"NEAR" DIAMONDS IN NEW ONTARIO

Crystals Discovered Near Cochrane, Ont., by Railway Commissioner.

Toronto, Dec. 4.—(Special)—Commissioner Fred Dane, of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario railway commission, returned this morning from a trip to the north, with five samples of crystals, like diamonds. These have been shown to experts, who, Dane says, decline to express an opinion as to whether they are diamonds or not. The crystals were found in the hills near Cochrane, together with others in considerable numbers.

THINKS IT CANCER GERM

Sicilian Savant Believes He Has Found Source of Disease and Cure.

Mezzana, Sicily, Dec. 4.—Francesco San Felice, a professor in the university here, believes he has discovered the origin of cancer and its successful treatment. Prof. San Felice declares that in his experiments, especially on dogs affected by cancer, he found that malignant tumors are the result of the tissue cells becoming infected with a specific germ which he calls "saccharomyces neoplasmata."

He accomplished this object by applying methods employed for the production of well known anti-toxin sera. He injected certain animals with the "saccharomyces neoplasmata" toxin, fully modified, and succeeded in obtaining a serum having undoubted preventive and curative properties in the case of malignant tumors.

Prof. San Felice's experiments, which were made so successfully on the lower animals, are being extended to human beings similarly affected.

To Suffer From Headaches Makes Life Miserable.

It takes a person that has had or is subject to headaches to describe the suffering which attends them.

The majority of cases are caused by constipation and dyspepsia. The dull throbbing, intense pain, sometimes in one part, sometimes in another, and then over the whole head, varying in its severity by the cause which brings it on, purely indicates that there is something the matter with the stomach or bowels.

SULTAN TO KEEP HIS BEST LOOKING WIVES

Paris, Dec. 4.—An annuity of $30,000 and the undisturbed possession of his private fortune he inherited from his father, are the terms on which Abdul Aziz, former sultan of Morocco, will give himself to his brother Mulai Halid.

Negotiations for the sale of Abdul harem to Mulai are still progressing, but without much prospect of success, as Abdul insists on holding out the best looking of his numerous wives to bargain for.

A Strong Man Alms' Died, Grew Thin, Weak and Nervous.

A Remarkable Recovery.

"Until three years ago I was the picture of health—then I became what people call Neurasthenic. I grew sleepless, worried, irritable, and nervous. I felt a physical fatigue, experienced fears, and felt always in danger of something unknown. All the time I grew thinner and weaker, felt so nervous that I felt the end must be near. No medicine helped, each one seemed a new disappointment.

Then my doctor suggested 'Ferrozone'—it was a fortunate choice because I improved at once. I gained weight, enjoyed my meals, got a better color, forgot my nervous fears. The way 'Ferrozone' built me up is surprising—it made a new man of me and now I look good for twenty years to come."

J. Y. WAGHORN (Merchant), Wilmington.

Ferrozone is a nourishing tonic that strengthens, fattens, builds up, restores weak, sickly people to health. If you feel poorly, let Ferrozone help you get well. 50c. per box, or 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers.

Fashion Hint for Times Readers

AN IDEAL HAT FOR THE LITTLE GIRL.

The less there is on the small girl's hat the better, for the little face in itself should be the chief note of prettiness in the harmony. The charm and childish attractiveness of such a hat could scarcely be rivaled by the most elaborate concoction of lace and feathers, and the style is very easy one for mother fingers to reproduce.

The shape is a big, roll-brim felt hat, bent down into mushroom form. White mesaline ribbon is arranged in generous loops, so that the trimming stands out around the crown like a full ruche. At the right side is a large bow of the ribbon with ends softly drooping over the hair.

MARINE ENQUIRY CLOSES ITS SESSION AT HALIFAX

Much Waste and Extravagance is Shown by the Evidence—One Case Where an Official's Carelessness Caused a $30,000 Wreck.

Halifax, N. S., Dec. 4.—Judge Caspell's commission finished its inquiry at Halifax this evening and adjourned to meet in Ottawa in about ten days. Judge Caspell and Lawyers Watson and Perron will leave for Toronto and Montreal tomorrow morning.

