to Robinson & Dane and J. W. Sanderson, was shipped from here last Friday. This is a great butter country.

The furniture has this week been moved out of the Grand Central hotel.

Dr. Smale jr., has returned from Detroit, where he was attending the medical convention. It was one of the largest ever convened there being about 7,000 delegates present. Valuable papers were read and much useful inormation imparted.

It is understood here that Mr. John Sanderson will return from Manitoba in Wednesday in July. There should be a short time and that some of the family are now on the way home. We do not believe that the so-the widow of the late Mr. Wigging, called "economy" that some of the members of the council preach is in line with the yiews of the ratepayers at large neither do we believe it is wise to leave a road, like the Gorrie sideline is, in such a condition that a fatal accident is liable to occur at any time among the tuts and roots which might bring an action against the township for more than enough to ditch, grade and gravel the road from one end to the other.

A Woman's Weapon.

* What is a woman's weapon " I asked a charming girl; She dropped her lashes shyly And stroked a vagrant curl : Then consciously she murmure This rosebud newly out; "I have a strong suspielon Her weapon is a pout."

"What is a woman's weapon ?" I asked a lover true. He turaced him to a maiden With eyes of heavenly blue, Her velvet lips were parted, And eagerly he answered : "Her weapon is a smile."

"What is a woman's weapon?" Yasked a poet then. With sudden inspiration He seized upon his pen. "Oh, I could write a thousand," He cried in accents clear; "Heut woman's surrest weapon, I grant ; ou, is a tear."

The Work of Women

The Work of Women. It is exceedingly aggravating to find women discarding work just as it becomes inancially profitable and men taking it up. Yet this happens in numberloss case. As soon as one employment becomes of serious inport and of value enough for men to adopt it, women are quite likely to discard it, or are frightened out of competition with their stronger brithmen. Several centuries ago, when the mass of markind was occu-pied with feats of arms, women were the anost womanly act to study the virtues of herbs and medicines, and even to acquire the art of surgery. Yet, till within the has score of years, it has been a com-mon thing to sneer at a woman physician is those who have stepped out of the limits protected for their sick. Gradually the prej-ulce against the woman physician is being overcome. Many other cases might be in-stanced where women have gone back into herative employments from which they had been pushed by the superior force of men and made a success of that the result is succed where women a butter-making is con-dicetal in a large creanery, where it be-orden and the success of that the result is weekinstead of fity, and is conducted on such the success print the is long experi-rence in butter-making, are being driven out of an excellent and herative employments No one doubts that the business of crean-work is is done by men. The fact is that of an excellent and herative employments No one doubts that the business of erean-tion is a success, pet it is to be regreted that in success her own, and has allowed business of the success here when have and then weekinstead of fity, and is conducted on the is a success here own, and has allowed buter making was not a butter-making driven out of an excellent and herative employments how on butter making, are being driven out of an excellent and herative the business of crean-that in wann's peculiar sphere she has allowed business of the success here own, and has allowed the midel menue to come market.

market. Why should not farmers' wives and daugh-ters in a large neighborhood organize and establish a co-operative creamery, to which they would all furnish the cream? There are cstablish a co-operative creamery, to which they would all furnish the cream? There are abundance of farmers' daughters seeking employment in the cities studying art, studying what not, who could do all the work of such an establishment except the work of lifting heavy buckets, which ought to be done by amale employe. There is no issential part of the work of butter-making which may not be better entrusted to women's hands than to men's. The estab-lishment should, of course, be conducted on strict business principles. There should be ageneise for the sale of the butter in rities and villages where it will command the best price, and such agencies should bo in charge of daughters of those interested in the co-operative scheme. There is no possible reason why many of the army of unemployed women who are continually drifting to the cites for work should not be aided by such a project as this. There is always a demand for home-made bread and cake, home-made pickles and home-made preserves, at prices which will compete with the inferior produce of this kind now for sale. Canning and pickling establish-ments of a similar kind might also be con-ducted on the co-operative plan by unem-ployed women. It is not our purpose to add to the many ducted on the co-operative plan by unem-ployed women. It is not our purpose to add to the many burdens of the farmer's wife. It is not a question so much of whether she finds enough to do as whether what she does gives the best result. There is no use of farmers of limited means educating their daughters for teachers, for the ranks of teachers are over full. There is little more use in educating them to write poetry as a remunerative profession. What they need is practical employment, which will bring a practical money return.

