VOLUME 101.

It was in the West — one corner of the Canaddian West—which old people—in other words, the married people—were to give a concert in the school house. The youngsters had their chance the west hadre, but this was to outshine anything and everything ever given in the little prairie settlement where the roses bloom for months and the wind blows stways and forever.

Buch a mixture of talent! The tall young homesteader who came from Los Angeles, the ansal-twanged Yankee from Vermont, the tall, gaunt Minnesotan who came 'Me, He Like 'Melican Man,' and who swore always that it was impossible for a man who drank hleak tes to be a Christian or tell the truth! There were blonds Notwegians and bionder Swedes, people from Eastern Canada, folks from Missouri, and all the varied conglomerate terminsting in a colored woman, who came straight from New Tork City, and whose husband abwars avered that he hinnelf was the meanest kind of a mean mixture—Merican, Spanish, Scotch and Narragansett Indian—a direct descendant of eld King Philip.

After the ceremony of choosing a Chairman, which resulted in the selection of title and the sing in German by Mrs. Gross. It was unintelligible, of course, to most of the audience, but the tune was the old hymn, 'Mercy is Free,' so we took it for granted the words meant the same then that he assured us was "The Boy Stood on the Burning Deck." It was a rolling, roaring, crashing succession of consonants, delivered in a mighty voice, and received prolonged appliants. Olaf 's repertoire being exhausted, he responded with an encore by recting the same thing, to the catire extisfaction of everybody. The shittish mother of nine children next rendered a ditty, in which she warbled gaily of the brids, but it took with a streeth of imacination to recontendent of the same thing, to the order of missing but to be write a streeth of imacination to recontendent of the wine a streeth of imacination to recontendent of the same thing, to the order of missing but the order.

which are considered as the control of the children next rendered a ditty, in which she warbled gaily of the birds, but it took quite a stretch of imagination to reconcile her ample proportions and discordant voice with anything bird-life. She was followed by a prosperous farmer from Iowa, who sang, 'Honey, You Look Awful Good to Me.' His wife and two grown-up sons and a daughter of four-teen were in the audience, all ready to guy him unmereifully if he broke down, so Fred went to it, ready to do or die. The schoolmaster accompanied him on the organ, and all went swimmingly to the refrain, when the singer feeling more sure of his ground, began to sing the words very languishingly, casting tender glances at a pretty girl in the audience, just to show his "folks" he could act as well as sing. It went all right till he went to turn the music back to begin the second verse, when he tore the leaves, became excited, and said in a hurried underform the stacher: "Play somen's sake, until I get these "The teacher played Diddle de dump, de point of the second verse, when he tore the leaves, became excited, and said in a hurried underform the stacher: "Play somen's sake, until I get these "The teacher played pliddle de dump, de pliddle de dump, de pliddle de de de pliddle de de de pliddle de de de dialect ended in the little woman being summarily sent to her seat by her lord and master. The Chairman intervesed, and Olat explained: "She haf not got her spees. Grandpa Willetts offered his. The little woman smilingly took her place once again, and they warbled twenty verses of so, Olat leaning over the organ and firs. Olaf peeking over his shoulder whenever she could get a chance to do so, and singing lustily. Later on as old Putch guitessen, small of stature and very dignified, sang with gravity about twenty-seven verses, telling of a cottage by the river. The Alpine Club.

The success of the annual camp of the Alpine Club of Canada at Mount

The success of the annual camp of the Alpine Club of Canada at Mount Robson, this year, has been assured. Latest reports from the director advise that there will be at least 120 people in the camp from all parts of Canada, United States and England.

It is the purpose to hold three separate camps in various beauty spots reund Mount Robson, the monarch of the Canadian Rockies (13,700 feet high), so as to bring the most spectacular portions of Mount Robson Park within the time of the camp.

Mr. A. G. Munm, of England, one of the prominent members of the Alpine Club, of England, will be present, and will bring with him his Swiss guide, Inderbidden.

Botween Canada and Cuba the steamship service was perhaps not all that could be desired, but he could state that arrangements were now under way which would lead to a substantial addition to this service within the very near future.

Two important ways for a woman to avoid disappointment are never to fall in love or put anything in the oven.

