PURITY - QUALITY - ECONOMY
 With the increased cost of labor and materials due to war conditions, it is not reasonable to suppose that a really first class baking powder can be made and sold at the old prices. Rather than sacrifice the quality of we found it necessary to make slight increases in price during the war period. Even though Magic Baking Powder may cost a few cents more than the ordinary kinds it is still by far the most economical baking powder on the market to-day when purity, strength and leavening qualities are taken into consideration.

CHAPTER LXVI.
 A CHANGE OF PLANS.

The secretary, as was only natural in so quiet and thoughtful a young gentleman, was fond of reading, at least, so it was presumed, and he had taken charge of the library and its contents.

Only a few days back he had spent some hours in arranging the shelves, putting the backs of the books level and classifying them.

So thoroughly had he done it that on completion of his task he had nodded with self-approval and asserted to himself that he should know if a volume had been taken down or misplaced.

That assertion he was now putting to proof. Carefully and keenly he scrutinized each shelf, through poetry, the drama, history, medicine. No. No volume had been taken down, or, if it had, it had been so replaced that it was impossible to distinguish it.

Stop! There, among the law volumes, was one slightly projecting. Very carefully he took it down and as carefully let it fall open, thinking that the chances were greatly in favor of its opening at the page last read.

He was right, for, stooping down and examining the leaves, he discovered—what? No finger-marks, no pencil jotting, not even a slip of paper as book-marker, but a few fragments of cigar-ash.

In a moment he remembered that Reginald Dartmouth had struck a light; he had heard it in the next room—may more, there was the odor of a newly-lighted cigar hanging about the library now.

That was the page. With a fast-beating heart he ran his eyes over the headings of the paragraphs.

One caught his attention. "Relating to the laws of marriage between the Catholic and Protestant subject."

That was enough. Replacing the volume, he returned to his own room.

"So!" he murmured. "The countess is a Catholic; Reginald Dartmouth professes—and disgraces—Protestantism. I see it all. He is going to marry her, and clandestinely, too, or it would be announced. Good Heaven! If it be not stopped she will be sacrificed to him before a fortnight; for there is no doubt that the journey will be a runaway marriage. Well, she does not deserve it!" he murmured, with a scorn that was wondrously woman-like, "for a woman that would be cajoled by Reginald Dartmouth's fair speeches and false face would give her hand to the evil one were he but dressed in broadcloth. But she must be saved. There is no time to be lost. I must rouse Rebecca and her ally, Sir Charles, to their work!"

With this he sat down and penned a short note, signing himself as before, "A Well-Wisher."

"There is no time to lose. Search the well. If villainy can be unmasked, H. D. may be found."

"There, that will spur them on, or nothing else will, he said."

CHAPTER LXVII.
 "THE TIME HAS COME!"

Truth will come to light; murder can not be hid long—SHAKESPEARE. It is rather startling to suddenly discovered by an anonymous communication that a matter which you have been hugging to your heart for some time past, with the most profound assurance of its being your own particular secret, is no secret at all, or at least that another person shares it with you.

It is still more startling and embarrassing to be placed in the position of utter ignorance as to the identity of the unwelcome partner of your bosom mystery, and to be perpetually in a state of expectation and excitement thereto.

All this Rebecca experienced. To say that she was astonished at the contents of John Stanfield's first note is to employ but a weak word for her utter amazement.

She sank upon a chair and sat staring at the short epistle with eyes wide open, and, we must confess, lips also.

Here was she congratulating herself upon her particularly clever and inscrutable mode of unveiling Reginald Dartmouth's secret, and suddenly, without a moment's warning, comes the knowledge that she has simply been boring a hole like a mole within a few yards of mole number two.

On the first reflection she had almost concluded that Reginald Dartmouth had written the note himself; but a second consideration showed her that the supposition was scarcely likely.

She thought of it a great deal, and at last—did as she was told. That is to say, she gave directions that no further advertisements were to be inserted.

Then she locked the mysterious communication within her neat little desk and gave herself up to pondering over it and trying to decide what to do.

The anonymous correspondent did not leave long for quiet reasoning. Very quickly, and quite as startlingly, came the second note.

That was the feather which broke the back of Rebecca's reserve. Within half an hour of its receipt she had dispatched a special messenger for Sir Charles Anderson, and during the lapsing of the time necessary for his journey was in a state of ferment.

He arrived, cool and prepared, as usual, for anything that might turn up, but greatly wondering what had occurred, and devoutly wishing that soon he should be allowed to have it out with Dartmouth after his own fashion.

Rebecca was in her own room when the sound of his horse's hoofs rattled over the gravel drive, and with a dash of color in her cheeks came out into the hall to meet him.

Sir Charles flushed a little and his eyes sparkled with something more intense than mere friendship as he almost sprang forward and clasped her hand.

"Well, Rebecca, here I am," he said, in his deep, manly tones. "You're looking well, awfully well."

Rebecca blushed again, and dropping her hand very slowly, Sir Charles, before following her into the dining-room, turned and saw his horse led to the stables.

"Give him a careful wipe-down before his feed, please, will you?" he said, and then returned to Rebecca.

She had seated herself at one end of the large, old-fashioned—but, oh, how comfortable!—couch, and made room for him beside her.

"You have not been long coming," she said, looking at him with a kindly light in her clear, pure eyes; "and you are looking quite well again, Charlie; quite well again."

"This kind of you saying that I haven't been long, Rebecca," he said, looking pleased. "Well, I really have put it on. The old bay flew along; left your man a score of miles away. You must excuse my tweeds. The fact is I was just coming down the steps of the club when your man rode by. I fancied, I was sure, rather, that I remembered him and stopped him. He gave me your note. I read it, walked off to the stables and had the hunter saddled, and away I came."

"Without food or any preparation!" said Rebecca, the kindly light deepening in her eyes.

"Well, you know, Rebecca, I'd start for South Africa or the islands of the moon without my dinner and in a cotton shirt—that is to say, without a change of pocket handkerchiefs, if you merely held up your little finger. So it wasn't much to do, you know."

"It was," she said, in a low voice;

"and I wish I could thank you as you deserve, Charlie, but—"

"All right," replied the open-hearted Charlie; "you've thanked me more than I deserve, worthless scamp that I am. Only tell me what you want, Rebecca, and I am ready for it."

"I want you to go and rest while Mary sets the luncheon," said Rebecca, determined not to open up the Dale affair until the generous-hearted fellow had somewhat recovered from the fatigue of the journey. "There, you know how firm I can be. You must go," she said, as he tried to remonstrate; and so he went, very reluctantly, declaring that he didn't feel tired.

In half an hour he was sitting beside his cousin, attacking a cold ham, hurrying, as he said, because of Rebecca's obstinacy in refusing to tell him anything until he had eaten.

After luncheon they went into the garden and, seated in one of the small arbors, secure from interruption, Rebecca, without a word of preface, placed the first note before him.

The reader will by this time have discovered for himself—and we humbly trust, herself—that, although Sir Charles Anderson was no fool, nor anything approaching one, he possessed more heart than brains—that he was scarcely the man, true-souled, generous-minded though he was, to follow out and track through such a complicated maze as that which Reginald Dartmouth's villainy had created. He could have met a dozen men in hand-to-hand conflict with nature's weapons—the fists, or with the revolvers and rapiers of art, cheerfully and with a certain amount of pleasure; but to the unravelling of such a knotted skein as Rebecca had held out for his inspection he was unequal.

Like Rebecca, he stared at the note and, in addition, stroked his mustache fiercely.

Then he looked up, and, meeting her eye, returned to the note again. "Well," she said, in a low voice, "what do you make of it, Charlie?"

"I—I don't know what to make of it," he replied. "You see, the fellow doesn't sign his name. It is anonymous. Now, everybody says you ought to burn anonymous letters, and if ever you find the fellow who wrote them kick him. But this is very extraordinary! You told me that no one knew anything of the Dale affairs but yourself and me."

"That is it!" responded Rebecca, eagerly; "that is the mysterious part of it. I can not conceive from whom this warning comes."

"The writing?"

Rebecca shook her head. "It is so well disguised that it would be impossible to trace it. No, Charlie, trust me for thinking over every possible chance of a clew. There is not a single one. I can not even conjecture from whom it came."

"Not Dartmouth himself?"

A SALE
 That will not disappoint.

The reason of this Sale is the turning of a lot of this season's goods of passing fashion, some of which we have an overstock into Hard Cash.

 YOU WANT GOODS AT LOW PRICES WE WANT HARD CASH. THIS IS YOUR OPPORTUNITY.

We are not going to give you a line of talk that as philanthropists we are not mere to reduce the height of the H. C. of L. and going to cut prices in halves; we figure you are too intelligent to believe stuff like that, or would think we had certainly been juggling you on previous prices. First we start with

LADIES' & CHILDREN'S STRAW HATS.
 Off these we are taking
25 Per Cent. Discount.

Our prices for Hats are notoriously low, and with this discount and the styles considered we know greatly increased buying will make a busy department busier.

We next consider
LADIES' BLOUSES.
 We find a very classy lot of Ladies' Canadian made White Voile Blouses have not moved fast enough. They range in price from $5.50 to $7.50. Though the market was high and we did not like buying at these prices, we thought style and cut worth consideration. Now we think you will find them most tempting by our allowance of

 from the above.

We have also picked upon a lot of
LADIES' GEORGETTE CREPE BLOUSES
 in beautiful designs and shades, and have marked them down from $17.50 to $12.50 each. This represents less than cost price.

LADIES' SILK DRESSES.
 We have some priced very reasonably at $30.00, $33.00 and $35.00 each, but we are making a reduction in these prices of 25 Per Cent.

 We do this as we are informed that with some of them the skirts are a bit tight.

LADIES' WHITE COSTUME SKIRTS.
 Canadian styles, English materials. Sale Prices only $3.00, $4.00, $4.50 and $5.00.

This summer is certainly a fine one, so you had better secure a couple of these beautiful Washable Skirts and get in accord with it.

LADIES' ENVELOPE CHEMISES (or TEDDIES).
 We have quite a stock of these in White and Pink Lawns and Imitation Silks. These are big sellers in America, but have not yet started to sell so largely here. We think taking 25 Per Cent. off may help.

 In order to make things more interesting we are making

TRANS-CONTINENTAL AERIAL MAIL SERVICE.
NEW YORK, July 29. Three monoplanes carrying the first trans-continental Aerial Mail left Long Island to-day for San Francisco.

EARTHQUAKE OPENS OIL WELLS.
LOS ANGELES, July 29. Two oil wells were opened on city owned property by the recent earthquake, the City Engineer reports. The Board of Public Works has announced that the wells would be developed by the municipality.

GERMANY EXPORTING RIFLES.
STOCKHOLM, July 29. Germany is trying to export via Sweden two hundred thousand rifles. It is stated they are for re-shipment to Mexico.

WOMAN HAD BEEN HORSE-WHIPPED AS WELL.
TORONTO, July 29. William Farrell was sentenced to thirty days in jail because he whipped his eight-year old niece, chained her in a cellar and left bread and water beside her while he and his wife went away for a day's pleasure.

