

FALLS INTO BOILING WATER; GOES MAD WITH THE AGONY

Paul Latelle, Italian, Laborer With McClary Company, Meets With Probably Fatal Accident.

What will in all probability prove a fatal accident took place this morning at 10:45 in the crystallizing department of the McClary Manufacturing Company on Wellington street.

Paul Latelle, an Italian laborer, was leaning over a large tank of boiling water in the act of plugging a trough used for pouring glass into the tank, when his foot slipped on the cement floor, causing him to plunge headlong into the water.

Tony Onti, a fellow-workman, who was standing alongside of the unfortunate man at the time of the accident, immediately pulled Latelle out, being severely burned in doing so.

Maddened by His Agony.

Latelle was not unconscious when rescued, but had suddenly become a raving maniac. With awful shrieks he made a dash through the shop and ran several hundred feet before being stopped.

The flesh down to the waist hung in shreds, and the tortured man suffered terribly before medical assistance could be procured. Dr. R. W. Shaw, of 287 King street, arrived upon the scene in a few moments, and shortly afterward Stewart's ambulance carried the injured man to the Victoria Hospital, where it was stated that he is probably fatally injured.

Latelle was employed as a helper in the crystallizing department at McClary's, and it has been one of his duties to assist in plugging the trough through which the molten glass passes to the crystallizing tank.

In order to do this work it is either necessary to use a long poker or use the hands. The latter method necessitates leaning over a tank of scalding water which is about three feet high and three and a half feet wide. The tank is used for crystallizing the glass before it is milled.

Was Taking Chances.

Mr. George Wright, foreman of that department, stated after the accident that it was the first accident that had

Herman W. Sutton Thirty Feet by Street Car

Well-Known Wine Clerk Badly Injured at Corner of Dundas and Wellington Streets.

Mr. Herman W. Sutton, a wine clerk, who resides with his father at 65 Stanley street, and is employed at the Western Hotel, had a miraculous escape from death last night.

About half-past 11 at the corner of Dundas and Wellington streets, he stepped off an eastbound car and attempted to cross the track. He was struck by a rapidly moving westbound car and hurled nearly 30 feet. He was badly injured and was taken to his home, where Drs. MacLaren and John D. Wilson attended him.

Escape Was Miraculous.

Mr. Sutton's escape from death was little short of miraculous. The westbound car was traveling very fast, so the spectators say. Some declare that it was making twenty miles an hour. Others say about ten or fifteen miles. It was probably going ten miles an hour. When passing the eastbound car the motorman sounded his gong, but the high rate of speed at which he was traveling prevented Sutton from hearing the warning. He stepped directly in front of the car, and when struck shot up into the air, landing on the pavement 30 feet away. He was struck on his left side and skidded along for some distance. Spectators rushed to his assistance, fully expecting to find Sutton dead. He was covered with blood and was unconscious. Dr. MacLaren was summoned and he was joined in a few minutes by Dr. John D. Wilson, the railway company's physician. Sutton was carried into the Metropolitan Hotel and then was taken to his home.

A Terrible Shock.

Mr. Sutton received a terrible shock, but if no internal injuries result he will recover. His right knee is badly bruised, and his right side is also quite badly crushed. A cut on the side of his nose is the only abrasion of the skin.

Dr. MacLaren this afternoon said that he thought Mr. Sutton would recover providing no unexpected symptoms arose.

"How he ever escaped is a mystery to me," said Dr. MacLaren. "He escaped with the least punishment possible under the circumstances. Of course, there is a chance that lung or kidney disease may set in, but his chances of recovery are very favorable."

STRIKE ALL OVER SAY COMPANIES

Head Offices Say Lines Are All Working and Men Would Return.

New York, Aug. 15.—At the general offices of both the telegraph companies, it was said today that every hour was bringing them nearer to normal traffic conditions. Business was moving to all parts of the country and many wires were reported "clear," no difficulty was experienced in handling everything offered, it was said.

"The strike is over," declared Robert C. Clowry, president and general manager of the Western Union. "We are having applications from the strikers today, but we are turning them down. We are filled up and cannot place them."

President Clowry also said there was no trouble over the question of railroad wires, and none was anticipated.

Vice-President Nally, of the Postal Telegraph, said his company was today in excellent shape. Several former employees had made application for reinstatement, saying they had been convinced the strike was not duly authorized. The Postal wires were clear at midnight and business today was being handled as expeditiously as before the strike. Both companies in New York and those that were closed in order to man the main offices at the beginning of the strike, are being opened rapidly.

FELL FROM LADDER AND BROKE HIS ANKLE

Mr. Chas. W. Drinkwater Meets With Painful Accident.

Mr. Chas. W. Drinkwater, of 438 Central avenue, who is employed as a packer by W. E. Saunders & Co., wholesale druggists, Clarence street, met with a very painful accident in the warehouse this morning.

Mr. Drinkwater was at work making some alterations to a partition, and was standing on a ladder about ten feet from the floor, when the ladder suddenly slipped, precipitating him to the floor.

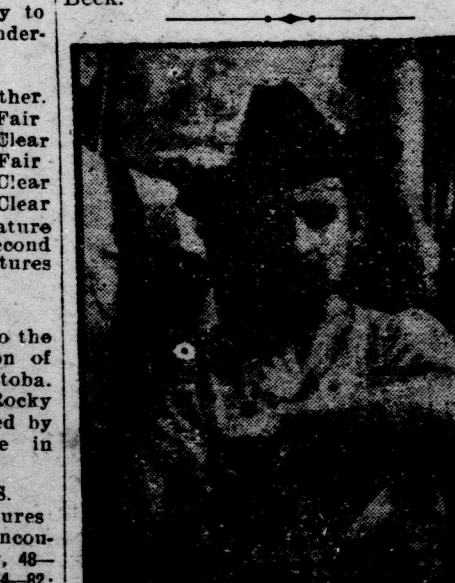

He sustained a very heavy fall, and his ankle was broken.

Dr. J. B. Campbell, of Dundas street, who was summoned, had the patient removed to his home in the police ambulance.

MR. BORDEN HERE IN SEPTEMBER

Will Address the Local Faithful on Monday the 16th September.

It is announced that Mr. R. L. Borden, leader of the Conservative Opposition in the House of Commons, will visit London on Sept. 15. He will arrive on Sunday morning from Chatham, where he speaks the Saturday night previous, and will remain over till Monday, when he will address the local Conservatives. During his stay here he will be the guest of Hon. Adam Beck.

Another Prominent Conservative Condemns School Board's Action

Mr. A. E. Cooper Says His Party Disowns the Proceedings

"I read Dr. Wilson's interview in The Advertiser on the appointment of Mr. McCutcheon as principal of the Collegiate Institute, and I want to indicate every word of it," said Mr. A. E. Cooper, the well-known jeweler and a prominent member of the Conservative party, to The Advertiser today.

Mr. Cooper has always taken a keen interest in school matters, and the injustice committed by the board of education comes in for round condemnation at his hands.

"Dr. Wilson covered the matter splendidly. I will say this, however, that the action of the board lacks every element of the 'square deal.' I consider it a public immorality that should be and must be vigorously condemned by all far-minded citizens. The spirit of the school is irreparably shattered, and the influence of the teachers has been greatly impaired."

"I cannot see how they can retain their positions with any degree of self-respect. If the trustees have been dominated by one individual, they stamp themselves as incapable, and are not fitted to assume public responsibilities."

"The introduction of party politics into the question is an unfortunate feature. The action of the board is not supported by the Conservative party. It is unthinkable that the leaders of the great Conservative party have either approved or condoned the action of the board. That is the one redeeming feature of the whole miserable business. The responsibility does not belong to the party, because the party does not sanction such despicable tactics. The responsibility rests alone with the incompetent members of the board of education."

"I fear for its effect upon the rising generation and upon those to follow. It is in the schools that the boys and girls are trained for citizenship, and I cannot believe that they can be properly trained surrounded as they must be by the impure atmosphere. Let us above all things keep the springs of learning uncontaminated by the slime of political influence. The effect of such actions on the morals of the school is very great."

"It must strike home to the electors what a mistake they made when they defeated at the polls last Christmas an educationalist like the Rev. James Ross, D.D., a recognized authority, not only in Ontario, but throughout the Dominion of Canada. He was defeated because he had not the stamp of approval of the wire puller. It was a grievous mistake."

A Fat Harvest for Pickpockets

According to a story which has just leaked out a prominent official of the Irish Benevolent Society was a loser to the extent of $100 at the recent big picnic held by that organization.

Detective Egleston today admitted to an Advertiser reporter that he had the case in hand, but refused to divulge the name of the losing party.

"We have had a number of complaints about the work of pickpockets along the Port Stanley route this summer," said the official, "and although we have not as yet apprehended the guilty ones, we have hopes of landing one or more of the miscreants."

It is supposed that crooks from Toronto and other large places make a practice of attending big picnics at the Port. In the jam and bustle on late trains, these parties can work almost without fear of detection, and it is understood that London people alone have lost upwards of $600 this season.

Young Ladies Injured in Wreck of Crystal Hall Will Seek Damages

Misses Earl, Hardingham and Smith Still Suffer From Injuries.

Misses Ethel Earl, of Egerton street; Libbie Smith, of Simcoe street, and May Hardingham, of Ottawa avenue, the three young ladies who were removed from the wreck of Brewster's store the day of the collapse of Reid's Crystal Hall, are still suffering from their injuries, although all three were discharged from Victoria Hospital some time ago.

It is understood that the parents of the three young ladies have retained lawyers, and intend bringing actions against certain persons for damages. Against whom writs will be issued they do not say.

That the young ladies are still suffering very much pain and inconvenience is apparent to all, and this morning an Advertiser reporter called at their homes and had chats with them. It will be remembered that Miss Earl's right arm was badly cut at the elbow. These cuts have healed as well as could be expected, but her left arm which was very badly crushed, is still disabled. Her muscles and nerves are so affected that the arm appears to be paralyzed. It is impossible for Miss Earl to raise her arm at all, and she is unable to attend even to her own wants.

Dr. Drake, who is attending the young lady, at first feared that she might lose the use of her arm, but he now believes that it will be all right in time. It will, however, be many weeks before Miss Earl will be able to do any kind of work.

Will Look for Damages.

"Are you going to sue for damages?" Mr. Earl was asked.

"Well, somebody will have to pay for it," he replied, "but we're waiting to see where the responsibility lies."

"I don't want anything that isn't right," he continued, "but I certainly will look for someone to settle for all the expense. I can't afford to pay for somebody's negligence."

Miss Hardingham's Condition.

Miss Hardingham was out walking when the reporter called at her home, but Mrs. Hardingham made it quite clear that she, too, is far from recovered.

$50,000 Paid Over for Traction Loss

At a meeting of the officers of the Southwestern Traction Company held yesterday afternoon, it was decided to begin at once the work of reconstructing the barns destroyed in Saturday's fire.

The insurance inspectors were present, and, having thoroughly looked into the matter in the morning, came to an immediate settlement. The loss was found to be slightly smaller than was at first believed, the sum of $50,000 being received from the different companies.

Local Printers May Be Entangled In the Strike of the Telegraphers

But President Archer of Trades
and Labor Council Sees No Trouble as Yet.

There is no change in the telegraphers' strike so far as London is concerned. Both the G. N. W. and C. P. R. staffs are working, and nearly the usual amount of business is being done.

The G. N. W. is experiencing some delay in the big offices, but their local work is, they claim, satisfactory. Toronto and Montreal report that they have nearly full staffs working, but the union men deny this.

The C. P. R. men are waiting instructions from the International executive which is meeting in Chicago. The Easson Canadian News service handled by the G. N. W. is badly crippled.

The strike threatens to become more involved and it is possible that the printers may be entangled. There exists an agreement between the I. T. U. and the Telegraphers' Union and in some places they are working on that agreement.

