DOUSED IN YUKON

Out-Going C. D. Co. Stage Goes Through the Ice 16 Miles From Dawson

NEAR TWELVEMILE ROADHOUSE.

Passengers Were Much Frightened but Uninjured

TAKEN TO AINSLEY TO DRY

Water Was Only Three Feet Deep and Had Little Current—Trail Is Going Fast.

Mr. E. E. Miller, lineman for the government telegraph, arrived in the city yesterday evening from up the river when he related the unfortunate experience of the C. D. Co.'s stage which left here for Whitehorse at 6 o'clock yesterday morning, and of the narrow escape of the driver and seven passengers from death by drowning in the cruel waters of the relentless Yukon.

When about 16 miles above Dawson, and between the Twelvemile roadhouse and Ainsley, the ice under one side of the sled suddenly gave way and before the frightened passengers knew what was taking place the sled upset and they were precipitated from it into three feet of as chilly water as ever got next to any person in any country. And it was fortunate there was but three feet of water and that the current was not swift, otherwise the entire party would probably have been carried down and beneath the ice not to have been seen again until the Yukon gives up its annual crop of victims which is usually in June.

As it was, when the suddenly doused passengers found they could touch bottom there was a wild scrambling for the edge of the ice and when one or two succeeded in dragging themselves out the others were soon extricated, when a count of noses showed that all were safe. Fortunately the horses were still on firm ice and were able to draw the sled out of the hole. Double quick time was made from there to Ainsley roadhouse where, by a roaring fire, the dripping travelers passed through the warming steaming process and were eventually dried and in condition to continue on toward the south.

The passengers on the stage were Mr. and Mrs. Barclay, Mrs. Franks, Miss Sharston, R. A. Dixon, C. B. Malarkey and Mr. Kuey.

Lineman Miller reports the trail as still fairly good, but beginning to dissolve in many places where it is overflowed.

NO TRUTH IN REPORT

Concerning Late Opening of Concessions to Stakers.

For several days past the report has been in circulation that several hydraulic concessions on Hunker and Bonanza creeks have been thrown open to placer locations. The report in many cases came from such sources as to seem absolutely reliable and many have been the stampedes which have resulted from them. The Boyle and Williams concessions on Bonanza and the Anderson concession on Hunker have been staked and restaked. It is said that a large party went up to the Williams concession on Sunday and camped on the ground, prepared stakes and got every thing in readiness to write their names on the stakes as soon as the party left behind to follow on his wheel should come with the news of the posting of the notice throwing the concession open. Swiltwater Bill's concession on Quartz creek has also been the scene of considerable excitement caused by the stampedes but disappointment is doomed to be their portion, for repeated inquiries at the Gold Commissioner's office this week has always been met with the same answer that no concession has been opened to placer location.

KOYUKUK THEIR MECCA.

Nearly All Down-River Travel Is For That Place.

For the past month three of every four parties to leave Dawson for the lower river country have had Koyukuk as their destination and many others are yet expecting to make the trip before the ice breaks up. One party now here and headed by Mr. McKenzie, formerly a prominent Seattleite and leading politician in the palmy days of the McGraw regime, and an all-round good-fellow, will get off for the down river trip on Saturday. U. S. Geological Surveyor Schrader is expected to arrive from up the river this week with a party for the Koyukuk and others here expect to join him on the trip. By the time the season for travel over the ice is ended it is thought fully 300 men will have left Dawson for the Koyukuk.

Thus far there has been but little exodus for the Tanana, not over a dozen men having started for there over the ice. However, many are awaiting the opening of navigation to go to that country for the purpose of developing claims secured by them last season.

GAME MAY BE SERVED

In Restaurants After the First of April.

Inquiry has been made respecting the effect of the last ordinance passed by the Yukon council, governing the hunting and sale of game. According to the amended ordinance it is lawful to expose and offer for sale in the public markets game killed before the first of February of the present year until April 1st.

It has been held by some that by the wording of the ordinance it will be illegal to serve game in restaurants after the first of the coming month.

This view of the matter is not taken at the commissioner's office, where the information was obtained that game purchased before the expiration of the present month and properly cared for in cold storage may be served in restaurants and hotels as has previously been the case. The intent of the law is to prevent the killing of game during the closed season and not to interfere with the consumption of meat procured during the time allowed by law.

DOES NOT RECEDE.

Moral Wave Still Sweeping Over Dawson.

Mention from time to time has been made to the moral atmosphere which for some months past has pervaded Dawson and which still shows but little symptoms of passing away, where a year ago when the gladsome spring sunshine permeated the average Klondiker he made recognition of it by getting drunk. Then it was not uncommon to see as many as half a dozen men, all with faces at half mast and each harboring a dark brown tinge lined up in police court at one time. It is different now as frequently a week will pass without bringing a single hooch victim into the prisoner's dock.

