

LIBERAL SENATE CAUCUS ASKS APPEAL TO PEOPLE ELECTION ALMOST SURE

Government Is Preparing For a Flag-Waving Campaign—Election Will Take Place in September—Debate Starts Next Week.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Ottawa, May 21.—That there will be an election seems almost certain. The Government is making preparations to go to the country should the Senate defer giving effect to the naval bill until there has been an appeal to the people. It will be a flag-waving campaign.

LIBERAL SENATORS IN CAUCUS.
This morning there was a caucus of Liberal senators which was presided over by Sir George Ross, and attended by all the Liberal members of the Upper House. There was a full and frank discussion of the situation, in which all the phases of the naval issues were dealt with.

It was unanimously decided that the future welfare of Canada and the Empire demanded an expression from the people upon the proposition contained in the bill.

WILL CALL FOR APPEAL TO ELECTORS.

It is understood that there will be offered to the bill an amendment similar to that which Senator Loughheed offered to the Laurier naval bill.

When the Liberal naval bill, providing for the construction of a fleet in Canada came before the Senate in 1910, Hon. Mr. Loughheed, as leader of the Conservative Opposition, offered an amendment, declaring that the bill should not become law until there had been an appeal to the electors at the polls.

DEBATE NEXT WEEK.

While the bill will be called tomorrow for second reading it is understood that second reading will not be proceeded with until Friday, and possibly not until next week, probably on Monday or Tuesday. Hon. Mr. Loughheed will make the motion for second reading, and give the Government's reasons in support of the bill.

Sir George Ross will follow the next day with a statement of the Opposition. The debate is likely to live for the remainder of the week.

GOVERNMENT WILL DISSOLVE HOUSE.

The Government declares that if the Senate holds up the bill it will dissolve Parliament, and bring on a general election.

This will probably come some time in September. In the meantime an effort will be made to further co-operate with Winston Churchill for the development of a new German war scare to strengthen the hands of the Canadian Government in the election, and to convince the electors that there should be financial aid given the British navy.

MESSAGE IN BOTTLE TELLS OF LAKE HURON TRAGEDY

[Canadian Press.]
Goderich, May 21.—A slip of paper picked up by two boys on the shore of Lake Huron near the Point Clark lighthouse, contains the following words, written in pencil: "October 8th, 1912. Gasoline launch Anna Bell, of Sarnia, sinking middle of Lake Huron. John Archie and brother, Tom Alward. Tell father good-bye." The paper was in a tightly corked bottle.

JAP PRESS SAYS DISCRIMINATION MUST BE STOPPED

Foreign Office Has Not Yet Made Any Reply to the United States.

Many Followers of New Association for Maintaining of Jap Individuality.

[Canadian Press.]
Tokyo, Japan, May 21.—The Japanese foreign office has received and is studying the reply of the United States Government to its original protest. In regard to the Californian alien land ownership legislation. It declares that in agreement with Washington the document will not be made public. The officials make no comment on the subject, and no statement as to whether it is satisfactory or not is obtainable in official circles.

The Japanese public apparently is waiting for information before expressing its opinion on the American reply.

Press Views.
In the meantime the press reiterates that the question goes deeper than the ownership of land or the making of treaties, and that it is racial discrimination which must be wiped out by a common sense assimilation in the United States and Japan of mutual education and understanding as the basis of ideas.

LOAN OF $100,000,000 TO BE ARRANGED FOR MEXICO

Congress Gave Its Sanction to An Agreement—Minister Accused of Not Obtaining the Best Offers—Money Will Come From England and France.

[Canadian Press.]
Mexico City, May 21.—The Mexican Congress late last night gave its sanction to an agreement for a loan of $100,000,000 at 6 per cent interest. The amount is to be placed at 90 and will run for ten years. It is guaranteed by 38 per cent of the customs receipts. The Mexican National Bank has been named as the representative of the bankers in the supervision of the disbursement.

The debate on the loan was a long one, lasting until about midnight. The Minister of Finance was charged with failure to take better offers and been made. He replied that ally of Japan should join forces with the liberality of America. By this means the Pacific would nobly justify its name."

Keep Individuality.
On the other hand, much interest is attached to the formation of a new patriotic association by Count Shigamori Tsubouchi and other scholars for maintenance of Japanese individuality. The founders declare that some of the Japanese are intoxicated with western civilization to such an extent that they were apt to forget their nationality and maintain dangerous thoughts into the minds of the people and interpret patriotism in a different way from that prevailing among their ancestors.

In some quarters it is alleged, that this organization is political, masquerading under the guise of patriotism, and that it had been created to fight the battle of the bureaucracy against the encroachments of the growing democracy.

THE WEATHER.

TOMORROW—SHOWERY.

Forecasts.
Toronto, May 21—8 a.m. Today—Fresh easterly to southerly winds; showery; local thunderstorms; Thursday—Fresh westerly winds; some showers, but partly fair.

Temperatures.
The following were the highest and lowest temperatures during the 24 hours previous to 8 a.m. today.

Station	High	Low	Weather
LONDON	55	49	Cloudy
Victoria	64	46	Cloudy
Calgary	64	36	Cloudy
Winnipeg	58	42	Cloudy
Port Arthur	46	35	Rain
Toronto	50	48	Rain
Ottawa	50	38	Cloudy
Montreal	62	42	Clear
Quebec	52	35	Clear
Father Point	46	40	Cloudy

Weather Notes.
The depression mentioned yesterday is now centred in Iowa, attended by rain and numerous thunderstorms over the Great Lakes.

A few light showers are reported from Manitoba.

Lake Superior—Strong easterly winds, with rain.

Manitoba—A few local showers, but mostly fair.

BISHOPS CLAIM THEY RECEIVED NO NOTIFICATION

Those Opposed to Anglican Church Unity Scheme Are Making Protest.

Question Will Be Settled at a Big Meeting To Be Held in Toronto.

[Canadian Press.]
Montreal, May 21.—The bishops of the Anglican Church who objected to the movement being promoted to secure greater unity among Protestant bodies in Canada, had not been officially notified of the meeting which is to be held in Toronto on Thursday to formally launch the scheme, is the announcement made here by Rev. A. P. Shatford, who with Rev. Dr. H. Simonds, of Montreal, and Rev. Canon Plumptre, of Toronto, has been arranging for the new organization.

Was Not Necessary.
Rev. Mr. Shatford contended that it was not necessary that the bishops should be notified. The question was one on which men had a perfect right to express their opinions freely, and nothing was being done contrary to the rules of the church.

Rev. Mr. Shatford will formally move the resolution endorsing the views as to unity expressed in the circular letter recently issued and objected to by the bishops. A draft constitution for the organization, which will be known as the Canadian League for Church Unity, has already been prepared and will be submitted to the meeting.

Dr. Symonds' View.
Discussing the attitude of the bishops, Rev. Dr. Symonds stated that while the opinion was held in some high quarters that he and his colleagues were exceeding their powers in taking action in this matter of unity, he did not believe that such was the case. In any event, the whole matter will be thoroughly threshed out in Toronto, and he believed the result would be a step in advance for the cause of church union.

BERLIN EN FETE FOR WEDDING OF ROYAL PRINCESS

Celebrations After the Ceremony Will Be Greatest Held for Years.

Leading Statesmen From All Over Europe Will Be Present.

[Canadian Press.]
Berlin, May 21.—Girlands, flags, poles, and decorations of all sorts adorn the Unter den Linden and all the streets and avenues through which next Saturday's wedding procession will proceed. The official program for the three days' festivities has just been issued. It enumerates a series of luncheons and dinners to the foreign sovereigns and members of the princely families related to the Kaiser and to the prospective bridegroom, Prince Ernest August of Cumberland, and receptions to the ambassadors and delegates from the German states, duchies and provinces.

After the great state banquet on Friday night there will be a visit to the opera house by the three emperors and all the distinguished visitors. This visit will be one of the most magnificent of the public functions. Earlier on Friday the gifts from Hanover, Brunswick and other states and cities will be presented.

In the Schloss.
The civil marriage is timed for 4:30 p.m. on Saturday in the great hall of state at the Schloss. The grand marshal, Count Eulenberg, will officiate. As soon as the civil ceremony is concluded the procession to the palace chapel will start. The Rev. Dr. Dryander will conduct the church wedding.

Then will come the great parade through Berlin, a spectacle which bids fair to be more magnificent than any living Berlin has been privileged to see before.

Will Propose Toast.
While Berlin is in a blaze with illuminations, crowds parading the parks and streets, the banquet at the Schloss will be served and the wedding toast proposed by Emperor William in a speech, which will be called around the world. Officers of the First Dragoon Guards, whose colonel is King George of England, have arranged a "high breakfast" Berlin style, for the British monarch to be given Sunday morning. Not to be outdone, the officers of the Berlin Imperial German Grenadier Guards, whose colonel is Czar Nicholas, will give a breakfast, Russian style, to the Russian Emperor at the officers' club on the same day and hour.

Cheer King George.
King George and Queen Mary when they alighted from the train were greeted with the custom of the embraces by the Emperor and Empress, and the other members of the imperial family. King George and Emperor William then jointly passed in review the guard of honor, drawn up on the platform. This completed, the two monarchs together, the Queen and Empress side by side drove in open state carriages through the Avenue of Victory and Unter den Linden to the castle, each carriage escorted by a squadron of cavalry with pennon-lances. The wide thoroughfares were lined with troops of the guards' army corps, and behind them all Berlin seemed to have gathered.

The dignified battalions of Zeppelin and Hussars, flying the British colors, had accompanied the royal train from Rathenow, about fifty miles away, and hovered over the carriages as they drove toward the castle.

CATHERINE ELIZABETH MINGO, who died suddenly on Adelaide street Tuesday, and her older sister, Agnes, and her brother, Fred. Catherine is in the centre of the picture. Her widowed mother and her brother and sister were prostrated over the beautiful child's death, and the mystery for a time enshrouding it.

GIRL DIES SUDDENLY IN YARD APPARENTLY AFTER HAVING BEEN SEIZED WITH VIOLENT ILLNESS

Sensational Reports of Tragedy Dissolve After Investigation Has Been Made—Mother Thinks Daughter May Have Been Poisoned by Eating Ice Cream—Post Mortem and Inquest Have Been Ordered.

Mysterious circumstances, which were almost completely dissipated upon investigation by the detective department, attend the death of Catherine Elizabeth Mingo, a pretty 10-year-old daughter of Mrs. Annie W. Mingo, residing at 283 Adelaide street, Tuesday night. She was found in the yard at the rear of the grocery store of Mrs. M. Timbrell, at the southeast corner of Adelaide street and Princess avenue, in an unconscious condition. She was discovered by Mrs. Timbrell and Mrs. Merricraft, and died after being taken to her home at 11:30 o'clock. One theory is that she was seized with convulsions after having been ill during the day. Another is that the child was maltreated, but thorough investigation seems to relieve the latter supposition of the possibility of truth.

No Sign of Foul Play.
Dr. A. MacLaren, coroner, greatly deprecates the sensational stories printed and circulated under his name to the effect that the child had been criminally assaulted. He had made no statement to warrant such a conclusion, confining himself to the theory that until the matter was investigated there were suspicious circumstances.

Even the child's mother had no suspicion of foul play. She assured The Advertiser that at the worst it was a case of poisoning, her little daughter possibly having eaten candy or ice cream, which made her violently ill.

Child Had Been Ill.
Father McKee, St. Mary's Church, stated that the child had been ill while attending St. Mary's school, and that he was convinced after having made an investigation that there was no possibility of foul play. It was his belief that the child was taken ill with some ailment of the stomach, and that when she went behind the store in order to relieve herself, she was seized with convulsions.

Arthur Leuz, 13 years old, a pupil of Lorne avenue school, told The Advertiser this morning that he noticed Catherine in front of the school shortly after it was dismissed on Tuesday afternoon. He claims that she appeared to be ill then, but that he did not pay much attention to her at the time.

Not Seen Entering Yard.
The stories told by those who saw the child after she had left school, and before she was found, would point to the impossibility of the assault theory. One lady, Mrs. Thomas Blanchard, was sitting on her doorstep on Dufferin avenue, two doors removed from the yard of the Timbrell store, and stated that she did not even see the little girl enter the yard. She was certain she would have been aware of the fact if the child had been dragged from the streets in daylight. Mrs. Blanchard is of the opinion that she would have heard noise of a struggle.

Delay in Investigating.
While the police were notified of the death of the child shortly after she had expired no investigation was begun until this morning. It is likely that one of the officers will be called upon to explain why no search was given the possibilities of an outrage ap-

SCORES HANNA FOR BREAKING FAITH ON LICENSE PROMISE

Rev. Ben Spence Calls Granting of Another License in New Ontario an Outrage, Especially in View of Local Option Gains in the Province.

[Canadian Press.]
Toronto, May 21.—Rev. Ben Spence, of the "Pioneer," has donned his armor again and is after Hon. W. J. Hanna, provincial secretary, who has approved the granting of more licenses in New Ontario. Speaking of the Government's action, he said: "There has been in recent years a gradual increase in the number of licenses in New Ontario, notwithstanding the Govern-

IS EXPERT REPORT WITHHELD BECAUSE IT HITS SCHEME?

Reported That One of the Men Engaged Had Submitted Findings to the City.

Newspaper Preparing the Way For Adverse Decision on Railroad Scheme.

It has been stated on good authority that at least one of the reports ordered by the city from three experts, Messrs. Eastman, Wardle and Marshall, on the electrification of the London and Port Stanley Railway, has been handed to the authorities and that because of its findings it is being withheld from the public.

For some days it has been whispered that one of the reports at least was not favorable to the proposal to spend from $700,000 to $850,000 on the railway, and it has leaked out that some of the civic authorities have seen the report.

Promised Weeks Ago.
All of the reports were promised to the public many weeks ago, and it has been stated that one or more of them would have been available some time ago had the city cared to secure them. That the reports are not on the whole favorable to the scheme has been claimed by a number of persons who claim to have knowledge of the matter.

The newspaper supporting the scheme has a significant statement in its issue of today, which it plainly says that it does not matter what the findings of the experts have been. That hint has been given them that the reports are not exactly in the nature of ammunition to be fired for the scheme would be surmised from the statement.

Mr. Baker Doesn't Know.
City Clerk Baker said that if a report had been received he didn't know anything about it. He did not say that one had or had not been received. Mayor Graham was at Port Stanley this morning and could not be interviewed regarding the report.

Jury Empanelled For Mingo Case; Inquest Friday

Coroner MacLaren empanelled a jury, which met and viewed the remains at Smith, Son & Clark's undertaking parlors at 12 o'clock.

The inquest was adjourned until Friday evening at 8 o'clock at the police station. The personnel of the jury is as follows: Percy Ashton, Archibald Campbell, Benjamin Tripp, Thomas Jeffery, Thomas McKim, P. H. Thompson, Alfred Hefeway, Chas. F. Reid, S. W. Thomas (foreman).

JUMPED TO DEATH

Young Woman Flung Herself From a Bridge at Montreal.

[Canadian Press.]
Montreal, May 21.—Mounting the railing of Ahuntsic bridge yesterday, a young woman flung herself into the stream beneath. Her deed was witnessed by a large number of people, but before they could render assistance her body was drawn down by the swiftly-running water and disappeared.

POLICE PROBE MAY FOLLOW OFFICER'S ALLEGED SLACKNESS

There is a possibility of a rigid investigation by the police commission into the alleged failure of a patrol sergeant to report the finding of Catherine Mingo, in the backyard of Mrs. Timbrell's home Tuesday afternoon.

It is said that the sergeant was notified about the case Tuesday night shortly after 8 o'clock, and that he did not make any report about it at the police station. It is also said that the detective department was not notified of the case until this morning. The ser-

MR. BECK GOES TO OLD LAND FOR 5 WEEKS

Electrification Project To Be Temporarily Abandoned Owing to Ill-Health.

VOTE MAY GO OVER FOR SOME MONTHS

Not Believed That Mr. Beck Intends To Go Out of Public Life as Was Rumored.

Toronto, May 21.—Hon. Adam Beck leaves immediately for a five-weeks' rest in Europe. The bylaw to submit a scheme of electrification of the London and Port Stanley Railroad to the ratepayers of the Forest City will not come up until the return of the power minister.

The above dispatch from Toronto was confirmed at the home of Hon. Adam Beck when inquiries were made. It was stated that Mr. and Mrs. Beck and their daughter would leave for England next Tuesday or Wednesday, and that they would be absent for from five weeks to two months. It is understood that the Beck horses will be sent to England as well.

A Nervous Ailment.

Mr. Beck's health has caused him to abandon the electrification campaign for the time being. He has been suffering from nervous trouble, and has told friends of his that he has not been able to sleep at nights, and that he might go out of public life altogether. Other friends of his do not credit the statement that Mr. Beck's trip to England foreshadows his retirement from public life, and that he will leave London.

Not For Several Months.
"There will not be a vote on electrification for several months," said one of its supporters today. "Mr. Beck may return in five weeks and he may not. It is not proposed to take the vote during the hot summer, and it has been stated among the aldermen that there will not be a vote this year."

Protect All Rivers By Filtering Sewage

Dr. Hodgetts Favors Move to Stop the Pollution of Streams.

[Canadian Press.]
Ottawa, May 21.—Dr. Charles A. Hodgetts, chief medical officer of the conservation committee, was the only witness before the special committee on the pollution of streams at its meeting in the House of Commons today.

He indorsed what other witnesses suggested, that it would be wise for force municipalities in Canada to filter their sewage before it pours into a river or gateway of any kind.

In answer to questions by Mr. Geo. H. Bradbury, he favored Government encouragement to the training of young men to be experts on matters of sanitation.

Dr. Hodgetts will see what is being done in England during his visit there this summer in connection with the sewage problem, and will submit a formal report to the committee when he returns.

It is not decided when the committee will meet again.

Big Demonstration For Mr. Proudfoot

The demonstration in honor of Mr. Wm. Proudfoot, M.P.P., takes place at Goderich on May 30, when his constituents will tender him a vote of appreciation and officially indorse his action in connection with the charges against Sir James Whitney and Hon. W. J. Hanna, made in the Legislature. A large delegation is going from Toronto, including Mr. N. W. Rowell, K. C., who will be one of the speakers. Two special trains will be run to Goderich, one on the G. T. R. from Stratford, and the other on the C. P. R. from Linwood Junction, Mitchell, Seaford, Millbank, Milverton, Blyth and Auburn and other points are expected to be well represented at the demonstration, which will be held in the skating rink.

CONDENSED ADS.

No Advertisement Accepted Less Than Fifteen Words.

Amusements—Ten cents per line each insertion, or two cents per word if set solid.

Meetings—Where no admission is charged, one cent per word each insertion.

Articles for Sale, To Let, Help Wanted, Situations Wanted, Board and Lodgings, Lost and Found, Rooms to Let, and all similar condensed advertisements—First insertion one cent per word; each subsequent insertion one-half cent a word. No advertisement less than fifteen words.

BORN, MARRIED, DIED.

MARRIAGES.

HANLEY—MULKERN—In St. Peter's Cathedral, on May 20, 1913, by Rev. Monsignor Aylward, Regina, daughter of the late Patrick Mulken, to Philip J. Hanley, of Winnipeg.

DEATHS.

BASKERVILLE—May 20, 1913, at her home, 6 Comfort Place, Sarah Baskerville, aged 74.

Funeral private, on Thursday, at 2:30 p.m.

ST. JEAN—At Victoria Hospital, on Monday, May 19, 1913, Ludger St. Jean, aged 45.

Funeral from Smith, Son & Clarke's undertaking rooms on Friday, May 23, at 8:30 a.m., to St. Peter's Cathedral; requiem high mass at 9 o'clock; interment at St. Peter's Cemetery.

AMUSEMENTS, LECTURES.

GRAND

Stanley Stock Co.

NEW YORK COMPANY.

Twice Today Beware of Men

Thurs., Fri., Sat. and Sat. Mat.

A Soldier of the Empire

Night, 10c, 20c, 30c, 50c, Mat., 15c, 25c

SEATS ON SALE.

BASEBALL

Tecumseh Park

Thursday, Friday and Saturday

May 22, 23 and 24.

LONDON VS. BERLIN.

Thursday and Friday, 3:30 p.m., Victoria

Day, 10:30 and 2:00. Down town ticket office, Gilman's Jewelry Store.

24c

THE COLONIAL ORCHESTRA IS COM-

POSED OF ARTISTS. At Springbank tonight for dancing. Gentlemen, 50c; ladies free.

COME AND HEAR THE MUSIC EVEN

IF YOU CAN'T DANCE. The Colonial Orchestra will be at Springbank Pavilion tonight.

THE COLONIAL ORCHESTRA (THE best in London) will hold a dance at

Springbank Pavilion, Wednesday, May

21, from 8 to 11 p.m. Gentlemen, 50c;

ladies free.

SPECIAL DANCING NOTICE—AD-

VANCED closing night, May 21, extra special closing night of season, Friday

May 30. Private lessons any hour.

Circulars. Phone Dayton & McCormick.

LONDON MINERAL BATHS—OPEN

every day and night from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Phone for appointments.

TONY CORTESE AND SONS—ORIGI-

AL London Harpers. "Canada's Distinguished Orchestra." 161 Market Street.

Phone 1570.

Ocean Tickets

Buy your tickets at a regular steamship agency, one that has a specialty of steamship bookings. You will find it to your advantage.

Via All Ocean Lines

Tickets issued via all ocean lines. Lowest fares. No improper representation made to influence business, either at this office or advertised.

F.B. CLARKE

416 RICHMOND STREET,

Next Bank of Commerce, One Door North,

East Side.

ERNEST CORTESE & BROTHERS—

London's leading harpers. 131 Fullarton street. Phone 1408.

LONDON LADY HARPERS—ENGAGE-

MENTS accepted for concerts and social events. Address Miss Ella Topping,

Tambling's Corner. Phone 91, Ring 3,

Byron.

MUSIC FURNISHED FOR PARTIES.

Italian harpers. Phone 1255. Tony Vici's

Italian Harpers. 122 Queen's avenue.

EUROPE $100.00

And Back

First class accommodation at second class rates.

E. DE LA HOOKE

Agent for All Ocean Lines.

422 Park Avenue (London Loan Block).

WANTED.

WANTED—A FEW LOADS OF LOAM

for lawn dressing. Apply after 5 p.m.

at 270 St. James street, corner Wellington street.

WANTED AT ONCE—THIRTY INCUBAtor chickens. Apply 706 Richmond street.

OLD SHOES MADE NEW BY THE

Advance Shoe Repair. Phone 3716, by will call.

WANTED—LAWNS TO CUT; PRICES

reasonable. Apply 970 Hackett street,

East London.

PEOPLE TO TRY JERRY McDONALD'S

noontday lunch, 35c, Iniquity Hotel.

WANTED—CLOTHES TO CLEAN AND

press. Phone 2236. We will call.

WANTED—A DEAD HORSE AND

cattle; phone 688; will go twelve miles;

no animal removed without its hide.

The London Fertilizer Company.

WANTED—PEOPLE TO HAVE THEIR

shoes repaired. New method. 66 York

Phone 1876.

WANTED—PEOPLE TO KNOW THAT

Hunt's Diamond Flour makes perfect bread.

WANTED—PEOPLE TO SEE OUR LINE of second-hand furniture and antiques.

McKinn's, Talbot street.

WANTED—DRAWING TO DO. PHONE

2845 for prompt service. Reasonable rates.

WANTED—A PEOPLE TO TRY

Erskine's Live. Complete line of up-to-date light liveries and hacks. 78

King street. Phone 8568.

LET THE RAPID MESSENGER RUN

your errands. Phone 2545. 423 Wellington street. We repair bicycles.

DO YOU WANT YOUR KLOTHES

Kecked Clean, phone 4118. We will call.

PATENTS.

J. EDMUNDS, REGISTERED AT-

ORNEY and Solicitor of Patents,

Central Avenue, London, Ontario, Canada.

MEETINGS.

NOTICE TO OLD COUNTRY A. O. F.—

Court Wellington will hold a social evening this Wednesday. Old Country Foresters and their wives are ordi ally invited to attend. Quills Hall,

Wellington street. No admission.

23u

MALE HELP WANTED.

WANTED—SMART BOY FOR CUTTING

department. Greene-Swift, Limited.

24c

WANTED—EXPERIENCED FIRST-

CLASS box maker, capable of taking charge of production wooden boxes in up-to-date plant. Box 74, Advertiser.

24c

WANTED—CAPABLE AND EXPERI-

ENCED ripper for up-to-date boxmak-ing plant. Box 75, Advertiser.

24c

WATCHMAN WANTED—WAGES $14

per week. Box 72, Advertiser.

24c

WANTED—CARRIAGE BLACKSMITH,

good wages. Apply S. Turner, 347

Ridout street.

23c

WANTED—MECHANIC AND HANDY

man. Apply Engineer, London Asylum.

23c

BOY FOR LIGHT DELIVERY; ONE

living in north end preferred. Apply J.

A. Wilson, 206 Dundas.

22c

YOUNG MAN, APPLY BOTTLING DE-

PARTMENT Carling B. and M. Company.

22c

PAINTERS WANTED. APPLY LEWIS

Bros., 179 Mill street.

22c

WANTED—GOOD SMART MAN TO represent packing house in the City of London, and also traveler for Western Ontario. Box 65, Advertiser.

22c

OFFICE BOY, WHO HAS ATTENDED

high school. Apply in own handwriting to the McClary Manufacturing Company.

