THE following amplification of the "House that Jack built," first appeared in the New Orleans Picayune. It is a clever hit at the pedantry which displays itself in the use of long, far-fetched words, and round-about forms of expression, where simple language would not only be more effective, but more elegant:—

THE DOMICILE ERECTED BY JOHN.
Behold the mansion erected by dadal Jack!

See the malt stored in many a plethoric sack,
In the prond cirque of Ivan's bivouac.
Mark how the rat's felonious fangs invade
The golden stores in John's pavilion laid.

Anon with velvet foot and Tarquin strides,
Subtle Grimalkin to his quarry glides,
Grimalkin grim, that slew the fierce rodent
Whose tooth insidious Johan's sackcloth rent!

Lo! now the deep-mouthed canine foe's assault,
That vexed the avenger of the stolen malt
Stored in the stolen precincts of that hall
That rose complete at Jack's creative call.

Here stalks the impetuous cow with crumpled horn,
Whereon the exacerbating hound was torn,
Who bayed the feline slaughter-beast that slew
The rat predaecous, whose keen fangs ran thro'
The textile fibres that involved the grain
That lay in Han's inviolate domain.

Here walks the forlorn damsel, crowned with rue,
Lactiferous spoils from vaccine dogs who drew
Of that cornuculate beast whose tortuous horn
Tossed to the clouds, in fierce, vindictive scorn,
Ehe bayed hound, whose braggart bark and stir
Arched the little spine and reared the indignant

Of puss, that with verminicidal claw
Struck the weird rat in whose insatiate maw
Lay reeking malt that erst in Juan's courts we

Robed in senescent garb that seems, in sooth,
Too long a prey to Chrono's iron tooth,
Behold the man, whose amorous lips incline
Full with young Eros' osculative sign.

To the lorn maiden, whose lact-albic hands
Drew albu-lactic wealth from lacteal glands
Of that immortal bovine, by whose horn
Distort to realms ethereal was borne
The beast catulean, vexer of that sly
Ulysses quadrupedal, who made die
The old mordacious rat that dared devour
Antecedaneous al in John's domestic bower.

Lo! here, with hirsute honours doffed, succinct
Of saponaceous locks, the priest who linked
In Hymen's golden bands the man unthrifit,
Whose means exiguous stared from many a rift.
Even as he kissed the virgin all forlorn,
Who milked the cow with implicated horn,
Who in fierce wrath the canine torturer skied,
That dared to vex the insidious muricide,
Who let anroral affluence through the pett
Of that sly rat that robbed the palace that Jack

The loud catankerous Shanghai comes at last,
Whose shouts aroused the shorn ecclesiast,
Who sealed the vows of Hymen's sacrament
To him who, robed in garments indigent,
Exosculates the damsel lachrymose,
The emulgator of the horned brute morose,
That tossed the dog, that worried the cat, that Kilt the rat, that ate the malt, that lay in the house that Jack built.

AIR AND WATER.

The best medicines in the world are often the cheapest; but because they are cheap, they are not considered so estimable. This is a marked and peculiar fact. Fresh air and pure water are medicines infinitely more efficacious in common disorders than all the compounds set down in the pharmacopeia; and yet if we were not compelled by circumstances to make so much use of both, how little should we take of either? Those who are confined to the house, and are but rarely permitted to enjoy the fresh air, are deeply to be pitied. So are they whose unfortunate habits or whose place of residence robs them of the chance of frequent abluition. They need not be surprised at their lack of health and unprepossessing appearance. How could it be otherwise with them? On the contrary, those who indulge in fresh air and frequent bathing in pure water, cannot very well possess anything but an appearance of hearty enjoyment; for rarely can they need a physician except nature, or an apothecary except the cook!

