chanst in any gaim unless I can see the deck myself.

Oh, sed Missus Jenkins, charades isent a card game. Charades is like this, here is one:

My first is a leader, my second a weight.

One day going there my trane was late.

The anser is Boston, sed Missus Jenkins. You see, a leader is a boss, a set he second is a weight, a ton, Boss-ton. Doant you see?

I see, sed pa. Hoam, James, and doant spare the horses. Wife, sed Pa, have you reely brought me & our littel son here to play the game of charades? Doant be so rude, sed ma.

I doant intend to be rude, pa sed, but that game, that game! My first is a leader, my second a weight, one day going there my trane was late.

Perhaps you can make up a charade yourself if you are so smart, sed ma.

My first is a cocktail, my second a dinner.

Then the ladies wich beelonged to the club sed Reely, our husbands do not seem to care for our program.

Oh, yes we do, sed pa, but I thought that two charades wud be enuff for the first part, unless you have an acrostic hanging around. I wish I had a deck it ierned it from a dreem I had, pa sed. Here is a deck, Bill, sed one of the men, Riffine it good, sed pa, beekaus I doant want any of the folks here to think that will ask any lady present to take the deck beefcar. I have touched it, go acrost Jenkins wid it. All reddy, sed pa, it has got to be the sam card my frend here under the rug, Missus Jenkins went oaver & sed, Why, it is the three of clubs.

That's funny, sed pa, I did it every time in my dream.

As the mayor intimated before the mp was made there was little that the members of the council could do to help things along. Yet there was one benefit derived from the jaunt that should not be overlooked. Every member of the party was convinced that all was being done that could be done to get the pipe back into working condition. Even Controller Church expressed satisfaction at what was being done, and declared that if the enument which is now in operation oment which is now in operation put on when the break occurred would be nearer an adequate of pure water than it is. first visit of all bu the mayor and two of the aldermen since the trouble originated. The mayor had always been inclined to give the city enginear's department credit for doing all in their power to relieve the situation. He found things moving along much as he expected. Controller Church, on the other hand, has been the most severe critic that the departmen has had to contend with. It was with feelings of considerable satisfaction that the engineers in charge of the work learned that he had faced the pouring rain and rushed to the ferry from a train on which he had just arrived from Montreal to see for himself what was being done. It was hoped by some of the party that the aggressive controller would be persided to accept the invitation of the city engineer and go down in a diver's suit, but they were doomed to disappointment. It was not so much the objections of the controller to becoming an object of curiosity to the objections of the controller to be-coming an object of curiosity to the fish and coll communi in the plugged pipe as because of the insufficiency of altitude of the diver's costume that ented the "survey by the diver" made. Had the controller been disposed to go down the diving suit wild not have been accommodated to his manly form without the assistance a manufacturer of that article or the services of a surgeon to trim him to a convenient length. Divers are not of the same physique as the con-plans of the C. P. R. for the smooe and John-streets came in for much discussion at one of the meet-less of the board of control. There was a great deal of objection to the morposal of a level crossing at Spa-lina-avenue and Peter-streets. This was the chief fault that most of the embers of the board had to find the plans. They are not yet sat sd that this cannot be avoided and gineer, E. L. Cousins, to report on spossibility of an alternative plan for submission to the Dominion Board of Railway Commissioners.

Ald. Yeomans would have laughed at the expense of Ald. Maguire on Tuesday afternoon if he had been present at the meeting of the legislation and reception committee, or to ut it more correctly, what should have een a meeting of that committee. Then the junior alderman from the second Ward moved his resolution-incouncil for the abolition of all committees, Ald. Maguire expressed surprise that one who had only been in the council for a month would presume to attempt an innovation of that nature. When Ald. Maguire found himself the sole attendant of the meeting of the committee at which he pre-sides his thoughts may have reverted to that speech, but if so he did not

The legislation and reception committee was not the only one that required a second call to secure a quorum during the week, and the attendance at some of the others was so the that Ald. Yeomans will likely make another attempt to have the number of committees reduced since he cannot accomplish their entire abointon. He is of the opinion that the time wasted in waiting for enough members to transact the business and the endless discussion which takes place on trival subjects could be better employed eisewhere. Not a few of the other aldermen are coming around to his views, and it is possible that the numerous committees that spend two hours transactifig ten minutes' business with only half the members present will find themselves merged and there will be a corresponding decrease in the number of challenges. in the number of chalrmen. There is not much possibility of the chairmen voting for any reform of this nature, however. It is a curious fact that when the vote was taken on Ald. Mc-Brien's motion for the merging of the property and fire and light committees the chalrmen were found lined up in

Spring Home-Furnishing Sales

We've been busy as beavers during the past few weeks making alterations and re-arranging departments all through the store. It has been a bad few weeks for us as regards profits, but a host of our patrons have had good reason to be thankful therefor-we've cut prices freely.

We fully expect the alterations to be completed next week and every department to be in "apple pie" order. Meantime we want you to help yourself—and us—by buying what you need of the under-priced things. We can better afford to make the prices low now than after we've been to the trouble of moving them. You can have anything 'Charged," and delivered later if you wish.

The Psychology of Voice Production

Famous New York Teacher Gives "Musical America" His Views on Relation of Tone and the

In his New York studio, which, by the way, is one of the most attractive and handsomely appointed music fooms in the metropolis, Wiffried Klamroth gave a Musical America, representtive his views on vocas cul-ture.

"I have often been asked to give concluding my method of teaching singing," said Mr. Klamroth. "That is almost an impossibility, since I might say that I have as many methods as I have pupils. Each one must be separately studied to find out what method of procedure appeals most to him, leading up to the same results. As a rule I first give the pupil a simple scientific explanation of the process of breathing for singers, namely, the diaphragmatic and intercostal or ribbreathing combined. This explanation I best accomplish by original rough drawings of a sectional view of the human body showing the breathing apparatus. By means of various exercises he learns this manner of breathing, after which comes its application to the tone, which results in the support of the tone."

to the tone, which results in the support of the tone.

"When this is grasped the pupil is ready for the so-called placing of the voice, and he enters the psychological aspect. I say so-called for it is not that we actually place vibrations, and for the very good reason that vibrations cannot be placed. Once created they continue their oscillation until their force is exhausted. To place the voice forward means to get such an voice forward means to get such an adjustment of the vocal chords in relation to the resonators that a quality of tone is produced that seems to be forward and even feels forward.

"It depends upon the pupil whether it be necessary to teach this according to the regulation rule and method alone or by arresting that alone or by appealing first to the mind before the effort for expression made. To be more explicit, all qualieffort for expression is ties or vocal utterance are due to a process of the mind. It is a well-known fact that the quality of the voice and the facial expression in speech are a reflection of the thought. One can therefore reverse this and say that the thought controls the quality of the voice and the facial expression. If this is true of the voice in speech must needs be true of the voice

"If one's thought is happy or sad or angry, it gives to his speaking voice the quality of the mood, the tone reflecting the thought precisely. This means that the thought or mind in every instance controls the numberles muscles which by their various adjustments give to the speaking the many qualities of tone which the human voice is capable of producing such as happiness, sadness or anger, etc. Finally we can definitely say that the mind controls the action of the vocal muscles.

"One must first recognize a certain quality of tone before he can reproduce it. Hence it follows that his ears must be keen and his sense of tone discriminating. This is the first requisite of the prospective singer. If the ear is keen the mind is capable of absorbing whatever tone quality is of absorbing whatever tone quality is desired. If he think intently enough on this quality, at the same time observing certain rules, such as an erect position of the bedy, controlled breath, loose jaw, etc., the vocal muscles will gradually assume their correct adjust-ments in relation to the resonance cavities, and thus reproduce this particular tone quality, in so for as the voice in question is capable.

"After all the foregoing has been treated we come to the next and by no means unimportant phase of tone production, namely, enunciation. It is the blending together of the tone and word that puts the finished singer on a higher level than the instrumentalist.

March Report Shows Increase in Cases of Scarlet Fever and Measles.

The medical health department reort on the contagious diseases for March shows a remarkable increase in the number of scarlet fever cases over the corresponding period of last year. There is also an increase in the number of cases of measles, but this is TORONTO explained by the fact that they were not generally reported last year. The LONDON, April 1 .- The talk of imnorality in the boys' and young men's lubs has led Chief Williams to express his views on theological education.

"What are the boys going to do?"
the chief enquires. "Some of them don't like the Y. M. C. A. Some of them are not ready to stay home every night and read. Are they to be on the streets?
They must either go there or to the read. Are they to be on the streets? They must either go there or to the clubs which they form themselves. It is only one boy in a dozen who is content to stay at home and read every night. The ones that do will not amount to much in after life either. They might make ministers, but nothing else. And they would be the kind of ministers who read nice little sermons dealing with problems of which they know little or nothine.

Robert W. Perks, a wealthy Engsts of the proposed peace treaty between England and the United States expressed the personal opinion that the existing treaty between Great Britain and Japan would not be worth the paper it is written on if the United States should ever be at war with the Flowery

"The entire Methodist body of Great Britain is behind the proposed peace between England and the States," he said. "I firmly believe that if your recent problems with Japan had led to war, the treaty between England and Japan would have been torn up. I do not believe England would have remained neutral. Great Britain's duty to the United States would outweigh her duty to Japan." Sir Robert must be back in London for the Methodist conference there in July. In Octover he will return to America for the Toronto conference.

the Instruments to the C. N. R.

Freight Yards. Pedestrians in the down town district yesterday were interested by the sight of a veritable procession of lorries loaded with high grade pianos proceeding to the freight yards of the Canceeding to the freight yards of the Canadian Northern Railroad. It was in truth the largest individual shipment of instruments ever made in the history of the trade in Canada. The forries numbered twenty-eight in all and bore one hundred and four planos, the output of the factories of the Gerhard Heintzman Plano Company of Toronto, and were invoiced to various points in Western Canada between Winnipeg and the coast. They were consigned to various purchasers and agents and did not represent any attempt to stock new warerooms. A tempt to stock new warerooms. A plano is a hefty affair and one hundred and four of them grouped together make a formidable array. They completely filled eight freight cars of the C.N.R., which has charge of the shipment. As has been said, this was the largest single shipment of instruments in the history of the Canadian trade and it therefore constitutes a record. It is interesting to note that the Gerhard Heintzman Company held the previous record which was gained by a single shipment of fifty-two pianos to the west a few years ago. While the firm is proud of the extension of its trade in the young and growing provinces west of the great lakes, the pride of Mr. Gerhard Heintzman lies not in the quantity of pianos shipped, but in the quantity of pianos shipped, but in the quality of each individual instru-ment. His planos are not turned out like horseshoes, but each one of the one hundred and four instruments has received careful individual attention thru Mr. Heintzman, junior, who superintends the immense factories, and is a beautiful high grade production of fine tonal quality and exquisite finish of the Gerhard Helnzman Company and that the public appreciates this fact is shown by the quantity of their planos now in demand. The parade of lorries was also interesting as a typical Fans Will Soon Be Doping Out Their Favorite's Chance to Land the Rag.

