LADY LAURA'S RELEASE

OR

THE STORY OF A SPOILED BEAUTY.

CHAPTER XVII.

"I should be very sorry," laughed the captain. "I have had enough of rural life to last me for some time."

His wife looked up at him with something like adoration in her eyes.

"I thought you said, Vance, that all places were alike to you when you were with me?"

"They are, indeed, my dear," he replied, and she was quite content.

The next time the question was discussed the captain "laid down the law" in his own fashion. They would go to town for the season; they would go early and remain late. In the summer he intended to go abroad for a short time; and when they returned to the Abbey, he should bring a party of friends with him. And her ladyship yielded without one word of protest.

The soft April winds were blowing, the soft April showers were falling, when they left Rood. The primroses gleamed like gold at the feet of the budding trees, all nature was donning its greenest garb.

"There will be nothing in London like this," sighed Angela.

The captain laughed mockingly. "No," he said; "but there will be something a thousand times better. I would rather have one hour in London than a month in the country."

"Better fifty years of Europe than a cycle of Cathay."

"I am not surprised to hear you say so," replied Angela. "I can imagine that London life is more to your taste than that of the country."

"Yes," confessed the captain, who was in the highest possible spirits at the prospect before him; "I find my paradise there. Clubs, theaters, dances are things I delight in."

The captain was unusually elated, so much so as to be quite genial with Angela.

Miss Jameson was not going with them, as the captain foresaw that there would be no need of a fourth person in London. He would not be troubled with much of his wife's society there. Naturally mother and daughter would go out together, and he would be free to do just what he chose unmolested.

He was elated, too, when he thought of the prospect before him. He would be master of one of the finest houses in London, he would have the command of a large income he would be free to do just what he would—for his wife never seriously opposed his wishes—above all, he would once more see Gladys Kane.

He was very kind and attentive to his wife during the journey to town, and on arriving at Rood House, they found it looking its brightest. The balconies were already full of flowers, everything had been specially prepared for their comfort, and the captain sighed with the deepest satisfaction over the recherche dinner prepared by a Parisian cook.

"This looks like home," he said; "much more so than the Abbey."

He liked to remember that the clubs and the theaters were open and within easy reach, and that night, which to him had been all that was melancholy and unendurable in the country, would here in town be a dream of delight.

There was one thing to which he had thoroughly made up his mind before coming to London. He had thoughtfully considered the matter, and was satisfied that it should be no longer delayed. Indeed, he would have been pleased to have it arranged long before; but it had seemed to him wiser and more diplomatic to wait. He had resolved, before the pleasures and gayeties of the season began, that his wife should make her will. He would have asked her to make it while they were at Rood; but there would have been the trouble of sending for Mr. Sansome. He knew that his wife would not employ any other lawyer; and now, during the first few hours of his return to town, he thought of nothing but this.

After breakfast, on the second day of their arrival, Captain Wynyard went up to his wife's boudoir. He found Angela there.

"I wish to speak to your mother," he said; and Angela rose to leave them together.

As she passed him she looked into his face, and he flushed crimson as she did so. His eyes fell before her searching glance.

"He is going to persuade my mother to do something wrong or foolish," she said to herself; "I can read it in his face. What can it be?"

The interview was a long one, and when Angela returned to her mother's boudoir, they had both left it. The captain opened his mission with great tact and diplomacy.

"How bright and beautiful the house looks, Laura!" he said. "My heart warms to it. I like Rood House better than the Abbey. What a charming room this is; and what a view you have of the gardens!"

"Yes, I admire this room," said Lady Laura, little dreaming how many hours of bitter suffering she would pass there.

The captain drew a comfortable chair to the window, and placed a footstool for his wife.

"Now, my queen," he said, "I want to talk to you sensibly and reasonably. To begin with, Laura—do you trust me?"

"Trust you?" she echoed. "Implicitly, and with my whole heart!"

"I knew you did, Laura; and I know you will understand that what I am going to say is quite as much for your sake as my own."

"I am sure of that," she allowed, kissing the handsome face.

"I have never hidden my faults from you, Laura," he went on. "You know that I have been a terrible spendthrift, and have wasted two large fortunes."

"Never mind, dear," she said; "we have plenty for both of us."

"Yes, I know that, and that is one of my grievances. You have Rood Abbey, Rood House, and a clear income of fifteen thousand per annum. I managed to save eight hundred a year from the wreck of my fortune. It seems a very small sum. Do you know, Laura, if I had realized this great disproportion in our financial positions, I should never have had the courage to ask you to marry me, but I was so deeply in love with you that the money side of the question never entered my mind."

And Lady Laura believed him. She was honestly grieved to think how mistaken Angela had been, and how cruelly she had misjudged this noble, generous man. Her ladyship was so

FINANCIAL WIZARDS.

Financial wizards rise at times, and cry, in accents sweet, "Oh, easy marks, bring us your dimes, and land in Velvet street! We'll pay you ninety-nine per cent. on all the coin you bring; with such returns, it's evident, you soon must dance and sing." The easy marks, in eager haste, to Wizard calls respond, and draw their money from the banks, and cash the U.S. bond; oh, every kopek they can scrape, they promptly, gladly ship; no hoarded coins of theirs escape the Wizard's master grip. "Ods death," the prudent bankers say, "why ship the good long green? Why send the shining scads away to guys you've never seen? We'll show you how you may invest in safety all your own; why strip, we ask, your treasure chest, to back some fake unknown?" "You only pay some five per cent," the easy marks reply; "on sudden riches we are bent, and that's the reason why." And then some day we read once more of how some Wizard failed, his millions blown, while round his door the maddened victims wailed. "At last," he sighs, "the easy marks have learned their lesson dire; hereafter they will shun the sharks, as borned kids shun the fire." But when to wizard tells of fortunes swiftly made, the easy marks, all wearing bells, will to his door parade.

EDMONTON, Alta.—With the declaration that they should call "a spade a spade," John Charles Buckley, member for the Provincial Legislature for Gleichen, has inaugurated a war against Latin names used by doctors and druggists. He wants the medical profession to eliminate "doctor's English" and substitute everyman's English on their prescriptions. With this in view, Mr. Buckley intends to introduce an amendment to the Medical Act so that "sign" and "aq pura" shall no longer strike terror into the hearts of clients who never got higher, maybe, than grade eight at school. He is also against "sod oil" masquerading as common salt, which, when dissolved in water with a few drops of "opsq" or something equally mysterious added, retails to the now thoroughly scared client at a dollar for a small bottle.

Household Notes.

Serve fish and rice timbales with Hollandaise sauce.

A little tart jelly should be served with cheese soufflé.

If stock is kept for more than two days it should be rebolled.

Mushroom sauce is delicious served with sliced fillet of beef.

A little sugar is just as effective as egg shells in clearing soup.

For an unusual and attractive relish dip ripe olives into red frosting. Cream and bean soup should be about the same thickness as cream. Spanish onions are nice boiled, buttered, and sprinkled with paprika.

Beat fudge as long as it is possible, and do not let it set until it is cool.

If when molding fondant seems a little too firm, knead in a little butter.

A canny thermometer and a marble slab are real helps in making candy.

Odds and ends of pickles or relishes may be added to mayonnaise or French dressing.

Green olives may have their stones removed and stuffed with maraschino cherries.

If cheese is too soft to grate, cut it into small pieces and press it thru' the potato ricer.

It is quite true that salt will draw out the juice of meat, so it is better to salt meat after searing.

Sweet potatoes are delicious mashed. Sweeten them with just a little maple syrup or brown sugar.