And yet we have always had an idea that even fresh air and water, like all other good things, may be indulged in too much for perfect health. This may sound like heresy; but it is still a fact that town folks who do liberally indulge themselves with fresh air and water, but cannot be all times invoking that indulgence, preserve their good looks, as well as their good health, more remarkably than country folks, who are always in the open air, and have an abundance of water. Those who live altogether in the open air grow hardy, it is true, but they also grow coarse in feature and complexion. Country life is not an auxiliary to beauty. That is evident. Neither is town life. But the latter, when mixed with just enough of the former to give the "fresh air" demanded for health, produces the utmost point of perfection. So, too, with water. Bathing every day is not as useful as bathing twice a week; and the man or woman who bathes two or three times a day soon assumes a pale, bloodless, cadaverous look, which it would be nonsense to call attractive—while those who only bathe often enough to keep the pores of the skin cleansed and in active order, have that fresh, glowing, solid look, which no one will admit is unprepossessing! The one is water-soaked; the other is washed clean only. In short, as we said before, fresh air and water are nature's own medicines, and the best in the world; but he who is perpetually physicking himself—even with air and water—is no better off than he who is ever doing the same with calomel, salts, oil, senna, or sarsaparilla. Moderation is the rule in all things.

A TOUCHING GIFT.—In a bale of promiscuous clothing lately received in Manchester for distribution among the distressed operatives, from some place, the name of which is not given, there was found a boy's Scotch cap. In the cap was a letter addressed: "For an orphan or motherless boy." On opening the letter a shilling was found enclosed, and the following touching words: "May the youthful wearer of this cap meet its owner in Heaven. He was beautiful and good, and was removed by an accident from this world to a better. A weeping mother's blessing be on the future wearer of her bright boy's cap."

A SOLDIER of the Empire has been found near Montreal; his name is Guillaume; he took part in several battles under Napoleon I, and has just received the St. Helena Medal.

The Evening Despatch.

SAINT JOHN, N. B.:
WEDNESDAY, APRIL 1, 1863.

MR. TILLEY'S SPEECH ON THE INTERCOLONIAL RAILWAY.

We should have preferred to publish this masterly speech in full, as it appears in the Globe and Morning News; but regret that the space at our disposal is too limited for that purpose. Much against our wish, we have been obliged to leave out many interesting statements and references in illustration of Mr. Tilley's arguments, and we can but give a few of the most important portions on the present occasion.

The PROVINCIAL SECRETARY said he would proceed to show why the Bill then in the Chairman's hands should not be postponed for three months as proposed by the hon. member for St. John (Mr. Cudlip). The proposal to construct an Intercolonial Railway had been frequently discussed by the Legislature of New Brunswick, and carefully considered from time to time by a large portion of the inhabitants of the Province, and with a uniform result. He would proceed to trace these proceedings from 1846 down to the present date, and he would first read the Resolutions passed by the House of Assembly in 1846, which he read. The first resolution was passed with but one, the second with but two defaulting voices, and the third by a vote of 21 yeas and 5 nays.

The following is the Resolution:—
"That the House, viewing the establishment of such Railway as a measure of the greatest importance to these Colonies, both politically and commercially will not be behindhand with their fellow subjects, the people of Canada and Nova Scotia, in making such provision both from the public funds and lands as the resources will warrant."

Mr. Tilley then read the resolutions referred to, and also a minute of council from the journals of 1849, recommending the measure to the Imperial Government:—

In 1850 an address passed the Assembly, and $20,000 a year and 2,000,000 acres of land were appropriated. This land was worth at least half a dollar per acre, in value £250,000. The interest on this sum would be £15,000 per annum, with the grant, making a contribution of £35,000 a year towards the Intercolonial Railway. In 1852 the Legislature agreed to assume five-twelfths of the cost of a Railway from Halifax to Quebec, Canada to pay four-twelfths, and Nova Scotia three-twelfths. The cost of the road was estimated at £5,000,000, making the portion of the expense to be borne by New Brunswick, £2,083,333, Canada, £1,666,666, Nova Scotia, £1,250,000, and offered at the same time about five miles of the ungranted land on each side of the Road. In 1858, an address passed both branches of the Legislature, renewing former pledges of assistance to the full extent of the means of the Province in money and land, which addresses was also accompanied by a strong minute of Council, pressing the subject upon the attention of Her Majesty's Government. During the same year Messrs. Fisher and Smith were appointed delegates to proceed to England to act in concert with delegates from Canada and Nova Scotia, to obtain assistance from the Imperial Government towards this Railway.

