Nerves So Bad That She Would Sit and Cry

Mrs. Mary Hocking, Madoc, Ont., writes—
 "Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has done me a wonderful lot of good. I suffered from general weakness and was so run down and my heart and nerves were in such bad shape that I would sit down and cry and not know what I was crying about. I also used to have weak spells. Thanks to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, however, I am real well now. I shall always keep a box of the Nerve Food in the house, and recommend them to my friends; they are a wonderful medicine."
 (Mr. J. W. Vince, Druggist, of Madoc, Ont., says: "I have sold Mrs. Hocking your Nerve Food, and the medicine has done her much good.")

Lord Somerton's Ally.

CHAPTER XXXII

She would have gone boldly toward them, only that Mr. Kemp's tones sounded very authoritative, and she paused to listen.

"Well, Stretton, as you are so persistent, let me tell you that the first payment falls due next Saturday, the first of the month, the day you get your wages. Why the deuce didn't you read the papers before you signed 'em?" the butler demanded loudly.

"Your lawyer gobbled something over," replied Stretton, "but I'll swear that you told me there was no money to pay for four or five weeks, and that I could please myself about it."

"You must think I'm a fool," Kemp retorted. "You get four hundred pounds of me all in good gold, and think it's a gift, eh? You go and spend it and then begin to whine. It's always the same, though, with people who borrow money. They spend it, and then say that they were deceived and imposed upon. I tell you it's downright ingratitude on your part, and I'll make me as hard as nails."

"Now look here, Kemp—"
 "Mr. Kemp, sir—Mr. Kemp!" interrupted the butler, pompously.

"Well, look here, Mr. Kemp. I only wanted to tell you that I had spent more than I intended, and to ask you for a copy of that legal affair which your lawyer promised to give me and hasn't."

"That's all right," said the butler, shrilly. "You want to know your position, eh? And jump down my throat when I begin to enlighten you! I lend you money to enable you to get married, and when you've got all you want, you think of turning me up! Ha! ha! I'm not so green, Mr. Stretton!"

He shook one of his taper fingers at the young game-keeper.

"And I'd have you know that I am not a wandering philanthropist out of his senses. You read the document."

that the legal documents say, and to which you have sworn to, there's an iron cage awaiting you that is specially reserved for convicts, and I tell you that getting money under false pretenses is no joke nowadays!"

With an exultant burst of laughter, Mr. Kemp turned abruptly away.

Stretton was too bewildered to reply, and at that moment he was helpless, for Annette had recovered, and was sobbing hysterically on his shoulder.

"I told you to beware of him," she said. "I told you to have nothing to do with the scamp, and you've got into this scrape for my sake. And here I've got to go away and leave you to it."

"It's all right, Annette," said Stretton, untruthfully. "I've got the money to pay the first installment, and then there's a month to look about me for the next, and my money coming due!"

They walked and talked for an hour, but it was a miserable time, and a miserable parting.

When his sweetheart was gone, Stretton wandered about the Park like an uneasy spirit.

"Tuesday night!" he kept muttering. "And next Saturday's the first of October. Forty-one pounds, thirteen shillings, and four pence! How is it to be done? My new coat doesn't begin till the first, and I've only four pounds and a few shillings to take!"

He went to bed, and dreamed that he had murdered the butler.

He did not see Annette the next morning, and in one sense he was glad of it.

Wednesday, Thursday and Friday passed, and on Saturday morning he was sent for to the library by the Earl of Somerton.

He knew intuitively that he was to be dismissed. The house had been full of vulgar rappers since Miss Storno's flight had become known. He faced the earl like a dazed man.

"There is what is due to you, Stretton," my lord said, coldly; "I have no further use for you here."

Stretton stumbled out of the room, and met the supercilious Kemp in the doorway.

"Don't forget that the first payment is due to-day," he reminded the young man, in an undertone.

"I'll pay you, curse you!" retorted Stretton, maddened by the taunts of his enemy, and his own misery.

The butler recoiled, and Stretton passed on. Kemp recounted to the earl what had transpired, and his lordship affected to be amused. He had taken a great fancy to Mr. Kemp.

"During the afternoon the butler received the following note from William Stretton:

"You have ruined me temporarily, and I hate you for it. Meet me in the long walk at the old place, on Monday night, and I will try and arrange the first payment. No tricks again, if you please. I will be there at ten. Yours, W. STRETTON."

Mr. Kemp read this over thoughtfully, and finally took it to the Earl of Somerton for his advice.

"This man threatens to be dangerous," my lord observed, a strange light flashing into his eyes. "You know that it is impossible for him to find the money due to you, Kemp; therefore, your wisest course is to commence legal proceedings at once, if you intend to recover. I should certainly not meet the fellow; he is frenzied. Allow me to keep this note, if you please."

"Certainly, my lord. I shall take your advice. I will not even reply to this," the butler said.

Test This Superior Wall Material Before You Decide

6 Exclusive Advantages

Beaver Wall Board is the only wall board made of VIRGIN SPRUCE STUBS through and through. One experience has proved it is the best and strongest material for wall board. Millions of these long, tough, shrewd, yet light, spruce staves, give to Beaver Wall Board its greatest toughness and durability.

Beaver Wall Board is a NATURAL INSULATOR. Due to the use of long, virgin spruce staves, it is filled with millions of air spaces, which are almost "cold" or dead air pockets. And building engineers will tell you that "dead air" is one of the most powerful non-conductors of heat, cold and sound.

Beaver Wall Board is of 18 LAYER CONSTRUCTION. Laminating several layers of wood together is widely practiced as a means of increasing warping and bending. Beaver Wall Board is made up of 18 LAYERS of virgin spruce staves pressed and laminated into one perfect panel. This is another reason for its pronounced durability.

Beaver Wall Board is fireproof and seasoned before leaving the factory. This is another exclusive Beaver feature.

Beaver Wall Board is rendered practically impervious to moisture or climatic changes by our exclusive, patented BEAVER FORMULA. This treatment penetrates into the fibre and becomes part of its structure, sealing both sides of each panel against moisture. It also effects an important saving in decorating cost.

Beaver Wall Board is especially suited and primed to protect our "Fire Resistant" Beaver Wall Board. This is another opportunity for beautiful decorative priming is necessary. Other side may be made.

Look for this RED Beaver Border on the back edge of every panel.

YOU intend to fix up those shabby rooms with new walls and ceilings; to make an extra room in the attic or elsewhere; to line the garage; to finish your new home; to build an office or stock room at the plant; or to do a hundred jobs for which this quick, clean, economical, superior wall material is specially adapted.

Boring a Path to Fame

THE INSPIRING STORY OF A TUNNEL MAKER'S TRIUMPH.

Exactly one hundred years ago this month that plans were completed for the construction of the tunnel between Wapping and Rotherhithe. Known as the Thames Tunnel, this wonderful under-river roadway owes its existence to the genius of a man whose name is now all but forgotten by the majority of people.

When Marc Isambard Brunel came to England towards the end of the eighteenth century to escape the French Revolution, a new engineering era dawned in this country.

Brunel, the son of a Normandy landowner, was destined for the Church, but all his thoughts were centered in engineering. When he was twelve years old he could handle tools with the facility of a trained carpenter and in despair his father sent him to the Navy. During his third lesson in trigonometry he astonished his tutor by making a quadrant, a remarkable demonstration of his ingenuity.

Imprisoned For Debt.

On leaving the Navy he went to New York, his ambition to visit England, where he believed his abilities would be recognized, being fulfilled six years later. Almost immediately he patented a number of inventions, one of them, a machine for making pulley blocks for the Navy, meeting with instant success.

The Government's delay in paying him for his services affected his mind and health, and for a time his life was in danger. He had to resort to begging from his friends, who were by no means generous.

The story of Brunel's misfortunes, in fact, is mainly a tale of base ingratitude. He invented the circular saw, and was denounced by timber merchants, who, however, did not hesitate to make use of the new contrivance.

He spent three thousand pounds in devising the first book-making machine, on which were built up many huge fortunes, though Brunel himself did not get a penny-piece for his pains. At last he was put into prison for debt.

ter opposition. Several times he narrowly escaped death, and on more than one occasion he was personally responsible for saving the lives of workmen engaged on the gigantic task.

Twice the water broke into their workings, the second occasion leading to the operations being abandoned for several years. The workmen rushed out, leaving their tools behind them. Hearing that one man had been left behind, Brunel took a rope, went back to the flooded section of the tunnel, and waded about until he found the missing man, whose life he saved.

Brunel did not despair, and in due course had the satisfaction of seeing daylight at the other end of his tunnel. His vicissitudes, however, had robbed him of the capacity for enjoying to the full the fruits of his success, and he died six years after his triumph, completely worn out by his heroic exertions.

Baboon as Railway Signalman

ALMOST HUMAN INTELLIGENCE OF A REMARKABLE ANIMAL.

That baboons are among the most intelligent of animals has been demonstrated once more by the story of Jack, a baboon which for nine years acted as signalman on a South African railway line.

This animal, which had almost human intelligence, was the property of James Edwin Wide, a South African railway guard, who, losing both his legs through being run down by a train, was given the post of signalman at Uitenhage, near Port Elizabeth.

His cottage was some distance from the signal-box, so he built a light trolley, on which he propelled himself as well as he could up and down the line. Then one day, chance led to a half-grown baboon for sale, Wide bought him.

Jack, as he called the baboon, very speedily became devoted to his new master. He watched Wide performing his various duties with the greatest interest, and one day saw startles proof of his own unusual possibilities.

It was one of Wide's duties to keep the key of the padlock which fastened a pair of points off the Graaff Retnet line leading to the coal-yard. When an engine driver came down for coal he gave the customary signal of four whistle blasts, whereupon Wide went to the signal-box and, taking the key from a nail on the wall, handed it to the driver, as he steamed slowly past the platform. On his return the driver whistled again, and the key was taken from him by the signalman, who stood ready to grasp it as the engine passed.

For a long time Jack followed this manoeuvre intently, and then one day he amazed his master, directly the familiar four whistles sounded, by rushing to the nail, taking down the key, handing it to the driver, and waiting patiently on the platform until he returned. Then the baboon solemnly took the key and replaced it on the nail.

