DEWET WOUNDED

London, March 4.—A despatch from Harriemith, Orange River Colony, says that Boer prisoners report that General De Wet was shot in the arm during the recent attempt to break through the blockhouse line.

London, March 4.—The Times correspondent with General Bruce sends a despatch from Amersford, in the Southern Transvaal, which says that captured Boers report that General Botha intends to cross the Orange River Colony to meet Steyn and De Wet. Schalkberg is also to be present.

The correspondent says that General Botha recently withdrew from the Vryheid district, South-east Transvaal, because of hunting experience by the British on the high veldt, and has issued orders to his commanders to follow him.

A communication from J. L. Wilson & Son, architects, was read, asking for an advance of $55 on their work. Referred to Finance committee with power.

A communication was read from the Provincial Association of Trustees, asking that delegates be sent to the convention.

Mr. Morley moved, seconded by Mr. Benson, that Drs. Bray and McKeough be sent as delegates.

The chairman asked the gentlemen to vote and, on counting the hands, declared the motion lost.

Mr. Heyward—I would like to have the yeas and nays on that.

The Chairman—I called the gentlemen's attention to the voting.

Mr. Heyward—I want the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were then taken as follows:—
Yeas—McCorvie, Heyward, Morley, Paxton, Benson and Robertson.
Nays—Cornish.

Drs. Bray and McKeough asked to excuse from voting, as they were the proposed delegates.

Mr. Robertson reported for the Supply committee that they had received three tenders for the school supplies for 1902 and that they had decided on Mr. Kenny's tender, it being the lowest. Mr. Robertson said there was keen competition for the furnishing of the supplies.

Mr. Cornish—It is a question in my mind whether Mr. Kenny's tender is the lowest. In the case of the chalk and the foolscap paper, Mr. Sulman

SOUGHT DEATH BENEATH WHEELS

Unknown Man Threw Himself in Front of a Wabash Freight.

MANGLED REMAINS BROUGHT HERE.

Reckless Deed Unaccounted for—Deceased Believed to Have Hailed From Hamilton or Toronto—No Inquest to be Held.

A shocking fatality occurred on the G. T. R. track about two miles and a half east of the city this morning about 9.30, by which an unknown man met his death.

The extra Wabash freight, No. 174, in charge of Conductor Alexander, was coming from the east, and when within a little over two miles of the city Engineer Roots saw a man walking on the track towards his train. The man was walking in the centre of the track and did not appear to heed the oncoming train. The engineer pulled the whistle, but still the man paid no heed. When within a few rods of the train the man threw up his right hand and stood still in the track and awaited the shock. The cow-catcher of the engine struck him on the legs and he was thrown upon the pilot of the engine. The train was instantly stopped, and it was found that the man was left hanging over the cow-catcher. Both of his legs were broken and a big gash cut in his forehead above the left eye.

He was left on the cow-catcher and the train proceeded to Chatham, where the remains were taken into the baggage room of the station, and Coroner Dr. J. L. Bray summoned.

The coroner decided that no inquest was necessary as it was clearly a case of suicide. Death was instantaneous.

No clue has yet been found as to the unfortunate man. He is a man of about 45 or 50 years of age, stands about 5 feet 6 inches and very good looking. He wears a dark grey moustache, but no beard, and his hair is quite grey. He was very respectably dressed in a dark suit, white shirt and collar, and a dark overcoat. He also wore a pair of over-shoes almost new.

He came here on Monday, supposedly from Toronto or Hamilton. Nobody who has seen him seems to know anything about him. During the time he has been here he has been seen mostly around the Tecumseh House, near the G. T. R. station. He has been drinking quite freely and has in fact been intoxicated nearly all the time he has been here. He seemed to have plenty of money, treated liberally, and was to all appearances "a jolly good fellow." He, however, never talked about himself and left no clue behind as to his identity.

A. Moody, section foreman working east, in conversation with The Planet said:—

"I was working with my gang about a mile east of the city this morning when I saw this man coming east on the track. We were working in the ditch at the side of the track when he came along, and stopped to talk. After speaking for a few minutes he asked how far it was to Louisville. I told him about seven miles from where we were. He then remarked that the weather looked like a snow storm, and then started down the track again. I understood that before he spoke to me he met a man down the line and asked if there was an accident down the track, but was told there was not.

"He talked very intelligently to me and did not seem to be insane. I don't think he was drunk, either, as he walked perfectly straight when he left us. He was rather tough looking, however, and appeared as if he had missed about three nights' sleep. He was rather stiff in his walk, too, and looked completely tired out.

"After he had gone I heard the Wabash freight whistle and thought it rather queer, as he does not generally whistle at that point. We saw her stop and knew that something had gone wrong. When the train went past we saw the man lying over the pilot and then we knew what had happened.

Capt. Sim Smith said he had seen the man hanging around the Tecumseh House, but did not pay any attention to him.

The body was removed to Coltart & Wilson's morgue, where it now lies.

HIS IDENTITY

Upon a later examination the following letters were found on the person of the deceased gentleman.

Dr. Bray has written to Mr. Irving and Col. Dawson, telling them of the death. The man's name is James Lane and he hails from Toronto.