22c

SALESMAN OF EXPERIENCE TO travel from London in surrounding territories; must be first-class man, and able to show good results. Apply Ford

Motor Company, of Canada, Limited,

London, Ont.

21c

OFFICE BOY WANTED BY WHOLE-

SALE firm. Apply in own hand-writing, stating age and experience, if any.

Box 61, Advertiser.

21c

I WANT TO EMPLOY TWO ENERgetic Englishmen to assist me in handling property for large and well-established company; properties are high class; high pay; call mornings between 9 and 10. Ask for Mr. G. E.

White, sales manager, Room 114, Dominion Savings building, London.

31c-x

WANTED—THREE BRIGHT YOUNG men to canvass city. The Metcalfe

Agencies, 233 Dundas Street.

21c

WANTED—SALESMAN TO HANDLE

houses. The right man can make good commissions. Apply Box 55, Advertiser.

18c

WANTED—MEN FOR GOVERNMENT

jobs, $20 week; write for list of positions open. Franklin Institute, Dept.

716-D, Rochester, N. Y. June 15

1913.

YOUNG MAN TO OPERATE CUTTING

and scoring machines in paper factory. Apply D. S. Perrin & Co., Limited.

19c

WANTED—GOOD MAN TO WORK

around bakery; good wages. Apply

Farnell Bread Company.

18c

CYLINDER PRESS FEEDERS

WANTED.

Apply ADVERTISER JOB

DEPARTMENT.

BOY WANTED FOR DELIVERING

parcels. Apply Sifton & Co.

16c

GOOD STRONG BOY WANTED. AP-

PLY Advertiser Job Department.

12c

TWENTY DOLLARS WEEKLY DRIVing and repairing automobiles. If taking our correspondence course Why not better your position? Send for free booklet. Ontario Motor College, Toronto.

12c

CANVASSERS WANTED FOR TOWNS

on railroad. Apply Alfred Tyler, 355

Clarence street, London, Ont.

BOY WANTED. APPLY ADAM BECK,

173 Albert street.

85c

BREAD BAKERS WANTED AT ONCE

Johnston Bros., 262 Ottawa avenue.

81c

SITUATIONS WANTED.

EXPERIENCED SHORTHAND TYPIST

and stenographer desires situation; excellent references. Hart, 172 Park avenue.

23c

YOUNG MAN OF GOOD APPEARANCE

wishes position of any kind; good education; fluent in English; electrician; excellent references. Good connections. Box

22c

LOST AND FOUND.

LOST—WHITE FRENCH POODLE DOG.

Reward for return to F. Mitchell, 304

King street.

24c

London Advertiser

Founded in 1863.

ADVERTISER BUILDING,
Dundas Street,
London, Ont.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.
One week by carrier..... 10c
One year by mail, outside city..... $5.00
One year by mail, outside city..... $3.00
One year, delivered, outside city..... $3.00
Weekly Edition..... 75c

TELEPHONE NUMBERS.
3670 (Private Branch Exchange, Connecting all Departments.)
NIGHT CALLS:
6 p.m. to 2:30 a.m. and Holidays.
3670—Business Department.
3671—Editors.
3672—Reporters.
3673—Job Printing Department.
To call night numbers use the word
"ONLY" after giving the number.

[Entered at London Postoffice for transmission through the mails as second-class matter.]
The London Advertiser Printing Co., Limited.
LONDON, WEDNESDAY, MAY 21.

PREPARING FOR A FALL.
The London Free Press fears that one or more of the experts engaged by the city council to report on the London and Port Stanley Railway question may pronounce against the Beck scheme.

It tries to forestall this contingency in a manner destructive of its own case. It says editorially:

"It is well that citizens should remember that the reports of these experts cannot affect the matter seriously. Even though the experts do not agree with the findings of Messrs. Storer, Gabey and Murray, one way or the other, friends of electrification will not be greatly concerned.

There are certain facts which appeal to the common sense of the thinking citizen, which no expert opinion can affect. There is in this issue the outstanding fact that the operation of the London and Port Stanley Railway is an immense success, both in the matter of financial returns and in the important relation that it bears in the development of business for the city."

After parading the Gabey-Storer-Murray reports as infallible arguments for electrification, the Free Press now coolly kicks and cuffs these gentlemen by the assertion that there are facts
"which no expert opinion can affect."

This is a slap also at the promoters of electrification who asked the ratepayers to vote nearly a million dollars on the strength of the Gabey-Storer-Murray reports alone. We are now told that these precious documents are virtually not worth the paper they were written on. Many citizens who studied them came to this conclusion long ago. Mr. Gabey is practically an employee of Mr. Beck's, and like Mr.
Storer, has had no experience in railway operation. Mr. Murray never saw the L. and P. S. Railroad, and based his report on data supplied by Mr.
Beck.

The London and Lake Erie Railway Company is cited in support of electrification. If the Free Press wished to argue honestly it would point out that this road was so little a success that it was sold under the hammer, when its capitalization was much lower than that of the L. and P. S. R.
The Free Press concedes that the traction company has had an important bearing on the development of business for the city. Yet instead of duplicating London's one radial railway why not spend money in promoting other roads that would be similarly beneficial?

BRITISH OPINION ON CANADA'S NAVY PROBLEM.

British Liberal opinion has steadily crystallized against the Borden naval device in favor of the Laurier policy.
This opinion may not find official spokesmen; the members of the Asquith Government will be obliged to make a show of welcoming any action by the Canadian Parliament. But unofficial circles of the party are not spoken in deploring the course taken by the Borden Government. The whole British Liberal press raises a chorus of protest, and advises Canada to return to the safe path marked out by Sir Wilfrid Laurier. The most widely circulated Liberal newspaper in England, the London Daily News, says in a recent issue:

"The difference between the Liberals and the Conservatives is simply as to method. But the difference of method involves fundamental and far-reaching principles. The Borden scheme of a contribution of three Dreadnoughts to the British navy, the ships to be manned by English sailors, maintained by the English people and controlled by the English admiralty, subject to the right of withdrawal and to some form of Canadian representation on the imperial defence committee, is a scheme which bristles with dangers and possibilities of friction between the two countries. The more the scheme is examined the more this is seen to be the case. Nor is there any reasonable doubt that the Canadian opinion is adverse to the proposal. The last election was fought on the single issue of reciprocity and the naval policy of Mr. Borden has never received the sanction of the electorate.

"In opposing the scheme with every resource of parliamentary obstruction, Sir Wilfrid Laurier is defending not only the interests of Canada, but also the ultimate interests of the imperial connection.
Nothing could be more for the future of that connection than the establishment of so unequivocal a relationship as that involved in the Borden policy. The true task of the Democrats is not to swell the fleet in home waters, and to involve Canada and Australia in the European naval competition; but to relieve the mother country of the duty of defence in the outlying parts of the empire. That is the view which prevails in Australia and whatever the result of the present struggle in Canada it is the view which is des-tinued ultimately to be adopted in that country also."

The Borden policy, as the News indicates, is doubly objectionable. It raises constitutional difficulties, and it does not meet the naval problem, which lies, so far as Canada is concerned, on the Pacific seaboard. So far as the Empire is concerned, there is the assertion of the First Lord of the Admiralty, only a year ago, that the true division of labor between the mother country and the dominions lay in the concentration of the British fleet in European waters, and the defence of the outlying parts of the empire by the navies of the colonies. That theory is sound today, though Mr. Churchill has seen fit to reverse it. In practice at the best of the Borden Government, which is compelled to compromise with its Nationalist allies.

THE UNHOLY ALLIANCE.

Conservative papers do not have much to say about the alliance formed between their party and the Nationalists. Occasionally it is denied, half-heartedly. But the feeble attempts to prove its non-existence are rather indicative. For example, the Kingston Standard's last effort may be noted.
The alliance does not exist, it declares, because on the last naval bill vote, five Nationalists voted with the Opposition.
How, then, could there be any alliance with the Conservatives?

The correct answer to such a question is not material. Perhaps these five, not being in office, or having any satisfactory promises of office, were not disposed to carry out their part of the bargain. Perhaps they were not inclined to trust the assertions of the deputy-speaker's paper that the Borden bill was only for moral effect, and not intended to be supplemented by the actual payment of the money. Perhaps they thought that if the Premier was going to be false to the imperialists he might be false to the Nationalists. Perhaps they were sincere Nationalists, like Mr. Monk, who, having promised their constituents to vote against any naval expenditure wanted to be true to their pledges.

But, because these five voted against the Government on this one occasion, no matter for what reason, that does not prove the alliance non-existent. On the other hand, no proof is necessary that it did exist. The condition was self-evident. The Nationalists joined with the Conservatives to defeat the Liberals. Then they formed a Government, the offices being divided between them, and the Nationalists getting the lion's share, in proportion to numbers.
What more is required? When two political parties unite to form a Government you may call it a coalition, or an alliance, or anything you like. And if, on occasion, one or two individuals withdraw, temporarily or permanently, the alliance may be slightly weakened,
but it exists, all the same.

Of course, it may be claimed that the relation between the two parties is not one of alliance, but of incorporation;
the lion and the lamb are closely connected, but the lamb is inside the lion. But that excuse is too thin. The lion's stomach, and acute indigestion would certainly result from any attempt of the one to assimilate the other. A better simile would be the relationship between the dog's body and his tail—when the tail swings the body.

The Canadian electors are now told by Mr. Borden that they voted in 1911 on the navy, not on reciprocity.

Even all that spurge at Toronto couldn't induce Mr. Borden to say what his "permanent" naval policy would be.

Unless the Borden Government fills the Senatorial vacancies before the vote on the naval bill it will incur the suspicion of wishing to see the bill rejected.

Our local contemporary may have heard that the city council's experts have decided to report against electrification. It is whistling hard to keep up its courage.

The Montreal Star still insists that there is an emergency. The Star merely sees what it wants to see. If there were no emergency, the Borden Government would have to invent one to sanction the contribution.

Our local contemporary says truly that in the event of war between the United States and Japan the Anglo-Saxon race would everywhere stand together. But isn't it a fine argument for the Borden policy of stationing Canadian warships at Gibraltar, instead of in the Pacific?

If General Mackenzie has been doing the D'ondalga act, Canadian opinion will be with the Minister of Militia. Of course, if the minister were a Liberal there would be a partisan howl against him, as there was against Sir Frederick Borden when he taught Lord Dundonald a lesson. The attempt to raise a loyalty cry over that incident was rebuked by the country.

HE GENERALLY CONFESSES.

[Empire Gazette.]
The man who has a new motor car usually is willing to admit the fact without much coaxing.

IN A LONDON DRAWING ROOM.
[Toronto News.]
"Not have a cup of tea, my dear?"
the hostess said, with hesitation.
"No, darling, I must run away, and place a bomb in Euston Station."

IOWA PROBLEM.

[Council Bluffs Nonpareil.] Dern the tariff! What we want is a remedy for dandelions.

CERTAINTY.

[Victorian Colonist.]
"I am loyal to England," says one.
"I am loyal to the Empire," says another. "I am loyal to Canada," says a third. "I am loyal to the King," says a fourth. Why, may we ask, may not a man be loyal to the King, to Canada, to the Empire and to England?

THE HEAD OF THE HOUSE.

[Lurana Sheldon.]
He was "head of his household," he
said.
And his wife did not laugh, heaven bless her!
Though he hadn't a collar, a shirt, or a dollar.
And neither could feed nor dress her.

He was "head of his household," he
said.
And she—well, perhaps she believed him.
He gave a drubbing and sent her out scrubbing.
And this from all worry relieved him.

He was "head of his household," he
said.
But she was too worn to discern it;
She took to her bed, and they had no more bread.
As he was too lazy to earn it.

He was "head of his household," he
said.
And she was too ill for pretences.
She died from her labors, was buried by neighbors.
He hadn't the funeral expenses.

QUEER PEOPLE, THE DUTCH.

[Hamilton Herald.]
The marriage by proxy, the bride being in Holland and the bridegroom in Toronto, is too much like a Dutch treat.

A DEN.

[Houston Post.]
What is a den?
A den is where
The broken chairs,
The rugs with tears,
The pictures cracked,
The table hacked,
A tickle clock,
A clock that won't lock
Are gathered in a heap by ma
And put into a room for pa.

STILL TRAVELS SOME.

[Los Angeles Express.]
Still, as Secretary of State, he seems to be able to get around the country about as extensively as he did when covering the Chautauqua circuit.

WUFF!

[Cincinnati Enquirer.]
"I went to the races at Lexington last week," said the Grouch.
"Did you go broke?" asked the Booby.
"Now, but that's the way I came back," replied the Grouch.

WHEN EVERYTHING GIVES WAY.

[Puck.]
The most terrible enemies among women are forgotten when another dame is needed to play bridge.

AND HE TRIED AGAIN.

[Washington Herald.]
"What's the matter?"
"She has rejected me again. She says this is final."
"Did she say how final?" inquired the older and more experienced man.

ORIGINALITY.

[Detroit Free Press.]
"He has written a new play."
"Original?"
"Yes. The heroine is a married woman."
"Oh, I know. And falls in love with another man."
"No. That's the original part of it. The play shows marriage to be a sacred relation that some people take seriously and get a good deal of happiness out of it."

CORRECTED.

[Washington Star.]
"Bliggins always knows the latest story."
"Not the latest," replied Miss Cayenne, wearily, "the longest."

NOT A GENIUS.

[Houston Post.]
"He looks like a genius."
"That man? Don't you believe it!
He works for a living."

AMENDED.

[Cleveland Plain Dealer.]
"I begin to be afraid that Governor Blease hasn't any sense of humor."
"But why add of humor?"

Schwab Tells of Steel Development

First President of the Big Trust Again Called to the Stand.

[Canadian Press.]
New York, N. Y., May 21.—Chas.
M. Schwab, first president of the United States Steel Corporation, was cross-examined today in the hearings of the dissolution suit against the corporation, on his testimony that one of the chief purposes of the organization of the corporation was to develop the export trade.

"How long after the formation of the corporation did the plan of developing export trade take effect?" asked the Government attorney.
"I couldn't say exactly, but I think statistics will show. I brought Mr.
Farrell from Pittsburgh to take charge of the export business shortly after the corporation's formation, and the business has developed constantly since that time."

Salary Offered Was Too Meagre

Farmer Wanted to Engage Man and Wife For $150 a Year.

A farmer came to the city Tuesday to secure a man and his wife from among the English people who have recently arrived.

He was impressed with one couple and began a conversation with the man. Asked how much he would give,
he said $150 a year for both of them.
In addition they were to pay rent for a house on his place.

The man was to do the work on the farm, and the woman was to aid with the household.
The offer impressed the new arrival and his wife as too small to accept, as it meant a wage of little more than $150 a week for each of them. The officials heard of it and refused to allow the man to consider the offer.

Finally, after a good deal of argument, the farmer came up to $300 a year, agreed to give the house rent free, and to supply butter and vegetables.
Other farmers have paid as high as $300 a year and board for single men, and the case of the $150 was an exception.

Do your shopping Friday!
Surely someone has remarked by this time that the barbers' strike is likely to extend from pole to pole.

The man who built the first street car is dead. We have not heard that the London Street Railway intends to draped it in black.

If Adam had only had the foresight to kill those first two flies—and think what cause he must have had to give the mosquitoes a couple of swats.

GONE! GONE! GONE!
Johnny had a runabout.
"Twas filled with gasoline;
It ran into a hole in the back,
And has not since benzine.

We may not write ALL of the Jinx paragraphs, but we fear that the ones we did write checked the home team's slump.

Another thing that will discourage the man's attendance at church—those long ticklers on ladies hats, which will just reach the nose of the man behind.

A certain newspaper likens Mr. Borden's triumphal entry into Toronto to the return of the Caesars. But shouldn't it have been spelt "Seizers."

IN THE HONEYMOON'S WANE.

"How glorious the sunset is!"
She cried in shoes of delight.
"Observe those lovely crimson tints,
So beautiful and bright!"
Said he, "Do you remember when I had that awful cough?"
I looked like that the night I took
The mustard plaster off."

Picking a Winner.
The man who does the best he can,
And minds his own affairs
Is sure to be the man to be chosen
Who climbs life's winding stairs.
—Detroit Free Press.

The man who does the best he can
May all the good things reap.
But why should he climb winding stairs
When elevators are so cheap?

The space Mr. Borden gets on the front pages of all good Conservative papers today is well paid for in the fat advertising that adorns the inner pages of the same.

SPRING FANCY.

The sparrow sits upon the tree
And chirps away quite merrily.
The goat stands by the brook's mud And says "Bah! Bah!" and chews his cud.

This is what sparrows and goats do.
There's nothing strange in it, or new.
But think how funny it would be
To see the goat up in the tree
And chirping with the sparrow's note
And sparrow being like the goat.
Too much May wine, served hot and cold,
Produces sights like these, we're told.

One of the most unpleasant experiences
we can think of is to sneeze while eating lemon pie out of a nose bag.

Every day we hear a new motor whistle. One we heard today was a cross between the whistles of a wild Sioux and a banshee.

NO ARTIST.

He was quick and he was active,
He was very much alert.
But he couldn't eat spaghetti
Without musing up his shirt.

Some of us in our youth long to be bill posters, and become editors instead.

A Heavy Load.

[Hancock Herald.]
Lewis Taylor's back was strained while lifting the forspart of last week.

Mrs. Grundy There.
[Bogart Town Correspondent Newmarket Era.]
Quite a stir in our burg on Sunday evening. It kept some of the residents busy watching proceedings.

Frog in His Throat.
[Berville Correspondent Kincardine Review.]
We don't hear our stage driver, Mr.
Watson, singing the little song which he used to sing last winter on his way home from Walkerton.

Recovered His Toe.
[Bruce Herald and Times.]
William Macdonald, a workman at the new dam here, and who had one of his toes taken off in a mishap, had the severed member replaced at the hospital here last week.

Tidy Tommy.
[Baldwin Correspondent Newmarket Era.]
Look about Tommy Commer's farm, into one house, etc., and you'll learn why he's called Tidy Tommy. He has a tidy farm, tidy wife, tidy children, tidy stock, it pays.

Alteration Sale

CHAPMAN'S

Before the Holiday

BARGAINS IN WOMEN'S READY-TO-WEAR SECTION, OPPORTUNELY OFFERED BEFORE THE HOLIDAY.

Just think of buying any Suit in our stock at a reduction of 20%, and if you buy it at once you will have it in time for the 24th. You will need a suit, no matter what the weather is like, for travelling and for cool evenings it is a necessity. Come early and get first pick of these beautiful Spring and Summer Suits.

There are 75 all told. Women's Serge, Whipcord and Tweed Suits, all new and up to date. All sizes. The entire lot on sale this week (starting now) less 20% of regular prices.

$10.00 WOMEN'S SUITS FOR..... $8.00
$12.50 WOMEN'S SUITS FOR..... $10.00
$15.00 WOMEN'S SUITS FOR..... $12.00
$20.00 WOMEN'S SUITS FOR..... $16.00
$25.00 WOMEN'S SUITS FOR..... $20.00

WOMEN'S SERGE DRESSES, $4.95.
8 only Women's Serge Dresses, in navy, brown and black, sizes 34 and 36. Regular prices $6.50, $7.50 and $10.00. On sale Thurs- day and Friday at..... $4.95

BLACK VOILE SKIRTS, $1.75.
8 only Women's Black Voile Skirts, panel back, high waist, trimmed with silk braid orna- ments. Some were $5.00, $7.50 and $8.50. On sale at..... $1.75

Middy Blouses
Girls' and Misses' Middy Blouses, white Indian Head, trimmed with colored stripes, also blue and white stripes with white trimmings. On sale at..... $1.00

Petticoats
2 dozen Regal Taffeta Pet- ticoats, extension bands, side front fastening and pocket, flounce of knife plaiting and pin tucks, also dust frill. Only..... $1.50

Boys' Wash Suits
Boys' Buster Brown Wash Suits, fit boys 2 1/2 to 7 years. On sale at..... $1.25, $1.50, $2.00

Dinner Sets
2 only China Dinner Sets— 97 pieces, beautiful designs. Worth $25.00. On sale..... $13

36-inch Lonsdale Cambric, 12 1/2c yd.
An absolutely pure white Lonsdale cambric, 36 inches wide. Special at 12 1/2c per yard, or 9 yards for $1.00.

Wide Curtain Net, 12 1/2c yd.
45-inch Bungalow Curtain, in arab and tuscan shades. Regular 25c quality.

Towelling
17-inch Dish and Roller Crash Towelling, red borders. On sale at 6 1/2c per yard, or 16 yards for $1.00.

TOWELS—Pure White Turkish Bath Towels, size 20 by 43 inches. Regular 25c; on sale at each..... 19c

Table Linen
60-inch Silver Bleached Table Linen, warranted pure linen. Per yard..... 39c

AN IMPORT SHIPMENT OF PINK PATTERN FRENCH LIMOGES CHINA HAS JUST ARRIVED.

This is the pattern which so many of our customers are collecting. A full selection of dinner and tea set pieces now on hand.

J. H. Chapman & Co., 239, 241, 243 Dundas Street

WOMEN'S LONG LISLE GLOVES—12-button length, fine quality, perfect fitting. Black or white. Sizes 6 to 7 1/2. 50c grade. On sale Thursday and Friday only, a pair..... 44c

WOMEN'S TWO-CLASP LISLE GLOVES—Very fine goods, in black, white, tan and gray, sizes 6 to 7 1/2. Special value, per pair..... 25c

Women's Vests, 21c
Regular 25c quality. Women's White Ribbed Cotton Vests, fancy tops.

WOMEN'S BLACK MERCERIZED LISLE HOSE, medium sheer weight, double soles, wide garter top. Summer Hose combining beauty and utility. Sizes 8 1/2 to 10. Our 50c grade. On sale for two days only (Thursday and Friday). Per pair..... 39c

WOMEN'S COTTON HOSE, good wearing quality, fast color, reinforced feet. Black or tan. All sizes. Per pair..... 13c

WOMEN'S LONG LISLE GLOVES—12-button length, fine quality, perfect fitting. Black or white. Sizes 6 to 7 1/2. 50c grade. On sale Thursday and Friday only, a pair..... 44c

WOMEN'S TWO-CLASP LISLE GLOVES—Very fine goods, in black, white, tan and gray, sizes 6 to 7 1/2. Special value, per pair..... 25c

Women's Vests, 21c
Regular 25c quality. Women's White Ribbed Cotton Vests, fancy tops.

WOMEN'S BLACK MERCERIZED LISLE HOSE, medium sheer weight, double soles, wide garter top. Summer Hose combining beauty and utility. Sizes 8 1/2 to 10. Our 50c grade. On sale for two days only (Thursday and Friday). Per pair..... 39c

WOMEN'S COTTON HOSE, good wearing quality, fast color, reinforced feet. Black or tan. All sizes. Per pair..... 13c

WOMEN'S LONG LISLE GLOVES—12-button length, fine quality, perfect fitting. Black or white. Sizes 6 to 7 1/2. 50c grade. On sale Thursday and Friday only, a pair..... 44c

WOMEN'S TWO-CLASP LISLE GLOVES—Very fine goods, in black, white, tan and gray, sizes 6 to 7 1/2. Special value, per pair..... 25c

Women's Vests, 21c
Regular 25c quality. Women's White Ribbed Cotton Vests, fancy tops.

WOMEN'S BLACK MERCERIZED LISLE HOSE, medium sheer weight, double soles, wide garter top. Summer Hose combining beauty and utility. Sizes 8 1/2 to 10. Our 50c grade. On sale for two days only (Thursday and Friday). Per pair..... 39c

WOMEN'S COTTON HOSE, good wearing quality, fast color, reinforced feet. Black or tan. All sizes. Per pair..... 13c

WOMEN'S LONG LISLE GLOVES—12-button length, fine quality, perfect fitting. Black or white. Sizes 6 to 7 1/2. 50c grade. On sale Thursday and Friday only, a pair..... 44c

WOMEN'S TWO-CLASP LISLE GLOVES—Very fine goods, in black, white, tan and gray, sizes 6 to 7 1/2. Special value, per pair..... 25c

Women's Vests, 21c
Regular 25c quality. Women's White Ribbed Cotton Vests, fancy tops.

WOMEN'S BLACK MERCERIZED LISLE HOSE, medium sheer weight, double soles, wide garter top. Summer Hose combining beauty and utility. Sizes 8 1/2 to 10. Our 50c grade. On sale for two days only (Thursday and Friday). Per pair..... 39c</

SIDE LIGHTS ON MANY SPORTS

By "Bud" Fisher

He Looks Good

A black and white photograph of a man in a baseball uniform. He is wearing a cap, a jersey with "LONDON" written on it, and knickerbockers. He is holding a baseball glove in his left hand and standing on a small patch of ground.

Stewart's walk and Dunlop's single. Smith struck Deneau out, retiring the side.

London Filled the Bases.

In the seventh London filled the bases on singles by Myers and Fitzpatrick and Matteson's walk, but only one run resulted when Bierbauer hit a fielder's choice. London had a lot of men stalled on the bases during the latter part of the game, but the necessary wallop or the speed to get around seemed lacking.

The score:

A black and white photograph of a man in a baseball uniform. He is wearing a cap, a jersey with "LONDON" written on it, and knickerbockers. He is holding a baseball glove in his left hand and standing on a small patch of ground.

"GUNBOAT" SMITH AWARDED DECISION OVER WILLARD AT END OF TWENTY ROUNDS

*Manager Deneau Intends to Take His Turn Pitching
as Soon as Neale Reports Will Play Oskee in Left Field and Shift Clickenger to Center Field and Then Become a Regular Pitcher Himself.*

AMERICAN GOLFERS

IN SCOTCH EVENT

Six of Them Will Compete in Amateur World's Championship Games.

