Germans in Third Trial Fail To Recapture Position Near Epehy

Repulsed Completely This Morning—Haig's Troops Improve Positions Near Ypres-Menine Road

London, Aug. 21.—The Germans this morning made a third attempt to recapture positions near Epehy recently taken by the British. The war office announces that they were repulsed completely.

Paris, Aug. 21.—Counter attacks of extreme violence were made by the Germans last night in an effort to recapture positions taken in the French offensive on the Verdun front. The War Office announces that the Germans were beaten back with heavy losses.

Rome, Aug. 21.—More than 10,000 prisoners had been taken by the Italians in their new offensive up to last evening. The war office so announces.

Paris, Aug. 21.—The French official statement follows: "On the Cerny plateau, the Germans made attacks at three points. On two occasions our fire broke up the assaulting waves which were thrown back, greatly weakened, to the German lines. The other attack, west of Huterbise monument, also was repulsed."

On the front north of Verdun the Germans reacted energetically during the night. Their counter-attacks, which were extremely violent, especially at Avocourt, Wood and north of Cauterles, were broken up by our fire. The enemy suffered heavy losses with no result. Our troops maintained all their gains and regained the captured positions. The number of unaccounted prisoners taken by us yesterday exceeds 6,000, of whom 116 are officers.

Amsterdam, Aug. 21.—A frontier telegram to the Echo Belge says numerous troops are arriving in Flanders from Ghent.

On Rumanian Front. Petrograd, Aug. 21.—British Admiral Jellicoe's fleet is making vigorous attacks on the southern Rumanian front. The war office announces that the British fleet is making vigorous attacks on the southern Rumanian front.

Nest of Spies in Petrograd Found. Private Hospital Proves Headquarters of German Agents. Petrograd, Aug. 21.—A private hospital in the centre of the city, which was raided today by order of the military authorities, proved to be the headquarters of a German espionage organization.

Two Good Branches. W. H. Touts and T. B. Begin, safety first and first aid instructors, of the C. G. R., arrived in the city this morning on the maritime express. They are in the city in connection with the first aid classes which they recently organized here.

WIFE-SLAYER ALSO IS DEAD

Leon Folsom, Who Killed Girl Wife in Maine BUT BRIEF TIME CONSCIOUS

It is Believed He Was Jealous of Her and Also Feared That if She Left Him He Would Have to go to the War

Bangor, Me., Aug. 21.—Death has claimed its second victim of Saturday morning's tragedy on the Blaisdell farm on the Corinna road. Leon Folsom, the twenty-three year old farmer who shot and killed his wife, Gladys, aged fifteen, is dead. He did not recover consciousness except to murmur, "I'm sorry I did it," and "Oh, dearie, dearie," these words coming from him as he glanced at his wife's dead body as he was taken struggling from the blood stained bed.

Deputy Sheriff Lyndon Ticombe of Corinna stood guard over the door to keep the over-curious out. On the floor at the front of the bed with his bare feet toward the wall lay Folsom. One side of his face was blood-stained and a tiny powder-encircled wound appeared on the right temple. On the bed was a still more ghastly sight. Laying on the right hand side of the bed next to the window was the dead body of the girl wife. Her head and shoulders rested on the bed, while her legs hung over the side, the feet touching the floor. She was covered with her life's blood. The girl's left hand lay extended and on the right finger was a cheap ring with a reddish colored stone.

Just how the tragedy occurred was a matter of speculation. It is believed that Folsom must have shot his wife as she lay asleep in the bed. Folsom is generally accepted as the murderer of his wife. He was shot while he was in the bed. He was shot while he was in the bed. He was shot while he was in the bed.

CANADIANS DEFEATED GERMANS TODAY IN A FIERCE HAND TO HAND FIGHT

London, Aug. 21—Canadian troops around Lens launched another attack on the western environs of the French mining city at 4.30 o'clock this morning, reports Reuters' correspondent from the British headquarters in France. The attack developed into one of the most desperate hand-to-hand battles of the war. When the Canadians went over the top they saw masses of grey figures advancing towards them in the thick haze. Both sides had planned the attack at the same moment. Fifteen minutes after the dash came the Germans were making their last stand on the parapet of their trench. Then they retreated rapidly.

WHERE CANADIAN LADS WHO HAVE DIED IN ENGLAND ARE BURIED

Two Hundred Have Received Appointments in British Forces

London, Aug. 21—There still seems to be considerable heartburning in Canada and England concerning the return of surplus officers. The Canadian Associated Press has received the following statement:

"The Canadian overseas military force have outgrown conditions which existed at the inception of Canada's army and do not obtain today. Changes in policy had to be made as rules for administration a smaller force became inadequate when applied to a large force. Among those was the introduction of the principle that senior officers should be made largely by promotion from the ranks of units there. Then, again, units were raised in Canada and sent over with a full complement of senior officers, but owing to the demands for reinforcements and the impossibility of despatching complete units to France, these officers arrived in England had to be used to maintain the strength of formations already in France."