Bodega Wine Co.

Toronto, May 25, 1895.

This certifies that Mr. James Lane has been in my employ for the past four years, as steward. I found him honest, faithful and competent in all entrusted to his care.

He is, moreover, an expert carver, and worthy of employment. I recommend him to any one requiring his services.

Signed, COL. A. D. DAWSON, Toronto.

Peterboro, Aug. 5, 1901.

The bearer James Lane, has been working at St. Joseph's Hospital the past few months, and has certainly given entire satisfaction in every way and did his work perfectly.

Office of the Secretary of Ontario Province.

Mr. James Lane was employed for a number of years with the speaker, caterer, who always spoke highly of him. I shall be glad to hear of his getting steady employment. I write this, as Mr. Kennedy, under whom Mr. Lane was employed is now living in the United States.

DIED IN TORONTO

Charles Hadley received a telegram this morning containing the sad announcement of the death, in Toronto, of his step-mother, Mrs. Sylvester Hadley, nee Miss Stephenson, of Cobourg. Mrs. Hadley had been in poor health for some time. While in this city Mrs. Hadley was always an earnest member of the Park street Methodist church, and her quiet and kindly ways won for her many friends. Since the death of her husband she has resided with her father and a niece in Toronto. Death came at 11 p. m. Tuesday. Service will be held in Toronto Thursday night, after which the remains will be brought to Chatham, arriving here at 12.45 Friday. Charles, Will and Joseph Hadley and Mrs. T. K. McKeand, of this city, are step-children.

SPECIAL SERVICES

Christ Church was well filled last night and the service was earnest, appropriate and helpful. Mr. Murphy chose for his subject the "Parable of the Great Supper." His text was "Come, for all things are now ready." He said the word "come" is written in God's Word over 650 times, affording a very striking evidence of God's love for and willingness to receive sinners. The Bible is a treasury of precious invitations and just at the end of God's Word, just before St. John, the last of the inspired writers, had laid down his pen God told him to write this invitation—"And the Spirit and the bride say come. And let him that heareth say come. And let him that is athirst come. And whosoever will let him take the water of life freely."

Mr. Murphy then spoke of some of the excuses frequently heard from the lips of those who have not accepted salvation. Some men claim to have so much business demanding, unceasing attention that they cannot find time to think about God and the salvation of their souls. Those in that condition will have to find time to do, for more correctly speaking that solemn time will be forced upon them, and they will leave their business for judgment and eternity. Then some speak of the hypocrisy of professing Christians in the church. It is true there may be hypocrites in the church, but for every hypocrite you will find in the church you will find one hundred outside.

Mr. Murphy referred to some other excuses and concluded a very earnest address by urging his hearers to accept God's gracious invitation, "Come, for all things are now ready."

A man named Hauffman, wanted for murder in San Francisco, and other crimes, is supposed to be working his way east over the C. P. R. He was seen at Calgary recently.

The Bell Telephone Company is trying to make an agreement with the Corporation of Hamilton, but thus far the city Finance committee declines to accept the company's offer.

DRAINAGE BILL

The Drainage Bill, in respect to which M. Wilson, K. C., and J. B. Rankin, K. C., attended before the Legal Committee of the Legislature on Monday and Tuesday, was, after a long contest, settled in an amended form so as to overcome the effect of the judgment in the case of Sutherland and Innes vs. Romney. The bill awakened discussion and opposition because it attempted to restore the general right to assess the higher township for drainage outlets in the lower township, and resolved itself into a contest between the highland and lowland men. The highland men had employed William Douglas, K. C., Mr. Aylesworth, K. C., Guelph, to oppose the bill. The lowland men were M. Wilson, K. C., representing Rochester, and James Leitch, K. C., representing several municipalities in Cornwall.

NOBLE WORK OF HOSPITAL

It is Evidenced at the Annual Meeting of the Public General Hospital.

Mr. Malcolmson Re-elected President—His Earnest Address.

Although the attendance was not large at yesterday's annual meeting of the Public General Hospital workers, the gathering was a very enthusiastic one and the ladies and gentlemen present had good reason to be satisfied with the records of the past year.

Ex-Mayor Hugh Malcolmson presided and, in opening the meeting, alluded briefly to the history of the hospital and its development, paying a eulogistic tribute to the work of the Ladies' Assistant Society.

Secretary McKeand then read the annual report and financial statement as follows:—

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 5.

A GOOD RECORD.

Ex-Mayor Hugh Malcolmson naively admits being "a crank on hospitals." So far as we have learned none of his friends has risen to dispute the admission.

But Mr. Malcolmson belongs to the calibre of cranks that counts; the kind that Chatham—or any other place, for that matter—finds itself the better for; and, in re-electing him as presiding officer of the Board, the ladies and gentlemen of the Public General Hospital Association yesterday evidenced their insight of the fundamental principles of mechanics—the essential character of an active crank to keep machinery in motion.

The history of the hospital, which was recorded in the reports and addresses at the meeting, is a history of progression and accomplishment in which Mr. Malcolmson has played the leading role, being supported by energetic and able colleagues and an earnest and indefatigable coterie of zealous ladies. The chronicles of the past are proud—they are an inspiration for the future.

