80 cents a dozen for the good ones.

Boy—Well, crack me a dozen of the 80-cent kind.

Patrol Leader Burrows—Have you seen any of the 3-cent pieces?

Troop Leader Rodda—Nope! But I've got some 85-cent pieces at home.

P. L. Burrows—Aw! Cut it out! A Scout's truthful, you know.

T. L. Rodda—I know. But these are Victrola records.

Two cats were about to have a duel.

"Let us have an understanding before we begin," said one.

"About what?" asked the other.

"Is it to be duel to the death, or shall we make it the best three lives out of five?"

Tenderfoot—What kind of dog do you like best?

First Class Scout—Hot dog—and pure bread.

George Loveless—Your dog took first prize at the cat show? How do you get that way?

Harold Newell—He ate the cat.

The doctor looked haughtily at Gord. Cummings, who had reported for medical examination.

"I'll examine you carefully for five dollars," said the M.D.

"Fine," replied Gord., "and if you find any we'll split fifty-fifty."

Allan Kay walked up to a man on the street and asked him the time. The man was a deaf mute and, of course, he didn't pay any attention to Allan. After several futile attempts to make the mute understand what he wanted, Allan, with despairing gesture, exclaimed: "Goodness gracious, he must be blind. I cannot make him hear."

THAT'S RIGHT, BILL.

Allan Kay to Bill Young—Say, Bill, where did you get that swell rose?

Bill Young—That's not a rose. That's a geranium.

Allan—It's a rose.

Bill—IT'S A GERANIUM.

Allan—IT'S A ROSE.

Bill—I tell you it's a geranium.

Allan—Well, then, how do you spell it?

Bill (after a moment's thought)—All right, then, it's a rose.

Curly Horwood—What is dust, Mr. Houlding?

Mr. Houlding (abstractedly)—Mud with the juice squeezed out of it.

Phil Burton—What are you doing, Dave?

Dave Finlayson—Nothing.

Phil Burton—Can I help you?

A little boy in church one morning was much annoyed by the actions of a bald-headed gentleman in front of him. Every few minutes this gentleman would scratch the fringe of hair around his bald pate.

When he could stand it no longer, the little chap leaned over and said: "Say, mister, why don't you chase him out in the open?"

Bill—Well, just because you have a block head you don't need to think you are the whole lumber pile.

Dave—Just the same, my neck's not any more like a typewriter than yours.

Bill—Why, how's that?

Dave—Because your's is under-wood.

Mr. Houlding—Allan, what is your favorite sport?

Allan Kay (mayor of Boys' council)—Resigning my position on the council.

Reg. Beard—My father and I know everything in the world.

Sammy Martin—What's a mathematical induction?

Reg. Beard—That's something my father knows.

Alexander Jackson, a pillar of the colored church, was entertaining the pastor and a few friends. After grace—and Alexander started to carve the chicken.

Pastor (smiling)—Brudder Jackson, do de white folk around here keep chickens?

Alexander (still carving)—No, sah, day does not, but day certainly tried hard enough to.

Scotty Gemmell (to Dr. Mordden, professor of physics and chemistry at L. C. I.)—Doctor, is there any liquids that become solids when heated?

Dr. Mordden—Well, Stanley, not that I know of. Why do you ask?

Scotty—Well, sir, how about the white of an egg?

HERE'S A NEW ONE.

1st scout—What's the difference between a cat and a comma.

2nd scout—You'll have to tell me.

1st scout—Well, dough-head, a cat has claws (claus) at the end of its paws (and a comma has pause at the end of its clause). Hee, hee.

C. S. E. T. HOCKEY LEAGUE PROVIDES KEEN CONTESTS

Local Boys' Clubs Gain Pleasure and Recreation From This Branch of Movement.

The hockey league of the C. S. E. T. has been and is a great success. The league has furnished pleasure and recreation for all the organized groups affiliated with the C. S. E. T. movement.

This year we have received several setbacks on account of weather conditions, and the need of a hockey arena has been driven home, but the games have been run off smoothly, and no friction was caused in the schedule.

This year the tournament plan has been adopted by the athletic executive, and by means of this the weaker teams are discarded in the opening of the series.

The teams are evenly matched and games which have been played were very exciting and marked by the absence of rough hockey. Some good games are looked for in the semi-finals and the public are invited to become spectators, or better still, enthusiastic rooters.

The different C. S. E. T. groups are requested to look over the sports column, as the games for the following week will be published. The standing of the league is as follows:

	Won.	Lost.	G. Scored.	G. Against.
Pirates (New St. James')	2	0	18	1
Comex (Colborne)	0	2	1	18
Weiners (Talbot)	1	0	3	1
Swastikas	0	1	1	3
Maple Leafs (Centennial)	0	1	0	6
Meteors (Askin)	1	0	6	0

The Invincibles played Hale Street in a qualifying round, and Hale Street was victorious by four goals. The captains of the Hale Street team and the Hawks are requested to get together and play off two games to decide the winner.

The Zetos defaulted to Knox Ah-meeks, but Knox is willing to give them another chance.

No reports have been sent in from the senior, and they are requested to do so immediately.

EFFICIENCY REWARDED

Lone Scouts Is Wide Awake Organization of Boys.

The Lone Scouts of America was incorporated in Washington, District of Columbia, in 1915. The organization is for all wide-awake, ambitious boys everywhere. The purpose of the Lone Scouts is to give the boys all the advantages of the Boy Scout movement, permitting them to operate alone if it is not convenient for them to belong to tribes. There are no membership fees or dues to pay, no expensive equipment for the boys or their parents to buy. As a member progresses in his Scout work he is awarded degrees with appropriate badges, and the degrees make up lodges.

FATHER AND SON BANQUET.

The annual Father and Son banquet of Chalmers Church was held Wednesday evening last in the club room. The supper, which was greatly enjoyed, was served by the ladies of the church. A sing-song followed, led by W. Young. Rev. Mr. Harris was the speaker of the evening, and his address was very interesting.

GORDONS WIN ATTENDANCE CUP.

Gordons, Trail Rangers of Dundas Center, were successful in winning the silver cup for the month of January for church, Sunday school and midweek meeting attendance.

Some Real Orators.

If the attendance at the public speaking class conducted under the supervision of Mr. L. M. Houlding in the Y. each Tuesday evening is taken into serious consideration, it would appear that the Hon. Mr. King will have to guard his position as a speech maker very jealously, as there are several would-be Mr. Kings numbered among the boys who are taking advantage of this course in the art of public speaking. Much credit is due Mr. Houlding for the success of this class, and before long there will be heard many great speakers who have hitherto been kept in the background by the mere fact that they were unable to express themselves clearly while upon their feet.

TRAIL RANGER GROUPS COMPETING FOR CUP

Members from Dundas Center Win Prize For Month of January.

There are about thirty-five Trail Ranger groups in the city. The competition between them is very keen. In order to give the boys something to show for their work, a cup was bought last fall, with money subscribed by every group. The group having the highest number of points for athletics, health, church attendance and Bible-study, every month, is awarded this cup. At the end of the year, the group having won it the most times keeps it.

The inter-group cup goes to the Gordon group of Dundas Center Church, for January. The boys are elated at the prospect of winning it for good, which they have set out to do. The mentors and officers are making a big effort to put their group on top.

The mentors are as follows: Dr. R. J. Gordon, Frank Adams and Milt Walker. The officers are: Chief ranger, Frank Clark; deputy, Stewart Ward; cache and tally, Millard Grant.

HOLD ATHLETIC MEET AT 'Y'

Tuxis Boys and Trail Rangers Contest Supremacy at Sports.

On a recent date the different C. S. E. T. groups of the city met at 7:30 p.m. in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium to settle old scores and decide which club was the best.

There were over 25 teams entered, and the judges deserve much credit in handling the crowd satisfactorily. Particularly to Curly Horwood are the groups in debt. Quite a large number of spectators were present to see their teams carry off the laurels.

The winners of the respective classes are:

Juniors—Senecas (Askin), composed of M. George, M. Grey, M. Dale, W. Orchard.

Intermediates—Meteors (Askin), composed of E. Chapman, B. Chapman, A. Roberts, W. Chambers.

C. KEW A GOOD SHOT.

The B. N. B. shooting, Wednesday February 15, at armories, was not a perfect success, especially in the opinion of some of the boys, who managed to get hold of the dud gun, one of the .22 shorts being out of order. Some one said it shoots around corners. However, some fairly good scores were made, C. Kew with 41 heading the list. We are in hopes some kind friend will donate us a small cup or medal to be shot for monthly.

RINK PROVES POPULAR.

De La Salle school has an open air rink this year. Many games have been played on it already. The Holy Name League play their games there. Some games of the Public School League have also been played, with the De La Salle school team winning every game they have played. With good weather prevailing many more games will be played.

DEPARTURE OF BILL YOUNG IS REGRETTED

Convener of Religious Committee Leaving To Reside in Chippewa.

The early departure of William (Bill) Young, convener of the religious committee of the C. S. E. T. Boys' Council is being greatly regretted by Bill's host of friends, and, in fact, by every boy-worker in the city.

Bill's radiant personality, his cheerfulness and his ever-willingness to work will long be felt by the Boys' Council.