Yesterday George McDonald, an inoffensive looking man with a crushed pumpkin complexion, doubtless feeling exuberant as the result of a touch of spring fever, took an overdose of the oil of joy and gladness which had the effect of making of him a disturbing element, a bad actor on the stage of humanity. When brought into police court this morning George had undergone the sobering process in Station de Languish. He pleaded guilty to having been naughty and was given the option by Magistrate Rutledge of paying $5 and costs or of devoting ten days of his time to manipulating a royal saw in the fuel factory.

John Flynn was up on the charge of having on yesterday had intoxicating liquor in his possession and of unlawfully disposing of the same, not being armed and equipped with a permit to sell that class of goods. He pleaded not guilty and at his request the case was continued until 2 o'clock tomorrow until which time Flynn was released on a $200 bond provided by A. R. Palmer.

J. H. Tomlinson, former manager for the Canadian-Yukon Lumber Co. at this place, was arrested yesterday on complaint of the present manager, Mr. Price, charged with stealing lumber from that company. The case was set for hearing this afternoon.

Stampede to Montana Creek.

Yesterday afternoon L. W. Steele, W. C. Schultz and L. R. Young returned from a prospecting trip on Montana creek, a tributary of Indian river, about half way between the mouths of Eureka and Quarts creeks. In making a discoverer's affidavit in the gold commissioner's office they stated that they had sunk two holes to bedrock and found coarse gold which would run five cents to the pan. The discovery is 17 miles from the mouth of the creek.

As soon as the news of the discovery was made known a general stampede occurred and several large parties were organized and left immediately for the new strike. The discoverers are satisfied from the indications that they have got a good pay streak.

NAPOLEON IS RICH

Beyond Wildest Anticipation of Its Discoverers.

On March 13 last this paper published information relative to a strike having been made on Napoleon creek, a tributary of the south fork of Wade. The news was given by Bob Henderson and Jas. S. French, who had recently returned from that district bringing with them a bag of marble like nuggets as an evidence of their find. The pay was found on claim 6 above discovery, owned by French, Barrett and Jacobsen.

Yesterday additional news arrived in Dawson from the strike and its authenticity is vouched for by French, Bob Henderson and Albert Fortier (Hooch Albert). The latter has just returned to Dawson direct from Napoleon creek and has spent three days on the claim mentioned. He brought word that in ten days rocking Barrett and Jacobsen have taken out $5070 and that two small buckets rocked by him gave a yield of $40.50. The biggest stampede in the history of the country has followed the discovery and the creek is located solid to Wade as well as the benches back to the third tier. Many people who were on the stampede to the Copper river country have stopped and located on Napoleon and others have even come across from that district. Bob Henderson authenticates the truth of the big strike and says that Napoleon will prove another Eldorado. He said:

"The reports are not exaggerated; they are small in comparison to what the creek will show. Billy Chappelle and Stanley are now on the ground and people have gone in from all directions. Every inch of the creek is taken up. I have every reason to believe that the bench claims will prove equally valuable."

TO COME THIS WAY

Arrangements Now on Foot to Place Dawson and the Yukon

ON ALASKA EXCURSION ITINERARY

Of Cook, Raymond and Other Travel Managers.

BY TRAFFIC MANAGER LEE

For the White Pass & Yukon Route Dawson Will Extensively Advertise in the East.

From Local Agent J. H. Rogers, of the White Pass & Yukon Route, it is learned that steps are now being taken to place Dawson on the itinerary of the Raymond and Cook excursion companies each of which handles many thousand excursionists during the season which lasts from May until November.

It is only within recent years that Alaska has been known to the traveling world, since which time many excursion parties from the east have visited it, where the summer vacation was formerly spent abroad. Now, however, the person who has not seen Muir glacier cannot be said to have visited the wonder of the American continent.

General Traffic Manager Lee, of the W. P. & Y. R., now has in charge the matter of placing Dawson and the Yukon on the list of points covered by these touring aggregations and the fact that Dawson can now be reached in both ease and comfort, many will avail themselves of the opportunity to come, having in former times believed this place to be inaccessible without months of hardships and hazardous travel.

Mr. Lee was for a long time the Chicago agent for the Canadian Pacific Ry. Co., and is rich in experience in the handling of excursion parties. He is now arranging rates with eastern and transcontinental lines for the handling of the tourists and after their arrival on the coast or in Alaska arrangements will be made whereby they can, after visiting Dawson, return via Skagway or pass on down the river and go below by way of St. Michael. In any event a successful carrying out of the proposition will be productive of bringing hundreds of people to this place during the summer season.

