BRITISH EX-PREMIER DIED THIS MORNING.

Passed Quietly Away In Downing Street.

Heart Failure Given as Cause of Death.

Remarkable Career of Dead Statesman.

London, April 22.-Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, former British Premier, died at 9.15 o'clock this morning at his official residence in Downing street. The end was peaceful.

The cause of Sir Henry's death is officially given as heart failure.

The death of Sir Henry, after a linering illness of more than two months did not come as a surprise. Although the doctors' bulletins had not declared his condition critical, that fact was perectly understood, and the public had been expecting the announcement of his end at any hour during the past fort-night. The news came in the form of the following bulletin at 10.30 o'clock this morning:

"Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman pass-ed peacefully away at 9.15 o'clock this morning. The cause of his death was heart failure.

"(Signed) R. W. Burnet." In the death chamber when the ex-Premier breathed his last were his niece, Mrs. Campbell, who had acted as Sir Henry's hostess since the death of Lady Campbell-Bannerman a little more than a year ago; Dr. Burnet, who was Sir Henry's personal physician, and who had been in constant attendance during his peen in constant attendance during his ong illness, and Sir Henry's butler. The ex Promier ex-Premier had been unconsciou anost of the time during the last two or three days, and his sinking was gradual. A few hours before his death telegrams were despatched to King Edward, who, with Queen Alexandra, is visiting the Danish royal family at Copenhagen, the Prince of Wales and the Cabinet Min-isters.

Prince of Wales and the Cabinet Ministers.

Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman's final illness dates from Feb. 12, when he last appeared in the House of Commons and moved the closure of the Scottish land bills, although he had been ailing since Nov. 13, 1907, when he participated in an entertainment in honor of Emperor William at the Guild Hall. On Nov. 14. after addressing a political meeting at Bristol, he was seriously stricken with heart weakness, and later influenza was added to his heart trouble, bringing on his fatal sickness.

The ex-Premier fully appreciated his condition and realized that his recovery was improbable. He offered to give up office some time before he formally resigned early this month. Few invalids have been the object of so much solicitude and attention as was bestowed upon Sir Henry, there having been a constant stream of callers at his Downing street residence, including King Edward, who visited him on two occasions, Queen Alexandra, the Dowager Empress of Russia, the Prince and Princess of Wales, and many prominent in public life. ### Sued By Sister (Spectial Despatch to the Times.) Windsor, Ont., April 22.— Miss Susan Bradley is suing her brother, Harry Bradley, a local jeweler, because he married last January. The plaintiff alleges that shortly after the death of her brother's first wife she gave up a position in Toronto to act as his housekeeper, on his premise that he would not marry again, and would always provide her with a home. She declares her brother's second marriage is a violation of the contract, and asks for damages of $6,000, or, failing this, wages as housekeeper at the rate of $450 a year for twelve years. The defendant sets up that if there were a promise not to marry it would not be binding, and as to further maintenance he has tried to provide a home for his sister.

Wife Did Not Appear In Non-Support Case.

Chief Smith and Magistrate Jeifs had a few minutes of whispered conversation in police court this morning when Edward Allan, of Toronto, came up for trial on a charge of vagrancy. He was held on this charge awaiting the decision of the Toronto police as to whether or not they could get enough evidence against him to proscute him on the charge of stealing a parcel from an express company in foronto a week ago, which contained a $40 fur coat. Allan refused to talk to the police and made a strenuous kick on Monday against being incarcerated. To-day, after the confab between the chief and the magistrate he was told to go and with a smile Allan put his hat jauntily on the side of his head and walked out.

The statutory open meeting of the icense Commissioners was held this afternoon. The Commissioners did not expect to have any deputations visit them owing to the fact that those interested had an informal meeting with the Commissioners a few weeks ago.

Mr. J. O. Callaghan, the chairman of the board, stated this morning that he did not expect any trouble at the meeting. The hotels throughout the city had been found in excellent condition, and he considered the proprietors had done well in improving their hotels. There was no doubt that, with the possible exception of one man, all the hotels would receive licenses for this year.

The one man to come under the bad graces of the Commissioners is Andrew Frank, of the Horseshoe Inn. He had been convicted of breaking the law on two occasions, and Chairman Callaghan said he would, in all probability, be asked to sell-out. Mr. J. O. Callaghan, the chairman

He said the board would probably come to that later on, but it was a little too soon to bring it up at present. It was a question of some importance and demanded serious consideration.

POLICE WANT HIM.

Man Who Is Too Free With Little Girls.

The police are on the lookout for a man whom they think is either a fit subject for the insane asylum or an escaped lunatic. For some time the residents on Main street west of Bay have been annoyed by him attempting to entice young girls away, and only last night he called some girls who were walking along the street, and asked them to go with him. Other and more serious charges are alleged against him, and the police intend making a determined effort to catch him. They have a good description, and have one man in view whom they think may be the man wanted, and they will investigate his character and his habits. An arrest may be made at any time.

He promised to have the matter of the promised to have the matter of the promised to have the aldermen, and that he had given Charlie Smith, the city messenger, instructions to stand guard at the door was being present settled as soon as the meeting opened. Sure enough, the aged messenger, whom it seemed a shame to keep away from his home until a late hour, was perched on a chair outside the Mayor's office with the key of the door in his pocket. As each alderman arrived the door was unlocked and promptly slammed shut again.

The Mayor said that the vote stood about twelve to eight against the meeting opened. The four aldermen who declared they voted to have the press represented were Aldermen Farrar, man Dickson and one or two others were not present when the vote was tak.

What Adam Beck Said to Alderman

Has Somewhat of Savor of Intimidation.

Press Excluded From Conference Last Night

Although the special City Council neeting last night, at which Hon. Adam Beck, chairman of the Hydro-Electric Com nission, and his chief lieutenants were billed to enlighten the aldermen on the power question, was held behind closed pors, it might be surmised from the nformation gathered after the session that a deliberate threat was used to force Hamilton into the scheme. According to Mr. Beck, if Hamilton ontracts for Hydro-Electric power the ransmission line to Toronto will be built across the Beach, and the switchthat the commission's men will be able to do Hamilton's work at the transforming station. If Hamilton is not prepared to go into the scheme now the Government will build the line on the high land six miles south of Hamilton, making it far more expensive for the city to make a contract in the fu-ilton, making it far more expensive for the city to make a contract in the future.