The noble work which both our city hospitals are doing is, perhaps, not realized as it deserves. It would redound more to our credit as citizens if these magnificent institutions were more upon our minds and their interests guarded and fostered with a greater zeal.

One point which came out yesterday should meet with immediate attention. It seems that the city only pays the hospitals $2.50 per week for the care of its own patients, while their cost to the institutions was shown to be nearly double that amount. How is this, gentlemen of the City Council?

It seems to us—particularly in dealing with institutions of this kind—that this proud and progressive city should at least pay its own way.

TOADYISM IN EXCELLENCE.

The toadyism exhibited by the American press and people in connection with the visit of Prince Henry is only what is to be expected of a nation whose standard of social eminence is confined to men who can accumulate the largest number of dollars, comments the Ottawa Citizen. It is not in the nature of any people to be purely democratic. An honest man may be the noblest work of God and as such the equal of any in the land, but humanity is so constituted that while this may be accepted theoretically, the practice is to exalt some of their fellows above the plane of democratic equality, and the motive which governs this principle of elevation is to some extent the real touchstone of the spirit of freedom which animates a nation. In monarchical countries the people frankly give place to hereditary rank and title without feeling that they are in any way lowering their standard of appreciation of individual merit. British people believe that a limited monarchy represents the greatest freedom for the individual. While their nominal rulers are hereditary, the real rulers are the people, and all are equal in the eyes of the law, the law which is made by the people themselves. Theoretically the people of the United States are free and equal, but practically there exists an aristocracy whose claim to distinction from the common people is based not on rank or title, but on the possession of many dollars. Burns struck the true keynote of democracy when he wrote:

The gold is but the guinea stamp
A man's a man for a' that.

But the democracy of the United States is getting farther away from that ideal every year. Such a well known and widely read publication as Harper's Weekly recently had a lengthy editorial article "The middle class" in the United States said middle class being represented by the people making incomes ranging from $2,000 to $5,000 a year! The growing tendency to recognition of an aristocracy in the republic affords an interesting study, and, as the wealth of the "upper class" increases, they are increasingly successful in establishing recognition as an aristocracy in the eyes of "the common people" and even of the press. The fact that the claims of this newly rich aristocracy are based solely on a cash qualification places the democracy of the republic in a humiliating position as compared with people who frankly admit the existence of class distinction based on hereditary titles which have originally been earned by conspicuous service to the state and maintained by generations of successors of gentle birth, who in most cases have maintained their right to consideration by similar service. As compared with this standard of class distinction, that set up by the great republic is sordid and truly lowering to the dignity of a free people. The craving in the direction of class distinction is at present finding remarkable exemplification in demonstration in honor of a foreign prince who has never done anything to merit the laudation of Americans. No one would find fault with a respectful and cordial welcome to the representative of a royal house, but what is to be thought of such servile rot as is voiced in the columns of such a belittled Jeffersonian simplicity as the New York Sun. Describing a dinner given by one hundred "industrial magnates" to the Prince, the Sun prints a biography of every one of the guests and heads it, "The Immortals—These are the Captains of Industry Who Broke Bread and Talked With the Prince! Could toadyism go much further? No British paper in its legitimate appreciation of our royal family would go to such lengths. And yet this prince who "immortalizes" free American citizens by breaking bread with them, has not the slightest claim to their consideration, except that he bears a royal name.

The surgeons have accomplished the task of taking a man's brains out, pruning them and replacing his brain works, says the Ottawa Citizen. This is a great scientific accomplishment and is deservedly receiving columns of attention from the press. The only discount upon these surgical grand stand performances is that about three weeks from now a three-line item will be due announcing that the gentleman principally interested is dead.

Bobcaygeon Independent.
As the province will have a speedy opportunity of getting back at the legislature, there is a chance this time that the province will not get it quite so strenuously in the neck as is usual during the close of a legislative session.

THE SAGACIOUS BURG.

Wallaceburg Herald.
Believing it is in the best interests of the town we publish this week the exact facts of the two mild cases of small-pox which have appeared here. Much harm was done to the city of Chatham by the newspapers of that city in endeavoring to hush up the matter by saying nothing of the outbreak there and the wildest and most absurd rumors floated about the country, to the detriment of the business interests of the city. Too late they realized the mistake and began to publish the exact state of affairs. The statement made on the first page of this issue is absolutely correct and need cause no feelings of alarm among citizens of the town or those of the surrounding country, accustomed to trade here.

AN ACCOMMODATING TUNE.

Detroit Free Press.
According to the dispatches from Washington the Marine band played "Hell dir im Siegerkranz" when Prince Henry was escorted down the main aisle of representative hall. A few minutes later when the president and his cabinet entered the band played the same tune again, and the wise correspondents knew it was "America" this time. Had a British prince been present the band would have played it as "God Save the King." In the days of the grand monarch, the French exalted Louis XIV. to the same melody—"Louis le glorieux, toujours victorieux." It is a most useful tune in international affairs, and the next Hague convention might properly consider the question of making it an international anthem.