To Prevent the Odor of Perspiration.

To Frevent the Udor of Perspiration. The unpleasant odor produced by per-spiration is frequently the source of vexa-tion to persons who are subject to it. Nothing is simpler than to remove this odor. It is only necessary to procure some of the tompound spirits of ammonia and place about two tablespoonfuls in a basin of water. Washing the face, hands, and arms with this leaves the skin as clean, sweet, and fresh as one could wish. The wash is per-fectly harmless and very cheap.

quart of sour milk, two eggs, one teaspoon-ful of soda dissolved in warm water, one teaspoonful of salt, and sufficient flour to make a good batter. Beat the eggs well, stir them into the milk, then add the flour and salt, and lastly the soda. Bake in rings in a quick oven. For apple fritters peel and slice some good apples, lay them in a soup-plate, dust over with, sugar and some lemon-jules ; leave to stand, turning and adding more sugar and jules if required, about two hours. The cores should be carefully taken out with a cutter. Dip in butter and fry in boiling lard. Drain well and serve in a ring, with sugar dusted over.

Ways of Women.

Ways of Women. Women in Finland consider a kiss on the lips the greatest insult, even from a lover. The average ago at which women marry in civilized countries is set down at 25 years. Paris has one woman chemist, Mile. Clerck, who passed a first-class examination. Mrs. Henry K. Updegrave, of Tower City, Pa., is the youngest great-grandmother on record. She is only 47. Mrs. Edmund Russell, the teacher of æs-thetic gymnastics, says there is a whole

Mrs. Tuana Neil, of California, gets $10,-00) a year in the insurance business, the largest salary paid to any woman. The Hebrew Journal says this : "It is one of the worst misfortunes of women that falsehood is not as a rule considered a dis-honor among them." Married women live on an average, two years longer than single women, although one woman in seventy dies in childbirth. Queen Matalie is going to London to get a publisher for her memoirs. The Princess Conti, daughter of Louis XI, was upbraiding the Moorish Embossa-dor for the Mohammedan custom of poly-gamy, when the Moor thus, defended the practice: "Madame," he said, "a plurality of wives is allowed among us because in our country we must seek in several women the charming qualities which are here to be found in one."

The late Julia Dickinson, a woman of wealth who resided in Michigan, left to Oberlin College $40,000, one-half to endow a chair of lady principal and the remainder for a department of physical culture for wo-men.

It is said that all the large companies will be taking such risks before the end of the year. James H. Fish, for many years official stenographer of the New York Supreme Court, says it is easier to find a first-class stenographic clerk among young women than among young men. A prominent lawyer said, "I prefer a competent woman about my place, because she will mind her own business and won't smoke." Boulanger's eldest daughter is engaged to be married soon. She lives with her moth-er in Versailles. The younger daughter has been the wife of Capt. Driant for several years and is with her husband in Tunis. The Queen has caused her private secre-tary, Sir Henry Ponsonby, to publish the fact that she will no longer give the custom-ary gratuicy to parents on the birth of trip-lets in their families, unless in case of ex-ceptional poverty.

As long as a single man's parents live, he may reside with them, but, at their death, the bachelor must have a civil and religious permit before he can get another abode. Roscoe Conkling refused to attend his daughter's wedding because she chose to marry a ráltoad train hand. To day that young man is at the head of one of the big-gest railroad systems in America. The daughter appears to have had a better eye for genius than the old gentleman. Mrs. Chauncy M. Depew says of her daughters: "One accomplishment that I am anxious to have them all acquire is that of reading aloud well. I consider that a very necessary part of a good education, and also that they should learn to enunciate their words clearly and correctly."

RAPE COLTURE.

