Stella Mordant.

The Cruise of the "Kingfisher."

CHAPTER XXVIII.

Lisle turned his head away for a moment or two, until he could recover from the blow which Fate had dealt him. Only an hour ago and he had been, if not sanguine, at least hopeful, of winning this beautiful girl whom he loved, and now there was no hope left in his breast!

"I can walk quite well; I am not hurt," she faltered, with downcast eyes, and that sense of regret almost amounting to guilt which every true-hearted woman feels after refusing the proposal of a good and honorable man. His arm dropped to his side and he went and cleared the horse from the debris and led it beside them. They were silent for a while then he said:

"I want to say something, Stella—Miss Mordant. It is the last time I shall refer to my love for you; and I would not speak of it again, for I see that it is quite hopeless."

"I am sorry—sorry!" said Stella with something like a sob. "If I had known! But I never guessed! I anyone had told me that you—y—y— cared for me, I should not have believed it; I should have—yes, laugh ed at them! Oh! don't you believe me? Think of it, Lord Lisle! You are an English nobleman, and I am—only a waif, a nobody, quite beneath you."

"What has that to do with it?" he said, ruefully, and with an un conscious irony. "You are to me the most lovely and lovable of women, you are—but I have promised not to speak of my feelings again, and I will not. I know you too well."

"You have known me only a few weeks," said Stella, her misery almost swallowed up by her amazement at this sudden love of his.

"A few weeks, a few months, a few years, it is all one and the same to me," he said, gravely, and with his eyes bent on the ground, as if he could not trust himself to look upon her face. "Some love may need time to germinate; mine sprang full-grown within the first hour of my seeing you; it was love at first sight; but Stella, I am breaking my promise! What I want to say is that I know you too well to cherish any hope of your changing your mind."

"No, I—I could not change," said poor Stella, her face white and troubled.

He nodded, and his lips twitched as if with a spasm of physical pain.

"I am not so foolish as to cherish any such hope," he said. "But I want to tell you that I will never, by word or look, remind you of my love for you. You need not be afraid that I shall harass you, that I shall cause you pain by a display of my own disappointment."

She looked at him through a mist of sudden tears.

"I know that you will be all that is kind and considerate, that you could not be otherwise, Lord Lisle," she said. "Oh, if you knew how bitterly I feel my own unworthiness, that I feel ungrateful and hard-hearted and callous."

"No, no!" he said, quickly, and with something like self-reproach. "You must not say, must not think that! It was no fault of yours, Stella; you cannot help being what you are. It is my Fate!" the cry broke from him, not loudly, but with a mingling of involuntary bitterness and despair which went straight to Stella's heart, and she covered her face with her hands.

"Now I have made you cry," he said, remorsefully. "What a brute, what a selfish brute I am. Please, don't! There isn't a man in the world worth your tears, Stella; not one, believe me! And—for Heaven's sake, don't permit yourself to think that you are in any way to blame, because you are not, not in the very least. We won't say another word about it, not a word. Are you sure you are not hurt?" he broke off suddenly and with anxiety; for he fancied she had limped a little as they climbed the hill.

"No, no!" she said, almost impatiently, "I am not in the least hurt and if I had been I should have deserved it. Look at the damage I have done in my ignorance!"

She was thinking for the moment of the ruined dog-cart; but it will be pardoned Lisle if he applied her words to his own half-broken heart.

"Not a word of self-reproach, please!" he said. "It was all my fault. Here is the house—Hallo, Cis! It's all right!" he called out as cheerily as he could in answer to the alarmed question which sprang to Cecilia's lips as she came to the door to meet them.

"Why are you walking, and where is the dog-cart?"

"We've had a spill," he said, forcing a laugh. "Slidged at a hare running across the path; off wheel caught in trunk of tree, and out we came. I'm thankful to say Miss Mordant is not hurt, but she has had a shock, and I'm going to insist upon her taking a glass of wine before she goes upstairs to dress."

Cecilia was full of tender anxiety on Stella's account; but Stella, though pale, declared that there was not the least thing the matter with her. But her hand shook as she took the wine from Lisle, and Lady Cecilia insisted upon her drinking it quickly and going upstairs at once to rest.

When Stella had gone, Cecilia turned to her brother.

"What has happened?" she asked, with the quick intuition of the strange sympathy which existed between them.

He did not blink the question. "I told her," he said, simply, "and she has said 'No.'"

"Cecilia!"

She stretched out her hand to him as if she shared the pain with which his heart ached.

"It's all right, Cis!" he said, almost as if it were she who needed sympathy. "I had no right to think I should win her. All along I have felt that I was going to fail; just as I felt that day I rode in the Point to Point. It is a strange feeling, and there is no accounting for it; but sometimes I feel it strongly. Of course I've had a bad fall, it is a regular crumpler; but I shall get over it, though just at this moment I feel as if I never should!" he added, ruefully. "But, Cis, there is one thing you and I have got to do."

"Yes?" she asked, sorrowfully. "If there were only something I could do or say!"

"To help me? There isn't. The rest is silence, as Hamlet says; but, Cis, we have to think of her. This—this refusal must make no difference between us and Stella; you will not let it, will you Cis? I rely on you! I know how she is feeling at this very moment. She spoke of ingratitude—as if it were her duty to love me because we had rescued and helped her. I poor girl—and she will feel that she has brought trouble on me—and on you, too. She will need all your tenderness and consideration; and I know she will have it. You will be very gentle with her, for my sake—ah, but you will for your own, for I know that you love her, Cis!"

"Yes," she said in a low voice. "I share your disappointment—my poor Cecilia!"

"Then share my care of her!" he said, quietly but earnestly. "Perhaps it will be better not to let her know that I have told you. Let things go on just as usual. I'm not going to wear the willow; she shall see that I can bear my fate like a man, and that if I cannot have her love I am willing to be content with her friendship. Better keep away from her for a little while; she will want to be alone, I fancy. Yes; we came a complete spill, and for the moment I thought she was hurt; the shock made her faint, and—and—I was while I held her in my arms that I lost control of myself and told her. Then, for a moment, he broke down. "Oh, my God! what shall I do with the rest of my life!" he cried in a low hoarse voice.

When Stella had got to her room, she threw herself down beside the bed and hid her face in her hands. Lord Lisle's declaration had come so suddenly, so unexpectedly that she was still confused and unnerved by it. But presently she began to realize all that it meant. She had brought trouble and sorrow to the brother and sister who had rescued and befriended her; all unwittingly she had returned evil for good; and the very sight of her must be painful not only to Lord Lisle, but to Lady Cecilia.

She rose, her face pale and set, her mind possessed of a sudden resolution. It was impossible for her to remain at the Abbey; she must go at once. Notwithstanding her few weeks of civilization—or perhaps because they were so few—Stella was still the impulsive child of the island; and her old habit of carrying out a resolution at once had been strengthened by the influence of Rath, to whom she conceived an idea and acted on it with second nature.

She felt as if she could not meet the sadness in Lord Lisle's eyes, the pain which would be there and in Cecilia's, try as they might to conceal it from her. She had learnt some thing of love's anguish—for was she not separated from Rath?—and she knew that though Lord Lisle had told her that he would never address another word of love to her, that his presence would be a cause of distress to him.

"No, I must go!" she said to herself; and she paced up and down in a tumult of emotion; but presently she felt a slight pain in her ankle and sank into a chair. But it was only to rise again and begin to change her dress for the plain blue serge which Lady Cecilia had lent her on board the "Kingfisher."

"I must take her clothes. I must even take the money they have lent me," she said to herself, with a choking sensation in her throat. "It would only give them more pain if I left the house penniless. But some day I will pay it back; but I can never undo the harm I have wrought, never atone for the pain I have caused. Oh, why couldn't I say 'Yes'! He is good and noble in more than rank, and—he loves me! But I could not!"—she stretched out her arms to her reflection in the glass—"I could not!"

While her trembling fingers were fastening the dress, there came a knock at the door, and Susy's voice asking is she could come in.

Stella went to the door, and at sight of her white face and swollen eyes—for half unconsciously Stella had been crying—the girl uttered a cry of dismay. Stella drew her into the room and shut the door quickly.

"Oh, miss! what is the matter? I heard that there had been an accident. Are you hurt?" exclaimed Susy, all in a flutter of anxiety and alarm, for Stella's sympathy with the girl's love trouble had won her heart.

"Yes; I upset the dog-cart, and Lord Lisle and I were turfed out; but no one is hurt, Susy."

"Oh, are you sure, miss? You look so white."

"I am quite sure I am not hurt; but I have been shaken, and I've had a headache, Susy, and I don't think I'll come down again this evening."

"No, no, miss," said Susy, full of affectionate pity and sympathy. "I'll tell her ladyship, and I'll bring you up something. You'll go to bed at once, miss, won't you?"

"Yes, perhaps; I'll see. I'm a bad one to go to bed unless I'm obliged, Susy," said Stella, colouring, for her heart reproached her for deceiving this girl. "You shall bring me up a cup of tea—in—yes, in half an hour, time."

"Yes, miss," assented Susy, eagerly; "and you'll try to go to sleep? I'll take care you're not disturbed."

Stella turned away. The girl was, all unconsciously, helping her in the plan which was forming in her mind. Directly she had gone, Stella went to the inlaid writing-table—the daintiest in the house, and chosen for her by Lord Lisle himself—and hastily wrote a few lines.

She wrote and re-wrote them; it was so difficult, such heart-breaking work, to say a farewell which should not seem callous and ungrateful! But at last, though unsatisfied with it, she enclosed the following note in an envelope and addressed it to Lady Cecilia:

"Dear Lady Cecilia,—I am leaving the Abbey because—ah, because I must go! To stay would only make you and Lord Lisle sad and unhappy. I am very wretched, and all the more so because I cannot tell you how grateful I am to you for all your goodness to me. I know you will not feel sorry for having picked me up on the sea that day, but just now, while I am writing this, I could almost wish that you had left me to perish. I can only wish you goodbye with all my love and gratitude, and I beg and pray that you will let me go, and will not attempt to follow me, or persuade me to return. I could not come back. Tell Lord Lisle—no, there is no need to tell him; he will understand that I shall never cease to think of his goodness and nobleness.