Mr. Beck's argument is that the Government by building the transmission line on the high land can shorten the distance to Toronto by six miles or more. Just how he figures that this can be done by taking the line away around by Dundas is something more than many of the aldermen could figure out. None of them offered an explanation of it, and even Mayor Stewart frankly admitted that he did not know how it was to be done.

The meeting was neld in the Mayor's private offices, and the arrangements to bar the reporters bordered on the ridiculous. At noon yesterday the three papers reached an understanding with the Mayor that they would not send to have the meeting private. The editor of the Herald rather regretted the meeting was to be private, as he desired to hear the matter discussed. CHAPTER XX.

James, as he left the chapel, felt that he was degraded. He mounted his horse and rode slowly away, pondering this degradation. Every moment revealed to him his own conduct in a more despicable light. When he had fancied himself highest, grandest, he had been playing the part of a villaim—of an egotistical villain. He had closed his eyes to Gabrielle and had opened them only to-himself. His own aspirations, his own advancement, had formed his one idea. But again he said within his heart that he had gone too far to recede. How would the world regard him if he turned his back on Miss Featherstone now after attentions so public, so deliberate, as he had made it his business to pay her—attentions which she had en couraged, which, as all might see, had won her heart, or. James bitterly thought the thing that answered for her heart? How would such conduct appear to hear family to her friends? How.

thought the thing that answered for her heart? How would such conduct appear to her family, to her friends? How, indeed, to Gabrielle? Was it probable that Gabrielle would allow herself to be east off or taken up at his pleasure? Of course, she could not penetrate his motives. To her he must simply seem a heartless, selfish flirt; a slave to mere heauty, too—nay, even a hypocrite! For he remembered conversations which had unfolded to her the santuary of his inner life, which had revealed to her his highest aims, his most ambitious dreams. How, in her sight, did his practice and his theory accord? And, low as he had doubtless already sunk in her estimation, would not if, to return to her, he forsook Miss Featherstone, sink even lower?

would not if, to return to her, he sook Miss Featherstone, sink even lov Would she not scorn and spurn him as —well, perhaps, as he deserved?

Would she not seorn and spurn him as —well, perhaps, as he deserved?

Or, supposing every obstacle removed —supposing that she did receive him, and he made her his wife—would not this bring him to the very point which, to avoid, he had brought so much misery upon himself and, as he feared, upon her? For if, when he scarcely spoke to her from day to day—when their fellow ship was chiefly confined to meals at the same table, to a sojourn under the same roof—he yet from day to day loved her more, felt her grow deeper into his heart; if this were the case now, how would it be were they united in the closest of all ties—were she, in the sight of God and man, his own, to love and cherish, as a duty, till death? Such a state of things could not—no, could not—exist without absorbing his whole heart and soul and mind; without, as he had dreaded, subordinating his intellect to his affections. And then he would have to own himself beatem—his own master never more!

Away flew Cissy. But she was not back in a moment, or in many moments. The housekeeper was upstairs, the wine was under lock and key, and a considerable delay ensued. And, meanwhile, Gabrielle, thoroughly exhausted, dropped asleep, the tears still wet upon her cheeks.

James was hanging about restlessly in the hall, pausing sometimes before a statue, but seeing nothing. He had been in a hurry when he entered the school room, and, in fact, his horse was at this moment waiting, saddled and bridled, at the foot of the steps. Both horse and hurry, however, were forgotten now.

Presently the suspense became intolerable. He returned to the school room.

waiting, saddled and bridled, at the look of the steps. Both horse and hurry, however, were forgotten now.

Presently the suspense became intolerable. He returned to the school room, opened the door. Cissy was gone, Gabrielle asleep; he entered with hushed tread, walked to her side, and, half-sitting, half-leaning, on the table near her, gazed. And as he gazed his heart sank lower, lower. Upon her brow was the impress of suffering. Something in the fall of her eyelids spoke of utter weariness, something in the lines of her mouth, of that inward siskness which wears the life away. Suddenly she moved, and apoke. He bent his head and caught the words:

"Yever hereafter to wake or to weep—"

"He recognized the quotation; yet he shuddered.

"So you are here? That's quite unnecessary," said Cissy's voice behind him. "I beg you'll go again—Ah! I thought I should find her asleep."

"Gissy, how delicate Gabrielle looks!"

"Fearfully delicate," assented Cissy," "Fearfully delicate," assented Cissy, "Fearfully met his sunshiny smile and felt her hand pressed warmly in his brotherly grasp, forgot for the moment all her troubles. Of course, Olivia contrived that he should take her in to dinner, and she would have been almost happy, she thought, as she, sat there by his side, but for the consciousness of frequent and, she fancied, anxious glances thrown in their direction by James. And, after each direction by James. And after each glance he was thoughtful, silent. He seemed unhappy, harassed, worn. Oh, how puzzling it all was! If she could only, though but for one instant, look into his mind!

And he was gone, as though he could trust himself no longer.

"When the night is darkest the dawn is nearest." Only a few minutes ago, how dark had Gabrielle's night appeared! And now, when she least expected without a struggle, which, for Gabriene's back, she forewent, and in a highly digming manner anowed herself to follow in his train.

"Tell me at once, if you please, and be quick about it. I must go back to Gabrielle."

"The matter ago the wast of the bitterest drop in her cup of trouble had passed.

And James!

And he was gone, as though he could trust himself no longer.

"When the night is darkest the dawn out each day of Charlle Godfrey's visit. In spite of all that he had endeavored without a struggle, which, for Gabriene's whether real dawn or merely a transitory ray, she did not make the could without a struggle, which, for Gabrielle without a struggle, which, for Gabriele's how dark had Gabrielle's night appeared! New York, April 21.-Thomas O'Connor and his wife, Frances O'Connor, also known as Frances McLean, were found guilty before a jury in U. S.

found guilty before a jury in U. S. circuit court to-day on two counts of an indictment charging them with using the mails to defraud. Judge Holt sentenced O'Connor to 15 months in Clinton prison and suspended sentence on Mrs. O'Connor.

