CHAPTER XXXIV.

It was a terrible position for a delicate, sensitive woman. Sidney felt that even the knowledge of his guilt had made no change in her passionate love for her husband, that, while she shrank from him, she loved him still with the deepest, truest love, and that, even if the punishment of his guilt should overtake him, it would make no change in her love, no alteration in her feelings for him. She loved him, and nothing that he could do, not even his unworthiness, could destroy the love which her pity for him seemed only to increase.

And her anxiety was never at rest, never for one moment of the liveliest day. Even her sleep was haunted by the horror of the thought that Christian Greville would not rest now until she had aroused suspicion of Stephen's guilt, and led up to an inquiry into the murder which would result in Frank's innocence being proved. She had heard nothing from Christie since she left Easthorpe, save that she was still very ill and unable to leave her room, a circumstance to which Sidney attributed her present inaction; or perhaps, she thought sometimes, she was waiting until Frank was safe in the Colonies before she took any step in the matter. Nor had she heard of or from Frank himself since his visit to Easthorpe as Dr. Anderson. Once or twice a dread crossed her that he had written to her during her illness, and that the note had fallen into other hands; but the thought did not remain with her. If it had been so, surely she would have heard of it ere now!

Heaven only knew how Sidney Daunt suffered during those days of anxiety and suspense!

Sometimes, when Stephen was with her, she had been tempted to tell

Best Way to Loosen a Stubborn Cough

This home-made remedy is a wonder for quick results. Easily and cheaply made.

Here is a home-made syrup which millions of people have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It is cheap and simple, but very prompt in action. Under its healing, soothing influence, chest soreness goes, phlegm loosens, breathing becomes easier, tickling in throat stops and you get a good night's restful sleep. The usual throat and chest colds are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, whooping-cough, croup, throat tickle, bronchial asthma or winter coughs.

To make this excellent cough syrup, pour 5/8 ounce of Pinex into a 16-oz. bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup, and shake thoroughly. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you get 16 ounces—a family supply—of much better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for $2.50. Keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

in manner to Sidney had changed. Ever since that interview at Easthorpe when he had had proof that she was loving her husband, there had been a slight constraint between them, which even her kindness with regard to his engagement had not obliterated, but now that was entirely gone, and there was an extreme gentleness and sympathy in his manner which the poor girl could not but feel, and, feeling, attributed to the wrong mother. He too, she thought, suspected Stephen's guilt and pitied her.

As she sat, holding her great white fan, listening to the polite common-places of a gentleman by her side, Sidney's thoughts wandered away from the gay scene before her to her husband. What was he doing? she wondered. Was he alone in the library, reading or writing? Was he at Lambwood? Was he at Easthorpe, in his beautiful solitary home? Was he thinking of her, or was he meditating flight, as he had meditated once before? Ah, if he would go away and take her to one of those far-off countries where no one would know them, and where he would be safe, there might be some happiness in store for them yet.

"Here is some one you know, Sidney," Lady Agnes said, breaking off her conversation with another chaperon, as a gentleman in a superb Cavalier dress came up and doffed his broad-brimmed hat as he bowed low before Sidney. "For a moment she did not recognize him; then, with a faint smile, she put out her hand in greeting to Lord de la Poer.

"I am delighted to see that you are so much better," he said, taking a seat by her side. "But you look far from strong yet."

"Thank you; I am better. I did not know you were in Brighton, Lord de la Poer."

"I came down last night for this ball," he answered, smiling; "but I think of staying for a few days—Brighton is very pleasant just now."

Sidney glanced at him questioningly. Was he still as much attracted by Dolly as before; and had he not heard of the engagement between her and Lloyd Miller? Sidney, her thoughts momentarily removed from her own trouble, was nervously wondering whether she ought not to tell him of it, when his next words solved the difficulty.

"I have not yet congratulated you on Miss Daunt's engagement," he said. "Mr. Miller's old friendship with your husband has doubtless made the arrangement a very satisfactory one."

"Yes, we are all very pleased," Sidney answered simply. "Dolly has a very fair prospect of happiness before her."

"I hope so," said the earl gravely. "I need hardly tell you," he added, with a slight laugh, "that I did not hear of it with unmixed pleasure, Mrs. Daunt."

"I am sorry," she told him.

"At first I was almost in despair," he said ruefully. "But I got over it, you know—with a slight boyish laugh. And Mrs. Daunt, I am beginning to hope that it is on the cards that I shall some day be related to you."

Sick a Year. Got Great Benefit from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Bloomington, N.S.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for pains and backache, also for nervousness, sick headaches and sleeplessness. I was troubled in this way for over a year, and a friend told me about the Vegetable Compound and induced me to take it. I must say I have received great benefit from it and am able to do my housework now. I recommend the Vegetable Compound myself and am willing for you to use this letter as a testimonial."

Mrs. WILLIAM MORSE, Bloomington, Annapolis County, Nova Scotia.

"Do you know that in a recent census among women users of the Vegetable Compound over 220,000 replies were received. To the question, 'Have you received benefit by taking this medicine?' 98 per cent. replied 'Yes.' This means that 98 out of every 100 women are in better health because they have given this medicine a fair trial.

Beautiful teeth—as fair and lovely as the smile that reveals them—are truly fascinating. Their whiteness heightens the charm of ruby lips, and reflects the glowing health of their owner.

But the beauty of teeth is only enamel-deep. A gritty cleanser is dangerous to their lustre. Colgate's Dental Cream contains no harmful grit. It is designed like a good toilet soap—with respect for the surface it must cleanse.

Keep your fascination. Use Colgate's twice a day, and consult the Dentist twice a year.

Have an Ideal

(By the Editor of Tit-Bits). An ideal in life is a wonderful asset to success. It is quite believable that a man who always thinks great thoughts about his life's work is almost beyond the possibility of failure.

The people who never seem to make good are those who try to get through in a slipshod fashion. Anything slipshod is an impediment and keeps us back. The people who have won through are those who have decided on the thing for which they will live and work; and, having decided, never permit that goal to be far out of sight.

A boy determines he will pursue a certain course in life, and he begins, say, to study for engineering. He will have to face many setbacks, but if he is wise he will plod on, determined that, come what may, he will allow nothing to discourage him. He will study everything possible about his chosen profession and go forward with enthusiasm towards the prize he has in view. To such a youth there can be no failure; he will face the music, come what may. This is so throughout the whole world. The men who count are those who are wedded to their ideals and leave nothing undone that will help to gain their end.

Have you ever thought what it has cost to produce the world as we see it? What hurtlings and earthquakes and catastrophes and shocks have been experienced in order to make this world so beautiful? And we are given to understand that even in this matter the best is yet to be! The finale of Nature's wonders is not yet. She still holds in her secret sway the wonders our children will come to look upon as commonplace.

And so in morals. Never believe that the world of men is getting worse. Let others speak of "the good old days" as they may, it still remains a fact that the best days any of us know are those that make up our lives to-day. If past days were good, let us rejoice with those who lived in them; but we must never believe it is true that there were better days than our own. Better people than ourselves may have lived, but the best, even in this matter, is yet to be.

Some people refer to the newspapers and suggest by the contents that men are no better than before. But remember, the papers record the unusual and extraordinary and that which is newsworthy and out of the way. People are better in living than formerly, and every discovery and effort to uplift men is another aid to the one increasing purpose that flows through all things.

In the walk of life we are called to do our best towards furthering the cause of a perfect and wholesome world; and the best way to do so is calmly and patiently to follow the gleam from the ideal that we have set for ourselves or others have set for us. Character is the factor that counts most in life.

We are here to laugh and be jolly. So long as we have the joy of life in us, we shall plod our way and every step will lead forward. The facturing life is dangerous. To be spasmodic is to degenerate. Discover the right road; then keep on keeping on.

Engineers of Empire

A very interesting ceremony, marking the completion of a great engineering feat, will take place this week when the Khyber Railway is officially opened.

Passengers on the two trains which are to make the first run over the new railway will be carried to Landi Kotal, the highest point of the pass, and they will see some remarkable scenery on their way. In places the pass is only fifty feet wide, and even at its widest it is no more than 450 feet. On each side of it, the mountains lower sheer into the sky, sometimes to a height of 8,000 feet.

Harbor Grace

The members of the United Church of Canada Sunday School in Harbor Grace, N.S., were successful in their efforts to raise a fund for the purchase of a new organ. The organ, which was valued at $1,000, was purchased from the Rev. H. S. B. Smith, Secretary Religious Provinces and was a special visitation. An excellent program was given, and the organ was brought through, at the corner of the school address. The Rev. H. S. B. Smith, Secretary Religious Provinces and was a special visitation. Rev. Stothard occupied the United Church of Canada and delivered a sermon. The congregation was large. It was the Rev. Stothard's first visit here, and he was impressed with the harbor Grace. He moved near on Sunday afternoon and the Rev. Stothard occupied the pulpit of the church for the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Austin Elsworth gave a pleasant surprise on Tuesday, when they gathered at Noad Street, and to a miscellaneous show. Little Rabbit

Look, bunny boy, pretty rabbit milkweeds and the new thick in the bushes. Little Jack Rabbit had to Rabbittville. He was uttering his usual "Burr burr" everywhere. He was sure enough, that was sowing seeds here and there. He was laden with seeds and everywhere. Yes, he wants many a seed.

See how faded the ferns on the goldenrod. The lady rabbit had reached them all with her nose. And the maple syrup on their leaves was a reward of darkly massed clover.

Love the autumn, little rabbit, with the damp to one side, the little sour fox-grasses, made them sweet, the of the tiny hedges-row. Won't Squirrel Nutcracker gather nuts? "O'er our way be the Windfall Tree, the best. Maybe we'll meet him. He'll be busy, too, winter food. He'll follow. Many a tree will show away in his winter ground."

Harbor Grace Notes

The members of the United Church Sunday School held their annual Rally service on Sunday last at Coughlin Hall, which was considered a very successful one. The weather was all that could be desired and the spacious hall was filled, there being a large number of the scholars, parents and friends. Rev. H. S. B. Strothard, Field Secretary Religious Education for Maritime Provinces and Newfoundland, was a special visitor on this occasion. An excellent programme was presented through, at the close of which Mr. Strothard addressed the Sunday school and congratulated the Supt., Mr. French, the Officers, Teachers and scholars on the splendid programme rendered. The offering was then taken and a very helpful and uplifting service was brought to a close by the singing of the Hymn:

Jesus calls us o'er the tumult
Of our day His sweet voice sounding
Saying, "Christian, follow me."

Rev. Strothard occupied the pulpit of the United Church on Sunday morning and delivered a very forceful sermon. The congregation was quite large. It was the Rev. gentleman's first visit here, and he was greatly impressed with the historic town of Harbor Grace. He motored to Carleton Place on Sunday afternoon and occupied the pulpit of the United Church there for the evening service.

Some fifteen or so friends of Miss Vera Elsworth gave her a very pleasant surprise on Thursday night when they gathered at her home on Wood Street, and tendered her a miscellaneous shower. Miss Elsworth, who had been for some time capable and efficient member of the staff of Nurses at the Mental Asylum, St. John's, resigned her position there about two months ago, and is to be married in the near future. In a few brief words Miss Elsworth thanked the gathering for this expression of their kindness and goodwill. Games were indulged in and a most pleasant evening spent by all present.

Mr. and Mrs. Austin Parsons and their children, Frances and Jack, left on Tuesday last week on their way to Boston, where they will probably make their home for the future. Four members of the family are already residing there and have made good. The good wishes of their many friends will follow them to the land of Uncle Sam.

Mr. R. K. Kennedy (Jr.), who has been attached to the Western Union Cable Co. at New York for the past two years or more, has recently been transferred to their office at Heart's Content and arrived here on Thursday last.

Mrs. Eugene Adams and two daughters, Doris and Lavinia, leave here on Monday en route to Detroit, Mich., U.S.A., where they purpose making their home in the future. Five members of the family have been residing there for the past two years or so. We trust that they will meet with good fortune in their adopted home.

Dr. W. S. Goodwin and assistant, Mr. William Stevenson who have been North for some weeks past on a professional visit, returned to town again on Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Harold Jerrett and infant son left by Monday afternoon's train for Clarke's Beach to spend a brief time with relatives, and purposes leaving there for Corner Brook on Tuesday, where she will join her husband. She was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. R. S. Parsons, who will spend the winter at Corner Brook.

There was a parade of the 1st Harbor Grace Boy Scouts, the 1st Harbor Grace Company of Girl Guides and the Brownie Pack on Wednesday, Armistice Day. The parade commenced at 10 o'clock from the Scout Headquarters, Bannerman Street They put up a fine showing, and were favourably commented on by our citizens.