WANTS WASHINGTON TO ACT.
CALEXICO, Calif., July 29. U. S. Consul Boyle has urged Washington to offer his good offices in an effort to prevent hostilities between Mexican troops which might result in the invasion of Lower California.

WOULD NOT BE SURPRISING.
WARSAW, July 29. According to word received here to-day a Soviet revolution has started at Lvno where the Lithuanian Government has been overthrown. No details of the revolt however have reached here.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS COUNCIL MEETS TO-DAY.
SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain, July 29. The members of the Council of the League of Nations arrived here at eleven o'clock this morning by special trains from Paris. They hold informal conferences in preparation for the opening of the full Council meeting to-morrow.

CONVICTIONS FOR DRUNKENNESS DOUBLE.
LONDON, July 29. Official statistics issued to-day show that convictions for drunkenness last year were double those of 1918. A notable reduction in such convictions began in the autumn of 1914 but a check ensued in the middle of 1918.

WILL ENFORCE SOLDIERS' INSURANCE ACT.
OTTAWA, July 29. The Pensions Board will administer the operation of the Soldiers' Insurance Act, which comes into force on September 1st, according to an order issued by the Cabinet Council this week.

UNITED STATES DISAPPROVES.
TOKIO, July 29. The Japanese Government has received a communication from the United States pointing out among other things that the United States is unable to recognize Japan's occupation of the northern half of the island of Saghalin. The newspaper Nichi Nichi says of the nature of the protest, however, that the communication is not really a protest, but rather an exposition of the United States' viewpoint on occupations of Russian territory with something of the United States' attitude towards the territory to be occupied.

IN COMPLETE ACCORD.
LONDON, July 29. Great Britain, France and Italy are in complete agreement regarding negotiations with the Russian Soviet Government, despite the statements to the contrary made by sensational and inaccurate newspapers, declared Premier Lloyd George in the House of Commons to-day in replying to questions concerning the Boulogne conference. Owing to the urgency of sending an answer to the Soviet Government concerning the proposed peace conference, Lloyd George said that it was impossible to secure the attendance of an Italian representative at Boulogne, but he was kept fully informed and entirely agreed with the Allies. The Premier read a message dispatched to the Soviet Government by Great Britain on behalf of the Allies. The message called attention to the fact that the Soviet Government had sent two messages which conflicted concerning participation of the Allies in the proposed London peace conference. The first Russian message, the British communication points out, seems to reject such participation while the last message appeared to agree to it.

NATIVE FORMOSANS REVOLT.
TOKIO, July 29. A native revolt has broken out on the Japanese island of Formosa. Advances from that island to-day stated a strong force of aborigines had arisen against the Japanese in Shin Chiku district. The Japanese, it was stated, were preparing measures to put down the revolt.

GOMPERS SPEAKS.
WASHINGTON, July 29. Samuel Gompers, President of the American Labor Federation, in a statement yesterday declared that "the action of corporations which to-day lay off thousands of men, is nothing less than a tremendous indictment of their management and a heinous offense against people in need of every possible ounce of production." He further asserted that the Federation at all hazards will resist wage reductions.

PRINCE WILL VISIT JAMAICA.
KINGSTON, Jamaica, July 29. The Prince of Wales will visit here on September 15th for three days.

ARCHBISHOP MANNIX'S PLANS UNCHANGED.
NEW YORK, July 29. The plans of Archbishop Daniel Mannix, of Melbourne, Australia, to leave here next Saturday for Great Britain on the steamship Baltic are unchanged by the formal notification from the British Government that he will not be allowed to enter Ireland because of his recent utterances on the Irish question.

INCREASE IN FREIGHT RATES.
MONTREAL, July 29. An additional increase in freight rates will be applied for by the Canadian Railway Association on behalf of the roads in the Dominion in order to meet the cost of raising the wages of their employees to the same level as those of the railwaymen in the United States. The application for the freight rates increase will be filed with the Dominion Railway Commission to increase the rates by thirty per cent.

DO ALL MY HOUSE WORK

Before I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I could hardly get about.

Cobourg, Ont.—"For many years I have had trouble with my nerves and have been in a general run down condition for some time. I could not do my work half of the time because of the trouble with my monthly sickness. I was told of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound by friends and advised to try it. It has done me good, and I strongly recommend it. Since I have taken it I have been able to do all my own work, and I also know friends who have found it good. You can see these facts as a testimonial."—Mrs. ELLEN FLATTERS, Box 761, Cobourg, Ont.

Why will women continue to suffer so long is more than we can understand, when they can find health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound? For forty years this good old fashioned root and herb remedy, which contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has restored the health of thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, etc.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

A King's Bride.

All the world loves a lover, and the romantic secret marriage of the King of Greece to his childhood playmate, Mlle. Manos, the daughter of a Greek colonel, has stirred both hemispheres. King Alexander always called her "my fiancée," and they agreed to wed long ago. His father, ex-King Constantine, laughed at the boy, and girl wooing, and, never realizing the possibility that his second son might succeed him, did not frown upon the youthful idyll.

When his father was expelled three years ago, however, and his elder brother being excluded from the succession, Alexander became king, he remained true to his sweetheart, and quietly married her in November last. There is no such thing as morganatic marriage in Greece, and a special law will have to be passed to make the former Mlle. Manos Queen of the Hellenes.

Practically the only trains are the fluttering ends of ribbon or toilet sashes.

Last Monday's Cup Race.

Wind Died Out and Contest Called Off.

Sandy Hook, N.J., July 26.—The 25-mile Sandy Hook gale that drove defender Resolute and her British challenger Shamrock IV. back to shelter last Saturday went into retirement to-day, taking all the little Sandy Hook Zephyrs with it, and the fifth and decisive race for the America's Cup was called off after the contenders had wallowed along for four and Resolute in the lead. Although their favorite failed to win to-day, Resolute's supporters took great comfort in the fact that she was leading the challenger by about two miles when the match was declared off. Measured in actual progress toward the faraway stake in the prevailing wind, this meant about an hour's sailing for the defender had consumed a trifle more than four and a half hours in covering nine miles of the course. Both yachts, however, had covered considerably more actual distance than nine miles for immediately after the start, Captain Charles Francis Adams II., of Resolute, and Captain William F. Burton, of Shamrock IV., got in a luffing match that took them far off the course and well in toward the Jersey shore. Wind Died Out. When they finally came about after an hour and 20 minutes of sailing that had carried them only a short distance nearer the mark than they were at the start, Resolute had picked up the 56 seconds lead Shamrock took at the start and soon passed the green challenger. But the breath of wind that had given the committee sufficient hope to start the race had died out by this time and the sloops fairly drifted until the match was declared off. Gentle and variable winds with fair weather was the Weather Bureau prediction to-night for to-morrow's yacht race.

Believing that the morning northerly would last through the day, the committee ordered the yachts off on a leeward and windward race with the outer mark a little west of south of the lightship. Both yachts prepared for spinnaker work but Shamrock, which led Resolute across the line by two seconds under a full minute elected to start the first luffing match of the series and the two yachts headed directly on the course for the Jersey shore under balloon jibs and working sails. The wind was about four knots at the start from the north and the first mile was sailed quite fast. Then the wind began to fade and half an hour after the start had dropped to a mere zephyr. Shamrock, however, still held off the course and Resolute followed. During the first hour, the green boat gained a lead of more than a quarter of a mile, and it looked for a few minutes as if she had a chance to make up the seven minutes and thirty seven seconds necessary for her to win.

Then skipper Adams showed skipper Burton that he could play the luffing game a trifle better, for after getting five miles off the course to the westward and almost going around on the upper end of Sandy Hook, Resolute suddenly jibbed over and hauled off-shore. Before Shamrock could follow, the defender had slipped into the lead, a position which she maintained until the postponement signal was blown three hours later.

Race Called Off.

The yachts worked the Jersey shore for the next two hours, with the wind backing and hauling and still keeping up a head-wind, shifted canvas quickly and was well to the windward when the breeze finally sank back into the caverns of the deep. The signal calling the race off was sounded at 5.03 p.m., with Resolute six miles from the turn and Shamrock two miles away off-shore. The yachts will try to decide the long contest to-morrow.

Notes From Brigus.

In spite of the misty weather, the annual mass was celebrated in the R. C. Cemetery on Sunday. Members of the congregation had, as usual, a mortuary chapel erected for the purpose.

On Tuesday, the court was occupied hearing the grievances of two residents of the upper levels, who have not been on the best of terms for some time past. It appears that matters reached a climax some days ago, with the result that some words—(besides codheads and stones)—were exchanged, a definition of which, even Webster is unable to supply. After hearing the evidence on both sides, his Honor ordered both parties bound to the peace for twelve months, besides which the defendant had to furnish bonds to the amount of $200 or in default imprisonment for three months.

"Hope springs eternal" in the human breast," wrote the poet. We write—"Hope springs eternal from the Red Rock Mine." We were just beginning to conclude that the report circulated some time ago to the effect that it had been sold to a new concern who meant "business," was but another of those sensationals which arise periodically. However, we now learn that negotiations are still in progress and should we wait long enough we may at least see them concluded. Here's hoping we will and not only see that, but South Point—on which the claim is situated—a hive of industry. There is evidently nothing to prevent such happening. It has been often stated, on good authority, that the ore is of excellent quality. If this be true, we see no reason why such a valuable deposit should be allowed to remain undeveloped.

The residence of the Rev. E. K. H. Caldwell has, during the past few weeks, been receiving needed interior and exterior repairs.

Our Road Board seems to have ceased operations, and are no doubt resting after their strenuous labours. Several roadways that stood in need of repairs, have been attended to, but there are others that a coat of gravel would make more useful and attractive. When first commencing operations they raked the stones off the station road, but so far nothing else has been done. If not attended to soon this road will cost a large sum for repairs, as it will have to be coated with gravel from one end to the other. Now, then, gentlemen, be up and doing before the fine weather is over!

The ladies of the Methodist denomination held a very successful garden party yesterday. The day was an ideal one for such an event. Despite the heavy rains of the previous day, the ground was in excellent condition and the various tables on which the "good things" were displayed, presented an attractive appearance. The wants of the inner man were well looked after by the good ladies, whose efforts went a long way towards making the affair such a splendid success. The sum of $150 was realized.

There passed peacefully to the Great Beyond on Tuesday, one of the old fishing stock, in the person of Mr. Robert Clarke, a highly respected resident of Riverhead. The deceased, whose wife predeceased him a few months ago, had attained a ripe old age. His life was spent in prosecuting the fishing industry, as only our forebears knew how to, when motor boats and such conveniences as we have to-day were unknown. The funeral took place at 2.30 this afternoon, and was largely attended.

We have our usual number of permanent and transitory summer visitors. To some their presence comes as a great boon, to others quite as much the opposite. For while they furnish certain classes with means of employment and enable them to dispose of their produce at remunerative prices, they also tend to raise the price of wild and garden fruits so that they pass beyond the reach of the ordinary housewife, who is thereby deprived of sufficient preserves for the winter season.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

WHAT WOULD YOU LIKE TO STEAL?

Did you ever want to steal anything? I wonder how many people think that's an absurd question? And then I wonder how many of the same people, if they were absolutely honest with themselves (as honest in thought as they are in deed) would not admit themselves that they have had the stealing impulse?