The most spicy snippets of the day was when Agent Parsons, told how he had discussed with ex-Deputy Minister Gordon the desirability of cutting down expenses on the government steamers and that official had advised against retrenchment, saying, "let her rip." Commander Spain was present at the interview and completed a card for taking three bottles.

A Deb Tremaine, accountant of the marine department, was on the stand this evening and testified that he had charged of the affairs of the agency? "I may have said something to that effect."

"Have you written the minister on these lines?" "I have some recollection of such a letter."

"Have you said that it was impossible to properly administer the affairs of the office owing to the intervention of the members?" "I am not aware of saying so."

"Is there any foundation for such a statement?" "Not for such a sweeping statement."

"How would you put it?" "I do the best we can subject to certain directions which come from the members. We had to obey instructions."

"Members Ran the Show." Judge Caspell—"It simply means that the members ran the whole show."

"Do you remember the circumstances of the account of J. A. Dunn, for work without authority?" "I cannot answer yes or no."

"What have you to say in regard to your certificates of the class of work like that done by Howell, who makes good jobs pay for bad times in other portions of the year?" "Those certificates came under special officers of the department and all we had to do was to pass them."

Investigations Into I. C. R. Wreck in Island Yard Shows Switch Was Not Opened.

An investigation into the wreck of the Halifax Express on Thursday night in the Island yard was begun yesterday morning in the office of terminal agent L. R. Ross. The inquiry was not concluded, but it is understood, though not officially confirmed, that the wreck was caused by the Halifax express running through the switch at the eastern end of the Island yard, and that the blame for this, so far, is believed to rest on the crew of engine 258.

This engine, it is learned, left St. John for New Brunswick late Thursday afternoon and instead of the crew opening the double track switch in the Island yard, ran through it, and consequently the switch was left fouled, and when the Halifax express came along, the engine went off on one track, the cars following on another.

Those present conducting the enquiry were J. T. Halliday, district superintendent; N. L. Rand, master mechanic; Moncton; D. A. Sinclair, master mechanic; St. John; T. C. Burpee, engineer of maintenance of way; Moncton; A. H. Summers, acting trackmaster; Moncton; and L. R. Ross, terminal agent, St. John. A number of the section foremen, engine drivers, trainmen and mechanical men were examined.

The main line track on which the wreck occurred was restored at 7 o'clock yesterday morning. The other main line tracks, which are part of the double track system, are still blocked by the wrecked engine, but will be cleared today. The boiler has been raised by means of the big steam crane and will be placed on a flat car and taken to Moncton. The wrecked cars will also be taken there.

Jas. E. Brant Suffered Torments From Kidney Diseases

Then He Used Dodd's Kidney Pills and Became a Well Man—His Experience a Lesson for You

Atlabasco Landing, Dec. 4.—(Special)—earlier stages, leads to the most terrible suffering, if not death itself, and that this is one cure for it, in all stages is Dodd's Kidney Pills, the experience of Mr. James E. Brant, a farmer residing near here.

Mr. Brant contracted Kidney Disease, when a young man, from a strain, and, like those of others, neglected it, expecting it to go away itself.

But it kept gradually growing worse, till after thirty years of increasing suffering the climax came, and he found himself so crippled that at times he could not turn in bed, and for two weeks at a time it was impossible for him to rise from a chair without putting his hands on his knees.

He could not button his clothes. He was troubled with Lumbago, Gravel and Rheumatism, and tried medicines for each and all of them without getting relief, till good luck turned him to Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Dodd's Kidney Pills started at the cause of his troubles and cured his Kidneys. With cured Kidneys his other troubles speedily disappeared, and today he is a well man. Kidneys with Dodd's Kidney Pills will never have Lumbago, Rheumatism, Heart Disease, Dropsy or Bright's Disease.

THE FUTURE OF CANADA

Commenting on the greatness of undeveloped Canada, and the statement of Professor Coleman, of the University of Toronto, that we have merely touched the fringe of Canada, and that we have within the Dominion wealth untold to develop and possess, the Mail and Empire goes into particulars in the following interesting article:

"When one examines the map this view becomes the more apparent. It is obvious at a glance that, large as our population is, we are merely occupying the country along the waterways, and the land along the lines of railway. Originally, settlement followed the rivers and lakes. We were a long thin line extending from the Atlantic to Lake Huron.