The Ontario Department of Agriculture has in press the following bulletin on Rape Culture by Prof. Shaw and Mr. Zavitz : The principal objects of this Bulletin are 1. To call the attention of the farmers to the value of the rape crop to the agriculture of Canada. 2. To make known to them the various uses to which it may be put, viewed from the standpoint of our experience with it at this station. 3. To speak of the best modes of growing it under our conditions of soil and climate, so far as we have been able to ascertain these up to the present time. Since Bulletin LX was issued we have gained not a little information in ref-erence to the growth of this plant, the uses to which it may 'te put and the modes of feeding it; the information thus gleaned is made prominent in the Bulletin. DESCRIPTION OF RAPE.—As many persons feeding it; the information thus gleaned is made prominent in the Bulletin. DESCRIPTION OF RAPE.—As many persons do not know what rape is, a brief description of the plant may be necessary. It bears a close resemblance to the Swede turnip in the early stages of its growth, but it usual-ly attains a greater height than the turnip and produces more of stem and leaves. It has a fusiform and stringy root while that of the turnip is bulbous. On average soils, when grown in drills it usually reaches the height of from one to two feet, but on soils very rich in vegetable matter it sometimes attains the height of at least three teet. There are several varieties of rape, but the only kind grown as a pasture in this coun-try is known as the Dwarf Essex. ADAFTABLITY TO CLIMATE.—Like the turnip rape is adapted to temperate cli-mates. In all probability it will be found to grow in temperatures that are inclined to be cool rather than warm. It seems to grow more vigorously in our climate in the late rather than the early summer, and it continues to grow until the time of severe frosts when not mattred at an earlier period. I is iscarcely probable that rape will live through the winner in this latitude and yet through the difference of the sevent of a seed the following summer as in Great retain sufficient vigor to produce a crop o seed the following summer as in Grea Britain. In our experience much of it ha perished from the intensity of the frosts.

perished from the intensity of the frosts. ADATTABILITY OF SOILS--The most suit-able soils for grawing rape are fairly moist, free-working loams, rich in organic matter. Black loams are very suitable after the plants once get a start in them owing to the large amount of humus which they contain. Muck swamps when drained yield magnif-tends to reduce the excess of organic matter twhich they contain. Soils that are suitable for growing good crops of turnips and corn will also be found well adapted in most in-stances to the growing of rape. It will not grow well on stiff clays, poor sands or on any kind of soil deficient in plant food. PLACE IN THE ROTATION, --As rape is an stances to the growing of rape. It will not grow well on stiff clays, poor sands or on any kind of soil deficient in plant food. PLACE IN THE ROTATION. —As rape is an excellent cleaning crop when grown in drills and cultivated, it may with much advan-tage be placed between two crops of grain. As it luxuriates in soils abounding in vege-table matter it may be grown with much success on an overturned sod, inverted in the autumn or in the spring, or just after cutting the first crop of clover. We have obtained excellent results after sod over-turned in August and sown with rye, cut green, and then followed by rape. PREFARATION OF THE SOL. —The prep-aration of the soil will to some extent de-pend upon the rotation. When rape is the only crop grown and the land is not foul thorough spring cultivation will be found sufficient. When the land requires cleaning autumn cultivation followed by frequent stirring-of the soil in the spring will be found effective in reducing weed life and in securing that fineness of tilth and retention of moisture so helpful in the growth of rape. A favorite method with us is to sow a crop of rye in September, to cut it when well out in head with the binder for winter fodder, or when in the blossom, to be made into silage. But it would also serve a good purpose to sow the rye in August and pas-ture fall and spring until the first of June. After the rye in either case the land is at once prepared for rape. The preparation consists in plowing carefully, rolling as soon as plowed, harrowing once aweek had mak-ing the land into tills from 22 to 24 inches apart just before sowing the rape. When rape is grown as a catch-crop it may be sown broadcast or in drills after the removal of the previous crop. When sown broad-cast the grown has be turned over with the gang-plow, but when grown in drills and cultivated the crilinary plow should be used.

