SOMETHING NEW UNDER THE SUN

New! New lines, new design, new comforts! If these phrases can still mean anything when applied to a motor car they most fitly describe the new Chevrolet.

So often are yearly models introduced by such descriptions that they have automatically lost some force. That is, as ordinarily used.

In connection with Chevrolet, however, the phrases are filled with meaning. For the Chevrolet about to be revealed is new, actually new, in practically every feature.

It is hard to realize, in this age of rapid automotive development, that a great deal of improvement can be made in a car at one time. But Chevrolet engineers have apparently evolved a state of development hitherto considered impossible in the small, relatively inexpensive car.

The new Chevrolet at the least merits new consideration. By its startling improvements it will repay the curiosity of even the most casual. And for those interested in the small, light car, it may easily have a great deal to offer.

CHAPTER XIX.

Lord Court bent his head, and pressed his lips to hers; then, lifting her tenderly, he bore her to the couch, and laid her once more on the pillows.

"You are very frail, Margery," he said, kindly, contemplating her as she lay back wearily; "but now you must make great efforts to get well, and you shall soon go out and feel the sea breezes on your cheeks—perhaps they will bring a little color to them."

"I am always pale," she whispered, in reply. "How long have I been ill?"

"A month now. Ah, I had almost begun to despair—you were so long recovering."

"And—and Enid?"

"Is at her old home at last," said the earl, in a constrained voice. "We carried her down and laid her in the old churchyard. She always wished to be buried there."

"I must go down and see the grave," murmured Margery.

"When you are able, you shall, my darling. Court Manor is waiting for its mistress. Ah, Margery, little did I think years ago that I should so gladly return to my home, all pain and bitterness rooted out of my heart forever, and in their place the sweet fragrance of love and happiness, brought me by a spirit of peace and purity—my wife!"

Margery moved her head restlessly on the silken pillow; his deep tenderness and devotion touched her wounded heart with healing gentleness, yet her burden was none the less, for he could never repay such great love, she could never give him what he gave her. Her pride had suffered such humiliations beneath the cold cruelty of Vane Charteris' tongue that her heart might have thrilled now with satisfaction in the knowledge that she was—in the world's eyes—a great person—Countess of Court, a peeress of the realm. But there was no pride in her heart. Her husband's tender words only brought back with a sudden rush the memory of the great chasm between them. She drew her hand slowly from his, with the touch of his lips still clinging to it.

"You know," she whispered, meeting his gaze with her great starlike eyes—"you know—Enid told you that I am quite alone in the world—a waif, a stray?"

"Yes, I know it, my darling."

"And you care for me just the same?"

"I love you," he answered, smiling; "I loved you from the very first. Yes, Enid told me your sad story, and it only binds you still closer to me; henceforth I must be father, brother, sister, husband, all in one. Do not hold a thought in your heart that such a circumstance could make any difference. Remember—"

"For unto every lord his own lady is All ladies and all beauties and all mysteries, The breathing multiple of roses—passionate."

Of perfect pearls, or birds with happy melody—
Ay, a mere girl, yet in herself a universe.

"A poet sung that, Margery, and it is the very echo of my heart."
"You are very good," she murmured, gently; and then, bending to touch her cheek with his lips, Lord Court went slowly from the room.

Margery lay silent, his words ringing in her ears, and again and again she told herself that she could not destroy this man's new-found peace, his life's happiness. She must strive to crush all love and remembrance from her heart, turn her face from the past with all its store of sweetness and bitterness, and look upon the future, where the path of duty lay straight before her. Loyalty and honor demanded the sacrifice, and she would obey them.

"I shall go my ways, tread out my measure,
Fill the days of my daily breath
With fugitive things not good to treasure—
Do as the world doth, say as it saith,
But, if we had loved each other,
Oh, sweet!"

CHAPTER XX.

Days glided on, and Margery grew gradually stronger. October was nearing its close, but still the sunshine was warm and genial, and the wind from the sea soft and gentle. It was quite a little fishing village where the Earl and Countess of Court were staying, a rambling, quaint, three-cornered place, inhabited by healthy, strong-limbed fisher folk. Lord Court had brought his wife down to Wavemouth by the advice of two London physicians, and, when the first week of anxiety was passed, and he saw signs of returning health on her sweet face, he was thankful beyond words. The village people were honored and awe-struck by the presence of an earl and countess in their midst; they had few grand visitors at Wavemouth. An artist now and then paid the place a visit—indeed, there was one staying there when Margery arrived. He sketched the ruddy-faced children and made his way to the mothers' hearts by his sweet, clear voice and gentle manners.

Margery learned afterward that the song she had heard so clearly that afternoon when she woke to remembrance had come from this artist's lips; but she never saw the singer—he quitted the village soon afterward, and left the children and maidens lamenting.

Lord Court had brought a low, easy carriage down with them, and he drove his wife about the picturesque village, watching with a throbbing pleasure the interest dawn in her face. Wavemouth was so quiet, so peaceful, so completely in keeping with her desire for rest, that Margery loved the place.

"She was still far from strong, and the sea breezes brought a sense of relief and freshness to her spirit. She was fighting a hard battle with herself, striving with all her might to crush out her old love and turn to her husband, whose depths of goodness and generosity she was learning to know better each day. But as she grew stronger the struggle was more bitter; her thoughts would fly to Hurstley, to the dead Mary Morris whose memory she held so dear, and then to that other who was, despite all her efforts, so inextricably bound up with her existence.

The earl, totally ignorant of the secret in his wife's breast, revelled in his new-found happiness, rejoiced in the possession of his treasure. Day by day he was drawn closer to this girl whose sweetness had been sung by the lips of his dead sister. It was so great a change to him after those four years of ceaseless pain, distrust and darkness! Often in those days he had tried to escape from the remembrance of his life's mistake; but he could find no relief till that evening when he stood in the doorway listening to the sweet, girlish voice ringing through the room, and then suddenly misery and despair vanished, and hope revived—hope that afterward became a sweet reality.

"Not by appointment do we meet De-light and Joy—
They lead not our expectancy;
But round some corner in the streets of life
They on a sudden clasp us with a smile."

And now Margery was his wife—his very own; there was none to claim here, none to share the treasure of her love. Was not this blessing too great? His earnest eyes, dark with tenderness, were never tired of watching her lovely unconscious face as she sat buried in her memories of the past, the look of unutterable sadness that had touched him in their earlier acquaintance seeming to him now caused but by the recollection of her childhood's history, her mother's death.

At last the sunshine died, the sea's calm was gone, the tiny rippling movement was changed into gigantic rolling waves, crested with white foam, and dashing on to the beach in angry majesty, with a sound as of thunder. Margery loved the sea in its fury; she would sit and watch it for hours, her heart beating fast, and her nerves thrilling at the rage in its fierce waves and dashing spray. The anger, the wildness of the elements, relieved her overwrought mind, and the very tumult brought her peace.

She stood at the window one afternoon gazing at the expanse of dull, leaden-green water. There were no waves; it was as if a titanic movement from below agitated the surface and caused the heavy, sudden motion. As she stood thus, her husband approached her.

"Not tired of the sea yet, my darling?" he said, with a smile. "I shall be afraid to suggest a migration if this devotion lasts much longer."

"It is so wonderful," Margery answered, dreamily. "I can see such strange pictures, imagine such things, as I watch it. I have never seen it as it is to-day."

"There will be a storm to-night. I have just seen one of the fishermen, and he says they expect very rough weather."

"It looks an angry, discontented sea," Margery said, still dreamily, "as if its passion would be terrible when it did break forth."

"Look at the foot of the Templar's Rock! It is beginning already; the foam is as white as snow. There is, as you say, Margery, sudden discontent in its look; but there is also a wildness of despair. It reminds me, looking at that whirling rush round the rock, of Tennyson's words:

At the foot of thy crags, O sea!
But the tender grace of a day that is dead
Will never come back to me!"

With a little shudder Margery turned from the window.

"To-day has broken the spell," she said, hurriedly, with forced lightness. "I think I am tired of the sea at last."

Wavemouth, Ont., writes:

"I was very nervous, and for nearly six months could not get a good night's rest. I could not sleep. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, however, I would try it. After taking it for a few days I began to feel better, and soon was able to sleep well at night. My appetite also returned, and I felt stronger and better, and after taking three boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I was quite well. I have also given the Nerve Food to my little girl, with good results."