There's the sort of thing I mean. A citizen, a thoroughly reliable citizen, who wouldn't really steal anything more than you would, said to me the other day, "I never can see a pile of lumber without thinking I'd like to take a few pieces. I just vision I would come round after dark with my machine and stow away a few pieces and make off with them. I don't know why it is but there's something about a pile of lumber that awakes that primitive feeling in me. I suppose it's because there are so many things I want to do and the house with lumber and all the darn stuff costs so much that you'd put up a cupboard without all the covering it with silver."

She Wants to Steal Sugar.

A woman told me last summer that she never saw sugar anywhere without feeling as if she must carry some home. I asked her why she felt that way and she said she had been discussing the subject with some other women with whom she had these impulses, one of them said to her, "I never can see a pile of silk stockings without just seeing herself taking them from the clerk's back and turning the other in regard to books."

Living With Wolves.

In view of the success of "Tarzan of the Apes" as a film and as a novel, it is interesting to note that there have been Tarzans in real life. Not long ago there was the case of a child who was reared by monkeys. A human being was discovered near Naini Tal having a thick coating of hair which gave him the appearance of a monkey. It is thought that owing to this curious resemblance a troop of monkeys had adopted him as a child. When discovered, this strange creature was treated as a wild animal, but on further examination vaccination marks on both arms gave convincing proof of his true origin. A curious incident befell a shooting party in India in 1884. Dr. Condon, of the Imperial Civil Service, was in command. In a forest they discovered an unkempt object which they prepared to shoot, but on closer inspection, proved to be a boy walking on over my shoulder, wants to know if I don't think that saying such things might have the effect of making people think that stealing isn't so great a sin after all. I should hope not! That perfectly good people may have perfectly wicked impulses doesn't mean that yielding to such impulses is any more justifiable. The thing that makes them good citizens is that they have much more powerful inhibitions against those impulses. It's the lack of the inhibition, rather than the presence of the impulse, that makes the criminal.

The Sweetest Lady I Know.

There may be people who don't even have bad impulses, but I must say I doubt it. The sweetest elderly lady I know, an absolutely unselfish person who will certainly walk straight up the golden stairs into Heaven when the door out of life is opened to her, does not like me to tell her how good she is. "You mustn't say that," she says. "Why, I have all sorts of bad thoughts."

Do you think Paul or Peter or Phillips Brooks or Abraham Lincoln lacked bad impulses? I don't. Wouldn't wonder a bit if when Peter saw a fine strong fish net, he sometimes thought he would like to steal it—would you?

This is to certify that fourteen years ago I got the cords of my left wrist nearly severed, and was for about nine months that I had no use of my hand, and tried other liniments, also doctors, and was receiving no benefit. By a persuasion from a friend I got MINARD'S LINIMENT, and used one bottle which completely relieved me, and have been using MINARD'S LINIMENT in my family ever since and find it the same as when I first used it, and would never be without it.

AFTER CONVENTIONS.

Historic now the great conventions, at which our foghorn statesmen raved; both parties reek of those intentions with which the Hades' streets are paved. Both parties frown on those abuses which make our lives one long ordeal, and both would cook the sinful gooses of profiteers who gouge and steal. I listened to the keynote speeches, applauded when the stunts were done; "of all the pebbles on our beaches," I mused, "these statesmen took the bun." I'm glad our woes will soon be over, all finished on election day; oh, then we'll wade around in clover, and raise our glad hurroo, hurra! Both parties give their sacred promise to cure all evils they can reach; for one, I am no doubting Thomas, discrediting a keynote speech. When two great parties are determined to make the world a better place, so seraphim, bewinged and ermined, might think its aspect no disgrace, to them I drink two brimming beakers of tangefoot (a home made brew); I heard their gifted keynote speakers, and know just what they plan to do.

Just Folks by Edgar A. Guest

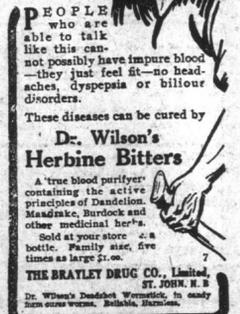

THE BOOK OF MEMORY. Turn me loose and let me be young once more and fancy free; Let me wander where I will, Down the lane and up the hill, Trudging barefoot in the dust, In an age that knows no "must," And no voice insistently Speaks of duty unto me; Let me tread the happy ways Of those by-gones yesterdays.

Fame had never whispered then, Making slaves of eager men; Greed had never called me down To the grey walls of the town, Offering frankincense and myrrh If I'd be its prisoner; I was free to come and go Where the cherry blossoms blow, Free to wander where I would, Finding life supremely good.

But I turned, as all must do, From the happiness I knew, To the land of care and strife, Seeking for a fuller life; Heard the lure of fame and sought Recognition in her court, Answered to the voice of greed: "Give me what I seem to need!" Now the gray town holds me fast, Prisoner to the very last.

Age has stamped me as its own, Youth to yonger hearts has flown; Still the cherry blossoms blow In the land I used to know, Still the fragrant cover spills Perfume over daisies and hills, But I'm not allowed to stray Where the young are free to play; All the years will grant me fast, Prisoner to the very last.

An Unique Record.

For the sixth consecutive time in the political history of the Province of Nova Scotia, Hon. George H. Murray, Liberal Premier, has had the unique honor of bringing back his administration to power from the polls. In the provincial politics of Canada, Murray has broken all previous records. The longest-lived administration hitherto, was that of Sir Oliver Mowatt, in Ontario, who held the position of premier of that province for twenty-three years, eight and one-half months. On July 20, 1896, Mr. Murray succeeded Hon. W. S. Fielding, who resigned office in Nova Scotia to take the portfolio of Finance Minister in the cabinet of the late Sir Wilfred Laurier. Since then he has appeared to the electors of Nova Scotia six times, on every occasion being sustained by a large majority, his last triumph on Tuesday being the almost obliteration of the Conservative Party, which only had one member sent back to the Provincial House. The lesson to be learned from Murray's succession of victories is that the people of Nova Scotia, being the best judges of their own affairs, look upon the Liberal administration as being best calculated to carefully look after and guard the best interests of the province, and consequently there have been few party splits, the electors holding firmly to the traditions and principles of Liberalism as expounded and practised by Murray and his following. The personality of the Premier, too, has been no small factor in contributing to his success. A cultured, unaffected gentleman who makes it a point to know every man in the province and to be able to call him by name, he has devoted himself for more than a quarter of a century to the interests of Nova Scotia, the province in which he was born, and his reward has been commensurate with his work.

For years, the once-powerful Conservative Party in Nova Scotia, has been disintegrating. Lack of cohesion, paucity of capable leaders, internal troubles and successive defeats had so disrupted the organization, that in the recent election there were no party nominees in several constituencies. The entrance of Farmer and Labor candidates also had an effect on the Conservatives, who had no desire to contest a four-cornered election, all over the province, hence the decision not to put men in counties where Agriculture and Labor were both strongly supported. Much reliance was placed by the Opposition on the ability of the nominees of the two new parties to win over Liberals, and the hope was that enough Conservatives would come back to make an amalgamation possible. But even that was doomed to disappointment, for the Opposition was swept away and, but one man of the Hall following saved a seat. With twenty-nine straight Liberals on the Government side, a united opposition can show only fourteen, providing they all hitch up together in their hostility to Murray's administration. These comprise a solitary Conservative, seven Farmers and six Labor men, a strong aggregation, but yet not quite powerful enough to damage the prestige of the Government, which received another lease of life from the voters. The Liberalism of Murray bears the hall-mark of genuineness. He is, perhaps, the only real Liberal leader in Canada to-day. Others have gone hither and thither, but the man from Grand Narrows has stood firm to Liberal principles, and with a tried and true following, the people of Nova Scotia have backed him up and never swerved in their allegiance. Here's congratulations to you, George H. Murray, sixth time Premier of Nova Scotia. You deserved to win, and you did win.

The Commission.

The commission of enquiry into the Woodford affidavit charges held a session this forenoon. Premier Squires was the only witness called and he being questioned corroborated his previous statement to which he made some amendments. The session adjourned till Monday next.

Fell From Scaffold.

While engaged in painting the Western end of the Newfoundland Clothing Company's building this morning, Mr. John Pippy fell from a ladder scaffold to the ground, distance of about twenty feet, receiving severe internal and external injuries. He was picked up by some spectators, bleeding freely from the mouth, and immediately rushed to hospital in a motor car, which fortunately happened along at the time, the injured man being brought from the place where he fell to the car on a long board, as he could not be lifted, owing to the intense pain from which he was suffering. The accident happened through the breaking of one of the tackles holding the ladder. The other occupant of the scaffold, when the rope broke, held on like grim death to the other fall, thus saving himself from being precipitated to the ground, being afterwards safely lowered to terra firma. Dr. Anderson was summoned to attend Mr. Pippy and upon his instructions the latter was rushed to the hospital. We trust that the injuries are not so serious as anticipated.

Admiralty Court.

Schr. Lady St. John vs. Schr. Harold Conrad.
Mr. S. J. Foote appeared on behalf of the Lady St. John, and Mr. J. W. McNelly for the Conrad. This is an action for damages in a recent collision off Cape Race. No damages are assessed in the suit. Only one witness, the lookout man on the Lady St. John, had been examined up to recess hour.

Masters and Mates.

This forenoon a delegation from the Masters and Mates had an interview with the Minister of Marine and Fisheries, re regulations governing the granting of certificates. The delegates report that they are in perfect harmony with the intentions of Hon. Mr. Coaker and the interview was in every way satisfactory. The delegation will report to the Association in a day or two.

Interest in Press Race.

There is great interest manifested by all classes as to the result of the Press Race on Regatta Day. Of course that means as to who will take second place. As far as the Telegram is concerned we are perfectly impartial, and will readily extend the hand of congratulation to the crew of whichever of our contemporaries coming in next to the first boat. Our well-known humility prevents our naming the victors. But they are stalwarts, so say they all.

Labrador Report.

Holton—Fresh west winds, cloudy; no ice; poor fishing.
Grady—Calm and clear; good fishing.
Flat Islands—Light west winds and clear; fish plentiful.
Domino—Light S.W. wind and clear weather; good fishing.
Venison Island—Calm weather with fog banks distant.
Battle Hr.—Clear weather; no fish.

Refused Permission.

We understand that the proposition of the storekeepers on Water Street to undertake the sprinkling of that thoroughfare, and for which funds were collected by Mr. W. A. McKay, has been knocked in the head, the Council having refused permission to the promoters to use the water.

Police Court.

One drunk was remanded.
A schoolboy for the larceny of two tins of milk from Wood's Candy Store was fined $2 and for being implicated in the robbery of three watches, valued at $25, was fined $10. His companion, in both peculations, was fined $10 or 20 days.

Prospero's Passengers.