William Young, cil.

have to sever his connection with beneficial to the town.

It is unfortunate that Bill should have to sever his connections with the boy work of this city, and more especially so at this time, when some of the ideals and advantages for which he has striven so hard are about to be materialized.

Bill has been elected to the Boys' Council for three consecutive years, and the great success of that body is in no small measure due to him.

Bill leaves this city in a few days for his new home in Chippewa. We, as fellow councillors, feel assured that the advent of Bill to the boy work in Chippewa will be to the great advantage of the community, and if he is successful, as he undoubtedly will be, in instilling those high ideals which are his into that community's boy work it will be most beneficial to the town.

Bill leaves London with the best wishes of his fellow workers and many friends for his happiness and success in his new home.

ANGLICANS FORM LEAGUE

Boys of City Churches Organize Basketball Association.

The Anglicans of the city have formed a basketball league which is proving a great success. There are three different Anglican halls in the city, and the young Anglicans felt the need of physical development and formed a league.

The league is divided into three groups, senior, intermediate and junior, and several games are played weekly. The games have been hard, and the winners deserve much praise.

The success of the league is due to the untiring efforts of its officers, who are:

President—Rev. Quintin Warner.
Vice-President—Rev. Denny Bright.
Secretary—Ted Wainwright.

REMEMBER, FELLOWS!

Courtesy is a valuable asset. Courage often means victory. Your conscience should guide you. Thrift begets independence. Speak no evil of thy neighbor. Kind deeds are not forgotten.

TEACH KI-Y BOYS TO SWIM.

The Askin Hawks are teaching the Ki-Y. boys to learn the manly art of swimming, and are making great progress. By doing this they are winning their leaders' button for general all-round efficiency.

HAWKS ENTERTAIN ALERT GIRLS.

At the end of the month the Askin Hawks held a social evening with the Alerts girl class of Askin Street. About fourteen couples motored to Dorchester, where they were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hodder. Mr. Arthur Horwood and Mr. Harold Richmond, mentors of the Hawks, were present with their lady friends and enjoyed the evening's fun.

HOLD CAMERA HUNTING TRIP.

Last Saturday the Askin Hawks had a hunting trip, but all the shooting was done by cameras. Reg. Werner was chief of the party and gave some interesting points on photography.

PLAN SHOOTING CONTEST.

A competition between the local cadet organizations in shooting is being arranged. The shooting will be carried on in the armories. The boys will use the .22 calibre Ross rifles at a range of 50 feet.

POSTPONE SOCIAL EVENT.

The Boys' Parliament of the London Technical High School have been forced to postpone their social evening until a later date on account of the hockey game at St. Thomas on Friday.

HEXATHLON TESTS CONTINUE.

The hexathlon tests are underway for 1922. Here's hoping London repeats its 1920 performance.

Mr. David Allen will resume his duties on Monday after two weeks' illness.

TELLS HOW AUTO
TOPS ARE MADE

Mitchell Trimming Works
Provide Artistic and Pleasing Covering for Cars.

"It's an ill wind that blows no one any good," and the truth of the content of this old proverb adage is well driven home, when one considers the case of the automobile trimmer. His trade was at a discount when buggies were the commonest means of conveyance.

Buggy trimmers in the days before the advent of the automobile eked out as best they might, a more or less haphazard livelihood in pursuance of their trade. When the automobile came along, the scene of the buggy makers' business dropped, but the buggy top trimmers heralded the new horseless car with delight. They immediately entered the business. And now almost all of the designs for motor tops are drawn by men who formerly tackled on the leather tops on horse carriages.

Automobile manufacturers learned the worth of material, design and everything that appertains thereunto with regard to tops from the former buggy trimmers. It was the only field in which the pioneers of the automobile entered where someone had trod before. Motors were perfected by experience and many, many mistakes, chassis, wheels and axles had almost to be invented to fit the new machine. But motor tops, irrespective of the difference in size, drew from the buggy their fundamental basis of design and material.

Somehow Uncommon Profession. The trimming of cars outside the factory is a somewhat uncommon profession today, and there are but few independent trimmers to be found. The reason for this is that in factories where cars are assembled each man does but a little to aid in turning out the complete top. Every man does his bit. An automobile top trimmer must complete the entire top—that is, the fabric portion—from start to finish.

According to L. Mitchell of the Mitchell Trimming Works, 170 Maple street, a great number of automobile tops today are not constructed when originally placed on the car so that they will last for the duration of the car's life.

In the summer there is a tendency to leave the top down, said Mr. Mitchell, but the present tendency of most motorists was to leave the top up. The best policy is to leave it up, for when a top was resting in folds the bumps and bounces of the moving vehicle works great havoc by the horse grinding together and cutting through the fabric.

Combination of Rubber. Most of the present-day fabrics for tops are a combination of rubber and tough-woven cord-like material. This has proven itself to stand up best, in the light of past years of experience on the part of the motor manufacturers, said Mr. Mitchell.

A while ago mohair cloth was the

Succeed With London

THE blue-ruiners of London are having a great field day. They see high taxes, unemployment, a certain amount of business depression—in fact, everything is going to the bow-wows.

These are the people who sit down and pray and hope and wish that prosperity will come to them and to their city. The real way to succeed with London is to get out and try. The day of sitting down and waiting for prosperity to come is past. The "go-getter," who goes out and works for himself and for his city, is the man who can look depression or anything else in the face with a smile.

Men of this type are to be met every day on the streets of London. They admit that times may be a little dull, but they can see good things for themselves and for their city ahead. In the meantime they are out and doing. They are getting their share of what is going and are so busy at it that they haven't time to brood.

That is the fault of the blue-ruiners. They give too little time to trying and too much time to brooding over what is and what might have been.

One leading London booster who is succeeding with London says these people look at the world "cross-eyed." He sympathizes with them and suggests that one of the best moves toward boosting the city would be to take these pessimists and engender a little "pep" into them.

Then they might have a chance to enjoy life, meet prosperity face to face and London would benefit in proportion.

vogue, but that is a material which absorbs an immense amount of street dust and dirt. Rubber fabric can be washed, but mohair can not be subjected to the hose. So, when a motorist has driven a car with a mohair top for some time the grey dust of the road stands out in spots here and there about the top. Neither will mohair stand up well under dressing such as can be applied to the newer fabric.

All the motor manufacturers today have a marked preference to discard all colored cloths in top-making; in the models of a year or so past garish tops predominated. Yellow was in vogue. Perhaps this was chosen to prevent the dust from showing. Be that as it may, the purpose was lost in the inartistic presentation that spoiled the entire look of the car.

Speaking of the present trend of upholstery, Mr. Mitchell said there was a decided turn to leather upholstery as against either Bedford cord or tapestry.

SUPPORT MOTION FOR CONTINUATION SCHOOL

ILDERTON, Feb. 16.—The board of the Lobo Continuation School is visiting the schools to get their support for the building of a new school. The school has been held thus far in the Lobo Town Hall at Coldstream, but the report of the inspection of high schools recommended the erection of a new school to accommodate the increasing number of pupils.

At the two meetings held, one at Poplar Hill, and one at School No. 7, the ratepayers were unanimously in favor of backing the project if at least five other schools support it.

McLEOD-NOLAN
SETS PRECEDENT

Probably no cigar manufacturer in London has built up as large a business in the past 23 years as McLeod Nolan and Company, of 424 Ridout street.

These manufacturers are known from coast to coast by their popular brands. In fact McLeod, Nolan and Company are the largest cigar manufacturers in the Yukon, a large trading having been built up in that distant point a few years ago. At all times the firm has agents traveling throughout Canada supplying dealers with regular stock lines.

Unlike many manufacturers they seldom change their brands, but stick to those kinds which in 23 years they have been in business, have become bywords in the trade. The David Harum which may be purchased at any tobacco store is one of the brands which has always been in great demand.

El Doro probably has the biggest sale of any cigar manufactured in London. El Sidel, another brand manufactured by McLeod, Nolan and Company, also boasts of a large sale. With the aid of the most up-to-date machinery made for cigar manufacturing the firm is capable of handling any order regardless of size. As many as 200 hands have been employed during the rush seasons in the spacious factory at Ridout and Carling streets.

GERMAN DYES IN CHINA.

PEKING—The present low value of the mark is helping the German dye trade in China. The China section of the federation of British industries is protesting that the British dye trade is being shut out by the recovery of the German dye monopoly in this country.

EXPLAINS METHOD OF DRY CLEANING

By what means are soiled garments, shiny, spotted and wrinkled transformed into the clean fabric that looks like new during a short stay at the dry cleaning works?

The method of the dry cleaners to accomplish this apparent miracle is but simple, and embodies in it nothing else than sound common sense, scientifically designed, cleaning equipment and expert conscientious care.

After careful inspection and scrutiny of the hidden depths of pockets, which may bring forth all manner of forgotten things, the garment sent to the dry cleaner is gently revolved in a machine which sifts from woven threads, dust and street dirt, while a warm air current plays on it all the while to dry it thoroughly.

Drying All Important. This drying is all important since a single moist spot left after the sifting process would interfere with the second process.

Taken from the "sifter" the particular piece is bathed in suds of refined gasoline or benzol, soft as freshly fallen rain water, and mixed with a specially prepared mild soap. The resultant rich creamy lather is forced through and through the fabric by a gentle churning movement in a perfectly smooth rotating cylinder.