In Winnipeg printers are refusing to handle copy coming over the G. N. W. wires, since the men are on strike. This is being done in many places in the United States. In Montreal and Toronto, the printers are discussing that phase of the matter. In many offices, however, agreements have been made between the master printers and the unions, and this would entail no end of difficulty if the I. T. U. takes up the cause of the telegraphers.

No Agreement in London.

"I don't know of any agreement between the I. T. U. and the telegraphers," said Mr. H. B. Archer, president of local trades and labor council, to The Advertiser today. "If the I. T. U. ordered the printers to refuse to handle G. N. W. copy, then we would have to do so. We would be violating no agreement with the master printers if we did so. However, we have had no communication on the subject, and know nothing of what is being done officially." Mr. Archer is a member of the printers' union.

If the members of the typographical union should have cause to take up the fight of the telegraphers, London people would have reason to remember the strike for some time, as it would directly affect the publication of the local papers.

Thus far the printers have not been asked to set copy turned in by non-union telegraphers, and no trouble is looked for here for some time at least.

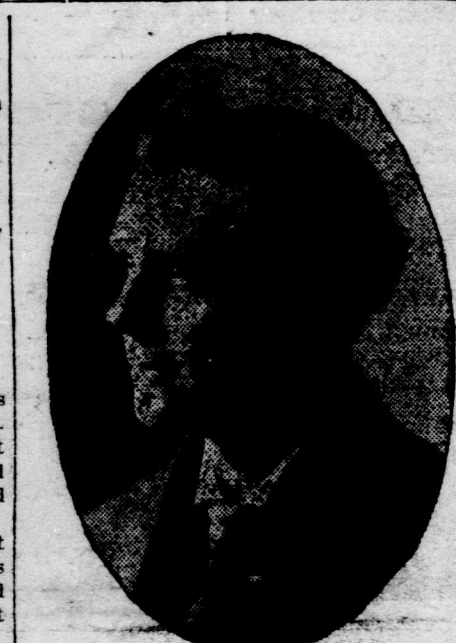

BURN THE WORMS; ROUT THEM OUT

Local Horticulturist Says Show
No Quarter to the Plague of Caterpillars.

And now the local horticulturist is troubled by a pest of tent caterpillars. These have appeared recently in great numbers, and unless quickly destroyed will cause much damage to fruit and ornamental trees.

Burn them out with a torch, or cut off the small branches holding the nests or tents, and put all into a stove and incinerate them, said a horticulturist today.

Park Commissioner Pearce has a long fishpole rigged up with a torch of waste saturated with oil, and is keeping the many beautiful trees in the parks clear of the destructive "campers."

Meeting of Monarchs Helping Towards Peace

France Approves Good Feeling Between Edward and Kaiser.

Paris, Aug. 15.—French opinion generally regards the meetings between King Edward and Emperor William at Wilhelmshoe yesterday, as marking another stage in the relaxation of European defense. Like the Swinemund meeting, and the approaching interview between King Edward and Emperor Francis Joseph at Ischl, the papers think it may principally be important in calming the sen-sibilities of Germany concerning the series of agreements Great Britain has been completing, and that from this standpoint it will strengthen the peace of Europe. Moreover, yesterday's meeting is contrasted with the handshake between the King and the German Emperor last year at Kronberg, and there is a disposition to consider the Wilhelmshoe meeting as being something in the nature of a genuine reconciliation between the two sovereigns whose relations heretofore have been notoriously cool. So far as the French interests are concerned the impression prevails that they cannot be prejudiced by what occurred at Wilhelmshoe.

Labor Day Committee Promises A Gay Galaxy of Amusements

xcellent Programmes Have Been Prepared for Afternoon and Evening.

The committee in charge of arrangements for Labor Day, which falls on Monday, Sept. 2, has its work well in hand, and, barring wet weather and unforeseen circumstances, the members promise the citizens of London two interesting programmes.

As usual, the holiday will be celebrated at Queen's Park, but, following the wishes of a large number of labor unions, there will be no parade this year. The band of the Twenty-Sixth Regiment has been engaged for the afternoon and evening, and some of the most successful entertainers will lend their assistance in amusing those who attend.

Principal among the entertainers may be mentioned "On-el-da," a lady under the management of Fitzhugh Lee, who, while fastened securely to a post, produces many marvelous manifestations, mystifying to the audience all to the Merry.

Frank Clegg, one of the most popular of boy entertainers, will sing, clad in costume appropriate to his songs, and also play a xylophone solo from "William Tell," accompanied by the band.

Messrs. Kenney and Harvey have appeared in almost every city and town of note in Canada, and have received the highest encomiums from press and public for their dual work. They will also appear singly.

Mr. Victor Lewis is an impersonator of note, and includes in his repertoire most of the great men of the generation.

The Imperial Male Quartet bears an enviable reputation. Nearly all citizens have read of its success while on concert tours in the United States and Canada. This will probably be the last opportunity Londoners will have of hearing this splendid organization for some time, as it is expected they will leave shortly on an extended tour.

The Races.

In the afternoon there will be a splendid programme of races, etc. Chief among them will be the second race for the Canadian Club trophy, a magnificent silver cup, which was donated last year by the Canadian Club, to be competed for by relay teams representing the various labor unions of the city.

The second race for the tankard donated by the Cigarmakers' Union will also be run. This race is two miles, and is open, the trophy to be won twice in succession before becoming the property of the winner.

There will also be a horse race and dancing competitions, the winners of the latter to give exhibitions at the evening performance.

Altogether the committee thinks it has arranged a programme of sports and other amusements which will appeal to all, and, with the small admission fee charged, there should be a large audience present which will exceed in size all previous Labor Day gatherings.

London Doctor Says Disease Lurks In River Water When It Is Filtered

Impossible to Remove All Contamination From It by Filtration Methods.

"I don't want any filtered water," declared Mr. W. H. Braddon, vice-president of the Columbia handle works, who has just returned from an extensive trip through the Southern States. "I am heartily in favor of a high-pressure system for fire-fighting purposes, and to preserve our spring water for domestic use. I met with filtered water several times in my trip and I would not drink it. It is absolutely no good at all. In a majority of the places I visited they used spring water from wells, boring as deep as 500 feet for it in some places."

"Filtered water is the last resort. They will not use it where there is any possibility, at any expense, of getting spring water. London should keep its spring water for its home use."

Doctor Against It.

"The adoption of the filtration scheme does not settle the fire-fighting problem," declared Dr. H. A. Stevenson this morning. "We would still have to install a high-pressure system. Toronto, with a million gallons of water to pour, is installing a high-pressure system for fighting fire. The city has all the water in Lake Ontario at its doors, and still it has not enough for fire purposes, so it is installing a high-pressure system. Winnipeg has no other recourse but filtration, and is also installing the high-pressure system for fighting fire. So from this viewpoint London cannot make the problem easier by adopting filtration, but rather complicates it. If we adopt that system, in a very short time we will be compelled to install a separate plant for fighting fire."

Businessman Will Pay.

"That will be a double tax on the workingman. He has to pay the taxes now on any improvements on the fire department. If a high-pressure system is installed it will be paid for by a business tax to a large extent and will in addition give all persons concerned a more excellent service in time of fire. The high-pressure system is the only system that will meet the demands of the underwriters, and give the businessmen the protection they should receive."

It Will Not Filter.

"What about filtration?" was asked. "The worst feature about a filtration scheme is that it will not filter," he said. "You can filter toxins out, but poisonous matter will go through. In laboratories the germs are filtered out, the water passing through two inches of stone. The poisonous matter goes through. This is sometimes injected into animals to test how deadly the poisons are. Anti-toxins are made in this manner."

Advocates Mistaken.

"The idea of those who favor filtered water is that only pure water will be left after it is passed through the filter, but this is impossible. The germs may be filtered out, but the poisonous matter in solution will go through. Our spring water is rain water, filtered through limestone, and it is as nearly pure as it is possible to get. Give me spring water, and lots of it. The high-pressure scheme will solve our fire difficulties."

Water Pressure Caused a Scare

For an hour or more this morning Londoners were surprised to find that in many parts of the city there was scarcely any pressure on the water-taps, and that when opened the water merely trickled from the faucet.

It looked as though the city was "up against" a real water famine, and grave fear was occasioned lest a serious fire should break out.

It turned out, however, that there was a safe quantity of water in the reservoir, but that for some reason or other the engineer at Springbank had cut off the reservoir.

Thus only what water was being pumped was going into the mains, and as the city was using the water as fast as it was pumped, there was no pressure to speak of.

Chairman Darch, of the water commission, stated to The Advertiser that as soon as he became aware that the water supply had been cut off, he ordered the water again turned on, with the result that the pressure on the taps became normal in a few minutes.

Mr. Darch stated also that this morning there was eleven feet of water in the reservoir.

Telephone connections between the city and the pump-house had been cut out. Only the water commissioners and their officials and the fire chief, are allowed to talk to Engineer Simmie.

BANK CLEARINGS STILL MOVE UP

Big Increase for the Week Ended Aug.
15 Over Same Week of Last Year.

Local bank clearings show big increases weekly.

For the week ending Aug. 15, 1905, the clearings totaled $1,482,063, against $1,185,017 for the corresponding week of a year ago.

Thus an increase of $297,046 for the week is shown over the same week of last year.

FEAR POWER OF THE STATES

Will Be No Let Up in the Prosecution of the Violators of the Anti-Trust Law.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14.—Confirmation was received here today of a movement under way involving the great financial and industrial interests, the purpose of which is to act
with the administration, if possible,
to end the agitation which now is so seriously injuring the value of their securities.

If they dared these interests would have continued their stiff-necked attitude, but the prosecution of the railroads, the Standard Oil Company, and other corporations has convinced them of its unwisdom. They would like to combine the "conservative" element of the two political parties, but they recognize that even such a combination could not be finally effective.
There is no question there will be approval by the people of the policy pursued by the administration or of the existence of a general willingness to have the Government go even further.

In St. Louis a meeting of the attorney generals of half a dozen Mississippi states has just been held for the purpose of taking concerted action designed further to restrict corporations within their respective jurisdictions.

States Enforcing the Law.
The southern, middle, and far western states have begun the enforcement of radical legislation against common carriers doing business within their territories.

The most the Federal Government has done to protect these carriers has been to advise them to obey state laws and to assure them it will see that exact justice is administered in the United States supreme court. The states apparently have awakened to the warning given by Secretary Root last December, that they must enforce the rights they possess and not compel the Government to perform the duties which belong to them.

Attorney-General Bonaparte is following with closest attention the policies of the states toward the corporations and the railroads. The chaotic situation which has arisen abundantly shows, in the judgment of officials here, the importance of the adoption of the President's proposal for a national license for all companies doing an interstate business which would insure their regulation
by one instead of by forty-six different Governments.

Wants Some in Prison.

The administration believes it has shown that it is in earnest in its determination to punish all bad corporations, and in order to make the punishment effective it would like to place some of the Standard Oil officers who have been guilty of wrongdoing behind the bars. Unfortunately,
some of these men have protected themselves in such a way that their conviction is practically impossible.

It is a comparatively easy matter to fasten upon a subordinate the blame for a violation of the law. But these are not the officers the administration wants to prosecute. In the investigation by the department of justice efforts are being made to obtain evidence which will show a connection between the subordinate giving an order and an officer "higher up"
who directed him to give it.

Attorney-General Bonaparte laughingly said today that there was a pretty big cover of game and that it would be a poor marksman who could not land a bird or two when once he got started. The start is under way, and the dogs are in the field, nosing

around to see what they can discover.
The attorney-general stands ready with the Government gun so that when the covey is flushed he can pick off the birds which are most desirable. If it shall prove impossible to secure the game, Mr. Bonaparte expects the President to recommend the enactment of legislation at the coming session of congress which will make his shot effective.