S.S. Prospero, Capt. Field, returned from the northward at 7 last evening, having made one of the quickest round trips on record. From Pilley's Island to here the run was made in 42 hours. Fine weather was met the whole trip, permitting the ship to run night and day. The Prospero brought a small quantity of freight and the following passengers: Messrs. Purcell, Parnell, Doran, Knight, Hall, White, Holwell, Pearce, Cook, Payne, Burnell, Tuffin, Jones, Waterman, Hann, Lane, Russell, King, McGrath, Murrell; Messdames Foley and child, Mercer and two children, Martin, Small, Squires, Reese, Howse, Mullett and three children, Walker, Collins, White; Misses McGuire, Manuel, Hall, Oake, Porter, White, Miller, Hiccock, Brown and 30 in steerage.

Inland Fishing.

The following reports have been received by the Inland Fisheries Board for the week ending July 24th:—
Harry's River—84 salmon for 12 rods, heaviest 22 lbs.
Humber River—H. R. Bristol, New York, finished fishing with 63 salmon, heaviest 7 lbs.
Gander River—42 fish for 10 rods.
Inspector O'Reilly and party took 75 fish from Cape Rodger River, and G. Bartlett and party, Burin, took 25.
S. E. Placentia—86 fish taken.
Salmonier River—290 fish taken.
N. W. Trepassy—185 fish taken.
All rivers teeming with fish and in good condition.
Poaching is being carried on, and nets and ladders have been seized by Wardens and offenders are being proceeded against.

Opening of Dominion Cafe.

UP-TO-DATE RESTAURANT.
Some fifty guests sat down to dinner yesterday at the opening of the Dominion Cafe, 318 Water Street, and were treated in a right royal manner, and to a most bountiful repast, which speaks well for the management. The guests were representative city people, and they expressed their appreciation of the advance in our city life which this cafe represents, and they all wished the proprietors, Messrs. Kim Lee & Co., Ltd., much success. On behalf of the proprietors, Mr. A. W. Martin read a letter from the Premier, Hon. R. A. Squires, who regretted his inability to be present, but wished the cafe a prosperous career. Mr. Martin, himself spoke highly of the proprietors, and of his acquaintance with them since their arrival in the city some twenty-five years ago, and he felt sure that the same honest dealing which had marked their career in the past, would be continued in this their new departure. Hon. John Anderson then gave a short speech, and was very enthusiastic in his good words for the venture. Among other words he said a few words were Mr. I. C. Morris, Hon. W. J. Higgins, Rev. Dr. Fenwick, Hon. H. J. Brownrigg, Mr. Howley, K.C., Mr. C. J. Fox, Mr. J. C. Puddester, and Mr. Berteau, Auditor General. The Telegram is always pleased to see the city advancing, and it trusts that the new cafe will fulfill all that its friends expect of it, and it wishes its proprietors a worthy share of public patronage.
A very elaborate menu had been prepared, under the capable direction of Morley Sou, who has been chef in restaurants at Vancouver, B.C., and Ottawa, Ont., acquiring a high reputation at both cities. The serving at the Dominion Cafe will be done by young Chinamen, the only lady help employed being at the cash register and ice cream counter.
Many letters expressing regret at not being able to attend the luncheon were sent the management, all, however, wishing the new venture the very best of success. A number of ladies added that variety which the presence of the fair sex gives to such functions. Some of them occupied tables in the main dining room; others being seated in the private dining room off the stair landing.
The guests included Hon. John Anderson, M.L.C., Isaac Morris, Esq., Rev. Dr. Fenwick, President of Methodist Conference, Hon. H. J. Brownrigg, W. J. Higgins, Esq., K.C., F. O. Berteau, Esq., Auditor General, W. R. Howley, Esq., K.C., Cyril J. Fox, Esq., M.H.A., Messrs. Steer, Goodridge, Hamlin, W. L. Donnelly, G.W. Lewis, Messrs. Shannahan and Tucker

ON THE SIGNS OF THE TIMES.

Well, says Tucker, 'tis a good thing that George Washington told the truth, and refused to tell a lie, for, we can have it to say when we are dying that we heard of one man in our time who was not a provaricator. Telling the truth used to be the rule around here, so they tell us, in the "good old days" when our grandmothers wore hoop skirts, and our grandfathers went all the way to the graveyard with the corpse. But later on people began to find out that those who persisted in telling the truth, were as a rule, never very wealthy. And while in the olden times truth telling and honesty was valued higher than the possession of a six cylinder automobile, the modern idea of respectability is, that you tell what suits, and make as big a show as possible. In the olden times good solid honest men were contented with their lot, their wives were contented also, but to-day contentment is out of the question, for every one has the desire to surpass his fellowman in gaudy grandeur, and this desire on the man's part, is intensified by the harping and nagging of his wife, who never lets a day pass without pointing out to her husband that his associates are accumulating more "spendolles," and to use her influence to spur him on to do more grabbing of wealth so as she can lord it over her acquaintances. Once a year when the Religious Revival hits the community the greedy tribe get down on their knees and appear to be turning over a new leaf, but this happens at a season of the year when the thermometer is down to about ten below zero, and all the automobiles are stalled. Later on when the springtime arrives they get up from the penitential stool, flit the wheel of their auto, and start out at the mad pace that was in vogue ere the Religious Revival struck the town. After three or four experiences of this kind people look upon Revivals as a first class way of putting in the time to pass a dull winter, especially if the clergymen who conduct the Revivals are good fluent preachers with a goodly share of spice in their preaching. No one expects that the sack cloth robe is going to be worn all summer. The summer time, in the modern times is not looked upon as a time for pounding your breast, rather is it the season for letting her go for what she's worth. And the man who does not join in the gaiety, and act the buffoon, is looked upon as a slow being, totally out of date, a curiosity that should be placed in the Museum. This is the trend of the times, says Tucker, and it remains to be seen how long it will last. One thing is plainly evident, and that is, that the old idea of straightforwardness is gradually becoming a thing of the past, and if matters are allowed to be sanctioned, that should be condemned by those whose duty it is to pour forth their condemnation, we will soon reach the stage when the few honest people who are left will tire of walking along the narrow path and branch off on the vile road that leads to a "good time" no matter who pays the piper. Hypocrites are right here in this town in galore, and so accustomed are we to meeting them, that we are now beginning to have our doubts of honest men.

Peculiar Marks on Young Monk.

Rome, July 24.—(Cross Atlantic Cable)—All Italy is talking of the friar of Foggia, a young Franciscan of thirty, whose monastical mountain fastness has become the Messa of peasant and student alike.

Extraordinary scenes are being witnessed in Foggia from day to day. The peasants refuse to confess to any but the young friar, or to receive Communion from another's hand, and in consequence the rest of the monastery is idle while long queues besiege the young Franciscan and gaze in wonder at the markings on his hands, sandalled feet, and head.

These markings have been medically authenticated as white electrodes, and they are said to correspond minutely to the markings left upon the Crucified One of Nazareth. One other, it is recalled, bore similar markings—St. Francis of Assisi.

That the young friar of Foggia is so marked, even to the cicatrix in the side, seems to be generally accepted as the fact.

Distances in Turkey.

In Constantinople you ask "How far is it to the consulate?" and they answer "About ten minutes." "How far is it to Lloyd George's agency?" "Quarter of an hour." "How far to the lower bridge?" "Four minutes. I cannot be positive about it," writes a correspondent, "but I think that there, when a man orders a pair of pantaloons, he says he wants them a quarter of a minute in the legs and nine seconds around the waist."

Nothing But the Truth—Without Fear or Favour.

Results C. of E. Orphanage Prelims.
(1st Game)
Cubs 3 2 0 4 1-10
Wanderers 0 0 1 0 0-1
(2nd Game)
Lions 0 0 0 4 0-4
B. I. S. 0 0 0 1 0-1

Hardly recovered from their sand-bagging at Mount Cashel, the Cubs again attacked the Wanderers last night in the C. of E. Orphanage prelims, and made them bite the dust to the score of 10 runs to 1.

A fairly large gathering of fans attended the obsequies, and saw Claude mow down batter after batter.

The Smith crew did not come to life until the third when Britt brought across their one and only. After this they retired once more to their shells.

The Wanderers certainly missed Andy Clouston on first, as his substitute—Orley—was in poor shape; 2 of the Cubs' runs in the first inning was due to a wild throw of his to the plate.

Duggan had a nice double-play to his credit in the second.

Claude made another famous attempt to beat the pitcher's throw and get home, but we fear Bat is no Donald McColl, and he perished miserably.

Then Dillon emulated him but got trapped.

In the fourth the Cubs broke Kid Donnelly's heart, and batted him all around the lot.

The most spectacular play for the evening was Freddie Phelan's really professional running catch of Robbie's long fly to centre field.

The great Bat himself undertook the coaching of his team last night, and a general improvement was noted all round.

There's no doubt about it the Wanderers' outfield like to take them on the first hop.

In their clash with the Lions, the B.I.S. surprised everybody by their exhibition up to the fourth inning, with no score for either side, but the inevitable happened and up they went.

Before they returned to terra firma the crafty Hiltzies had pushed four tallies across the plate.

The Irish had chances to score in the second and third with men on the bags, but the batters couldn't bring them in against Walter Callahan.

Chief Chessman reversed Tim's decision last night when the latter called a runner safe on third. 'Ata boy, Fred!

Doc. Power beamed his mechanical assistant with a foul ball last night. Should show more consideration for the staff, Doc.

CENSURED HOSPITAL AUTHORITY.
TORONTO, July 29.
A corners jury censured the Toronto General Hospital last night, and recommended that arrangements for the care of the general public be investigated, following an inquest into the death of Tu Wing, a Chinaman.

REFUSED TO GIVE FIGURES.
SARNIA, July 29.
Customs officials in charge of exports here, refused last night to give the figures of sugar shipments to the U.S. "That's Government property," was the only comment. Another source states that large shipments are going into U.S. from here as one days shipment is said to be five hundred and twenty tons.

MORE LEGISLATION.
LONDON, July 29.
A bill, to deal with disorders in Ireland, will be introduced next week in the House of Commons, and passed in all its stages, according to an announcement by Bonar Law, Government Leader in the House, to-day. Premier Lloyd George to-day received a large deputation of members of both Houses of Parliament on the subject of Ireland. The Premier advised the deputation to await the introduction of the new bill embodying the proposals of Sir Hamar Greenwood, Chief Secretary for Ireland, for dealing with the disorders. He said its provisions would be found to be very drastic, and great hopes are entertained that they will succeed in coping with the situation.

RAILWAYMEN CLAIM A WIN.
DUBLIN, July 29.
Irish railwaymen, who have dislocated traffic in various parts of the country, thereby causing a serious food shortage in some places, by refusing to handle trains carrying munitions and armed guards, claim to have won at least a partial victory over the Government, as evidenced by a communication from the military authorities to the railway managers. It is announced that military guards henceforth will not be furnished for goods sent by rail, and that owing to the state of the country, it is not at present proposed to use railways for the transportation of munitions. This apparently ends the railway difficulty, so far as concerns freight trains, but passenger traffic is still liable to obstruction by the refusal of railwaymen to carry armed police or soldiers as passengers.