"Stella."

Susy brought up the tea, just as Stella had finished this, as she deemed it, poor and inadequate letter of farewell.

"Shall I help you undress, miss?" asked Susy, anxiously. "Let me bathe your head with eau-de-Cologne. I will sit by you, miss, until you go to sleep."

Stella forced a laugh, and taking the girl by the shoulders, gently pushed her towards the door.

"You silly girl!" she said. "I am all right, shall be all right when—when I have rested!" Then she almost broke down, and half hysterical drew the girl towards her and kissed her. "Susy, you are a tender-hearted little thing! I don't wonder at Tom falling in love with you. There! go away and leave me. And be sure you don't let anyone—mind, anyone!—come to me till the morning!"

1326.—A STYLISH COMFORTABLE MODEL.

Bathing Suit for Ladies and Misses (With Bloomers and Cap).

Poplin, brilliantine, alpaca, serge, flannel, tafetta and linen may be used for this model. The dress is cut with skirt and waist portion in one, and has side extensions forming sleeve caps over the arm. The bloomers may be omitted, and equestrian tights worn with the suit. The cap may be of oil silk, cloth, or material to go with the suit. The Pattern is cut in 3 sizes: 14, 16, and 18 years for Misses, and in 5 sizes: 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure for Ladies. It will require 4 1/2 yards of 36 inch material for a 14 year size for the suit with bloomers, and 5 1/2 yards for a 36 inch size. The cap will require 3/4 yard of 27 inch material for either size.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

1313.—A CHARMING WAIST MODEL.

Ladies' Waist, with or without Bolero, with Sleeve in Either of Two Lengths, and with Two Styles of Collar.

As here shown, broadened silk was used for the bolero, with poplin for the waist and inserts. This style is lovely for other combinations of materials, and nice for linen, lawn, voile, all over, net and embroidery. It is pretty in crepe, with bolero of embroidery or silk. The Pattern is cut in 3 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. It requires 2 1/2 yards of 36" inch materials for the waist, and 3/4 yard for the bolero, for a 36 inch size.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

At the House.

Wednesday, June 2nd, 1915.
Mr. Coaker asked Minister of Customs Cashin, if $1,000 was paid Mr. Walsh, the Placenta member, for services in 1914. The Minister was absent from the House and the answer is awaited to-day.

The Sealing Bill and the Council's many amendments thereto were then discussed and occupied a considerable portion of the afternoon. The original Bill had been considerably changed, but most of the amendments were re-amended.

Mr. Lloyd again pointed out that the taxation clause initiated by the Legislative Council, was an invasion of the rights of the People's Chamber and of the prerogative of the Crown. Under these circumstances, therefore, he moved that the Committee refuse consideration to this amendment. This motion passed unanimously.

Several bills were amended again and sent back to the Council.

An amendment to the Products Bill was considered objectionable. Mr. Morine pointed out that the form defeated the object of the amendment. It was not agreed to. Later the Council passed the bill with this amendment excluded.

The Council sent back the Bill relating to the sale of codfish on the Labrador, with the intimation that the amendments in their opinion did not destroy the usefulness of the Bill. Mr. Morine, the introducer of the Bill, rejected the amendments and moved that the Bill be given the six months' hoist. It was so ordered.

Mr. Kent then moved the following Resolution: "That in the opinion of this House, no sufficient justification has been shown; or alleged, for the failure of the Government to have the Departments of Justice and of Agriculture and Mines represented in this House, each by its proper responsible Minister, or for the appointment of the Ministers responsible for these Departments respectively, to seats in the Legislative Council."

In moving this resolution he said it would be remembered he already dealt with this matter, and did not intend to dilate on it now at any great length, but thought the time had come when the Ministers of the Crown holding such important portfolios as those of the Justice Department and of Agriculture and Mines should be placed in the House. During the present session many matters of much importance came before the House in which the Department of Agriculture and Mines was particularly interested and warranted the presence of the responsible head to deal with them, as that department was principally concerned with all the internal resources of the Colony, and during the present session the Bill dealing with the cutting and exportation of timber had come before the House. Continuing, he said, the Justice Department also should have its proper head in the House to keep in touch with the passing of the various measures, and there were evidences superabundant all throughout of the desirability of having that department represented. The House could not always be exempted from having two such principal Ministers, and said that it should be in exceptional circumstances. If at all, that the appointment of those responsible Ministers to the Upper Chamber should be permitted, but they were not put there under extraordinary conditions. According to the principle underlying our constitution, he said, it is right that Ministers should be responsible from that Chamber directly to the people. These men representing some constituency and who are seated in the House. As stated in the resolution there was no justification given for the appointment of the present Ministers of Justice and Agriculture and Mines to the Upper Chamber. Both were decisively defeated at the polls last election, when they held portfolios at the same time. In spite of the pronouncement of the people they held those portfolios by being appointed to seats in the Upper House. This he regarded as a defiance of the wishes of the people. The Prime Minister could have easily appointed two other men from their ranks who were as well qualified for the positions as well as the persons who held them now. He then dealt with the fact that four out of nine members of the Executive held seats in the Legislature, which was contrary to the spirit of the constitution. Concluding, he pointed out that responsible Ministers should be in the representative House, which was suffering by their absence.

The Premier said there was no justification necessary, because the Government had proceeded on constitutional lines and were in harmony with what has been done in other British Dominions for the last 100 years, and at home, quoting precedents to support his contentions, though he admitted that the general principle and modern tendency was in accordance with what was pointed out by the Leader of the Opposition. He also admitted that he had suffered as well as the House by the absence of the two Ministers in question, and was sorry there was no fund for him to get compensated for the damages done. As to the number of Executive members in the Legislature, he said the rule was elastic and the number varied from time to time.

Mr. Morine followed, endorsing strongly what had been said by the Leader of the Opposition, whose motion, he said, was evaded by the Premier, and had nothing to do with the arguments with which the Premier had directed himself. After disposing of the precedents put up by the Premier, he mentioned the Products Bill as a telling example of how necessary it was to have the Minister of Agriculture and Mines in the House. He said the Legislative Council was being used as a place of refuge for defeated men and those who are favorites of the Government, whereas it was only intended for our commercial people who are too busy to enter into political life. He said the Legislature was never intended for P. T. McGrath, the close friend and confidante man of the Government, and M. P. Gibbs, the defeated politician, and men of strong partisanship. Elements of politics, partisanship and personal consideration were being introduced in the Upper House, and ought not to be a qualification for the seat there. He referred to the Council there being troublesomely active.

Badges Sold Well.

The Ladies' of the St. John's Ambulance Brigade, who with commendable patriotism, recently imported a number of badges of the Newfoundland Regiment for sale, were stationed at different parts of the city yesterday, and did a pretty brisk business. A large number of badges and flags were sold, and the proceeds will go towards the establishing and maintenance of another cot at a Base Hospital for six months.

The ladies are to be congratulated on the success of the movement, and if there are any badges remaining, we hope that those who were not fortunate enough to secure them yesterday may do so to-day. The badge is a pretty souvenir and are worth the price asked, apart from the object for which the sale is being held.

Boy Scouts' Concert.

The Boy Scouts' entertainment held in the Grenfell Hall on Wednesday evening last, was largely attended and proved highly successful. Amongst those present were—Lady Horwood (Sir. Wm. was unavoidably absent), Revs. Dr. Jones, Canon White, H. Pike, A. G. Stamp, Clayton; Mrs. Bowring, Mrs. W. C. Job, Mrs. R. B. Job, Hon. R. Watson, T. Cook, A. Carnell and other prominent citizens.

The Lord Bishop of Newfoundland presided and in opening the program dealt interestingly with the aims and history of the organization referring to the good work it had achieved throughout the Empire, and predicted a bright future for the Boy Scouts of Newfoundland.

An interesting programme of songs, recitations and club swinging followed, the orchestral selections being furnished by the string band of H. M. S. Calypso.

At the close of the programme an address was given by Mr. P. G. Butler scout master, who proposed a vote of thanks to the Lord Bishop, to those who contributed to the evening's entertainment and to Mr. W. H. Jones, the Manager of the Institute. The motion was seconded by Rev. H. Gordon, after which the National Anthem was sung.

A Reply to "East Anglican" Regarding Schools.

Editor Evening Telegram.
 Dear Sir,—In the issue of your paper on the 27th inst., I notice a letter signed "East Anglican," regarding the "teachers work" and the "Educational system."

In scanning over the lines, I noticed some points of which I feel it my duty to make comment.

(1) "E. A." refers to the schools as a mere cramming place, and I would like to say that the system at present in vogue, is not at all perfect, but it is as good as the Educational authorities can at present propose, and if "E. A." knows of a better system, I cannot see why he refrains from making a proposition.

(2) He says that, according to what he has read in some of your issues, that the home lessons are helping the teachers out. I would like to have that explained. If a teacher in one of the public schools has to deal with from 50 to 90 scholars from the A B C to the Intermediate Grade, I would like to ask "E. A." to give his honest opinion and say if he thinks that a teacher has a moment to spare, even if he has nothing to do by day, but correct home lessons and give explanation on lessons for the coming night.

(3) Mr. "E. A." wants to know if it is true "that the children with educated parents get through their lessons better than the children with uneducated ones." I would like to say, Mr. Editor that the reverse occurs just as often, and I would almost venture to say, that the child of the uneducated parent, is the better of the two.