By W. S. Farnsworth. NEW YORK, April 1.-In about two weeks the baseball season of 1911 will open, and until October, Eastern, American and National League fandom will have a merry session. In the three organizations the race this year should be closer and more bitterly fought than last season, as the teams at this writing look pretty evenly matched thruout both circuits.

The Giants in the National League and the Athletics in the American League are favorites in their respective organizations, but a bad break in luck, filness or many other things, which have to be battled with in baseball, would put either of these teams out of the race.

Will will try to get a line on the American League race. There never were eight more evenly balanced clubs in Ban Johnson's circuit. While the Athletics have first call because they are not only pennant winners but champions of the world, New York, Chicago, Detroit, Boston and Cleveland all figure to have a chance. St. Louis and Washington may spring a surprise, but just now they hardly class on form with the other half-dozen clubs. Connie Mack's men are nearly all youngsters who have years and years of good baseball left in them. Harry-Davis is the only veteran in the infield. and a veteran, whose long and timely hits have made baseball history. He is what ball players call the "Old Head" of the outfit and keeps the youngsters steady when the tension is strong to do a fight.

In Coombs and Bender, the Athletics have the attraction because the proceedings.

In Coomes and Bencer, the Athletics have the best pair of boxmen, possibly in the league. But those two men are the only real class pitchers Mack has on his roster. Morgan, Plank and Krause are fair, but not above the ordinary, by any means. If either one of them should have a bad season there will be a grand opportunity of some will be a grand opportunity of some other club stepping in and copping the

The Yankees figure next best. Here The Yankees figure next best. Here is a team of youngsters who should play some grand baseball this season. With Hal Chase, a beloved leader, at the helm, the players are going to work their very fingers off in hopes of winning the bunting.

Last year Ed. Sweeney was the only real backstop the club possessed. This season Walter Blair, who last season caught 145 games for Rochester, the Eastern League pennant winner, will Eastern League pennant winner, will be ever on the job ready to replace Sweeney in case of accident or sickness. This pair form about the niftlest catching staff in the country.

There never was any doubt as to the quality of the Yankee's right-handed twirters. This year big Jim Vaughn is in shape to do himself justice. sore arm is O K now. And from down in San Antonio the Yankees have unsomething unusual with most portside Vaughn and Ables will do the bulk of the twirling against Philadelphia. Detroit and Boston teams who nave never been able to do much against left-handed twirlers. The starboard flingers will look after the other four clubs.

Chicago is the darkhorse in the race. If Billy Sullivan comes back and has a good year the White Sox will be well taken care of behind the bat. They have a grand bunch of hard-hitting outfielders and their young in-field should be overflowing with pep-per. Harry Lord at third is probably the best guardian of the difficult sack has one of the strongest staffs of box-men that ever decorated a club's ros-players:

If George Mullin has a successful year Detroit will be right up near the top all season but if the big fellow should go bad it is hard to figure how the Tigers, even the Jennings "pep" and vinegar, can be considered a one,

If Addie Jones' arm comes around the Naps will have a swell chance of finishing in the first division. In Joe Jackson Cheveland apparently dug up another Ty Cobb. He sure did look immense last fall but he can bat only in turn and there are eight others who may not be able to wallop the ball like him.

When John I. Taylor let Harry Lord get away from his Boston club he made a vital mistake. Purtell is not in the same class. The Red Sox have to develop a new first baseman, besides, as J. Garald Stahl has guit the game for good and all to be a banker. With these two stars gone, the Red Sox's new men will have to be phen-oms if the Beantown brigade cop the Washington's recuits did not show anything startling in the south and Jimmy McAller will have to stand nearly pat on the lineup of a year ago. The writer saw the Nationals workout at Atlanta for three days last month and new men were far from being up to the standard. None of the "Busher" outfielders displayed strength, and when the season opens, the team, will be exactly as last season.

St. Louis cannot be considered in the ace on the form they displayed a year ago. Austin and Laporte, secured from New York in exchange of Hartzel, will probably add strength to the club, and it is said Hedges has some Young pitchers who look mighty good. Now for the National League: Now for the National League: The Giants look better to-day than dince 1909. All of McGaw's pitchers player than on that occasion. He has an excellent arm, and his throwing earthed a young southpaw who looks to second is very accurate and done with ease. For a big man he is also like a real find. He is Harry Ables, a six-footer who has everything that the high-class southpaw possesses, the high-class southpaw possesses, but at the same time has all the appearances of an excellent ball-learn, but at the same time has all the appearances of an excellent ballplayer.

Then there is Jack Slattery, who last year did so well with the bat, also in covering first base. Jack claims his arm, which bothered him considerably last season, is all right again, and he looks forward to a good year.

Bothy McWhirter has done his work well, and he has already received many words of praise and encouragement from Manager Kelley. While he is hardly experience denough yet to fill a position in the Eastern League, he appears quite capable of playing in some of the smaller leagues, where a year's more experience will do him the world of good.

We have now worked to the pitchers, possibly the most difficult position to figure on in the whole club. There are at present ten pitchers in the camp, but of these Mcintyre, Armiger and McDonald will be found

With the Pin Spillers

The fifth annual tournament of the Canadian Bowling Association, which is being held this year on the Athenaeum Club drives, was started last might, amidst the wildest enthusiasm.

Controller J. J. Ward, Ald. Alf Maguire and Ald. McBride addressed the bowlers and their great gathering of supporters on the merits of the game, not only a most enjoyable pastime, but one of the very cleanest of sports, an every one of the speakers were staunch in their support of the game for the reason that bowling serves the purpose of wholesome, clean sport and muscular exercise, witnout any of the objectionable features found in other pastimes.

The success the big association has had this year, after it was found necessary to transfer the tournament from Montreal to Toronto, shows what experience and hard work by the officers has done for the bowling in Canada, for with barely three weeks to organize the present tournament the number of entries and prize money will break all records in the history of the C.B.A.

One of the big features of the present tournament will be the number of

One of the big features of the present tournament will be the number of special matched games that will be pulled off. The opening night, Joe West, the champion of the National Bowling Association, and Pap Phelan, one of the very best match bowlers in Canada, and a hard man to beat in any kind of bowling, started the ball rolling with a match of ten games, with total plus to count, for $100, and before the match was finished the pair were challenged for a series of three games by President F. M. Johnston of the C.B.A., who holds the league championship average title of Canada, and his partner was Rolly Morgan, one of the steadlest league rollers in Toronto.

Joe West's team, the El Moros of London, will roll in the tournament on Monday at 7 o'clock, and Joe and his partner, Whitehall, will roll their doubles and singles Tuesday afternoon.

The Athenaeum provincial tourna-ment, that finished up Friday night in blaze of glory, has furnished some if the greatest bowling in singles and doubles ever witnessed in Toronto.

The honor of winning the premium prize, a handsome cabinet grand plano, tell to the genial Pap Phelan, who, along with Joe West of London, gave a brilliant exhibition of bowling, when they totalled 1304 for their doubles, and by rolling right back in their singles they collected the grand aggregate of 1312 and 1301 for their six consecutive games, with Pap having the margin on the National Bowling Association champion.

Distike of the Thorobred.

Their especial bete noire is the thorobred. All the nations of Europe and the United States recognize this value. O. J. C. PROGRAM BOOK. Some Important Changes in Conditions Expected.

It is understood that the O. J. C program book which will make its appearance shortly, will contain one of two changes of importance. Among these will, if report speak true, be the transformation of the Toronto Cup from a weight-for-age event to a handicap. It has also been suggested that the King Edward Gold Cup should be subject to similar treatment, but that will not be this year. The change in the terms of the valuable Toronto Cup is eminently wise. While in some cases it is impossible to handleap good horse down to the level of an ordinary animal yet a handleap will give other than the stars of the turf an opportunity to win a portion of the five thousand dollars added money. Nobody will deny that a high-class horse is an attraction, but everybody will surely agree that it is desirable that as far as possible every horse in the race should have a chance to win-If previous conditions were continued the race would degenerate into a walkover, for another King James, winner in 1909 and 1910, would drive away competition and thus almost entirely destroy the interest in the race that the big money is given to create.

THE KING'S PLATE

Changes of Present Conditions Under Consideration.

No change of course can be made in the King's Plate conditions this year, seeing that the entries have already closed but it is not unlikely something will be done another year. Among other changes that are possible is the allowance of two-year-olds to race and win if they can and carry a penalty for doing so in their three-year-old form if they start for the Plate. By permitting this the horses would become race-wise and increase their value—in instances—while owners would have a chance to win something to pay for their keep. At present the youngsters have to be retained as maldens at considerable expense. They can race but they mustn't win. The result of this is that some are sent out "for an airing" to the depletion of the public's funds and jockeys are instructed to simply try the colt or filly, as the case may be, and not to win. For doing something like this Michael J. Daly was told his company Michael J. Daty was told his company was not wanted but yet Canadian owners of two-year-olds have been gul'ty of the same offence. The sug-gestion to bar geldings has also been under discussion, as well as other proposed changes such as one requiring that both the sire and dam of a candidate shall have been owned in the province at the time of service.

farmer of ordinary capital; indeed, the thorobred is so much thought of for the prizes of the turf that fine and healthy animals which lack a turn for racing speed are often to be had at a discount. Such animals will not only prove profitable on the farm in aiding the production of spirited hunters, always a saleable type, but will give the farmer that extra sporting chance which the majority of men of sound mind admire. Speed is in the blood of the modern thorobred, and altho in certain animals it may be, to idea which keeps many farmers from this attractive addition to their breeding efforts has been that of the thoro-bred being delicate and requiring, as we have heard a farmer put it. "not a groom but a valet." Care and attention are needed, however, wherever animals are bred, and no excess is desirable whatever the value of the stock. There are obvious exposures when horses, in age mere colts, are being trained for racing; with clothings and strippings there is special watch-fulness needed. But, apart from special cause for care being induced.

the animals themselves are not more delicate than other horses; in fact, they have a natural spirit which helps them to throw off ailments quickly.

Royal encouragement for the use of thorobred stallions is prominent in late English news and admits of forming the nucleus of a greater system. Many more breeders of thorobreds would be welcome. There are farmers, of course, who treat the breeding of horographs of the property of the p of horses as outside their means generally, but if they prosper so as to reconsider this view there is no reason that the thorobred should be excluded from the list of breeds within the range of breeding and rearing on the farm Farmers and Ponies.