Mr. Tilley then enlarged upon these topics, and stated that in 1859 a joint address to Her Majesty was again passed by both branches of the Legislature, renewing the former pledges. He then referred to the proceedings at Quebec, when the delegates were assembled there in 1861, and to the subsequent negotiations with the British Government. He spoke in eulogistic terms of the spirit evinced by that government, and of the liberal offer now made:—

If they were to build Railways under any other arrangement, say by borrowing money upon their own credit, they could not construct over from 50 to 60 miles by the annual expenditure of a like sum. In this case Canada paid five-twelfths of the cost. Nova Scotia also built a portion of the Road in this province, and with money at but little over half the interest they would pay upon their own Debentures, they would be enabled to get 240 miles of Railway at a very small cost to the province. There was not a man in the House who supposed for a moment that the link necessary to connect the Nova Scotia and New Brunswick Railways would not one day be built. The completion of that Road from the Nova Scotia boundary to the E. & N. A. line would cost £350,000, the interest upon which at the rate the province now pays for money, would be £21,000. £14,000 additional, under the proposal of the Duke of Newcastle, and the arrangements with the Canadian and Nova Scotia Governments, would give not only the Nova Scotia connection, but 200 miles additional in N. W. Brunswick, and connection with Canada also. Who, he asked, then could resist such an offer? To his mind, the question was not debatable. It might be asked, however, how do you propose to meet this increased liability of £30,000, and can it be done without oppressing the people? He would show how it could be done, and he believed, without adding to the amount now collected per head from the present inhabitants. He then went into calculations upon that subject at some length. He said that five years would be required for the surveys and construction of the road, and he believed the increased Revenue, caused by so large an expenditure of money, and the increase of population, during its construction, together with the increased earnings of the present road after the link was completed between Truro and Shediac, would enable the government to meet the interest during construction. The following are the calculations read by him:—

Average interest per annum during construction, $86,100
To meet this the average increase of population based upon the increase of the past ten years will, at $2.25 per head, give	$18,230 per an.
Additional imports paying 15 per cent duty on, say $400,000	60,000 "
Increased net earnings of the Road from connection with Nova Scotia during three years of that time, and additional business upon balance, average	13,000 "
	$96,230.
Leaving a balance of $10,130 for general purposes.
The interest when the Road is completed will amount to, say,	$147,000 per an.
At a low estimate, the population will at that time have increased 62,500, that, at $2.25 each, give	140,622 "
The net profits of the present road as the result of the connection with Canada, and Nova Scotia, can not be less than	60,000 "
Total,	$20,022
Leaving for Roads, Education, &c., for the additional population, $53,000. This he believed was a moderate estimate, and would be so considered by the House. Some persons had asked, how can you raise the means to pay the interest out of the country? Will you not have to send gold out of the country for that purpose, and thus impoverish it? That question could be easily answered. Liabilities abroad were paid in exports. If these were sufficient to pay for imports and interest on the debt there could be no difficulty; and he was prepared to show that this additional interest would more than be met by the increase of exports and diminution of imports, the result of the construction of the proposed Railway.

