THE Publishers have been induced at the request of several respectable Gentlemen concerned in the education of youth and the management of Sunday Schools, to reprint in this country the little work, entitled "Five Hundred Questions on the New Testament, &c." by S. BARROW." They have the satisfaction of being able to furnish it nearly on the same terms as it is sold in Great-Britain, and in proof of its utility they subjoin the following recommendations.

RELIGIOUS INSTRUCTION according to the catechetical form imparted in the Sunday Schools to the rising generation is productive of Piety and Virtue. The Pupils are trained up in the fear, and love of God, and taught to walk in the paths of religion. In order then that the teachers may have every aid in the discharge of their pious and benevolent labours, the Manual of BARROW's 500 Questions is recommended as a work well adapted for the Schools. By the use of it the application of the Pupil is secured, his memory exercised, his affections elevated, and his mind enlightened.

The utility of this manual has been acknowledged in the Schools which have been established in other parts of this Province. And as I am desirous of introducing it into the Kingston Sunday Schools and of encouraging its more general circulation, I readily recommend the work to the Superintendants and Teachers of the Sunday Schools in this Province, and pray that the blessing of God may attend the labours of all who are employed in establishing, supporting and cherishing these Seminaries of Piety and virtue.

GEORGE OKILL STUART,
Rector of St. George's Church in Kingston
Kingston, 7th April, 1820.

ADVERTISEMENT.

Extract from an address delivered on the 20th June, 1819, by the Honorable and Reverend DOCTOR STRACHAN at a meeting of the Sunday Schools established in York.

“ After the children are acquainted with the catechism, we proceed to BARROW's five hundred questions on the New Testament, which afford most excellent exercises for the higher classes. These questions excite the greatest emulation and most earnest inquiry, as may be seen by repeating a few, taken promiscuously from the book.

Why was John beheaded ?

How often should a man forgive injuries ?

What were the ten Virgins like ?

Who were Christ's Mother and Brethren ?

Who first saw Christ after his resurrection ?

What said the people of Christ ?

What is the duty of Christians in regard to this world ?

At whose instigation was Christ crucified ?

The book from which these questions are taken contains no answers. They are to be discovered by the children themselves, from a diligent perusal of the New Testament. It is sometimes not an easy matter to find the proper answer. Many require much reading and research. Children in a very short time become intimately acquainted with the life and crucifixion of the Lord Jesus Christ, and the Acts of the Apostles, and it is within my knowledge that the Parents of several children have profited by assisting them in discovering answers to the questions proposed.”

Kingston, 8th April, 1820.

PREFACE.

It will appear to be extraordinary rather, that the newly-invented interrogative system of instruction adopted in the Grammars of Geography and History, in the Universal Preceptor, and some other School Books, should not with less delay have been applied to the NEW TESTAMENT, than that a first attempt should be now made by an Author, ambitious of being useful to the rising generation, to apply so rational a system to the most important branch of all Knowledge.

We have Catechisms and Books of Questions, with answers absurdly annexed to the Questions, in scores, or it might, perhaps, be correctly said in HUNDREDS; but we have not to this hour, at least with the knowledge of the Author, a single exercise or working book on the NEW TESTAMENT, implying, calling for, or requiring, the use of THE THINKING FACULTY in the young student.

For the convenience of Tutors, the Answers to these important Questions are given in THE TUTOR'S KEY, a volume which also contains Answers to the Questions connected with BLAIR'S UNIVERSAL PRECEPTOR, the Grammar of Geography, and some other books essential to every course of education.

As the object of the Author of these Questions on the New Testament, has been to prepare a work of necessary and universal use in every CHRISTIAN SEMINARY, without distinction of SECT or DENOMINATION, he has carefully avoided all questions which might insinuate a preference towards any doctrinal points, confining himself chiefly to facts, and to his main design of familiarizing young persons with the contents of that precious and sacred volume.

The only previous qualifications which this work requires, are the arts of READING and WRITING, and the Author premises that the exercise of fair COPYING, which the use of it involves, will convey to young persons a knowledge of SPELLING and of READY COMPOSITOR, at the same time that they are acquiring an intimate acquaintance with the DIVINE MORALITY of the GOSPEL, and with the ELEMENTS of the CHRISTIAN Religion.