The O'Connors were charged with sending circulars through out the country by mail saying that they had inside information on the stock market and could so advise clients that they could not fail to reap big profits in speculations made on their suggestions. Mrs. O'Connor, under the name of Frances McLean posed as the possessor of the "inside information."

ST. JOHN'S, ANCASTER.

The annual vestry meeting of St. John's Church, Ancaster, was held Monday evening in the parish house, Rural Dean Belt being in the chair. The church was shown to be in a splendid condition financially and otherwise. The receipts for the year amounted to 8973. Apart from this amount is the Lador bequest of $1,100, and also $1,500 that was received in the sale of land to the Brantford & Hamilton Railway. Mr. W. T. Barr was elected the rector's warden, and Mr. A. M. Postans the people's warden. Mr. W. T. Barr was re-elected lay delegate to the Synot.

BEAT FATHER TO DEATH.

The Result of a Drunken Quarrel Among Indians.

Vancouver, B. C., April 21.—An Indian was brought down from Smith's Inlet, a hundred and eighty miles up the coast, and committed to New Westminster and committed to New Westminster jail on a murder charge. The preliminary hearing at Alert Bay shows that the accused, a youth of twenty-one, quarrelled with his father, both being drunk. The accused went into a hut, found his father lying down, and beat him so severely that he died in a few days.

42 FEDERAL BUILDING. Phone 616. House 278. RAILWAY BOARD.

(Special Despatch to the Times.) Ottawa, April 22.—The first public sitting of the Board of Railway Co sioners, under the chairmanship of Judge Mabee, was begun this morning, a considerable number of applications from railway companies being on the list for hearing. One of the most important was hearing the application of the Canadian Northern Railway for authority to take over some sixteen acres of land along the Don River in the city of Toronto for use as railway yards. In opening the sitting, Judge Mabee announced that the board had decided to hold regular sittings on the first Tuesday of each month. Heretofore there have been no regular fixed dates for the hearing of applications. Any application may be heard at the regular monthly meetings, provided ten days' notice is given in advance. Special sittings of the board will also be held in Ottawa and other places from time to time, as occasion may arise.

Mr. G. R. Creelway, K. C. asked leave. ioners, under the chairmanship of Judge

Mr. G. R. Creelman, K. C., asked leave to tender congratulations to the new chairman on behalf of the bar, but Judge Mabee modestly requested that any complimentary remarks be omitted on the present occasion. The present sitting of the board will be continued for three days, the last day being taken up with general viscussion with representatives of the railway companies and of Railway Men's Unions in reference to uniform rules, hours of labor for employees, etc.

At An End.

At End.

The carpenters' strike in this city, which was declared on May I last year, is reported to be at an end. The bosses would be admitted if they saw fit to attend, but that the reporters would not be allowed in until 9.30, when the meeting was well under way. Then for two and a half hours the aldermen talked power with Mr. Beck, Engineer Sothman and Solicitor Lobb, of the Hydro-Electric Commission.

Well Received.

Electric Commission.

"It is quite clear we must take all responsibility," were the Mayor's first words when it was all over. His version of the meeting and that of some of the aldermen did not harmonize. "It was as pleasant and harmonious as could be." said his worship. The only fault he had to find was with Ald. Harry Wright, who, he said, asked Mr. Beek some "awk, ward and embarrassing questions." The Mayor thought that Mr. Beek was just there to answer questions and not to talk about the Cataract Power Company and that he should not be embarrassed.

Well Received.

Messrs. Dr. H. R. Frank, A. W. Hollinghes and W. S. Brewster yesterdity waited upon Hon. Dr. Pyne. Mr. Beck told the Council that although the by-law passed by Hamilton a year ago did not authorize it to be liable for a greater sum than $17.50 that it would be legal to enter into a contract under this for the power no matter what it might cost. In another breath he explained that if when it came to letting the tenders it was seen that the power was going to cost Hamilton more than $17.50, and the other municipalities accordingly, that he had Mr. Whitney's promise that the scheme would not be gone on with until the would not be gone on with until the would not be gone on with until the council.

Mr. Beck must have also used an argument to prod the aldermen to action from the story told after the meeting. They were informed that it was likely that Toronto would sign the contract with the government next week and that the commission would assume from this that all the other municipalities were coming in and would go ahead and build the transmission lines.

Mr. Beck declared that it would make no difference to Toronto whether Hamilton went into the scheme or not as far as competition in price was concerned and that Toronto's power would be as cheap even though Hamilton remained out.

BECK'S BIG STICK.

Three years of talk, and not one minute of "do" is the record which Hon, Adam Beck has made with his power scheme, and still he comes back to Ham ilton to talk some more-to talk to the aldermen behind closed doors, in order that embarrassing questions may not be reported, and insults offered to representatives of the people who want to be informed may be allowed to pass unnoticed. Many months ago Hon, Mr. Beck talked to the people—the official people of Brantford, and made fine promises which he was afterwards forced to withdraw. Months ago he came to Hamilton and talked. His talk gave great hope to those who pinned their faith to his power scheme, but it was only talk. l'y-laws have since been voted upon and carried by many municipalities; the Legislature has met and prorogued; the promise of guaranteed figures for power has proven a delusion, but the talk goes Spring is here and construction work could be done to advantage. The municipalities' representatives have met them for signature. It is a "heads I win, tails you lose" contract, with the l'on. Adam tossing the coin-but the From the various conflicting reports handed out of the meeting of Hon. Mr. Beck and the aldermen last evening, it would appear that the "minister of power" is now trying a little coercion and threatening. He tells the aldermen that if Hamilton does not step :ight up and sign the one-sided contract, the power line will be built so far away from the city that it will cost more to get power when the city wants it-and re still if it waits a few years before it decides to take Hydro-Electric cur-The fact that Engineer Sothman tells the aldermen that the price to Hamilton is likely to be lower than the estimate is nice talk, but the responsible head of the power project is not prepared to specify any figures which the Government will guarantee. Truly the project has been fying to the aldermen to attend such meetings as that of last night, and it may be good practice for Hon. Adam; but such gamerings do not help re-tore

