Reparation, Restitution and Indemnity, Essential to Peace --NEW YORK SUN

Premature Compromise Would Betray all Sacrifices Made --LONDON POST

Rejection of Proposals Only Course Open to the Entente --LONDON CHRONICLE

Instigated by Central Powers, Allies Suspect

London Press Traces Overtures to an Austrian Origin, and Pronounces Impossibility of Their Acceptance by Entente.

By Courier Leased Wire. London, Aug. 15.—Some of the morning newspapers refrain from commenting on the Pope's peace proposals while those which discuss them editorially base their genesis to Austria, and either reject absolutely or indicate the belief that the text when received will show them to be unacceptable.

The Daily News, which, although a firm supporter of the allies' aims, has decided pacifist leaning, says that whatever hitherto has restrained the Pope from coming forward as an official champion of peace, the long delay has materially impaired the advantages the Vatican originally possessed for disinterested intervention.

"It is our business to pass judgment upon a policy which exhausted itself in impotent sighs over the iniquities perpetrated in Belgium and imagine it possible to extinguish the world conflagration by a succession of timid intrigues. The fact is—whether it is reasonable to blame Benedict and his advisers therefor is another matter—considerations of temporal and secular interest having so long stayed in his hands, it is impossible to accept the Pope's intervention now as dictated purely by the desire which animates all good and all sincerely religious men to end a horror which is destroying Europe.

No Compromise The Post, expressing similar views says: "To listen to a compromise before a guarantee is secured against a repetition of the ordeal through which civilization is passing, is to betray all sacrifice and suffering that have been endured. If the vatican really is optimistic about the reception of its proposals the Vatican shows that it is entirely out of touch with the sentiment of the allies."

The Pope's proposals must be examined on their merits as strictly as any made by Chancellor Michaelis, President Wilson, or Lloyd George. Statements Beneficial The Daily News thinks it fairly clear that the Pope's appeal was really inspired by Austria, but maintains that if His Holiness can really persuade the belligerents to state their conditions in concrete terms, he will confer a very great, if belated, blessing on mankind, and if he can further persuade Germany to declare its willingness to restore the independence of Belgium, Serbia and Roumania, and withdraw from other invaded territories the door to peace will be open and a blank refusal by the allies to negotiate on such a basis would be almost unthinkable.

Must Refuse The Chronicle refers to the traditional intimacy of Austria and the Vatican and the Austrian court's desire for peace, and adds the fact that the proposal comes immediately after expulsion of the Russians from Bukovina, will not escape anybody who is in the habit of putting two and two together. We may assume that the Pope acted at Austria's prompting. In any case the allies (Continued on page 3)

HILL 70, STRONGHOLD OF FOE, FALLS TO CANADIANS

Noted German Position on Lens Front Captured This Morning; Sweeping Offensive Launched by British on Wide Front Results in Shattering of Enemy Lines

By Courier Leased Wire. British Front in France and Belgium, August 15.—(By Associated Press)—Hill 70, the famous German stronghold, northwest of the French mining city of Lens, which dominates the city and the Loos salient, was captured this morning by the Canadian forces. The British also pushed their lines into the northwestern environs of Lens in a semi-circle around the western side of Hill 70. The British attack was made on a 4,000 yard front which had an extreme depth of 1,500 yards.

Beginning at a point just above Hugo Wood the new British positions now run southeast and beyond Hill towards Lens. The line then bends southwest and encircles the suburbs of St. Laurent and St. Emilie. The British guns had been pounding for days Hill 70 which the Germans considered impregnable. The infantry attacks began at 4.25 o'clock this morning. The capture of Hill 70 ranks in importance with the biggest military operations of this year. It was the last dominating position in this section which remained in the hands of the Germans and from it a wide territory can be controlled. Hill 70 is to Lens and the Loos salient what Messines is to Ypres, and in some ways it is even a more enviable position than the Messines Ridge because even after the fall of Messines, the Germans still retained Fikem ridge from which they could sweep the country surrounding Ypres.

Hill 70 was bombarded with guns of all calibres which worked havoc among the German defenses on the crest of this eminence. The Germans undoubtedly prepared for the attack as fully as possible for there is no question that they were aware it was impending. Their nervous shelling of the communicating roads back of the British positions here, for many days gave full evidence that they knew sooner or later they must defend their claims. So it was a case of the better side winning. It was just twenty-five past four when the British guns dropped a protecting barrage before the Canadian trenches and the troops leaped over the parapet for the charge. Details of the fighting are not yet available but the troops swept forward with the invincible precision which has characterized the latest work of the great British fighting machine. Reparation In Broadest Sense the Keynote to Peace; Restoration, Restitution and Indemnity For Belgium Insisted on by U. S.

By Courier Leased Wire. Rome, Aug. 15.—The Corriere d'Italia, semi-official organ of the Vatican, says that in the court of arbitration destined to avoid future conflicts, the Pontifical authority will be worthy of being represented, being a guarantee of the disinterested protection of the interests of peoples. New York, Aug. 15.—Commenting editorially on the Pope's peace suggestion, The Herald says the Pontiff speaks a word that the German Government has not yet been able to bring itself to speak—"restoration." That is a beginning, it says, but unless it is taken in its broadest and most comprehensive sense restoration is not enough. For Belgium, for France, for Serbia there must not only be restoration of territory and of a complete and unquestioned sovereignty over the land restored to their peoples, but there must also be a full and complete restoration for damage done. There can be no peace that does not take responsibility into fullest account, that does not provide for adequate punishment of all individually and collectively, that does not make fullest reparation from Germany, that does not contain in itself the rights or to guarantee against a repetition of the crime.

When the hideous blight of Prussianism is destroyed forever the German people can have peace, not before. Any "peace" proposal that does not contemplate unconditional surrender by Germany contemplates a peace not worth thinking about.

ANARCHY RIFE THROUGH SPAIN

Rioting Occurred In Several Cities, Business Almost Halted

By Courier Leased Wire. Paris, Aug. 15.—Six persons were killed and nine others were wounded when strikers clashed with soldiers at Barcelona, according to a statement by the Spanish captain-general, received here by the Petit Parisien. Madrid, Aug. 15.—Interior Minister Guerra said yesterday that the strike agitation had increased in several quarters of the capital, but that the troops acted vigorously and quelled the disturbances. The government has taken steps to restore order. The captain-general at first framed his orders in a moderate spirit and then replaced them by others more severe. The government and press are without news from the provinces. A few newspapers hope to appear to-night. The rest have suspended publication on account of the military censorship. Madrid is without cable. Most of the stores are closed. Groups of workmen parade the streets, while soldiers patrol the principal points of the city. Premier Dato said: "We are confronted with an anarchist movement, inspired by no definite object, not even of effecting a change in the ministry."

The capital is like an armed camp. The bakers having struck, bread for the inhabitants is being baked by the soldiers. Reports from San Sebastian, Santander, Corunna and Grenda say that the situation in those places is quiet. The street cars running have been manned by soldiers. Trains, although delayed, are running. The arrest of the principal members of the Socialist party has been ordered.

OUTBREAK IMPENDING

By Courier Leased Wire. Amoy, China, Aug. 15.—Large bodies of the northern and southern Chinese armies are being concentrated in the vicinity of Chaonan, a town near the coast in Fukien province, forty miles north of Swatow. A clash between the opposing forces is considered probable.

German Moral First The World says: The relations between the Vatican and the Austrian Government have long been intimate. It is fair to presume that the Pope has not made a formal proposal looking toward peace without full consultation with the government at Vienna. It is likewise fair to presume that Vienna would not have consented contrary to the wishes of Berlin. In any case the first response to the Vatican proposals must come from the German Government, and there must be convincing proof that it has not tricked the Pope as it tried to trick President Wilson.

A Moral Idiot The German government in this war has proved itself a moral idiot, and negotiations with a moral idiot are necessarily attended with grave misgivings. What the Vatican has to suggest will necessarily receive the most respectful, earnest attention in every capital of the allied nations, but all of them have a right to demand that Germany must speak first. When the nations know what Berlin has to offer, what reparation Germany is prepared to make for its crimes and what guarantees the German people themselves can give for the future conduct of their government, democracy will know whether negotiation is possible or whether Prussianism is merely seeking a breathing spell, preparatory to a fresh assault on civilization.

Proposals One-Sided The Times says: Most of the express provisions that Belgium, Serbia and Roumania are to be set free and the occupied territory of France evacuated, we find in these Roman terms, not one of those conditions of peace which the allies have repeatedly and with the utmost emphasis declared to be essential, indispensable. On the other hand we recognize the conditions which it has long been known would be acceptable to the Central Empires excepting only the proposed submission to the peace conference of the questions of Alsace-Lorraine, Trentino, Trieste and Poland. It does not require the gift of prophecy to foresee and predict that the conditions of peace which he explains he has offered to the consideration of the world, will not without material modifications and additions be deemed acceptable by the allied governments.

Full Reparation. The Sun says: As to Belgium, for instance, what is meant by restoration? Merely restoration to the map, or restoration to conditions which existed when the Kaiser informed President Wilson through Ambassador Gerard that Germany had found it necessary to violate Belgium neutrality on strategic grounds. Restoration that means no more than the criminal's withdrawal from the scene of his unspeakable crimes. (Continued on page 3)

Simcoe, Aug. 15.—(From our own correspondent)—The Simcoe race-charge Chief Canning with exceeding more to his indifference and adding upon this official. For it is possible that when Roy Wallace took the chase in his auto at five o'clock on Monday evening and started north after a bicycle thief, the car went a little faster than the by-law allows. Ted Murtland, of Woodhouse, left his bike in front of the Ford Garage while he went in to do business. When he came out it was not there. He tracked the traction tread to the north depot and returned. The wheel had gone on north. When notified the chief followed in a car as above said, accompanied by Murtland. The trail was picked up and followed. Parties met on the way along the by-law reporting, and the chase ended just through Waterford, at Bunker's Hill. Two boys were seen on wheels, and when halted, they both dropped their bikes and took to standing crop. They were gathered in. The chief was quick to surmise that both wheels were stolen, and the little Ford soon turned for Simcoe and "rambled right along with five passengers and two wheels. The boys were Delbert, Begmer and Elmore Cunningham. The second wheel belonged to Karl Ryerse, and he and Chief Canning each found the other shortly after the latter's return.

Later, a good report of the boys came over the wire from R. D. Gibson, principal of the Waterford public school and from L. Sovereign, for whom the boys had worked. Latter the parent came over the road, and Magistrate Ganton permitted the boys to go home for the night. "They were only 10 and 12 years of age. The sequel came at 7:30 yesterday evening when the boys appeared with their parents and pleaded guilty. They were adjudged guilty, charged with costs, $7.50 each, and allowed to go on suspended sentence, the usual sentence here for bicycle stealing.

Norman Earl, Earl Maxwell and George Stringer, summoned for riding bicycles on the sidewalk, pleaded guilty, admitted having been warned and paid the nominal $1 fine each. The first two named saw the magistrate before court opened and settled. It pays to do so, by the way. The total would be perhaps ten cents for each offence. At any rate all of them took their medicine like men.

There were no other lawyers available. Mrs. Starr escaped with a warning, his Worship observing

Roumanian Offensive In Western Moldavia Continues Successfully
FOE HELD ELSEWHERE
Enormous Losses Inflicted On Austro-Germans In Close Fighting

London, Aug. 15.—The Roumanian offensive in Western Moldavia continues successfully, according to the official report from the War Office yesterday, and the Austro-Germans have been driven from the village of Slanic as well as from heights southwest of Grozechti. All the latest enemy efforts in the Fokshani region have been repulsed by the Russians and Roumanians.