The result of all this has been the creation of a surplus of senior officers. Some have been required to fill various positions of importance and some 200 received appointments in the British forces on lines of communication. After many authorities erect a white wooden cross with the name and other particulars. Each is numbered, and in any case should be in order to avoid trouble and delay. Friends who are to visit the spot should also make themselves acquainted with the number, as they can then be guided without difficulty to the grave they seek.

The train ran right into the cemetery, and while the preparations were being made, we set in a special waiting room with the label "Canada" on the door. The major came to say that all was ready and with reversed arms leading the way, then the bearer party with a light hand-cart carrying a casket covered with the Union Jack and our flowers, and finally ourselves, my cousin, a pathetic little figure in her blue dress, and the chaplain, for another soldier was to be buried alongside. The latter had evidently no friends in England. It seemed so sad—so painfully lonely—that I wished to take some of our flowers and lay them at his feet as a humble tribute to his memory, but I was shrank from asking my cousin at this moment, though I knew she would have liked it.

Then three volleys were fired over the open graves, the Last Post was sounded, and we walked sorrowfully back to the train. Major came to say that all was ready and with reversed arms leading the way, then the bearer party with a light hand-cart carrying a casket covered with the Union Jack and our flowers, and finally ourselves, my cousin, a pathetic little figure in her blue dress, and the chaplain, for another soldier was to be buried alongside.

Over, every grave the Canadian military chaplain and others.

My all around housemaid Mary, packed up her grip and quit to get married right in the middle of my busiest social season. Mary had been our faithful servant for over five years. She was a sort of a "windfall." A friend of mine who had moved to another city had left her to me and now that she was no longer mine, I didn't know where to find another.

I was perplexed. And just as I had concluded that I must do my own work a happy thought struck me. Mrs. Smith's girl had left her a few days ago and she already had another. I must find out how she got her. And she told me—

EXIT ROGERS—WHAT NEXT?

The despatches refer to the resignation of Hon. Mr. Rogers as a surprise. That is wrong. The understanding was fairly general that Sir Robert Borden would not face the rough sea of a general election until he had lightened ship by throwing overboard not only Mr. Rogers, the "minister of elections," but several other present occupants of cabinet positions.

were before the war. Some changes have been made. General Hughes has left, and is succeeded by a wonderful combination of official heads, but there has been no accession of vigor in the department of militia. Outside of some minor changes the government has run in the old ruts. In time of war people are inclined to waive their constitutional rights for the sake of increasing energy in the executive.

As to Mr. Rogers, the first sacrifice, the circumstances attending his departure are such as to cause the Toronto Globe to suggest that the whole scheme may be a stage play to deceive the country, "make-believe" to create the impression that the virtuous Borden has dismissed the evil Rogers from the highest moths, while in reality they have arranged to compose their differences before the elections and give Mr. Rogers a better job—if it still should be within the power of the Conservative party to give jobs. The Globe's suspicions will be justified by most people.

American papers publish a report that M. Kerensky, the big man of the hour in Russia, is afflicted with tuberculosis. If this is true the world will marvel the more at the wonderful energy he has shown and the great things he has done and is doing to keep his nation faithful to its compact with the Allies and carry on the war to a victorious end.

It is a dull day when the exposure of the payment of a large sum to a Tory politician is not made in the New Brunswick graft inquiries. The people of that province are, learning the lesson of the victory of the Liberal party last spring was—Halifax Chronicle.

Yes, Manitoba, British Columbia, New Brunswick—and the whole Dominion next. The Liberal wave is not to be resisted. Signs point to early government control of the United States coal output and its distribution. In Canada we seem to be content to mark time. We have been three years in the war, but cannot but strike all who read and notice that Washington already is showing Ottawa the road.

THE CASES ARE DIFFERENT The Toronto Star, referring to the fact that the western Liberals want a national government formed after the elections, points out to those who desire a national government at once, and who cite the British government as an example, that there is a very marked difference in the two cases. It says: "The difference is that in Canada we are trying to get along with a government elected six years ago in time of peace, on an issue not connected with the war, and that the personnel of the government has not been radically changed. It has not been recast for war purposes. In Great Britain the government has been twice changed for war purposes. First there was a coalition of the old kind under the old prime minister. This may be compared with the proposed coalition under Sir Robert Borden. But this was not satisfactory. The coalition went out and was replaced by the Lloyd George government, and the system of administration was revolutionized. Important changes in personnel have been made since that time. An election is not regarded as necessary in England, because all that could be done by an executive. But in Canada the extension of the parliamentary term has been used simply to keep things as they Had Formed the Habit A man was very sick. He had a good doctor, but the doctor was puzzled about his case, so he held a consultation. Four other doctors came, looked wise, shook their heads and went away. Then the original doctor summoned the patient's wife. "I must tell you that your husband is in a serious condition," he said. "If in a religiously inclined, I should advise that you send for a minister without delay." "Yes, doctor," answered the wife. "I'll just get the family minister or will he need a consultation?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Got His Wish The conjugal dispute waxed loud and furious. Mrs. Blank said, "Yes, yes, I was so!" Mr. Blank said, "Pooh! Pooh! It was not so." In the end came tears. Then Mrs. Blank fell to reproaches. "I was reading one of your old letters, James, only today," she sobbed, "and you said in it that you would rather live in endless torment with me than in bliss by yourself!" "Well," granted Blank, "I got my wish."—Milwaukee Free Press.

