THE MAPLE LEAFS. The baseball enthusiasts of Gueiph et there Friday evening, when the Maple Leaf baseball club was reorganized for the season. The committee reported that a league, composed of Berlin, Stratford, Galt and Guelph, would be compact and would prove both interesting and financially suc-cessful. The old constitution of the Canadian Amateur League of 1894-95 was recommended, and it was proposed that the membership fee be $1 without privileges. The following officers were elected: Honorary presidents, C. Kloepfer, M.P., C. N. Daly, Mayor Hewer; president, J. M. Duff; vice-president, L. Goldie; secretary, H. Johns; treasurer, W. H. Millman; directors, G. Higgins, J. Hough, E. P. Hawkins, E. Palmer, E. Mayris. Hawkins, E. Palmer, E. Morris.

ST. THOMAS CLUB. Manager J. F. Shuster met the diectors of the St. Thomas baseball club Friday night. Mr. Shuster was in-formed that St. Thomas must have a winner, and that he would be given a free hand. He says he has a winne now. He will carry the following men: Hardy, Suffield and Hull, pitchers; Croft and Duffy, catchers; Rodden, McCurdy, Connors and Shuster, infielders; Shuster, Martin and Pool, outat Atlantic Park and the diamond release several players, including Green, Baltimore; Kieb, Black Rock, and Gordon, Toronto

THE GAME AT ANN ARBOR. A dispatch from Ann Arbor, Mich., gays: The 'Varsity nine won its first victory of the season here Friday in a fairly well-played game with the Bay City International League team, by a score of 18 to 2. This was the first time the professionals had been together this season, and in consequence they were rather slow for the 'Varsity. Considering the weather, the play was quite satisfactory. The candidates seem to be in much better condition now than they were at this time last season, and the coaches were well pleased with the work. Young Mc-Ginnis did particularly well in the box.

FLYS. Frank Selee is seconding Nichols in his demand for $3,000. The club owners, however, refuse to grant the Missouri boy his demand. Toronto is making a strong effort to buy Shortstop Wagner's release from Washington. Wagner played with Toronto last year, and is quite a favorite over the Don. "Pulling away from the plate is perhaps the worse fault that can handicap a batsman," says Fred Ely, "and it's so hard to throttle this habit that many player with a good natural eye for hitting has been spoiled by his nervousness and fear of being hit." Doc. Sheppard will play with the amateurs this year, and has signed the Toronto Athletic Club register. Billy Baker has gone to join the Rock Island team at Campaign, Ill.

They weighed 2.025 pounds in cold storage. With one man to help him and his dogs Vest hurried the eggs up to Sheep camp and buried them in the snow. He put four cans in a sack and tied sack over the dogs' backs. Each dog carried 28 pounds in this way. A LA CITY HALL.

The Police Court Floor at Owen Sound Started to Sink.

Owen Sound, Ont., April 5.-Nearly a similar accident to that which happened at the London city hall a short time ago occurred here yesterday morning. In the police court were about 200 people, congregated to hear a burglary

Just before the opening of the court a sharp crack was heard, and the floor started to sink. The crowd immediately scrambled out of the doors and windows. The flooring sank about two feet. Underneath the court room is the fire hall. It is supposed the floor started from the overcrowding and the removal of two iron posts, to make it more convenient to turn the home and ladder PERISHED FROM COLD. Chesley, Ont., April 5.-Mrs. Milne, widow of the late Judge Milne, of Bentinck, was found Sunday morning lying n an unconscious state in a field some distance from her home. It is supposed she started late on Saturday evening to go to a spring creek a short distance from her home for a pail of water, and as the evening was very dark and stormy, she became confused and lost her way. The rest of the family were all away from home, and on their re-turn they supposed she had gone to some neighbor's house. Towards mid-night, however, they became alarmed at her absence and began searching for her, but failed to find her until 3 o'clock in the morning. She died two hours after being taken home.

Arrested for an Offense Alleged to Have Been Committed Eight Years Ago.

William C. Roberts, a young married man, was arrested Saturday night at East Nissouri by Sheriff's Officer Wm. Tisdale. The arrest was made in compliance with instructions from Meredith, Cameron, Judd & Dromgole, barristers, of this city. Roberts was taken to Woodstock jail on Saturday. The prisoner is a son of Wm. R. Roberts, town line between East and West Nissouri, one of the most in-fluential and best-known farmers in connection with their club. A delegate will be sent to the C. W. A. meet on his daughter. A writ has been issued claiming damages for this act, and for the board of the child for eight

It is alleged that the offense took place about eight years ago, under promise of marriage, and that Roberts disappeared just before the day set for the wedding.
Roberts left for California, and was married four years ago, and Mise Elgie in the meantime became a mo-

On Friday last Roberts and his wife visited his father, at whose house the arrest took place. Bonds were given on Monday morning, and the young man was released on bail. There is a possibility of the matter being settled out of court.

Ald. Taylor Ascends the Throne and Suspends the Seance.

Half the Aldermen Join Him and the Quorum Dissolves.

A Rather Amusing Incident-Warm Words by Those Who Didn't Adjourn Ask for $16,300 - Fireman Pope Sacrificed.