The battle of the Putna. A belated Roumanian official communication, dated last Saturday and received here yesterday, describes the battle of the Putna in the region of Maraschti, fig. 6, as the greatest in the entire campaign. One Austrian and nine German divisions which had been engaged in enemy lines since the beginning of the four days and nights, aided by numerous pieces of heavy artillery, were shattered before the line, which was fiercely defended by the Russo-Roumanian troops, who in hand-to-hand combats and energetic counter-attacks inflicted enormous losses on the enemy.

The Russian Official. The Petrograd War Office report of Tuesday read:
 "Roumanian front: Throughout Monday there were stubborn battles in the Oca-Grozechti region. The Roumanian troops continued their counter-offensive began on Sunday, and towards evening occupied the village of Slanic and dislodged the enemy from the heights about six miles from the railway stations. The offensive is developing."
 "In the direction of Fokshani, after strong artillery preparation, the direction of Maraschti and from the direction of Doaga. All the attacks were repulsed by the Russo-Roumanian troops. Enemy efforts to penetrate into the region of Makalmei were frustrated by our fire."
 "Caucasus front: A Russian scouting party of forty men in a daring attack on the Turkish barrier guard in the region of Terebell, captured some prisoners. The remainder of the front was quiet."
 "On the Black Sea in the region of Sinop destroyed two large Turkish barges loaded with benzine and twenty-two loaded feluccas."
 "German aeroplanes dropped bombs on the railway stations at Neioedesch and Sidkavka."
 The German Claims. Tuesday's Berlin report said:
 "Eastern Theatre: Prince Leopold's troops. There have been no large fighting operations."
 "Archduke Joseph's front: South of the Trous counter, the enemy by a strong counter-attack contested our gain of ground near the Oltus and Casin valleys. He also launched violent attacks which were all repulsed."
 "Field Marshal von Mackensen's group: Near Pantziu there has been fresh fights in which the enemy, in fruitless attacks, suffered the heaviest losses. Between the Sutchiza and our troops have pressed back the enemy into the mountains, despite stubborn resistance. Forefield engagements along the Lower Sereth were in our favor and several prisoners and booty were captured. In the region of the mouth of the Danube the firing activity has been revived."
 "Macedonian front: There is nothing to report."

that he had received more than this complaint.
 More Gas
 Another gas well at Lynedoch was finished on Monday. The count is now six, and three others will be started in about ten days.
 Pipe will be laid presently. The job will be commenced at this end. The line will be laid out Main St., and up the allowance once occupied by Tabbot Road. The fences are still there.

 Some unknown demanded $4.00 a day for work on the breakers, or rather, breaks, in the trunk sewer. Engineer Marston, however, escaped from a hold-up.
 The occasional bachelor who still whines about the poll tax, and there are all such, are in a new class, was "heard" to "blaming" scarcity of labor locally on the "imposition." The town may retaliate when the time comes by seeing it to the fact that the property tax is being raised, so far as municipal work is concerned later on. It was hinted to-day that a partial list is already made out.
 It was given us to-day that Contractor R. E. Ganton cannot secure labor enough to keep three brick layers going at the school construction.
 At Dover.
 Work on the dam and flume at the Wooler Mills goes on gradually. The undertaking is not a small one. Kolbe's new boat, sister to the City of Dover, launched about a week ago or more, has been taken beneath the swing bridge that does not swing. The machinery is all in place and the carpenters almost through with the upper works.
 The north end of Main street, all above the L. E. & N. crossing is being graded. The sidewalks for this portion were laid recently. Reeve Walker is personally supervising the work.
 The catch of fish is still light. The passage of the waterworks below is a foregone conclusion but no pains will be spared in the matter of getting out the necessary vote. The scheme has its opponents here as elsewhere, but none of them have been able to show a single instance of any village town or city that installed a system to supply good water for domestic purposes and that has not and subsequently regretted doing so.
 That there is something amiss about the training or make up of one of the juvenile bicycle thieves mentioned above is evident from the fact that after being allowed to go home for the night instead of to the school, he received money for his fare on the trolley without any expression of thanks.
 Burglars Abroad?
 Prowlers about the home of J. D. Freeman at Lynville were detected when they stumbled over some articles in the yard near the house. A few shots from the window caused them to scamper off. The Simcoe police was notified. It may seem strange to Courier readers elsewhere that the call should come in reference to the local police, but the constabulary is so unorganized that county folk have no appreciation of the fact that the British success in bringing down eleven of them, four out of control. Two British aeroplanes were lost in the air fighting. The other was captured.

Roumanian Offensive In Western Moldavia Continues Successfully
FOE HELD ELSEWHERE
Enormous Losses Inflicted On Austro-Germans In Close Fighting

London, Aug. 15.—The Roumanian offensive in Western Moldavia continues successfully, according to the official report from the War Office yesterday, and the Austro-Germans have been driven from the village of Slanic as well as from heights southwest of Grozechti. All the latest enemy efforts in the Fokshani region have been repulsed by the Russians and Roumanians.

The battle of the Putna. A belated Roumanian official communication, dated last Saturday and received here yesterday, describes the battle of the Putna in the region of Maraschti, fig. 6, as the greatest in the entire campaign. One Austrian and nine German divisions which had been engaged in enemy lines since the beginning of the four days and nights, aided by numerous pieces of heavy artillery, were shattered before the line, which was fiercely defended by the Russo-Roumanian troops, who in hand-to-hand combats and energetic counter-attacks inflicted enormous losses on the enemy.

The Russian Official. The Petrograd War Office report of Tuesday read:
 "Roumanian front: Throughout Monday there were stubborn battles in the Oca-Grozechti region. The Roumanian troops continued their counter-offensive began on Sunday, and towards evening occupied the village of Slanic and dislodged the enemy from the heights about six miles from the railway stations. The offensive is developing."
 "In the direction of Fokshani, after strong artillery preparation, the direction of Maraschti and from the direction of Doaga. All the attacks were repulsed by the Russo-Roumanian troops. Enemy efforts to penetrate into the region of Makalmei were frustrated by our fire."
 "Caucasus front: A Russian scouting party of forty men in a daring attack on the Turkish barrier guard in the region of Terebell, captured some prisoners. The remainder of the front was quiet."
 "On the Black Sea in the region of Sinop destroyed two large Turkish barges loaded with benzine and twenty-two loaded feluccas."
 "German aeroplanes dropped bombs on the railway stations at Neioedesch and Sidkavka."
 The German Claims. Tuesday's Berlin report said:
 "Eastern Theatre: Prince Leopold's troops. There have been no large fighting operations."
 "Archduke Joseph's front: South of the Trous counter, the enemy by a strong counter-attack contested our gain of ground near the Oltus and Casin valleys. He also launched violent attacks which were all repulsed."
 "Field Marshal von Mackensen's group: Near Pantziu there has been fresh fights in which the enemy, in fruitless attacks, suffered the heaviest losses. Between the Sutchiza and our troops have pressed back the enemy into the mountains, despite stubborn resistance. Forefield engagements along the Lower Sereth were in our favor and several prisoners and booty were captured. In the region of the mouth of the Danube the firing activity has been revived."
 "Macedonian front: There is nothing to report."

fish re-established their line on the eastern side of the river.
 The territory around the Steenbeke River has been contested bitterly and the enemy repeatedly endeavored to reclaim his positions on the western bank. Vigorous fighting continued here this afternoon.
 HARVESTERS LOOK
 36,000 farm laborers are wanted in the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, for the harvesting of the crop.
 The Canadian Northern Railway will operate the first excursion train for the west, leaving Toronto Union Depot at 10 p.m. August 23rd and 30th, and running through solid to Winnipeg.
 The equipment will consist of electric lighted colonist cars, lunch cars, and in addition the railway will continue their last year's innovation of keeping a special car for the accommodation of single women and families, and of placing it in the train where the occupants will be separated from the other passengers.
 The territory served by the Canadian Northern line offers the widest choice of employment with high wages, but regardless of where you locate, remember we give you the best service to Winnipeg, where you will re-purchase to final destination, no matter on what line it may be.

NOTABLE THRUST BY HAG AT YPRES
Troops Cross River And Seize German Positions Near Langemarck
CAPTIVES ARE TAKEN
Airmen Very Active, Several Enemy Planes Being Brought Down

London, Aug. 14.—The British troops in Flanders to-day improved their position on the right bank of the River Steenbeke, north-east of Ypres, and captured some prisoners. The official statements from British Headquarters in France to-night, tell of the repulse of several strong raids by the Germans between Ypres and Arras. German aviators have been very active and the British succeeded in bringing down eleven of them, four out of control. Two British aeroplanes were lost in the air fighting. The other was captured.
 "Early this morning the enemy attacked our line east of Westhoek but met heavy artillery and rifle fire and were driven out of control. Two of our advanced posts a few yards.

three companies, was made against our trenches. Near Chappelle, it was repulsed by Portuguese troops after sharp fighting in which a few prisoners were secured.
 "The enemy aircraft continued to pursue aggressive tactics yesterday and attacked our long-distance bombing machines with great vigor. Our machines, nevertheless, reached and bombed successfully their objectives in every case. Artillery and photographic work was carried out throughout the day by our machines and machine gun fire was opened with effect upon enemy infantry both in the trenches and in the open. In the air fighting seven German aeroplanes were brought down and four others driven out of control. Two of our machines are missing."
 The afternoon report said:
 "Our raiding parties entered the German lines last night north-east of Gouzeaucourt and at two points east of Vermelles, securing a few prisoners. A number of the enemy were killed and his dugouts were bombed."
 "A hostile raid was successfully repulsed north of Roexux. During the night, the enemy's artillery was more active than usual east and north-east of Ypres and in the neighborhood of Lombaertzyde."

PLANK QUITS
 Detroit, August 15.—Eddie Plank, the veteran left-hander, has retired permanently from baseball. Fielder Jones, of the St. Louis Americans, made this known to-day, when he announced that Plank had left the team last Saturday and gone to his home at Gettysburg, Pa. Plank informed him, Jones said, that his reason for retiring was that the strain of baseball was telling on him, causing trouble with his stomach.
 Plank's last game was pitched in Washington a week ago Monday, when Walter Johnson defeated him, 1 to 0, in eleven innings.

TEN STRAIGHT FOR THE LEAFS

Toronto Consolidates Her Hold On First Place By Beating Rebels

PRIZE SIGN IS HIT
Lajoie and Schultz Each Win Fifty Dollars Thus GRAYS ARE BEATEN

Newark Broke Even In A Double Header; Royals Drop Two Games

Richmond, Va., Aug. 15.—Toronto took advantage of Richmond's drowsiness of play yesterday and won the Leafs emerging on the larger end of a 5 to 3 score. Lajoie and Schultz added to their gratification at the victory by pounding a ball up against the prize sign in left field. Each swat will net the swatter exactly $50 additional for his day's work.

The game was something of an improvement over the first of the series, although Richmond lost several opportunities for staging rallies. Inferior fielding and poor work on the bases caused the defeat, Thompson permitting the locals to earn one more run than the Leafs garnered off Adams. However, two of the runs secured by Richmond were made by Hanford, who twice developed the ball over left field fence for homers. In neither case was there any one on the bases, however.

Toronto scored first in the second. Blackburn walked, took second when McDermott wobbled on what appeared to be a certain double play and romped home on Lalonge's hit. Thompson then delivered a double to a reserve hit. For further particulars apply to S. P. Pitcher, Auctioneer, Mrs. Cassidy, Proprietor.

Another was secured in the third. Whiteman was hit by Adams, stole second and continued to third when Reynolds threw poorly. Schultz hit one to McGaffigan, who juggled the ball and then threw wild and Whiteman counted.