[Canadian Press.]

St. Andrews, Scotland, May 21.—Six American golfers are among the list of nearly 200 competitors who have entered for the amateur golf championship of the world, the play for which starts next Monday, May 26. The entries close at noon today.

Findlay S. Douglas, of the Nassau Country Club, Long Island; C. W. Ingersoll, of the Onondaga Community Club, New York; W. Heinrich Schmidt, of Worcester, Mass.; Harold Weber, of Toledo, Ohio, and Douglas Grant and Campbell D. White, both of San Francisco, are entered.

Pimlico Results

First race, 2-year-olds, 5 furlongs—Carl, 2 Fathom, 3 Canto. Time, 1:02.

Second race, 3-year-olds and up, s furlongs—1 Hovey Rice, 2 Progressive, 3 Maud. Time, 1:13 4-5.

Third race, The Pecknash Handicap, 3-year-olds, 1 1/4 miles—1 Buskin, 2 Kleburn, 3 Barnegat. Time, 1:53 2-5.

Fourth race, consolation, steeplechase pursa $700, 4-year-olds and up, two miles—1 Penobscot, 2 Exemplar, 3 Son of the Wind. Time, 3:52 4-5.

Fifth race, 2-year-olds and up, selling $700 added, mile and a sixteenth—1 Totton Field, 2 Blackford, 3 Abscond. Time, 1:48 2-5.

Sixth race, New Howard Purae, 3-year-olds and up, selling, mile and 40 yards—1 Mollie S., 2 Star Gift, 3 Mileage. Time, 1:16 3-5.

Batted for Daniels in the ninth.
Batted for Craven in the ninth.
Toronto..... 3 1 0 3 0 0 0 0 0
Cleveland..... 0 0 0 0 0 0 2 1 0 5
Summary: Runs—Brant, Laten 2
Applegate, Hilliard, Byrne, Sargent 2 Brodie, Cook, Fryer, Schaeffer. Twobase—Brant, Laten, Byrne, Homestead, Schaeffer. Sacrifice—Brant, Laten, Applegate, Swartz, McNeil, Brady.
olen bases—Brant 2, Laten, Bases
1, balls—Off Brodie 1, off Craven 8 struck out—By Brodie 4, by Craven 4
Duckett 2, bases—Brant 1, Guelph 5
Batted ball—Daniels, McNeal. Time
1 hour, 50 minutes. Umpire—Daley.

Bill Holson is long on going things, passed up a Major League offer and a few others he now is going to tackle Louist Jack, that won so many bad races for Jeffery.

There is to be a Umpire Direct, Charley Dean's candidate for the Chamber of Commerce stake.

SHOES NEED REPAIRING?

Send them to us and we will patch, sew, sole or heel them, so they will look like new.

PHONE 2310.

MODERN SHOE REPAIR.

505 RICHMOND STREET.

	ST.	A.	H.	O.	A.	E.	RTT.	A.	B.	H.	O.	A.	E.
Spence, 2	5	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Kustus, 4	1	4	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Wright, 3	4	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Gurney, 4	2	2	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Wright, 3	4	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Forsue, 4	3	2	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Baker, 3	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Howick, 3	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Totals	32	53	13	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0

* Baker out; hunted foul on third strike.

Ottawa00000000000000
St. Thomas00000000000000

Summary: RunsCraven, 1.
HitsCraven, 2.
ErrorsHarris. Sacrifice hits—Ort, 1.
Wright. Base on balls—Off Lill 7, 0.
Baker 5. Struck out by—Lill 12, 0.
Baker 5, by Howick 1. Two-base hit—Rogers. Double playsOrt to Kopf

the Bison the easiest team to beat to day, winning 7 to 2. Buffalo tried three pitchers, but they all looked alike to Smith's crew. The score:

Buffalo . . . 0 0 1 0 0 0 0 1 0	R. H. E.
Newark . . . 3 0 1 0 0 0 0 0 3	7 13 2

Pape, Holmes, Jamieson and Gowdy pitched for McCarty's team. Umpires—Flinneran and Quigley.

New York, May 21.—President R. B. Johnston, of the American League, admitted today that he had reached a decision in the case of George Stovall, suspended manager of the St. Louis team, but was not yet ready to make it public.

STANDING OF THE CLUBS

CANADIAN LEAGUE.

Clubs.	Won.	Lost.	P.C.
Hamilton	7	7	.727
St. Thomas	8	3	.727
Ottawa	8	4	.660
Berlin	5	5	.500
Peterboro	5	7	.417
LONDON	4	7	.364
Guelph	4	7	.364
Brantford	4	7	.364

Yesterday's Results.

Brantford 8, London 3.
Peterboro 9, Guelph 3.
St. Thomas 1, Ottawa 1 (11 Innings).

Games Today.

St. Thomas at Ottawa.
Berlin at Hamilton.
London at Brantford.
Peterboro at Guelph.

AMERICAN LEAGUE.

Clubs.	Won.	Lost.	P.C.
Philadelphia	19	9	.679
Cleveland	21	11	.656
Washington	17	11	.607
Chicago	20	13	.607
Boston	13	18	.419
St. Louis	14	21	.400
Detroit	12	21	.364
New York	9	21	.300

Yesterday's Results.

Detroit 8, Philadelphia 7 (10 Innings).
Cleveland 10, Washington 9.
New York 8, St. Louis 3.
Boston at Chicago; rain.

Games Today.

New York at St. Louis.
Washington at Cleveland.
Philadelphia at Detroit.
Boston at Chicago.

INTERNATIONAL LEAGUE.

Clubs.	Won.	Lost.	P.C.
Buffalo	17	11	.607
Newark	12	13	.481
Baltimore	15	13	.538
Providence	13	13	.500
Rochester	14	16	.467
Toronto	12	14	.462
Montreal	10	14	.417
Jersey City	11	16	.407

Yesterday's Results.

Jersey City 8, Rochester 4.
Newark 7, Buffalo 2.

Games Today.

Providence at Toronto.
Newark at Buffalo.
Jersey City at Rochester.
Baltimore at Montreal.

NATIONAL LEAGUE.

Clubs.	Won.	Lost.	P.C.
Philadelphia	18	7	.720
Brooklyn	19	10	.654
New York	13	13	.538
Chicago	16	16	.500
St. Louis	15	15	.500
Pittsburg	16	16	.500
Boston	11	16	.407
Cincinnati	9	21	.300

Yesterday's Results.

St. Louis 8, New York 0.
Pittsburg 4, Brooklyn 1.
Philadelphia 5, Cincinnati 1.
Chicago 7, Boston 3.

Games Today.

Pittsburg at Brooklyn.
St. Louis at New York.
Cincinnati at Philadelphia.
Chicago at Boston.

VEST POCKET ESSAYS

Ponderous Personages--Samson

BY GEORGE FITCH, Author of "At Good Old Sivas."

Samson, the strongest man in history, was born in the tribe of Dan some long ago that the reporting facilities in his time were very crude. He was destined from birth to break all the strength test records of his tribe and grew up from babyhood without punishment. At an early age he married a daughter of the Philistines. Little is known of their domestic career except that soon afterwards Samson went out and killed thirty Philistines single-handed, though they were not even remotely related to his wife.

This caused great indignation among the Philistines, and it was voted to kill Samson. Just for this Samson caught 300 foxes, tied them together by the tails, with firebrands between, and set them loose in the Philistines' wheat fields. To punish him, his own people turned him over to the Philistines. However, he slew 1,000 of them with the jawbone of an ass which remained an international record until people began making speeches recently against child labor and pure food and drug laws.

By this time Samson had become such a pest to the Philistines that they let him severely alone, and took small-pox whenever they could to discourage him from associating with them. Samson served as one of the judges of Israel for 20 years, never indulging in a hair-cut and becoming stronger all the time. When they shut the gates of Gaza on him and prepared to exterminate him he took the gates off their hinges and carried them 20 miles--the earliest record of Halloween pranks on record.

About this time Samson met with Delilah, a beautiful daughter of Philistines, and a love affair ensued which caused a great deal of trouble. Delilah loved Samson, but objected to his appearing as a human mattress, and one night she sheared his hair off. Then she called in her relatives to admire him, and when Samson arose to knock their heads together, he found that his strength had departed with his hair.

ONE WONDERFUL NIGHT

BY LOUIS TRACY.

Insistently claiming his share of recognition, he turned abruptly, and made his way to the third deck. There he met a lady, a young bride who was returning to the States with her husband after a prolonged tour through Europe. Her pretty face was radiant with joy, but a second glance revealed that her distress was due to the pleasant pain of happiness.

"Have you seen your father and mother?" he asked sympathetically, knowing that she had looked forward to this great hour with so much longing.

"Yes," she sobbed. "They are here somewhere. But, oh, dear! I cannot see them now for my tears."

Somebody drew a joyful grimace into Curtis' face. "It was the third husband, wasn't it?" he asked. "Your leaning towers of Pisa are all right by way, but deal me the Metropolitan for keeps, an I've just spotted my old dad grinning at me like a cheshire cat."

"So the knowledge was borne in on Curtis that one could feel quite as lonely on a deck as on a land, and, case-hardened wanderer that he was, he badly wanted someone to yell at gleefully among the waiting multitude."

Now the gangways were out, and West folded East in her willing arms. The stolid masses of steamship passengers, the shade of the orange and crimson sky still gleaming over the Jersey shore, and pallid electric lights revealed vaguely the extraordinary grounds beyond the gangways.

To an experienced traveler like Curtis all customs houses were alike, dingy, nerve-racking, supercilious cogs on the movement. Taking his time, for he had time to spare, he strode quickly off the ship, collected his baggage, and was piling with other people's belongings under a big "C," and nodded to Devar.

The key ran down for an instant. "I may look you up tonight," he said. "I'm in Chicago, and I remember we passed the Switzerland after breakfast, and she signalled that she was steaming with the port engine only."

"Well, her trouble was known by wireless, and there is a chap on board whom dad has to meet. This chap is important. I don't know."

"My dear fellow, don't think of leaving your friends on my account this evening," and Curtis, without looking around, showed that he had noticed the baffled elderly lady and two very pretty daughters who were telling Howard Devar under their elegant wings.

"Oh, that's my aunt, and two of my cousins. I have dozens of them, dozens of cousins, that is. Anyhow, old sport, don't wait in after 7:30; just leave word where you may be about a letter."

No further protest by Curtis was possible, because Devar's present behavior was of the wildest order. He seemed to have as many trunks as cousins, and a lantern-jawed customs official was gazing over them all. Perhaps Curtis felt a faint whiff of surprise that his young friend had not introduced him to his relatives, but it vanished instantly. Steamship acquaintance is a nebulous thing at the best; in that respect the land is more unstable than the sea.

At last the stranger in his own country was consigned to a porter, his two steamer trunks, a suitcase, a satchel and a bundle of worn golf clubs were placed on a taxi, and a breath of clean, cold air blew in on his face as the vehicle hurried along West street, that broad and exceedingly useful thoroughfare which New York has flung wrested from its water-side slums.

The chief city of America is fortunate in the fact that that noble harbor presents her in full regalia to the voyager from Europe. That favorable first impression, unimpaired by the majority of the world's capitals, is never lost, and now it enabled Curtis to disregard the garish

After this the Philistines took Samson and put out his eyes, harnessed him up to a corn mill and treated him like a Democratic majority comforting the Republican party. Samson was six feet tall, and in time his captors carelessly economized by denying him a barber. One day they led him out to make fun of him at their national council, and Samson, who was now quite shaggy, pulled the great pillars of the hall out from under the roof and died happily amid the general ruin.

"One day they led him out to make fun of him at their national convention."

The moral of Samson's life has been written often, but the story of such a man with such a formidably developed every day evident in this country. If Samson could pull up a few tracks in front of the Philistines, which try to run past him and could arrange to have himself assaulted by a few wrecking gangs in a New York municipal election, the results would be a great blessing to the country.

About this time Samson met with Delilah, a beautiful daughter of Philistines, and a love affair ensued which caused a great deal of trouble. Delilah loved Samson, but objected to his appearing as a human mattress, and one night she sheared his hair off. Then she called in her relatives to admire him, and when Samson arose to knock their heads together, he found that his strength had departed with his hair.

Insistently claiming his share of recognition, he turned abruptly, and made his way to the third deck. There he met a lady, a young bride who was returning to the States with her husband after a prolonged tour through Europe. Her pretty face was radiant with joy, but a second glance revealed that her distress was due to the pleasant pain of happiness.

"Have you seen your father and mother?" he asked sympathetically, knowing that she had looked forward to this great hour with so much longing.

"Yes," she sobbed. "They are here somewhere. But, oh, dear! I cannot see them now for my tears."

Somebody drew a joyful grimace into Curtis' face. "It was the third husband, wasn't it?" he asked. "Your leaning towers of Pisa are all right by way, but deal me the Metropolitan for keeps, an I've just spotted my old dad grinning at me like a cheshire cat."

"So the knowledge was borne in on Curtis that one could feel quite as lonely on a deck as on a land, and, case-hardened wanderer that he was, he badly wanted someone to yell at gleefully among the waiting multitude."

Now the gangways were out, and West folded East in her willing arms. The stolid masses of steamship passengers, the shade of the orange and crimson sky still gleaming over the Jersey shore, and pallid electric lights revealed vaguely the extraordinary grounds beyond the gangways.

To an experienced traveler like Curtis all customs houses were alike, dingy, nerve-racking, supercilious cogs on the movement. Taking his time, for he had time to spare, he strode quickly off the ship, collected his baggage, and was piling with other people's belongings under a big "C," and nodded to Devar.

The key ran down for an instant. "I may look you up tonight," he said. "I'm in Chicago, and I remember we passed the Switzerland after breakfast, and she signalled that she was steaming with the port engine only."

"Well, her trouble was known by wireless, and there is a chap on board whom dad has to meet. This chap is important. I don't know."

"My dear fellow, don't think of leaving your friends on my account this evening," and Curtis, without looking around, showed that he had noticed the baffled elderly lady and two very pretty daughters who were telling Howard Devar under their elegant wings.

"Oh, that's my aunt, and two of my cousins. I have dozens of them, dozens of cousins, that is. Anyhow, old sport, don't wait in after 7:30; just leave word where you may be about a letter."

No further protest by Curtis was possible, because Devar's present behavior was of the wildest order. He seemed to have as many trunks as cousins, and a lantern-jawed customs official was gazing over them all. Perhaps Curtis felt a faint whiff of surprise that his young friend had not introduced him to his relatives, but it vanished instantly. Steamship acquaintance is a nebulous thing at the best; in that respect the land is more unstable than the sea.

At last the stranger in his own country was consigned to a porter, his two steamer trunks, a suitcase, a satchel and a bundle of worn golf clubs were placed on a taxi, and a breath of clean, cold air blew in on his face as the vehicle hurried along West street, that broad and exceedingly useful thoroughfare which New York has flung wrested from its water-side slums.

The chief city of America is fortunate in the fact that that noble harbor presents her in full regalia to the voyager from Europe. That favorable first impression, unimpaired by the majority of the world's capitals, is never lost, and now it enabled Curtis to disregard the garish

Insistently claiming his share of recognition, he turned abruptly, and made his way to the third deck. There he met a lady, a young bride who was returning to the States with her husband after a prolonged tour through Europe. Her pretty face was radiant with joy, but a second glance revealed that her distress was due to the pleasant pain of happiness.

"Have you seen your father and mother?" he asked sympathetically, knowing that she had looked forward to this great hour with so much longing.

"Yes," she sobbed. "They are here somewhere. But, oh, dear! I cannot see them now for my tears."

Somebody drew a joyful grimace into Curtis' face. "It was the third husband, wasn't it?" he asked. "Your leaning towers of Pisa are all right by way, but deal me the Metropolitan for keeps, an I've just spotted my old dad grinning at me like a cheshire cat."

"So the knowledge was borne in on Curtis that one could feel quite as lonely on a deck as on a land, and, case-hardened wanderer that he was, he badly wanted someone to yell at gleefully among the waiting multitude."

"That's all right," said he, looking at a stamp. "I posted you by accident, monsieur," said the other in correct French, though with a quaint accent which Curtis, himself no mean linguist, put down to a Polish or Czech nationality.

"Ca ne fait rien," he replied civilly, and the stamping of the letters being completed, he took them to the letter box. The stranger, who seemed to be rather puzzled, if somewhat reassured, dawdled over the lighting of the cigar, and watched Curtis enter the dining-room. Then he went back to his chair in the cafe. So much he had seen, and the youth in charge of the counter observed--not a great deal, but it went a long way before midnight.

A clock in the hall showed that the hour was five minutes to seven. Half hoping that Devar might actually put in an appearance a little later, Curtis gave his hat and coat to a negro, and decided to dine in the hotel. Evidently the place still retained its old-time reputation as a family and commercial resort. The family element, while in the case of solitary diners, each man could have been labelled as a Chicago or Philadelphia, at almost without error, by those acquainted with the industrial life of the United States.

He ate well, if simply, and treated himself to a small bottle of a noted champagne. At half-past seven, meaning to give Devar ten minutes' notice, he ordered coffee and a glass of green Chartreuse. As a time-killer, there is no liquor more potent, but, regarded in the light of subsequent occurrences, it would be hard to say exactly how far the cunning monkish decoction helped in determining his wayward actions. Undoubtedly some fantastic influence carried him beyond the bounds of calm self-possession within which everyone who knew John Delancy Curtis might have expected to find him. His subsequent light-headedness, his placid acceptance of a mad romance as the one thing that was worth while, his working into impulse, his no less stubborn refusal to return to the beaten path of common sense--all these things were in his character, and the New England dourness of purpose can only be explained, if at all, as an equally unexpected hereditary streak of knight-errantry brought into sudden and exotic life by the good waters of the hotel.

To Be Continued.

WHALEN. Whalen, May 21.--Miss Bessie Morley left Tuesday for Chatham as a delegate to attend the branch meeting of the W. M. S.

Messrs. Clarence and Hector Millson were in London recently on business. Mr. Geo. Sasse, who has been working on the telephone line, is spending a few days at his home here.

The rubber contest of the Mission Band, which closed recently, was a great success, $88 being taken in. Peter McCaw, as winner, got $52, while Lella Moore got $37. The defeated side will give a concert on June 11th, when a good program will be provided.

BLLENHEIM. Blenheim, May 20.--W. B. Rutherford has returned to his home here, after completing his second year in medicine at Toronto.

A. W. Ross has almost completely recovered from his recent illness. C. C. Rickard, of Ridgeway, spent today here on business for the Bell Telephone Company.

H. O. Rumble, of the Chatham C. C., visited at his home here recently. Rev. Mr. Fossie Russell has returned from Toronto after completing her university course.

Alisa Craig, May 20.--Mr. Clarence Bowman, of Denfield, visited friends here recently. Mr. Cecil McLeellan, of the Standard Bank, of Parkhill, spent Sunday at his home here.

Miss Evelyn Brown has returned to London after a week's visit with friends. Mr. Bud Murray, of the Standard Bank, Forest, spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Murray.

Rev. Mr. Brown, an eloquent address on Sunday morning. Mother's day was observed in the Methodist Church.

An Old Maid's Association will be held in the town hall this evening, under the auspices of the Standard Bank. Mr. E. W. O'Leary, of Woodstock, visited Mr. and Mrs. W. O'Leary recently.

A close game of ball was played on the local diamond recently between Lucan and Alisa Craig, the score being 4 to 3 in favor of Alisa Craig.

KOMOKA. Komoka, May 21.--John McMurphy, of London, visited his mother, who is seriously ill, recently.

Rev. Mr. McLeellan, of the Presbyterian Church on Sunday, preached a splendid sermon. Mrs. Barrett, who has been ill, is somewhat better.

Mr. Wm. Campbell is spending a few weeks with relatives in Michigan. Mrs. Thos. Cook and Son will take charge of the party at Bristol and will bring them back to that point.

FLORENCE. Florence, May 20.--The Free Methodists' quarterly meeting service was well attended yesterday.

Mrs. Armstrong visited Mrs. Wm. Sinclair yesterday. Dr. Kelly was in London yesterday.

Mr. N. McDonald, of the Public School Inspector, was here on Monday. Col. McDonald visited with his brother in London recently.

Miss Mabel Black is spending some time with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Black, of London.

The house of Henry Buchanan, V. S., was burned to the ground on Sunday. The cause of the fire is unknown.

Messrs. Shaw & Hadden, of Alvington, were here on their way to visit with Mr. R. McKellar, Rutherford, was a guest of Mrs. McDonald recently.

ALLEGED SLANDER. Hearing in Jewish Libel Suit Case Starts at Quebec.

[Canadian Press.] Quebec, May 20.--Declaring that there was absolutely nothing in the Talmudic injunction Jews against Christians, Rabbi Abramovitch, of Montreal, continued his evidence in the superior court in the libel suit brought by Messrs. Lazarovitch and Oremberg, two local Hebrews, against J. P. Raymond for uttering, and Rene Leduc for printing alleged slanders against the Jewish race. Mr. Plamondon contended that the Talmud sanctioned the commission of crimes by Jews against Christians.

Advertiser Patterns

Beauty Pattern Company.

No. 9533 -- A Serviceable Suit for the Little Boy

Boys' Russian Blouse, Suit, With Knickerbockers. -- White pique was used to make this model, which is equally appropriate for linen, corduroy, flannel, galatea, flannel, and other seasonable fabrics. Blue linen, with simple stitching, for a finish, would be very appropriate. The design shows a broad pleat and shoulder tucks in front. The sleeve is tucked at the wrist. The knickerbockers are cut in regulation style and the fullness at the knee may be held by an elastic band. The pattern is cut in four sizes, 3, 4, 5 and 6 years. It requires 2 1/4 yards of 44-inch material for the 4-year size.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps.

PATTERN DEPARTMENT OF THE ADVERTISER.

Please send above-mentioned pattern, as per directions given below, to:

Name

Town

Province

Measurement--Bust..... Waist.....

Age (if child's or miss's pattern).....

CAUTION.--Be careful to inclose above illustration, and send size of pattern wanted. When the pattern is sent, you need only mark 23, 24 or whatever it may be. When in waist measure 24, 25 or whatever it may be. If a skirt, give waist and length measurements. When miss's or child's pattern, write only the figure representing the age, it is not necessary to write "inches" or "years." Patterns cannot reach you in less than one week from the date of order. The price of each pattern is 10 cents in cash or in postage stamps.

Halifax Strike Is Not Yet Settled

Obstructions Placed on Tracks by Special to Advertiser.

Halifax, May 19.--Pending another conference between the board of control and the tramway company and the striking motormen and conductors, to be held today, no attempt was made to operate the street railway today. A conference was held today at which the whole question in dispute was thoroughly thrashed out and the meeting adjourned to allow the local directors to discuss the demand insisted on by Strike Leader Mosher, that all men must be reinstated in the positions they occupied at the beginning of the trouble.

The tramway company attempted to clear the rails of the obstructions placed upon them by strike sympathizers, but a force of fifteen men sent out was ordered to return.

A month in Europe

HERE is an opportunity to see some of the most famous places of the Old World at a modest outlay. A health-bringing trip and a liberal education combined. You take the "Royal Edward" at Montreal on July 15 for Bristol.

Thos. Cook & Son will take charge of the party at Bristol and will bring them back to that point.

Rovers' Travel Club Tour

Visit in London the ancient Tower, the Abbey, Houses of Parliament, Museum, and haunts made famous by Dickens and Thackeray. Paris with its cafés and gay boulevards and buildings redolent of France's eventful past. The Beach at Ostend. Brussels and its art galleries. Ghent and the great 1913 World's Exposition. Amsterdam and its canals and bridges. Antwerp, The Hague and the Isle of Marken. Quaint old Holland. And Bristol where one may visit some of the most interesting spots in England.

For full information and illustrated booklet apply any agent or H. C. Boulter, General Agent, Canadian Northern Steamship Line, Ltd., 52 King Street, East, Toronto, Ontario.

YOUR ROOMS Freshly Papered

Will make everything look so much more homelike. Call and make your selection now. It will pay you.

A. E. Jolly & Co.

196 DUNDAS STREET

GLIESSLYE EATS DIRT CLEANS DISINFECTS

EMFORT SOAP

"IT'S ALL RIGHT"

More Soap for Less Money --- Less Money for More Soap

POSITIVELY THE LARGEST SALE IN CANADA

JUST ARRIVED

Car Load

—of—

Summer Furniture

Suitable for Verandah, Porch or Lawn, Opened Up for Your Inspection.

Comprising Folding Steamers Chairs, Rockers and Arm Chairs, Folding Lawn Seats with roll seats, solid oak. Frames are selected white maple, and are not to be compared with the ordinary verandah chairs and rockers now on the market. Finished in the natural wood, grass green or red vermillion. Coated with carriage varnish to stand the weather. Seats and backs are double woven cane. Strong and dependable goods. Prices range from $1.25 upwards. Back posts are 3-inch, 2 1/2-inch, 2-inch and 1 1/2 inches thick. Reasonably priced, as we don't intend carrying them over the season.

You will thoroughly enjoy their luxurious comfort. Better see them before the well runs dry.

John Ferguson & Sons

174 to 180 KING STREET

Just East of Richmond Street.

220-222

CANADIAN PACIFIC

VICTORIA DAY

HOMESEEKERS' EXCURSIONS

Each Tuesday, until Oct. 23

Winnipeg and return.....$35.00

Edmonton and return.....$40.00

Other points in proportion. Return limit, two months.