THE SHADOW

"Quand plus d'un brave aujourd'hui tremble, Moi, poltron, je ne tremble pas."—Beranger. Amid the strivings of the game, The whirling storm of life's tornado; The blast of care, the gust of fame, We all some day must meet the shadow.

We haste and dispute the ground, As stage by stage the game's proceeding; Yet all must reach the final round, And line up for the fight succeeding.

Why fear to meet what must be met? Since flower and tree, like man and nation Must live and die, must rise and set; 'Tis but the plan of all creation.

So, thou art Death! I hail thee friend! Since from thy sway there is no shielding; The highest courage at the end Is not in fighting, but in yielding.

Twisted. This Spoonerism was committed by a clerk—an while reading the morning papers—And personally the wig tree fished away.

A Great Little Notice. "We notice," notices the Wellington News, "that very few automobile accidents happen to people on their way to church."

Living Up to the Part. Briggs—You talk a good deal less since you've been married. Griggs—Yes, my wife thinks I'm the smartest man on earth, and I have to be mighty careful what I say.

Advice. "If you have something good to say, say it," said Robert Meltz. "But if it's something mean and bad, why then say something else."

And Yet Keeping Your $5 Willie—Paw, what is that? Paw—That is the art of seeming to be interested in other people's hard luck stories, my son.

When Mahally, who did the family washing, came on Monday morning to get the bundle of soiled garments, she was wearing a black eye, which stood out vividly against the brown background of her broad and comely face.

"Dear me," said her sympathetic employer, "what has happened to your face?" "A nigger man hit me," said Mahally briefly. "Oh, that's too bad!" said the lady. "Was it your husband that hit you, Mahally?" "No, ma'am," said Mahally, with emphasis. "George, he don't never hit me. He treats me mo' lak a friend than a husband."—Tombridge Clarion.

INCREASING STRESS OF AMERICAN LIFE (Equitable Public Bulletin.) In America the war order to "speed up" comes to a people whose vitality is already under abnormal strain. To generalize, we may say that this life strain is due to intemperate living, that is, over indulgence in physical and mental activity on the part of some, and lack of physical fitness and endurance, and in the great number of overfed and under-exercised people in the various walks of American life.

JUNIOR RED CROSS FAIR AT LANCASTER A SUCCESS

The Red Cross fair, held on the grounds of the Deaf and Dumb Institution, Lancaster Heights, last evening was a decided success in spite of the unfavorable weather. The fair was under the auspices of the junior branch of the Lancaster Red Cross Society. Tea was served from 5 to 7 o'clock by the ladies of the Lancaster Red Cross Society. The convener of the general committee was Mrs. J. S. Smith. The tables, nicely arranged on the lawn, were in charge of the following ladies: Mrs. William Baxter, Mrs. Richard Stuart, Mrs. Murray Long, Mrs. Charles Belyea, Mrs. Lowell, Mrs. Perry and Mrs. H. M. Stout.

The brown bread and beans were supervised by Mrs. O. D. Hanson and Miss Olive; salads, by Mrs. Armstrong; bread and cake, by Mrs. McDermott and Mrs. W. L. Emerson; tea and coffee, by Mrs. J. V. Anglin, and tickets, by Mrs. Cecil R. McKell.

When supper was over the pile opened, where all kinds of games of chance and money-making devices were carried on. A big ice cream and refreshment booth was under the charge of the young ladies of the junior branch of the Lancaster Red Cross Society.

The band of entertainers from the Happy 8th proved a great attraction to the crowd in their excellent vaudeville show. The grounds were picturesquely decorated with flags and were illuminated in every direction by electric lights. The fair was visible plainly from the city and various other points because of its high elevation and presented a brilliant and striking appearance to the observer. Large crowds arrived from the city and Fairville and the grounds were constantly crowded to capacity.

In addition to the City Cornet Band, under the leadership of Band Master Waddington, provided a choice programme. The fair was very successful and profitable and will be repeated this evening. The money raised by the fair is to be given to the Red Cross.

Hon. Robert Rogers, Minister of Public Works, Resigns His Department

Action Taken to Indicate That Plans for Re-organization of Government Are Under Way; To Take in Some of Western Grain Growers?

Ottawa, Aug. 20.—The Hon. Robert Rogers, minister of public works, this morning tendered his resignation as minister of public works. The reason which he gave for his action was that there had been too much delay in the carrying out of the conscription bill.

Ottawa, Aug. 20.—The political situation took an unexpected turn today with the report of the resignation of Hon. Robert Rogers, minister of public works. The report came after announcement of a conference of representatives of the western grain growers and certain Liberal members had with Sir Robert Borden today and gave color to the belief that some sort of union government is in process of formation.

The report that Hon. Bob Rogers had resigned came as a bombshell in parliamentary circles today. Events seemed rather to be shaping to place him more firmly as the real master of the administration, endorsed as he was by 71 of the more aggressive Conservative members of the house.