I think, Sir, a little illustration will prove that. The teacher gives a class an explanation on a certain lesson in school. He has not time to test them on that lesson in school, but he gives the class the lesson to do in the night. In the morning all the scholars have the lesson done. When that lesson is corrected he finds that the educated parent's child has the lesson done better than the uneducated parent's child, but when they receive a test on that lesson in school, he finds that the uneducated parent's child can do it better than the other. This shows that the work was done for the educated parent's child home, while the other did it himself.

(4) He also says: "That he doesn't intend to pay the teacher and do the work himself." I wonder, Mr. Editor, does "E. A." think that the teachers of this Colony want him or anybody else to do their work. I do not believe they do, and I do believe, Sir, that the teachers have a strenuous work to perform which the majority of them are doing creditably. And as to paying the teachers, I would like to say this, I expect if they were getting as much salary as "E. A." they would do their work better, because to tell the truth, I cannot see what is keeping so many of them in the profession.

Thanking you for space,
 I am,
 TEACHER SYMPATHIZER.

Lewis will make another trip to Grand Bank before the caplin.

The Rustand, Capt. Walter Kennedy, has arrived at the home port with the fine fare of 700 qts. for the spring trip. Capt. K. has done well on the winter trip, too.

Capt. Jno. F. Lewis, who is in command of a banker of Burin, reports having done well on the spring trip.

Comfort For Our Fighters.

We find the following appreciation in the Pall Mall Gazette of April 23. It is a paragraph of articles entitled "Women and the War;" "Our Duty To-day:"

Vigorol

VIGOROL, the Great French Tonic, is opposed to disease; therefore it finds it out and drives it away. Your nerves are toned up. Your bowels made healthy and strong. Your blood purified. The kidneys and liver cleansed. Headaches, biliousness, and that heavy, tired feeling, will go. You will feel like a new person. Don't be fooled—get VIGOROL, and you will never regret it. Says War is Surely Coming.

New York, May 27.—The Herald's London special cable says: Mr. Robert Bacon, Secretary of State in Mr. Roosevelt's Cabinet, left for home aboard the Philadelphia yesterday.

"War between the United States and Germany is coming as surely as night follows day," said Mr. Bacon. "Germany is calculating on the feeling in the United States cooling off and now tells us she will get around to the Lusitania case in a week or so, which is another crowning insult to the nation."

"Will American feeling for massacre of its citizens cool off? I think not. Will those in the Government who believe peace more priceless than honor try to make the American people forget? Of this, unfortunately, I have not the same confidence."

HALF OF SHIP'S CREW DOWN WITH BERI-BERI.

New York, May 27.—The British steamer Dewa, laden with sugar from Cienfuegos, Cuba, came into port last night with 28 of her crew of 40 men suffering from beri-beri. Since leaving Cienfuegos seven of her crew died from the disease and were buried at sea.

Most of the work about the ship had to be done by the officers, and engineers were compelled to go into the stokehole and help feed the boilers.

The Dewa was taken in charge by Health Officer O'Connell, who will remove the sufferers to Hoffman Island to-morrow for observation, and fumigate the ship.

Prelates Call On the Nation.

London, May 28.—The Archbishops of Canterbury and York have issued the following joint pastoral letter which is to be read in all churches June 6:—

"After ten months of war we see more clearly than at first the greatness and severity of the ordeal which is putting the spirit of our nation to the test. The spirit arrayed against us threatens the very foundation of civilized order in Christendom. It wields an immense and ruthless power. It can only be decisively rolled back if we, for our part, concentrate the whole strength of body, mind and soul which our Nation and our Empire holds. We solemnly call on all members of the Church and urge upon all fellow citizens to meet with glad and unstinted response whatever demands of service or sacrifice the Government decide to make. The great war, righteously waged, calls out that spirit of willingness with a plainness and intensity which nothing can rival. On behalf of righteousness and in our country's cause there's nothing too dear or too sacred to be offered. God has so taught us. Let us obey what we give and by what we are. May His will be done."

Canada Has Sent 26,000 OFFICERS AND MEN TO ENGLAND SINCE THE OUTBREAK OF WAR.

OTTAWA, May 28.—A memorandum issued by the Militia Department states that up to the present time nearly 56,000 officers and men have been despatched overseas by the Canadian Government. It is anticipated that by the first of July, the number will reach approximately 70,000. More than 500 nurses have also gone forward. The recruiting, enlistment, and organization of additional forces is steadily proceeding, and is the more necessary by reason of the very heavy casualties which have been sustained by the Canadian division during the past five weeks in the fighting near Langemark and its vicinity. "The gallantry, resourcefulness and tenacity of the Canadian troops during those battles," says the memorandum, "have never been surpassed."

Have You a Bad Sore?

If so, remember these facts—Zam-Buk is by far the most widely used balm in Canada! Why has it become so popular? Because it heals sores, cures skin diseases, and does what is claimed for it. Why not let it heal your sore?

Remember that Zam-Buk is altogether different to the ordinary ointments. Most of these consist of animal fats. Zam-Buk contains no trace of any animal fat, or any mineral matter. It is absolutely herbal.

Remember that Zam-Buk is at the same time healing, soothing, and antiseptic. Kills poison instantly, and all harmful germs. It is suitable alike for recent injuries and diseases, and for chronic sores, ulcers, etc. Test how different and superior Zam-Buk really is. All druggists and stores at 50c. box.  NEW YORK, To-day
 The Red Star Line steamship, Laplander, sailing as a White Star steamer, left here to-day for Liverpool with passengers, 14,000 tons of cargo, and one passenger was an American seenger.

WITHOUT RE-ELECTION.
 LONDON, To-day
 The Commons passed in all stages the bill enabling the new members to sit during the period of the without re-election. The Lords rejected the first reading of same bill, but will take up its further stages tomorrow. Lawrence Ginnell, Irish nationalist, who follows leadership of no Parliamentary parties but is a leader and only member of his party was not to be denied however and despite the censorship of the speaker succeeded in saying members of the House who formerly were calling each other liars and politicians were now aspiring to be each other jobs and were afraid to face the electors. Ginnell was attacking Premier Asquith's political character when the Speaker ordered him to resume his seat. After the passage of the Suspensory Bill, the Commons passed the first reading of a bill establishing a Ministry of Munitions over which Lloyd George presides. While it is expected that the Government will have support of the whole Commons and Lords with the exception of a few irreconcilables such as Ginnell, there is to be an official opposition in both Houses. The leadership of that in the Lower House has been assumed by the Hon. Henry Chaplin, Unionist, and the courtesy extended to Privy Councillors Chaplin took his seat on the front-bench on the left of the Speaker where he had as companions new and old Privy Councillors all known members of the coalition. Behind him, however, was a little group of radicals who will accept nothing but the Liberal Government and who as a whole crossed the floor of the House and took seats from which they faced the Ministers and where they will hold a better position to cross examine the official opposition in the Lords. LONDON, To-day. The Norwegian steamship Cubano was torpedoed and sunk yesterday off Flannan Islands. The crew landed at the Hebrides group of islands off the West Coast of Scotland.

LAPLANDER SAILED.

NEW YORK, To-day. The Red Star Line steamship, Lapland, sailing as a White Star steamer left here to-day for Liverpool with 275 passengers, 14,000 tons of cargo. Only one passenger was an American passenger.

WITHOUT RE-ELECTION.

LONDON, To-day. The Commons passed in all its stages the bill enabling the new Ministers to sit during the period of war without re-election. The Lords passed the first reading of same bill and will take up its further stages to-morrow.

Lawrence Guinness, Irish Nationalist, who follows leadership of the Parliamentary parties but is the leader and only member of his own party was not to be denied however and despite the censorship of the speaker succeeded in saying members of the House who formerly were calling each other liars and political assassins were now aspiring to give each other jobs and were afraid to face the electors. Guinness was attacking Premier Asquith's political character when the Speaker ordered him to resume his seat. After passage of the Suspensory Bill, the Commons passed the first reading of the bill establishing a Ministry of Munitions over which Lloyd George will preside. While it is expected the new Government will have support of the House of Commons and Lords with the exception of a few irreconcilables such as Guinness, there is to be an unofficial opposition in both Houses. The leadership of that in the Lower House has been assumed by the Right Hon. Henry Chaplin, Unionist, and by the courtesy extended to Privy Counsellors Chaplin took his seat on the front bench on the left of the Speaker where he had his companions new kind of Privy Counsellors all known supporters of the coalition. Behind them, however, was a little group of radicals who will accept nothing but a Liberal Government and who as a token of their disapproval of the coalition crossed the floor of the House and took seats from which they faced the Ministers and where they will be in a better position to cross examine them. The proceedings of the Lords to-day was confined to a first reading of the bill relieving the new ministers from appealing for re-election, and to a few remarks by the Marquis of Crewe and Lord Lansdowne, and the entry of Italy into the war. Sir Stanley O. Buckmaster, the new Lord High Chancellor, occupied the woolpack for the first time.

THE CAPTURE OF PRZEMYSL.

LONDON, To-day. With the capture of Przemysl which occurred at an early hour this morning, the Austro-German armies achieved the main object of the great thrust which they commenced against the Russian line in Western Galicia just a month ago to-day. They have yet to drive the Russians further back to establish themselves in an easily defended position, which will enable them to detach forces for operations against Italy and the Allies on the West. Whether or not they accomplish this, the German allies have won a great victory and with the suddenness which overshadows all the past operations of the war. With the surrender of the fortress they fell into Russian hands, according to official reports 120,000 Austrians, 600 guns and an immense amount of war material. Most of the fortress had been completely destroyed by Austrians before they surrendered. This is considered in military circles here to account for the fact that the fortress succumbed so quickly to the Austro-German attack. Of what booty the Austro-Germans have captured with the fortress there is no estimate. It is not expected that the victors will be satisfied with their gain of Przemysl, but that they doubtless will endeavor to push on to Lemberg and even farther and put the Russians in such positions that they will not be able to resume the offensive for many months. The British Government is urging workmen and employers to turn out shells in enormous quantities. Lloyd George the new Minister of Munitions is touring the country with this object in view. The expectation is that the new British armies when they take the field will be equipped as no other forces ever were. Meantime the French continue operations in North Artois where it is declared they are slowly moving the Germans out of strongly fortified positions. The British on their part became more active in the regions of Ypres and La Bassée, while the Italians continue to report the capture of important positions along their frontier.