HOMESEEKERS' TRAIN leaves Toronto 2 p.m., each Tuesday, May to August, inclusive. Best train to take.

AROUND THE WORLD

Via Empress of Asia

leaving Liverpool June 14, calling at Madeira, Cape Town, Durban, Colombo, Singapore and Hong Kong, arriving Vancouver Aug. 30. Vessel remains 14 days at Hong Kong. Rate for entire cruise, $639.10. Exclusive of maintenance between arrival time in England and departure of Empress of Asia, and stop-over at Hong Kong.

STEAMSHIP EXPRESS

leaves Toronto 12:45 p.m., on sailing days, making direct connection with steamers at Port McNicoll.

GENERAL CHANGE OF TIME JUNE 1.

Particulars from Canadian Pacific Agents or write M. G. MURPHY, D. P. A., C. P. Ry., Toronto; W. FULTON, C. P. Ry. Agent, London.

PUTS AN END TO BACKACHE QUICKLY CURES WEAK KIDNEYS

A Few Doses Give Relief, Help Lifeless Organs Regain Health, Strength and Activity.

It is useless, dangerous, and unnecessary to be tortured with the digging, twisting pains of backache and rheumatism, or suffer with disagreeable kidney and bladder disorders, when a speedy cure is at hand.

The new discovery, Croxone, provides a remedy which every sufferer can now depend upon to promptly and surely relieve all such misery and bring about a speedy cure.

Croxone cures these troubles because it quickly overcomes the very cause of the disease. It soaks right into the stopped-up, inactive kidneys, through the membranes and linings; cleans out the little filtering glands; neutralizes and dissolves the poisonous uric acid and makes the kidneys filter and sift from the blood all the waste and poisonous matter that clog the system and cause such troubles.

It does not matter whether you have but slight symptoms or the most chronic, aggravated case of kidney, bladder trouble, or rheumatism that it is possible to imagine, for the very principle of Croxone is such that it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results.

An original package of Croxone costs but a trifle, and all druggists are authorized to return the purchase price if it fails to give the desired results the very first time you use it.

New York is going to give away score cards at the Grand Circuit meeting. It has been tried before without doing any good.

The restaurant men, who have been supplying the company with food for the strikebreakers, were warned today to desist or prepare for trouble. They have decided to desist.

The military forces are in readiness to take over the situation at a moment's notice.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used for over SIXTY YEARS by MILLIONS OF MOTHERS for their CHILDREN WHILE TEething, with PERFECT SUCCESS. IT SOOTHES THE CHILD, SOFTENS THE GUMS, ALWAYS ALL PAIN, CURES WIND COLIC, and is the best remedy for diarrhoea. Sold all over the world.

FRY'S COCOA

It's Flavor Is Delicious. Buy It.

PERE MARQUETTE

FOR VICTORIA DAY, SATURDAY, MAY 24, 1913.

Will issue excursion tickets at one first class one-way fare for round trip between authorized points in Canada.

Trains going 5:49 a.m., 9:45 a.m., 1:20 p.m., 2:30 p.m., 7 p.m.

Returning, leave Stanley Beach 3:45, 5 p.m., 9 p.m.

W. E. Woffenden, G. P. A.; H. M. Hayes, depot agent.

Trains marked * run daily. Those not marked, daily, except Sunday.

Trains marked * run daily. Those not marked, daily, except Sunday.

Trains marked * run daily. Those not marked, daily, except Sunday.

Trains marked * run daily. Those not marked, daily, except Sunday.

TRAVELLERS' GUIDE

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY. SARNIA TUNNEL BRIDGE AND TORONTO.

Arrive from the East--3:52 a.m., 10:56 a.m., 11:12 a.m., 11:38 a.m., 6:30 p.m., 10:00 p.m., 10:45 p.m.

Arrive from the West--12:14 a.m., 2:43 a.m., 8:50 a.m., 11:55 a.m., 1:10 p.m., 4:10 p.m., 6:28 p.m.

Depart for the East--12:19 a.m., 3:48 a.m., 7:20 a.m., 9:00 a.m., 12:05 p.m., 2:05 p.m., 4:23 p.m., 6:53 p.m.

Depart for the West--9:51 a.m., 1:40 p.m., 11:18 a.m., 11:35 a.m., 1:40 p.m., 6:20 p.m.

LONDON AND WINDSOR. Arrive--10:23 a.m., 1:35 p.m., 6:50 p.m., 11:05 p.m.

Depart--11:15 a.m., 1:35 p.m., 6:45 p.m., 11:25 p.m.

STRATFORD BRANCH. Arrive--11:15 a.m., 1:35 p.m., 6:45 p.m., 11:25 p.m.

Depart--11:15 a.m., 1:35 p.m., 6:45 p.m., 11:25 p.m.

LONDON, HURON AND BRUCE. Arrive--10:50 a.m., 6:10 p.m.

Depart--8:30 a.m., 4:40 p.m.

Trains marked * run daily. Those not marked, daily, except Sunday.

CANADIAN PACIFIC RAILWAY. Arrive from the East--11:42 a.m., 6:50 p.m., 8:15 p.m., 11:15 p.m.

Arrive from the West--4:30 a.m., 11:20 a.m., 12:15 p.m., 4:45 p.m., 6:15 p.m.

Depart for the East--4:35 a.m., 7:00 a.m., 11:15 p.m., 11:25 p.m.

Depart for the West--8:00 a.m., 11:50 p.m., 7:00 p.m., 8:25 p.m., 11:25 p.m.

Trains marked * run daily. Those not marked, daily, except Sunday.

PERE MARQUETTE RAILWAY. Arrive--8:45 a.m., 12:50, 1:50, 6:10, 10:10 p.m.

Depart--5:40, 7:10, 9:45 a.m., 2:30, 7:00 p.m.

White Embroidery Dresses, $4.50

Women's White Embroidery Dresses, made from fine Swiss embroidery with lace insertion trimming; sizes 34 to 40 bust measure. Thursday special $4.50

New Balkan Blouse, with white, tan, navy or red collar, sizes 32 to 38 bust measure. Special...98¢

New Brocade Messaline Silks, $1.25

Just received the latest style Brocade Messaline Silks with shot effects; colors of tan, navy, green, Nell rose and brown, yard wide. Special...$1.25

Black Paillette Silks for 89¢

500 yards of Black Paillette Silk, high, lustrous finish, guaranteed to wear, full yard wide. Sale price, yard...89¢

Galateas, special for children's dresses; the best washing material in stripes and plain colors. Special, per yard...15¢

Fancy Parasols, in light and dark colors. Values up to $2.50. On sale Thursday for...$1.50

Clearing sale of Colored Trimmed Hats. Values up to $10.00, on sale Thursday for...$4.50

Cream Cheviot Serge, 48 inches wide; the correct weight for separate coats. Special, the yard...$1.00

34-inch Shantung Pongee, in natural color only. Special, a yard...39¢

Children's Frilled Parasols, in sky, pink and white, Jap silk. Each...75¢

$1.25 Leather-Lined Hand Bags, with small change purse. Thursday only 83¢

New Art Satens in good range of colors, extra wide. Special...15¢, 17¢, 20¢

Black Resilda, 42 inches wide. Regular 85¢ value, on sale Thursday morning, at yard...59¢

Cream Bedford Cord Suiting, 42 inches wide. At per yard...75¢

10 pieces of All-Linen Crash Towelling, 17 inches wide, colored borders. Per yard...5¢

AGENTS FOR BUTTERICK PATTERNS.

R. J. Young & Co.

BUTTERICK PATTERNS ARE THE BEST.

AUSTRIAN NAVY REFORMS TO BE CARRIED OUT AT ONCE

Military Control, Which Has Resulted in Enormous Losses, To Be Abolished—New Dreadnoughts Will Be Built.

[Canadian Press.] New York, May 21.—A Vienna cable to the Tribune says: On the recommendation of the prince imperial, Archduke Franz Ferdinand, the Austrian government has determined to carry out a series of reforms in the navy, which have been wasted, because the votes of army officers in the council of the war department have hindered proper economies.

Austria is now ambitious to build a navy second to none in the inland seas. Heavy appropriations are to be asked for Dreadnoughts and cruisers for service in the Mediterranean, while many new coast defense ships are to be put in commission on the Danube. Hitherto the navy has been administered as a department of the war. This old-fashioned arrangement has long been criticised. Archduke Franz Ferdinand holds that the great lesson taught by the Balkan war is that specialists must be entrusted with the conduct of each arm of the service. The only question, he says, which should be left to civilians is how much the nation can afford to spend for real preparedness.

URGES PRESBYTERIANS TO WITHDRAW FROM COUNCIL

Hot Debate Over Charges That Attempt Is Being Made By Other Churches To Influence National Politics—Move Would Be Very Foolish at This Time Says Leader.

[Canadian Press.] Atlanta, Ga., May 21.—Interest among delegates to the pan-presbyterian pentecost centred today about the session of the southern assembly, where the debate bearing upon the alleged political activities of the federal council of churches of Christ in America was resumed.

Charges that this organization, composed of some thirty powerful churches of various denominations, is endeavoring to influence national politics, were made by Dr. T. M. Lowry, of Galveston. Dr. Lowry urged that the Southern Presbyterian Church withdraw from the federal council.

Replying to these charges, Dr. Thornton Whaling, president of the Columbia Seminary, Columbia, and chairman of the committee on foreign correspondence, argued that while there are many things relating to the federal council which the southern assembly does not approve, withdrawal would be unwise. In the united assembly the choice of a meeting place for next year's convention was uppermost today. A number of important matters occupied the attention of the northern assembly, the morning session being devoted chiefly to disposing of an accumulation of routine business.

Commissioners to the General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church in session here, voted today to have the 1914 General Assembly at Newcastle, Pa.

ANNUAL MEETING OF Y. W. C. A. SHOWS GOOD PROGRESS MADE

New Branches of the Work Put Under Way and New Officers Elected.

The annual meeting of the Y. W. C. A. was held in the rooms of the institution Tuesday night. The report, submitted by Miss Darch, the secretary, was as follows: "As we are about to close another year, we feel much is due to the co-operation and help given in general by our friends, who lend a willing hand when we are in need, thus making it possible to accomplish many branches and start on new ones, which otherwise would have been impossible. We wish to extend our most hearty appreciation for the untiring and willing help given by both members and friends.

Steady Progress. We can report a year of steady progress in all departments, while some changes have been made. Our improvements have been added. Our work is so varied we cannot put in many phases, but we can with pleasure see from day to day those whom it is our privilege to help.

General Report. Calls made, 194; calls received, 1,240; girls placed in boarding-houses, 85; letters mailed, 794; letters received, 191; transcripts, 341; transfer cards given, 2; factory meetings held, 13; girls placed in positions, 17; institu-

Steel Interests Behind War Talk

British Speaker Says Armament Producers Are Menace to World's Peace.

[Canadian Press.] London, May 20.—"Welcoming such promising incidents as the new regime of peace in the country and the preparations for the completion of one hundred years of the completion of the strained relations which had existed between Great Britain and Germany and uttered a warning against what he described as one of the great dangers of the present time, namely, the fact that a number of people are endeavoring to become a vested interest in the production of armaments which threatened to become a national industry and get control of the nation; as the liquor trade did a few years back.

FELL INTO WELL

Little Two-Year-Old Had a Close Call From Drowning.

[Canadian Press.] Guelph, May 21.—The little two-year-old daughter of Edward Hewitson, of Pilkington Township, fell into a well 52 feet deep, in which there was 22 feet of water. Play- ing with her little brother, they got some boards loose, and the little one tumbled through. The other child ran for the father, who was working in a field close by. He went down the well and managed to reach the little one in time to save her life.

WAR RISK

Underwriters Write Five Guineas To Cover Japan-American Clash.

[Canadian Press.] London, May 21.—The underwriters quote five guineas per cent to cover the risk of an outbreak of war between the United States and Japan for three months. Eight guineas per cent was quoted to cover a similar risk for six months.

SINGLE FARE FOR VICTORIA DAY.

The Grand Trunk Railway System will issue round trip tickets at single fare between all stations in Canada fare between all stations in Canada and Port Huron, Mich., Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Black Rock and Suspension Bridge, N. Y.

NEIGHBOR THINKS THAT GIRL DIED OF CONVULSIONS ENLARGED BY P. M.

Those Who Were First to Find Catherine Mingo Scout Foul Play Theory.

Apparently Nothing to Indicate That She Was Accompanied or Attacked by Another.

Mrs. M. Timbrell, at the rear of whose store the dying Catherine Mingo was found Tuesday night, is inclined to think the girl was in the throes of convulsions when she wandered into her backyard.

"I was sitting in my dining-room with Mrs. Merrycraft, who stays with me, when I heard a noise as if someone were throwing a ball against the house. I listened for a moment or more and then walked to the back door to see what was causing the noise, but could see nothing. I then started to go back, but something prompted me to walk into the backyard, and after going around the house I found the little girl lying on the ground with her feet towards the fence. Her head was on the corner of the house and she was lying on her back. I attempted to lift her, but she was quite heavy. I called to Mrs. Merrycraft, and she came over. I then called to the neighbors, and they came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a judge, and he came. I then called to a lawyer, and he came. I then called to a doctor, and he came. I then called to a nurse, and she came. I then called to a policeman, and he came. I then called to a coroner, and he came. I then called to a jury, and they came. I then called to a

Financial and Commercial

SALES WERE SLOW ON MARKET TODAY

On account of the threatening weather there was but a small attendance at the local market today, and the sales were rather slow.

The prices of hay, of which not more than 10 loads were sold, remained the same as on Tuesday, from $10 to $11.50 per ton. The majority of the sales were made at $11 per ton. One load of wheat straw sold for $3 per ton.

Oats, which have been in brisk demand during the week, were not plentiful were quoted at the same price as has prevailed for the last five days, $13 per cwt.

Grain, Per Cwt.	Grain, Per Bushel.
Wheat, per cwt. 1.35 to 1.55	Wheat, per bushel. 1.08 to 1.15
Oats, per cwt. 1.35 to 1.55	Oats, per bushel. 1.08 to 1.15
Barley, per cwt. 1.35 to 1.55	Barley, per bushel. 1.08 to 1.15
Rye, per cwt. 1.35 to 1.55	Rye, per bushel. 1.08 to 1.15
Flour, per cwt. 1.35 to 1.55	Flour, per bushel. 1.08 to 1.15
Feed, per cwt. 1.35 to 1.55	Feed, per bushel. 1.08 to 1.15
Hay, per cwt. 1.35 to 1.55	Hay, per bushel. 1.08 to 1.15
Straw, per cwt. 1.35 to 1.55	Straw, per bushel. 1.08 to 1.15

Vegetables.	Fruits.
Lettuces, per doz. 40 to 50	Apples, per doz. 1.25 to 1.50
Potatoes, per doz. 1.00 to 1.50	Apples, per doz. 1.25 to 1.50
Peas, per doz. 40 to 50	Apples, per doz. 1.25 to 1.50
Carrots, per doz. 40 to 50	Apples, per doz. 1.25 to 1.50
Parsley, per doz. 40 to 50	Apples, per doz. 1.25 to 1.50
Green onions, per doz. 40 to 50	Apples, per doz. 1.25 to 1.50
Watercress, per doz. 40 to 50	Apples, per doz. 1.25 to 1.50
Spinach, per doz. 40 to 50	Apples, per doz. 1.25 to 1.50

Dairy Products.	Meats.
Butter, per lb. 25 to 35	Beef, per lb. 10 to 15
Butter, per lb. 25 to 35	Beef, per lb. 10 to 15
Butter, per lb. 25 to 35	Beef, per lb. 10 to 15
Butter, per lb. 25 to 35	Beef, per lb. 10 to 15
Butter, per lb. 25 to 35	Beef, per lb. 10 to 15
Butter, per lb. 25 to 35	Beef, per lb. 10 to 15
Butter, per lb. 25 to 35	Beef, per lb. 10 to 15
Butter, per lb. 25 to 35	Beef, per lb. 10 to 15

For Other Markets See Page 9

PRODUCE.	CHICAGO BOARD OF TRADE.
Wheat, per bushel. 1.08 to 1.15	Wheat, per bushel. 1.08 to 1.15
Oats, per bushel. 1.08 to 1.15	Oats, per bushel. 1.08 to 1.15
Barley, per bushel. 1.08 to 1.15	Barley, per bushel. 1.08 to 1.15
Rye, per bushel. 1.08 to 1.15	Rye, per bushel. 1.08 to 1.15
Flour, per bushel. 1.08 to 1.15	Flour, per bushel. 1.08 to 1.15
Feed, per bushel. 1.08 to 1.15	Feed, per bushel. 1.08 to 1.15
Hay, per bushel. 1.08 to 1.15	Hay, per bushel. 1.08 to 1.15
Straw, per bushel. 1.08 to 1.15	Straw, per bushel. 1.08 to 1.15

NOTED ZIONIST VISITING CANADA

Delegation of Noted Jews to Meet So-low at Hamilton.

London Zionists will send a delegation to Hamilton, May 27, to meet Nahum Sokolow, the noted Jewish writer and publicist, who will speak in the Association Hall, Hamilton.

Mr. Sokolow is the editor of a Jewish paper in Russia, a talented linguist, and an ex-member of the Russian Duma. He is in America in the interests of the Zionist movement, the aim of which is to secure the return of the Hebrew race to Palestine. He claims that the colonization of Palestine would not fail as Baron Hirsch's colonization attempt in Argentina failed, because in Palestine there are Jews and cities to attract the colonists away from agricultural pursuits.

PERSONAL MENTION

Mr. Robert T. Jones and daughter, Bessie, of 4 Horton street, are leaving for a three months' visit to England and Wales for the benefit of their health. Mr. Jones has been away from his home over thirty years.

ROYAL ARCANUM

Thirty-Sixth Annual Convention is in Progress at Quebec.

Quebec, May 21.—One hundred and twenty delegates composing the supreme council of the Royal Arcanum, with their wives and daughters, have arrived here to attend the 36th annual convention of this body, which will last over a week.

DRESDEN.

Dresden, May 21.—Mr. and Mrs. Alex. McRitchie and children, of Sombra, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Alex. McRitchie.

Tooke Bros., com. 51
Toronto Paper 102 1/2
Toronto Railway 102 1/2
Tuckett, com. 55
Twin City, com. 55
Winning Railway 102 1/2
Comstock Bank 102 1/2
Crown Reserve 102 1/2
Hoffinger 102 1/2
La. 102 1/2
Nipissing 102 1/2
Trethewey 102 1/2
Bank of Commerce 102 1/2
Bank of Montreal 102 1/2
Bank of Toronto 102 1/2
Canada Landed 102 1/2
Canada Loan 102 1/2
Central Canada Loan 102 1/2
Colonial Investment 102 1/2
Dominion Savings 102 1/2
Hamilton 102 1/2
Huron & Erie 102 1/2
Landed Banking & Loan 102 1/2
London & Canadian 102 1/2
National Trust 102 1/2
Ontario Loan 102 1/2
Ontario Trust 102 1/2
Real Estate 102 1/2
Toronto General Trusts 102 1/2
Toronto Mortgage 102 1/2
Toronto Savings 102 1/2
Trust 102 1/2
Canada Bond, bonds 102 1/2
Can. Locomotive, bonds 102 1/2
Canadian Dev., bonds 102 1/2
Medican L., bonds 102 1/2
Pennam, bonds 102 1/2
Spanish River, bonds 102 1/2
Morning sales: Pacific Burt, preferred, 102 1/2
Toronto Railway, 102 1/2
Maple Leaf, preferred, 102 1/2
Cannons, 25 at 74 1/2; Macdonald, 75 at 102 1/2
25 at 29 1/2; Dominion Bank, 10 at 21 1/2; Toronto Mortgage, 31 at 102 1/2; La. Rose, 70 at 102 1/2 25 at 104; Consumers' Gas, 10 at 102 1/2; Winnipeg, 15 at 20 1/2; Mackay, 10 at 22, and 25 shares miscellaneous.

HUGHES REFUSES TO STATE WHY CHIEF RESIGNED

Demands That All Questions Be Put on the Order Paper.

Premier Says Bill Is Coming to Deal With Letter Carriers' Salaries.

It is true that Hon. MacKenzie has resigned, said Hon. Col. Hughes, finally. He preferred, however, that any questions which the member for Pictou might ask be put on the order paper, when they could be placed upon the order paper.

Mr. MacDonald was not content. "It was stated that the resignation was a resignation of an unusual character. He thought Parliament was entitled to a prompt and frank statement of the reasons for the resignation. Premier Borden interposed with a reiteration of the statement that this information must be secured through a regular process of the order paper.

There is no reason for the Premier's interruption or his rather petulant remark, retorted Mr. MacDonald. He maintained he was quite in order in calling for explanation to Parliament.

Must Have Order.

"I have said it is true that Hon. MacKenzie has resigned," repeated Hon. Col. Hughes. "But I ask the member to put his questions on the order paper, when they will be answered."

Mr. Michael Clark, of Red Deer, was inclined to indulge the Minister of Justice in this. "I earnestly hope," he added, "that the minister's adherence to the sound principle of home rule will not threaten the immediate disruption of the Empire." Sir Wilfrid Laurier inquired as to when the Government proposed to submit to Parliament the railway legislation the Premier had forecast.

Coming Shortly.

Mr. Borden interrupted the Government expectation was to bring it down either toward the end of the present week, or the beginning of next week.

Repeating a former query of the Liberal leader, the question of the character of the proposed Government legislation not yet brought down, Mr. Borden charged a bill amending the present statute law respecting the liability of municipalities for the payment of militia called out to aid the civil power. Sir Wilfrid Laurier inquired as to when the measure would be reached this session.

The Minister of Justice was also preparing bills respecting the staffs of penitentiaries and the judges act where made necessary by provincial legislation increasing the number of judges in certain provinces.

Postmaster-General had a short bill in preparation amending the post-carriers and other mechanical matters of a non-contentious character. Some amendments would also be submitted to the House in respect to the organization of the department.

Mr. W. P. MacLean gave notice that at the next sitting of the House he would submit a motion requiring that before the C. P. R. bill be introduced increased capitalization it must obtain the authority of Parliament.

Mr. McLean, Halifax, the financial critic of the Opposition, assumed the budget debate, replying to the financial statement submitted to the House by the Minister of Finance on Monday of last week.

He rejoined in continued Canadian prosperity. The Liberals were glad to see the policies they had inaugurated, being maintained by their successors. Even the latter, in his position, he had been lavish in criticism. The Laurier regime was experiencing the most sincere form of flattery.

Delay of the Budget.

Having dealt with the budget, Mr. MacLean pointed out that the budget had led to the House and country to anticipate important announcements in relation to tariff and trade. These, however, were lacking, as a result of the delay in the introduction of the budget. He pointed out that the Conservatives had mortgaged themselves to certain interests, which are now looking for the payment of the first installment.

While in Opposition the Conservatives had contended that the Liberal tariff was not suitable to the interests of the country. In his Halifax platform Mr. Borden had made an important tariff declaration. No effort had been made to implement such promises.

As evidence that the Conservatives had made pledges, Mr. MacLean instanced the case of the Independent Cordage Company, which in September, 1911, sold its goods subject to the condition that the late Government would be returned to power, and in the event of its defeat they expected the duty on rope to be restored.

AGENT SUICIDED

Left Note Saying He Was Going to Try the Sleepy Side.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 21.—J. S. E. Hitchcock, general agent of the Wells-Fargo Express Company here, committed suicide last night by shooting himself. Mrs. Hitchcock and two children returned to a sanatorium in Cresco, Pa. Hitchcock left a brief note in which he stated he had decided to try the sleepy side, and asked that his wife and the general superintendent of the express company be notified.

"GLAD HAND" WILL BE EXTENDED TO OLD LAND FOLK

St. George's Society Appoints a Committee of Welcome to Meet Immigrants.

Indignation Expressed at False Rumors That Newcomers Had Carried Off Beds.

The members of St. George's Benevolent Society met last evening in their hall on Richmond street, E. W. G. R. Bartram in the chair. The chief business under discussion was the immigrant Englishmen, Bro. Ronald R. A. Emery was present and expressed surprise at no St. George's Society members being present to receive immigrant Englishmen on arrival in London, and suggested that in future immigration agent Mr. J. Riggs be asked to notify St. George's Society of the approximate date of arrival of any English immigrants to this city.

LOCAL NEWS

Thanks for Bells.—The Children's Aid Society is grateful for 50 glad bells donated to the Children's Society by the London Horticultural Society.

More Building Permits.—Building permits were issued today to G. Fielding, Grosvenor street, West London, for a $1,400 brick residence, and to Fred Jarvis, Laura street, for a $1,800 residence.

CHURCH ELECTION.

Representatives of the quarterly official board will be elected tonight at the mid-week service in the First Methodist Church.

First-Time Drunks.—Three first-time drunks were discharged in police court this morning. Among them was James Murphy, who said he just came from Toronto, and would walk out again if the magistrate gave him a chance. He was told to go.

CONTRACT FOR SCHOOL.

The trustees of the Centennial Methodist Church Tuesday night awarded contracts for the new Sunday school. The amount involved is $2,147.

Mr. Eastwood Resigns.—Mr. Charles W. Eastwood, cashier, Pere Marquette freight department of this city, has resigned and leaves on Monday for Walkerville, having accepted a position with Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited.

DO YOUR SHOPPING FRIDAY.

The merchants of London wish to remind the public in general that Saturday comes on Friday this week, and that all shopping for the holiday and Sunday should be done early on Friday. There will be a market on Friday instead of Saturday, and the stores will be open in the evening.