The final run for the Leafs was garnered in the fourth. Lalonge bounced one over McDermott's head, the infielder playing in close. Thompson was an outfield out but Truesdale bounced another over McDermott's head and Lalonge scored.

In addition to Hanford's two homers, Richmond earned another run with hits by McGaffigan, Bankston and McDermott, sending McGaffigan over. Bankston was caught sleeping off first and the rally was killed.

Jacobson stole two of the five bases pilfered off Reynolds. Blackburn played a corking game in the field and Lalonge led with the stick for the Leafs. Bankston's catch of Blackburn's drive and the resulting doubling of Lajoie featured for Richmond.

At Newark
Newark broke even in a double-header with Rochester here yesterday, winning the first, 2 to 1, and dropping the second, 6 to 2. The first game was a pitching duel between Smallwood and Causey. Schacht held the Bears safe in the second game. Scores: R. H. E. Rochester . . . 000000100—1 4 1 Newark . . . 000200000—2 6 2 Batteries, Causey and Sandberg; Smallwood and Egan.

Second game.—R. H. E. Rochester . . . 101120010—6 11 3 Newark . . . 000200000—2 6 2 Batteries, Schacht and Sandberg; Ross and Blackwell.

Baltimore had an easy time making it two in a row over Montreal, 12 to 5. Extra base hits featured. R. H. E. Montreal . . . 000002012—5 11 3 Baltimore . . . 20021007x—12 15 0 Batteries, Stryker, Duffy and Madden; Hill, Newton and Schaufele.

At Providence

German Inspection?
The Times, while suspending final judgment until the text is available, says the proposals, as described in the telegraph summaries are utterly inadmissible by the allies. It expresses astonishment at the Vatican's alleged hope that the document will be favorably received and lead to the not distant end of the war.

"To cherish any hope of this," says the paper, "betrays a complete ignorance of opinion of all the Entente countries and the United States. They have all stated plainly, emphatically and repeatedly, the only terms whereon they are prepared to consider peace. Those terms are quite incompatible with the telegraph version of the Vatican's proposals, and there is not the slightest prospect that the allies will renounce them. The whole tenor of the document bears the marks of German inspection."

NO FRATERNIZING WITH THE ENEMY

Reasons Why British Seamen Shun the Stockholm Conference

A RECORD OF SHAME
Five Instances of Teuton Frightfulness Cited by Havelock Wilson

London, Aug. 15.—Havelock Wilson, president of the National Seamen's Union, in a statement prepared for the Associated Press to-day gave "the reasons why British seamen cannot fraternize with Germans at Stockholm of anywhere else."

The document is an account of recent German submarine attacks in which British vessels, in which boats or otherwise, were treated as hapless crews. It explained that no attempt had been made to make a complete list, but that examples had been selected more or less haphazardly to illustrate the reasons for the attitude of the seamen and the Firemen's Union towards parleys with the enemy. The first instance picked out was the already familiar case of the British steamship Belgian Prince. The statement says: "The Belgian Prince was sunk by a submarine July 31, 1917. The liner and her crew were broken up, and the survivors were thrown into the sea after being deprived of their lifebelts, forty men were drowned."

"The British steamship Kildale was sunk April 12, 1917. Fifteen shells were fired, escaping boats while they were pulling clear of the ship, killing one seaman and injuring others."

"The British steamship Westminster was sunk December 14, 1916. The boats were severely shelled by the German submarine, and the captain and the mate killed. Others were injured."

"The British steamship Eveston was sunk February 19, 1917. The submarine's guns, firing shrapnel shells, swept both boats, killing the master, steward, and three others, and injuring the second officer."

"The British steamship Adah was sunk June 15, 1917. The submarine fired on the master's boat, killing eight men. After the boat had been sunk and the men were swimming about, the submarine again fired shrapnel shells at them."

"The British steamship Eveston was sunk February 19, 1917. The submarine's guns, firing shrapnel shells, swept both boats, killing the master, steward, and three others, and injuring the second officer."

restoration that means reparation, restitution, indemnity.

It cannot be that the Pope, if his proposal is correctly reported as declaring that injuries to all the belligerents have been so great that there should be no thought of reparation, except by the return of territory, had in mind the awful injuries of innocent Belgium.

That disposition of the case, that dismissal of the offender from court of the world's opinion with no heavier sentence than that he must evacuate the territory blighted and blasted by his crime, must seem to Cardinal Mercier, a mockery of God's justice.

According to the views of The New Yorker Staats Zeitung, the Vatican has taken this most important step. It continues: "One may see therein a reflex of the longings for peace which undoubtedly prevail among the peoples of Europe. The belligerent governments will scarcely be able to ignore the proposal of the Pope, they will have to express themselves upon it. Whether practical results can grow out of it remains to be seen. When one considers the most recent expressions of the allied statesmen and their very energetic rejection of all possibilities of peace on the part of the Washington Government, it is unlikely enough that a serious movement toward peace can now develop. Nevertheless the step undertaken by Pope Benedict is a sign that the wish for peace in Europe is growing stronger."

THE SITUATION.

On the Western front the British have forced German posts to retire across the Steenbeke river and Haig's men now hold the Eastern side of that stream. As an offset the foe forced back some British outposts near Westhoek. At Neuve Chapelle Portuguese repulsed a German attack. Nothing, however, of much importance, has recently been recorded. The Russo-Romanian troops have regained some ground on the Roumanian front, and it seems to be the opinion that if Russia could bring up reinforcements the tide could yet be turned. The if in the matter is, however, of a large sized nature.

In the British House of Commons, Right Hon. Walter Long, Secretary of State for the Colonies, paid a very warm tribute to the assistance of the Overseas Dominions. He mentioned that conscription had been enforced in British East Africa, Uganda, Ceylon the Straits Settlements and the Malay States, and was being considered elsewhere.

The peace proposals of the Pope are not likely to meet with favor from the Allies. The latter have made up their minds that Germany and her Allies must be brought to terms far more drastic than those outlined from the Vatican.

THEIR NUMBERS GROWING.

The following is taken from the Winnipeg Free Press the leading Liberal paper of the West:—

"Le Canada, the official organ of French Liberalism, is in a state of great excitement over current political developments. It denounces the Free Press and wants everybody to understand that, notwithstanding anything that may have appeared in these columns, Sir Wilfrid Laurier remains the leader of the Liberals of Canada. There need be no quarrel between Le Canada and the Free Press about this. Sir Wilfrid is unquestionably the leader of all those Liberals who agree with the course which he has taken with respect to the military service bill. In a free country, however, political leaders may lead those who are willing to follow. The Liberals in Canada who do not agree with Sir Wilfrid Laurier in this matter decline to follow him. They are a goodly company and their numbers grow daily."

The Liberal party of Canada has been disrupted. The political consequences are obvious though it is not surprising that Le Canada, and those of whom it speaks, refuse as yet to recognize them. Having control of the steering gear of the Liberal car they have put it in the ditch but they are still under the spell of the delusion that it is speeding along the highway towards victory and office. Enlightenment will come to them, but they will see their folly in retrospect when it is too late."

"The Liberals who break with Sir Wilfrid are not lacking in sympathy for him and for the difficulties of his position. Their preference is for a belief that Sir Wilfrid, as his private views, as apart from the supposed necessities of his position as a party leader is not wholly at variance with them. They assume that Sir Wilfrid finds circumstances too strong for him; or, what amounts to much the same thing, that he thinks circumstances are too strong for him. What is quite clear to them is that in making his decision on this momentous issue the governing factor in Sir Wilfrid's mind has been a calculation as to the political effect in Quebec for his action. They are not prepared to admit that this is a consideration which should be decisive in fixing the policy of a nation-wide party. True at all times, this is doubly true in this matter of the war. Quebec, the laggard among the Canadian provinces, is not to be permitted to determine the measure of Canada's devotion to the cause. This is why Liberals who believe that Canada's obligations in this war are not less than those of her allies, are unable longer to accept the leadership of Sir Wilfrid Laurier."

BAKED STEW
One pint lean beef cut in dice, 2 potatoes, medium sized; 1 small onion, a little more than cover with water; put in bean pot; cover and bake three hours; serve with dumplings.

A GOOD RECORD.
It is the custom of Liberal papers, and Liberal speakers, to refer to the Borden Government as having in war matters "lacked direction and leadership." This arrant falsehood has been repeated so often that a certain number of people have been fooled into believing it. The facts show distinctly otherwise. Here are figures which tell what Canada has actually accomplished up to date:

|---|---------------|
| Enlistments in Canadian overseas forces | 392,647 |
| Active militia called out | 9,052 |
| Permanent Force | 2,470 |
| Enlistments for Canadian Navy | 3,310 |
| Sent to British Naval Service | 1,600 |
| Imperial Mechanical Transport Service | 1,200 |
| Reservists from Canada | 21,250 |
| total | 434,529 |
| Actually left country up to May 1, 1917 | 312,503 |
| Still in Canada training | 25,475 |
| (In addition to 9,052 on guard duty and 1,470 of permanent force, making a total of 39,997) | |
| Casualties among Canadians up to June, 1917 | 99,639 |
| Prisoners of war | 2,375 |
| Saw service in France or the East | 175,000 |
| Workmen and inspectors on munitions work | 304,000 |
| Factories | 630 |
| Orders in 1917 (estimated) | $700,000,000 |
| Advanced by Canada to secure these orders | 250,000,000 |
| Other orders executed by Canadian Government for the Allied nations | 200,000,000 |
| Disbursed by War Purchasing Commission for equipment and supplies for Canadian forces over | $300,000,000 |

There is certainly not much of inertia about the above record. Still further it must be borne in mind that these things have been accomplished despite much disparagement and opposition—practically solid as far as Quebec is concerned and very considerable in other provinces.

For despicable party reasons Grit manipulators have not hesitated to affirm that the service has been systematically exploited in a political sense; that men on the same basis have been selected to make huge profits, and that in general the administration has been subversive and transgressive.

Even in the comparatively small matter of the Borden Camp—one of the best situated and best equipped in the empire—soldiers were told that it was a veritable Sahara and openly invited to resent going there.

As a matter of fact the achievements of the Borden Government up to date have been splendid and under the adverse circumstances described, remarkable.

NOTES AND COMMENTS
China has now officially declared war on Germany, and is the seventh nation to do so. And still the Prussians imagine that their plan to recognize them. Having control of the steering gear of the Liberal car they have put it in the ditch but they are still under the spell of the delusion that it is speeding along the highway towards victory and office. Enlightenment will come to them, but they will see their folly in retrospect when it is too late."

It was not to be expected that the Prime Minister of Saskatchewan, recently returned to power by the French and foreign vote, would support a union government or a win-the-war movement.

Auguste Lemieux, a brother of the late Postmaster-General, and prospective Liberal candidate for Ottawa, is more candid than some of his leaders. He said recently at a public meeting that the main thing was to win the election.

The Laurierites having been instrumental in bringing Canadian Northern Railway obligations to their present head, are now seeking to hamper the Borden Government in their efforts to straighten matters out.

AMERICANS CONSCRIPTED
By Courier Leased Wire.
Copenhagen, Aug. 15.—An American of German birth, who was permitted to leave Germany recently, says that the military authorities there are commencing to take American citizens long resident in Germany for military service, on the grounds that they have forfeited their American citizenship, and are now denationalized. Even native born American, he says, have in some instances been put into the army, but the military duty usually applies on naturalized citizens of German origin.

The Americans, a number of whom have protested to the Spanish embassy, it is believed here, have little hope of escaping service.

HILL 70 FALLS

London, August 15.—Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig's forces attacked the German positions along a wide front early this morning from Lens to the north-east of Loos. The official statement says the British are making progress satisfactorily.