In the event arrangements are completed by Mr. Lee, and there is little doubt but they will be, the entire country from Skagway to St. Michael will be advertised very extensively throughout the east and the benefits which will accrue to Dawson and the Klondike will be felt in many other ways than in visits from tourists.

NEW DIGGINGS.

Montana creek is another candidate for laurels as a producer of gold. As will be noticed by reference to our local columns prospecting has been going on quietly on that creek with results which have warranted the creek being staked. It is a significant fact that numerous localities which three years ago were not considered worth staking are now yielding gold in paying quantities.

Until within a very recent date, little or no consideration has been given to the merits of the creeks flowing into Indian river from the farther side. Eureka creek which is now looked upon with very favorable consideration was for a long time regarded only as a creek upon which a prospector might waste his right. Montana creek which as our report indicates, will soon be counted among our producing mining districts was staked and recorded some three years ago, but so little was thought of it that almost the entire creek reverted to the crown through lack of compliance with the regulations governing representation. Other instances of a similar nature might readily be mentioned, all of them serving merely to point to the fact that the extent of the placer mining deposits of the Klondike district is not as yet understood by half.

The country is now wide open to the prospector as has never before been the case. Wherever there is gold, heretofore undiscovered, that fact is being made known. Innumerable claims will be prospected during the coming summer which have never before felt a stroke from a pick. From out this vast area of ground a certain proportion is sure to prove productive and to that extent will add to the general wealth of the territory.

Three years ago many people believed that at the present time the Klondike district would be pretty well worked out. The fact of the matter is that more ground is in process of development and more men are receiving steady employment than ever before. If any new country, depending entirely upon one industry for existence, has ever made a better showing in the same period, that fact has never been given general publication.

It is not probable that there will be any considerable difficulties from thefts of gold dust during the coming clean-up season. Several examples have been made in cases of this nature and in each instance where a conviction has been obtained, severe penalties have been imposed. Gold dust stealing requires speedy and severe punishment for it is under ordinary circumstances a crime easy to commit in this country. At the clean-up season particularly when in many instances, a number of people will have access to the sluice boxes the temptation is apt to prove too strong, and more especially where men may consider that they are underpaid for their labor. Such a plea is of course no justification for theft, although it may serve to quiet the scruples of the thief himself. There are two points in this connection which may be observed with profit: Employers who place their men where they may be tempted to steal, should compensate them properly for their services; and men who may be thus tempted should not forget that the strong arm of the law is almost certain to descend upon them if they allow themselves to overstep the mark.

Sentence of death in the case of a prisoner now confined in the local jail has recently been commuted to imprisonment for life. While it may be true that there is always hope while life lasts, it is nevertheless an open question, which of the two sentences—death or life imprisonment—would be the preferable. To decide between a scaffold and close confinement for life seems almost like endeavoring to find a difference between six and a half dozen. However, in a matter of such a nature really intelligent evidence can be given only by one who has been given a choice of the two evils.

It actually begins to look like war in the Orient.

OVER THE TEA LEAVES.

The tea is gone from my cup,
But my fancy a romance weaves
As I sit here idly dreaming
Of the fortune in the leaves.

Tell me, and tell me truly,
Ye little curled-up things,
That from the land of mysteries
Such wondrous knowledge brings.

Tell me if fay or fairy
Or guardian angel sweet,
Or witch or uncanny nature,
Will pilot my wayward feet.

Through the hazy mists of future,
Past which my soul must stray,
Over the valleys and snow-capped mountains
To the horizon of the far-away.

Tell me if love's bright plasons
Will hover o'er my head,
Or sorrow's gloomy phantoms
Will darken the air instead.

Tell me if the holiest mission
Of my life shall be fulfilled,
Or the work undone remains
When my beating heart is still.

And lastly I pray you tell me
If the jeweled gates of gold
Will receive my worn-out spirit
When the scrolls of time unfold.

First Page for Speeches.

The effort that is constantly being made to secure the printing of speeches on the front page of the Congressional Record is not generally understood. Senators and representatives naturally desire to have their deliverances in congress receive as much attention as possible, and there is but one publication in which they can monopolize the front page in a display of their speeches. That one publication is the Record.

Of course speeches that are printed in regular order in the debate, appearing on the day after they are delivered, are to be found only in their regular place in the Record. But in the cases of speeches withheld for revision there is an opportunity to have them displayed on the first page of the official report of the proceedings. This is merely done by an arrangement between the senate and house by which this privilege is about equally divided. Senators and representatives who withhold their remarks for revision frequently inquire when they can have the first page of the Record, which is generally reserved for at least a week ahead.