The last named process is succeeded by the whirl in the centrifugal machine which extracts both suds and soil, then the coat, or whatever it may be, is rinsed in pure refined benzine.

A second spin on the centrifugal leaves the garment almost dry and ready for its final trip to the drying tumbler, where the last atom of moisture and odor of the benzine is blown away by a strong breeze of heated air.

Raises the Pile. The warm air and the whirling raises the pile, loosens the fabric and restores its original springiness and vitality.

Then of course everything is meticulously pressed, buttons are sewn on and little repairs are attended to. That's the miracle. May we demonstrate for you? It will add to the good looks and long life of every suit or dress. A word will bring our driver. Ontario Dry Cleaners, 516 Talbot street. Phone 6958-W.

CONDUCT FUNERAL OF AGED SOMBERA SETTLER

WALLACEBURG, Feb. 16.—The funeral was held Wednesday of Mrs. Henry Winter, who died at her residence Sunday. Requiem high mass was sung by Rev. Father Blundy of Wallaceburg. Interment was made in the Roman Catholic Cemetery.

Mrs. Winter was one of the oldest settlers in Lambton County, having resided in the township of Sombera for 50 years. Mrs. Winter, who was 80 years old, is survived by three daughters, Mrs. McAllister and Mrs. Walton of Sombera, and Mrs. Sherwood of Wallaceburg, and three sons, John and David of North Dakota, and Harry of Houten, Mich.

Home To Church

"YES, I know all the excuses. I know that one can worship the Creator in a grove of trees or by a running brook, or in a man's own house, just as well as in a church. But I also know as a matter of cold fact the average man does not thus worship."

Here are a few benefits to be derived from church attendance:

"You will listen to and take part in reading some beautiful passages from the Bible. And if you are not familiar with the Bible, you have suffered loss."

"You will take part in singing some good hymns."

"You will meet and nod or speak to good neighbors. You will come away feeling a little more charitably inclined toward all the world, even toward those excessively foolish young men who regard church-going as a soft performance."

"Join in church work for the sake of showing your faith in your works."

Make your start in church service tomorrow. A fair trial of church attendance will convince you it's well worth while.

Youth and the Church

By Rev. F. W. K. Harris.

Director of Religious Education, St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church

Seated by the big camp fire at the Canoe Lake, Algonquin Park, as I gazed round that great circle of light, I wondered why are all these men here? What does it mean? Was ever the like in the history of the world? There they sat—Prof. Crowe, Guelph; Dr. Chas. U. of T.; Dr. Fraser, U. of T.; W. E. Saunders, London; William Hobson, Woodstock; Jack Miner, Kingsville, and many other outstanding leaders of church and "Y"—the faculty of the camp. The busiest of men, rolling on the sands, laughing, feeling, singing—why? "The Boy in the Church." Little from coast to coast of Canada, were gathered the leaders of boys. Would that more men were ready to sacrifice as these, then were our problem solved. It is not the boy problem, it is the problem of leadership.

We are just passing through a national and international week of father and son banquets, programs and plans, an intensely interesting week, the forming of countless father-son and company concerns. As I sat at the long table with 125 fathers and sons gathered, men whose hours cost thousands of dollars, the busiest, brainiest men of our city, laughing, jesting, singing, again I asked why? "The boy in the church."

Weekly in most of our churches there gather groups of the finest boys of the city, on the gym floor, on the square, on the platform, around the furnace, by the stove—anywhere, provided they can get together in a group. By these boys sit men whose leadership is desired by city, county and country. Eagerly they enter the sports, earnestly they lead the prayers, enthusiastically directing the programs, laughing, jesting, singing—why? "The boy in the church."

So the answer is the boy in the church! "What doth it profit a nation if it gain the whole world, but lose its boys?" Father, what would you give in exchange for your boy?

But the next step later adolescence or the young people's division, what of it? All our work today is being systematized, scientific methods, research and precision, are being introduced to the study of life development. A new vocabulary is being formed for the church school and the school of pedagogy, and both are being harmonized and co-ordinated. Hence we have a completely graded development in adolescent life, concerning the young people, what have we got to offset the lure

Who builds in boys builds Truth, And unskilled hands are multiplied in power, And sounder living, hour by hour, Speak forth his message with the lips of Youth.

Here in the House of Hope, whose doors are Love, To shape young souls in images of right, To train frail twigs straight upward toward the Light; Such work as this God measures from above!

And taking forth, triumphant, with the dawn, Each fresh young soul a mission for the day, Forward they carry, as a shield, the seal Of His example—so His work goes on.

Granite may crumble, wind and wave decay, Urn, shaft or wood may perish or decay, But this shall last forever and a day— His living monument, a boy!

Jane Novak--She's Film Land's "Old-Fashioned Girl"

BY JAMES W. DEAN.

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—I have just received the news that Jane Novak's salary is $1,500 a week.

That is one of the most inconsequential things I know about Jane Novak. I believe the best story that could be published about Jane Novak is that the breath of scandal has never touched her.

Hollywood and the entire movie industry at this moment needs more stories like the true one of Jane Novak and less of the cock-and-bull stories about star salaries.

In the past year I have talked to several hundred movie actors, actresses, directors and publicity men. Many of them have lived in Hollywood and a few of them have been scandal mongers.

And when the gossips have told me this about that star and that about this star I have usually asked, "Who is thunder among the movie people is all right?" And in the brief lists in the answers Jane Novak's name has always been mentioned.

Jane Novak entered the movies eight years ago, after having played in a stage stock company with her uncle in St. Louis. She was 17 then.

She could have had sensational roles but refused them. Stardom was sacrificed for roles as leading woman in more wholesome pictures.

Other girls who entered pictures after Jane Novak were skyrocketed to stardom and fame—and now are almost forgotten. Stardom was not won by merit of their work.

Known as "the old-fashioned girl," Miss Novak played opposite Bill Hart, House Peters, Charles Ray, Hobart Bosworth, Tom Moore and Lewis Stone.

Most of her films have been based on outdoor stories—"Kazan," "Isobel," "The River's End." Her most recent release is "The Rosary."

Today she has her own company and a contract for five outdoor pictures. "The Belle of Alaska" and "The Starveling" have been completed. She is now finishing "The Snow-Shoe Trail," the story recently published in the London Advertiser in serial form.

Most of the stories published about star salaries are true in so far as the amount of salary is concerned—but that doesn't mean anything.

As the district revenue collector of your district how much difference in income a $50,000 increase in salary means to a person getting a salary of six figures. The government gets the greater part of it in income tax.

One reason you are paying high admission prices to the movies is that the producers had a few fat years in which they made so much money they didn't know what to do with it.

Rather than give it to the government as excess-profits tax they paid it out in "million-dollar" salaries.

The ones who received it paid income tax on it. The government didn't lose anything, but the movie people obtained advertising by this means.

The movie producers in their new wealth acted like other new-rich. They wore their dinner rings to breakfast.

Now they would like to reduce admission prices to fill up empty theatres. They can't do it because of stars' contracts.

The exhibitor pays as much for the rental of films as he used to pay. He can't very well afford to reduce admission prices.

The gross income of movie distributors in 1921 was $118,054,635. That was an increase of $1,000,000 over 1920.

Admission tax, for stage and screen theatres, amounted to $2,633,093 in 1921, a decrease of more than $4,000,000.

In other words, the exhibitor paid out more for his films and received less at the box office. That, according to official government figures.

Jane Novak.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

YOUR SUNDAY MEAL

THE woman who is her own cook often finds it almost impossible to go to church Sunday morning. If the roast is in the oven the gas may come on and the roast burn up or the fire may go out and the meat dry up.

A fireless cooker means much for such a time. There is no danger of a changing fire to reduce or increase the heat. If a fireless cooker is not used the meat chosen should be something that will cook in an hour.

Vegetables offer little difficulty for they may be prepared ready for cooking and put in water till needed. The salad and dessert are easily handled. Serve quick cooking vegetables in their simplest form. Carefully drained and seasoned with salt and pepper and butter, carrots, turnips, cauliflower or brussels sprouts are quite as good as if served in an elaborate sauce.

The salad may be a plain head lettuce with a cheese dressing or celery and radishes may take the place of a separate salad. The dessert may be fruit served with whipped cream or plain and cake or cookies.

A small roast that will cook in an hour is known as the fillet of beef. This cut is expensive per pound, but has absolutely no waste. If one member of a family dislikes rare beef have the butcher cut the fillet in individual portions. Then each piece may be broiled to suit each taste.

When buying a fillet of beef the butcher always carefully trims off any fat, veins or tendinous membranes that may cover the meat. The fillet is then cut in slices or larded for roasting.

Roast Fillet of Beef.
Put meat carefully larded on rack in roasting pan. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and dredge with flour. If salt pork is used for larding, very little salt will be necessary for seasoning. Put three or four thin slices of pork in the bottom of the pan. Cook uncovered in a hot oven for half an hour. Baste every 10 minutes with the fat in the pan and one tablespoon hot water. Serve at once garnished with parsley. A two-pound fillet of beef is enough for four persons.