Before baking sponge drops, sprinkle them with finely chopped and tinted cocoanut and powdered sugar.

To remove ravelings and short threads from a carpet, rub an old clothes brush briskly over the carpet.

Before using dry cocoanut on cake frosting, steam it by placing in a clean white cloth and putting over steam.

If you are cramped for closet space make a closet pocket of cretonne to hang on the inside of your closet door.

Ground almonds, raisins and walnuts moistened with mayonnaise or fruit juice are another good sandwich filling.

Faint spring cloths whites and initial and use to keep the towels of the different members of the family separated.

When butter gets too hard to spread place it over a bowl which has been heated by having hot water poured into it.

In making vegetable soup, if the vegetables are to be served in the soup, put them in just in time to be cooked thoroughly.

Faculty Places Itself on Record—German Government Encouraging Uprising Against French—Only One Vital Settlement since 1918 Armistice.

GERMAN UPRISING PREDICTED.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 28. More trouble in the Ruhr is forecast by the French Embassy which announced it had reliable information indicating an anti-French movement, culminating in an armed uprising. The Embassy declared the German Government were known to be backing the enterprise, and it is said volunteers were coming into Ruhr to assist in the uprising and that the French were prepared to adopt rigorous measures as a result.

FRENCH GROWING NERVOUS.
DUSSELDORF, Feb. 28. Requisition of motor cars by the French reached a stage of great activity to-day, the total taken numbering two hundred and fifty, with Dusseldorf as centre for commandeered cars. All cars in Ruhr were stopped and taken over, unless the occupants could show authority to use them. The French gave receipts for every car, only granting permission to travel to those belonging in occupied territory. All cars entering Ruhr from unoccupied territory are requisitioned.

GERMAN MINE OWNERS THREATENED.
DUSSELDORF, Feb. 28. By a decree issued by General Deputies to-day, Hugo Stinnes and other mine owners and directors are liable to trial by court martial with possible imprisonment and fine if they refuse to pay taxes on coal production, or if they oppose French and Belgian efforts to wrest from them shipments of fuel on account of reparations.

DALHOUSIE WILL ENTER FEDERATION.
HALIFAX, Feb. 28. Dalhousie University placed itself on record here tonight as willing and desirous of entering the Federation of Universities by the Governments of the Maritime Provinces and Newfoundland. The Carnegie Foundation of New York have agreed to subscribe three million dollars towards carrying out the Federation. The Board of Governors made their decision in resolution form expressing their "willingness and desire" that Dalhousie should enter the Federation contemplated. Dalhousie is to agree to the Federation. The University of New Brunswick has definitely declared its decision not to enter, but it is pointed out the New Brunswick Institution is not essential to the plan drawn up. St. Francis Xavier College did not enter into later negotiations for Federation, but the Catholic archdiocese of Halifax expressed the desire that the Federation, if accomplished, should include a Catholic College. The Board of Governors of Acadia University recently declared against that college entering the Federation, but the final decision for Acadia rests with the Maritime Convention of the Maritime Provinces which will meet at Wolfville next summer. Mount Allison University and King's College have made no official declarations. It is understood that if the present Federation plan fails of success a modified plan will be proposed.

HARDING SIGNS.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 28. President Harding to-day signed the British debt funding bill.

ONLY PROBLEM SETTLED.
LONDON, Feb. 28. George Harvey, United States Ambassador, addressing the Pilgrim's dinner tonight in honor of Stanley Baldwin, Chancellor of the Exchequer said the settlement of the British debt question was the first conclusive settlement of a really vital world problem since the Armistice. He said he firmly believed it enhanced the mutual respect and everlasting friendship between Great Britain and the United States, the two great nations to which the entire world is looking for the preservation of its solvency and stability. "The United Kingdom continues to rest on the rock of financial integrity and national honor," Harvey referred to the official statement of the British Government promulgated on August 1st last, which, he said, contained the specific assertion that "under the arrangement arrived at the United States insisted in substance if not in form that though the Allies were to spend the money it was only on our security they were prepared to lend it." The Ambassador expressed the opinion that at some suitable time "The British Government will, with equal formality, and no less explicitness, remove the apprehension created by this unfortunate situation. The simple fact, that barring Russia, which could not get our products, the Allies owe the United States more than they owe Great Britain." He assured his hearers the

ACKNOWLEDGMENT FROM PADRE NANGLE.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir.—I beg to acknowledge through your columns the receipt of a cheque for ten pounds from Lt.-Col. J. Forbes-Robertson, V.C., D.S.O., M.C., etc., as a donation to the War Memorial Fund. The appeal, which was sent out from St. John's last winter, only reached Lt.-Col. Forbes-Robertson in November, having been held up by the rebels in the West of Ireland where the Border Regiment was stationed. Our gallant Colonel, who is now stationed at Carlisle, wishes to be remembered to all the "Old Guard" and extends an invitation to any who may pass by the way.

Yours sincerely,
T. NANGLE.

Where Honor is Due.

Editor Evening Telegram,
Dear Sir.—Please allow us space in your highly esteemed paper in which to make a few remarks re the Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde article that appeared in the Advocate of the 21st, signed "The Workmen's Committee of the East End" thanking Mr. Davy and some others for obtaining a nine hour day, etc. What is wrong with these people? Was it not bad enough for them to get cold feet over the question of our darkest hour when Sergeant Nugent was sent to Mike Bennett's house by I. G. Hutchings as a result of misleading statements and lies by enemies of the working men? These are not very hard to find in this little country at present. Now, Mr. Editor, when this occurred, these very men who signed themselves as representing the working men went back, sat down, and hid away for the sake of an extra day's pay, and left the working man in the lurch. We are sure the Honorable Prime Minister and Hon. Dr. Campbell must have laughed when they read that article in the Advocate, because they did not know these men as a committee at all. We mean to tell the workers, who do know, as well as those who don't know, that when there was need of men to fight and explain the working man's cause we, the undersigned, were the men who did, and would, fight. We were left alone by those men who claimed to represent the Workmen in the East End and belied by others. When our Chairman, Mr. Bennett, went before the Inspector General and Superintendent O'Neil they only then were made aware that we were belied. The result is that to-day those who were our bitterest enemies are our greatest friends because they realize that we are out for right and square dealing and nothing more. These men in the Advocate in thanking a whole plenipotentiary are apparently satisfied. Mr. Editor, we wish we too could feel like that. We are not satisfied. How can we be when we are not getting a chance to live? All the same we wish to thank, and we do greatly appreciate Hon. Sir Richard Squires and Hon. Dr. Campbell for listening to our appeal, and considering it in a humane, and from a humane standpoint. When we were getting a paitry three, four and five day's work a week it was not enough to keep body and soul together. It is bad enough now; still we thank Sir Richard Squires and Hon. Dr. Campbell for what we are receiving, and no other Government official. We, the undersigned three working men, who discussed and explained the pros and cons of our situation were instrumental in making every change and every system for the benefit of the workers, and we were proud to be able to do it, and we are ever ready to stand up for a square deal for all. "Right over might" is our motto! We do not need to hide for an extra day's pay and leave our brother workers in the lurch. Those with whom we dealt with in settling the question know where we stand in our dealings; so do the working men whom we represent. Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for space.

Yours truly,
MICHAEL BENNETT, Chairman.

Obituary.

MRS. DAVID LUSCOMBE.