A Chapter on Scott's Emulsion often holds a prominent position in the histories of weak children.

The gist of that chapter usually reads like this:

"Child weak and thin—began with small doses of Scott's Emulsion three times a day—after a week appetite improved—soon a little stronger—child more lively—weighs more."

And so it goes till the child is reported well and strong.

"It is the little rift within the lute which ever widening, makes the music mute." It is just a little rift in the health of a woman often, which gradually takes the spring from her step, the light from her eyes, the rose from her cheek and the music from her voice.

Perhaps the bug-bear of the woman from the timely help needed at the beginning has been the dreaded questions, the obnoxious examination, the local treatments, of the home physician. There is no need for these. Nor is there need for continued suffering. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription can be relied on by every woman suffering from what are called "female troubles," to renew the health and cure the disease. Pleased With Quality

When you have to take medicine, the purest you can get is none too pure. It is unnecessary for us to say there are plenty of inferior drugs on the market—you know that. With us, everything is sacrificed for QUALITY. We are just as anxious as anyone else to make a profit, and a good one too, but quality always comes first and price is arranged accordingly.At McCall's you may pay a good

A Chatham Lady's Troubles and How She Escaped.

A true saying is that little things amuse— Well, we won't finish it, but anyhow we were very much amused the other day by a certain lady customer coming into our store and relating her troubles to us, we are going to state them to you just as we got them. It was this way. She said,
"I want a pound of that 25c coffee of yours. I have not had a good cup of coffee for two or three mornings. We being a little bit surprised at such a statement as that from one of our own customers, we hastened to inquire the reason. Well, the lady said that, being in a hurry to get home one day a short time ago, she dropped into a certain grocery store, and was met by the proprietor himself, who of course inquired what he might do for her. So she said she would like a pound of good coffee. The proprietor, ever ready for business, jumped behind the counter to get the coffee, when the lady checked him for a minute by saying, Mr.
—, can you give me a coffee as good as I get at Young's? The grocer hesitated for a minute and then said, Why, my dear woman, I can give you a coffee that Young has not got in his store for the price. Well, the lady says, I got the coffee, and I went home and tried it, and it is wonder he said that you did not have such coffee in your store. I wish that I had brought you a sample down. Now, every word of this is the truth, and we could give the names of the parties if necessary, but shall simply wind up by saying the place to get your coffee so as to avoid any grumbling afterwards is at Young's.

Evening Appointments Made.

They will keep up the zeal they have shown in the past.

Mr. Gardiner seconded the motion, which carried.

N. H. Stevens—I cannot let this opportunity pass without moving a vote of thanks to the President, Secretary and Treasurer. These three officers have done much to push forward the interests of the hospital and the excellent results are due to the energetic work of these three men.

The fact that there is a large number in the hospital, does not demonstrate that the hospital is more sickly than others, but shows that the hospital is excellently equipped and people who enter it are sure of receiving the very best of attention.

Wm. Ball seconded the motion. In doing so he took occasion to pay some very flattering compliments to these officers.

"I think," said he "that our thanks are very little in the way of repaying them for their work."

After votes of thanks had been passed to the press for their reports of the meetings and general co-operation, the meeting adjourned.

Grove Villa, Bromar Road, Denmark Park.

Gentlemen—

I scarcely know how to express my thanks to you for the great benefits I have derived from the use of Kelpion. Being an all round athlete, I have, of course, experienced some bad sprains and bruises, but my late mishap at football, which resulted in a partial dislocation of the knee, was certainly the most serious.

For five weeks I have tried various embrocations, but to no purpose, except peeling the skin off, and making my leg smart. A friend then advised me to give Kelpion a trial, which I did. In three days my knee was considerably improved, and at the end of two weeks it was as well as ever, and quite strong enough to permit of me resuming cycling, etc. I shall certainly rely upon Kelpion for the future.

Several of the Borough Polytechnic Harriers have also expressed to me their high opinion of the ointment, having made good use of it while training for their big race. They say that but for several of them would have been too footsore to compete. Yours truly,

W. Walker.

Minard's Liniment Cures Dandruff.

A TERRIBLE DISEASE THAT COMES UNSPECTINGLY, AND WHEN UNHEADED IT DRAGS ITS VICTIMS TO DEATH.

Paine's Celery Compound

Has Wrought Thousands of Cures After Failures of Thousands of Physicians.

To-day kidney disease is as common as rheumatism. Thousands of men living in fancied security, have kidney trouble in some form that must develop from day to day and end in death, unless wise and proper treatment is at once taken advantage of. Have you any of the following symptoms: headache, frequent urinating, fluttering of the heart, nausea, vomiting, a dry, harsh skin, fever, coated tongue, extreme thirst, fickle appetite, acid bitter taste, deposit of mucus after urinating, sour stomach, dropsical swelling, loss of memory, scalding sensations and constipation? If you experience any of these symptoms, begin at once with Paine's Celery Compound, which will quickly put to flight all symptoms of disordered kidneys. It is nature's true remedy, the only one you can rely upon with certainty to cure. Mr. M. Maher, Hairdresser, of St. John's Nfld., gratefully writes as follows:

"I suffered terribly for two years from kidney trouble and dyspepsia. I was completely run down and could not sleep or eat. One of the ablest city doctors attended me, but no good results followed his work. Happily a friend advised me to use Paine's Celery Compound. I procured a supply, and the first dose relieved me. I have used eight bottles and now sleep well, appetite is good, and I am as strong as ever before. I recommend Paine's Celery Compound to all."