GREAT APPEAL BY LLOYD GEORGE AT MANCHESTER FOR SHOT AND SHELL.

MANCHESTER, To-day. Declaring that the German victory in Galicia was due to overwhelming superiority in equipment and that if the Allies in the west had been as well equipped, the Germans would not have been able to capture France and Belgium, Lloyd George, the new Minister of Munitions, made a stirring appeal last night to employers and workmen to supply the British armies with the necessary munitions. "The speech was delivered before employers of engineering trades and Trade Unionists," Lloyd George received a remarkable ovation from the people of Manchester, which was in striking contrast to the manner in which he had been received in this city on previous visits of a political nature, particularly when he appeared at the time of the Boer War as an opponent of that struggle. "I come," he said, "as an emissary of the State to carry the most urgent message ever told to the ears of a Manchester audience. Our country is fighting for its life, for the liberties of Europe, and upon what it does and does not do in this hour depends the issue. It depends more upon the masters and men occupied in running work-shops than upon any part of the community, whether Britain will emerge from this colossal struggle beaten, humiliated and stripped of power and influence, and a mere bond slave to a cruel military tyranny, or whether it will come out triumphant. It is more powerful than ever for good in the affairs of men. I come here to tell you the truth, for unless you know it, you cannot be expected to make sacrifices. Our Russian allies have suffered a severe set-back. The Germans have achieved a great success, not because of the superior valor of their soldiers, or the strategy of their Generals, the German triumph is due entirely to superior equipment—an overwhelming superiority in shot, shell, munitions and equipment. It was a battle won by their skilled industries and especially by the superior organization of German work-shops. Two hundrated thousand shells were concentrated in a single hour on the heads of the gallant Russians. Had we been in a position to apply the same process to the Germans on our front, the Germans would have been driven out of France and driven half way across the devastated plain of Flanders. They would have been well out of the country they had tortured and tormented with dastardly cruelty. More than that we should have actually penetrated Germany. For the moment we have more than plenty of men for the equipment available. More men will come to the call but we want workshops to equip them with weapons. The State now needs the help of all, and I am perfectly certain the British engineers can do what the French engineers have already done. In France private firms have given the State assistance at this critical hour, which is beyond computation. The last French victories were largely attributable to the private workshops of France. I am here to ask you to help us to equip our armies with the means for breaking through the German lines in front of our gallant troops, and I know you will do it. Speaking of conscription, he said: "To introduce compulsion as an important element in organizing the nation's resources and skilled industry, does not necessarily mean conscription in the ordinary sense of the term. Conscription means raising by compulsory methods of armaments to fight Britain's battles abroad. If necessity arose I am certain no manly party would protest. We won our liberties in this land on more than one occasion by compulsory service. The Great Republic to the West won its independence and saved its national existence by means of compulsory service. It has been the greatest in Europe to-day, France and Italy, are defending their national existence and liberties by means of compulsory service. It has been the greatest weapon in the hands of democracy many times for winning and the preservation of freedom. All the same it would be a great mistake to resort to it, unless it was absolutely necessary. In closing his appeal to employers and men, the Minister said: "Stand by your country now that it has risked its honor, its life in a most chivalrous appeal for every day efforts to increase the output of war material."

the chances of doing so north of the River is regarded as problematical, now that Przemysl has fallen, rendering it possible for General Mackensen to continue his movement eastward. His would naturally meet a check at the Russian fortified positions, partly composed of a chain of lakes extending north and south eighteen miles west of Lemberg. It is thought, however, that these positions will prove untenable, because General Linsingen, having crossed the moment the Russian front was likely to cut communications with Lemberg. The Austro-German plan of operations against Lemberg apparently is the same as against Przemysl.

WANT TO SEVER RELATIONS.

LISBON, To-day. Protesting vehemently against the sinking of two Portuguese ships by German submarines, the press of Portugal demands the Government to immediately sever diplomatic relations with Germany.

AUSTRIANS STRONGLY ENTRENCHED.

ROME, To-day. An official statement says the sinking of the Portuguese ships along the entire front, show the situation continues to develop in favor of the Italians, who have assumed an offensive attitude against the Austrians, who are strongly entrenched and supported by powerful artillery.

CUT OFF FROM MEMEL.

LONDON, To-day. The Russian forces operating south of Lithuania, have cut that city off from Memel, depriving Germans of their base supply, says a despatch from Petrograd. The Russian force is approaching Lithuania from the north. With this city enveloped, the Germans have an outlet to the sea.

EVACUATED FORTRESS AFTER REMOVING BOOTY.

PETROGRAD, To-day. The Russian troops on the fronts to the north and west of fortress of Przemysl, evacuated their position on Wednesday night after all the war materials taken from the Austrians had been removed, according to an official statement issued by the Russian General Staff. It is explained that after the capture of Jaroslavl and Radyma by the Austro-German forces, they began to spread along the west bank of the San River, making the defence of Przemysl a difficult task. The Russians contend they realized from the first that Przemysl was incapable of defending itself, and they only stayed as long as it served their purpose. The positions occupied around Przemysl extended to the Russian front by about 24 miles, and the troops occupying them were exposed to concentrated artillery fire.

IMPORTANT RUSSIAN SUCCESS.

PETROGRAD, To-day. The Russian War Office to-day announced an important success of the Muscovite troops on the Lower San in the vicinity of Pudniw, where four thousand German prisoners and numerous cannon and machine guns were taken. The Russians claim to have pierced the Austro-German line at that point. Pudniw lies in the San Valley about thirty-six miles from Sieniawa.

Combatting Zeppelins.

Providence Journal.—There are all sorts of stories about a forthcoming Zeppelin raid on England. London, in particular, it seems, is to be the object of the attack. But, meanwhile, a defence against the dirigibles is being devised. The Zeppelin that flung its deadly missiles on Ramsgate was chased by two aeroplanes as far as the West Hinder lightship. The supremacy of these great aerial machines is to be seriously challenged henceforth. By the time the alleged German air-fleet is ready to descend upon London there will probably be a numerous fleet of aeroplanes ready to receive it, and formidable batteries of anti-air-craft guns also.

THE BRITISH THEATRE.
The popular theatre has an attractive programme for the week-end. Three interesting dramas "Accused," "Buffalo Jim," and "The Prospectors" by the Kalem Vitagraph and Biograph players respectively, will be shown. "The Day of the Dog," "Simon and the Spirits" and "The Clock Went Wrong," are three comedy screems by the Selig players. "Meller Drammer" is also a bright comedy by the Selig players. Mr. Arthur Priestman Cameron will be heard in popular comedy.

FUNERAL YESTERDAY.—The funeral of the late Mrs. Alex. Rodger took place from her late residence Barnes Road, yesterday afternoon, and was largely attended. Rev. J. S. Sutherland officiated at the graveside and interment was at the General Protestant Cemetery.

The Appeal for Munitions

Lloyd George has opened his campaign as Minister of Munitions at Manchester, his native city, which is the centre of the great engineering centre of South Lancashire, and the headquarters of the Whitworth Munition factories, which now constitute a branch of the great armament firm of the Armstrong and Whitworth Company. The object of the appeal is to make employer and employee realize the importance of the supply of shot and shell. The reverse sustained recently by the Russians is due to the superiority of the German supply of these munitions. The retaking of Przemyśl by the Germans and Austrians pointed the moral of his appeal in a way that could not be gained. Sir John's French call is for munitions, munitions. An overwhelming supply of shot and shell is what is required. The great Kitchener army is being kept back for equipment and shot and shell. Men are ready, their equipment is not, and the great British stroke contemplated cannot be delivered effectively until the British can throw more shot and shell at the Germans than the Germans can throw at them. No one who is not a patriot carries on this appeal to the patriotism of the workshop than Lloyd George, and as head of the new department of munitions he is being put in a better position to make it. The grand primary objective of the campaign in Turkey is to obtain control over the waterways between the Black Sea and the Mediterranean, so that Russia may be supplied with what she needs in the way of munitions. A secondary objective is to be being put in a better position to make it. Amusements.

THE ROYAL BOX.

The week end picture at the Casino is entitled The Royal Box and Judge from the many pleasing words of approval expressed last night it is up to the standard of excellence as can be seen only at the house of masterpieces. The Royal Box is a story of an actor who played in Drury Lane a century ago and who not only famous for good character production but who was equally famous for garbousness of manner and gentlemanly qualifications. These accomplishments won him the patronage and friendship of the Prince of Wales and other notables. His association involves actor Clarence in many difficulties and after a public insult to the Prince for which he is forgiven he goes to America. Miss Gertrude Coughlin, the famous actress appears to great advantage in this picture. This famous picture will be shown to-night and to-morrow night.

THE GREAT CONTEST AT ROSSLEY'S.

Last night both the Rossley theatre were crowded to the doors with a holiday crowd who enjoyed the show and a first class entertainment. The comedy sketch entitled off duty was one continual laugh. Jack Rossley, as the policeman; Mr. Ballard Brown, as the Soldier; Mrs. Marie Rossley, The Mistress; and Miss Madge Locke, The Maid, had the house in roars. Besides a singing and dancing act and the pictures, which are the best seen in the city in years; Rossleys have everything up to date. The contest to-night will be a big one, there are lots of names, and the winner of the first six prizes can have either the week's engagement or the money, as some can not get away to fulfill the week's work. The early doors will be open to-night at 6.45 p.m.