Schr. "Annie L. Warren." Capt. E. Vallis, which ship was here for dockage is at present awaiting the arrival of the tug, when she will be towed to St. John's.

The ladies of Christ Church held their annual Sale of Work on Wednesday night last which proved quite a success. The affair was well patronized and we understand that something over two hundred dollars was realized as a result of their efforts.

Mrs. Hugh Buchanan, of Boston, Mass., who has been for several weeks visiting her mother, Mrs. James Wells, at Bristol's Hope and other relatives, returns to her home again on Saturday after a very pleasant visit.

Little Jack Rabbit
by David Cory

"Look, bunny boy," cried Lady Love, the pretty rabbit mother, pointing to the milkweeds and thistles which grew thick in the hedge, as she and little Jack Rabbit hopped down the road to Rabbitville. "Billy Breeze is scattering his gossamer, fairy-like seeds everywhere."

Sure enough, that merry little wind was sowing seeds by the wayside, and even further. He knew that they descended on him to scattered their airships laden with seeds here and there all everywhere. Yes, sir, Billy Breeze plants many a seed for the mother plant.

"See how faded are the yellow banners on the goldenrod," went on the learned lady rabbit. "Jack Frost has touched them all with his chilly fingers. And the maples yonder, see how red are their leaves against the background of darkly massed pines and hemlocks."

"I love the autumn," laughed the little rabbit, with a hop, skip and jump to one side. "Here are some little sour fox-grapes. Jack Frost has made them sweet," he added, tasting two of the tiny grapes that grew in the hedge-row.

"Won't Squirrel Nutcracker have a nut time gathering nuts," said Lady Love. "On our way back we will take the Winding Trail through the Shady Forest. Maybe we'll meet Chippy Chipmunk. He'll be busy, too, storing away his winter food. He's a careful little fellow. Many a kernel of yellow corn stows away in his little storehouse under ground."

Pretty soon the two little bunnies came to the old log that served as a bridge across the Rabbling Brook. Over they went, hip-hip hop, chipping to the Pleasant Pasture, where the short thick grass was powdered heavily with the hoar frost, for it was very early in the morning. Oh very early indeed, and Mr. Happy Sun was very early out of bed. In fact, he had just waked off his purple coverlet and his yellow nightcap.

Then past the cornfield, where the withered brown shocks of corn stood like rusty tents all a-sparkle with the drops of frozen dew. Here and there gleamed the great golden pumpkins in their frosty lacelike covering.

"Professor Jim Crow told me yesterday all about hoar frost," shouted the little rabbit. "Mother, it's the water in the air which, when the thermometer says 32 degrees and lower, freezes and covers the grass and plants. I remember that."

"So you do," smiled Lady Love, pinching her little rabbit's ear, but very gently, of course. Yes, indeed. "But, let us hurry. We'll never reach Rabbitville."

"What's your hurry, cooed a pretty Turtle Dove.

The Three-in-One Cent Store if we linger Longer Lucy," and away hopped the little lady rabbit, faster than ever, her bonnet strings flying out behind her in the wind.

"What's your hurry, Lady Love?" cooed a pretty Turtle Dove.

"I must do some shopping in Rabbitville," answered the little rabbit's mother. "And as Cousin Cootentail is coming over for luncheon, I must get home in time." And in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

A very pretty wedding took place at Hoylesdown on Nov. 8th, when Rev. J. Pippy officiating, Philip Knowling was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Elizabeth Walsh. The bride, who wore a dress of Fawn Tricolette with hat to match, looked charming, and was attended by Johanna Walsh, who wore a dress of white embroidery and hat to match. The groom was supported by Mr. Nicholas Knowling, of Killbride. After the ceremony the happy couple and guests motored to the bride's future home, Waldgrave St. where the wedding supper was held and the usual toasts duly honored. Mammoth Production at The Nickel Monday

STORY OF LOVE AND HATE TENSE WITH EMOTION.

"Without Mercy" the George Melford Production presented by Metropolitan Pictures, Inc., which appears on the screen at the Nickel Theatre Monday, is a story of two women, mother and daughter, who have both fallen into clutches of the same man. The mother, who learned her lesson and luckily escaped him twenty years back, is faced with explaining him and his wife to her susceptible daughter, who is much enamoured with him.

To do this she suffers her life to be bared to the girl, and proves her case with scars she still bears from his hands. But the man's hold is strong on the girl, who loves him and believes in him.

The subsequent decision of the daughter changes many lives, sends one man to prison, and keeps another man from being elected to the English Parliament, before she sees her error. The story vibrates with action, and is tense with the emotions arising from great loves and hates.

In the cast are Dorothy Phillips, Rockwells Fellows, Vera Reynolds, Robert Ames, and Lionel Belmore. The picture is released through Producers Distributing Corporation.

Amazing Escapes

(By a former Gaol Governor)

The ingenuity of the prisoner is endless. The fact is that when a man's whole mind and energies are concentrated upon one subject he can and does achieve miracles.

While it is difficult to imagine a more toilsome task than cutting through thick masonry with a pair of scissors, as the two prisoners who escaped from Pentonville did, there are cases on record of even less likely tools being employed for a similar purpose. Five years ago all the convicts confined in Marion County Gaol, Indianapolis (U.S.A.), escaped through one of their number managing to obtain a watchmaker's saw, which was smuggled to him inside the cover of a small book. The bars of the cells were immensely thick and made of specially tempered steel, but this prisoner managed to remove them by wrapping round them a cloth saturated in formaldehyde, the prison disinfectant. The sawing took many days, the marks being hidden by soap.

"AN OBSTINATE INDIGESTION had opened the scene; nervous depression followed; a skin eruption appeared on top of all. General troubles require general remedies; good yeast has a bracing and purifying effect on the whole body; therefore I began taking, scrupulously before each meal, one of the dainty cubes put up by the Fleischmann Company. The symptoms of disease disappeared, by one, inversely as they had come; first the erosion, then the depression, lastly the digestive troubles. In a fortnight, I was enjoying life again; still enjoy it better, even now I stick to my three a day."

"YEAST HAS SAVED ME from indigestion lasting sixteen years. Sickness or dizziness kept me inactive. Recently attacks increased. I was rarely free from pain more than two or three days. I started eating Fleischmann's Yeast eight months ago. I regret I did not try it ten years ago when a New York specialist recommended it for indigestion to a friend. My trouble has disappeared; I now eat anything. I even went motor camping this summer and climbed to the top of Mt. Washington."

Health—What Does It Mean to You?

"I WAS A CHRONIC SUFFERER from constipation and a slave to cathartics for years. A cousin who had been informed by a specialist in Germany that it was the real treatment for his case, induced me to use Fleischmann's Yeast. I now have no more headaches. My body is all cleared up from pimples and all other eruptions of the skin. That dull, heavy and dazy feeling that used to pass over me several times a day and ruin my life, efficiency, and disposition, has entirely left me."

Vigor? Personal? Charm? . . .
Read how thousands have found all these—and more—through one simple fresh food.

NOT a "cure-all," but a medicine in any sense—Fleischmann's Yeast is simply a remarkable fresh food.

The millions of tiny active yeasts in every cake invigorate the whole system. They aid digestion, clear the skin, banish the poisons of constipation. Wh cathartics give only temporary relief, yeast strengthens the intestinal muscles and makes them healthy and active. And day by day it releases new stores of energy.

Buy several cakes at a time—they will keep fresh in a cool dry place two or three days. All grocers have Fleischmann's Yeast. Start eating it today!

And let us send you a free copy of our latest booklet on Yeast for health. The Fleischmann Company, P. O. Box 15201, 201 Duckworth St., St. John's, Newfoundland.

EAT TWO OR THREE CAKES A DAY regularly before meals on crackers—in fruit juices or milk—or just plain. For constipations especially, dissolve one cake in hot water (not scalding) before breakfast and at bed-time.

exercise yard, only to get from railings that could not be scaled. Undismayed, he dug over them, taking out a load of which would take a navy a good back. He wrote on the wall "pleasant night!" Then he vanished.

Equally amazing was the escape of the notorious criminal, W. G. Garte from Lillie Gao's prison. He was confined in the condemned cell, undisturbed. Somehow he melted down the wall and made two skeletons, having first taken an impression of the lock with bread pulp. He led the interior wall, 8 ft. high, and another wall by a waterspout. He dropped 15 ft. with the aid of a blanket taken from his cell. He fell into a tailor's shop, he escaped his prison uniform for a smart suit, helped himself to money and cigars, and has not since been heard of.

"ABOUT SIX MONTHS AGO I suffered considerably from headache—almost daily. I was also nervous. My work as a railroad agent and telegraph operator requires quiet and accurate service. I seemed to be always making mistakes, and was always cranky to my customers as well as to my family (before taking yeast). I had seen about the remarkable results of Fleischmann's Yeast—so I tried it. The result is that I feel as happy as I did on my wedding day. My complexion is fine—and I am enjoying life."

produced in October over 75,000,000 pounds of brass and copper product, a volume 15% in excess of the highest month's output ever previously recorded.

"Some conception of the enormous volume of copper consumption is obtainable when it is realized that on the basis of October's operations American Brass and the Great Falls wire mill were producing at the rate of over 900,000,000 pounds per annum, and nothing approaching this volume was ever before reached in peace or war time.

The price of copper has advanced to 14 1/2 cents and a further increase in price it would seem cannot be much longer delayed, as the stock of available copper is dangerously small—less than three weeks' requirements for our domestic manufacturers and our export trade. Measured by the volume of the present demand and the poverty of available supplies the metal is fairly entitled to sell at 17 or 18 cents a pound.

There is nothing in sight to indicate any nearby recession in the demand, and the closing three months of 1925 will far surpass all previous records in the consumption of American copper.

COPPER.
 Less Competition in Foreign Market Would Help American Situation.

Boston—A firmer tone has developed in the copper market. A slight upturn in price has been established with sales at 14 1/2 cents, delivered terms, for shipment over next two to three months.

The gradual absorption of surplus stocks has resulted in a more stable market. Heavy domestic consumption is running into the last quarter of the year. There is an extraordinary demand for manufactured products.

Better advices are anticipated from Europe if there is less intensified competition for international business. Greater activity for foreign account would very soon be reflected on this side. A revival of strong European buying would bring American buyers into the market with a rush.

N.Y.—Copper is up 1/2 cent on good demand. Trend of prices seems upward, as fabricators appear to have overstayed their market.

Electrolytic domestic is 14 1/2 to 14 3/4 cents a pound delivered to the end of January. European destinations are also up, with price of 14.85 to 14.90 cents c.i.f. Hamburg, Havre and London.

Mongolian Gate to India Closed by Railway Line

The safety of British troops and the population of India demand extreme precautions along the north-west frontier, and they have been taken. The stations along the right-of-way are little forts. Steel shutters enclose them and the steel is pierced to permit the use of machine guns. Biohouses guard the approaches to vital points, such as bridges between the fortress-stations.

With the civilizing influence of a railroad, the British hope to win the Pathans to comparative peace, but not without a struggle. Military men foresee misadventures. Sometimes the railway will be broken by floods and sometimes by the Pathans, for no matter what are the methods used against them, the Pathans periodically will display their passion for loot by swift raids.

Appeals to Privy Council

LONDON, Eng., Nov. 4.—Canadian Press)—That India is far the most litigious of all the Dominions, so far as carrying appeals to "the foot of the Throne" is concerned, is proven by the figures of appeals before the Judicial Committee during last year. There were 257 appeals from India against 92 from all other Dominion and Colonial Courts. Of these 92 there were 10 from the Canadian Supreme Court, seven from Ontario Supreme Court, two from New Brunswick, three from Quebec, two from Saskatchewan, and one from each provincial supreme courts.

Canada therefore is a poor second to India—and is likely to be even more so after this year, when the new Rules granting leave to appeal come into force. But even so she is well ahead of the rest of the Empire. The Gold Coast sent six appeals to London, Ceylon eight, New South Wales five, New Zealand three. The rest "also ran" with but one appeal each.

Mental Wizard Reveals Many Secrets

PROFESSOR MEM-O-REA WORKS WONDERS.

Professor Mem-O-rea, the world's famous mind reader, again attracted a large audience at the Majestic Theatre last night. Whilst Mem-O-rea is his stage name, Professor Gladstone is a member of the Psychological Research Society and has been before the public for forty years, principally in Europe. He has won the confidence of the St. John's audience by his marvellous revelations. Those of his audience who had their minds read, are satisfied that MEM-O-REA is thorough in his thought transference study. True, some of the answers are slow and canny but answer the purpose correctly to the subject to whom he is revealing. Already there is more than sufficient testimony to substantiate his assertion that it is by scientific means alone, that he reveals. Next week, he will enter upon the second week of his unlimited engagement, and he is said that now that interest has been aroused to a high pitch, there will be many who will avail of the opportunity to interview him.