BELGIAN SOLDIERS DEMONSTRATE.
BRUSSELS, July 29.
Thousands of soldiers assembled outside the Chamber of Deputies to-day, to demonstrate dissatisfaction with the Government's treatment of former soldiers, who demand that a lump sum be paid every man who served in the war. A body of soldiers broke the police cordon, and invaded the Chamber, disregarding Burgomaster Max's appeals. Eventually they were persuaded to leave peacefully. While in the Chamber the soldiers broke doors and windows and hurled ushers aside. The men then marched through the Chamber with banners, while the astonished Deputies sat powerless to quell them.

WHIPPED THE TURKS.
SMYRNA, July 29.
Turkish Nationalists attempted a concentration east of Brussa, beyond the Greek zone of occupation, according to an official statement from army headquarters to-day. The commander of Brussa troops statement said, "Attacked and destroyed enemy, killing seventy and taking thirty prisoners, besides capturing machine guns, munitions and flag."

POLES AGREE TO ARMISTICE.
WARSAW, July 29.
The Polish Committee of National Defence sent a wireless message to the Soviet supreme command on July 27, stating that it would send delegates on July 30, with full power to negotiate an armistice. The message informed the Soviet command that the delegates would appear at eight o'clock on the road between Brast-Litovsk and Baranovitch, and the time and place was requested where they would meet an advance post of the Soviet.

Obituary.

AIDAN O'DRISCOLL.
We learn with regret of the sudden passing of Mr. Aidan O'Driscoll, of Witley Bay, this morning. Deceased was a brother of the Rev. S. O'Driscoll, P.P., St. Mary's, and the late P. C. O'Driscoll, of this city. Mr. O'Driscoll's death was quite unexpected as he had been in perfect health and only a week ago was in St. John's. He leaves a wife, (nee Miss McNamara), four nephews, Messrs. John and Joseph O'Driscoll, of P. C. O'Driscoll, Ltd., Stephen, with the A.N.D. Co., at Grand Falls, all sons of the late P. C. O'Driscoll; Patrick, son of the late Thomas O'Driscoll, of the Imperial Life Insurance Co.'s staff, and many other relatives to mourn their loss. The late Aidan O'Driscoll possessed many of the characteristics which made for that sturdy type of Newfoundlander, so rapidly passing away, and those who knew him recognized his sterling worth and true manliness. To the relatives the Telegram extends sincere sympathy.

Bandmaster Bulley's Protest.

LETTER TO CIVIC SECRETARY.

July 30th, 1920.
Mr. J. L. Slattery, Secty-Treas., St. John's Municipal Council.
Dear Sir,—At the request of the Acting Secretary Treasurer, Mr. Mahoney, we were ordered to send a Representative to the Council Office on Tuesday, June 22nd, at 3 o'clock to discuss the matter of nights to hold Band Concerts in the Parks, as owing to the fact that the C.L.B. Band were asking for the same night (Tuesday) for which night we were the first to apply, and I may now state here, for the information of the Public that this whole idea of Band Concerts originated from us, and we naturally thought that we should get the preference of nights at the least. However, to make a long story short, we sent a Representative, and the matter was thrashed out, we holding as stated before, we were entitled to the nights asked for, Tuesday and Thursday in Bannerman Park, and Friday in Victoria. However, as the C.L.B. Bandmaster stated he wanted to hold ONE Concert night per week in Bannerman Park only, as he was expecting to hold Concerts in Bowring Park, and one night was sufficient, and should that one night (Tuesday) be unfavorable they would not hold another Concert until the following Tuesday, and of course we agreed to forego Tuesday night and take Monday, as we were not anxious to be arbitrary on the matter, when they only wanted the one night.

To our surprise on reading this Morning's News we find the C.L.B. Band advertised for Bannerman Park to-night, in spite of the fact that the C.C.C. Band are holding theirs to-night also at the Lake Side, and this fact was advertised in yesterday's papers. We therefore protest against the C.L.B. holding a Band Concert in either of the Parks to-night, and would request you to write the C.L.B. Bandmaster to be kind enough to carry out his agreement made in the Council Office on June 22nd, last, with our Representative. He appears to be quite unfamiliar with the ordinary rules of musical etiquette. Yours very truly,
A. R. BULLEY,
Bandmaster, Band C.C.C.

Strange Marriage Customs.

A very odd marriage ceremony takes place in Afghanistan just after one of Afghanistan's brown daughters weds. Then a number of men in weird masks surround the bridegroom's house, and after that a dozen or so men clad in black, with skeletons outlined on their skin-tight garb, dance frantically round the figure of a woman stretched on the ground. This is to teach the bride what will happen to her if she seeks amities or does not conduct herself with proper decorum towards her husband's mother; what will happen to her if she does not conduct herself with proper decorum towards her husband they indicate will be far worse. This is the naive Afghan manner of teaching women their proper places and making them properly humble.

Too Honest.

Strenuous police duties have not killed General Horwood's sense of humour. The new commissioner of Police is fond of this story: A tourist in Ireland indignantly approached the landlord of an inn one morning. "Look here; what does this mean?" he said. "I left my boots out last night, and they haven't been touched." "True for you, sir," replied the landlord, proudly; "an' besorra, if you'd left your gold watch and chain out, div'l a sow! would have touched it."

The Founder of Pennsylvania.

On July 30, 1718, when seventy-three years of age, William Penn, died in Rusecombe, Berkshire, and having since 1667 been a Quaker, or member of the Society of Friends, he was buried, as were his wife and five children, in the meeting-house of that religious body, called "Jordans," in Chelmsford, St. Giles, Buckinghamshire. The fact is opposed to all fighting, and it is therefore strange that a Naval Officer should have been followed by the son of Sir William Penn, who became a distinguished admiral and general. He may have obtained some knowledge of America by his father, arriving of his Atlantic coast. This in became an undergraduate at Christ Church, Oxford, but was expelled for Nonconformity. In his celebrated book, "Sandy Foundation Shaken," he attacked all creeds, confessions of faith old or new, by which he displeased his father, who however forgave him, and in 1670 bequeathed to him £1,500 a year. In 1682 Penn had obtained from Charles the Second by letters patent, territory which has since been called Pennsylvania, meaning "Pen's Wood," "Forest," and he received it as a refuge for people from religious persecution. Penn was constituted its legislator and governor, and twice visited it. Its population by 1910 numbered 7,655,111, and made it the largest all in the United States of America, except New York itself, although its area is only 45,128 square miles. It is on the west side of the river Delaware, and in 1682 Penn founded in the new Colony the capital city, Philadelphia, a name that means "Love of children," according to its Greek origin, and is mentioned in the Bible that of one in Asia Minor, with a good reputation. (Rev. iii. 7-12). But whereas he always sought the welfare of others, his own last years were full of care and trouble, through being burdened with debt. He fell into melancholy "second childhood," and died. His most celebrated work is "No Cross, no Crown."

Hr. Grace Notes.

The French steam trawler "Maris Stella," Capt. LeFaucheur, which arrived here a week or more ago to undergo repairs, after having gone on dock and repairs effected, left port on Tuesday morning last.

The ladies of the Methodist Church held a garden party on the picturesque grounds of Donnelly Hall yesterday (Wednesday), which turned out to be a great success, the day being a very fine one. A number of visitors from the nearby towns were present to partake of the good things which the ladies had to offer, as well as to enjoy the "Airs" rendered from time to time by the British band, which was in attendance all through the afternoon and evening. The affair was brought to a close at 10.30, and all who attended could not but feel Wednesday was a well-spent holiday. The sum of $340 was realized.

Mrs. James Sweetland and five children leave to-day for Sydney, where the family will make their home, her husband having secured permanent work there.

The ship, "Alca," and the s.s. "Wren" are on dock undergoing repairs.

Mrs. W. J. E. Simmons and baby girl, Phyllis, arrived by Wednesday night's train to spend a couple of weeks as the guests of Mrs. Hugh Simmons and family, Woodville Road.

Strawberries were selling in town last week for $2.00 per gallon. Some price. Considering the price of sugar is so steep, most of the housekeepers will have to call a halt on the jam.

Vice Regal Visit.

His Excellency Sir C. Alexander Harris, K.C.M.G., Governor of Newfoundland, arrived at Curling on Monday afternoon, on board H.M.S. Calcutta, after having toured the Eastern and Northern portions of the Island. Shortly after arrival His Excellency the Duke of Devonshire, Governor-General of Canada, who is on a fishing trip to this coast, on board the yacht Hochelega, which visit was later returned. Yesterday afternoon two investitures were made at the Government grounds. These were O.B.E. to Magistrate Richard MacDonnell, of St. George's, and an Imperial Service Order Medal to ex-District Inspector Bartlett, of the Constabulary. An opportunity was then afforded the public to meet the Governor. This was followed by a very able address by His Excellency the Governor, taking as his main subject the project of the proposed hospital for the West Coast. Later His Excellency was pleased to meet the Hospital Committee. We regret that owing to the necessity of going to press in order to catch the mails—we are unable to give a more detailed account.—Western Star.

Did Not See How He Could Pull Through But Tanlac Put Him On His Feet.

"Last fall I didn't see how I could hardly go through the winter, but that was before I got Tanlac, and the medicine has since put me in such fine condition that I'm feeling almost like a young man again," said Patrick Connell, of 35 Victoria Street, St. John's, Nfld.

"During the past eight years, before I got Tanlac, I don't remember a single day that I was free from aches or pains. My shoulders hurt me terribly and got so stiff I couldn't even raise my hands to my head. My appetite was so poor I didn't relish a thing I ate, and I didn't know what it was to be hungry. I was very easy to take severe colds and they would make me so hoarse I couldn't speak above a whisper. My whole system was in a terrible run-down condition, and I simply felt miserable.

"Well, it was a lucky day for me when I started on Tanlac, for that's what rid me of my troubles and put me in good health again. Why, my shoulders are entirely free from pain, and I can now use them as good as I ever could. My appetite is so big, I can hardly satisfy it, and everything agrees with me perfectly. I don't have those awful colds like I used to, and am feeling like an entirely different person. Tanlac has simply done me a world of good, and I've never seen anything to equal it during the sixty-eight years of my life."

Tanlac is sold in St. John's by M. Connors; by Reg. Sullivan, Pouch Cove; Sound Island Store, Sound Island; Dennis Flynn, Avondale; J. J. O'Brien, Cape Broyle; J. W. Smith, Baine Harbor; W. A. Burdock, Belleoram; John Morey, Fermeuse; Mrs. Jos. Quinn, Renewa.—adv't.

Allan McIsaac landed a 20 lb. salmon from the Highland River on Monday, the 26th inst., and the stream is now in good condition for fishermen.

Guide Allan McIsaac, of Crabbes Station, informs us that Mr. Butler of Montreal, caught a 20 pound salmon in the Dump Pool on Harry's River on Thursday, and this sportsman and his companion who, by the way, had a private car of their own, captured six fish on this date, their weight being respectively twenty, ten and eight pounds, also three grilse.

Mr. and Mrs. Northrop, who were to Serpentine River salmon fishing, returned to Curling by motor boat on Saturday. They found the river in poor condition for fishing when they first went there, but was much improved before they left. They caught several salmon, the heaviest weighing 15 lbs., and some fine sea trout, many of them weighing from four to five pounds each.

