He is a Scotsman and was Formerly of Peebles, Scotland.

FINANCE MINISTERS PEACE GUARDIANS FOR THE FUTURE

So Says the Great French Socialist Leader When Reviewing Cost of War.

Paris, June 27—(Delayed by censor) "The Ministers of Finance in the different countries will be the most careful advocates of the limitation of armaments after the war," asserted Marcel Sembat, Socialist leader and French minister of public works, in a statement to a representative of the Associated Press. M. Sembat occupies the first actual cabinet post held by a Socialist in France. Continuing his discussion the minister said: "They will speak not only in the name of the superior ideal of Social solidarity, they will speak in the name of the budget and of public credit. It is the discipline prevailing on the ship at the time she was sinking, which not only had intended to destroy the ship but had planned to blow over the lives of its passengers.

THE BURDEN "I have come from an interesting session of the chamber, consecrated to a discussion of war appropriations. Two discourses, completing the admirable report of M. Metin (Albert Metin, general budget reporter of the chamber of deputies) for the appropriations committee, emphasized the extent of the sacrifices that the war has imposed on us. You know that M. Metin calculated the war was costing France 50,000 francs ($10,000) a minute. The expenditure of the British are not less than ours while the Russians and Italians are feeling a heavy burden on their shoulders. On their side, our adversaries, the Germans and the Austrians are crushed by financial burdens. You have noticed recently the failure of the Austro-Hungarian loan.

"If the war proves to be long, which is not an improbable conjecture—the president of the cabinet and the minister of finance to-day took occasion to say so and prepare the public mind for it—endeavor to form an idea of what will be the state of the public finances of the belligerent countries at the conclusion of peace. We must expect that the public debt of each of these countries will be augmented by a considerable number of billions. I

BIG SQUADRON OF AIRMEN BOMBARD AN ENEMY STATION AT CHAUNY

London, July 17.—Only minor engagements have been reported during the last 24 hours from the western battle front. Artillery duels have taken place at many points along the line, but the infantry actions have been few and isolated. An unsuccessful German attack on a fortified work north of the Aisne, near Soissons, which was preceded by a bombardment, in which the enemy used up 4,000 shells is the principal incident announced last night by the French War Office. Comparative calm continues in the Argonne. An aerial attack was made this morning by a squadron of ten allied aeroplanes on the German military station at Chauny. Six large and 46 small bombs were dropped, apparently with great effect. Fire broke out in two places among the important

VERDICT OF DEADLY INTENT, ON LUSITANIA

Is Finding of the Commission of Investigation in London.

London, July 17.—A small gathering composed almost entirely of survivors and their relatives of the Lusitania disaster, listened to-day to the brief findings of Baron Mersey, who stated that the Cunard liner had been lost as the result of the act of the German submarine, which not only had intended to destroy the ship but had planned to blow over the lives of its passengers. The report was a distinct disappointment to the American survivors who expressed indignant surprise at a portion of the report which exonerated Captain Turner and the Cunard Line from all blame and commended the discipline prevailing on the ship at the time she was sinking. Several attorneys representing American clients listened closely to the reading of the judgment which may have a great effect on actions brought against the owners of the Lusitania.

SALIENT FEATURE The salient features of the report are that the lifeboat and lifebelt facilities were adequate; that the demeanor of the crew was above all blame and that the conduct of the passengers, barring a slight panic when the steaming passengers came on deck, was praiseworthy. The court also found that the ship was unarmed and carried a cargo of 50,000 cases of cartridges from which there was no explosion. "No doubt there were mishaps in handling some of the boats," Lord Mersey said, "but in my opinion there was no incompetence, or neglect."

USED DISCRETION Baron Mersey found that Captain Little came to this country with his people some years ago, and was a popular trooper in the local squadron and had attended several camps. He enlisted with their quota, but on the break-up of the cavalry at Valcartier he transferred to the 16th Battalion Cameron Highlanders of Canada, the "Red Tartans" of the heavy fighting around Ypres.

ITALIAN ARTILLERY AT WORK ON THE BATTLE FRONT

GOOD DAY'S WORK ON THE RESERVE

County Constable Kerr Cleans Up a Case Nicely. High Constable Kerr has scored decisively in a recent case on the reserve, when he got the men and also the goods. It would appear that some time ago a man, Bennet by name, had a store at Six Corners in which he had a considerable store of general merchandise. Leaving his property locked up she was amazed on his return to discover that it had been much pilfered from, and considerable goods in the shape of guns, boots, gramophones, records, sugar, flour and an assortment of dry goods were absent from the loaded shelves and stiff stock. In all over $100 worth of stuff had vanished and would require rigid enquiries to find its new abode. Constable Kerr's ear, however, caught the music tones of a gramophone about three miles past the store, as it played melodies to the red skins inside, and he with reduction commensurate arrested the outfit and subpoenaed the musical proprietor. Strolling along further the constable met three gentlemen on their way who betrayed a degree of modesty about their feet that was indicative of a certain regard beyond the ordinary. One indeed grew so flustered he attempted to take his foot coverings off and dispose of them, that failed and he too was served with a legal parchment that will demand his presence with his boots on. Being scared he 'fessed and the result was at another farm, Kerr found a load of provisions enough to fill up a rig, and a slightly embarrassed group of people, who were not so prone to 'fessing as the boot purloiners, and would have tried to explain, but the constable's time was limited and he had done fairly well for one day, and the argument was closed abruptly and conclusively as the evidence entered in the note book of the law, went back into a capacious pocket.

IMPALED ON FENCE WITH HUN BAYONETS

Montreal, July 17.—Sergeant Bristow, of the Second Battalion, C.E.F., was impaled on a wooden fence with German bayonets, according to Private J. Topham, also of the Second Battalion, who passed through Montreal last evening, on his way back to his home at Oshawa. Private Topham said that he himself had not seen Bristow, when he was brought back to the Canadian base, but many of his comrades had seen the crucified man, and Topham vouched for the truth of the story. Topham himself was invalided home after operations rendered necessary by the fatigue of marching. He arrived in Montreal last night with Pte. John Howarth of the Third Battalion, whose home is in Toronto. Howard was one of the victims of the gas attack, which was used against the Canadians. His voice was still little more than a hoarse whisper last night.

ORDERED TO ABSTAIN

London, July 17.—Christakis Zographos, foreign minister of Greece, has resigned, according to an Athens despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company. Although King Constantine's physicians declare his condition is satisfactory and that he is convalescing normally after his severe illness, they have ordered him to abstain from all participation in political discussions. M. Zographos became a foreign minister in the cabinet formed by M. Gounaris in March, after the retirement of M. Venizelos as premier when the king declined to accept his views regarding the proper attitude of Greece to assume in war.

AUSTRIAN NOTE DELAYED TILL OPPORTUNE TIME

YANKEE NOTE TO BE BRIEF THIS TIME Note From Vienna That Would Suggest Dual Monarchy as Land of Plenty.

And Will Concern Itself Alone With Rights of Neutrals.

Washington, July 17.—Development in the issue between the United States and Germany awaited to-day the return of President Wilson from Cornish, N.H. The president is to take up with Secretary of State Lansing and others of the cabinet several drafts of an answer to Germany's recent reply to the American note protesting against the German method of submarine warfare. The president will confer with Secretary Lansing on Monday. The cabinet will meet on Tuesday. The new note will reassert the right of Americans on the high seas. It probably will be brief. Until either Great Britain or Germany requests specifically its attitude on the subject of submarine warfare and contraband, officials held that the American government will make no move in this direction.

CONSIDERED TO SEA

London, July 17.—The cargo of provisions of the Norwegian steamer Vega, was consigned to the sea when the steamer was overhauled on her voyage from Bergen to New Castle by a German submarine, according to officers of the Vega, which arrived here yesterday afternoon. The officers say that the submarine came alongside the Vega Thursday night, and that the commander of the submarine superintended the jettisoning of her cargo of two hundred tons of salmon, eight hundred casks of butter and four thousand cases of sundries.

TEUTONS URGE UNITED STATES TO MAKE AN APPEAL TO BRITAIN

Bernstorff Makes Tentative Representations at Washington. Washington, July 17.—The German suggestion that the United States bring about the elimination of the submarine menace by obtaining through mediation the full observance of international law by both Great Britain and Germany was again laid before the Administration to-day when Secretary of State Lansing had a half-hour's talk with Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador. While the conference of the two was nominally about the Nebraskan case for which Germany has expressed regret and promised reparation, the real purpose, at least so far as the Ambassador was concerned, was the presentation of his views on the last note of the German government regarding the submarine issue. The ambassador has regarded this note as a most friendly communication, offering to the United States not only a means of safeguarding the lives of Americans on the high seas, but also an opportunity for the United States to render a supreme service to the belligerents and the neutrals. He presented to Mr Lansing yesterday his

FRIENDLY FEELING

"The note, said this statesman, 'is inspired by friendly feelings of the monarchy towards the Union where so many of our subjects have found a second home. It is the speech of a friend to a friend—an attitude which we are the more justified in taking because the relations of the two states have, as a fact, never been clouded. THE STATE OF PROSPERITY It might perhaps easily be a source of wonder that since the basic grounds of the note have been in existence for months, the note was not sent long ago, but there is a reason for its appearance at this particular time. In view of the incredible rumors and reports about the condition of the monarchy which have been circulated throughout the United States, this note would surely

Many Brantford friends will be interested to hear that among the girls who are spending a couple of weeks at Mr. and Mrs. Crowthers' island, Fairview, Lake Rosseau, Muskoka, are Miss Gay Shannon, formerly of Brantford now of Chatham, and Miss Bessie Bell, who has frequently visited here.

Mrs. Charlie Watt, Lorne Crescent entertained a large number of friends on Thursday at the tea hour for her sister, Mrs. W. Hastings Webbing, the occasion being Mrs. W. H. Webbing's wedding anniversary. The house was most artistically decorated with roses and sweet peas, and the grounds were looking at their best, Mrs. Lloyd Harris and Mrs. Hastings Webbing presided over the tea table.

One of the most beautiful homes in Grimsby, that "Garden of Ontario" is Deer Park, the residence of Mr. John Hewitt. The spacious grounds are ablaze with roses and other flowers and redolent with perfume, the solid green foliage of the hills beyond forming a restful background to the wealth of color. The hospitable host of Deer Park has delightfully entertained several parties of Brantford friends this summer at his old world country home.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Cleghorn, formerly of Kansas City, and Miss Helen Cleghorn, who have been visiting in the city for some time, are spending a few weeks in Southampton, before leaving for Vancouver, B. C., where Mr. Cleghorn has accepted a position. Miss Helen will be greatly missed in musical as well as social circles, possessing a fine soprano voice, she was often heard to advantage in oratorio and choir anthems where she took the solo part as a member of the Grace Church choir.