Broiled Fillet of Beef.
Have the meat carefully trimmed and cut in slices about one and one-half inches thick. Fasten a thin slice of bacon around the side of each piece. Broil over a clear fire or under the gas broiler for 10 minutes, five on one side and five on the other. Season with salt and pepper and spread with butter.

Serve on a hot platter garnished with parsley. Round steak may be broiled very fine and made into little flat cakes secured with bacon and broiled in the same fashion. An egg may be stirred into the ground meat to bind it. Pan broiling is quite satisfactory for these meat cakes.

Lamb chops are always delicious broiled but are expensive on account of the bone. They are pan broiled or plain broiled in exactly the same way that beefsteaks.

Canned peas, buttered carrots, string beans, canned tomatoes or asparagus are suitable vegetables to serve with lamb chops.

ERSKINE DALE PIONEER

by JOHN FOX JR.

©1922 BY JOHN FOX JR.

BEGIN HERE TODAY.
ERSKINE DALE, captured in infancy by the Indians, is adopted by the chief.

KAHTOO, and reared as an Indian under the name of White Arrow. He is told that his mother, captured with him, was killed.

Maltreated by an Indian brave, Erskine flees to a trader's stockade in Kentucky, and is recognized by his mortally-wounded father. The boy goes to Red Oakes, the great Dale plantation on the James River, now occupied by his cousins.

COLONEL DALE, younger brother of Erskine's father. The boy is kindly received by his cousins.

BARBARA and HARRY, Erskine flees to the wilderness and leaves Red Oakes, legally his, to Barbara, after threatening to kill Dane Grey, with whom he has quarreled in jealousy over the girl. He is met by Shawnee Indians, who persuade him to visit his foster-father, the old chief Kahtoo. In the Indian camp he finds a white woman condemned to death. Her beautiful half-breed daughter,

EARLY MORN, is loved by Erskine's enemy, Black Wolf.

GO ON WITH THE STORY.
The old chief's eyes shifted uneasily.

"Why did you leave us?"
"To see my people and because of Crooked Lightning and his brother."

"You fought us?"
"Only the brother, and I killed him." The dauntless men of the boy pleased the old man. The lad must take his place as chief.

Now White Arrow turned questioner:
"I told you I would come when the leaves fell and I am here. Why is Crooked Lightning here? Why is the new prophet? Who is the woman? What has she done that she must die? What is the peace talk you wish me to carry north?"

"The story of the prophet and Crooked Lightning is too long," he said wearily. "I will tell tomorrow. The woman must die because her people have slain mine. You carry the white wampum to a council. The Shawnees may join the British against our enemies—the palefaces."

"I will wait," said the lad. "I will carry the white wampum. If you war against the paleface on this side of the mountain—I am your enemy. If you war with the British against them all—I am your enemy. And the woman must not die."

"I have spoken," said the old man. "I have spoken," said the boy.

Just outside the tent a figure slipped away as noiselessly as a snake. When it rose and emerged from the shadows the firelight showed the malignant, triumphant face of Crooked Lightning.

XI.
DRESSED as an Indian, Erskine rode forth next morning with a wampum belt for the council where the British were to meet Shawnee, Iroquois, and Algonquin, and urge them to enter the great war that was just breaking forth.

One question the boy asked as he made ready:
"The white woman must not be burned while I am gone?"

"No," promised the old chief. And so White Arrow rode forth. Four days he rode through the north woods, and on the fifth he strode through the streets of a town that was yet filled with great forest trees. He slipped to the house of an old priest, Father Andre, who had taught him some religion and a little French. The old man was distressed when he heard the lad's mission.

"I am no royalist," he said. "Nor am I," said Erskine. "I came because Kahtoo begged me to come. He could trust no other. I am only a messenger and I shall speak the truth; but my heart is with the Americans and I shall fight with them."

At sunrise the great council began. On his way Erskine met Grey, who apparently was leaving with a band of traders for Detroit. Erskine met his eyes and Grey smiled.

"Aren't you White Arrow?" Someone the tone with which he spoke the name was an insult.

"Yes."

"Grey's face, already red with drink, turned purple with anger. "When you tried to stab me do you remember what I said?" Erskine nodded contemptuously.

"Well, I repeat it. I'll fight you anywhere and in any way you please."

"Why not now?"
"This is not the time for private quarrels and you know it."

"I can wait—and I shall not forget. The day will come."

The old priest touched Erskine's shoulder as the angry youth rode away.

"I cannot make it out," he said. "He claims to represent an English fur company. His talk is British but he told one man—when he was drunk—that he could have a commission in the American army."

The council-fire was built. Three British agents sat on blankets and around them the chiefs were ringed. The burden of his talk varied very little.

The American palefaces had driven the Indian over a great wall. They were killing his deer, buffalo, and elk, robbing him of his land and pushing him ever backward. They were many and they would become more. The British were the Indians' friends—the Americans were his enemies and theirs; could they rather than with their enemies chief answered in turn, and each cast forward his wampum until only Erskine, who had sat silent, remained, and Pontiac himself turned to him.

"What says the son of Kahtoo?"
Even as he rose the lad saw creeping to the outer ring his enemy Crooked Lightning. He appeared not to see. The whites looked surprised when his boyish figure stood straight and they were amazed when he addressed the traders in French, the agents in English, and spoke to the feathered chiefs in their own tongue. He cast the belt forward.

"That is Kahtoo's talk, but this is mine."

Who had driven the Indian from the great waters to the great wall? The British. Who were the Americans fighting now? British. Why were the Americans fighting now? Because the British, their kinsmen, if the Indians must fight, why fight with the British to beat the Americans, and then have to fight both a later day? If the British would not treat their own kinsmen fairly, was it likely that they would treat the Indian fairly? Would it not be better for the Indian to make the white man on his own land a friend rather than the white man who lived more than a moon away across the big seas?

He lifted his hand high and paused.

Crooked Lightning had sprung to his feet with a hoarse cry. With a gesture Pontiac bade Crooked Lightning speak.

"The tongue of White Arrow is forked. I have heard him say he would fight with the Long Knives against the British and he would fight with them even against his own tribe."

On a group of rage ran the round of fire circles and yet Pontiac stopped Crooked Lightning and turned to the lad. Slowly the boy's uplifted hand came down.

With a bound he leaped through the head-dress of a chief in the outer ring and sped away through the village.

Some started on foot after him, some rushed to their ponies, and some sent arrows and bullets after him.

At the edge of the village the boy gave a loud, clear call and then another as he ran. Something black sprang, snoring from the edge of the woods with pointed ears and searching eyes.

Another call came and like the swirling edge of a hurricane-driven thunder-cloud fire swept after his master. The boy ran to meet him, caught one hand in his mine before he started, swung him up, and in a hail of arrows and bullets swept out of sight.

XII.
The sound of pursuit soon died away, but Erskine kept fire at his best, for he knew that Crooked Lightning would be quick and fast on his trail.

He guessed that Crooked Lightning had already told the tribe what he had just told the council, and that he and the prophet had already made use of the boy's threat to Kahtoo in the Shawnee town.

The old chief looked grave when the lad told the story of the council.

"The people are angry. They say you are a traitor and a spy. They say you must die. And I cannot help you. I am too old and the prophet is too strong."

"And the white woman?"
"She will not harm. Some fur traders have been here. The white chief McGee sent me a wampum belt and I promised that she should live. But I cannot help you."

Erskine thought quickly. He laid his rifle down, stepped slowly outside and stretched his arms with a yawn. Then suddenly he moved toward his horse as though to take care of it.

But the braves were too keen and watchful and they were not fooled by the fact that he had left his rifle behind. Before he was close enough to leap for fire's back, three bucks darted from behind a lodge and threw themselves upon him.

In a moment he was face down on the ground, his hands were tied behind his back, and when turned over he looked up into the grinning face of Black Wolf, who with the help of another brave dragged him to a lodge and roughly threw him within and left him alone.

On the way he saw the foster-mother's eyes flashing helplessly, telling her mother what was going on, and the white woman's face was wet with tears.

He turned over so that he could look through the tent-flaps. Two bucks were driving a stake in the center of the space around which the lodges were ringed. Two more were bringing fagots of wood and it was plain what was going to become of him.

BROADCLOTH.
A mixture of one ounce of fine pipe clay, twelve drops of alcohol and turpentine each is an excellent medium for removing stains from broadcloth. In cleaning, moisten only a small part of the material at a time, rub on the spot, let it remain until dry, and then rub it off with a woolen cloth.

SMOKE RING'S STORY

(By Olive Roberts Barton.)

We all got 'round his head and murmured in his ear.

"YES," said the little smoke ring who was telling a story up in Smoke Land, "I was ever so worried when I saw that my master was frowning, and decided that was the letter he was holding that displeased him."

"I hung onto the corner of the mantel-piece as long as I could, and then I decided to look at the letter for myself; so I floated over to his shoulder where I could easily see the written words."

"And this was what I read: 'Dear brother, it has been a long time since I have written to you so no doubt you'll be surprised to get a letter. I wouldn't be bothering you now, but I'm in trouble. I've been sick since I came home from the war, and out of work. Mary has been sick too. I'm getting better and can work soon, but our savings are gone and if you could lend me a hundred dollars I'll pay it back the first minute I am able. Your brother, John.'"