Mr. Tilley then stated that the policy of the government would be to induce people to come and settle along the line of the Railway, and mentioned a proposition he had just received from England to purchase upon the line upwards of 500,000 acres for actual settlement. He referred to the probable increase of agricultural produce, by reason of the increase of the country population,—to the diminishing of the importation of what produce is now imported,—to the facilities the Railway would afford for getting lumber from the woods to markets,—to the advantages which would accrue to New Brunswick from the opening up of an extensive trade with Canada and Nova Scotia; and urged the importance of free commercial, social and political intercourse with our sister provinces. He then combated, with crushing force, the objections urged in the previous day by the ex-Attorney Gen. Smith, especially those relating to our roads and to education, and showed, on the other hand, the numerous benefits likely to ensue from this great undertaking:—

He had but briefly referred to some of the advantages that might be anticipated from the construction of the Railway. As yet he had not touched upon one that he considered of vital importance to all these Provinces. He referred to the means of defence that it would afford in the event of a war between Great Britain and the United States. He trusted that such a calamity might never befall either country, but the occurrences of the last two years had shown how suddenly the peaceful relations between the two countries may be disturbed. In the event of war what would the position of these Colonies be, with a dozen of Railways from different points in the United States terminating on the borders of Canada, and no Railway connecting these Provinces by which Troops can be transmitted in winter, without delay, for the relief of the menaced points? The issue cannot be doubtful. If we wish to maintain our connection with the Parent State, and who is there in New Brunswick, he would ask, that does not, then that connection will be most effectually secured by the construction of this Railway. We have had evidence that cannot be denied, that for the preservation of these Colonies, and for the protection of the lives and property of its inhabitants, England has shown her willingness to shed her best blood and scatter unstintingly her treasure. Under such circumstances, will this House say, will the country say, that we are not to tax our abilities to the utmost, if need be, to carry to a successful issue, a work that guarantees so many local, and at the same time secures such large national advantages. He could not believe for a moment that the Legislature would pursue so suicidal a course.

He had heard it said that in pressing this matter upon the attention of the House, the Government of New Brunswick were premature; he thought differently. One part of the agreement with the Imperial Government was that Bills should be immediately submitted to the several Legislatures. It was the duty of this Government to fulfil their part of the contract, without waiting to see what course any one of the other colonies pursued. He believed Nova Scotia would take action upon this subject. The Government of Canada had not abandoned it; and legislation had in the Lower Provinces, he did not think that Canada would long remain the obstacle to the completion of this to them all important means of connection with British territory with the sea. Suppose Canada took no action in this matter, what will it cost us? Nothing but the time spent in discussing it, and that will not have been time lost. The advantage of legislation this Session in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick is, that we will preserve the offer made by the British Government, and our action will in the estimation of the friends of the measure in Canada, aid them. Then what excuse can the friends of the measure in this House give for opposing it now? None whatever.

The Provincial Secretary concluded by urging the House not to reject the proposition.

sent offer. If declined they would probably never have so good an offer made again; as it is, the proposition will meet with strong opposition in Parliament. These guarantees are far from popular with a large portion of the people of England. He concluded by moving as an amendment to Mr. Cudlip's Resolution that the Bill be read.

MELODEON FOR SALE:

FIVE OCTAVES, PIANO STYLE, and in perfect order. Warranted.
JOHN S. ROWE, 94 Prince William street. March 31.

AND FOR SALE BY F. A. COSGROVE.
THESE SKIRTS have now been brought to such a state of perfection that the manufacturer unhesitatingly offers them to the public, believing that they possess more of the desirable qualities sought for, than any other Skirt in the market, and is confident that they will give entire satisfaction to all who wear them. By the use of Joints in the Hoops of the Skirt, a heavier and better quality of steel can be used, giving to, and retaining in the Skirt a more Graceful and Elegant Form; while the Flexibility of the Joints permits the Skirt to assume an Easy and Graceful Position when the Wearer is Seated! prevents the breaking of the Hoops under pressure—also that permanent flattening of the Skirt so objectionable and universal—always allowing the Skirt to return to its original form when the pressure is removed. The quality of Braid and the peculiar construction of the Skirt adding so greatly to its durability, particularly commend it to the favour of those who desire to unite in their purchase, elegance, convenience, and economy.
March 30. F. A. COSGROVE.

THE AMERICAN WAR.

By Telegraph.

BANGOR, March 31st, 1863.