Still more within the scope of the agriculturist, and, in fact, a matter with which quite "small men" may profitably concern themselves is the breeding of ponies. Carew, the Elizabethan writer, has preserved to us an nteresting memorial at once of the Henry VIII. autocracy and of the 16th. century's horse breeding Cornishmen, "having steadily reduced the average height of their horses," having apparently gone in for pony breeding Henry, by order in council, allowed anybody to selze and keep any horses ound in Cornwall grazing on commor lands and under so many hands high. The medieval idea clearly was that size in farm stock was the ideal, and large, heavy horses were especially requisite. Modern notions, with our differentiation of types, point to the pony at one end of the scale having uses no less genuine than the Shires and Clydesdales at the other. Hackney ponles in England made a fine showing at the Hackney Society's turnout The demand for one branch of ponies namely those used for polo, has in-creased perhaps four fold in as many years, and shows no signs of culmina-ting for a good while to come. Polo is not a game only, but a training in alertness and serviceability in the saddle such as renders it a real part of cavalry duty, neglected only where of cavalry duty, neglected only where expense is considered before efficiency, and likely to be brought into promi-nence as one country after another is forced to take every element in its

Yet no fewer than five hundred Ontario farmers have made application to the Bureau for stallions and many complain bitterly because their requests cannot be granted. In spite of provincial niggardliness the Bureau has placed several stallions in Ontario, among them Earl Rogers, winner of first prize at the Canadian National Exhibition last year, and Rosemont, champion thorobred at the Montreal Horse Show. The Ontario Jockey Club is also making an annual grant of a thousand dollars for encouragement of the use of the thorobred and the Hamilton Jockey Club is placing stallions at the disposal of the farmers of Wentworth. What is the Ontario Government doing? Nothing; no, worse than nothing—it is robbing Peter but not paying Paul. We are spending millions to build ships to be used in defence of the empire, but we decline to spend a few paltry thousands in a way that would greatly benefit the land fewers. In his after-dinner speech the master referred at some length to the good work the Canadian National Bureau of Breeding is doing, deplored the lukewarmness of the provincial government in giving its aid, and dwelt interestingly and convincingly on the report of Gen. Sir John French regarding the possibilities of Canada as a breeding ground for saddle, hunt, cavalry and mounted infamtry horses. Hon. James S. Duff was expected to be present, but some truths regarding his want of policy towards the horse. Following the master, Mr. A. E. Dyment, at Mr. Beardmore's special request, in a few well-chosen remarks, made the grand and important announcement that no less a personage than His Gracious Majesty himself, King George V., had been so taken with Sir John French's report that he had stated his intention to give a stallion to the Canadian Bureau of Breeding for service to the mares of this country. To use a current term a "whiriwind" pure race. Moreover, speed is a comis placed last in a race of classic importance, would be found perfectly fit to add agility and swiftness in the stud to non-thorobred stock. The breeding of thorobreds has for a century been mainly a hobby of rich sportsmen of a separate country pursuit of its own but the cost of acquiring a small stud is not at all above the means of a farmer of ordinary central; indeed the

DR. W. A. YOUNG'S SHOW STABLE

Prospective exhibitors at the approaching Horse Show in Toronto should bear in mind our Big Horse Show Sale on Monday forenoon next. April 3rd, at 11 o'clock sharp. At that hour we will sell out Dr. W. A. Young's horse show stable, including Horses, Carriages, Sleighs, Harness, Livery, Furs, etc. As Dr. Young's stable was one of the best equipped in Canada, everything being of the finest quality and built specially for the Horse Show Ring, exhibitors should be present without fail to pick up some of the bargains. Among the horses to be sold will be Dr. Young's pair of high steppers, "My Humming Bird" and "My Turtle Dove," a pair of mares fit to go into any show ring in the world. They are very closely matched, brown in color, 15 hands in height, with exceedingly high action at both ends, and perfectly broken. They are an ideal pair for a gentle man's stable, and are absolutely sound.

The carriages to be sold include one beautiful Four-in-hand Coach, built by Demarest, New York; one new Victoria, built by Hutchinson & Son, Toronto; one fully appointed straight-front Brougham; one Demi-Mail Phaeton, almost new; one Tilbury Cart by Hutchinson; one appointment Runabout; one Cross-seat Brake by a New York builder; one Gig. one Tandem Cart by Demarest; one Tandem or Pair Sleigh by Hutchinson; one Russian Sleigh by the same builder.

This is an exceptional opportunity for any gentleman desiring to purchase the finest carriages that can be procured for money.

> DR. S. McCOY. ST. CATHARINES, Ont.

This is one of the finest private outfits in the country, consisting of Horses, Carriages, Harness, etc. Among the horses are the following: "Mistletoe Queen," grey mare, 8 years old, 16.2 hands, sired by "Rover" (thoroughbred), dam a trotter. This is a handsome mare, an excellent jumper up to five feet, perfectly sound, broken to harness and city broken. She would make an excellent officer's charger.

"Fairplay," a thoroughbred chestnut mare, 4 years, 16 hands, mired by "Astronomer." This mare is broken to saddle and harness, is not afraid of street cars or automobiles, and has been jumped to 4 ft. 6 in. She is a grand young hunter, and will make an ideal steeplechaser. "Cribight," a thoroughbred chestnut stallion, 4 years, 15.3 hands, by "Lamplighter," out of "Cribbage." This horse was bred by Col. Milton Young in Kentucky. Though this colt has never been raced, he shows marvelous endurance and substance. He is perfectly broken to harness and saddle and is a nice jumper.

Among the carriages are a Demi-Mail Phaeton, by Kimball, Chicago; an Irish Jaunting Car, by Denby & Son, Belfast, Ireland; a Ladies' Phaeton, built in Longacre, London; Tilbury and Light Drag, both by Crow, Toronto. You cannot afford to miss this sale. Everything will be sold for the high dollar. CONSIGNED BY MR. J. B. MILLER, CITY, "BARNEY," a dark bay gelding, nine years old, 15.3 hands, and perfectly city broken. He is a first-class combination horse, can carry 180 lbs., and is a good jumper. He is consigned to us with positive instructions for immediate sale.

When the Most Discriminating People Patronize an Amusement There Must Be a Reason.

I was roller skating the other evening, and I have not really enjoyed anybetter for a long time, was the remark a stranger in the city last week made to the writer.

The gentleman in question went on to say that in all his travels in the United States he never found a first-class skating rink until he came to Canada. the Alice Nielsen concert is gratifying to all concerned. It also speaks well for the culture and the love of music for which Toronto is noted. It is much to her' credit, that few famous artists visit here without receiving liberal patronage, and that is one reason Toronto is able to enjoy the most celebrated singers and musicipus brated singers and musicians. Thursday last, The Boston Herald said of Miss Nielsen: "She sang with de-lightful freedom and genuine expres-sion. As a singer of sustained song.

MUSIC NOTES

In view of the negotiations which are now on with regard to the Mendels-sohn Choir's trip to New York and sohn Choir's trip to New York and Boston next winter, the following indirect reference to the artistic quality of the Toronto chorus's singing, by Sylvester Rawlings, the eminent critic of The New York World, will be of interest as showing how lasting was the impression of the choral work given under Dr. Vogt at Carnegle Hall in 1907.

Referring to the joint concert of Russian music by the Russian Symphony Orchestra and the St. Cecilia. Chorus of New York in Carnegle Hall last week, Dr. Rawlings says: "Victor Harris led the St. Cecilia. Club thru Tschaikowsky's legend, 'Christ When a Child.' The choir sang with good tone and fine balance, but, with the exception of 'Trees' that tone and fine balance, but, with the exception of roses, the enunciation was unintelligible. When the reciprocity bill is passed, perhaps the Mendelssohn Choir of Toronto, that once made us a memorable visit, may come to us again and teach our local choruses how both to sing gloriously and at the same time to be understood."

Dr. A. S. Vogt must have been impressed with the capabilities as a conductor of M. M. Stevenson, the organist and choirmaster of Bloor Street Baptist Church, whose concert he at-tended on Tuesday evening last. After the concert, in the presence of the choir, he said that the work of the choir, the balance of parts, the atten-tion to light and shade, the beauty of tion to light and shade, the beauty of tone in the planissimi as against the brilliancy in the fortissimi, the interpretation, and, above, all the amount of temperament infused into the reading of the various choruses, was a welcome surprise to him, and, especially in the matter of temperament, very rarely met with. Sometimes, he said, you might hear choirs give renderings that were technically perfect, as was the work of the choir that night, but the conductor's temperanight, but the conductor's tempera-ment, that subtle force which makes music so soul-searching, was lacking; and just in such a degree was there lacking that pleasure which he had experienced so thoroly in listening to the work of the Bloor Street Baptist. Choir that night. Mr. Stevenson has all the requisite assentials for a conductor, plus the temperament and ex-perience, and the church should con-sider itself very fortunate in having such a competent organist and con-ductor. He had been in close touch with the music of Bloor Street Baptist Church during the past twenty years and he was only stating a fact which should be obvious to all when he said that the choir was by far the best that that church had ever had. All this, and more, coming as it does from the conductor of the world-famous Mendelssohn Choir, looks very like a feather in Mr. M. M. Stevenson's

The actual origin of the controversy is not exactly what Professor Haeckel state, namely, the fabrication of em-bryos, but has a different beginning, as I shall endeavor to show to your readers. In the closing years of the nineteenth century Professor Hackel published his famous work, "The Riddle of the Universe;" which purported to be a solution of the various problems that have engaged the mind The splendid demand for seats for of man since the beginning of history, problems such as the origin of life matter, consciousness, free will, etc., but it is not with these problems that I wish to deal, but another portion of Professor Haeckel's work, and that is the chapter devoted to scienc and Christianity.

In it he made a violent and scurril-bus attack on Christianity, especially on the divinity of its Founder. Now a German weekly, holding Christian views ("The Christian World;" I think, is the name), invited Prof. Haeckel to name the authority on based these statements, and the learned professor did so, giving as his authority a free thought publication written by one, Stewart Ross, under the pseudonym of Saladin, entitled "Jehovah and His Book." Professor Frederick Loofs of Halle Universitundertook the defence of Christianity and in order to examine closely the bans of Professor Haeckel's authority

A Great Spring Display of Quality Furniture

Large assortments of Fine Furniture in Period and Modern designs --- A collection marked by Distinction, Exclusiveness and Intrinsic Worth --- No Better Values Elsewhere.

The improved public taste in regard to interior furnishings and decorations which has followed the enormous development of the country in recent years has greatly stimulated the production of high-class furniture. To satisfy the increased demand, specialists in design have searched through Europe and the older sections of America for things artistic and tasteful. They have gathered from the museums and historic homes of England and the Continent a multitude of designs and suggestions, which clever hands have since reproduced, sometimes in every detail, but more often modified or adapted to suit local conditions and modern

Our spring assemblage of furniture lately reinforced by large importations, shows in a marked degree the result of this close study of period furnishing.

It is a really wonderful collection embracing furniture suitable for homes of all degrees. from the Rosedale mansion to the modest suburban cottage.

The matter of price, perhaps, calls for a word or two. A proportion of our stock consists of furniture that is necessarily expensive through the rarity of the woods employed, the elaboration of detail in the cabinet work, or the costly inlay or carving with which it is enriched. By far the larger part, however, consists of furniture of moderate cost, within the reach of all who care for design, good construction, and finish. We aim to give the best possible value in goods and service for the money expended with us, and we invite inspection and comparison.

RECIPROCITY.

Awake! Oh, Canada, awake!
Thy splendid destiny's at stake,
View yonder threatening sky!
For danger great is high at hand
Which threatens to usurp the land
The scheme politically is planned
By reciprocity.

Traitors! are they, betraying trust, Who for the sake of party lust Will seek to compromise:
Let thoughts of party banished be,
Our and is rich and we are free!
We want no reciprocity;
Oh! Canada, be wise!