"The railways have since added to our possibilities. With their assistance, we have pressed back into what was once the wilderness, and have gone into the West, where great opportunities have awaited our coming. Great as our progress has been, we have scarcely commenced to occupy the Canada of today.

HE KNEW THE DISEASE

"When Justice Brewer," said a Kansas lawyer, "was on the western coast, he caught a criminal judge he had no patience with. He went to the judge's home and found a notice that they were coming to the fore. He thought it was a mistake and went to see him for sleeping. A witness said that the judge had a high fever and was delirious. He added, 'you know that disease?'" "Yes," said the judge, "I do. It is a disease that I am sent here to cure." P. E. Island

Shipping is tied up at Charlottetown owing to the storm and fears are entertained that navigation will close with the vessels in port marooned for the winter. Ice is forming around the wharves and shore. W. L. McMillan, of Cambridge, Mass., and a native of Wood Islands, P. E. I., saved a man from drowning in the Charles River. The man had been rescued from Harvard Bridge and his rescuer plunged into the icy water after him. Albert Murphy, a truckman, whose hand was bitten by his horse recently, is suffering badly and the hand may be amputated. It is said that William Monaghan, a young man, who fell between the cars at St. John's, recently died in the St. John's Hospital. Several days afterward, he was buried without notifying his relatives on the island, where he belonged.

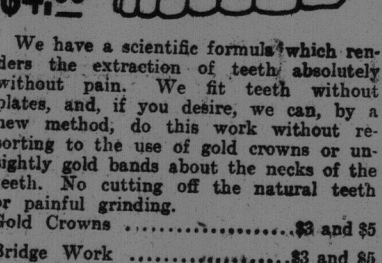

Nova Scotia

Despatches received in North Sydney from St. Pierre indicate that peace has been restored in the French colony. The French warship, Admiral Aube, which arrived several days ago, landed 150 marines, who will remain on the island for some time. The new governor has caused the arrest of some of the ringleaders, but the two most prominent in the demonstration have escaped. One of the two, John Legasse, is in Halifax and the other, a merchant, is supposed to be in New Brunswick. James Cunliffe was reunited with a sister whom he had not seen for sixteen years recently at Lowell, Mass., through the notice of the death of Cunliffe's wife in North Sydney, which appeared in the Cape Breton paper. The long lost sister saw the notice and correspondence ensued. Jonathan McNeill, the oldest clock trimmer at North Sydney, is dead at the age of 72. Ben Robinson, of New Aberdeen, rolled under the fender of a street car one night recently at Glace Bay. When the car was stopped a front wheel was two inches from his head. Angus Macdonald, of St. Ann's, but for thirty years in Manitoba, is visiting his old home in North Sydney.

Quebec

P. E. Dalton, of the Reliance Loan and Savings Co., was in North Sydney this week and has expressed his intention of returning there to reside. Alleging that he was persecuted by the town of North Sydney, he has closed the doors of his hotel and dismissed his employees. A large placard on the deserted building announces that the owner was compelled to suspend business. Three miles from Arichat, C. B., at Rocky Bay, resides Thomas Burge, 108 years old, and believed to be the oldest man in Canada. Mr. Burge was born at Stallbridge, Eng. in 1802, and when 18 years old settled in Newfoundland afterward coming to Arichat. Mrs. Burge is 86 years old. They have thirteen children, the eldest being Edward, 64 years old. P. L. Naismith formerly of Sydney is general manager of the Alberta Railway and Irrigation Co., at Lethbridge, Alta. In the county court at Halifax on Thursday Samuel Lambell, charged with inflicting grievous bodily harm, was found guilty of common assault and sentenced to one month in the county jail. Wm. D. Stewart, charged with robbery and violence, pleaded not guilty, and was sentenced down for Thursday next. (Continued on Page Five.)

HOW PRIVATE ENTERPRISE DEVELOPED A SEA PORT

Something About the New Harbor Works at Mikke, Japan—A Private Mining Company Built Breakwaters and Docks and Imported Modern Cargo Handling Facilities.