"OURS" IN THE WEST END.

There was a crowded house last night at each performance at the popular little theatre and the sweet little singer had to respond over and over again to the solid applause given Always a good show; the very best of pictures, good music and comfort at the cosy little house. To-night's contest at Rossley's East End Theatre promises to be the best yet to judge by the number of names given in.

Sir Edgar Bowring.

The news that Newfoundland had been honoured on the King's Birthday by the conferring of a knighthood on the Hon. E. R. Bowring has afforded much satisfaction. For a quarter of a century, Sir Edgar Bowring has been the head of the Newfoundland firm of Bowring Bros., being appointed after the death of his uncle, Hon. Charles Bowring. He is also director of the parent Company Liverpool. Sir Edgar is a son of the late John Bowring and was born in St. John's in 1858. He was educated at the C. of E. Academy in this city, and at Liverpool and Scarborough. He has been prominent in fostering many local industries, outside his own firm, and has taken a lively interest in public questions, and for a long time was the Treasurer of Bishop Field College, which always received strong support from him. When the Dominion Commission was appointed to investigate the resources of the Dominions of the Empire, he was appointed the representative of Newfoundland, and for some years past, he has devoted most of his time to the work of that Commission, travelling through most of the Colonies. A few years back in the Centenary of the Bowring firm. We congratulate Sir Edgar on the royal mark of recognition he received yesterday and express the hope he may live long to enjoy his honors.

Attempted Suicide.

Yesterday afternoon a young woman of the East End, named Annie Rolls, aged 25 years, unmarried, attempted to end her life by drowning near Quayside. This unfortunate creature had been mentally unbalanced for some considerable time past. Yesterday she wandered to the lake side, where she jumped a distance from the head of the pond, and was seen there acting strangely by several persons who passed by in the vicinity, including a man named Patrick Walsh, who was going trouting. The woman kept continually walking back and forth at great speed, and Mr. Walsh in the meantime kept his eye on her, as he suspected something was wrong. Suddenly she disappeared having thrown herself in a running river alongside. Luckily Walsh and another man saw the woman's rash act and hurried to save her from drowning, which they did within the nick of time. When rescued there was very little life left in the woman and a few seconds longer and she would have succumbed. When she began to come to herself she remonstrated with her rescuers and wanted to get in the water again. One of the men watched her while the other acquainted the police authorities by telephone. Immediately Constable Woodford drove to the scene and conveyed the woman to the police station where on being examined by Dr. Mitchell, she was pronounced to be in an advanced state of insanity and forthwith was taken to the Lunatic Asylum.

Opposes "John Workman."

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—The discussion in your paper entitled: "Home Lessons" has produced a serious effect among many of our well respected and qualified teachers, and it is now time for the parents to give them the credit they so well deserve, knowing that their children's lives depend to a certain degree "upon the education." Parents like Mr. John Workman do not consider how degrading it is for a Teacher to hear that he or she does nothing during the school session but hear the children's home lessons, when they (Teachers) are striving so faithfully and energetically to qualify them for good positions. Such talk tends to make the Teachers less interested in their work, subsequently the difficulties are to be overcome by the children to the best of their abilities, whereas if the Teachers were interested in the children and school (which in most cases they are) by their co-operation the studies would prove a pleasure rather than a burden, but I am of the opinion that while such talk exists the children and not the teacher will reap the disadvantages. Now if lessons are not studied at home how can they be studied in school? unless the school contained a department for every child? And then there would be need of a teacher for every department. I advise Mr. Workman to reconsider his ideas. How could he expect say "fifty children" to sit still and study without any help from either teacher or parents—they need their parents help when at home, now they need teacher's help at school. And will the time permit the teacher to work individually? If parents wish their children to be educated it is the children who must do the studying and parents give them every encouragement. Home Lessons (such as Arithmetic, Geography, etc.), are not given by any teacher without the child having some information regarding them, unless it is by the particular teacher that Mr. Workman's assistant refers to. Such work is given as a practice or as a revision of the work done by the children during the day, which enables the teachers to see their weak points, consequently they know the subject or subjects in which they need the most teaching. Wishing to obtain the support of others re this matter.

Yours, etc.,
DOCCENDO DISCIMUS.

What Dyspeptics Should Eat.

A PHYSICIAN'S ADVICE.
"Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach trouble are, nine times out of ten, due to acidity; therefore stomach sufferers should, whenever possible, avoid eating food that is acid in its nature, or which by chemical action in the stomach develops acidity. Unfortunately, such a rule eliminates most foods which are pleasant to the taste as well as those which are rich in blood, flesh and nerve building properties. This is the reason why dyspeptics and stomach sufferers are usually so thin, emaciated and lacking in that vital energy which can only come from a well fed body. For the benefit of those sufferers who have been obliged to exclude from their diet all starchy sweet or fatty food, and are trying to keep up a miserable existence on gluten products, I would suggest that you should try a meal of any food or foods which you may like, in moderate amount, taking immediately afterwards a teaspoonful of bisurated magnesia in a little hot or cold water. This will neutralize any acid which may be present, or which may be formed, and instead of the usual feeling of uneasiness and fullness you will find that your food agrees with you perfectly. Bisurated magnesia is doubtless the best food corrective and antacid known. It has no direct action on the stomach; but by neutralizing the acidity of the food contents, and thus removing the source of the acid irritation which inflames the delicate stomach lining, it does more than could possibly be done by any drug or medicine. As a physician, I believe in the use of medicine whenever necessary, but I must admit that I cannot see the sense of dosing an inflamed and irritated stomach with drugs instead of getting rid of the acid—the cause of all the trouble. Get a little bisurated magnesia from your druggist, eat what you want at your next meal, take some of the bisurated magnesia as directed above, and see if I'm not right."

Your Boys and Girls.

Whenever it becomes necessary to attend a funeral or ill bedside of a friend or relative, it is best always to leave the children at home. The solemnity of the occasion, sometimes leaves the child in a depressed frame of mind, a thing that should never be encouraged.

Every child should be kept from a knowledge of the graver side of life until he is old enough to understand. His little mind cannot always grasp the situation in the right way, and unconsciously he is made morbid over the event. It never adds to the occasion to take the children along so if one can possibly leave them in the care of a friend or neighbour it is much better to do so.

LONDON, June 3.

The Governor, Newfoundland.

A British submarine torpedoed a large German transport in the Bay of Biscaya, yesterday morning.

There has been close hand fighting on the northern front of the Dardanelles since the first of the month.

The enemy again losing heavily in the southern section of the front.

The French have recaptured a fort captured by the French on May 29th. They have been driven out, and the fort remains intact.

The French Government has ordered that British troops have carriage Chateau Hooge, near Zonnebeke, with the bayonet, also further progress southeast of Neuville, and violent infantry actions east of Ypres.

The Russian Government has reported the bombardment of Przemyśl by the enemy capturing several guns.

The German report states that Przemyśl has been re-captured.

The Italian Government has announced some advance on Trentino.

The Italian Government has announced some advance on Trentino.

Nero, on the left of Isorno, has been occupied. Enemy counter-attacks have been repulsed.

BONAR LAW.

PARLIAMENT RE-OPENED.

LONDON, June 3.

The first assembly of the British Parliament to-day had special features.

Asquith was Premier, McKenna, the new Chancellor of the Exchequer, was at Nice, conferring with the Italian financial authorities while Bonar Law, Balfour and other members of the new Cabinet were in the Unionist side, could not take the places on the front bench until the passage of the bill permitting the Government to take office without re-appointing Sir John Simon, Secretary of State for Home Affairs, announced that he would introduce a bill which would be passed through all its stages to-day to make temporary provision for rendering unnecessary the present process of seeking re-election for members of an accepting office.

The House of Commons, he said, regretted the absence of Premier Asquith, who would be absent on Monday, when he would make a statement regarding Italy and the war. A Bill for the establishment of a Ministry of Munitions, he said, would be introduced, and going into the later stages on Monday and Tuesday of next week.

Sir John Simon said the tribunal for dealing with alien enemies had been appointed.

William O'Brien asked Sir John Simon whether the House would take the opportunity of discussing the extent of importance to Ireland of the disappearance of the German Baltic Ministry, which cannot be allowed to pass without some compensation.

Richard T. Holt, Radical, inquired there would be an opportunity for members to discuss the new Ministry. This drew cries of "No, No," from the Unionists, but Holt, continuing, said if this opportunity is not given, it would be necessary to discuss the Bill.

Lawrence Ginnell, Nationalist, opposed the Bill. He said that the members of the Government were now members of the House, and he expressed it, they have no character. Ginnell then launched into an attack upon Asquith.

All his life, he said, the Premier had been a specialist of political platitudes; all his life he has been Tory at the bottom.

Speaker warned Ginnell three times to assist in attacking the Premier.

Finally he was compelled to assist to take his seat.

The debate was somewhat prolonged. Finally, the House proceeded with the second reading. Ginnell alone voiced opposition.

Handicaps From Within.

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

How very differently we all feel about the handicaps which are imposed on us by circumstances and the handicaps we impose on ourselves. Almost anyone who has the handicap of a deformity, of a dishonored name, of great poverty, of accident, crippled faculties, or of any other misfortune which comes from without instead of from within, resents it bitterly.

He usually ascribes far more of his failures and unhappiness to the handicap than are actually due to it. He thinks that if it were only possible to remove it by human effort he would surely do so.

How Happy He Would Be If Only—He is sure he could be entirely happy and content if it were not for that handicap.

And yet all the time he is probably tolerating other handicaps that he has imposed upon himself without complaint and without thinking how much he could accomplish if they didn't hold him back.