General Haig reports that the British troops have carried the German first line at all points of the front attacked.

The text of the statement reads:—

"We attacked early this morning on a wide front from the northwestern outskirts of Lens to the Bois Hugo, north-east of Loos."

"Our troops have carried the German first lines of defense at all points, and are making satisfactory progress."

"A local counter-attack east of the Cite St. Emilie was completely crushed."

"Our allies gained further ground during the night north-west of Bischofschoote."

"Hostile raiding parties attacked... our new positions last night east of Klein Zillebeke, but they were completely repulsed, leaving fourteen prisoners in our hands. The stormy weather continues. Heavy rain again has fallen."

FRENCH ALSO.
Paris, Aug. 15.—The French attacked in Belgium last night and made considerable advance in the region of Dixmude road, the war office announces. The Germans directed a heavy artillery fire against the French first lines on the Aisne front, between Hurtebise and Craonne. On the Verdun front the French repulsed German attacks. The statement follows:—

"In Belgium our troops made considerable progress west of the Dixmude road."

"Between Hurtebise and Craonne our first lines were bombarded heavily. A surprise attack against one of our small posts on Yandere plateau was repulsed completely."

"The artillery fighting continued with great activity, all night on both banks of the Meuse. To the left of the river we repulsed an enemy attack west of Hill 304. Everywhere else the night passed in quiet."

AIRMAN KILLED
By Courier Leased Wire.
Camp Borden, August 15.—Air Mechanic B. E. Crane, of the R.F.C., met his death last evening in the crash of the airplane in which he was a passenger. He was one of the mechanics who were brought over from England, early in the year, when the R.F.C. was inaugurating its training in Canada. The machine was being piloted by Cadet Phillips, who escaped with a few minor injuries.

A CLUE.
By Courier Leased Wire.
Montreal, Aug. 15.—The police and Dominion detectives have unearthed a clue to the identity of the gang which dynamited Lord Atholstan's residence at Cartierville a week ago. What it is, is not known but it is said it will lead to an arrest soon.

By Courier Leased Wire.
Amsterdam, Aug. 15.—Les Nouvelles de Maastricht says that a well known athlete of Ghent, named Van Renterghem, who recently was condemned to death for espionage, was dragged at the end of a chain twenty metres long through the principal streets of the city to the place of execution, being grossly mistreated by the soldiers who were guarding him. He met his fate with the utmost courage without a word of complaint. The newspapers also reports that at Antwerp recently the Germans shot M. Frank, a Belgian carpet dealer.

MARCHING HOME
When they come back from blood-stained fields, the country's heroes hate to be the slacker lad who dodged the fighting, when from France or Petrograd the boys come home a-king! I'd hate to be that young man then, disgraced beyond redemption who claimed a spavin for a wound, how proudly they'll be welcomed home! We'll deck the land as reason for exemption. Oh, better far to fill a grave in some red field unchartered, than slink around in hand-banners wave to greet the every hand, will sell the boys with lion-hearted. When we, to see the roses. And there'll be music in the heroes' back, before the courteous kirk, loud organ peals and singing, and every man will quit his work, slack will hide in some dark alley.

CANADIAN VALOR SINCE VIMY FIGHT

Official Communication On Operations of April, May and June

By Courier Lensed Wire.
Ottawa, Aug. 15.—A communication from British general headquarters in France, as given out here today by the minister of militia, covering operations of the Canadian corps during April, May and June, 1917, (subsequent to the capture of the Vimy ridge), follows:

After the enemy's defeat at the Vimy ridge the German forces opposite the right of the Canadian corps, fell back to a strong trench system, known as the Oppy-Merri-court line, which ran from Gavrelle, past Oppy, Arleux-en-Gohelle, Fresnoy and Acheville to Merinocourt. On the left of the Canadian corps the enemy held the northern portion of the Vimy-Lea line in considerable strength. A switch line passing south of Avion connected the two hostile systems into a continuous line of defence.

These positions were sufficiently formidable to render the further advance of our infantry impossible without adequate artillery preparation and support, to secure which it was necessary to march forward our guns and howitzers and bring up great quantities of ammunition. The difficulty of this task was increased by the lack of road communications within the corps' area, due to the natural barrier formed by the ridges. Such roads as existed, moreover, had been partially destroyed by bombardment or by mines fired by the retreating enemy. The weather also was unfavorable. For several days following the capture of the Vimy ridge, rain and snow fell abundantly, reducing the shell torn ground to a condition which rendered passage across the open country impossible even for pack animals.

To meet these difficulties a large working parties were promptly organized, and the construction and reconstruction of roads was pushed on as rapidly as possible. Between the 23rd and 25th of April forty miles of roadway were reclaimed, built, and railways and tramways were carried forward with equal energy. The amount of work to be done, however, was very great, and on the 23rd April when the British armies attacked from the Senze River to Gavrelle, the destruction of the enemy's wire on the southern position of the Canadian corps had not been completed. On the day therefore, the action of Canadian troops was confined to a limited attack by troops of a British division with Canadian detachments in support of their right flank upon the enemy's positions between the Vimy and Senze Rivers and Souchez River. Here also it was found that the German wire, although cut in many places, was still a sufficient obstacle to deny the advance. Though the enemy's trenches were entered on the greater part of the front attacked, only a small portion of the ground gained could be maintained.

Revival Service
Large crowds assemble every evening in the East Ward, at Recreation park, where tent services are being conducted by Lee H. Hawkins, ex-ordained preacher, of the Pentecostal Assembly Church, assisted by Mr. McWilliams, of Toronto. On week days two services are held, one in the afternoon and the other in the evening, and there are three sessions of devotion on Sundays. Those in charge of the revival expect to continue the tent service for thirty days. There is a seating capacity of two or three hundred, and the tent is filled nearly every evening, although all those who attend are not devout worshippers. The speaker yesterday afternoon referred to the youngsters who come in and disturb the exercises, and expressed a desire that mothers would keep their children at home, as he was a preacher and not a nurse maid.

Winners Honored.
Practically all the players of the Sunday School Football League were on hand at the Y. M. C. A. football event when the Eagle Place Dodgers, the winners of the championship were presented with watch fobs and the West Brants' who secured second place in the standing, were the recipients of hats and balls. Appropriate addresses were made by Messrs. W. G. Ranton, A. E. Day, G. H. Williamson, Ross Beckett, the boys' secretary, who has secured leave of absence and is leaving very soon to engage in Y. M. service overseas, made a suitable farewell address.

Municipal Association.
A notification of the nineteenth annual convention of the Ontario Municipal Association to be held in the City Hall, Toronto the last three days of this month, was received at the office of the City Clerk this morning. Brantford is requested to appoint a delegate from the city council to attend, and as this has been the custom in other years, it is probable that it will be repeated this year. Cheap rates on the railways have been secured.

The engagement is announced, the wedding to take place early in September, of Mr. Joseph Shortt, Webster to Miss Lela M. Taylor, both of this city.
J. W. Woodruff of Montreal, is a visitor in the city, the guest of Mr. Howell, William Street.

EAT LESS MEAT

No official word has yet been received by any local hotel proprietors from the government regarding the regulations governing meatless days on Tuesdays and Fridays. In some hotels, bacon and beef, the forbidden meats were eliminated from the menus but in others, no change was made. In Ottawa, Toronto and other cities the food controller's new provision was adhered to while in Hamilton no attention was paid to the regulation as the rule will be published for the first time in Saturday's issue of the Canadian Gazette and will then be enforced. Transgressors will not be punished this week but the rule will be strictly enforced, beginning with Tuesday of next week. Bacon and beef are on the restricted list and may not be served on Tuesdays and Fridays and only twice on the other days of the week.

20000 AMERICANS TO HELP HARVEST

Immigration Regulations Stopped To Permit Laborers To Travel

PLAN OF GOVERNMENT Some Ten Thousand Canadians To Help Dig Potatoes In Maine

Washington Aug. 15.—Twenty thousand American harvest hands will help save Canada's grain crop and nearly half as many Canadians will dig potatoes in Maine under an arrangement reached today by representatives of the American and Canadian governments. Immigration regulations will be suspended by both countries to permit the labor to cross and recross the border.

The wheat harvest labor, working northward with the grain season, heretofore have stopped at the Canadian line and scattered to other pursuits throughout the United States. The agreement made today contemplates their crossing to take the places of thousands of Canadian workers who cannot go to the western grain fields because of the labor shortage throughout the Dominion. The wheat fields of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta begin to ripen just after the crop in the northern tier of States is gathered. Canada is counting this year on a 300 million bushel yield of wheat, the second largest the country has grown. Maine's potato crop is about ready for digging, and there is not enough available labor in New England to take care of the field. Canadian labor employed for a short time will enable the Maine farmers to save all their crop.

WITH THE CITY POLICE

The savings accumulated by Able Finger and Joe Stine, two members of the Semitic race who are proprietors of a bakery in West Brantford, were depleted to some extent when they were fined $10.00 and cost of $4.85 in the police court this morning for selling bread under the required weight. Seven loaves were seized last week by Bread Inspector Glover, all several ounces under the weight provided for in the Bread Sales Act. The minimum fine was imposed by the Magistrate as it was the first offense but will be increased on the occasion of a second infraction. Edward Curran and Mrs. James Lowe have been sailing through the stormy and tempestuous seas of an inter family quarrel and both were charged this morning with disorderly conduct. There was a lack of sufficient evidence to convict and the defendants were dismissed. For very nearly running down a pedestrian at the corner of Market and Colborne streets on Sunday afternoon, E. L. Robinson, was given a warning and allowed to go. Peter Churley who was charged with riding on the sidewalk was warned and another bicyclist caught in the county, paid the usual five dollars.

McGarrath, New York, treasurer; Edward Chambers, Chicago, transportation director and J. W. Shorthill, York, Neb., secretary. Milling interests named a committee to co-operate with the food administration in negotiating voluntary regulations of the milling industry. James F. Bell, Minneapolis, was named chairman of the committee.

GERMAN FLAVOR TO PEACE OVERTURES

Britain Sees Hand of Central Powers Behind Pope's Proposals AUSTRIAN PROPOSALS Further And More Definite Overtures Looked For Very Soon

1. That there be no annexation, Rome, Aug. 15.—Peace proposals made by Pope Benedict have been delivered to all the belligerent governments. The Pope's peace appeal proposes: 1. The peace proposals will be published here on Thursday. 2. The return to Germany of her colonies in exchange for the occupied departments of France. 3. Freedom of the seas, 4. Disarmament and the formation of a supreme court of arbitration for the settlement of future international disputes. The peace proposals will be published here on Thursday. Summed up, they are for a restoration of the status quo ante bellum, with all questions as to the readjustment of frontiers to be left to undisturbed subsequent negotiations.

Distinct German Flavor London, Aug. 15.—"These so-called peace terms have a distinct German flavor." This reply was given in an authoritative quarter in London today, in reply to a question by the Associated Press in regard to the Vatican proposals. The proposal embodies what have been well known here for some time as the terms the Central Powers would have been glad to offer and relieved to have accepted, being virtually the restoration of before-the-war conditions, with a commission to the diplomats to thrash out the questions which have been on the border-line. British people will look askance at a proposal which they think is issued distinctly in the interests of the enemy powers. The Pope's offer did not even constitute a newspaper sensation. The opinion was expressed that the inspiration for the peace move emanated from Austria and was in the nature of a trial balloon, as a pretense to more definite propositions from the Central Powers to the allies. The informant continued: "It has long been known to statesmen of the allied countries that the Central Powers are eager to conclude peace on terms of restoration of the status quo. Therefore, there is no need of any protracted consideration before saying what the attitude of the allies will be. A status quo peace would be distinctly a German peace and is the very thing which President Wilson and other statesmen have been long emphasizing as possible and unthinkable. All the sacrifices of this terrible war will have been vain if we do not conclude a peace which will insure the world against a repetition."