There was a high old time at the city council last night.

Shortly before eleven o'clock, the mayor, who wished to speak on a question, called Ald. Taylor to the chair, and took the floor. About five minutes to eleven, according to the council chamber clock, Ald. Cooper moved that the time be and sent for the city engineer. In a surprise, by declaring that the council stood adjourned, because the time

Ald. McCallum pointed out that Mr. eleven o'clock. "What!" said Ald. Cooper, starting foot, while Mr. Graham's price was 11% up as if shot out of a gun.

"This council is adjourned," said Ald. Taylor in a firm tone. "I appeal to this council whether the chairman has ruled according to the granolithic finished walks together, his laws of this council," shouted Ald. average was cheaper than Mr. Mar-Cooper. "I moved at five minutes to den's. eleven that the time be extended."

"It wasn't seconded," replied Ald. do you purpose laying?

"Ald. Hunt seconded it," said Ald. Cooper. Ald. Hunt nodded acquiescence.

Ald. Taylor contended that he had not heard the motion seconded, and it was certainly not put. "It isn't eleven o'clock yet," said another alderman. "That clock's wrong." "That's the clock this council goes by," retorted Ald. Taylor.

Ald. McCallum-It will take a twothirds majority to revoke the adjournment. "Ald. McCallum is right," said Ald. Taylor. Ald. Cooper continued to protest, but

Ald. Taylor and half the aldermen left the council chamber. Mayor Wilson mounted the throne, which Ald. Taylor had abdicated, and declared the council was not adjourn-

Ald. Taylor returned a moment later and said something to the mayor. "This is childish," said the mayor, looking very much annoyed. "Proceed with the order of business." "This is all monkey-shine," declared Ald. McPhillips, who was one of the nine that remained. "This is blocking legitimate business. They should have more commonsense and decency." Ald. Cooper wanted to see the names of those who left recorded in the press. There was business standing from com-mittees, and the aldermen did not latter was hurt, a year ago.

Ald. Hunt objected to considering it broken, the council standing adjourned for two weeks. A pretty lively session had been expected and an unusually large crowd was on deck. When Ald. Taylor was called to the chair, the council was discussing the application of the school board for $16,-300 for an annex to the Collegiate Institute, a new school in the north end, a janitor's cottage on the Collegiate Institute grounds, the redemption of a mortgage on the Queen's avenue kindergarten, and the payment of money due on the Colborne street school. Chairman Logan, Dr. English, and Trustees Hamilton and Zlegler of the school board, and Principal Merchant, of the institute, were present in support of the request. Dr. English and Mr. Logan presented the claims of the board Mr. Logan said the aldermen Ald. Carrothers said he understood had even more interest in school accommodation than the trustees, because they had more children. (Laughter.) from Ald. O'Meara, who was one of the inner circle, that the Normal School would take five or six hundred pupils, so that more school accommodation would not be required. He moved that the matter lay over until the estimates were brought in. Ald. O'Meara said he had been informed that five or six hundred pupils would be required at the school, and it would be well to go slow. Mr. Logan had said that the aldermen had more children than the school trustees, but the aldermen were not so good at kissing, (Laughter.) Mr. Logan said they had heard about the Normal School for 20 years, and were they going to wait for 20 years more? It was all wind, and gas, and would be for the next ten years. Mr. Merchant was asked whether the Normal School would require the attendance of children. He said the Normal Schools of Ottawa and Toronto had each two branches—the normal, for the training of teachers, and the model, which was attended by pupils from the city for the practice of teaching. He could not say positively what the intention of the government was, but he thought it was simply to build a Nor-mal School, and not a Model School in connection with it. In that event, the public schools of the city would be utilized as practice schools. Even if the Model School were built, it would not affect the attendance of the Colle. giate Institute; only that of the public Ald. O'Meara asked if it would be treating London as well as the other cities if the Model School were not "Better," said Mr. Merchant, "beause it would show that they were satisfied to take London public school pupils as the standard, and not those Ottawa and Toronto."

In reply to further questions, Mr.

Abrupt Ending of the City Coun- | end school. The other requirements of the school board he considered should be granted. Ald. Graham moved that the full amount be paid. The school board knew what it was asking, and the aldermen should consider its requests and not leave the room, as some had done. Mayor Wilson advocated the north end school, as little tots of 2 or 3 had to walk a mile and a quarter. The aldermen were not capable of saying what the school board wanted, because they did not take the interest in it. Ald. Winnett said that if the school trustees had to face the electors and bear the brunt of the taxation, they would be more economical. Unless they -A Peculiar Deal-The School Board pared down they would have an appalling tax rate next year. The matter was finally sent back to No. 1 committee.

A PECULIAR DEAL. In connection with the board of works' report, the majority of the council approved a contract that will entail a loss to the ratepayers. The first clause of the report recommended the acceptance of A. Graham's tender to lay artificial stone walks, sand finish, at 11% cents per square foot, and granolithic finish at 15% cents per Ald. McCallum at once took objection

Hon. David Mills, Dominion Minister of Justice, on it is the foreign goods that are brought in and on which the duty is paid; it is the All-Canadian Route to the Yukon, the Government Proposition.