Miss Rita Johnson, the international dancer, will be seen in new dances. The statement that is generally given by the people who have already seen her "That she is the best to visit St. John's," is in every sense of the word correct.

The feature for Monday is "Love's Bargain," starring the lovely Marjorie Daw. There will be only one show on Monday commencing at 8 o'clock. The usual admission fee of 30c for Monday's show. Professor MEM-O-REA will take the stage immediately after the feature picture.

Signalman's Surprise Advice

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir—The suggestion made by "Signalman" in the Daily News that a hot rum and lemon is effective medicine in the case of a cold for all but prohibitionists is mighty good advice from a mighty surprising source. Is the author not afraid that he may even tempt the latter to test it, on the ground that what is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander? An onion is but a sorry substitute, and "Have an onion" does not sound half as inviting an offer as "Have a drink."

Yours truly,

The Caribou has fifty-one passengers on board. It is raining all along the railway to-day.

Canadian debt, during the years of prosperity which permitted the successful debt reduction in the United States, it is pointed out. "We find ourselves, seven years after the end of the war, with a national debt of two and a half billion dollars. The load of national, provincial and local taxation has continued to grow until we are now faced by the necessity of a national policy of retrenchment."

The letter continues: "So long as each part of the country interested itself only in savings which might be effected in some other district, no great economies could be secured, but now the necessity for government economy has become a matter of such outstanding importance that a balanced budget must cease to be a party issue, and the time is ripe for all Canadians to unite in a decisive effort to reduce expenditure. Agriculture, industry and commerce have experienced prolonged, costly and discouraging depression, and are not ready for a season of recovery. It is exceedingly important that this recovery should be given the added stimulus which comes from reduced taxation."

Promoter Will Sue Jack Dempsey

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 5.—Newspaper despatches from Tampico say local boxing promoters are much exercised over the failure of Jack Dempsey to appear at exhibitions there in accordance with a contract. They allege the champion returned a ten thousand peso cheque given him as a retaining fee, and left Tampico without explanation. The despatches say the promoters will sue Dempsey for damages in the United States courts.

Message of General Sir Richard Turner, V.C.

TO CANADIAN VETERANS.
Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 11. (By Canadian Press).—Placing before the war veterans of Canada as a group the alternatives of either being "relegated to the national attic where articles that have outlived their usefulness are stored away," or of becoming "a living instrument of national service," Lieut-General Sir Richard Turner, V.C., Dominion President of the G.W.V.A., and National Veterans' Unity Trustee, to-day issued a stirring Armistice Day Anniversary message. He calls upon Canadian veterans to forget the petty differences that have divided their ranks in the past, eliminate suspicion and distrust, and come together in a united organization. The text of the message follows:

In the hearts of those who fought and survived the conflict of 1914-18, the anniversary of Armistice Day has a place of transcending significance. Seared upon their memories is the recollection of the moment at the eleventh hour when the crash of shell, the rattle of machine gun, the crack of rifle, the menacing drone of the bombing plane and the numerous other accompaniments of modern warfare, ceased. After more than four years of death-dealing and facing death the release came as a shock. With the realization that the conflict had actually ended the thought of the survivors turned to their comrades who had passed over the "borderland of death," and to them the great but invisible comrade of Memory was dedicated. There was a general resolve that the sacrifices of the Dead should not be in vain, that from the hideousness and carnage of war there should arise a new civilization and a world-wide brotherhood which would eliminate war for all time.

On this anniversary occasion we pause for a moment to glance backward over the seven years that have intervened since the first Armistice Day. We see—not the world of our early visions and high resolve—but a world first absorbed in riotous pleasure-seeking, followed by the bitter struggle for the very means of existence even among those who have hitherto fought and suffered for their country. We see a renewal of the jealousies and bickering that were antecedent to the Great War. But, rising slowly and surely, we see also the struggle against almost overwhelming odds of the few who have sought to keep faith.

As Canadian war veterans, let us examine briefly our efforts during the past seven years. Much has been done in bringing justifiable betterment in the provisions for the care of the disabled and the dependent. There has been much praiseworthy effort, as individuals and as organizations, in attempting to meet the problem of the needy. There have been sporadic efforts towards community and national service. On the other hand, whether from economic pressure or other causes, many of us have made no effort to translate our war service into peace-time service.

We have permitted factions and cliques to arise and divide our ranks and give to the public an unfavorable and untrue impression of war veterans generally. We have allowed the nation to designate and think of us as "ex-service" rather than as "service" men. Seven precious years have slipped away, and with them have gone golden opportunities for united action for the good of the nation, of the Empire and of the world.

Looking to the future, shall we permit ourselves as a group to be relegated to the national attic where articles that have outlived their usefulness are stored away? Or shall we revitalize that precious bond of comradeship forged in the fires of war, making it a living instrument of national service? Shall we honor and fulfill our obligation to those 60,000 good comrades who lie in Flanders Field?

Canadian Veterans: In the name of those who have passed on I appeal you to forget the petty differences that have divided our ranks, to destroy the viper of suspicion and distrust which has ranged unchecked among us, to catch anew the vision which carried you to the heights of heroism and self-sacrifice on the battlefields, to be true to your comrades and yourselves, to regard the memories of this anniversary occasion as a symbol of a new and greater service—to unite.

India is Prospering Under British Rule

PEOPLE GOOD-NATURED, PEACEFUL, INDUSTRIOUS.

It is a common fallacy to read into reports from the East the notion that India is a mass of disaffection and on the verge of chaos and ruin. Scraps of information about riots, Hindu-Muslim clashes, obstructive tactics, demands for complete separation and appeals by agitators on behalf of "subject peoples"—frequently, as a British Labor leader has said, by men who have not taken the trouble to learn the meaning of the words—are produced in support of the contention that the country is seething with unrest. Refreshing it is, therefore, to get the reverse side of the picture from an undoubted authority and to learn from Sir Montagu de P. Webb in the Asiatic Review that India is prospering under British rule.

Sir Montagu finds that under the "beneficent and stimulating guidance of Great Britain, the country has been making steady and continuous progress in all directions; that her peoples are, on the whole, good-natured, peaceful, alert and industrious, and not inappreciative of the value of the British institutions and of the British connection." He sees India stronger, from an economic standpoint, than any other division of the British empire, increasing the quality and amount of its yield of rice, sugar cane, wheat, jute and cotton.

Industrial undertakings are growing. The output of coal is considerable, likewise that of gold, silver, lead, salt-peter, iron, tin and mica. The cotton and jute mills are expanding, as extensive manufacturing establishments in the United Kingdom know to their loss. To such an extent has production developed that in the last official year India sold surplus products valued at $238,000,000, after providing for a population of 320,000,000. At the same time its imports amounted to $255,000,000.

Some idea of conditions may be gained when it is stated that the $255,000,000 in imports, $70,000,000 represented gold and silver, much of which was converted into ornaments for the country people, especially in the south. Fewer families solicit aid. The third-class traffic receipts are rising and there is an increased revenue from income. The people, it is stated by a competent observer, are better fed, better clothed, better housed.

Not only from an economic, but also from an educational and political viewpoint, progress is apparent. Time is working changes, and the country is well on the road to self-government. If India had been capable of full self-government it would, in all probability, have had it before this. But its case has not been convincing. It is divided in race and religion, as well as in language. It is sharply separated by a caste system, which prevents unity of action.

The achievements of India are due largely to western ideals. Reforms

Submarine Mountains Find

Cape Town.—The German research ship Meteor has returned here and confirms the discovery of a submarine bank, 40 miles long, about 1,100 miles S.S.W. of Cape Town.

The ridge, which has been christened the Meteor Bank, is 3,877 yards high at the topmost points, which are within 646 yards from the surface of the sea.

The Meteor also has discovered two new submarine mountain ranges, one off the African coast and the other off the South American coast, which break up under-water currents.

Carved Building

A remarkable addition to modern business premises in London is in course of erection in Red Lion Square, High Holborn, W.C.

Its chief departure from traditional treatment will be found in the absence of rigid vertical lines, the building curving gently inwards as it rises from the ground in a manner recalling the delicate entasis of a Greek column.

The architects, who have adopted glazed terracotta for the outer casing, have avoided all rigid angles and hard profiles by rounding off all the edges. Their work is a fine example of the beauty that may be achieved by reticence and simplicity.

JUDGMENT OF MR. JUSTICE KENT.

On the same day, Mr. Reid again wrote to Mr. Thompson a supplementary letter on the same subject in which he says:

"Relative to our letter of even date, we appreciate your interest in this matter and it is understood that if a satisfactory investment of capital is secured and paid in, that you are able to receive as your return,

- (1) 25% of Cash received and
- (2) 25% of the Common Stock received, issued in connection with the new investment of capital proposed."

Mr. Thompson went to London about the second week in April, 1919, principally on behalf of the Canadian Government as Mr. Reid knew. He was kept busy with official business, but managed to give some time to Mr. Reid's affairs. In view of the difficulties in which the Reid Company found itself, Mr. Reid was anxious to accomplish his purpose as quickly as possible. In June he sent Mr. W. Hamar Greenwood, who had been associated with Mr. Thompson in Canada over to London to assist Mr. Thompson with his work and to keep Mr. Reid informed of any progress that might be made. Shortly after he arrived in London, Mr. Greenwood met Major John A. MacDonald who was then connected with the War Office and was shortly afterwards demobilized. He introduced Major MacDonald to Mr. Thompson and through him, Mr. Thompson got in touch with some Belgian Capitalists with whom he held some fruitless negotiations for the disposal of the timber lands and water powers in the Gander River Valley. Major MacDonald, through Messrs. Thompson and Greenwood learned of the mission entrusted to them by Mr. Reid and his Companies. Major MacDonald had intended, on his demobilization, to undertake as a business, the acquisition of undeveloped lands such as were owned by the Reid Company and prepare them for sale. His intention had been to organize a private company through which his business would be conducted. He explained his purpose in this respect to Mr. Thompson and they agreed that such an organization would be helpful to them in carrying out the Reid Company's purposes in regard to its properties. Then accordingly, with Mr. Greenwood, organized a Company which was registered under the English Companies Act under the name of the "Home and Overseas Trading Trust Co., Ltd.," which later they changed into the "Newfoundland Banking & Trust Co., Ltd.," the Plaintiff in this action. The objects of this Company were to acquire and prepare undeveloped properties and sell them to larger companies to be promoted by it and to act as agents and other like purposes.

The Company was controlled by Messrs. MacDonald, Thompson and Greenwood; under the articles of the association they became its first Directors and were given an option to call for the allotment at par to each of them or their nominees within two years from its formation of twenty-five thousand ordinary shares of a nominal capital of one hundred thousand ordinary shares as a return for services rendered. The objects of the Company were general, but it was decided to devote its services at first exclusively to handling the Reid properties which had been tentatively offered to them by Mr. Thompson before the Company was registered.

In August, 1919, Mr. Thompson was made a Director of the Reid Co. He thought the properties could best be handled through the newly created Trust. He accordingly wrote to Major MacDonald, September 12th, 1919, before the Trust was formed, but after its formation had been decided upon, a letter in which he says: "I am duly authorized by Mr. H. D. Reid, President of the Reid-Newfoundland Co., St. John's, Newfoundland, to state that he is in a position to offer or negotiate for the sale of the following properties." He then enumerates the Humber and the Gander Valley properties, and some coal and some mineral properties and proceeds: "Both Mr. Reid and I realize that you and your friends are forming a syndicate with a view to the development of some of the above properties and on the understanding that Mr. Reid gives or procures for your syndicate the option to acquire the same. In view of these facts, I am authorized by him to state that immediately the Syndicate is formed, he will enter into negotiations with it with a view to its acquisition of any of the said properties on the most favourable terms possible and that both he and I will use our best endeavours to facilitate the carrying through of such acquisition and will in every possible way within our power assist the Syndicate in developing the properties in the most advantageous way. In particular we will use our best endeavours to assist the syndicate in every possible way.

"In the meantime, neither Mr. Reid nor I will deal with the properties in any way with any other party without first giving to your syndicate a reasonable opportunity of coming to terms."