After this, the baboon always carried out this duty. The next thing Jack learned to do was to place the trolley on the rails and, once his master got "aboard," to push him to the signal box, removing the trolley from the line when his master alighted. Every day he went through this performance, and in time he became as useful as an extra hand.

BLACKMAIL.

For many years I've gone my way, a highly moral, righteous way. I've garnered no dishonest pelf, I've loved my neighbor as myself, I've tried to make my vows all true, and paid my bills when they were due.

And so I see the village smile, when I go forth, all free from guile, and daisies fair and gay, for gray salutes me as I go my way. The other morning, to my door, there came a most offensive bore. He said, "You're stacking high in town; you have a staidness, white renown. The people think you're good as wheat from your side-whiskers to your feet. But I've the documents to show you swiped twelve hens long years ago. The crime was too low down for words; they were a stricken widow's birds. What will your neighbors think of you, if I announce this fatal news? Oh, shame will gather on your brow, and men who smile upon you now will shun you as the hale and well avoid the leper with his bell. But if you pay ten bones, old boy, these deadly papers I'll destroy."

"Just twenty seconds I will wait, to see you vault my garden gate," I said, in accents cold and stern; "and if you venture to return, I'll take a battle-axe of mine, and deftly cleave you to the chine." And that's the only way to treat the dastardly, disgusting beast who hopes a bank account to win by trading on your ancient sin.

Germany Ceases Reparations Payment Through Financial Stress.

Coolidge Opposed to the Restoration of the Hohenzollerns.

U. S. SYMPATHY. WASHINGTON, Nov. 16. President Coolidge believes the people of the United States will sympathize with any move taken by the Allied Governments to prevent restoring the Hohenzollerns to power in Germany, although the United States cannot, in accordance with a long established policy, take definite action in the matter which has been brought up by the return to Germany of the Crown Prince, Frederick Wilhelm.

CECIL GETS A PEERAGE. LONDON, Nov. 16. A peerage has been conferred on Lord Robert Cecil, Lord Privy Seal in the Baldwin Cabinet and prominent proponent of the League of Nations. Lord Robert Cecil held present title as the younger son of the third Marquis of Salisbury.

UNABLE TO PAY. BERLIN, Nov. 16. Germany ceased reparations deliveries in kind, solely on account of her financial inability, says a semi-official statement this evening, but she holds herself bound, as hitherto, to all the remaining clauses of the Treaty of Versailles. The report, stating that the reason for the temporary cessation of reparations deliveries in that Germany no longer regards herself bound by the Treaty of Versailles is incorrect, the statement says.

ACQUITTED! LAUSANNE, Nov. 16. Maurice Conrad, Swiss engineer, and his alleged accomplice, Paul Polonovski, a Russian, were acquitted by a jury to-day of the assassination of Vaslav Vorovsky, Soviet envoy to the second Lausanne Conference, who was shot and killed here May 10th last.

As Others See Us

And as we see Ourselves.

(By OBSERVATOR.)

"Gone the cry of 'Forward, Forward!' lost within a growing gloom; Lost, or only heard in silence from the silence of the tomb. Chaos, Cosmos! Cosmos, Chaos! who can tell how all will end? Read the wide world's annals, you, and take their wisdom for your friend."

THE OLD DAYS AND THE NEW AGE.

The shadows into which the Empire was plunged by the great war still linger to depress the overseas dominions. Indeed, no country, however strong, escaped those shadows. How long it will be before the Empire emerges no one can tell. When the contending armies retired from the field, many there were who expected to see the activities of peace, so long suspended, resume their "normalcy" at once; but that was not to be. Six years were not enough, nor will ten years suffice, nor even a generation. In fact, "normalcy" in the domain of industry and for the masses, will never be as used to be. The old days are gone, a new age has come. The old conventions are left behind, and new ones are to be found; but it takes years to establish customs and conventions—and "normalcy," when it comes, whatever it may be, will be an entirely new standard.

WHAT IT WILL MEAN TO NEW-FOUNDLAND.

To Newfoundland "normalcy" will mean the restoration of her greatest source of income—"the harvest of the sea"—to the importance that very properly and naturally belonged to it in pre-war days. Then our people could, and did, earn an honest and comfortable livelihood, without the aid of the Bell Island mines, the Grand Falls paper mills or any other auxiliaries. Why can they not do so now? Let the powers that be answer this question when it is convenient for them to do so. Meanwhile the masses await, with much interest and some anxiety, a frank and candid reply!

"Fish, sail, forge, build, plough, paint, all things make men." To your own country's instincts contrive to be true. Keep your ears open wide to the future's first call. Be whatever you will, but yourself first of all."

THE MATTER OF EMPLOYMENT FOR THE PEOPLE.

Some time ago, in an article on "employment for the people," I pointed out the fact that, in all new countries, like Newfoundland, for many, many years after their inhabitation, there was and is abundant scope for useful public works of such a nature as would absorb all the surplus manual labor of the country. To be profitably employed, this manual labor must be expended on such works as will assist the State in realizing its natural products; and the rate of wage paid thereat must not exceed a high equivalent to somewhat less than is current at the time in the ordinary labor market. It is useless to attempt to improve conditions by wasting public money on snow-shovelling and other make-shifts from which there can be no returns of any kind, and which can only be regarded as an ill-advised waste of the public revenue.

THE DIMENSIONS OF OUR REVENUE.

We cannot stretch the natural dimensions of our revenue beyond a certain almost exactly-ascertained extent of margin, and any attempt to do so must of necessity be only a temporary and falling expedient. Such an attempt, and a very daring one at that, was made during the dying throes of the late Government, and every resource that human ingenuity could devise was racked to its utmost capacity to keep the flame burning a little longer. But the end came, and all "ends" must eventually come, and now its few remaining friends are sitting beside the funeral pyre and keening its demise! One feature is observable here as elsewhere: usually governments begin high and take the better part of four years to reach the bottom. The late Government, however, "went one better": it did the trick in a few months!

THE VIEWS OF THE MAN IN THE STREET.

Members of the Legislature profess to be experts in diagnosing the views of the man in the street, and they should certainly know something of the currents of feeling in the constituencies, if only to justify their contempt for any outsider who may venture to express an opinion upon these sacred subjects. And yet how completely the House of Assembly appears to be out of touch with the intelligent and effective public opinion of the country is shown, from time to time, by expressions of opinion on questions vital to the interests of the masses. Too often representatives of the people seem to be ignorant of the real requirements of their constituents; and yet, as the poet puts it:—"Fishers, farmers, have I found, and more than once, and still could find. Sons of God, and kings of men in utter nobleness of mind. Truthful, trustful, looking upward to the promised hunting-lair. So the Higher yields the Lower, while the Lower is the Higher."

GOVERNOR MURRAY AND HIS METHODS.

The successful administration of a country's public concerns largely depends upon the ability of the Administrator himself. Take, for instance, the case of Newfoundland a few years ago. Affairs here in 1895 were in a most embarrassing condition, as a result of the collapse of our financial institutions and the consequent demoralization of the commercial business of the colony. Nevertheless, under the able administration of Sir Herbert Murray, in four years, or during his term of office, the credit of the colony was completely re-established and the situation generally restored to a normal condition. And this, too, in face of the fact that

You Should Entrust

AN IRREPRESSIBLE DESIRE TO KNOW EVERYTHING.

The apparent irrepresible desire of Sir Herbert to see and to know everything, and to go everywhere, moved His Excellency to come in contact with all kinds and conditions of people. This practice was as fruitful in popularity as it was in personal gratification. The governed were brought into personal contact with the governor, much to their mutual gratification, and perhaps to their mutual advantage. His rule in Newfoundland was marked with energy and originality, and his departure was accompanied with general regret. This is what one of the local papers said of him at the time:—"Our late governor has been four years with us. These four years have been the most important period in our history; and the future of the colony will take its shape and mould very much from the method of managing public matters adopted during the past few years, and with which the name of Sir Herbert Murray will henceforth be associated." At present, like the other overseas dominions, we are confronted with perplexing difficulties, some of which at times seem almost insuperable. But we are encouraged by the hope that our new Proconsul (Sir William Allardice) will—as did Sir Herbert Murray—rise to the requirements of the occasion, and lead our wayward footsteps back to the paths of peace, prosperity and political rectitude, from which they have so blindly and recklessly wandered.

THE PRIME MINISTERS AND THEIR CONSULTATIONS.

Under the suggestive caption of "Consult," the Empire Review for October observes:—"It has become clear that no one section of the Empire can conveniently commit the rest unconsulted, and that the main issue at stake is how best to promote consultation. Of old, space prohibited regular discussion, but steam, petrol, and wireless have 'mopped up' the miles which intervene. The farthest units are now within range, and, as chances of discussion increase, so is the desire for it quickened. If overseas citizens have crossed the ocean to fight, why should they not cross it to confer? This they must do increasingly at stated intervals through their first Ministers of State, and the intervals must be bridged by the establishment of some surer system than the present Secretariat and one in closer touch with overseas views. We do not for one moment suggest the creation of a body to usurp executive functions: We merely anticipate the evolutionary emergence of some consultative committee which can faithfully respond to home and Dominion feeling." The following poem was written by Alfred Tennyson on the opening of the Indian and Colonial Exhibition by Queen Victoria in 1887:—

Sharers of our glorious past,
Brothers, must we part at last?
Shall we not thro' good and ill
Cleave to one another still Britain's myriad voices call.
"Sons, be welded each and all
Into one Imperial whole,
One with Britain, heart and soul!
One life, one flag, one fleet, one Throne!
Britains, hold your own!"

Our Dumb Animals

REPORT OF CHIEF AGENT FOR WEEK ENDING, NOV. 16th, 1923.

Was asked to inspect a horse for Miss Garland the horse was very old and had a sore back. I advised her to have the horse humanely destroyed, which she did. Another horse I inspected owned by a man Lear on Pennywell Road. This animal was old and lame, he only had the horse a short time. I humanely put to death this one also, it was sent to the fox farm. I also examined another horse owned by Mr. Ash, Casey St. This animal was suffering from some internal trouble and I humanely destroyed it also as well as a dog for Mrs. Adams, Gower Street and another dog owned by a party in Gallagher's Range, Water St. West. Some time ago this dog was run over by a motor on Water St. West near the Gas House and I humanely put it to death. I also put to death a dog which was run over by a car driven by Mr. T. Woods. Immediately after the accident, he reported it to me by phone, I went and found that the dog's hip was broken. I am very thankful to Mr. Woods for his prompt action in having the dog attended to, after I also attended the landing of

As you are doubtless aware, there are two kinds of wool, viz: Jaeger and the other kind, and As Jaeger is in a class to itself, I stock it.