The general rule is, "First come, first served." In this way those who want to make their speeches influential will at times arrange to have them on the first page of the Record on the morning of a day when a vote is to be taken, in order that they may be brought prominently to the attention of their fellow legislators just before they are to take action on the matters of which they treat. It is in the nature of judicious advertisement.—Washington Star.

Lincoln Couldn't Do It.

"When I was in Springfield, Abraham Lincoln and Gen. Baker, who was killed at Leesburg, Va., during the civil war, made the race for the Whig nomination for congress," said Dr. D. B. Hill. "Both were Whigs, and both were keen for the nomination. Both had a strong personal following, and if both ran the Democrat would win in the district. So a primary election was necessary to settle the contest. Baker won. Both men were at Springfield when the news came. Lincoln was depressed. The crowd to cheer him up called on him for a speech. Getting up, he said: 'Gentlemen, I'd like to comply with your request, but I can't make a speech now. I expected to receive the nomination, but I failed. If I had won, I know Baker would have got up here and so charmed you with his eloquence as to make you believe you had done him a favor by nominating me. But I can't do it.'—Argonaut.

Divorce Court for Canada.

I have noticed with great pleasure that Mr. B. M. Britton, the honorable member of Kingston, is about to introduce in the house of commons a resolution which is to test the opinion of the house upon the advisability of establishing a divorce court in Canada. I hope the expression of the house will be in favor of such a course, and that when the resolution has been carried it will be followed by the introduction of a bill to establish a divorce court in this country during the present session.

I believe that the country is ripe and ready for the introduction of such a measure. It is one which will contribute in no small degree to the domestic welfare and peace of many homes in this wide Dominion which at present are divided and unhappy, and must remain so until relief is given by a divorce court, where a person of ordinary means shall be able to obtain a divorce at the same outlay as in ordinary law suits.

Although this is an important measure, there is no reason why it should not be brought forward at the present session. We have a remarkable precedent for such a course. The bill establishing the divorce court in England was introduced into the commons for its second reading on the 30th of July, 1857, and became the law of the land on the 28th of August following, less than a month. The reason for that was that the country was ready and looking for it. It did not raise any party question and the issue was never doubtful. It is a question of domestic economics and good government. I believe the proceedings in committee were very spirited, and although Mr. Gladstone and Mr. Disraeli both opposed it on religious grounds, "and that the bill was being pushed forward with unprecedented levity," the bill passed. In the house of lords the Duke of Norfolk (representing the Roman Catholics) offered strong opposition, but the lords spiritual as a body (with the exception of Bishop Wilberforce) were not very energetic in their criticism of a bill that proposed changes of such vast importance in the law of church and state. And so the divorce court in England was established inside 30 days, and it must be admitted even by opponents of the measure that it has been productive of much good, and Roman Catholics as well as Protestants avail themselves of the relief afforded by that court.

Probably our Roman Catholic and High Church friends may oppose it here, but the great body of the people desire it, and I submit that our government would not be committing any error in putting through a bill establishing a divorce court in Canada forthwith.

It has been my lot to draw a great many deeds of separation, beginning "Whereas certain unhappy differences having arisen," etc., but it has also been my lot to settle and adjust many of these marital differences by a little judicious advice, but still I know of many husbands who are bringing up their children without a mother, and I know also of wives who are now living a life of desolation and loneliness worse than widowhood, who would rejoice if it were made possible by means of a divorce court to obtain a release from their legal bondage. My experience is doubtless that of many other solicitors in active practice, who would endorse the position I am taking. As to the particular form the court should assume and the procedure which should be followed therein, that I would leave in the hands of our able and experienced minister of justice. I have some well settled ideas as to what shape such a court should take, but in a letter of this length it is impossible to say anything about them.

We already admit the principle. We do grant divorces in Canada, but in an antiquated and primitive fashion before a committee of the senate. But the cost of this procedure is so great as to be practically prohibitive to a great many. What is the result? Our people go to the States in scores and seek and obtain divorces, in the mistaken idea that they are valid here. Many remain there and others come back and take their chances. All this is productive of evil, scandal and disgrace. To a lawyer it seems only reasonable that, when we do grant divorces, we should do it by the procedure and machinery of a decorous and dignified court of justice. I would be the last person to rob the marriage relationship of any of the sanctity which now surrounds it, but is it not infinitely worse for people to continue to lead lives which are a living lie and a contradiction to every sentiment of the marriage tie? Why should there be one law for the rich and another for the poor? With judicious and wise discretion kindly exercised and with proper restrictions as to the publicity of its proceedings, a divorce court can at a small cost dispense justice by affording speedy and effective relief to many of our suffering and unfortunate people. Trusting Mr. Britton's resolution may be carried and that the requisite legislation may be introduced and completed this session, I am,

An Inhuman Mother.