In reply to an enquiry whether the Vatican had been expected or had come as a surprise, it was stated that the first information regarding it reached Whitehall yesterday, "although a similar note would not have caused any surprise at any time in the past two months." It was explained that owing to its nature, the note probably would require no formal answer. It is expected informal replies will be delivered by means of speeches in the next few days by various allied statesmen. Status Quo Peace Unthinkable The belief in Whitehall is that any proposal for a status quo peace will have a curter reception in the United States than in Europe. "The American position in this war has perhaps been made clearer than that of any of the other belligerents," said the informant of the Associated Press. "The United States has no 'entangling alliances' in this matter, and has taken a firm stand for a peace which will clear the world of the menace of militarism and absolutism. From the American point of view any status quo peace obviously is impossible. The suggestion for the return of the German colonies is one which we will leave with perfect confidence to the consideration of the American people. Is it thinkable that hapless natives should be returned to a power which has shown herself so unfit to administer the affairs of subject races? If anything could be worse than Germany's record in Europe it is her record in the colonies. Is a permanent peace possible in Africa with Germany there? "America is to-day the great hope of the Entente allies for a stable peace. America is fresh and determined. She has vigor and backbone, youth and strength and unlimited resources. She will not let Europe halt until peace on a stable and permanent basis has been definitely established. That is one great reason why every one of her allies should be overwhelmingly thankful that America now is with us."

CONVICTS KAISER BY HIS OWN WORDS

New York Writer Establishes German Emperor's Responsibility For War

WILHELM HAS CREDIT His Ideas On Subject Of Omnipotence and Divine Commission

The Kaiser has said that this war was none of his; that it was a defensive measure on the part of the German Empire which caused it to enter the struggle. He has even said that the German army and navy had been created purely for defensive purposes.

Without endeavoring to prove that Germany did not need such a wonderful machine for merely defensive purposes—a fact all too patent—can we not follow the same tactics that the astute lawyer does and cause the witness to convict himself? This is what K. Flaugh in a letter to the New York Sun. Much has been written on this side as to the utterances of the Kaiser, but not enough. The Kaiser is his own judge and jury, and the following excerpts from his speeches will best convey to the American mind what manner of man he is. The conclusions therefrom will be inevitable.

These excerpts are divided into departments, the better to convey to those who read them his line of thought along any direction from which one may care to view him. He is not of the proletariat—the common people, of whom Lincoln has coined a never to be forgotten sentence:

Ideas on Divine Appointment

As I look upon myself as an instrument of the Lord, I am indifferent to the point of view of the present day. The king holds his power by the grace of God, to whom alone is he responsible. He chooses and justifies, and only decides his actions from this point of view.

I, too, like my imperial grandfather, represent the kingship by God's grace. Here my grandfather, placed by his own right, the crown of the kings of Prussia on his head, once again lay stress upon the fact that it was conferred upon him by the grace of God alone, not by parliament, by the meetings of the people, or by popular decisions—and that he considered himself the chosen instrument of Heaven, and as such performed his duties as regent and ruler.

The reigning house of Hohenzollern is equipped with a high sense of duty, derived from the consciousness that it is appointed by God to its position.

Here he is as he views himself minus the heavenly factor:
I am of the opinion that it is in the position on which I am placed it is of far greater service to me to inspire them with fear.

Let us remember the example of my great ancestor, the Emperor William I, who said that he had learned more from his humiliations than from all his successes.

I consider it necessary for a sovereign to investigate everything personally and to form his opinion at first hand; to get to know his relations with them—such was the object of my travels in the east.

Catchwords alone are powerless to effect anything, and to the incessant captious criticism of the new course of our policy and those who are responsible for it I quietly but firmly reply: "My course is the right one and in it I shall continue to steer."

His right bower is in the east. I solemnly vow always to be mindful of the fact that the eyes of my ancestors are looking down upon me from the other world and that one day I shall have to render to them (not to the Lord, this time, nor to his own people) an account of both the glory and the honor of the army.

The soldier must not have a will of his own—they must all have only one will, and that will mine.
The best word is a blow—the army and navy are the pillars of state. The army and the emperor at its head can alone secure the safety of the empire and the peace of the world.

The foreigner has learned the consequence of offending the German emperor.
It is the soldier and the army, not parliamentary majorities and votes, that have welded the German empire together. My confidence rests upon the army.

Hurrah for the dry powder and the sharp sword; for the end we have in sight and the forces we are bending toward it, for the German army and the general staff!

He and his people are the repository of "Kultur".
Doctrines of Preparedness. We must show ourselves worthy of our great destiny.

If the people of Germany will only make their entrance into the world full of confidence in God they will be enabled to accomplish the great work of civilization which Providence has reserved for them.

With great anxiety I have had to observe the slow progress the Germans have made in the understanding of and interest in the questions of world-wide importance.
Doctrines of Preparedness. The world-wide vision: Germany looks ahead. Her horizons

REWARD FOR CAPTURE OF DYNAMITERS

Cabinet Offers $5000.00 For Conviction of Those Responsible

HUNT IS PROSECUTED Both Federal and Provincial Detectives at Work On The Case

Ottawa, Aug. 14—An order-in-Council has been passed by the Cabinet authorizing a reward of $5,000 for the capture and conviction of the miscreants who recently dynamited Lord Altholstan's Summer home at Cartierville. No steps have as yet been taken to promulgate the order, but it is expected that it will be given wide publicity as soon as possible.

Announcement of the passing of the order was made this evening by Hon. C. J. Doherty, who stated that every possible effort was being made to apprehend the dynamiters.

We cannot afford to allow any such outrage to pass unpunished," said Mr. Doherty, "since if it were to pass off without stringent efforts to apprehend the criminals other efforts in the same direction might follow. It is not a matter on which any publicity is desired, but I can assure you that the full efforts of all the authorities, both Dominion, Provincial and others are being directed against the men who made these attacks upon Lord Altholstan's house. The offering of this substantial reward will probably aid in running them down."

stretch far away. She must be prepared for any eventualities that may arise. Who can foresee what may come—days not so distant as some believe, but days, at least, for which all European powers with far eastern interests ought steadily to prepare.

We are now in a position to raise the visor of our helmet and to look with the fearless eyes of a courage-brave man at any one who may block the path we have mapped out for ourselves.

Empires of world power are not built up in a day.
If history should mention a German world power, or a Hohenzollern omnipotence, we do not wish it to be said that it was obtained by the point of the sword, but by the mutual confidence of nations striving toward the same ideal.

Only the German nation is left to defend, and above all to cultivate, great conceptions.

His left bower is in the water. Our future lies upon the water. Imperial power means sea power, and sea power and imperial power are dependent upon each other.

To the sea our thoughts are turned—the sea, which is the symbol of eternity. Seas are not separate, they are one.

Perhaps I may be able to fulfill that part of the Great Elector's dream which, owing to the subsequent struggles that we encountered in the course of our development, has had to remain in abeyance. I mean the way over the sea.

I shall never rest until I have raised my navy to a position similar to that occupied by my army.
Thank God, old and young, high and low, throughout the German Empire now follow with affectionate interest the work of each of our warships which has duties to perform in foreign waters.

The ocean is indispensable to the greatness of Germany. The ocean proves that on its waves and beyond them nothing of importance can be decided without Germany and the German Empire.

The German fleet is the youngest fleet in the world and another proof of the growing importance of the new German Empire. It is destined, like the German army, to keep the peace of the world.

Only those powers which have great navies will be listened to with respect when the future of the Pacific comes to be solved and if for that reason alone Germany must have a powerful fleet.

To protect Germany's sea trade and colonies in the existing circumstances there is only one means—Germany must have a battle fleet so strong that even for the adversary with the greatest sea power a war against it would involve such dangers as to imperil its position in the world.

God's Chosen People. Here are a few closing remarks: In these revolutionary times, when the spirit of unbelief is abroad in many lands, the sole support and protection of the church are to be found in the imperial hand and under the aegis of the German Empire.

Our German people will be granite rock on which Almighty God will complete his building of the civilization of the great future.

Brandenburgers, a great future is still reserved for us, and I am still leading you on to a glorious destiny. There will come a time when Berlin will be the most beautiful city in the world.

This is the pap upon which the German nation is fed.

BODY ASHORE
By Courier Leased Wire.
Queenstown, Aug. 15.—The body of an unidentified American sailor, about 34 years old, was washed ashore here yesterday. Keys tied around the neck bore the letters "U. S. N." An investigation is being made by the United States consulates.

Lieut. F. M. V. Harvey, V.C.

Details are at hand of the act for which the Victoria Cross was conferred upon Lieut. Frederick Maurice Watson Harvey, of Strathcona's Horse, Canadians, who is Irish by birth, but now belongs to Medicine Hat, Alta. The official records say he was given the decoration for the following: "At a critical moment when the enemy showed no intention of retiring and the firing was intense, Lieut. Harvey, who was in command of the leading Canadian troops, ran forward, ahead of his men, and dashed into the trench fully armed. He jumped the wire, shot the machine gunners, and captured the gun which had hindered the Canadian advance. His most courageous act undoubtedly had a decisive effect on the success of the operation." The investiture took place before the King on July 21.

TROUBLE ENDS AFTER TWELVE LONG YEARS

Is Stronger and Healthier Since Taking Tanlac Than in Years

"I tell you, for three weeks before I started on Tanlac, I was so played out I couldn't hit a lick of work, and you may believe me or not, but before I finished my first bottle I was back on the job feeling like a new man, said W. E. Fairbrass, in an interview a few days ago. Mr. Fairbrass, or "Bill" as he is familiarly known to his co-workers at the shops of McKenzie and Mann, where he is employed, lives at 138 Cavendish street, Toronto, and his many friends will be glad to learn of his recovery.

"My stomach had been troubling me for twelve years," he continued. "My appetite where I could hardly eat a thing. What little I did eat I had to eat with a spoon and I was miserably nearly all the time with indigestion. I most always had a sickening, nauseated feeling right after my meals and many a time I couldn't rest. I was so exhausted and sick that I couldn't eat a bite of supper. I was so nervous and restless I couldn't get any sleep and would get up in the mornings worn completely out. I never felt like doing anything, in fact, I felt half dead all the time and what little strength I had was getting away from me rapidly."

"Finally I just had to surrender to my troubles and the day I took my first dose of Tanlac I had been away from my work for three solid weeks. All the boys down at the shop had been begging me to try Tanlac so I got my wife to go down to the drug store and buy me a bottle, and I have never gotten more for my money in my life. I believe the very first dose made me feel better and before I finished my first bottle I started back to work, carrying a little bottle of Tanlac in my dinner pail every day and improving rapidly and since taking my third bottle I'm thankful to say I don't feel a touch of either stomach trouble or indigestion. I never had a better appetite and never got more enjoyment out of eating than I do now. I'm simply feeling a thousand times stronger and better and my wife says she hasn't seen me looking so well in years. I have taken a good many different kinds of medicine in my life but Tanlac has got me back on my feet."

They all beat and I can certainly recommend it to everybody.