But Claiborne snatched the paper from Occar's hand and commanded the man to march sheed of him to the house. So over the meadow and through the pergola they went, across the veranda and into the library. The power of army discipline was upon Occar. If Claiborne had not been an officer he would have run for it in the garden, as it was, he was taxing his with to find some way,out of his predicament. He had not the slightest idea as to what the paper might be. He had risked his life to secure it, and the crumpled, blood stained paper had been taken away from him by a person whom it could not interest in any way whatever.

He blinked under Claiborne's sharp scrutiny as they faced each other in the library.
"You are the man who brought a se back to our stable an hour ago."

"Yes, sir."
"You have been a soldier." "In the cavalry, sir. I have my disharge at home. "Where do you live?"

It was not sealed, and he took out the plain sheet of note paper on which was written: CABLESGRAM. CABLEGRAM.

Armitage spoke with a deliberate sharp decision that was not the tone of a rogue or a fugitive. As he spoke he advanced until he faced Claiborne in the center of the room. Shirley still stood by the window, holding the soiled paper in her hand. She had witnessed the change of the men at the end of the room. It had touched her humor. It had been a joke on her brother, but she felt that the night had brought a "Where is M. Chauvener—nave you any idea?"

Diek sent Oscar to the far end of the library with a gesture and held up the message for Shirley to read.

"Don't touch tit" he exclaimed, and when she nodded her head in sign that she had read it he sald, speaking earnestity and rapidly:

"I suppose I have no right to hold this message; I must send the man to the hotel telegraph office with it. But where is Chauvenet? What is his business in the valley? And what is the link between Vienna and these hills?"

"Don't you know what you are doing here?" she asked, and he flushed.

TORONTO, Aug. 20.—A despatch to the Globe this morning states that serious fires are raging at Loshin, Donald, Harber, and Minden. All these age settlements circling the valley in which Haliburton is situated. Fed by vast areas of sun scorolidated bush and forests which are like tinder, the fires are gradually closing in on Haliburton. They have now reached a point only a mile from the town, and the efforts of those who are battling with them are powerless to stay their advance or change their direction.

Up to the present no great damage has been done to property, with the exception of timber, large tracts of which have been reduced to ashes in the fire awapt districts. The properties of Geo. Barry and and John Bain, which are directly in the path of the advancing fires, are in great danger of being completely destroyed unless the wind veers and changes their direction. The whole country round Haliburton is in imminent danger and at the imercy of the wind. ROCKINGHAM'S FIRST DATA.

"It is always annoying to be obliged to acknowledge a mistake, but we credit our rulers, with statesmanship, enough not to persevere in a blunder when they once understand that a blunder has been made. "In an example in a matter where our course is so straight and plain, it has been given to us by Canada and by Australia. The British Government began by refusing to take part in the St. Louis exposition, then promised a little help, and finally took an active part in the work with excellent results.

from them. The Halifax team has been playing exceptionally good ball in the field, but are weak at the bat, but hope to show to better advantage in this department in the coming series. Halifax will be strengthened by the addition of DeVinney, New Glasgow's pitcher, who made such a favorable impression with the Halifax fans while playing here with his team early in the season. Friday's game will attart at 4'clock. DeVinney will probably be sent in to pitch for Halifax.

HOW THAW WAS CAUGHT.

Miscellaneous matters dealt with at when the matter in connection with the motorman of a tram car not stopping for a fire engine was investigated in so far as it concerned the two policemen who were on ward in the jail of this little border town, and this morning, at the urgent telegraphic demands of his family, retained new io counsel to fight deportation to the United States. George Lauder Carnegle, his brother-in-law, wired during the night that he was hurrying here with Thaw's sister, Margaret, and cautioned Thaw to delay all proceedings, if possible, pending his arrival. Meantime Chae, D. White, recommended to the Thaw family his arrival. Meantime Chae, D. White, recommended to the Thaw family as Sherbrooke's most astate lawyer. has taken charge of the case, and at Thaw's arraignment before a Commission to day was expected to ask for an adjournment of the proceedings.