Hon, Mr. Beck used the Big Stick over the heads of the aldermen last night. He breatened to side track Hamilton if it did not consent to take power from the nission at once. Instead of running the transmission line through by thi city, he would carry it over the mountain some half a dozen miles south of us make a turn round by Dundas and on to Toronto. And he even had the nerve to tell the aldermen that that would be a shorter route than via the Beach, Mr talk of Hamilton staying out of the scheme for the present, and this change route was threatened to scare the aldermen. But if Mr. Beck gives Hamilton the go by in this way, he will have to leave Toronto out of the reckoning cut to get there. The nearest way to lay a cable under the lake, and we have is Mr Rock was talking monsense, and supply power to Toronto and it is not going a dozen miles out of its way to spite Hamilton. The meeting having esition to give such a report of the proenough is known to show that the aldermen now know just about as much about the Hedro scheme as they ever did. Mr. Beck was not there, it seems, to give in- do as Mr. Maclean suggests. How many formation. He was there to get the consent of the Council to take the fatal plunge, by foul or fair means, with course, the Mayor is satisfied. Any old thing satisfies him now if it comes from themselves bound to follow the Premier and proud of it. The interests of the city are a secondary consideration. He is willing and ready to swallow the sion line and let Hamilton foot the bill But the citizens have some sense left have something to say in the matter be

PRETTY SMALL POTATOES.

The Hamilton Spectator seeks to belit tle the harbor improvement made by the Government here by alleging that the revetment wall-one of the best pieces of work of the kind on the continent, and which has not cost the city a cent creates a nuisance, and some of the aldermen say that holes will have to be cut in the wall to discharge the untreat cd sewage into the open bay. The Spe very injudicious in its effort to decry the work done for us by the Gov ernment. There will be no need of cut ting holes through the wall. The opening has been left for the extension of the Catharine street sewer; and no other is a matter to which the city should give attention Hamilton should not continue to make our beautiful bay a cess pool by discharging untreated sewage into it. The day for that sort of unsanitary proceeding has passed. What is the sense in spending money in building two or three sewage disposal plants, costing annually a large sum for operation, and then discharging a great volume of untreated sewage into a shallow portion of the bay within a short distance of citizens' houses? Long before the revetment wall was built, this was a sanitary crime of which Hamilton was the city dock castward recked with noiome smells. Conditions would be some what better if the city were to continu the sewer to deep water beyond revetment wall. But that sewer should never have been allowed to discharge its filth into the bay. Some day a Provincial board of health, with some appreciation of its duty, will compel us abate the nuisance. But in any event, it is rather humiliating to find that we have among our aldermen any who would wish to make pilgrimages to Ottawa to ask the Federal Government to assist us to the extent of building a few yards of a city sewer, after what the Government has done by way of bay front improvement.

PLACING THE BLAME.

A few days ago the Toronto World as diligently searching for excuses for Whitney's gross violation of his pledges to grant no further aid to railways in the settled portions of Ontario. of its methods of trying to let Whitney down easily was to blame it all on Mac Kay and the Opposition; and the reader of the World editorials might plead excuse if he were led to believe that the huge grant of land and the guarantee and have had a grossly one-sided and of $2,500,000 of bonds for the C. unfair form of contract presented to $1,500,000 of which is for terminals in Toronto, were entirely a work of that bad man, Liberal Leader MacKay, and that he had sprung it on the Province in the dving hours of the Legislature, and forced it through in spite of the desperate effort of Premier Whitney and his forty-odd majority. Severe was the ondemnation visited on the Liberal leader; almost apologetic was its mile ensure of the Premier and his majority

But the World has seen a new light Perhaps some hard-headed citizen given it a hint of how asinine its attitude appeared to the public; and not Mr. Maclean ventures to include Whit ney in his censure of the Premier's breach of faith. He even hints of things behind the deal. Listen:

Did any one ever see the pay sheet o some of the companies of these exploit ers of the public, and see how many relatives of Ministers, of members of Parliament, and of Legislatures, are on

There is suggestion in this paragraph Can it be that Mr. Maclean sees through the dust that Whitney has raised about this eleventh-hour measure which com tains so much potentiality of a certain kind, a host of brothers-in-law and other relatives of Whitney's Cabinet Ministers, invited to make use of their omething of the kind, it would be interesting to know what definition the World offers for some of its language

However that may be, Mr. Maclean has gradually come to see that Whit-ney's violation of his much-boasted principles is a serious offence against the honest electors of the Province. It Whitney some time to realize that he has been offering up homage to a very clavey idol. As the days have gone by however, he has found it useless to try to shut his eyes to the fact, or to palliate the wrong by attempting to blame The measure was a Government one, or take a round-about way for a short pressed with all the Government's strength, and supported by its obedient Toronto is this way, unless he intends to majority. That Mr. Maclean now places the blame where it belongs appears evident from this statement, made more in sorrow than in anger:

There is only one thing that can save a Minister from committing a crime of this kind, and it is a crime, and that is for his honest followers, when they hear, of it, to get up on the floor of the House, on the platform, and say they will never vote for it. One or two men doing that boldly will burst any such project if done in time. But it takes courage to do it.

But there was not even one of Whit.

But there was not even one of Whitney's followers who had the courage to of them had given up, for value received, ions and to criticise the Government virtue? Why should they have felt He is a Hydro Commission man, in his recreancy? That is the question the Ontario public is asking. Mr. Maclean offers no reply.

WHAT WAS THE INFLUENCE?

The Toronto News sees now only absofulfilled. He is chargeable with no neglect of duty, no taint of partisanship, no sympathy with spoilsmen. By the way, will the editor of Mr. Flavelle's paper tell the public how Premier Whitney has Whitney's invidious legislation! succeeded in explaining away the reprehensible conduct of the License Depart-ment, as a protest against which Mr. Flavelle and his fellow commissioners resigned office? And what was the nain mollifying them?