Westerners in Conference. A gathering of the westerners and grain growers chiefly interested in the project was held here this morning, and at noon they had a conference with Sir Robert Borden. There will be a day's negotiations, as the grain growers will likely ask for some economic concessions, so that nothing definite is expected before tomorrow night, when Sir Robert, if anticipated, will make a statement to the country.

Ring of Steel Draws Tighter Around Central Powers

French and Italians Striking Simultaneously Achieve Success in New Offensive; 11,500 Prisoners Taken on Isonzo and the Meuse; Smasking Through to Trieste

The ring of steel is drawing tighter. The Italian offensive, forecasted yesterday, was launched with signal success on a wide front along the Isonzo River. The river was bridged in a brilliant operation, and 7,500 prisoners, with many guns, captured in the first rush. Desperate fighting continues from Piava to the sea, and an advance to Trieste, twelve miles distant, now seems within reach.

London, Aug. 20.—A despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company from Copenhagen, says that according to reports received from Austria the battle now raging on the Isonzo front of the Austro-Italian theatre is characterized as the most violent ever fought there. The advice add that it is believed by the Austrians and Germans the Italians are making an attempt to break through to Trieste.

A colossal number of new guns have been brought into the fight, for which the Italians had been preparing for weeks. Yesterday Italian aviators dropped proclamations over the Austrian lines saying that the bombardment would be continued for many hours.

Rome, Aug. 20.—The Italians in their offensive on the Isonzo front, began yesterday, have crossed the Isonzo river and already have taken 1,500 prisoners. It was officially announced by the war department today. Guns and many machine guns have been captured by the Italians, and the Austrians have suffered serious losses. The infantry battle continues vigorously. The statement follows:

A battle is proceeding on the Julian Alps front. Yesterday morning after a bombardment of twenty-four hours, during which our artillery shelled the enemy positions with ever-increasing intensity, masses of our infantry commenced the advance toward their objectives. To the north of Anibov (13 miles from the Meuse), after having brilliantly overcome technical difficulties and the resistance of the enemy, numerous positions were thrown across the Isonzo and our troops passed over to the left bank of the river.

From Piava to the sea, after having crossed the first line of the enemy, which had been destroyed completely, our troops brought pressure to bear upon him. Resisting strongly and being supported by considerable artillery and a large number of machine guns the enemy offered desperate resistance. Aviators Aid French. Paris, Aug. 20.—A smashing victory on the Verdun front is recorded in the official report issued by the war office tonight. The French have captured the enemy defenses on both sides of the Meuse, over a front of more than eleven miles, penetrating the German line at divers points to a depth of a mile and a quarter. More than 4,000 un wounded German prisoners have been taken.

The text of the statement reads: "On the front north of Verdun our troops captured, on both sides of the Meuse, a front of more than eleven miles, penetrating the German line at divers points to a depth of a mile and a quarter. More than 4,000 un wounded German prisoners have been taken. The maritime provinces representatives proposed are F. B. Carvell and A. K. MacLean. It is utterly impossible to predict what will happen but men like Mr. Turiff and Mr. Godfrey are quite optimistic that union will be formed. The retirement of Hon. Mr. Rogers seems to remove the chief stumbling block.

British Tanks Score Triumph

Capture of Important German Positions "a Tank Show From Start to Finish"

British Front in France and Belgium, Aug. 20.—(By the Associated Press)—British tanks scored another triumph in the capture of important German positions yesterday morning in the neighborhood of the Ypres-Poelcapelle road north of St. Julien. It was a tank show from start to finish and the infantry in this case played the part of supernumeraries in support of the leading actors, while large numbers of the enemy troops added a final melodramatic touch by surrendering abjectly, or fleeing in terror, as the heavy armor lumbered on to the stage and reached for their shooting irons.

As recorded in the official communication the British captured German defenses along a mile front to a depth of 300 yards. Among the strongholds occupied were the famous triangle, Hibu and Cockcroft Farms, the sites of exceedingly strong concrete and steel pill-boxes which impeded the infantry advance. It was dawn when the tanks lined up and waited for the signal to "go over the top." The British artillery, rendering no less of chivalry to the tanks than to the infantry in the past, poured a preliminary stream of shells into the German lines, then dropped a barrage ahead of their iron monitors, which cleared forward, looking for all the world, like great dragons which had rolled out from one of Hans Andersen's conceptions into the gray morning light that shrouded this battlefield in the "Cockpit of Europe."

Behind them came the infantry, ready to do the cleaning up of the remaining enemy after the tanks had finished their part. But there was little for the infantry to do, except assemble and care for the prisoners as the tanks progressed. There was hard fighting at several points, such as the three redoubts mentioned but it was always brief. The tanks wheeled into position and turned a heavy fire on the fortifications, and the Germans were either killed or surrendered. The German casualties were heavy; great numbers of Germans were seen fleeing, terror-stricken, as the tanks appeared in the distance, and a considerable number threw down their arms and surrendered without offering resistance.