Roosevelt Will Keep On.

It was reiterated today that the administration is as anxious to maintain the value of securities as any of the stockholders of the corporations,
but it has no intention of stopping the enforcement of the laws against corporations and individuals who have violated it because of the flurry in Wall street. With the country prosperous, it is declared that there is no danger of anything more than a "rich man's panic," such as occurred last March. At that time, however, the Government deemed it advisable to steady conditions by giving aid to the street, and undoubtedly this would be done again in case of need. There is ample money in the treasury for use for this purpose in case Secretary Cortelyou gives the word. It was reported here today the financial situation has been considered at Oyster Bay, and should it be necessary to take such action, as may be advisable, Secretary Cortelyou will go to the subtreasury in New York.

Anxious Over Industrial Crisis.

But besides the unsatisfactory financial conditions the telegraph strike and other labor troubles show
a degree of unrest in the industrial world which is causing the administration some concern. The natural effect of the economic disturbances is that there is a lack of money for investment and no disposition on the part of the people with funds to exploit new enterprises. The railroads insist they have been greatly hampered in making additions to their equipment. The administration is convinced that the additional legislation the President has recommended is absolutely required. If the Government were authorized to approve new issues of securities by all corporations and carriers doing interstate business it is believed there would be no trouble about sufficient money appearing for investment.

It is proposed by the President to discuss the economic situation at length in his annual message and it is understood one of the purposes of the conferences now going on at Oyster Bay relative to the recommendations he will make.

Attorney-General Bonaparte denied today that there is any intention on the part of himself or any other members of the cabinet so far as he knew to retire to private life. He proposes to remain in the cabinet until the end of the administration.

TO PRESERVE WATERLOO BATTLEFIELD.

Count Louis Cavens, who is advocating the acquirement and preservation of the field of Waterloo as an international monument of enduring interest, has given in his pamphlet, "La Question de Waterloo," some of the replies from those whom he has sought to interest in the proposal.
Count Cavens has addressed himself
to notabilities in England, France, Germany and other countries, and has received unequivocal proofs of the great sympathy which the subject has aroused. The Prince of Wales, through his private secretary, has expressed
"his best thanks for a communication of such deep interest," while from Lord Roberts and the colonels of all the English regiments which inscribe
"Waterloo" on their colors there have come similar recognitions of the importance of the question. Count von Moltke and the present commanders of the Brunswick and Hanoverian regiments which were engaged on the field
express their adhesion to the project,
and assurances have been received from the Empress Eugenie and two descendants of Napoleon I. Italy and Holland are also reported among the favorable replies, the volume of which more than justifies Count Cavens in his enterprise. In addition to taking steps to prevent the dilapidation now going on at Hougoumont, La Haye Sainte and other memorable points, Count Cavens desires to remove the reproach (although he thinks it an exaggerated one) uttered by the Duke of Wellington on visiting Waterloo some years after: "They have changed my battlefield." More particularly it is necessary, he thinks, to indicate the sunken road of Olsou now entirely filled up.—London Standard.

Griff House, near Nuneaton, where George Eliot's early childhood was spent, has been visited recently by so many English and American tourists
that the Warwickshire County Council—which uses the building as a school—has resolved to make a charge of sixpence per head.

THE SEIGE OF SHAKESPEARE'S TOMB

PERSISTENT EFFORT TO MOVE
BONES AT STRATFORD—GROW-ING BELIEF THAT IN SPITE OF CURSE AND WATCHFULNESS
THE SLAB IN HOLY TRINITY'S CHANCEL WILL YET BE RAISED

How much longer is Shakespeare to be allowed to sleep on unmolested in the chancel of Holy Trinity Church
at Stratford-on-Avon?

In London, a fortnight ago, that question came up for discussion. A private meeting was held by one of the many societies that exist for the study of the bard's life and works,
and something more than a mere bid for idle talk and speculation was intended by the author of the query.

As an earnest Shakespearean lover
and student he made some surprising statements and stirred his sobersided audience by openly expressing the melancholy opinion that the time is fast approaching when Shakespeare can no longer be bracketed with Moses and Merlin as one of the heroes whose tombs remain respected and inviolate. Merlin, of course, admitted this pessimistic club member, was buried under a spell, and his grave
like that of the leader of Israel's exodus, on Nebo's lonely mountain, defies discovery and desecration.

Shakespeare, however, enjoys no such advantage. For nearly three hundred years he has maintained his last sleep undisturbed, and for the most part in an unguarded grave, but it is growing and disconcerting conviction among his most faithful worshippers that the days of the preservation of his postmortem privacy are practically numbered.

Until about 65 years ago he was safe. But times have changed; the Shakespearean controversy has reached almost a critically intense stage,
and it is hardly to be expected that Hamlet's creator will continue undisturbed when kings and conquerors have fallen victims to the insatiable modern curiosity.

All the great folk of Westminster Abbey have experienced the dismal humiliation of being turned out of their leaden winding sheets. In Victoria's reign Dean Stanley systematically exhumed every body in the Abbey, and even the royal bones in Windsor's famous Chapel of St.
George were dragged to the light.

Over in France and Italy the irre-
of the heroes and heroines of history has been quite as pronounced as in England. The German Emperor thought it no impiety to disturb mighty Charlemagne at Aix. Even Agamemnon has suffered at the hands of the modern excavator of the ruins of Troy, and the Pharaohs and Ptolemies of Egypt would be disgusted could they but know what filmy protection vaults in the living rock and gigantic pyramids prove for helpless dead folk when the twentieth century
intruder is up and doing.

But while Cleopatra and the great Rameses, Henry VIII., Pythagoras and even Abraham have been hustled ruthlessly back to the light, Shakespeare has benefited by the dignity of a noble repose. It is true that until a comparatively recent date his grave remained unhonored, unvisited
and almost unnoticed.

In the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries nobody was gnawed by a desire to gaze upon his ashes, and his famous epitaph was all the defense
he required. But in those simple old days the Egyptians kept their secrets and nobody dreamed any more of trying to prove that Shakespeare was Bacon or the Earl of Essex than of maintaining that January was June.

When, however, the first doubts as to the identity of the writer of the plays and sonnets arose an astonishing effort was almost immediately made to remove the graven slab lying over him in Holy Trinity chancel.
Just when occurred the first attempt to open the poet's tomb no man is able to say, for there is no record across the slab. This sign remains unexplained, yet it may indicate that an assault on dead Shakespeare had been made before that inspired by the faith and curiosity of an American woman.

The amazing enterprise and conviction of the frail lady from New England who forty years ago crossed the Atlantic for the purpose of exposing the Swan of Avon as a common impostor, was the means of rousing the rector of Holy Trinity to the realization that Shakespeare was not quite as safe as he had thought him.

Nevertheless Miss Bacon when she went to Stratford with a view of braving the curse of the poet's epitaph dealt in no underhand methods. She suffered from the obsession or gift
for discovering ciphers from the plays that has made Ignatius Donnelly and scores of others famous, but she was among the first to nourish the conviction that Shakespeare wrote his epitaph with a view to protecting something more than his bones.

By the aid of her ciphers she had arrived at the conclusion that in the dramatist's grave were hidden documents of a character to prove direful things against his title to fame, and she frankly went to the rector of Holy Trinity and asked him to permit the tomb to be opened. It is to Miss Bacon's credit that she was aboveboard and most persuasive. The rector was actually half won by her are and faith. He even went so far as to think seriously over her theories and ciphers, but he never could bring himself to give her the permission she asked.

At the ninth hour the spell of the epitaph, which has overawed so many fell upon him and he probably repented his weakness in even listening to the doughty little American woman.

It was to no less a person than Nathaniel Hawthorne, then consul in England, that Miss Bacon confided
the tale of a secret effort she eventually made to come by the documents she believed were in the tomb.

One night she actually spent alone in Holy Trinity Church.

She was a valiant spirit; she always called Shakespeare the "old player," or "Lord Leicester's groom." She looked upon him as a vulgar thief of other men's fame and she believed that night that she had a free hand
to deal as she liked with his grave.
However, after a trying vigil she too fell a victim to the spell of that doggerel verse graven on the tomb of that master magician among poets.

She could not quite bring herself to defy the curse, she became indeed almost terrorized, and so ended a scheme for exhumation all but put into execution by one of the most virulent enemies dead Shakespeare has ever had.

To some superstitious believers in the Stratford poet it is a significant as well as pathetic fact that Miss Bacon eventually died in a retreat for the insane.

Her convictions, like John Brown's body, go marching on, and she is by no means the last person to insist that the one and only way to settle the controversy, raging every year more furiously, over her authorship of the plays is to open the tomb in Holy Trinity Church. Worse still, she is alone in having tried to violate the six feet of earth that Shakespeare claims.

Of course, if you go to Stratford and listen to the townfolk of Holy Trinity, they will one and all insist that Shakespeare is as safe as Capt.
Kidd's treasure and that talk of violations of his tomb is the yellowest kind of journalism. Nevertheless, there are to be found sober English folk who credit the rumor which says that in all there have been five attempts upon the poet's grave, and that one was frustrated only last spring.

This latest indignity was perpetrated about the time when the birthday
festival at Stratford was in full swing.
Somebody then discovered that the cement about the edges of the graven slab had been carefully chipped away and that putty had been forced into its place.

From this it was concluded that some enemy to Shakespeare had but done half the work of removing the slab, and that later the vandal would return to scrape out the substitute for cement and easily, with a crowbar, shift the stone. Thereupon it was recalled that twenty-five years ago a similar trick had been discovered just in time.

Singularly discreet have been the rectors of Holy Trinity. Then as now no hint of a plot was raised. A whisper of the truth got about at Oxford and so leaked out, to cause a deal of angry and uneasy comment, but as it was evident the marauders had got no further in their work than removing the cement the story of the discovery escaped the newspapers.

It is said at Oxford though that when news of the tampering with Shakespeare's grave got to the ears of Algernon Charles Swinburne that sensitive poet burst into a passion of tears. Under the inspiration of his imagination he dashed off a sonnet
and a corking good one it was too,
for, when warmed to the task, Swinburne is a master hand at verbal vit-iol. He produced fourteen lines of gorgeous rhyming curses calculated to sear the souls of the unknown ghouls, but he was prevailed upon not to publish the production by those discreet persons who are responsible for Shakespeare's rest.

Recently or since the last signs of intrusion on England's most sacred spot of earth was discovered, a step in the right direction has been taken by a view to securing to the dead poet immunity from vandalistic attacks. In other words a body of guardians for his tomb has been organized.

This is the only secret Shakespearean society in existence. The names of its members are not generally known, but King Edward is said to be honorary president and a fund has been raised in order to keep Holy Trinity and its treasure under constant police protection.

Two American gentlemen belong to this society, but no German is permitted to join it, for on several occasions the German critics, who read any and every kind of mad meaning into the plays, have insisted that it is proper and even necessary to have the grave of Shakespeare opened.

Once upon a time a blind spectacle-man, Herr Professor from a German university, with a ponderous tome under his arm, waited upon a rector of Holy Trinity with a round robin, signed by his fellow professors, to demand certain documents, known, he said,
to be under the stone in the chancel. The rector was interested, curious but firm in refusing his permission. He has learned how to deal with the vaporing of the cranks who visit Stratford in numbers every year.

Still, even those who are the most passionate believers in Shakespeare,
and who, like sensitive Swinburne,
would weep and rage to see his tomb disturbed, agree that the time will certainly arrive when a shameful deed will be perpetrated in Holy Trinity under the pretense of serving the ends of truth.