A man who answered advertisements in cheap "story papers" has had some interesting experiences. He learned that by sending one dollar to a Yankee he could get a cure for drunkenness. Sure enough he did. It was to "take the pledge and keep it." Later on he sent fifty two-cent stamps to find out how to raise turnips successfully. He found out—"Just take hold of the tops and pull." Being young, he wished to marry, and sent thirty-four one-cent stamps to a Chicago firm for information as to how to make an impression. When the answer came it read, "Sit down on a how to make an impression. When the answer came it read, "Sit down on a pan of dough," It was a little rough, but he was a patient man, and thought he would yet succeed. Next advertisement he answered read, "How to double your money in six months." He was teld to convert his money into bills, "fold them," and he would see his money doubled Next he sent for twelve needs! money doubled: Next he sent for twelve useful household articles and he got "a package of needles." He was slow to learn, so he sent one dollar to find out "How to get rich." "Work like the devil and never spend a cent." And that stopped him, but his brother wrote to find out how to write a letter without pen or ink. He was told to "use a lead pencil." He paid one dollar to learn how to live without work, and was told on a postal card to "Fish for suckers as we do."

Halifax, N. S., April 21.—A private legram from one of Dr. Alexander Graham Bell's staff at Hammondsport. N. Y., where the professor is at present continuing his investigations into the possibility of navigation of the air, says the last flight of the Redwing did not prove as successful as the first. After rising a few feet from the ground the machine became unmanageable, through failure of the motor to work, and, falling heavily, was badly smashed. The operator, however, escaped serious injury. The aeroplane will be fixed up and sent on another trial.

While Professor Bell is interested in this work with the aeroplane, he still believes that navigation in the air will first be solved by him at his laborato kite as his supporting surface.

REPLIED TO REV. DR. MARSH.

MRS ALLYN SPOKE ON SPIRIT UALISM LAST NIGHT.

Some Quiet Sarcasm Indulged in at the Expense of the Speaker on "Spiritualism is Demonism."

There was a large gathering in the A. W. Hall last night, when Mrs. C. F. Allyn, a spiritualist lecturer of Boston, made a reply to the sermon preached by Rev. E. S. Marsh, of New York the Gospel Tabernacle last Friday inght, in the course of which he referred to spiritualism as demonism. Mrs. Allyn's reply was a rather spirited one, atthough she said nothing unkind against the New York divine. Twice in the course of her address, which lasted nearly two hours, she displayed a fine brand of irony. In opening she said she wished to thank Dr. Marsh and Rev. Mr. Philpott for saying that hundreds of persons were going over to apritualism. It was honest of them to admit this publicly. Other orthodox ministers knew it, but few admit it. The lecturer, who is a fluent and pleasing speaker, then said she would quote passages from the King James edition of the Bible, the title of her address being "What Spiritualism is From the Word of God." She said that she would not argue the various points raised. She then referred to many passages from the Scriptures in which spirits are referred to. If Dr. Marsh beheves the Bible story of the woman of Endor it is his duty to try to cenvert spiritualists or stone them, she said. night, in the course of which he referred

According to the gospel of St. Matthew and the Acts Judas Iscariot was killed twice. If God's plan of the redemption provided that Christ should die on the cross, Judas was simply a tool in God's hands for the carrying out of the crucifixion. Then why should Judas be condemned? The Jewish race, according to orthodox preachers, supplied a Saviour. Why then has the Jew been persecuted by Christians from that day to the present?

As the Bible declared that man should rest on the seventh day and keep it holy, why do Christians observe the first day of the week instead? Why do they not keep the seventh day?

In her concluding remarks, Mrs. Allyn said that there were many seeming contradictions in the published Bible, and thoughtful people are bound to inquire. It is not our fault if we refuse to accept the statements of preachers with bind faith, instead of investigating for believed that he will be buried without ostentation beside the body of his wife at Meigle, in Perthshire, Scotland. David Lloyd-George, Chancellor of the Exchequer, on receiving the news of Sir Henry's death, said:

"I never met a great public figure since I have been in political life who won so completely the attachment and affection of men who came in contact with him."

Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman resigned the office of Prime Minister on April 5, suggesting in his letter to King Edward, who was sojourning at Biarritz, Herbert H. Asquith, Chancellor of the Exchequer and the then acting Premier, as his successor.

Mr. Asquith was summoned at once by the King, and received the appointment a few days later.

Sir Henry was born Sept. 7, 1836. He was the youngest son of the late Sir James Campbell, of Stracathro, Forfarshire, once Lord Provost of Glasgow, He assumed the additional name under the will of his maternal uncle, the late Henry Bannerman, of Honton Court, Kent, who bequeathed to him a large estate. He attended Glasgow University and Trinity College, Cambridge. In 1860 he married Charlotte, daughter of Major-General Sir Charles Bruce. She died in 1906, and since then Sir Henry's decline in health may be dated.

During the next two years he was Secretary to the Admiralty, and in 1884 he succeeded Sir George Trevelyan as Irish Secretary, filling that office ably until the fall of the Gladstone Ministry in 1885, in spite of the fact that the Irishmen described him as "The Scotch Sandbag." In the short Government of 1886 he was Secretary for War, and to that post he returned under the last Liberal Government. The Unionists suggested him as a candidate for the Speakership, to which Mr. Gully was appointed. He was chosen leader of the Liberal Opposition in succession to Sir appointed. He was chosen leader of the Liberal Opposition in succession to Sir William Harcourt in February, 1899. #### POWER DAM.

Opposition Tried to Find Scandal In Engineer's Plans.