The tanks cleared the whole territory desired and then trundled back home. They suffered no damage, and the casualties for the operation totalled fifteen. This has been the most striking incident of the latest fighting along this front. There have been intense artillery bombardments and the air services on both sides have been unusually active. Last night the air was full of German and British planes, which bombed their way into each other's territory amidst picturesque, but awesome flashes from breaking shrapnel and long white rays from searchlights.

The French engineers have encountered considerable difficulties amid the marshes into which the French have advanced on their left, but work is proceeding with marvellous rapidity. The raising of cattle in Rhodessa has now reached the stage where meat caning plants must be provided to care for the excess output.

"In the region of Badonviller we easily repulsed an enemy attack. "There was rather spirited artillery fighting in Upper Alsace. British Repulse Attacks. London, Aug. 20.—The British official communication, issued this evening, follows: "The enemy this morning endeavored to launch another counter attack against our new position north of Epehy. His troops were observed as they were moving into position to assault and were repulsed by our artillery before the attack could develop. "Patrol encounters in which we made some progress took place throughout the day on the northwestern outskirts of Lens. A hostile raiding party entered our lines this morning east of Arras. Our machine guns and heavy anti-aircraft guns were kept busy. "Yesterday hostile aircraft worked in large formation well behind their own lines, and endeavored unsuccessfully to hinder the work of our bombing, photographic and reconnaissance squadrons. An enemy train was wrecked and much damage was caused to hostile airdromes, camps and stations. The work, in cooperation with our artillery, was carried out with good effect and many photographs were taken. "In air fighting two German airplanes were downed, four others were driven down out of control, and one other was shot down inside our lines by anti-aircraft guns. Six of our machines are missing."

DODGING DRAFT CALL MEANS DESERTION

Such Men Lose Exemption Rights and Will Be Held in Jail Until Ordered in Army

Washington, Aug. 21.—Renewed instructions that drafted men who failed to report for service were to be classed and punished as deserters, have been issued to United States district attorneys and agents of the department of justice by Attorney General Gregory. Provost-Marshal General Crowder has ruled that persons who neglect to appear for examination will be accepted automatically, and that the privilege of claiming exemption will be denied. It was to help carry this policy into effect that the attorney general acted.

Like A Boy at 50 Bubbling Over With Vitality—Taking Iron Did It

Doctor says Nuxated Iron is greatest of all strength builders—Often increases the strength and endurance of debilitated, nervous folks 100 per cent in two weeks' time.

New York, N. Y.—Not long ago a man came to me who was nearly half a century old and asked me to give him a preliminary examination for life insurance. I was astonished to find him with the blood pressure of a boy of 30 and as full of vigor, vim and vitality as a young man. In fact, a young man he really was notwithstanding his age. The secret he said was taking iron—Nuxated Iron had filled him with renewed life. At 80 he was in bad health; at 46 he was weary and nearly all in. Now at 80 after taking Nuxated Iron a miracle of vitality and his face beaming with the buoyancy of youth. As I have said a hundred times over, iron is the greatest of all strength builders. If people would only take Nuxated Iron when they feel weak or run-down, instead of dosing themselves with habit-forming drugs, stimulants and alcoholic beverages I am convinced that in this way they could ward off disease, preventing it becoming organic in thousands of cases and thereby the lives of thousands might be saved who now die every year from pneumonia, grippe, kidney, liver, heart trouble and other dangerous maladies. The real and true cause which started their diseases was nothing more nor less than a weakened condition brought on by lack of iron in the blood. Iron is absolutely necessary to enable your blood to change food into living tissue. Without it, no matter how much or what you eat, your food merely passes through you without strength out of it and as a consequence you become weak, pale and sickly looking just like a plant trying to grow in a soil deficient in iron. If you are not strong or well you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of ordinary nuxated iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see for yourself how much you have gained. I have seen dozens of nervous run-down people who were ailing all the while, double their strength and endurance and entirely get rid of all symptoms of dyspepsia, liver and other troubles in from ten to fourteen days' time simply by taking iron in the proper form. And this after they had in some cases been doctoring for months without obtaining any benefit. But don't take the old forms of reduced iron, acetate or tincture of iron simply to a few cents. You must take iron in a form that can be easily absorbed and assimilated like Nuxated Iron. If you want to do it to any good, otherwise it may prove worse than useless. Many an athlete or prizefighter has won the day simply because he knew the secret of his blood with iron before he went into the fray, while many another has gone down to ignominious defeat simply for the lack of iron.—E. Sauer, M. D.

NOTE—Nuxated Iron, recommended above by Dr. E. Sauer, is not a patent medicine nor secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists and whose iron constituents are widely prescribed by eminent physicians everywhere. Unlike the other inorganic iron products it is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach; on the contrary, it is a most potent remedy in nearly all forms of indigestion as well as for nervous, rundown conditions. The manufacturers have such great confidence in Nuxated Iron, that they offer to forfeit $100.00 to any charitable institution if they cannot take any man or woman under 60 who lacks iron, and increase their strength 100 per cent or over in four weeks' time, provided they have no serious organic trouble. They also offer to refund your money if it does not at least double your strength and endurance in ten days' time. It is dispensed free to refund your money if it does not at least double your strength and endurance in ten days' time. It is dispensed free to refund your money if it does not at least double your strength and endurance in ten days' time. It is dispensed free to refund your money if it does not at least double your strength and endurance in ten days' time.