Solar Spectrum and Seasons.
Writing of the recent observations made by himself and others on that part of the solar spectrum which lies beyond the red end of the ordinary prism, or visible spectrum and contains about four-fifths of the radiant energy of the sun, Professor S. P. Langley says that we are beginning to see that the seasons "which write their coming upon the records of the spectrum," may, in the future, have their effects upon the crops foretold by means somewhat similar to the forecasts made day by day by the weather bureau, but in ways infinitely more far-reaching, and that these predictions may come from the direct study of the sun. There are strong indications in the direction of a future power of prediction as to coming years of plenty and of famine.

ON CRUTCHES.

Even if you are obliged to use crutches, Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure can fix you up. This was the experience of John J. Peters, Sharbot Lake, Ont. He suffered with rheumatism in his legs (sciatica) for a year and had to creep about on crutches all the time. Fortunately he tried Dr. Hall's remedy and it only took three bottles to cure him completely. This great blood purifier is put up in bottles containing ten days treatment. Price 50 cts. at all drug stores or The Dr. Hall Medicine Co., Kingston, Ont.

The Monkey as a Laborer.
One of the English astronomers, Mr. J. J. Atkinson, who visited Sumatra to observe the total solar eclipse last May, made the acquaintance of an old Malay, living on a little island near the Sumatran coast, who owned a large monkey which he had trained to work for him in gathering coconuts. The monkey's business was to climb the gigantic coconut palms and throw down the nuts, "which he did," in a manner by screwing the nuts off with his powerful arms while he hung by his legs 70 to 100 feet from the ground."

LUKE DOLLIVER'S TEMPTATION...

By ANNIE H. DONNELL

Copyright, 1931, by Annie H. Donnell.

No one had held an umbrella over her for so long! She glanced up in amazement, bordering on fright. He was so tall.

"You're such a little mite of a woman, an' it's rainin' pitchforks!" the man said cheerily.

"I didn't have any umbrella handy," she said shyly. The last word was appended to shield her poverty, but her cotton gloves and shiny seams jacket gave it the lie.

"Umbrellas are slippery things, wet or dry," said the man encouragingly. "When you want 'em, they ain't there!"

It was a wind driven rain, and he lowered the umbrella on her side to ward off the great slanting drops. She felt a novel sensation of being sheltered, and a sob rose in her throat. Once she slipped, and he caught her arm. She had slipped so many times before, but no one had tried to save her. That was why she straightened her slender she had never called him Luke before. He was so tall and strong and handsome, and she thought he was grandmother's name.

"Then you've got folks, eh? Why, I shouldn't know how that felt."

"I did have. I haven't any now. They aren't any left."

"The catch in her low voice seemed to trouble Luke. He changed the topic."

"What'd you say your last name was, eh?"

"Pettie—Faith Pettie," she answered. He was looking down kindly into her small, pale, but rather sweet face.

"H'm! I reckon they forgot to put the 't' in."

"What 't'?" Her puzzled innocence made him laugh in a big, healthy way. Faith laughed, too, involuntarily. They were passing a long row of tenements that stood the pavement in dreamy succession. Faith stopped before one midway in the row.

"This ain't your home, is it?" the big man asked, eyeing the structure with evident disfavor.

"No, it's where I stop," Faith answered quietly, conscious that she blushed under his frank gaze. It was a graceless house, and she wished that her room was in front, so he could see the pot of red geraniums and the white curtain which helped out some.

At the front door they both stopped, and Faith looked up at him shyly.

"I'm ever so much obliged, Mr.—"

"Dolliver, Dolliver; but you just say 'Luke.' I work down at Weymouth's factory. Everybody calls me Luke."

He held the umbrella above her carefully till she mounted the steps and stood in the slit of a doorway. Then he closed it promptly.

"Well, I declare if it ain't stopped rainin'!" he cried. "Now, when did that happen?"

In the spring twilights which followed, these two workers met, at first as if by chance and then as if by mutual attraction. They loitered on their way home from work, and the girl grew less lonely, while the man came to count on throwing aside his troubles for the short time they walked together. Moreover, he became ambitious to make her smile in return. The rare occasions when he suggested that they pass beyond the tenement and sit on the benches in the promenade and watch the sunset on the water, Faith marked as red letter days on her calendar.

It did not occur to honest, big Luke Dolliver that danger lurked in these quiet moments. The mite of a woman who sat beside him looked happy—he liked to make her quiet face brighter. Nor did it occur to Faith that she loved him—she was simply content when he graduated his great pace to hers or talked quietly to her on the promenade. She told him frankly of her early country life, the death of her father and her efforts to earn her livelihood in the great city, but Luke Dolliver never spoke of his past. Her life, if colorless, was enviable as compared to his.