The question of insanity was not embodied in the commitment which brings Thaw before the immigration authorities here. He is held merely as a fugitive from the penituentary at Matteawan, where he was confined on a criminal charge for life. Thaw himself was quick to see the chances for fighting deportation on such grounde, for at Matteawan he was charged with nothing, being held as a lunafte acquitted of the White murder. Along such lines it was expected his lawyers would seek to bar deportation to New York State.

The Jimmigration officials it was said, were aware of this-loop hele in the commitment and were considering the advisibility of changing the charge. However, should they deport him simply as an undesirable allen—a lunatio—it might mean his entering the United States vis some other State than New York, and this would invoke protracted extradition proceedings within that State, the outcome of which would be doubtful.

Since his arrival here, Thaw money has poured into Sherbrooke and Dr. Burgess, an alleniat has been tentatively engaged. Thaw will welcome any test of his sanity it is said, as indicated last night in his statement quoting William Travers Jerowe, formerly Dist. Attorney of New York to the effect that he (Thaw) was a sana erator.

A letter from Mr. Easingwood in reference to the incinerator was filed, as Engineer McCleave had not yet reported on the sally. See the Wahl Adder and Subtract

TWO CLAIM REWARD.

MATTEWAN, N. Y., August 20.—There are now two claimants for the reward of 1800 offered by Superintendent Kieb, of the Mattewan Hospital, for the capture of Thaw. The second claim was put in today by John Boudresu, Chief of Police at Coaticooks, Quebea. The first claimant was B. H. Kelsey, the New Hampshire Sheriff, who discovered Thaw's identity.

MEXICAN NEGOTIATIONS

New Viyella Flannels Just Opened

VIYELLA, to those who know, has become almost a

To those who don't know, we might say that VIYELLA is the name of an English flannel; a fine-twilled, soft-finished, durable fabric with just enough cotton in it to keep it from shrinking.

Its coming reminds us of cooler days, almost here.

What is it used for? Any or all of the following garments

For Women Shirt Waists Golf and Tennis Suits

Dressing Gowns Children's Garments

For Men Shirts Golf and Tennis Suits Pyjamas Tailor's Linings, etc.

If carefully washed it will neither shrink nor fade, and it will retain its soft finish even after repeated washings.

It comes in all the newest delicate shades and colorings for the eason, including plain colors and stripes. Here are the plain colors :

The stripes :-Cream grounds striped in pale blue, mauve, reseda, tan, grey, black. Old blue, green, navy, black, striped white.

Several combinations of blue and grey; dull, soft greeny-blue tints variously striped in brown, reseda, old blue and white. Stripes pin and crayon width, dotted and solid, close together and far apart, singly and in combination Width, 30 and 31 Inches. Prices, 60c. and 65c. the yard.

HALIFAX PEOPLE SHOULD PREPARE FOR OUR GREAT EXHIBITION

THE PROVINCIAL EXHIBITION WILL SOON BE UPON US, AND WE MUST BE READY FOR IT TO MAKE THE MOST OF THE SPLENDID SHOW::

EVERYBODY KNOWS THE DATES --- SEPT. 3rd to 11th.

Everybody should know also that the Exhibition will be on a grander scale than before. The field of HORSES for the racing will be surprisingly fine; the flights by the TWO AVIATORS on the mighty aeroplane will be thrilling; the VAUDEVILLE and FIREWORKS, by day and night, will be superb, and the EXHIBITION ITSELF will be magnificent in all departments.

Immense throngs from the City and Country should and will see the GREAT 1913 PROVINCIAL EXHIBITION.

The popular member of the British Parliament who left bank notes to the value of £65 in a taxi-cab recently, and had them returned by a friend who fortunately proved to be the next fare, has had good luck which is denied to many. On discovering his loss the M.P. communicated with Scotland Yard, but before the police could reply he received a telegram from his friend apprising him that he had found on the seat of a taxi-cab which he had hired not only the bank notes, but papers which showed the identity of the owner.

The new Poet Laureate has been par-icularly successful in the writing of des. The following is from that writ-

The sea with melancholy war Moateth about our castled shore; His world-wide elemental moan Girdeth our lives with tragic sons.

Yet shall his storm and mastering wave
Assure the Empire to the brave;
And to his billowy base belongs
The music of our patriot songs,
When to the wind his ridges go
In furious following, careering a-row,
Lasht with hall and withering snow;
And ever undaunted hearts outride
His rushing waters wide.