NEVER has a policyholder suffered less through the failure of a regular life assurance company operating under charter from the Dominion of Canada. Can as much be said of any other class of business? The soundness of each Canadian life company is rigorously tested, and the renewal of its license each year depends upon the result of an examination into its affairs by inspectors from the Government Insurance Department. Where else are trust funds so carefully guarded? To guarantee the fulfilment of policy contracts, the Dominion Government has fixed a minimum standard of reserves to which every company is obliged to conform. The Imperial Life maintains reserves greatly in excess of the Government standard. Every regular life assurance company in Canada must at all times provide security of an amount at least equal to its liabilities to policyholders. The Imperial Life provides security of more than $130 for every $100 of liability to its policyholders. A deposit is required to be made with the Receiver-General by each regular life assurance company doing business in Canada. The Government deposit maintained by The Imperial Life is more than four times the amount required by law. Just write your name and address on the coupon below and mail it to us. Then we'll send you a free copy of our booklet, "A Few Facts." This outlines many distinguishing features of The Imperial Life—features which ensure absolute security and liberal profits for Imperial policyholders.

Red by the Microscope

In the office of the Prefect of Police in Toulon, France, not long ago, sat a man suspected of counterfeiting. Half a dozen police officers were questioning him closely, but his glib answers, apparently made with the utmost frankness, were plausible enough to be quite disarming. Finally the police sought to make him confess. The man denied everything, and at last the prefect gave a sign that the questioning was at an end.

"Before you depart, though," he said to the man, "a doctor will examine you. Merely a little precaution in the interest of public health." The man submitted willingly.

Two days later the police called at his cafe and again took him into custody, for they had evidence that eventually resulted in his conviction. The prisoner had unwittingly supplied it during the physical examination, in a tiny specimen of wax which the doctor had taken from his ear.

This bit of wax had been forwarded to Dr. Edmond Locard, director of the police technical laboratory at Lyons, who had photographically enlarged it with his microscopic camera. Magnified more than fifty thousand times (writes Truman Stevens in "Crime Bared by the Microscope"), the speck of wax showed telltale streaks of printer's ink, particles of dust readily identified as from a lithographic stone, and traces of characteristic crystals of a chemical used by engravers, undeniable evidence that the prisoner's story was a fabrication.

Our Smaller Brains

"The brain is more compact than it used to be, but the size of the brain is of itself no indication of mental power," said Mrs. Stackpool O'Dell, the consulting phrenologist, referring to Sir Arthur Keith's statement concerning the large brain capacity of the Rhodesian cave man of 100,000 years ago.

Sir Arthur Keith, in his lecture to the Royal College of Surgeons, said that the skull of the ancient Rhodesian had not merely a large brain capacity, but possessed other features closely resembling the man of to-day. The brain of primitive man, in fact, was probably bigger than that of the man of to-day.

"A scavenger or a navy," said Mrs. O'Dell, "may have a large brain, useful enough for muscular purposes, but it may be not only quite small in the intellectual region, but also of a low-quality organization. Then, again, a large skull may be very thick, thus leaving a comparatively limited space for useful brain matter."

"It is always interesting to compare the observations of distinguished anthropologists like Sir Arthur Keith, who have specialized on skulls of all periods, with observations of phrenologists who, like myself, have examined thousands of living heads.

"My own conviction is that there is a steady upward trend of brain development which, as education becomes more general and efficient, will undoubtedly affect the brain-growth of the people, and proportionally their intellectual, moral, and social qualities.

"The brain of the future man or super-man will not so much be a question of size as of structure and temperament, the intellectual development keeping pace with the moral and social qualities."

"The brain of the future man or super-man will not so much be a question of size as of structure and temperament, the intellectual development keeping pace with the moral and social qualities."

Dogs With Glass Eyes

Recent examples of the surgeon's skill on injured animals rival in delicacy many of the operations performed on human beings.

Dogs have been fitted with sets of false teeth, which remain in position despite the severe strain put upon them by canine appetites. Amputation of animals' limbs is often necessary as a result of serious accidents, and it is possible to substitute artificial legs made of silver and vulcanite covered with leather.

From Cabin Boy to Commander

Captain Alexander Rennie, O.B.E., who retired recently from the command of the Canadian Pacific liner Montcalm, rose from cabin boy to his high and honoured position.

He began forty-seven years ago as apprentice to Messrs. William Kiddon and Sons, Glasgow, leaving eventually to join the Allan Line. His first command was exactly thirty years ago, and he has since commanded many of the Allan Line and Canadian Pacific steamers, finally finishing in the Montcalm. During the war he was made temporary R.N.R. commander of the Allan liner Virginian, being twice mentioned in despatches, and received the O.B.E. on the termination of hostilities. He was on the Virginian when the ship was torpedoed off the North Coast of Ireland, but was successful in getting her safely into port.

commodate themselves quickly to the use of their new limbs, but one valuable whippet proved very stupid. When he met with an accident and lost both forelegs, artificial limbs were made and fitted. But the animal refused to use them, and persisted in hopping about like a baby kangaroo.

An Aberdeen terrier examined by X-rays had 114 flint stones in his stomach, as well as a valuable diamond collar stud, but he was operated upon successfully.

A marvel of the veterinary surgeon's art is found in a small Japanese toy spaniel which is still alive. It lost an eye in an unfortunate encounter, but was cleverly fitted with a false glass eye which cannot now be distinguished from the sound one.

Impervious to Attack

The sinking of the Monarch by the ships of the Atlantic Fleet once again demonstrated how difficult it is to dispose of a modern armoured vessel by above-water attack. The seaplanes

Which is the Best Paid Job?

£84 A WEEK FOR MAKING MOTOR CARS.

Shaft-sinking in South Africa gold mines is done by contract at so much a foot, and it is said that a highly-skilled man employed at this job can earn £100 a month.

There was much talk of the high wages made by certain workers during the war, but long before the war experts at their several jobs were earning surprising incomes in America. Steel rollers in the Pittsburgh mills were particularly well paid. Twenty-five dollars a day was nothing unusual. A. J. Day, the greatest expert in steel-rolling in America, is said to have made twenty-one thousand dollars (over £4,000) a year in the Oliver Steel Mills.

In the works of a famous American motor car manufacturer many men earn a hundred and fifty dollars (about £34) a week.

Big Bonuses for Builders.

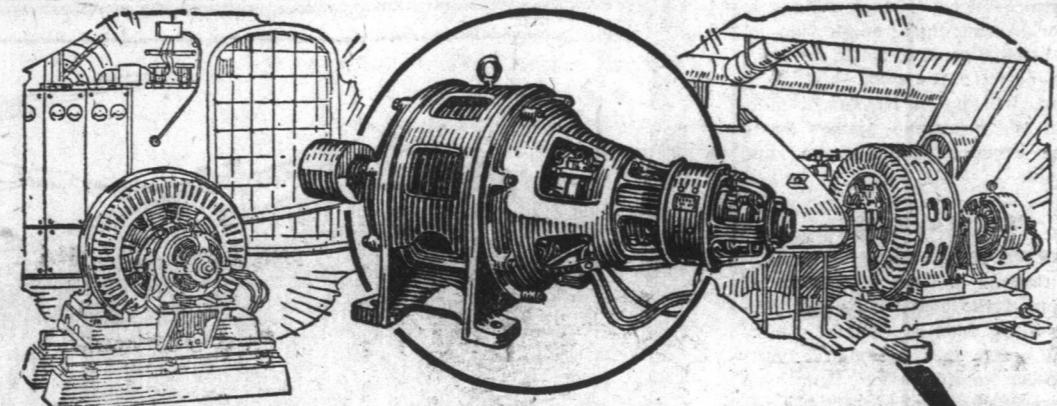

In Great Britain the biggest wages earned since the war by manual labour have been paid to bricklayers on the new Mosspar building scheme of the Glasgow Corporation. Under this scheme fifteen hundred houses are being erected.

When work began the bricklayers paid at Trade Union rates each laid 800 bricks a day. The contractor agreed to pay a bonus on output with the result that the rate rose to 900 bricks a day. Some of the men have been earning as much as £20 a week. One young man of twenty said that his bonus for six months amounted to £200.

Sunderland platers used to make as much as thirty shillings a day long before the war, and Bermondsey scavengers employed on a Sunday to clear away snow have drawn a guinea a day.