The Gross Partisansh p of the Opposition Senators Clearly Proved.

In closing the recent debate in the Senate on the proposal to throw out the Government bill providing for an all-Canadian route for the Yukon, Hon, David Mills, the Government leader, made what has been described by the newspaper correspondents as the ablest speech delivered in either House in the discussion of this important matter. We select a number of his more striking passages:

AN UNSEEMLY EXHIBITION. was for 30 years a member of the House of Commons, I have seen and heard during that time many warm contests and many heated observations; but I must say that for what seems to me an exhibition of cool and determined spirit of political partisanship. I have never seen in the House of Commons so fierce a spirit exhibited as I have witnessed in this House by several honorable gentlemen during this discussion. I hope that the Senate is not going to delude itself, that it is not actuated by political feeling, for I am perfectly sure in my own mind-and I think when the discussion that has taken place on this bill in this House is read in the country, there will be no two opinions upon that question, that in respect to those measures which emanate from a Reform Administration, they are not likely to be received with very generosity. We were told there were men in the old Greek republics who, on account of their hostility to others whom they regarded as political rivals, were ever siding with Philip of Macedon, and it does seem to practically a motion to put the trade me that in this discussion we have had of the Yukon country beyond the exhibited a strong inclination on the reach of the people of Canada. part of some honorable gentlemen to have had over and over again discuscast their political influence in favor of sions on that line. We have had over those measures of public policy, those and over again, during this debate, a works and undertakings, that would declaration that we ought to seek adplace the Yukon country and the trade mission to that country by the Lynn of that country under the control of Inlet, and that our railway ought to our powerful neighbors, instead of be- go into that country from the Lynn ing under the control of the people Inlet. A few honorable gentlemen and Government of this country. ALLIES OF OUR TRADE RIVALS.

Those people who are seeking to contory, with the intention of governing and controlling that country, find in honorable gentlemen who are supporting this six months' heist motion the most efficient allies they could acquire on the continent of North America. * It is a proposal, when carried, and I suppose it will be carried, that will help the United States, that will help the people of San Francisco and Seattle to control the trade of the Yukon country.

"A BAD THING FOR THE COW." under the constitutional system, the I suppose honorable gentlemen remember very well the answer of Mr. Stephenson when it was proposed to send the first locomotive over the railway track to Manchester. Some one asked him what would be the effect If a cow came upon the track, and he said it would be a very bad thing for the cow. I think when honorable gentlemen are undertaking to place this House in antagonism to the House of Commons, to the Government, and to the people of this country, they are taking a course which is not to the advantage or the honor of the Senate of Canada.

THE COUNTRY WITH THE GOV-ERNMENT.

The Government are responsible for the administration of the affairs of this country. It is less than two years since there was an appeal to the country, and there was returned a House of Commons opposed to the former administration and expressing its confi ee in the present administration; o election has taken place at any time since the Government has been formed which shows or tends to show that the confidence which the people expressed in June, 1896, has been withdrawn. Since then, 22 elections have taken place, and not one of those ciections has gone in favor of the friends of honorable gentlemen opposite. I say, therefore, that there is nothing to warrant the majority in this House in voting against this bill.

This declaration brought the suggestion from Senator McCallum: "You could easily let us know if you have There is one thing that this contract

THE RESPONSIBLE RULERS. The Government have said it is their duty to adopt what they regard as the necessary means to accomplish the end which this bill brings before this House. They have fully considered that subject. My honorable friends opposite may have come honestly to a very different opinion, but under the provisions of our constitution, and our constitutional system, the duty of deciding that is with the Government. It is the opinion of the Government and not the opinion of my honorable friends that must prevail. Can they for a moment suppose that any government, worthy the name of government-any government having a sense of self-respect will, after having been supported by a majority in the House of Commons, the representatives of the people, those who bear the taxes and the burdens that measures of this sort may impose-do they suppose that the majority in this House is to determine the question of administration against the other two branches of the Legislature, against the Crown and against the majority in the House of the people of this country may sustain,

THE OPPOSITION POLICY. A motion for a six months' hoist is have spoken about the Edmonton route, but they have spoken of it as rather an abstract speculative question than trol the trade of the country, seeking know it would involve the constructo close the avenues by which we are tion of at least 1,500 miles of railway, and they know if they were building a mile a day it would take five years to build from Edmonton to the Yukon country. So that is a matter, on a question of urgency, that must be set side altogether at the present time. And so my honorable friends turn not to a road within British territory, not to a road that would be under Canadian control, not to a road where we could determine what the commercial policy should be of the country in respect to the commerce and trade templated removal from Guelph to To-If this measure is defeated, if this and travel that passes over that route, ronto lacks substantial foundation.