For a few more years perhaps Shakespeare will lie in the mysterious peace that the curse and blessing his epitaph have won for him, but his enemies are increasing and working to the end that they may successfully defy his wishes. One and all they now persistently profess the belief, as did poor mad Miss Bacon, that the evidence needed to brand him an impostor and reveal the real authorship of the plays, poems and sonnets lies in that grave.

A school of his detractors even go
so far as to announce that Shakespeare is not buried under the slab bearing the anathematizing stanzas.
At any rate they say his name is not on the slab, and it is only tradition not any positive or accredited autho-

NOTICE OF THE ENGAGEMENTSHOULD COME FROM THE GIRL
OR HER MOTHER.

To say a girl should be more careful at a certain time than at others of her manners would be ridiculous, but it is perfectly true that there are occasions or situations during which a young woman's actions may be more severely criticised, and one of these is during the early part of an engagement. Every smallest act of a girl is under the most minute inspection of the family of her future husband, particularly if they have not known her previously, and it is a wise woman who conducts herself in such a way that they can give only commendation and not blame. She will lose nothing by standing on her dignity, provided always that she does not carry it to excess and thus become silly.

It is not the place of a girl to pay the first visit to her future husband's mother unless under exceptional conditions. Should the parent be ill or unable to go out it is then the girl's privilege to go if the mother has expressed a wish that she should not otherwise. The theory is that the young woman waits to be welcomed to the family to which in the future
she is to belong, and it is for that family to receive her graciously immediately. Should the girl make the first visit she puts herself in the position of thrusting herself upon them
whether they wish to have her or not.
A man's mother who does not call at once upon her son's fiancée is not only rude, but unkind, unless there is some serious reason why the engagement is discontinued by his relatives.

Physical inability among his sisters
is the only excuse for their not calling at once, and while a girl may waive formality and make the initial call upon his mother if she is certain that lady wishes to receive her in the capacity of future daughter-in-law, there is no reason why the girl should do the same for her fiancée's sisters except for the justifiable excuse above given.

The announcement of an engagement is made either by the girl or her mother in almost any way they choose.
Custom allows great latitude in this respect, and it may be made public at a tea, a luncheon or a dinner, at which time the news is told to friends. As a rule intimates have already been acquainted of the fact by word of mouth or by notes, and in this case they are asked not to tell it until the date set for a formal announcement. Once the engagement is known it is expected that the girl's friends will pay visits of congratulation or write notes of good wishes, but she need not refrain from going to see them as usual, unless she wishes to stand upon formality and wait for them.

It is a very gracious thing for the man's mother to announce her son's engagement to old friends of their family, expressing pleasure in it. To entirely demonstrate her approval she should ask the girl at some special date

to meet friends of her future husband, for the man's mother to give a tea or dinner is not only tactful, but kind, for it makes the newcomer feel that she is indeed being warmly welcomed.

The feeling of the man's family for her in future years is largely made by the girl's manner and conduct during her engagement, and with tact, kindness of heart, and politeness she can accomplish much.

CHOLERA MORBUS, cramps and kindred complaints annually make their appearance at the same time as the hot weather, green fruit, cucumbers, melons, etc., and many persons are debilitated from these tempting things, but they need not be disturbed if they have Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial and take a few drops
in water. It cures the cramps and cholera in a remarkable manner, and is sure to check every disturbance of the bowels.

At a London inquest on Monday Dr.
Westcott, the coroner, examining a marriage certificate, dated 1853, which had been handed in, remarked that on the top was printed, "Wives submit yourselves unto your husbands." They don't put that on now.

A CURE FOR FEVER AND AGUE.—Par-meles's Vegetable Pills are commended for use in any climate, and they will be found to preserve their powers in any latitude.
In fever and ague they act upon the secretions and neutralize the poison which has found its way into the blood. They correct the impurities, which find entrance into the system through drinking water or food, and if used as a preventive fever is avoided.

Sir William Crookes has discovered
how to get nitric acid from the air,
but the discovery has long been looked
for. "I have before me," writes a correspondent of the London Chronicle, "a manual of chemistry in which I find a eulogy of nitrogen and its compounds,
such as nitric acid and the so-called compound ammonias. 'Whoever,' says
the inspired chemist, 'succeeds in producing those bodies in abundance from the nitrogen of the atmosphere without the use of organic materials will not only amass a princely fortune, but must rank as one of the greatest benefactors of the human race, inasmuch as such a discovery would open up almost infinite supply of matter for the fertilization of the land.'"

LONDON, THURSDAY, AUG. 14.

POLITICS AND THE SCHOOL BOARD.

"Politics have been bundled out of the school board, bag and baggage." So spoke the London Free Press the day after the last municipal elections. At the same time it knew that the result was the consummation of a political job. The party slate of five candidates was conspicuously paraded day after day, and the faithful were urged to mark their ballots for no others. People not in the secret naturally wondered why so much energy was being displayed in the matter; why canvassers were particularly urgent in impressing on Conservative electors the importance of voting "the straight ticket for the school board." They now understand the reason.

It was known in school board circles at that time that the post of the principal of the Collegiate Institute would probably be vacated during the present year. The controlling member of the board determined to have the disposal of the prize, if it were possible, and engineered the election with "at object in view. The conspiracy has been successful, but it would have been otherwise had fair-minded Conservatives known in January the motive behind the frantic appeals to party sentiment.

The assertion that as the result of the election politics had been bundled out of the school board was cold-blooded mendacity, coming from a newspaper which lent itself to the plot.

THE RIVER AND THE WATER SUPPLY.

The numerous users of pleasure craft were assailed for several days by the spectacle and the stench of the carcass of a cow, lying in the river between the forks and Springbank. Numerous complaints were registered at this office, and finally the county constables were induced to remove the cause of the nuisance. A photograph of the offending carcass, reproduced in these columns, has given grave offense to a local contemporary, which argues that it is an indecent method of warfare upon the river filtration scheme. This reproach comes with much unctious from a newspaper which recently attributed the virulent epidemic of typhoid two years ago to the city's splendid spring water. Nearly every case of typhoid fever during the outbreak of the summer of 1928 was traced by the medical authorities to polluted wells outside the city. Knowing this to be so, it is amazing that a London newspaper should so slander its own city, which has a reputation for the purity and palatability of its drinking water.

As for the River Thames, unfortunately it is a fact that all sorts of impurities enter it for many miles on both north and south branches. In the summer months, it is true that the north branch is almost dry and the current imperceptible most of the time, but after every rainstorm refuse and offal pour down the channel from up-country. The water is far from inviting during the spring and fall, and in winter is such that the Board of Health prohibited the cutting of north branch ice. The claim that the water in the north branch is essentially spring water is mere deception. If the wanton waste is checked, there is plenty of spring water in the region of Springbank and Kilworth for many years to come without depending upon the possibly deficient filtration of water from a river which cannot be safeguarded from impurities for any considerable distance above the point of intake. The efficiency of any filtration process depends to a great extent upon the protection of the streams and rivers from which the water is taken.

DOGS AND HORSES AS FOOD.

There is no accounting for taste, and that is probably why German statisticians, in reporting an increase in the consumption of horses and dogs, as food, fail to assign a reason for the growing popularity of these meats as articles of diet. It is suspected, however, that the upward tendency of the prices of other meats has something to do with it. A record is kept of dogs killed under official inspection, but there is reason to believe that very large numbers are killed unofficially, which are not recorded. It is said to be not an uncommon occurrence for people to steal, slay and eat their neighbors' canines, and not long ago the police of Cansel discovered a private slaughter-house for the extermination of dog-life which had for some time been kept well employed on animals procured by dishonest means. Last year the total number of horses killed for food in all Germany was 12,000—an increase in two years of about 35 per cent. It is no uncommon thing to see in German papers advertisements of horse meat for sale, and not infrequently dog meat is advertised. The adoption of these meats cannot be due to increasing poverty among the people, for if the financial condition of those in good enough circumstances to pay income taxes may be taken as a criterion, there seems to have been of late years an unmistakable increase in wealth. During the past five years or so taxable income in the empire has increased about 90 per cent. Since 1900 there has been an increase in the number of persons liable for such taxes of 1,235,000. Much of this meat no doubt gets on the table in the form of sausages, in the making of which the Germans are adepts, and for which they have an especial fondness, and it is not unlikely that more than one Canadian tourist has innocently partaken of them and enjoyed them with supreme relish. This would certainly seem to be a case where to be wise would be folly.

When the Free Press talked of bundling politics out of the school board it meant, of course, the Grits.

The story that Mr. McGuigan and Mr. Hill, jun., came to blows was incredible on the face of it as Mr. Hill is still alive.

A British journalist who is touring Canada describes the country as one of "divine excess." There is both truth and poetry in the phrase.

Lord Rosebery's attack upon the British Government sounds like the croak of a retired raven on a withered branch, to apply one of his own similes.

Colonel Frank Reid repudiates the assertion that there are any political differences in the Seventh Battalion. The story emanated from a no more responsible quarter than the London Free Press.

The story is current that Sir Herbert Tupper is being importuned to take Mr. Borden's place as the Conservative leader. Sir Herbert conceived a sudden dislike for politics after the election of 1896. It could not be said of his father, with all his faults, that he was a "quitter."

The operators in the G. N. W. telegraph Company's Toronto and Montreal offices refused to take messages from non-union operators in the United States and were told that their services were no longer needed. It is a nice point whether it is a lock-out or a strike, if the industrial disputes act is to be invoked.

FOR TRAVELERS' WIVES.

That movement of the commercial travelers to secured reduced rates from the railways for their wives is a commendable one, and, if successful, should lead to an improvement in our country hotels. A woman complains about poor accommodation much more rapidly than a man.

SPELLING BY EAR.

The young French stenographer, whose progress in English had not kept pace with her proficiency in shorthand, was puzzling over some notes she had taken of a recitation at a public entertainment.

As she transcribed them the recitation began like this:

"La fanthi wurlaf swidheu,

Ou panju out pelone."

"That's easy," said the expert to whom she submitted the notes. "It is part of a poem that begins:

"Laugh and the world laughs with you;

Weep, and you weep alone."

A SELFISH ADVANTAGE.

[Life.]

Host—Why did you write all our guests that this is to be a very informal affair?

Hostess—So I'd be sure to be the best-dressed woman here.

MAKING BOTH ENDS MEET

[Cornell Widow.]

The baby rolls upon the floor,
And pokes his toes into his mouth,
Thus making both ends meet.

The dog attached to a tin pail
Goes howling down the street,
And as he madly bites his tail
He maketh both ends meet.

The student pays his bills, tra, la,
Just after junior week,
And writes, "For stamps, $10, pa,"

OUT OF THE DEPTHS.

[Philadelphia Press.]

"So I understand."

"Yes, he dropped out some time ago."

"Indeed? He gave me to understand he had slunked out."

COULD NOT SLEEP.

[Xonkers Statesman.]

"I'm troubled greatly with insomnia," said the man at his gate.

"I wish you'd come to my church," said the person, who was passing. "I need a few fellows like you."

SIMPLE METHOD.

[New York Sun.]

Knicker—Do you water the plants while your wife is away?

Bocker—Yes; I leave the windows open when it rains.

WHERE ENGLAND SHINES.

[Winnipeg Free Press.]

It is odd that smokers should go to England for the best American tobacco. There is no better leaf in the world than Virginia and the neighboring States offer, but to get it in perfection it is necessary to go to Richmond, Virginia, but to London, England. A London manufacturer whose brands have an international reputation explains this on the ground that Americans are too much in a hurry to get the best results—good tobacco is not to be made in a hurry. The leaf is several years to ripen under the best attainable conditions, and the blends are made with much care, not in the last stage, but from the beginning. "The leaves that will give the fragrant and rich mixture are 'married' long before they are cut up." All this costs, and keeps capital locked up, which is contrary to American ideas, but it is the secret, he said, of the success of British manufacture.