The many friends of Mrs. David Luscombe, will regret to hear of her death, a message to that effect having been received from New York this morning. The deceased lady left here about two months ago by s.s. Rosalind for New York, accompanied by her eldest daughter, Anna. It is presumed that Mrs. Luscombe contracted a heavy cold while on the trip, as the message announced that she had died suddenly of pneumonia. The late Mrs. Luscombe leaves to mourn their loss a husband, two daughters, Anna, now in New York, and Mrs. Fred Mercer, residing in Toronto, and one son William, to whom the Telegram offers sincere sympathy.

St. John's Fire Brigade.

RECEIVED BY HIS EXCELLENCY THE GOVERNOR AND LADY ALLARDYCE.

The following members of the Fire Brigade—Supt. Michael Dunn, District Chief James Trebble, Sergt. Levi Caines, Constable Edward McGlin were sent for this morning to attend at Government House. His Excellency and Lady Allardyce were accompanied by Inspector General Hutchings and Major Wilberforce-Bell, A.D.C. His Excellency took advantage of the opportunity of the retirement of those servants of the Crown to congratulate them on their length of service and the capable and efficient way in which they had performed their work during many years past. The Governor stated that from the records furnished to him he found that Supt. Dunn has put in no less than 51 years in the Volunteer Fire Brigade; District Chief Trebble slightly over 45 years; Sergt. Caines 45 years and 7 months, and Const. McGlin, who is retiring on account of ill-health, 26 years and 9 months. His Excellency after referring to their individual services and the medals presented to them referred to the three great conflagrations which had taken place in St. John's during the last 100 years. He stated that at the first, in 1816, there were no less than three fires, one in February and two in November, with the result that hundreds of houses were consumed and thousands left homeless. The next great fire was in 1846 when 12,000 persons were burned out of house and home and the larger portion of St. John's left a mass of smoking ruins. And lastly, the greatest fire of all, on the 8th July, 1892, in which the members of the Fire Brigade took part, when more than half of the town was consumed and the loss in property amounted to $3,000,000 sterling.

Bell Island Star Society.

ANNUAL PARADE ON ST. PATRICK'S DAY.

The regular monthly meeting of the Bell Island Star of the Sea Association was held in the Star Hall on Sunday afternoon, the 25th inst. The President, Capt. Leo Murphy, occupied the chair, and there was a large and enthusiastic gathering of members. Ten applicants were admitted to membership, and a further number enrolled, which is an excellent indication of the increasing strength of the Society. It was decided to hold the annual parade on St. Patrick's Day, March 17th, when the members will attend Mass at St. Michael's Church. The Patriotic or Ireland's National Festival will be delivered on this occasion by Rev. E. J. Rawlins. Through the courtesy of the O.C. Major J. M. Greene, the fine band of the Cadet Corps will attend the parade, and a special programme of Irish music has been arranged for this occasion; the new selections having been imported from New York and the band has been practicing enthusiastically to make a notable showing on this occasion. After the parade a card tournament will be held in the Card Rooms, for which three prizes are being offered, and the arrangements in this connection are being looked after by Chairman Jas. Flynn and the members of the House Committee. The following Amusement Committee was also elected at Sunday's meeting:—Messrs. Eugene Kelly, Chairman; Gus Connors, John Kent, James Delahanty, Peter Kent, M. Train and Wm. Stone. On St. Patrick's night in the Star Hall there will be a dramatic and musical entertainment appropriate to the occasion. A beautiful Little Irish play, "Con O'Neill," or "The Rising of the Moon," will be presented by the Bell Island Amateurs, who have already won distinction for themselves in that line, and there will also be a number of varied Irish ballads, recitations, dances and other items worthy of the day and what it commemorates.

Ladies' Gymnastic Club.

HAS MEMBERSHIP OF TWENTY-SEVEN.

In the early days of February a number of young ladies met together for the purpose of forming a Ladies' Athletic Association. The meeting was very enthusiastic over the idea and the above Association was formed. Monday night's meeting was held in the Grand Hall, and the following officers were elected:—President—Miss Helen Channing. Treasurer—Miss Effie Hopkins. Secretary—Mrs. C. F. Gerland. A number of the members were then nominated for a committee and at the next meeting on the 1st Monday of the month, five will be selected. The club has a membership of 27 and general athletics, swimming, running, etc. will be taken up with vim and gusto. The colors of the Club are black and white and a suitable uniform will be designed. By means of exhibitions, etc., the Club hopes to realize funds sufficient to defray expenses.

A Clear, Beautiful Skin

There are millions of tiny openings or pores in the skin and these must be kept open and clean if the beauty of the skin is to be maintained.

Because it cleanses these pores and encourages the healthful action of the skin, Dr. Chase's Ointment is most effective as a skin beautifier. Roughness, redness, pimples and all sorts of skin blemishes disappear by its use, and the skin is left clear, smooth and velvety.

Canadian Troops Won Their Spurs When Boers Were Routed at Paardeberg

Officers From the Dominion Fought Well and Brought Glory to Their Record in the Action of 23 Years Ago.

By DOUGLAS EPPES.

Specialty for The Canadian Press.)

Three years ago on Feb. 18, 1900, the 1st Canadian Brigade staggered into Paardeberg Drift after a forced night march of 24 miles—the second in two days—and began the action which lasted nine days later on the anniversary of Majuba Day with the unconditional surrender of General Pletzer and 4,000 fighting Boers. Paardeberg, with its casualty list running to 1,800 marks, has been regarded as the titanic contest of the war wherein the battle dead numbered by their tens of thousands and yet to the Canadian its reputation has special significance in the fact that it was the first in which a unit raised and officered in this country battled alongside British infantry regiments over the defence of the Empire. The 1st Canadian Brigade, which played the starring role in effecting the downfall of the old Boer fighting force, was almost entirely composed of men who had come up of a West of England and the 2nd Battalion of Duke Cornwall's Light Infantry; a Scottish Regiment, the 1st Battalion of Highlanders; a Midland Battalion of the King's Shropshire Light Infantry, and last but not least, the representatives of the land of the First Canadian Regiment. It had for its leader, Brig-Gen. L. Smith-Dorrien—the same Dorrien who commanded the 1st Canadian Brigade in those dark fatal days of 1855 in the historic retirement of the Men. As an organization, the brigade had no lengthy history, but it received its baptism of fire, in 1890. It had been only formed a few weeks before its birthplace, namely, being at Maple Leaf on the border of the Free State.

chiefly because it was pinned tight by the deadly accuracy of the well-coiled riflemen in river bed, dongas and trench.

KITCHENER URGED HASTE

Kitchener, who during Lord Roberts' absence in Kimberley was directing the operation, chafed at the delay. It had been his plan to snap up Cronje at one mouthful and then push on to Bloemfontein and end the war before the startled burghers could rally from the Lady Smith area. But as the afternoon dragged on, he saw himself no nearer to the accomplishment of his purpose than he had been at dawn. He decided on action—swift and forceful. Summoning Colonel Aldworth, D.S.O., the officer commanding the Duke of Cornwall's Light Infantry, who up to then had been on a kopje far south of the river, he directed him to take four of his companies, none of which had yet been blooded in the struggle, cross the river, and assault the position with the bayonet. Colonel Aldworth was charged with the task of communicating this decision to the troops on the south side of the Modder. The D.C.L.I. commander informed Colonel, now Major-General, Otter, who led the Canadians, of this order. It is not on record that Aldworth informed the Gordon's colonel, personally, though a sergeant of the Cornwallis was detained for this purpose. It was an impossible task. None knew it better than those entrusted with its fulfillment. Between them and that labyrinth of rifle pits and trenches and deep sandy dongas—some of them eighty feet in depth—intervened a level stretch of sunscorched veldt as devoid of cover as a bald man's head. But they attempted it—those six companies of Canadian and four companies of Cornwallis. Cheerily they fixed their bayonets and started on that mad adventure.