FERTILIZERS FOR RAPE. - Although rap FERTILIZERS FOR RAFE.—Although rape in an average season will give a fair return from ordinary land it is unusually respon-sive to large applications of farmyard man-ure. In average soils, therefore, it is more than probable that the application of a com-plete fertilizer will give good results, but in our experience the largest increase of crop has been obtained from the application of nitrate of soda and the next largest from the application of salt. the application of salt.

from two to three times greater than that of one cutting of a crop of clover of a similar nea. In 1889, we pastured 43 lambs on rape; in 1896, 537 head, and 1891, 666 head. A num-ber of these in each instance were carfied on into the winter after the season for pasturing was over, and it was found that they fed well when taken of the rape and put into winter quarters. 2. Rape as a catch crop. The extent to which rape may be grown as a catch crop is only limited by the desires of the farmer and the nature of the season as to the pres-ence or absence of moisture. It may fol-low any grain crop that has been reaped early and that has been sown with grasses or clovers. In 1891 we grew rape in drills on 2.18 acres of land which had already produced an extracrdinary crop of wheat. 60 lambs were pastured on the rape grown upon it for 25 days without any additional food. The aggregate increase in live weight was at the rate of 179 pounds per acre, which at 5 cents per pound gives $8.95 as the food value of the rape without consid-ering the increase in value of the original weight of carcase. 3. Rape as a soiling crop. Our experience ering the increase in value of the original weight of carcase.

3. Rape as a soiling crop. Our experience with rape as a soiling crop is somewhat limited, but we have found that when it is cut before the snow falls and put up in heaps of some size in the field it will keep for several weeks. It may then be drawn from these heaps when wanted and fed to animals indoors. Although mileh cows cannot be pastured upon rape owing to the taint which it would give the milk we have good reasons for believing that if it is carried and fed to be cows after each milking the results will be satisfactory.
4. Rape as a green manure. Although our experience in growing rape as a green manure is limited, there need be no doubt as to its pre-eminent adaptability for that purpose especially when grown as a catch crop. The pots permeate the soil and the plants when not matured what frost.
5. Rape as a cleaning crop. As a cleaning

PRECAUTIONS TO BE OBSERVED IN GROW-ING RAFE.—Cattle and sheep should never be turned upon rape when hungry lest they cat too freely of it. When sheep are put upon it they may be left there, but when they have free access to a pasture they will probably do better. They should have salt at will but usually do not require grain. On very frosty mornings, they should be kept off the rape for a time. The owners of pure-bred stock should use much care when pas-turing valuable animals on rape. CONCLUSIO NS.

CONCLUSIONS.

1. That in nearly all the cultivable por-tions of the Dominion the climatic condi-tions will be found suitable to the growing of rape. 2. That a large proportion of the soil of Ontario is well adapted to the growth of rape.

3. That rape is specially valuable as a pas-ture for fattening sheep and lambs owing to the season of the year at which it grows, and to its high feeding value.

to its high feeding value. 4. That it is an excellent food when pre-paring lambs for winter fattening. 5. That one acre of rape grown in drills immediately after a crop of ryo cut as a green tood will pasture from 10 to 16 lambs for from 2 to 21 months, and that when grown as the sole crop of the season under favorable conditions it will sustain a much larger number.