LAYING DOWN THE LAW.

[Pittsburgh Post.]

"Jack, I'm going away."

"Going away, Midge?"

"Yes, going away. But before I go I have something to say to you."

"Something to say to me, little wife?"

"Yes something to say to you. Don't send me any poker stores in lieu of the weekly remittance. That'll be about all."

DODGES.

[Chicago News.]

Gambler Bolton has written a little book on the animals of the Scriptures. The unicorn, he concludes, was the European bison, and the behemoth was the hippopotamus. That eagle which "stirreth up her nest" was the griffin vulture. The chameleon was the monitor lizard; the true chameleon figured in the Bible.

Bolton maintains that the apes of Solomon's courts were the bonnet monkeys of Ceylon, "or of the land of Ophir." The fowls that crept upon four legs were bats, or at any rate beasts or mammals, and fowls at all. The "doleful creatures" and "speckled birds" were hyenas. The deaf adder that stopped her ears was the Egyptian cobra, while the cockatrice was only a yellow-striped snake. The leviathan is said by Mr. Bolton to have been the crocodile.

HIS SYMPHONY.

[William Henry Channing.]

To live content with small means; to seek elegance rather than luxury, and refinement rather than fashion; to be worthy, not respectable, and wealthy, not rich; to study hard, think quietly, act frankly; to listen to stars and birds, babes and sages, with open heart; to hear cheerfully, do all bravely, await occasions, never hurry; in a word, to let the spiritual, unbidden and unconscious grow up through the common. This is to be my symphony.

STRAWBERRIES FOR THE TEETH.

[Minneapolis Journal.]

"Perhaps it is your sunburn that deceives me, but I really believe," said the first girl, as she floated on the sun-warmed billows, "that your teeth have turned three shades lighter."

The second girl, taking a huge breaker very skillfully, laughed and replied:

"No, it is the truth. They really are white. It is a new shade that I use."

"Tell me what it is."

"It is nothing but crushed strawberries. You take two or three fresh strawberries, crush them and rub your teeth with them for five or six minutes a day. The improvement begins at once, and in a short time the yellowest teeth are as white and lustrous as pearls."

NOT COINCIDENCE.

[London Chronicle.]

A school teacher noticed that it always rained when the inspector happened to call on her. One day she mentioned it to the inspector as a curious fact, and received the answer: "That's because I play golf on fine days."

CHOICE OF MARTYRDOM.

[Harper's Monthly.]

Six-year-old Dick was preparing, much against his will, to go to school, and with his mother. It was the first time that Dick had been allowed to get himself ready alone, and, together with boyish disgust at being obliged to go to school, he felt the importance of the occasion.

After having put on his hat and coat he suddenly remembered something and called downstairs: "Mother, shall I wash my hands or wear gloves?"

RILEY GRANNAN ONCE
MORE IN HARNESS

The Great Plunger Once More Does the Spangles.

New York, Aug. 13.—Riley Grannan, the meteoric plunger of former years, the man who helped make the historic Henry of Navarre-Domino match race as celebrated almost as the horses themselves, when he wagered $200,000 on the result of the race and booked as much more, will again be seen on the block-making book with the knights of the high stool at the Empire City track. It was but a comparatively short time after the match race that Grannan got under a cloud, and was requested not to make a book.

In fact, he was denied admission to the track. Then he went to the courts, where the matter was compromised. Since then Riley has not been making book. Today he goes on the line and will from now on be seen laying the odds, and perhaps engineering a meteoric play that will bring back recognition to his former brilliant operations.

CURRENT GOSSIP
OF THE HORSES

All told, there are about 900 grade stallions standing for service in the Province of Ontario, and they have served something like 12,000 mares. What the service is likely to be, needs no prophet. All told there are 2,687 public stallions in the Province, and 161,663 mares bred to them. The Clydesdales are more than twice as numerous as any other breed, with the standard bred next, the Percheron third, and the hackney a good fourth. Then come the shires, the thoroughbreds and the miscellaneous, including twelve representatives of that good old breed the Suffolk Punch, and the coachers—German, French and English.

By counties, Ontario leads with 92 per cent of serviceably sound registered stallions, and only 6 per cent of grade stallions. Perth and Middlesex are next with 32 per cent of sound registered stallions, closely followed by York, Elgin, Huron and Waterloo. The eastern counties, Lennox Addington, Frontenac and Grenville, are in a class by themselves, about one out of every three stallions there being an unsound mongrel. Lambton has the unique distinction of not having a single unsound stallion in the county. Taken as a whole, the average service fee for an Ontario stallion is about $10, that for the grade being anywhere down to $6, and for the other sort up to $50, at which a few trotters are held. Compare this with the $500 cash fee of a mare over in New York State, and the $2,000, at which old St. Simon stands on the estate of the Duke of Portland.

Some of the inspectors think that the importation of a number of western bronchos has had a good deal to do with the weedy quality of the stock in some quarters. Others blame the farmers for going in for light horses of the standard-bred type. Others have sold off their best brood mares, others again have been tempted by the low prices at which the grades are standing. Many more have been trying to breed good stock, but have been fooled by the notorious sick stallion salesmen for going in for light horses, and animals usually syndicated at an extortionate price. The opinion of 90 per cent of the horsemen with whom the inspectors came in contact is that the Government should insist on a stallion license law, to prevent the undesirable animals from perpetuating their defects. A few thought that this would be interfering with the rights of the individual, and contended that the breeder knew best what sort of sire suited him. Some were in favor of the stallion owner having a lien on the mare served to secure his stud fee. A few want to see the syndication of stallions prevented, as it is the occasion of so much fraud. Others do not want any interference whatever, but think that the Government should depend on an educational campaign. The foregoing is a fair synopsis of a most important document, action upon which by the Ontario Government may have an epoch-making effect upon the horse industry, not only of the Province, but of the Dominion.

Cleveland has proved that a trotting meeting in a large city can be a financial success without pool selling. For the Gentlemen's Driving Club there was no profit in the grand circuit meeting just closed, but there was no deficit, and this is what may be considered a success, when the fun and pleasure are taken into account. The Canadian cracks are down in Pennsylvania, where the competition is very warm. Gallagher's driver was set down the other day, because the judges thought he was not trying in a race where another of the Canadian brigade was considered to be the sure thing. This time she failed, however. Angus Pointer continues to carry the Canadian banner on the grand circuit, the fastest heat of the year being to his credit. On a track that is not too hard, it is a question if there is a pacer out that can beat him.

It appears that horses are more plentiful in Alberta than in the neighboring states, for the Sines Bros. recently sent a thousand head over to Umatilla, Oregon, to be sold at auction. The venture was not very successful, however, as only one carload was sold, and at an average price of $13. The others were disposed of privately. The big eastern cities and towns could use a lot of these horses if they could be sold here at about $50 each, sound and city broken. Shippers should be sure to come in May or June, however, for later on the demand is not nearly so keen.

EAST END GAMES

Three Games Scheduled for Saturday at Queen's Park.

Three games, instead of two, will be played in the East End League on Saturday. The contests will be seven-lining affairs and will come off as follows:

GOOD RACING AT BAY CITY

Bay City, Mich., Aug. 14.—Today's attendance greatly exceeded that of the opening day, about 3,500 people viewing the races. The card was fairly good and the spectators saw some fine racing in the first event, when Gambol beat out Bessie R., after four heats, in the 2:23 pace.

The second and third races were won in straight heats by Emma Mack, and Dewey S., respectively. Emma Mack ruled as favorite in the betting. She had no difficulty beating Ratline for first money, Jimmy Burns' Dewey G., a second choice, beat out Castaneda, the favorite, in the 2:13 pace. The latter took but one second, running third in the first and third heats.

Cunningham, the owner and driver of Mamie Riley, the Canadian mare, who lost a close race Tuesday, quit the meeting and shipped his stable today. He claimed that the judges' decision was unfair, and the majority present agreed with him. Summaries:

GREAT RUG SALE

KINGSMILL'S

GREAT RUG SALE

My Lady Cinderella

By Mrs. C. N. Williamson

Author of "My Friend the Chauffeur," "Lady Betty Across the Water," Etc., Etc.

"He has never told me that he cared," I answered stiffly, though I only felt shy.

"That is because—well, he had certain quibbling reasons of his own for not doing so at first. Some day, if you are kind to him, he may confess to you what they were. Afterwards, when he was carried off his feet, and so far beyond his depth that he forgot scruples—well, for instance, he never had the chance. Oh, don't fancy for a moment that I did not see what was going on there—Diana Dunbar making herself a sort of buffer between you and George—for any eyes have been open to the things of this world longer than I like to be mistaken. And even if I had perhaps I might have interfered to circumvent Diana; but I was certain that you would not thank me, and equally certain that the more he was tantalized, the deeper in love that spoiled boy George would be."

"Why do you call him a 'spoiled boy'?" I questioned, half vexed on his behalf.

"Oh, so many girls have thrown themselves at his head since he came into his father's title and money and two or three good houses, of which any normal woman would be proud to be mistress, even if it were a desirable young man were not thrown in. But he's a different person since he's known you. What shall you say to him, Consuelo, when he asks you to marry him?"

"Hush! I better wait to make up my mind," I asked, "like the well-regulated maiden you are teaching me to be, until Sir George does ask me to marry him—if he ever does?"

I spoke lightly, wishing that I could close her mouth without seeming ungrateful for her interest in me; but the lightness was all assumed. He never would propose by letter. No real man who is worth his salt ever does that, unless every other way is closed to him. He'll keep himself in hand till he sees you; and at his own house he may have some foolishly chivalrous idea about not disturbing your mind while you are a guest under his roof; but ten to one he'll yield to temptation, and you'll have your chance to say you will or won't be Lady Seaforth while you are at Southwood Park."

"Perhaps, after that horrid night at Henley—" I began, but Lady Sophie cut me short, saying: "There's no such 'perhaps,' and you know it, for even you know, George better than to do him so great an injustice."

"He hasn't heard yet what a nobody I really am—when a fraud."

"Don't be so silly, my child. It is bad for my nerves. I'm still far from strong. With some men what you speak of might make a difference, but not with George. It is you he loves; and really, though he has a great deal to offer, I must say that he would be getting very good value in exchange. There! you haven't told me that you will accept him."

"No," I ventured to interrupt, sotto voce.

"But you have left me to form my own conclusions, and those conclusions justify me in reading you the paragraph in his letter I was hinting to you about. You needn't look frightened, as if you were going to do him a wrong by listening. He only writes of the room you are to have at Southwood Park when we pay our visit there, and the part that is really a secret I shall keep. He shall have the pleasure of surprising you. But hear this: 'She is to have the octagon, bay-window room, which you may remember, and when I paid it a visit of three weeks ago, that you were grieved at having lost a Chippendale escritoire which had been your mother's, and he did not forget. In the letter I partly read out to you he asked me if he might give you one, which he had just bought with that hope, and wanted you to find waiting your inspection in this room. Afterwards it is to be sent to Park Lane; but I fancy it will soon find its way back here again.'"

She paused, no doubt expecting me to protest. But I was deeply absorbed, and I do not think I even blushed at her inference.

"This is the strangest thing, Lady Sophie," I exclaimed excitedly. "How on earth did Sir George contrive to find my old escritoire? It is wonderful for I am sure now it is the same! He must have been tracing it somehow all this time."

I had opened the Chippendale, which had been beautifully cleaned and renovated, and inside had discovered proof incontrovertible to me, who knew it so well.

"Where are my initials," I said, pointing. "C. B. Jimmy East cut the letters one day with a new penknife his father had given him on his birthday. I was cross, and he defended himself by arguing that the initials were so small no one who did not know they were there would notice them. I remember it as if it were yesterday, though it happened two or three years ago."