(Special Despatch to the Times.) Ottawa, April 22.— The Opposition sought to make a point before the public accounts committee out of the preparation of plans for a power dam at St. Andrew's Rapids, Winipeg. E. H. Beautlett, eivil engineer, of Montreal, was on the stand, and his evidence showed that he had been employed to draw ed that he had been employed to draw plans. There was no similar work on this continent, and he had been sent to this continent, and he had been sent to Europe to examine similar French work. He had drawn the plans and had received altogether ten thousand dollars. The masonry work had been done on the dam but not the steel work while he had designed. He insisted upon being paid for his plans as fast as he turned them in. It was estimated that thirty thousand dollars would be saved by adopting this style of dam. He said he began to study the rapids in 1901, and to prepare plans in 1902.

Great as is our debt to Wolfe, Saunders, Murray and Amherst for the conquest of Canada, it must not be forgotten the man who alone planned it all, who chose these men and inspired them with his own high courage and a sense of Britain's glory, was the great Minister who shattered his health in the stupendous, task. This is the 200th anniversary of the greater Pitt's birth, and it is eer tainly mot unfitting that it should be signalized by associating his name prominently with the festivities in that part of the empire which we owe to him at least as much as to any single man."

Large Gathering Out to Hear the New York Divine.

Bases His Belief Squarely on the Word of God.

Rev. Dr. Marsh, of New York, whose series of addresses in Gospel Tabernacie during the past ten days have created widespread interest among Christian people, spoke last night again, dealing with Christian Science in a calm and logical way. The attendance was again large, and the speaker was followed with the closest attention. As in his denunciation of Spiritualism, Dr. Marsh laid his case squarely on the Word of God and the teachings of the Saviour, giving book, chapter and verse for every authority quoted, and bringing in an occasional infustration in the form of a story or incident, which made the point clearer and helped to maintain the interest—although that was not necessary the explained, at the outset, that the had decided to take by the subject amonumed, "Is Christian Science Curistians" because of having received a number of a displacement of the desire of Sir Wilfrid Laurier to establish a central bureau for the handling of all correspondence relating to imperial and loreign affairs.

The tendency of modern though, he said, is to take from us all that our lathers need precous, and it was therefore necessary for followers of Christ to be ever watcatud. The fight must be carried on, too, amongst the friends of Christianity. Even some who call themselves Christian ministers teach a mixture of Herbert Spencer, Darwin and Jesus Christ. Quoting the words of God.

Christian Science denies the personality of God. The Bible declares, "In the beginning God created man," but Christian Science denies that anything was created, and says man co-existed with God, therefore Christian Science denies God. Christian Science denies avil. Such teaching is the ministry of sin. Christian Science denies the substitution of Christ for the sins of the world, and says one sacrifice, however great, would be insufficient. Now what are you gosing to believe, this old gospel on which saints have lived, or the teachings of this woman?

"Upon a life I did not live, Upon a death I did not die; Upon another's life, another's death I stake my whole eternity."

Hamilton is ripe for just such a treat of black-lace fun, and it is lucky that George Primrose—the King Bee of Ministrelsy—has been the one selected to deliver the goods. His one new act alone is said to be the best this famous ministrel has ever had. It is entitled "The Watermelon Coons," and is in two seenes. The first represents a negro cabin, with its tangled growth of wild flowers; the second, a fascinating view of a watermelon patch abloom. By a clever manipulation of the lights, many wonderful and inspiring sights are produced.

English Opera Co. Coming.

English Opera Co. Coming.

The announcement that the Dunsmure English Opera Company will present Rossini's famous comic opera, "The Barber of Seville," at the Grand on Tuesday night, has created quite an amount of genuine, satisfaction. After a brief reign of so-called musical comedies, genuine comic opera is again to the fore. Rossini's famous work, "The Barber of Seville," stands for all that is best in comic opera, and its presentation should be hailed with delight by every theatregoer in this country; being bright and tuneful, without being heavy, and popular without being trashy. "The Barber of Seville" will be presented here by one of the strongest companies of artists ever brought together, being headed by the famous prima donna, Mme. Monti Baldini, late of the Manhattan Opera House, New York city. Mr. John Dunsmure, the celebrated basos, formerly with the Bostonians, De Wolf Hopper, The Grand Mogul Company, Pierre Gherardi, late tenor of the Metropolitan Opera House; Miss Lucia Nola, also from the Metropolitan Opera House; Roman Klekko, baritone, from the Royal Opera Company, Italy.

churches of the city met last evening in Centenary Church school-room for the purpose of electing officers for the ensuing year and hearing reports of the projects on foot for the furtherance of Methodism in this city. J. S. Harker vice-president, was in the chair. meeting opened with a strong and inspiring address by Rev. Richard Whiting on the work of the Union. He said he believed in the Union and its laudable objects, but one of the objects it had so far overlooked was the spread of Methodism in the city, and he believed it should be utilized for this purpose. To do this rightly, he considered it should be affiliated with the City Mission Board, and this was the only possible way he saw of getting good and com-plete results. The Union ought to have committees out now, while the city is committees out now, while the city is growing, he said, and it should not allow all the work of getting members to be done by the Anglicans and the Presbycerians. An Educational Committee was strongly advocated by him to make Hamilton an educational centre of no mean repute to feed the college at Toronto with men of worth. Work for the educational committee could be found among the factories. The city was growing in new industries and many employees were being brought here to ployees were being brought here to make cictzens of. It was all right in that way, but quantity and not quality were being considered, and the education of some of them needed polishing up in the manner a good, live committee from Methodist churches could arrange. the Methodist churches could arrange. The two committees would be better able, co-operating to see to judiciously planting new churches in the city. All the churches would be represented on the proposed board, and they would have nothing to throw at one another in regard to bungles in the planting of churches which turned out badly owing to location. He also believed that the Church of Jesus Christ should be closely identified with the work of the hospitals, as the Catholic churches were. The advisability of throwing in their lot, as the Methodists of Hamilton, with the already established hospitals or building one of their own was a question to be decided at a more favorable time.

A layman member of the Union put a motion to make the Mission Board a feature of the Union. Rev. Dr. Williamson announced that this would be impossible as the board was appointed by the General Conference and the Union was a minor affair to them. It was therefore decided to see hope in the promise of the Union was a minor affair to them. The two committees would be

The chairs were taken promptly at eight with the President, George F. eight with the President, George F. Foote, as to astimaster. Before commencing he read telegrams of regret from King Eddie. Teddy Roosevelt, Col. Otter, Allan Studholm and Michael Joyce, but their absence were entirely forgotten amid the enthusiasm over the excellent speeches of the young orators. Following was the toast list:

Sister Societies—"Let us work together; one heart, one hand," (Anon); music, Mr. W. Binney.