TO ARBITRATE ON C.N.R. STOCK

Liberals Oppose Government Proposals To Acquire the Road

URGE FORECLOSURE Critics of Opposition Contend That Railway Is In Default

Ottawa, Aug. 15.—Liberal opposition to the government's proposals for the acquisition of the Canadian Northern Railway system for the people of Canada crystallized in an amendment by Hon. George P. Graham when the second reading of the bill was moved in the Commons yesterday. Whereas during the earlier stages of the debate Liberal members declared themselves absolutely against the policy of Government ownership of railways, the Graham amendment calls for the taking over of the Canadian Northern Railway under the provisions of the legislation of 1914 guaranteeing bonds of the company subject to foreclosure in the event of default in the payment of interest. The amendment asks that in the foreclosure order the stock of the Canadian Northern be considered as possessing no value. Mr. Graham's argument was that the Canadian Northern was practically in default, and that the Government should not run away from the legislation enacted in 1914 to meet just such a situation. He justified his assertion that the stock should be considered as valueless by calling on the Drayton-Acworth report as evidence.

Not Final Word.
Sir Thomas White met Opposition criticism to the arbitration proposal by asserting that the Drayton-Acworth report could not be accepted as the final word upon the value of the Canadian Northern system. The Royal Commission had not been appointed to place a value on the stock and as a matter of fact the commissioners had not included a number of important assets of the company, including land, deferred payments for land and cash in hand and working capital. On the other hand, they had not considered certain liabilities. Sir Thomas reiterated his previous statement that arbitration did not presuppose a value for the stock.

Sir Robert Borden, following up the argument, asked if it would be a proper course to ask Parliament to confiscate the Canadian Northern property and to deny to the persons in whom it was vested the right to be heard as to its value. The Prime Minister maintained that under the statute of 1914 Parliament would appoint a tribunal to arbitrate as to the equity of redemption and then take over the property. The difference was simply that under the plan proposed the Government acquired the stock and continued the company as a corporate entity. He dealt with the beginning of the railway problem and placed upon the shoulders of the Laurier Government the responsibility for the present difficult situation. The debate continued all afternoon and evening. It is expected that a division will be reached this evening.

High Cost of Living vs. Low Cost of Insurance

Midst all the increasing cost of living there's one thing that hasn't advanced,—that's the cost of Imperial Life policies. In fact, an Imperial policy today requires no greater annual investment than a similar policy taken at a corresponding age a dozen years ago.

And the fact that the dividends to policyholders in The Imperial Life have shown a gradual increase every year since the Company's inception makes this investment more attractive now than ever before.

Would you care to know the profit returns being made this year to holders of Imperial profit-sharing policies? Our booklet "The Voice of Experience" gives the information.

Far Reaching Effects Come From Series Of Consultations

Washington, Aug. 15.—A sensational despatch from Rome yesterday says:
The recent Paris and London conferences were only two of a series of inter-allied conferences which will be held for the purpose of establishing the plans for the rebuilding of the new Europe.
"A statement of the results of these meetings will be made in a few days. The nations associated in the war will then see the importance of the deliberations entered into by their Ministers at these conferences. Consider Every Phase.
It was learned yesterday that inter-allied conferences will cover every phase of the war, politics as well as military, and will collaborate with the various war boards of respective allied countries. Although the United States will not participate in them for the present, it will be kept fully informed of all developments and decisions, inasmuch as the allies' reliance is put in the United States for assistance of kind, and their conclusions will be affected, and in some instances controlled, by what they expect America.

der to eliminate the antagonisms that existed between the point of view of the allies and those of Greece under former King Constantine. The conferences were declared to be significant of the fact that all the decisions concerning the general conduct of the war are reached through a complete understanding among the allies. The Paris and London conferences settled definitely the Balkan question, taking into consideration the interests of all countries involved, but the Balkan problem, it was asserted by an authority, still offers some interesting developments in the way of military operations. The new Greek Government was acquainted with the entire Balkan situation, including the conclusions previously reached between the allies, and, obtained from President Venizelos a pledge of the support of Greece for the Entente's program. Following this promise was the announcement of Greece's complete alliance in the war against Germany, Austria-Hungary, Bulgaria and Turkey. A secret conference to be held by the naval representatives of some of the Entente nations and at which the United States possibly may be represented, will consider the naval problems of the war in their entirety, but especially measures for more effectively combatting the German and Austrian submarine warfare.

Sporting Comment

PHYSICAL GIANT REJECTED

It is not every athlete that can get into the national service on his record in college or club athletics. It has recently come to the public knowledge that Robert Nourse, the powerful Tiger football player, who filled the snapper back position so acceptably for three years, was refused admittance to the Army and Navy. This big, strapping, highly developed young athlete, whose physical endowments probably equal any candidate's for the national service, was rejected both by the Army and Navy authorities because of his being near-sighted. It is said that it was well known by his fellow players that Nourse was near-sighted, but that the secret was carefully guarded from all opponents while he was playing football for Old Nassau. It was only by accident that his defective eyesight became known to coaches and players, as Nourse kept the fact secretly to himself. But one day when instructed by the coach to practice in receiving forward passes he was struck squarely in the face by the hurled piskin. It was then that Nourse explained to the coach that he was a victim of myopia and that he had not seen the ball approaching him. It is a pity that the service is obliged to forfeit the services of such a splendid mental and physical specimen as Nourse.

RICKY A GOOD JUDGE.

It was through George Sisler and his wonderful work that Branch Ricky first gained fame as a scout for ball players. Ricky, then manager of the Browns, made the assertion when Sisler began to flash as a pitcher and outfielder that the former Michigan University student would some day rival Ty Cobb as a wonderful ball player. Sisler is beginning to prove Ricky right. Following close after Sisler, Ricky turned Ernie Koob into the American League with the laconic remark that here was a kid who some day would be one of the best left-hand pitchers in the game. Koob is living up to it.

Then Ricky searched around and located Dr. John Lavan. "Lavan wouldn't hit a terrible lot," remarked Ricky when it became known Lavan would join the Browns, but he pointed out that the youth possessed qualities of speed and wonderful fielding ability. Lavan is now recognized as a real star.

Those fellows are all with the Browns, and Ricky is with the Cardinals as president of the club. A short time ago he went to Milwaukee to purchase a pitcher named Goodwin, and he found the competition decidedly interesting. Ricky looked at Goodwin and promptly announced he was going to have that pitcher if money would buy him. He declared Goodwin one of the finest. Goodwin's first game was a shut-out for the Phillies, and since then he has pitched some excellent contests. Ricky has placed the stamp

Large Women to be Well Dressed this Fall

This suit is a conspicuously successful example of what has been accomplished for the woman of more than of stardom on him. If he follows through as have others of Ricky's selection, Miller Huggins' pitching staff has gained its greatest asset.

ONE ON OSCAR.

Oscar Vitt is a bright young man. That is he was considered a bright young man until Nick Altrock, wise as any owl, showed him up in one of the games of the recent Washington-Detroit series. Mike Menoskey had just stolen third base and Vitt had taken a throw too late to nail the fleet-footed Griffman. "Here with the ball," called Uncle Nick standing in the coaching box back of third base. Oscar flung the pill in his direction. Ah, what a mistake! Uncle Nick neatly sidestepped and the ball rolled toward the Detroit

Ho, ho, it was funny. Mike Alspeddad homeward, easily beating Vitt's late peg. Oscar isn't inclined to talk much about that play. You see, like all major leaguers, he has heard of that ancient trick. He has probably read about in the "You Know Me, Al" series. But Oscar was suffering from the excessive heat and his brains were slightly scrambled. But what'll you bet that he's ever fooled on that trick again?

MATTY—REjuvenator OR, SAVING CINCINNATI

Yes sir! Matty seems to have made a man of Old Guy Cincy. For over 40 years Cincinnati has been a near-dog-well in big league baseball. Old Cincy usually associated with the lowest in the league, too—the base ball bum. Now and then some manager with good intentions attempted to reform this vagabond of the diamond, but none ever wholly succeeded. Cincinnati never achieved a pennant. Second place was the noblest effort—and that happened 39 years ago, before he became incorrigible. Just at present Matty has him straightened up and looking fine—the best in 12 years. Cincinnati is reformed, and is now a very classy looking team. He is mixing with high-class company—the first division boys—for the first time in five years, and promises to remain there. Cincinnati's career began with the National League in 1876. The Reds finished last five times and seventh five times. They finished in third place on three different occasions only.

Cleveland and Chicago broke even Chicago taking the first 3 to 2, while the Indians won the second 4 to 3. Faber was hit at opportune moments while Morton was a puzzle until the seventh. Speaker was hit in the head with a pitched ball and forced to retire. Cleveland outbatted Chicago 3 to 1 in the first game, making twelve hits, but could not make their hits count, having eleven men left on bases. On the other hand Chicago made all of its four hits count, an error by Covaleski being the deciding factor. Scores: R. H. E. BROWNS 6, TIGERS 4 Cleveland and Chicago Break Even In Double Header

Philadelphia, Aug. 14.—A twirling duel between Bush and Ruth to-day was won by Philadelphia from Boston when the home team bunched hits with two bases on balls in the third inning, the score being 3 to 1. During the rally Bodie tripled to centerfield, the drive being one of the longest in the history of Shibe Park. Meyer had a finger hurt by a foul tip and was forced to leave the game. Score: R. H. E. The opening contest was a pitching duel between Shaw and Mogridge in the second game Cullop was hammered for eleven hits in five innings and was poorly supported. PERMANENT LINE-UP IS EFFECTIVE

Chief Reason In The Success Of Matty's Rejuvenated Reds

NO PLAYERS SHIFTED "Keep Em In" Policy Adopted By Miracle Man of Season

Christy Mathewson is working on different lines from his immediate predecessors in trying to furnish Cincinnati with that novelty—a first division team. Herzog, Tinker, Griffith and O'Day, when they bossed the Reds, used players by the wholesale. Mathewson has managed to get along with 23 athletes this season and five of these he has freed. Official scorers have not acquired writer's cramp in making out the box scores of the games in which Cincinnati has participated, for Mathewson makes few changes in his team's line-up after the game starts. He has had three pinch runners and 13 batters this year, nine pitchers, three catchers, three men at first, four at second, three at third, one at short, four in left, three in centre and one in right.

Mathewson probably leads all major league managers in letting his original nominees go the route. In 53 contests one man has done the hurling. Fred Toney has lasted through 18 games he started and bids fair to take from Grover Cleveland Alexander one of the honors Aleck has been winning annually since his advancement from the New York State League to the National—that of travelling the full distance oftener than any of his contemporaries. They Hit for Toney, The Reds hit like fiends, generally, when Toney pitches and have made 88 runs for him in 18 games. The mountaineer has let his opponents gather 49 tallies. Of Toney's 18 complete contests he lost only two. These were by scores of 5 to 3 and 4 to 3. Pete Schneider has pitched 11 full games for Matty, of which nine have been wins. Thirty-seven runs have been made for Schneider, 37 of them, by scores of 5 to 3 and 4 to 3. Out of 15 starts Clarence Mitchell, former Tiger, has clung to the mound in eight. He won five, being supplied with 22 runs and letting the foe gather 16.

"Hot" Eller, who went south with the White Sox, last year, has lasted through five battles, of which he has captured three. He has been handed 16 runs and let the Reds' opponents have only half this number. Jimmy Ring, a spring time employee of the Yankees, a couple of years back, has travelled the full distance three times and each time he has brought home the bacon. Once the Reds made 19 runs for him, once they made six and once they made four—a total of 29 for three controversies. He has permitted 14 mark-ers. Going the Full Route, Mike Regan, who did little pitching for Mathewson until the season was well under way, has through with seven complete contests in which 21 runs were made for him and 23 runs were made against him. Regan has stacked up against Alexander thrice this year, and while beaten twice has given the Nebraska great arguments, losing 3 to 2 and 1 to 0.

Roy Sanders, who base-balled himself out of the National League, pitched one full game for Cincinnati, and was beaten, 2 to 0. The Red pitchers seldom have heard the call of the wild this year, and have twirled 11 faultless games in which no one walked. Nine of these were Cincinnati triumphs. Regan claims a fourth of these perfect games. Mitchell two, Toney two, Eller one, Schneider one and Toney and Eller, in collaboration, one.