On Thursday the Brantford golf team motored over to Simcoe, where they played a match with the club of that town. Simcoe has recently wonderfully improved its course and has added an up-to-date club house. After the match the visitors were most delightfully entertained at a dinner presided over by the ladies of the club, this was followed by a jolly dance, which was thoroughly enjoyed by the Brantford men. The music was supplied by a three piece orchestra and the floor was excellent. Altogether the outing was one of the most delightful of the golfing season.

Mrs. Heasley of Church street, is visiting friends in Grimsby.

Capt. Hicks is in the city for the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Hiscox and daughter, Islay, left yesterday for a few weeks' visit with Mrs. Wm. Hiscox in her summer home on Lake Scugog.

An event which will be of interest to many Brantford friends is the Red Cross garden party at picturesque Niagara. Mrs. Charles Nelles gave her lovely home "Oaklands" for the occasion, and the garden party was held under the auspices of Colonel Ryerson, who has but recently returned from England. Motors and vans, gaily decorated, and run by the livermen of Niagara-on-the-Lake, took the guests out to Mrs. Nelles' home. Mrs. Percy Nelles, Miss Elizabeth Hubbard and the Misses Dorothy and Evelyn Walker were stationed at the gate and asked only the very nominal charge of ten cents for entrance into "Elysium."

Inside the spacious grounds many opportunities were offered the guests of contributing to the Red Cross Fund. Home made cookery, of every sort, flowers sprays of the famous Niagara roses, patriotic buttons and wonderful paper aeroplanes were sold by charming vendors in artistic summer costumes.

The billiard room was temporarily converted into a bowler's and cricketer's rambler roses, in dark blue vases, forming a fitting background for the Red Cross girls in white with the Society's badge on breast and veil, who dispensed afternoon tea to the merry guests.

Mrs. Congdon, (wife of the Governor of the Yukon) assisted by Mrs. Lansing, presided over the tea room and very charming hostesses they were, too.

On the lawn the bandmen played all afternoon and evening. Miss Gillis was in charge of the table dispensing refreshments to them on the lawn in front of the house. Mrs. Davis told fortunes in the drawing room. Many representative people from Toronto, Hamilton, St. Catharines and elsewhere, were present, including many of the officers from the Niagara camp. The weather was fine and the garden party was a great success.

Mrs. Hazelton then spoke on the subject "My Top Dresser Drawer" and drew many interesting thoughts from it, which many of her audience will not soon forget. Miss Hilda Hurley gave a solo, then the meeting closed with the singing of the national anthem.

Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess and all spent a very profitable and happy afternoon on the pretty lawn.

The funeral of Miss Rose O'Grady took place this morning from her late residence, 178 Albion street to St. Basil's church, thence to St. Joseph's cemetery. Requiem High Mass was sung by Rev. Father Doyle, who also conducted the services at the grave. The pall bearers were Messrs T. O'Grady, J. O'Grady, J. McQuinn, G. Couch, L. Seveigney, C. Quillie.

The numerous amount of mass cards testified to the high esteem in which the deceased was held. The following sent mass cards: Mr. and Mrs. G. Couch, Mr. and Mrs. S. McQuinn, Mr. and Mrs. B. Ward, Mr. and Mrs. F. Cassidy, Mrs. Miss M. Collins, Mr. and Mrs. W. Catmore, Mr. and Mrs. J. Dunn, Ingersoll, Misses K. and M. O'Grady, Mrs. C. O'Grady, Mrs. W. H. RICHARDSON - DAVIS
The wedding of William Richardson and Elizabeth Davis, two young people from overseas, took place in their new home at 3 Brighton Place last night. The marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. P. Kelly in the presence of about fifty guests. After the marriage service the guests partook of a very dainty wedding breakfast.

The young couple were in receipt of many handsome presents, among them being a Morris chair, the gift of the members of the Thistle Football team, of which club the groom is a member.

The presentation was made on behalf of the club by President B. T. Anderson and Captain S. Harrington. A jolly good old country dance was given the guests who tripped the light fantastic until the wee sma' hours of the morning.

MARKET IS OPEN

By Special Wire to The Courier.
Milan, via Paris, July 17.—Commenting upon the Austrian note to the United States protesting against the shipment of war munitions to the entente allies, The Corriere Della Sera points out that America never has refused to supply arms and munitions to the central empires, but that Germany and Austria are unable to obtain them from that country because of the superior naval power of the allies. "The American market is open to all," says the paper. "If the government were to close it to the allies it would commit a violation of neutrality in favor of the central empires."

"You Can't Afford To Do Laundry Work in Your Home!"

A strong statement, perhaps -- but stop and figure it out for yourself. Just total the cost of preparing for the wash, the heating of water, washing materials, time and labor, wear and tear on clothing. WEAR and TEAR form a big part of the cost, for few homes have washing machines that do not harm the clothing. In most homes the old-fashioned washboard is still the big "rub" on wash day. Then use the

for this week's washing. This week do away with the usual fuss and muss of wash day and instead of being tired by a heavy washing and ironing, have the expert laundry workers at the Brantford Laundry do your work.

The modern methods used at the Brantford Laundry will save in wear and tear more than you actually spend for the laundry work -- you'll save the time and labor usually spent in washing and ironing, and you'll not have the worry of a "washing".

Now, phone 274, have a "White Wagon" call at your home and prove our statement. "You can't afford to do Laundry work at home".

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST LAND REGULATIONS.

THE sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. Applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at any Dominion Lands Agency (but not Sub-Agency), on certain conditions.

Duties—Six months residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required except where residence is performed in the vicinity.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre.

Duties—Six months residence in each of three years after earning homestead patent; also 50 acres extra cultivation. Pre-emption patent may be obtained as soon as homestead patent, on certain conditions.

A settler who has exhausted his homestead right may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.

The area of cultivation is subject to reduction in case of rough, scrubby or stony land. Live stock may be substituted for cultivation under certain conditions.

W. W. CORY, C.M.G.,
Deputy of the Minister of the Interior.

THE SITUATION

The French troops have stopped the German drive in the Argonne. Under the Crown Prince the Kaiser's armies in great strength have been making a tremendous struggle there since June 20th. The use of poisonous gases, enabled them to make a few inroads on their opponents, but these positions for the most part, have been retaken and the line in that region still holds with nothing of advantage to be claimed by Berlin.

In the Eastern theatre the story remains as it has been for some weeks. The Russians admit the loss of more ground and Germany officially announces that the troops of the Kaiser are "fighting victoriously." Just how much of triumph there is in that will be variously regarded. For their part Grand Duke Nicholas and his associates claim that they are not at all concerned about holding this, that, or the other point, but have mainly in view wearing out tactics with the foe.

Speaking generally, with the first year of hostilities now nearing an end, it may be safely said that the Allies approach the second twelve months in better and more determined shape than at any period hitherto. As for the German submarines, although they have secured a large sized bag, the claim that they could cut John Bull off from his food supplies has proved to be an absolute failure. In like manner airship raids cannot be said up to date to have achieved anything remarkable.

MANITOBA ELECTION

Mr. Norris, the new Liberal leader in Manitoba, and his associates have elected upon a general Provincial election to take place on August 6th. They have taken this step during war times because they think the circumstances warrant such a course. As to that it would equally have been a warranty for the Borden government to go to the people for the reason that the Opposition, by an amendment to the war budget, had practically proposed a vote of want of confidence in the Administration, but there is no need to dwell upon that just now.

Recent disclosures in the Prairie Province, with reference to the Roblin Government, have shown a rather condition of affairs, and there have been serious counter charges against the Liberals. The whole spectacle has been as nauseating as that which disgraced Ontario some years ago, and from which this Province luckily emerged under the late Sir James Whitney.

The Conservative rank and file in Manitoba have taken prompt and commendable action. They have ousted the old crowd and have chosen Sir James Aikins, M.P., as their leader. Sir James is a lawyer of prominence, in fact, President of the Canadian Bar Association, and his whole life record has been one of high personal integrity and staunch Imperialism. In the Dominion election contest of 1911, he was elected for Brandon by the comfortable majority of 866, and his experience at Ottawa has helped to enlarge his attributes from an administrative standpoint.

The party goes into the fray with a clear cut and comprehensive program, one which cannot fail to appeal to the sense of good citizens, and with the class of candidates whom it has been decided to entrust with the standard, should make a good showing at the polls.

WAR AND PRICES.

The prevalence of war during a considerable part of the year 1914 lends a special interest to the report on prices just issued by the Department of Labor. The chief increases for the year as a whole appeared in the groups Grains and Fodder, which rose 14 per cent.; Animals and Meats, 6 per cent.; Woolens, 8 per cent.; Hides, 10 per cent.; Drugs and Chemicals, 7 per cent.; Raw Furs declined, 33 per cent.; Fuel and Lighting, 6 per cent.; and Cottons, 5 per cent. Food prices returned to the high levels that prevailed in the latter part of 1911 and early 1912. Meats were on a high level throughout the year, but showed much weakness in the last three months." An appendix to the report gives the average retail prices of some thirty-two articles of food and of coal, wood and coal oil, and the rent of a representative workingman's dwelling in each of the localities of the Dominion having a population of 10,000 and over for each year back to 1910. A statement showing the average weekly expenditure of a typical family of five on these staple commodities gives the cost of a budget of food at $7.73 as compared with $7.33 in 1913 and 1912; $7.13 in 1911 and $6.95 in 1910. Meat, bread and flour and sugar averaged higher in 1914 than in 1913. Rent averaged $4.65 per week as compared with $4.75 in 1913; $4.60 in 1912 and $4.05 in 1911 and 1910.

NOTES AND COMMENTS. The Allies have been capturing more Turk positions. They are getting there all by ell up the Dardanelles.

In the Old Land, Sir Robert Borden is being made the recipient of all the honors which can be showered on him and he has earned every one of them.

A despatch makes the statement that because of signs of popular unrest martial law is likely to be declared in Germany. Within the next few months the people there will commence to feel the war pinch to an extent which will make them wince.

The need of universal military service for men in Canada was fully discussed by Magistrate Kingsford of Toronto, in a recent speech on behalf of the Canadian Defence League. His address showed by a discussion of the German character viewed in the light of history, that force alone will be able to destroy German barbarism, and in this destruction Canada must continue to do her part. From the lesson learned in Belgium, the danger to Canada in the event of Germany triumphing was pointed out, and with it the futility of trusting to the United States for protection against the German enemy.

FOOD THIRTY-FIVE PER CENT DEARER

By Special Wire to the Courier.

London, July 17.—Statistics compiled by the Board of Trade labor gazette show that food in general is about thirty five per cent. dearer than a year ago in the large towns of England and thirty per cent. higher in the small towns and villages. The Gazette quotes official German reports for May to show that the general level of food prices in Berlin during that month were sixty nine percent above that of May, 1914. No general average estimate is given for Vienna, but taking individual items, beef was 105 per cent. more in April than in the same month in 1914, bacon 152 per cent. dearer; eggs 157 per cent., bread 83 per cent, lard 161 per cent., and so on.

LLOYD GEORGE WARNED BY MORNING POST

By Special Wire to the Courier.