AN EXHIBITION SALE.

The Children's Mission Band of St. George's Society last evening will hold an exhibition sale of work on Thursday afternoon. An excellent program has been arranged and the little folks looking forward to a large attendance.

PROMISSORY NOTE CASE.

Mr. F. C. Saunders, of Vancouver, has issued a writ against the city of London, in which he claims $11,167, in which the city of London is the defendant. The writ is returnable on March 21, 1911, for the sum of $11,167.

CHARGES TRESPASS.

Mr. J. M. McEwen acting on behalf of John Cropp, has issued a writ against Thomas Colbert, in which the plaintiff claims $500 damages for trespass on the east half of the south half of lot 10, London Township. The defendant is also alleged to have dug holes, erected posts and fences and cut down trees on the plaintiff's property. Both parties are residents of London Township.

BOLD BILL FINED.

William Coyne was fined $5 or 15 days by Magistrate Judd for being drunk. According to the evidence of a lady living in the northeast section of the city, Coyne entered her house while she was enjoying an afternoon siesta, and boldly proceeded upstairs to her room, called her very unsavory names, and when she bound over to keep the peace, the Magistrate Judd held that the fine was sufficient punishment.

WEDDING AT CATHEDRAL

Eldest Daughter of Bishop Williams Becomes Bride of Former Londoner.

BRIILLANT SOCIETY EVENT

At 2:30 this afternoon St. Paul's Cathedral was the scene of an interesting event, it being the occasion of the marriage of Miss Margaret Laura Williams, eldest daughter of the Right Rev. the Lord Bishop of Huron, to Mr. William Smith, C.E., of Edmonton, Alta., second son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Smith, of London.

THE BRIDE'S COSTUME.

The charming bride, who is one of London's most popular young ladies, was accompanied to the altar by her uncle, Mr. A. E. Burwell. She was attired in ivory duchess satin, trimmed with seed pearls and rose point lace, the latter being the gift of Miss Burwell, an aunt of the bride.

MANY GUESTS PRESENT.

Mr. Middleton Manigault, of New York, assisted the groom, and Messrs. Frank Venables, of Ingersoll; Hobson Leonard, Gerald Pearson and Allan McLean acted as ushers.

The wedding marches and appropriate music were rendered by Dr. T. J. Palmer, organist of St. Paul's Church, Toronto, and during the ceremony Mrs. A. C. Patterson sang "Calm Was the Night" most exquisitely.

The evening guests were noted Mrs. C. G. Halliwell and daughter, Mrs. G. W. Walkerville, aunt and cousin of the bride, and Miss Molly Brown, of Whitehaven, England.

"GLAD HAND" WILL BE EXTENDED TO OLD LAND FOLK

St. George's Society Appoints a Committee of Welcome to Meet Immigrants.

Indignation Expressed at False Rumors That Newcomers Had Carried Off Beds.

The members of St. George's Benevolent Society met last evening in their hall on Richmond street, E. W. G. R. Bartram in the chair. The chief business under discussion was the immigrant Englishmen, Bro. Ronald R. A. Emery was present and expressed surprise at no St. George's Society members being present to receive immigrant Englishmen on arrival in London, and suggested that in future immigration agent Mr. J. Riggs be asked to notify St. George's Society of the approximate date of arrival of any English immigrants to this city.

LOCAL NEWS

Thanks for Bells.—The Children's Aid Society is grateful for 50 glad bells donated to the Children's Society by the London Horticultural Society.

More Building Permits.—Building permits were issued today to G. Fielding, Grosvenor street, West London, for a $1,400 brick residence, and to Fred Jarvis, Laura street, for a $1,800 residence.

CHURCH ELECTION.

Representatives of the quarterly official board will be elected tonight at the mid-week service in the First Methodist Church.

First-Time Drunks.—Three first-time drunks were discharged in police court this morning. Among them was James Murphy, who said he just came from Toronto, and would walk out again if the magistrate gave him a chance. He was told to go.

CONTRACT FOR SCHOOL.

The trustees of the Centennial Methodist Church Tuesday night awarded contracts for the new Sunday school. The amount involved is $2,147.

Mr. Eastwood Resigns.—Mr. Charles W. Eastwood, cashier, Pere Marquette freight department of this city, has resigned and leaves on Monday for Walkerville, having accepted a position with Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited.

DO YOUR SHOPPING FRIDAY.

The merchants of London wish to remind the public in general that Saturday comes on Friday this week, and that all shopping for the holiday and Sunday should be done early on Friday. There will be a market on Friday instead of Saturday, and the stores will be open in the evening.

AN EXHIBITION SALE.

The Children's Mission Band of St. George's Society last evening will hold an exhibition sale of work on Thursday afternoon. An excellent program has been arranged and the little folks looking forward to a large attendance.

PROMISSORY NOTE CASE.

Mr. F. C. Saunders, of Vancouver, has issued a writ against the city of London, in which he claims $11,167, in which the city of London is the defendant. The writ is returnable on March 21, 1911, for the sum of $11,167.

CHARGES TRESPASS.

Mr. J. M. McEwen acting on behalf of John Cropp, has issued a writ against Thomas Colbert, in which the plaintiff claims $500 damages for trespass on the east half of the south half of lot 10, London Township. The defendant is also alleged to have dug holes, erected posts and fences and cut down trees on the plaintiff's property. Both parties are residents of London Township.

BOLD BILL FINED.

William Coyne was fined $5 or 15 days by Magistrate Judd for being drunk. According to the evidence of a lady living in the northeast section of the city, Coyne entered her house while she was enjoying an afternoon siesta, and boldly proceeded upstairs to her room, called her very unsavory names, and when she bound over to keep the peace, the Magistrate Judd held that the fine was sufficient punishment.

WEDDING AT CATHEDRAL

Eldest Daughter of Bishop Williams Becomes Bride of Former Londoner.

BRIILLANT SOCIETY EVENT

At 2:30 this afternoon St. Paul's Cathedral was the scene of an interesting event, it being the occasion of the marriage of Miss Margaret Laura Williams, eldest daughter of the Right Rev. the Lord Bishop of Huron, to Mr. William Smith, C.E., of Edmonton, Alta., second son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Smith, of London.

THE BRIDE'S COSTUME.

The charming bride, who is one of London's most popular young ladies, was accompanied to the altar by her uncle, Mr. A. E. Burwell. She was attired in ivory duchess satin, trimmed with seed pearls and rose point lace, the latter being the gift of Miss Burwell, an aunt of the bride.

MANY GUESTS PRESENT.

Mr. Middleton Manigault, of New York, assisted the groom, and Messrs. Frank Venables, of Ingersoll; Hobson Leonard, Gerald Pearson and Allan McLean acted as ushers.

The wedding marches and appropriate music were rendered by Dr. T. J. Palmer, organist of St. Paul's Church, Toronto, and during the ceremony Mrs. A. C. Patterson sang "Calm Was the Night" most exquisitely.

The evening guests were noted Mrs. C. G. Halliwell and daughter, Mrs. G. W. Walkerville, aunt and cousin of the bride, and Miss Molly Brown, of Whitehaven, England.

INSURANCE

FIRE, Accident, Liability, Plate Glass, AUTOMOBILE, Boilers, Marine, WIND STORM, Merchandise Floaters, Motor Boats, Live Stock, Guarantee Bonds, Contractors Bonds, Burglar, Use and Occupancy, Penta.

D. CAMPBELL & SONS,
Phone 1552, 1216, 1449. Bank of Toronto Bldg. Estab. 1886.

Plants For Bedding

Have you ever envied your neighbor's success with his flower beds?

He plants sturdy, well-grown plants with strength and stamina—the specialist-grown kind with the guarantee of quality behind them.

"The House of Flowers" Gammage London.

If you wish to plant on the 24th, kindly let us have your order on Thursday.

DOCTORS STATE THEIR VIEWS ON MEDICAL SCHOOL

Quite Willing That Their Services Be Given For Nothing.

But Think Money Thus Saved Should Go Into Coffers of Western University.

Regarding an item which appeared in a private paper about the doctors who lecture at the Western Medical School, Dr. Burdon said this morning: "We are not asking any money for our services to the school, but think that any money thus saved may be given to the Western University. The doctors are willing to do all they can to assist the school, but think that the money saved by them should go to the university and not into the pockets of the corporation, which, at the present time, conducts the school. The owners of the school paid a dividend last year of ten per cent on their stock, and received in fees about $12,000. Revenues to be paid to the school should be under the board of governors of the Western University, and that all revenue therefrom should go toward the upbuilding of the school. They have no personal animosity against the corporation which owns the school, but feel that it is only fair that when they give their services free that any money that is saved should go to Western University. The doctors want the school to be one of the best in Canada, and think that the only way that it can be accomplished is by having a faculty of the best men in their respective lines."

WANT WESTERN TO DIRECT.

At the meeting which was held by the doctors, the complaint was made that some of the practitioners in town were paid for their services, while the services of the others were not. The chairman and the secretary stated today that they were not asking any fees, but think it unfair that a private corporation should get their services gratis and make money at the expense. They are willing at any time to help the school, and would like to see it under the direct supervision of the Western University.

PRINCE PREFERRED TENNIS TO TRIUMPHAL PROCESSION

Thousands Waited on Streets of Halifax Expecting To See King's Son.

[Canadian Press.]
Halifax, N. S., May 21.—Being given the opportunity of choosing between a triumphal procession through the decorated streets to Government House, and playing tennis with a number of cadets of his own age, Prince Albert, second son of King George, and heir presumptive, now visiting here, chose the tennis. Many thousands who waited in the streets to see the young prince passed were disappointed by the cancellation of the visit to Government House. To offset this disappointment it will likely be decided to give an afternoon tea and garden party at Government House on May 22 (Victoria Day), to which the prince will be invited.

METHODIST CHURCHES' REPORTS SHOW GOOD PROGRESS MADE

Substantial Increases Are Announced in Both Membership and Contributions.

Reports from every Methodist Church in London district were read at the meeting of the Methodist Conference at Askin Street Methodist Church this morning. Each church presented a report, showing the membership for the year, its income and the amount of money collected for missions. A substantial increase both in point of membership and in contributions received was indicated by the reports.

MONTREAL HERALD AND WITNESS SOLD

D. Lorne McGibbon Reported To Be Behind Big Deals.

Montreal, May 21.—It is expected that the announcement will be made in a few days of the transfer of the controlling interest in the Montreal Herald to a well-known financier, believed to be D. Lorne McGibbon.

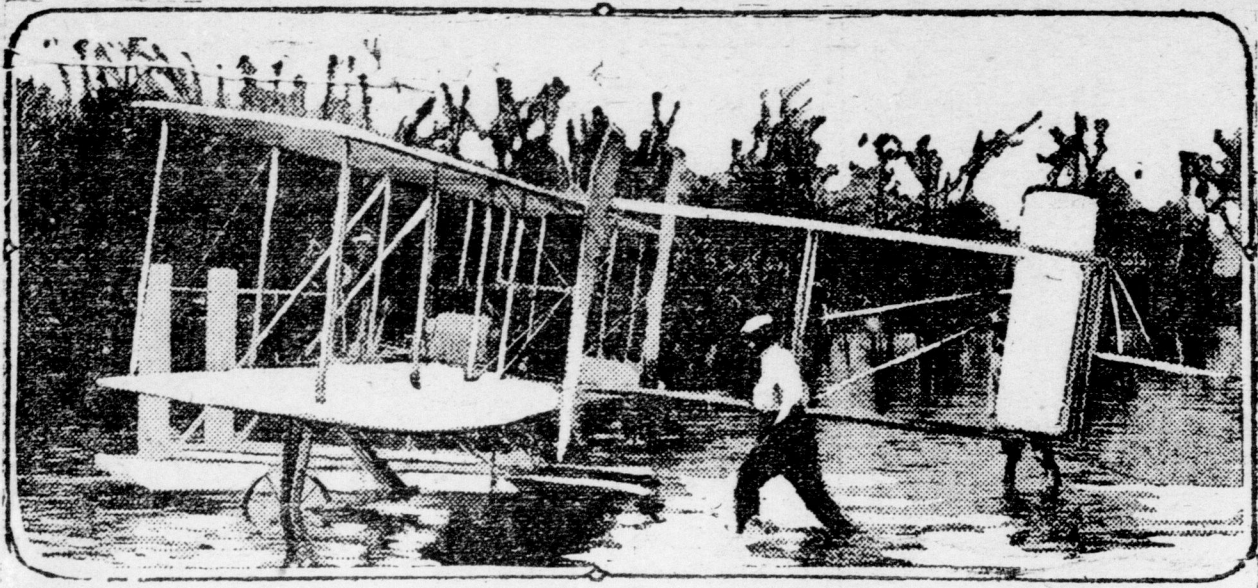

PIPE STARTS BLAZE.

Responding to an alarm from the residence of Mr. Fisher, the local post-office inspector, at Waterloo and St. James street, about 2:30 this afternoon, a pipe left on top of a secretary set fire to it, and the article of furniture was badly damaged, as was also a paragon against which the desk was set. The damage amounted to about $50.

DEATH OF THOMAS HEARD.

Word has been received by relatives in this city of the death of Mr. Thomas Heard of Vancouver. Mr. Heard was formerly a well-known contractor and stonemason of this city. He will be remembered by many old residents as the contractor who laid the flag-stone walks which were recently removed from Dundas and Richmond streets.

ORVILLE WRIGHT "COMES BACK" WITH NEW AEROPLANE

Since the death of his brother Wilbur, Orville Wright has been in retirement. But the other day he appeared again on the Miami River, near Dayton, O., with a new hydroplane that travels alike on water and in the air. The picture shows him preparing for a flight.

Old London's Indifference to Strong Emotions Which Moves the Soul of Man

James Douglas in the London Daily News.

I have made a great discovery, and I am amazed that no one has ever made it before. I have discovered that London is the laziest city in the world. There is no doubt that laziness is the key to the profound lethargy of London, a lethargy which has bewildered politicians and poets for generations. London is a byword for its indifference to all the stormy emotions which move the soul of man. If there ever should be a revolution in England it would not break out in London. It is not likely that it would ever reach London, for London is too lazy to revolt or rebel against anybody or anything.

The other morning the laziness of London rose up like a vast lump of dough, and smote me in the face. I was sitting in a tube train, and at Bond street I noticed that there were more passengers than usual. Where were they going? I thought hard for a minute, and then I remembered that King George was reviewing the Brigade of Guards in Hyde Park. In any other metropolis such an event could not possibly take place without making a tremendous stir. In London it was happening without creating more than a tiny local ripple on the surface of metropolitan life!

The absurdity of the thing tickled me, and I instantly resolved to step out at the Marble Arch, and take a look at the first review of the Guards I had ever heard of. I was prepared to find the gates of the station closed against a dense mob of sightseers. There was nothing of the kind. The streets round the Marble Arch were not black with people. There was a very slight thickening of the ordinary stream of pedestrians, and, to my amazement, there were more coming away from the park than going towards it. And nobody appeared to be in a hurry. The London pedestrian was as lazy as usual.

But at least, thought I, there will be a packed multitude in Hyde Park. I felt sure that I should be forced to fight my way through a seething and surging mob of spectators. Conceivably my astonishment when I found people of elbow-room everywhere. The people were strolling about aimlessly. The usual orators were talking to the usual bored audiences. Positively and actually I was obliged to ask my way to the review. I expected to hear wild hurrahs of cheering, and to find dense crowds encircling the marching troops. Instead of which I found only

THESE GIRLS NOWADAYS.

Tom—I wrote her five letters asking her to return me my diamond engagement ring.
Dick—Did she return it?
Tom—No. She sent me a "Don't-Worry Club" badge.

Health Necessary for Good Work

Whether working for oneself or for others, no man or woman can do efficient work unless the health is in good condition.

Competition is keen these days, and success goes to those who are strong, energetic and ambitious.

From a purely financial standpoint you cannot afford to neglect the warning given by headache, neuralgia, sleeplessness, indigestion, loss of energy, mental vigor and physical strength.

Most workers, whether their work is manual or mental, find themselves handicapped at times by a run-down condition of the system.

For all such we have a message that will bring joy and gladness into their lives. We want you to know about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great restorative, which forms new blood and restores feeble, wasted nerve cells.

By using this food cure you can instill new energy and strength into every organ of the human body. Pains, aches and physical weakness soon disappear and health is brought up to a high-water mark by

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food
50 cents a box, 6 for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edman, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

NOT MUCH DOING.

PROBLEM OF THE DAY.

"The great industrial problem of the day for this country is to discover a way in which feudalism in industry may be abolished, and yet the energy, initiative, public spirit and administrative ability of such men as Mr. Morgan may be preserved for the service of society," says the New York Outlook.

SIR WILLIAM OSLER ON HOW TO LIVE.

Sir William Osler, of Oxford, speaking before a gathering of Yale University men, submitted his rules of life. "They are," he said, "the freshest, the oldest, the simplest, and the most useful. Forget the past, forget the future. Touch the button that will shut off the past and another that will shut off the future, and you have a vacuum that will insure you against all morbid thoughts."

"When the load of tomorrow is added to the load of yesterday, many men fail on the way. The day of man's salvation is today. Live earnestly, make the limit of your life the twenty-four hours of the day."

"The first two hours of the day determine the day. If you have been romping with the younger Aphrodite the night before you will be as heavy-eyed as a fish when you get up, and the day will be lost. Quit tobacco and liquor. Bright eyes are the thing; and bright eyes never came from free indulgence in wine, women, and song."

"The control of the mind as a working machine is the end of all education. This can be accomplished."

"I suppose," said Mr. Newman to the apartment house janitor, that if I "ro" this flat and pay the rent I'll be allowed to sleep in it when I am tired."

"Well, yes," replied the janitor, thoughtfully, "provided you don't snore."

SWEET HOME.

Said Brown to Parker: "I say, Parker, what's the difference between a ripe watermelon and a rotten head of cabbage?"

"Give it up," cant tell."

Brown laughed softly as he said: "You'd be a nice man to send to buy a watermelon, wouldn't you?"

Miss Maxine Elliott, noted American actress, and the Earl of Drogheda, watching the big Irish steeplechase races at Punchestown, Ireland. The Earl is rigged up "according to Hoyle," from white spats to silk topper.

ENGLISH SOCIAL LIFE IN LATE GEORGIAN AND EARLY VICTORIAN TIMES

John Kendrick Bangs, in the Literary Digest.

Stirling, A. M. W. The Letter-Bag of Lady Elizabeth Spencer-Stanhope. Compiled from the Clarendon Papers, 1806-1873. With numerous illustrations. Two volumes. 8 vo. New York: John Lane Company. $10.

Upon the invitation of Mr. A. M. W. Stirling, the author and compiler of the very attractive "Letter-Bag of Lady Elizabeth Spencer-Stanhope," readers of that work enjoy in effect a series of epistolary week-ends at the town and country houses of an English family of high social standing, and therefore well worth visiting; meeting any number of interesting, and in some cases really distinguished, people as the hours pass. Next to being admitted into the charmed circle of the beau monde itself, such an entree as Mr. Stirling so amply here provides for our delectation in this series of epistolary letters, written by the men and women of his family in the past, presenting so intimately, so freshly, and so naively certain known and unknown personalities of a by-gone century, is probably the most acceptable substitute one could wish for.

The visits are divided into two volumes, the first of which is wholly Georgian, and the second almost wholly, if not quite exclusively, Victorian; and our hostesses are respectively Mrs. Walter Spencer-Stanhope and the Lady Elizabeth, to the latter of whom the compiler is indebted for the alluring title of production. Both are charming, and it should be recorded by all veracious chroniclers of the right sort that their hearts go out at once to these gracious ladies, and especially so to the elder of the two, the wonderful mother of the Spencer-Stanhopes, for not only is she a most prolific writer of delightful letters, but in the brief space of twenty years she found as well to become the mother of fifteen children, all but three of whom lived not alone to maturity, but in most cases completed the patriarchal and matriarchal span of three score years and ten.

An Interesting Period. Running as the letters do from 1805 down to 1873, they cover a period in English social and political life which to the student at least is of large interest, and should prove especially valuable, we think, to American readers, who will find in the vivid picture they portray of social manners and customs, too remotely connected with their own something more than worthy of their contemplation. Morally perhaps the period of the Regency in Great Britain was not particularly edifying—it could hardly be so with such a human animal as the then Prince of Wales to set the standards of private deportment; but it was, nevertheless, in certain of its larger social aspects, a period of good manners, when it really meant something for a woman to be and to behave like a lady and for a man to be and to behave like a gentleman. We often run across the phrase, "a gentleman of the old school"—indeed in these days of turmoil, of rush and hurry, of emergence of the submerged, and submergence of the emerged, with the turkey-trotting, their bunny-hugging, and their subway manners generally, we encounter the phrase more often than we do the gentleman himself. Our more popular fictionists, in their eagerness to depict today, have largely forgotten yesterday, and since the quiet, unobtrusive, individual who goes quietly about the business of minding his own lacks dramatic interest, and appears less exciting than the bouncers and the cads of the so-called smart set, it is of the latter mostly that they write, and the readers of the hour are in danger of forgetting that polite society ever existed.

Vulgarity of the King. Wherefore it is altogether a good thing for somebody to present to our contemplation such a picture as these letters reveal of a society in which men were courteous and stately, and none the less manly for the fact, and women were formal, and full of high feminine dignity, and none the less womanly withal; a society in which ladies and gentlemen of the old school dominated the scene because of, and only because of, their personal graces, their spiritual and intellectual charms, their courtesy and good manners, giving the world in which they moved an atmosphere of high distinction which can only prevail where good-breeding is to be found. One learns easily in reading letters such as these that after all it is better to be noble than merely royal, for the attitude of the ladies and gentlemen of real English society toward the court in the time of the Regency is here revealed to be one of condescending tolerance of certain necessary evils rather than of defensive approval of the shortcomings of the royal and aristocratic set. The profligate vulgarity of that Prince of Wales, as George the Fourth was wont to style himself, is in no wise glossed over in any of these correspondences, and he is presented to us for what he unquestionably was, a bouncer par excellence, utterly wanting in anything of the nature of decent regard for his personal responsibilities as a sovereign, a son, a husband, a father, or a man. That England should for a moment have tolerated the social and political dominance of such a human failure and moral affront becomes increasingly a matter of wonder, and more one realizes, as one cannot fail to realize in reading such letters as these, that a full appreciation of his mean, ignoble nature was not wanting among his contemporaries.

Great Men and Fools.

More important, however, than these little glimpses of the manners and customs of polite society, and the follies of royalty; more edifying than the somewhat stupid on dits of the smart set, duller even than our own, apparently, are the really satisfactory intimate views that come along now and then of men who really amounted to something in the great story of human progress. The age had its imbecils, its Georges, its silly fops, its foolish beaux, men like Nash, Brummel, and Skeffington, but it produced with equal lavishness its truly great spirits. The compiler in one of the period that it was a generation of colossal exaggeration both in its excess and in its idiosyncrasy, and in its rare, "Men smiled like giants and like giants acted. Common sense, meanness, and the follies of the age were great." In these letters we find Richard Brinsley Sheridan, who for his generosity of spirit and his calmness in the face of misfortune at the burning of his Drury Lane Theatre, becomes even more lovable to us than his name before through the charming little flash upon his personality that we find in any similar collection of letters that we can at this moment recall a finer portrayal of the sufferings of a great spirit than is here given us in the letters from, and affectionate estimates of the virtues of Lord Collingwood, the great sailor and admiral who was at Nelson's side at the battle of Trafalgar, sharing with that heroic figure all the dangers and responsibilities of his perilous command, but awarded few of the honors and these only grudgingly bestowed by the calculating lovers of place in the high seats at home. The tragedy and career are here depicted in such a way that we really create a positive "heart-throb," and the captain of one of the "Homes," is worthy of the genius of Kipling, as is also the substance of that sad story as a theme for his vivid pen.

Glimpses of Bonaparte. Then, too, through rather British eyes, of course, we get vivid glimpses of the personality of Bonaparte, not at all flattering, but convincing. Thanks to the good fortune of Mrs. Spencer-Stanhope's son John in escaping the dull round of social life in London to land in a French community as a prisoner of war, the remarkable young man was permitted more than one peep at the then scourge of Europe while the latter was engaged in the pleasing diversion of collecting thrones, masterpieces of art, territorial possessions, and other objects dear to the soul of the political connoisseur; and his well-written account of his experiences at Verdun, and later at Paris, reduced for us to narrative form by the sympathetic compiler, forms one of the most absorbingly interesting chapters of the first volume. Naturally also we get closer to the real Wellington than most formal histories permit.

A Love Story. In the second volume we come upon an enchanting little love-story pleasantly told in the letters of Lady Elizabeth Spencer-Stanhope herself, daughter of the famous Coke of Norfolk, to her fiancé, the fortune-hunter John Spencer-Stanhope, who as the recipient of the letters of mother, fiancée, and wife, stands in the relation of hero to Mr. Stirling's skilfully presented story. Here, too, we find pleasant gossip concerning figures eminent in both society and history. We get glimpses of Disraeli, Gladstone, the ever-witty Morfous, Maech, later Lord Houghton, Napoleon III., and many other British and continental notabilities who flourished during the Victorian era, ranging from O'Connell, the great Irishman, to Samuel Warren, author of "Ten Thousand a Year," from Atkinson and Watts to the Titchborne Claimant. There are allusions also to such folk as George Hudson, the so-called Railway King, who cut so broad a swathe in English society of the time, and whose wife seems to have rivalled our own Mrs. Partington of pleasant memory—as when a host having explained to her that a certain bust in his drawing-room was that of Marcus Aurelius, the lady replied "that she saw the likeness at once, but for the moment could not recall if it was the late or the present Marcus."