"George didn't mention to me that he had any hope of securing your own desk," returned Lady Sophie, "but I don't understand how he can have done it, for I said very little; my words would have passed out of his mind within the hour if his memory had it not been perfected by that patent process called love. I didn't even describe the thing, for I could not. You had only spoken of a Chippendale escritoire. You had better ask him all about it after dinner this evening. I'll see that you have a good chance."

"This time the color did come flying up to my face, for I read the hidden meaning under her words. She expected to be in a position to wish me joy tonight."

"We parted with the mystery as deep as ever, for there was little time for discussion save upon the business of the moment. We had to dress for dinner, with the help of Adele, whom Lady Sophie had brought to Southwood Park."

When the mistress was ready, the maid came in to me to give the finishing touches, which were all I cared to have from her; so it happened that Lady Sophie was resplendent in pearl and satin while I was in cambric and lace; and she sailed in, fastening her bracelets, to watch the creation of my latest effects.

"You were never lovelier, dear!" she said when Adele had given me her blessing, with the last look and eye on my rose tulle frock. "Pink is love's color," she whispered, pinching my cheek, and bending to bestow one of her rare kisses. "Who knows but this night will prove the most eventful of your life so far—the end of one phase, the beginning of another?"

If we had known how Lady Sophie's prophecy was to be fulfilled, I wonder if I could still have gone downstairs with a light in my eyes and a smile on my lips?

if it were indeed another, the two must have been made at the same time and from the same pattern.

Without a word I walked to it. The housekeeper had by this time courted herself away, so that Lady Sophie (who had already seen her room, adjoining) was sole witness of my astonishment.

"That is Sir George's surprise for you," she said. "I told him one night, weeks ago, that you were grieved at having lost a Chippendale escritoire which had been your mother's, and he did not forget. In the letter I partly read out to you he asked me if he might give you one, which he had just bought with that hope, and wanted you to find waiting your inspection in this room. Afterwards it is to be sent to Park Lane; but I fancy it will soon find its way back here again."

If we had known how Lady Sophie's prophecy was to be fulfilled, I wonder if I could still have gone downstairs with a light in my eyes and a smile on my lips?

Sir George took Lady Fort to dinner, but I sat on my left hand. We did not speak much to each other at first, and only of commonplace things; but commonplace was glorified on this first evening I had ever spent under her roof. In my eyes there had never been so perfect a dinner table. Even the old butler and the smart young footmen were notable men; I was grateful for every plate that was set noiselessly down before me as if it had been a personal favor. As Diana Dunbar was not here; there would be no discords in the music of life for me tonight.

"Mine is the sweetest little room," I said in a low voice to Sir George, when Lady Fort was for a moment preoccupied by a distinguished general. "And the desk—thank you so much for it. It was the kindest thought. How did you manage to find it?"

I had not meant to speak of this until after dinner, as our conversation at the table must consist of broken scraps. But my impatience got the better of me, and I reflected that plans, like promises, are often made to be broken.

his face looking bright and eager. "I had no idea that the desk had been yours, and when I saw him so upset I was half inclined to be good-natured and let him have it; but then I thought how small a chance there was of getting another as pretty before you came to Southwood, and I hardened my heart. I'm jolly glad now."

But Lady Fort had asked him some question.

DESIGNED BY MARTHA DEAN.

A MODISH AND SERVICEABLE COAT—6954.

The separate coat, suitable for wearing with any skirt, presents a problem which many women find difficult of solution, since it must not be too elaborate to harmonize with a simple gown, nor too plain to wear in conjunction with a dressy one. The model sketched offers just the medium effect is distinctly a novelty, while the narrow fancy vest and graduated trimming bands are especially becoming, because of the impression of youthful coquetry which they convey. The slenderness in the larger sketch, is made of chiffon taffeta, with garniture of applique; but it could be developed quite as effectively in any flexible silk or woolen fabric. For the medium size 3½ yards of 27-inch goods will be required.

The price of this pattern is 10 cents.

HOW MOTHER EDDY FOUND "SCIENCE"

Head of the Christian Science Church Examined as to Her Sanity.

Concord, Aug. 14.—Mrs. Baker Glover G. Eddy, head of the Christian Science Church, underwent a mental examination late today by the masters, who had been appointed to determine her competency in business matters.

The examination was made at Mrs. Eddy's home, Pleasant View, in this city, by Judge Aldrich, Dr. Jolly and Attorney Park, one of the masters.

The only other persons present were Gen. Frank S. Streeter, Mrs. Eddy's counsel in the case; Wm. E. Chandler, counsel for the "next friends," and a court stenographer.

Mrs. Eddy received her visitors in her private sitting-room and by arrangement with her counsel she answered a series of questions asked of her by the three masters, who took turns in examining her upon various points.

Judge Aldrich began the interview by assuring Mrs. Eddy of his intention to make the call as agreeable as possible to her. Mrs. Eddy thanked him, adding:

"My only difficulty is a slight deafness. I can see and read common print, but I can't hear distinctly without some difficulty."

Judge Aldrich, saying that he had some life insurance coming due, asked Mrs. Eddy's advice how to invest the proceeds.

Not understanding him at first, Mrs. Eddy replied that she put her money into life insurance. "God insures my life," she said. Then thinking that Judge Aldrich desired information as to her own investments she described the trusteeship created by her in March, saying that it was entirely her own idea.

In reply to questions by Dr. Jolly, Mrs. Eddy started to describe the development of Christian Science. She said that she was an invalid from childhood and that she became interested in treating herself. She studied homeopathy and from the most diluted of the attenuated medicines used by homeopaths, she proceeded to prescribe pellets, taking no medicine, and used them successfully in the treatment of cases of disease. Then she said to her patients: "No, you don't need any medicine. You can go without it."

This was her discovery of the science of mind.

Mrs. Eddy was going to speak of her investigation into spiritualism, when the masters withdrew from the room, explaining that they thought she was growing weary. Returning, after a brief interval, they heard Mrs. Eddy describe, in answers to questions from Attorney Parker, her method of life.

She said that she wrote or dictated all letters pertaining to her business, but later qualified that with the remark: "Unless I don't know when they write."

Again discussing Christian Science, the aged leader said: "Christian Science cannot do more than make a person well than they can be a sinner and a Christian Scientist."

"All the power they have comes from on high. We have no other power and no faith in any other power."

In respect to the call at Pleasant View, Mr. Streeter said that as counsel for Mrs. Eddy in the case, he was entirely satisfied with what resulted. Mr. Chandler said that his side, too, was satisfied, taking into consideration the fact that intentionally Mrs. Eddy's alleged delusions were not touched upon save as she herself brought them up.

GASOLINE'S EXPLOSIVE QUALITY.

A gasoline tank rarely explodes. It cannot unless it contains gasoline vapor and air in explosive proportions, which latter condition is almost never present. It does not explode because it contains too little air or too much gasoline. Even if a tank of gasoline were to burst from heat applied to its exterior, the confined heavy gas would not explode if in contact with flame or fire, but would burn instead. A tank of gasoline with no vent could do considerable damage were it to burst and throw burning oil and flaming gas about, but 1,000 gallons of gasoline in a vessel's bilges would not be so dangerous from explosion as a hundredth of that amount. The larger quantity would burn rapidly, while the smaller would be sufficient, if mixed with the proper amount of air, to demolish utterly almost any boat.

The plans for the handsome building which will contain the negro exhibit at the Jamestown exposition next summer were drawn by Dr. E. D. Pittman, a negro architect, who started in to learn the trade of wheelwright at Tuskegee and later became an architect.

MANSFIELD DONE WITH THE STAGE

Health Will Not Permit Great Actor's Return to the Boards.

Lion Mountain, N. Y., Aug. 14.—Richard Mansfield is not improving in health and those close to him reluctantly admit the conviction that the actor will never again be seen on the stage.

Arrangements have been made to take Mr. Mansfield to his summer home, near New London, Conn., next Sunday, if at that time he is able to make the journey. The trip will be made on a special train that can be run as slow as needed to avoid the discomfort of jolting. Sunday was chosen as it was thought that it would be quieter at points along the way on that day than on a weekday.

Mr. Mansfield's present condition was revealed today to visitors at the cottage at Lower Saranac Lake, where the actor has been most of the time since his return from abroad. To those it was made plain that the hoped for change in the patient's condition had not followed his arrival in the Adirondacks.

Dr. Lemieux, the distinguished Canadian physician, who was summoned here to attend Mr. Mansfield when the latter's condition aroused apprehension, declined to discuss the case. It is, however, stated on good authority that the physician has told intimate friends of the family that the famous artist will not get again.

Dr. Lemieux is a brother of the Postmaster-General of Canada. He is not a specialist, as has been stated, but a general practitioner of acknowledged ability and wide experience.

RAISULI STILL HOLDS M'LEAN

Moroccan Bandit Once More Demands Acceptance of His Terms.

Tangier, Aug. 14.—It has been learned that Said Sir Harry McLean, the Englishman in the service of the Sultan of Morocco, who has been a prisoner of the bandit Raisuli since early in July, has not been set at liberty as previously reported.

The British legation here today received a communication from Raisuli threatening that unless his terms are accepted immediately he would remove McLean to a place whither all the armies of Europe, if united, could not follow.

It seems that Raisuli, upon hearing of the bombardment and occupation of Casablanca, succeeded in taking McLean back from the Knass tribesmen and removed him to a strategic position in the neighborhood of Ben Laros. McLean is well, but he has been deprived of his tent and compelled to occupy an ordinary soldier's tent of small size. He is subsisting upon black bread.

THE PLANS CHOSEN

Awards Made in the Prize Competition at Ottawa.

Ottawa, Aug. 14.—The committee of architects appointed by the Government to adjudicate the plans for the proposed new departmental building has made its award. The committee, which consisted of Mr. D. Burke, president of the Ontario Society of Architects; Mr. A. E. Chaussee, president of the Quebec Architectural Association; and Mr. D. Ewart, chief architect of the Public Works Department, had by no means an easy task. Twenty-nine sets of plans were sent in, involving over 400 separate drawings. The judges numbered the plans consecutively as they were taken from the packages. They were then placed along the walls of the big railway committee room, and day after day the committee scrutinized them collectively and individually, and awarded points according to the scale agreed upon. The report, which has been handed to the Acting Minister of Public Works, recommends the award of the four capital prizes of $8,000, $4,000, $3,000 and $1,000, respectively. The prize-winners are unknown to the judges, and the names of the lucky ones will only be determined when the envelopes containing them are opened by the Cabinet. It is said that only three of the sets of plans were in the classic style, the great majority being gothic.

LONGFELLOW TOWN—PORTLAND

Few great men have loved their youth and all that pertains to that happy period as did Longfellow. As he returned again and again to the city of his birth, striving among the familiar scenes of boyhood to find and to relive his "Lost Youth," so the literary pilgrim, as to a shrine, visits and revisits Portland, Me., "the beautiful town that is seated by the sea," to seek scenes rich in its association with a poet, and as a home eloquent of the personality of a world-famous man. This is the spot where Longfellow the boy passed that golden youth of which he sings so sweetly; the scene of that beautiful home life which, in his verse, has found the universal heart; the one place of all others which he loved, and to which it was his custom to return at least once each year throughout his life.—Putnam's Magazine.

Poisonous snakes and destructive sugar rats caused the importation of the mongoose from India into Jamaica years ago. This lively little animal killed off the snakes and thinned out the sugar rats, but it especially enjoyed destroying the chickens. Now it is a costly nuisance. All the island poultry has to be kept within wire netting and usually above the ground, and the price of eggs is high.

STRANGE DEATH OF PRINCIPAL

Former Head of Lennoxville College Mysteriously Killed in Old Country.