"Oh, botheration!" grumbled the rich man. "I can't help the fellow. I need every cent I can get my hands on to buy more of that stock that pays so well. I can't help it if he's sick."

"By this time more of my brothers were coming out of the pipe and when I told them the trouble they were as indignant as I was. So we got our heads together and decided to do something. We all got 'round his head and murmured in his ear, 'Poor John! Dear John! Don't you remember when you were boys together?'"

"And the rich man began to think of his youth and his little brother. 'Suddenly he got up, strode over to his desk and wrote a check for a thousand dollars and put it into an envelope.'

"I feel that I've done some good on earth," said the smoke-ring proudly.

POLLY AND PAUL AND PARIS

CHAPTER XXV—Violet Gives a Lesson.

By Zoe Backley.

VIOLET RAND was not happy. Her singing lessons had gone poorly. One of her magazine stories had been rejected. And she was bored at George Barry's obvious interest in Polly Dawson—"colorless little Western Canadian—no more his type than a baby-blue necktie."

Among Violet's friends was one Rignaud, connected with a large enterprise for re-planting industries in northern France. A beating plan was required near Soissons. With this information Violet presented herself one afternoon at Paul's office.

As she was ushered in, he looked up in surprise, a troubled frown between his brows.

"What is it, Paul?" You look worried. Surely you don't mind my coming."

"Of course not, Violet. I was puzzling out a problem."

"Listen, my friend," Violet looked at him. "My clothes were perfectly chosen, her hair smartly coiffed, her handsome face bright and eager. It was not hard to listen to her. 'I wonder if you aren't puzzling over something that can be set right by—' she hesitated, laying her gloved hand on his arm."

"By realizing the difference between your slapdash Canadian methods and the diplomatic methods of the Europeans?"

She saw Paul was interested in spite of himself. "Go on," he said, with his winning smile, "I get you."

"Now for example," proceeded Violet. "I'd love to introduce you to a Monsieur Rignaud—I've known him for a long time—who has the buying of some things you could furnish as well as not—if you'll only let me tell how to go about it."

"I'll do anything," laughed Paul, "short of kissing him on both cheeks."

"Just invite him to dinner. But let him choose the place. Then let your wife look her prettiest and be nice to him—draw him out, ask about things he's interested in—be the ideal hostess in sort. Then, when he's in a nice mellow mood, tackle him on the business proposition, which you and he will have well threshed out beforehand."

"Gee, Vio, you're a brick. It just so. It's difficult, too, you know."

And of course that's why she'll appreciate this veil roll, especially when she smells its loveliness all the while that she's riding to the office.

The veil roll can be made of ribbon, a long enough piece to extend the width of her widest veil. Seam it, fill it roundly with cotton in which you generously sprinkle sachet. You can finish it with smart listens good to me. What'll you do—drag him round here some day to meet me?"

"If that isn't truly Canadian," Violet laughed. "No, my lord of creation, you shall be dragged to meet him. He's coming to my house for tea at four. I'm coming down this way. I'll stop for you in a taxi soon after three. It won't hurt you to take a few minutes drive with me in the sunshine."

Paul accompanied her to the outer door.

"You know, this is darned decent of you, Violet."

"Oh, shush! It's nothing, Paul. After all, I'm a frugal soul; I can't bear to see you wasted."

Of course your stories are good. But there are others 'just as warm' to employ an ancient gag! Even an excellent stove won't sell itself. It must have personality behind it, with a bit of polish and diplomacy thrown in. Well, au revoir. Don't tell Polly I butted into your business day!"

VEIL ROLL.

VEILS have become such a tremendously important part of her dress. She has a number of them and she likes to keep them

Not all the poems depict Florida's beauties, however. In the section of the tone entitled "Love Songs and 'Sorgs When Love is Cold, there is to be found spirited verse that reveals considerable depth of passion, and there is, too, other verse that is full of the cynic's smirk."

For the rhythm, it ranges widely and throws the author more into the realm of the versifier than that of the poet.

Altogether the volume is an excellent contribution to the realm of verse and well worthy of a niche in the halls of poetry.

Little cords or leave enough of the ribbon at the ends to fringe prettily. If you have time, you might put contrasting band on which you have embroidered her initials right about the middle. She'd appreciate that!

Claims Motor Car Gives Invaluable Service in Advancing Mankind

WRITER SEES IN AUTO UTILITY THAT MAKES FOR BRIGHTER, BETTER WORLD

Declares Rapid, Convenient Transportation Broadens Human Viewpoints, Accelerates Progress, Deepens and Strengthens National Character.

BY T. L. MIDDLETON.

In speaking of the motor car it is all very well to mention the green fields, the flowers, the running brooks. In fact, one could dilate upon nature to the limit, and still only touch the fringe of what we might term the motor car's sphere of usefulness.

Touring formerly meant a vacation. It meant the giving up of business, the getting away from the toils and turmoils of life, and the getting out into the open. Touring formerly was synonymous with costly pleasure. In other words, it was an expensive luxury. But today touring has taken on a far different meaning. It is true that the motor car will take you past green fields, flowers, running brooks, etc. But touring also has a wider meaning. It means the getting from place to place on business as well as pleasure.

Last year the writer attended a plowing match in Manitoba, at which there were nearly 5,000 farmers in attendance, and the majority of them came in motor cars. Their families came along with them and enjoyed the ride immensely. The farmers came to learn something about the tractor as an implement of soil tillage, and during the day they gleaned an abundance of valuable information regarding this machine.

Railroad transportation is a sure thing, but it is also very uncertain when it comes to getting any number of people to certain points within a day's time. The motor car can take a 50 to 100, or 150-mile drive, leaving home in the morning and getting back at night, and still have a whole day of business or sight-seeing.

We are only just waking up to what the motor car really is. In fact, the war has brought home to the authorities the position of the motor car as nothing else would have done. Those in authority have been pretty much inexperienced as regards war-time legislation, and in meeting the demands of both conservation and finance. They have been rather too eager to pounce upon the motor car as something that needed watching.

Some three years ago the government proposed an embargo upon automobiles, but for some good reason best known to itself no embargo was imposed. We will give the government the credit of having looked into the automobile situation, and having found therein such an element of usefulness such an undercurrent of indispensability, such a valuable factor towards the conserving of time and labor that it found the motor car was something to leave alone and not discourage.

The government today could well afford in the interests of the country to pay every motor car owner a bonus, rather than impose a tax upon him. The motor car owners are not asking any such thing, or even suggesting it, but bonuses have been paid and subsidies granted along other lines for development purposes that did not have within them nearly so much of merit as has the motor car when we take into consideration the country's welfare as a whole.

In the saving of time, in the saving of labor, in the conserving of health, in solving the problem of quick transportation, in helping to build our highways, in providing an industry that furnishes employment to hordes of individuals, the motor car fills a place that is not to be discouraged, but rather encouraged.

It is to be hoped that our present government will carefully investigate the motor car. We are living in an age of commissions. There is a commission today for pretty nearly everything. Why not have a commission to investigate the automobile? Why not have a body of men who will carefully study the motor car situation from every standpoint, taking full cognizance of the amount of money that is invested in the business, and the service it renders, and then strike a balance, and unless we are greatly mistaken the balance will be on the right side of the ledger, and distinctly in favor of the automobile.

After all it isn't what a thing costs that makes it valuable, but its value determined wholly and solely by what it will do, what service it can render to mankind in general, and to a country at large. Is it making a bigger and a better people? Is it broadening our point of view?

We must not forget that the war taught the world closer together. We must think now in world terms, and in community terms. We have passed out of a war age into a commercial age, where it is absolutely necessary for each and every individual to understand world conditions.

We must, if we are to succeed and come the nation that God destined to be, enlarge our vision and get away from the small circle which we formerly existed. The motor car won't do it all, but it will take a taste for bigger things. It will help to annihilate distances and distances always have been in the way of the greatest barriers to development. England became a great nation because she did more than any else to cut out distances. No power was too remote, no place apparently too inaccessible for her to reach and develop. She became great when she ceased to be a stay-at-home nation.

Let us therefore apply to touring a 20th century meaning. Let us look upon it as a means of getting away from ourselves, breaking the bonds as it were, that have tied us in narrow limits, as something that will enable us to call every man, no matter where he lives, our neighbor.

Japan did not become a nation of any consequence until she sent emissaries out into the world to find out what the world was doing, and just as soon as Japan began to adopt world methods she began to get out and expand.

The savage tribes of Africa have never been of any particular consequence in world affairs, because they have stayed within their own narrow limits, and only those who have had intercourse with the outside world have begun to break into civilization.

The unifying and civilizing influence that is attendant upon our getting away from ourselves and getting the other fellow's viewpoint is one of the most powerful influences towards development and expansion that it is possible to make, and while the motor car is not the end, it is a very good beginning.

It behooves every motorist to look the situation squarely in the face, analyze it, in order that he may realize the position he occupies, for by getting out and away from ourselves we will have world schools, world churches, world hygiene, world commerce, world finance, world industries, and will bring about the utopian and much dreamed of ideal of brotherhood of man.

PROVIDE BETTER FACILITIES FOR HANDLING FUEL

Auto Manufacturers Improve Carburetion On Latest 1922 Models.