brought to account, and therefore, subject to their responsibility in the House of Commons. While their conduct may be criticised in this House, it is an extreme and unusual course for the Senate to undertake to override the public policy determined upon by the Government and to mark out for that Government a different course. May. Does my honorable friend suppose that is permissable? Let us look at what the constitutional system is: if the Government on this question had been beaten in the House of Commons there was one course open for them, and that is to tender their resignation, and | near Tilbury. permit another government to be formed to carry out the views which the House had expressed, but my honorable friend cannot turn out the Government by any vote in this House, and does he suppose that the Government, who are entitled under the constitution to remain in office, will for a moment consent to abandon that course which their judgment tells them is the proper course to pursue under the circumstances, and accept from this House a declaration of what the public policy should be? CANADA FIRST. SENATORIAL PARTISANSHIP PROVED

My honorable friend (Sir M. Bowell, Opposition leader) said they objected to the Nanaimo bill of one government and the short line bill of another, and Railway bill last session, and did a we ought to put the country to the number of other things, all of which tended to show perfect impartiality. I dissent from that statement of my honorable friend. He knows that he tional duties that devolve upon him as and his friends around him did not fight the Conservative Government in does not forget that in this house a committee was appointed to inquire into the conduct of Mr. Mackenzie, as Minister of Public Works, and that it condemned his choice of the Kaministiquia River as the terminus of the Canadian Pacific Railway. That choice was denounced, and the Port Arthur terminus was preferred, and $900,000 was spent upon the breakwater in order to form a harbor there, and after the railway went out of the hands of the Administration and a company was organized, the company vindicated the wisdom of Mr. Mackenzie's action by choosing the Kaministiquia River as the terminus of the railway, and my honorable friend knows that, as things now stand, hundreds of thousands of dollars of public money were wasted by the attempt to cast discredit upon the head of the Liberal Administration. RESPONSIBILITY AFFIXED.

The Senate propose to take that matter out of the hands of the Government. You propose to shift to your own shoulders the responsibility for every misfortune that may overtake those people, and for every loss that while at the same time you have no executive to do a single act in respect of that matter. * * * What the peoed. Gretchen Hirsch, who is over 80 years of age, and totally blind, was in Chatham in search of a long lost sis ter, with whom she expected to find a home. The old creature came directly from St. Thomas, but her original starting place was Helena, Montana. She could get no trace of the sister, and wept bitterly in disappointment. She went on to Toronto. At Sarnia on Friday, at the agricultural implements works, John Connors, the ten-year-old son of Thomas Connors, an employe of the works, almost lost his entire left hand. All that is left of the member is the numb, twothirds of the first finger, and half of 12.000 bushels of hand-picked beans last factory to wait for his father, and got the palm. The lad had gone into the month. Four thousand bushels were his fingers in the cog wheels of the

The Hispano-American Situation Grows in Interest

By the Possibility of European Mediation.

President McKinley's Message Practically Completed.

Cuban Independence Will Be One of Its Features.

The Prospects of Averting War Causes

a Sensation in Madrid. Washington, D. C., April 5.-The two foremost branches of the Cuban question in Washington are the president's message and European mediation, which now has taken an active form in the courts of Europe, though no proffer has been made to the United States. It is fully expected that the message will be sent to Congress on Wednesday, in all probability, and certainly by Thursday. Members of Mr. McKinley's cabinet and his friends in Congress state that it will deal vigorously with the question, will include the Maine incident, and will make definite recommendations to Congress, one of which will be the recognition of Cuben independence and cognition of Cuban independence, and may go further than that, and propose intervention.

As to the mediation of Europe or the pope, they declare that these material and moral powers must exercise their suasion on Spain, for this government will insist on independence of Cuba as an ultimate sine qua non, unless the insurgents themselves should consent to less, and they have natly refused to do so.

"WAIT FOR WEDNESDAY." "WAIT FOR WEDNESDAY."
"Wait for Wednesday" was the word Edmonton passed about the capitol yesterday. The Republicans will not take the initiative, and the Democrats will not try to force any action until Wednesday, when the president's message may be read. With that understanding the Senate foreign relations committee did not report, and the house foreign affairs committee took no action. It is known that the Senate committee has a, eed upon a report—practically the Foraker resolution—declaring independence and intervention, with an amendment fixing the responsibility for house foreign affairs committee will report, if possible, a resolution in line with the president's recommendations, and efforts are being made to have the resolution of both committees agree with the president's wishes.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE FIN-ISHED. Washington, D. C., April 5 .- Assistant Secretary Day was at the White House by half-past eight this morning, sage was practically finished, and that so far as he knew there had been no change in the date fixed, as expressed to congressional callers, for submitting the document to congress. The president told senators and representatives who saw him yesterday that he fully expected to lay the message before the two houses of congress tomorrow. CONFUSION AND DISCUSSION.

April 5.-Mr. McInnes, the young member for Vancouver, resumed the speech in opposition to the Kettle Valley Railway bill, which was begun on Friday night. He had on the predisposal to the reading of speeches delivered by Mr. Blair last session in justification of the Crow's Nest contract with the C. P. R., and this prohad given rise to the suggestion that he desired to obstruct. He disclaimed any such intentions, stating and went over the situation with the to do so, but such a course would be that he might talk it out if he chose unfair to those who have other bills on the paper awaiting the action of the house on this one. Mr. McInnes relied upon the facts themselves when fully presented to kill the Kettle Valley project. The G. T. R. Inaugurating a New Fast Freight Line-How the Big Locomotives Work.