In the mad struggle for life husbands and wives, lovers and sweethear's had been parted and the survivors now returned and with the ardor of their exertion to dig out the unfortunate ones partly made amends for their terror and excitement of a few moments before. But the worst scene of horror was at the Cole & Robinson block, which is a total wreck. This building eaught fire after the crash, and at least two persons were burned to death. Mrs. Slasher and her sister, Miss Strand, were pinned down by heavy tim-bers, and there in the sight of the power-less spectators they were slowly roasted to death. Their screams and pitcous crics for aid and the sickening smell of burning human flesh caused even the stronget heart to turn faint. 'It is thought that other persons were incinerated in this fire, and the smell of charred flesh is so strong to-day as to give probability to this belief. -JOHN MURTON Friday-The nation has certainly not been for from 2 to 21 months, and that when grown as the sole crop of the season under favorable conditions it will sustain a much larger number. 6. That ordina-y grade lambs when pas-tured on rape without any other food sup-plement will make an average gain of 10 pounds per month. 7. That rape is admirably adapted for growing as a catch crop to be fed off or plowed under as a green manure. 8. That rape as a cleaning crop is probably without a rival in our present system of agr iculture. 9. That much care and prudence must be exercised in pasturing animals on rape or in basic may follow. 10. That rape is not an exhaustive crop on the soil when pastured off, as what has been taken from the cultivable area is re turned to it and something in addition. Roast Pork in China. The Chinese are ahead of the world in the preparation of roast pork for the table. "I consider myself as much a lady as the Dean's wife—as good as any in the county, and better than most in the town," replied Mrs. Drew, reddening with anger. it's as I've always said, you don't make enough of yourself; you've no ambition !" Mr. Drew looked at his watch, bolted his toast, drank his remaining coffee, and hur-ried away. He stopped at the door, how-ever, to fire a parting shot. "It's not what we are in other people's opinion." Then he fied. Mrs. Drew shed a few angry tears, and set herselt to consider how she could alter the existing state of things. It is a remarkable circumstance frequently occurring, that when people are happy and prosperous without a serious care in the world, they invent a grievance; and this silly woman was discontented because she could not enter the society to which neither her birth nor her education entitled her. "A benevolent purpose would be a good way of getting in with them—a fancy bazaar for a charity, if the Mayor would lend the town hall, "she solitoquized. "When they know me; and what a superior lady-like person I really am, they would cultivate my acquaintance." This and similar thoughts occupied Mrs. Drew's vacaant mind that morning for some time, when there was a ring at the house-bell, and a visitor was announced. Her face grew black, and the frown on

Her face grew black, and the frown on Her face grew black, and the frown on her brow reappeared as she heard the name. It was a visitor who seldom called more than once in six months, and was not usher-ed into her drawing-room—a choice apart-ment overcrowded with showy furniture— but into a parlour opening from the hall. This visitor was an old man, tall, thin, who had been handsome in earlier life, with well-cut features, a fair pale face, and light gray eyes. He was dressed in a drab-coloured suit of home-spun, and wore leach-

Gray Dobbin. "I have put him up at the Gray Dobbin. "I have put him up at the Crown." And so they parted, the old man just touching her brow with his lips. "Delightful !" cried Mrs. Drew to herself, when she was alone, rubbing her hands with satisfaction. "Everybody says he's rich. Really, he looks as if he were booked -very shaky. Seventy is not such a great age; but fretting for that minx Elizabeth has undermined him. Will she ever return, I wonder? That's the question. I think she must be dead, or she would have both-ered him for money before this. That hus-band of hers reckoned to make money of his father-in-law. Roughing it in the colonies would soon wear her out. Fool that she was, to run away from a good home with a man who had nothing ! Well, perhaps it may make it better for other people." It is seen by the tenor of her thoughts that Mrs. Drew was an unfeeling, worldly woman.

"She's a faded-like sort of lady," answer-ed Sarah. "With a begging-letter, I'll be bound--or somebody worrying for a subscription," ex-claimed the projector of the bazaar for charitable purposes. "I'll not see her. Tell her I am engaged." Presently Sarah returned. "She says, mum, as how she'd be very much obliged if you'd see her just for a minute." "When I say no, I mean it, replied Mrs. Drew shortly; then listening, she heard the visitor depart. Elizabeth Ashworth, after an affecting and perfect reconciliation with her father, sough her husband at the small railway inn at the outskirts of the town where he awaited her return. He was furious when she related the results of the interview she had unexpectedly obtained, which were, that he would receive her back home and reinstate her as his heiress, on condition that she parted from her husband, whose treachery in beguiling a girl of eighteen from her father's roof he could never for-give.

from her father's roof he could never for-give. Askworth, after upbraiding his wife in not having overcome the old man's preju-dice, rushed from the house. Poor Elizabeth was found lying on the floor in a fainting fit. Overcome by excite-ment and fatigue, she was carried to a bed-room, a doctor seat for, who pronounced her condition to be precarious through failure of the heart's action. Although re-ceiving every care and attention, sine never rallied, and by morning's dawn she had paesed away, being mercifully spared the knowledge of her father's tragic end. (TO BE CONTINUED.)