London, July 17.—The Morning Post discussing the Haldane-Lloyd George dispute, says: "It is a distressing and deplorable fact that with a fine army and a fine navy fighting and dying for their country, without a thought of self, our politicians should be still thinking of their reputations for an infallibility they never possessed. "Now that we are in the midst of war, Lloyd George is doing his best to relieve the position and putting his fiery energy for the first time at the service of the whole nation, but let him cut himself wholly away from those personal quarrels and petty intrigues which only deflect him and the country in the proper business of the hour."

"We do not blame Mr. Lloyd George alone for this situation. His personality is being skillfully used to an extent which he does not perhaps realize, by the sentimental genius who presides over the Harmsworth press. Lord Northcliffe has certain feuds of his own, of which the country has sense enough with which to disapprove. This poor nation has gone far astray in its search after a democratic government, but it has not yet reached that bottomless pit, the circle of democracy, where lie the nations which are governed by the yellow press. Therefore Lord Northcliffe will not succeed in his intrigues and Mr. Lloyd George should be warned by his friends not to allow himself to be made a party to them, and it should also be made clear to Mr. Lloyd George, in case of present or future misunderstanding, that there is to be any change in prime ministers, the choice of the successor would lie with the nation and not with the Harmsworth press."

"Therefore we hope that there will be an end of these cabals and that the coalition will firmly set behind these personal matters and work together in the service of the country for the politicians may be warned that there is serious trouble ahead for them and the system of government they represent as well as for the country. It may be that they are having their last chance, and certainly democracy is on its trial."

Capt. John Munro of Southampton, a veteran Great Lakes sailor, was drowned while trolling for trout; he was seventy-three years of age.

PURE, RICH BLOOD MADE BY HOOD'S

Pure blood enables the stomach, liver and other digestive organs to do their work properly. Without it they are sluggish, there is loss of appetite, sometimes faintness, a deformed, sometimes the intestines, and, in general, all the symptoms of dyspepsia.

MR. DONAR LAW GIVES ADDRESS ON IMPERIALISM TO BOYS OF CANTERBURY

The Boast Should be "He Loved Duty So He Died For It," He Tells His Young Hearers.

Rt. Hon. Andrew Bonar Law, in an address to the boys of Shrewsbury on June 19, made a stirring appeal for national duty during the war, saying: "We are living in the midst, as I think, of the greatest convulsion which has ever been wrought upon the earth by man of man."

VERDICT

(Continued from Page 1) Turner was fully advised by the British admiralty as to the best course to follow and added in some respects he did not follow these out. The court pointed out, however, that the admiral's instructions were not intended to prevent Captain Turner from exercising his individual judgment and that his failure to follow the admiral's advice to the letter was no reason for blame.

The retention of the Lusitania's speed from 24 1/2 to 21 knots still left the vessel faster than any other boat on the Atlantic, said Baron Mersey, and he found there was no reason to blame the Cunard Company for this economy during war times.

Relative to the admiralty instructions, the court said this phase of the inquiry was in camera and that it would be contrary to public interest to discuss it.

London, July 17, 10.54 a.m.—"Torpedoes fired by a submarine of German nationality," caused the loss of the steamship Lusitania, and its passengers according to the findings of the court of inquiry, appointed to investigate the disaster. The court held that no blame for the tragedy attached either to Captain Turner, commander of the vessel, or the Cunard Line, the owner.

"After having carefully inquired into the circumstances of the disaster," says the formal report of the court, "the court finds the loss of the said ship and lives were due to damage caused by the torpedoes fired by a submarine of German nationality."

FINANCE

(Continued from Page 1) ask them of anyone capable of seriously examining a financial situation, how it will be possible to pay the debts contracted or the interest on the loans, and at the same time keep up the costly armies and fleets as in the past years.

"OPEN PEOPLE'S EYES. The carnage of which we are witnesses may reasonably be expected to draw the eyes of the people to their real interests. But considering only the practicable side of the question, whether it will be easier after the war than before to limit armaments, it seems to me it will."

"This war has demonstrated above all the supremely important role of cannon, rifles, shells and explosives. On the other side of the Atlantic you know it better than anyone. You know that shells and cannon cannot be improvised over night months are necessary."

"Formerly, to partizans of the limitation of armaments was cited the ability of man to get around the prescription of that sort of conduct. It is far below the level of our countrymen, if it were not true—if they believe that, then I am sure that whatever our mistakes, however great our shortcomings, our countrymen in the House and out of it will do their best to help us."

"But the responsibility is not that of the Government alone; it is a responsibility of the nation as a whole. We are fighting an enemy who has shown that he is not only a nation organized for war; and if we are to win in this struggle—and it will not be easy, but we shall do it—if we are to win we cannot afford to give him any advantage, not merely as an army or a navy, but as a nation."

"A great deal has been said and written about national organization. It is easy to talk about it. The idea which springs to our minds is that the State should become personified, that it should touch a man or a woman on the shoulder and say: "That is your job, you have got to do it."

"It is very attractive but it is not so easy to work out. It is the principle upon which the little republic of this school is carried out. The headmaster is the State. He tells you what you have got to do and makes you do it. But unless you are wiser than I was when I was your age, you cannot doubt both the wisdom and the justice of the providence which rules over you."

THE DUTY OF THE NATION. It is not so easy in the case of the nation. The organization which will interfere a little as possible with the ordinary habits and customs of our duties, but interferes where interference is necessary. It is the duty of the nation, also, which in my belief, is not successful with us unless it appears right and just, not merely to the majority of the nation as a whole, but to the majority of the particular classes who are affected by it.

It is my belief that as a nation we now realize so clearly the task that lies before us that we are ready to accept this principle.

At a time like this in her hour of danger our country has a right to call upon every one of us to take all we have, all we can do, all we can place at the disposal of the country in her need.

I believe we are ready to accept that principle, and to see it carried out fairly by all classes and sections of the people alike. It is not necessary, however, that it is necessary. It is not so secret that next week Parliament will be asked to sanction a step in the direction—and a big step, I think—of organization for the production of munitions. I think that both Parliament and the country will give its sanction, and that those affected will themselves welcome it for they realize that the producing of munitions is not only as necessary, perhaps more necessary, than men to end this war, but that proper production means the lessening of suffering and the saving of the lives of those who are fighting our battles.

That is a horrible thing at the best, and this is one of the most horrible wars I have ever read of, but it brings out what is best as well as what is worst in human nature.

A NEW OUTLOOK

I think the whole outlook of our people is affected already by the war, and we get a glimpse of what the war is over. Before the war there were many who looked with envy and with a certain contempt also, upon those whom they described as "the idle rich." Their views, I think, have changed.

"They know this at least, that whatever the defects of those classes, there is no lack among them of courage or patriotism. I think they have given a full measure of their best to the service of the country. There is hardly a home of that kind throughout our land, hardly one from which some are not serving at the front, and few, very few, where some have not paid their last debt of duty to their country by dying for her."

I have heard it said: "There is no use in appealing to the higher motives of the working classes; touch their pockets and you will get their support." I never said it myself, I never believed it. But we know better now.

"We know that they, like every other class, have come forward without counting the numbers which are almost incredible, and have shown their readiness not only to risk and give up their lives in the service of their country, but to sacrifice the well being of the families they left behind, to the service of the country. It will make a difference in the lives of our countrymen hereafter."

Almost every day deeds of valor are being done—of which only now and then we get a glimpse—which rival the best of the deeds in the annals of Greece and Rome. This is happening all the time, and here in your daily life nothing is going on as usual. Neither business nor anything should go on as usual at a time like this. The war is putting its mark, a deep mark, upon every one of us which will remain there as long as we live.

There is nothing to my mind, so tragic as the number of young lives which are being lost in this conflict, and there is nothing more heroic than the way in which young fellows, little more than schoolboys, have everywhere played the part of men in our hour of need.

Many of you have brothers who are serving who are preparing to serve. Some of you, perhaps, have brothers whom you will not see again. Every one of you I fancy has before his mind to-day the familiar figure of a comrade who only a short time ago did his work in this school and whose body is now buried on a foreign shore.

As he left to you and his country the memory of a glorious work which he did for her. Of these and thousands like them, we can truly say, "They loved the name of honor more than they feared death."

To love honor is splendid, but there is perhaps something higher. Those who are listening to me may be thinking as I am thinking, of someone, just a schoolboy in years, who liked his work, who did not wish to change it, and who joined his Majesty's forces, not from any spirit of adventure, but because he thought he ought to join.

There are many such, and to them we can pay no higher tribute than in the words of Shakespeare, "They loved duty more than they feared death."

AUSTRIAN HER DREAMS CAME TRUE

(Continued from Page 1) have been interpreted at an earlier stage of events as a confession of weakness, as an appeal for help in distress. To-day when a rich harvest is being garnered throughout the monarchy, when talk of starving out Austria-Hungary therefore is rendered idle, when complaints of shortages of ammunition are heard everywhere else except in the allied central monarchies, there cannot be the slightest question of this.

THOUGHTFUL. "On the other hand it might be asked why this note under these conditions was issued at all. With nothing to check the victorious progress of the central powers in sight, with their ability to meet pressure in the economic field demonstrated, it might well be thought it is a matter of indifference to them whether America continues her policy or not. That however, is not the case. The problems of international law which this war has brought up are of far-reaching importance. The solutions reached will be standards of action for decades to come."

CONSIDERATION. A neighbor advised me to try 'Fruit-atives'. I did so and to the surprise of my doctor, I began to improve and he advised me to go on with 'Fruit-atives'. I continued this medicine and all my Indigestion and Constipation was relieved. I consider that I owe my life to 'Fruit-atives' and I want to say to those who suffer from Indigestion, Constipation or Headaches, try 'Fruit-atives'. Give this lovely fruit medicine a fair chance and you will get well the same as I did."

ANNOUNCEMENT MADE. By Special Wire to the Courier. Rome, July 16, via Paris, July 17.—Official announcement was made to-day that King Victor Emmanuel had signed a decree appointing Signor Barzilai, a member of the House of Deputies, a member of the cabinet minister without portfolio. The oath was administered to the new minister at the front in presence of Premier Salandra, who went to the King's headquarters to request that the decree be signed.

A Rome despatch received in Paris a few days ago stated that Signor Barzilai would be appointed civil governor of Austrian territory occupied by the Italians.

GAINING NORMALLY. London, July 17.—A despatch to Reuters' Telegram Company from Athens, says that at a consultation of the palace physicians decided that the convalescence of King Constantine was progressing normally. The king was removed Friday morning to Dehli. He was accompanied by the queen and his personal physician.

St. George Paish says that the nation's loyalty was reflected in the great reception accorded the war loan.

Members of the Sinn Fein organization were ordered by the British Government to leave Ireland.

DR. CASSELL'S TABLETS

Suffering Little Ones cured by Dr. Cassell's Tablets. Five months-old Infant who weighed only 7 lbs. So thin his Mother Shuddered to undress him. Never believed he could live. But now bright and well Cured absolutely by DR. CASSELL'S TABLETS.