An example in the far east of a port built upon pressed brick arches, underneath each of which there is a track for an electric railway for the transportation of coal from the storage piles above. The coal is dumped into receptacles on the top of these arches or tunnels in which are placed iron doors, which on being opened allow the coal to gravitate into wagons underneath, and a train of five or six cars is drawn by an electric locomotive to the loading machines, where it is emptied into the hoppers. The empty wagons are then, by a special device, run down to the lower level sidings and so return to the tunnels for a fresh supply. These special tunnels, which have been built for lump coal, have a capacity of about fifty thousand tons. For the storage of the bulk of the dust coal ordinary trestle cars are drawn by an electric locomotive to the loading machines, where it is emptied into the hoppers. The empty wagons are then, by a special device, run down to the lower level sidings and so return to the tunnels for a fresh supply. The empty wagons are then, by a special device, run down to the lower level sidings and so return to the tunnels for a fresh supply.

The harbor works at Mikke were begun five years ago, and the water was turned into the harbor on March 10 last. The official opening will take place in March next. When the harbor works were decided upon, engineers looked over the suggested locations and finally selected the site at the village of Mikaka, which is 28 miles nearer the mines than Kuchino, situated on low flat ground on Arake Bay, which is of soft muddy nature. The water deepens considerably several miles from the shore, and it was at first decided to build the new works at this point, owing to the depth of water, but owing to the disadvantage of being so far from the mainland, it was finally decided to select a site further inland. The present completed portion of the water by means of dredging and a dock gate, and the work of reclamation was then undertaken.

The reclamation of land from the sea became necessary for the purpose of obtaining space for building a new town, the two most prominent in the demonstration have escaped. One of the two, John Legasse, is in Halifax and the other, a merchant, is supposed to be in New Brunswick. James Cunliffe was reunited with a sister whom he had not seen for sixteen years recently at Lowell, Mass., through the notice of the death of Cunliffe's wife in North Sydney, which appeared in the Cape Breton paper. Angus Macdonald, of St. Ann's, but for thirty years in Manitoba, is visiting his old home in North Sydney.

The outer harbor is bounded on the north and south by substantially built breakwaters, furnishing a depth of about 6,000 feet in length, and on the east by a strong retaining wall 3,600 feet in length on the first portion of the reclaimed land, and on the west side of the channel, the total being about 124 acres. The bottom of this tract is at the present time six or seven feet above low water mark, and before it is deepened sufficiently to accommodate large vessels considerable time and money will have to be expended. At present there is a channel one hundred and fifty feet wide at the bottom and eighteen feet deep at low water surface. The part of the harbor which has recently been dredged out, and from the dock, as well as sufficient room for the anchorage of two steamers, which has recently been dredged out. The deepening of the main portion of the outer harbor will be undertaken at an early date and when completed the portion to the north of the channel will be devoted exclusively to public use, while the portion to the south will be reserved for the use of the Kyushu Railway Co., who intend to run a branch line here from their main line.

The breakwaters are of the rubble mound type, the body consisting of stones weighing from one hundred and fifty to two hundred and fifty pounds, the slope of the walls being 1 1/2 to 1. The outer wall facing the sea is protected by massive stones weighing from 1 to 1 1/2 tons. The top is three feet above high water and the width is fifteen feet.

Newbro's Herpicide

More men and women have gotten positive results from the use of NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE than from all other hair remedies combined.

Newbro's Herpicide is the ORIGINAL remedy that kills the dandruff germ. It eradicates dandruff, stops falling hair and permits a natural hair development by destroying the tiny vegetable growth (a germ or microbe) that causes hair destruction.

Nature constantly struggles to supply life and vigor to the hair, but the dandruff germ saps this vitality and stangles the life out of the hair.

JUDGE NOT BY APPEARANCES

THIS advertisement looks the same in a newspaper of one thousand circulation as it does in a paper of fifty thousand.

You who read this paper probably do not know its circulation.

But we, before we buy space in it, want to know, first of all, how many people read it.

Because, it is worth fifty times as much to us to have fifty people read this "ad" as to have one.

Now the hidden things in shoes are as important to you as the hidden circulation of a newspaper is to us.

You should look under the polished finish of the shoe for its real merit.