Spring crept into summer before they knew it, and they began to watch the gay boat parties from the promenade.

"I never was out on the water in my life," Faith said idly one evening. "And I never really holidayed." "I don't call days off 'holidaying' do you?"

"My fir, too," answered Luke. "Days off ain't the right kind. We'd ought to try our hand at the genuine article, eh?"

Faith's face kindled with gentle excitement.

"There's going to be an excursion down the river next Saturday. I heard the girls talking about it at noon. They're going. There's to be a band too."

"Then you an' me'll go, mite of a one." There had been a slight hesitation, but he could not disappoint the childish eagerness in her pale face. The delight in Faith's eyes repaid him for the invitation and they sat later than usual that evening making their plans.

Three days till Saturday! Faith lived in a quiver of anticipation. She sat up late each night furnishing her clothes, even to the ribbons on her sailor hat, which really looked better when they were turned.

Saturday's skies could not have been bluer or the air cooler and sweeter. Faith met the day with such a radiant face that Luke Dolliver regarded her with astonished satisfaction. He had never noticed before how blue her eyes were in their white setting nor how the elusive dimples played at hide and seek in her small round chin.

"You little mite of a one," he cried gleefully, "what you been doin' to yourself? I'd ought to have put on my white duck trousers an' boiled shirt!"

For reply Faith stood on tiptoe and pinned a tiny bunch of pink to the lapel of his coarse brown coat. Her fingers shook with excitement, and an expression of pain contracted Luke Dolliver's face. He looked about him uneasily. Yes, he would leave her—there among the pleasure seekers. He could make some excuse. She would not mind, and he'd leave the ticket and go and never come back.

These thoughts tormented Luke as they went on—the sudden consciousness that he was wronging the girl in sharing the day's pleasure with her. He had meant it to be only a bright spot in her dull life. Now he suddenly recalled the barrier that separated him worldwide from Faith.

The stream of people bound for the wharf thickened. A showily dressed woman between two men stared at them and openly jeered. She nudged her companion, and the three burst into loud laughter.

"Hold on, little mite of a one. Don't hurry so," Luke muttered, shutting an oath behind his teeth. "There's a plenty of time." He could not bear to have Faith see the impudent, handsome face. He had not seen it himself for many a day.

"No, no, we must hurry! Oh, Luke, if we should be late!" cried Faith anxiously.

She had never called him Luke before. His half formed purpose to turn back vanished.

"Lord have mercy, I love the little mite of a one!" groaned the man in his heart.

Hours later on the homeward trip he discovered that Faith loved him. They were sitting alone in a corner of the deck, and he read it clearly in her pure upturned face. To draw her close and hold her so forever! How easy a thing it would be! And what did all the rest of the world matter?

He saw how thin her arm was where the lace fell away, the peak of her chin and the hollows in her temples. How frail and slight she was to earn her bread alone! The thought set his pulses beating madly.

"Lord have mercy! Lord have mercy!" his soul prayed for him.

The steamer neared its landing place, and the shrill whistles throng crowded toward the gangplank. The man and girl were in a zone of silence. He was eyeing the shore line, creeping nearer and nearer, with his lips set to grim lines. He was fighting a sharp battle. He had given himself till the steamer touched shore to reach a decision.

The ribbon of blue water narrowed. Now it was a thread.

"Who's going to wait? Here, boys, take hold of hands—Now, one, two, three—jump!"

Luke Dolliver recognized the gay, reckless voice. It had made the discord of his whole life. Should he let it—

A cry of horror and a woman's shriek of pain rose simultaneously. Faith started to her feet, white and shaking.

"Oh, Luke, what is it?" she cried.

He pushed her back on the seat firmly.

"It ain't anything much. You set right here an' wait for me."

He plowed his way to the boat's edge and took one look at the three crushed bodies. The woman's bold, handsome face was turned upward and the remaining touch of death lay on it.

A little later Luke went back to Faith, and his face, softened and grave, was the face of a free man. Yet if he were sure he had decided that question before the accident happened! Yet could he have decided it wrongly?

"You poor little mite of a one," he cried tenderly. "You look scared to death! It's all over. Three people got hurt, but they're better now." She was clinging nervously to his strong arm, and her teeth chattered.

He stooped and kissed her gently. "You little mite of a one," he cried. "You ain't any bigger'n a baby. I'm going to take care of you the rest of your life!"

From the Treasurer of the Young People's Christian Temperance Association, Elizabeth Caine, Fond du Lac, Wis.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I want to tell you and all the young ladies of the country, how grateful I am to you for all the benefits I have received from using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I suffered for eight months from suppressed menstruation, and it effected my entire system until I became weak and debilitated, and at times felt that I had a hundred aches in as many places. I only used the Compound for a few weeks, but it wrought a change in me which I felt from the very beginning. I have been very regular since, have no pains, and find that my entire body is as if it was renewed. I gladly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to everybody."

MISS ELIZABETH CAINE, 69 W. Division St., Fond du Lac, Wis.—$5000 forfeit if above testimonial is not genuine.