London, Aug. 14.—The mutilated body of the Rev. H. de B. Gibbins, Litt. D., principal and professor of English and history of the University of Bishop's College, Lennoxville, Que., was found in a tunnel of the Midland Railway, at Bradford. Dr. Gibbins had been visiting his father, who resides some miles from Bradford.

How deceased came to be in the tunnel is a mystery to his relatives. One leg was nearly severed, and the head was badly smashed, as if he had been run over. There was no evidence of foul play. Dr. Gibbins was wearing a valuable gold watch and chain, and a considerable amount of money was found on his person. The affair has caused a sensation at Bradford. Deceased's relatives persistently scout the idea that there was suicide.

It is known that Dr. Gibbins suffered from a weak heart, and was subject to attacks of dizziness. It is conjectured, for want of a better explanation, that while riding in the train he fell out. No carriage door was, however, found open. The alternative theory is that he was run over while walking on the track.

Dr. Gibbins was a man of high scholarship, being an M.A. and University Prizeholder of Oxford.

Dr. De Gibbins had been spending the week-end in Bradford, leaving his wife and child at Colwyn Bay, a Welsh health resort. He had been in Liverpool on Monday, and returned to the furniture being sent back to Canada, and should have returned to Colwyn Bay about 2 p.m. On Tuesday he was well and in good spirits at breakfast time, but at noon was found dead in the tunnel at Apperley Bridge.

The late Dr. H. de B. Gibbins was appointed principal of Bishop's University as successor to the late Rev. Principal Watt, at a meeting of the corporation on June 21, 1906, his being the only name submitted. He held the position till last convocation, when his resignation was tendered and accepted. Dr. Gibbins' health had been poor throughout his residence in Canada, and he returned to England in the hope that it would be restored. He was born in Cape Colony, his parents being landowners. He was ordained in 1881, and at the time of his appointment to Lennoxville he was headmaster of King Charles the First school at Kidderminster. He had formerly been vice-principal of Liverpool College. He was an M.A. and university prize essayist of Oxford. He was the author of an industrial history of England.

EUROPE'S EYES ON THE DOMINION

Splendid Service Being Done by Government Exhibits on Continent.

Ottawa, Aug. 14.—Hon. Sydney Fisher, Minister of Agriculture, has returned to Ottawa after a trip of two months to England and the Continent, and is now hard at work cleaning up departmental business and preparing for the coming session.

"I spent a month on the Continent this summer," said Hon. Mr. Fisher, "and I was greatly impressed with the knowledge of Canada concerning Canada, particularly in countries where Canada has made a display at an exhibition. The displays that we are making at European exhibitions are spreading knowledge about Canada to an extent that it is hard to estimate. As a result of the display we made at Milan, I found this summer in Italy, at the postoffice, the intelligence of offices, and among the common people a knowledge concerning Canada that never existed before. This is bound to produce good results for Canada. When a man now makes up his mind to emigrate Canada is one of the places that he considers of interest about before leaving his native country. Manufacturers and commercial men consider Canada as a possible source of materials which they use in their business, and capitalists are bound to look upon Canada with increasing interest as a field for investment. Conditions are quite different from those of ten years ago when the United States was the only part of the North American continent which the European knew anything about, and when you registered at a hotel as coming from Canada the clerk would probably ask you in what part of the United States was that."

Mr. Fisher was much pleased with the display that Canada is making at Dublin. "The Canadian display is spoken of by everyone, from the aristocrats to the workmen. Their majesties the King and Queen visited the show when I was there, and both expressed their appreciation and pleasure at the display made by Canada."

THE "DRAGO DOCTRINE."

What is the "Drago doctrine," which is excluded from the deliberations of the Hague Conference? It has nothing to do with the late Queen Draga of Serbia, but derives its name from Dr. Drago, Foreign Minister of the Argentine Republic, who, imitating the example of President Monroe, enunciated the convenient theory that debts owed to the citizens of one Government by those of another may not be "collected" by force. This was when the combined fleets of England, Germany and Italy, in 1902, appeared off Venezuela, and caused Mr. Kipling to write his "Rovers." This "Drago doctrine" was naturally hailed with enthusiasm by all the money-borrowing Republics of South America; but they were told from Washington that it could not be regarded as a sub-clause of the Monroe doctrine.

Jamaica has many songbirds, the chief of them being a variety of mocking-bird, larger than that found in the Southern States, and somewhat differently marked. As a songster it is very sweet, but it seems scarcely as animated in its singing as is the delirious warbler of the Gulf States. It is called a nightingale by the Jamaicans, with their English traditions to direct them, but it resembles that songster even less than does the American mocking-bird.

THE MIDI REBELS SCORN "REDEEMER"

Late Leader of Revolt Against French Government a Fallen Idol.

Paris, Aug. 14.—The Midi which moved for Albert" two months ago is now a mover against him. The redeemer, since he was attacked by a crowd on Sunday, remains shut up in a house. From there he sent a letter to the people of Argelliers accusing Ferroul of having always tried to check the viticulturist movement. He says that his own resignation was forced by the attitude of the people toward him.

Albert asserts that his visit to the Chamber of Deputies was for the good of the cause. When he returned he found there was scorn and enmity before there was confidence and love. His jailers mocked him in prison, and ends by affirming that his public as well as his private life is without secret, and that he is ready to be judged by it.

This long effusion has not helped Albert in the eyes of the viticulturists, who shrug their shoulders at his protestations.

A group of anti-militarists posted a manifesto the other day on the outer boulevard addressed to French soldiers. They point out the horrors of the riots at Nantes and Narbonne, where workmen were fired upon by their brother-workmen in uniform. They urged the soldiers to refuse to serve as policemen, and to refuse to fire on their comrades. They called attention to the fame of the men of the 17th Regiment, who mutilated and were dismissed by assurances and promises, and then were sent to serve under the murderous sun of Africa.

The notice ends: "Instead of giving up your arms, turn them against the rogues and assassins who govern us and command you and shoot them without pity."

The ten signers of the document sent their names and addresses to the public prosecutor, but so far no action has been taken.

PAID IN HUMAN LIFE.

The Jamestown Exposition, however it may turn out in other respects, is succeeding admirably in directing the attention of the American people to the facts of their own origin. One of the neglected lessons in regard to this which it is teaching is the extraordinary cost in human life of the first successful attempt to plant a permanent English colony in the present limits of the United States. No less an antiquarian than Judge Dennis, of Baltimore, who, it is said, "knows every mother's son of the Eastern Shore"—and, we may add, his sisters, cousins, and aunts—expressed in the Sun the other day amazement that there should have been such mortality when "they were surrounded by water full of fish" and "the land was scarcely less prolific." Major Venable drops his meditations about matrimony and Aristotelian philosophy long enough to suggest that the trouble was due to a particularly virulent type of malaria which once prevailed in that locality. To those two eminent Baltimoreans, accustomed to stimulate their intellects with Lynnhaven oysters, Norfolk spots, roast Virginia wild turkey, haunch of venison, Smithfield ham, corn pone and cherry roll, it must indeed seem strange that anybody ever starved or was unhappy in Virginia. But it is sadly true that the first settlers, from causes which were natural enough at the time, suffered a greater mortality it is probable than any other pioneer colony in all history.

At the outset it may be well to state the figures. According to the recent computation of Dr. Alexander Brown, of Virginia, in his "First Republic in America"—an estimate now accepted as the most accurate obtainable—6,294 of the 7,388 persons who arrived in Virginia in the first 18 years of the colony perished within that time, most of them a few months after their arrival. In the absurd histories taught in many of the schools this fact is ignored, while excessive space is wasted in hysterics about the Boston "massacre," in which fearful (?) slaughter five persons were killed—Baltimore Sun.

THE DANGERS OF COW'S MILK

The whole country is awakened to the grave danger lurking in the Milk Supply of our large cities. Wherever milk is used that has not been properly safeguarded from cow to the consumer, the infant mortality will always be high. After five years' investigation, the British Royal Commission on Tuberculosis confirms the theory of von Behring, that the tuberculosis of cows is a constant menace to the human race, and that consumption developed in later life has often been contracted in infancy, from tuberculous milk.

NESTLE'S FOOD

does not require the addition of milk in preparing it for use, as it is a complete diet in itself. The basis of Nestle's Food is cow's milk, so treated and modified that it will be easily digested, and will resemble mother's milk in its composition, as closely as possible. The milk supplied to the Nestle's Factories is collected under the most rigid precautions, from cows that are under the constant supervision of the Company's Veterinarians. Furthermore, the process of manufacture completely sterilizes the milk. This is fully set forth in our pamphlet, "Recent Work in Infant Feeding." A copy of this, with samples of "Nestle's Food," we will be glad to send free by mail.

AND KEPT DR. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY IN THE HOUSE.

Mrs. W. J. Wilson, Tessier, Sask., tells of her experience in the following words: "I wish to tell you of the good I have found in Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. Last summer my little girl, aged two years, was taken ill with Summer Complaint, and as my mother always kept Dr. Fowler's in the house, when I was a child, I seemed to follow her example, as I always have it also. I at once gave it to my baby as directed and she was at once relieved, and after a couple of doses were taken was completely cured."

Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry imparts a healthy tone to all mucous surfaces, corrects and heals all forms of canker and counteracts all tendency to pain and inflammation, while it gives tone to the debilitated system when weakened by exhaustive discharges and fluxes of whatever nature, thus making it the best and safest remedy for Diarrhoea, Dysentery, Colic, Cramps, Pain in the Stomach, Sea Sickness, Cholera Infantum, Cholera Morbus and all Summer Complaints.

Price 35 cents. Manufactured by The T. Milburn Co., Toronto, Ont.

Dope this out: McClarys beat Stars easily. St. Thomas made the champions look like pieces of phony jewelry. The Stars walloped the Saints twice in succession. Can you figure it out?

Notwithstanding that both local league baseball races are practically decided in the game seems to be on the increase, and the crowds which weekly congregate at Queen's and Tecumseh brings joy to the hearts of managements and players alike.

The city is baseball mad. Since the wee sma' hours this morning, the sound of the tin whistle has pervaded the land. Small boys, gray-haired men, and even women, have tooted the emblems of the Hugh Jennings club on all of the downtown streets. Shriek blasts may be heard on every corner and in every place where the fans gather.—Detroit News.

Tom Longboat says that the Ottawa track been in better shape when he won from the three crack runners and lowered the Canadian track record by over a minute he would have done a minute or so better and would thus have lowered Shrubbs' great record for the distance. If that is the case the speedy Indian should be given a chance on the best track in America, for he may never be heard of again after the season which is now drawing to a close, and Canada's greatest runner and his chance to lower the world's record will be lost for ever.—Winnipeg Telegram.

Chicago Record-Herald: Lacrosse would be a popular game if more people knew how viciously it is played. The game we saw last week wasn't for the spectators whose horror cells were not yet paralyzed.

Philadelphia Telegraph: There's many a man who will buy a dozen lemons to throw at the umpire who wouldn't buy you a lemonade if your tongue was out a yard.

Jack Munroe has become a big mining man in the Cobalt country. He has made a fortune in copper and silver.

Jack is now known among his mining associates as "Mr. John Munroe." He carefully conceals his ring history and none of his business associates know that he was once a prizefighter.

"I'm in the mining business for fair now," Jack told a Toronto newspaperman, "and it would do me no good if people knew my record. I am in business with some of the richest men in Canada, and I hope to keep their confidence and respect. I started in the mining game when I was a small boy, and I wish I'd never left it for fighting. The money I made at that never stuck to me. Like all the rest I blew it as soon as I could. I'm wiser now. No more foolishness for me. After this, remember, I'm Mr. John Munroe, mining engineer and expert."