RECEIVES PROMOTION.

Mr. L. F. Delahunty of the Avalon Telephone Company, has been promoted Asst. Superintendent of the Company, succeeding Mr. George G. Wallace, who leaves by S.S. Silvia to-day for abroad. Mr. Delahunty is a man well fitted for the position, and we wish him every success on his promotion.

Generators for Isolated Works

THE need for a self-contained alternating current generator for small works has ever been recognized. Westinghouse sensed this requirement and answered with the Type G Generator. This perfected generator has been received by users with no small amount of praise wherever it has been installed.

With its exciter incorporated in one of the brackets, it is a self-contained unit for the generation of power and can be belted or direct-connected to an engine or water wheel. It is made in capacities from 5 to 375 kv-a.

Where central station power is not available, generate your own power with a Type G Generator. Westinghouse will be pleased to advise fully, to all interested, how this may be accomplished conveniently and economically.

To Save St. Paul's

PRESERVATION FUND EXCEEDS £144,000.

There has been a splendid response to the appeal of the Dean and Chapter of St. Paul's for funds to undertake the repairs of the venerable cathedral. The repairs have been rendered necessary owing to the condition of the piers which support the huge dome. The subscription list, opened by "The Times," is headed by the King and Queen, and already exceeds £144,000. It has been decided by many churches throughout the country to devote collections to the St. Paul's Preservation Fund.

Presented With Purse

The employees of the Avalon Telephone Company waited on Mr. George Wallace, Assistant Superintendent, yesterday, and presented him with a purse of gold as a slight token of their esteem. Mr. Wallace has severed his connection with the above firm and leaves by S.S. Silvia to-day for the United States, where he intends to reside in future. Mrs. Wallace and infant accompanies him.

HENRY BLAIR.

The Sailors' Snug Harbor,
New Brighton, Staten Island, N.Y.

Buick Motor Company,
Flint, Michigan.

Dear Sirs:

There isn't any use of your sending me a solicitation to buy a Buick as I would buy no other.

I have owned five cars, the last two being Buicks. My 1920 Buick I drove 43,000 miles with no repairs except relining the brakes and renewing the spark plugs when needed. The car, of course, was well taken care of mechanically and was not abused. At present I own and am driving a 1925 Buick Master Six Coupe and it has everything beaten that I have ever owned or driven for dependability.

During September I drove 4,226 miles and its total mileage now is 7,500 miles, without a scratch or a puncture or any repairs. So far by actual measurement I have averaged twenty miles to the gallon of gasoline, and have only added oil when the crank case is drained and refilled every 500 miles, when there is but slight difference in the oil level on the oil gauge.

September 7th, I had breakfast at the Hotel Windsor in Montreal, Canada, and slept the same night at home on Staten Island, a distance by my speedometer of 420 miles.

After a day's rest I drove to Washington, D.C., 251 miles and so on for the month of September.

The Buick in my opinion cannot be beaten for reliability, economy and comfort. The secret of good service is in following the instructions given in your Reference Book and in looking after the car every time it is driven.

Yours very respectfully,
HOWARD C. WILLIAMS, M.D.

House of Assembly Proceedings

PETITIONS.
Petitions were presented by:—
Captain Winsor, from St. Brendan's and Dock Cove for public wharf.
Mr. Halfyard from Winterton, on the subject of a public wharf.
Mr. Power, from Codroy, on the subject of breakwater.

QUESTIONS.
The answers to some questions were tabled, and others were in course of preparation.

In answer to a question asked by Mr. Hibbs, re cost of rails, etc., purchased for the Railway, the Colonial Secretary stated that the contract for rails, plates, etc., were given to Harrow Hermetite Co., of London, England. The total cost will be $470,000. The price of rails and angle bars will be 25 per ton; of nuts and bolts $20.11.6 per ton, of track spikes $20.16.0.

In reply to Mr. Duff's question concerning the dismissal of Mr. Guy from the Carbonate Water Company, the Colonial Secretary stated that in 1920 after the Squires Administration was returned to power, the Manager and Secretary of the Carbonate Water Company was retired and Mr. W. T. Guy appointed to the position. When the present Government came into power they received a requisition asking that Mr. G. H. Soper be appointed in place of Mr. Guy. The Government granted the request and made the appointment.

In answer to Mr. Warren's question regarding relief, the Colonial Secretary replied that up to the present time 1,274 families had been relieved. The grant to families was $10.00 a week and graded downwards, and from Jan. 1st to Feb. 15th the amount expended for this purpose was $7,278.67.

The Minister of Agriculture and Mines tabled returns of his department for year 1923-24.

ADDRESS IN REPLY.
The orders of the day being taken up Mr. Halfyard resumed the debate on the Address in Reply.

After hearing all the speakers he thought there was very little to say on His Excellency's speech. He congratulated the mover and seconder on their able addresses and also the Prime Minister and Minister of Fisheries on the confirmation of their election in Bonavista District. He then referred to the Speech as more lengthy than he had been accustomed to. He noted that we are to-day living under better conditions than existed twelve months ago but he claimed that the seeds sown by Squires Government had much to do with the prosperous state of the country. In regard to the fishery he thought that something should be done to improve marketing conditions, and as the Prime Minister was one of the largest fish dealers in the country, he felt sure that he would do everything possible for the good of the industry. He then read some extracts from a memorial presented to the Squires Government in Nov. 1922 advocating the appointment of a commission to enquire into and report on the fish marketing situation as it then was. Regarding the Government policy of economy, he thought that the only saving would be on public charities. Now we hardly remember that we had unemployment. He wished to recall how during the term of the past administration practically every avenue of employment was closed and in Trinity Bay alone 160 saw mills were closed down. He admitted that at the time money was thrown broadcast, and much of it was obtained by false pretences. Mr. Halfyard thought if his party had come back to the Government, they would be in a position to reduce expenditure. Being in the Opposition, he said, might be good for his health whatever it might mean to his pocket. Turning to the subject of transportation the speaker dwelt for some time on the steam services on the different bays. A great portion of the speakers address was taken up with a discussion on trivial district matters. Reference was made to the abolition of the income tax, which he thought was favorably viewed by those who evaded the regulation. He felt that the removal of the tax was not lightening the burden on the ordinary man, and he could not see why it was done. The Prime Minister remarked that the speaker's leader, Mr. Hickman, had said, "the tax ought to have been removed long ago." Mr. Halfyard continued his remarks until near half past 6 o'clock and concluded with some humorous notes on the good old days when rum sold at 1s. 6d. per quart.

The Minister of Marine and Fisheries making reference to the Speech from the Throne, took occasion to reply to some questions raised by Mr. Halfyard. He first referred to a charge that he (Capt. Winsor) had put his brother in charge of the Wren. He characterized the charge as a lie. In reference to the running ashore of the Wren, he said that his brother did not loose her and further there was a pilot on board. Mr. Halfyard interposed that this was extravagance and the Minister replied that we are to-day suffering from some of the bad management and extravagance of the Government of which Mr. Halfyard was the member. The speaker further said that it was not true as stated by Mr. Halfyard that 75% of the people of Bonavista Bay wanted a bonus on fish last year. About the Malakoff, the speaker said that in the first place Mr. Halfyard took her off Bonavista Bay to please some of his supporters and she was brought to Trinity Bay for the benefit of a private concern. Re a charge about turning certain individuals off the boats, Capt. Winsor referred to the solitary government supporter on the Malakoff not being allowed on shore to vote. In reference to the matter of members of a district not getting money to expend the reason was that for the last eight years before 1923, the members who were sent money for Bonavista Bay handed it over to the union councils and they gave it to those only who supported their side. He added that a case was stated last year where $1000 was sent to his home town and because certain men were not on the union side they did not get one cent of it. He challenged Mr. Halfyard to point out any case where distinction is now made in the giving of a day's work. In reference to not giving the bonus on fish, Capt. Winsor said that with fish at from $8 to $12 per quintal his constituents and those of Notre Dame Bay did not think it fair that the other people of the country should be taxed to pay it.

At 6.30 it was moved and seconded that debate be adjourned and the remainder of the orders of the day deferred. The House then adjourned.

Is Russia About to Find Her Soul?