COAL BEING CONSUMED.

OOAL BEING CONSULTED It is Being Used Extravagantiv All Gone, Then White It is Being Used Extravagantiv Thave heard that when Ming Hudson, in the zenith of his fame, was asked as to what his railways were to do when all the coal was burned out, he replied that by that time we should have learned how to burn water. Those who are asked the same question now will often reply that they will use electricity, and doubless thisk that they have thus disposed of the question. The failacy of such answers is abvious. A so-called "water gas " may, no doubt. B used for developing heat, but it is not the water which supplies the energy. Trains may be run by electricity, but all that the electricity does is to convey the energy from the point where it is generated to the train which is in motion. Electricity is itself no more a source of fower than is the rope with which a horse drags a boat along the canal. There is much more philosophy in the old asying : " Money makes the mare go," than in the optimistio dogard to the capacity of man for dealing with nature.

gard to the capacity of man for dealing with nature. The fact is that a very large part of the boasted advance of a civilization is merely-the acquisition of an increased capability of squandering, for what are we doing every day but devising fresh appliances to exhaust with ever greater rapidity the hoard of tons of coal lying in the earth, and when these are gone there can be no more forth-coming. There is no manufacture of coal in progress at the present time. The use-tul mineral was the product of a very sin-gular period in the earth's history, the like of which has not again occurred in any notworthy degree in the geological ages which has not again occurred in any notworthy degree in the geological ages which has not again occurred. Our steam engines are methods of spend-ing this hoard; and what we often hear lauded as some triumph in human progress is merely the development of some fresh departure in a frightial extravagance. We would justly regard a man as guilty of ex-pending his substance wastefully if he could not perform a journey without a coach and six and half a dozen outriders, and yet we insist that the great steamers which take us across the Atlantic shall be run at a speed which requires engines, let us say, of 12,000 horse power. If the number of passengers on such a vessel be set down as 300, we have for each passenger the united force of twenty-four horses, day and night, throughout the voyage.

oyage. I expect our descendants will think that I expect outric descendants will think that our coal cellars have been emptied in a very wasteful manner, particularly when they re-flect that if we had been content with a speed somewhat less than at present de-manded, the necessary consumption of coal would have been reduced in a far greater proportion than the mere alteration of peed would imply.

HE TOOK STRICANINE.

Fred Morning, Aged 19, Departs This Life, at Woodstock, Cni.

Fred Horning. Aged is, Departs This Life, at Woodstock despatch says :--A case of determined suicide happened here shortly after 6 o'clock last evening. Fred Horning 19 years of age, son of Robert Horning, took his own life at his home on Dundas street, last night. The young fellow was on the street between 5 and 6 o'clock. He return-ed home, and in a few minutes became vio-lently ill. A doctor was sent for, but on his arrival could do nothing for him, and he died inside of three-quarters of an hour. The medical attendant found him in painful convulsions, produced, in his opinion, by poison. This opinion was verified when, upon leaving the house, he found immediate-ly outside the window a paper labelled strychnine. The coroner deemed an inquest unnecessary, pronouncing it a case of sun-cide from poison. The victim of this rash act has been living a life of idleness for some time past, and those who know his record best took the sad news quite calmly. He has on different occasions figured in the police court and was up setterday morning upon a charge of refusing to pay livery hire. He has, it is said, threatened to take his life on several occasions. His father is a black-smith at R. Whitelaw's foundry.

Dickens' Children.