This letter was the result of previous discussions between Messrs. Thompson, MacDonald and Greenwood and as, I think, the principal inducement to the formation of the Trust Company at that particular time and to the decision of the Trust to devote itself exclusively, at first, to the Reid Company's properties. It has not been proved that at this time Mr. Reid knew of the projected formation of the Trust, or of the existence of this letter of Mr. Thompson's, yet, it is clear from the evidence that the proposals made in it might well have been considered by him to be within the authority given him by Mr. Reid. It was a cautious offer. It brought Mr. Reid under no definite obligation to the Trust but left everything open to be settled with his concurrence after the Trust had been formed. If Mr. Reid did not then know the objects and personnel of the Trust, he certainly became aware of them very shortly afterwards and accepted them as facts in all his subsequent dealings and relations with the Trust. Mr. Reid at this time was anxious to secure the exclusive services of Mr. Thompson for his Company. On September 7th he wrote Mr. Thompson saying: "You will duly receive the Secretary's notice of your appointment as a Director of the Company. I hope the time will not be long distant till you are free to give your whole time to the Company's interests." Mr. Thompson replied on September 27th:

"My idea in not immediately accepting your offer of being closely identified and associated with the activities in Newfoundland was largely because I saw the necessity of linking up over here with the people who would be inclined to go to work and develop some of the industries in question. In order to do this, as you know, I will have a strong French connection through General Bruntin. In addition to this, an old personal friend of Greenwood's, Major J. A. MacDonald, formerly of Toronto, who has had fifteen years' experience in financial operations in London and finding money for development propositions before the year of the war, and during the war, he was in charge of all the aliens and neutrals visiting this country and their movement in different parts of Europe; he had 3,000 Secret Service men under him, and had autocratic charge of all ports in England. This gave him a wonderful connection with the leading men of the country, and in order to crystallize his situation, he has organized a Company for the purpose of developing just such projects as you have. It has been registered as 'The Home & Overseas Trust & Trading Company,' and has taken offices in Clock House, Arundel Street, London, W.C."

"Through him and others we have got in touch with a number of people to whom the different projects are attractive in their own individual line. His Company would secure information and get the different projects up to a point where a development syndicate would be formed to carry them out."

On receipt of this letter, Mr. Reid called Mr. Thompson, Oct. 21st, saying:—

"Your letter 27th September just received, very satisfactory."

"The Trust was formed on October 1st, and before going further into matters called Mr. Reid on October 27th, saying:—

"Referring my letter September 27th and your cable reply October 21st, can I agree you will give option on properties when prices and terms are settled, your satisfaction."

Mr. Reid replied on the 28th October:—

"Expect complete Gander title one month but you can agree regardless of this to give options on properties subject satisfactory terms negotiating everything through you."

On November 6th, Mr. Thompson wrote the Trust:—

"Relative to prices and options upon the various properties in Newfoundland owned or controlled by Mr. Reid and his associates, the following is the situation." He then states the position in regard to each property. He gives the terms and prices of options on coal and various mineral properties, also the Cold Storage Plant in St. John's. As regards the Humber valley property he says:—

"Detail surveys and plans and estimates on installation and reports have been made on the various water powers—some 100 in number. These reports are contained in two volumes herewith. These reports and the engineering work entailed, I am told, an expenditure of $100,000.

"The features of this undertaking are the linking up of the best process and the most suitable water power and selected plant sites. When a conclusion has been arrived at as to the most economic process, and a financial scheme worked out and power and site selected, an option can be secured upon these, but it would be of no service at the present time to secure an option en bloc of all the water powers and available sites."

"As regards the Gander River property he says:—

"Pulp Lands—The first area we have opened negotiations upon were at Gander River, an area of about 588,000 acres according to maps, plans and reports herewith, and the price asked by the Vendor is $1.50 per acre.

"Reported to contain 800,000 feet of merchantable timber and 3,380,000 cords of pulp wood.

"An option upon this property is hereby given at the above-named price."

The price here mentioned was fixed by Mr. Reid in a letter to Mr. Thompson in Canada, written on the 17th day of March, 1919. Mr. Thompson concludes his letter, saying:—

"This clearly indicates the attitude Mr. Reid and in addition to the option on the properties as above granted, it is hardly wise to grant you options on terms and prices on the other properties until the individual proposals are more crystallized and a better idea of their value arrived at. Options will, however, be granted you when you are open to negotiate."

The policy contemplated at this time by Mr. Reid and the Reid Companies was to give the Trust options on them separately. Under this policy, no question can arise as to whether the Trust was the Agent of the Reid Company or not, or as to whether or not it was entitled to remuneration. Several properties were offered to it on fixed terms or on terms to be settled, but whether the Trust exercised the options and acquired the properties or not, no question of remuneration arises.

This was the position when Mr. Thompson and Mr. Greenwood met Mr. Reid in Montreal in the month of December, 1919. It is alleged by the Plaintiff that at this time an agreement, which is referred to as the "Oral Agreement," was made, defining the relations between the Reid Company and the Trust and the terms upon which the Trust would deal with the properties. Paragraph 2 of the Statement of Claim alleges, "In the month of December, 1919, and January, 1920, it was orally agreed between the said H. D. Reid on behalf of the Reid Company and the said Henry B. Thompson and W. Hamar Greenwood on behalf of the Trust that the Plaintiff Company should act as the sole agent for the Reid Company in Europe and should receive reasonable remuneration for its services and that so far as regarded services rendered in connection with any sales or other dealings in respect of which the Reid Company or its subsidiaries should receive moneys, shares or other securities or rights such remuneration should be ten per cent of the amounts received."

The Plaintiff supports the allegation by a letter written by Major MacDonald on November 18th, 1919, and Mr. Reid's letter to Mr. Greenwood had left England for Newfoundland to report to Mr. Reid and to get information regarding the properties. Mr. MacDonald sent a copy of this letter to Mr. Thompson who was then in Ireland. Mr. Thompson brought his copy to Canada with him. The Plaintiff says this letter was shown to Mr. Reid during their discussions in Montreal in December and formed the basis of the alleged oral agreement. Mr. Thompson in his evidence confirms this. Mr. H. D. Reid and Mr. R. G. Reid, both of whom were present, at these discussions, said they had never seen the letter, that it was not produced and that they had no knowledge of it. Mr. H. D. Reid further said that no such agreement as that alleged by the Plaintiff was made or even discussed. I think the letter was not made the basis of any agreement. It is likely Mr. Thompson has this letter of instruction in mind during his interviews with Messrs. Reid, but I do not think he actually produced it. I am perfectly satisfied that Mr. Reid, on behalf of his Companies, did not accept the proposals made in that letter. I must hold that the oral agreement stated in paragraph 2 of the Statement of Claim was not made. I think it was decided, though not formally agreed, that in any case, in which the Trust would act as Agents, the terms of the agency would be fixed at the time.

I think the agreement come to in Montreal in December, 1919, is perfectly clear from the following correspondence. On the 23rd December, 1919, Mr. Thompson wrote Mr. Reid saying:—

"Referring to our conversation this afternoon along with Mr. Greenwood relative to the Trust Company in London which we formed to put your properties and proposals in shape, in order to place them before investors.

"The expenses in starting this, and up to date have been borne by Greenwood, MacDonald and myself, and the Trust Company give us the option for two years of purchasing 25,000 each of the 1% (one shilling) shares at par in all 75,000 shares out of the 100,000 ordinary shares of the Trust Company."

"The total capital of the Company is fifty thousand pounds (Sterling) made up of forty-five thousand one pound shares and 100,000 one shilling shares.

"Our proposal is that you and your brother, Mr. R. G. Reid, should join with us in the participation of the profits of the Trust Company in the selling or flotation of the Newfoundland properties, and would suggest to you the following:—

"(1) That the Trust Company should be agents in Europe for the sale of the various properties.

"(2) That you remit to Major J. A. MacDonald the equivalent of one thousand pounds as a contribution towards paying management expenses during the next four months.

"(3) That the 75,000 shilling shares upon which we have the two years' option be divided into four and H.D. and R. G. get the right to purchase 1/4 of this amount. Greenwood, Thompson and MacDonald having the right to purchase 1/4 of the 75,000 each.

"(4) The Trust Company to undertake to procure ten thousand pounds by sale of preferred ordinary shares, at one pound each for the carrying on of the work."

Mr. Reid replied on the same day: "Referring your letter to-day's date relative to the payment of the one thousand pounds which has already been forwarded to Major J. A. MacDonald, and the right for us to purchase 1/4 interest jointly of the seventy-five thousand one shilling shares for a period of ten years according to the arrangement with Messrs. Thompson, Greenwood, MacDonald and the Trust Company, I beg to say we accept this proposition."

Mr. Reid therefore accepted suggestions 2 and 3 of Mr. Thompson's letter, but did not accept suggestions 1 and 4.

Mr. Greenwood cabled the substance of this arrangements to the Trust in London saying:—

"Thousand pounds contribution towards paying management expenses during the next 4 months. Reid pays later for quarter interest. Instruct me future action."

Mr. Thompson sent copies of the letters of Mr. Reid and his own to Major MacDonald who, after receiving them, called Mr. Thompson January, 1920:—

"Consider fair agreement Reid pay MacDonald, Greenwood one thousand pounds each yearly for two years terminable six months notice by Reid. If agreement terminated under year we have option repurchased quarter interest if Reid has exercised his option otherwise option to lapse."

Mr. Reid replied:—

"Referring your cable Thompson relative option purchase shares according letter December twenty-third we agree after this and make arrangement satisfactory to you upon my brother's arrival London beginning February. If Humber or Gander Pulp negotiated here will protect Trust for commission."

Mr. R. G. Reid went over to London towards the end of January and settled with the Trust the outstanding terms and the result was given by Mr. Greenwood to Mr. H. D. Reid in a letter dated February 16, 1920, saying:—

"The option you have on the shares of the Trust is arranged in Montreal namely, two years from October 1st, 1919 at par, the same terms as those H. B. Thompson and ourselves hold an interest in the Trust. Major MacDonald offered the suggestion that the payment towards management expenses should be given from the beginning of the Trust's operations which was October 1st, 1919, as that was the date upon which the expenditure was begun on behalf of the Newfoundland Development. This was considered a fair proposal by your brother as was also that the payment towards management expenses should be at the rate of two hundred and fifty pounds per month from October 1st, 1919 to October 1st, 1921. This arrangement being understood and agreed, your brother cabled you to which he received a cable confirmation as follows:—

"Agree your terms Trust."

"The one thousand pounds you had sent in December, 1919 was then applied under this arrangement."

Mr. Reid did not attempt the proposal to appoint the Trust agents of the Reid Company in Europe, though he did specifically accept the other proposals. When the Trust did, later on, act as the agents of the Reid Company in particular transactions, special arrangements were made in each case for the remuneration of its services, by commission.

Some question arose during the trial as to whether the $250 to be contributed towards management expenses was intended to be paid to the Trust as such or to Messrs. MacDonald and Greenwood personally. I have no hesitation in saying that these payments were made to enable Messrs. Greenwood and MacDonald to give their entire services to the work of the Trust so long as it was dealing exclusively with the Reid Company's properties; that though the amounts were nominally payable to the Trust, they were really made to secure for the Reid Company the services of Messrs. MacDonald and Greenwood in the management of the Trust. On March 15th, 1920, Mr. Greenwood, referring to these payments informed Mr. Reid that he would "Note on the back of the draft the fact that refers to MacDonald and Greenwood." These payments were made through Mr. Greenwood. Whether he acted wisely or not in not writing the receipt and payments thereof in the books of the Trust, they were in fact devoted to the purpose intended by the Reid Com-

On receipt of this letter, Mr. Reid called Mr. Thompson, Oct. 21st, saying:—

"Your letter 27th September just received, very satisfactory."

"The Trust was formed on October 1st, and before going further into matters called Mr. Reid on October 27th, saying:—

"Referring my letter September 27th and your cable reply October 21st, can I agree you will give option on properties when prices and terms are settled, your satisfaction."

Mr. Reid replied on the 28th October:—

"Expect complete Gander title one month but you can agree regardless of this to give options on properties subject satisfactory terms negotiating everything through you."

On receipt of this letter, Mr. Reid called Mr. Thompson, Oct. 21st, saying:—

"Your letter 27th September just received, very satisfactory."

"The Trust was formed on October 1st, and before going further into matters called Mr. Reid on October 27th, saying:—

Mr. Reid replied on the 28th October:—

"Expect complete Gander title one month but you can agree regardless of this to give options on properties subject satisfactory terms negotiating everything through you."

On November 6th, Mr. Thompson wrote the Trust:—

"Relative to prices and options upon the various properties in Newfoundland owned or controlled by Mr. Reid and his associates, the following is the situation." He then states the position in regard to each property. He gives the terms and prices of options on coal and various mineral properties, also the Cold Storage Plant in St. John's. As regards the Humber valley property he says:—

"Detail surveys and plans and estimates on installation and reports have been made on the various water powers—some 100 in number. These reports are contained in two volumes herewith. These reports and the engineering work entailed, I am told, an expenditure of $100,000.