It is distinguished from all others by its fleecy appearance, softness to the touch, warmth and lightness of weight. It became famous owing to the fact that no Arctic or Antarctic expedition ever started without having first obtained a goodly stock of Jaeger Wool Goods.

The greatest care is taken in the finish of all Jaeger goods which gives them a personality that obtains in no others. Let your next woollens be Jaeger.

The cattle were all well cared for. I stopped some teamsters who were riding on loads. I spoke to a truckman for carrying too heavy a load on a lame horse. My attention was called to a horse with a bad back, I examined the horse and found there was no cause for complaint, the report was incorrect. I ordered two lame horses to be freed. I attended all sales of cattle and saw they were carefully removed after sale. I received a report from a policeman of a Chinaman at Rawlin's Cross throwing scalding water on cats, the case is in the hands of the solicitor and will come before the court Saturday. Veterinary D. TRAFFIC WONDERS AT WEMBLEY.

Mechanical Aids to Knowledge.
So vast is the area covered by the great British Empire Exhibition at Wembley that special transport facilities have had to be provided inside the grounds.

There are fifteen miles of roads in the Exhibition, and not even the most eager searcher after knowledge can be expected to do the journey from end to end on foot.

There will be three kinds of mechanical transport available next April when the Exhibition opens, viz: a "never stop" railway, the first to be installed in this country on more than an experimental stage, a "Road-rail System" and a fleet of electric cars, which, together, will enable the visitor to travel round practically the whole of the Exhibition with both speed and comfort.

Trains That Never Stop.

The "never-stop" railway, which is the invention of Mr. W. Yorath Lewis, is run on the principle of the Under-ground oscillator. It does away with drivers, conductors and brakes. Its speed varies from practically zero at the stations up to 24 miles an hour in the open.

Driving power is transmitted by a continuously revolving electrically driven spiral between the rails, like the thread of a screw, which is in contact all the time with a roller arm under the cars. At the stations the spiral is closely wound; between the stations it is widely wound. Thus the speed of the cars is automatically regulated.

Each car will be about twenty feet long, and will have accommodation for 24 passengers sitting and 12 standing. Twenty thousand passengers an hour can be carried each way.

The railway, which will start at the main (north) entrance at Wembley Park Station, will travel on an elevated road first to the Palace of Engineering, thence through the main section of the Amusement Park, past the Coal Mine and the Indian Pavilion to the Great Central Exhibition Station, past the chief bandstand and the British Government Section, to a turning point near the Stadium. The round trip, which extends to roughly three miles, will be done in about ten minutes.

Road Rails.

The new "Roadrail" will run from the southern side of the Amusement Park behind the Stadium to a turning point near Wembley Hill Station. Thus, there will be a complete connection between the two main entrances and the two main railway stations to London.

"Roadrail" over which a frequent service is to be maintained with convenient stopping places, is a remarkable development of the light-railway that has not previously been seen in this country. The system, it is claimed, solves a problem which has confronted railway engineers for many years, namely, to obtain the maximum pulling force of the engine or tractor while keeping at a minimum resistance of the load. This is done by providing the engine with special rubber-shod driving wheels, which run either inside or outside, the ordinary railway track, on wheels of concrete, macadam, or other suitable material with a road-like surface. The rubber gear adheres easily to the track, and this intensified grip enables the road-rail tractor, weight for weight, to deal with four times the ordinary load.

The ballasting of rails, too, becomes unnecessary, and constructional costs are very less in consequence. Apart from the driving wheels the tractor has also "carrying" wheels, those wheels, that is which do not transmit power, but merely carry the part of the total weight not supported on the driving wheels. They run on the rails and thus automatically guide the train. The Roadrail tractor is quite at home on gradients that would be fatal to an ordinary locomotive.

The "Roadrail" track at Wembley covers about two and a half miles on the double journey. As an exhibit, it will be of profound interest to engineers, and, at the same time, a thing of great usefulness to the ordinary visitor.

Electric cars will be available on all the many roads of the Exhibition.

There is no more picturesque and fashionable light evening wear than the gorgeously embroidered and fringed Spanish shawl.

Barge Pelican Was Abandoned

TOW ROPE PARTED AFTER UNSUCCESSFUL ATTEMPTS TO BRING HER HERE.

The barge Pelican, with a cargo of scrap iron, broke adrift from her tow, s.s. Curlew, about one o'clock Saturday morning after four attempts to bring her into this port. The barge left St. John's, Newfoundland, on October 21, in tow of s.s. Obernal, and three times previous to Saturday's accident, had put back into port owing to heavy weather. The barge was in command of Capt. Jack Walsh, and there were on board Andrew Kenny, of Fermeuse, mate; Gus. Eagan, St. John's, cook; William Peter Kenney, of Fermeuse, William Dalton, of St. John's, and John Walsh, of Fermeuse, seamen. The barge and cargo were owned by F. Bannikhin, of the North American Fur, Hide and Metal Company, St. John's, Nfld.

The s.s. Obernal took the barge in tow, but owing to heavy weather had to put into St. Pierre on October 25. Two days later after steaming about thirty miles from St. Pierre, a north-west gale was encountered and a return to St. Pierre was made. A third attempt to make the trip was made, the s.s. Curlew assisting s.s. Obernal; but about forty miles out from St. and, as the Obernal was not powerful enough to combat the heavy seas the barge drifted considerably and the cargo shifted. Fires were sent up and the Curlew, after standing away about ten miles, steamed near enough to the Obernal to signal a return to St. Pierre.

On the return to St. Pierre the Obernal was ordered to Sydney and s.s. Curlew made the fourth attempt to bring the barge to this port. The start was made on the morning of the ninth, and late in the day the captain of the Curlew signalled the crew on the barge to come on board the steamer as the weather was showing signs of violence. The seas were then running high and the crew had some difficulty in launching their boats and crossing to the steamer.

At one fifteen on Saturday morning the tow line parted and the fourth attempt ended in failure. The Curlew steamed away abandoning the barge, which was last reported by s.s. Wabana about ninety miles south-east of this port and drifting at the rate of about two miles an hour in the same direction. The owner of the barge came here from St. Pierre on the s.s. Obernal.

The crew of the barge will return to Newfoundland by s.s. Kyle tonight. They speak very highly of the way they were treated by the Curlew and by the owner of the barge, who arranged for their accommodation on arrival here of the Curlew.

It is understood that the barge and cargo were insured for about $25,000. The barge was formerly the warship Pelican and has a long and interesting history.—Sydney Herald.

The Unsuitability of the Nfld. Offices in London.

A correspondent writing from London refers to a visit which he recently paid to the office of the High Commissioner for Newfoundland. He is outspoken in his comments on the accommodation provided by the Government and says in part:—

"We are a Dominion, but our purse is not equal to keeping up with the scale on which our sister Dominions are able to do things. This is particularly noticeable in connection with our High Commissioner's Offices. After visiting the magnificent Australia House, the fine New Zealand offices in the Strand and the South Africa offices in what was formerly Morley's Hotel looking out over Trafalgar Sq. (all of which have big display windows and interior accommodation for exhibiting their products to the public), and the fine Canadian offices in one of the best buildings in Pall Mall, one cannot help feeling the contrast with our very indifferent offices on a sixth floor in Victoria Street, a floor even above the upper limits of the lift. If one did not know the number, one would have great difficulty in finding them at all. It is true that Captain Victor Gordon's genial smile compensates for all other disadvantages, but I do think we should afford the trifle necessary to house him little better and provide some windows on the street level where Newfoundland products and pictures could be displayed.

In the New Zealand window, for instance, they have besides many other things, even a little cold storage chamber with carcasses of New Zealand mutton hanging in view of the public. In Australia House, besides a splendid hall filled with samples of every conceivable product, many of which are actually on sale, they have a free Cinema showing pictures of Australian life and industry, which always has a full house and no doubt attracts many settlers to the Dominion. This sort of publicity helps to get them value for their money.

A sixth floor office which can only be found by the number and a brass plate, does nothing to advertise us, and advertisement is everything nowadays, whatever your business."

Whatever the differences of opinion there may be on the question of maintaining a High Commissioner in London, there can be no two opinions on the necessity for providing suitable accommodation as long as a representative is kept there. One of the strongest arguments that can be advanced in favour of retaining the High Commissioner-ship is that it brings the country in touch with people in England and thereby helps to advertise our resources. Buried as the office is, it fails utterly in its main object. Unless and until it is removed to some more conspicuous site, it is useless to expect much in the shape of returns in keeping with the amount required to maintain it.

The reference made to the difficulty of discovering the office is by no means an exaggeration.

We cannot aspire to such elaborate offices as house the representatives of the larger Dominions, but there is no reason why we should not possess quarters such as those occupied until recently by the Agents General of the different Canadian Provinces. They were situated in one or other of the busy thoroughfares and the attractive displays in their windows never failed to attract the attention of the passer-by.

In Captain Victor Gordon we have a gentleman who has more than proved his worth in his capacity as High Commissioner, but in the dingy, obscure corner into which he has been thrust, it is impossible for him to do himself justice, or to display to the best advantage the attractions that we have to offer to the tourist, to prospective customers, or to the capitalist.

Cochrane Street Centennial Church

Many of those who remember the splendid work of Revs. Crossley and Hunter in this city some years ago will be glad to welcome Rev. E. Crossley Hunter, who is the son of one of the evangelists. Mr. Hunter will preach morning and evening at Cochrane Street Church, and lecture on Monday evening in the College Hall. In addition to the sympathetic feeling which we have for Mr. Hunter through his sainted father, there is also the interest because of his reputation as a preacher, and a man who has attained a high position in the administrative bodies of his church.

Mr. Fred M. Guildford is singing at the morning and evening services, and at the lecture on Monday evening. We also have a slight connection with him through his grandfather, Capt. Guildford, who had charge of the mail service between Halifax and St. John's years ago. He has a splendid reputation as a vocalist, and with the singing of the choir the services on Sunday promise to be of special interest.

The members of the congregation are requested to be in their places ten minutes before the commencement of the services, this is at 10.20 in the morning, and 8.30 in the evening.