One of the most momentous events to have occurred in Russia since the Bolshevik revolution of 1917 is the removal of Trotsky from the position of President of the Revolutionary War Council. Lenin and Trotsky were the guiding spirits in the movement whereby the nation threw off the tyranny of Czarism...

Centuries of oppression had cowed the peasantry to such an extent that it seemed inconceivable that they would ever raise a hand against their masters...

The Russian people were not long in realizing that they had been duped, and that their lot, hard enough before, had been exchanged for something infinitely worse. Law and order disappeared, their most cherished religious beliefs became a byword, and the spectre of famine stalked through the land.

Since Lenin's death there have been unmistakable signs of a cleavage in the ranks of the Bolsheviks, and the estrangement which has taken place between Trotsky, the Red Army chief, and Zinoviev, Kameneff, and Stalin is due to the fact that the former openly expressed his opinion that the Communist theories had failed in practice...

It is impossible to believe that a man of Trotsky's character will disappear from the stage of Russian politics without making an effort to regain his supremacy. The result of civil war would be the weakening of both sides, and the time would then be ripe for the advent of a man possessing the necessary qualifications to restore order, and to secure for Russia that constitutional liberty which she made a desperate but fruitless effort to obtain.

In to-day's message Trotsky's successor is reported to have issued a warning to the Russian people to be on their guard against attacks from without. If their misfortunes have taught the people anything, it must surely have been that their worst enemy is within.

The principles of Bolshevism in operation have proved disastrous to themselves, and even their most ardent supporters in the world outside have come to regard it with repugnance and contempt. Russia's redemption has been long delayed, owing largely to the character of the people themselves, but when the full awakening comes, the fate of their oppressors will be all the more certain and terrible on that account.

Loss of Seaman Reported

The loss of a member of the crew of the schr. Emily H. Patten is reported in a message to the Deputy Minister of Customs from the Sub-Collector at Grand Bank, which is as follows:—"Schr. Emily H. Patten arrived from Setubal, salt laden and reports loss of Charles Ayers of Fortune, who disappeared from vessel on night Dec. 28th, 1924 whilst on watch in Sodus River."

Tearing Down Old Building

A number of workmen are now engaged demolishing the old building of Newman's estate, on Water Street, adjoining the Nfld. Light and Power Company. Messrs. A. E. Hickman and Company have acquired the above property for the building of a two storey concrete structure, which will be used as a garage and showroom. The work of excavating will commence in a few days.

PEPYS BEHIND THE SCENES

Feb. 25th.—Up betimes and abroad, being a half day, and much work to be done, which keeps me busy all the morning. This afternoon, to the Board of Trade, there to attend a committee meeting of the Motor Association, about the new Bill which the Government will pass this session. The meeting a long one, and much business done. Going home, meet Povey, he coming from the House, and tells me how Mr. Halford did speak for more than 3 hours, and coming in contact with Capt. Winsor, is badly worsted. Among other things, Mr. Halford did compare a member of the Government to a "blatant ass" and is compelled by the Speaker to withdraw his remark. Capt. Winsor, moving the adjournment, will conclude his discourse on to-morrow, and is like that the debate will be ended before Friday's sitting. This day, developing a bad cold of my head, my wife thinks I am sickening with the flu, being that it is now going about, and would have me stay at home. This I did, to please the wretch, albeit mightily eager for a game of bridge, which I did hope for at the Club this night. But Lord, beginning to cough a lot, I do fear that it is the flu, and so to bed, with a hot toddy, to soothe my dry throat.

Methodist Organizations

HEAR EDUCATIONAL PROPOSALS.

Yesterday afternoon a meeting of the Board of Governors of the Methodist College was held in the parlor of the Gower Street Methodist Church. The meeting had been called to consider the report of the Executive in relation to the College and proposals for reconstruction, etc. The various recommendations in the report therein received unanimous approval of the Board.

Last night in the basement of Gower Street Church another meeting—this time of "officers and members of the representative Methodist organizations interested in education."—and the announced object being "to take counsel together in planning for reconstruction in Methodist Education for the college and city." Hon. C. P. Ayre, chairman of the Board of Governors, presided. Following the singing of "O God, our help in ages past," and prayer by Rev. Dr. Darby, the chairman dealt briefly with the situation with which they were confronted and pointed out the need of some whole-hearted effort to meet the needs of the young people committed to their care. He referred to the steps upward from the old Wesleyan Academy to the college recently destroyed, and to the organizations that existed to-day which the builders of the late college could not call upon, and intimated that the desire was to enlarge the circle of interest in the work.

Dr. Curtis followed with a description of the educational conditions as they existed in the city, and emphasized the need of new and larger schools to meet the pressing demand.

Mr. Arthur Mews spoke on the value of unification in educational effort, dealing with the question from the standpoint of (1) conditions as they were, (2) economy in administration and efficiency, (3) finance.

Mr. Reuben Horwood read the report of the Executive as it appears in another column, copies of which have been distributed. The chairman then offered an opportunity for any in the audience to speak. Mr. W. Campbell, an Old Collegian, suggested a method by which the Board might without great burden finance their project.

Mr. H. S. Salter thought the Board's plans were far reaching and required careful consideration. He believed the idea of erecting a new College Home should not be considered for the present. Mr. H. J. Russell, President M.C.L.L. speaking for that body, approved of the plans outlined and pledged the support of that body. Mr. W. White speaking for the Old Collegians believed they would support "any reasonable proposition." He discussed figures and thought it improbable the plan could be carried out for the sums named. In reply to his question as to the basis on which the estimate had been made the chairman replied that the estimate was only approximate, but it was believed accommodation could be provided at the rate of $300 per child, and for 2000 children this would mean $600,000. In Canada the cost was $370 per child, but he thought it could be done much cheaper here. Mrs. Albert Soper, president of the Ladies College Aid Society and Miss Mackay president of the Guild, pledged the support of their organizations. Rev. Charles Lennox approved of the Home being included in the scheme. Mr. Harrington expressed admiration for the generous nature of the programme, and assured the Board that if they will replace the buildings, the Staff would promise to spare no efforts to achieve the fullest measure of success in their work. Mr. Harry Wyatt spoke for the Guards Old Comrades and promised all the assistance it was in their power to give.

Mr. Blackwood spoke of the duty to provide educational accommodation for the youth of the city, and of the necessity of supporting the Boards in their endeavour to meet the pressing needs of the day. He was optimistic and confident that the programme was not beyond the ability of the people to handle. This closed the discussion, and with the benediction by Rev. E. Moore, of Pouch Cove, the meeting was brought to a close.

Hon. Treasurer C. of E. Orphanage gratefully acknowledges the sum of Thirty Seven Dollars and Sixty Two Cents ($37.62) from the Arlie Marks Co., being portion of proceeds received from performance of "45 Minutes from Broadway" on Ash Wednesday night.—Feb 26, 11

Difference in Prices

In view of the reply given in the House of Assembly by the Minister of Marine and Fisheries as to the cost of kerosene oil, business people are anxious to know why the trade had to pay 28 to 29 cents per gallon, when similar oil was being supplied to the Government at 22 1/2 cents per gallon.

MINARD'S LINIMENT BELIEVED NEURALGIA.

What a Change Brought to Nfld.

(From the Sydney Post.)

Sir—Look here upon this picture and on this, the counterfeit presentment of two Premiers.

A minor dispute takes place between Besco and its miners in Newfoundland: Before the trouble had time to gather headway the Premier of the Colony takes a hand and wires Mr. Wolvin to settle the difficulty, in a word that he is not going to stand for any nonsense at Besco's hands.

To all thinking grits of Cape Breton County, who are grits because their father was a grit, or their grandmother had a Post Office at $10 a year in McKenzie's time, I would say: Take a look at Monroe in Newfoundland and then at Armstrong in Halifax. The advantages of a government change is at once obvious.

Only a fringe of the rottenness was uncovered when Squires made such a hasty and ungallant exit from the premiership; but sufficient was unearthed to show that the chief weapon used to encourage favourable legislation from the various Newfoundland governments was the same old argument of money, the same old argument which prevailed with Judas Iscariot.

But a government and a Premier now rule in Newfoundland that so far, at least, have not accepted Besco's bribes, and Premier Monroe is in the happy position of being able to tell Mr. Wolvin very frankly that he has got to travel straight in Newfoundland or there will be trouble.