Some of the amateurs who entered last week have, it is reported backed out, having got "triggered" pedal exercises. Their places will no doubt be taken by others.

The dump at the head of the Lake should have got another coat of disinfectant. It is said that "whitewash" has gotten very scarce and dear recently.

Obituary.

MR. JOHN CARROLL.

Slowly, but surely, the patriarchs of the West End are passing from amongst us, the last of them being Mr. John Carroll, a prominent, well-known and respected citizen of this city. By the demise of this veteran, another landmark has been removed. He was a man of very considerable intellectual powers, was looked upon as an encyclopedia on local events and happenings during the past three-quarters of a century, and was looked up to as the Nestor of our population in the western portion of St. John's. He had attained the advanced age of 84 years, which were spent in his native town in which he was always held in the highest respect and esteem by all classes of the community. His chief delight was to relate the stories and legends of his country, and his descriptive powers were such as always held his hearers in rapt attention. His life was most exemplary, and his death was such as is always to be found in a good and practical Catholic, who, fortified with all the rites of Mother Church, is always resigned to the Will of God. Thus he passed away to his reward surrounded by his children and friends. The deceased has left one son, our eminent and cultured poet, and decorator in Church work, etc., and decorator in Church work, etc., and Mrs. Dan Carroll—three daughters, Mrs. Rupert Williams of Bay Bulls and Misses Lizette and Polly of this city, to whom the Telegram extends its sincere condolences in their bereavement. The Carroll family have been noted for their longevity—the grand-father of the deceased having attained the great age of 105 years at the time of his death. They have resided in the neighborhood of the historic Carroll's Well, near the West End Fire Hall, for six generations, and are undoubtedly one of the oldest, if not the oldest families, in the West End.—Requiescat in pace.

Stop watches in the stores have been nearly all bought up.

There will be four boats in the Fishermen's Race and four in all the other races, except one.

Don't forget that the positions at the stakes will be drawn to-night at the last Committee meeting. All cockswains must be present.

The Torbay fishermen in the Cadet had their first practice yesterday. The use of motor engines in the boats seems no far not to have atrophied their muscles.

H.M.S. Briton's crew were out for a trial yesterday also. They will no doubt give a good account of themselves on Wednesday.

It is said that the Star Football crew covered the course in 10.40 last night in the "Shamrock." Betting sports are always suspicious of reports like this and we don't expect them to take it down.

Some of the amateurs who entered last week have, it is reported backed out, having got "triggered" pedal exercises. Their places will no doubt be taken by others.

The dump at the head of the Lake should have got another coat of disinfectant. It is said that "whitewash" has gotten very scarce and dear recently.

The Laborers Race will be a close contest this year. All the crews are able men.

Pleasure boats should keep off the Lake and allow the crews a free course to practice.

An old Regatta sport who read our comment of yesterday on departed friends who figured prominently in former Regattas, said the half has not been told. Here is the list of twenty-seven 1898 Committee men of whom all are gone except five: R. L. Mara, J. J. Callahan, M. A. Devine, Capt. Perez, John Burke, Edward Shea, John Bowring, Sam Boons, F. J. Barnes, Hon. J. Harris, A. Von Stein, John Connors, M. W. Furlong, T. J. Greens, Jas. O'Neil, J. J. Bates, A. A. McCoubrey, J. R. McCowen, J. L. O'Dwyer. The survivors are Arthur Hiscok, Thos. Connors, Frank Morris, F. J. O'Neil and T. J. Murphy.

CONCERT AT LAKE SIDE.—The C.C.C. Band will give a concert tonight at the Lake Side commencing at 8.15. A splendid programme has been prepared and will no doubt please the large gathering who go to the course every evening.

Liquid or Plaster

They end corns now in this scientific way

People who know—millions of them—now end all corns in this way.

They apply Blue-jay, either in liquid or in plaster form. It means but a touch and takes but a jiffy.

The corn pain stops. Then the Blue-jay gently undermines the corn so it loosens and comes out.

The modern way

Blue-jay was invented by a chemist who studied corns.

It is made by a laboratory of world-wide repute.

Old-time treatments were harsh and inefficient. Blue-jay is gentle, quick and sure.

Now all corns are needless. All these pains can be avoided. To let corns remain while you perspire and pad them is folly.

You can stop a corn ache the moment it appears. You can end a corn completely before it can develop.

Blue-jay has proved these facts to millions. It will prove them to you—and tonight—if you let it.

Quit the old methods of dealing with corns and see what this new way means. Your druggist sells Blue-jay.

Upon the recommendation of the Food Control Board, and under the provisions of the Food Control Act, 1917, and the War Measures Act, 1914-1918, His Excellency the Governor in Council has been pleased to approve the following Regulations regarding the sale of Sugar:

1. The wholesale price of sugar when sold by the importer shall not exceed Twenty-seven and three-quarter cents per pound, when it is a cash transaction.

2. When sugar is sold by jobbers, the price shall not be in excess of Twenty-eight and three-quarter cents per pound, when it is a cash transaction.

3. For purpose of this Regulation, Twenty-five lbs. or over shall constitute and be deemed a wholesale transaction, and must be taken delivery of at one time. Any less quantity than above, sold in original package, shall constitute a jobbing transaction. A barrel shall be sold to contain not less than three hundred pounds.

4. From and after this date the retail price of white granulated sugar within the Municipal limits of the town of St. John's shall not exceed thirty-one cents per pound, and in the Outports thirty-one cents per pound, plus transportation, insurance and other charges.

5. Any person who shall offer for sale, or shall sell any sugar at a greater price than that fixed in above Regulations, shall be guilty of a breach thereof.

6. All foregoing prices are for cash sales.

7. No dealer shall refuse a tender of cash when a purchase is made.

8. Any person violating any of the provisions of these Regulations shall be guilty of an offence and liable upon summary conviction before a Magistrate or Justice of the Peace, to a penalty not exceeding one thousand dollars, or to imprisonment for a period not exceeding three months, or to both fine and imprisonment. One-half of the fine shall be paid to the informer and the balance to the Food Control Board, for the benefit of the Dominion.

9. No sugar shall be imported into Newfoundland unless a permit to do so shall have been obtained beforehand from the Food Control Board.

10. These Regulations shall be, and come into effect on the Twenty-seventh of July, 1920.

11. The Regulations published in the Royal Gazette on June 15th, 1920, are hereby cancelled.

Four Fingers Taken Off.

On Friday evening, July 23, Sydney, the nineteen year old son of Albert Brake of Meadows, met with a very bad accident. He was operating his saw mill, when one of his hands got caught in the haul up cable, resulting in the complete severing of the four fingers of the left hand at the middle joint, and other injuries. Dr. Fisher was called and attended to the injured members.—Western Star.

Masters and Mates Meet.

The masters and mates held a largely attended meeting last night in King George the Fifth Institute, when the matter of certificates came up for discussion. A deputation consisting of Captains Marshall, Carter, Miller, Roberts and Williams was appointed to interview Minister of Marine Coaker with regard to the conditions under which certificates are to be granted.

Forest Fire Near Beaver Pond.

It was reported to the police last evening that a forest fire was burning in the vicinity of Beaver Pond, off the Blackhead Road. Sergeant Savage with a squad of police and some civilians proceeded to the scene and after a hard fight succeeded in putting out the blaze. Had there been a high wind a lot of valuable timber and several houses would probably have been destroyed. The fire was evidently started by some careless trout.

The One Essential.

We hear a lot about altering the Divorce Laws, but let us hope it won't be made as easy as it is in one American state, where a man went to consult a lawyer about his wife.

"I want to find out if I have grounds for a divorce," he said.

"Are you married?" the lawyer asked.

"Why, yes, of course!" responded the client.

"Then you have grounds," said the attorney.

Praise for Capt. Tavernor.

Old-timers who witnessed the docking of the steamer Kyle this morning by Captain Tavernor, who is relieving Capt. Stevenson, recalled the words of the veteran Capt. Spracklin, now ship's husband for the Reid fleet, when he said: "I care not who the man is, no one can pull his craft more snugly up in the terminus than myself, with perhaps one exception. Ben Tavernor." From the moment Capt. Tavernor changed the Kyle's course the terminus this morning until she was tied up at the pier, scarcely three minutes had elapsed. It was one of the cleverest feats in docking ever seen in the days of Captains Delaney and Spracklin.—North Sydney Herald, July 22.

Spectacular Fire at North Sydney.

Warehouse of Farquhar & Co., Destroyed.
North Sydney, July 26.—In the early evening hours of Sunday, Farquhar & Co.'s big three-story warehouse, a building 40 by 100 was totally destroyed by fire, and the loss in building and goods will amount to about sixty thousand dollars.
About ten minutes to six Special Officer Richard Yorke, who was standing on Vooght's wharf, noticed smoke issuing from the big warehouse. He promptly gave the alarm and the fire department was on the job in jig time and quickly had five streams of water playing on the burning building, but so rapidly and fiercely did the flames continue their work that the saving of the building was an utter impossibility. The evening was calm. With wind blowing strongly toward the heart of the town nothing could have saved many adjacent buildings. The banks are in this part of the town. In this case the firemen kept the flames confined to the building in which they started. Tremendous volumes of smoke poured from the doomed building, and after a time the bursting of casks added to other exciting features of the conflagration.
Willing workers took out office supplies, papers, etc. The end of the building, occupied by Marden, Orth and Hastings as an oil buying plant, had about thirty casks or more of oil stored, most of which came up recently from Newfoundland. General stocks in this regard are low at this part of the season. This was all removed but about ten casks, which were soon devoured by the flames. Kellys had a large quantity of oil and paints in an adjoining building. These were removed, but for a time it seemed as if the flames might destroy the shed, as well as Thomas McDonald's blacksmith shop, just between the former building and Farquhar's warehouse. The French trawler 'Asie Grey' at Farquhar's wharf, pulled out from the danger zone.
Farquhar's had stored in their building about five cars of flour and feed, besides quantities of other goods. All this was totally destroyed and the loss involved would be somewhere around $30,000. Marden, Orth and Hastings, of course, lost all their plant, besides over ten casks of oil and other sundries.
Losses all told will amount to about sixty thousand dollars. In general fairly well covered with insurance. Besides monetary losses, the firms concerned will suffer considerably from dislocation of business and difficulties incident to getting new quarters.

The origin of the fire is as yet unknown, and there appears to be difference of opinion even among eye-witnesses as to what part of the building the flames started in. Yorke states that the fire started in the Marden, Orth and Hastings part, and that appears to be the consensus of opinion, though not a universal one. The spread was so rapid and accompanied, also, with a large quantity of smoke which issued from different parts of the structure, that eye-witnesses must differ somewhat. Mr. Dakin, who looks after Marden, Orth and Hastings' property, was in the building during the day for hours, and left at 4.15 to go down to Indian Beach. He states that the furnace was cold and nothing to indicate the least sign of anything wrong. When he returned to town the building was on fire and the oil casks and oil saturated parts of this end of the structure had fed the flame's ferocity.

The building itself, one of the oldest structures in the town, was built about 1864, and formed part of the Archibald estate, and was acquired by the Farquhars some years ago. Heavy timbers, much of which was pine, were used in construction and these again favored rapid combustion. There are left now only a few charred timbers to mark the site.