The politicians are at work.

Let no true man his duty shirk
But loyal be forever.

The crafty Yankees, full of greed,
Espie in Canada their need; "To bring us close together."

Unpartizan, with vision clear The patriot sees the danger hear And boldly dares to rise: Full well our scheming neighbor

There's not a land on earth below As rich as Canada; I trow They covet such a prize.

Declares, that at no distant day
The Yankee flag shall have full sway Thru Reciprocity.

Between the lines of speeches made
By Yankee thought of every shade Lies hidden meaning: this!
That reciprocity will bend

vidual excellence. There are no freak pictures this year, and no Canadian need be ashamed to invite any visitors he may to go and see this interesting collection of Canadian contemporary art. The Canadian note never was so art. The Canadian note never was so dominant, pulsing, paipitating, richly alive, abundantly youthful. Even the city life is vibrant and buoyant, and a new tone is present in such clever work as Mr. Harris' "Row of Houses, Weilington Street," or Mr. Staples' "Wilton Avenue Bridge Construction." Mr. Bell Smith has never done better work than in his "Heart Morelles" work than in his "Hazy Morning on the Thames." Miss Carlyle has reurned with a new mastery. Mrs. Spurr Cutts is also learning new magic. Mr. Fleming has surpassed himself in his glorious harvest piece. The portraits are always good, and this year maintains the standard. Mr. Gagen in "Fog Coming in With the Tide" and "Nanana," is in his very best form. Excellent work has been derived from the north land. Mr. Greene's "Magnetawan" is an example. Mr. Harris in "A Load of Fence Posts," has the dength and breadth and depth of Canada on his canvas, and the long road winding into the sunset which could not exist elsewhere, and Mr. Reid remembers the oxen again and devetes his best work this year to the ploneer farmer. Mrs. Reid, in what seems to us the finest thing she has ever done, shows us a real Canadian moon in October. Miss Samuel is at home "In the Pine Woods." And these are but a few of the native born. Mr. Jeffrey has a bold and striking group of Indians on the plains. Mr. Mr. McLean's "Voyageurs" is aboriginal. Miss Palm's "Old Pioneer" is posed with dignity. Miss Hagarty has a delightful composition in a "Sleeping Child," and Mr. Dessard exhibits a well-drawn "Oracle' in "the altogether." The only piece of sculpture is a bust by Henri work than in his "Hazy Morning on the Thames." Miss Carlyle has re-

On behalf of the government W. St. Thomas Smith's "Orkney Fishing Boat," and J. W. Beatty's "Early Autumn" have been purchased for the provincial gallery. Both are excellent examples, tho some will prefer Mr. Smith's "Castle by the Sea."

Smith's "Castle by the Sea."

The exhibition was viewed by a fashionable throng which crowded the galleries of the public library on College-street. E. Wyly Grier, president, made a brief address in declaring it open. Referring to the diversity of subjects and the scope of treatment he said that if Ontario continued to produce as much as in the past and produce as much as in the past, and the climate centinues good, the pic-tures, striking rather than soothing, would be a constant source of perplexity to the hanging committee. The premier had said that for geographical reasons Canada could not roiled in European war, and Mr. Grier thought we might escape from the schools and oults of art. They had very little in their art now to remind them of the old world. Even so disturbing a wave as post-impressionism by the time it had crossed the Atlantic had been reduced to a ripple. We did not regard George Bernard Shaw as final as Isalah. The new country thought for itself, and there would be a great future for the art of Canada and the continent in second and the continent in consequence. Young men, saved from the influence of Europe, studied nature, the result being the growth of a school with a distinct racial physiognomy recognizable as belonging to us. There was a great school also south of the border line, in which the landscape men had developed something racial and distinc-tive. Our men were developing on parallel lines, and he thought we must work shoulder to shoulder with the Americans. He regretted the "wretched law" which required the payment of large sums in order to get a picture across the border. He did not think it was the place to introduce the vexed question of reciprocity, but he would like to see pictures exchanged without let or hindrance. Who would say, he asked in conclusion, that the North American School of Art would not then become the school of the future? Never before in the history of the Ontario Society of Artists has there been an exhibition more notable in its quality than the thirty-ninth now opened in the galleries of the public re-ference library. Tastefully arranged and with the difficulties always attending the work of a hanging committee very successfully overcome it is a delight to the eye and to aesthetic sensibility. There is too greater diversity in subject and treatment, more Let fall the scales from off thine eyes, effort to realize individual impressions and to embody not so much transcripts and to embody not so much transcripts. d see monstrosity!

"Dutch Peasants," No. 9, is reminiscent of Millet in its strength and subdued tones and No. 10, "Har-bour Katwyke Bruen," is clear and attractive. That veteran artist, F. M. Bell-Smith, offers a seascape full of motion and remarkable for the skill with which it reproduces sunlit effects in No. 13, "The Sun's Last Kiss." The reflected lights and the vivid touch in wave transparency, are admirably caught. His "Hazy Morning on the Thames" is a highly successful attempt to reproduce the subtle struggle beunder a lowering sky, with a stretch of boulder-strewn, heather-clad moorland and the undulating hills closing the vista George H. Last year the price agreed upon by the farmer's was $1.15 for May, June and July, and $1.25 for the three remaining summer months of August, September and October. Saturday's prices represent an advance for three months, and for the balance the same as last year. President J. G. Cornell presided and advised the fixing of the rate at a level that could be retained without diduce friction between the dealer and the farmers, as a personal trip thru the western County of Oxford had confirmed him in the belief that there would be a large accession of new shippers of milk to the city during the summer months. The rapid growth of the city and the enonmously increased price of good dairy cattle, together with the high price of feed was, however, given by the members as the reason for boosting the price, tho slightly.

The Ontario Legislature came in for several rude jolts at the hands of the farmers, W. C. Grubbe of Etoblooke declaring that the action of the farmer in fixing the standard of milk at three per cent, butter fat, without ever giving the farmers a chance to protest, was "a highlianded piece of legislation and ought to receive a vote of censure." SHOE WORKERS ON STRIKE

According to the manager of the Hewetson Shoe Co., the men were making from $16 to $25 a week, and the cut would not affect their wages more than about 50 cents a week. Also, the cut was made only on a cheaper line of shoes, which necessitated a cut in the price of the labor. Out of the 300 lines of shoes turned out by the company, the new rate only affected two lines.

The manager also stated that the places of the striking Jews had been filled by girls, and that the company would not take the strikers back, but would adhere to their new policy of employing girls in this deparement instead of foreign labor.

Cotton Gossip.

Erickson Perkins & Co. to J. G. Beaty at the close:

Prices opened easter in the face of steady Liverpool cables, but the decline was short-lived; the market met with prompt support below 14c for July. The buying of about 50,000 bales by brokers who usually act for the bull interests imparted a steady tone to the market during the balance of the session, particularly to July, which narrowed the May premium to 22 points. The concentrated buying attracted little outside attention, being generally regarded as a demonstration. New crop months showed little feature, being unfavorably affected by the brilliant crop prospects. Until the outcome of the May deal is determined, the market will continue susceptible to flurries such as to-day's. On bulges, however, we favor sales.

The Twin City company is doing considerable new work, and it is possible that a little later it will be thought best to reimburse the treasury by a sale of securities. Those who are intimate with the company's affairs do not believe that such action would involve an issue of stock, but intimate that underlying bonds, blocks of which are held in the treasury, would be sold. There has always been a ready market for these bonds and a ready market for these bonds and the directors are confident that there would be no difficulty in getting, satisfactory terms for the required PROPERTIES: One hundred and twenty acres in the Township of Whitney, about one and one-half miles from South Porcupine, the proposed terminus of the T. & N. O. from Kelso Station. There is a good wagon road running through the properties.

These properties are owned by the Company, which is free of debt, and men will be put to work on them just as soon as weather conditions permit. We are offering these shares on their merit as a speculative investment, believing that the proposition has good chances of success. The Company's properties are still prospects, but they are well located, and the character of the rock and veins justify us in stating that those who purchase now at the present low price have the chances all in their favor. While we do not pretend to offer a certainty, we do offer a splendid prospect under clean and honest management, with the lowest capitalization of any Porcupine company on the market.

The Buick Oil Company

Offers You An Opportunity to Make Large Profits on Your Surplus Funds. The Company is Now Earning Over $1,200 Per Day; it's Holdings Are Conservatively Valued at Millions of Dollars. Investigate the Company and the Offer Now.

D. D. Buick, inventor of the Buick automobile, founder of the Buick & Sherwood Plumbing Supply House, large holder in the General Motors Company, went to California in April, 1910, in search of health. There he found both health and There he found both health and opportunity. An unlooked for chance to obtain 640 acres of valuable oil lands in the famous Midway District of Kern County, Callfornia, offered liself and Buick snapped up the chance. He surrounded himself with an expert comps of geologists, engineers and practical oil men and is out on the Company's preserty now, working day and night to make this business a success in companison with which his other successes will seem small. D. D. Buick is President of the Buick Oil Company; his money and those of his friends are in this company.

THE BUICK MIDWAY WELL NO. 1 This well was brought in on February 18th, 1911, the present output being 3.400 barrels daily. From the Butel: Midway No. 1 Well comes 100.000 barrels of all which have been sold to the Standard Oil Company this Company also having an outlon from us for 100.000 barrels more at forty-five cents per barrel. READ THIS LATEST THINGRAM FROM KERN COUNTY:

Los Angeles, Mar. 22, 11. Buick Oil Co., 215 Marquette Building, Chicago. Making daily delivery to Standard Oil now directly into storage tanks. This plan saves numping from sumphole to tanks and increases the price received. All expert oil men who have visited property say that we have the best well in California. BUICK OIL CO.

THE BUICK PARTNERSHIP IDEA.
D. D. Bulck incorporated the Buick Oil Company under the laws of the State of California for the reason that no state in the Union offers better protection to the small stockholder. When you become a stockholder in the Buick Oil Company, holder in the Buick Oil Company, you are an active stockholder; with a right to say how your dollars shall be spent. The Buck Oil Company holdings could easily have received financing from the big interests; D. D. Buick knew what would happen to him if this course were followed; he wants to fettain an active interest, and the only way he sees to accommish this end is to armeal to the public to become his partners in an public to become his partners in an enterwise which is too hig in its possibilities for him to handle alone. possibilities for him to handle alone. He wants YOU to MAKE MONEY; the more you make the more he will make. He wants you to investigate every angle of his company. He knows then that you will agree with him that this is the chance of a lifetime. Some of the men who knew Buick backed his judgment and bought Oil Stock when it was first offered; to day these former subscribers are wiring in re-orders for more stock.

THE FUTURE OF THE COMPANY

THE FUTURE OF THE COMPANY

The Buick Oil Company's present prospenity is but the first epoch in a new era of profits; from one well alone our Company has been made famous. The State Geologist of California estimates that there are 85,000 barrels of oil under every acre in the Midway District where our holdings are located.

Busick Oil Stock is an Investment for the years to come; not a temporary "strike," which may run out at any minute. There are oil wells in a stone's throw of our holdings, which have been prodiably worked for years. We are now supplying oil; the demand will always be greater than the greatest gushers greater than the greatest gushers of the world can supply.