FRAMES ARE BETTER

While there is no one particular trend in evidence on the cars for 1922, with the exception, possibly, of that in the way of providing better facilities for handling fuel, close inspection of the cars at all the shows reveal some interesting facts about the improvements which steadily have been going on in the industry.

There has been much effort devoted towards ridding the cars and engines of such weaknesses which formerly were the bane of the driver and service man. In view of the recent trends in prices, we hardly can expect to see many added features in the cars which contribute to luxury, but we do see structural details which, heretofore, have been uncommon in cars of certain price classes.

When we come to studying some of the more important trends, we find that, among others, these are apparent:

Horace Dodge, Jr., Dons Apron and Works in Auto Factory As Ordinary Mechanic

BY NORRIS QUINN.
DETROIT, Feb. 18.—Found — the most remarkable multimillionaire in the world!
He's Horace Elgin Dodge, 22-year-old heir to a large interest in the Dodge Brothers' Motor Company, which is represented in London, Ontario, by W. J. Chisholm, 478 Richmond street.

Dodge is remarkable because he doesn't follow any of the rules producers have laid down for young millionaires.

He doesn't stay in bed until noon and get up with a headache. He doesn't spend the afternoon looking out of the windows of an exclusive club.

Or the evening at the latest musical comedy.

He doesn't "laugh his way through life," as the sub-title writers put it. Up Every Day at 6.

Instead he's up every morning at 6. And at work by 7.

And spends the day toiling at a machine as a common worker in the motor plant his father founded!

That's not because a stern parent is keeping the young man busy to keep him out of mischief. The elder Dodge died recently. His heir's hard work is self-imposed.

After his graduation from military academy and a course in college, Dodge married Miss Virginia Knowlton, Detroit society girl, last June.

As they left for Europe on a honeymoon Dodge announced that on his return he'd start in as a laborer in the Dodge factory to learn the auto business from the bottom up.

Goes Into Factory.
When he came back in October he made good on his promise. He's been working ever since.

Every morning Dodge's alarm clock rings at 6. And Dodge responds.

He eats a hasty breakfast at his residence in Grosse Pointe, exclusive Detroit suburb.

He jumps into his touring car and hurries to the automobile plant—hurries because the plant opens at 7 a.m.

1—Better provisions on the engines for carbureting present-day heavy fuel.

2—More rigid frames by use of heavier stock or deeper sections and stiffening the frames with more cross members.

3—Increased use in the fabric type of universal joint.

4—Adoption of the transmission brake, particularly in low and medium priced cars.

5—Increased use of the single-plate clutch.

6—Tendency for fitting ball or roller bearings to steering gear knuckles, especially on larger cars.

7—Practical elimination of grease cups and substitution of high pressure systems of chassis lubrication.

8—Increased use in lighter reciprocating parts in power plants, such as alloy pistons and valve parts, also clutch parts, etc.

9—Better windshields and tops, with a tendency towards the permanent top.

10—Better cooling and temperature control devices.

11—Increased use in the silent chain for front end drives.

12—Almost universal adoption of the spiral bevel gear drive in rear axle.

13—Tendency for oil lubrication of metal universal joints.

14—Further increase in the use of disk wheels.

15—Widespread adoption of devices designed to overcome rattle in chassis and body.

16—Use of better body hardware.

17—Rapid gain in the use of full pressure lubrication of engines.

18—Better quality of upholstery material, with a tendency to get seats slightly lower and more comfortable.

There is a growing tendency to provide devices for better carbureting of the fuel, most of these being in the nature of some sort of hot-spotting device, or jacketing part of the intake with the exhaust. Many of the cars are provided with devices

HORACE DODGE, JR.

He punches a time clock at the employees' entrance of the wood and metal pattern department.

He puts on a workman's rough apron. They wear aprons instead of overalls in his department.

Then he works until the whistle blows for lunch. He lunches in the plant cafeteria.

When the 45-minute lunch period is over he goes back to his machine and stays there until the whistle blows for quitting time—4:45 p.m.

When Dodge started work officials of the plant put a desk out in the wood and metal pattern department so their apprentice could sit there quietly and watch what was going on.

But Dodge wasn't there to watch. He took a place at one of the machines and insisted on operating it.

erly, particularly in the use of tubular members. The side rails seem to be of deeper section and, in many cases, the frame material itself is of thicker gauge.

The fabric type of universal joint has made much progress. It makes fitted will turn easier, especially when the wheels are to be cramped much.

There has been a wholesale weeding out of the grease cup and the substitution of the high pressure system of chassis lubrication, where the lubricant is forced to the different parts under pressure. This has been a great step in the servicing of motor vehicles.

Rattles in chassis and body have been eliminated in many cases by more rugged parts, shackle bolts which compensate for wear, stronger tire carriers, better body hardware, etc.

Bodies are better built and the better coachwork is augmented by a higher grade of upholstery material. There also is a tendency for the makers to equip their cars more completely than formerly. This includes such things as spot-lights, bumpers, windshield wipers, locks, etc.

FOR THE SPRING LEAVES.

If the owner should have occasion to dismantle the springs he should take the opportunity to spread a lubricant over the leaves. A good one is a mixture of paraffin and flake graphite. The wax may be had by melting a few ordinary candles and when in the molten condition the graphite is thrown in and the whole stirred.

VALVE SPRINGS.

Weak valve springs can cause endless trouble in poor engine operation. Whenever the valves are removed the springs should be measured to see that they are of the same size. If one spring is short it either will have to be stretched or a plate placed under it to increase the pressure.

PAIGE

The Most Beautiful Car in America

WHEN it was introduced, the Paige 6-44 Sedan sold for over $3,600. Today you can buy the New Series Model for about $400 less. This means a cash saving, plus the added refinements and improvements of a full season's development.

But the real satisfaction of owning a Paige cannot be measured in dollars and cents. With its flexible, silent 50 horse power, six cylinder motor, light in weight and hung low, it is as fine in performance as it is beautiful in appearance and appointment.

You need just one ride—one experience on the road—to learn for yourself the superb qualities of this really fine closed car. Then it will be your choice, irrespective of price.

Now Is the Opportune Time To Have Your Car Overhauled

ALL SERVICE garagemen may look alike to you. For a quick repair, perhaps seemingly unimportant in itself, you are tempted to stop at the first place you come to. From where you sit behind the wheel you cannot see what is back of the Ford Service Man—why he should be able to put many a mile more into your Ford, while another may take many a mile from the service you should get from it. Come to us and see what distinguishes the Ford Service Man from his brothers down the road—what is back of him, and back of your Ford.

MANY motorists in London, like in other cities in Canada and the United States, run their cars all winter. This winter has been particularly conducive to the operation of motor cars, but at best winter driving is a severe test for any automobile. Cars which have been run in cold weather require overhauling before spring, and now is the time to have it done. Garages and shops are not overloaded, and better work will be done if the owners do not ask for rush jobs.

By sending your car in now you can benefit a number of mechanics who are working on short time. If your car needs painting, the same advantages apply. Delay accomplishes nothing in this connection, and the owner who neglects having his car overhauled and painted now may lose. In the first days of spring, when every motor car owner wants to get out and drive, he wishes to have his automobile in fit condition for the road. If he has it attended to during the slack season, he is ready; if not, the shops and garages are rushed with work, and he must await his turn.

Even if your car does not need overhauling or painting, you should at least have the tires examined. If you have driven the car continuously since the cold weather set in, this precaution is essential. Frost, ice and rough roads shorten the life of tires, and delay only increases the menace.

The firms whose announcements appear on this page are prepared and anxious to overhaul and paint your car. The majority of them have the equipment and manpower to handle work at high speed the year round, but an abnormal rush can overwhelm the best-equipped plants in the world. Give these firms a chance to give you real service.

PERSONALITY BIG BUSINESS FACTOR

THERE are plenty of cases to prove that it is the man behind a business which makes it successful, and that it is not the town nor the times or any other thing which is often blamed for success or lack of it. In the backwoods of Ontario there is a small crossroads store which pays the owner a profit of $2,000 per year, although there are towns around with many stores which should be just as good.

Out in Saskatchewan there is a little town store which does an annual business of about a quarter million dollars, drawing trade from all over the country, taking business away from towns and cities near by, and which has the big mail order houses chased out of the local field.

Over the border line, in "Ford" County, Detroit controls the auto industry to a great extent. Chicago holds the meat packing industry. And so it goes. Why? For no other reason than that men with determination made it so. It all reverts to the men behind the business. No, it is not the location nor the times. It is you. He gets the business who goes after it. Go after it.

URGE SERVICE AS BUSINESS KEYNOTE

"SERVICE," said a prominent London businessman, "is to be the keynote for success in the motor car business for 1932."

"You'll have to sell more service," he said. "Your business is getting down to the foundation of service on the cars in the hands of the owners. You in favor of every man, banker, lawyer, doctor, laboring man, in this country having a car—under certain conditions. We can't get away from it—every man's heart is set on owning a car."

"But dealers must look for prospects, not to the man who can afford to pay for a car, but to the man who can afford to maintain it. Every dealer will find his own best results, as well as the most pleasure in his business, when he sells only to the men who are going to be able to maintain their cars."