The Grand Trunk is inaugurating a new fast freight line to operate over the Grand Trunk Railway system in conjunction with the West Shore Railway.

The Columbus Dispatch says:

is stated by officials in position to understand the situation that engineers, firemen and train crews are not disposed to look with favor on the placing in service of the new monster freight engine, as it means the displacing of many men. Engine just placed in service on the Big Four, with the same number of men, hauls double as many cars as were formerly hauled, which means the displacing of an entire crew. On the Vandalia the large engines put in service a few months ago are hauling 66 per cent. heavier trains than did the freight engines run on the road in former years, and this means less demand for freight crews. The business of the averted in Owen Sound yesterday, when the Proposed Bicycle Paths ity that the light engines for former years could not handle the traffic conveniently or expeditiously.  The Puzzling Pretty Widow

*@+@+@+@+@+@+@+@+@+@+@ "And besides, you know, my dear Mrs. Rose, there is generally something wrong about a woman who dresses so very well."

So spoke Mrs. Bonnington, the vicar's wife, laying down the law; a law, indeed, which most English women are ready to take for granted. Mrs. Rose, a tall, thm, pale lady, who had "nerves," and who, on this bright April morning, wore a woolen shawl half off her shoulders as she sat in the warm sun by the dining-room window, assented readily.

"That's what I always say. Especially a widow. I'm sure if anything were to happen to my husband," went on Mrs. Rose, euphemistically, last thing I should think about would be my dress. I should be far too unhappy to trouble myself about the fit of my gowns or the shape of my bon-

Now, this was perhaps true, as Mrs. Rose, though she spent as much money and as much thought upon her clothes as her compeers, never succeeded in looking as if they had been made for her, or as if the subject of "fit" were of any importance.

Mrs. Bonnington shook her head with vague disquietude, and resumed her "I assure you the matter has caused me a good deal of anxiety. You know how solicitous both the vicar and I are about the tone of the parish."

"I do, indeed," murmured Mrs. Rose, sympathetically. You know how hard we work to keep up a high standard. Why, everybody knows that it was through us

At the other end of the room, a young face, with grey eyes full of mischief, was turned in the direction of Mrs. Bonnington with a satirical smile Mabin Rose, the overgrown, awkward step-daughter of Mrs. Rose, who hated the vicar's wife, and called her a busybody and a gossip, brought her darning nearer to the table, and dashed headlong into the fray. "Papa wouldn't thank you if you did drive the Solomons out of the parish, as you did the people at Colwyn Lodge, Mrs. Bonnington," broke in the clear young voice that would be heard. "He says Mr. Solomon is the best tenant he ever had, and that he wishes that some of the Christians were like him."

"Hush, Mabin! Go on with your work, and don't interrupt with your rude remarks," said Mrs. Rose, sharp-"I am quite sure your father never said such a thing, except, perhaps, in fun," she went on, turning apologetically to her visitor. "Nobody is more anxious about 'tone' and all those things than Mr. Rose, and he saying only yesterday that he would rather I call upon this Mrs. Dale until something more was known about her. Again the young face at the other end of the table looked up mutinously;

but this time Mabin controlled her inclination to protest. She looked down again, and began to darn furiously, to the relief of her feelings, but to the injury of the stocking. Mrs. Bonnington went on: "You were quite right. It's not that I wish uncharitable.

"Of course not," assented Mrs. Rose, with fervour. "But a woman like yourself, with daughters to take care of, cannot be too careful. Young people are so easily led away; they think so much of the mere outside. They are so easily dazzled and taken in by appearances." Mabin grew red, perceiving that this little sermon by the way was directed at herself. Her step-sisters, Emily and Ethel, one of whom could be heard "practicing" in the drawing-room, were not the sort of girls to be led away by anything.

"But why shouldn't a nice face mean something nice?" put in the rash young woman again. The fact was that Mabin had been charmed with the sweet, pink-and-white face and blue eyes of Mrs. Dale, their new neighbor at "The Towers," was mentally comparing the widow's child-like charms with the acidulated attractions of the vicar's dowdy wife. "And why," pursued Mabin, as both the elder ladies seemed to pause to gain strength to fall upon her to-gether, "shouldn't she be just as sorry Snaps in Wall Paper for her husband's death because she looks nice over it? It seemed to me, when she sat near us at church on Sunday, that she had the saddest face I had ever seen. And as for her core I had ever seen. And as for her corrupting us by her 'tone,' she won't have anything to do with any of us. Mrs. Warren has called upon her, and the Misses Bradley, and Mrs. Peak and a lot more people, and she's always "not at home." So, even if she is "not at home." So, even if she is wicked, I should think you might let her stay. Surely she can't do us much harm just by having her frocks better made than the rest of us.