Decide how many shares you can afford to take and take them now. Everybody knows the man who could have bought stock in such and such a company "when it was only beginning one-tenth what it is worth now." He is the man who falled to grasp opportunity. The Bulok Oil Company offers a limited amount of treasury stook to conservative investors at 75 cents per share. An advance to the par value of $1.00 should ocour at any day now. "Opportunity knocks but once upon your

DRINK CAUSE OF NEARLY ALL BUSINESS FAILURES

Do not invest money in business with the man who drinks liquor—he is a poor speculation—erratic, unsafe, irresponsible. He means well, but, with an alcoholic poisoned system and a whisky-driven brain, he makes up about 95 per cent. of the business failures of the country each year.

Liquor has ruined-mentally, physically and financiallyevery man who has continued to drink it. Why not stop? Come to the Gatlin Institute for three days and have all cravings and desire for liquor done away with and your nervous system restored. The very best time to come is NOW-not

The Best Days Are Ahead.

Men cannot live in and for the past.

Bygone days are full of achievement.

History tells the story of men who did exploits. Its pages are full of what men cacrificed in order that inwhat men cacrificed in order that indecency and brutafity and injustice might be abolished, and all that is satisfying and ennobling brought in it recounts the struggles of men as each one brought his little in order that the sum of human welfare might be augmented. By its study one may become old without being decripit, and wise without being grayheaded. No man does his duty by the democracy without a knowledge of the past. Telling on One's Self.

There is nothing hid that shall not be known. Not long ago a prisoner was tried in England, the chief evidence against him being thumb prints which corresponded exactly with his own. In his defence papers were produced apparently proving that he was in a distant country serving in the British army when the thumb prints were made. The evidence of the prosecution was not sustained and the prisoner was discharged accordingly. Later it was found that the accused had stolen the papers brought forward to establish his althi, and other evidence was aduced proving that the thumb become worthy citizens of Canada."

was aduced proving that the thumb prints were his own.

Does not this incident serve as a reminder of our Lord's remark, "By their fruits ye shall know them," one's personality is impressed. nality is impressed upon everything he does. No longer can we regard a man as being made up of so much flesh and blood and spirit. Everthing that makes the servant of his thought becomes a part of him. The telephone becomes his ear and voice. The telescope is his eye. His character is not an abstraction but it is part and par-cel of everything he accomplishes.

It has demonstrated that not only as the truth appealed to men of long ago. but that the creeds express certain facts of life and experence that are of universal and eternal stands for what is vital rather than for that which is antiquated or ephemeral. Every creed that has gripped the hearts of men must recognize at least the three-fold work of Christ: the Eternal Son, and the two fold agency of the Hely Spirit. Along with these must be held the corresponding conditional action of the human spirit in "repentance toward God and faith in the Lord Jesus Christ." These are essentials and the believer or the church that holds these cannot be far Floats.

There is a good story of a little boy months, the average of time in making a fine float with a flagstaff attached from which he flew a pretty pennant. The little craftsman and his friends found a deal of pleasure in watching the float dancing gally in the tiny waves.

All went well till a stranger to the youthful boat builder and his playmates discovered the miniature float and amused himself by battering the tiny vessel to pieces. The little float did the young meddler no harm, but out of sheer thoughtlessness or destructiveness he destroyed what was a legitimate pleasure to both builder and spectator.

Businesses have been ruined because the leaders have had no outlook upon the demands of the public. No matter what the record of such an establishing the ment may have been as soon as it fails to supply people with money, with what they want to buy it is allowed to find its way to discard.

Lawyers, doctors, ministers, governments who have no open window for the public requirements soon find themselves left in unhappy isolation. The young man who has no thought for anything but his present labor and the pleasure that calls so clamorously need not wonder to find himself growing antiquated at forty and ready to be Oslerized at fifty. The open window alone will keep his body healthy and his services in demand.

It's the same woy with men's character. The open window saved Daniel in Babylon. All around him was greed and self-seeking and narrowness. In all that big city there was not one to help him to be unselfish or patrictor or magnanimous. Every circumstantial detail of his social and political existence tended to make him keen, suspicious, illiberal and short-visioned. and spectator. In this we have a tine illustration

Every man has the right to labor and to serve as he chooses, subject only to the law of the state and of his Creation. In these days of amalgamation and combination individuality is the thing most needed. Initiative is the cure of monotony. Every bit of harmless ingenuity and invention should be encouraged and not banned. It is the unrelieved monotony of the dead level that kills, and he who produces anything novel and helpful is a benefactor of the race. The happy man is never found in the seat of the scorner. Anybody can be a meddler, a marplot, a meddler. It takes brains and heart to do things or to encourage others who de things.

The movement that led to the formation of the British Welcome League originated in The Toronto World Office, where a penniless Englishman presented himself one dull Sunday night several years ago. The Importance of Starting Home-keeping Properly

Many young people (and old ones too) have made the mistake of starting housekeeping wrongly. They have laid out the little bit of cash they had saved and bought a few articles for the rooms they have decided to make a home in. The effect has not been good. There has been a lack of comfort and the appearance has been so weak that they felt they could not ask friends to visit them, which meant that they in turn were prevented visiting their friends. This can be avoided by the well-known credit outfit system at the "Home." You can start with your rooms amply furnished and can easily meet the small weekly payments necessary without taxing your resources. In this way you have a comfortable, good-looking home from the start, and that is half the battle of life.

OMMONSENSE FARMING

HON JAMES STODDART DUFF is Helping the Agriculturists to Secure Bigger Results. It's Better To Get Large Juicy Apples off Two Limbs Than Medium Apples from Three Limbs.

JAMES STODDART DUFF OU have all heard about "scientific the ground up, not from the clouds down. farming," a sublime, superior sort of farming which is very nice for gentle-Scientific farming talk has been too long in the clouds, and it is about time it was brought down men of leisure who don't have to make to the earth where it belongs. The first duty of man is to earn his daily bread—that is if he doesn't their living by it. This article hasn't much to do with scientific farming in that sense. It intends inherit enough to last a lifetime. After we have to explain the meaning and proclaim the virtues done this, we may reach out for art and music and of "common sense farming," for that is the brand sculpture and the higher things of culture and rebeing promoted by Ontario's farmer general, Hon. finement. Hence it follows as the night the day James S. Duff, and the officers of his department. that the primary test of all work carried on in the Note the label-"common sense farming. interests of the farmer should be that it tends to There are no frills to the label because there are

> James S. Duff comes in strong. * * * * * Common sense is intelligence enlarged by research and tempered by experience. Some men are born with common sense, some inherit it, but most of us acquire it—that is if we get it at all. The success with which we perform the work for which we draw our pay is generally measured by the common sense which we bring to bear on that work. The common sense which we bring to bear on that work is largely determined by the research and experience with which we have developed and applied the intelligence Providence has given us. If we have not had much opportunity for research or experience, or haven't taken advantage of the opportunities we have had, the chances are we won't bring much common sense to bear on our work. Candidly, don't you think make the work and the life of the farmer more remunerative and attractive. And here is where the new common sense farming policy of Hon.

Just think it over quietly and then let us see where the farmer comes in in all this. In the largest and truest and noblest sense the farmer is a partner with Nature, but the trouble is that he is prone to leave altogether too much to his big. silent partner. If he gets up at four o'clock in the morning and does all the hard work and then goes to bed at nine at night, he thinks he has done his part and he leaves the rest to Nature. If it doesn't come out all right, he simply sighs and says: "Oh, we'l, it couldn't be helped. This is an off year." Ten chances to one it is the farmer himself who is "off," not the year. And this is just the unvarnished common sense lesson which the Ontario Department of Agriculture is now bending its energies to impress by means of new, impressive and successful methods.

Let us see what is being done and then judge for yourself whether you don't think it is the common sense of farming. Behold the apple, rich, red and juicy, king of Ontario fruits. Of course anybody can grow apples—just plant a few trees in the ground somewhere, and wait round ten or twelve years, pick them, throw them into barrels. being careful to put the small ones in the centre of the barrel where they won't be noticed. It is quite simple and calls for a minimum of both work and brains. At the last census there were about ten million apple trees in this good old Province of Ontario, and it is safe to say that about nine million odd were treated in this way. If the crop turned out all right, it was fine, even tho fifty per cent. might be No. 2 and twenty-five per cent. No. 3. If it didn't turn out well it was too bad, but the orchard had not been much bother anyway and it was the fault of the big. silent partner, Nature.

Fortunately the Higher Criticism of scientific common sense has in recent years been brought to bear on this shiftless theology. Last year the department of agriculture had a number of its bright, young men take charge of orchards in various parts of the province and make a practical business-like test of these ideas. They carried out what was to the orchards in hand a very novel treatment. They cultivated the ground, so that it would give to the roots some of the nourishment needed. They pruned the trees, unmercifully chopped off superfluous branches, because it is better to have mice, large apples on two limbs than medium apples on three. They sprayed, and resprayed, for a mixture of lime and sulphur kills off the coddling moth and other insects which cause wormy, scabby and imperfect fruit. When the apples had ripened they picked them carefully. graded them according to size and quality and then sold them. They invited the neighbors in to see how it was all done and even let a few of the trees run wild in the usual way for purposes of contrast. But they relied on arguments more convincing, to wit, profits. These actually shouted the merits of the plan. Up in Simcoe County there was an orchard of about one acre which never before yielded more than $50 in any one season as an excuse for its existence. It returned $311, which means straight money in the pocket of over $200 after all the expenses were paid. A man down in Dundas County spent $7.90 for spraying material and did a little extra work and then sold the crop from one and one-third acres for $400. Even the poorest returns represented about twenty per cent, profit on a valuation of $500 per acre, which is several times as much as the owners would have dreamed of valuing their land at if the assessor came around. The apples took prizes at all the fairs around, and the output of one of these orchards will represent Canada at the World's Fair at Brussels. A million and a half new apple trees were planted out last year and there are now four or five new companies with strong financial backing going around the province leasing all the orchards they can. If the owner can't be bothered making large profits out of one of his assets, there are others who are willing to do so.

This is just one little illustration of what is meant by common sense farming. There may be much about it that is scientific—but let us not call it that, for to call farm work scientific is too often like giving a dog a bad name. It may safely be called common sense, because it makes money, and whatever makes money honestly strikes the average man, including the farmer, as being common sense. What is true of the orchard is true to a greater or lesser extent in every other department of farm work. There is that field where the water lies late in the spring and it is impossible to get on the land at the right time and the crop isn't what it ought to be. It needs drainage, yes but how? Along comes an expert on drainage who not only shows how, but also shows that the drained land yields at least $20 an acre more than the undrained land nearby. There is a man

And that would be as unwarrantable a conclusion as the as unwarrantable a conclusion as the silly notion, whatever it was, they had just abandoned. Of course there is always some amount of good thread in the old garments or they would not wear so long. It will take the world a long time to be worthy to wear the white robes of the great tribulation. For the world tries to avoid tribulation as much as possible. Strangely tion as much as possible. Strangely enough real knowledge and tribulation go together. And so one has to be careful not to have too much real knowledge lying about. Some are sure using their understanding, and, of course, the knowledge is blamed, and not those who are too ignorant to know what to do with it. And then those who do use it correctly are responsible for those who do not, and the world abuses them in its mad way, and calls them devils or worse, not knowing how much it owes them. No.118-The Beauty Margin, By Mme Lina Cavalieri, the Most Famous Living Beauty.