"The features of this undertaking are the linking up of the best process and the most suitable water power and selected plant sites. When a conclusion has been arrived at as to the most economic process, and a financial scheme worked out and power and site selected, an option can be secured upon these, but it would be of no service at the present time to secure an option en bloc of all the water powers and available sites."

"As regards the Gander River property he says:—

"Pulp Lands—The first area we have opened negotiations upon were at Gander River, an area of about 588,000 acres according to maps, plans and reports herewith, and the price asked by the Vendor is $1.50 per acre.

"Reported to contain 800,000 feet of merchantable timber and 3,380,000 cords of pulp wood.

"An option upon this property is hereby given at the above-named price."

The price here mentioned was fixed by Mr. Reid in a letter to Mr. Thompson in Canada, written on the 17th day of March, 1919. Mr. Thompson concludes his letter, saying:—

"This clearly indicates the attitude Mr. Reid and in addition to the option on the properties as above granted, it is hardly wise to grant you options on terms and prices on the other properties until the individual proposals are more crystallized and a better idea of their value arrived at. Options will, however, be granted you when you are open to negotiate."

The policy contemplated at this time by Mr. Reid and the Reid Companies was to give the Trust options on them separately. Under this policy, no question can arise as to whether the Trust was the Agent of the Reid Company or not, or as to whether or not it was entitled to remuneration. Several properties were offered to it on fixed terms or on terms to be settled, but whether the Trust exercised the options and acquired the properties or not, no question of remuneration arises.

This was the position when Mr. Thompson and Mr. Greenwood met Mr. Reid in Montreal in the month of December, 1919. It is alleged by the Plaintiff that at this time an agreement, which is referred to as the "Oral Agreement," was made, defining the relations between the Reid Company and the Trust and the terms upon which the Trust would deal with the properties. Paragraph 2 of the Statement of Claim alleges, "In the month of December, 1919, and January, 1920, it was orally agreed between the said H. D. Reid on behalf of the Reid Company and the said Henry B. Thompson and W. Hamar Greenwood on behalf of the Trust that the Plaintiff Company should act as the sole agent for the Reid Company in Europe and should receive reasonable remuneration for its services and that so far as regarded services rendered in connection with any sales or other dealings in respect of which the Reid Company or its subsidiaries should receive moneys, shares or other securities or rights such remuneration should be ten per cent of the amounts received."

The Plaintiff supports the allegation by a letter written by Major MacDonald on November 18th, 1919, and Mr. Reid's letter to Mr. Greenwood had left England for Newfoundland to report to Mr. Reid and to get information regarding the properties. Mr. MacDonald sent a copy of this letter to Mr. Thompson who was then in Ireland. Mr. Thompson brought his copy to Canada with him. The Plaintiff says this letter was shown to Mr. Reid during their discussions in Montreal in December and formed the basis of the alleged oral agreement. Mr. Thompson in his evidence confirms this. Mr. H. D. Reid and Mr. R. G. Reid, both of whom were present, at these discussions, said they had never seen the letter, that it was not produced and that they had no knowledge of it. Mr. H. D. Buffalo Bandits Rob Bank's Auto

STEALING $117,000.

Kill Driver of Car and Wound Two Men in the Downtown District.

BUFFALO, Oct. 29.—Two bandits to-day held up the money car of the Bank of Buffalo, shot and killed the driver, wounded the guard and a bank messenger, and escaped with $117,000 in currency. Another package, containing $24,000, was dropped by the bandits in their flight.

The hold-up occurred at 9:30 a.m. while the money was being loaded into the bank van. Charles W. Clifford, driver, was killed instantly when he offered resistance. Guard John H. Meyers was shot through the body. His injuries are considered serious.

L. M. Harrington, a bank messenger, was also shot in the face and body. His condition is said to be critical.

The scene of the hold-up was the Bank of Buffalo building at Main and South Division streets in the centre of the downtown section. Hundreds of people were passing the building at the time.

The bandits quickly gathered the money bags and threw them into their automobile in which they made good their escape.

Police announced that the automobile used by the robbers was a coach bearing a New York license plate.

Reported One Captured.

The hold-up attracted an immense crowd, and there was great excitement. Several women employees of the bank fainted.

It is reported that one bandit has been captured. Police are seeking eye-witnesses, and getting a description of the bandits and the attack on the employees.

"The robbery occurred as the armored car drew up to the North Division entrance to the bank with the day's currency. The money was brought from the main offices of the Marine Trust Company.

The bandits had been lounging in the street in the vicinity, and they waited until the doors of the armored car were opened, and the employees had started to take the money out. The bank employees tried to run for cover in the bank, and Harrington, who was on the seat with the driver, tried to draw his revolver.

This action brought fire from the hold-up men and they killed Clifford and wounded Harrington and Meyers.

Traffic Patrolman John Bunce, on duty at Main and North Division streets, hastened to the scene on hearing the shots but by the time he arrived the bandits had started off in their car. Bunce commanded a passing automobile and followed the robbers' car east in North Division street, losing the trail when the bandit car turned into Pine street.

Several in the Car

Bunce fired one shot at the car without receiving a return fire. He said it appeared there were five or six men in the bandit car.

George Bond, told police he was driving a truck in Elliott street when he heard the shots. Turning up North Division toward Main street he said he saw a man running away from the bank and south in Washington, holding his left wrist with his right hand, as if he had been wounded.

Harrington, the wounded man, fired several shots after the bandits, after being wounded.

Find Bandit Car.

The bandit car used this morning was found shortly after noon by police abandoned at the corner of Main and

Dodge streets, and is being closely guarded by police until finger print experts go over the car. One wheel had a flat tire and the glass had been shot away from the window. Police believe the bandits have escaped to Canada. The bandit car was stolen recently from White Plains, New York.

Africa's Lost Towns Near Big Island Sea

DRIED-UP LAKE AND RIVER BEDS ARE LEFT.

The Kalahari, the vast desert between the Orange and the Zambezi rivers, where Professor Schwarz is reported to have discovered new towns and people, was once a fertile land containing immense lakes, but to-day is largely a sandy scrub-covered waste, where no surface water exists in the drier months of the year, writes Colonel J. C. B. Statham, big game hunter and explorer, in the London Daily Mail. In the middle Kalahari are two great depressions called Ngami and Makarikari, from the lakes which once filled them and originally covered thousands of square miles. They are joined by the Botletle river, and were once formed by the Okavango, Kwando, and Zambezi rivers. It is supposed that this mighty inland sea burst its bonds and poured its waters over the Victoria Falls. Livingstone, who discovered Ngami in 1850, was the first to realize the existence of the earlier and greater lakes. Even in his day Ngami covered many square miles.

Parallel Dry River Beds

To-day it is a grass flat, and the Makarikari, which held large numbers of hippopotami and crocodiles, has been dry for many years. When marching just north of Ngami, three years ago I came across numerous and curiously parallel old river beds, vestiges of the greater inland sea.

The Kalahari is slowly drying up and may become a second Sahara, and as this desiccation is affecting neighboring countries in South Africa, Schwarz advocates the reclamation of the Kalahari by damming two of the rivers which once fed the great lakes in such a manner as partly to restore them. In such a country it is possible that collections of houses in such numbers as merit the term "towns" may have existed when the country was well watered—and their ruins may have been covered and lost in scrub or jungle, and sand.

Extensive stone-built ruins have been found through Mozambique and South Rhodesia which are supposed to be the work of early Arabs and possibly Phoenicians, who built them when searching for the gold of Ophir. They may have penetrated to the Kalahari when it was better watered, though this is unlikely, and the "towns" mentioned as having been found in the Kalahari are more likely to be the numerous and often large ruined villages abandoned through drought or inter-tribal wars.

Population Decreases

The population of the Kalahari has greatly decreased, but even in 1921 there were 17,000 people and perhaps 150,000 cattle in Ngami-land alone, where the natives are mainly Makubas, one of the Makalaka or slave tribes, and their overlords, the Baivana. Both have hitherto always been looked upon as African Bantu negroes, with no affinities to the Sakalava Madagascan tribe as the Schwarz report suggests, for the Madagascar people are mainly of Malay-Polynesian stock.

Just to the north of Ngami-land is another Bantu tribe, the Mambukulu, whose chief is a great rain-maker who guards a mysterious rain-making pot, and is said to use a baby's blood in his rain-making medicine.

The country and people of Ngami-land are very interesting, but scarcely unknown, for there is an English magistrate resident there, and a partial survey has been made and published in the Geographical Journal.

Communist Rout

ONLY 8 ELECTED OF 185 SWISS DEPUTIES.

Notwithstanding an intensive campaign and the expenditure of huge sums in propaganda, which included a profigate display of posters bearing a picture of Lenin, the Communist Party has been routed in the Swiss parliamentary elections.

In the canton of Vaud, out of 1,250,000 votes in the proportional representation system, the Communists secured only 6,500.

Only three Communists were elected among 185 deputies.

The Baby's Cold

Continents Adrift?

Are Europe and America drifting farther apart?

This question, asked in a geological sense, was set before the British Association by Professor J. W. Gregory, who proposed to answer it by the use of wireless time signals for the determination of variations in longitude.

Kept up for a few years, he said, these would afford a conclusive test of the theory recently advanced by Wegener and the Atlantic Ocean was produced by the drifting apart of America on one side and Europe and Africa on the other.

The reality of a drifting motion of whole continents is now accepted by many geologists. Recent investigations have shown that beneath the up to sixty miles or so of rocky crust there is a semi-molten layer of lava overlying the earth's solid central core, and on this viscid mass the continental blocks find more or less certain footings.

Celestial Fireworks

November is the month of shooting stars. About the fourteenth of month we can always look forward to a display of Leonid meteors. They are called Leonids because they appear to come from a point of the heavens situated in the constellation Leo. Actually, the Leonids travel round the sun in a well-defined orbit, like the earth and the planets. The only difference is that the path of the meteors is much more elliptical.

The reason we get a display of meteors every November is that during this month the earth, in its journey round the sun, happens to cross the path of the meteors.

Meteors are really irregular lumps of metal and rock, and though they are spread out all along the orbit, the majority of them are gathered into a dense swarm, occupying only a portion of the orbit.

IT MAY BE WORTH YOUR WHILE TO READ THIS.

Every Fall a number of people complain about the amount of their Electric Light Bill. This occurs in all towns and cities the world over, whether the cost per kilowatt is 35 cents or 5 cents per hour. This is mainly due to additional hours of darkness and more hours spent in the home.

The cost of living has gradually increased from year to year, the cost of lighting has become less.

Think of the convenience a touch of the button and you have Light, Heat, Cold or Power.

The price of any commodity depends upon the quantity sold. If a manufacturer builds 20 automobiles he may be able to sell them for $5,000.00 each; if he increases his production to 40,000 he can sell the same car for $1,500.00. This applies to everything. Your coal bill varies from month to month, but because you do not keep a strict account of the cost of each scuttle or each month's consumption; because you do not get a monthly bill for your coal to compare with last month's cost, you do not complain.

Electricity gives you more dollar for dollar than any commodity you purchase. The cost per kilowatt will depend on the quantity consumed, managements and bad debts occurred, whether obtained by water power, steam or combustion engines and whether you are getting it as a by-product or directly made for your benefit.

PURPOSE.

If it shall be said When I'm numbered with the dead Little children used to love me And a dog would nose my hand; I'm inclined to think that I shall be welcomed by and by Though I have no fame to offer When I reach the promised land.

If I've wronged no fellow here And my conscience shall be clear; If I haven't bored my neighbors Or annoyed them with my ways; If I've gone from day to day Having not too much to say, When the good Lord views my record I may hear a word of praise.

If a stranger now and then In this world of countless men Shall remember me for something Which I did, or said or gave, If I've merely tried to be Fair with all who talked with me They may mark that to my credit When I've passed beyond the grave.

DOES IT MATTER SO MUCH!

"We cut down our electric light bill 45c. last month," said one of my neighbors. "We all worked together to do it, the children and Bob and I. I just turned out a light the minute we were through with it. You know we are planning to send Bob to the technical school in two years and we've got to cut all the corners we can."

Forty-five cents! Ten cents a week only $4.49 in a whole long year! Doesn't it seem a little pathetic to you if it did to me. Then again as I thought of my neighbor's cheerful voice and her air of triumph as she told me about it, I realized that it wasn't pathetic at all. On the contrary.

After all is there any greater joy in life than successful effort? Does it really matter so greatly whether the results of the effort are measured in cents, in dollars, or in millions?

Better Than Bricks.