Lord Selkirk's Colony.

Thomas Douglas, Earl of Selkirk, known in Canadian history as the founder of the Red River Colony, was a member of the ancient Douglas family, renowned in Scottish song and story. At an early age Lord Selkirk displayed that broad humanitarian sympathy which characterized his whole life, and took an active interest in attempting to better the lot of the Highland poor who were suffering great hardships as a result of the Napoleonic wars. It is worth noting that Lord Selkirk was probably the first man of his age to conceive in outline, and even in some detail, a scheme of national defence that foreshadowed the territorial plan. This scheme, which he placed before the House of Lords in 1807, provided that every young man between the ages of eighteen and twenty-five years should be thoroughly trained as a soldier. Besides advocating his project in the House of Lords, the young Scottish peer published his ideas on this now important subject, and they stand to-day available as constituting a noteworthy document, the anticipation of a remarkable man who had the misfortune to live before his time. At length one problem gripped Lord Selkirk's imagination to the extent of all else and the promotion of emigration became the predominant interest of his life. To this cause he devoted his remaining years, his heart, his intellect, and his fortune, and the West can never repay the deep debt it owes to the man who after having lived as an apostle to a martyr to the cause of western settlement. It was through reading the "Voyages" of Sir Alexander Mackenzie, that the Scottish dreamer and philanthropist first learned of the vast tracts of fertile country "at the western extremity of Canada upon the waters which fall into Lake Winnipeg." But

Selkirk did more than dream. He was essentially one who made dreams come true, and when in 1802 the Government forbade the establishment of a colony on the Red river, he turned his attention to more accessible parts of Canada. Through his energetic assistance several hundred Scottish crofters, who had been driven from their clearances in the Old Land found new homes in Prince Edward Island and Ontario. But Selkirk never forgot the vision of a great western colony and by 1810 he had evolved a plan by which that vision was to become a reality. Aided by friends, he acquired control of £25,000 of stock in the Hudson Bay Company, and in the same year he had laid his plan before the directors. They were to give him a district of about 110,000 square miles, and he in return was to settle a large colony thereon, assuming all the cost of transportation, government and protection. Needless to say, Selkirk's plan met with strong opposition. But no amount of opposition could quell Lord Selkirk's enthusiasm, and on July, 1811, the first party, consisting of slightly over one hundred men and women set sail for the distant shores of Hudson Bay. There, under the leadership of Captain Miles Macdonell, the "little band" spent their first winter in Canada. In the following summer they reached their destination on the Red river, and the settlement of the west had begun. Other parties were sent out in 1813 and in 1814, and it soon became clear to the Northwest Company, that they must fight this Scottish philanthropist to a finish. "Lord Selkirk must be driven to abandon his project," for "his success would strike at the very existence of our trade," wrote one partner to another and steps were taken at once to prevent further settlement. More than a hundred of the Selkirk colonists were induced to settle in Ontario, and about a half hundred more were driven to the northern end of Lake Winnipeg. The colony appeared to be completely broken up, and great was the jubilation of the Northwest Company partners at their headquarters at Fort William. But Lord Selkirk was not to be defeated thus. He organized another party and placed at its head Robert Semple, a captain in the British army, who was to go out as governor. This company, known as the Kildonan group, had a quick voyage, and arrived on the Red river in the autumn of 1815. Through the disbanding of the De Meuron regiments at the close of the war of 1812-14, Lord Selkirk was able to secure one hundred of these ex-soldiers as military settlers. Lord Selkirk set out on his journey westward and at the Sault learned of the frightful tragedy of Seven Oaks where Governor Semple and twenty-one colonists had been slain. He hastened on to Fort William and placed the North West leaders under arrest, and sent them under guard to Montreal. The arrival of Lord Selkirk at Red river with a strong military force encouraged the colonists to return from Lake Winnipeg and his presence revived their hopes for a settlement of their dispute with the Northwest Company. With the courts and legislatures controlled in Lower Canada by the Northwestern and in Upper Canada by the family compact, Lord Selkirk had no chance whatever. He was forced to pay fines amounting to £2,000, and thoroughly disheartened and discouraged, he sailed for Europe in 1818, a broken-down and worn-out man. He died in the south of France two years later, "unwept, unhonored and unsung"—the pioneer empire-builder who spent himself and his fortune in his efforts to make a great dream come true.—W. Everard Edmondson in "Broad Horizons."

Speed of the Antelopes.

No one ever knew how fast an antelope could run. "Swifter than an antelope" was one of those comparisons used by poets that had no standing in sound statistical cities. But Roy Chapman Andrews, the well-known student of natural history, found this out after a two years' trip in the Mongolian desert, where he chased antelopes in a motor car that was bouncing over sandy wastes at the rate of sixty miles an hour. It was the first time, he said, that science ever had been able to apply a speedometer to the speed demons of the desert, which have long been famous as the most fleet-footed creatures that grow. "They ran so fast that we could not see their legs, any more than you can see the blades of an electric fan," says Mr. Andrews. "We found they would leg it at sixty miles and then slow down to forty or fifty. We chased an antelope one day for twenty minutes at an average rate of forty miles an hour, and then quit because he was so fagged surprised that anything on earth could keep up with him. When we reached him he was squatting flat on the sand waiting, not winking a particle. "The antelope's speed is his only protection from wolves in the open plains, so it can run practically from the moment it is born. We found a baby one day that could not have been more than two hours old. When it saw me it snapped off like a shot. I jumped on a horse and pursued. It was a bit wobbly at first, but finally got control of its legs, and I never did overtake it."

Another Pompeii.

During the war archaeological excavations were continued at the Italian colony of Cyrenaica on the North African coast, and now comes the news that what has been found already promises the uncovering of another ancient city as important as Pompeii. Once upon a time the spot was a Greek colony, with the civilization of Greece transplanted to the soil of Africa. The work has been carried on during the war under the supervision of Prof. Lucio Mariani, director of the archaeological services of the Ministry of the Colonies, and the prediction is now made that the newly discovered city will eventually prove actually richer than Pompeii in its evidences of a past civilization. Here have been already found statues of the Graces, a Hermes, an Eros, an Alexander the Great, and most impressive of all, the Aphrodite of Cyrene, which is said by certain connoisseurs to be a fair rival in beauty to the Venus of Milo and the Venus of Cnidus. The discoveries have extended over many years.

Rubies From Radium.

The field of radio-activity seems practically limitless. Both X-rays and radium have now been found by a professor to change the colour and add to the lustre of precious stones. While experimenting in his laboratory, the scientist to whom credit is due, found that a diamond ring near the apparatus glowed with added brilliancy in the darkness of the apartment, and shortly afterwards its colour turned to a brilliant green. This led to a further test of the gem itself. The rays from the diamond, when subjected to treatment, were dazzling, and its hue a lovely emerald—in fact, the stone was no longer a diamond but an emerald, and a particularly fine one, too. Subsequent trials with other stones brought further wonders to light. After prolonged treatment with radium, while faint sapphires are painted with the rich colours of the Oriental emerald.

A Bid Too Much.

A young man made the acquaintance of a charming girl at a smart seaside boarding-house. When at last they separated she gave him a very fashionable address. So the next day he was in town he wired to her to meet him for dinner. She turned up, looking smarter than ever, and after dinner they went to a theatre. A friend of his sat in a box, and the young man waved to him, but got a rather quizzical response. "What alls Topper?" he thought; and at the end of the act his question was answered. "Hallo, there!" Topper said, coming up to him in the lobby. "I don't mind your taking out my wife's maid, old man, but I wish to goodness you'd ask her to wear her own frocks!"

A Night on a Mountain Peak.

(A Boy Scout Story.)

A little Scottish boy once had a terrifying experience on a lonely mountain peak in lovely Arran.

Arran is one of the most beautiful islands on the west coast of Scotland. Its shores are a succession of bays with golden sands and rocky promontories. In many places the finely wooded hills descend quite near the shore, and everywhere there is an abundance of wild flowers, roses, honeysuckle, and irises.

Above the trees the mountains rise, ridge above ridge, to a great height, and the graceful and delicately coloured Peak of Goatfell towers above all, with deer feeding upon its slopes.

A rampart of dark rocky mountains, some distance from the top, seem to form a guard round it to defend it from intruders. These mountains are very rugged, with high precipices; they are cleft with deep gullies, and are considered unsafe for any but experienced mountaineers to climb. Mists and clouds which come down suddenly over the heights, and hide all landmarks, make another danger.

Silver streams pour over these dark rocks, and lower down more vegetation gradually appears. Rich greens of fern and grass and purples of foxgloves and heather mingle together; still further down the graceful birch-trees and dark alders fringe the banks of the rushing waters. Small streams unite and form a good-sized burn, which comes leaping over granite boulders into lovely Glen Sannox.

This glen is a little paradise for boys. So thought a scoutmaster when he fixed on it for a camping ground. His lads could have bathing, boating, fishing in the burns or the sea, and many other amusements. One thing only was forbidden, and that was to climb above a certain height, and this danger was explained to them.

The boys took full advantage of their opportunities, and all went well till the end of their holiday, when one of them, a lad of eight, wandered up the mountains beyond bounds.

As evening came on he began to think of his return to camp, but he discovered he had lost his way. In vain he searched for the path by which he had got to such a height. A steep precipice confronted him, and with difficulty he climbed down it till he reached an outstanding ledge. He looked over the brink, and saw a deep gully, which seemed bottomless, yawning beneath him.

Fear took hold of him as he remembered the many stories of people nearly losing their lives among these mountains, and he shouted for help.

For some time there was no answer to his calls; all he heard was the cries of the eagles and the echoes from the opposing cliffs. But at last a faint response reached him. Again and again he shouted, and the welcome answers came gradually nearer, till he heard voices from the top of the cliff. They had found him after many hours of patient searching.

The boy had been missed at the evening meal, and the scoutmaster, with a shepherd who knew the mountains, had gone in quest of him. They had had an anxious time till they had found him on one of the most dangerous places near Goatfell. Darkness had nearly overtaken them, and they could do nothing but lower some food and a plaid down by means of a rope.

They told him his situation was so dangerous that nothing could be done for him till daylight. They promised to return as early as possible, and he must lie still on the ledge and keep awake, for fear of falling over in his sleep.

That night there was little rest for the scoutmaster. At earliest dawn he and the shepherd started again, accompanied by the minister's son, a student home for the holidays, well known for his climbing feats. It was broad daylight by the time they reached the cliff and called the boy, and they were much relieved to hear his answer faintly wafted back, "All right!"

The student was lowered to the ledge and found the boy stiff and exhausted. He bound him securely with a rope, gave a signal to those above, and he was carefully hoisted to the top, his rescuer following, not without difficulty.

During the night the other boys had made a great bonfire below, which they hoped would be seen by their comrade, and cheer him. Great were the rejoicings in the camp when the rescue party returned. He was taken to the Manse, where he found a warm welcome, and was put to bed.

It was an alarming experience, but after a long sleep he wakened up, none the worse for his adventure. Indeed, he was spared to grow up from scout to soldier, distinguishing himself in the war some years later, and receiving a decoration for his bravery in the field.—My Magazine.