She Laughs At Her Own Handicap.—For instance, bad handwriting is a handicap. I know a girl who has been continually inconvenienced by it. Her friends cannot read her letters; her professors at college could not read her essays; she took the civil service examination and passed far down in the list because her low rating in handwriting counterbalanced her high rating in other branches. Over and over again her slovenly writing her maddening habit of making e's and i's and u's and m's and n's all more or less alike has handicapped her. Does she resent the handicap? No, she doesn't, at least not enough to make the effort necessary to overcome it. Indeed, I have often heard her laugh at it. Would she be as resigned to a handicap imposed from without. Not if I know her and I think I do. I certainly ought to.

The Habit of Tardiness a Handicap From Within.

Again I know a woman whose habit of tardiness has always been a handicap to her. From breakfast to bedtime she is always late, always pursuing, never catching up with her appointments and her duties. Needless to say this habit handicaps her in a hundred ways.

The people who never get anywhere are the people who waste their energy resenting handicaps that outward circumstances have imposed and don't try to remove the handicaps they have placed on themselves.

The people who arrive are the people who ignore the handicaps that cannot be gotten rid of and remove all that can be.

Which are you?

OFFER DECLINED OF HOSPITAL FROM LAVAL UNIVERSITY.

The offer of a base hospital made by the Faculty of Medicine of Laval University has been declined by the Minister of Militia. Dr. J. A. Lachapelle, head of the Faculty, said recently, that Major-General the Hon. Sam Hughes, in a letter to J. H. Rainville, M.P., explained that while operating surgeons are needed at the base hospitals in England and France there are plenty of hospitals.

New York Press Sees War in Distance.

New York, May 27.—The New York World, in an editorial on the Nebraska case, says:

"It is hoped that an examination of the hull of the American steamship Nebraska will show that the vessel struck a drifting mine. This is a dubious time for another Gulf-Flight incident.

"It is difficult to believe that, in view of the situation between the United States and Germany since the sinking of the Lusitania, the German Government would have authorized its submarine commanders to attack American ships. It is equally difficult to believe that a German commander would have made an attack on his own responsibility. "Such action, in such circumstances would be little less than an act of war. No conciliatory reply that the German Foreign Office could make to President Wilson's note would be a deliberate attack upon a ship flying the American flag, at a time when the two Governments were endeavoring to arrive at a friendly and honorable understanding in respect to submarine warfare.

As Final Indication. The Tribune says: "If the Nebraska was torpedoed by a German submarine, Ambassador Gerard should be recalled, Count Bernstorff should receive his passports, and diplomatic relations between Germany and the United States should cease.

"Such an outrage as the torpedoing of the Nebraska would be properly accepted by the United States as the real answer of Germany to the American note, the declaration of purpose which makes further discussion impossible.

"A severance of diplomatic relations is not a declaration of war, but it is one more step, is indeed next to the last step. In taking it the United States would give final indication to Germany of the direction in which its policy led and of the approach of hostilities.

The Sun says: "Whether the injury to the Nebraska was caused by a floating mine or a torpedo remains to be determined; and until the details are fully reported judgment must be suspended.

"The country, in full control of its nerves, will await calmly the clearing up of this incident or accident, as it awaits the German reply to the President's note."

BROWN OCTOBER ALE.

WALT MASON

How many ringing songs there are that celebrate the wine, and other goods behind the bar, as being wondrous fine! How many choruses exalt the Brown October ale, which puts a fellow's wits at fault, and lands him in the jail! A hundred poets wasted ink, and ruined good quill pens, describing the joys of drink in gilded boozing kens. But all those joys are hollow fakes which wisdom can't endorse; they're soon converted into aches and sorrow and remorse. The man who drains the brimming glass in haunts of light and song, next morning knows that he's an ass, with ears twelve inches long. An aching head, a pile of debts, a taste that's green and stale, that's what the merry fellow gets from brown October ale. Untimely graves and weeping wives and orphans shedding brine; this sort of thing the world derives from bright and sparkling wine. The prison cell, the scaffold near; such features may be blamed on wholesome keg and bottled beer, which made one city famed. Oh, sing of mud or axle grease, but chant no fairy tale, of that disturber of the peace, the brown October ale!

LAW AND THE LUSITANIA.

Chicago Herald.—Before the present European war began all civilized nations had agreed upon certain rules for the government of their conduct in war. Among them was that while a nation at war might stop, search, seize, and, in certain cases, destroy the vessels of hostile nation, it might not kill the citizens of a nation with which it was not at war who might be lawfully on board that vessel. Efforts doubtless will be made to excuse the slaying of the Americans on the Lusitania on the ground that Germany had given "warning" about a "war zone," and that any American who travelled on a British ship must do so "at his own risk." These "warnings" in no way affected the right of Americans to be on that vessel nor lessened the liability of Germany for any injury her sea forces might do them.

OFFICIAL.

LONDON, June 3.
The Governor, Newfoundland:
A British submarine torpedoed a large German transport in the Sea of Marmora, yesterday morning.
There has been close hand to hand fighting on the northern front of the Dardanelles since the first of June, the enemy again losing heavily. On the southern section the Turks twice recaptured a fort captured by the French on May 29th. They have since been driven out, and the front remains intact.

The French Government reports that British troops have carried the Chateau Hooze, near Zonnebeke, on the bayonet, also further progress southeast of Neuville, and violent infantry actions east of Lorete. The Russian Government reports the bombardment of Przemysl by the enemy capturing several guns. The German report states that Przemysl has been re-captured.
The Italian Government announces some advance on Trentino. Monte Nero, on the left of Isorno, has been captured. Enemy counter-attacks have been repulsed.

BONAR LAW.

PARLIAMENT RE-OPENED.

LONDON, June 3.
The first assembly of the coalition British Parliament to-day had no special features. Asquith was absent. McKenna, the new Chancellor of the Exchequer, was at Nice, conferring with the Italian financial authorities, while Bonar Law, Balfour and other members of the new Cabinet from the Unionist side, could not take their places on the front bench until the message of the bill permitting them to take office without re-election. Sir John Simon, Secretary of State for Home Affairs, announced that he would introduce a bill which would be passed through all its stages to-day, to make temporary provision for rendering unnecessary the practice of seeking re-election for members of accepting office. The Home Secretary, he said, regretted the absence of Premier Asquith, who was on urgent public business, and declared the Premier hoped to be in his place on Monday, when he would make a statement regarding Italy and the war. A Bill for the establishment of a Ministry of Munitions, he added, would be introduced, and go through the later stages on Monday and Tuesday of next week. Sir John Simon said the tribunal for dealing with alien enemies had been appointed. William O'Brien asked Sir John Simon whether the House would have the opportunity of discussing an agent of importance to Ireland, namely, the disappearance of the Home Rule Ministry, which cannot be allowed to pass without some comment. Richard T. Holt, Radical, inquired if there would be an opportunity for members to discuss the new Ministry. This drew cries of "No, No," from the Unionists, but Holt, continuing, said if this opportunity is not given it would be necessary to discuss the Bill. Lawrence Ginnell, Nationalist, opposed the Bill. He said the new members of the Government were not new members of the House, or as he expressed it, they have no character. Ginnell then launched into an attack upon Asquith. All his life, he said, the Premier had been a speaker of political platitudes; all his life he has been Tory at the bottom. The speaker warned Ginnell three times to desist from attacking the Premier. Finally he was compelled to ask him to take his seat. The debate was somewhat prolonged. Finally, leave to introduce was given, and the House proceeded with the second reading. Ginnell alone voiced opposition.

quick-frers. In Galicia on Monday, between the Vistula and Przemysl, stubborn fighting developed, our troops gaining somewhat important successes on the left bank of the lower San, taking several villages. On the right bank of the San River, we were successful near the village of Kalukoue, taking a base south of the village and capturing 1,200 prisoners including 22 officers and eight quick-frers.

THE FIGHT AROUND PRZEMYSL.

LONDON, June 3.
The battle for Przemysl continues with unabated fury, the losses in men and material piling up to an unprecedented extent. The Germans claim to have captured some of the forts, but the Russians say they were driven out again. Simultaneously with this battle the Germans are making another effort to break through the Bura lines toward Warsaw. The Germans claim to have captured 300,000 Russians during May, but despite this loss the Russians have not slackened their resistance.

FRENCH OFFICIAL.

PARIS, June 3.
In Belgium, the British troops carried at the point of the bayonet the Chateau Hooze near Zonnebeke. Between May 9 and June 1, the French division which took Carency, Malon, Milland and the sugar refinery at Souchez, captured 3,000 prisoners, including 64 officers, buried the bodies of 2,500 Germans, and lost themselves in killed and wounded, 3,300, of whom two-thirds were only slightly wounded.

THE ITALIAN CAMPAIGN.

ROME, June 3.
The bombardment of the Austrian forts defending Trieste has been commenced by the Italians. The advance of the Italian army of invasion, which has been driving towards Trieste by way of Monfalcone, has been resumed under cover of fire from the Italian warships. The heavy artillery of the Italians has reduced the Austrian fortress of Belvidere, north of Ala, one of the works defending Rovereto, on the south. This victory opens the way for further advance of the Italian army up the Adige Valley towards Trent. In Friuli, the Italians fighting under enormous difficulties, have gained Monte Noro, an important Alpine Peak, which they are fortifying. Shells are reported to have fallen in Trieste, along the north of Trieste, and along the Nebresima railway.

THE MEXICAN PROBLEM.

WASHINGTON, June 3.
President Wilson to-day served notice on factional leaders in Mexico that unless within very short time they unite to set up a government which the world can recognize, the United States will be constrained to decide what means should be employed to help Mexico to save herself and save her people. This signals a change from the "watchful waiting" policy which has guided relations with Mexico for more than two years. The President's statement is regarded everywhere in official and diplomatic quarters as notice of a new and vigorous policy to restore peace below the Rio Grande. What steps the President is prepared to take if the warning goes unheeded, is not disclosed in the statement.

GERMANY READY TO CLIMB DOWN.