O-DAY Mme. Cavalieri grants the request of an intelligent young business girl who asks for a health and beauty schedule for the self supporting woman who must spend many hours a day

Mme. Cavalieri describes in detail a day so spent that though a large part of it be given to business a girl can keep her health and beauty at their best.

For brushing your teeth, combing and arranging your hair and getting neatly into your boots and gown you have forty minutes. This is not too much if you can spare it, for hasty dressing reveals itself in numberless evidences of haste, as loose threads banging from the skirt, a hook missing from the gown or a button lost from the boot, a collar carelessly pinned or a stranger, I wanted to run and side my face. The thing preyed on my mind until there were times when my spirits were at their lowest ebb, and I often a strand of hair awry.

Twenty minutes for breakfast will be sufficient if you eat the Continental breakfast of coffee or tea or cocca and rolls, or of either of these with toast. Unless you have the rheumatic tendency it is well to begin the breakfast with fruit juice, the juice from the orange being best of all, because more soothing to the stomach.

After breakfast find time to use dental floss to remove possibly elinging particles from between the teeth, and to rinse the mouth with warm water or warm salt water, or warm water into which you have sprinkled a pinch of bicarbonate of soda. Then dab a bit of vaseline or camphor ice or cold cream upon your lips to prevent their chapping in the raw wind, and a little cold cream on the face as a mask against the raw air, finishing the mask with a fluff of powder. Then walk at least a part of the way to the office.

with a coarse-meshed but soft towel."

In the way I have often described, four counts for intake of air, four counts for holding and four for expelling the air. Continue these breathing exercises for ten minutes, or, if you prefer, five minutes at the open window will be sufficient. The rest of the ten minutes at the open window will be sufficient. The rest of the ten minutes at the open window will be sufficient. The rest of the ten minutes are supported to your office. Choose one spent in rope jumping, in tumbing or somersaults, or in rolling, if you are too stout. A young girl I know allow herself five minutes each morning for a tambourine dance, for developing grace and pliancy of limbs.

Give yourself twenty minutes for the bath, whether it be sponge or plunge, and here let me answer your qur tion as to the daily hot bath. No, I agree with your mother. A hot bath every day is weakening.

In a few ay to the office. A first way to the office. At a light way to the office and in the office of the bath way I have often described, half hour each morning in tumble of limbs.

your lungs to the remotest cell of the accumulation of the day's air and refill them with pure oxone. If you do this you will find that the day's weariness that so oppressed you when you came out of the office will have quite vanished when your free hour has passed.

Go home and freshen yourself and your gown for dinner. With a cont of pure cold cream and an old handkerchief or a bit of absorbest cotton cleanse the face of the day's accumulation of dust. If convenient slip out of the business suft and boots into fresh ones. If not at least give them a brisk brushing. And remove the day's stains from your hands. If this is difficult with the help of almond meal of soap and water, call into service a lemon or a bit of pumice stone.

Eat your dinner slowly and with relish and avoid talking of aught but pleasant things. After dinner relax from the strain of the day by chatting with your family or friends. Go to a concert, even if you have to take a top balcony seat, or go to a public library and read some of the articles in the best magazines, or dip into a book of poems.

At 10 o'clock begin the night toilet, which I have so many times described in full detail. Reture feeling that every particle of the day's dust has been removed from

Some idea of the amount of materi used in the production of these cars can be ascertained from the following table, which represents only a part of a year's consumption;

Every year it has been necessary for the company to add more manufacturing facilities until the plant is one of the most complete in the country. Even now, the company is obliged to use a part of one of the huge cotton mill sheds of the Chicopee Manufacturing Co., located near the plant.

It has been said by those familiar with and directly interested in the sale of motor cars, that it is not to be considered improbable that every purchaser of a motor car in the last few years has considered and has had explained to him the mechanical features so closely associated with the Stevens-Duryea name—The "Unit Power Plant" supported on "Three Points." The original conception of this design as applied to motor cars dated back to the first experimental car built by Mr. Duryea in 1901, as at that time the motor and transmission was a self-contained Unit and supported on Three Points. HIS is the lowest price at which a Knight Engine car of equal horse-power has ever been marketed.

Since our introduction of the Knight Motor the demand has grown fast for a moderate-priced model with this famous engine. Russell "22" is our answer to this demand. The "22" rating is reckoned on the European basis. In reality this motor will develop 40 horse-power easily.

Russell "22" is the same highclass as Russell "38" and Russell "26." It is a lighter car, but the touring model is plenty large enough to seat five passengers with complete comfort.

The car can be seen at our nearest branch. It's a beautiful model and a splendid value. See It for

Throw Away Your Chains

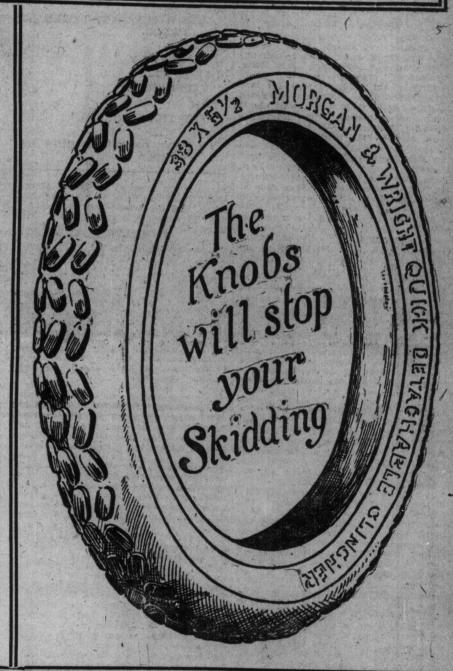

Here is a tire which will enable you to motor in perfect comfort and safety through even the stormiest, "skiddiest" winter weather.

Never mind if the roads are covered with snow or mud. These big knobs will reach down deep and hold the wheels secure against slipping where a plain tire would spin around unhindered.

Never mind, you city drivers, if the brick and asphalt pavements are covered with ice or a wet, greasy slime. These tough, sturdy knots, set diagonally to the circumference of the wheels, will hold your wheels secure against both side slips and drive slips even on such a surface. With Nobby Tread Equipment, your skidding protection is always where you want it, not tangled up in the bottom of the tool box or, still worse, back home in the garage.

This Week at Shea's

Pretentious Attraction Coming Direct From Repeated Triumphs in New York and Boston

Coming direct from repeated tricomplis in New York and Boston, modern vaudeville's most pretentious atrevue, will head the bill at Shea's Theatre this week. To Miss Hoffman is due the credit of conceiving the most magnificent act yet offered on the vandeville stage. Her company numbers more than forty people. Miss Hoffman's ability as an entertainer, prominent in variety leaves little to be prominent in variety, leaves little to be said regarding her coming appearance, except that it will be one of her last weeks in vaudeville, arrangements having been completed for her to head and, altho Miss Hoffman goes onward to greater triumph in the high-price theatres, her notable offerings will most probably hold the record for years to come in the varieties. The one of the largest productions and companies ever seen in the two dollar houses. Miss Hoffman's revue con sists of a number of interesting imi-tations of famous stage celebrities, including Anna Held, Eddie Foy, Tanguay, George Cohan, Harry Lauder and Ethel Barrymore. Many beautiful and novel scenic effects, heightened by a score or more of pretty girls and a band of lindoos in their native Ori-ental garb, lend color and life to the numerous imitations, prominent and pleasing among which are Miss Hoffman's impersonations of Isadore Duncan and Strauss' "Blue Danube," and the imitation of Ruth St. Denis in "The Snake Charmer." Nothing prettier has ever been seen in vaudeville. Hoey and Lee will be seen this week after an absence of many seasons. There are the funniest of Hebrew comedians, and this season do their Hebrew policemen, said to be their best offering. They keep their material up to date and have attained a standard of excellence accomplished by few. There is a laugh every minute they are on the stage, and their ute they are on the stage, and their parodies are always the newest and best. Kate Watson is a newcomer and has not been seen at Snea's be-fore. Her New York success promises a treat for her audience this week. She calls herself "The Hoos'er Maid" and her make-up is said to be the best on the vaudeville stage, and she has already won for her work an envisible place in the field of eccentric comediennes. Miss Watson's songs are all original and tuneful.

The Brown Brothers are a novelty musical team. They are there musicals and have mounted their material in a novel and plessing manner. They have met with unprecedented success this season and are sure to be warmly greeted by Sheagoers. Lynch and Zeeler, too, are new and have a double novelet the season and seasons. have a double novelty juggling act that is a sensation. They begin when other jugglers leave off and their work is as finished and perfect as it is fast. The bill closes with new pictures of the kinetograph.

That first-class vaudeville at popu lar prices has "caught on" with Tor-

Topping the bill is the comedy acrobatic act of The Moore's, who are credited with having no equals in their line of work. This week they will perform a series of physical feats without parallel in vaudville. The Moores, who occupy an exalted position as acrobats in the circus arena are conceded to be the cleverest ground tumblers on the stage. They have just finished an extensive tour of the European music halls, and their return to Toronto will be pleasing to the many patrons of vaudeville who have enjoyed the act in former seasons, As the added feature the agement is bringing forward the Musical Stipps, who will introduce one of the most delightful acts of the season. Christmas Scenes in PR a Jewish Play

Jacob Gordin, who wrote Madami Kalich's powerful drama, "The Kreutzer Sonata," in which she is again being seen this season, grasps the conditions in a new world into which he came from Russia an exiled and almost penniless writer. His Ibsen-like power of presenting scenes simply and strongly has often been remarked. It seems strange to find a Christmas scene in a Jewish play, of which the characters are all Jewish people, yet Gordin has written such a scene in "The Kreutzer Sonata," and probably presents the holiday festivities exactly as they impressed him, being among the typically Christian holidays which seem so much a part of the new country into which he had come. In "The Kreutzer Sonata" he has written an old-fashioned New again being seen this season, grasps has written an old-fashioned New England Christmas scene. Baron Freidlander, a rich Jewish contractor of Krementschug, Russia, has come with his family to the United States, and while the family has gravitated to the life and glitter of New York, the old Baron has sought the seclusion of a farm, which is supposed to be not far from Hartford, Connecticut. not far from Hartford, Connecticut.