A warrant was sworn out in Justice Cann's court yesterday afternoon by Emergency Patrolman Bevan, charging Jane Doe Arlington, who resides at Grant street bridge, with extreme cruelty to Mary Arlington, her 15-year-old daughter. Mrs. Arlington was last night placed under arrest and the child given into custody of Police Matron Taylor.

When examined at the matron's house the child was found to have been terribly beaten. No less than a dozen large bruises were visible on her body. She told Matron Taylor that the wounds were inflicted with trunk straps and pieces of kindling wood by her mother. Dr Carroll was summoned to treat the child's injuries. It became necessary to wrap her whole body in medicinal bandages to allay her sufferings. Police Matron Taylor states that in all her experience with similar cases she never saw one so bad.

The mother will be arraigned before Justice Cann today for trial. It is probable that the Humane Society will conduct the prosecution.—E. J. March 13.

Maj. Crofoot's Great Idea

To Utilize Lost Power in Operating an Engine.

It Worked on the Young Lady Cavanaugh and the Major Got a Square Meal.

Maj. Crofoot, grand promoter and general originator, was just making ready to go out after a luxurious 15 cent lunch when there came a timid knock on the door. It couldn't be the agent of the building after the four months' back rent, for he would have holdly knocked the door open; his landlady, to whom he owed $48, didn't know where his office was; the tailor had grown discouraged, the coal man always sent his bill in the forenoon, and should it be a bill from the cobbler he would dispute its correctness. In answer to the major's "Come in!" a young woman entered.

"I have called," she began, "in the interest of a new industrial home soon to be established. I am soliciting personal subscriptions."

"My dear woman, sit down—sit right down," cheerily replied the major. "We may call this a coincidence—a curious coincidence. Not half an hour ago I began drawing up plans for just such an institution. It is to be called the Crofoot Self Supporting Home."

"Then you would not want to subscribe to another, of course?"

"Perhaps so. You may give me what particulars you can."

"It is to be a home where children without parents and friendless old folks can be provided for. In return for their board and clothes they will do what work they can. I believe they will make brushes and brooms."

"Exactly; I see. A noble idea, my dear woman, a noble idea and a grand charity, and you deserve credit for interesting yourself. We cannot have too many of these institutions, and I personally feel that I cannot do too much for them. You may put me down for $10."

"That is very nice of you," she said as she wrote his name in her book. "I have taken 200 subscriptions, and yours is the most liberal of all."

"I never do things by halves, miss. When I enter upon a charity, I do it with my whole soul. You may make my subscription $15."

"How good of you!"

"And now about my own home, the one I have planned. You will probably be interested in it. I shall erect a building to accommodate at least 250 inmates. It will not be an industrial home in the usual use of the term. Perhaps I shall change the name to 'The Crofoot Utopian Power Company.' The first idea is the care and comfort of the unfortunate; the next to make them feel that they are not dependent upon charity."

"That is good of you," observed the caller.

"How best to do this was long a puzzle to me, but I have solved it at last. When Maj. Crofoot starts on an idea, he never lets it get away from him un-solved. There will be no manufacturing in my home. The inmates shall simply eat, sleep and walk about. Your countenance expresses surprise, but let me add that each and every one shall earn his keep."

"I—I can't see how."

"The simplest thing in the world. In the basement will be a 5000-horse power engine. Pipes will lead to it from every room. That engine will be run by what may be called lost power. For instance, you sneeze or cough. There is power there, but it is wasted. You fall off a chair; you sing or whistle; you yawn. It takes power to do it, but the power is wasted. By a system of pipes all this lost power will be conducted to the engine to run it. No coal, no gas, no wood. Engine runs right along day and night and has power enough to supply all factories within half a mile of it. What the factories pay will keep the home going. Do you understand?"

"What an idea!" gasped the woman.

"Not a bad one," smiled the major as he walked around, "and I am sole originator. All others will be imitators. All I ask of the inmates is to be comfortable. As they rock to and fro on 250 rocking chairs the engine is worked up to its full capacity; as they move across the floor, eat, sleep, quarrel or make up they furnish me power. Out of 250 people 188 will snore in their sleep. These snores will give me a pressure of 50 pounds on the engine."

"Wonderful! Wonderful!" she whispered.

"It's just making use of natural phisosophy. It is not a stock company, and there will be no dividends, but I want outsiders interested. I want 100 people to take shares of $17 each in order that they may help me run the home and receive a share of the public praise. The superintendent alone will receive a salary. May I offer you the position?"