Dickens' Children. J venture to think that such a child as David Copperfield is rare. The majcrity are made of more commonplace material. They would know better how to get on with Mr. and Miss Murdstone. Very few boys-nowadays at any rate—would, even at eight or nine years of age, be quite so easily imposed on by a waiter as to allow him to eat their dinner without uttering a word of protest. I am very doubtful, too, whether many boys would have been quite so loverlike to Little Emily and have found such intense delight in Mr. Pegotty's wonderful baue by the sea at Yarmouth. Still, offe feels that David is real@and from first to last consistent with himself, which, by the way, is more than can be which, by the way, is more than can be said for all Dickens' characters—Ham Peg-otty, to wit, who, when we are first intro-duced to him, is little more than a half witted, blundering lout, but becomes before the end of the story a really mangificent fellow. fellow. Every one will call to mind many other child characters in the writings of Dick-ens. No other male writer has given us to many. In my judgment, none of his chil-dren can compare with those of certain female writers female writers.

exist between Protestant and Roman Catholic, hence the determined opposition of the Protestant North to Home Rule. Ulster men claim that the wealth and a large proportion of the intelligence of Ire-and is in the North, and if Home Rule is established fear that they will fare very badly at the hands of the overwhelming Catholic majority.

The Masonic Hall here is to be formally opened on the evening of July 28th, on which occasion there will be a grand banquet, to be followed by a concert. The D. D. G. M. and other notable brethren will be present.

Mr. Dicks was in Toronto last week and purchased a fine new planing mill which will be placed in position in a short time. Mr. D. will then have two planers in the mill.

Mr. D. Mahood, whose hand was so badly cut lately, is able to be out again. He takes his loss of fingers philosophically and is not at all discouraged. Mr. Wm Montgomery is building a

Mr. Wm Montgomery is building a new kitchen to his house near the station which will be occupied by Mr. White, section boss.

Miss Cargil has resigned her position in the public school here, and intends, after the holidays, to remove to Duluth, Minn. to pursue her studies as an elecutionist. Her brother and sister, from Wingham, were here on a visit to her early in the week.

Rev. Mr. Pring will preach his farewell sermons here on Sunday next, and will next week remove to his new station at Bluevale.

Several of our Masonic fraternity visited Listowel on Tuesday morning to meet with the lodge there. Our football club is now organized and ready to receive challenges. A large number from here are expected to take in the Orange demonstration at Arthur on July 12th.

The celebrated Diamond Point Root Scoffler, at Darby Bros. Farmers, call and see it.

Rev. Mr. McKay will officiate again in our Presbyterian Church on Sunday next.

Fordwich Brass Band is again meeting for practise.