BOER BULLETS.

As soon as the thin irregular line of khaki revealed itself over the protecting ridge, a furious hailstorm of leaden hail beat upon it. On that rushing wave was concentrated the fire of 4,000 rifles in the hands of the best marksmen in the world—at 500 yards range. Smitten as though by a tempest of scorpions, the line was broken, reformed, pushed on again, broken once more, staggered on for another few score yards—and then lost its momentum, or more properly speaking was smashed. Colonel Aldworth was one of the first to fall. Hit in the ankle, he crawled on perhaps ten yards when he was struck again fatally. He died a full twenty yards ahead of his men. He was blamed, but wrongly, for initiating the order to charge. It is the truth that the order was not of his issuing; it came from Lord Kitchener. The Canadians suffered heavily. There was little or no cover, and to take shelter behind one of the ant-hills which here and there dotted the veldt a furious volley which invariably ended in the annihilation of the ant-hill and the death of the men behind it. Here was hit private—now Captain—James Kennedy, of C. Company. Hit no less than eleven times four of his wounds being caused by explosive bullets. As a result of his experience, Captain Kennedy was known thereafter throughout the length and breadth of this country as the "Human Sledge." No one will dispute his right to the honourably earned title. Here also Lieutenant James Mason, now Colonel Mason, President and General Manager of the Home Bank, sustained severe wounds and earned his D.S.O. And here, also, though earlier in the day, Captain Arnold of Winnipeg received a mortal wound; and many another gallant soldier.

ON MAJUBA DAY.

The charge was delivered around five o'clock, and it was the last effort of that initial day's fighting. The rest of the story does not belong here—the stealthy, inexorable advance by trenching, the steady, but largely bloodless, by the artillery; the final assault by the Canadian Regiment which forced Cronje to his stubborn knees on the anniversary of Majuba, and forever wiped out that stain on British arms. Time has thinned the ranks of those whose baptism of fire dates back to the far-off days around Cronje's laager on the tree-fringed banks of the Modder. Some set forth in the last great adventure in the fields of Flanders and never returned. Others have answered the summons of the Last Post in their own homes and now sleep in the graves of a peaceful Canadian community. Still others have vanished from ken, and there is no record of their passing.

Draws Censure of Colorado House.

DENVER, Col., Feb. 8.—The Colorado House of Representatives adopted to-day a resolution of censure, expressing displeasure and disagreement with the sentiments expressed in the opening prayer of Chaplain J. R. Kader.

Parts of the prayer which drew fire were:

"Our courts are corrupt; God has been expelled from our churches; our pulpits are filled with essayists; our boys and girls are going to the dogs; our laboring men are going to work with empty pails, while our farmers starve and the middlemen wax fat on exorbitant prices; * * * our banks are bursting with money."

The chaplain began with the exclamation, "Oh, Lord, how long is this condition to endure?" and ended with a supplication that the Deity guide the lawmakers to the end that "greed might be overcome, and justice done among men."

Members of the House voiced disagreement with the prayer soon after its conclusion. Following a period of heated debate, it was decided that the subject be considered in executive session. Several hours' consideration in secret resulted in support of the resolution, which was ordered to be printed in the House Journal. A committee was appointed to inform the chaplain of the action taken.

Representative Cook, a former minister, opened debate on the prayer with the statement that he was surprised at the wording.

"I do not believe that the Almighty is especially concerned by these little verbal, witless bulletins with which our chaplain is annoying Him," he said.

Cures for Insomnia.

Counting sheep as a cure for insomnia was described as "ridiculous" by Dr. Hildred Carrill, of Westminster Hospital and the West End Hospital for Nervous Diseases, in a lecture on "Hysteria and Mental Hygiene." "The most useless treatment of all," he said, "is to tell the patient to think of nothing; it is uncommonly difficult to think of nothing. It is better to lie relaxed and to repeat with each breath the word 'sleepy' in a regular and monotonous manner." Reading in bed he described as inadvisable under any circumstances. Many people hold that a good long walk before bed time is a good remedy, while others again recommend a visit to the theatre or music hall, the changing scenes of which tire the eyes and induce a good night's sleep. Dozing in the daytime encourages sleeplessness at night as the brain and body receive only fitful rests which eventually become chronic.

EDGEWORTH SMOKING TOBACCO

Let's give the pipe its due. All the credit for a good smoke should not go to the tobacco. Men smoked pipes centuries before modern tobacco in tins was dreamed of. They changed their blends too, occasionally—always seeking a tobacco a trifle more suited to their taste. Now you may already be 99 p.c. pipe-happy. The purpose of Edgeworth is to give you the additional one per cent. that makes complete pipe-smoking satisfaction.

"Edgeworth" Smoking Tobacco is made in two forms. Sliced Plug and Ready-Rubbed, and we honestly don't know which you will prefer. Both forms have their enthusiastic devotees. Try both and then decide which you like best.

"Edgeworth" is sold by all stores in convenient size tins and at popular prices.

An Appeal to the Independent Voters of Newfoundland.

(By ZIF.)
Voters of Newfoundland,—within the next few months you will be called upon to perform a solemn duty—a duty that makes you do the man's part towards his country. Newfoundland stands to-day in a most unpromising condition. She is threatened with conditions that if not offset will bring ruin and disaster to her people. A position brought about by the mad and insidious predictions of the Squires-Coaker Government policies. To you men who heretofore played a part "Better Than the Best" in the great battle of right over might, who have lived up to the best traditions of British justice and democracy in the defeat of Autocracy and Bolshevism the time has come when you must avail of the great privilege we as Newfoundlanders enjoy—the freedom of the ballot to assert the rights as given to us under the constitution of responsible government. You have clear evidence and sufficient proof of what Squires-Coaker control of the destinies of Newfoundland means. Three years and a half of maladministration has brought disaster and discredit to our country, and if you return to power this same amalgamation, you cannot but satisfy yourselves that a continued experience of the same conditions will be our misfortune for the next four years. Newfoundland, forty months ago, was without exception the most promising prosperous and law-abiding country in the world. The bee of progress and industry was buzzing. Its messengers from all parts of the country. Now ask yourself the plain question—How are we to-day? Look throughout the island, what do you find? Ask the business men of St. John's, South and West Coasts and Conception Bay and in fact every settlement in every district of the Dominion. Mr. J. R. Bennett will in short submit for your consideration a policy that must necessarily, if we are to regain our position in the business and progressive world, be approved of. Up to this time of writing we have already received expressions of the determination of the great multitude to recall the past to make good the mistake of the fall of 1919. No longer must we suffer ourselves with a Government of serfs and pawns. We must recover our independence and prosperity, and the only avenue to thus secure the same is by electing with substantial majorities the candidates of the Liberal-Labor Progressive Party under the leadership of Mr. J. R. Bennett—a party which stands for all that is the best in Liberalism and Prosperity.

Interesting Lecture.