"I don't believe I could take it. You see, I am only a volunteer canvasser."

"Exactly, but I am satisfied you would make a good superintendent and see that none of the power was wasted. I can say that the salary will be at least $5000 per year."

"It is awfully kind of you, but I fear I must decline."

"Then I will not press you. I will, however, put you down for a $17 share, and whenever you are near the home you are entitled to drop in and stir up the inmates. The harder you stir them the more power we get. Have you $2 handy, miss? If so, I will use it for revenue stamps."

"I don't understand," she replied as she rose up with a puzzled look.

"Plain as day, my dear young woman. I subscribed $15 to the home you are canvassing for. I put you down for $17 for a share in the Crofoot Utopian Power Company. The difference between $15 and $17 is $2. You had best pay now and have it over with."

"But I don't see," she protested as her eyes grew big.

"Then we will go over it again. If you add 2 to 15 it makes 17, doesn't it? And you owe me just the difference. This being my busy day"

She looked at him in a vacant way for a minute and then laid $2 on the desk and walked out without a word. Ten minutes later she was back with the real estate man on the first floor, and the real estate man pounded on the door and called out:

"Open, you sleek, slick man, and hand over that $2!"

"Yes, you talked me out of $2," added the woman.

"No reply."

"Open, or I'll kick the door in!"

"Yes, we'll kick the door in!"

The silence of death.

"Maj. Crofoot, you are a scoundrel!"

"Yes, a deep-dyed scoundrel!"

But the major heard not the words. He had seized the money, locked up his office and gone down by the back stairs after his luncheon. He no longer figured on a 15 cent "grab," but his thoughts bounded forward to a 50-cent sit down with plenty of elbow room.

Women as Lawyers.

Since charming Sally Brass directed her brother's flourishing attorney's business in Bevis Marks, city, women lawyers have played—but a small part in British fiction, and have played no part at all in real life. But, apparently, that is to be changed at last. The novels of the present century should portray many a feminine lawyer, and there will be no anomaly about it, for up in the north a courageous Scottish lady seems to be on the point of forcing the closed door and thus opening up a new profession for her sex.

This year, indeed, may witness the triumph of Miss Margaret Howie, of Strang Hall, Kirn. Her petition for admittance to the law agents' examination has been filed and the Incorporated Society do not feel called upon to oppose her prayer; in fact, they "do not conceive it to be their interest or duty to maintain that women ought not to be enrolled." Miss Howie's fate is, therefore, now in the hands of the judiciary, who will soon decide whether she shall be the first woman ever admitted to practice in Scotland, England, or Ireland. If the decision is favorable, Miss Howie as a law agent would be eligible for the offices of sheriff substitute, notary public and clerk in the court of sessions and bill chamber.

Though England, Scotland and Ireland have so far been without women lawyers, the Incorporated Society of Law Agents point out that so far as they are aware permission to practice has never been sought. On the other hand it has been successfully sought in the United States and France. Women lawyers are becoming as popular and as numerous in the States as women physicians, and they appear to play the role of Portia with great success.

In France the admission of women to the bar required the passing of a special enactment, and it was only on December 4th, after a strenuous struggle, that the bill became the law of the land. Next day the first woman barrister was formally admitted in the person of Mme. Petit, who, robed in cap and gown, was duly sworn in before crowds of legal sightseers, among whom was numbered her husband, who is also a doctor of law.

Mme. Petit is already so full of work that a sharp-witted criminal whose victims were anxious to bring him to an early trial, which he was equally anxious to avoid, is said to have used her position for the purpose of temporarily defeating justice. He appeared before the court undefended, and when asked to name his advocate, named Mme. Petit, whose assistance was practically impossible for a long time to come. As his right to name his own lawyer appears to be undoubted, the man for the moment escapes trial.

Fifteen days after Mme. Petit's triumph, an unmarried lady, Mile. Chauvin, was admitted. For three years she had unceasingly battled for the right to earn her living as an advocate, taking no fewer than five degrees in twelve years. Her example will doubtless inspire Miss Howie, of Kirn.—London Daily Mail.

Recruits Are Plentiful.

Washington, March 12.—An increase of over 100 per cent in the enlistments of the regular army since the recruiting was begun February 8, has encouraged war department officials. They now feel confident that there will be no trouble in finding all the men necessary to bring the army up to its just proportions before the date comes for the volunteer regiments to be mustered out. Adj. Gen. Corbin receives daily reports from the recruiting offices scattered throughout the country. At the end of the first week, February 18 last, 386 recruits had been obtained. For the week ended March 8, 786 recruits were obtained.

Barrett & Hull have received a fresh consignment of lemons, oranges and eggs. All unfrozen.