The lecture in the College Hall on Monday evening will be with hearing, and will be replete with wit and wisdom. His Excellency the Governor has graciously consented to take the chair.

France Determined on Punitive Measures Against Germany.

Britain Refuses to Participate.

LONDON, Nov. 17. The British Government will not accede to the demand of France for punitive measures against Germany, and has notified the British Ambassador in Paris to inform the Council of Ambassadors. This action was taken after the Cabinet, following a lengthy meeting, had deliberated on the punitive measures which M. Poincaré, the French Premier, proposes to take against Germany to force the extradition of the former Emperor, Prince Frederick Wilhelm, and permit a full resumption of the Allied military control in Germany which has been suspended during the past ten months. As Poincaré declares that France will enforce these penalties separately if Great Britain refuses to join her, there appears to be a hopeless deadlock between the two nations which some of the political observers believe portends an ultimate dissolution of the Entente Cordiale. It is felt in ministerial circles here that matters are exactly where they were early last August, when Lord Curzon, the British Foreign Secretary, sent his famous note to Poincaré, in which he declared that Great Britain could not much longer delay separate action toward the settlement of the Ruhr situation without the gravest consequences to the recovery of trade, and to the peace of the world. Some members of the Government favor making a demand on France to adopt the viewpoint which Great Britain holds regarding Germany. Others are opposed to this on grounds that it might bring no results from France, and might upset the financial equilibrium of the whole of Europe. It, however, the United States should ask France to pay her debt it is thought likely Great Britain would do the same.

ITALY OPPOSED TO FURTHER OCCUPATION OF GERMANY. ROME, Nov. 17. The Italian Government cannot give its approval to any further occupation of German territory. Premier Mussolini declared in the Senate to-night, "one must have the courage to say that the German people cannot be destroyed." The Premier continued, "they are a people who have known civilization and which to-morrow may be an integral part of European civilization."

RICH GOLD STRIKE IN QUEBEC. QUEBEC, Nov. 17. It is reported that important gold deposits have been discovered at Dead Harriet on the West of the Duboulaye canton. Prospectors interested in the find are apparently anxious to keep the whole matter secret, but the news has leaked out from several sources. It is said some quartz taken from the district is astonishingly rich in samples.

T. P. O'CONNOR MAY BE RETURNED BY DECLARATION. LONDON, Nov. 17. T. P. D'ANNUNZIO DENIES HIS WEDDALS. BRISCEIA, ITALY, Nov. 17. Gabriele D'Annunzio has refused a silver medal for military valor, recently conferred on him by the Ministry of War to replace a bronze one. In the announcement of his rejection he expressed his indignation and declared he has burned all decorations which he received, sixteen for bravery including the highest gold medal awarded to Italian soldiers on an altar erected at Villa Altar of a rock begun out of Monte Grappa where one of the fiercest battles between the Austrians and the Italians in 1918 took place. Underneath the altar repose the body of D'Annunzio's unknown soldier and he offers sacrifice by burning laurel leaves.

ALBERTA DECIDES AGAINST PROHIBITION. CALGARY, ALTA., Nov. 17. The official count increases the government control majority by about 10,000.

COSSIGRA REFUSES TO RELEASE HUNGARIAN STRIKERS. DUBLIN, Nov. 17. Appeals for the release of Republican held prisoners by the Free State's authorities were made in the jail last night but President Cosgrave refused to be moved. He described the hunger strike as the greatest in the history of Ireland in the entire 7000 only 300 are now on strike.

Majestic Performers Receive Big Ovation

of theatre, the Rialto, New York City, she has been a headliner in vaudeville over the Keith and Orpheum circuits for many seasons. She is the essence of rhythm and grace and combines this with great dramatic ability. Her dances are her own creations and have proved a sensation in the American theatre. Everyone will enjoy the charming personality and winsome grace of this young lady. She is considered to be one of the most talented young women on the American stage, by such great artists and moving picture producers as Mr. Thomas Ince. She has been called "The Whirl of Temperament" and it justly applies to her personality and ability.

Miss Thurston enjoys a wardrobe of startling creation. Her gowns and costumes are designed and made by the famous Arlington studios of New York City. A special setting of draperies is also carried for their presentations. Last night the artists were compelled to acknowledge repeated encores from an over-enthusiastic audience and it would be unfair just as much as it is difficult to define the excellence of one over the magnificence of the other. In brief both well-deserved a big ovation tendered their presentations. This afternoon they will appear at 4 p.m. and again at 9 p.m.

On both occasions "The Face on the Bar-room Floor" will be repeated. On Monday the much spoken of film story, "You can't fool your wife," will be the film feature.

Miraculous Escape From Death

SPORTSMAN RUN OVER BY TRAIN AND HAS ARM SEVERED FROM BODY.

Douglas Beck, belonging to Swift Current, Placette Bay, had a narrow escape from being instantly killed a few days ago while the west bound express was pulling out from Kitty's Brook on her way to Port aux Basques. Beck, it appears, had just returned to Kitty's Brook, after spending the day shooting in the woods, and in making an attempt to board the moving train, he lost his balance and was hurled underneath the car, with the result that one of the wheels ran over his right arm close to the shoulder, almost severing it from his body. Fortunately, one of the brakemen who was standing on the platform witnessed the happening, and signalled for the train to stop. The trainman went back and found the sportsman in a semi-conscious condition, and it could be seen at a glance that he had met with serious injury. The unfortunate victim was removed to the train where every thing possible was done by the train crew to alleviate his sufferings. His arm was dislocated at its side, and to save the man from bleeding to death the crew applied first aid. After this he was moved to a dog house and taken to the Armstrong White, worth Co.'s hospital where immediate amputation of the limb followed. The sportsman was taken to the hospital and according to reports received in the city since the operation the patient is doing as well as can be expected.

Crown vs. Pye

FAIL TO FIND A VERDICT.

The hearing of the charge of murder preferred against Laura Pye continued last evening when the jury, after about an hour's deliberation, returned a verdict. The defence was heard at three o'clock, following which Mr. W. J. Higgins addressed the jury intimating that he would call two witnesses—the accused and her husband. The latter, a splendid looking chap in naval uniform, and wearing a Victoria C.B. He served in the war on a mine sweeper, and after demobilization he returned to Newfoundland where he spent a year in the service in 1921. He knew Pye for about 4 years, and they were married at Halifax on June 29th. Mrs. Pye having come from Boston for the purpose. The couple lived together in Halifax until August when Mrs. Pye signified her intention of coming home for a vacation. She left on August 8th. Whillast Carbonar she wrote five or six letters a week to her husband. He left Halifax on the 25th Sept. to come to Newfoundland, and did not know of the return of his wife until he arrived at St. John's on the 28th. Mrs. Pye had promised his wife to arrive on the 10th inst. but could not get to the city. The accused was next put on the stand, and for about half an hour told a story, pathetic in the extreme. A girl of short stature, wearing a large blue capriolin hat, brown trimmed with fur. She gave her name as Mrs. Pye. Her countenance showed every indication of terrible mental anguish. Both her parents, she said, were dead, and she had only one brother who now resides in Boston. In detail she described arriving at Carbonar, on Aug. 9, and proceeding to her only relation, Mrs. Clarke, where her reception was such that she was in by Mrs. Fraze, at whose house the infant was born. When she arrived at Mrs. Fraze's home she had very sufficient money until some day she was expecting from her husband, came. After the birth of the baby she received a draft for $40, and with this her board-bill and other expenses were paid. On Sept. 10th Mrs. Fraze's car came to St. John's and made an effort to have a S.A. people take the child. After Mrs. Fraze's return to Carbonar, where she arrived with only $10 in her pocket. From there she started to walk to her former home in Freshwater. It was whilst walking with her valise and baby that she was accosted by Mrs. Pye and her daughter. The latter offered to carry the valise. After a short while Mrs. Pye continued alone, until she reached the deserted house of her brother. It was on a Monday night, and she sat on the doorstep, crying, until daylight, when she with her baby went into the woods, deciding, as she said, to wait until Thursday, when her husband should arrive from Halifax. All day in the wet she remained on the hills, and during the night she suffered much from the frost which had fallen. Wednesday morning she reached Carbonar to again visit Mrs. Fraze. She asked for food and shelter, but receiving nothing, she decided to proceed again to her baby. At 10.30 in the evening the infant took a bad cold and again another at 10.30. She tried to nurse it without avail. Putting her face to the infant's, she found that it had grown cold and, concluding that it was dead, she determined to end all her troubles by throwing the baby into the sea. She did this, she testified, and she strapped the infant to her own body, inside her coat, and stepped into the sea from a wharf at Carbonar's Cove. After a few minutes she was washed ashore. The deceased stated that when she jumped in, the water was not deep, and that the coast was the baby's body from getting washed coming ashore. The mother wanted to the hills and laid the baby's body under a clump of trees, where it was afterwards found under the direction of Mr. Higgins, at the scene of the cross examination addressed the jury for a space of 40 minutes on behalf of his client. He was told by Mr. Winter who addressed the jury for twenty-five minutes, concerning the facts of the case very clearly. The Chief Justice, summing up, explained the different points of the case in the case, showing the difference between murder and manslaughter, and instructed the jury that they first decide whether or not she was guilty of murder. If they were satisfied that she was not, they must consider whether she was guilty of manslaughter; and if satisfied that she was guilty of neither, they must determine whether she was guilty of culpable neglect. The jury retired at 6.30 and returned at 8.30 when, through their foreman, Mr. J. E. O'Reilly, they informed the court that they had not been able to arrive upon a verdict. The prisoner was therefore released upon her recognizance.