Beware of overpriming the engine.
Never overload underinflated tires.

"Il Trovatore" Will Be Heard At Grand Theatre in Coming Week

Boston Opera Company To Give Rare Treat to City—Majestic Theatre Presents "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm."

OMETHING really fine comes to London at the end of next week, when the Boston English Opera Company will present one of the most popular of grand operas, "Il Trovatore," at the Grand Theatre. Grand opera is such a rare treat in London that the announcement of the visit of the Boston company is creating a great amount of interest. Friday and Saturday, Feb. 24 and 25, are the dates of the presentation.

Next week, too, the Grand program for the first four days promises to be very popular. As star of the feature picture, "For Those We Love," pretty Betty Compson will be seen in a vehicle which suits her admirably. The vaudeville, too—a five-act bill—is one that will please, and includes dancing and musical skits. The appearance of a full-blooded Indian comedienne on this program is also announced.

For the first time next week the Popular Players of the Majestic Theatre are undertaking something of special interest to children in their presentation of "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," the delightful play adapted from Kate Douglas Wiggin's famous story of childhood.

BOSTON OPERA COMPANY AT GRAND.

The Boston English Opera Company, which comes to the Grand Theatre, Feb. 24 and 25, with Saturday matinee, is making the biggest bit of its career in its present tour, and the reason is so simple that no doubt other opera companies in the future will follow its example.

It is a well-known fact that opera singers may be excellent in certain roles and bad in others, therefore, where more than one opera is carried it is necessary either to have separate casts for the different operas or else general utility people who can get by in any of them.

Manager Beck of the Boston English Opera Company, not satisfied with either of these methods, determined to select one opera and get the best people for each individual role. In making "Il Trovatore" his choice of opera he made a happy selection as "Il Trovatore" is, without doubt, the world's most popular opera. Its famous "Anvil Chorus" and the beautiful "Miserere" in the "Power Scene" are known and loved the world over.

To hear this beautiful tuneful opera with a cast of noted stars, each and every one selected for the special role in which they appear, together with the famous Boston Opera Chorus, will be an unusual treat.

TOM MOORE AT GRAND.

Popular Tom Moore, the star whose smile is like a caress, closes his engagement at the Grand Saturday with two performances of his new feature release "From the Ground Up."

Saturday will also afford the last opportunity to see Buster Keaton in his funny comedy "In Hard Luck."

Marguerite Clark, now a picture star, played the part in New York, and Mary Pickford appeared as "Rebecca" in pictures.

The management secured the play from Klaw and Erlanger at a great expense, and have their permission to use it for one week only. It is by far the biggest and most pretentious production ever attempted by a London stock company, and it will give Miss Gustin a greater chance to display her talents than she had in "The Brat."

Mr. Secret will be seen as Adam Ladd, the prince charming of Rebecca's dreams. Miss Fox and Miss Broquette will play Rebecca's aunts, and Miss Macdonald will be seen for the first time in London in a character part. Mr. Penwarden will play the lovable old stage-coach driver who helps Rebecca out of her difficulties.

The rest of the company will be seen to good advantage, and will be supported by five of London's most-

PROPOSE COLONY OF EX-POLICEMEN

MONTREAL, Feb. 17.—A colony for 11,000 ex-policemen of the Royal Irish Constabulary and their families in the irrigation block of the C. P. R. lands in Alberta is proposed by the department of colonization and development of the railway.

The plan calls for the sale of 240 acres of farm land to each man under easy terms, and a loan of $2,000 for development purposes.

The colonization scheme is the outcome of the recent visit of Colonel

Denais, head of the department, to London, and now awaits ratification by the executive of the branch in Canada.

GUNMAN GETS $2,000 FROM EDMONTON BANK

EDMONTON, Feb. 17.—The Union Bank branch at North Edmonton was held up about noon today by a man carrying a shotgun.

He secured about $2,000 in cash. Police and townspeople in automobiles are searching for the hold-up man.

MISSING SPECULATOR FOUND AT PALM BEACH

CHICAGO, Feb. 17.—Leslie Harrington, missing speculator, who is said to have defrauded thousands in this section out of several millions of dollars, has been found near Palm Beach, Fla., according to a telegram received today by local police from the sheriff of Palm Beach County.

He will be arrested as soon as the necessary papers were forwarded, the telegram said.

MAHARG LEADS GRAIN GROWERS 12TH TIME

REGINA, Sask., Feb. 17.—Hon. J. A. Maharg, M. L. A., is president for the 12th consecutive year of the Saskatchewan Grain Growers' Association. He was elected this morning by the 21st annual convention by what was reported to be a large majority over W. J. Orchard, his only opponent. The vote was not announced.

London Druggists

Tell of Many Years Experience With Dr. Chase's Medicines

B. A. MITCHELL DRUG STORE

London, Ont., writes: "An interesting feature in connection with the handling of Dr. Chase's Medicines is the frequent repeat orders we receive, and the beneficial results our customers report. For years we have looked upon Dr. Chase's Medicines as safe and efficient, and one of our very best sellers."

MR. W. R. LUTZ, Druggist,

London, Ont., writes: "Experience teaches us that it is wise to handle a tried and proven line of medicines, and Dr. Chase's, we find, has always occupied this enviable class. Our customers are pleased with results obtained, and this, of course, together with our knowledge of Dr. Chase's Medicines, gives us excellent reasons for recommending them to all."

THE STANDARD DRUG LTD.,

London, Ont., writes: "Our experience with Dr. Chase's Medicines is that they are the most rapid selling patent medicines in London and St. Thomas. The advertising they do when backed by a little co-operation from the drug store brings big results."

STRONG'S DRUG STORE,

London, Ont., writes: "Dr. Chase's Medicines have always been numbered amongst our rapid sellers. Merit and good advertising no doubt are responsible for this condition."

MR. G. T. FITTON, Druggist,

London, Ont., writes: "Among proprietary medicines, Dr. Chase's Medicines take the place as one of our best sellers, and we do not have any compunction about recommending any of them on account of the years of excellent results they have given to our customers. We always carry Dr. Chase's Medicines in stock."

CHILD'S DRUG STORE

London, Ont., writes: "We have handled Dr. Chase's Medicines for years, and can say they are good medicines. Our customers frequently mention, when asking for one kind or another of your preparations, the great satisfaction they give. We can say they are one of our best sellers."

ASK YOUR DRUGGIST HE KNOWS

If a medicine gives satisfaction he is the first to hear about it.

If it does not possess merit the customer does not come back for more, and the druggist finds his shelves loaded with an unprofitable investment.

No one is so well qualified to tell you which medicines are the good ones, as your druggist. For this reason we consider that these letters from druggists are the highest compliments that can be paid to any medicines.

For over a quarter of a century Canadian druggists have been selling Dr. Chase's Medicines.

Such expressions as "Best sellers," "Many repeat orders from some people," "Reliable remedies," "Good medicines," etc., indicate that the druggists have the greatest confidence in these medicines—a confidence built up on many years of experience, with doctors' prescriptions and proprietary medicines.

In almost every issue of this paper you will find further endorsement of Dr. Chase's Medicines from people who have used them with splendid satisfaction.

But That Alarm "Scared" Her Into Paying Duty.
WINDSOR, Feb. 17.—She was one of six well-dressed, apparently cultured women on their way home from a Detroit bridge party Thursday.
In none too quiet tones she told fellow travelers on the ferry her handbag concealed a package whose Canadian purchaser was "scared" to smuggle it into Windsor.
"I'm game, though," she said. "I told her I'd take the chance. Watch me get by the inspector."
Abrast of the customs office an alarm clock began ringing. That was the "package."
She paid the duty.

PONTIFF SLEEPS UPON IRON BED
Apartment of Benedict XV. Not Yet Ready to Receive Pius XI.
WALKS IN GARDENS ONCE
Takes Meals Served in Library On His Predecessor's Desk.

ROME, Feb. 17.—Pius XI. has not yet settled down to the normal life of a pontiff, chiefly because the private apartment occupied by the late Benedict XV. is not yet ready to receive him. A crowd of workmen is still redecorating the apartment, changing the hangings and carpets and rearranging the furniture.
Meanwhile, the pope sleeps in what is known as the little throne room. In this chamber, Pope Leo XIII. died. Compared with the other rooms in the Vatican, it is considered small, though it measures 20x20 feet, and the ceiling is 15 feet high.
Adjoins the Library.
As it adjoins the large papal library, where Pius X. and Benedict XV. received visitors, the chamber was transformed into a small throne room. A throne was placed opposite the window, and on the floor was a magnificent carpet presented by Alfonso XII. of Spain, to Pope Leo, having in its center the coat of arms of the Spanish sovereign.
The throne has been removed, being replaced by the small iron bed in which Pius sleeps. This is sheltered by a screen, and in another part of the room is a large desk at which the pope works and where he daily receives the papal secretary of state, Cardinal Gasparri, and their leading Vatican officials.
All the chairs and tables, and even the floor, are piled with neatly docketed bundles of telegrams and letters from every part of the world, which the pontiff insists he must answer himself.
"If it continues like this, soon you will not be able to enter my room," the pope smilingly said to Cardinal Gasparri today.
To save time he takes his meals in the adjoining library, being served on his predecessor's desk. "I never had my meals in so spacious a room," he exclaimed on one occasion.
Mountain Climbing Joke.
Pius has had little time for exercise, and thus far has only been able to walk through the Vatican gardens once, being accompanied by Monsignor Pizzardo, assistant secretary of state.
The pope was moved to laughter by the suggestion circulated lately that artificial mountain peaks be erected in the Vatican gardens so he might indulge in his favorite pastime of mountain climbing. After enjoying the joke, the pontiff seriously said: "Alas, my climbing days are over."
The pontiff also inquired about a special brand of horses called Serafini, used only on the papal carriage. This immediately caused the report that Pius planned to follow up his action in appearing on the loggia of St. Peter's by driving outside the Vatican.

existing mortgage. Under the act, as it stands, no loan can be placed on a farm property already mortgaged, but this has worked to the disadvantage of farmers who have small mortgages upon their places and want funds to enlarge their operations.
The only other government bills were a revision of the municipal act, introduced by Hon. H. C. Nixon, and an amendment to the surrogate courts act, making legal provision for a system of handling estates, which has been the practice apparently without legislative sanction.