At such a time the greatest aid to nature is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It prepares the young system for the coming change, and is the surest reliance for woman's ills of every nature.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all young women who are ill to write her for free advice. Address Lynn, Mass.

He—"Do you know, I think you are a most singular girl! She (coolly)—I assure you it isn't from choice."

Has been many a poor Rheumatic's wail until he does as Mr. Eades did, give South American Rheumatic Cure a "faithful trial"—it never fails. Fred E. Eades, 421 Sully Street, Toronto, says: "I think South American Rheumatic Cure is the greatest God-send that sufferers from rheumatism have ever had put within their reach. I suffered so in my wrists and ankles that in two years I was only able to do three months' work. I took hospital treatment for nine months without relief, but a faithful trial of South American Rheumatic Cure permanently cured me." Relief at once.

SCHOOL BOARD HOLDS SESSION

has two samples of each, and Mr. Kenny has only one and you pit Mr. Kenny's one against the highest grades of Mr. Sullivan's two. I think it is hardly fair until we know who is really the lowest.

Mr. Hayward—We have looked thoroughly into the matter, and without a doubt Mr. Kenny's tender is the lowest.

Mr. Paxton—The sample chalks Mr. Sullivan sent in are not what was specified, and why should we take what we do not want. Then Mr. Sullivan's tender, if accepted, will put a string on the board.

The report of Mr. Robertson was adopted, and it was moved and carried that the matter of supplies for the Kindergarten be left in the hands of the kindergarten committee.

The report of the Public School Inspector Park was then read as follows:—

The following is a statement of the attendance at the public schools of the city for the months of February, giving school, class, teacher, enrolled, average, and percentage to enrollment.

McKough.

Jr. 1—Nellie Young, 25, 19, 68.

Sr. 1—Gertrude Holmes, 26, 19, 73.

Jr. 1—Ella Longwell, 44, 33, 75.

Jr. 2—Georgia Morrison, 44, 30, 68.

Jr. 2—Kathleen Garrett, 54, 41, 76.

Jr. 3—Martha Irving, 41, 35, 84.

Sr. 3—Minnie Samson, 43, 38, 88.

Jr. 4—Esther Abram, 51, 43, 85.

Sr. 4—James Brackin, 42, 40, 95.

Queen Street.

Jr. 1—Edith Tackaberry, 25, 17, 68.

Sr. 1—Jessie Snell, 32, 24, 75.

Jr. 2—Marion McColl, 28, 23, 82.

Central.

Jr. 1—Annie McKellar, 23, 18, 78.

Sr. 1—Susie Barassin, 56, 47, 81.

Jr. 2—Daisy King, 42, 33, 79.

Sr. 2—Ella Arnold, 48, 43, 90.

Jr. 2—Alice Mounter, 44, 39, 89.

Jr. 3—Laura Ryan, 43, 39, 91.

Jr. 3—Gertrude McPherson, 50, 45, 90.

Sr. 3—Mia Farquharson, 38, 34, 89.

Sr. 3—L. M. Gordon, 48, 46, 96.

Jr. 4—Ida Hillman, Miss Coltart and J. W. Piewes, 64, 58, 91.

Sr. 4—Ida Hillman, Miss Coltart and J. W. Piewes, 70, 65, 93.

Kindergartens.

McKough, Victoria Aylesworth, 22, 16, 73.

Central, Lily Green, 21, 16, 57.

The following are the totals:—

McKough, 373 enrolled, average

298, percentage 80.

Queen St., 85, 64, 75.

Central, 568, 467, 88.

Kindergartens, 60, 32, 64.

Total, 1,036, 861, 83.

The number of pupils enrolled for January, 1902, was 916, for February, 1902, 1036; an increase of 120, which still, however, leaves the enrollment about 300 below the normal. The average attendance for January was 679, for February 861, or still 275 below the normal. Percentage of attendance to enrollment, for January, 74; for February, 83, which is still about five per cent below the normal. The attendance has now become pretty steady in all the rooms excepting Part I, Part II, and the Kindergartens, where the attendance is still not more than one third of what it ought to be.

I have the honor to be, Gentlemen,

Your obedient servant,

ROBERT PARK,

Public School Inspector.

Thomas C. Macdonald, Secretary

Public School Board, City.

In moving the adoption of the report Dr. McKough said he regretted that the junior classes were below the average and that it was due to the compulsory vaccination. He also stated that he had been asked by many when the so-called embargo would be raised.

"I telephoned to the Medical Health Officer," continued Dr. McKough, "to ask him if there was any likelihood of the compulsory vaccination being stopped. He reported that there was no chance of it being stopped but it would be continued throughout the year, so the parents might just as well know it. The truancy law should be enforced."

Inspector Park—You can't enforce it until the children are over eight years old.

Moved by Mr. Robertson, seconded by Mr. Paxton, that the principals of the schools notify the truancy officer to compel those to go to school who should.

Mr. Benson moved that the matter be laid over until the next meeting, but as there was no seconder his motion was lost and the first carried.

Moved by Mr. Morley, seconded by Dr. Bray, that the Chief of Police be reappointed truancy officer—Carried.

Re the rental of the playhouse at Payne school, matter referred to the Finance Committee with power.