WASHINGTON, June 3.
President Wilson emphasized in an informal talk with Count von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador, to-day, the intense feeling of the American people over the sinking of the Lusitania and other violations of American rights on the high seas, and impressed upon him that the United States must insist on the adherence by Germany to the accepted principles of international law as they affect neutrals. In German quarters to-night, optimism was apparent and the view was expressed that the German reply did not purport to be a full answer to America's demands, and if the Lusitania carried no guns it would not be surprising if this would be accepted by Germany, furnishing the basis for giving reparations.

Ever Ready Hot Water, Night and Day.

FOR THE NURSERY.
"The bath ready for baby, when baby is ready for the bath" should be an adage of every housewife—who should also keep in mind that any trouble saved to the nurse makes for a well-ordered, contented household.
Gas Water-Heaters, whether of the Instantaneous or Circular type, offer the convenience of available hot water "upstairs, downstairs, and in my lady's chamber," without any labour at all—Independently of the state of the kitchen fire.
The cost is reasonable.

FOR THE BATHROOM.
An uncertain supply of hot water in the bathroom is a frequent cause of annoyance.
Hot water can only be secured, usually, by getting the cook to act as stoker, but at what a cost!
Think of the coal that is wasted—the fatigue of coal carrying—the after labour of grate cleaning—and the discomfort of a hot kitchen in warm weather!
A Gas Water-Heater is economical, because it only heats the water actually required; and labour-saving, because there are no coals to carry, no flues to clean, no ashes or dirt to remove.
The master of the house has hot shaving water and a hot bath whenever he wishes without delay or trouble.

HOT WATER FOR THE HOUSEHOLD.
When "Spring cleaning days" engross the busy housewife then the convenience of an unlimited supply of hot water on the upper floors is brought home to her with special force.
But at all times—apart from convenience—a gas water-heater makes an irresistible appeal to the housewife from the point of view of dealing with the domestic problem.
Latter-day domestics are difficult to keep unless due consideration is shown by saving them unnecessary drudgery—and in the category of unnecessary drudgery may be included the toil of carrying hot water or coal upstairs, the cleaning of grates and the removal of dirt and ashes.
The gas water-heater renders such labour superfluous—may 12, if Obituary.

ROBERT J. POWER.

We regret to record the passing of a well known citizen in the person of Robert J. Power, broker of H. M. Curtons, whose death occurred at his late residence Military Road, on Wednesday night last, after an illness of about two weeks. The deceased had been employed in the Customs Department for over forty years, and was held in much esteem by all those with whom he came in contact. He was a member of Terra Nova Council, Knights of Columbus. To his two sisters, Miss Catherine Power, of this city, and Mrs. William Morrissey, of Boston, Mass., the Telegram extends sincere sympathy. The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon.

Our Volunteers.

Four volunteers enlisted with the Reserve Force on Wednesday last, which makes a total of 1,874 enrolled to-date. The names of Wednesday's volunteers are:—
John Breen, St. John's.
Hiram Porter, St. John's.
Martin Keough, St. John's.
Matthew J. Cron, Hr. Grace.
Yesterday the men were given leave in honor of the King's Birthday, though some of them had rifle practice at the Rifle Range.

W.P.A. "At Home."

His Excellency the Governor and Lady Davidson were "At Home" to the members of the Women's Patriotic Association yesterday afternoon from 4 to 6.30. The weather was ideal, many guests were present, and an enjoyable afternoon was spent. The guests were received by Lady Davidson, President of the W.P.A., and many of the members of this noble band of workers met each other yesterday for the first time. Refreshments were served during the afternoon and the C.C.C. Band and pipers of the Highlanders rendered an excellent musical programme. Another feature of the afternoon's enjoyment was an entertainment by Miss Madge Locke and Mr. Ballard Brown.

BEGINS THEIR SPRING

FURNITURE Sale.

No explanation or elaboration of the Furniture Sale is necessary. People already know what we mean, as we can prove to the most skeptical that the very best class of Furniture can be bought here now at decisively lower prices than it usually brings. In other words, the person that has a certain sum of money to spend in furniture can get one-third more furniture one-third better or save one-third in cost. We have been preparing for this Sale for some time, and have now some of the greatest values to offer, especially in Beds, Springs and Mattresses.

But the backbone of the event is of course the vast array of Furniture of the moderate kind—which the average home demands—substantial, well-built Furniture, that gives comfort and satisfaction through years of steady service. Come and inspect the furniture at your leisure and feel at perfect liberty to ask all the questions you like without incurring the slightest obligation to buy. Out of town folks will find it to their advantage when in town to see us. Young people getting married should certainly see us, as we arrange terms to suit them and will store and hold goods until required—doing it in a number of cases now. Can make anything to order. Have solid Oak Parlor Suites, solid Oak Table, solid Oak Buffet going through factory for us now—sold.

LONDON GOSSIP.

ANOTHER SOLDIER PRINCE.

LONDON, May 11th, 1915. It is understood that when Prince Henry, the third son of the King and Queen, returns to Eton during the next few days, he will enter the army class there, since His Majesty has decided that he shall devote himself to a military career. The young Prince will go to Sandhurst as soon as he attains the necessary age, and it is interesting to note that not a single Royal Prince has been at the Royal Military College since Prince Arthur of Connaught and the Prince of Wales passed direct from the Oxford University branch of the Officers' Training Corps into the Grenadier Guards shortly after the war began. Prince Henry is already in the Eton section of the Officers' Training Corps, and devotes considerable time to his work therein. Originally it was intended that he should follow his brother, Prince Albert, in the Navy, but he has shown a distinct preference for the military service, and the King has decided to allow him to follow his bent. In the ordinary course of events His Royal Highness will be at Sandhurst in about eighteen months or two years.

AN OFFICERS' MESS IN THE NEW ARMY.

Britain has never had an army in any degree like the present one, officers and privates alike, but few people have any idea of the Imperial character of the officers' mess in most of our new regiments. A most remarkable instance of this is in one battalion of a Lancashire regiment. The colonel has served in many parts of the world, including South Africa. One major had served most of his military life in India, the other had served on different occasions in South Africa, where he had lived for seven years, and had had amongst other things an editorial experience in London. Of the captains, one had been a lieutenant in a line regiment and afterwards a trooper in the South African War, since when he had been ranching in America. Another, who of old military stock, had once tried for Sandhurst, and had been until recently a tea planter in Ceylon. Another is an African explorer of some fame, who has many learned letters after his name, and his brother, who threw up work as a railway engineer in Mexico, to come here and join the army, is a lieutenant in the regiment.

Another captain is a shipowner who had spent several years of his life in Australia. The lieutenants include an officer from an Indian Volunteer regiment, an Honorable Artillery Company man who had just come back from South America, two natives of Canada who were students in England when the war broke out, and a member of the Rhodesian Mounted Police. Their quartermaster was the sergeant major of the 2nd Battalion and had served in South Africa and India. I wonder if there is any battalion in the New Army that can show so remarkable an example of men rallying to the cause from the far parts of the world.

"WHEN ROUTE-MARCHING ENDS."

Summer made its first experiment the other day (writes a member of the New Army), and a year ago the paragraph writers would have been busy counting up the new straw hats in the City. It was different this year, as so many other things are different; for the weather in these days has two aspects, a civilian and a military, and of the two the military aspect is the more important. For the soldier in training it was a flash of realization, an almost appalling demonstration of the conditions of summer warfare; and while civilians were greeting each other in the Strand with congratulations on the lovely weather, tired men on the dusty roads, sweating under rifles and heavy knapsacks, were telling each other how infernal it must be for those out in Flanders. The Downs glowed all day long like a white-hot carbon, a smoke of silver grey dust came up from the smouldering roads, settling thickly on the uniforms, and creeping down the rife barrels; and the heat burned steadily into one's face and neck. And still, in the midst of the ordeal there was one comforting thought to uphold a man—that the time of day route-marching comes to an end when one comes within hearing of the big guns. The aeroplane has changed all that; and out there, where the din never ceases, the columns of route take the road only in the cool and darkness of the nights.

REBUILDING BELGIUM.

I hear that the operations of the committee which has in hand the scheme for rebuilding the shattered Belgian towns after the war on improved lines, has made great progress during the last few weeks. A scheme has been prepared for dealing with every district, and a representative from each has been appointed to a special committee which will make suggestions for carrying out the proposals formulated at the recent congress on the subjects, held at the Guildhall. Not only have the municipalities of the various towns concerned, taken action, but the Belgian Government have decided to take a share in the work. In order that there may be no personal advantage obtained by the Belgian architects who are arranging the details of the organization, they have pledged themselves not to take part in any of the competitions for carrying out the general scheme. Thus those architects who remain in Belgium, and therefore will be unable to obtain possession of the official information which will be at the disposal of their colleagues taking part in the scheme's organization in this country, will be in a good position for securing the business which will result.

ITALIAN PREPARATIONS.

An influential Italian who has just left London for Rome in response to an urgent summons permitted me, before his departure, to read a communication according to which the Italian Government has now definitely succeeded in completing not only all its munition, but also its financial supplies. "And it may be regarded as evidence of the patriotic spirit of our countrymen in foreign lands," said my authority, "that sums amounting to well over ten million lire (roughly four hundred thousand pounds) have been spontaneously remitted to the Government authorities in Rome to meet the extraordinary expenditure involved by the present critical situation." Since the publication of the news disclosed in my interview with His Holiness, the Pope and the Papal Foreign Secretary have gone out of their way to show distinction to British subjects. Sir Henry Howard, our plenipotentiary to the Vatican, has access to the Papal Foreign Secretary whenever he desires it; and I am assured in a letter received from Rome on May 2nd that he had been twice conceded a reception by His Holiness within eight days. During that period His Holiness also received the Rector of the English College at Rome—himself before the advent of Sir Henry Howard an unavowed plenipotentiary at the Vatican, and a distinguished member of the foreign staff of a London daily newspaper, and of an important British magazine. Vatican courtesy has also been extended in a notable degree lately to members of the English Colony in Rome, and to certain Anglo-Catholic institutions in the Italian capital.