United States Purchasing Large Tracts for Protection of Watersheds. Nearly 1,500,000 acres of non-agricultural forest land has been purchased by the United States government in the Southern Appalachians and White Mountains. The fundamental idea underlying the establishment of these national forests in the eastern states is the protection of the watersheds of navigable streams, with a view to the better regulation of their flow. The situation with respect to fire protection has already been greatly improved as a result of the work of the U. S. Forest Service, which is in charge of the selection and administration of these lands. In both east and west, the United States now has a total of 152 national forests, with an aggregate net area of more than 125,000,000 acres of government land.

Tell of Seeing Man in Front of H. L. Williams Store

Inquest Resumed Last Evening; Girl Witness Speaks of Wild Joy Ride on Night of the Murder; Some Witnesses Did Not Appear

Nothing of a sensational nature bearing directly on the murder was sprung last night when the inquest into the death of Harry L. Williams was resumed at the court house before Dr. F. L. Kenney, coroner. Several witnesses were examined, but the only new fact, definitely established, was that Williams was not in his store at 10 or 10.30 o'clock on the night he was murdered. This testimony was given by David McNutt, who made a visit to the store shortly after ten, and again close to 10.30, for the purpose of making a purchase.

Gertrude Wedge, or Gertrude Fuller as she is sometimes called, gave a vivid account of being inveigled into a "joy ride" on the night of August 7. Gertrude Wilkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Wilkins, 410 Main street, who accompanied her, corroborated the story. Two men unknown to them invited them into the automobile near Seaside Park and drove them down Manawagonish Road. They protested and insisted on being driven home. Two miles from Fairville the motor collided with a telegraph pole and the two girls were nearly thrown out. They waited until one of the men returned with a team. It was 11.20 o'clock when he came. He then drove them to the home of Gertrude Wedge, 22 George street, where the two girls spent the night.

"Did you know the two men?" the coroner asked. Each replied that she did not, although Miss Wilkins felt certain she could identify them.

"Was Stanley Hawkhurst one of them?" they were asked. Each replied that she did not know the young man.

"Did you know Williams?" Miss Wilkins was asked, and she replied in the negative.

The court room was crowded when the hearing opened. A new witness, Jas. H. Steele, told of seeing a strange individual standing in the Main street doorway of Williams' store on the night of the murder.

The coroner called the names of two witnesses—Silas Gregg and William Maxwell, who did not appear.

Francis Kerr appeared in the interests of the family.

James H. Steele. They went down about eight miles and turned in "some place." One of the men said they were turning home. When the car came to a stop and some remarks were passed, the witness said and her girl friend insisted on getting out, and they started to walk home.

After going a short distance the automobile overtook them, and the men offered to drive them home. The girls got to again. A short distance up one of the men, who was in the front seat, asked if he could come in back. He came in and the man driving, while turning around to hear the conversation, lost control of the motor and it smashed into a pole.

"Me and my girl friend were nearly thrown out." The witness then told of the condition of her friend who was much alarmed at the lateness of the hour. One of the men then offered to get a carriage to drive them home. For a long time they stood waiting about two miles beyond Fairville. It was 11.20 o'clock when one of the boys came back with a team. The witness said she asked him to drive fast and she admitted to the coroner that the carriage was going at considerable speed in Douglas avenue, the young man drove them to the Grand Union Hotel, and the witness and her companion went into the former's house about 11.30 o'clock.

"Was Stanley Hawkhurst with you?" asked the coroner. "I don't know."

"Was there only one man with you on the way home?" "Yes."

"Do you know Hawkhurst?" "No."

"What did he look like?" "He was short, medium height, wore a blue suit and a light cap, and was about 24 or 25 years of age."

The coroner announced that the list of witnesses for the session had been completed and adjourned court until Thursday night at 8 o'clock.

NOT ONE PER CENT RETURN

"What percentage of patients come back to convalescent depots after being discharged?" was the information which a Toronto Star representative sought from G. I. Riddell, secretary for D unit of the military hospitals commission this afternoon. "Not more than one per cent, come back for treatment," was the instant reply from Mr. Riddell. "In fact, that would be a more than liberal figure. Our week-end totals show an average number of 2,600 patients in D Unit. In the month of June there were ten, and in August there were four come back. "You will readily see from these figures that we have a remarkable record for successful treatment so far. The number who have come back has been much smaller than would have been expected or estimated, say, one year ago. The machinery for handling the men has now finally been perfected to just about as high a pitch as human ingenuity can devise. What I mean by that is, that the whole system is absolutely self-contained for operating purposes. The D. C. has full authority to attend a man and put him back on pay promptly if it can be satisfactorily demonstrated that his health has only been temporarily improved. "Long waiting has been done away with and expedition is now the order of the day," said Mr. Riddell in conclusion. "We are happy to say that we are keeping our work well in advance of requirements, and are satisfied that the service is all that could possibly be expected."