A letter of condolence to Mr. and Mrs. Cornish at the loss of their infant child was decided upon suggestion of Dr. Bray.

Re the laying of the floors and metallic ceiling at McKough school, matter was referred to the managers of the school with power.

Mr. McCovey moved that Secretary Macdonald be empowered to pay the teachers salaries at the end of month instead of after the Easter holidays.

DAIRY CONVENTION.

The Dairyman's Convention of Western Ontario will be held in the Opera House, Wallaceburg, on Friday next, when the subjects of "the cow, its breed, care, feed, etc.," "the care of milk at the farm," "feeding logs," and "factory buildings and equipment," will be discussed by J. B. Miller, London; Jno. Brodie, Mapleton; Jas. Brislaw, and others. The chair will be taken at 1.30.

POST MASTER IS SUSPENDED

Government Acts as a Result of Many Complaints in Windsor.

Inspectors Take Charge of the Office and Will Investigate all Books and Accounts.

Windsor, Ont., March 4.—Alfred Wigle, who has been postmaster of this city for 21 years, was suspended by the Government to-day and the office is now in the hands of Inspectors H. G. Hopkirk and W. R. Ecclestone. An air of mystery surrounds the entire proceedings but it is intimated that the charge against Wigle is inefficiency in handling the mails.

The inspectors are extremely reticent in talking of the trouble, if indeed they know the real cause of Mr. Wigle's suspension. Both declare that they were ordered to take charge of the affairs here and will not know what is the trouble until the close of the investigation, which will be started at once. Complaints against the postmaster were made at Ottawa, but they claim to be ignorant of their nature.

The work of investigation will be pushed rapidly and the result made public as soon as is possible. After a short conference to-day Mr. Ecclestone was installed as postmaster to act while the investigation is being carried on. Inspector Hopkirk will return to London in the morning.

Various stories are current in the city, but it is the generally accepted theory that the trouble lies in the inefficiency of the clerks under Mr. Wigle. Patrons of the office have been complaining considerably during the last few months. Letters have found their way into the wrong boxes and in other cases delayed for days at a time. There are a dozen clerks in the office and it is said that many of them are afraid that the investigation will cost them their positions.

"I received the first intimation of my suspension to-day," said Mr. Wigle, and did not know that any complaints had been lodged against me. I have been greatly handicapped by the clerks. The work was neglected on Feb. 23 because a message, telling one of the employees to take charge in my illness, was not delivered. That is the only case I can recall where the mails have been delayed."

Alfred Wigle has had a good record as postmaster throughout his long term and just a few months ago. He has no other business and depends entirely upon his salary, which is $1,800 a year for the support of his family.

His brother, Louis Wigle, is the mayor of Leamington, and Ernest Wigle, another brother, is a prominent attorney in Windsor. Wigle is a member of All Saint's church and a prominent member of the sportsman. During his long term in office he has made hosts of friends and these will make an effort to have him retained if possible.

THE STARVATION PLAN

Of Treating Dyspepsia and Stomach Troubles is Useless and Unscientific.

The almost certain failure of the starvation cure for dyspepsia has been proven time and again, but again now a course of dieting is generally the first thing recommended for a case of indigestion or any stomach trouble.

Many people with weak digestion, as well as some physicians, consider the first step to take in attempting to cure indigestion is to restrict the diet, either by selecting certain foods and rejecting others or to cut down the amount of food eaten to very small quantities to keep body and soul together, in other words the starvation plan is by many supposed to be the first essential.

All this is radically wrong. It is foolish and unscientific to recommend dieting to a man already suffering from starvation because indigestion itself starves every organ, nerve and fibre in the body.

What people with poor digestion, most need is abundant nutrition, properly cooked food, and something to assist the weak stomach to digest it.

This is exactly the purpose for which Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are adapted and the true reason why they cure the worst cases of stomach trouble.

Eat a sufficient amount of wholesome food and after each meal take one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets to promptly digest it.

In this way the system is nourished, because the tablets will digest the food, whether the stomach works or not, one grain of the active digestive principle in Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets being sufficient to digest 3,000 grains of meat, eggs or other albuminous food.

Dr. Harlandson and Dr. Redwell recommend these tablets in all cases of defective digestion because the poison and distaste in them are absolutely free from animal matter and other impurities, and being pleasant to the taste, are as safe and harmless for the child as for the adult.

All drug stores sell this excellent preparation, and the daily use of them after meals will be of great benefit, not only as an immediate relief but to permanently build up and invigorate the digestive organs.

Men's SPRING Clothing

What subject timelier in March than the choosing of new clothes? Every agency this store controls swings into line now to serve the man who wants smart spring toggery.

There's no roundaboutness in this service. Imported and Canadian suitings alike make but one stop between mill and man,—the stop at our factory where skilled work transforms them into the finest garments in this wide Dominion. Coldn't serve you more directly unless we turned weavers and made the cloth ourselves. We'll do it if the makers ever fail us, but not while these royal fabrics come to us at fair prices.

Fair prices all round; equal treatment to every customer; and if you don't like your trade, you can always trace back.