$564.46 on the proper side of the Balance

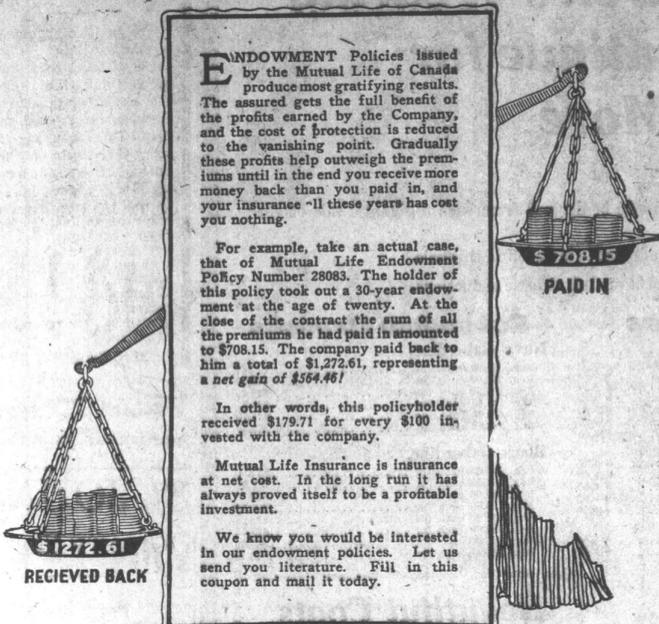

ENDOWMENT Policies issued by the Mutual Life of Canada produce most gratifying results. The assured gets the full benefit of the profits earned by the Company, and the cost of protection is reduced to the vanishing point. Gradually these profits help outweigh the premiums until in the end you receive more money back than you paid in, and your insurance will these years has cost you nothing.

For example, take an actual case, that of Mutual Life Endowment Policy Number 28083. The holder of this policy took out a 30-year endowment at the age of twenty. At the close of the contract the sum of all the premiums he had paid in amounted to $708.15. The company paid back to him a total of $1,272.61, representing a net gain of $564.46!

In other words, this policyholder received $179.71 for every $100 invested with the company.

Mutual Life Insurance is insurance at net cost. In the long run it has always proved itself to be a profitable investment.

SIDE TALKS.

By Ruth Cameron.

THE MOST UNBECOMING EXPRESSION.

Of all the masks rest assumed masks of one kind or we queer human another, sometimes the mask of artificial gaiety, but more often the mask of our faces, I think there is none less becoming than the mask of superciliousness.

And none more commonly assumed.

We sat in a big hotel dining room the other day and while we waited for our order we watched the guests who had finished make their exit. After threading their way past the tables, they had to pass through a long empty space lined with mirrors and in full view of the rest of the dining room. It was interesting to see how they stood the ordeal.

For it was obvious that it was an ordeal to most of them. Only a few appeared natural and at ease. The their expression? Some of them smile; some can afford to laugh outright; some have perhaps a wistful or a tender expression; now and then some brunette beauty can afford to adopt the tragic pose (though rarely); but none of them, beautiful though they are, can afford to appear with a superciliousness, sniffly air.

And if they can't afford it with their wealth of beauty, surely we ordinary people can even less justify such an extravagance.

Of course the people who walked out of the dining room behind those masks of supercilious aloofness, trying to look impressive and only succeeding in looking disagreeable, didn't know how their faces looked to other folks. But they might have guessed if they had just looked at other folks doing the same thing.

Think of Something New.

Very few people are oblivious to the lime-light of consciousness. Only those who have been born with the blessed gift of self-consciousness, or who have had so much limelight that they really forget about it can achieve that.

It seems to me the best thing to do when we have to pass through such an ordeal is to think of something other than the fact that people are watching you (which by the way they aren't half so much as you think they are). Think of something nice you are going to do, or something pleasant someone said to you, or of someone whom you like. That thought may reflect a pleasant expression onto your face and also sufficiently absorb you so that you won't have to take a personal interest in your hands and feet and they will look after themselves the way they usually do.

A Chance for Card Players

In our advertising columns to-day we carry a notice announcing the commencement on Monday night of the Card Tournaments that are to be held every week in the St. Vincent de Paul Hall during the winter. These Tournaments are worth attending and are within the reach of everybody as the admission price is only 30 cents, besides if you are lucky you might win one of the handsome prizes that they give, which will be the same as last winter, viz. a barrel of flour for 1st prize and a ¼ of coal for 2nd prize with 2 special prizes for the two players having the most number of games at the closing of the Tournament. The 1st prize will be a $10 gold piece and 2nd a $5 gold piece.

Last winter over five hundred dollars worth of flour and coal was given away in prizes, and the Committee intend if possible to give the same prizes this winter. The same committee as last year are again in charge of these tournaments. V. S. Walsh is Chairman and S. Rowell is Secretary. Those who attend will spend a pleasant and enjoyable night.

Brilliant Musical Programme at the Nickel

VOCALIST AND DANCERS DELIGHT AUDIENCE.

Last night's audience at the Nickel fully enjoyed the excellent musical programme, which can be truthfully said surpassed anything yet rendered at this popular house of amusement. Grace Bradley, Prima Donna Dramatic Contralto was in good form, having thoroughly recovered from the effects of the severe voyage to this port. Her renditions were given in a manner that places her in a distinctive rank among famous singers. Miss Bradley sang with a ready freedom of delivery and an engaging poignancy of dramatic emotion. Her notes are clear and travel with a resonance that is really wonderful, and her voice control is masterful. The audience applauded warmly and their appreciation was clearly visible.

Special mention is also due Dolly Moore and Jimmie Clayton, the dainty dancing couple, whose skilled and colorful dancing brought forth an outburst of enthusiasm from a well pleased audience. Their acrobatic number was nothing short of wonderful. The grace and charm of these neat performers adds greatly to their success. Patrons of this theatre look forward with keen interest to what next week's programme will have in store. The musical part of the bill is provided by Prof. F. J. McCarthy at the Piano and Jack Cronan at the Drums and Effects left nothing lacking.

On Monday it is the intention of the management to screen one of the biggest picture attractions of the season. The production will be "One Week of Love," featuring Elaine Hammerstein and Conway Tearle. We'll tell you more about this on Monday.

"FREEZONE"

CORNS lift right off

Doesn't hurt a bit! Drop a little "Freezone" on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers. Truly!

Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the calluses, without soreness or irritation.

Japanese Succored Americans Seattle Man Tells of Quake.

With Another Survivor of Yokohama Disaster, E. H. Waugh Relates How Humble Citizens Assisted Them.

By E. H. WAUGH,
Engineer for Smith Cannery Machines Company of Seattle.

I arrived at Yokohama Saturday, September 1, from Hakodate, having reservations on the President Jefferson, which was due to sail on September 4. I arrived at the Grand Hotel about 10 a.m. After a bath and change of clothing I went downstairs and sat down in the north lounge to rest. My seat was directly in front of one of the large windows, which were open.

Shortly before noon there was a preliminary shock which was quite severe. I immediately rose from my chair, intending to jump from the window, but already the second or main shock had occurred and the wall containing the windows was already falling toward the street.

Feeling certain that if I jumped from the window I would be caught by the falling wall, I ran back into the room, intending to reach the main entrance. However, before I had got fifteen feet the whole room fell in. This part of the building was evidently an addition to the main one, being but one storey although quite high. The ceiling of this room was of the pressed steel type and the roof was of tin, perfectly flat. When it came down the roof remained supported by the back wall, part of which was still standing, while the front dropped to the street.

Escapes Serious Injury.
After the crash I found myself pinned among the wreckage. However, there was a hole torn in the roof directly above my head and my arms being free I was able to enlarge it so that I could climb through after I had extricated my feet and legs.

Upon gaining the roof I slid down to the street. I should judge about one minute and a half had elapsed since the first shock. Barring a few cuts about the head and wrenched legs I was unhurt.

I walked about the hotel for about fifteen minutes in order to lend a hand to others, but so far as I could see at that time I was the only one to escape. Later I learned that three other guests got out, some of them before me and some just in time to escape the fire which occurred about thirty-five minutes later. It is assumed that all other guests as well as the house employees were lost.

The Oriental Palace Hotel, about one block north of the Grand and about the same size, just collapsed into the ground that opened up under it. So far as I could find out, only two people escaped there. The building caught fire almost immediately.

Large City is Flattened.
This large city, about the size of Seattle both in area and population, was not on the ground in thirty seconds and fire was cleaning up the wreckage. The fire, fanned by a high wind, burned all afternoon, all night and all the next day. The wind, however, died down about 9 o'clock the night of September 1.

During the afternoon the shocks continued and for about an hour following the first shock the surface of the earth was in constant agitation; the street looking like a pot of thick porridge boiling, with large rocks coming to the surface everywhere.

When I boarded a rowboat for the steamship Gondola the following morning the shocks had continued at intervals of about thirty minutes. What impressed me about the shocks was their violence and the fact that the surface of the earth seemed to rise vertically and to settle with a queer twisting movement.

Water Street, which runs at right angles with the shore, is south of the Grand Hotel and in the rear of it. Adjacent to this street is the canal. The canal has a bridge over it at every block, but all at these were down except the one next to the shore, which was a new structure. It was undamaged except for the fact that the first had fallen away from the concrete supports at either end. This I passed over to some reclaimed ground near the shore. Here I remained during the afternoon.

The entire city was a mass of flames with a high wind blowing, partly off shore. The atmosphere was full of smoke and very hot, consequently the suffering from thirst was intense, for water was not to be had. In this area many terrible sights were to be seen. An injured white boy about 8 years of age was being taken care of by a Japanese, who was doing all he could for him. The boy was taken aboard the P. & O. Gondola later that night and the ship's surgeon attended him, but it was too late and he passed away fore morning. Another white boy about 5 years of age was also being taken care of by a Japanese. I do not know what became of him but I could see that he would not last long. Hundreds of such cases surrounded me and without exception I believe they had been carried there by the Heroism of American ship officers, generosity of the Japanese victims in caring for wounded Europeans and Americans and sharing their food and water are vividly described by E. H. Waugh, engineer for the Smith Cannery Machines Company of Seattle, in an account of his experiences in Yokohama when that Japanese city, the size of Seattle, was flattened by earthquakes.

Mr. Waugh penned his narrative for The Seattle Times after learning through a radio message from John Wallace, president of the company, that news of the survivors was eagerly sought. The writer tells how he, too, was befriended by Japanese survivors whose homes had been destroyed.

Japanese from the places where they were found.
It is worthy of remark that the Japanese in this locality were of the lower, poorer classes, and there was no evidence of disorder, looting or crime that memorable afternoon. The people were orderly and were helping each other as much as lay in their power. This in spite of the fact that there were no police or military of any kind.

Ground Opens Up at His Feet.
About 3 o'clock in the afternoon I was sitting with my back to a fence. It was very hot and I had no hat. Suddenly another very violent shock, almost equal to the original, occurred and the earth opened about two feet at my feet, immediately closed again, reopened about six inches and then closed up. I have no doubt that thousands went down in these huge cracks, never to be seen or heard again.