SWEETEST THING ON EARTH

"Applause is the sweetest music to the actress' ears," said Vesta Victoria, in response to a question as to her favorite music. "and I have no hesitancy in saying that I have enjoyed an abundance of that sort of melody right here in your dear old Canada I have every reason to thank the people of the Dominion and I do, both for myself and my company of players I never had any hesitancy in playing before the Canadians because of their reputation for hospitable treatment, but such an overwhelmingly enthusiastic reception as I have received makes me deeply thankful "Money, you know, is not my prime object, although I have received my share of that and perhaps a little more. What I am striving for at all times is an artistic success, and, as I said before, that dearest of all results, applause. It may be a species of selfishness, although I don't think one bould call it that with absolute truth, but it thrills my soul to know that my hearers are being pleased, and that they show their pleasure so heartily. If they were cold and silent I would know that my efforts to enteruain them had failed, and that they did not care for my work. Can vou pictitive my feelings if such were the case, "Thank heaven, that condition had never arisen in my life." If it were not for glory in the theatrical business there would be few actresses. If there were no such thing as applause, and there was no heavy to tell whether you were being appreciated or not, the ranks of the profession would, I am confident dwindle in a very short time. The fact that there is a popular demonstration when the audience is pleased is also very useful to an artist in getting an idea of what kind of entertainment is desired For instance, I was very timid about doing any character songs at first I was accustomed to singing all my songs in a severely proper evening gown, and I hesitated a long time before changing my methods. But, I reasoned, if I am portraying the character of a servant, why wouldn't it make the character all the stonger if I dressed like is slavey. After I had banished all my loubts i did it that way and found that I had the real idea at last. And then I heard the tumultuous manner i, which my efforts were greeted I had all the proof in the world that I was un the right track at last. "The study of various characters as been vitally necessary before putting on new songs, and I have often 'onked for a type for several months before I found the very one I wanted and atudied how to costume myself was un the world the was un the world the was on the right track at last. Don't you remember as a child how well you done something? Well, that is the way I feel when anyone patted you on the head and told you how well you done something? Well, that is the way I feel when the audience tells me the same thing. "Speaking about the arrivant chase.

acters. I received a letter the other day from an enthusiastic admirer of mine who is seriously considering a stage career. She asked me if the make-up I used in lining my face for my character songs would have any bad effect on the skin. Really, this was as absurd a questron as I had ever had put to me. Could you preture any actress smearing her face with any cosmetic that would injure her skin? Every woman, values her beauty and the complexion is the principal attribute to pulchritinde, so why spoil it? I wrote the dear c to that the grease paints and rouges that I used were all harmless and to give her a demonstration of it I sent her a complete assortment of make-up with instructions for the application of its as to delineate various characters. I also sent her a collegion of photographs of myself in which there were several pictures of me in boy's costume. I could hardly contain myself when I read her answer. She wrote me that she was very thankful for the make-up, but that since looking at the pictures she would never go on the stage. She said that she had never thought of appearing as a boy, and that she couldn't possibly bring herself to doming such an immodest attire. So the stage lost another possible star, and in her case that she will make some good man a fine wilc, and on that will ensure his happiness and prospering.

It is, of course, necessary that all the jewelry worn should match, and more and more are the best dressed women reserving their pearls and diamonds for the evenings when they wear Parisian costumes. Diamonds and pearls do not harmonize with the Oriental effects, and this year, more than any other, harmony is the keynote.

One no longer mixes Japanese and Turkish embroideries, then why combine Oriental costumes with modern French jewelry? Earrings, necklaces and bracelets come in all colors and stones; one can get turquoise, jade and amethysts at really remarkable prices, and by clever shopping can have all one's bits of ornaments to match one's gowns os hats. little touches are as necessary as they are expensive. Did anybody ever hear of such a horrible ant? The answer is that nobody ever did until 1891, when it was first noticed in the neighborhood of New Orleans. Since then, in twenty years, it has spread over more than 5,000 square miles in Louislana, and has become a serious menace to many crops, including cotton and sugar.

Small and dark brown in color, it is very aggressive and a fierce fighter—so much so, indeed, that it is able, with the advantage of great numbers, to whip and drive out any other kind of ant. It threatens extermination of the fungus-growing ant-a species distinctly beneficial

As a household pest it is almost unendurable, swarming every-where and getting into almost every-thing. It is particularly fond of sugar, lard and cake, but will eat almost anything in the way of domestic food supplies. If, in New Orleans, a table be set with a meal, and left unguarded for a few minutes, it is no uncomon thing for the housewife to find a ribbon of ants six inches wide crossing the floor, climbing one of the table legs, distributing itself over the provender, and marching out of the room by

Ontario's Most Progressive Premier

Sir James Pliny Whitney is to-day the best known Ontario man in the province, and the most popular. His plain, everyday ways and his ordinary humanity bring him close to the people's hearts. His unswerving integrity, and downright speech have gained the widest respect, and if his language at times be emphatic everybody knows it is in support of principle and without personal feeling that he fulminates. Sir James likes to be known as a Liberal-Conservative, having been trained in the school of John Sandfield Macdonald. He is just a little more Liberal than Conservative, and a good deal more Liberal than the Ontario opposition. Here we have him recollecting his engagements; taking part in a demonstration; pondering the retort courteous; getting it off; starting on campaign; recalling the old days with a good story; in the midst of a period; on the daily grind; "How d' do?"; "Among those present"; admiring the effect; exhorting the electorate; at the point of the story; preparing to evade a bore; and at the wheel of state

Paragraphs About Women.

Having had many enquiries about vomen and homestead lands I make public the following information just received from the department of the interior at Ottawa. Only a woman who is the head of a family which is dependent upon her can obtain a home-stead entry for Dominion lands. Married women have no dower in lands owned by their respective hus-bands either in the Province of Alberta or the Province of Saskatchewan. Any female over the age of eighteen years who is living apart from her parents or guardians and earning her own or guardians and earning her own livelisood may be excused from gaining the consent of such parent or guardian for her marriage. The consent is necessary in all cases where a daughter under the age of twenty-one years is residing with her father or with a lawfully her mother, or with a lawfully appointed guardian if both are dead. Woman suffrage may seem a long way off in China, yet even there we read of a budding socialistic party of China demanding equal suffrage, secret and universal irrespective of

of affairs that exists in China where fathers, brothers actually sell the virtue of their daughters and sisters that they may obtain money with which to

One hundred and thirty of Pekin's poor girls have lately sent a letter to the English Anti-Opium Society asking for its intercession. In part the letter says "We cry, we weep we grieve and strike our breasts to tell of our suffering and why we suffer. There is no other class of people in the world who cannot receive the full protection of their country's laws except ourselves, who are obliged to live by the lowest kind of occupation. It is common for a person to have regard for his own body, but we are now obliged to do this work and never mind the shame connected with it.

A little less disturbed, she turned, ran lightly up the path between the ranked flowers of the garden-beds, crossed the low door-stoop and stood within the empty sitting-room.

Empty! For the moment her heart was bowed low with a burden of fear and anxiety and doubt. But she was quick to comprehend. Nothing could have happened to her father other than that he had awakened and gone up to the lamp-room—perhaps assuming that she had retired to her own bed chamber for the night. But that was hardly likely; plausible as it might seem at the first blush. She stood in perplexity, pondering, a slim finger indenting her rounded brows gathered, the blood glowing in her cheeks, as sweet a figure as ever lamplight shone upon. To begin with, she reasoned, her father would have been perturbed when he awoke and found himself lying on the couch at an hour when he should have been in the tower. He would certainly have sought to find out why he was there. He would have looked in his daughter's room, to find no one there; have knocked at Willing's door, to get no answer, and would finally, have whistled up the speaking-tube

Then, in the natural course, he would have reasoned that something ward had happened; perhaps have guessed that he had been drugged, that Willing had gone to the house on the hill, that she had followed the assistant keeper.

Youngster, my hair has long been gray; Youngster, my sight is, dim.
My hand is gnarled with the grip of time;
But, I seek the rainbow's rim.
I've heard the call of the open trail.
Soft and far, but clear— And to-day I go, as I have to go, To serve for another year.

Youngster, the longing never dies;
Youngster, the heart lives on E'en when the step is weak and slow
And the bloom of youth is gone.
And still my step is far from frail
And the low long call I hear—
And to-day I go, as I have to go,
To serve for another year.

Youngster the smell of the pine is good; The wild hill torrent's roar Is the sweetest sound a man can hear Who has heard it oft before. Who has heard it oft before.
I've lingered long in the city's din
But the call has reached my ear— Andto-day I go, as I have to go, To serve for another year.

This may seen a prolonged explanation, but until you master this simple secret of rhythm, don't attempt to write verses. Using our plan of denoting accent by capitalizing, let us set down the first stanza:

"The SUM- mer SUN ROSE in the EAST-ern SKY, EAST-ern SKY,

And SOUGHT each CRAN-ny WHERE the WHLD FLOW-ers LIE,

Shed LUST- re O'ER each CALMly SLEEP- ing FORM,

If you read the first line naturally, will find that it is plain prose. It might read thus;
"The SUM-mer SUN rose IN the EAST-ern SKY."

In which case you would be forcing the accent and placing it on an insignificant particle. This should always be avoided. The line of the stanza is faulty in this respect, having the accent fall on "to."

In the second line the word flavors

In the second line the word flowers would require to be pronounced "flowwould require to be pronounced "flow-ERS" and even then the line would be weak, because, it rhymes with the first line and should, therefore end similarly, with two syllables in the foot. The first two lines of the closing stanza present no definite picture. Shadows and sunbeams are mentioned, but the mind requires a more definite image. The rhythm again is faulty. The stress should not fall on so simple a word as "of." In fact, it is almost impossible to separate the group of words "of the night"—they should go together to form one metrical foot.

Mary Garden, who will sing in Toronto for the first time on April 26th in Massey Hall, was born in Scotland. With her parents she came to Chicago, just as the little Adeline Pattl, who was born in Spain, came to New York. In early years, Miss Garden is said to have been confident of herself, even without and the remarkably low scale of prices.

C. B. Sheldon's Arrest. C. B. Sheldon's arrest lends point to the remarks in these columns last week relative to the extradition of criminals. Here is a man who it is alleged cheated his victims out of hundreds of thousands of dollars. He returned to the land of his birth. Thousands of dollars were offered for his capture. To what good end—that Canada might support him. The United States had good reason to believe he was on American soil, but it failed either to locate or to oust him, or even to take any overweening interest in his whereabouts. If the United States were indifferent to his record and were willing to accord him citizenship why should that country be deprived of the pleasure. If anything could be wrung from the man, if he could be made to disgorge for the benefit of his creditors, there might be some value in reclaiming him, but as it is he is a natural product that we could well afford to do without.

Women's Social and Political Union, had hardly five lines in small print devoted to it. Yet these are facts which, in connection with any other subject, would certainly receive due attention. What a policy to advocate! I wonder what would happen if you and I, dear reader, having a grievance, were to deliberately stone Sir Whirntey. In the common mind it is apt to appear that there is but one remove between these ladies of rank who advocate stone and the anarchists of low degree who would use bombs instead of stones.

NOSTALGIA

By W. Milton Yorke, of Gowganda.