Will Speed Business.
The premier took the position that the government was not at fault last session and that this session was prepared to hurry government business along. He pointed out that there were no private members' bills sufficiently advanced to be taken up in the house.
The discussion ended when Mr. Ferguson said it had been about decided that his speech would be the only one from the Conservative group on the reply. He had advised his followers that they would have plenty of opportunity when specific bills came up. While some of the Conservative members might wish to join in the debate, their remarks would be brief. He would be prepared to speak on Tuesday, and intimated that the hydro would be one of the questions he would discuss.

Hon. Manning Doherty's promised amendment to the rural credit bills of last session were introduced and given first reading today.

Premier Drury Strives To Shorten Debate On Speech From Throne.
CONSERVATIVE CHIEFTAIN HITS DELAY LAST SESSION
Ferguson Intimates He'll Discuss Hydro Question Next Tuesday.

BULLETIN.
HAMILTON, Feb. 17.—Ontario's budget, which will be submitted to the Legislature by the provincial treasurer within ten days, will total nearly $120,000,000, according to a statement made here tonight by Mr. Howard Ferguson, leader of the Conservative party in the Provincial Legislature.
TORONTO, Feb. 17.—With the exception of the introduction of a number of government bills, most of the time of the short session of the Ontario Legislature this afternoon centred around plans to expedite business by shortening the debate on the reply to the speech from the throne.
The bills submitted and read a first time included one to give the hydro commission authority to operate bus lines over a section of the Windsor, Sandwich and Amherstburg Railway; one to provide for limiting the time in which accounts may be submitted against companies which will be dissolved in connection with the Mackenzie & Mann clean-up deal, and bills to increase the scope of farm loans.
J. McNamara of Riverdale drew the attention of the government to a dispatch from Sudbury that hundreds of unemployed were pouring into Cochrane, believing that work on the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway extensions was to begin at once, and these men were being left stranded, as there was still several feet of snow along the right-of-way. He wanted to know if any effort had been made on the part of the government to warn men against rushing to the north country.
Hon. W. R. Rolle, minister of labor, stated his department had not been informed that there was any rush of unemployed to Cochrane, and had therefore not taken steps to prevent it.
Gets Federal Report.
Premier E. C. Drury explained that he had been informed this week by an official of the federal department of labor that conditions were not in such a serious condition in Cochrane, and there were no great numbers of unemployed coming into that town. Preparatory work along the line where the extensions are to be made had given considerable employment, he said, in reply to Mr. Ferguson's questions as to why the premier in a recent speech had claimed credit for awarding the contract at this time in order to relieve unemployment, if it would be months before it would furnish any work.
The minister of labor was asked whether there was a fair-wage clause in the contract for the extension of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway. He said he was not in a position to answer this, the extension coming under another department of the government. This brought back the retort that he should know as minister of labor. The premier said the contract would be tabled, and the members could examine it for themselves.
Ferguson Not Ready.
When the clerk of the house read that the continuation of the debate on the reply to the speech from the throne would be the next order of business, Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Conservative leader, stated he had taken it for granted that as Friday was private members' day, the debate would not be continued today, and for this reason he was not prepared to go on. He said it was a time-honored custom not to discuss government business on Friday.
The premier expressed surprise that the Conservative leader was not ready, and wanted to know what day he would be, intimating that it was the wish, he believed, of all sides to complete the debate on the reply as soon as possible and get down to real business.
This led to some cross-fire between the premier and Mr. Ferguson as to who was responsible for the way things dragged last session, the latter putting the blame on the government, claiming it was not ready with government business, and the members of the ministry were not able to explain their measures after they were introduced.
Will Speed Business.

Meanwhile, the pope sleeps in what is known as the little throne room. In this chamber, Pope Leo XIII. died. Compared with the other rooms in the Vatican, it is considered small, though it measures 20x20 feet, and the ceiling is 15 feet high.
Adjoins the Library.
As it adjoins the large papal library, where Pius X. and Benedict XV. received visitors, the chamber was transformed into a small throne room. A throne was placed opposite the window, and on the floor was a magnificent carpet presented by Alfonso XII. of Spain, to Pope Leo, having in its center the coat of arms of the Spanish sovereign.
The throne has been removed, being replaced by the small iron bed in which Pius sleeps. This is sheltered by a screen, and in another part of the room is a large desk at which the pope works and where he daily receives the papal secretary of state, Cardinal Gasparri, and their leading Vatican officials.
All the chairs and tables, and even the floor, are piled with neatly docketed bundles of telegrams and letters from every part of the world, which the pontiff insists he must answer himself.
"If it continues like this, soon you will not be able to enter my room," the pope smilingly said to Cardinal Gasparri today.
To save time he takes his meals in the adjoining library, being served on his predecessor's desk. "I never had my meals in so spacious a room," he exclaimed on one occasion.
Mountain Climbing Joke.
Pius has had little time for exercise, and thus far has only been able to walk through the Vatican gardens once, being accompanied by Monsignor Pizzardo, assistant secretary of state.
The pope was moved to laughter by the suggestion circulated lately that artificial mountain peaks be erected in the Vatican gardens so he might indulge in his favorite pastime of mountain climbing. After enjoying the joke, the pontiff seriously said: "Alas, my climbing days are over."
The pontiff also inquired about a special brand of horses called Serafini, used only on the papal carriage. This immediately caused the report that Pius planned to follow up his action in appearing on the loggia of St. Peter's by driving outside the Vatican.

existing mortgage. Under the act, as it stands, no loan can be placed on a farm property already mortgaged, but this has worked to the disadvantage of farmers who have small mortgages upon their places and want funds to enlarge their operations.
The only other government bills were a revision of the municipal act, introduced by Hon. H. C. Nixon, and an amendment to the surrogate courts act, making legal provision for a system of handling estates, which has been the practice apparently without legislative sanction.

Will Speed Business.
The premier took the position that the government was not at fault last session and that this session was prepared to hurry government business along. He pointed out that there were no private members' bills sufficiently advanced to be taken up in the house.
The discussion ended when Mr. Ferguson said it had been about decided that his speech would be the only one from the Conservative group on the reply. He had advised his followers that they would have plenty of opportunity when specific bills came up. While some of the Conservative members might wish to join in the debate, their remarks would be brief. He would be prepared to speak on Tuesday, and intimated that the hydro would be one of the questions he would discuss.
Premier Drury will follow Mr. Ferguson.

But That Alarm "Scared" Her Into Paying Duty.
WINDSOR, Feb. 17.—She was one of six well-dressed, apparently cultured women on their way home from a Detroit bridge party Thursday.
In none too quiet tones she told fellow travelers on the ferry her handbag concealed a package whose Canadian purchaser was "scared" to smuggle it into Windsor.
"I'm game, though," she said. "I told her I'd take the chance. Watch me get by the inspector."
Abrast of the customs office an alarm clock began ringing. That was the "package."
She paid the duty.

PONTIFF SLEEPS UPON IRON BED
Apartment of Benedict XV. Not Yet Ready to Receive Pius XI.
Takes Meals Served in Library On His Predecessor's Desk.

ROME, Feb. 17.—Pius XI. has not yet settled down to the normal life of a pontiff, chiefly because the private apartment occupied by the late Benedict XV. is not yet ready to receive him. A crowd of workmen is still redecorating the apartment, changing the hangings and carpets and rearranging the furniture.
Meanwhile, the pope sleeps in what is known as the little throne room. In this chamber, Pope Leo XIII. died. Compared with the other rooms in the Vatican, it is considered small, though it measures 20x20 feet, and the ceiling is 15 feet high.

LABOR REPORT TO SHOW ANOMALY

OTTAWA, Feb. 17.—(By Canadian Press).—Reports which will shortly be published by the labor department present an anomalous situation. They show that in the month of January, while employment was still on the increase, there was more time lost through strikes than in either the previous month or in January of 1921.
They show that there were in existence at some time or other during last month 23 strikes, involving about 3,357 work people, with a time loss of about 76,070 working days. During the previous month there were in existence 17 strikes, involving 2,883 work people and 64,733 working days. In January, 1921, there were 21 strikes, involving 1,736 work people, and a time loss of 30,065 working days.