Here is matter to interest every mother throughout this great Dominion: the frank, grateful testimony of other mothers who have proved Dr. Cassell's Tablets a real help in winning back health for their suffering little ones. And the cases are not in any way exceptional; they show just such splendid results as any mother may expect from systematic use of this valuable medicine. Dr. Cassell's Tablets have proved their worth in Great Britain, where their sale is the largest of its class, and in the British Colonies the seas their reputation is advancing rapidly.

Now read what a happy mother has to say of Dr. Cassell's Tablets. She is Mrs. Fern, of 22, Berborough-road, Eastleigh, Hants, England, and her story is as given to an interviewer. She said: "When I think of all that Dr. Cassell's Tablets have done for my little baby I can't bless the day I heard of them. I am convinced they saved my child's life."

"My little Harold was a fine baby when born, but soon he began to sulk, and a few weeks old I had to have advice. For four months baby was under treatment, but no good came of it. I am glad to say, it was so painful to see him, he was so apathetic. His little bones stood out all over his body. I could easily count the joints in his backbone, his shoulders were hollowed in like pits, and his cheek-bones stood up like ridges. It made me shudder to undress him, he was such a frail little skeleton of a baby. He could not keep anything on power to move has been lost. Particularly is this so in the case of children; and numbers of them have been effected, and are constantly being effected, both here in Canada as well as other parts of Empire. Mrs. Parley of Chapel Hill, Braintree, Essex, England, said: "Baby was only about a year old when she began to lose the use of her limbs, and soon became quite helpless. Of course, we were very much alarmed, and when we were told the child would not be able to walk for years, we most lost hope. We had the best treatment we could find for her, but nothing seemed to help the child at all. Indeed, instead of getting better she just wasted away till she was a mere frame. She hardly ate anything, and was so weak and ill that it could not seem possible she could recover. "Then we gave her Dr. Cassell's Tablets. The first effect of the Tablets was that the baby got sound, natural sleep. Then she improved in general health, and gradually power returned to her, until baby got stronger and stronger, more plump, till now she is quite cured."

BRITAIN'S GREATEST REMEDY. Popularity now World-wide. It cures like the above, the genuine case of which has been thoroughly investigated, that have made Dr. Cassell's Tablets one of the most talked of remedies of modern times. Their entire safety and their suitability for young and old alike, and their peculiar efficacy have ensured a high reputation throughout the world. Test their reliability as a remedy if you suffer from Nervous Breakdown, Nerve Failure, Irritable Weakness, Neurasthenia, Sleeplessness, Anemia, Kidney Trouble, Dyspepsia, Stomach Disorder, Wasting, Pains, and they are especially valuable for nursing mothers and ailing approaching womanhood. All druggists sell Dr. Cassell's Tablets at 50 cents. People in outlying districts should keep Dr. Cassell's Tablets by them in case of emergency. A Free Sample will be sent on receipt of 50 cents for mailing and packing, by the Sole Agents for Canada, H. E. Ridsdale & Co., Ltd., 110, McCaul Street, Toronto, Ont.

SIGNIFICANT FEATURE

Last night the stentorian tones of "Tipperary" were to be heard over the market square, and then other patriotic airs of Britain, as the "Drags" held a canteen concert in their big marquee. The scene was a peculiar one, and the fact that a city square holds a tent for the accommodation of soldiers is a significant feature of the times.

FRUIT WASTAGE.

By Special Wire to the Courier. St. Catharines, Ont., July 17.—While the Canadian Club of Hamilton has shown a commendable spirit in organizing to prevent the waste of fruit in the Niagara peninsula this season, it would be wrong to let the impression get abroad that such a waste is at all likely. Waste in the past is a well-known and regrettable fact, but it was to put an end to such waste that the fruit growers organized the publicity campaign, which they are conducting. By keeping the public notified regarding fruit conditions and seeking new markets, they have every reason to believe that this year, they will be able to dispose of all their fruit of every kind. As a result of their campaign, strawberries were marketed to advantage and without waste and currants, cherries and raspberries are moving satisfactorily. Instead of getting fruit cheaper because it is likely to waste, the real danger will be that some housewives may be disappointed in getting fruit at all if they wait for lower prices due to an over supply.

HAMILTON CLERKS ARE EXCITED

Hamilton, July 17.—There has not been so much excitement around the City Hall as there is just now since the famous Walters investigation of a year ago. Works Department officials have been busy weeding out the single men in the 1,000 employees on outdoor work, and discharging them as a hint that the Empire needs them. Ald. George Halcrow, representing the Independent Labour party, will not stand for making fish of one and flesh of another, and demands that single clerks be discharged as well as single laborers, and the Independent Labour Party is influential in Hamilton. To-day it was declared that some of the Aldermen want single firemen and policemen discharged. The city officials hold that single men have no excuse for being out of the army if they have no work, and that the provision for work for married men will save the city charity account this winter. No single men will be given charity unless a doctor says they are unfit for the military forces.

BRANT DRAGOONS SIGNED NINE MORE MEN UP

Total Enlisted is Now Sixty-Nine and it Will Increase.

To-morrow morning the recruits of the Brant Dragoons parade to St. Jude's church where they will be addressed by the Rev. Mr. Woodcock. This will be the first dress parade the men have had, and they are looking forward to it with much pleasure. Nine more men joined yesterday and the total is now 69, and will be probably 75 by to-night. Among the men joined is one New Zealander and two men who have served in the American army in Mexico. IGNATIUS McLAUGHLIN, Paris, 19 years old, single, English. HARRY HERMAN, Paris, 19 years old, single, English. FRANCIS BAILEY, 94 Arthur street, 23 years old, married, English, 1 year Dublin Fusiliers. W. J. ALLEN, 142 Arthur street, 24 years old, single, New Zealander. The service this morning was conducted by the Rev. Mr. Kelly and was bright and inspirational.

COMMANDEER OF 35TH LOSES BOTH OF HIS FEET

Barrie, July 17.—While attempting to board the 8 o'clock train at Barrie station yesterday morning, Lieut.-Col. Fred Sneath slipped and fell beneath the wheels, and had both legs severed just above the ankles. Lieut.-Col. Sneath is commanding officer of the 35th Regiment, and was leaving for camp at Niagara on business in connection with his military duties. His condition is critical. Two weeks ago he was injured in an auto accident and was leaving for Niagara to undergo X-ray treatment, when the accident occurred. Col. Sneath was born in this vicinity and joined the 35th as a private in No. 5 Company, passing through the various ranks until he attained the command three years ago. He is considered one of the most capable soldiers in Ontario, and since the outbreak of hostilities has done splendid service in providing men for overseas and in keeping the regiment up to strength. The officers of the 35th, in order of seniority are: D. M. Grant, of Huntsville; Majors D. H. Maclaren and Alex. Cowan of Barrie, and Capt. McLean of Collingwood. Niagara-on-the-Lake, Ont., July 17.—Lieut.-Col. Sneath of Barrie, who lost both feet in an accident at the Barrie railway station yesterday, was on his way to this camp to undergo an examination by a medical board to determine the extent of his physical fitness after an accident which he suffered a few days ago. Col. Sneath is commander of the 35th Simcoe Foresters. Ten years ago he was badly injured in a runaway. He was out on military service near Barrie a short time ago when he injured his knee in an automobile accident. His injuries had almost healed, and he had arranged to be examined to-day in an effort to get back into service again. Bad luck overtook him before he could board the train. Officers here regret his misfortune in the extreme.

Winnipeg, July 17.—The Manitoba elections are to take place on August 1st, July 30 will be nomination day. This announcement was made officially last night.

Policies to Which the Conservative Party Stands Pledged.

Winnipeg, July 17.—The policies to which the Conservative party in Manitoba, under the leadership of Sir James and his executive staff, stand pledged for: Total prohibition, so far as is possible under Provincial powers, by the re-enactment of Hugh John Macdonald's act of 1900, with no provisions for referendum or repeal. The repeal of the Caldwell amendments to the public schools act. Woman suffrage.

A broad educational policy upon the principle of promoting efficiency and the practical of an adequate elementary education for every child, irrespective of race or creed, a thorough knowledge of English, the furthering of agricultural education and adequate assistance for the University of Manitoba. The appointment of an Auditor-General, who may be dismissed only upon a two-thirds vote of the Legislature, to open all tenders in public, to investigate and certify to all payments and to have power to summon and examine persons under oath. The total elimination of spoils in the civil service, and appointments to and promotions in that service to be on merit and efficiency alone. The strict enforcement of the election laws. Aggressive and progressive agricultural policy. The appointment of a producers' agent at the Union Stock Yards, to advise as to market conditions, prospective prices, days in transit, excessive charges, etc. A more practical system for the destruction of noxious weeds and pests. A better and more adequate system on compiling crop statistics. The construction and operation of public abattoirs. The furthering of co-operative movements and to have power to establish the establishment of a "co-operative bureau."

RELEASED AT NOON

By Special Wire to the Courier. EMPRESS CONSENTS

By Special Wire to the Courier. New York, July 17.—The American Bible Society announced to-day that the Empress of Russia has consented to the distribution among 1,000,000 soldiers of the Russian army of copies of bible contributed by children of the American Sunday schools. The empress has approved the text of an inscription to be placed on each volume stating that the book was the gift of an American Sunday School pupil. The Provincial License Commission has decided to further investigate the conduct of the hotels charged with selling liquor to minors.

Lodge Notes

Royal Templars of Temperance, Brantford Council No. 24 met on Thursday night with an enthusiastic attendance for a July night, which is very encouraging to the officers. Three more candidates declared themselves hostile to the liquor traffic, adding their strength to ours to protect those who need the fraternal embrace of a Christian Temperance Society. Routine business being transacted, the temperance committee reported favorably relative to the fourth medal contest to be held in Marlboro street Epworth League on Monday night when the liquor traffic will receive another "Exposure." The special committee appointed last week to arrange for going to the Royal Templars picnic, reported that several members and friends intend going at the invitation of Bro. Arthur Patrick, Dis. Councilor of Hamilton, on Wednesday. Business concluded the members present were favored with a solo by sister Lizzie Hamilton, which called for so much applause that Miss Hamilton had to render the second solo which was also rendered with clear, sweet tone. EMPRESS CONSENTS

By Special Wire to the Courier. New York, July 17.—The American Bible Society announced to-day that the Empress of Russia has consented to the distribution among 1,000,000 soldiers of the Russian army of copies of bible contributed by children of the American Sunday schools. The empress has approved the text of an inscription to be placed on each volume stating that the book was the gift of an American Sunday School pupil. The Provincial License Commission has decided to further investigate the conduct of the hotels charged with selling liquor to minors.

BRANTFORD TEAM WINS IN THE TENTH INNINGS

WALKER HELD TECUMSEHS SAFE IN EVERY FRAME BUT FOURTH—BASE ON BALLS AND PASSED BALL RESPONSIBLE FOR TIED SCORE—DILLINGER ALLOWS BUT TWO HITS UNTIL NINTH.