KING'S SON, ALBERT, ILL

London, Aug. 20—Prince Albert, second son of the king, has been obliged to leave his ship owing to gastric trouble, according to an announcement in the court circular tonight. A consultation of physicians has been held as a result of which it was decided that the prince must submit to a course of treatment. This will prevent him from undertaking any duty afloat for several months. Prince Albert has suffered from gastric disorders for several years. He was operated on for appendicitis in 1914 and on several occasions has been obliged to go on sick leave.

A CHANGE IN HUNGARY

Amsterdam, Aug. 20—The Wolff Bureau, the semi-official German news agency, in a despatch from Budapest, announces that Dr. Alexander Wekerle has been appointed premier of Hungary, in succession to Count Moritz Esterhazy.

Dr. Wekerle was premier and minister of finance in Hungary from April, 1906, to January, 1910. The resignation of the Wekerle cabinet was due to the breaking up of the coalition party that had supported Wekerle when he endeavored to establish a Hungarian state bank independent of the existing Austrian banking institution. A despatch from Amsterdam Sunday said there was a likelihood of the resignation of Count Esterhazy, owing to friction between the premier and Count Karolyi, president of the Hungarian independent party, particularly on the question of foreign policy and the conclusion of peace.

BISHOP OF LIMERICK, NOTED

IRISH LEADER, DEAD AT 75. Dublin, Aug. 20—Most Rev. Edward Thomas O'Dwyer, the Roman Catholic Bishop of Limerick, died today at the palace at Corbally, Limerick. For a generation the bishop had been a prominent figure in Irish politics. He was born at Holycross, County Tipperary, in 1842, and was consecrated in 1886.

PULPWOOD IN WAR TIME

One of Canadian industries which has gone on increasing rapidly during war time is the production of pulpwood and the manufacture of pulp. The total quantity of wood manufactured into pulpwood in Canada in 1916 was more than a million and three-quarter cords as compared with 1,600,000 cords in 1915. The value of the pulp wood made into pulp in Canada and exported for making pulp abroad was nearly $20,000,000. Very much more wood is now manufactured into pulp in Canada than is exported in the log form to be manufactured in other countries. A few years ago the reverse was the case. All the essential facts about the pulpwood and pulp industry in Canada in 1916 are shown in a bulletin issued by the forestry branch of the department of the interior. Copies may be had free upon application for the "Pulpwood Bulletin for 1916" to the Director of Forestry, Ottawa.

Exciting Scenes Witnessed At Moosepath Park

Driver Rockford Set Down By The Judges and Refused To Oey Was Fined $50

People Crowd on Track and Wildly Cheer "Jing Jangs" Cooler Heads Command Action of Judges Who Considered Corwin Hal Was Not Being Driven to Win

That Moosepath Park is older than the average year is evident from its appearance, but despite this fact it is doubtful if ever before more exciting scenes were witnessed there than those which took place yesterday afternoon. In years gone by when racing was one of the stellar sports in this part of the county thousands flocked to the race course and many a good contest was seen, but in all those years, history fails to disclose any incident which rivaled that which took place at the meet held yesterday afternoon.

veloped and many returned to witness the third heat of the 2.19 class. When this was over and the entries for the free-for-all came on the track Rockford was seen to come through the gates up behind Corwin Hal just as if nothing had happened. The horses and ordered Mr. Rockford to allow Mr. Alexander to take charge of his horse. He publicly refused to obey and became very abusive, charging that starter Neil had had tickets in his pocket and had an object in setting him down. The judges at this point ordered the horse to the barn any truck a fine of $50 against the driver and owner. He absolutely refused to leave the track and the judges ordered Policemen McNamara and Saunders to put him off and take the horse to the barn. At this point bedlam broke loose and the crowd swarmed on the track and surrounded the policeman to such an extent that they were helpless and it looked as if a riot would break out as the mob roared for the judges to allow the horse to run and the driver to be set free. At this point Commissioner McLellan came on the track in front of the judges' stand and asked if they said they did and immediately the commissioner forced his way through the throng and up to Rockford. For a minute the air was blue, but the commissioner showed that he neither feared Rockford nor anyone else and as a result the horse was soon being led off the track by Sergeant Rankine while Rockford was escorted to the stable by Policemen McNamara and Saunders. The race then went on.

While the vast majority of the younger element cheered Rockford the cooler headed in the throng commended the action of the judges and upheld them in their decision to set driver Rockford down, and also for striking a fine of $50 against him for refusing to obey their command. They realized that unless action was taken and sternly adhered to a black mark would be placed against the sport in this city which might take years—if ever—to efface. The judges explained to the assemblage that they did not consider that Mr. Rockford had tried to win and did not think that the fans who backed the horse were getting a fair deal. They then declared "let's off."

CAN YOU BEAT THIS? Champion Hand-Luck Story Comes From Nebraska. Annon Larson, a farmer living near Omaha, Neb., hearing that state-wide prohibition would go into effect in that state on May 1 of this year, went to a life insurance expert and had himself examined. He learned that according to the mortality tables he would probably live for forty years.