Or, you should have the responsible guarantee of the Factory that made them, as to the actual value there is in them.

No retailer, however honest, can tell what kind of leather is hidden under the finish of the sole or upper.

Nor can he tell how far the expensive workmanship has been slighted, for "economy" sake, in the vital but unseen parts of the shoe.

The Makers alone know what service, comfort and shape retention there is in every pair, and they alone can be held responsible for results.

The only shoes in Canada which are price-controlled by the Makers are "The Slater Shoes."

Stamped on the lining, inside the boot top, will be found the slate-frame trade mark with the Makers' retail valuation $4.00 to $6.00.

FASCINATING TALE IS THE ELKINS-ABRUZZI ROMANCE

Story of the Courtship, Which Began at a State Ball in Washington, D. C., and Culminated in a Disagreement

Chicago, Dec. 4.—The Chicago Daily News prints the following as the true story of the Elkins-Abuzzi romance:

The love story of Katherine Elkins and the Duke of the Abruzzi, upon which the cable from Rome writes "Elms," is one of the most remarkable romances of history.

Love and extreme hatred are in the proportion of Customs, centuries old rose to forbid the wedding of a member one of the reigning families of Europe and the daughter of a nation that knows no royalty.

Katherine Elkins is the daughter and granddaughter of United States senators, and so devoid of reverence for royal personages is she that the first time she came into the presence of the duke she failed to curtsy to him.

It was at a brilliant ball in Washington, that first meeting of the prince of the royal house of Savoy and the brown-haired belle of capital society. The ball was given by Mr. and Mrs. Lars Anderson, society leaders of Washington, and was in honor of the visiting duke. Other women had made deep courtesies before the royal guest, but not so Katherine Elkins.

The Elkinnes were late in arriving through some accident to their automobile. The guests were scattered about the ball room when they were announced. The duke was receiving the homage of a group of feminine guests. Miss Katherine and her hostess passed a few paces away. There was a moment when the group of women in front of him parted and his eyes fell upon Miss Elkins. She, with half-quizzical, half-cynical expression, was looking in his direction as if guessing that the much-heralded royal guest were there about and wondering what manner of man might be. This is the way Miss Elkins' romantic girl friends described what happened.

For an instant their eyes met. Cynicism, curiosity flared from her face. She saw not the pompous figure of a foreign potentate, but the eager face of a man whose glances seemed to speak to her.

Lake one started, the girl started almost perceptibly and turned her head quickly away. She felt the color rushing to her cheeks.

The duke gazed after her for a second, as if dazzled by the apparition of girlhood and beauty. It was only a second, though, for he was quickly second again. He saw the duke's eyes suddenly and suddenly preoccupied and staid to those about him and every one acted relieved as an interruption which came abruptly afterward.

It came in the form of Col. Charles Roosevelt's aid and a man whom the president had appointed a special guard for the king and the dowager queen, to become dignitary to his hostess. The duke caught sight of Miss Elkins talking with Mrs. Anderson, and turning to Col. Brownell, demanded:

"Who is that charming girl?" He was told and asked to be presented forthwith. A moment later Katherine Elkins was informed.

"The Duke of the Abruzzi begs to be presented to Miss Evans."

She had entirely recovered her self-possession and met the eyes that quickly without a tremor she acknowledged the royal salutation with the same precise bow and the same straightforward manner that she might have accorded a congressman. Nor did she make a genuflection.

The duke found Miss Elkins a delightful dancing companion. They met again at a Washington reception and the duke passed so much of his time with Senator Elkins' charming daughter that Mrs. Anderson, who had been sitting in the front seat of the duke's motor, Mrs. Elkins asked to be escorted to the young pair.

Side by side they drove about the city on his highness' uninvited. To the American manna, though, her sense of duty as chaperon far outweighed her awe of reigning families. She merely said: "Thank you."

"Upon hearing this the abashed aide promptly decided that it was time for him to establish a precedent. Miss Elkins was on route home with Mrs. Elkins in pretty short order.

"Does not your mother know that I am not accustomed to being interrupted while talking to a lady?" the duke asked half seriously the next time they met.

"Maybe so," she returned. "That would not make any difference to mamma if the lady were her daughter."