This then is the advantage of a change in government. Can we not hear Wolvin hiss through his teeth: "I wonder now what is this fellow's price, this fellow Monroe, for he must be fixed like all the rest." I have a friend travelling on the Newfoundland boats from whom I get the news of distinguished passengers migrating north, and whenever I shall hear that Wolvin or McLurg or Hector McInnis is making an official visit to Wabana mines, or going on a fishing trip to the wonderful salmon pools of Newfoundland, I shall wire my other friend Monroe to watch his step.

Recently a certain minister related to a familiar friend of his that, when a certain questionable bill was before the house of which he was a prominent member, a bribe of ten thousand dollars was quietly tendered him, and that he indignantly spurned it. He then tendered his resignation. His friend interjected: "After you had shown yourself to be a man of such honour and decency, why did you resign?" "I was afraid of myself," said the Minister. "They were getting dangerously near my figure."

It's thirty years or more since the Dominion Coal Company was granted various leases and various concessions in Cape Breton—it's so easy for a Halifax bunch to throw Cape Breton to the wolves and to the Wolvins—and in covering up the infamous deal an intensive propaganda was then inaugurated by the Grit Government at Halifax—the same government that is there yet, only with variations—a smoke screen to cover up the infamy. And the smoke screen was more or less successful. We never discovered yet, and I expect now are never shall—for they have a splendid system at Halifax for burning the records,—just how debauching the argument was. But we do know that never in the last thirty years has any Premier of this Province been able to use with the heads of our Corporations any words stronger than "By your leave." There is one master's voice in Nova Scotia, and that master's voice is Besco. And more's the pity.

Note the showing of our people in the Mines and Sydney. Think you, gentle reader, that those conditions could possibly obtain with an independent government at Halifax No, sir! An unbribed and untrammeled government would only have to crack the whip, as Monroe did, and you would then see the Wolvins dance and the smaller fellows, the McLurgs and the rest do the goose step.

I said already I am not a politician, but I do say in all seriousness that any independent voter in Nova Scotia who votes with a government job or a promise—who would go to the polls and deliberately vote for a continuation in office of the present decrepit, defunct and dishonorable bunch of mediocrities, now charged with the government of this province, is untrue to the people of the province and dishonest with himself. A change was a splendid thing in Newfoundland. It gave them a Premier who was able to make Wolvin jump. The previous government of Newfoundland became corrupted before it was two years old. How many bribery offences must be attached to a government thirty or forty years old, which conceived our blessed country, watched all its infant struggles, papped and fondled it, nourished it in a hundred noble ways until now it has grown not into a healthy and grateful child, but into a heartless monster which is strangling the very life blood out of our Island and Province. And our Premier is dumb.

Only yesterday he declared that he had not interfered in the dispute. It is not a dispute we have here—it is a heartrending, sickening, calamitous condition, where our people, willing to work, are starving. Our coal seams are here for the Besco to operate and they refuse to operate them.

A new government at Halifax, a government of ditchdiggers, farmers, doctors or even lawyers—at least before Besco would have a chance to bribe them—any new government like any new broom would make a clean sweep of Besco.

In the name of our Island which is being robbed, in the name of our people who are being insulted and starved, in the name of honesty and decency, let us try to restore the good name of Nova Scotia, and we can only do that by having a change of government at Halifax.

Yours truly, J. T. McDONALD.

Benefit Day for Rink Employees

The benefit for the ice men and employees of the Prince's Rink, which was postponed on Tuesday last on account of the mild weather, takes place to-day. With last night's frost a splendid sheet of ice has been prepared and it is hoped that the merry items of interest arranged for the afternoon and night will be availed of by large attendances. The ice men have done their very best for the pleasure of skaters during the season, and we feel sure that this will be readily appreciated by all those who have patronized the rink. This afternoon general skating takes place to the music of Bennett's Band; at 6:30 a Mercantile hockey game will be played between Bowling Bros. and Jas. Baird, Ltd. The sports programme arranged will begin at 7:30. There will be short and middle distance races by several of the best known skaters in the city, and the events as carded are bound to please. A feature of the night's programme will be the inter collegiate hockey match, between the Methodist College and B. F. C. teams. General skating will take place at 9 o'clock to the music of Mount Cashel Band.

Just Folks.
By EDGAR GUEST.
STRANGENESS OF GRIEF.
Little know till trouble comes
The sting and hurt and pain of it,
Till the storm. The thunder's drums
We hear and face the rain of it,
As we go singing through the day
Some one weeps across the way.
Little think when skies are fair
That some by tears are blind to them.
The day we think so free from care
Our neighbours think unkind to them.
Why we take our merry turn
While other hearts with anguish burn.
We are few of many here
And no day can be bright for all;
Some of us has vision clear
To see and say what's right for all
As the roses on from day to day
Some come and some are sad and some are gay.
But when trouble comes we learn
The grief and hurt and ache of it,
The little does it make of it;
A wonder that the world can play
A game of trade on such a day.
Those who smile have wept or will
To all who live shall come to know
There is no favored haunt or hill,
Grief is not just for some to know,
As the starfish and this dark dismay
Neighbor suffered yesterday!

Delight's programme at the Nickel
Delight's programme at the Nickel Theatre is one that commands the attention of all lovers of screen entertainment. Harold Lloyd, the merry creator of melancholy, appears in the latest comedy special, "Number One." This comedy spells disaster for the blues, and will make you feel sorry for having seen it.
The feature to-night is the Great Story "A Couple of Down and Outs."
Danny Greath, D.C.M., an on-foot war veteran, recognises his old shipper in a string of hoes intended for shipment to the continent. Well, the fate of these poor anti-he makes a desperate attempt to rescue his old friend and succeeds, though, in doing so, he knocks down a sergeant.
While trespassing in search of his horse, he is stopped by a man who enquires his business. Danny runs out the whole story and then the girl hand him over to the police? Come and see the film, "A Couple of Down and Outs," at the Nickel Theatre.
It is an All-British picture and, for all alone, is worthy the patronage of spectators in this country. Its claims are not based on that feature, however, for it is an exceedingly human and admirably portrayed by an All-British cast and headed by Rex Davis and Edna Best.

LAST NIGHT'S HOCKEY.

FELDIANS . . . . . 6
GUARDS . . . . . 5

Before an attendance of 1,200 spectators, including His Excellency the Governor, the second game of the Tie Cup Series took place at the Prince's Rink last evening, when the champion Feldians team defeated the Guards by a score of 6 goals to 5, in what proved to be one of the best played games of the season. The Feldians played without the services of Hubert Rendell, the husky defence man, who is confined to his room with a severe cold. The breach was filled by "Duke" Winter, with the assistance of Fred Rendell. For the Guards Clouston was an absentee.

First Period

The game got started an hour later than usual, on a splendid sheet of ice. Referee Tobin dropped the puck into play at 8.35, and from the very outset the Feldians rushed matters and confined the disc to Guards territory, and many good attempts were made to score. Herder cleared from his position and made a good run, combining with E. Munn and Coultas, but "Nix" saved well. The game then became very fast with considerable end-to-end play. Ewing uncorked several good sweeps of the ring but failed to get the desired opening to score. A moment later Henley Munn provided a thrill for the fans, by making a pretty sweep of the rink. He beat the Feldian defence cold, and all but scored. In the play Munn got entangled in the net and dislodged it from its position. The Guards kept pressing hard and after 12 minutes of play Paterson swept down and, passing to Errol Munn, the latter banged home the first goal. The Feldians then put on more steam and a good exhibition was displayed by Ewing, Reid and Lloyd. The shots were sent dead on to Currie, who managed to cast them aside in good style. Several individual runs were then carried out by Paterson, Winter and Bayly, but nothing happened. Seven minutes later Whelan made a good run down the left boards, and sent a shot to Hunt which was only partly cleared. Whelan rushed in and scored before he had a chance to clear. For the balance of the period both teams pressed hard but all to no avail. When the gong sounded the score stood Guards 2 goals; Feldians 0.