A notable achievement on the part of the Red boxmen was going through the double-header with the Giants on July 12 without deadheading anyone. From Toney, Schneider and Regan, Mathewson is getting the kind of pitching Stallings had from Rudolph, James and Tyler three years ago.

WONDERFULLY MAGNETIC WOMAN DOOMED TO DEATH

Romantic Story Of a Dutch Dancer—Fled From Buddhist Temple to Marry English Officer, Then to Paris Where She Faces Death—Was Not Beautiful But Exercised Marvellous Power Over Men

A rejected sweetheart to whom she had brought disgrace and ruin was responsible for the arrest and conviction of Mlle. Mata Hari, the woman who has just been found guilty of being a German spy and sentenced to death by a French court-martial, according to a prominent musician and composer, who is now in New York city and who knows Mlle. Mata Hari. He declares that "if the cunning of one of the most magnetic and charming adventuresses in the world is of avail, the Dutch dancer who is now in a French military prison awaiting death will escape the firing squad."

This musician, who for obvious reasons, would not permit his name to be used in an article concerning Mlle. Mata Hari, said that four years ago he was asked by her to write the music for dances which she was to give at Monte Carlo. Owing to an affair between her and a high official of the German Government, the musician called only once at her house at Neuilly-sur-Seine, just outside Paris.

"This German was extremely jealous of her, and I feared if he saw her dancing her Oriental dances for me alone there would at least have been a scandal and probably a duel," he said.

Always Captivated Men

This man said for years, Mlle. Mata Hari has captivated men in high places. He repeated chapters of her adventurous life from the time she was an infant in Java, the daughter of a wealthy Dutch planter, through the Dutch East Indies and into India, whither her mother fled with her; how she became a religious dancer in a Buddhist temple in Burma and how, ultimately, she tired of the celibacy vows of the Buddhist and ran away with an English baronet. He told of the tragic death of her son, born of this union, and how she took the law into her own hands and avenged him, of her flight from her husband and India and his disgrace and death, and how she at last reached Paris, reduced from a state of Oriental wealth and luxury to one of penury.

"Then she set about to captivate Paris," he said. "She did it, and not satisfied with her conquest, she went to Berlin, to Petrograd, to Vienna—she travelled all over Europe—and became one of the most talked of women on the Continent."

Not Beautiful But Magnetic

"Her name is Marguerite Zelle Mata Hari," he said. "She is not less than thirty-eight years old or more than forty-two. No one knows her age. She is not beautiful, but she is most notable for its elegance and grace. Her teeth are pearls. Her black hair reaches to the ground. She is about six feet tall and sculptors have said, 'is probably the most perfectly formed woman of her height in the world. Her eyes are big, luminous and as black as night. Her skin is of that soft light olive color. She carries herself as a queen of olden times and her toilette is most notable for its elegance and taste."

Her father was a subject of the Netherlands and her mother was a Javanese. He died when she was an infant, and in order to protect her from the dangers which beset a young girl of mixed blood in the East, her mother fled from Java with her when she was three years old and entered Burma. There to further protect her, she pledged her to a celibacy and placed her in a Buddhist temple to learn dancing. Then it appeared that her destiny would be not unlike that of thousands of other young girls in that country, and similar in many respects to that of the old vestals of ancient Greece. In Burma these dancers are called Bayaderes.

Fell in Love With Englishman

"She told me that when she was twelve years old she was disgusted with life and was determined to change it or end it. After a dance at a grand Buddhist festival in Burma, old, she saw a British officer, and fell in love with him. It was her celestial love affair. She managed to escape from the temple and joined him. This man was a baronet and loved her. Finally they married. Two children, a boy and a girl, were born of their union.

"I do not believe that she ever loved any man. It is certain that she did not love her husband. At any event the monotonous life of a British officer's wife was more than she could stand. The climax came when a maid whom she had beaten and discharged, caused one of her gardeners to poison her infant son. "The tragic sequence and scandal which followed the death of her son still is remembered by old-timers in

CROP AND BUSINESS OUTLOOK IN U. S.

India. She started an investigation of the killing independently of the British authorities, and finally in her own mind fixed the guilt on one of her gardeners. She took a revolver and, walking into the garden where the man was working, she shot him dead.

"She was arrested, but owing to the high position occupied by the German official at Neuilly-sur-Seine, she was not held in prison. "When I saw in the paper the article that Mlle. Mata Hari had been sentenced to death as a German spy, the inside history of her adventurous life at once unfolded before me. I believe that when the whole truth is known it will be found that the ruined banker was the man who denounced her. During their life together he assuredly learned many things concerning her connections with the Germans and with the German government. He learned that while he was in prison and subsequent to the beginning of the war she had been living in great wealth in Paris and travelling throughout all Europe. She was a woman eminently qualified to act as a secret agent for Germany. As a Dutch subject she was at liberty to travel anywhere, and it is quite certain that she had the facilities for obtaining information which would have been impossible for Germany to obtain elsewhere.

Doubts If She Will Be Executed

"It was a life which would appeal to her—that of a spy. Her greatest delight was in exercising her influence to control persons with whom she came in contact, and her influence was marvellous. Her constant companion was a German woman, her maid, whom she always called Anna. I am inclined to believe that part Anna has played in the tragedy."

"Discussing the probable fate of Mlle. Mata Hari, he declared that he was of the opinion that she will not be put to death. "The sinister character in Dunlap's great romance was not more cunning or adventurous nor played for bigger stakes than did Mlle. Mata Hari," he said. "In many respects their histories should be printed in parallel columns. But I believe that the great influence over the destiny of those with whom she came in contact, Mlle. Mata Hari was more dreadful than 'Mildred'."

"Not until I know that she is buried, that she has failed to corrupt her jailors and even the men detailed for duty in the firing squad, will I believe that she has played her last card. "She was a woman who would have succeeded in anything in life that she might have undertaken. She was brilliant, she was everything that men admire. Despite all that I know of her and the misery that she has caused, somewhere down in my heart I feel a great sympathy for her. I, for one, would not send her to her death."

IF GERMANY SHOULD WIN

In a recent address in St. Louis, Secretary McAdoo, of the United States Treasury, said: "German submarines have crossed the ocean. Only last summer one of them visited the harbor of Newport, Rhode Island, and was received hospitably by our people because we were then at peace with Germany, left within a short time and sank merchantmen off the New England coast. The flying machine has not yet crossed the Atlantic, because military necessity has not required it. But if Germany succeeds in crushing the Allies in Europe you will see flying machines cross the Atlantic. The wireless telegraph has increased the flexibility and formidableness of ocean warfare and, of itself, an additional peril to unarmed nations. "We have always been an unarmed nation because we felt that we were secure. Our love of democracy has made us great that we did not want to take even a chance of militarism. We can no longer delude ourselves. Do you know what would happen if Germany should be victorious as she would be if she could bring France and England to their knees? She would take the entire British and French fleets, release her own great fleet, which has been tied up in the Baltic during the war, and combining these with the most destructive submarine fleet on earth—because she has it—she would come here and put the iron heel of conqueror upon your shores. We should have to fall back to the interior, and there is no telling how long it would take to expel the enemy, if we ever did. "If I couldn't do it promptly, do you know what would happen to America? We should have to make the most humiliating terms that any great nation ever made to get peace. We should have to pay an indemnity that would represent half the wealth of America, which is $250,000,000,000 and you would have taxation upon your shoulders to meet that indemnity for a century to come. "I am not trying to alarm you. It is not my purpose to exaggerate. It would not misrepresent. I only want already realize, that you are in the midst of one of the greatest wars of all time. Because you are not actually contiguous to it in a physical sense as the nations of Europe are, do not think that your future security and safety are not immediately involved. This is something you must realize if you would know what to do in the present situation."

RED ROSE TEA

Did it ever occur to you that all teas are not "just tea"? In reality, there is as much difference in teas as there is in silks. There are many varieties of tea: Indian teas, Ceylon teas, Java teas, China teas, etc.—Indians and Ceylons being the choicest of all. These teas are all just ordinary garden teas, while Red Rose Tea is a blend of teas selected from as many as sixteen different gardens, using largely Assam-Indian teas skillfully blended with Ceylons. The result is that rich strength and smooth flavor that has made Red Rose Tea so popular. One level teaspoonful of Red Rose Tea goes as far as a heaping teaspoonful of ordinary tea—that proves the true quality and economy of Red Rose.

They were small when you first knew them, but they are relatively smaller now. They continue to plod along in the ways of the PAST, losing a little MORE trade each year to the MODERN fellow whose shop looms bright and alluring just across the way. How can they be so smug? But what gets me is the smug way these people are aroused to no feeling but pay for themselves by so utterly indifferent to the fact that what they mean fewer luxuries means underfeeding if not actual starvation to many? How can they forget what it must mean to the man bringing up a family on fifteen or twenty dollars a week (to say nothing of those who receive less)? Will He Watch His Children Starve? You'll cut down. But he can't. Well, I suppose he'll watch his children starve. The cost of living has meant some deprivations to me. But when I catch myself complaining about it in that self-pitying way I hate myself. I shan't suffer (in all human likelihood). No one who belongs to me or whom I know intimately will really suffer. I Want Them To Complain More I said it made me impatient to hear middle class people complaining about the high cost of living. What I meant was that I objected to the self-pitying, utterly selfish way in which they complain. I want them to complain more not less. I want them to do more than complain. I want them to be filled with a burning indignation which will make them read and study and talk and try to understand this thing so that they can put their influence and their suffrage behind some force that will better things. The public opinion of the big steady middle class is the greatest force in this country. Let us not be content to groan about the high cost of living as we do about the hot weather. Let's go without food a day if necessary to make ourselves understand what some people are suffering and to fill us with righteous indignation instead of fretful grumbling.

ARE THE ENGLISH AN UGLY PEOPLE?

Question Discussed in an English Journal—Best English Type Perhaps Handsomest in the World—No Reason Why There Should Be Ugliness

(John Galsworthy in The Observer.) "The English are an ugly people." I said that to a learned of another friend when I came back from France this spring. He started and then remarked: "Oh, well; not as ugly as the French, anyway." "A great error; much more ugly if you take the bulk, and not the pick, of the population in both countries," writes Mr. John Galsworthy in The Observer. It may not be fair to attribute French superiority in looks entirely to the facts that they grow nearly all their own food (and cook it well) and had in 1906 four-sevenths of their population in the country, an against our own two-ninths in 1911, because there is the considerable matter of climate.

Comeliness in the Country. But when you get so high a proportion of comeliness in remote country districts in England, it is fair to assume that climate does not account for anything like all the difference. I do not believe that the English are naturally an ugly people. The best English type is perhaps the handsomest in the world. The physique and looks of the richer classes are as notoriously better than those of the poorer classes as the physique and looks of the remote country are superior to those of crowded towns. Where conditions are free from cramped, poor air, poor food and herd-life, English physique quite holds its own with that of other nations.

We do not realize the great deterioration of our stock; the squashed-in, stunted disproportionate, commensal look of the bulk of our people, because as we take our walks abroad, we not only faces and figures that strike us as good-looking; the rest pass unnoticed. Ugliness has become a matter of course. There is no reason, save town life, why this should be so.