MR. J. G. HIGGINS, B.A. AT ST. JOSEPH'S.
A large and appreciative audience attended St. Joseph's Hall last night to hear Mr. John G. Higgins, B.A., deliver an address on "Daniel O'Connell as a Lawyer." The lecturer was right at home with the subject. In the course of his remarks he referred to O'Connell's career at the English Bar, his early struggle and the difficulties with which he had to contend. Mr. Higgins quoted several typical examples of O'Connell's wit. After the lecture had concluded songs were rendered by Misses Brophy, Walsh and M. J. Canning, and the Song-Of-Phoebe Band of St. Joseph's played several pleasing selections. At the conclusion of the proceedings, Rev. Fr. Pippy, Chairman, thanked the lecturer and the artists for the excellent entertainment. The National Anthem brought a successful evening to a close.

Royal Stores Win.

DEFEAT HARVEY'S SEXTETTE 7 GOALS TO 2.
Last night's hockey match between Harvey's and Royal Stores teams resulted in a complete surprise, when Royal Stores trimmed Harvey's by a score of 7 goals to 2. The Royal Stores had the best of the first two periods but Harvey's came back strong in the third period to late to snatch victory from defeat. Wilson, the Royal Stores goalie, put up a creditable exhibition, and much of the teams success was due to his good work. In the first frame the Royals scored three goals. Scott drawing, first blood while Noseworthy, who played a good defence game, was instrumental in nothing up two. The Royals followed up their success with two more in the second session, Morris and Gillis doing the needful. The game proved very exciting in the final chapter. Harvey's made a good showing, and if anything, had the best of play. Bailey scored twice for Harvey's in this period. Scott of the Royals, however, scored twice just before the final gong sounded. The game was very clean, and only a couple of minor offences were penalized by referee J. M. Tobin. The championship honors will probably be decided between the Royal Stores and Bowring's.

Annual Horse Meet.
BRED HORSE MAKES BEST TIME.
The fourth annual ice meet of the Newfoundland Association held at the Mill Lake yesterday afternoon attracted several thousand spectators. The course and proved one of the most enjoyable events yet held. The number of the gentler present was Lady Allerdyc, wife of the Excellency the Governor.
PROGRAMME.
The programme consisted of four races. The Native Bred Animals, trot race. Free for all trot, free for all and Class B. Trot. A flying start was allowed and best three out of five heats decided the winner. The race was over a measured half mile. As all races were timed, the fastest was aroused than at any other meet.
THE EVENTS.
The result of the races proved that the local bred pacer, May Taunton, was faster by many seconds than any other. Her time for the half was 1:08.4, as the ice was covered with snow which fell none too late. The time could hardly be expected to be better.
A FALSE START.
The first race "Native Bred" started at 1:04. There were five entrants:—May Taunton, Princess Shela, Peter the Great, and at the start May Taunton took the lead being closely followed by Princess Alice, with Bob and Peter making a splendid fight for the place. Shela did not put up an expected showing. After the start the winning post the start was called off, owing to the horses not getting away together.
ALTERNATE HEATS.
On the second trial May Taunton showed her speed and finished 100 yards ahead of her competitors. Being a pacer and a champion winner last year, it was expected she would carry off the race in this race although it was expected that she would make the time for the day. In order to avoid delay, heats of different lengths were run alternately, hence followed the first heat of the day for all paces. Only two horses, Moth Miller, owned by Mr. and King Oak owned by Hon. J. McNamara. Moth Miller carried his racing top and appeared in his field form. When the final heats of the Bred and Pacing races were held the Free for all Trot or Class B. Race was run on an alternating basis. The race was not interesting and the three heats Della owned by Edmonds carried away the trophy from the local racing sleigh. J. Walsh.
INTERESTING CONTEST.
The Free for all Trot proved especially in the first and second heats. In the first Bert Arxworthy the Government stallion won the winning post, an easy victory. Arxworthy is credited with having a last record but in previous years on the local track he did not show up as expected. His win in the first heat raised hopes that he could do. His action was not so good but unfortunately in the second and subsequent heats he did not show up as well and gave place to a recent importation of Joseph Judge, Bella Vincent, owned by Dr. Lynch, Bell Island entered for the race, but did not complete as the owner was unable to obtain a racing sleigh.
EXCELLENT MANAGEMENT.
In the splendid manner in which the various committees carried out their duties the races were held without a hitch and except the women get away in the first heat of the "Native Bred" race every-thing was perfectly satisfactory. The Mounted Police Sergeant Savage did excellent work in keeping the course clear and preventing accidents. The winners of the different events were as follows:
NATIVE BRED.
May Taunton, 1:08.4.
Princess Alice, 1:20.4.
Peter the Great.

New Immigration Bill Introduced.

ENTRY LIMITED TO 2 PER CENT. WITH JAPANESE BARRED.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—A bill providing sweeping changes in the immigration laws was reported today by the House Immigration Committee. The measure would restrict immigration from all countries to two per cent. of their nationals resident in the United States under the census of 1890, and exclude Japanese, with the exception of certain students and scientists, as well as other persons eligible to citizenship.

The bill contains provisions to prevent the division of families by admitting immediate relatives of naturalized citizens and those who have declared their intention to become citizens. It also provides that all nations should have a minimum quota of 400 persons eligible to enter the United States before the two per cent. quota is applied. To prevent the deporting of aliens not eligible under the law, the bill would provide for the issuance of certificates per cent. based on the census. The bill was brought out as a substitute for a Senate measure providing for the admission of 25,000 Armenian orphans. Under this procedure committee members believed it could be placed before the Senate as a conference report, which would have right of way, and assure final action at the present session of Congress.

Chairman Johnson, of the committee, said the Japanese exclusion section which would not apply to ministers of the Gospel, members of learned professions or bona fide students, merely would translate into law the "gentlemen's agreement," between the United States and Japan affecting immigration.

Under the present law, which the bill would replace, the quotas are fixed at three per cent. based on the census of 1910, and, it was explained, the change would increase the proportion of immigration from Northern and Western Europe and decrease the proportion from Southern and Eastern Europe.

Although the number admitted under the quota restriction would be sharply reduced, committee members said the provision designed to avoid the division of families would materially offset the reduction.

The bill would not operate against immigration from Canada, Newfoundland, Mexico, Cuba and Central and South America, provided those seeking admission had been resident in those countries for five years.

Canadian Samples in China.

KOBE—Sixty tons of Canadian Commodities of various kinds have arrived at Shanghai to be placed in the newly-established Canadian sample salesrooms originated by Dr. J. W. Ross, Canadian government trade commissioner at Shanghai. The showrooms will be in charge of D. S. Sparks, who has spent several years in China as a representative of Canadian manufacturers. Dr. Ross states that Canada is more interested than ever in the upbuilding of trade with the Orient, and the opening of the sales rooms at Shanghai is a tangible indication of the efforts being made to accomplish that purpose.

A Novel Hair Cut.

The case of a wounded soldier who had to have frequent haircuts inside his mouth, was described by Dr. Percival Cole, surgeon at the Seaman's Hospital, Greenwich, in a lecture at the Institute of Hygiene, Devonshire Street, West. He had lost part of the mucous membrane of his mouth, and this was replaced by a graft of skin from his own scalp. It did not give him much trouble, but it grew so many hairs that he had to have haircuts inside his mouth almost as frequently as he shaved. The scalp must therefore, have contained the dormant roots of hair, which placed in a warmer position, sprouted.

Place a strip of adhesive tape lengthwise on the sole of each rubber and the rubbers will prove to be better than crepers in icy weather.

"At the End of the World."

If combined talent, artistry and opportunity are of avail in the production of a modern high class motion picture drama, then "At the End of the World" should be one of the biggest successes of the season. It will be the attraction at the Majestic theatre today. The star is Betty Compson, whose work in "The Miracle Man" stamped her as an emotional actress of rare charm and ability. While this picture marks Miss Compson's debut as a Paramount star, it also marks the debut of Penrhyn Stanlaws, American artist of note, as a Paramount director.