About 5 o'clock, accompanied by Mr. Hood, a professional golf expert resident in Japan, I walked along the shore in search of water. After going some two miles I came across a Japanese village unburned. It was deserted and in one of the small stores which was partly wrecked I noticed an icebox. After some trouble I forced it open and found six quart bottles of ice-cold beer. I drank three of the bottles before I had enough. Mr. Hood finished the rest of it.

We continued our journey along the shore, looking for a road that would take us up the bluff, having in mind the possibility of a tidal wave. After walking about two miles and I getting lamer all the time, we came across three Japanese families who were camping, with what they had been able to save from the wreckage of their homes. Upon their kind invitation for us to remain with them that night, owing to my crippled condition, we readily accepted. In this locality there were many small stores which had been wrecked and as a Japanese will not enter the property of another when the owner is absent, it was necessary for Mr. Hood and me to take the necessary food for a good meal that night. One of the women was gone for about three hours getting some clean water to wash the cuts on my head.

Capture Korean Looter.
We lay on the ground that night, but there was no sleep on account of the continuous shocks. About midnight another Japanese came in and reported that the Koreans in the neighborhood were carrying bottles of kerosene around and setting fire to all the buildings which had not been burned. The three Japanese men in our camp accompanied the messenger and I, armed the Koreans away, capturing one of them. It is worthy of remark that they tied and bound this Korean and the next morning he was turned over to the police in an orderly manner.

I think in America we would have filled this man, and I mention this fact to illustrate the law-abiding instinct of the Japanese.

"At daybreak Mr. Hood went out to see if we would get on board one of the ships lying in the harbor. He came back in about an hour and reported that they were taking foreigners on board the P. & O. steamship Gondola. After failing to persuade our hosts to accept any remuneration for their hospitality, I made my way to the place from which the people were being taken to the Gondola, with the assistance of Mr. Hood and a boat hook.

Arriving on board about 10 o'clock, we found about five hundred badly injured people had already been taken on board. The ship's surgeon was busy all day and all that night. The ship's officers refused to sell us anything, although we fortunately had the money to buy it, but any and everything they had was at our disposal without cost. They were certainly a splendid set of men. That night we slept on the deck and about 11:30 o'clock, thirty-five and a half hours after the first shock, I felt another severe shock which caused that big ship to bob up and down like a cork.

On the morning of September 5 the President Jefferson arrived in the harbour and at my request I was placed aboard her. The ship's officers and men on board this ship did all that was possible to make the refugees who came on board comfortable. The work of Dr. H. F. Wilkinson, the ship's surgeon, was especially noteworthy. He is a splendid type of young American as well as being an expert in his profession.

The work and thoughtfulness of W. Wilson, the second steward, also will be long remembered by all of us.

There was another gentleman, W. J. Kaylor, of New York, sitting in the third chair from me in the hotel lounge when the quake occurred. He jumped out of the window immediately and I reported him as lost to the foreigners I met, for I could not see how he could possibly have escaped the way he went. I told Dr. Wilkinson of my escape and mentioned Mr. Kaylor and told of his fate.

The next day the doctor came to me and asked me to come with him. He stopped at one of the deck chairs and there sat Mr. Kaylor, my neighbor in the hotel lounge. I nearly fell over with astonishment. He had just been telling the story how he got out and incidentally how I met my end and the impossibility of my escaping. He nearly fell off his chair, too. He escaped with a broken ankle and was out and gone before I slid down the roof.

(Mr. E. H. Waugh, the writer of the description given above, is well known to the business community in St. John's. A few years ago he designed the fish splitting machine operated at Job's South Side premises and at Blanc Sablon. Mr. Wallace who is referred to in the article, also spent a summer here with the writer.—Editor.)

Magistrate: "And what gave you the impression that the accused was under the influence of drink?"
Witness: "Well, sir, he dropped a penny into the pillar-box outside the 'House of Commons' and stood staring up at Big Ben, and when I questioned him he said he was waiting to have his weight told."

Lively Amateur Contest Last Night

ENDING IN FUN AND NOVELTIES; MANY CONTESTANTS.

The Amateur Contest at the Crescent Theatre last night was conducted in the usual manner, and every contestant went ahead like clockwork. A number of contestants took part in an enjoyable singing contest.

A sensational comedy in Harold Lloyd's production of "Safety Last" was the attraction of the evening. The building, two-thirds of the way up with a dozen pigeons roosting on the roof, was the scene of the comedy. Harold Lloyd, the crowd-pleaser, amused and frightened, and finally while the spectators gasped, he continued his upward climb, overcoming the most difficult and serious obstacles.

This is just one of the impressions the reviewer got after seeing Harold Lloyd's seven-reel Pathocomedy, "Safety Last," at the Crescent Theatre yesterday. And what a comedy! Never has an audience shrieked with such uncontrollable laughter. There have been riotous two-reel comedies produced in the past by master comedians, but never before has one been seen in seven reels that moved at such a fast pace.

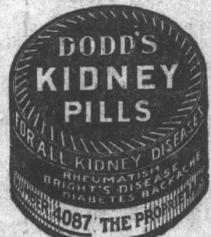

How Harold Lloyd, performing his thrill stunts is a mystery. It is certain that he did it himself, for his face is seen plainly in every hazardous predicament he encounters. When a young man attempts to climb the side of a twelve story building in the place of a real "human fly," and meets, hilarious trouble every foot of the way up the result is a continuous run of uproarious laughter.

Prospero in Port

FISHERY HAS CLOSED FOR SEASON.

S. S. Prospero, Capt. Field, of the Northern Coastal Service arrived in port at 4 p.m. yesterday, having made the round trip in 14 1/2 days. Captain Field reports the weather mild all along the coast. The ship ran into a continuation of fog while running north, and before Conche was reached. Much difficulty was met with in reaching the ship into that port owing to a severe snow storm. On the return run the weather was all that could be desired. The fishery for the season is now closed, all the boats have returned, and the inhabitants have settled away for the winter. There is no booming in connection with Mr. H. J. Crowe's project at Hampton. Upward of 500 men who arrived there by the Prospero secured employment and will work there all the winter. At Orange Bay, Dr. Mooney is building a large pier which will be rushed to completion before the winter sets in. The Prospero brought a full cargo of fish, oils, etc., and the following passengers: Messrs. Reid, Elliott, Alcock, Barrett, Reid, Penny, Batstone, Roberts, Humphries, Roberts, Scammell, Salsbury, Wray, Barnes, Capt. Rollet, Scamilton, Peckford, Misses Penny, James, Pitcher, Mesdames Roberts, O'Brien, Byrne, Roberts, Anesty, Saunders, Humphries, Scammell, Spraklin, Melnery, Olive, Bradley, Moores; Misses Pynn, Alcock, Hardy, Pilgrim, Pynn, Rendell, Gellspie, Hann, Whalton, Scammell, Blackwood, Hope, Scammell, Duggan, Batstone, Brothers, Moores and 69 in steerage.

The Fascist Problem

It would seem, therefore, that Fascism's most immediate problem is to make peace with the vanquished, with its opponents in Italian politics; restore, as expeditiously as possible, constitutional government, and disband sword-rattling in its foreign relations. It would be able to do this, and still leave to post-war Italy a clearer realization than it possessed before of the meaning and value of Italian nationality. The second year of Fascism's rule will be watched with interest.—Boston Transcript.

Household Notes.

For a well-balanced lunch, serve lamb chops en casserole, fruit salad, with French dressing, baked custards and coffee.

If you are planning, or building a house, make sure that the sink in the kitchen is the right height to prevent back strain.

When a fish has almost finished cooking, cover the top with bread crumbs moistened with melted butter, and brown the crumbs.

Fortune in a Throat

SCOTSMAN EARNS $100,000 IN FOUR YEARS.

In the last 50 years most of the great singers of the world, with the notable exceptions of Madame Melba and Signor Foli, have come from Italy and France. Patti was succeeded by Tetrazini, and Italy fondly hoped to produce a successor to Enrico Caruso; but it has been Scotland's proud fortune to present to the world a man with a voice which equals that of the great Italian tenor. The Scotman in question is Mr. Joseph Hislop, who has already achieved world-wide fame. He is quite thin and slight, and even on the concert platform sings with an easy gay air which is charming. His voice is of superb quality, rich, and resonant.

of silken texture in the mezzo-voice passages, and of tremendous power in the upper register. A romantic story attaches to this Edinburgh Scot. On leaving school he joined a firm of engravers, being interested in portrait painting. Twelve years ago he went to Sweden as a tradesman. Heard singing at a smoking concert in Gothenburg, by Dr. Bratt, the Scandinavian voice specialist, he was carried off to that gentleman's house. For five years Dr. Bratt, convinced that he had a fortune in his throat, trained him without allowing him to sing a note in public. When Mr. Hislop subsequently appeared on the stage he became the principal tenor at the Royal Stockholm Opera in one night. He is equally at home in widely diversified tenor roles, and those who listen to him marvel how such notes come from so comparatively frail a body. His reputation when singing a few weeks ago at a special command performance before his Majesty was a most notable event of the Covent Garden season. Mr. Hislop is to appear at the Empire Theatre, Cardiff, on Saturday afternoon, October 27, and it is certain that Cardiff Caledonians will take advantage of a unique opportunity to give their kinsman a "right" warm Scottish welcome. It is reported that his engagements for four years have been worth £100,000.

Our Montreal Letter.

(From Our Own Correspondent). AN IMPERATIVE DEMAND FOR MORE SCHOOLS.

The Scholastic Year 1922-23 has been in progress only six weeks, when the Central Board of the Catholic Commission, (the Finance Board) has been asked to erect seven new schools and two residences at a cost of $1,277,000.

The new building required for educational purposes in west district are as follows: In St. Henri a school for boys of 18 classes, $150,000; ground, $50,000. In St. Cuneogonde, a school for girls of 25 classes, $200,000 ground; $50,000. In St. Paul, a kindergarten school of 12 classes, $100,000. In Ville Emard, two schools: one for 12 kindergarten classes, $100,000; and ground, $25,000; and a school for girls of 18 classes, $100,000 ground, $30,000. In Notre Dame de Grace, a school of 16 classes for English-speaking pupils, $150,000; and another school of 10 classes, $80,000.