You who do not have to watch the electric light bills so closely and follow the advertisements in order to take advantage of all the little economies that each shop offers from time to time, the special sale of flour, here, the grape-fruit two for a quarter instead of 15 cents straight there, you who do not have to learn how to make a cheap cut of meat so tasty that everyone eats with a relish to warm the heart, may think these things sordid and depressing, but if they are done successfully and done with a spirit of courage they are not depressing. Indeed to those who have the finest kind of spirit they often assume the aspects of a contest. Some people study and work their brains in order to be able to put 52 pieces of decorated cardboard on the table in the right order. Other people can find the same spirit of contest in wrestling comfort and opportunity for themselves and for those they love out of limited means.

For Effort and Achievement.

In many of the summer camps and in some of the schools they are offering a new kind of prize. A prize not for beating all the rest in any sport. But for effort and accomplishment. The girl or boy who makes the greatest effort and the greatest improvement wins the prize even though he may be the last in the swimming race and the lowest in the high jump. I think it is a splendid idea since it turns the plastic minds toward effort and achievement as set apart from contest with each other.

To contrive, to achieve triumph over difficulties, this is to live. I know, of course, that when the difficulties are insuperable, when the budget simply cannot be made to work even with the most skillful contriving, when the poverty is overwhelming, there is no happiness there. But if you have health and courage and the sporting spirit, it is possible to make a game out of defeating limited means.

To quote Cornelia Parker once more: "It isn't sordid trying to see what a nickel can be made to do, it's exciting."

WALT MASON

"A pound of Johnson's mothballs, please," I said to Druggist Hand; "for years, to ward off dread disease, I've used that famous brand. I take four mothballs when I rise, and six before I dine, and I'm the healthiest of guys. I'm always feeling fine. And if at times I'm feeling faint, or weak from heels to crown, I mix twelve mothballs with some paint, and pour this tonic down. And it will banish all my aches, my nerves it will repair, and I can whip my weight in snakes, and never sweat a hair. I know that Johnson's mothballs drive diseases far away, and so I swallow twenty-five some seven times a day." "We haven't Johnson's brand to-day," the druggist made his talk, "but here's a kind that people say backs Johnson's off the walk. We have some patrons who have bought the Johnson brand for years, and being credulous, they thought that Johnson's had no peers. But having tried the Kickshaw brand, they promptly changed their minds; the Kickshaw depts. they now demand, they'll have no other kinds." And this is why I go no more, my dachshund at my heels, to that misguided druggist's store, to spend my plunks and wheels. For when I have the coin in hand, to pay up, by the rood, I do not want some other brand, or something just as good. I want the goods for which Johnson's name be on the cask—no other kind will do. And he who'd sell me other junk will get my trade no more; he'll never draw another plunk from out my princely store.

Where Will the World's Gold Find Its Market?

With an annual world production of about $350,000,000 in new gold, and with the United States in possession of a large gold stock in excess of what legal provisions and customary ideas of safety demand as a basis for the credit structure, it becomes a matter of more than academic interest to a gold-producing country like Canada to keep informed as to the probable demand for this precious product. The market hitherto has been and will continue to be the world's gold reserves, the hoards of individuals and the demands of luxury industries. The United States exported during the first eight months of 1925 on balance $142,000,000 of gold, an amount which will probably be greatly increased as time goes on, even though before the war such an amount would have been considered a serious loss to the country. Now that country has so much gold that the prospect of placing the surplus with countries and people who can use and pay for its use is hailed as a way out. In what countries will this outflow of gold from the United States and the new gold being added yearly by the mines of the world, find their markets? The Midland Bank Ltd., believes that Great Britain will in the next few years have to absorb quantities of gold, which will still be available after the probable needs of the world are filled. This belief is expressed in the following paragraph taken from its last Monthly Review: "The question whether India in any particular year will absorb gold on a large scale is always to some extent dependent on the vagaries of the monsoon, but over a period of years nothing less than a radical change in the habits of the natives can check or reverse the steady inflow of precious metals. This remark applies to a smaller but important extent to other parts of the Far East. Thus then will be one demand element in the gold situation. Consideration in the arts and in industries of one sort or another, comprising another important factor. But these two, together, even when coupled with the demand for gold reserves in which to base restored confidence in currencies, will probably be inadequate to cope with the future supplies from natural mines and American cellars. Consequently it would appear likely that over the next few years this country will be required to absorb into the metallic gold. To put a figure upon the reserves, substantial quantities of amounts would be nothing more than to make a worthless guess, but it appears fairly clear that they will be fully capable of supporting a growing volume of credit to finance any likely development of trade and industry in this country. Should they be more than adequate for this purpose the prospects are for a slowly rising price level, a state of affairs which holds out a distinct hope of prosperity in the future."

Where Prison Means Honour

Prison life in this country has lost many of the terrors but the "prison taint" remains. We are still very far removed from the point of view of the natives of West Africa, who consider a term of imprisonment in one of the Government prisons the greatest honour that could be conferred on them.

In this part of the world convict labour is almost universally employed for such tasks as road-making, laying out public gardens, and building bridges. In addition, householders who want any kind of job done are in the habit of sending to the town prison, who will supply a gang of competent convicts in charge of a warden to carry out the work.

As a result, the West African gets into his woolly head that he has been specially selected to render services to the Government, and, when he is released and returns to his own home and friends, his prestige among them is enormous. In fact, one man who had his sentence shortened, because of his good conduct, took the respite as a great insult and inquired what he had done that he should be turned out before the proper time.

One reason for this queer notion is that prisons, with ideal sanitary arrangements, have separate beds for each inmate, and three meals a day, are palaces of splendour and delight compared with the average native hut, with its mud floor and squalid surroundings.

Mechanical Chimney Sweep

The amount of soot that collects in large works where hundreds of tons of coal are burned in a day, is so colossal that it takes a steam chimney-sweep to keep pace with it. This appliance, called a "soot-blower," blows high-pressure steam into the boilers at a rate of 250 miles an hour.

Several tons of steam are used in the course of twenty-four hours, but those who know that heat is impaired by less than an eighth of an inch of soot to the same extent as by a full half inch of asbestos realize the importance of keeping the heating surfaces quite clean.

It is not necessary to use the blower more than once or twice a day, and then only for about a minute, in which time all deposit is effectively removed. The "soot-blower" carries all before it. It is so powerful, in fact, that the soot is blown out of the chimneys to a height of over 100 feet.

Banish the Hand Pump

In primitive countries woman is regarded somewhat as a beast of burden. She is subjected to all sorts of drudgery, does practically all the work, and her lot is hard and discouraging. This custom is rightly regarded as inhuman and uncivilized.

Yet thousands of women in this country today are shackled to the old-fashioned hand pump. In many cases they carry the water considerable distances after pumping it. The amount of time and energy lost is incalculable.

Empire Duro Water Systems

have liberated thousands of women, and men, from the grinding toil of pumping and carrying water. They have brought comfort, cleanliness and health where drudgery, dirt and disease prevailed before.

Duro systems give you all the conveniences of city water service. Running water under pressure in kitchen, bathroom, toilet, garden and barn is at your service.

Compact, powerful, and automatic—a Duro system is easily installed in old or new homes and costs less than 1c a day to operate. Driven by either electric motor or gasoline engine.

Duro Systems are made in many sizes and styles. Ask us for an estimate of cost.

Monday Night's Game.

7.30—E. Fox (Masonic) vs. D. J. French, (B.L.S.).

INDOOR SPORTS MEET, WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 18TH.

The big indoor sports meet, under the auspices of the Guards and St. Bon's Clubs will be held in the Prince's Rink on Wednesday night, November 18th, and not on Monday, the 16th inst., as many people are of opinion. Last night another large squad of athletes held a work-out at the Prince's Rink. All the boys are shaping splendidly and exciting races are assured. The feature event of the meet will be Junior Football Relay Race, between the T.A. and Holy Cross teams. There is bound to be keen rivalry between these two teams when they meet. The Inter Collegiate Relay Race also promises to be interesting, as well as a series of races for those of the fair sex.

N.H.L. SEASON TO BEGIN NOVEMBER 6.

The annual meeting of the National Hockey League will be held in Montreal shortly. There will be the admission of Pittsburgh to deal with, but this presents no problems, as the last objection, Ottawa, has agreed to the Stinky City entry. Limitation of players' salaries will be discussed. Rule changes will be on the tapis as well, and the principal one likely to be adopted is the anti-defence rule, first tried out by Patrick's Coast teams. President Frank Calder will present a schedule to the delegates. It is planned to open the season Nov. 26, and end it March 13, giving 18 home games to each club.

Following the N.H.L. meeting there will be a banquet to Odie and Sprague Coghlan, former Canadian Club players, who have gone to Pittsburgh and Boston, respectively. Over 400 will attend, including Wm. Foran, Ottawa, and Wm. Northey, Montreal, trustees of Stanley and Allan cups.

Hobe Kitchen, star defence player with Niagara Falls senior O.H.A.

champion last season, has arrived in Montreal, where he will play professional hockey with the Montreal Maroons in the N.H.L. this winter.

ENGLAND DEFEATS IRISH SOCIETIES.

MAIDSTONE, Eng., Nov. 7.—(C.P.)—England defeated Ireland six to four in an international amateur soccer match here to-day. The score at half time was four to one in favor of England. The match was played in fine weather on turf heavy from recent rains. Twelve thousand spectators saw the struggle.

WITH THE BOXERS.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 7.—Jimmy Darragh, Denver, won on a foul over Phil (K.O.) Kaplan, Newark, N.J. mid-weight, in the third round of a scheduled ten round match here last night.

TORRINGTON, Conn., Nov. 7.—Wille Shugrue, of Waterbury, was given the referee's decision over Sammy Sanchez, of Mexico, in a ten-round bout here last night. The decision was not popular with the spectators.

NORTH BERGEN, N.J., Nov. 7.—Giovanni Salvo, of Italy, outpointed Jack Sharkey, veteran coltan-weight, over the ten round distance here last night in the opinion of a majority of newspaper men.

GERTRUDE EDELIE BECOMES A PRO.

Alleen Rignin Also Joins the Paid Rank.

New York, Nov. 4.—The lure of professional coach at swimming pools has snatched from amateur aquatics the last of the "big four" in the U.S. women's swimming association. Gertrude Edelie, queen of United States mermaids, and Alleen Rignin, fancy diving champion, have announced their intention to become instructors on January 1. Ethelda Bleibtrey was the first of the great quartet of mermaids to turn in her amateur card. Then came Helen Wainwright.

Both Miss Edelie and Miss Rignin became swimming stars in their early teens, Miss Rignin winning the Olympic fancy diving title at the age of fourteen and the former defeating a field of fifty-two international swimmers at the age of fifteen in a 3 1/2 mile race here.

U. S. GOLF CHAMPION GOES TO FLORIDA.

Willie MacFarlane Will Direct $8,000 Golf Course—Other Pros. Go South.

New York, Nov. 4.—Willie MacFarlane, national open golf champion, goes forth to Florida in a few weeks to direct a $8,000 course.

MacFarlane thus has an exceptional opportunity to realize upon the title that he gained after a thrilling battle with Bobby Jones at Worcester, Mass., last June. Other professionals have gathered large sums of money in exhibitions after victories in national championships, but illness and injury attacked the 1925 victor even while he fought for the title.

Many of the other well-known professionals will travel south with MacFarlane, bent upon collecting the fruits of their labors which long have been denied, for only in the past few years has there been lucrative winter employment for instructors.

LIONEL CONACHER ALIAS "BIG TRAIN II."

Lionel Conacher, Canada's super-athlete, who has been going to colleges in and around Pittsburgh and playing hockey for Pittsburgh Yellow Jackets for two years may make his farewell appearance as an amateur athlete here Saturday by playing on the Argo half line against Montreal, Conny, who played Lacrosse for the Irish-Canadians, has been away hunting all fall and returned to Toronto Monday. He expressed a desire to turn out and play for Argo on Saturday and last night practiced with Mike Rodden's squad. The matter was put up to the rugby executive of the club and they hung out the "Welcome Sign" to the "Big Boy." Conacher's certificate was forwarded to the Secretary of the Interprovincial Rugby Union last night and he is now eligible to play. The only barrier to Conny's appearance in an Argo uniform Saturday is the fact that the annual meeting of the N.H.L. is to be held in Montreal on Saturday and his presence may be required there as manager of the New Pittsburgh club, which will be admitted to the N.H.L. at that meeting. Conacher declares that he has not yet signed a certificate to play for or manage the new Pittsburgh pro hockey team, and points out that he cannot do so for the Pittsburgh club has not yet been officially accepted by the N.H.L.

TUNNEY-GODFREY MATCH IS NO OFF.

Tunney Draws the Color-Line for all Negroes Except Wills.

By HENRY L. FARRELL.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—Plans to match Gene Tunney, New York heavyweight contender, and George Godfrey, giant Philadelphia negro, in the big feature match of the indoor season, were abandoned to-day when Tunney's manager said he wasn't interested.