Town-Blight. But what does it matter if we have become ugly? We work well, make money and have lots of moral qualities. A fair inside is better than a fair outside. I do think that we are in many ways a very wonderful people and our townsfolk not the least wonderful. But that is all the more reason for trying to preserve our physique. By living on its nerves, over-working its body, starting its normal aspirations for fresh air, good food, sunlight, and a modicum of solitude, a country can get a great deal out of itself, a terrific lot of wealth, in three or four generations; but, if it is living on its capital, physically speaking. That is precisely what we show every sign of doing. That is partly why English are naturally an ugly people. The impression I get in our big towns, is most peculiar—considering that we are a free people. The faces and forms have a look of being possessed. To express exactly what I mean is difficult. There is a dulled and driven look, and yet a general expression of "Keep smiling—Are we down-hearted? No." It is as if people were all being forced along by a huge, in no visible hand at back of their necks whose pressure they resist, yet have given up, resisting because they can't tell whence it comes.

To understand, you must watch

KREMLIN, PALACE, MOSCOW

Will be the scene of an important conference from August 25 to 27, when more than a thousand representative Russians will meet Premier Kerensky to consider the situation of the nation and plans for National Government.

The grip from its very beginnings. The small children who swarm in the little grey playground streets of our big towns, pass their years in utter abandonment. All around them, by day, by night, stretches the huge grey, grimy waste of streets, factory walls, chimneys, murky canals, chapels, public-houses, hoardings, posters, butchers' shops—a waste where nothing beautiful exists save a pretty cat or pigeon, a blue sky perhaps and a few trees and open spaces.

The City Artisans. The children of the class above, too, of the small shop-people, the artisans—do they escape? Not really. The same herd-life and the same sights and sounds pursue them from birth; they also are soot that nation all the grace and free look that you see in country children walking to and from school, or roaming the hedges. Whether true slum children, or from streets a little better off, quickly they all pass out of youth into the iron drive of commerce and manufacture, into the clang and clatter, the swish and whirr of wheels, the strange dragging saw-like hub-bub of industry, or the clicking and pigeon-holes of commerce; perch on a devil's saw-saw from monotonous work to cheap sensation and back.

A Sort of Inferno. The modern industrial English town is a sort of inferno where people dwell with a marvellous philosophy. What would you have? They have never seen any other way of it. And this, perhaps, would not be so pitiful if for each bond-servant of our town-tyranny there was in store a prize—some portion of that national wealth, a share of which the tyrant drives us; if each worker had before him the chance of emergence at, say, fifty. But, Lord God! for one that emerges, ninety-and-five must bond, less free and wealthy at the end of the chapter than they were at the beginning. And the quaint thing is—they know it; know that they will spend their lives in smoky, noisy crowded drudgery, and in crowded drudgery.

Wealth goes to wealth and all they can hope for is a few starving in the streets with a corresponding rise in prices. They know it, but it does not disturb them, for they were born of the towns, have never glimpsed at other possibilities, imprisoned in town life from birth they contentedly perpetuate the species of a folk with an obbing future. If it be not obbing, why is there now so much conscious effort to arrest the decay of town workers' nerves and sinews? I know all about the "dullness," and "monotony" of rural life, had housing and the rest of it. All true enough, but the cure is not exodus; it is improvement in rural-life conditions, better cottages, a fuller and a freer social life. What we in England now want more than anything is air; for the lungs and the mind. We have overdone herd-life.

Four-Fold Remedy. For the good of our great towns are here, and we can but mitigate. The indicated line of mitigation is four-fold.

- 1. Such solid economic basis to the growth of our food as will give us again national security more arable land than we have ever had, and on it a full complement of well-paid workers, with better cottages, and a livable village life in the State created and financed. 2. A vast number of small holdings State created and financed. 3. A wide belt-system of garden allotments found every town industrial or not. 4. Drastic improvements in housing.

ing, feeding and sanitation in the towns themselves. All these ideals are already well in the public eye—on paper. But they are inchoately viewed and urged; they do not as yet form a national creed. Until welded and supported by all parties in the State, they will counteract the terrific momentum with which towns are drawing us down into the pit.

FIVE MINUTE SOUP One tablespoonful finely chopped onion, 1 tablespoonful finely chopped parsley, 3 cups boiling water, four teaspoonfuls vinegar or beet extract, 1 level salt-spoonful salt; put onion and parsley in tureen on the back of the stove; pour one cup boiling water on the beet extract; dissolve it and pour over the vegetables in the tureen; let stand 5 minutes, and then just before serving add the salt and remaining 2 cups boiling water; this is one serving, for 4.

FISH SOUP Take head and bones of fish weighing 4 pounds, 1 quart cold water, 1 small onion, 1 teaspoonful salt; cook gently 1-2 hour or till bones fall apart; combine fish stock with sauce into the milk; to 1 qt. of mixture add 2 tablespoonfuls butter and 2 cups flour; season with salt and pepper; serve with crackers.

TOMATO SOUP One-half tin tomatoes, 1 carrot, 2 onions, 1 qt. water, 1 ounce butter, 2 cloves, 1 blade mace, 1-2 tea-spoon rice, salt and pepper, 1 ounce of flour; heat the butter in a pan; put in the onions sliced and brown carefully, draw the onions to one side and put in the flour, mixing smoothly with the spoon; add the water and stir until it boils; put in cloves, mace and rice, and lastly the tomatoes; add salt and pepper, cover pan and let the soup simmer gently for 4 hours; rub through a sieve; re-heat; add more seasoning, if necessary; 2 or 3 tablespoonfuls of cream greatly improves the soup.

LADIES' WAIST. By Anabel Worthington. Dear to the heart of every woman is the dainty lingerie blouse which fills so many needs. By selecting fine material, delicate lace and making the entire waist by hand one may have at very little expense a blouse which will rival any French creation. The model shown in No. 8364 is an excellent one to start on, for it is quite simple and presents very few difficulties for the amateur. The fronts of the waist are checked as far as the bust line. The back is in plain white waist style. The simple sailor collar will have added distinction if it is hand hemstitched. A ruffle of dainty lace softens the edge. The sleeves may be the full bishop style or, if comfort is the chief consideration, the short, loose sleeves will be satisfactory. The waist pattern, No. 8364, is cut in sizes 30 to 42 inches bust-measure. The 36 inch size requires 2 1/2 yards 30 inch material and 2 1/2 yards plating. To obtain this pattern send 10 cents to the office of this publication.

Boo Who! Stories

DAVID'S ADVENTURE. David watched his little sailboat dancing on the water. "When I get big I'm going to be a sailor," he said to himself. "Hello, David!" squeaked a voice at his side. David turned and saw a queer little fellow.

"I'm Whizzie-poo. The mosquito-king has stolen the Princess of Make-believe-land. Will you help me get her back?" asked Whizzie-poo. David, who was always ready for adventure, especially in Make-believe-land, nodded his head. Then Whizzie-poo touched him with a magic wand, and David began to shrink until he was no taller than a blade of grass. Whizzie-poo pulled in the boat and they both climbed in and sailed for the other side of the stream, where Whizzie-poo anchored.

"At the top of this hill lives the giant mosquito-king. Go to his castle and ask for a drink. Dash the contents of the cup in his face, then seize the princess by the hand and run back here. I'll wait for you," said Whizzie-poo. David knocked at the castle and demanded a drink. The mosquito giant opened the door, and David dashed it in the giant's face. His mouth stretched from one ear to the other, and in one claw-like hand he held a goblet of milk. David took the milk, and suddenly dashed it in the giant's face. Seizing the princess by the hand, David ran down the hill, leaving the giant spluttering and puffing, trying to get the milk out of his eyes.

"We must reach the boat before he sees us or we're lost!" cried the princess. "On they ran as fast as they could go, reached the stream, climbed into the boat and pushed-off from shore just as the giant appeared. His eyes were so full of milk that he could not see, and he rushed down the hill and plunged into the water after them. "We're lost!" cried Whizzie-poo. "But the princess pulled a hair from her head and threw it into the stream. It formed an island, and she threw in another and up sprang a mountain between them and the giant. "Hurry, for I've only one more magic hair left!" cried the princess. Whizzie-poo tried to go faster, but the giant's head soon appeared over the mountain top. A fleet of mosquito airplanes hovered above the boat. "It's his army—we're gone!" cried Whizzie-poo. "But the princess threw in the last hair. Immediately the air fleet turned on their master and stormed his head until the giant fell exhausted. "We've won!" shouted Whizzie-poo.

"He'll never again try to steal things that don't belong to him," said the princess. "For his army has turned against him, and he has no other power to back him up. We owe it all to your bravery, David," laughed the happy princess. "Bang!" went a bomb, and the sailboat turned over in the water. With a start David opened his eyes. Then he smiled and said to himself: "My, I'm glad that was only a dream! Don't believe I want to be a sailor after all, unless I change my mind when I grow big." Then David pulled in his boat and went home.

TO DRAW DISTINCTION By Courier Leased Wire. Camp Borden, Ont., Aug. 15.—To the great satisfaction of the returned men who have been transferred to the special service company for permanent base duty, the Secretary of the Great War Veterans Association has been informed by Sir Herbert Ames, of the Central committee of the Patriotic Fund that the Toronto committee have decided to draw a distinction between men who have returned from service in a combatant area and those who have not been overseas (to France). To the families of the former allowances will in future continue to be paid, the same as if the men were still in the hospital. FARMER KILLED Kingston, Ont., Aug. 15.—Reuben Fredch aged 39, had his trousers caught in the fly wheel of a threshing machine while at work at Sillsville. He was terribly injured and died on the way to a Kingston hospital. He was a resident of Napanee.

GRIM ROMANCE ATTACHED TO SUB CAMPAIGN

German Commander of U-Boat Murdered Girl He Hoped to Wed

AA Atlantic Post.—Lars Larsen, an elderly man, but still vigorous and erect, who arrived here aboard a small cargo steamship, told a story of U-boat romance which, for dramatic interest, is perhaps unparalleled by anything ever narrated concerning the submarine warfare of afloat.

Mr. Larsen was an officer aboard the Swedish steamship Ada, which was on her way from Gothenburg, Sweden, to Hull, England. At first Mr. Larsen parried questions in regard to his experience with submarines, by saying that the memories were too bitter, and he was trying hard to banish them from his mind, but finally, he consented to speak. Following is his story:

"Before the war began a handsome young German became acquainted with my son Swen, and before long, was a frequent caller at our home in Stockholm. He fell in love with my daughter, Minna, who was sixteen years old and considered very beautiful. The German, Hans von Tuebinger, was an art student, and had come to Sweden to study some phase of his art, which he said he could not find in any other country. I never understood exactly what that phase was; but, at any rate, it was the means of bringing unhappiness to me and to the family, for I did not know that he was the innocent instrument in the hands of a relentless fate, and that he would gladly have sacrificed the girl to which he was the unwilling cause.

Were to Marry After the War

Minna soon grew to return the love of the good looking youngster, and good fat live hens and spring chickens, delivered Ridgeway or Crystal Beach. Poultry Farm, E. Les. H. Crystal Beach, Ont. Both Phones. M12

Paris, Aug. 16.—The French made an attack on the Aisne and captured German trenches on a front of kilometers. Four German counter attacks were repulsed.
The statement follows: "In Belgium, after a day and a night of most thorough preparation, we made an attack at dawn this morning in conjunction with the British on our right. With superb skill our infantry made the assault on the enemy's positions, both sides of the road between Steenstraete and Dixmude, turning all objectives and capturing the Steenstraete. Our troops are making progress on right bank, in contact with allies.
"South of Ailles, a violent attack was made by the German counter-attacks on a front of trenches on a one kilometer, which was strongly by the enemy. German counter-attacks and new positions were repulsed, and 120 prisoners, of them an officer, were counted. In the region of Hurbise, however, we made progress, taking a number of prisoners.
"In the Champagne, both banks of the Meuse, by artillery fighting continued. The German counter-attacks Louvemont, taking seven prisoners. There is nothing of importance to report on the main front of the front.