Miss Compson, known far and wide for her beauty and talent has been entrusted with a role that gives full scope to her histrionic powers. She appears as the daughter of a cynical but educated man who is conducting a notorious Shanghai craft, called "The Paper Lantern." She has been taught to regard all men as beasts and to keep them at arm's length. Many men are in love with her, she loves but one, who is indifferent to her. Therefrom is developed a plot that carries the principals to a light-house 'at the end of the world' where much of the dramatic action transpires, but all ends as we have it end--happily.

A masterful cast of characters is introduced, interpreted by famous actors, including Milton Sills, Casson Ferguson, Mitchell Lewis, Joseph Kilgour, Spottiswoods Aitken and others.

CRAIG'S STATEMENT.

BELFAST, Feb. 27. Premier Sir John Craig told the Ulster Parliament to-day, the British Government had pledged itself at a moment's notice to place at the disposal of Northern Ireland any troops necessary for action along the border.

Rattling Good American Drama.

TO BE SEEN AT THE NICKEL TONIGHT.

In "Pickle Women," the current offering at the Nickel Theatre, local lovers of the movies will find a rattling good drama, filled to the brim with Yankee pep and humor.

It is said that the hardest kind of a story or play to write is one with a humorous twist. This picture while it tells a story that is intensely human, does not overlook the fact that most human of things is a laugh. There are laughs and thrills from the very first scene until the finish.

The action takes place in a little country town like the one, many of us come from. Our old friends, the village gossip are on the job strong, and their tongues set the hero into deep water. He is a real American chap and without mincing words turns the tide after many a Yankee wallop and farm yard side swipe.

The juice from sweet pickle makes a good substitute for vinegar when making cold slaw. Add a cup of black walnuts—the result is delicious.

Rise, Decline and Disappearance of Our Great Sailing Fleet.

(H. F. SHORTIS)

THEIR WANING GLORY.
And now we are drawing to the close of our long and eventful story—to the days when the small insignificant fleet of sailing vessels made their last gallant stand against the almost all-powerful advance of steam. Slowly, but surely, did our numerous fleet decrease in numbers—some gave way to the ravages of time, others were lost at the Seal Fishery, many were totally wrecked at Labrador, others were lost in the foreign trade, and still others were sold out of the country. They had played their part—played it well, but their days were at an end. Steam, as foretold by the old Vikings (in my own hearing in 1867) was triumphant. The old Vikings now sleep at rest in the old Churchyards, but their memory will be green forever in the hearts of all true Newfoundlanders:—
The boast of heraldry, the pomps of power,
And all that beauty, and all that wealth ere gave,
Await alike the inevitable hour—
The paths of Glory lead but to the grave.
And now we come to the period when the heroism, the daring and the perseverance of our Seal Killers shall shine with a setting ray; soon about to be totally obscured, and finally disappear from amongst us—probably forever. The old generation had been gathered to their fathers, and a new one had sprung up. The last act in the drama was about to be played, and in the authentic list which I give below are to be found the names of those who were the heroes of the last scene, 'ere the curtain had been run down on the most interesting, fascinating and heroic period in our country's history.

A DIFFERENT KIND OF GUEST.

When the subject of guests in rooms—which I brought up the other day, to suggest that one try living in one's own guest room for a day or two to see if anything guest loose in it—a letter-friend writes and approves my idea, and then adds:

"And here's a use for a guest room which came from a Father, Mother, Three daughters and a Son. Please note the capitals—they are that kind. "One member of that family is a guest at stated intervals. I happened to run in at a time when it was Mother, and there was a little party in her honor just as if she had come on to visit them from a thousand miles away.

Why Mother Needed a Rest.

"Later I made the girls tell me about it. It began in their high school days when one of them noticed that their mother looked tired and she hadn't been away in years.

They didn't see how she could go away. At that time they didn't have a guest room, but the son had a room of his own which he donated for that use.

"Without saying a word to mother about it he moved his goods to the attic and slept on a couch during her visit. The girls fussed up the room with cheese cloth curtains and robbed themselves of a few pretty things (all three had a big side chamber, for they weren't rich by any means) and they wrote a letter to their mother inviting her to visit them during her vacation.

Had Her Breakfast in Bed.

"Then they set her free from all work, insisted on her sleeping mornings and having her breakfast served in bed, tried to cook specially dainty dishes for her as they would for a beloved guest, and planned small pleasures for her as for a guest.

"This was the beginning of the habit of inviting each other to be the family's guest, which is still in force among them. They have a guest room now and a very dainty and complete one. Doubtless their own experience in living in it has helped them to put themselves in the guest's place and supply him with all the things he needs for real comfort. "I'd Love To Hear About Such Fruit. I think that is a lovely idea, don't you?"

It seems to me that there was something like that in "Little Women." Didn't the girls once make Marmee a guest? Or did I dream that?

Anyhow, whether original or not, I think it is beautiful and I hope this little tale may perchance serve as a seed and bring forth fruit to gladden the hearts of other tired mothers who haven't been away for years.

THE RAINBOW.

The rain had ceased. Across the sky An arch of beauty caught the eye; An arch of falling pearls was strung On which were perfect colors hung. An arch of triumph, glowing warm, Marking the passing of the storm.

Still from the distant hills there came The thunder's echo and the flame Of lightning. But to use the sun Signaled the news "the storm is done." And on the clouds which traveled low We saw the spectrum paint his bow.

Who sought the rainbow, turned his back Upon the sun's majestic track. Faced what had been, which came with light.

And saw it radiant with light; Upon the clouds which we had feared An arch of triumph then appeared.

Not where the sun breaks through we see

The rainbow's arch of victory. But far across the stretch of sky Where still the clouds of tempest lie This bit of splendor breaks at last. Out of the dancer that has passed. So when the bitter hours have fled, When we have done with doubt and dread.

When once again our sun appears, If we will look through falling tears Back at the griefs we leave behind, Their glorious purpose we shall find.

The N.F. Ball at Boston.

By E. H.

(Written for the Evening Telegram.)

Amongst the many notable national events which occur from time to time in "The Hub of Industry" the N.F. Ball of the Mutual Benefit Association most fittingly and favorably takes its place. This year Feb. 9th was the date set apart for the fervid participation. To the Committee in charge of the various arrangements too much praise or commendation cannot be given, as every detail was entered into and carried out to the pink of perfection, which not only deserves congratulations upon themselves but reflects credit upon the "land" from which they came. Long before 9 p.m. the starting hour for the grand march, the spacious hall was filled to its utmost capacity and still the stairways, the corridors and even the sidewalks were packed with the men and women, the girls and boys of the seagirt isle seeking admission to the celebration. The fire, the police and the building commissioners were called in consultation as to the safety of the building under the weight of such a throng with the result that large numbers had to go home disappointed of course but not displeased with the demonstration which their countrymen had shown in the land of Uncle Sam. The early bird of course catches the worm is the old adage and seemed most assuredly applicable in the case of the N.F. Ball, for those who were fortunate enough to gain admission certainly passed one of the most pleasant evenings on record.

The younger folks tripped the light fantastic in the Mazy Waltz, the stiddy Polka or the old time-honored Quadrille. The older people renewed the friendships of other days in the Island Home, and reverted, through the corridors of memory to the dear old hallowed associations and scenes of childhood's home. Codfish were caught, whales were harpooned and seals were killed in numbers which would put Sam Blandford or Arthur Jackman of sacred memory to shame. The men of the West talked to the men of the North. Stories were told of picaresque adventures, of dare devil chances, of miraculous escapes of those bygone days.