London, July 17. Giving away ball games to their opponents on silver platters seems to be the regular routine at Tecumseh Park and yesterday was no exception to the rule, as instead of registering a 1 to 0 shut-out to Brantford, the Tecumsehs had to take a 3 to 1 lacing in 10 innings. LACROIX PASSED BALL Dillinger, who pitched for the locals, never stood on the mound with better effect than he did yesterday, and with the score 1 to 0 in London's favor, he had every appearance of winning his game. However, he issued a base on balls to Mullin in the fifth inning and two infield outs put the former Londoner on third base. Walker, who did remarkably well as a pitcher for Brantford, was at bat, and despite the fact that he struck out Mullin, scored. It happened in this way: While Dillinger was buzzing them over to Walker, Lacroix forgot to change his glove, and one of Dillinger's shoos rolled far enough away to enable Mike to score from third, then Walker struck out on the next ball pitched. Lacroix, however, changed his glove before he went in behind the bat again. Lamy could be heard saying from the outfield: "Why didn't you do that before," in a joking way. TWO HITS IN NINE INNINGS Only two hits were secured off Dillinger during the whole nine innings, and one of these was a scratch hit to Whitcraft, which Mullin beat out in the seventh; the other hit was secured by Fried in the third, it going to Eckstein.

REIDY'S REMARKABLE CATCH

Both teams fielded errorlessly, but for Lacroix's two passed balls and Cooper's short one, which allowed O'Brien to go to third, Reidy's catch of Dunn's fly in the first inning was one of the best catches seen at Tecumseh Park in many years. He slid face down to get under the fast dropping ball, and just managed to grab it with one hand before it reached the ground.

Ford, Inventor of Emery Ball Released. Buffalo, July 17.—Russell Ford has been given his unconditional release by the Buffalo (Federal league) club. This announcement was made by President William E. Robertson last night.

"Ford has won but two games for us this season and we could not afford to carry him any longer at the salary he was getting," said Mr. Robertson. "Since those in power took away his emery ball Ford has lost his power to win games and has been relying on his knowledge of the batters' weaknesses and his ability to fool them with a slow ball, but they have just leaped back and whacked it all over the lot. Those at Monday's game saw a sample of his work."

"We had intended keeping quiet about his release until the pitcher could find another place in the league, but as he told all of the players himself and as his release became common talk we thought it time to make an official announcement in his case. Ford's contract carried a ten-day clause in it so that he has a few days to remain among the Buffeds."

Will Knotty Lee Lose Tommy Grieve?

Guelph, July 17.—Tommy Gieves had one chance at the "big stuff." In 1913 Tommy signed up as a "green one" with Hamilton. Knotty Lee was manager of the Tigers that year, and disposed of Gieves to the Philadelphia Athletics at a price that was of material advantage to the Hamilton management. The big league stuff was too much for Tommy as a starter and he fell off in his hitting. He has not got his batting eye back now and is very seldom indeed, that he doesn't get a hit or two in a game. Tommy is without a doubt the best fielding second sacker in the league. At the present time he is going like a house afire. In the last seventeen games he has played in he has had over a hundred chances and he has accepted them all. Tommy tries for everything too. A scout from the Cincinnati Reds saw him work out at St. Thomas the last two days, and there is every chance that Tommy

CIRCUIT CLIPPINGS

HAMS NEAR TOP

Hamilton Spectator.—The Saints' double victory yesterday brought the Hams within one game of the top of the heap and there is a good chance of the locals being in front before the week ends. Hamilton must take at least three out of five from the Saints in order to keep within striking distance of the top, and there appears to be no reason why the trick cannot be turned.

Hint has been released by Guelph again, and may catch a place with London. Guelph has secured Schaffer, formerly with the London team, and will play him in the outfield. It is hard to understand why London allowed Schaffer to go, as he was playing better ball for the Chippers than some of the men they have now.

Dillinger, the London pitcher, suffered great pain while warming up yesterday before the game, making it impossible for him to take his turn in the box, so Caesar worked in his first victory. Dillinger expects to pay a visit to Bonsetter Reese of Youngstown, Ohio, shortly.

Guelph Mercury.—Johnny Harkins, the Leafs' star catcher, is slated for higher company. The secretary of the Guelph ball club has received a letter from the manager of an International league club to the effect that he is sending on a scout to look Johnny over next week in the London series here.

Lip in Guelph the fans are getting nervous and fear that the Leafs will not be in the race long, according to the following from a Guelph paper: Knotty Lee apparently has the mistaken idea firmly planted in his "nut" that the main thing is to cut down expenses. As a result, Knotty has been playing Dorbeck in the field. Tony is a pitcher and not a fielder. On Monday he practically lost the game for the Leafs when he dropped a couple of flies. Tony is not to be blamed but he is for putting him in the garden. What he wants to do is to get busy and get an outfielder to play the position who can hit the ball. The other clubs are strengthening up and Guelph can't afford to cut down.

FRIED POPULAR

Ottawa Citizen: "It is strange how Eddie Fried plays such remarkably good ball against Ottawa here. He is hitting .309 and his fielding in the last couple of games has been unusually brilliant. Yesterday he robbed Lage, Roberts and Fuller of sure hits. In fact, he and Warner were entirely responsible for the defeat of the Senators yesterday. Fried would rather trim the Senators than get a call to the National league. This Brantford team, by the way, has proved a big stumbling block in the path of the Ottawas this season.

Premier Asquith's Fine Words to Members of the Nationalist Party on Coalition Parting

Hope Had Been That They Would Join With the Others But Nevertheless He Held Their Opinions in the Greatest Regard.

At the same sitting of the House, when he made his great war speech, replying to several enquiries and criticisms, Mr. Asquith made another interesting speech. He said:—

"I do not know that I am entitled to speak again, but I may do so with the indulgence of the House. I listened with much pleasure to almost the whole speech of my hon. friend (Mr. Dillon). It is perfectly true, as he has said—he has not put forward a claim in any way inconsistent with the facts—that the party of which he has been for so many years one of the most distinguished leaders and spokesmen in this House has from the beginning of the war heartily supported the efforts of the Government in whatever has been done to prosecute successfully the great cause which they feel to be as much theirs as we feel it to be. (Hear, hear.) He has referred to the fact that when for reasons which I have already given to the House, and which I do not propose to repeat or to elaborate, that when I thought it right to alter—from a personal and party point of view to widen—the basis of the Government, I offered an invitation to the Leader of the Irish Nationalist Party to become a member of the new Cabinet, and when for reasons which I quite well understood and appreciated that invitation was refused, I pressed him more than once to reconsider his decision. I regretted then, and I regret now, that he did not feel it consistent with his duty—I know that he has the whole-hearted support of his party in the course he took to accede to my request. I regret it, but when I use the expression "regret," it will be clearly understood that it does not convey even a shadow—I will not say reproach, but of misunderstanding (Hear, hear.) My hon. friend referred to the fact that there is included in the new Administration a representative, a distinguished representative, of another Irish Party. It is only fair to my right hon. colleague for such, I am glad to say now, the Attorney-General—that it should be known that when it was first suggested to him that he should join the new Administration he also refused, and it was only in consequence of a very strong pressure put upon him by those with whom he was more particularly associated, and in which I entirely concur, that he overcame his original reluctance and with, I believe, a single-minded sense of public duty determined to associate himself with us. (Hear, hear.) The absence of representatives of the Irish Nationalist Party is to my mind the only criticism which can be legitimately levelled against the comprehensive character of the new Administration. It is a criticism which, as my hon. friend has quite clearly explained to the House, cannot be directed against those who are responsible for the formation of the Government, and I myself, personally, would have gone to any length to secure their active cooperation within as well as outside the Government. That was impossible for reasons which are well known. But I am sure that the whole House and country will welcome the renewed assurance which the hon. member has given us here to-day that in all steps which the Government may take in the prosecution of this war to a successful conclusion we may count in the future, as we have been able to do in the past, on the hearty cooperation, support, and sympathy of those for whom he speaks and whom he represents. (Hear, hear.) My right hon. friend behind me, who initiated the discussion (Sir. H. Dalziel) used some very kindly expressions towards myself for which I heartily thank him. He deprecated, as he was entitled to do if he thought necessary, any suggestion that legitimate, patriotic, and friendly criticism on the policy of the Government, particularly on the administration of the war, should be discouraged or silenced in the House. I think that from the very first days of the war down to this moment, the House of Commons has set an example to this country and to legislative assemblies of the world by the large sympathetic and self-restrained manner in which it has been content to exercise its legitimate and constitutional functions. So far as the late Government is concerned, I can only say that I think I can repeat it on behalf of my present colleagues and friends on these benches, that we welcome criticism from everyone who sits in every quarter of the House. My hon. friend's experience we have had that the criticism will always be conducted in a responsible spirit, with patriotic motives and with a sole desire to aid and not to hamper the Government in the conduct of the war. (Hear, hear.) Therefore do not let it be supposed for a moment, whatever ill-considered expressions may escape the lips of this man or that, that there is any disposition on our part to check or misrepresent the purpose of any criticism which in this House may be applied to us.

My right hon. friend produced a somewhat formidable indictment consisting of a number of accounts against the late government for errors. I think more of omission than commission, which he suggested might easily be imputed to them, at any rate legitimately imputed to them, in regard to the past conduct of the war. He will forgive me if I do not on this occasion go into these matters in detail. He will allow me to say, and I say it quite deliberately, that I do not think those criticisms will stand the test of examination. There is not a single one of the points of omission or commission which he mentioned as having occurred in the last nine months which has not been the subject of the most anxious and continuous consideration on the part of the government. I am not claiming for those who are responsible that there have been no mistakes of judgment in the discharge of an abnormal, as onerous, and as complicated a task as has ever been thrown on the shoulders of any administration. There is no doubt there have been; but when the history of this war comes to be written, when the impartial tribunal which is supposed to preside over the writing of history—I am not at all sure that it is more accurate in its judgment or more infallible in its conclusions than are we the actual contemporaries, spectators and actors—when that impartial tribunal comes to apportion praise and blame, then will be the time when the particular points my right hon. friend raised, will be judicially weighed in the balance. (Laughter.) We shall all have to render our account. My right hon. friend referred to one or two matters perhaps a little more important in character. He quoted an observation which I made in a speech at Newcastle, I think very nearly two months ago, about the output of shells. There again I do not want to go to controversial ground, but it seems to have been forgotten that the object of my going to Newcastle was not to reassure the people, but to arouse them. It was my sole purpose to bring home, so far as I could, both to employers and workmen in that great manufacturing area the urgency of increasing our supply of munitions. I did incidentally—perhaps I proved an unskilled advocate judging from many of the criticisms I have seen I must have been one of the most maladroit advocates—it is quite true that I did incidentally make the observation which the right hon. gentleman quoted. I should not have made it unless I was sure I was making it on the highest and best authority, and, without going further into the matter now, I beg the House to believe—in fact, I am sure they do not believe without any assurance—that so far from that being an invention of my own, my statement was made on the highest authority possibly accessible to me, and I have no reason to doubt it in any respect. It was my duty to let us be diverted from what is really the important business of the hour by what, after all, refers to a more or less remote past.