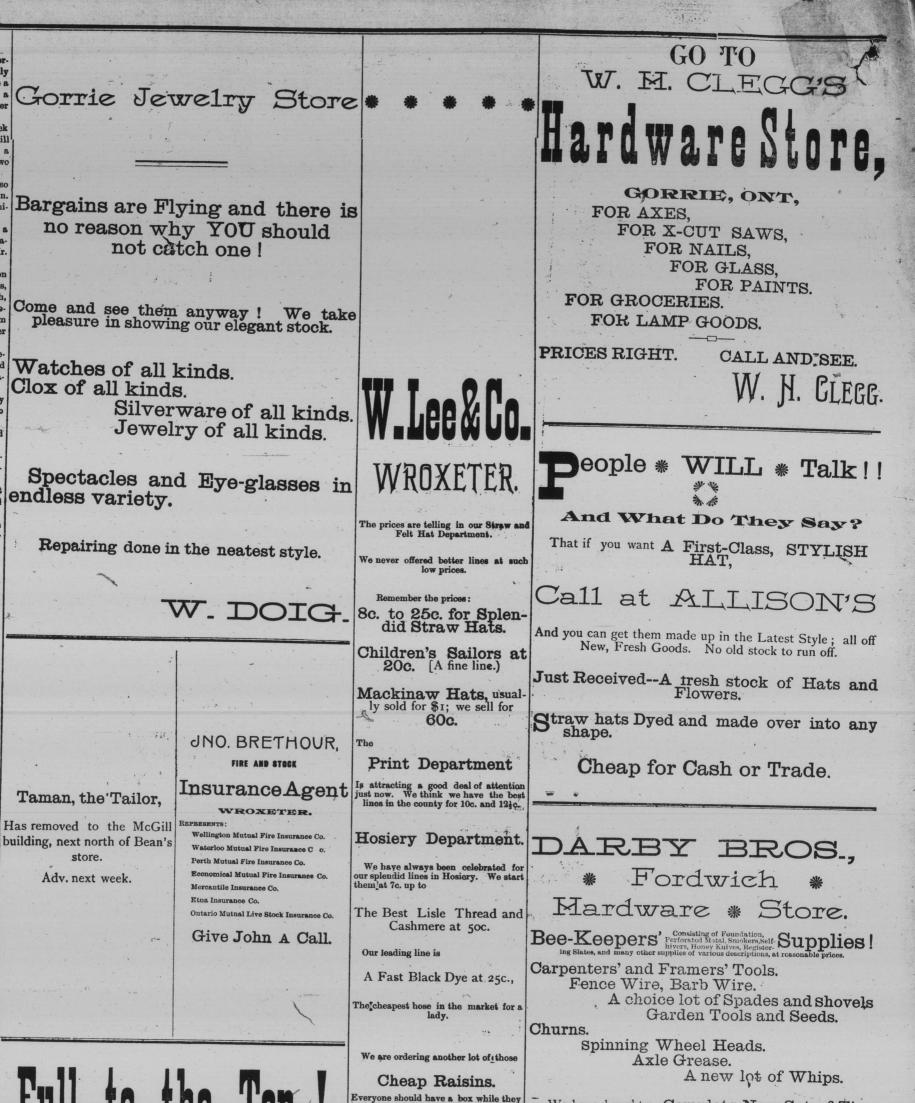

Mr. Dicks has taken the order to furnish the chairs, lounges, etc., for the new Masonic hall here. The furniture will be manufactured here in town.

Mr. Robt. Wilson returned last Thursday from a six months visit to Scotland. Mr. McFaucett, of Glasgow, accompanied him and intends to make his home in Canada. The two are stopping at Mr. Hunter's, on the 9th con., at present.

Fordwich is at last to rank among the regular stations of the C. P. R., and a telegraph in connection will be put in and a regular agent placed in charge. While this will be a great convenience it is but tardy justice to the village which has been a heavy supporter of the road for a long time at much disadvantage.

Wingham.

On Saturday last Mr. Holmes received word from Toronto to the effect that his son Mr. Jno. Holmes, lawyer of Toronto, was dead. Lawyer Holmes, formerly a resident of Wingham, and gave promise of being one of Canada's greatest barristers. Not long ago he had a rather difficult case in his hands and much study was required and an unusual amount of talking, affecting his throat which has troubled him for some time. It seems he had been in the habit of taking morphine to soothe the pain and gain some sleep and on Friday evening he was suffering more than usual he took an unusual amount of the drug. He soon saw his mistake and notified a friend who had been near his rooms. In spite of his friend's exertion he could not keep him awake. A doctor was sent for and when he arrived Mr. Holmes was unconscious and could not be aroused. The doctor seeing the serious ness of the case at once sent for two more physicians. In vain they worked and at five o'clock Friday morning he and at five o'clock Friday morning he died. His father who resides here is almost frantic with grief. He always was proud of his son and had a right to be so. The warmest sympathy is tendered the grief; stricken parents.

Wingham were fairly well "in it" at the games at Walkerton. The firemen took second money, running the required distance and doing the necessary coupling in 1 minute and 8 4/5 seconds while Kincardine took first making the run in 1 min. 8 sec. A prize given for the best dressed company was divided between Wingham and Stratford. Mr. B. Wilson's mare took first money in the Green race and Mr. Swartz's horse got second in the 2.45 race.

The mumps are still very prevalent in this town.

An addition to the freight house at the C. P. R. station is being built.

On Saturday afternoon last a football match was played botween Teeswater and Wingham. Junior clubs, The little féllows played well but Teeswater succeeded in driving the sphere through Wingham's goal once and Wingham boys could not break the score,

During the past week there were 16 deaths in New York city from sunstroke and 19 cases of smallpox were reported.

The hitherto invincible Cornwall Lacrosse Club were beaten 4 to 1 on Saturday on their own ground by the Capitals of Ottawa.