THE BRITISH IN SERBIA.

I have seen an interesting letter written by an administrator of one of the ever-increasing number of British military hospitals established in Serbia. It was sent last month, but it still adequately shows the condition of affairs which the friendly visitors have had to face. They found large areas of the country stricken with typhus, the Serbian patriarchal fashion of grouping related families in one large home-building inevitably lending itself to the spread of infectious diseases. Remedies are hard to apply. "The difficulties," says the letter, "are the uncertainty of travelling, the scantiness of roads, and the absence of any trained executive to carry out remedial measures." The Serbian authorities with the best will in the world are unable to create out of the resources of the nation the kind of organization which could have the knowledge or the power to effectively deal with so large a problem, and as a consequence no large scheme has existed for the purpose of clearing the country from disease. The country is now being divided into districts and the work of establishing hospitals of various sizes in various districts is now going on. Preventive measures are more difficult than those for treating the sick. The writer of the letter gives it as his opinion that "the construction on a wholesale scale of a sanitary corps is the key to the preventive side of the problem," and Sir Ralph Paget and other heads of missions have held a conference at Nish to consider plans to this end. It is felt that the task of establishing good sanitary conditions throughout the country could be undertaken by some committee representing the missions with a prospect of success, "if a tolerably free hand were obtainable together with a backing from the highest Serbian authority." Sir Ralph Paget's appointment as a British Commissioner in Serbia should be useful in relation to this project.

THE CIGAR COMMITTEE'S BAD SHOT.

The Cigar Committee of the House of Commons, which I believe is a sub-committee of the Kitchen Committee, evidently includes no skilled political tipsters. I hear that it was so ill-informed as to Budget prospects that it ordered 40,000 cigars at current rates to forestall an increase of duty. Of course there was no increase, and now the problem is to pay for the cigars. The quantity is larger than the Committee has ready money to pay for.

THE DEMAND FOR HORSES.

The horse famine in London is becoming a costly business. Animals are so expensive to buy and costly to feed that motor traction is far cheaper. For the moment, however, the manufacturers are too busy on war work to meet commercial demands, and the consequence is that though the horse has ceased to be a commercial proposition his days are being prolonged till the war is over, when he will be replaced by the motor. Islington Council has just failed to purchase horses at £75 each, and is now offering £85. It sent two large horses to the mart and got £45 for one and £34 for the other, and these prices for lame animals indicate the state of the horse famine in London. Lambeth Council, which for 13 years has had an annual horse parade, is not holding the function this year, its stud of horses having been reduced to 37, one-half of the number last year. When manufacturers once more have the time to devote to commercial vehicles the demand will be great.

WAR READING.

Conversations with the representatives of several important publishing houses give one the impression that the changes of public feeling about the war. Its fortunes have been varied and unexpected, and at this moment it is not too much to say that heads of houses feel it extraordinarily difficult to judge as to whether the market in the immediate future will be good or bad, and especially as to the type of book to which public favor will incline. One well-known publisher tells me that the "war book" has now practically ended its vogue. The trade lists still contain announcements of a few of this kind, but there is a decided impression that the general reader is

Salvia Hair Tonic Makes Hair Grow

Ladies should have radiant hair. There are thousands of women with harsh, faded, colorless hair, who do not try to improve it. In England and Paris women take pride in having beautiful hair. "Up You Dead."
THE CRY SAVES THE TRENCH.
Paris, France, May 20.—A French lieutenant, now lying wounded in a Paris hospital, has given this account of the thrilling action in which he received his injury:
"We were fortifying a trench which we had taken. Behind a barrier of sacks which blocked one end of it, two sentinels kept careful watch. We could work in all security."
"Suddenly an avalanche of bombs tumbled down on our heads. Before we could recover, ten of our men were stretched on the ground, dead or wounded, pellmell."
"I opened my mouth to urge them on again, when a stone from the parapet, torn out by a projectile, hit me on the head. I fell unconscious. My stupor lasted a second only. A splinter of shell tore my left hand and the pain brought me to."
"As I opened my eyes, weakened, my mind benumbed, I saw the 'boches' jump over the barrier of sacks and invade the trench. There were about twenty. They had no guns but they carried in front of them a sort of wicker basket filled with bombs."
"I looked to the left. Our men had gone, the trench was empty. The 'boches' advanced; a few more steps and they were on me."
A Hero of Heroes.
"Just then one of my men, lying on the ground, a wound on his forehead, a wound on his chin, blood streaming from his face, dragged himself to a sitting position, seized a sack of grenades near him and cried out, 'Up, you dead!'"
"He pulled himself to his knees, dived into the sack and flung the grenades at the group of assailants."
"In answer to his cry, three more wounded men dragged themselves up. Two of them, who had broken legs, took guns and opening the magazines started a rapid fire, each shot of which hit home. The third, whose left arm was inert, seized a bayonet with his right."
"When I picked myself up, having quite recovered my senses, about half the hostile group had been felled, the rest having retreated in disorder."
"All that remained was a huge, perspiring sub-officer, congested with rage, who, leaning against the barrier protected by the iron shield, continued most courageously, I must say, to fire his revolver in our direction."
The Trench is Saved.
"The man who was first to organize the defense, who had cried, 'Up, you dead!' received a bullet straight in the jaw. He collapsed."
"Suddenly the soldier with the bayonet, who for some minutes had been crawling from corpse to corpse, stopped about four feet from the barrier, drew himself up, dodged two bullets fired at him, and plunged his bayonet into the German's throat."
"The position was saved. The wounded soldier's sublime appeal had resuscitated the 'dead.'"
LINERS HAVE 34,000 TONS WAR MATERIAL.
New York, May 19.—The Cunarder Orduua and the White Star steamships Arabic and Georgia, which left this port in the last two days for Liverpool, carried 34,000 tons of war munitions and provisions for the Allies.
Among the 10,000 tons carried on the Orduua were 32,000 cases of cartridges, 3,750 cases shrapnel, 1,169 cases of empty shells, 548 cases of brass rods, 25 cases of tungsten metal, three cases of copper, 120 barrels of sheet brass, 3,687 bundles of steel angles, five auto cassis, one aeroplane tractor, 220 barrels of crude metal, 260 barrels of nickel, 3,725 ingots of nickel, 353 copper cathodes, 4,100 copper ingots, 400 tons of steel billets, 488 bundles of steel plate, 133 cases of infantry equipment, 476 cases of uniforms, two auto truck cassis, five cases of rifles, four cases of motor cycle tires, 594 cases of leather military articles, 44 cases of metal working machinery and eight cases of brass wire.
The 12,000 tons of cargo on the Arabic included 795 barrels of grease, 3,407 pigs of lead, 3,370 bars of copper, 5,215 ingots of copper, 400 cases of cartridges, 730 cases of barbed wire, 1,516 pieces of forgings for guns, 14,041 barrels of steel and 41 automobiles.
The cargo of the Georgia included 4,247 cases of loaded shells, 1,000 cases of cartridges, one aeroplane, 670 reels of barbed wire, 1,840 steel billets, 736 bars of iron, 722 bars of steel billets, 759 bundles of steel, 25 cases of fuses, 12 cases of forgings for guns, 20 auto trucks, 543 cases of auto parts, 168 auto cassis, and 1,882 barrels of lubricating oil.
Loaded shells are not likely to explode unless the fuses have been inserted. The fuses are shipped in separate cases on the ships.
INTERNED FRENCH SAILORS ARE RELEASED BY ITALY.
Rome, May 29.—A Messina despatch to the Messagero says that after Italy's declaration of hostilities the minister of war ordered the release of the survivors of the crew of the French cruiser Leon Gambetta, who had been interned at Messina. They will be sent back to France.
The Leon Gambetta was torpedoed by the Austrian submarine U-5 in the straits of Otranto on April 23 with the loss of 552 of her crew.

SCLATER'S,
 Water Street, Foot of Queen's Street, would call attention to the fact that, having decided on making some changes in the working of the business, which will necessitate some alterations in the premises, they intend marking down all the Dry Goods at present in stock, and which have been carried over winter, to the lowest popular prices.

This Sale will be on for one month only from date, and will consist of Costumes, Coats, Men's and Boys' Clothing, Hats, Caps, Ties, Gloves, &c., &c., along with the usual stock of Dry Goods carried.

All new goods coming now will be marked down to the lowest possible prices, taking into account the advanced cost in foreign markets.

This being a CASH SALE, no approbation will be allowed, except to those who have accounts with the Firm.

Loose Leaf System!
 Why import them, we make them.
 We can give you a Loose Leaf System that will completely fill your requirements, that will save you time, and will enable you to know, with the least possible effort, just how your business is running.

A LOOSE LEAF LEDGER.
 A LOOSE LEAF CASH JOURNAL.
 A LOOSE LEAF DUPLICATION STATEMENT FORM.
 A LOOSE LEAF DAY BOOK.
 A LOOSE LEAF BILLS PAYABLE BOOK.
 A LOOSE LEAF BILLS RECEIVABLE BOOK.
 A LOOSE LEAF CHECK BOOK.

Anything and everything in a Loose Leaf Accounting Form can be promptly supplied you. If you are now using your Loose Leaf Forms, we can duplicate any paper, printing, perforation and punching you are now using, and we can do it cheaper than if you imported them yourselves.

We are now making Loose Leaf Binders in our own Plant. We have a Binder to fit any Form you are now using. We can give you any in all Canvas, in Canvas and Leather, in Corduroy and Leather, or in all Leather. Our Binders are made and our prices are lower than you pay for the imported articles. Ask us what we can do for your Loose Leaf Forms and Loose Leaf Binders before placing an order for importation.