The business we have got on our hands I hope we shall discharge more than the new Ministry of Munitions has been created under a colleague of mine whose ardour and enthusiasm and driving power the most ardent critics have never disputed. (Hear, hear.) Now that the new ministry has been formed, I think the country may be assured that the most urgent and vital question, the fullest organization of the productive powers of the country for the due equipment of our forces, will not be neglected—it never has been neglected—but will be pushed forward with all possible energy and despatch.

The other point in regard to which my right hon. friend asked for information, was the military and naval operations now going on in the Dardanelles.

I am perfectly sure that it is not in the public interest that I should enter at this moment either into an explanation of the past history of these operations or into a forecast of the immediate future. I ask the House to relieve me of the task of doing so, not because I would be in the least indisposed in due course to explain and justify what has been done or is being done, but because I do not think it is in the best interest of the country to enter into discussion at this moment. One thing, and one thing on-

Alexander the Great Israel's Kings

[SPECIAL DESPATCH FROM LONDON]

When one reads of the strength and wonderful resources of the Egyptian army, one is struck by the fact that the Egyptian army of Palestine and subjugated the try counted barely 5,000 men. It confronted the Philistines with an "army" of 800, which in time was increased to 1,000 "militarists" of those days. The authorities to provide a sort of "Landsturm" of brave and bold. King David's establishment did not exist.