Second Period

At the beginning of the second period the Guards pressed hard for further results. Drawing near the eidolon goal Henley Munn lost a fine chance by being off-side. Three minutes of speedy hockey had passed when Ewing broke away by his lonesome and scored the Feldians first goal. The champions then swept down three abreast, bent on equalizing matters, but Herder and Paterson upset all attacks. Play then transpired to the other end, and ere two minutes had elapsed E. Munn increased the Guards score by a long shot from mid ice. Fred Rendell then substituted for Winter, and scarcely had he taken position on the ice when he secured possession of the rubber and beat the entire Guards team for the Feldians second counter. A moment later Coultas missed a splendid opportunity from a rebound off E. Munn's shot. Play then became general for a few minutes, until E. Munn again took possession and scored No. 4. One minute later Ewing made a pretty play and found the net. Before the gong sounded a good exhibition of hockey was witnessed by both teams. The period ended Guards 4; Feldians, 3.

Third Period

The final period was the most interesting of the whole game, and found the players working very hard. Ewing again showed up prominently and in less than three minutes, after circling the Guards defence, he beat Currie for the equalizing goal. Shortly after this H. Munn was penalized for two minutes. Jimmie Herder then made one of the best plays for the night. By beautiful stick-handling he worked his way through the Feldian team, and went right in on top of Hunt to score, thus placing his team in the lead. The Feldians, quite undaunted, played just as determined as ever and once again Ewing responded to the occasion and tied the score. Bayly was then sent to the penalty box for a minor infringement. As the game progressed honors were evenly divided, and it seemed almost certain that a play-off would eventually follow. The Feldians pressed hard just before the close, and from a face-off near the Guards goal, Duke Winter captured the rubber near the boards and sent in a well directed shot which found its way into the net, thus securing the winning goal. During the dying moments of play the puck was confined to the Feldian territory, but Hunt was found unbeatable. Game over, Feldians 6; Guards 5. The Guards and Terra Novas will meet in the next game.

What "Wavelength" Means

EDITED BY JOHN M. CLAYTON.

The time worn analogy of the stone cast into the pool of water still holds good in being about the simplest illustration of the "broadcasting" of radio waves through the ether.

When a stone is thrown into a pool of water, waves are sent out in all directions. The LENGTH of the wave is measured, usually in feet or inches, in terms of the distance from the crest of one wave to the crest of the next. These waves gradually diminish in height but the distance between crests remains the same even until the waves have ceased to be such, and are mere ripples on the water. And the more power used to throw the stone in the water, the stronger will be the resulting wave, and the further it will "carry" until the waves are ripples.

So with radio waves. The water is replaced by that invisible all pervading medium called the "ether." The stone is replaced by a powerful electrical "other" disturber," but the waves are similar. These waves spread out in all directions from the transmitter. The distance from crest to crest, or the WAVELENGTH, remains the same always, unless it is changed at the transmitter. The more powerful the broadcasting transmitter, the higher these ether waves are and the further they will carry until they become mere ether ripples. Theoretically, the waves going from the spot the stone is thrown into the water NEVER cease. Practically they finally die out, but if we had some means of measuring infinitely small variations in the surface of the ocean, we could drop a pebble in the Atlantic near New York and a person on the coast of France could tell when the waves arrive. AND the distance between Crests of the waves would be the same as when they left New York.

So when "wavelength" is written of, or mentioned, don't think it has anything to do with the distance a set will receive from, or the power of a radio station. To-day some of the most long distance work is being done on the shortest waves. In radio parlance wavelength simply means the distance between the successive "humps" of the electrical wave going through the air. This distance is measured in meters instead of inches or feet, there being approximately 3.3 feet to the meter.

OFFICIAL SYNOPSIS.

HON. MR. ALDERDICE—Mr. President, I should like to make a few remarks in reference to the Speech from the Throne, but before doing so may I offer you, Sir, my sincere congratulations on the honor conferred on you by your appointment to the presidency of this Council. It goes without saying, Sir, that you will maintain the position with dignity and credit to yourself and to the country at large.

Reverting to His Excellency's Speech. Appropriately enough, fish comes first on the legislative bill of fare. It is gratifying to know that remunerative prices have been obtained for last year's catch. It appears to me that more often than not, it is our own fault when we fail to obtain paying prices in the foreign markets. Probably no other food commodity receives such casual treatment as is accorded our codfish from the time it is taken out of the water until it is landed in the foreign market. Surely we have reached the time when standardization of quality and controlled market distribution are essential. With proper grading and strict supervision and avoidance of sending the markets beyond their joint of absorption, there should be no recurrence of the conditions obtaining during 1923 when Labrador codfish reached a level where it was scarcely worth the catching.

In regard to the Humber operations, I hope the optimism displayed in that paragraph of the Speech on this subject will be realized. It seems to me a bad start has been made at the construction end. Let us hope it will not be repeated under operating conditions.

The position of the Bell Island miners is deplorable. The Government are to be congratulated on the stand they have taken in defence of the men. The idea of a compulsory ten hour day for underground work is unthinkable. It looks to me as though the Besco people were handing their labour troubles everywhere in a spirit of sheer perversity. There seems to be a sinister purpose behind it all, but whatever the aim may be it is clearly the duty of the Government to stand by the men where acts of oppression and injustice are attempted. It is gratifying to know a good beginning has been made in this direction, and I feel sure it will be continued.

It is unfortunate the Government were not able to award the contract for the building of the Port aux Basques to North Sydney steamer to a British firm. But a difference of nearly $50,000 in cost is more than this country could afford to expend on sentiment.

The intention that unemployment is decreasing is encouraging. The Government are to be congratulated on having the courage of their convictions in abolishing the rock sheds and relieving distress by other methods. Stone breaking is usually associated with convict labour, and savours too much of the unproductive treadmill. It is wrong in principle and, to my mind, lowering to the dignity of labour to ask men to perform work of a nature that gives practically no returns for the time and energy expended.

The intention of the Government, as outlined in His Excellency's Speech, to institute a bounty for the encouragement of repairs to fishing vessels is commendable, and is a step in the right direction. Granted, there may be difficulties in the way of making equitable distribution of the bounty, it will, nevertheless, be the means of getting many a vessel into commission that otherwise would within a year or two be qualifying for the bulk class because of the need of an incentive such as this bonus supplies.

The proposed Bill for the Redistribution of the Seats in the House of Assembly is highly desirable. Many anomalies that now exist are sure to be removed. One man for each district is the ideal form of representation, for it brings home to each member a full sense of his responsibilities to his constituency.

Tourist traffic is indirectly referred to in relation to the proposed revision of the Motor Traffic Laws. Good roads must precede Tourist Traffic development, but before either must come hotel accommodation. This is most essential, for before we attempt to advertise the scenic beauties and attractions of our country we must prepare comfortable quarters for our prospective paying guests. If we are to attract the wealthy tourist, we must be able to assure him of getting here the same comforts as are at his disposal in his own country and for that reason a first class hotel here in St. John's is imperative, and should be the first step in the development of Tourist Traffic.

The proposed legislation for the incorporation of Municipalities ought to be productive of much good. The aim of the measure is to permit settlements and communities to initiate public utilities and give them authority to levy and collect taxes to finance them. This ought to foster a spirit of independence and responsibility, and should engender a proper civic spirit that is bound to react for the benefit of the general good.

And now, Sir, with your permission, I should like to say a few words of a personal nature. Through you, I should like to tell the Honourable Members of the Legislative Council how much I appreciate the warm welcome that has been accorded me by every member and how much I desire to thank them. In particular I should like to thank the Hon. Mr. Ellis, the Hon. Mr. Morine, and the Hon. Mr. Bishop for their far too complimentary references to myself. I am afraid their good nature got the better of their good judgment. In any case, I desire to assure you that it is my firm resolve to give honest, loyal and disinterested service in this House, thereby hoping to make some return for the good blessings I have found in this my adopted country.

But above all, I wish to thank these three gentlemen for their references to my uncle, the late Moses Monroe. They did not say one word too much. His lovable, loyal and thoughtful disposition endeared him to everyone who came into close contact with him. His sympathy and kindness of heart for those in affliction was pro-verbal. His democratic spirit and strong sense of fair play appealed to the whole community. He has gone, but his good works live after him, and I can assure you, Mr. President, it is very consoling to his relatives to know the fragrance of his memory still remains within the confines of this House.