Times Washington despatch says information from Fort Monroe indicates that Confederate Government were moving from Richmond all military supplies, and were keeping only a show of strength at Fredericksburg. Gen. Dix believes this, and so informed the Washington authorities. Gen. Hooker affirms, however, that with the exception of Longstreet's withdrawal, Lee's whole army is now encamped in the rear of Fredericksburg in full force.

A Hilton Head letter says that Beauregard, through a flag of truce, demanded the surrender of the Mercidita and Key-stone State, which, he says, were captured January 31st.

Reported that the 6th Connecticut and 8th Maine Regiments, arrived at Jacksonville to reinforce negro troops. The negroes drove the Confederates several miles from their positions.

Three regiments of Georgians marching on Jacksonville.

BY SPECIAL TELEGRAPH TO THE Evening Despatch.

WEDNESDAY, April 1.

The evacuation of Richmond is still asserted as probable.

The Confederate officers having taken the oath of allegiance, declare that it will produce a mutiny in every Virginia regiment.

A Cairo despatch says that on Wednesday the Rams Steinbock and Lawrence attempted to run Vicksburg: the former was disabled, and the latter sunk.

Gen. Sherman's Expedition to the rear of Haine's Bluff, is reported to have returned to Young's Point.

A Chattanooga despatch says that Gen. Forrest captured eight hundred Federals near Franklin, Tenn., on Tuesday.

Heavy firing was heard on Tuesday in the vicinity of Charleston, which was supposed to be from an attack on the batteries at Stone Inlet.

The Confederates are reported fortifying Chattanooga, and over fifty guns are in position.

BY TELEGRAPH. THE LEGISLATURE

FREDERICKTON, March 31. AFTERNOON.

W. J. Gilbert gave notice of a motion recommending the Board of Agriculture to hold their next Exhibition at some point on the line of Railroad.

Fisher resumed at 2.30. Recapitulated former arguments. Had deliberately come to the conclusion that rather than lose the present chance, better let the British Government decide the route. He would prefer that it had been defined in the bill. He dilated on the greatness of building a Road from our own resources.

At 4 Cudlip took the floor. He thought if we got the railroad we would be like the man and the elephant. We should have had the selection of the route. We should have more experience with the present road. Condemned this as a "go it blind" Parliament. It would be a dear way of colonizing the province.

Stevens followed. Not finished. Making an eloquent and forcible appeal in favor of the bill. Debate adjourned till 12 to-morrow, and House adjourned at 5.30.

FREDERICKTON, April 1.

Dow introduced a Bill to impose a tax for expenses of a recent public celebration. Cudlip's resolution for committee of enquiring into affairs of Charlotte County Bank negatived.

The House was the remainder of the morning in Committee reconsidering a Bill taxing the Citizens of Fredericksburg for certain expenses incurred at the Prince of Wales's celebration. Smith, Johnson, Allen, Fisher and Gilmor, opposed the repeal of the sections. Dow, Hatheway and Steadman in favor of them. The Bill finally passed with an amendment reducing the amount from $2,000 to $1,400. The arguments were that the Committee incurring expenses exceeded their authority, and that the expenditure in many instances, was for their own individual benefit.

Anglin introduced a bill to incorporate the Pleasure Ground Association.

ACCIDENT.—We learn from the Globe that on Monday a young man named Toomey, a mason by trade, fell off the roof of a two-story house in Carleton, to the wooden pavement below, a distance of at least twenty feet, and broke his leg and otherwise injured himself severely.

To the Electors of the City and County of St. John.

GENTLEMEN.—On Tuesday, 5th May next, I shall be in Nomination for the office of MAYOR. Should I receive a majority of your votes, my best abilities coupled with my past experience in that office, shall be devoted to the financial, ornamental and progressive interests of the City.

Respectfully soliciting your support, I have the honour to be, Gentlemen, Your most obedient servant, W. O. SMITH.

THE ATLANTIC MONTHLY.

BEGINNING OF A NEW VOLUME.