That his growing admiration for Miss Elkins suffered no setback on that score was attested not long afterward, when he accepted with expressed delight an invitation to a dinner at the Elkins' Washington home, at which the guests were a chosen few.

So began the suit of Louis of Savoy for the hand of the daughter of Senator Stephen B. Elkins and the granddaughter of ex-Senator Henry Gasaway Davis. And it flourished during the remaining weeks of the Italian's visit to America. There was a succession of parties and dinners, receptions and balls in Washington and the much-dreaded duke was to be found dancing attendance upon the girl who had won his heart. Then he sailed away on his ship for Italy.

There was consternation in the royal household of Italy when the returning duke broke the news that he had fallen head over heels in love with an American girl.

The eyes of the dowager Queen Margherita a match between her nephew, the young King Victor Emmanuel, and a young person of a nation that actually boasted of the freedom from the shackles of monarchs was a thing to be abhorred.

She sought to dissuade the duke from a union on account of religion. The government of Italy is dominated by Roman Catholic church, Miss Elkins was a Protestant.

To all the Queen's objections and those of King Victor Emmanuel the duke replied by leaving Italy and travelling in disguise to Florida. There, strangely enough, Elkins found a passing winter.

And there the duke told the American girl that he loved her. It had been since the first moment at the Anderson ball—and he asked her to be his bride.

He did not ask her for her answer then. He would talk to the Senator, her father, and then he would return to his own people.

It was decided by Senator Elkins and his prospective non-law father that the whole affair should be kept secret so far as the world was concerned until some of the great obstacles could be removed.

They were to talk from time to time that the king and the dowager queen had been won over; that the differences of religion could be overcome by Cardinal Gibbons of Baltimore, the Most Rev. Domenico Falconio, apostolic delegate to Washington there were rumors that Miss Elkins would marry the duke's father, the duke declared that she would do so.

Well authenticated details of the notion that the duke was money seeking were speedily forthcoming. It was shown that he had inherited a fortune amounting to $8,000,000 from the estate of his grandfather, who had been married to the Princess Posse de la Cisterna was a widow, co-heiress with her brother to the estate of $10,000,000. The brother was charged with the murder of the duke's father and he died, leaving his share to his sister, and in the end it was divided among the three grandsons.

Of late the duke had been heard in conversation to bear out the idea that the marriage was to take place. The duke was reported about to set sail for America. The wedding date was set by rumor. But now comes the news which seems to spell defeat for a too ambitious Cupid.

on the decisions of eminent judges. His honor quoted from Justice Williams, an English judge, who said that, if a prisoner was exposed to the intemperance of the weather while under the care of the authorities he could bring an action for damages.

Judge Ritchie wished all the policemen could have been present to hear that, it meant that if a prisoner was put in a cold cell in inclement weather he might have an action at law. And, further, the same authority says: "It is incumbent on every one engaged in the administration of justice—that meant every one who might have a place on a paper, a platform or any one of the police officers—to take care that the powers necessarily entrusted to the police are not used as an instrument of oppression or tyranny against even the meaneat, most depraved and basest subject of the realm." The constable might take all proper and reasonable means for enforcing the law, but he was not to use force or violence, securing and taking before a magistrate, at the same time he must take care not to be unwarrantably or unnecessarily violent in taking these means; and, if he does so, then he is answerable in an action for assault.

"With respect to handcuffing, the law undoubtedly is that the police officers are not only justified but they are bound to take all reasonable and necessary measures for preventing the escape of those persons who have been committed to their custody, but that those reasonable measures are most dependant upon circumstances.

That every one conveyed from prison to a magistrate's office is to be handcuffed seems to me to be an unjustifiable view of the law and on which police officers are liable to be held responsible.

Questions in such cases, said Justice Williams, were: "Had the officer used unnecessary precautions or unnecessary means to secure safe custody of the prisoner?"

Judge Ritchie again said he wished all the policemen were there to listen to this. It might do them good unless they were prejudiced against the court and he did not believe that even so he would be prejudiced against the court, nor was he prejudiced against the court, nor was he prejudiced against the court, nor was he prejudiced against the court.

He had no doubt that if left to themselves they would have been there to listen to the law.