High Scoring in Cricket.

London, July 22.—Seven county cricket matches were productive of some big scores and fine individual performances with both bat and ball were seen. Rain interfered with the encounter at Derby, otherwise the pitches favored the batsmen. Kent's defeat of Yorkshire at Maidstone by 121 runs, and Sussex's peremptory dismissal of Lancashire at Eastbourne by an innings and 42 decidedly improved the championship position of Surrey, who themselves gained an easy win over Leicester by 10 wickets at the Oval.

In the low scoring match at Derby, Somerset beat the home side by five wickets, Robson taking 3 for 31 in the first innings, and 5 for 20 in the second. Warwick at home beat Gloucester by 6 wickets, the only redeeming feature in the latter's second innings being the mastery batting of Dipper, who carried his bat through for 120 out of 175. Howell, who in all took nine for 87, was the first bowler to gain his hundred wickets.

On the third day the pitch at Maidstone crumbled in places, and Yorkshire were faced with the task of getting 267 to win in three and a quarter hours. Only Denton seemed to be able to deal with the bowling effectively.

Russell's 197, the highest score in first-class cricket this year, was the outstanding feature of the Lord's match, which petered out somewhat tamely in a draw. Middlesex scored 447. Essex at one time looked like having to follow on. Subsequently there was a great stand by Russell and L. C. Eastman, a Leyton amateur, who, going in in the ninth scored 91.

Another fine performance was that of Robert Relf in his first appearance for Sussex this season. He scored 225 out of 478 against Lancashire, whose bowlers, however, were much below their usual standard. C. B. Fry reappeared for Hants at Southampton, but his side lost to Notts.

The Last Straw.

The path of a Parliamentary candidate is hard at times, but if he would be an M.P. he must stick it.

That was the policy of Brownjones when he contested a certain seat. Rebuffs left him unmoved. He simply smiled the more.

Until one day.

"Well, madam," he remarked to a lady, to whom he had been explaining his views on all sorts of matters, "I suppose I can count on you voting for me at the election?"

"Not at all," replied the good woman promptly. "I shall vote for the other candidate."

"But, madam, you say you have never seen him!" protested Brownjones, in angry surprise.

"And I haven't!" retorted the voter curtly. "But I have seen you!"

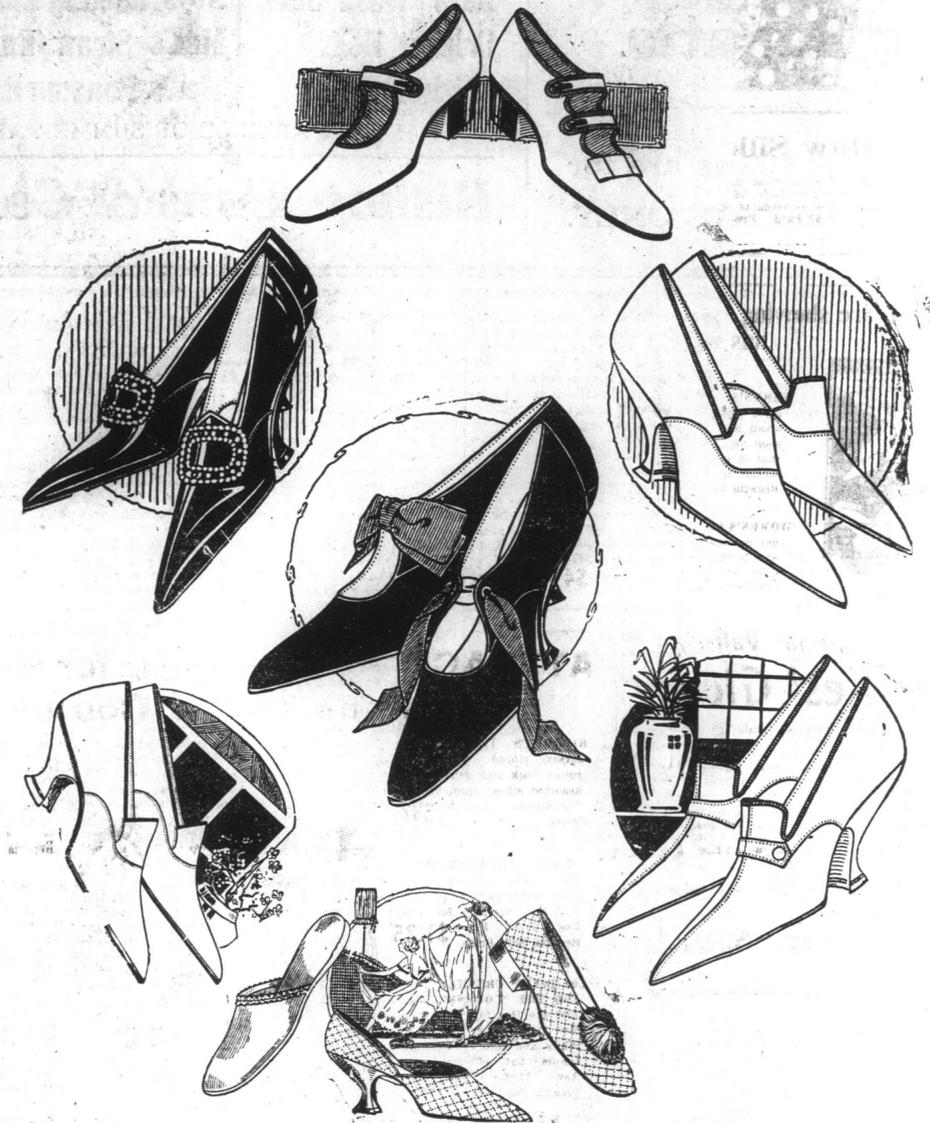

Drinks All Round.

Founder and head of the Church Army, Prebendary Carlile, who has just celebrated his golden wedding, is one of the most interesting and entertaining men I have ever met.

He once told me of an amusing incident which happened at one of his mission services.

"We had induced a man to leave the public-house at which he was a too frequent visitor and to follow our procession into the mission church," he said. "He was quite sober at the time, and was so impressed that he went down on his hands and knees and prayed. When conscious that all his sins were forgiven he became so jubilant that he offered to stand drinks all around."

Coffee Is Harmful to Growing Children and parents who permit its use sometimes have cause for regret.

With children in the family, and where the coffee flavor is liked, is generally accepted as the ideal table drink instead of coffee.

Instant Postum

All grocers sell Postum, and its pleasing flavor, combined with its advantages of quick making and economy, soon make it a home favorite.

What Is Wrong?

"In a little village in this country there are two churches," says the Lindsay, Ont. Post. "The total attendance on Sunday would not average one hundred people. Fifty years ago there were four churches in this village, and on Sunday every church was filled. Twenty years ago in Lindsay there was a far greater number of people attending church services than there are to-day. What is wrong? When the war was at its worst stage, when the ships were being sunk by the dozen every day, when the British, French, Canadian and Belgian armies were being driven back towards Paris and the Channel ports, it was quite common to hear people remark that this would be a different world to live in after the war. What do we see? Yes, but instead of getting better, it is gradually getting worse. Discontent, unrest, crime and vice are on the increase. Bolshevism, which is merely human nature asserting itself, is breaking out everywhere, and the end is not yet. The teachings of Christ are ignored. Prosperity and selfishness is dwarfing the soul. 'Ye would not come unto Me that ye might have life.'"

Mainly About People.

Lord Northcliffe, at a recent luncheon given to Dr. Chalmers Mitchell, the London Times' pilot, and his colleagues, said that the next war will be fought on land by tanks, accompanied by airplanes; at sea by submarines, also accompanied by airplanes.

Thomas A. Edison, who has patented hundreds of devices that the average man never even heard of, is said to consider the following as his most important inventions: Quadruple telegraph, incandescent light, phonograph, motion pictures, a telephone transmitter, an electric storage battery and an electric railway.

It is not generally known that, as a matter of precaution, King George's detective is in his entourage whenever His Majesty fulfils a social or state duty; but even he is recognizable by many—and, needless to say, he is quite unlike the popular conception of a detective.

Paderewski is no longer prime minister of Poland, to be sure; but he still has "a handle to his name." He is now Dr. Paderewski, having been given the degree of LL.D. at Oxford. At the same time and place a famous Greek statesman became Dr. Vassilios.

"If the Hall of Fame wants to be a famous institution, let it inscribe the name of Edwin Booth upon one of its bronze tablets; it can add nothing to his fame," said Julia Matlowe, placing her signature in the lead-off position on the statement urging the candidacy of Booth for a niche in the colonnade reserved for America's famous men.

"Lady Lightweight" is the title that has been bestowed upon herself by Vesta Tilley (Lady de Frece). Her age is fifty-six. "I keep fit," she remarked, "because I've no fads and few vices. An occasional cigarette and—very occasionally—a glass of wine. It is remarkable how well a simple-lifer keeps."

"Charlie" Schwab resembled Andrew Carnegie in his method of choosing his business partners in the Bethlehem Steel Works. He says: "When I took hold of Bethlehem the second time I selected 15 young men right out of the mill and made them my partners. Of the 15 I selected, not one has proved a failure. One of them, F. G. Grace, was a crane fellow at $75 a month. He is now earning five times as much as any other steel employee in the United States, and is several times a millionaire."

While Mayor Peters, of Boston, was absent in Maine recently on a little vacation, a well known city hall habitue entered the mayor's office and presented Assistant Secretary George Canty with a cow bell. He remarked that he wanted the bell sent to Mayor Peters so the latter could tie it on his wrist, thus providing some means of finding the mayor should the city's chief executive become lost. The donor explained that the use of the bell "might prevent a recurrence of the mayor's mishap last year when he became lost in the fog during the street carmen's strike."

Vilhjalur Stefansson, the noted Arctic explorer, is visiting his aged mother, who lives near Winnipeg, and to further his plans for establishing a vast reindeer ranch in the Barren Lands. He is said to have obtained all the capital necessary for starting his venture. He has great faith in the future of what is commonly called "the barren North," and says: "The so-called Barren Lands will be developed in time, the same way as all other parts of the continent. There are rich resources, mineral as well as vegetable, and I believe enough reindeer meat can be produced in that country to supply the world."

The farmers of Dutchess county, New York, still tell of the campaign young Franklin Roosevelt—he was just 23—waged for a seat in the State Legislature. It was a whirlwind campaign in small compass. The man who is now Democratic candidate for the vice-presidency of the Republic, spoke to the farmers everywhere, and one of the promises he made was that he would use his influence to have the State establish a standard size for apple barrels. It turned out to be a winning issue.

There will be no one to controvert Right Hon. A. J. Balfour's right to his new title of "our most distinguished bachelor," conferred upon him by the speaker in the House of Commons. But at Westminster he has as rivals several members of both Houses of parliament, notably his "brither Scots," Lord Haldane and Sir Robert Horne. There is in the House of Commons, in the opinion of Sir Donald Maclean, an alarmingly strong leaven of bachelors, of whom the more outstanding are Lord Hugh Cecil and Earl Winterton, not forgetting the prime minister's two able lieutenants, Sir William Sutherland and Sir Philip Sassoon.