When Mabin had finished this outrageous speech, there was an awful pause. Mrs. Rose hardly knew how to administer such a reproof as should be sufficiently scathing; while Mrs. Bonnington waited in solemn silence for the reproof to come. Mabin looked from her step-mother's face to that of the vicar's wife, and thought she had better retire before the avalanche descended, so she gathered up her work hastily, running her darning-needle into her hand in her excitement muttered an apology and excuse for her disappearance at the same time, and shot out of the room in the ungainly way which had so often before caused her step-mother to shudder, as she did

When the door had closed upon the girl-closed, unfortunately, with a bang-Mrs. Bonnington sighed. "I am afraid," she said, unconsciously assuming still more of her usual clerical tone and accent, "that Mabin must be a great anxiety to you!" Mrs. Rose sighed, and closed her eyes for a moment, wearily. "If you could realize how great an anxiety," she murmured, in a solemn tone, "you would pity me! If it were not that Mr. Rose gives his authority to support mine in dealing with her, she would be absolutely unmanageable, I assure you." "A froward spirit! And one singularly unsusceptible to good influences," said the vicar's wife. "However, we must persevere with her, and hope for a future blessing on our labors, even if it should come too late for us to be witnesses of her regeneration."

"I am sure I have always done my best for her, and treated her just as I have my own children. But you see with what different results! The seed is the same, but the soil is not. I don't know whether you knew her mother? But I suppose Mabin must and asked him if he had a revolver. take after her. She is utterly unlike "She is, indeed. Mr. Rose is such a particularly judicious, upright man. The vicar has the highest respect for Mrs. Bonnington paused to give full effect to this noble encomium. Mrs. Rose acknowledged it by a graceful bend of the head, and went on: "The great failing about poor Mabin is that she is not womanly. And that is the one thing above all that my husband asks of a woman. Let her only be womanly, he always says, and will forgive everything else. Now my own girls are that, above every-

They must put themselves hold of her imagination by nothing but her fashionable clothes!" Mrs. Rose put on a womanly air of absolutely helplessness. "Well, what can I do?" said she. Mrs. Bonnington came a little nearer. "In the case of this Mrs. Dale," said she, in a lower voice, "go on just as you have begun. Do not call upon her. Do not have anything to do with To tell you the truth, it was about her that I came to see you this morning. She has already brought mischief into our own peaceful home. She is a dangerous woman." "Dear me! You don't mean that?" said Mrs. Rose, with vivid interest. "Unhappily, I do. My son Rudolph came back from his ship only ten days ago, and already he can think of nothing but this Mrs. Dale." "After having had the unpardonable insolence to leave your call unreturned, she has got hold of your son?" gasped Mrs. Rose. 'Well, not exactly that, as far as I know," admitted the vicar's wife. "He says he has never spoken to her. And the dear boy has never told me an untruth before." "But if this dreadful woman has entangled him, of course she might make him say anything!" cried Mrs. Rose, in sympathetic agonies. 'I should not like to accuse a fellowwoman of doing that," replied Mrs. Bonnington, severely. "But I think it is a bad and unnatural sign when my son, who has never taken the least notice of any of the young girls in the neighborhood, becomes absorbed, in a

It contains over one thousand pages, profusely illustrated with engravings and colored plates. It gives receipts for several hundred simple, well-tried home remedies. It instructs the mother in the care of her ailing children or husband, and gives invaluable suggestions for the preservation of her own health and condition in all those critical and delicate periods to which women are subject. The author of this great work has had a wider practical experience in treating obstinate diseases than any other physician in this country. His medicines are world-renowned for their marvelous efficacy. Mrs. H. M. Hansrote, of Magnolia, Morgan Co., W. Va., in a letter to Dr. Pierce says: "My husband is a locomotive engineer. He came home about a year ago and just dropped in the doorway. He was burning up with fever and he commenced with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery according to directions and in two commenced with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery according to directions and in two weeks he was able to go to work, without having a doctor. I commenced to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription something over two years ago, and am glad to testify that it is a God-send to womankind. I have been out of health for years, and am now able to say your medicine has cured me entirely. The three children who were born before I commenced to take your medicine did not live long, they were very delicate, but those born since (three in all) are very hearty, and that convinces me that your medicine is just what it is said to be and a great deal more."

The Coroner's Jury Find That Emerson Shot Tuttle in Self-Defense.

Very Little New Evidence Produced-The Fatal Bullet and Its Course-Tuttle's Temper-A Witness Absent-The Accused Man's Faithful Wife and Their Interesting Child Among the Spectators.

The adjourned inquest into the circumstances surrounding the tragic death of James Tuttle at the Music Hall on Friday night, was resumed before Coroner Flock at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, at the court house, and place was filled with spectators. Mr. James B. McKillop represented the crown, and Mr. J. H. Flock, Q.C., looked after the interests of the prisoner. THE TESTIMONY.

P. C. Robert Egelton, the first witness, stated to Mr. McKillop that on Friday he was on duty at the front of the Music Hall. After hearing of the shooting he went upstairs. He saw the dead body of James Tuttle lying on the stage floor in a pool of blood. Emerson said: "I did this in self-defense; I had to do something to protect my-Emerson put his hand up to his mouth; it was bleeding, and his lips were badly swollen, the blood running down his chin and on to his neck. Emerson said: "I give myself up to you," and witness placed him under arrest, and warned him that anything he said would be used against him as evidence. Emerson said: "It is better for me not to say anything." Witness put Emerson pointed to a revolver on the shelf and said: "There it is." Q.—Did you do anything when you got to the station? A .- I examined his mouth and found his lower lip bleeding and apparently cut from his teeth. Q.-What about the revolver? Did you examine it? A .- Yes: it was a 38-calibre self-act-Cross-examined by Mr. Flock-Did you examine the revolver to see whether it required a hard or slight pull at the trigger to discharge it? A .- No; I would not like to try without first taking out the chamber.