Dickens and Carlyle. There is a noticeable paucity of literary allusion in these letters, and one looks in vain for references to Tennyson, Browning, Byron, Wordsworth, or Thackeray among the celebrities known to the Spencer-Stanhopes although there is one good letter in the second volume containing an

Scenery and Service En Route to Puget Sound

A desirable combination enjoyed by travelers on the latest built and most completely equipped transcontinental train—

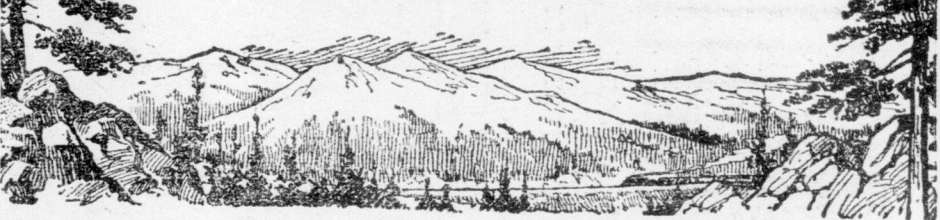

"The Olympian"

Leaves Chicago every day at 10:15 p. m., through for Seattle and Tacoma—traversing a new country, agriculturally rich and scenically beautiful—over the shortest line—the

CHICAGO Milwaukee & St. Paul RAILWAY

"The Columbian," companion train of "The Olympian," leaves Chicago 10:10 a. m. daily. A beautiful 40-page pictorial book titled "The Trail of The Olympian" has just been issued by the "St. Paul" Road. A copy of this book can be secured free by addressing

A. J. TAYLOR, Canadian Passenger Agent 8 King Street East, Toronto, Ontario

FREE

with every package

Every package of Santa Claus Oats contains a high grade Woman's stocking—an absolutely free present. Buy two packages and you will get free a pair of hose that would cost you from 25c to 35c.

SANTA CLAUS OATS

This Woman's Fine Stocking Free with every 25c Package

All the nourishing and unexcelled building elements of clean selected oats go into this big sealed package. Try it and see if the whole family doesn't vote for it.

MORROW CEREAL COMPANY TORONTO

TWO GOOD THINGS

De Jong's Gloria Cocoa
De Jong's Cooking Chocolate

WINDMILL BRAND

Pure, Rich, Delicious Flavor

DE JONG'S COCOA FACTORY, WORMERVEER, HOLLAND

amusing reference to Dickens and Carlyle, with which we close.

"I was told the other day," writes Anna Maria Pickering to Lady Elizabeth, "that when Dickens had an interview with the Queen, she kept him standing all the time, and although kind in her manner, treated him de haut en bas, not even offering to shake hands with him when he took his departure. With Carlyle the case was somewhat different. The old Scotsman calmly took the initiative. Having greeted the Queen with due respect on her entry, he observed, confidentially, 'And now, your Majesty, I would remind you that I am a verger old man, and so I will take a cheer!' and down he sat without any permission on her part. He then, with equal freedom, proceeded to criticize her ministry, and give her much unsolicited advice, which nevertheless showed a foresight she might with advantage have made use of. The Queen, however, was much affronted at his freedom of speech, and after the interview declared that she would see no more literary men!"

Mr. Stirling's publishers have produced the work in sumptuous form, well worthy of its charming contents. Not the least interesting part of the compilation are the illustrations, portraits mainly, among which is included a startling reproduction of an engraving by S. W. Reynolds depicting, with a painful realism, King George III. in the days of his madness. It is so convincingly done as almost to be shocking, although the general tone and temper of the work are otherwise altogether agreeable.

RISK WAS TOO GREAT.

They met at a dinner in New York for the first time since their meeting in London the previous week. "And did you have a pleasant crossing?" asked the hostess. "We did—very," was the answer. "You were not ill, I hope?" asked the hostess, turning to the wife. "No—o," said the young wife, "I was not ill. But I couldn't have" (pained of speech, and after the interview

Is This the Most Beautiful Girl In the World?

PAULINE FREDERICKS.

Here is Pauline Fredericks, whom Harrison Fisher, the world-famous painter of fair women, declares is the most beautiful girl in the world. He says she is absolutely perfect.

Miss Fredericks is the star of "Joseph and His Brethren," the great Biblical pageant which is being shown at the Century Theatre, New York. In it she portrays the character of the lovely temptress, Zuleika.

Miss Fredericks, who is a Boston girl, made her first big hit in "The Fourth Estate." She withdrew from that cast in the midst of the season to wed Frank Andrews, millionaire builder of the great McAlpin Hotel, Gotham's largest hostelry.

She has come back to the stage "forever," she declares.

Uniform Curriculum For Training Nurses

Hospitals Under Present System Are All Doing Different Work.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Berlin, May 21.—At the closing session of the Canadian Society of Superintendents of Training Schools, the following officers were elected: President, Miss V. L. Kirk, Halifax; first vice-president, Mrs. H. M. Bowman, Montreal; second vice-president, Miss Hersey, Montreal; secretary, Miss L. C. Phillips, Montreal; treasurer, Miss A. J. Scott, Toronto; council, Miss Snively, Toronto; Miss Tedford, Toronto; Miss Johns, Fort William; Miss Bowman, Portage la Prairie; Miss Young, Montreal; auditors, Miss Flaws, Toronto; Miss Fraser, Halifax.

Papers were read by Miss Neeland, Fergus; Miss Bruce, Toronto; Miss M. U. Watson, Guelph; Miss Dickson, Weston.

The delegates were guests at a civic reception in Masonic Hall, at which representative citizens were in attendance. The musical program was in charge of the local musical club.

During the question drawer, conducted by Miss Stanley, R. N., this morning, many questions were presented and discussed. A lengthy debate on "Should there be uniform curriculum for training schools in Canada?" resulted in a resolution being passed authorizing the newly-elected council to appoint a committee to consider the formation of a uniform curriculum and report at the next annual meeting. It was evident during the discussion that no two training schools have the same curriculum of studies. The co-operation of the Hospital Association will be secured.

LONDONERS IN RUSH FOR CHINESE LOAN

Scenes Recalled Those Witnessed When Jap Loan Was Floated.

[Canadian Press.]

London, May 20.—The rush today for the prospectus of the Chinese loan recalled the scenes which attended the issue of the Japanese war loans.

The portion allotted to London is approximately $27,500,000, of which $15,000,000, according to the prospectus, has been applied for and will be allotted in full.

The provision that $50 is payable on application sent a chill among the ranks of those who were preparing to take advantage of the premium of 1½ per cent at which the loan was quoted yesterday. There was a smart reaction, and the premium declined to from ¾ to 1 per cent.

LIBERAL RALLY

South Essex Convention To Be Held in Amherstburg.

Amherstburg, May 20.—Arrangements are being made and will shortly be announced by the executive committee of the South Essex Liberal Association, for the holding of a convention to select a candidate to fill the vacancy created in the Commons by the resignation of Mr. A. H. Clarke, K.C., who last year removed to Calgary.

The names of Mr. Robert Atkins, reeve of Maiden Township, and Mr. F. A. Hough, a well-known Amherstburg barrister, are most prominently mentioned in connection with the nomination. Either would make a splendid run.

CORRESPONDENCE

Christianity or Paganism.
To the Editor of The Advertiser.—Judging by the reports of the Rev. Mr. Norwood's address to the militia of London yesterday, the speaker left the impression on his audience that on the whole the war of Great Britain has been not only justifiable, but highly commendable, as enterprises inspired by a Christian spirit and aiming to accomplish Christian ends. One is reminded of a stanza in the "Biglow Papers," where Hosea Biglow refers to an address from John P. Robinson, expressing similar sentiments to those of the Rev. Mr. Norwood:

"We were gettin' on nicely up here to village.
With good old ideas of what's right and what ain't;
We kind o' thought Christ went agin' war and all that kind o' thing;
And that epplets weren't the best marks of a saint;
But John P. Robinson, he says that kind o' thing's an exploded idee."

Mr. Norwood virtually declares that Christians should fight to maintain Christian principles—not fight merely in a metaphorical sense, but fight actually, with sword and rifle and machine gun. But the Master whom Mr. Norwood professes to follow rebuked St. Peter for drawing the sword on His behalf, and subsequently in addressing Pilate, He declared that as His kingdom was not of this world, He could not allow His servants to fight in order to maintain it. The case is simply one of Mr. Norwood versus His Master—the servant against his lord.

Mr. Norwood says that wars are inevitable. Racial prejudice, and ignorance and folly have made them inevitable in the past. But as soon as Christian preachers and Christian teachers and Christian people get together and rid of pagan preaching and pagan prejudices, and really adopt Christian principles in international relations, war between Christian nations will not only not be inevitable, it will be impossible—as impossible as a duel with swords or pistols between Bishop Fallon and Bishop Williams, or an assassin with intent to commit robbery by the Rev. Mr. Norwood on the Rev. Mr. Whiting.

Mr. Norwood declares that the Northern States were justified in going to war with the South on the question of slavery. But the best thinkers in the United States today consider that war a crime, and a blunder, brought about by thoughtless excitement and the belief of each side that it could win an easy victory over the other. It is now generally admitted that there would have been no war if either side had foreseen the awful cost it was to entail, and that it was quite unnecessary, as it would have cost infinitely less to have purchased the freedom of the slaves, as was done by the British Government in the West Indies.

As for recent British wars it is difficult to see how anyone can justify the most of them on the grounds of common morality—apart altogether from Christian principles. The motives of those who brought on these wars were various—mostly bad, and based on ignorance or selfishness. Consider the opium war with China, an unspeakable iniquity, carried on in the interest of English investors in Egyptian bonds. Nobody nowadays attempts to defend the Crimean war, and the verdict of history will be even more severe in regard to the South African war.

In the light of all these facts the people of London are to be commended rather than censured for their approval of peace principles. Truly, A. STEVENSON.
London, May 19, 1913.

PRAYED LOUDLY AS HE WENT TO DEATH

Murderer Made Emotional Scenes On His Way to the Chair.

[Canadian Press.]

Auburn, May 21.—A. C. Calvarelli, convicted of the murder of Robert Lockridge, of Oswego, was electrocuted in Auburn Prison today. He was resigned to his fate and went to the chair praying loudly and emotionally, kissing the crucifix that was used in the final service.

Within the past year he embraced religion with great fervor, and for the past three weeks has been constantly on his knees on the hard floor of his cell. Two contacts of unusually high voltage were necessary to cause death.

SOLDIERS OBJECT TO TWO YEAR TERMS

Many Demonstrations Follow Decision of the French Authorities.

[Canadian Press.]

Paris, May 21.—Some French soldiers are displaying considerable opposition to the decision of the Government to keep them for another year in active service, instead of discharging them at the expiration of the two years' term. Demonstrations have occurred in a number of garrison towns, and the Government is acting with great energy in suppressing opposition.

A number of soldiers who took part in a demonstration at Toulon on Sunday were tried by court martial and sentenced to serve the rest of their term with a disciplinary battalion in Northern Africa.

At Marseilles yesterday 100 soldiers assembled in the public square and sang "The International," the Socialist hymn. Speeches were made condemning the introduction of the three years' term of military service.

BLAZERS OF THE TRAIL

Mr. F. W. Farncomb Addresses Historical Society on "Early Surveys of Middlesex."

Mr. F. W. Farncomb gave an address on "Early Surveys of Middlesex" at the meeting of the Historical Society of the public library on Tuesday evening.

Mr. Farncomb dealt with the journey of Governor Simcoe to Detroit, and the first surveys of the townships of Delaware, Carleton, Westminster and others. He read some extracts of diaries of some of the surveyors who blazed the trail in this district.

At the close of the meeting he presented several diaries to the society, containing valuable information about the early history of this part of the country.

ARRANGED BIG LOAN.

[Canadian Press.]

Mexico City, May 21.—A contract with a group of French bankers for a loan of 150,000,000 pesos has been signed, according to a member of the cabinet. The conditions of the loan are not announced.

GOES WITH C. N. R.

[Canadian Press.]

Montreal, May 21.—Arthur Penny, assistant advertising manager of the Grand Trunk, has accepted a similar position with the C. N. R. with headquarters in Toronto.

KIDNEYS WERE SO SORE

DIDN'T KNOW WHAT TO DO,

GRAVEL AND SMALL STONES PASSED THROUGH THE URINE.

One of the most painful forms of kidney disease is Gravel or Stone in the Bladder, and is caused by the acid and lime in the blood uniting and forming a gritty substance which lodges in the inner surface of the kidneys or bladder, and sets up a painful irritation.

To relieve these terrible pains it is necessary to keep the kidneys healthy for healthy kidneys secrete fluids that dissolve the gravel and stones, and they pass out through the urine harmlessly and without pain.

Mrs. Elmore Baldwin, Windsor, Ont., writes:—"I was so weak I could not do my own work. I tried many doctors, and every one of them told me to go to some institution. Reading of Doan's Kidney Pills, I tried them, and am now well, and can recommend them to all. My kidneys were so sore I did not know what to do, but after using the Doan's Kidney Pills, you would be surprised at all the gravel and small stones that passed through my urine. Now I am well and able to do my own work."

Doan's Kidney Pills are 50 cents per box, 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont. When ordering direct, specify "Doan's."

NOTHING TO SAY

General Diaz Declines to Make Any Statement About Returning.

[Canadian Press.]

Paris, May 20.—General Porfirio Diaz, former president of Mexico, who is staying at a hotel here, declines to make any statement in reply to inquiries as to the arrival of a delegation from Mexico to offer him the presidency.

The report current yesterday in Comuna, Spain, on this subject was founded on statements made by officers of the steamer Ypiranga. They said passages to Europe on board that vessel had been arranged and January for a delegation, which was to be sent to General Porfirio Diaz in the name of all the factions in Mexico to offer him the presidency.

Ingersoll Board to Deal With Report

District Health Officer Recommends Building of New Sewers.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ingersoll, May 21.—Several matters that require attention, in accordance with the health act, have been dealt with in a report of considerable length which has just been received from Dr. Beattie, district officer of health, who spent a couple of days in Ingersoll recently, and went into conditions very thoroughly.

One of the first things he discusses is the absence of a sewerage system. He calls attention to the manner in which sewage is disposed of—cesspools, drains, etc.—and finally states that in his opinion a sewerage system is essential in the interest of the health of the citizens. He also deals with various other conditions regarding slaughterhouses, the placing of refuse near stores, etc., and mentions that the board of health, to remedy and prevent these unsanitary conditions, should put itself on a working basis.

The report covers so much ground that there is no doubt it will prove of importance, and may lead to further interest in the sewerage question.

The death occurred at Beachville yesterday of Mr. John Bremner. He

A MAINSTAY FOR ALL MEN

All Breadwinners Who Find Health Declining Should Take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Thousands of men throughout Canada are suffering today from a deplorable failure of strength without knowing that they are the victims of nervous exhaustion. The signs and symptoms are plain. The sufferer cannot keep his mind on work, passes restless nights, turns against food and cannot digest it, feels exhausted after exertion, while slouches and sits with dizziness often add to his misery. These symptoms denote that the nervous system is weakened and insufficiently nourished. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will promptly cure because they enrich the impure, weak blood and thus give new strength and tone to the exhausted nerves. No other medicine can do this so promptly and so surely.

Mr. W. H. Hipson, East Publico, N. S., says: "For a number of years I was troubled with violent headaches. When these spells came on the pain was so severe that I feared I would lose my senses. At the outset these headaches would come on about once a week. I doctored for the trouble and did everything possible to get relief, but without avail, and at one time went on the attacks grew both in frequency and severity. The pain was terrible and with each attack seemed to grow worse. The only relief I could get was from a hot mustard foot bath, and the application of hot water and ammonia to my head. I would then have to be led to bed, where I had to remain until the attack passed away. At this time Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were brought to my notice, and while I scarcely hoped they would cure me, I decided to try them. After taking a few boxes I found that the attacks were not so severe, and I joyfully continued taking the Pills until I had used ten boxes, when every symptom of the trouble had passed away, and I was in better health than I had ever enjoyed before. It is several years since my cure was effected, and as I have not had a headache since I feel that the cure is permanent. This is a plain statement of my case, but I can tell you that my sufferings really were, and I believe that but for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I would have been in my grave, for I could not have stood the pain much longer, and doctors did not do me any good."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold at all medicine dealers or may be had by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.

Two Days' Clearing Sale of Carts and Carriages

THURSDAY AND FRIDAY EVERY RIG IN OUR STORE WILL BE ON SALE AT EXACTLY THE FACTORY PRICE.

Our stock consists of over 60 full-sized Carriages and over 150 Folding Carts. Freight will not be paid on these Carts on out-of-town orders.

Wooden Carriages

$15.00 CARRIAGES FOR.....	$11.00
$18.00 CARRIAGES FOR.....	$13.00
$20.00 CARRIAGES FOR.....	$14.50
$22.00 CARRIAGES FOR.....	$15.50
$25.00 CARRIAGES FOR.....	$17.50
$30.00 CARRIAGES FOR.....	$22.00
$35.00 CARRIAGES FOR.....	$25.00
$38.00 CARRIAGES FOR.....	$27.00
$40.00 CARRIAGES FOR.....	$28.50
$42.00 CARRIAGES FOR.....	$29.00
$45.00 CARRIAGES FOR.....	$32.00

Reed Carriages

$20.00 CARRIAGES FOR.....	$15.00
$25.00 CARRIAGES FOR.....	$19.00
$30.00 CARRIAGES FOR.....	$22.00
$35.00 CARRIAGES FOR.....	$25.00
$40.00 CARRIAGES FOR.....	$28.00

Folding Carts

$ 7.50 CARTS FOR.....	$ 5.25
$ 8.50 CARTS FOR.....	$ 6.00
$ 9.50 CARTS FOR.....	$ 6.50
$10.00 CARTS FOR.....	$ 7.00
$12.00 CARTS FOR.....	$ 8.50
$14.00 CARTS FOR.....	$10.00
$16.00 CARTS FOR.....	$11.00
$20.00 CARTS FOR.....	$13.50

Sulkies

$2.00 SULKY FOR.....	$1.50
$2.50 SULKY FOR.....	$1.75
$3.50 SULKY FOR.....	$2.50
$5.00 SULKY FOR.....	$3.50
$6.00 SULKY FOR.....	$4.00

Doll Buggies at $1.95 and $3.50

THE ONTARIO FURNITURE CO.
228, 230 DUNDAS STREET. LONDON'S LARGEST HOME FURNISHERS

WIARTON MOCK TRIAL WAS A GREAT SUCCESS

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Warton, May 21.—The mock court trial, which was given in the town hall last night, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of St. Paul's Church, was a great success, every seat being taken and chairs in the aisles being necessary. The trial took the form of a bromide of promise case, and was full of local hits.

The cast was as follows: Defendant, Mr. J. L. Slemmon; plaintiff, Miss M. F. Allen; defendants' counsel, J. M. F. Nicol; plaintiffs' counsel, Col. Newton; judge, B. B. Miller, P. M.; court officer, Robt. Trout; court clerk, T. C. Albin; clerk of court, G. Kestner; witnesses, Dr. Hough, S. J. Cameron, Ed. Reckin, Miss Elsie Hull and Miss Susie Tyson; jury, Mayor Johnson (chairman), J. D. Hunter, R. A. Chapman, J. Patterson, J. Symon, Dr. Hay, R. Miller, J. McIlroy and W. Newman.

The parts were well taken and there was nothing slow in the time the court opened until the end, when the defendant was awarded $8.84 damages.

DISPUTE SETTLED

Grand Trunk Pacific Gets Fine Station Site in Calgary.

[Canadian Press.]

Calgary, May 21.—Peace has been made between the Dominion Government and the officials of the Grand Trunk Pacific. It is understood the railroad is to get the old site of the mounted police barracks for a depot site, and in consideration of the transfer of this property the railroad company will build a new barracks in the northwest section of the city at a cost of $200,000.

OIL NEAR CALGARY

Rush to File Claims in New Fields South of City.

[Canadian Press.]

Calgary, May 21.—Oil and gas is being encountered in commercial quantities in wells sunk 25 miles south of here. The strike is responsible for a rush on the land offices and during the past few days oil and gas claims have been filed in nine townships.

UP TO FATHER.

Young man (to provision merchant): "Your daughter and I, sir, have agreed to row down the river of life together."

Provision Merchant: (sarcastically): "Have you got any provisions on board?"

Young Man: "No sir. Considering your business we thought the victualing department was more in your line."

BOTH EQUAL TO THE OCCASION.

"Do you know, sir," began the Oakville commuter, "I would rather shell green peas than do almost anything else." My wife says that it demonstrates the servants to have me do it, but I'm not living for the servants.

"The other day I sat down on our back porch with a pan of my favorite vegetables in my lap and was enjoying myself in great shape, far from the maddening crowd, for my wife had some several callers."

"All of a sudden I heard a woman's voice say:—

"Oh, I must see your cute little back yard; I've heard so much about it."

"Then the window flew open and out peeped two pretty heads."

"I turned mine away, and my wife was equal to the occasion."

"Mike," she said, "you must remember to mow the lawn before Mr. Nutley comes home."

"Yes," I replied, trying to put in a little foreign accent; and all was well."

"Some folks lives by workin' th' side an' others by workin' th' side. Ye can't git away from workin' nohow, by Jinks!"—Detroit Free Press.

NEW MUSKOKA TRAIN.

The Grand Trunk Railway System is putting on a new train from Toronto to Muskoka Wharf, commencing Saturday, May 17, leaving Toronto, 10:15 a.m., daily, except Sunday, arriving Muskoka Wharf, 1:40 p.m., making direct connection with steamers for all points on Muskoka Lakes.

A brand new train, consisting of baggage car, vestibule coaches and parlor-library buffet car will be operated and passengers are assured of a comfortable ride along the most interesting route to Muskoka Wharf, which is the original gateway to the famous Muskoka Lakes.

This train runs right to side of steamer at Muskoka Wharf, thus avoiding any inconvenience to passengers.

Return connection is made with train leaving Muskoka Wharf at 10:45 a.m. for stop-over at any point and good to return until Nov. 30, 1913.

Full particulars and tickets from Grand Trunk agents.

R. E. Russell, city passenger and ticket agent, phone 80, 1114.

RATE WILL BE 22½ MILLS.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Guelph, May 20.—The annual report of the Guelph Light and Heat department is a good one. Despite another reduction in the price of gas this year the profits in that branch are $11,628. In the electrical department $16,570 is to be gained.

RATE WILL BE 22½ MILLS.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Windsor, May 20.—The city tax rate as fixed by the city council will be 22½ mills, the same rate as last year.

Don't Diet Yourself TO DEATH TO CURE DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION. IT ISN'T NECESSARY.

While it is necessary for the dyspeptic to abstain from rich, greasy, highly seasoned food, it is useless and injurious to deprive the sufferer of a full supply of good nutritious food sufficient for the needs of the body.

Weakening the body will never remove dyspepsia, on the contrary all efforts should be to maintain and increase the strength.

Burdock Blood Bitters will increase the strength, and at the same time enable one to partake of all the wholesome food required, without fear of any unpleasant after results.

Miss Martha Brooks, Gagetown, N.B., writes:—"I have been troubled with indigestion for more than seven years, have tried several doctors and different medicines, claiming the power to cure, but all without success. Having heard of the many cures effected by Burdock Blood Bitters, I decided to give it a trial. I have taken only one bottle, and now I feel much more good than all the other medicines I have used. My appetite, which was very poor, is now good, and I can eat most everything without any disagreeable feelings."

Burdock Blood Bitters is manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Bureau of Engraving

PROCESS ENGRAVERS

LINE AND HALF-TONE ETCHINGS

435 RICHMOND STREET, PHONE 3680

$1,000 REWARD

For information that will lead to the discovery of whereabouts of the person or persons suffering from Nervous Debility, Fits, Skin Disease, Blood Poison, Genito Urinary Troubles, and Chronic or Special Complaints that cannot be cured at the Ontario Medical Institute, 263-265 Yonge Street, Toronto.

Countess Marie Larisch's Startling Revelations: Another Review of a Sensational Book

Events Leading Up to the Suicide of the Crown Prince of Austria—Silence Broken After Twenty-Four Years—The Mystery of Archduke John.

A great sensation has been produced in Europe by the memoirs of Countess Marie Larisch, niece of the late Empress of Austria. A review of the book was printed in last week's issue of the "Advertiser." Here is a more complete one from the Manchester Guardian:

"My Past." By Countess Marie Larisch. London: Eveleigh Nash, Pp. 304, 10s 6d net.

If the memoirs of the Empress of Austria's niece, Countess Larisch, which are published today, contained no explanation of the mystery of the Crown Prince of Austria's death in 1888, they would still make an amazing book. To have spent most of your life in a specialized kind of society in which madness is a commonplace, conjugal happiness almost unheard of, faithless, a recognized fundamental, and artificially a positive virtue is ample preparation for writing astonishing recollections. The effect of concentrating an account of the vagaries and dissensions of the ruling houses of Austria and Bavaria some decades ago in the small space of some 300 pages is fantastic. It seems inconceivable that the peoples over whom these preposterous rulers reigned should not have taken a deep breath one day and blown away the whole nightmare. Probably they never saw it in such a clear perspective as Countess Larisch's book affords.

The Amazing Empress.