HON. MR. MORINE—It is always a pleasure to me to listen to my late junior partner in the practice of law, and to reflect how much better fitted he would be for a seat in the Lower House than some of those there who try to attack the Government from day to day. However, I think too much reading has driven him mad. He propounds theories and answers them himself in the same speech. Quoted principles that have no bearing on present day affairs, and I will try to show their false application. For instance, take the Bell Island question. Hon. Mr. Gibbs tried to draw a distinction between the price of labour and the hours of work, but it is apparent that they are so closely connected as to be inseparable to a large degree. The Government is bound to interfere if the work resembles anything like slavery. But as to whether the men shall work 8 or 10 hours is not a matter that the Government is called upon to interfere with at present. As regards the reference of Hon. Mr. Gibbs to the haggard condition of the men emerging from the mines, in none of their representations have they laid any stress on the evil effects resulting from their long hours of toil. It is true they have said the hours should be eight, not ten, but I understand they had no objection to working ten hours if they got more pay for ten hours. There has certainly been no evidence to show that suffering and bad health had been caused by these long hours, and consequently no need for the interference of the Legislature. If sufficient wages were given the men would work for 10 hours. It would be beyond their normal strength. The punch clock which may have caused some trouble, was the sort of thing which registered, when men came and when they left, and gave evidence of the men at work in the mine at certain times. This was quite a common practice and was in the interest of everybody. The men would be willing to do one of two things—work for 8 hours a day at the present rate of work for a longer time at a higher rate. If short hours meant a lowering of price, or if the company said that 8 hours were not sufficient to produce what they should, then the question of safeguarding the industry arose. The Government is anxious to get for the men reasonable hours and pay without endangering the industry. There is no need to talk of the Government as though it has wanted disregard to the welfare of the labourers. The best that could be done must be done. Those who have late did so for fear of doing harm to our neighbours, the labourers or to the industry. We have no fear as to how the shareholders may suffer, the only fear is that in striving to take the side of the men, in trying to obtain shorter hours or higher wages, we might be killing the goose that laid the golden egg. If the industry ceased the result would be more harmful for many men would be thrown out of work altogether. Anyone who knows the conditions of the steel market to-day and of the history of the Besco Co., what it was doing or even what its enemies said of it, could realize the dangerous position we should be in if we hampered it in any way. It would be more expensive if run more inefficiently and more dangerous to the company. If the company were put into insolvency it might mean that the mine would be closed for years. This would have very harmful results, many men would be thrown out of work, some probably would find labour elsewhere, yet many who are permanent residents, would have their living taken from them. To talk, expound and exaggerate; to encourage resistance, to belittle the situation is the very worst service to the people working there. The Premier is acting in a courageous manner over this labour question. The labourers, our neighbours, have our entire sympathy. Who had questioned their right to work, and right to labour? Nobody. And I take issue with the contention that it was the duty of the Government to provide labour and work and spend in doing so the money of the many paid in taxes, etc., on the few who were unemployed. The Hon. gentleman's thesis were all wrong. If carried out there would be no limitations to the duties devolving upon the Government in this respect. It is rank Communism to say that the Government must step in and take money to pay for labour which was not productive. That is nothing but the capital levy, the doctrine of the Socialist. (Hon. Mr. Gibbs interrupted to say Mr. Morine was misquoting him). Well, maybe Hon. Mr. Gibbs had not actually said that in so many words, yet the inference was clear that what he meant by work, what labor was to have labor provided by the Government. The Hon. gentleman had read too much without perception and if he considered it the duty of the Government to do such a thing he must be mad. A wise Government would help to provide labour by developing the natural resources of the country—by encouraging and opening up those resources and in this way supply labour to the unemployed. But to say it is the duty of the Government to provide work, what is profitable or not, or wise for the whole people or not, is rank Communism and would reduce the country to the level of common beggary. Why, if that were so, men would neglect opportunities to work, and appeal to the sympathy of the Government and the Government would have to provide them with labor and food.

Hon. Mr. Gibbs defines a "dole" as something given for nothing. Is not money spent on rockbreaking a dole? It is a large amount expended for what?—a few rocks. If $30 were given to anyone for an article worth $19, with the object of helping that person to the extent of $10, that $10 is a dole, however disguised. If $10,000 were expended for an advantage which in a proper season would have cost $5,000, that $5,000 extra is a dole. It is something for nothing. It is arrant nonsense to talk of "dignity of labor" in reference to work which, if not wholly unproductive, could be done to greater advantage at some other time if it was not for the necessity of giving work now. Another thing which shows how specious and flimsy is this sort of talk, was the harrowing picture drawn of the policeman entering a house to find out conditions. If enquiry were not made, what would happen? Work would be given out to everyone who applied for it, whether they needed it or not. How could this sort of thing be prevented unless enquiry were made? But such enquiry horrified Hon. friend. If the money of the people is to be expended it must be expended on something which is productive and necessary. Hon. Mr. Morine considered that it is not practical to talk of doing concrete work in the winter time, or such work as changing the bridge, improving the Southside Basin, enlarging dock, etc. In the first place work of this kind would be more expensive done at this season, and concrete work, under ordinary conditions, is not done during the winter months, because of the harm frost does to it. Man wouldn't work with the same kind of vigour in winter as they could in summer, and it was not necessary to have this done at this time of year. Hon. Mr. Gibbs had made the statement that the condition of the unemployment just now is normal. If that is so, and I agree that it is, the Government's position is normal. How many years could the Government go on providing work, taking the money out of the taxes to pay for the work done at unusual seasons and at unusual cost? If labour-giving industries could be developed so as to supply work which would bring in sufficient money to tide men over the parts of the year when no work was obtainable, it would be well.

The war may have created that condition of taking advantage of the unemployment situation. For some time we have had work when money can be obtained for nothing. How many instances have been known of men, during the past years, have been receiving pay for Government work and at the same time have been employed by private parties?

None of us want to see suffering or think it is around us, and I think the Hon. gentleman might give the members of the Government credit for the same feeling as he experiences himself in this matter. If at times we have to stand out hearts it is because it is in the best interests of the community for us to do so. It seems to me that it would be much better to let the authorities grapple with things as they can, and not make too many speeches about it, and perhaps create wrong impressions outside the Colony. It cannot be good for our credit or for our people. It may do a little harm to the Government of the day, but that does not matter very much. The Government are fixed in their determination that the way they are following is the right way, and why cannot the Hon. gentleman at least let the Government try their way. The other way has been tried for years with great harm to the country, and I do earnestly ask the Hon. gentleman not to dwell too much upon this subject in this way with possibly evil effects to all concerned.

HON. MR. MRUPHY said he was familiar with the work practically his whole life time. He was intimately acquainted with the Besco people for a number of years and to some extent knew what was going on. Some years ago when he went to New Glasgow and Sydney, and Sydney mines to instal lighting plants the Company had their industries working at full speed. The blast furnaces were running, the steel works were in full swing and the coal mines were working at full capacity. The order of things had changed and for a number of years these plants had been going down and were still going down. In his opinion the Company was not making any money. With regard to the coal industry they had many obstacles thrown in the way with strikes year after year, and still continuing. No matter what concessions had been offered the miners they were not satisfied. Formerly it was possible to get out ore on Bell Island at 40 cents a ton, but the wages gradually increased, and while the wages now paid were not too much in accordance with the cost of living, yet it was dangerous to interfere with the Company. Years ago he paid 70 to 80 cents a day to loggers, and the workers were not satisfied, but we were living in a different age then, and in his opinion the people were even better off than at present. He was an old man, he said, and knew what he was talking about. When wages were increased to a dollar a day workers considered that they were extremely well paid. Later the wages gradually rose from $1.00 to $2.00 and $2.50 for ordinary work, but he questioned if the increase brought about the results expected. In his opinion any industry making large profits should share them with the employees engaged.