Billy Gibson, Tunney's manager, offered the peculiar excuse that the former marine had drawn the color-line and that Harry Wills was the only negro that he would concede to fight.

Tunney has been complaining that the refusal of Wills to accept his challenge had forced him into idleness and that he would have to spend the winter playing golf instead of boxing.

Newark promoters, who staged the recent flop between Wills and Floyd Johnson, said that Wills was willing to accept Tunney for that date, but that Gibson refused on the ground it was not an outdoor attraction and that neither of the fighters could get the purse out of an army that the match was worth.

PRINCE HAD ANOTHER TUMBLE.

LONDON, Nov. 8.—The hard riding of the Prince of Wales is again causing anxiety following another accident in the hunting field yesterday. The Prince with the Duke of York following close on the Whaddon chase hounds attempted a difficult fence narrowly saving himself when his horse fell. His Royal Highness scrambled nimbly out of the saddle and was up in an instant to remount and follow the field none the worse.

This was the second time within four days that the Prince has figured in a fall.

FLY-WEIGHT BOXERS.

"Kid" Socks Qualifies for the Championship.

At the National Sporting Club last night "Kid" Socks, of London, defeated Al Barber, of Brighton, in a 15-round contest, on points. Socks will now meet Glyk Clark, the fly-weight champion, for the Lonsdale challenge belt.

The fight was not a bad one, but it was best summed up by Jimmy Wilde when he said: "It hasn't got a kick, and neither have the boys."

Barber was aggressive enough, but throughout he was generally behind Socks in defence, attack, footwork, and generalship.

Socks reminds the spectator of Freddie Palmer, but his chief defect is that he lacks a punch. He is speedy and clever enough, but, as he is now, it is unthinkable that he will ever put an opponent down.

It is difficult to believe that he will deprive Clark of his title—that despite the fact that he defeated him recently.

But he is an improving fly-weight, although far behind the remarkable Wilde, and his contest with Clark will therefore be looked forward to with interest.

KID SOCKS—MERCHANT.

One of the reasons why Kid Socks boxed so surely and carefully against Barber at the N. S. C. on Monday was that he had to win in order to buy a general shop he had set his heart on. He had paid his deposit and if he lost the fight he could not have concluded the deal.

"Printing Isn't Expensive If You Pay Enough For It"

The task which business stationery has to perform is to convey a message. That is its primary purpose. But it has another. It should convey an atmosphere—a personality—which identifies the business it represents, and it should convey that atmosphere or personality so convincingly, so pleasingly, so substantially, that it makes the same kind of favourable impression that a good salesman or a fine office does.

Business stationery which fails in this particular is too expensive to use, because it is not doing the whole job. That's why printing isn't expensive if you pay enough for it.

We have lately installed an embossing machine which produces beautiful glossy or dull relief work on plain type printing that defies actual die or plate embossing in appearance.

A trial order will convince you of its excellence.

Exploring the Secret of Magnetic Eyes

The eye is the window of the soul. This has often been said, writes Harry de Varigny in L'Echo de Paris, and every one knows by experience that if we wish to be sure of the real intentions of one with whom we are talking, we fix our eyes on his as if to see what may be found at the bottom—that is to say, in his personality. We instinctively distrust the man who does not look us in the eye; we regard him as a deceiver, and the fact that his eye will not meet ours is taken to mean that he is afraid of betraying himself, of allowing us to find out that if he says "yes," he will not act accordingly despite his assurances. Then, too, we read further:

"There is a sort of antagonism between glances of the eye. Two persons can not long sustain each other's steady gaze. After a few instants, the eyes turn away, as if, on both sides, there was an impression of having committed or undergone some indiscretion."

"There is no one, besides, who does not find an insistent gaze disagreeable. What does this person want? we ask ourselves. And we turn away our eyes, to see whether the gaze will continue. There is at once antagonism and attraction, which later may go so far as to become fascination."

"Another thing still. We sometimes hear people boast of exercising an attraction, of obliging a person, by a steady look, to turn around and look at them. This is always an exaggeration. The experiment has been made by an American psychologist. It consisted in finding out whether a subject placed in the rear rows of an audience really could force a person in front of him to turn around, this subject being a chance selection. Thus made, the experiment always fails. It succeeds, on the contrary, if the two persons can see one another without his being necessary for the 'fascinated' person to turn around, and if the active subject has taken care previously to attract the attention of the passive one by looking at him. If the active keeps up his gaze at the passive, the latter will notice it, and his eyes will often seek those of the former, even if it is necessary for him to turn his head a little. Education and the intimate preoccupations of the moment also play an important part in the matter, and a considerable number of subjects remain quite indifferent."

"Does there then exist a radiation emanating from the eye, explaining this antagonism of the gazes?" An English experimenter, Mr. C. Ross, in 1899, after several years of experiment, and he has not forth his "Discovery for April (see also Nature, September 1 and 8, 1921).

"The essential thing is to find an experimental detector of the invisible ray capable of reacting on the gas. And, naturally enough, Mr. Russ has inquired whether he could not detect some form of electric or electromagnetic radiation. This is how he went about it: He suspended a bobbin of metallic wire, forming a solenoid, in a metal chamber, connected to earth and having a glass window. The bobbin was hung by a silk thread having no torsion, whose other end was attached to a stopper that closed a cylindrical chimney surmounting the chamber, and about a foot long. The two ends of the spiral forming the bobbin were connected. Above the bobbin, at right-angles with it, was a small magnet to keep it fixed in one direction. Under the bobbin, on the floor of the chamber, was a graduated circle so that the position taken by the bobbin could be noted.

"If the eye really causes a current in the coil, this will become magnetic and tend to place its axis parallel to that of the small magnet. The apparatus is allowed time to settle into a position of equilibrium, and then the experimenter looks steadily at the bobbin. This alters its direction, and when it stops turning, the eye is turned away. The bobbin then takes up its initial position. The deviation, which is slight, is then noted. The movement occurs in 5 seconds, and may be as great as 30 degrees in dry weather; it is smaller and slower in moist weather with low barometer. But it is also obtained, the more slowly, by means of a light ray. In a vacuum it is less.

"How shall we explain this phenomenon? Movements in the air are not the cause, the apparatus being enclosed. Does heat act? What of the operator's face? But the action of vessels containing hot or boiling water is very slight—at most, only a quarter of that of the eye.

"To sum up, the gaze would appear capable, at a small distance, of disturbing an electrostatic system, charged or not. The author's opinion is that the body, the brain, and especially the eye, emit a radiation of electric or electromagnetic waves. This may be more considerable at some points of the body than at others. We know in any case that there are various electric changes in the organism at every moment. Whether we use a condenser, a solenoid or a solenoid in a magnetic field, the child as well as the adult affects it, though in less degree. The action varies greatly. Mr. Russ considers a 15-degree deviation as the average, in his subjects; but a very brilliant

British Commitments

Mr. Chamberlain said to-night that his only regret was that the nations represented could not themselves have heard the moving declarations which marked the end of the conference. He added that, for those who were present, the closing words spoken by M. Briand (the French Foreign Minister) and Dr. Stresemann would be an imperishable memory. He was convinced that they had accomplished a great work, and that what they had done was only the beginning of the task.

Mr. Chamberlain stated that he had been faithful to the declarations he had made in the House of Commons, and that the 'British' commitments did not go farther than that.

It is understood that the evacuation of Cologne will take place in the near future.

(Mr. Chamberlain stated in the House of Commons, on June 24 last, that any new obligations undertaken by Great Britain would be limited to "the maintenance of the existing territorial arrangement on the Western frontier of Germany," and that the Government was not prepared to assume fresh obligations elsewhere.)

The initialled documents are a treaty between Germany, Belgium, France, Great Britain, and Italy, and arbitration treaties between Germany, Belgium, France, Poland, and Czechoslovakia.

Accords between France, Poland, and Czechoslovakia, reinforcing the treaties, have also been concluded.

Newfoundland at Wembley

In a conversation with Mr. Peter Cowan who was at Wembley during the past season and had a sales counter in the Newfoundland Pavilion, a Telegram representative was given the following particulars in connection with our Exhibition.

From the opening day May 9th, until the Exhibition was closed by the Duke of York on Oct. 31st, at the Exhibition boosting Newfoundland at my own expense was quite an experience.

In April I applied to the Committee for the use of the Sales Counter there, and offered to assist Mr. Davies in the running of the Newfoundland Exhibition.

Having visited Wembley in 1924 and listened to persons who never saw Newfoundland, describe the products, climate etc., I decided that if the Exhibition was continued in 1925 that some Newfoundlanders should be there to give information.

When the Queen, Duke and Duchess of York, members of Parliament and other important persons visited the Pavilion, Mr. Davies was "the right man in the right place." All enquiries in connection with minerals or Pulp were referred to him. As Exhibition Commissioner he had plenty to do, and often had to leave the Pavilion during the busiest time to attend a meeting in London or elsewhere. Newfoundlanders or friends of Newfoundland would naturally want to see the Commissioner, and he was not expected, nor could he find time to show people round and explain the various Exhibits to inquisitive visitors.

The St. John's Committee thought the people of England would resent any interference on the part of the staff, and at first turned down my offer, but later decided to accept.

On the opening day the Sales Counter was forgotten and groups of visitors were taken round the building, I explained how the fish is caught, cured, shipped and cooked, and each exhibit was taken in turn. When the visitors reached the door they passed out after thanking me for taking such an interest, and several times some of them returned with friends, and asked me to deliver "the lecture" again. Groups of school children visited the Pavilion and while I explained how Seal Oil and Cod Liver Oil was made, and showed the different articles made from Seal Skins, etc., the paper making industry, Eel grass and other exhibits, the children took notes, and left the building prepared to write a good composition on Newfoundland, each one feeling sure of winning the prize offered by the teacher for the best Essay.

As my office hours were from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. for the first 2 months I sent for my son George, to come over to assist me during the months of July and August.

This arrangement gave me time to attend to private business, and a chance to interview visitors who called and were eager for information about Britain's Oldest Colony. I was proud to be able to say that I am a native of this Country, especially when the visitors would ask if we had any natives over from Newfoundland.

They expected to see a few Indian Chiefs there, and were a bit disappointed when they found their education was sadly neglected as far as Newfoundland is concerned.

As the visitors passed round the building they saw on one side a large model of Corner Brook Paper Mills, Grand Lake with its concrete Dam, which raised the Lake 31 feet. The Canals, Flume, Power House and wires showed how the Electric power was transmitted to the mills at Corner Brook. The water after passing through the Power House dropped into Deer Lake and by way of the Humber down to the sea.

The logs from Grand Lake pass through the Canals down the Spillway into Deer Lake and by way of the river to the mills. The model of the mills with the steamer lying at the pier made this exhibit very attractive. As a background, a large painting of Corner Brook Mills, Hotel, Valley and hills attracted the attention of the visitors, especially those who returned from the paper mills in August, when the job was completed.

Mr. Edgar's exhibit of stamps, two cases of birds, and the models of Seal, the steamers, by Mr. E. Maundrell were next in line, and then the corner devoted to the Seal Fishery. The large painting of a Sealing steamer at the icefields filled the back of this case, and a group of about 20 Seals were so arranged that this case was one of our most attractive Exhibits.

The exhibit of Grand Falls Paper Mill and the model of the A.N.D. Co's steamer "Geraldine Mary" completed one side of the building.

The case of fish was our best exhibit and Mr. Davies is to be congratulated on the way it was arranged. In this case, Trout, Salmon, Herring, Lobster, Halibut, Flat Fish and Codfish seemed lifelike, and the Caplin were nicely arranged in the centre. We understand this case will be brought to St. John's, if it can be arranged to ship it without being damaged.

Hawes & Co. relief map of the Atlantic ocean showed where, and how we ship our fish. The plaster moulds of dry Codfish looked so real that the old time Newfoundlanders who visited Wembley enquired if they could buy some.

The case of Seal Skin coats and novelties made from Seal Skin, fishing on the Grand Banks, and case of a model fishing settlement, made one side of the building very attractive.

After passing the case of fox furs was the mineral section where samples of Silver Cliff Ore, Bell Island Ore, Coal and Slate were displayed, next to the Slate House was a pile of Copper Ore and then the Sales Counter where postcards and novelties were on sale. After the first week the Sales Counter became an information bureau as well.

The centre of the building contained 6 cases of Minerals, a model of steamer Newfoundland, cases containing "Nook" goods, Riverside Mills, Eel Grass, Whale Bones, and the Newfoundland Dog Sable.

Opposite the entrance was the large case of Caribou and around each post in the building were sections of logs showing the different kind of trees we have in Newfoundland.