Dela has cought. Dr. Drake, examined by Mr. Mc-Killop, said he had been sent for on Friday night after the shooting; he went to the Music Hall, where he found Tuttle lying on the floor, dead, with his head and shoulders supported by

Q.-Did you find any wounds? A.—Yes, two; one a small cut on the bridge of the nose. After further examination witness said he found the ball had entered the left eye. On the following day he made a post-mortem, with Drs. James Campbell and Ardeil. The ball pierced the left eyeball, passed upward and backward through the roof of the bony orbit, and in its course severed the large vassalry artery leading from the base of the brain. It continued its course to the lower lobe of the brain, and spent its force at the lower parietal bone of the skull. He removed the scalp and found an opening about an inch in diameter in the one, and in this opening was the bul-There were also a large number of small pieces of bone there, held in position by the scalp. He also found a great amount of blood between the scalp and the skull, probably for four five inches around this opening. There was also an abrasion over the left temple. The cause of death was hemorrhage and injury to the vital parts of the brain, resulting in death three or four minutes afterward. To Mr. Flock, Dr. Drake said Tuttle was a man of splendid physique, apparently athletic, with muscles well de-

Mr. McKillop-Did you notice any-Witness-There were probably 40 or 50 small powder marks spread over Tuttle's face. Dr. James Campbell corroborated Dr. Drake's evidence. He produced the bullet, which was about the size and shape of a marble broken in half. William Newman, an employe of the Music Hall, saw Emerson on the stage about ten minutes before the shooting; he was walking around the stage, apparently waiting for the curtain to go He noticed Emerson speak to Wesley and go away, and then Emerson spoke to different members of the ompany. Witness did not know what Emerson was saying. When Wesley came back he went to Emerson and gave him something. Mr. Newman corroborated the statements of the previous witness. When a state of great excitement, and in self-

Tuttle arrived he asked witness where defense. Wesley was, and went to the latter's dressing-room. Tuttle spoke to them and then went to some of the other dressing-rooms, and then to the right stage entrance. Witness went in at the left stage entrance, and got on the stage just in front of Tuttle. erson was there and Tuttle asked him if he wanted to see him (Tuttle). Emerson said to Tuttle, "I want my money up to date." Tuttle replied,
"Then you won't get it." A moment afterwards Tuttle made a motion as if to strike Emerson, but witness did not see whether he did or not. Witness verified statements about the shoot-ing and what followed, and Emerson's saying, "I did it in self-defense," and asking for an officer. Dr. Flock-Was Tuttle angry?

Witness-Yes, he appeared very angry when he spoke to me. Q.-Had you often seen him angry? A.—Several times, and he appeared to get angry very quickly, but I never saw him attempt to strike any-Cross-examined by Mr. J. H. Flock

Q.C.—Did you see any violence of temper at the box office on Thursday A.-Yes. Mr. Tuttle wanted to get into the box office. He came to me and asked me for a key. I said "Mr. Harvey has it, but I will go and get it?" Mr. Tuttle said, "I'll not wait; I'll smash the door in." Witness saw the window smashed in the next morning. Geo. Grisman (examined by Mr. McKillop) corroborated the evidence of the previous witness. When Tuttle came up, he asked witness why the curtain had not gone up, and witness told Tuttle that Emerson would not allow it to go up until he got his Q.-Did you hear anything said between the two before the shooting and Emerson's actions and remarks was virtually the same as that given by other witnesses.

Dr. Flock—When Tuttle came up to you how did he appear?

Witness—He appeared to be mad.
Q.—Did he say any more than ask you that question?

A.—No, sir; but he was very angry.

John Weaver, 427 Wellington street, said he was an employe of the Music Hall. He saw Mr. Emerson on Friday night talking to some of the company. He corroborated the statements of other witnesses regarding what took place between Mr. Wesley and others. When Wesley was talking to Emerson he had his wife on ing to Emerson he had his wig on, and then went to the dressing-room and took it off before going down stairs. His story regarding what was said and done when Mr. Tuttle came up was the same as that sworn to by others. After the shooting witness did not hear Emerson say anything. He was about seven feet away from Emerson when the shot was fired, but did not know which hand the revolver was in.

Percy Fitzgerald, 594 Dufferin avenue, told Mr. McKillop that he had seen Emerson on the stage talking to somebody about $150 his wife had lost. The next time he saw Emerson was on the stage, about 8 o'clock. had not seen Tuttle come on to the stage, but heard the conversation between Tuttle and Emerson, when the former refused to give Emerson his money to date.

Q.-What did Tuttle say? A.-I heard him call Emerson a Tuttle then struck him. Q.-What then? A.—There was a pistol shot, but I did not see the flash. Q.—Where were you standing at the time?

A.—Quite close to Emerson. Q.-How long after the blow before the pistol shot?
A.—It occurred right away.