I've blowed my pile-mid the sin and the guile. With the midnight-crew-with the siren's smile. In the wanton's spell-with the flashy swell. And I'm skinned to the bone-the city's hell The champagne now tastes sour to me—
I'll hike for the hills, where the water is free: Yes the pines for me-I'll leave the town, Where the soul is sinking—sinking—down Mid the noise and blare—the smoke ridden air. The painted smiles and the gaslight's flare. I've the devil to square, but it's hell to think What's spent in a night and on women and drink While children starve—(the wolf at the door)
And the white slaves toil, till the hands are sore. I've shot my wad-I must walk back home For not one of the bunch would lend me a bone. In the days of my gold I had many a "friend," I feel myself sold—turned down in the end— I played on the blue—I played on the red, And now I'm clean "busted" and sick on my bed; And the vampires don't know me (the whole cursed lot) In a charity ward, on a charity-cot. I'll face the storms and the rapids' wrath Less dangerous far, than the city's path:
The wounded stag or the fierce grizzly bear
Are less to be feared than the vampire there— And I'm sick of it all, with its lights and its sin. And I'll hike for the woods, a new life to begin, Where you feel the soul slipping, and fast sinking down, Where the lights are aglow, and you're voted quite slow, If you don't hit the high spots and let yourself go. It's the levels for me, and the shady pine tree And the peace of the wilds—and the winds blowing free The freshness of morning—the spiendors of noon, The Soul peace of evening—the new risen moon. The beauties of sunset-the glorious night, Where we feel the Creator-feel God in His might, Where the streamlet is purling, the wild flowers abloom, And the voice of the forest-says-come there is room.

Unique Design For Olympia During the Great Coronation Horse Exhibition—All Nations Expected to be Represented.

It has already been announced that

Some people will call this horse show promoters gone mad, disease, but also a very beneficial one. The amount of advertising the show has already received on account of its lavishness is almost worth the money, and, to my thinking, it is a pity that Toronto does not take a greater leaf than 4t proposes to do out of London's book. Great things could be done with the armories in the way of decoration, but it costs money and the fitting up of the place in the customary way takes a pretty tidy sum—a sum in fact, that makes any size surplus an impossibility. If the City Guiid of Art wished to give a practical demonstration of the love of the beautiful hey could not secure a better time of place than the horse show period and the armories to do so. An Indian chief of a tribe that hunted along of the first overland railroad was had been able to stop or turn aside the great herds of buffalo that swept over the prairies in those days; he and his men had driven from his favorite hunting grounds all opposing tribes; he had interfered with the ox trains that began to wind over the desert in the wake of the pioneers; he had even made trouble for the blue-coated soldiers that guarded the work on the railroad.

And here was a new monster—a creature apparently alive, for it moved, breathed smoke from its one perpendicular nostril. shrieked at intervals and had all the characteristics of a great animal.

The chief determined that this beast should feel his power, that it should not be permitted to go rushing across his territory howling de fiance at him, scaring away the deer and buffaloes, and setting fire to the grass with the sparks from its breath.

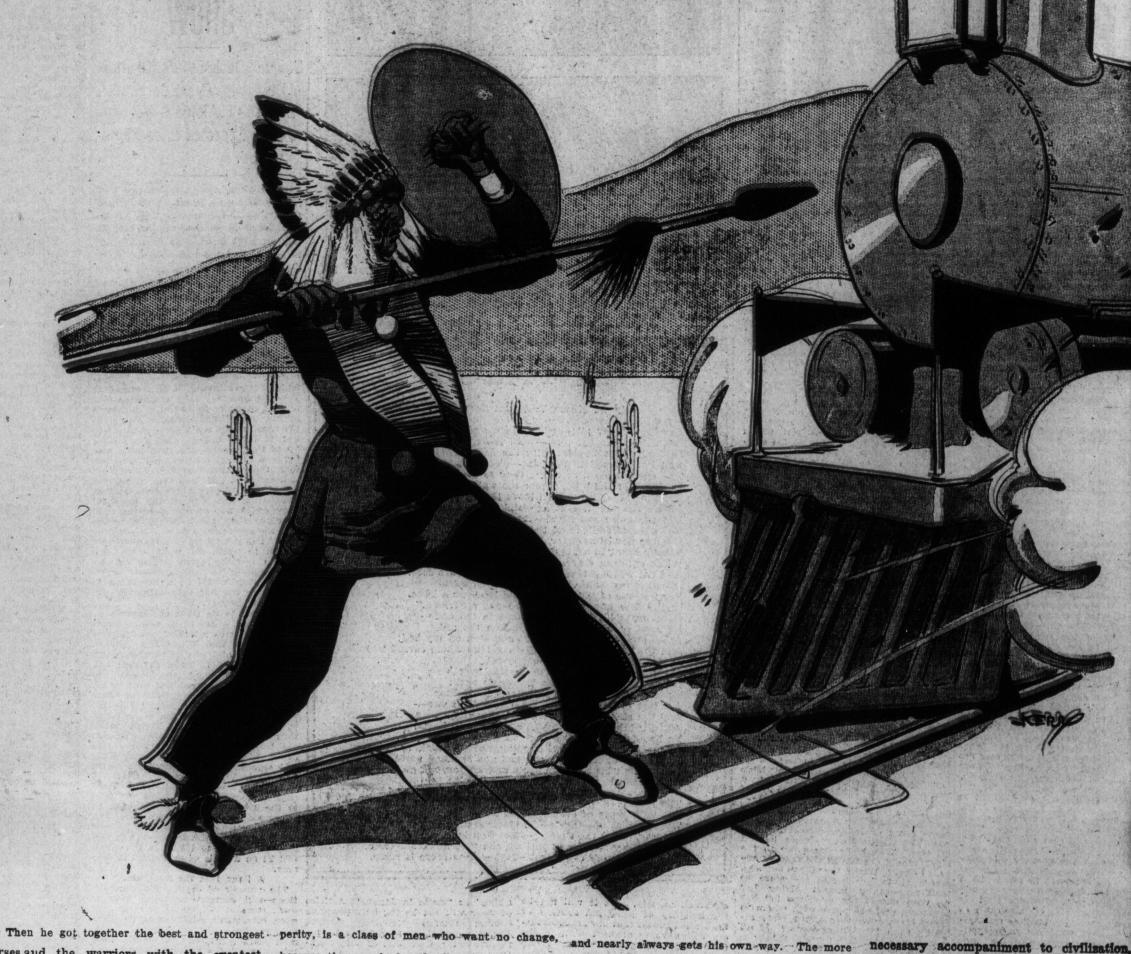

He assembled the tribe by the right of way, and the next time the engine came swinging along it was assaulted by a flight of welldirected arrows. Great was the chief's astonishment when the arrows fell harmlessly from the polished sides of the boiler or rebounded from the smokestack and cab windows.

He and his war party, yelling and shouting. gave chase, but, although the locomotive took cowardly flight, it returned the next day and so viciously charged the assembled braves who had ranged themselves across the track that to save themselves they were obliged nimbly to deploy to one side.

The great chief, mystified but undaunted, went to a quiet mountain top to think it over. It was clear that the hide of this new brute was too thick to be penetrated with arrows. It was equally clear that the circumstance of an Indian or two on the track would not deflect it from its course.

But he knew that there was strength in numbers, and he resolved upon a strategy which should employ that axiom as a working

The next day he set the squaws to work braiding all the horse hide lariats in the camp into one great thick rope, a rope that would sald a herd of buffaloes horses and the warriors with the greatest strength of hand, and, arranging them in two groups, one on either side of the track, caused the thick line to be stretched from one group to another, tug of war fashion, its centre being held directly over the track and at right angles with it, about the height of the middle of the head of the locomotive's boiler.

The train came.

The next day a plainsman, who had been watching the experiment with interest, asked the engineer about it. "Did you stop yesterday?" he inquired.

"Stop?" said the engineer. "No. Why?" The plainsman told the story of the plot.

"Oh," said the engineer, "that accounts -downfall. for it. We saw a couple of flocks of Indians flying along on both sides of the cab for about a quarter of a mile, but neither the fireman nor I could figure out how they came to be up in the air like that."

Indian chiefs, big and little, have long since learned that it is useless to try to stop locomotives. Instead of attempting that, many of them are now riding behind them, some of them in Pullman cars, lying back in easy chairs, smoking fat cigars instead of calumets, and reading the news of their Indian fellow citizens who represent them in the councils of

Only in remote quarters of the earth are savages arrayed against the progress of civilization. It is in the centres of civilization, and, curiously enough, among men of education, that the modern attempts to stop progress are found.

them prosperous, who to-day are seeking to stretch a rope across the track of the train progress-trying with all their strength and might for they know that progress will mean their own

Let it never be forgotten that they are shrewd and able men-men who either have brains of their own or money to hire brains to represent them in the courts, in parliament, in provincial legislatures, in city councils, before commissions, everywhere that old dispute between privilege

In the City of Toronto, nearly half a million people are to-day trying to get cheap light-a matter of purely material progress, but a thing which is absolutely necessary to their future.

Arrayed against them is a handful of people who are acting as the rope for the Indians. For a while they will delay progress. They are blocking it now. Eventually the rope will be swept aside and the savages that still hang on will get a brief and unpleasant ride, at the end of which they will have discovered that it is just as well to let an inevitable locomotive go on its way since it is bound to go there anyway.

After all, can be left alone to enjoy what they have thru there is nothing quite so conducive to good, earnest thought as the fact that some other man is It is these men, most of them educated, all of taking what belongs to you, whether with or without the sanction of the law.

The buccaneers of these days, who are out to capture and to raid the public services and utilities which are created and sustained by the necessities of the great and growing communities of Canada, compare unfavorably with the Indians of earlier times. These knew no better. It was ignorance that led them to stretch a rope across the track of train progress. The franchise hunters and grafters who attempt to stay the movement to protect public services from exploitation are engaged in as futile an endeavor as were the foolish Indians. They too will learn and they are learning that public rights must be protected and that progress in well-being cannot be

It will be a great many generations before progress can be based on anything save selfinterest—but it is nevertheless inevitable, and those who attempt even to check it will find this out sooner or later.

There was a time when every invention met with energetic opposition from the ignorant. Even the automobile, apparent as was its usefulness from the first, was decried as an idle plaything of the rich for a number of years. Now it is established, and its proven usefulness, not only as a pleasure vehicle, but as a

The real objection to progress comes not from the ignorant, but from the intelligent: not from the man who has not had the advantages of an education, but from the graduates of the great colleges, who hope to continue in the enjoyment of fortunes illgotten by their fathers by putting stumbling clocks in the way of those who want to return to the old idea of equality and equal oppor-

Mechanical progress now goes on without interruption. The age seems pretty generally to be given over to it. We have been so long at peace with mankind, and those who have built up or inherited monopolies have been left so long in uninterrupted enjoyment of the proceeds from them, that progress toward actual independence is very slow.

It is none the less sure. Every day sees the means of disseminating thought improved. Every day brings increased circulation to great newspapers, and restricted circulation of newspapers that exist solely to defend the so-called rights of those who have entrenched themselves behind the established order of things, and who prey like pirates under the form of legality.

It will be a long, hard, uphill fight to convince people that they ought not to pay tribute to men who pretend to have a divine right to plunder, but it will be done, and men now living will see the time when little thieves who sell themselves to big ones will fall under the wheels of progress, and when even the big thieves will think a second, a third and a fourth time before they try to stretch any ropes in the pathway of the locomotive of