THE number for JANUARY, 1863, begins the 11th volume of the ATLANTIC MONTHLY. From the commencement, in 1857, the "Atlantic" has rapidly increased in circulation, and it now has the largest class of readers since its beginning, five years ago. Its prosperity steadily augments, and it continues, amid all the fluctuations and dangers incident to our nation at crisis, to gain ground in the estimation of the public. At a time so pregnant with events which touch the future destinies of America in every vital particular, the Publishers and Editors do not deem it necessary to promise that its pages will never swerve from the honest paths of loyal patriotism and universal freedom. Its opinions have always been on the side of Liberty, Progress, and Right, and the course it first adopted in its early career, will ever be faithfully maintained.

The Staff of Writers, regularly contributing to the ATLANTIC MONTHLY, embraces all the best known authors in American literature, and warrants the Publishers in promising to its readers

THE BEST ESSAYS, THE BEST STORIES, THE BEST POEMS, which American talent can furnish.

LIST OF REGULAR CONTRIBUTORS.

In Prose and Poetry the "Atlantic" Staff of Writers is unequalled. The following authors are still among the regular contributors:—James Russell Lowell, Henry W. Longfellow, Louis Agassiz, Ralph Waldo Emerson, Nathaniel Hawthorne, C. C. Hazewell, T. W. Higginson, Author "Margret Howth", Mrs. Julia W. Howe, Mrs. A. D. T. Whitney, Oliver W. Holmes, John G. Whittier, E. P. Whipple, Bayard Taylor, Charles E. Norton, George S. Hillard, Henry Giles, Waiter Mitchell, Henry T. Tuckerman, John Weiss, Mrs. H. B. Stowe, Harriet Martineau, Charles Reade, "The Country Parson", Rose Terry, Harriet E. Prescott, Robert T. S. Lowell, J. T. Frowbridge, Edward Everett, Professor A. D. White.

The foregoing list of contributors includes "The leading Writers of America."

TERMS.—The ATLANTIC is for sale by all Book and Periodical Dealers. Price 25 cents a number. Subscriptions for the year, $3.00, postage paid. Yearly subscriptions received, or single numbers supplied by any dealer, or by the Publishers. Specimen numbers sent GRATIS on application to the Publishers.

Inducements for Subscribing. List of premiums, &c., furnished on application to the Publishers.

TICKNOR & FIELDS, 135 Washington St., Boston, Mass.

MULTUM-IN-FARVO.

THE RAILWAY SUPERINTENDENT.—Our contemporaries the Courier and Colonial Presbyterian have recently called attention to the fact of the very efficient manner in which Mr. Carvill discharges his duties as Chief Superintendent on the E. & N. A. Railway. We heartily join with the Courier and Presbyterian in commendation of a faithful and hard worked official, and must with them express a regret that his services should be so miserably required: his ability as shown in the admirable management of the road—in the regular running of the trains especially,—is well-known and everywhere admitted, and why should the government pay him such an inadequate salary? But there are other instances in this province in which public officers are under paid through a "penny wise and pound foolish" policy, and it is quite time that there should be a reform in this particular.

THE shock of the earthquake which occurred on the North Shore a few days ago was very distinctly felt in Richibucto. A correspondent of the Gleaner says that he was roused from sleep by the shock about 4 1/2 o'clock, and that "the house was shaking and the stove in the room made quite a clatter. I thought for a moment that there was a heavy gale of wind blowing, for it sounded like that a short time, and then all was still."

IMPROVEMENT OF CHATHAM.—A list of new buildings in process of construction in Chatham appears in the last Gleaner. The Freemasons have erected a capacious hall, several large stores and dwelling houses are already under way, while others are talked of as soon to be commenced. The congregation of St. Andrew's Kirk, belonging to the Established Church of Scotland have decided to build a new kirk in the course of next summer.

WE observe that Mr. F. A. Jones, Instructor of Calisthenics, has returned to this city; and we hear that a movement is on foot for the construction of a Gymnasium.