Q.-What did Tuttle do? A.—He put his hand to his face, and then fell in a heap on the floor. His legs were curled up, but he straightened Q.-Did you hear Emerson say any

A.—Yes. He said, "I did that in self-defense." Q.-To whom? A .- I don't think it was to anyone in particular. Witness said he saw no flash, and saw no smoke after the flash, although he was quite close. He had seen Emerson in the dressing room after the constable arrived. A WITNESS ABSENT. It was now after six o'clock, and counsel for prisoner rose and said if ing revolver, with five chambers, all ined he wished a postponement. The prisoner had been laboring under a very great strain all day. Mr. McKillop said there were three or four other witnesses whom he had not called. John Leigh, stage carpenter, had been referred to several times, but he did not think that the conversation that passed between Tuttle and Leigh would throw any light on the matter, or would be per as evidence. Leigh was in Brantford, and he was not called because the crown wanted to save time. Dr. Flock said he would like to have had Leigh called, so that the jury might have some idea as to what mood Tuttle was in and how he received the message from Wesley regarding Emerson's refusal to play. According to the statement of Fitzgerald, Tuttle did not utter such a vile epithet with a smile on his face, and certainly did not give the prisoner a love-tap with his fingers. The coroner's jury was not sitting to convict the prisoner, but to inquire into the cause of death. anything Leigh might say would benefit the prisoner, and show greater extenuation of circumstance, it might materially affect the verdict. crown should show the prisoner every The

Mr. McKillop pointed out that while such evidence as Dr. Flock wished to put in might be taken in this trial, it certainly would not be admitted in the higher courts. Dr. Flock-Mr. McKillop, I may not have as great a knowledge of the law as you have, but you have not any greater knowledge of justice than I Counsel for prisoner agreed with the coroner, who had the right to bring in any evidence he thought proper in ection with the case. The prisoner might be placed on trial for his life, and as his counsel he wished all the facts brought out. Mr. George Taylor, foreman of the ury, said: "I think I speak for the jury, said: whole jury when I say that I think sufficient evidence has been taken for us to decide without calling any more

Mr. McKillop said he had no objection to calling Leigh if they so desired. He had been subpoenaed. THE VERDICT.

This was satisfactory, and at 6:30 the court room was cleared for the jury to deliberate. One hour elapsed before they concluded, and then returned the following verdict: "We, the jury empaneled to investigate the cause of the death of James Tuttle, do find that death was caused by a pistol shot, received at the hands of William D. I knew a beautiful woman, the young wife of an Attorney General who was pronounced the healthiest woman in her State. She would be living today but for her reckless disregard of health. Leaving off her flannels in order that she might experience the full enjoyment of the dance, young Mrs. B. contracted cold after cold, but paid no heed to them. Husband and friends rem-

Travelers' Association

Has Bright Prospects for the Coming Year.

Reviewing the Past Quarter-Late Members Who Are Missed-Resolution of Condolence.

At the general quarterly meeting of the Western Ontario Commercial Travelers' Association on Saturday evening, the following report was read by the secretary and unanimously approved and adopted:

"Your officers have much pleasure in reporting a continued increase in membership and bright prospects for a year of usefulness and prosperity. "The efforts put forth by your board livered his famous lecture on "To and for better train accommodation with Methodist Church liver the West London the Course liver train accommodation with the Owen Sound district and all territory north of St. Marys, has been successful, and the new arrangements will be of great benefit to travelers of this city and that district, as well as the public generally. We beg to extend to Mr. Nash's family and friends our deepest sympathy in their sad bereavement; his loss is and will be severely felt by our membership and the publi generally, by whom he was cordially respected and esteemed for his many sterling qualities and kindliness of dis position. On motion of Mr. Lind, seconded by Mr. Dillon, it was resolved that an address be prepared and presented to Mrs. B. J. Nash, expressing the sense of the great loss sustained by the association and the whole community in the deeply lamented death of her late husband, and the most sincere sympathy with herself and family in their sad bereavement; also that the president and secretary be a committee to carry this resolution into effect. A general discussion of railway matters took place, during which it was clearly shown that the present cut meeting adjourned. Among those present were: William Gray (ex-president, in the chair), Secretary Alf. Robinson, ex-Presidents J. M. Dillon and Wm Lind, and Messrs.

The Rumble Of The Railmays

Improving G. T. R. Tracks Between Windsor and Niagara.

Big Outlay in 1893 Anticipated-Wabash Arrangements.

There are now 1,936 miles of road in the Wabash system, including the new Buffalo division.

The surveying corps of the Wabash the Toledo divisions, this line leaving the Toledo main line at Maumee. The Grand Trunk Railway vill lay 120 miles of new steel rails on portions of its road between Niagara Falls and Windsor. The rails now in use weigh from 56 to 66 pounds per yard, and they will be replaced by 80-pound rails. The Wabash Railroad has closed a contract by which they are to haul 1,200 cars of meat each month to eastern points for a firm of Kansas City. This means that 40 cars of meat will go over the road each day from Kansas City to St. Louis. The Brown system of discipline is practically in force on the Big Four lines.