Fifty men, all stout and jolly, went to the ice with big John Holly. And thus the evening passed in song and story until the wee sma' hours of morn.

With flowing sheets to a favoring breeze, The schooners, plowed o'er the troubled seas; The land was sighted, the dangers past, The gallant crew and the good ships too.

Were home at last.

A New Gramophone Fashion.

Dancing to the accompaniment of gramophone music, particularly at private house parties, is likely to become a greater vogue shortly. The value of electric driven gramophones has been enhanced by the installation of an automatic arrangement by which ten or twelve records can be run off in succession without any personal attention. This is the invention of a young Glasgow man in London, and its display at the Model Engineering Exhibition attracted much interest. The automatic device can be fitted to any type of speaking machine at a cost of less than ten per cent. of the whole instrument.

PROVINCIAL ELECTIONS AND OTHER MATTERS.

(Special in Math.)
PROVINCIAL ELECTIONS, Feb. 10, 1923.—The Provincial Election has ended with the return of the Taschereau Government with an increased majority. There was little opposition. The Opposition was largely to the agitation by Roberts' Government had been using as the "milk cow" for the rest of the province. In the phrase "milk cow" occurred recently that one is inclined upon it as a party slogan.

Quebec takes his politics seriously as does the Newfoundlander. This was the more so to your correspondent who was present in Toronto last week. The Dominion election, when indifference was as marked as was the excitement of course it may be that a general election in Ontario excites interest in that city. Certain it is that the recent election here. Crowds, fights, ejections from the day. Premier Taschereau during the time of the meeting at the Monument and only succeeded in getting after the police had ected over sixty hecklers. Nor was polling day free from disturbances. At one booth a gang of forty or fifty men raised the roof, knocked the returning officer over the head with a chair and escaped with the ballot box, which was later discovered minus its ballots. A similar attempt was made at another polling station, but was frustrated.

Like all elections, however, the smoke has cleared away, and it is already nearly forgotten. Premier Taschereau, who made a pre-election vow to resign if the Opposition elected ten men, has probably thought better of it, but finds himself faced with an Opposition of 36 instead of the five who opposed him previously.

For the past few weeks the papers have all been full of the "Miss Canada" competition being held here for the Winter Sports Carnival, at which some young lady will be chosen as emblematic of Canada. Candidates from Halifax, St. John, Sherbrooke, Regina, Winnipeg and other cities have all had their beauty exhibited by picture and paragraph and the judging takes place to-night. These young ladies have been "tea-ed," entertained, interviewed—in bed and out, dressed and en deshabille—until it has become rather tiresome. They all seem to be good athletic types except "Miss Montreal." And here—let me just whisper—there seems to be the tiniest bit of friction. "Miss Montreal" is not athletic, and hopes to be judged on beauty points. The other girls (who are a pretty good looking bunch anyhow) are hoping to be judged from the athletic standpoint. As the judges are all Montrealers the decision is awaited with a slightly tense feeling.

Strangely (or perhaps it is not so strange when one knows the history that exists between the Queen City and the commercial metropolis), Toronto has no representative in the contest.

We are getting through the winter without much snow, although there seems to have been plenty of it on both sides of us. A couple of weeks ago the trains in the Maritime Provinces were stalled for three days, and food supplies had to be brought to the occupants by sleigh. This week the same thing has occurred in the prairie provinces owing to huge snow drifts, and dog sleighs have been requisitioned to bring relief to stalled passengers. Newfoundland, you see, has not the entire monopoly of this sort of thing. The difference is that it occurs only occasionally in this Dominion, while on the Reid Railway the duration of a winter-time journey may never be safely estimated, and one is all too frequently side-tracked for days at Kitty's Brook, or some other equally desolate spot.

Newfoundlanders were sorry to read of the drowning of Officer Carter from S.S. Kyle last week, and that ship must have experienced about her "worst ever."

By the way, will you tell me who is responsible for the "promotion" that Newfoundland gets in the Canadian papers. About the only accounts of Newfoundland one ever reads in the Montreal or Toronto papers are stories of storms or icefields down there. Premier Squires talks glibly of rapidly improving conditions—post-war deflation, reduced (?) taxation, etc.—but the mental picture Canadians have of Newfoundland is that conveyed by the rocky cliffs of Cape Race seen through the fog after a transatlantic voyage. "A desolate country," they say with a shudder, and you confirm that impression with your perpetual storm and icefield stories. For goodness sake send them something about your magnificent bay-studded islands, your inland lakes, and birch covered islets with their stinking caribou or jumping trout. Anyway, do put the soft pedal on this "storm stuff."

There has been an exceptionally large number of fires among Catholic institutions in parts of this Province since the fall, and for a time it was quite a popular belief that the Klux Klan was at the bottom of them. It is generally accepted now—except by extremists—that these fires have been due to two chief causes—careless smokers and the use of soft coal in occasional cases due to the scarcity of anthracite. This latter was actually found to be the cause of a fire in a recent investigation here.

Many Newfoundlanders—at least from Notre Dame Bay—were very sorry to hear of the sudden passing of William Ashbourne at Twillingate. While not a popular idol, the late Mr. Ashbourne was a foremost figure in the commercial life of what a former Magistrate there loved to call the "Northern Metropolis." Twillingate without the Ashbourne business seems difficult to contemplate, as the Labrador fleet of that firm far exceeded that of all others put together. It is to be hoped that the surviving brother, Mr. A. G. Ashbourne, and the very capable eldest son of the deceased gentleman, Mr. Tom, will continue to conduct this most staple commercial enterprise.

There has been a considerable epidemic of the usual winter influenza here, and many firms have been short-handed, and the hospitals crowded with resulting pneumonia cases. It is now wanting, though eighteen deaths resulted last week.

Since the foregoing was written the decision of the judges in the "Miss Canada" competition has been made public, their unanimous selection being "Miss St. John," a Miss Blair from the New Brunswick capital. We can only say that rather pleased that a resident of the Atlantic provinces was selected.

Montrealers are very proud of their mountain, and one of the first questions the newcomer is invariably asked is "Have you been on the mountain yet?" To a Newfoundland, to whom hills are such ordinary sights, this hill of a little over 700 feet which is dignified by the name of Mount Royal seems nothing very extraordinary. Signal Hill would dwarf it. It was rather amusing last week when Mr. Mulloy, one of the party who recently succeeded in getting so close to the top of Mount Everest and who was lecturing here, was asked by an ubiquitous reporter if he had been to the top of Mount Royal! Nevertheless Mount Royal provides the possibilities for many winter sports, and in summer it is a most pleasant spot to spend the hot summer evenings, while one gets an excellent panoramic view of the city from the top. I do not wish to be little bit, but those who have never seen it may have conceived an erroneous idea of its size and height from Montreal papers.

Montreal is apparently the one North American city whose police authorities wish a Red Light District, if they do not openly tolerate it. Dr. Heywood, the Supt. of the Montreal General Hospital, spoke quite openly against the tolerance of this condition recently, claiming that the police could terminate whenever they wished; that it was the centre of the "dope" traffic, and a hotbed of venereal diseases from whence emanated a foul crop of this plague. He received much moral support from all sides, but seems to have had but little success in awakening any responsible effort towards its eradication on the part of the city authorities. City Hall Square and Cadieux Street are probably too wealthy to fear any attack from the city authorities, and Dr. Heywood and his friends of the Committee of sixteen have yet much spade work to do before they convince the Municipal authorities of Montreal.—T.