BOARD OF TRADE COUNCIL

Held a Regular Weekly Meeting Last Night.

Needs of Local Assay Office Set Forth by President Mizner—Affairs of Old Board to be Closed.

The council of the Board of Trade met in regular weekly session last night in their new rooms in the A. C. block, with the following members present:

President E. A. Mizner, Secretary F. W. Clayton, Thos. A. McGowan, J. L. Timmins, H. T. Willis, Falcon Joslin, E. B. Condon and H. C. Macaulay.

A reply was received from the Seattle Board of Trade to the communication relative to the mysterious disappearance of McDonald and Lancaster sent by the Dawson board requesting it to take some action towards finding the missing parties, was read by the secretary. The reply stated that in the matter of such disappearance the proper authorities to consult would be the police and detective bureaus and not the board of trade.

Bids were received for printing of the by-laws and awarded to the Yukon Sun their bid being the lowest.

The secretary was instructed to make a report of the financial standing of the old board to the finance committee so that the affairs of the old board might be wound up.

The question of the establishment of a government assay office was introduced by President Mizner and a general discussion of the question occurred. On motion it was decided to call a meeting of the whole board for next Wednesday night and also to ask other men interested in the subject but not members of the board to meet with them to discuss the question. The secretary was instructed to gather all the data possible relative to the subject and present at the meeting.

A committee consisting of E. B. Condon, W. D. Bruce, D. Doig, H. T. Willis and H. C. Macaulay was appointed to make preparations for a reception to the new commissioner on his arrival. Just what form the reception is to take was left to the committee which was given full power to act. The discussion of putting a license tax on transient traders was also brought up and on motion a committee of two was appointed to see the members of the Yukon council and see if any provision has been made for such taxation and if not to request that something be done. The committee appointed was J. L. Timmins and H. C. Macaulay. The meeting then adjourned.

EXPANSE OF THE YUKON

Described in Toronto Globe by Faith Fenton Brown.

In a late issue of the Toronto Globe appears a long letter from Dawson's versatile lady writer, Faith Fenton Brown, the closing paragraph of which is as follows:

"The greatest commercial change in the Yukon has occurred within the past year, following upon the realizing by practical miners that the Yukon is not so much a winter mining camp as a summer one. Last winter every owner was working; this season the majority of claims have been shut down, waiting for warmer weather. There is already a preliminary stir in the mining world, and if indications be true the coming summer will be one of the busiest and most prosperous yet on record. While the creeks in the Dawson district will hold their own in profitable working, industrious prospecting has revealed that other portions of the territory are well worth developing. This is especially true of Whitehorse and Stewart river districts. The former contains several extensive deposits of rich copper and coal. The latter gives several new and promising placer gold strikes on its tributary creeks. Clear creek, which empties into the Stewart some 60 miles south of Dawson, is the newest of these. About 700 claims have already been recorded on this creek since discovery claim was recorded four months ago. It is too early yet to speak definitely of the value of this creek, but there seems no doubt that gold in paying quantities has been found there. The coming summer will show the value of this new strike. We refer to it chiefly to emphasize the fact that the Yukon territory is developing at other points than Dawson. Whitehorse town promises to be the center of a busy and prosperous district; it is asking that a territorial court be established there, and an assistant commissioner. Stewart river settlement is assuming municipal proportions. These places are establishing local interests, and will soon require special local privileges. Dawson no longer constitutes the Yukon territory, but is only one of several centers, the largest, certainly but the others are growing fast."

CALDERHEAD COMING IN.

Has Found No Trace of His Missing Partner.

A letter reached Dawson in the last mail from R. W. Calderhead who is now general manager of the Ora, Flora and Nora steamboats. Mr. Calderhead was in Vancouver at the time the letter was written, but anticipates that he will arrive in Dawson some time early in the coming month.

Capt. Martineau who for three years past has acted as master of the steamer Flora will continue to serve in the same capacity during the coming season.

Capt. Martineau has won a reputation as the most skilled navigator in the Yukon, and the traveling public will be pleased to learn that he will again be engaged on the Flora which boat he has piloted up and down the Yukon between Dawson and Whitehorse during the last three seasons.

Mr. Calderhead states that he will have all three boats completely overhauled and refitted and among other improvements will install a refrigerator on each of them for the purpose of carrying perishable goods.

No trace of the whereabouts of Mr. J. C. Lancaster, Mr. Calderhead's missing partner has as yet been discovered, although thorough search has been made throughout all the cities of the Pacific coast.

Mr. Lancaster was last heard of at the Butler hotel in Seattle on August 25th, from which place he disappeared and has not been heard of since. It is Mr. Calderhead's opinion that his partner met with foul play although he has as yet no tangible proof to support the theory. Detectives are still working on the case and will continue to do so until Mr. Lancaster is discovered or all hope is lost.