The two new residences wanted are for Ste. Cuneogonde, costing $45,000; and for Notre Dame de Grace, costing $30,000.

An addition to the Ville Emard residence for teachers was asked, to cost $25,000.

In order that four more classes may be located in St. Jean l'Evangeliste School, the sum of $12,000 was asked to cover the cost of preparing the school for the additional rooms.

Purchase of a teachers' residence in St. Henri was recommended, where four classes of the higher grades also might be conducted. The price was $30,000.

BIG PROPORTION OF JEWISH SCHOOL CHILDREN.

Out of 31,384 school children registered in the Protestant Schools, 11,974 are Jewish children. In the 51 schools under the Board, the Jew practically control 11. In the High of Montreal for Boys, there are 606 Protestants, 303 Jews; High School for Girls, 593 Protestants, 215 Jews; Byron Byng High School, 754 Jews to 84 Protestants; Commercial High, 340 Jews to 167; Aberdeen, 1,112 Jews to 147; Alexandra, 611 Jews to 74; Amherst, 205 Jews to 87; Bancroft 1,383 Jews to 147; Berthelet 116 Jews to 383; Dermahire 1,269 Jews to 30; Dufferin, 448 Jews to 153; Fairmount, 1,005 Jews to 600; Mount Royal, 1,224 Jews to 55; Strathmore, 279 Jews to 139. Only six schools out of the fifty-one have no Jewish children. The average cost per Capita is $74.04. The influential Hebrew citizens held a meeting recently, and decided that they were not in favor of separate schools for their children, as they want them educated side by side by the Protestant children, in order to make good Canadian citizens. However, if the Protestant Board refuse to accept and educate Jewish children in their schools, the Jews will be obliged to build schools, and also purchase the eleven schools where the Jewish children are vastly in the majority; from the Protestant Board, have their own School Board, and control their own School Taxes. There is no question of the Catholic School Board accepting them. The plan of having a separate Jewish school panel and separate schools for Jewish children was voted at another meeting under the auspices of the School Committee of the Montreal Jewish Community Council.

Rabbi Cohen quoted extensively from the ancient Jewish law, to show the inadvisability of having Jewish children educated in Protestant schools, especially as the latter did not greatly seem to want them. He pleaded for unity among the Jews, and for a religious, as well as secular education for Jewish children.

H. M. Caiserman took up various possible objections to the separate school system, and proceeded to answer them. Taking figures furnished by J. J. Creelman, chairman of the Protestant School Board, he demonstrated that there was no financial difficulty in the way of a separate school system.

Louis Fitch, B.C.L., argued that all schools in this Province were, by law, denominational in character, and they would be only falling in line with the existing principle if they established separate Jewish schools. Of the 12,000 Jewish children in the city, 9,000 were in schools where they were in the overwhelming majority. It was against their national pride to force themselves on the Protestant School Board. The speakers were loudly applauded by a large audience.

VESECRATION OF THE SABBATH.

The desecration of the Sabbath is becoming more pronounced each year. This is owing to the fact that the Jews keep their Sabbath on Sunday and work on Sundays; and also to foreigners, regular socialists many of them to whom religion has no place in their lives. It is common to see contractors and builders make their men work at new edifices on Sunday. Both the Catholic and Protestant authorities have voiced their protests against the abuse of the Sunday by unnecessary servile work, but it still goes on. The Catholic Commercial Travellers Association has sent a letter to Mayor Martin, which was submitted to the City Council, endorsing the proposal of Alderman Trepanier to restrict Sunday trading. It states that the association is unanimously behind a proposal that would put an end to the scandalous disregard of the Sabbath. It was essential for the public good that strangers coming to reside in Canada should realize that they must conform to the customs of the country. The Association trusted that the Municipal Council would unanimously support the proposition to be put before them.

A CHAPTER OF FATALITIES. Two men attempted to cross the C. N. R. tracks at Canning Street, while the gates were down. One was instantly killed, being literally cut to pieces by an engine, while his companion was only slightly injured. A driver of an auto truck was almost instantly killed when he was knocked off his automobile truck on a level crossing by the C. P. R. Toronto train, coming into Montreal. The man suffered a fractured skull and two fractured legs. He died while on the train that caused the accident, on board of which he had been placed to be brought to Montreal. The fatality occurred at St. Lazare Station, four miles from Vandrevill. The unfortunate driver had been loading sheet iron, and had just left the station platform when his truck was hit by the train.

A terrible tragedy happened at LaPierre, a few miles from Chicoutimi, when, as a result of a fire caused by one of the candles in the death chamber, a young man was burnt to death, and the body of the deceased person was cremated. All efforts to awaken the young man proved fruitless and, as the dwelling quickly became a perfect cauldron it was impossible to go in after him. From all accounts he must have been asleep in a room over the death chamber when the fire started, and was probably overcome by the fumes. The fire raged pitilessly, while members of the family and others, quickly attracted to the scene, wrung their hands in agony and impotence. Valiant but vain efforts were made by friends and relatives to fry and get the body of the dead woman out, but as the death chamber was a regular inferno, they had to submit to the inevitable.

A young school boy of 8 years, returning from one of the French schools in the West End of the city, was crushed between two auto trucks, and died a few minutes afterwards. Two men started a quarrel over the purchase of cauliflowers, with the result that one struck the other and the blow was the indirect cause of his death. At the inquest, held on Monday, Oct. 15th, Vincent Miles, 37 years of age, of 45 Moreau Street, was this morning held criminally responsible for the death of Robert Peters, 45 yrs. of age, of 376 Leclaire Street, after a coroner's jury had heard the evidence of one witness, who stated positively that Miles had struck the deceased a blow which was the indirect cause of his death. Peters died as a result of a fracture of the skull at the Notre Dame Hospital yesterday morning. According to the evidence given by David Munn, of 2146 3rd Avenue, Rosemount, who was with the two men, the fatality was the outcome of a slight argument over the purchase of cauliflowers. It appears that the two men had purchased six cauliflowers for twenty cents and that Miles became angry because Peters had taken four, and had given him only two. He demanded another one, but Peters, who was slightly deaf, apparently did not hear or refused to notice. The three were walking in front of the Maison-neuve Market, when Miles dared Peters to fight and then, without warning, struck him on the face with his fist. Peters fell backwards, striking his head on the curbstone and fractured his skull. He was taken to the Notre Dame Hospital, where he died a few hours afterwards. Munn was positive that neither the victim or the accused was drunk at the time, and expressed his astonishment at the unwarranted action of Miles, whom he stated was always good friends of Peters'. The deceased was a very quiet man, and had not spoken a word to Miles before he was struck. Mrs. Peters, who arrived from England last night to find her husband dead, told the coroner that the victim was of a very quiet nature, and was by no means a quarrelsome man. Counsel for Miles refused to allow his client to testify and the case went to the jury, who returned the verdict against Miles immediately.

The accused appeared before Judge Monet this afternoon on a coroner's warrant for manslaughter, and was remanded for enquiry until October 26th. Miles is held in $1,000 bail.

board, which is the wage being paid by the lumber companies this year. The advance is due, according to local employment agents, to the shortage of bush laborers in the Gattineau Valley. At present, it is estimated, 10,000 more lumberjacks could be employed by the various lumber companies who operate in the Gattineau and Ottawa Valleys. (Continued on page 19).

Ends Stubborn Coughs in a Hurry. For real effectiveness, this old home-made remedy has no equal. Easily and cheaply prepared.

You'll never know how easily a bad cough can be conquered, until you try this famous old home-made remedy. Anyone who has coughed day and night, will say that immediate relief given is almost a miracle. It takes but a moment to prepare and really there is nothing better for coughs.

Into a 4-oz. bottle, put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to make 16 ounces. You can use clarified molasses, honey or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Filter this mixture through two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough-preparations, and give it a more positive, effective relief. It keeps perfectly, and tastes pleasant to children like it.

You can feel this take hold instantly, by soothing and healing the inflamed by all the air passages. It promptly loosens a dry, tight cough, and soon you will notice the difference. It is a dry, tight cough, and soon you will notice the difference. It is a dry, tight cough, and soon you will notice the difference.

Pinex is a most valuable compound of genuine pine extract. No most reliable remedy for throat and chest ailments. To avoid disappointment, if Pinex is not at hand, get it at once. It is a dry, tight cough, and soon you will notice the difference.

Although women have, I think, as

Everyone knows that our terrible

It is not much good saying, as some ...people are never tired of reiterating,
..."make peace with Europe." No Brit-

...gressive tendencies at work in ...Europe: it can only use its in...fluence for peace, and refrain from ...adding fuel to the fire. But with our ...own Dominions and Colonies, we are ...dealing with relations, who not only
...speak, but think, like us, and we can
...with them talk over our problems
...and agree on plans for mutual help.

Druggists Enthusiastic in Commendation of Dr. CHASE'S MEDICINES

No one is so well qualified to tell you which medicines are the good ones as your druggist.

For this reason we consider that these letters from druggists are the highest compliments that can be paid to any medicines.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld.
Mr. Harry Redgrew, Druggist, St. John's, Nfld., writes:—"I find all Dr. Chase's Medicines good repeaters—it's one of the lines a drug store isn't complete without."

QUEBEC, QUE.
Mr. Malcolm Dubois, Druggist, writes:—"Dr. Chase's Medicines are considered as choice medicines, and I strongly recommend them."

HAMILTON, ONT.
Messrs. Parke & Parke, Druggists, write:—"We have been selling Dr. Chase's Medicines for a great many years and they seem to give excellent satisfaction."

REGINA, SASK.
Mr. R. P. Teasdale, Druggist, 11th Ave., Regina, Sask., writes:—"Amongst the many lines we carry of proprietary medicines, Dr. Chase's remedies stand out as the most consistently called for, and are the best repeaters we carry. We have no hesitation whatever in recommending this line to the buying public."

LONDON, ONT.
Strong's Drug Store Manager writes:—"Dr. Chase's Medicines have always been numbered amongst our rapid sellers. Merit and good advertising no doubt are responsible for this condition."

PORT ARTHUR, ONT.
The W. T. McEachern Co. Limited, Druggists, writes:—"Being one of the oldest lines of proprietary medicines on the Canadian market and the standard having been kept up makes this line of great demand and satisfaction in the home."