The beauty of his masques, too, compares well with that of the greatest of this form of expression, and his epic, "Eros and Psyche," is distinguished for delightful melody. His lyrie gift is also remarkable. We quote the following from Shorter Poems, Book I.:

I heard a linnet courting His indy in the spring; His mates were idly sporting Nor stayed to hear him sing His song of love— I fear my speech distorting His tender love

The phrases of his pleading Were full of young delight; And she that gave him heeding Interpreted aright His gay, sweet notes— So sadly marred in the reading His tender notes.

And when he ceased, the hearer Awaited the refrain,

sang his song again,
His pretty song—

Mr. Gilbert Jessop, the popular Glouchestershire cricketer, is well known, of course, for his remarkable batting powers, but, perhaps, his greatest achievement was the score of 191 which he made when playing for the Gentlemen of the South against the Players of the South at Hastings in 1907. Mr. Jessop compiled this score in ninety minutes, and, during his innings, he actually scored 26 runs off one over sent down by A. E. Belf.

At Brighton, however, in 1911, Alletson, while playing for Notts against the home county, closely rivalled this performance. In fact, he made 189 runs in exactly the same time which Mr. Jessop took to make 191—and this despite the fact that Alletson was at the wickets for an hour before he had scored fifty runs.

But for sheer hitting, Mr. Hyman's achievement in 1902 is likely to remain long unbroken. Playing for Bath Association against Thornbury, Mr. Hyman actually made 359 cut of the 466 runs which were scored during the hundred minutes he spent at the wickets. And at the end of that time Mr. Hyman was still not out! But this, of course, was not a first-class match. Oricket Worth Watching.

DIPPING THE PLAG

This form of salute has always been demanded by English speaking seamen, and its exaction has burned the hearts and the powder of generations of naval commanders.

In the old days for a foreign ship, whether merchant or naval, to enter an English port without veiling topsalls or dipping its national flag was to run the risk of war, although the profoundest peace existed. foundest peace existed.

Without warning or argument the

Without warning or argument the shore defenses or a man of war would send a round shot across the bows or between the masts of the foreigner, and if the oftending flag did not instantly come down the insolent intruder was brought to her senses by being raked through and through.

Such was the reception accorded by Sir John Hawkins in the differenth century to the Spanish admiral who, in time of peace, sailed into Portsmouth sound without veiling his topsails or lowering his flag. D. A. R. $21.55 lowering his flag.

Salutes are essential matters of naval etiquette and are exchanged on an elaborate code fixed by the maritime powers. The number of guns to be fired under all circumstances is minutely stipulated.—Harper's Weekly.

CHANGES IN WORDS. How, For Instance, "Boor" Was Trans

Word building is as much a piece of arpentry as is house building; only it takes longer, sometimes a century or more, and by that time the word's first meaning is usually changed.

For example, the 'old word for "neighbor" was "sib." One's good neighbor was known as one's "good slb." This became shortened to "god-slb" and later to "gossip." Then the word's whole meaning changed and gossip no longer meant good neighbor, out applied to the sort of talk ex-hanged between good neighbors. Take the word "farmer," too. The old word for farmer was "boor." And "boor" later was used for describing farmer-like or rough persons. The farmer lizing nearest to one was known as the "nighboor," and this phrase in course of time was twisted to "neigh-

You've heard the proverb "Little pitchers have big ears." Well, it doesn't refer to the utensil that holds water or goes to the corner side door. "Pitcher" was a slang term with some such meaning as our word "chap" or "fellow." Thus "Little fellows have big ears" is a more sensible rendering of the proverb.—Chicago Journal.

Foxes as a rule are treacherous and shy, yet I soon found that they responded to gentle treatment and affec-tion. I became quite friendly with four foxes and used to go in and out of their cage several times a day and invariably took with me a handful of raisins. I found they were very fond of any sweet fruit, especially raisins, and it was not long before they would eat them freely from my hand. At first I had to approach cautiously and not dare to attempt to place my hand on them. But by and by I petted them almost as freely as I would a dog, and they ceased to show any fear in my presence.