The Colonial Cordage Co., exhibit of Rope, helped to make the Newfoundland Exhibit at Wembley a success.

As I visited England in the interest of my firm I think it advisable not to give my opinion of the value of the Newfoundland Exhibit at Wembley, as, no doubt, Mr. Davies will make a report later on business done, or opportunities for the future.

The value of Wembley Exhibition cannot be measured in dollars and cents. It was intended as one big advertisement for Britain and her Colonies, and the result lies with the future. No one can expect to receive the benefit at once.

Over 150 thousand people visited Wembley on the closing day Oct. 31st, when the Duke of York declared the Exhibition closed and gave the sign for the flag to be lowered.

The gates were closed at 11.30, when in some buildings the staff commenced to pack their Exhibits and prepare for home, all Sunday, day and night, lorries were busy hauling the packages from the different Pavilions and on Monday morning Wembley was like a deserted city, most of the buildings must be removed within two months, but the Stadium, H. M. Government and Palaces of Industry and Engineering buildings will likely be left standing. With the exception of the above mentioned buildings the Pavilions were made of high plaster only, and were never intended to be permanent.

Last year the Exhibition showed a loss of about £200,000 but this has been reduced this year, by about 25%, thanks to "the Tattoo" which proved a great attraction and helped to make the Exhibition at Wembley this year a success.

During the summer on Saturday's and holidays over 50,000 per day passed through the Newfoundland Pavilion. If it pays to advertise then Newfoundland should reap the benefit later.

Increased Activity

This week was marked by much more favourable weather for handling fish than any week in October. The high winds which raged almost continuously the past month had abated since Monday last, and the skippers of the large number of schooners, fish laden, that were three weeks waiting for civil weather to put out, were enabled to come on to St. John's.

About 45 arrived during the week, chiefly from the north side of Bonavista Bay. Nearly all had cargoes of Labrador fish, and Cod oil.

The trade on Water Street and work along the Water front increased accordingly, and there was great activity at all the wharves—taking out fish, and loading winter supplies of food, etc. The Labrador fish sold as high as $5.45 a quintal, but the general price for cash was $5.40. It is estimated that 20,000 quintals of Labrador and shore fish arrived here this week. The fishermen were looking for a higher price than $5.40 cash, and the independent ones amongst them, spent a whole day in going to all the merchants' offices. In a few cases $5.50 was paid by two exporters for a limited quantity to make up a definite shipment. It is a good thing to see that the tendency of the price is upward instead of down, and as most of the crews have more fish than they had last year per schooner, they will do very well at 5.40. The price of shore fish is keeping up even better than Labrador, and there seems from the present outlook, to be no danger of a decline in this quality. The range is from $3.50 to $9.50 according to quality. Cod Oil, too, is improved in price and sales were made this week at $145.00 per ton.—Trade Review.

Women Botanical Explorers

We are constantly hearing of women who have made a great name for themselves in various branches of science, but little is ever heard of feminine triumphs in botany and natural history. Yet in many instances women have proved superior to men in these subjects.

As the result of the efforts of a woman botanist who died a few months ago the Natural History Botanical Department of the British Museum has gained many very valuable specimens from all parts of the world. This benefactor to natural science was Miss Lillian Suzette Gibbs, who during her adventurous lifetime made journeys to the unexplored parts of Fiji, Borneo, New Guinea, and Australia in search of new plant life.

Miss Gibbs went through a course of botanical study at Swanley Horticultural College and the Royal College of Science in South Kensington. In 1910 she had the honour of winning the Huxley medal for research in natural science.

A Dangerous Expedition

Her first exploration trip was to Fiji, where she climbed Mount Nadarivatu. Later she went to British North Borneo and succeeded in reaching the summit of Mount Kinabalu. This climb was a big undertaking, being 13,000ft. high and presenting many dangers of the explorer; yet Miss Gibbs succeeded where others had failed, and secured many extremely valuable plants that were quite new to science.

During her various explorations Miss Gibbs went through swamps and impenetrable forests, as well as facing the risk of being attacked by hostile natives; and there are very few male explorers who have lived a more hazardous life than this courageous woman botanist.

Very little botanical information about British Somaliland would be available to-day but for the untiring efforts of two women explorers, Miss Edith Cole and Mrs. Lot Phillips. They formed an expedition and penetrated into the widest parts of this little known region of Africa. They returned, after many exciting adventures, with about 300 species of flowering plants and ferns which they presented later to Kew Gardens.

Exciting Adventures.
Another notable woman botanist was Miss Mary Kingsley, who was a niece of the famous novelist, Charles Kingsley. She went to West Africa, and later to the French Congo, where she explored country that was untrodden by Europeans.
After a long series of hairbreadth escapes in the forest and on the river from cannibal tribes she managed to get back to the coast with a valuable collection of botanical specimens.

An Unknown District.
Further botanical information about Africa was obtained at a later date by Mrs. Lugard, who explored unknown Niamland. This district is for the most part uninhabitable, and it was at great risk from fever and famine that the intrepid Mrs. Lugard carried out her investigations.
Mrs. P. A. Talbot has rendered services to botanical science by her work in South Nigeria, and one must not forget to mention Mrs. A. F. Brown, who discovered many formerly unknown plants during her Sudan expeditions.

American Church
 EPISCOPAL CONVENTION.

Summary of Work Performed.
 NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 24.—The Triennial general convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church, which closed today after a seven-day session, has completed a mass of business connected with the affairs of the Church.

For the first time in 140 years a new President Bishop was elected in place of the one who had held the office since 1882. The Rev. Dr. William Cabell Brown of Virginia was elected as successor to the Presiding Bishop, Dr. Ernest M. Stiles, Bishop of Long Island and soon to be consecrated Bishop, was elected Chairman of the House of Deputies.

First Prayer Book Revision Since 1892.
 One of the most important phases of the convention's work was the revision of the prayer book. The work began in 1910 and will be completed in 1928, when new matter proposed at this convention will be acted upon. This is the first complete revision of the prayer book since 1892.

Those who worked on revision of the prayer book believe that when completed it will no longer represent the thought of the Middle Ages, but that of the twentieth century, although it will still retain many of the old liturgies.

Some of the harsh theology has been modified. Men will no longer be "miserable sinners," or say that they were "conceived and born in sin." Many of the archaic expressions have been eliminated. Those which have gone into the discard include "the vengeance of God" and the "wrath of God."

Among the additional prayers are those for State Legislatures, courts of justice and schools and colleges. There is a new prayer for social justice and a new office of baptism. The convention made it permissible for a minister to anoint with oil a sick person who so desires and to lay on hands with a new prayer of healing.

The thirty-nine articles of religion, adopted at the time of the Reformation, have been eliminated from the prayer book.

Travel by air is recognized in the litany which now petitions for those who travel "by land and water or by air."

Gratified by Unanimity.
 At the closing session of the House of Deputies today the Rev. Dr. Ernest M. Stiles, the retiring Chairman, thanked the house for its tribute to him yesterday. He said he would still look wistfully in the days to come to the house and its members. He was glad that although there was great difference of opinion among the members, there was no recrimination. The delegates from Virginia, Massachusetts, Milwaukee and Fond du Lac sat side by side and he defied any one, from the utterances of the delegates, to know what school of thought in the Church they came from.

Following the adjournment of the convention, Bishop Manning, in reply to a question asking his impression of the convention, said: "In my judgment this has been one of the best conventions ever held, not only in the amount of work accomplished, but still more in the spirit in which the work has been done."

The questions before the convention have been considered open-mindedly, with a remarkable absence of party spirit and with the desire to do whatever would best set forward the work of the Church.

"The spirit of the convention was shown notably in the pledges given to remove the large deficit of the National Council; in its practically unanimous adoption of the budget for the next triennium; in its attitude towards most of the questions involved in the revision of the Prayer Book and in its election of the Bishop of Maryland, one of the wisest, most trusted and most devoted leaders of the Church, as Presiding Bishop."

PASTORAL LETTER OF AMERICAN BISHOPS.
 Issued at Triennial Convention—A Historic Document.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. 24.—Determined to avoid a repetition of the furor caused in the church by the Dallas pastoral letter of Nov. 14, 1922, which insisted on a literal acceptance of every statement in the creed, the House of Bishops of the Protestant Episcopal Church today made public its latest pastoral, a carefully drawn document of 1,000 words.

The letter, read by Bishop William T. Manning of New York, at the closing service of the General Triennial Convention held in Christ Church Cathedral, instead of stressing the creed to the exclusion of the Gospel, gave the creed but passing mention and shifted the emphasis to Christ and the Gospel.

The emphasis on evangelism instead of ecclesiasticism was received with warm approval by all parties in the church.

In substance the pastoral letter was a general survey of modern social, religious and industrial questions and contained the counsel of the Bishops to the church advising how these problems could be solved. References were also made to the danger of racial conflicts in Asia, the threat of social disintegration in Europe, the appalling growth of divorce and the lowering standards of home life in the United States.

The pastoral letter was prepared by a committee consisting of Bishop Manning of New York, Bishop James De Wolf Perry of Rhode Island and Bishop Thomas F. Gallor of Tennessee.

It was read by Bishop Manning at 8:30 in Christ Church Cathedral at the close of a procession of vested Bishops. Those who took places in the sanctuary were Presiding Bishop Ethelbert Talbot, Bishop Gallor and Bishop David Sessoms of Louisiana.

Following is the text of the pastoral letter as read by Bishop Manning:

Text of the Pastoral Letter.
 Brethren of the Clergy and Laity:

As those upon whom rests the responsibility of chief shepherds in the Church of Christ, we send our message of love and counsel to you at this time.

We look out upon a world in which vast changes are taking place. In China and elsewhere among the peoples of Asia and Africa movements and forces are at work which must have momentous consequences. Some of those best able to judge the signs of the times are warning us of the danger of racial conflicts more disastrous than any that this earth has yet known.

It is no longer possible for the races of men to dwell separate and remote from one another. A power must now be found strong enough to bind men together in world brotherhood, if men with the same love and power with which the apostles preached Him. What is now needed is that Christ Himself shall be accepted, that His grace and truth shall be made known, that we shall preach Him to men as the New Testament shows Him to us, as he is now at God's right hand in all His majesty and glory.

It is this message for which men are longing and waiting. It is this faith which has power to save the world. It is this which will fill the ranks of the ministry with the best and noblest of our sons, and will carry men and women to the ends of the earth to share with others the joy and light and love that they themselves have found in Christ.

If there seems to be to-day any lack of enthusiasm of joy, of adequate response to the missionary challenge of the Church, it is because of the lack of a "honest" error in our preaching of Jesus Christ.

The very heart of the Gospel is that it was the eternal Son of God—Himself to dwell among men. With the apostles, with the New Testament, with the whole Catholic Church throughout the world, we believe that it was He by whom the heavens and the earth were made. "Who for us men, and for our salvation, came down from heaven, and was incarnate by the Holy Ghost of the Virgin Mary, and was made man."

Let us make it clear that our acceptance of the Christian creed is not a matter of mere assent to intellectual propositions. Our faith is in Christ Himself, which is an infinitely simpler and an infinitely greater thing. We believe in Him, we pray to Him, we strive to follow Him, we look to Him as our Saviour and our Lord. It is our faith in Him which explains and justifies the prayers, the hymns, the sacraments, the whole faith and worship of the Church.

We would especially warn our people against the superficial and false antithesis, just now often dwelt upon, between the religion of Christ and the religion about Christ. No such antithesis can be made by those who believe in Jesus Christ as God. There is no such antithesis in the New Testament. We need both the religion about Christ and the religion of Christ, and the Church and the Scriptures give us both. If we are to have a living faith in Christ, we must know the truth about Him.

Appeal for Renewed Service.
 Brethren, the love of Christ constrains us—that love, which poured itself out in entire self-surrender for our sakes, is the challenge to us and to all men to redeem the discord and failure of the world, to abolish war and bring in peace by unselfish service in His name and power. Of Him, and on faith in Him, depends the whole world's hope and salvation.

It is Christ alone who brings comfort for the sorrow of human life, who can overcome the sin in the world and in each of us. It is Christ alone who can give us the strength that we need for the tasks now facing us. It is Christ who has given us those visions of truth, of justice in all human relationships, of world brotherhood, which are now before men's minds. It is Christ only who can bring these visions to fulfillment. We who send this message to you pledge ourselves to new devotion to His name and service. With most affectionate care for them, we call the young people of the Church to new adventure in the faith and service of Him who is more modern than any of the movements of our day. We call the whole Church, clerical and lay, old and young alike, to repentance and new life, to prayer and sacrament and worship, to faith in Jesus Christ the Son of God, that we may be His true disciples and may bear our faithful witness of Him to the world.