Mrs. Lancaster is stopping in Vancouver, and although she has been nearly prostrated through grief at the disappearance of her husband is still in hopes that he will eventually be found alive and well.

Mr. Lancaster's mother who has reached an advanced age, will scarcely survive the shock caused by the loss of her son. The children, of whom there are two, are in school in Denver, Colorado.

Mr. Calderhead expressed himself as being anxious to return to Dawson. He will continue the business of Lancaster & Calderhead as well as look after the interests of the steamboat company with the management of which he has been entrusted.

INCREASED SERVICE.

Supt. Primrose and Inspector Crosby Arrive.

Superintendent Primrose and Inspector Crosby, of the N. W. M. P., arrived yesterday afternoon from Whitehorse and will each be assigned to positions here, the former to that of officer in command, which position for some time past has been faithfully filled by Inspector Starnes. Commandant Major Wood informed a Nugget representative this morning that all the officers now here will be retained in the Dawson district, but the creek detail will be increased and as soon as navigation opens one inspector will be detailed to river work, traveling up and down and inspecting the various posts. For some time past Inspector McDonnell has had the creek business single-handed and alone with the result that he has been rushed from one point to another in a manner that caused him to hustle to keep up with his duties. Now another officer will share the work with him.

Although looking better than when he left Dawson last spring, Superintendent Primrose is not yet feeling fully recovered from the trip down the river, having contracted a cold on the journey. He will probably rest up for a few days before taking charge of the force as officer in command.

TOOK THEIR MEDICINE.

Police Hockey Team Licked Postage Stamps.

"We have met the enemy and they are ours," so say the victorious bank boys this morning.

As per challenge issued Monday the Bank and Police hockey teams met on the police rink yesterday afternoon and after an hour's play the bank team carried off the honors by a score of 7 to 3. Individual good plays were made on both sides, but the bank team was very much stronger in combination work. At the end of the first half the score stood 3 to 2, but in the second half the bank boys got up a little more steam and succeeded in making four more scores while the police only managed to get in one.

The bank boys this morning sent the police seven postage stamps to see if they could carry out a statement made in their challenge to the effect that they could lick as many postage stamps as anyone.

The line up of the teams was as follows:

Bank—Sime, goal; Cowan, point; Stevenson, cover point; forwards, Bell, Patterson, Tiffin and Marks.

Police—Timmins, goal; Bell, point; Henderson, cover point; forwards, Stewart Marshall, Pigott and Thomas.

There is some talk this morning of a return game to be played Saturday.

Pugilists Meet Friday Night.

O'Brien, of the Savoy theater, is under the impression that a very fast go and an evenly matched one will be witnessed at his house tomorrow night. Case has had to train down to 135 pounds, which must necessarily weaken him and give a great advantage to Rafael who is looked upon as a clever fighter and one who stands a chance with any man in his class.

Case is not considered to have the skill of the former although he is a harder hitter and a more aggressive man than Rafael. Under any circumstance it is expected that a clever exhibition will be given and that the go will last up to at least the seventh round.

COMING AND GOING.

Mr. Poirier, of No. 2 Gay gulch, arrived yesterday from an extended trip through the eastern provinces.

Mr. J. Genott of No. 10 below lower Dominion, arrived in Dawson Tuesday, making the trip from Seattle in 16 days.

Mr. Bouchard, of No. 3 Last Chance, returned recently from his home, Three Rivers, near Quebec, and brought with him a number of his relatives and friends to help him in developing his claim.

The C. D. stage left at 6 a. m. yesterday for Whitehorse with the following passengers: Mrs. Franks, R. E. Nixon, Mr. and Mrs. A. Barclay, Miss Scharstrom, Mr. Kueny and C. B. Malarky.

This is the night when the Standard theater covers the bar and removes all objectionable features for the entertainment of the families of Dawson, and there is no doubt but that a large number will take advantage of it to see the beautiful comedy-drama "Pawn Ticket 210."

The I. O. O. F. Club held an interesting meeting last night with a large number of members present. Since its organization less than two months ago five burials have taken place under its auspices, two of whom have been government wards. An open meeting will be held April 26 to complete organization, and to celebrate the 87th anniversary of Odd Fellowship.

Death of Baby Marsden.

Little Flora, the one year and two weeks-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Marsden, died yesterday evening after an illness of a few days from a complaint the nature of which was not determined by the attending physician.

Mr. Marsden is the well-known manager of the A. E. Co.'s coal business and his many friends extend to him and to his wife their sincere sympathy in the bereavement which has robbed them of the light and joy of their home.