Scheduled Game Postponed.

GUARDS AND ST. BON'S WILL DECIDE CHAMPIONSHIP TO-MORROW NIGHT.

The Fedelian-Terra Nova game scheduled for to-night has been postponed until Monday night. This has come about owing to several of the players suffering with colds. The championship game to decide the Tie-Cup-Series will be played tomorrow night between the Guards and St. Bon's, and judging by the advance sale of tickets, it is safe to say that a crowded arena will view the contest. His Excellency the Governor, Lady Allardyce, and Staff have signified their intentions of attending.

HIS FAREWELL GAME.

Mr. C. C. Robertson, the star defence player of the Guards team, who has figured in local hockey circles during the past four seasons, will play his last game in the city to-morrow night, and we feel sure that "Robbie," who is about to leave for Montreal, will receive a rousing send-off by the fans on his last public appearance in the hockey arena. Mr. Robertson has made many friends since coming to St. John's, and one and all will be sorry to hear of his transfer to Montreal. He will be greatly missed by the "Champ" Guards team next season.

Rosalind Sails.

The Red Cross liner Rosalind, Capt. James, sailed for Halifax and New York at noon to-day, taking a full cargo and the following passengers:—W. Bartlett, A. G. Ogilvie, D. A. Summers, Capt. J. O. and Mrs. Williams, Mrs. E. Miller, Master H. Miller, Wm. Robson, D. Rodgers, W. J. James, W. R. Neal, Miss A. Sharpe, Miss M. K. Stick, Miss M. Doyie, Miss John Rendell, H. Stewardson, J. Winter and 16 second class.

Where the Telegram Goes.

THE PEOPLE'S PAPER IS UBICQUOUS.

Recognized everywhere as Newfoundland's premier newspaper, the Evening Telegram receives frequent communications from its subscribers in reference to articles in its columns. By last mail we received a letter from a subscriber at Livongood, Alaska, in reference to the recent gold discovery at Big Brook, St. John's Bay, Labrador. The information is being forwarded from the frozen regions of the North to the warm climates of the South, the Telegram keeps Newfoundland's sons in touch with the doings at home.

An old friend, Mr. R. E. Gosse, of Vancouver, B.C., writing under date of Jan. 30th, thanks the Telegram for kind references to progress made by himself, his son, and the Gosse Millard Co. Ltd. He says he doesn't know that he deserves all the nice things said about himself by his old home chums and he felt certain that some of those with whom he travelled the ice jamb could have done much better than himself had they settled in British Columbia. Speaking of the battle royal that was to take place between his son and Mr. Wm. Duff, M.P. of Lunenburg, Mr. Gosse says that the new regulations which were to be put in force have been deferred for another year to give time for further discussion. This result has been hailed with much satisfaction by the B.C. canners and fishermen who look upon it as a victory for their representative. Mr. Gosse concludes an interesting letter by an intimation that he will visit the old home land again in the not distant future.

IMPORTANT DATES.

March 5th, 6th, 7 and 8th are most important dates for you to remember. On these evenings PILATE'S DAUGHTER will be performed in the Casino Theatre. mar.11

Gower St. Church

ENTERTAINMENT UNQUALIFIED SUCCESS.

An enjoyable concert and sociable was held last night in the Lecture Room of Gower Street Church. Tea was served at 6.30, and 12 tables were laden with good things kindly provided by the ladies. At 8.30, Dr. J. Alex. Robinson took the chair and presided over the concert, which was delightfully rendered by the following artists who contributed, pleasing numbers: Misses Glendinning, McKay, Soper, Mr. Stanfield, A. Quartette by Mrs. Fred Peters, Miss Sylvia Moore, Mr. W. H. Peters and Mr. Don Fraser. Recitations by Miss Wilshire, Mrs. L. C. Mews and Mrs. W.H. Baird; and last but not least, selections by the Jazz Band, which proved to be a very popular feature of the evening's programme. The event proved to be one of exceptional enjoyment to all. The National Anthem brought the entertainment to a close, and all who attended thoroughly enjoyed themselves, and were highly appreciative of all the good things provided by the Committee.

Laid to Rest.

The funeral of the late Nicholas L. Cousens took place yesterday afternoon from his residence, Riverview, Southside Road. There were nearly two hundred mourners there testifying the high esteem in which the late Mr. Cousens was held in the community. His casket was covered with wreaths, and Undertaker S. G. Collier was the funeral director.

Household Notes.

Apples may be stuffed with sausage, baked and heated with sausage fat. Serve with a crisp salad and baked potatoes.
Prunes are quite delicious when washed, steamed until tender, stoned, stuffed with walnut meats and rolled in granulated sugar.
Cream or cottage cheese, mixed in a little fishy-dropped, celery and enough cream to form paste, makes a delicious sandwich filling.
After soaking meat, cook it at a lower temperature. If this is done the texture of the meat will be better and it will taste less dry.

Memories of Our Mercantile Marine.

Oh Tom! of the dear old shipmate days
How well I remember them too;
As we stood on the deck of a brigantine,
And my heart went out to you.
Because you were different, so gentle and kind,
As a sailor man should be;
When he stands in the presence of a little child
As his own dear "Nancy Lee."
You taught me to "Blay"
And you taught me to sing
Songs dear to a sailor's heart,
Chanty's galore, as the sailors would lower,
Set or furl, the great sails away,
And don't you remember the fun we had,
When as Neptune, King of the Sea,
You boarded the ship on that wonderful trip
To have two others and me.
When we crossed the line, making splendid time
Favored with winds that were fair;
And skies they were blue with happiness too,
Sweet music breathed on the air,
Old Dad played "Annie Laurie"
And "Bells of Shandon" grand;
And you sang as one enraptured
In that far-off distant land.
Of dreams of long ago dear,
Though but yesterday it seems;
We were sailing on the briny
In our little ship of dreams,
And we've scattered seeds of kindness
All the long day through
And we've tried to help the blindness
To be faithful, to be true,
To those others we've appealed for
When the dreams come true, what Joy,
Ship of dreams, the Pilot signals,
Ship ahoy, ship ahoy.

Revolving Window for Use in Winter.

Invention by Ottawa Man Being Tried Out by Ottawa Electric Railway.
The Ottawa Electric Railway Company is trying out an invention by a local resident, a former motorman, which so far has proved very satisfactory, and which, it is expected, will prove of much value during the winter months.
The invention, which originates with Mr. Michael P. Comerford, 74 Bessmer Street, consists of a revolving centre window for the front of the street cars, arranged by two pistons in the centre. By means of a small knob, the motorman, when the window becomes covered with frost, can swing the window around and dispose of the frost covering. At present when the window becomes frost glazed, the motorman has to stop his car, get out, climb upon the fender, and scrape the frost from the glass with an instrument provided for the purpose.
The new window is being tried on car 116 on the Preston Rockcliffe route, and Superintendent A. J. Tobin is impressed with its utility, while the motormen believe that it is a splendid thing.
"Apart from the feature mentioned, the window will prove an excellent medium for ventilating the street cars when necessary," said Assistant Superintendent C. W. Carson, for the company—Ottawa Citizen.
[The gentleman referred to above is well known to the citizens of St. John's, being a son of Mr. Richard Comerford, cooper, 56 Cabot Street. He left here in 1915 for Canada, where he has since resided with his family.—Ed. Telegram.]