The figure that dominates its pages is that of Elizabeth, Empress of Austria—"Aunt Cissi"—to the countess. From the time when she descends as fairy godmother on the simple Bavarian home where the countess was brought up, through the child of Vienna, and leads her with beautiful dresses and cynical advice, to the day when she cuts her hair for the part she played in the Mayerling tragedy, her very striking personality is always to the fore. She married her niece to Count Larisch, avowedly because she reckoned him a nonentity who would not hinder her scheme for making the girl her ally and confidant in her intrigues, and her fascination was such that the countess readily accepted the arrangement. We get a very vivid picture of Elizabeth—passionately devoted to beauty, particularly to the preservation of her own; selfish, heartless, yet capable of great generosity. She believed it a prime duty of a ruler to look regal for the people's sake, and she had no patience for "frumpish" royalties. In pursuance of this view, she bathed in olive oil, was sewn into her riding habit each time she wore it, and often covered her face with a mask of raw veal to improve her complexion. Yet she disdained jewelry, detested perfume, slept on a plain iron bedstead, habitually walked her waiting ladies off their feet, and was a fearless horsewoman. It is small wonder that so complex a woman found English court life little to her liking, "deplored the blatant domesticity which surrounded the throne," and after a visit to Windsor, remarked only, "Ah—I'm glad that's over!" To this queer mixture of traits Elizabeth added convinced superstitions. She believed that the mad King Ludwig of Bavaria visited her after death, and she never failed to bow three times when she met a magpie.

A Spirit Dinner Party.

The countess quotes from memory a description which the Empress gave her of one of Ludwig's spirit dinner parties in his castle at New-Schwabenstein, as Ludwig had described to her:

"Shortly before midnight the wonderful 'Galerie' glowed with a soft light of candles which turned the crystal candelabra into a chain of glittering diamonds. The dinner table, which was decorated with gold plate and exquisite glass and flowers, was laid for thirteen guests, and at five minutes before midnight King Ludwig entered the room to await their arrival. When the clock struck twelve the great doors were flung open, and the Groom of the Chambers announced—Queen Victoria, and the King looked forward to receive her, and what did he see? A beautiful woman dressed in delicate satin, her powdered hair entwined with pearls and roses, and round her neck a thin blood-red line; the King imagined that at his bidding the Queen's spirit resumed the earthly aspect which she wore during the gorgeous days at Versailles, together with the cruel mermaid of the guillotine, Louis XIV., with flowing wig and suit of stiff gold-encrusted brocade, came mincing forward on high red heels to be welcomed by his host; then Mary Queen of Scots, lovely in black velvet with the crimson kiss of death on her neck, looked deep into the King's eyes and enthralled his soul. . . . A solemn monk was the next to appear, and the King looked anxious for one guest was late, but at last the Spirit of the Mountains drifted lightly into the room. She was fair as the dawn which is only seen to perfection in the lonely places of the world, and her eyes were the deep blue of the quiet lakes. From beneath a crown of icicles her long fair hair fell over her white shoulders, and her transparent draperies were adorned with flowers and moss. The King smiled at the Fairy, who kissed him with cold sweet lips that whispered of the purity of life far from the haunts of men; then she placed her hand upon his brow and bade him think of the forests and the wild creatures which he loved and whose lives he held sacred. Dinner was served, and thirteen guests waited on by the guests, whose conversation was varied and often brilliant, as befitted such a gathering of the Great Ones of all Ages.

Glimpses of Notable Persons.

The memoirs of Ludwig are pleasant reading compared with the terribly morbid ones of other members of his and the Habsburg family; but the book is not wanting in sharp little pictures of people and places better worth remembering. We have a vision of Wagner, uncouth and diffident, kept waiting for hours in an anteroom of the house of Duke Ludwig (the countess's father) owing to a belief that he was the duke's tailor; of Lord Beaconsfield (who gave the impression that he "liked to live in the limelight") chatting at dinner "chiefly about his own books"; of King Edward, then Prince of Wales, showing his usual tact by bestowing his favor on the countess despite the criticism of some noble ladies of England; of Francis-Joseph annoyed at being told that out of uniform he looked "just like a shoemaker"; of the famous actress who relied on King Ludwig's romantic bravery to pull her out of the lake at his palace, into which she jumped crying, "Save me, when I'm in danger, but who would walk out after all," and "Uncle Nando," Ferdinand of Tuscany—a sane figure in a book of grotesques—who had a fondness for good meals and a habit of telling the same story too often. This and a great deal more amusing matter is dealt with in simple, straightforward, and lively narrative. But gloom predominates in the book, and the biggest and gloomiest thing in it is the narrative of the events that led to the tragedy at Mayerling.

The Tragedy of the Crown Prince.

The death of the heir to the Austrian throne, from a "shooting accident" while hunting, was announced on January 31, 1888. The official explanation was believed by no one. It was pretty generally known that those who found the Crown Prince Rudolf with his head shattering in the bedroom of his hunting lodge at Mayerling found also the body of Mary Vetsera, the daughter of a baroness well known for her hospitality in Viennese society. The explanations offered were as varied as they were startling. Rudolf had discovered that his mistress was in reality his sister, and, overcome by despair, had shot her and then himself; he had had his head smashed in a drunken brawl with one of his guests; he had been shot by a kinsman of the Vetsera house to vindicate its honor. The Emperor Francis Joseph kept silence and enjoined it on all who knew the truth. That silence has not been broken till now. The avowed purpose of Countess Larisch in speaking after twenty-four years is to clear herself of the charge of being a conscious contributor to the tragedy—charge which cut her off from the Austrian Court and brought much misery upon her children and her friends. Her explanation is more startling than any of the guesses Rudolf she says, had been engaged in a plot to secure for himself the Crown of Hungary, and the news that this had miscarried, coming on a brain never well balanced, had driven him mad and led to the double tragedy. Here is the evidence with which she backs this conclusion.

Mary Vetsera.

Mary Vetsera, despite the advice of her family and of the Countess, conceived an infatuation for Rudolf which he was only too ready to indulge. Countess Larisch was unwittingly used by both parties to forward the intrigue. When she realised how thoroughly she had been hoodwinked matters had taken too serious a turn for her to extricate herself. At a ball given in Vienna at Christmas, 1888, Mary Vetsera, installed by Rudolf as his wife, the Crown Princess Stephanie, by cutting her. Next afternoon the Crown Prince called on Countess Larisch.

He was very excited, and his first words were: "Marie, if you don't help me, everything is lost." I gazed at him without speaking. My cousin was a changed man; he looked pale and worn, and his eyes gleamed with that curious wraith light which I had always noticed when he was excited. I felt instinctively that something dreadful had happened; some sort of hypnotic feeling overcame me, and I felt I could not resist doing whatever he wished.

Mary Vetsera had been locked in her room by her mother. The Prince ordered the Countess to get the girl out and bring her to him at the Hofburg, his residence in Vienna—a sufficiently startling demand, which was granted only when he added:

"I assure you it is necessary for me to see Mary. Besides, I am myself in great danger. . . . Swear to me that while I live you will never disclose what I am going to tell you." "If I can avert the danger, I will. I swear it, Rudolf." The Crown Prince looked at me very strangely. Then, without a word, he took a small, dark object from under his cloak. I could see that it was a box sewn up in cloth. I shrunk back unconsciously, but my cousin put his disengaged hand on my shoulder. "Listen, Marie; you must take this box and put it away in a safe place at once. It is imperative that it should not be found in my possession, for at any moment the Emperor may order my personal belongings to be searched. . . . It is a steel casket."

"How long am I to keep this dreadful thing in my possession?" "Until I ask for it," answered Rudolf, "or until someone else asks for it. If it should come to that," he added gravely, "you must know how to act. This is one person who knows the secret of this casket, and he alone has the right, falling me, to ask for its return. . . . Never mind his name. You can deliver it to the person who gives you four letters. Write them down now, and repeat them after me. Listen," and the Crown Prince slowly uttered the letters "R.O.U."

Countess Larisch duly smuggled Mary Vetsera into the Palace for the "ten-minute" interview for which Rudolf stipulated. Rudolf immediately smuggled her out by another door and away to Mayerling, leaving to the Countess to explain to the Vetsera family as best she might. She had not so much difficulty as might have been expected, for the Baroness Vetsera was an easy-going woman whose chief regret seems to have been that the days of Louis XV., when the love intrigues of royalty were readily condoned, had gone for ever. No one even then expected the tragedy that was to follow. News of Rudolf's death reached the Countess at her country place. She hastened to Vienna, almost prostrate with apprehension, and there was visited by Dr. Wiedhofer, who had been summoned to Mayerling, and knew more than anyone of what was found there.

"The Crown Prince wrote to Laxenburg," it appears, "said the doctor, 'and told his wife he was going for three days' shooting to Mayerling, but that he would return for the family dinner on January 30. There was consequently no anxiety felt about his movements, and the Prince left Vienna two hours after Mary Vetsera, who was driven to the shooting lodge by Bratisch, the unhappy girl went in unnoticed by the private entrance, and Loschek took her to the little dressing-room in the apartments which the Crown Prince occupied. She remained that day and night alone with her lover, and on the 29th some of Rudolf's friends came for the shooting. . . . Supper was served to the Prince and Mary in their apartments, and Loschek received instructions to awaken his master at seven o'clock the next morning. Loschek came to awaken his master at seven o'clock, and the Crown Prince told him to return in half an hour. He did so, but as there was no answer to his repeated knocking he became alarmed and sent for Count Hoyas, who was at breakfast. . . . They broke open the door, and I hope they may never see such a sight again. Mary Vetsera too had been shot in the head."

The Baroness Vetsera, still ignorant of her daughter's fate, sought audience of the Empress. Elizabeth shrunk back from the poor woman's outstretched arms. She examined her with pitiless curiosity, and then said coldly and cruelly, "C'est trop tard. Ils sont morts tous les deux."

Madame Vetsera fainted. The Empress looked at her unmoved, and walked away without a word. The Baroness was commanded to go to Venice post haste and say that her daughter had died there. Mary Vetsera's uncles, who were devoted to her, were told that they might bury her only on the gruesome condition that they took the body away by night fully dressed to simulate life. This they did, and she was buried without ceremony in a neighbouring monastery graveyard. To round off the mystery there remained only the claiming of the steel casket. The Countess received a note asking her to take it by night to an unfrequented spot in Vienna. There a stranger approached her and repeated the necessary formula.

Two hands came from under the stranger's cloak and took the box from me, and I shall never forget their look of strength. On one little finger sparkled a great diamond, and when I touched those wonderful hands I suddenly felt very calm, for I knew that I had given the box to the right person. . . . "I suppose you have no idea who I am, Countess?" "None," I replied.

He took off his hat and stared me full in the face, while I started back in astonishment. "Imperial Highness," I ejaculated. The stranger was the Archduke John of Tuscany. "Don't regret Rudolf," he said; "if the Emperor had found these papers matters would have been infinitely worse. The Crown Prince has killed himself, but if the Emperor had known all, it would have been his duty to have had him tried by military law, and shot as a traitor."

"Oh, my God!" I cried. "What did he do?" "He was thinking of the Crown of Hungary?" The Archduke nodded assentingly, and I suddenly thought of my aunt's words long ago, when she told me that Rudolf was in the hands of the Freemasons; but Elizabeth had little reason to object, as she herself was always coquetting with the Socialist party.

"Imperial Highness," I asked, "are you going away from Austria?" He smiled. "Yes, I'm going to die without dying, for I am tired of the hollow things of life, and I intend to begin a new career. . . . and now farewell. Don't forget me. He kissed my hand, and was gone. time."

MARRIAGE IS GAYNOR'S CURE FOR MILITANCY

New York's Mayor Says Any Suffragette Would Give Up Principles For a Nice Man.

Mayor Gaynor in an interview in the New York Evening Sun on suffragettes and militancy said he scarcely blamed the English militants for getting mad, because, he said, they lack husbands. He also said that if any of them came over here because of crime at home he wouldn't lock them up, but would try to get husbands for them. All. Marriage, in the opinion of his Honor, is the best cure for militancy.

"Is there any suffragette in the world who would not give up her principles for a nice man?" he said. "Over in Great Britain there are about a million and a half women who have no man and they are rather desperate. We have no such conditions over here. And as soon as every woman has a man the women get to be very peaceful."

"Just think of a million and a half women without a man! I do not blame them for getting mad. They ought to 'beat down' England. The men got up and went off to Australia and Canada and Van Diemen's Land, and for a nice man?" he said. "Over in Great Britain there are about a million and a half women who have no man and they are rather desperate. We have no such conditions over here. And as soon as every woman has a man the women get to be very peaceful."

"Just think of a million and a half women without a man! I do not blame them for getting mad. They ought to 'beat down' England. The men got up and went off to Australia and Canada and Van Diemen's Land, and

for a nice man?" he said. "Over in Great Britain there are about a million and a half women who have no man and they are rather desperate. We have no such conditions over here. And as soon as every woman has a man the women get to be very peaceful."

"Just think of a million and a half women without a man! I do not blame them for getting mad. They ought to 'beat down' England. The men got up and went off to Australia and Canada and Van Diemen's Land, and

for a nice man?" he said. "Over in Great Britain there are about a million and a half women who have no man and they are rather desperate. We have no such conditions over here. And as soon as every woman has a man the women get to be very peaceful."

"Just think of a million and a half women without a man! I do not blame them for getting mad. They ought to 'beat down' England. The men got up and went off to Australia and Canada and Van Diemen's Land, and

for a nice man?" he said. "Over in Great Britain there are about a million and a half women who have no man and they are rather desperate. We have no such conditions over here. And as soon as every woman has a man the women get to be very peaceful."

PENMANS LIMITED
PARIS . CANADA

self was always coquetting with the Socialist party.

"Imperial Highness," I asked, "are you going away from Austria?" He smiled. "Yes, I'm going to die without dying, for I am tired of the hollow things of life, and I intend to begin a new career. . . . and now farewell. Don't forget me. He kissed my hand, and was gone. time."

MARRIAGE IS GAYNOR'S CURE FOR MILITANCY

New York's Mayor Says Any Suffragette Would Give Up Principles For a Nice Man.

Mayor Gaynor in an interview in the New York Evening Sun on suffragettes and militancy said he scarcely blamed the English militants for getting mad, because, he said, they lack husbands. He also said that if any of them came over here because of crime at home he wouldn't lock them up, but would try to get husbands for them. All. Marriage, in the opinion of his Honor, is the best cure for militancy.

"Is there any suffragette in the world who would not give up her principles for a nice man?" he said. "Over in Great Britain there are about a million and a half women who have no man and they are rather desperate. We have no such conditions over here. And as soon as every woman has a man the women get to be very peaceful."

"Just think of a million and a half women without a man! I do not blame them for getting mad. They ought to 'beat down' England. The men got up and went off to Australia and Canada and Van Diemen's Land, and

for a nice man?" he said. "Over in Great Britain there are about a million and a half women who have no man and they are rather desperate. We have no such conditions over here. And as soon as every woman has a man the women get to be very peaceful."

"Just think of a million and a half women without a man! I do not blame them for getting mad. They ought to 'beat down' England. The men got up and went off to Australia and Canada and Van Diemen's Land, and

for a nice man?" he said. "Over in Great Britain there are about a million and a half women who have no man and they are rather desperate. We have no such conditions over here. And as soon as every woman has a man the women get to be very peaceful."

"Just think of a million and a half women without a man! I do not blame them for getting mad. They ought to 'beat down' England. The men got up and went off to Australia and Canada and Van Diemen's Land, and

for a nice man?" he said. "Over in Great Britain there are about a million and a half women who have no man and they are rather desperate. We have no such conditions over here. And as soon as every woman has a man the women get to be very peaceful."

"Just think of a million and a half women without a man! I do not blame them for getting mad. They ought to 'beat down' England. The men got up and went off to Australia and Canada and Van Diemen's Land, and

for a nice man?" he said. "Over in Great Britain there are about a million and a half women who have no man and they are rather desperate. We have no such conditions over here. And as soon as every woman has a man the women get to be very peaceful."

"Just think of a million and a half women without a man! I do not blame them for getting mad. They ought to 'beat down' England. The men got up and went off to Australia and Canada and Van Diemen's Land, and

for a nice man?" he said. "Over in Great Britain there are about a million and a half women who have no man and they are rather desperate. We have no such conditions over here. And as soon as every woman has a man the women get to be very peaceful."

"Just think of a million and a half women without a man! I do not blame them for getting mad. They ought to 'beat down' England. The men got up and went off to Australia and Canada and Van Diemen's Land, and

Here, at Last, You who have only half-liked is really comfortable underwear
for you!

Pen-Angle Closed-Crotch
COMBINATIONS

The part that was always so troublesome in the old kind now sets as snug as can be—doesn't gap—doesn't strain. Truly it's an improvement you will appreciate. Some trustworthy store you pass every day has an array of these combinations in stock that includes your favorite weight and style. Ask for Pen-Angle Closed-Crotch—the new underwear idea, and look for the trademark.

SWEATERS . . . HOSIERY
UNDERWEAR

The Lord knows where else and left the women there. And now we are having the result. The women are going to the voting to let them tell the men what they are allowed to vote. But will it do them any good if they are allowed to vote? Voting will not get them husbands.

HAD HIM BOTH WAYS.

Pat was standing near the street car track when he noticed a motor coming up the street, and to be safe he stepped back a little from the track.

The motor went past, and, just as it was passing, he saw a woman standing in front of the car. When he saw her, he stepped back a little from the track, causing the back end of it to swing round, striking Pat and knocking him down.

Pat was seen to get up and look after the car and say: "Now, phwat do ye think o' that? Whin we stand in front of them they run over ye, whin ye get out o' the way to let them pass they turn around and kick ye!"

Husband and Wife Both Troubled

GIN PILLS Cured Them

Lachute Mills, Que., March 11, 1912. "I was troubled for many years with Kidney Disease, and a friend told me to take GIN PILLS. After taking a few boxes, I was greatly relieved, and after finishing the twelfth box, the pain completely left me."

My wife is now using GIN PILLS, and finds that she has been greatly relieved of the pain over her kidneys. I can safely recommend anyone suffering from Kidney Trouble to give a fair trial to GIN PILLS.

THOMAS STEPHENSON.

We allow you to make this trial absolutely free of cost. Simply write National Drug and Chemical Company, Canada, Limited, Toronto, and they will send you a free sample of GIN PILLS. Try them. They will do you so much good that you will gladly get the regular size boxes at once. Local dealers, 50c a box, $4 for $2.50, 143

CEMETERY ADVERTISING.

The managers of a Brooklyn cemetery have advertised: "Graves finely situated,

How a Lion Hunted Me---Hunter of African Game Tells How a Big Beast Hypnotized Him.

CLEVELAND, O., May 2.—"Hunting lions is fine sport, all right," says Kenyon V. Painter. "But when the lion hunts you, it isn't so much fun."

"For instance, take the lioness that used to wear this skin"—Painter pointed to one of the trophies of his recent hunting expedition to Nairobi, East Africa—"I got her, to be sure, but she had about as much fun out of the scrap as I did."

"I wasn't hunting lions that day anyhow. I was after kudu. I had gone out ahead of Clifford Fuller and Outram, the noted African hunter, who were with me on the trip. I was following a kudu up a thick-covered mountain side, with my native gun bearer trailing behind."

"Suddenly I came face to face with a huge lioness, not more than a dozen paces off. While I was hunting kudu, she was hunting me. She stood there crouching, ready to spring, her eyes fixed on mine."

"I yelled to the gun bearer to stand by, at the same moment bringing my heavy 455 double-barrel rifle to my shoulder and pulling the trigger."

"The lioness rose erect and let out a roar. I had hit her in the neck, but not fatally. She stood there a moment, glaring at me, her tail lashing, her teeth bared—then something strange happened."

"I was waiting for another shot, but I never fired that shot. Just as my finger was pressing the trigger there was a loud boom close to my ear, and the gun was torn from my hands, and I stood there powerless, at the mercy of the lioness. I was aware, somehow, without looking around, that my gun bearer had fled. Before me was the wounded lioness, snarling with yellow eyes, that animal, without moving a muscle, absolutely fascinated. I don't know how long I stood there."

"Now I know why a bird doesn't run away from a snake. It never occurred to me to run. I stood looking into the yellow eyes of that animal, without moving a muscle, absolutely fascinated. I don't know how long I stood there."

"The big beast finally drew herself

together for the spring and with a roar leaped straight at me. And then another strange thing happened. She never finished the leap. For just as her feet left the ground and I braced myself for the shock there was a loud report, and the lioness, with her great paws clawing the air, fell in a heap at my feet."

"In a moment, though, she stirred, rose and made off through the brush. As she started I came to, looked around—and there stood my gun bearer with the rest of the party. I grabbed a gun, fired and dropped her before she reached cover."

"Fuller, it seemed, had fired the shot

together for the spring and with a roar leaped straight at me. And then another strange thing happened. She never finished the leap. For just as her feet left the ground and I braced myself for the shock there was a loud report, and the lioness, with her great paws clawing the air, fell in a heap at my feet."

"In a moment, though, she stirred, rose and made off through the brush. As she started I came to, looked around—and there stood my gun bearer with the rest of the party. I grabbed a gun, fired and dropped her before she reached cover."

"Fuller, it seemed, had fired the shot

together for the spring and with a roar leaped straight at me. And then another strange thing happened. She never finished the leap. For just as her feet left the ground and I braced myself for the shock there was a loud report, and the lioness, with her great paws clawing the air, fell in a heap at my feet."

"In a moment, though, she stirred, rose and made off through the brush. As she started I came to, looked around—and there stood my gun bearer with the rest of the party. I grabbed a gun, fired and dropped her before she reached cover."

"Fuller, it seemed, had fired the shot

together for the spring and with a roar leaped straight at me. And then another strange thing happened. She never finished the leap. For just as her feet left the ground and I braced myself for the shock there was a loud report, and the lioness, with her great paws clawing the air, fell in a heap at my feet."

"In a moment, though, she stirred, rose and made off through the brush. As she started I came to, looked around—and there stood my gun bearer with the rest of the party. I grabbed a gun, fired and dropped her before she reached cover."

"Fuller, it seemed, had fired the shot

together for the spring and with a roar leaped straight at me. And then another strange thing happened. She never finished the leap. For just as her feet left the ground and I braced myself for the shock there was a loud report, and the lioness, with her great paws clawing the air, fell in a heap at my feet."

"In a moment, though, she stirred, rose and made off through the brush. As she started I came to, looked around—and there stood my gun bearer with the rest of the party. I grabbed a gun, fired and dropped her before she reached cover."

"Fuller, it seemed, had fired the shot

together for the spring and with a roar leaped straight at me. And then another strange thing happened. She never finished the leap. For just as her feet left the ground and I braced myself for the shock there was a loud report, and the lioness, with her great paws clawing the air, fell in a heap at my feet."

"In a moment, though, she stirred, rose and made off through the brush. As she started I came to, looked around—and there stood my gun bearer with the rest of the party. I grabbed a gun, fired and dropped her before she reached cover."

"Fuller, it seemed, had fired the shot

together for the spring and with a roar leaped straight at me. And then another strange thing happened. She never finished the leap. For just as her feet left the ground and I braced myself for the shock there was a loud report, and the lioness, with her great paws clawing the air, fell in a heap at my feet."

"In a moment, though, she stirred, rose and made off through the brush. As she started I came to, looked around—and there stood my gun bearer with the rest of the party. I grabbed a gun, fired and dropped her before she reached cover."

"Fuller, it seemed, had fired the shot

together for the spring and with a roar leaped straight at me. And then another strange thing happened. She never finished the leap. For just as her feet left the ground and I braced myself for the shock there was a loud report, and the lioness, with her great paws clawing the air, fell in a heap at my feet."

"In a moment, though, she stirred, rose and made off through the brush. As she started I came to, looked around—and there stood my gun bearer with the rest of the party. I grabbed a gun, fired and dropped her before she reached cover."

"Fuller, it seemed, had fired the shot

together for the spring and with a roar leaped straight at me. And then another strange thing happened. She never finished the leap. For just as her feet left the ground and I braced myself for the shock there was a loud report, and the lioness, with her great paws clawing the air, fell in a heap at my feet."

"In a moment, though, she stirred, rose and made off through the brush. As she started I came to, looked around—and there stood my gun bearer with the rest of the party. I grabbed a gun, fired and dropped her before she reached cover."

"Fuller, it seemed, had fired the shot

together for the spring and with a roar leaped straight at me. And then another strange thing happened. She never finished the leap. For just as her feet left the ground and I braced myself for the shock there was a loud report, and the lioness, with her great paws clawing the air, fell in a heap at my feet."

"In a moment, though, she stirred, rose and made off through the brush. As she started I came to, looked around—and there stood my gun bearer with the rest of the party. I grabbed a gun, fired and dropped her before she reached cover."

"Fuller, it seemed, had fired the shot

together for the spring and with a roar leaped straight at me. And then another strange thing happened. She never finished the leap. For just as her feet left the ground and I braced myself for the shock there was a loud report, and the lioness, with her great paws clawing the air, fell in a heap at my feet."

"In a moment, though, she stirred, rose and made off through the brush. As she started I came to, looked around—and there stood my gun bearer with the rest of the party. I grabbed a gun, fired and dropped her before she reached cover."

"Fuller, it seemed, had fired the shot

together for the spring and with a roar leaped straight at me. And then another strange thing happened. She never finished the leap. For just as her feet left the ground and I braced myself for the shock there was a loud report, and the lioness, with her great paws clawing the air, fell in a heap at my feet."

"In a moment, though, she stirred, rose and made off through the brush. As she started I came to, looked around—and there stood my gun bearer with the rest of the party. I grabbed a gun, fired and dropped her before she reached cover."