The Besco, he thought, was not making large profits, and we should be very careful not to kill the industry entirely by hampering the Company. The Company had enough to contend with already without further obstacles being placed in the way. He considered that eight hours a day was enough for men to work underground, and if the Company desired a greater output than under the present system they should employ more men and shorten the shifts. With regard to the rock breaking, he thought that properly handled it might be a profitable industry. Broken stone was very necessary for concrete work, which is now almost universally used in building, and there was a big field here, even if the Government had to carry a surplus stock from season to season. The trouble with rock breaking was not the work itself, but the way it was carried out. Under Government direction there was no one to look after it. Invariably political heeled were engaged as bosses, and those employed were not allowed to work. Those in need were not the only ones employed, but many of those with independent means and money in the bank. These latter were the class of men who took advantage of every job going. The system under Government control was not to work but to play cards and amuse themselves and draw their pay. In one case he knew of a man who, because he did work, was driven from the rock shed. The political bosses in charge did not want any work done, for fear the job would end too quickly. Government log-cutting was also a failure for the same reason. When the work was contemplated he had called on the Prime Minister of the day and offered him the use of his forty years' experience and was prepared to outline a programme for the Government, whereby if no money was made, at least no money would be lost. His suggestion was not accepted, and it was a fact that when such experienced lumber men as Mr. M. E. Martin and others were working side by side with the Government contractors the former made money while the Government lost money. The loss in both cases, rock breaking and log cutting, was the result of employing political heeled, and not conducting the work in a business like manner. He, together with the late Hon. John Harvey, was the first to engage in exporting pulpwood from this country, but because they lost any money in the venture, but because the Government of that time wanted men from outside employed by them, which brought on trouble after trouble and the work was abandoned. What is required in all Government undertakings is proper supervision and management, but not until then could anything of a productive and profitable nature be expected.

The address was read a second time and passed and ordered that it be presented to H.E. the Governor by a deputation of the whole House.

Hon. President read a message from the Assembly requesting concurrence in accompanying bill entitled "An Act to Amend the Act 15 Geo. B. Chap. 20. An Act for the raising of a sum of money on the credit of the Colony for certain public purposes."

On motion of Hon. Mr. Morine, said Bill was read a first time, and with the consent of the House, a second and third time, and passed.

House then adjourned until Thursday next at 4 o'clock.

An East End Catholic Rally

THE CARDINAL'S MESSAGE TO CATHOLIC ELECTORS.

There is a widely held view that if one wants the working man to assemble in his thousands in any given place on the basis of "paying to go in," he must be offered "in return" something in the way of purely secular enjoyment. A football match or a boxing contest will certainly do it; a music hall or a picture theatre has its appeal; even a concert may not be despised—but a religious demonstration! Any person inclined to reason in this wise should note that on Tuesday evening several thousands of Catholic working men, drawn from an area which includes some of the poorest parts of the East End of London, joyfully paid towards the expenses of a great Catholic Rally at "Premierland," the largest available hall in the district, in order to have the privilege of taking part in it. Moreover there were other thousands of their fellow-Catholics eager and anxious to do the same; for the tickets had to be severely rationed among twelve parishes, to the utmost limit of the accommodation; there would have been no difficulty in filling a hall double the capacity of Premierland had it been possible to get such a meeting-place.

It was a stimulating spectacle which met His Eminence Cardinal Bourne on his arrival, shortly after eight o'clock, to deliver a New Year's message to the Catholic working men of East London, who appreciated the presence of their Archbishop all the more from the fact that he had come among them almost against his doctor's orders. The raised platform where boxing contests form the normal staple of a Premierland entertainment became for the occasion a bandstand, occupied by the picturesque and most efficient band of St. Mary's Orphanage, North Hyde. On a crowded platform at one end of the building were assembled the chairman of the meeting, Lord Morris of St. John's; the Mayor of Stepney (Alderman Somper), who attended in State with his town clerk and mace-bearer; several scores of clergy, among whom the genial figure of Canon Ring was primus inter pares as a driving force of the gathering; Catholics in various walks of public and professional life; some of them are specified in the report below, as speakers; with here and there a lady to look out across the expanse of the hall at other favoured members of her sex who had the privilege of a "ladies' gallery." And all around, row upon row, the welcoming upturned faces of the Catholic men of the East End—a fine, inspiring body, drawn largely from branches of the Guild of the Blessed Sacrament and other religious organizations. To attempt a list of well-known Catholic workers present would have to be almost an exhaustive as well as an exhausting process so far as East London is concerned. Practically all the clergy of the twelve parishes were there, with other priests to swell their ranks; whilst the laity was representative of every class and calling.

Lord Morris expressed his pleasure at presiding at the gathering. They were met principally, he said, to hear an address from His Eminence Cardinal Bourne upon matters in which they were all keenly interested, and to which it was their privilege, as members of the church, to co-operate in a small way with him. They were met also, as representatives of twelve parishes in the East End of that city, in the great advance which the Church had made in this country during the past year. That meeting was a fine illustration of organized Christianity, and was typical of many celebrations of the same kind which would take place all over this country during the present Holy Year. They had come together in a spirit of good will, and in that good will they included all men, of all creeds and all classes. They came too, to hear from His Eminence his New Year's message to them. That message they knew would be full of hope and encouragement for the work which lay before them in this New Year. He himself would like to say to them that no matter what trials came to them they must never be cast down; their motto must be "Excelsior." They must aim high if they hoped to achieve success.

Proceeding, Lord Morris recalled the Penal Days and the crushing disabilities under which our Catholic forefathers laboured. It was hard to realize, he said, looking round at that great gathering of Catholics in a public hall, that we were scarcely a century removed from the period of religious oppression. It was not a hundred and fifty years since the last priest was haled before the courts in London for the crime of celebrating Mass in a house quite near to that very building. That was in 1778; the priest was Father Webb; and the Lord Chief Justice of that day—Judge Mansfield—refused to convict. The priest was acquitted and returned to his rejoicing "faithful few." What a contrast between that time and the present! It was indeed cause for rejoicing that to-day we enjoyed in this land complete liberty to worship God, not in some poor and obscure room, but in fitting temples raised to His honour by the descendants of those poor people who on that memorable night, one hundred and fifty years ago, rejoiced over the victory of their hunted priest. Again, for three hundred years, it was illegal, according to the law of this land, to leave in a will a bequest of money for the celebration of Masses. Four years ago a case arose under a will, and His Eminence Cardinal Bourne brought the matter to the highest Court in the land, when the majority of the judges held in favour of the Catholic side; the decisions of three hundred years were swept away, and the highest legal tribunal—the House of Lords—removed that unjust and cruel disability. Similar cases might be quoted from other lands, showing the guiding Hand of Him who had promised always to remain with His Church. They should indeed be grateful for the privilege of being members of the Catholic Church. They had not to make up their minds on any of the dogmas of faith; they had merely to obey—to "hear the Church."

Private judgment, Lord Morris continued, was not to be their guide; if it were, there would be no hope at all for the poor or illiterate person who had no means of examining all the records dealing with the truths of our holy religion. But they knew that only in simplicity of faith could they be secure; and their faith was, and must ever be, as simple as it was amongst the disciples of Jesus Christ, in His own time amongst them. When He, the second Person of the Blessed Trinity, made the direct promise to His Apostles, that He would remain in His Church until the end of time, He meant it. In simplicity of faith their strength was maintained and increased. Moreover, the Christian manhood of this nation was not as yet fully developed; in that, it was like the Falls of Niagara, which for long ages has been running to waste, and valueless, because unused. But they had seen how science had been brought to bear upon that mighty source of energy, and made full use of it for the benefit of man. In the same way, by co-operation and mutual encouragement, they could make of this great reserve of human energy represented by men leading earnest Catholic lives, a driving force which would be of untold value to themselves and to their fellow-men.

THE MAYOR'S WELCOME.
The Mayor of Stepney described the occasion as an unique one; it was probably, he said, the first occasion on which, in that borough, a Mayor had had the honour of welcoming a Prince of the Catholic Church. It gave him great pleasure also, to pay a tribute of honour not only to priests such as Canon Ring and others there present, but also to the Catholic laity in general; he was pleased to know that in that neighbourhood Catholic men and women worked in whole-hearted unity with others in civic life, for their mutual benefit. It was his proud privilege to welcome His Eminence Cardinal Bourne in the name of the Borough of Stepney.

And Now Recommends Dodd's Kidney Pills to all Similar Sufferers.

Mrs. Wm. Maddix suffered from a weak back.
St. Gilbert, P.E.I., Feb. 25.—(Special) "I am the mother of three children and after the birth of the eldest my back was very weak" states Mrs. Maddix, a well known resident of this place. "Later it became very painful until last winter it got so bad that I could hardly stand. I then took four boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills which completely relieved me. I have great confidence in them and recommend them to all my friends."
Mrs. Maddix's trouble came from the kidneys as is evidenced by the relief she got from Dodd's Kidney Pills. When the kidneys become clogged or out of order, the circulation becomes sluggish, the impurities are not strained out of the blood and the result is weariness and lack of energy all over the body. This condition is not only disagreeable but dangerous as well. The impurities in the blood are the seeds of disease.