THOSE who read the extracts in the News this morning from the London Times descriptive of the Royal Wedding which was solemnized at St. George's Chapel, Windsor, on the 10th March, must have experienced a glow of pride swelling within their breasts while they thanked Providence that they were subjects of that widowed Queen whose son they honour and love.

A FURTHER remittance of £525 stg. was sent by mail to England yesterday by Wm. Thomson, Esq., Treasurer for the Lancashire Relief Committee in this province.

W. P. DOLE, Esq., delivered the closing lecture of the course at the Mechanics' Institute on Monday evening. He reviewed the various lectures of the season, and, we hear acquitted himself, we hear, most creditably.

[From the Maine Farmer.]
SEASONABLE SUGGESTIONS.
 * * * It will soon be time for "active field operations" on the part of farmers. We herewith throw out a few hints about certain jobs which can be performed before that time comes.

FIRE WOOD.—The preparation of fuel is one of the most important operations at this season. * * * * * Cut and split now and immediately placed under cover, or compactly piled up and covered over with boards, it will thoroughly season and form fuel of the best quality. A great saving in the labor of preparing it can be effected, if a simple arrangement is made for sawing it in the desired lengths by means of a horse-power. Several neighbors could jointly enter into such an arrangement, performing the work in turn and thereby saving much time.

REPAIRS ON BUILDINGS, and the erection of new ones, is a work, the preparation of which can be entered upon now. The collection of materials, such as lumber, brick, cement and whatever else is wanted, can be better attended to now than when the work of building has already been commenced. In building, a well considered plan is of the first importance, and the various agricultural journals, together with some popular work on domestic architecture will furnish great aid in this particular. To know what is wanted, is a first essential, and a plan furnishes the best means of arriving at it. Without it, the work is done in a blind, haphazard manner—with it the thing is accomplished at once and at less cost than where no plan has been followed.

TOOLS AND IMPLEMENTS.—Farm implements and tools, wanted for spring work should be looked after and put in working order. Many of these may need repairing and if you have a tool house and are familiar with working them, such jobs can be done on your own premises and thereby save the trouble of taking them to the village mechanic, and the cost of paying him. Some may want an extra coat of paint, which should be put on now, so as to get thoroughly dried in before the time for using them. We wonder that implements and tools are not oftener painted, especially such as are used much and exposed to the weather, including rakes, plows, harrows, cultivators, spades and shovels, cart wheels and farm wagons.—They would last longer and thus save many a hard earned dollar. A light colored paint—yellow ochre for instance—will become less heated in sunshine, and consequently wear longer, than one of a darker color. There is a less number of men to perform the work of farming than formerly, and hence the need of labor-saving implements and machines. These, if not already on hand, should at once be purchased, that their aid may be brought into requisition.

FENCING MATERIALS can be prepared and hauled to their desired places, upon the spring crusts. Posts may also be mortised and stakes and caps for bunk fence fitted for use. A better time than the present, or after the fire wood is prepared, cannot be had for doing this.

AN ELOQUENT EXTRACT.—Generation after generation have felt as now we feel, and their lives were as active as our own. The heavens shall be as bright over our graves as they are around our paths. Yet a little while and all this shall have happened. The throbbing heart will be stilled, and we shall be at rest. Our funeral will wend its way, and the prayers will be said, and we shall be left in the darkness and silence of the tomb. And it may be but for a short time we shall be spoken of—but the things of life shall creep on, and our names will be forgotten. Days will continue to move on, and laughter and songs will be heard in the room where we died; and the eye that mourned for us will be dried and animated with joy, and even our children will cease to think of us, and will remember to kiss our names no more.

READER, did you know that every column of a newspaper contains from ten to twenty thousand distinct pieces of metal, the misplacing of any one of which would cause a blunder, or typographical error? With this curious fact before you, don't you wonder at the general accuracy of newspapers? Knowing this to be the fact, you will be more disposed, we hope, to excuse than magnify errors of the press.