Searching Prisoners. Mr. Justice Williams, speaking of the right of searching, said: "Even when a person is convicted and sentenced to a term of imprisonment, he is not to be searched in a manner that is degrading or humiliating, unless it is used in making such an arrest as the officer is liable for."

Mr. Justice Williams had decided that a man's money must not be taken away from him unless some connection existed between it and the offence with which he was charged. Elkins found too much in the habit of taking away everything they found on a prisoner.

Judge Ritchie said he was reading this because a great many laymen did not know the law on this point. He said even so to the length of the law, and further, he said that many judges even did not know the law on the point, because they were not in criminal benches.

He referred to another English case in which the prisoner was a desperate character known by the name of London pickpocket. The defence was that the constables were justified in putting handcuffs on the prisoner in order to prevent his escape. The judge said that it had not been shown that the prisoner at any time attempted to escape. For this reason the constables were held to be sufficient and the constables held to be liable.

These were the opinions of eminent judges he was reading. They were not critical of them. The press did not criticise them. The public did not criticise them. The press did not criticise them. The public did not criticise them.

Mr. Justice Williams said that handcuffing was unnecessary violence and said so. Judge Ritchie said he was bound to respect the law. "Is there anything I can do so that I can get the treatment that was accorded to the prisoner?"

The judge then quoted from the case of Gordon vs. Denison before the Court of Exchequer in 1854. The case was the police to handcuff and search a prisoner who was involved in this. The magistrate had issued a warrant against a man who was wanted to give evidence before the court. In making the arrest the policeman handcuffed the man and took him through the streets. There was no evidence offered at the trial that he had tried to make his escape. He was also searched, which was held to be a trespass. The cause of the loss is almost totally unknown. The cause of the fire is unknown but a defective fuse is supposed to be responsible. A high wind was blowing at the time and although many neighbors went to the scene and tried to carry water enough to save the buildings the fire had got too headway and they could do little. A wooden shed and a hog pen were burned also, with a supply of wood good for two years. Mr. Robinson saved some of his household effects. He has $250 insurance. Mr. Stone is the principal loser. He had no insurance on the buildings. The loss is severe and there is much regret in the community over the misfortune.

When the kidneys are ill, the whole body is ill, for the poisons which the kidneys ought to filter out of the blood are left in the system. Then how important it must be to see to it that this system of sewerage be not clogged up. The cattle were shipped via the C. P. R. steamer Montfort and about 500 are for the Manchester Importer.

The cattle were shipped via the C. P. R. and came through the State of Maine to St. John for export, the customs department having decided that the direct carriage of cattle through Maine is not equivalent to shipment via an American port.

It is expected that cattle will now be arriving almost daily.

How "One of the Finest" Captured a Thief in the Central Shoe Store.

The preliminary examination of Joseph McElhinney the youth accused of breaking and entering the Central shoe store on Mill street was commenced this morning. Samuel J. Warwick the manager of the store, in his testimony stated that on Thursday night at nine he was the last to leave the shop and on his departure the doors were secure and unopened.

At three a. m. he responded to a telephone message and visited the store. A waiting confirmation of his suspicions was not required to testify as he is due to depart from the city tonight. His evidence would differ none from his father's.

Policeman John Merrick testified that during the hours of one and two on Friday morning he was patrolling Mill street. A thief resembling the fall of a heavy article in the shoe store attracted his attention and he examined all the doors leading to the store only to find that an intruder had secured ingress through none. Under the alley window were several pairs of shoes on the ground and a closer view revealed the broken pane of glass. With a noiseless tread the officer approached the window and peered inside awaiting confirmation of his suspicions that a thief was operating inside. In due time he saw the head of a man silhouetted on the curtain of the window and called to him to come out. Unaware that a policeman was on the outside the marauder emerged through the aperture in his broken pane and was arrested. While the witness was journeying to the North End police station with McElhinney, a young man remained at the window.

Policeman Finlay gave evidence corroborating Mr. Warwick's testimony. McElhinney's boots were lying on the floor adjoining a man's hatbox's boots valued at $7. McElhinney was remanded. In 1906 he was convicted of stealing iron and brass from the condemned steamer Acadia in York Point ship and is at present under suspended sentence of four years.