Something special, not included on the programme, was the introduction of Col. Jas. Upsdell in his maiden speech. This was one of the big hits and a novelty of James L. Jolley, the workingman's friend. Mr. Jolley has been noted for furnishing dark horses and this one was one of his good things. The Colonel dealt on various subjects varying from art and literature to the labor question. He was attired as the season's fashion plate and wore one of Glover Applegath's grey silk hats. During the course of his brilliant and eloquent remarks, which captivated everybody, he pointed out how far ahead Hamilton was of New York in the season's styles, in a laughable manner. Short congratulatory addresses were given by the representatives present and for a winding up Percy McDonald took a flashlight of the gathering.

Children's day to-morrow at the Right House: Welcome

Every child and young miss in Hamilton and vicinity are cordially invited to come

OME mothers and bring the children along to-morrow. We want every child and every dainty young Miss in Hamilton and vicinity to see the hundreds of pretty and practical things we have gathered for their spring and summer wear. Mothers will be glad to know that this season we are making a special feature of children's apparel. All the new things will be out on parade to-morrow.

Mothers, as well as daughters, will delight in the broad exhibition of dresses, suits, coats, underwear, stockings, millinery, belts, ribbons and dress materials.

Again we say, a hearty welcome to every little lady and her mother to-morrow. You will find here new ideas, new and dainty styles, and opportunities to buy charmingly effective and practical children's apparel at prices less than the materials would cost alone, in most cases.

Many mothers have been awaiting The Right House children's opening and will secure summer garments now as well as those required for spring wear. Assortments are complete and those who like first choice should select this to be Married.

New York, April 21.—Miss Florence Farwell, the daughter of a wealthy Canadian banker, and a boarding scholar in a fashionable school in this city, and Roy Hosmer McGibbon, a young medical student of Montreal, were married this afternoon in a romantic fashion by Dr. D. J. Burelle, in the Marble Collegiate (burch at Fifth avenue and Twenty-ninth street, After the ceremony the bride returned to the boarding school, which is one of the most fashionable in the city and is within a stone's throw of Fifth avenue.

her husband just attained his majority. The courtship was pursued in Montreal, Atlantic City and New York. The bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed-ward Farwell, are now cruising on the Nile. Monday afternoon Mr. McGibbon and Monday afternoon Mr. McGibbon and Miss Farwell went to the license bureau, and, swearing that they were of age, received a permit to wed. Miss Farwell yesterday morning went shopping with a chaperon, whom she managed to elude, joining McGibbon. The latter was accompanied by his brother Philip, and the trio hastened to the Marble Collegiate church, where the couple were married.

Hon, Mr, Brodeur said Mr. George Watson, K. C., and Mr. G. L. Perron, K. C., had been appointed to assist Justice Cassels, in that investigation. He had had an interview with Justice Cassels, who expressed a desire that some lawyers should assist him to carry out the investigation.

Hon. Mr. Brodeur—I do not think their report is under review, or that it will have to be particularly investigated, except that they have made some representations, and the investigation will be lassed on these.

The time for disallowance had almost expired, and that was the reason why he now raised the question. He considered that chanters 2 and 25 of the Sand stred, and that was the reason why he now raised the question. He considered that chapters 2 and 25 of the Sasianthewan statutes were ultra vires of the autonomy act of 1907, or that at any nate-they had a strong flavor of illegality. They would give the Province of Saskinthewan the power to tax the Roman Catholic minority for schools to which they would not send their chil-

House that most careful consideration had been given to both statutes, but he had not been able to detect even a flavor of illegality. The statutes were not to be disallowed unless there was real illegality. He would even go so far as to say that unless it could be clearly seen that any legislation upon a particular subject by a Provincial Legislature had overstepped the limits of the jurisdiction conferred by section 92 of the British North America act there ought not to be disallowance.

Mr. Bergeron congratulated Mr. Lavergne on having raised the question. While in Saskatchewan Roman Catholics had told him that they could not vote against Mr. Turgeon, as he was a Roman Catholic, but that they strongly disapproved of the bill passed by the Provincial Legislature, which would give it the right to tax the minority for schools in which they did not believe.

made good progress with several Government bills.

Mr. Smith (Nanaimo) introduced a bill to amend the railway act by providing for an eight-hour day for railway despatchers and telegraphers. The bill was read the first time.

Replying to Mr. Borden, Sir Wilfrid Laurier said it was not the first time that he had seen a Roman Catholic trying to be more catholic than the 1ºope. They had just had an instance of a member saying something that would spread the vary sentiments of which he complained. If there were Roman Catholics in Saekatchewan who enterated to the United States Senate dealing with inland fisheries and the boundary question. He had telegraphed to the British Ambassador to have a copy of the treaty forwarded as soon as possible.

Mr. Borden asked whether the Government was aware that certain officials of the Intercolonial Railway were instructing employees of that railway how to vote in the approaching civic elections.

Hon. Mr. Graham said that was the first intimation he had agreeived that any employee of the Intercolonial was free to exercise his full rights as a citizen, without interference by anybody.

The Marine Investigation.

Mr. Borden asked whether it was true that counsel had been appointed in connection with the investigation which was to be carried out by Mr. Justice that counsel had been appointed in connection with the investigation which was to be carried out by Mr. Justice that counsel had been appointed in connection with the investigation which was to be carried out by Mr. Justice delared was no violation of the parties of the minority, would have disallowed that if they had an act which the Minister of Justice had called the counsel had been appointed in connection with the investigation which was to be carried out by Mr. Justice delared was no violation of the parties of the minority, would have expected that member for the Minister of Justice had called the counsel had been appointed in connection with the investigation which was to be carried out by Mr. Justice the minority wou ed an act which the Minister of Jus-tice declared was no violation of those rights. He would have expected that members from the Province of Quebec especially would be very chary before they advised the Government to dis-allow an act as to which there might be a doubt. The motion for adjourn-ment was lost.