He bought himself a forty years supply of liquor so that he wouldn't be dry during his lifetime. He purchased 400 gallons of beer, whisky, brandy, and wine, as he estimated that he would consume about 100 gallons every year for the rest of his life.

He built a house for the liquor next to his dwelling and stored the horse aways in the house. The prohibition law went into effect.

Last week the sheriff discovered that the law provides that any liquor that was purchased before the law went into effect must be stored in one's home. The sheriff maintains that Larson's liquor was not stored in his home, but in a house beside his home.

Tris Speaker Is Best Fielder In Major League

Indians' Star Outfielder Makes Team a Pennant Contender A Great Defensive Player

Bought for $400 in 1907 and Sold Eight Years Later For $55,000; Is Only Rival of Ty Cobb

Some baseball clubs, like individuals, are just born lucky. The Red Sox, for instance, won't's champions and fighting for a third consecutive pennant. There is a club lucky enough to go on after losing its most valuable asset, writes W. J. Macbeth in the New York Tribune. No, not losing, but selling, for a record sum.

He did say the Red Sox would go all to smithereens without Tris Speaker. But the Hub outfit was good enough to spare "the king of outfielders, and the king of Cleveland Indians a pennant contender last year. And remain contenders the Indians still remain, and will remain so long as Speaker is able to stand up to the plate or run the hundred yards within two seconds of what he can now show.

might. Ambition, relentlessly pursued, has carried him to the top year after year in almost every department of playing value. Until Speaker last year snatched the batting crown from Tyus, the Georgian Peach for nine consecutive seasons had won the slugging laurels of organized baseball. He had annexed most of the other titles, too—base running, run getting, runs batted in.

Speaker, in his might, always has been considerate of the rights of others. He has never been known to usurp his rights to the base path when such usurpation has been necessary. He has never sacrificed his base-running record to spare a rival guardian of the paths from the cold steel. Speaker, therefore, is one of the most highly respected and generally beloved players of the game.

He has inspired fear. Cobb sacrifices his chances to nobody. Indged, many times he has been accused of cutting down infielders wifely and needlessly. There is little doubt that Cobb often gets away with daring base-stealing achievements because of the fact he has inspired with his ready spikes.

Of the two, Speaker, perhaps, has the edge. To consider himself more of a self-made player. Tris always has been the king-pin slugger of his immediate vicinity. During his long affiliation with the wonderful Red Sox he stood as a hitter and shoulder above his team mates. Cobb always has had at his back a helper of almost equal deadly accuracy with the stick.

for the ready cash involved. The disposal was prompted by the general policies of economy that followed in the wake of the world war.

Speaker also has the satisfaction of realizing just how much he improved his value during his major league career, a circumstance in which Cobb only may guess in his particular case. This came to the big show representing an investment of $400. That was in 1907. Eight years later he was sold for $55,000. Talk of high finance in human flesh!

the opportunity of a rich sale, he stuck fast to principle. Boston repurchased title to the great player for the sum of $500.

To study Speaker's defensive tactics in a game of baseball is a real treat to a student of the pastime. He is so clever at going back that he can play 20 or 25 feet nearer the infield than the ordinary gardener. On this account it is almost impossible for a rival batter to drop a Texas Leaguer behind the Cleveland infield. From his drawer in position Speaker covers all three outfield positions so far as short flies are concerned.

This has developed that uncanny intuition that makes a second nature of the ability to anticipate the direction in which a batter will hit. He knows the batters so well that he seems to shift almost with every pitch. He is the most certain outfielder of the game on any kind of a fly ball and he plays a ground hit with the ease and certainty of an outfielder, always in position for a throw to the proper base.

"The outfield comes as natural as breath itself," Speaker bantered. "You see I was born in Texas where there is plenty of room and was always possessed with a roving disposition. I can't account for my success any other way."

Under Strict Rules - Can Smoke, But Are Not Allowed to Have Any of Own Effects

(London Daily Telegraph.) Nearly all the ministers of the ex-Czar and many other of the principal agents of the old regime are at present confined in the ancient and obsolete fortress of Peter and Paul, which faces the Winter Palace across the Neva, and is one of the most picturesque features of the Russian capital.

How the Prisoners Live. The Russian papers have, however, obtained ample details of the conditions under which the political prisoners of the new regime now live.

Regulations Are Strict. Only on doctors' orders are any departures from these rules allowed. Thus, the vice-director of the police department, Kafafov, who is diabetic, receives a special diet.

One newspaper representative, at least, found his way into the corridors in which the cells open. But that has not been before Mr. Kerensky laid down his rights, but even then it was difficult enough to get across to the bastion.

WONOTON SOLDIER WEDS IN ENGLAND

The following announcement is taken from an English newspaper and refers to a wedding having taken place at East Ham, a portion of the metropolitan district of London.

An interesting wedding was solemnized in St. Bartholomew's church on Saturday week, when Miss Alice Eleanor Bowsfield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Bowsfield, 48 Gillett avenue, who have lived in East Ham for twenty-one years, was married to Harry Rhodes, a member of the Canadian division of the British expeditionary force in France.