WINNIPEG, MAN.
Mr. F. E. Arkell, Druggist, writes:—"We find Dr. Chase's Medicines sell well and give good satisfaction."

SASKATOON, SASK.
The Public Drug Company, 2nd Ave. and 22nd St., writes:—"We have been handling Dr. Chase's Medicines ever since we have been in business, and find them a splendid staple line and among the best sellers."

PETERBORO, ONT.
Mr. James Lynch, Druggist, writes:—"I have sold Dr. Chase's Medicines for twenty-five years, and am pleased to state that my customers are well satisfied with the benefits derived."

CHARLOTTETOWN, P.E.I.
Mr. E. A. Foster, Druggist, writes:—"It is always a pleasure to sell Dr. Chase's Medicines, for customers frequently return and state that they were satisfactory."

MONCTON, N.B.
The Ross Drug Co. Limited, writes:—"Dr. Chase's Medicines are among our very best sellers and we always feel when handing them over the counter that they are good medicines."

HALIFAX, N.S.
Messrs. Brown Bros., Druggists, write:—"Our customers frequently express their satisfaction with Dr. Chase's Medicines."

ST. JOHN, N.B.
The Ross Drug Co. Limited, writes:—"Dr. Chase's Medicines are among our very best sellers and we always feel when handing them over the counter that they are good medicines."

MONCTON, N.B.
Mr. G. O. Spencer, Druggist, writes:—"Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, Nerve Food and Ointment are among the best sellers of all proprietary medicines."

KINGSTON, ONT.
Mr. A. P. Chown, Druggist, writes:—"Dr. Chase's Medicines have for many years had a steady sale and give good results and satisfaction."

PETERBORO, ONT.
Mr. James Lynch, Druggist, writes:—"I have sold Dr. Chase's Medicines for twenty-five years, and am pleased to state that my customers are well satisfied with the benefits derived."

more Australian jam, tinned fruit, by our encouragement of South African goods, South African industries flourish, they can more rapidly develop their undeveloped continent, and offer openings and homes to those of our own people who are attracted by the free life of a new country.

So it is with all the other dominions. They all have populations preferring British goods, and preferring to send their wares to us if we will take them. We have an unemployment and an overcrowding problem whose solution depends on more orders for our factories, and the opening up of new countries for men and women of British stock. It is only common sense and practical sense, that we should share our problems and work together for the solution of them, with those whose interests and development are bound up with our own.

The British Empire Exhibition will give every housewife a chance to get to know something of what the great Dominions and Colonies are making in their factories and on their farms. If British women will make a real effort to visit the British Empire Exhibition many times and to buy British goods, of which they will see such a splendid display at the Exhibition, they will help to solve the poverty question at home, by helping to make markets for their husbands' and their sons' manufactured goods overseas.

What a joy it would be to take "preference" out of politics, and put it in the hands of the housewives of Great Britain!

Personal

The many friends of Rev. C. A. Moulton will be pleased to hear that he has been appointed Assistant Curate to the Parish of St. Edmund's, Toronto.

Rev. E. C. Earp, who has been doing Missionary work in Conception Bay, during the past week, has returned to the city.

Sir Joseph and Lady Outerbridge are leaving by the Silvia to-day, en route to Bermuda, where they intend spending the winter months.

"Old Moore" Dead

"Old Moore" or as he was known in private life, Mr. J. Ingram Cook, died in a nursing home in London on October 26th. There are few who are not familiar with "Old Moore's" Almanac which predicted the events of the next twelve months. He was seventy-four years of age.

Interesting Card Tournament

The first of a series of Inter-Club Card Tournaments, between the M. G. C. A. and C. E. I., was played at the C. E. I. Club Rooms last night. Forty-eight players participated in the game of auction forty-fives. At the end of sixty deals, the respective players' scores were totalled, and resulted in a win for the C. E. I. by 5,805 to 5,395, a margin of 410. Dr. A. H. Carnell's team (C.E.I.) had the highest score 845. In the play-off Dr. Carnell won a handsome prize; presented by Mr. Joseph J. Long, the President. The runners-up, Capt. C. Quick's team, (M.G.C.A.) had a score of 820. The tournament proved very interesting, and the evening was thoroughly enjoyed by all. A light supper was partaken of by the players before the close. The games will be continued on Thursday night, when the C. E. I. players will be the guests of the Guards' Club.

GEORGE SAYS:

I can sell you an umbrella worth $3.00 for $2.00.

These are not any Job lot but are regular stock, well made, good strong frames, steel rod, bent wood handles and mercerised covers.

Now I'll tell you how it's done.

I went to the factory and the Manufacturer said to me, "Buy a case of these Umbrellas and you will be able to sell them for $1.00 less than the regular price."

I said to him the same thing as you are likely saying in your mind about me.

But then at that time business was not so good with our American friends, and they would sell at any price provided you showed them real money.

Consequently I bought. It's now up to you.

Remember the price—$2.00

Yours for quality and service,

Adventist Missionary

TO SPEAK AT SPECIAL SERVICE NEXT WEEK.

Among the passengers who arrived on the steamer Silvia Thursday evening from New York was Pastor E. F. Peterson of Washington, D.C., who will spend ten days in the city in the interests of the work of the Seventh-Day Adventist Church. Pastor Peterson spent several years in South America in the missionary work of the Adventists among the Indian tribes of the interior and will conduct a special series of meetings in the Adventist Church, Cookstown Road, next week, holding a service of public interest every night excepting Saturday. On Sunday night he will speak on "Real Savages Conquered by the Gospel," illustrating his lecture by the aid of a savage chief and other articles of interest to the public. Services at 8 o'clock every night of next week.

A Centenarian Passes Away

Yesterday at No. 81 Cabot Street there passed away probably the oldest resident of the city in the person of Mr. John Smith. The deceased, George IV, is therefore 103 years old. In his younger days Mr. Smith joined the Royal Navy, and after so long here was employed as teamster with Stewart & Co. During the past 4 or 5 years Mr. Smith did not go out to work although he often stated that he felt fit enough to do a day's work with anyone. During his long span he was never sick and it was only within the past three weeks that his appetite began to fail. Up to seven months ago he was a devotee of his lady nicotine and also liked a toddy. His sight never failed but he was obliged to wear glasses to read small print. Of a kind and loving disposition he leaves one son, 5 daughters, and a large circle of friends to mourn their sad loss.

Wedding Bells.

KELLY-SLATTERY.
On Wednesday morning last at 5 o'clock, in the Oratory of the Sacred Heart, Mercy Convent, a very pretty wedding was solemnized when Miss Hilda M. Kelly, second daughter of Mr. Jas. J. Kelly, 12, Barnes Road, was united in the bonds of matrimony to Mr. John L. Slattery, second son of Mrs. Margaret Slattery, Freshwater Road. The bride was led to the altar by her father, while Miss Alice Slattery, a sister of the groom, was bridesmaid. The groom was ably supported by Mr. Louis Kelly, brother of the bride. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Fr. M. Kennedy, in the presence of the immediate relatives and friends of the contracting parties. After the conclusion of the marriage ceremony, the party motored to the home of the bride's father where a reception was held. With the immediate friends and relatives of both families present a sumptuous breakfast was partaken of, and after the customary toasts and replies, they left by motor car for Bay Bulls, where the honeymoon is being spent. The wedding presents received were both numerous and costly. Mr. Slattery is one of St. John's most industrious business men, being a director of the firm of W. A. Slattery & Co., Wholesale Dry Goods, with premises on Duckworth Street; while the bride, who is well known in social circles, held a responsible position for a number of years, with the firm of Messrs. Harvey & Co. After their return to the city they will take up residence in their new home, Merrymount Road. The Telegram joins with their many friends in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Slattery many years of wedded bliss.

A Delightful Experience.

After washing, the use of a little Three Flowers vanishing cream is a delightful experience. This soothing, disappearing skin cream tones the skin and leaves a soft, velvety surface that cannot be injured by wind or rain. The woman who uses this delightful skin cream knows what a pleasure it gives and too; thousands of women are finding a pleasure they never knew before by applying Three Flowers Cream to the face and hands after washing. Three Flowers Cream is obtainable at all drug and department stores in St. John's and the outports.

A Fallen Planet

Astronomers have long known that between the orbits of Mars and Jupiter a large number of tiny planetary bodies revolve round the sun. Some of these have a circumference of but a few miles. In addition there are countless billions of what might be called meteoric stones hurdling round the sun. These are constantly entering the earth's atmosphere and being burnt up by the friction much more completely than the moth that dies into the candle flame. Has one of the small planets ever

Household Notes.

While your layer cake is still hot, place marshmallows between the layers, and on top, and over the top layer pour a thick fudge frosting.
If two worn blankets are put together, covered with silkolins, and stitched with worsted, the resulting cover will be quite serviceable.
To 2 cups of cold roast pork and a sliced carrot, an onion, a sweet pepper, a little macaroni, a chopped apple, and use in a casserole. Season it slightly.
For delicious coleslaw use 4 cups of shredded cabbage, 2 chopped green peppers, 1-teaspoonful of salt, and one of paprika, and one-quarter cupful vinegar. Let this mixture stand for thirty minutes before using.

Bread crumbs are often scattered when dry crusts are being put thru the food chopper. To avoid this, cut from thin cardboard a shape to fit the mouth of the chopper.
Good-sized hot biscuits make attractive individual shortcakes. Pull apart, butter, and garnish with canned peaches, drained and topped with sweetened whipped cream.
A simple but good sauce to serve with ice cream is made by boiling together three-quarters cupful of sugar with quarter cupful of water, and the same amount of raisins. Let cook for about two minutes, then flavor.

Guglielmo Marconi, born (1874), Italian electrical engineer, was born at Griffone, near Bologna, his mother being an Irishwoman. His first experiments in wireless telegraphy were made in Italy in 1895, then put to practical use in England in 1896. In 1899 he established connection by the same means across the English Channel; in 1901 between Cornwall and Newfoundland, and in 1902 between Canada and Newfoundland. In 1904 he entered into an agreement with the British Post Office for the commercial transmission of wireless messages, and in the same year, through the same means, the first ocean daily newspaper was started on the ships of the Cunard Line. His system is in use in the British, Italian and other navies, and is at the present time established throughout the world.