"Fuller, it seemed, had fired the shot

together for the spring and with a roar leaped straight at me. And then another strange thing happened. She never finished the leap. For just as her feet left the ground and I braced myself for the shock there was a loud report, and the lioness, with her great paws clawing the air, fell in a heap at my feet."

"In a moment, though, she stirred, rose and made off through the brush. As she started I came to, looked around—and there stood my gun bearer with the rest of the party. I grabbed a gun, fired and dropped her before she reached cover."

"Fuller, it seemed, had fired the shot

together for the spring and with a roar leaped straight at me. And then another strange thing happened. She never finished the leap. For just as her feet left the ground and I braced myself for the shock there was a loud report, and the lioness, with her great paws clawing the air, fell in a heap at my feet."

"In a moment, though, she stirred, rose and made off through the brush. As she started I came to, looked around—and there stood my gun bearer with the rest of the party. I grabbed a gun, fired and dropped her before she reached cover."

"Fuller, it seemed, had fired the shot

together for the spring and with a roar leaped straight at me. And then another strange thing happened. She never finished the leap. For just as her feet left the ground and I braced myself for the shock there was a loud report, and the lioness, with her great paws clawing the air, fell in a heap at my feet."

"In a moment, though, she stirred, rose and made off through the brush. As she started I came to, looked around—and there stood my gun bearer with the rest of the party. I grabbed a gun, fired and dropped her before she reached cover."

"Fuller, it seemed, had fired the shot

together for the spring and with a roar leaped straight at me. And then another strange thing happened. She never finished the leap. For just as her feet left the ground and I braced myself for the shock there was a loud report, and the lioness, with her great paws clawing the air, fell in a heap at my feet."

"In a moment, though, she stirred, rose and made off through the brush. As she started I came to, looked around—and there stood my gun bearer with the rest of the party. I grabbed a gun, fired and dropped her before she reached cover."

"Fuller, it seemed, had fired the shot conflict is not only between the sensitive soul of the artist and the rough brutality of the sea, but between his shrinking fear and merciless nature. It is an epic of the sea, and literature has few things more moving, more poignantly felt, than that long battle with the storm with its ominous opening that sounds like the stealthy approach of an all-encompassing doom. The fog comes down and the Dauber is set to the foghorn—

... Listening lest ice should make the note resound. She bayed the like a solitary hound. Lost in the covert; all the watch she bayed. The fog came closer down, no answer made.

Denser it grew, until the ship was lost. The elemental hid her; she was at mercy.

In mufflings of dark death, yet thither urged. Then from the hidden waters some-thing surged, great, greater than speech. Mournful, despairing, great, greater than speech.

A noise like one slow wave on a still beach. * * *

So the night past, but then no morning broke— Only a something showed that night was dead.

A sea-bird cackling like a devil, spoke, And the fog drew away and hung like lead.

Like misty cliffs it shaped, sullen and red; Like glowering gods at watch it did appear.

And sometimes drew away, and then drew near.

Then follows the snow, like a new out- rider of the hosts of death. And all the air seemed full of gradual moan.

As though in those cloud-chasms the horns were blown, and the sea was the mort for gods cast out and over- thrown.

Or for the eyeless sun plucked out and going. Slow the low gradual moan came in the snowing.

The Dauber felt the prelude had begun. The snowstorm fluttered by; he saw the sun.

Show and pass by, gleam from one towering prison. Into another, vaster and more grim, Which in dull crags of darkness had arisen.

To muffle to a final door on him. Then the cry "Call all hands on deck," the sudden, tumultuous leap of the crew to battle, and from the sea

Came a cold, sudden breath that made the hair. Stiff on the neck, as though Death whispered there.

In the long horror of the storm the boy fights his battle with fear and emerges triumphant—but dead.

He was off duty. So it blew all night, And when the watches changed the muffled cry came from the door to strike a light.

And stare upon the Dauber lying dumb. And say "He came a cruel thump, poor chum."

Or, "He'd been a fine big man"; or He. A smart young seaman he was getting to be.

And the poem closes with a noble tranquility and a noble suggestion of something greater than death.

It is not always that Mr. Masfield's themes have the dignity and significance of the "Dauber" or of "The Everlasting Mercy." "The Widow in the Bye-Street" fills in large poetic sport, the grossness is not transfigured by any great spiritual emotion, and "The Daffodil Fields," in spite of the beauty of the setting, moves on the lower plane of tragic loves and the unintelligible perversity of things.

But enough has come from Mr. Masfield to justify the expectations of the past, and to make his future the most interesting subject of literary speculation. We shall do well to avoid the extremes of praise or blame in regard to work so challenging and individual, so defiant of conventions, in which a curt virility easily passes into a rather gratuitous coarseness and the vigour of his verse is marred by a certain fluency. But he has the great gift of the teller, and his tales have a power of taking to themselves wings, and of transmitting mean things into something rich and true.

But it is not his nature in repose as in Wordsworth, but nature in all its forms, especially in its fierce and terrible forms. In "Dauber" the

the vision. He does not, like another great poet of our time, brood sadly over—

... the dreaming, dark, dumb Thing, That turns the handle of this idle Show.

He does not torture himself with unavailing questionings, any more than Wordsworth or Whitman, in their widely different ways, did. He accepts life delightedly, and he accepts it without reservations. He will have everything in—"wart and all," the ugly and the base and the bestial. Sometimes he gives undue prominence to the evil side of things, forcing the note of brutal candor, declares his page a little unnecessarily with swear words, but in all this there is no sense of cleanness, no odor of decay, only the feeling of a mind austere, truthful, setting down the facts of life as he has seen them, not explaining or justifying them, but conscious that behind the confusion and squalor and bitterness of the individual conflict with circumstance, enveloping the tragedy and fatality of existence, there is a spirit of harmony and ecstasy that catches the meanest soul in its embrace.

The water's going out to sea, And there's a great moan calling me, And there's a great sun calls the moon.

This active and ebullient joy of life, like the passive, reflective joy of Wordsworth, find its delight in nature. But it is not its nature in repose as in Wordsworth, but nature in all its forms, especially in its fierce and terrible forms. In "Dauber" the

the vision. He does not, like another great poet of our time, brood sadly over—

... the dreaming, dark, dumb Thing, That turns the handle of this idle Show.

He does not torture himself with unavailing questionings, any more than Wordsworth or Whitman, in their widely different ways, did. He accepts life delightedly, and he accepts it without reservations. He will have everything in—"wart and all," the ugly and the base and the bestial. Sometimes he gives undue prominence to the evil side of things, forcing the note of brutal candor, declares his page a little unnecessarily with swear words, but in all this there is no sense of cleanness, no odor of decay, only the feeling of a mind austere, truthful, setting down the facts of life as he has seen them, not explaining or justifying them, but conscious that behind the confusion and squalor and bitterness of the individual conflict with circumstance, enveloping the tragedy and fatality of existence, there is a spirit of harmony and ecstasy that catches the meanest soul in its embrace.

From '51 to '61, I cut my teeth and took to fun, I learned what not to be afraid of. And what stuff women's lips are made of.

I learned with that a rosy feeling Good old makes flowers seem like the collaring; And how the moon gives shiny light To lads as roll home swinging by: My blood did leap, my flesh did revel, Saul Kane was betokened to the devil.

(Here, by the way, we have an echo of Mr. Houseman's "Shropshire Lad.")

But in spite of the brutal and challenging realism the essential quality of the stories at their best is noble and exhilarating. The clothes are ragged and foul, but the soul within is capable of immortal things, of splendid heroisms and of that ecstatic vision which makes the same Saul Kane in his transfigured mood say:

The station brook, to my new eyes, Was babbling out of Paradise. The waters rushing, rushing, in the spirit of the seventeenth century. It is the spirit of rapture that consecrates the magic and wonder of life is Mr. Masfield's most conspicuous quality. He is intoxicated with the splendor of

AN UNCROWNED KING: AN APPRECIATION OF VICTORIA'S HUSBAND

Right Hon. G. W. E. Russell, in the Manchester Guardian.

Thirty years ago the great Lord Shaftesbury told me what was then a piece of secret history. He said that Queen Victoria had been very anxious to see the title of King Consort conferred on Prince Albert; and that, as this could only be done by act of Parliament, she had repeatedly urged Lord Melbourne to bring in a bill conferring the title. Melbourne demurred; the Queen persisted; and then the sagacious statesman gave the necessary warning.

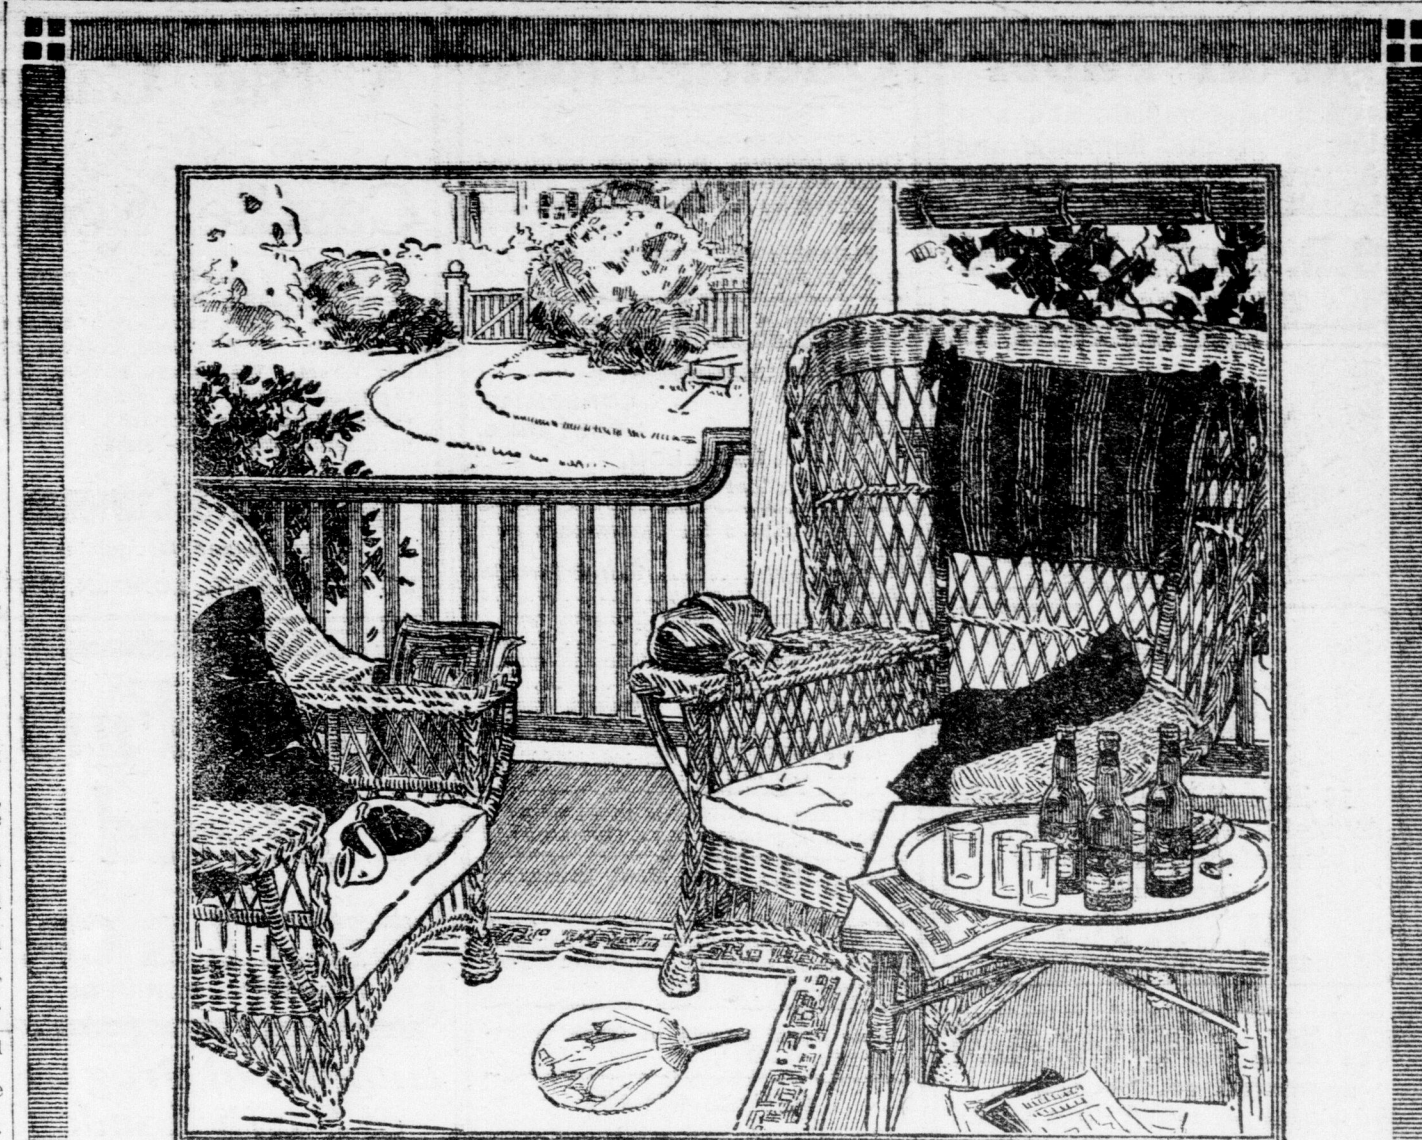

"For G—'s sake, ma'am, let's hear no more of it. If you once let the English people into the way of making Kings they'll learn the way of unmaking them." This Lord Shaftesbury had direct from Melbourne (who was Lady Shaftesbury's uncle), and memoirs published under royal authority in recent years have proved it to be true.

But the refusal of the crown matrimonial made no difference to the actual power of Prince Albert, though much to his seeming dignity. He was a man of high intelligence, assiduously cultivated. He devoted himself to the study of constitutional and international law. He watched every turn, and every sign of a turn, in domestic and foreign policy, and he was the adored husband of the Queen of England. Through more than 20 years, which flowed past like one long, unclouded summer day—the words are Mr. Gladstone's—their lives were one.

No woman ever learned more fondly, and no Queen ever had so much power of Prince Albert, though much to his seeming dignity. He was a man of high intelligence, assiduously cultivated. He devoted himself to the study of constitutional and international law. He watched every turn, and every sign of a turn, in domestic and foreign policy, and he was the adored husband of the Queen of England. Through more than 20 years, which flowed past like one long, unclouded summer day—the words are Mr. Gladstone's—their lives were one.

No woman ever learned more fondly, and no Queen ever had so much power of Prince Albert, though much to his seeming dignity. He was a man of high intelligence, assiduously cultivated. He devoted himself to the study of constitutional and international law. He watched every turn, and every sign of a turn, in domestic and foreign policy, and he was the adored husband of the Queen of England. Through more than 20 years, which flowed past like one long, unclouded summer day—the words are Mr. Gladstone's—their lives were one.

No woman ever learned more fondly, and no Queen ever had so much power of Prince Albert, though much to his seeming dignity. He was a man of high intelligence, assiduously cultivated. He devoted himself to the study of constitutional and international law. He watched every turn, and every sign of a turn, in domestic and foreign policy, and he was the adored husband of the Queen of England. Through more than 20 years, which flowed past like one long, unclouded summer day—the words are Mr. Gladstone's—their lives were one.

Where's more real enjoyment? The shady home-porch, a comfortable chair, a good cigar or pipe, a congenial friend, and a cool, refreshing bottle of

Budweiser

Every Week, 3,000,000 Bottles

That is the output of Budweiser. The Anheuser-Busch main plant and branches give employment to 7,500 people. The main plant covers 142 acres, equal to 70 city blocks. There are 110 separate buildings—a city in themselves.

Hundreds of visitors every day go through with guides to inspect this immaculate institution.

One cannot see it without the conviction that quality is an Anheuser-Busch rule.

Anheuser-Busch, St. Louis

The Largest Plant of Its Kind in the World

Some of the Principal Buildings

E. B. SMITH

Distributor LONDON, ONT.

(3)

persistent detractors, there may have been a spice of jealousy. The Prince was brilliantly good-looking, though with a type of beauty neither English nor German; and he had secured in marriage a hand to which others had aspired. The Queen herself has told us of a remark which, in the first year of her reign, she made to Lord Melbourne: "I observed that marrying a subject was making yourself so much their equal, and brought you so in contact with the whole family." But it is not possible that the Duke of Cambridge and Lord Tennyson were blind to these disadvantages, and saw much to dislike in the successful wooer from over the seas. They ridiculed the Prince because he disliked long sittings over after-dinner wine; and again because, after a morning's shooting, he went home for luncheon. They said he could not ride, and were dumfounded with astonishment when they saw him going well with the Belvoir. They accused him of cowardice, or at least sympathy with cowardice, because he set his face against the damnable wickedness of duelling. Oddest of all, they affirmed that he was a Roman Catholic in disguise, whereas he was a Lutheran with latitudinarian sympathies.

Some more obvious reasons for unpopularity could be traced in the Prince's character and conduct. In the first place he was undeniably a foreigner, and 70 years ago foreigners were even less popular in England than they are today. Of course, the royal family were of German extraction; but from long residence in the country had lost nearly all trace of Germanism. Queen Victoria's uncles had been bluff English gentlemen, of gracious presence and hearty bearing; properly dignified on public occasions, but overflowing with jollity in private life; and it was an abrupt change from them to this reserved and meditative stripling. Mr. Gladstone, who loved him sincerely, has recorded a trait which certainly could not conduce to popularity.

A mildly foreign mark upon his exterior and manner, together with a perpetual endeavor to turn every man's conversation, every man's particular gift and knowledge, to account for his own mental improvement, most laudable as it was, yet may have prevented his attaining that charm of absolute ease in his intercourse with the world which he possessed in the circle of his family.

That thirst for information, though, as Mr. Gladstone says, "most laudable," must have been a little uncomfortable in society, especially when the person questioned did not feel very sure of his ground; and the lack of "ease" in the Prince's public manner made an unfavorable impression on those who had no opportunity of seeing him in private life. He was thought to insist unduly on small points of etiquette, and to be horrified if a guest stood on the hearthrug after dinner. It was reported that the Queen said to a delicate lady: "Pray sit down, and when the Prince comes into the room, Lady D— (an ample matron) can stand in front of you." People saw the ladies of the court standing in the royal presence, while the Prince sat through the long performance. Thackeray, in the "Book of Snobs," made fun of the ritual of royal shooting, as depicted in the Court to St. James. With regard to the long performance, Thackeray, in the "Book of Snobs," made fun of the ritual of royal shooting, as depicted in the Court to St. James. With regard to the long performance, Thackeray, in the "Book of Snobs," made fun of the ritual of royal shooting, as depicted in the Court to St. James.

The thirst for information which Mr. Gladstone described was allied in the Prince with a love of instructing. Not only in affairs of state and diplomacy, but in almost every department of national life, he caused his views to be made known. In things military and naval, in matters affecting public education, public health, and the dwellings of the poor, in every form of art, and every development of science, he was ready with theories and advice. Perhaps the most remarkable instance of his all-pervading activity is the letter which he addressed to Sumner, Whiteford, on his elevation to the episcopate. The writer of the letter was then 26 years old; a foreigner by birth and education who had lived four years in England and a Lutheran by religion; a man of great energy and high intellect. The letter is a serene and thoughtful discourse on the duties of an English bishop; the line which he would take in Parliament, and the attitude which he ought to maintain towards those of "other confessions." It is certainly a remarkable composition; and it is only fair to add that it conveys a vast profusion of these unapologetic reactions, commonly known as "the Prince's letters." The letter is a serene and thoughtful discourse on the duties of an English bishop; the line which he would take in Parliament, and the attitude which he ought to maintain towards those of "other confessions." It is certainly a remarkable composition; and it is only fair to add that it conveys a vast profusion of these unapologetic reactions, commonly known as "the Prince's letters." The letter is a serene and thoughtful discourse on the duties of an English bishop; the line which he would take in Parliament, and the attitude which he ought to maintain towards those of "other confessions." It is certainly a remarkable composition; and it is only fair to add that it conveys a vast profusion of these unapologetic reactions, commonly known as "the Prince's letters." The letter is a serene and thoughtful discourse on the duties of an English bishop; the line which he would take in Parliament, and the attitude which he ought to maintain towards those of "other confessions." It is certainly a remarkable composition; and it is only fair to add that it conveys a vast profusion of these unapologetic reactions, commonly known as "the Prince's letters." The letter is a serene and thoughtful discourse on the duties of an English bishop; the line which he would take in Parliament, and the attitude which he ought to maintain towards those of "other confessions." It is certainly a remarkable composition; and it is only fair to add that it conveys a vast profusion of these unapologetic reactions, commonly known as "the Prince's letters." The letter is a serene and thoughtful discourse on the duties of an English bishop; the line which he would take in Parliament, and the attitude which he ought to maintain towards those of "other confessions." It is certainly a remarkable composition; and it is only fair to add that it conveys a vast profusion of these unapologetic reactions, commonly known as "the Prince's letters." The letter is a serene and thoughtful discourse on the duties of an English bishop; the line which he would take in Parliament, and the attitude which he ought to maintain towards those of "other confessions." It is certainly a remarkable composition; and it is only fair to add that it conveys a vast profusion of these unapologetic reactions, commonly known as "the Prince's letters." The letter is a serene and thoughtful discourse on the duties of an English bishop; the line which he would take in Parliament, and the attitude which he ought to maintain towards those of "other confessions." It is certainly a remarkable composition; and it is only fair to add that it conveys a vast profusion of these unapologetic reactions, commonly known as "the Prince's letters." The letter is a serene and thoughtful discourse on the duties of an English bishop; the line which he would take in Parliament, and the attitude which he ought to maintain towards those of "other confessions." It is certainly a remarkable composition; and it is only fair to add that it conveys a vast profusion of these unapologetic reactions, commonly known as "the Prince's letters." The letter is a serene and thoughtful discourse on the duties of an English bishop; the line which he would take in Parliament, and the attitude which he ought to maintain towards those of "other confessions." It is certainly a remarkable composition; and it is only fair to add that it conveys a vast profusion of these unapologetic reactions, commonly known as "the Prince's letters." The letter is a serene and thoughtful discourse on the duties of an English bishop; the line which he would take in Parliament, and the attitude which he ought to maintain towards those of "other confessions." It is certainly a remarkable composition; and it is only fair to add that it conveys a vast profusion of these unapologetic reactions, commonly known as "the Prince's letters." The letter is a serene and thoughtful discourse on the duties of an English bishop; the line which he would take in Parliament, and the attitude which he ought to maintain towards those of "other confessions." It is certainly a remarkable composition; and it is only fair to add that it conveys a vast profusion of these unapologetic reactions, commonly known as "the Prince's letters." The letter is a serene and thoughtful discourse on the duties of an English bishop; the line which he would take in Parliament, and the attitude which he ought to maintain towards those of "other confessions." It is certainly a remarkable composition; and it is only fair to add that it conveys a vast profusion of these unapologetic reactions, commonly known as "the Prince's letters." The letter is a serene and thoughtful discourse on the duties of an English bishop; the line which he would take in Parliament, and the attitude which he ought to maintain towards those of "other confessions." It is certainly a remarkable composition; and it is only fair to add that it conveys a vast profusion of these unapologetic reactions, commonly known as "the Prince's letters." The letter is a serene and thoughtful discourse on the duties of an English bishop; the line which he would take in Parliament, and the attitude which he ought to maintain towards those of "other confessions." It is certainly a remarkable composition; and it is only fair to add that it conveys a vast profusion of these unapologetic reactions, commonly known as "the Prince's letters." The letter is a serene and thoughtful discourse on the duties of an English bishop; the line which he would take in Parliament, and the attitude which he ought to maintain towards those of "other confessions." It is certainly a remarkable composition; and it is only fair to add that it conveys a vast profusion of these unapologetic reactions, commonly known as "the Prince's letters." The letter is a serene and thoughtful discourse on the duties of an English bishop; the line which he would take in Parliament, and the attitude which he ought to maintain towards those of "other confessions." It is certainly a remarkable composition; and it is only fair to add that it conveys a vast profusion of these unapologetic reactions, commonly known as "the Prince's letters." The letter is a serene and thoughtful discourse on the duties of an English bishop; the line which he would take in Parliament, and the attitude which he ought to maintain towards those of "other confessions." It is certainly a remarkable composition; and it is only fair to add that it conveys a vast profusion of these unapologetic reactions, commonly known as "the Prince's letters." The letter is a serene and thoughtful discourse on the duties of an English bishop; the line which he would take in Parliament, and the attitude which he ought to maintain towards those of "other confessions." It is certainly a remarkable composition; and it is only fair to add that it conveys a vast profusion of these unapologetic reactions, commonly known as "the Prince's letters." The letter is a serene and thoughtful discourse on the duties of an English bishop; the line which he would take in Parliament, and the attitude which he ought to maintain towards those of "other confessions." It is certainly a remarkable composition; and it is only fair to add that it conveys a vast profusion of these unapologetic reactions, commonly known as "the Prince's letters." The letter is a serene and thoughtful discourse on the duties of an English bishop; the line which he would take in Parliament, and the attitude which he ought to maintain towards those of "other confessions." It is certainly a remarkable composition; and it is only fair to add that it conveys a vast profusion of these unapologetic reactions, commonly known as "the Prince's letters." The letter is a serene and thoughtful discourse on the duties of an English bishop; the line which he would take in Parliament, and the attitude which he ought to maintain towards those of "other conf