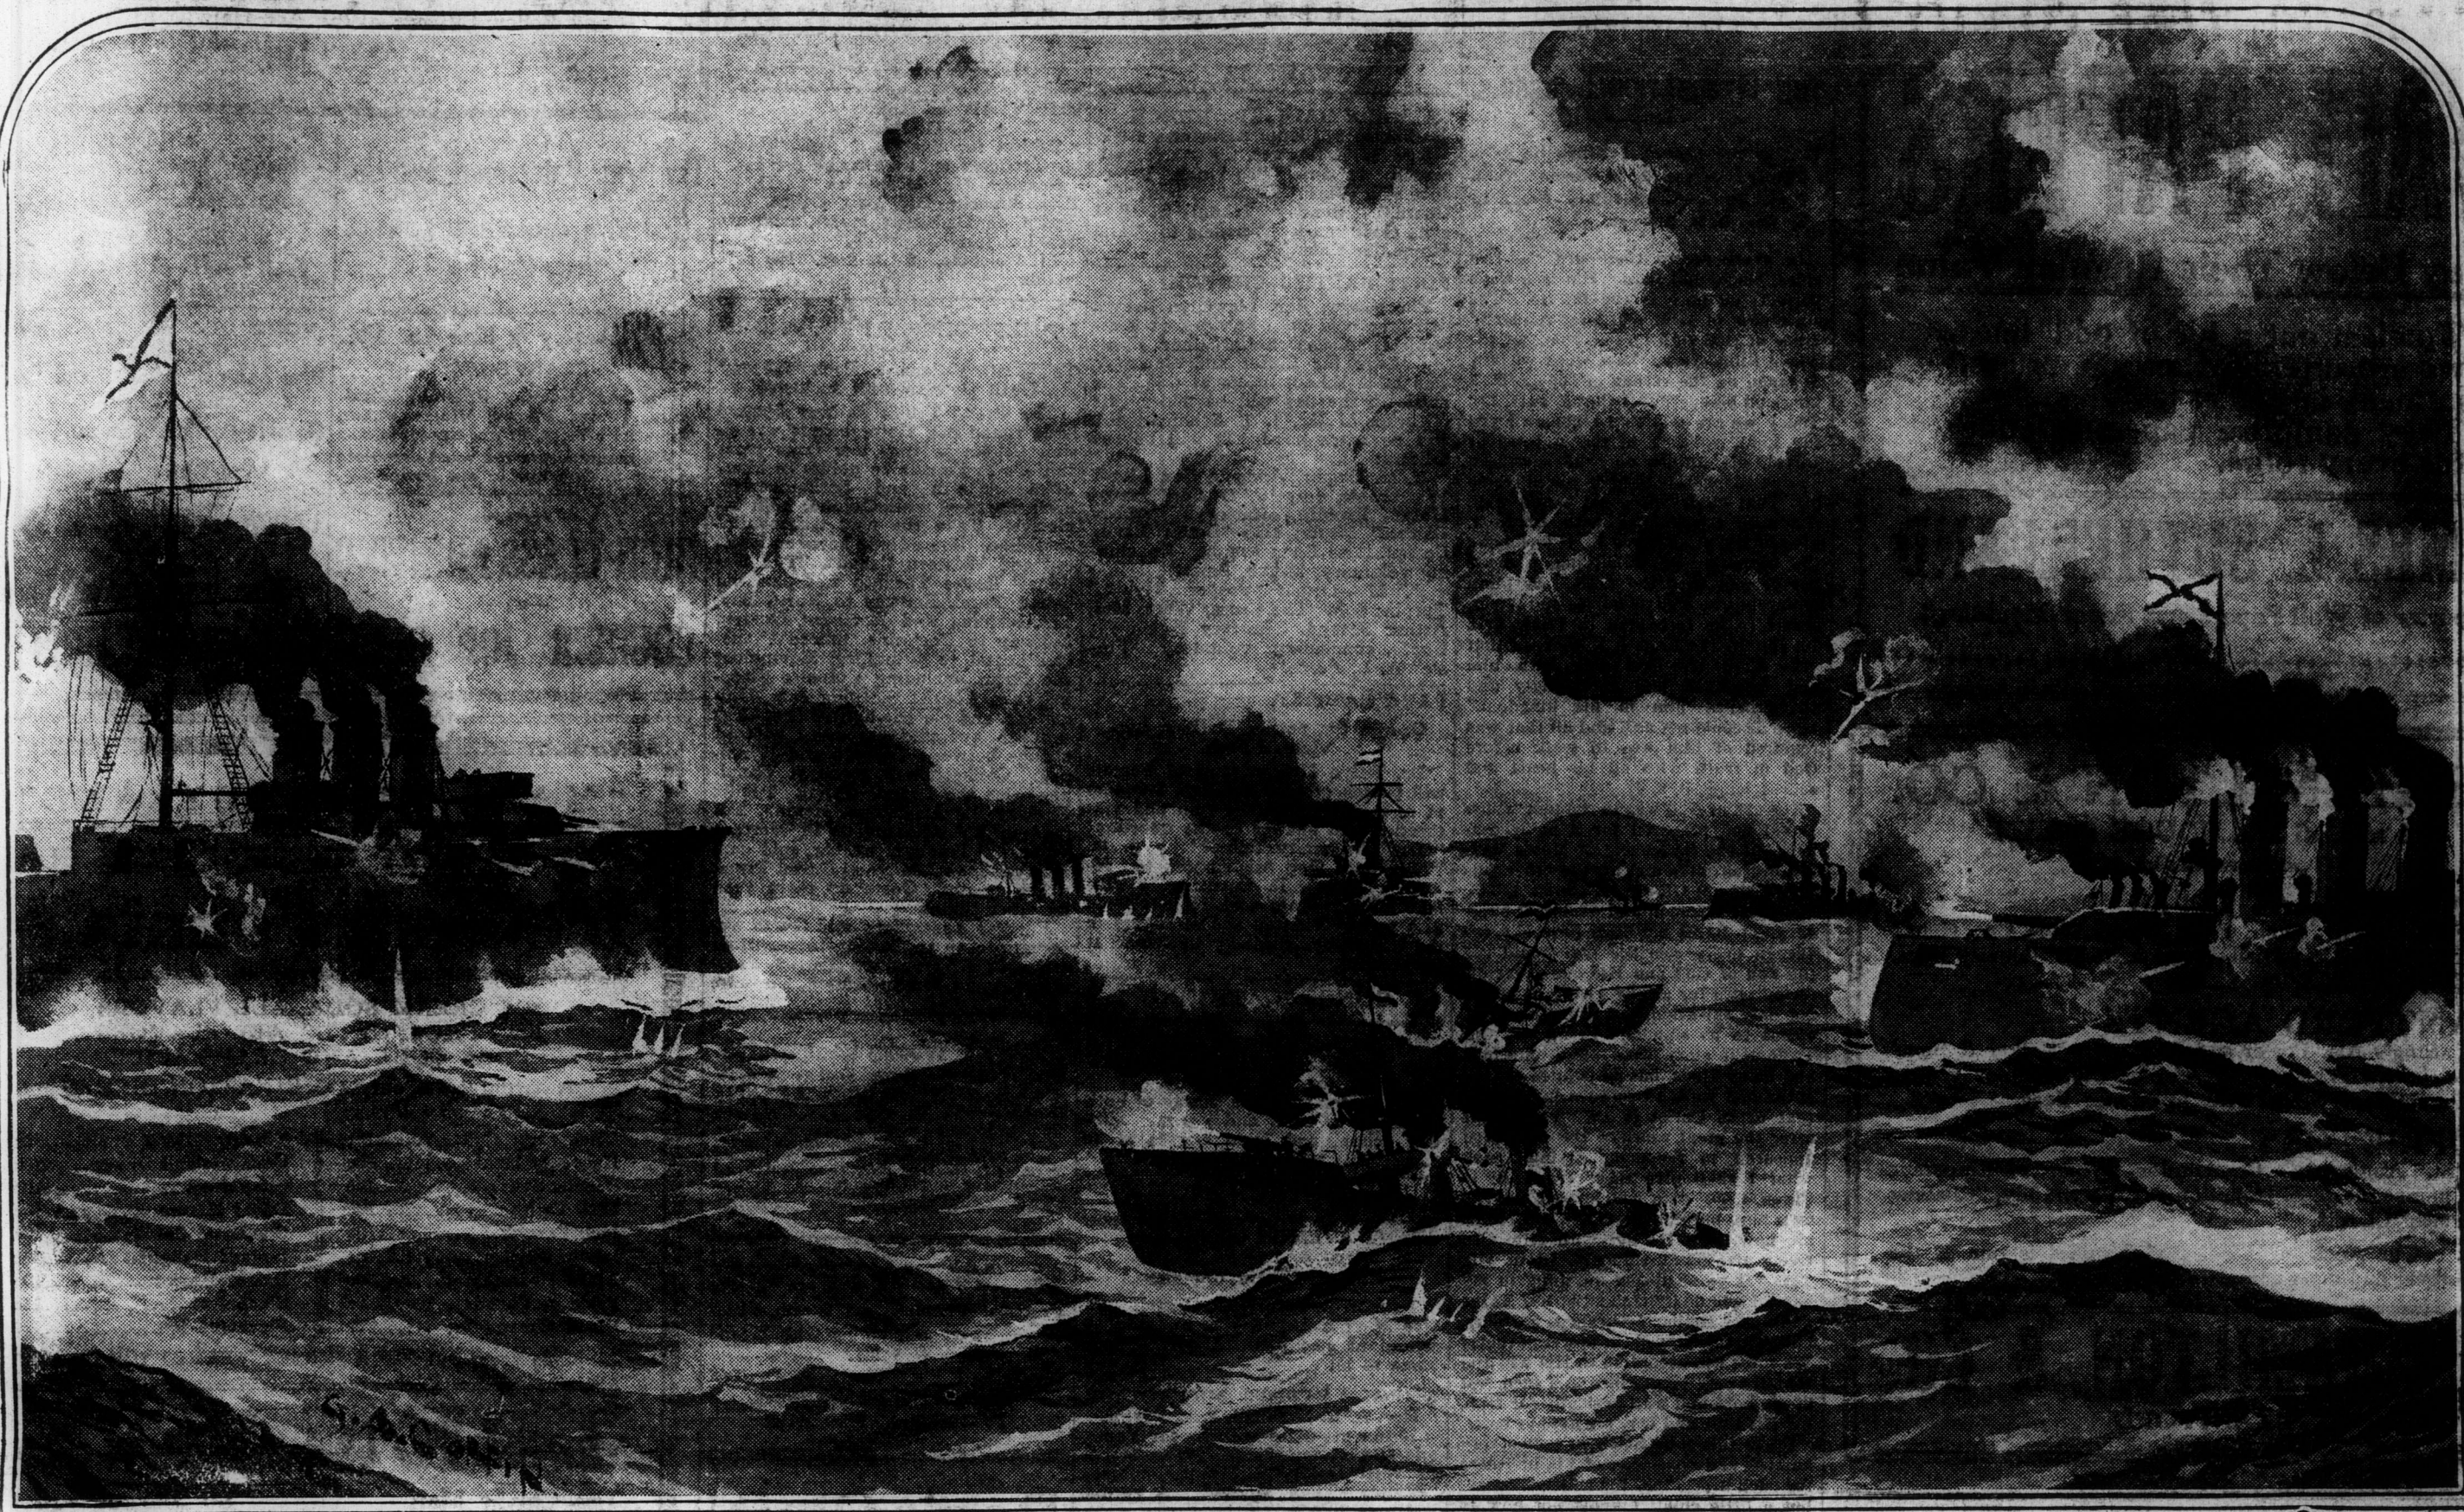

GERMANS HOLD RACES AT THE

The Crown Prince donated the case for first prize, and Gossler, General von Herberich also gave prizes. There was a total of fifty-one riders on Crown Prince's prize, though only three finished the race due to the fact that the cross country steeped. The horses had to jump trenches. The winner was Chalky. Other prize winners: Traumann, Lieutenant von I. Lieutenant Lehmann. The who was accompanied in the well known riding masters and von Zobelitz, presented the winners.

Battles of Antiquity Now Shrink to "Street Brawls"

Alexander the Great Conquered Orient with 35,000 Men—Israel's Kings Had an "Army" of 600—Profanity Then an Important "Weapon."

[SPECIAL DESPATCH.] LONDON, July 17.—When one reads of the great numerical strength and wonderful resources of the armies fighting in Europe, a comparison with some famous military events of remote antiquity makes the latter dwindle into insignificance. It seems incredible to a modern generation that Alexander the Great conquered the Orient with only 35,000 men. On a still smaller scale the great battles of Israel appear to have been conducted, as told in the Bible accounts. For instance, in the fight against Gibeon the Israelites are said to have suffered "severe losses," to wit, 30,000 men. The Egyptian army which invaded Palestine and subjugated the whole country counted barely 5,000 soldiers. Saul confronted his Philistine adversaries with an "army" of 600, which in the course of the day was increased to 1,000, after the "militarists" of those days had persuaded the authorities to provide a reserve force, a sort of "landsturm," of 400 warriors and bold King David's military establishment did not exceed his predecessor's in numbers. According to the First Book of Kings, however, King Ahab must have been pretty much of a war lord, judging by the standard of golden times. In his army were 7,000 soldiers and a constabulary force of 230 men. In the light of the gigantic conflicts of the present day, the old time battles shrink to the proportion of ordinary street brawls. The opposing armies were usually arrayed in lines within hearing of one another. Frequently the actual combat was preceded by an exchange of opprobrious profanity, in order to get up the proper sentiment of "holy wrath," which was considered an indispensable element in a soldier's efficiency. Siege operations were equally primitive, and few cities ran any risks of being taken if surrounded by walls of adequate strength to withstand the impact of the besiegers' battering rams and rock-throwing catapults. Starvation usually was the only means which could bring about the surrender of any fortified place.

GERMANS HOLD HORSE RACES AT THE FRONT

[SPECIAL DESPATCH.] BERLIN, July 17.—In order to relieve the monotony of the protracted trench fighting the Crown Prince of Germany recently arranged for a series of horse races at his headquarters in the front. According to the German newspaper Sportwelt, this proved to be a healthy diversion for both men and horses in the front. The Crown Prince donated a silver cigarette case for first prize, and General von Bissing, General von Herzberg and others gave prizes. There was keen competition, fifty-one riders entering for the Crown Prince's prize, though of this number only three finished the course. This was due to the fact that the race was a cross-country steeplechase. In some places the horses had to jump the German trenches. The winner was Captain Vekhovskiy. Other prize winners were Captain Traumann, Lieutenant von Hildeburg and Lieutenant Lehmann. The Crown Prince, who was accompanied in the race by the well-known riding masters von Mitzlaff and von Zobelitz, presented the prizes to the winners. The event was so successful and so enthusiastically enjoyed by the officers that other similar contests are to be held.

HUSBAND AN OFFICER, BRIDE BUT A PRIVATE

[SPECIAL DESPATCH.] BERLIN, July 17.—A romantic incident of the war is told in the German papers regarding a charming couple who were recently to be seen in the streets of Warsaw. The one is a young Russian officer, who moves along with the aid of crutches and of the arm of a still younger looking Russian private. The younger has an arm in a sling. Both were wounded in battle and wear the decoration of the cross. The young soldier is the wife of a wounded officer and is the daughter of a Russian Princess. These young persons met in a train en route to Warsaw recently and fell in love. The officer was on his way to join his regiment in the front, the young lady was going in the same direction to visit some friends. The journey required more than two days and when they left the train the young couple sought a priest and were married. As the young officer had to leave at once with his regiment for the front, the young wife enlisted as a private, donned a uniform and accompanied her husband to the front under an assumed name. It was in the battle of Rawak that both were wounded.

ITALY'S CROWN PRINCE DEVOTED TO NAVY AND INTENDS TO BE AN ADMIRAL

Scion of House of Savoy Has Ambition to Lead Fighting Ships, but He Carefully Follows All Campaigns on Land in European Struggle in Which His Country Is Involved.

[SPECIAL DESPATCH.] ROME, July 17.—San Rossore, a chateau in the vicinity of Livorno, is the favorite summer residence of the Italian royal family, and the young Crown Prince in particular always has enjoyed the sojourn at the coast. Here he could dig channels in the beach and sail his little toy ships all day long, and he also had his own little rowboat, in which he could paddle around under the watchful eyes of an attendant. From his early infancy little Prince Humbert has exhibited a great affection for the sea and a sailor's life. When he was six years old he declared with much earnestness that he wanted to become an admiral. Being reminded that he ought rather to become a general, like his father, the royal youngster often retorted, almost angrily: "No, I won't. An admiral is what I am going to be when I get big, because that is much more than to be only a general." It was not surprising that the Prince early bestowed his affection on Captain Bonaldi, the naval aid of the King. He admitted freely that he preferred Captain Bonaldi to the rest of the court entourage, because the former was a "commandant." In the presence of Captain Bonaldi the future ruler of Italy always was on his best behavior, never disobedient. Every word the navy officer spoke was law to the young heir to the throne. As soon as the King became aware of the strong influence which the urbane and otherwise excellent Captain Bonaldi exercised over the lively and sometimes quite unruly Prince, he asked his aides to become the youth's tutor and governor. So it happened that Captain Bonaldi, about two years ago, took official charge of his little royal admirer, to the latter's unbounded joy and satisfaction. Prince Humbert, who will be eleven years old in September, already is a proficient scholar in some subjects, especially history and geography. His studies, however, are not very exacting as yet, and he has ample time for sport and play. He is a good horseman and an enthusiastic bicyclist. Anything having a military touch to it appears strongly to this worthy descendant of the martial Victor Emmanuel, the first King of a united Italy. Although Humbert was only a strapping lad when he carefully manoeuvred the colored pins representing the different forces, in accordance with the bulletins received every day at the Quirinal. When the news did not warrant a forward move of the pins with the Italian colors the Prince became impatient, and he did not trouble much about concealing his feelings. Last autumn Prince Humbert's cup of joy was filled when he was permitted to take a two months' trip on board the cruiser Apulia. Four days in advance he had his sailor's chest all packed, and he left Captain Bonaldi hardly any peace before the two left Rome for Naples. At the latter place a jubilant crowd escorted the heir presumptive on his way to the cruiser, where the crew greeted their new shipmate no less warmly. Prince Humbert insisted on sharing the daily life and labors of the ordinary seaman, but he also was happy over passing a few hours now and then on the bridge or quarterdeck, together with his beloved Captain Bonaldi, who incidentally gave to his young charge an elementary course in navigation and matters nautical in general. Whether his love for the sea will prevail upon the Crown Prince and his father to such an extent as to cause a break in the tradition of giving a military education to an heir to the throne is a matter of interest among the Italian people. Just at present the valiant little scion of the house of Savoy is centering his attention on the immense land campaigns all over the European continent, and it is barely possible his former attachment for the navy may suffer in consequence. [SPECIAL DESPATCH.] BERLIN, July 17.—"What is the proper style of dress for women to wear in war time?" This is the puzzling question that is being discussed widely in Germany and Austria. In order to get some idea of the sentiment regarding this matter the Prager Tagblatt, a leading German newspaper in Prague, publishes a symposium giving the opinions of German women—artists, authors, singers, actresses and dressmakers. Among those who sent their opinions to the newspaper are Alice Trubner, a well known artist of Karlsruhe; Anselma Heine, successful writer of best sellers; Grete Meisel-Hess, authoress and social reformer; Lily Hagren-Waag, opera singer; Lucie Hofflich, of the Deutsche Theatre, in Berlin, and numerous other prominent women. The sentiment practically is unanimous that black should be eliminated in feminine attire. Frau Trubner urges that bright, not gay, colors be chosen for gowns and hats, so that when the ill and wounded soldiers return home they be not depressed by the predominance of sombre colors. Black, it is argued, is depressive. Despite the large number of dead and wounded, the feeling of confidence in ultimate victory should be reflected in the dress of the women. Black would discourage even the optimist, and to keep up the spirit of the people it is suggested that variegated colors be chosen—gay or frivolous, but bright and hopeful.