Canned Foods Act Repeal.

The House afterwards went into committee on Hon. Mr. Fisher's bill to repeal the canned goods act, passed many years ago, but never put into force. Mr. Fisher explained that the old act conflicted with certain features of the act passed last session, particularly in regard to local inspection.

Mr. Borden and other members of the Opposition pointed out that under the old act the local consumer was protected, and maintained that to repeal it would remove a safeguard as to the purity of food. The House afterwards went into con-

Mr. Fisher claimed that the question of inspection of canned foods for local consumption was one which should be left to the Provincial authori-ties to deal with. The existence of the old act had led to confusion with regard to marking.

Dr. Sproule objected to the reepal of the old act, on the ground that it provided penalties for false marking of goods.

Mr. Fisher explained that there was no machinery under the old act for enforcing these penalties.

Dr. Sproule then began to impute motives suggesting that the Minister of Agriculture was acting on representations made by interested parties. This Mr. Fisher emphatically denied.

Mr. Borden—Is Justice Cassels' investigation to be held with open or closed deors?

Hon. Mr. Brodeur—That is a matter for the judge to decide.

Pardon for Doukhobors.

Mr. Lake asked whether it was true as had been reported, that the Minister of Justice had contemplated pardoning the Doukhobors at Port Arthur in shipning them back to Saskatchewan. If so, on what grounds and authority was that step contemplated, at whose exmense were these people to be sent back to Saskatchewan. If so, on what grounds and authority was that step contemplated, at whose exmense were these people to be sent back to Saskatchewan. "Sir Wilfrid Laurier said that as the question was rather involved notice should be given.

Mr. Smith (Nanaimo) called attention to a newspaper despatch stating that there had been a legal clash between the Dominion and Provincial Governments over the fisheries question.

Hon. Mr. Brodeur—That is a matter for the judge to decide.

Mr. Kemp asked an explanation as to the effect of the act with regard to the use of private brands. He understoom to a newspaper despatch stating that there had been a legal clash between the Dominion and Provincial Governments over the fisheries question.

Toronto, April 22.-In the course of an address of welcome to the Ontario an address of welcome to the Ontario Educational Association last evening in Convocation Hall, at the first general session of its forty-seventh annual meeting, Hon. R. A. Pyne, Minister of Education, asnounced that the Government of Ontario are going to improve the textbooks of the Province and give them to the public at reduced price. He said it was his dream to have a Canadian series of readers, and that the Government were in negotiation with the other it was his dream to have a Canadian series of readers, and that the Government were in negotiation with the other Provinces on the matter. Referring to the entrance examination, Dr. Pyne said that it had not, as had been alleged, been interferred with by the department in any way, but the examination had grown to be the public school leaving, and had become a complicated question, with which he hoped the association would wrestle. In conclusion he said that if they passed resolutions to be passed up to the Government, he hoped they would attach the reasons, and thereby very materially help the Government. The attendance at the convention this year is very large, about six hundred having registered yesterday morning, a much larger number than ever before on the first day.

The President of the association, L. E. Embree, LL.D., dealing in his Presidential address with "Some Tendencies in Education," deprecated the notion that boys and girls must make their own problems as a preparation for the work of a world where we have to confront problems not shaped to suit our own inclinations. He claimed that the subjects that make for culture were still necessary to a complete education.

He claimed that the subjects that make for culture were still necessary to a complete education that must fit a man to spend his leisure time profitably to himself and others as well as to get on in the world. Speaking of the kindergarten, Dr. Embree doubted if the results of a decade or more of kindergarten work have justified the claims made for it by its advocates. He did not favor the wholesale condemnation of examinations, believing that properly conducted examinations were an important factor in education. He pleaded for the same proportionate value to be placed upon experience in the teacher's profession as in other professions, and believed that the effective period of a teacher's service should be judged, not by years, but by the active interest he takes in affairs, by his responsiveness to new ideas and his responsiveness to new ideas and his readiness to adapt himself to

Wright, Great Oarsman, Honored.

Toronto, April 22.—The complimentary banquet to Capt. Joseph Wright, of the Argonaut Rowing Club last night was a magnificent affair—one of the most successful of the kind ever held in this city. Over two hundred of the great oarsmen's friends and admirers gathered to do him honor, and he was made the recipient of several appropriate addresses and exquisite presents.

After the speeches of unreserved praise which were addressed to him. Mr. Wright found himself in a trying position, but he made a worthy reply, in which he said he had always tried to be fair with club mates and opponents, to which he attributed no little of the success which he was glad to know he had attained. He exhorted the young athlete to take good physical care of himself: and, al. Walker. #### DR. CURPHEY EXPLAINS.

The Gurney-Tilden Company will open in a day or two, and some others will follow next Monday. As soon as all the shops are working the bosses will ask that the President of the International Union come here to consider the question of reduction in wages. The bosses claim that in the interest of the trade here a reduction should be made, and the union will consider the application. It has been decided by the bosses, however, that so far as the stove mounters are concerned the "open shop" principle must prevail. They claim the Stove Mounters' Union is unreasonable—different from the Moulders' Union—and that in future it will not be recognized. One local firm has advertised for men.

BOGUS CHEQUES.

DR. CURPHEY EXPLAINS.

To the Editor of the Times:
Sir,—In your report of the Police Commissioners' meeting yesterday Chief Smith is stated to have called the attention of the commissioners to the case of a doctor who called the ambulance to 44 Gore street to remove a man to the lompital, the man being away when the lambulance came. As I was the doctor alluded to, I would like to state that the patient has pneumonia, and to submit that the proper means of his conveyance to the hospital was the ambulance. The fact that the patient left his bed after the doctor had gone reflects absolutely no blame on the doctor, the indiscretion being entirely on the patient to remove him in an ambulance. Yours, etc.,

A. G. Curphey, M. D. Hamilton, April 22.

Even the doctor sometimes can't keep body and soul together.