Pathetic Letter from Austrian Officer Releasing His Fiancee

[SPECIAL DESPATCH.] VIENNA, July 17.—The pathos of the great war finds a particularly striking expression in the following letter from Lieutenant Wirico, of the Austrian army, to an intimate friend in Vienna. "This will be my last letter," he writes, "and I address it to you because you will understand me better than would poor little Winni, my fiancee. I wish you to explain to her as gently as possible the reasons why we can never meet again. If she asks for my address do not give it to her. She would only send me a long tear-stained letter, which would read my heart with grief. Why all this? I can hear you both explain. One minute, and I will tell you." The officer then proceeds to describe the battle in which he was severely wounded, and continues: "Two days later I regained full consciousness in the hospital. The first thing I was told was what I wished the least to hear—that I would not die just yet. I would live on, mind you, with half of my face cut away. A sabre stroke had made one big warped scar of the once handsome features of dashing Lieutenant Wirico. You understand now, my dear fellow, why I am so anxious to release Winni from her engagement. Tell her all about it. "It is all very well for people to say that wounds received in battle are to be valued higher than medals, and that a soldier should glory in his scars. But only once have I dared to gaze at my hideously distorted face in a looking glass, which the nurse held over me. That was enough. Little Winni must never see me thus. She must remember her lieutenant as I looked at their last parting. I need not tell you any more, for I am sure you comprehend how I feel about this. Above all, please don't write, because it will only make me suffer the more. It might force the tears to my remaining eye and the cavity where the other used to be. And that hurts so! In a couple of days Wirico will be off again to battle. Whether for new wounds, or for medals, matters little."

War Transforms Kaiser Into Occult, Mysterious Figure

No Longer an Irresponsible, Unchecked Power, but the Symbol of Imperial Germany—Crown Prince's Popularity Wanes as Ideas of Lese Majeste Are Swept Away.

[SPECIAL DESPATCH.] LONDON, July 17.—"A Neutral Observer" in the following article in the Times analyzes German public feeling with regard to the Emperor and the Crown Prince:— The present war has upset all traditions. It is not a war of men or deeds. Personal prowess counts for little. Men and their achievements are of no importance detached from the great common task. Acts of bravery or heroism of the individual soon fade from view and are of little influence on ultimate outcome. Just as manual labor has been to a large extent supplanted by machinery, so in this war a man, whether he be a private or a general, must be content to carry out with clock-like precision the tasks intrusted to him. And so it is with the rulers of States. When last August the German Emperor proclaimed that by his will a state of war existed between himself, Russia and France, he was following old traditions of imperial prerogative. Later, when he let it be known that he intended to make a triumphal entry into Paris on a certain date, he was following the same traditions. Then came the reaction. When the advance on Paris failed it was whispered among the higher classes in Germany and afterward in the street, that the Emperor had interfered with the plans of the Grand General Staff and had ordered the hasty forward march on Paris when, according to better authority, the eastern campaign should have been given attention. It was alleged that he had differed from the Chief of Staff, General von Moltke, and had compelled him to resign. These stories became current gossip, and the Emperor's prestige declined visibly. People avoided mentioning his name. At the cinema the portrait of other personalities of the war were more loudly applauded. Six months ago the German people privately thought the Emperor to be a master in military matters, in which he was not an expert. The Crown Prince, the "victor of Longwy," was then immensely popular.

[SPECIAL DESPATCH.] LONDON, July 17.—"A Neutral Observer" in the following article in the Times analyzes German public feeling with regard to the Emperor and the Crown Prince:— The present war has upset all traditions. It is not a war of men or deeds. Personal prowess counts for little. Men and their achievements are of no importance detached from the great common task. Acts of bravery or heroism of the individual soon fade from view and are of little influence on ultimate outcome. Just as manual labor has been to a large extent supplanted by machinery, so in this war a man, whether he be a private or a general, must be content to carry out with clock-like precision the tasks intrusted to him. And so it is with the rulers of States. When last August the German Emperor proclaimed that by his will a state of war existed between himself, Russia and France, he was following old traditions of imperial prerogative. Later, when he let it be known that he intended to make a triumphal entry into Paris on a certain date, he was following the same traditions. Then came the reaction. When the advance on Paris failed it was whispered among the higher classes in Germany and afterward in the street, that the Emperor had interfered with the plans of the Grand General Staff and had ordered the hasty forward march on Paris when, according to better authority, the eastern campaign should have been given attention. It was alleged that he had differed from the Chief of Staff, General von Moltke, and had compelled him to resign. These stories became current gossip, and the Emperor's prestige declined visibly. People avoided mentioning his name. At the cinema the portrait of other personalities of the war were more loudly applauded. Six months ago the German people privately thought the Emperor to be a master in military matters, in which he was not an expert. The Crown Prince, the "victor of Longwy," was then immensely popular.

Six months ago the German people privately thought the Emperor to be a master in military matters, in which he was not an expert. The Crown Prince, the "victor of Longwy," was then immensely popular. But as soon as the Emperor became aware that he was on the wrong path, he changed his tactics and vanished from the scene. He no longer made proclamations and speeches, he let it be known among the lower classes—and the stories have this time crept upward—that he no longer interfered with military matters. His whereabouts was kept secret. One day he was on the western front; the next in Poland. In various cities of the empire it would be whispered: "The Emperor passed through here last night." No one had seen him, but it was known, or at least believed, that he had been in the city. On another day he would appear suddenly in Berlin unannounced, and in the early morning drive rapidly down Unter den Linden in a new motor car, wearing the gray field service uniform, the ends of his cap and his coat being clipped short, his face pale, his eyes deep-sunken and grave. Lesson III.—Third Quarter, For July 18, 1915.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, 1 Kings iii, 4-15. Memory Verses, 9, 10—Golden Text, Prov. ix, 10—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

In every record there are the two sides, God's and ours. His is always perfect; on ours is the failure. The sinfulness of man and the wonderful grace of God sum up one phase of the whole Bible story. Last week we saw Solomon on the throne of the Lord as king and prospering (1 Chron. xix, 23). Today we are told that Solomon loved the Lord, walking in the statutes of David, his father, only he sacrificed and burnt incense in high places (verse 3). That "only" does not sound well, nor does the affinity with Pharaoh, king of Egypt, of verse 1. It looks like the beginning of wandering, a heart not perfect with the Lord. Egyptian fellowship, as well as horses and wives, seems to be forbidden in Deut. xvii, 16, 17. In 1 Chron. i, 1, we read that "the Lord his God was with him and magnified him exceedingly and strengthened him in his kingdom. More he could not ask, and all that was required of him was to walk before God in truth with all his heart and soul (1 Kings ii, 3, 4).

The ark of God was in the tent which David had prepared for it at Jerusalem, but the tabernacle of Moses with the brazen altar and all the other furniture was at Gibeon (1 Chron. i, 3-5), and there Solomon and all Israel offered many burnt offerings (lesson verse 4). In every sacrifice we should see the Son of God and His one great offering once for all, by virtue of which not only salvation, but every blessing, comes to us sinners. In all the Old Testament story there many offerings and many kinds, but all pointed to Christ, and were all fulfilled in Him, so that to us Christ is all. That night after the great sacrifice the Lord God appeared to Solomon, saying, "Ask what I shall give thee" (verse 5; 1 Chron. i, 7). "He who spared not His own Son, but delivered Him up for us all, how shall He not with Him also freely give us all things?" (Rom. viii, 32). "If ye shall ask anything in my name I will do it" (John xiv, 14). These and many similar assurances are ours, but who has proved the power of them? We must ask according to His will and that He may be glorified and then rest in the Lord and wait patiently for Him, for His time and way are always best.

Up to this time Solomon seems very humble and conscious of his unworthiness for such a position, for he says, "I am but a little child; I know not how to go out or come in" (verse 7). Such an attitude toward God is always sure of His help and guidance. See Jer. i, 7-9; 1 Chron. xx, 12. Blessed are the poor in spirit, for theirs is the kingdom with all its riches and honor, so that both in wisdom and in the way to the kingdom, Solomon summed up his need, as he saw it. In his request for a wise and understanding heart, that he might discern between good and bad and rule the people in righteousness. The Lord was pleased with his request and granted him what he asked and also things he did not ask for, such as riches and honor, so that both in wisdom, riches and honor he excelled all others (verses 12, 13). After his vision or dream he manifested his gratitude by offering sacrifices to God at Jerusalem (15). There are two expressions in this lesson for various reasons worthy of special attention. Solomon in his request said that the people over whom he ruled were like the dust on the earth in multitude, and it is written that "God gave Solomon wisdom and understanding exceeding much and largeness of heart, even as the sand that is on the seashore (1 Chron. i, 9; 1 Kings iv, 29). The two expressions "dust of the earth" and "sand upon the seashore" seem to cover the same ground. Compare Gen. xiii, 10; xiv, 17. The thought seems to be that God gave Solomon wisdom to meet each individual case as it might arise. A notable illustration is given in 1 Kings iii, 16-28. It is written that Solomon of all the children of the east country and all the wisdom of Egypt, for he was wiser than all men; and there came of all people to hear the wisdom of Solomon, from all kings of the earth which had heard of his wisdom (1 Kings iv, 30, 31, 34). We cannot but think of the wisdom of Joseph and of Daniel, which was greater than all the wisdom of Egypt and of Babylon, in their days. But what is that to me? He who gave this wisdom still lives and is Himself the power of God and the wisdom of God; the Son of God who loved me and gave Himself for me (1 Cor. i, 24; Gal. ii, 20). It is written, "If any of you lack wisdom let him ask of God, and it shall be given him, but let him ask in faith nothing wavering." There is a wisdom that is earthly, sensual, devilish, but the wisdom that is from above is first pure, then peaceable, gentle and easy to be entreated (Jas. i, 5, 8; III, 15-17). We need continually to know the way wherein we may walk and the thing that we may do, and to pray, Cause me to know the way wherein I should walk, for it is not in man that walketh to direct his steps (Jer. xiii, 3; x, 23; Ps. cxliii, 8), but we can rely on I's, xxxiii, 8. If only we are honest in our desire for guidance and seek not our own will or pleasure. Then we shall experience Isa. xxx, 21.

Submarine Gave Chase After 7 at Fleet Cuna
New York, July 19.—Liner Orduna, bound from New York with 227 passengers, including 22 Americans, was without warning, it was her arrival here Saturday night, was fired upon by a submarine on the 7th day.
Twenty miles from the coast of the Lusitania off Old Head, the Orduna escaped tania's fate by one-half time or ten feet of space man torpedo churning the distance from the liner. Then the Orduna sped and followed by the submarine to the surface, manned her deck, and shelled steamer.
The attack was timed to six o'clock in the when all but a few of the lay sleeping in their berth by stewards, the passing hurriedly and went to deck, where they put on their life jackets. They heard the scream of water where the shells struck and saw the ocean spit up the fire grew hot they set for their own protection, duck below.
For half an hour the Orduna's heels to the assailant marine glasses the passenger the dark splash on a white sea. They saw a lying German warship with a bone in her teeth, but her flight was faster pursuit, and after seven minutes without effect, she gave up the chase.
A wireless call for help out by the Orduna when was seen. She was south of Queenstown, Captain Taylor says in his report, was that help would within an hour. It was before the first British war armored yacht appeared.