The Thistle Club will send two rinks to the Dominion bowling tournament that opens next Monday in Toronto. It was expected that the Rowing Club would send a few rinks, but they have not been able to get players to go. It would not be a bad idea if quite a few London rinks went to Toronto. The Queen City boys come here in goodly numbers every year, and the Forest City trundlers should reciprocate so far as is possible. The Woodbine greens, where the tournament is to be played, have not been in the best of shape so far, but are being rolled and will be all right when play begins. The London rinks to compete are Dr. A. Scott, Dr. Claude Brown, George Nightingale, and Jack McNee, skip, and A. A. Langford, James Gray, W. Fulton and Sid Swift, skip. These rinks are good, and should be somewhere near the jewelry class, provided the greens are true.

Swackhammer, the well-known St. Thomas hockey and lacrosse man, sat in the scoring stand at Tecumseh Park yesterday.

"Those Stars can beat St. Thomas every day in the week," said he. "Our fellows seem to go to pieces when they meet Tierney's braves. However, we can trim those champs of yours going and coming."

Swackhammer said that so far as he knew Warner had never pitched a game of ball in his life before yesterday.

That statement may have been made in good faith, but the aforesaid slab artist didn't act like a novice in the box, even though his pants were biffed for a host of bumps.

The local football season isn't very far away, and already the bunch is getting active.

Secretary Spry stated yesterday that a meeting would be held early next week for the purpose of getting together a team and electing officers. If possible a junior and an intermediate team will be placed in the O. R. F. U.

Under this year's regime the districts will be much larger than heretofore, and London will be hooked up with such places as Hamilton, Dundas and Toronto.

Of the players interviewed, all appear pleased that the play this year will include the old-fashioned scrimmages, and that the snap-back will be done away with.

What is most needed in this city is a good kicker or two. The loss of good old reliable Pierre Thompson will be felt at fullback, while the departure of Hall, the fast Englishman, will make a huge hole on the wings.

There are said to be a number of classy players now at the Barracks, while the Seventh will doubtless furnish a bunch of good recruits for grid-iron honors.

Major Hume Cronyn has accepted the presidency of the club.

A meeting for the election of other officers and the discussion of plans for the placing of teams in the field will be held at the Tecumseh House at 8 o'clock on Tuesday evening. Everybody is cordially invited to be in attendance. The boys are very anxious to get together a winning team, and it behooves those interested in the welfare of football in this vicinity to be on hand.

With proper support and encouragement a good team or two can be placed in this city.

TIGERS DEVOUR FOUR TWIRLERS

Waddell Tries to Repeat Monday's Victory and Lasts One Inning.

Detroit, Aug. 15.—Goaded to fury by their defeat at the hands of the Athletics, the Tigers went at Philadelphia yesterday from the jump, beating them badly, 9 to 2. Connie Mack used up four pitchers in his efforts to win, but all attempts to head the Tigers off with Bill Donovan in the box were futile. Bill has never shown quite so much speed and so many mysterious twists this year. He had the Philadelphia on his staff all through the game, and while they made eight hits off the smiling one, it was only because he let up, once the Tigers had the Philadelphia pitchers on the run.

Waddell went fishing Tuesday, and caught a nice mess. The Athletic manager had a fish dinner on the trip, and the reuben one was so elated Connie decided to send him in again in the hope that he would repeat. However, he lasted but a few brief moments. Jones worked him for a base on balls, and worried him around first until he walked Coughlin also. Crawford bunted, and the rube was up in the air. The bases were full when Cobb hit back of short, scoring Jones and Coughlin. Roseman sacrificed.

Dyert Replaces Waddell.
With the rube, Connie had warmed up Dyert, and the latter man took Waddell's place. He struck out Downs, but walked Payne and O'Leary, forcing in Crawford. He struck out Donovan. But in the next inning they got to him again. After Jones and Coughlin had fled, Crawford singled and Cobbed. On a wild pitch both men scored. Dyert got two strikes on Roseman, but the third was a wild pitch and Claud made first. Downs, however, forced him, ending the fun for the time being.

Bartley succeeded Dyert in the third, but Payne, the first man up, singled, and Payne went from first to third on a passed ball. O'Leary walked, but was forced by Donovan, Payne scoring.

Bartley finished the fourth, without having them score more, but Connie sent Combs in the fifth. They made the rest of their runs off him. O'Leary singled, Collins making a great stop, but being unable to throw to Davis in time, Donovan fanned, but O'Leary went to third on another passed ball. Combs fanned Jones, but Coughlin caught a hit to third, O'Leary crossing the plate.

In the seventh they finished their scoring when Payne walked. O'Leary lined to Murphy, who just missed doubling Payne off first. Payne stole second. Donovan walked and Jones doubled to center, a hit that might have gone for a homer if it had not been for ground rules. This scored Payne and sent Donovan to third. Bill scored on Coughlin's out to Murphy.

Athletics' First Score.
Davis' two-base hit to center, Murphy's out to Donovan and Collins' fly to Crawford, gave the Athletics their first run in the second. And in the last round they made another, after Donovan had let up on his speed. With two down, Schreck doubled and Combs singled and Schreck scored.

TWINKLING ONES DEFEAT SAINTS

Stars Hammer St. Thomas Pitcher All Over the Tecumseh Lot.

Sky-pieces off to our own satellites. Yesterday nine odd railroaders laid off from their regular runs out of the saintly village, and rambled to London town with the avowed intention of taking into camp "Mikku" Tierney's pride. With them came one Orr, who bears a close resemblance to the famous Happy Hooligan of never-work fame. The lanky slab artist appeared to be in a trance, and it was not until he had been moments before the locals had batted his delivery to the four winds, whereupon the narrow one decided that he belonged out in right garden, or some other locality where there wasn't so much excitement stirring.

Warner was then placed upon the altar of sacrifice, and received his kneadings also. Each and every one of the twinklings, with the exception of Wilson, rolled up one or more awats, and tiny "Toots" Jeffries got away unscathed with four ripe ones, and a first on an error.

Oh, 'twas "sumthin'" fierce the way these husky Londoners pelted the pill! It was a case of biff! bang! bang! And then some.

Several of the saintly recruits, too, seemed suffering from stage fright, and that state of affairs, of course, helped not a little in rounding out a good old-fashioned victory over the hated villagers.

Four pokes—one of them a three-bagger, an error and a wild pitch enabled the kid behind the whitewash to chalk up four for the locals at the gong, while the visitors were unable to scare up anything even resembling a biff or a run until the fourth.

A safe, a long drive, and a walk in the second made it one more for the stars, while the third resembled, one long procession four runs being rung up on a trio of hits, a brace of passes and a purloined sack.

Session four was a draw, each outfit corraling a pair of the coin-getters. Warner started the fun for the visitors by rapping out a neat poke for a station. An error on "Nig" Jeffries' part placed Turner on first, and J. Turner drew a ride. McDonald dinged the pill to dead right, and the first-named of the Turner tribe scored when "Luck" muffed.

The next three sluggers went down via the fly-out route. "Nig" Jeffries drew a hand in this session for making a clever running catch back of third base.

Three drives, an error, and a walk gave the Stars a like number of tallies, and the score stood 11—2.

Everybody drew blanks the fifth time up, but in the next heat the visitors garnered two more juicy ones on three safe punts, one of them being a double.

Session seven was also productive of a brace of tallies for the misled ones. A pair of biffs, and a bad fling to first doing the trick.

In the last round but one, the satellites connected with Warner's offerings for three bingles, and these, coupled with three stolen sacks and an error raised the locals' standing four points.

That's about all. The saintly ones never had a semblance of a look-in, and how they ever trimmed the Tinsmiths as they did recently is something to ponder over. Of course the claim was made that the team they had yesterday was not the regular one, and possibly it was not. At that we saw a picked team, composed chiefly of Stars, over there only a few days ago, and administered a coat of the white stuff to the regulars, so it apparently makes little difference to the "Sats" just what they stack up against in a railroad way.

The visitors seemed to lack ginger, and only in a couple of sessions did they get busy and convert about like real players.

Big Chief Wanless and Aide-de-Camp Stein, of the tribe of Perrins, officiated on the decision end of the argument in a capable manner.

GEORGE (RED) ROBERTS
Of the Rocket Twirling Staff.

Roberts formerly pitched for the Wortman & Ward (Hoodoos) team of the East End League. He has officiated but twice for the Rockets, and will once and winning once. With good support, the popular little fellow would have taken both contests.

He has a rather peculiar delivery, and one which many local critics fancy will in time injure his arm. However, the big chief, "Doc" Sippl, who by the way has had about as much experience in a baseball was as any man in town, says that Roberts is a corner, and will improve with lots of work.

So far the youngster has shown up in excellent form.

Here's luck, George.

GOOD SPEEDING AT QUEEN'S PARK

Biggest Crowd of the Season at Wednesday's Matinee Races.

Some good races took place at the Road Drivers' Association matinee races yesterday afternoon, the largest crowd of the season being present. Only one class decided a winner in two heats, Mishap finishing first in two straight heats in class 1. All the other classes necessitated at least three heats before a winner could be named.

Class 2 brought out some good horses, Rollee Rex winning the first heat, but Daily Bread nosing out a win the second and third rounds, winning the race. It is Mr. W. M. Collins' first red ribbon of the season, and was evidently a very popular win with both the other drivers and the crowd generally.

The most exciting contest of the day proved to be that between the horses of class 3. Prince Patrick galloped into first place in the first heat, but was never in the running again. Iron Duke, a horse that looked like a cab horse from a distance, came along with a great burst of speed in the second heat, never breaking until it ran under the wire a winner.

The horse had been third in the first heat, and its win brought out a storm of applause. The third heat proved rather unsatisfactory to all, resulting in a dead heat between Iron Duke and Ruby K., after a grand race. Many thought Iron Duke had won, but their sympathies were with the gray horse. Any way, the judge was leaning right across the wire, and decided it a dead heat. From the judges' stand that decision certainly looked good, too. Ruby K. won the fourth heat, beating Iron Duke. The Nixon brothers didn't start their horse in the last heat, Ruby K. easily defeating Prince Patrick.

The Iron Duke is a great runner, going steadily all the time. It is hoped that Messrs. Nixon will enter him again.

Mr. Henderson's Billy H. won the class 4 events, being pressed hard by Dr. Thompson's Dan. The results:

Judge—H. E. Trebilcock.
Starter—J. E. Trebilcock.

At next Wednesday's matinee Mr. McCartney will try and break the track record of 1:08 with Mishap and William P.

There appears to be a good deal of lameness among the horses.

Mr. Wilcox's Wanetta has a sore foot, as have also Mr. Robinson's Pearl Carter, Mr. Campbell's Perfection, and Mr. Garfield McCormick's Billy Wilkes. It is expected, however, that these horses will be able to compete again in a week or two.

Mr. Frank Staley, of Wickham Hall, Bishop's Stortford, speaking at the annual puppy judging in connection with the Puckeridge Foxhounds on Monday, stated he had walked 314 puppies and had only lost one. This is believed to be a record.

ATHLETES LOOKING TO OLYMPIC GAMES

Twenty-five Nations Expected to Send Representatives to London Next July.

London, Aug. 13.—Athletes on this side are now beginning to focus their attention on the great international Olympic games to be held in London in July of next year. It is expected that twenty-five nations will compete, and in view of the recent reverses sustained by English sportsmen, British athletes are being abjured to spare no effort to obtain the entry of the best possible athletes.

At the ceremony this week, in which the Duke of Argyll and Lord and Lady Desborough participated, the first station was laid of the enormous stadium which will be erected for the accommodation of eighty thousand spectators. The site is quite close to the magnificent building of the Franco-British exhibition, which will be one of the most popular features of London next summer.

Sports and Pastimes.
In addition, the stadium will contain space for great international sports and pastimes and a travel exhibition. It will be oval in shape, with seats all the way round, and a passage beneath. The length of the stadium will be 1,000 feet and the width 700 feet. The first track will be for cycling, and will be 55 feet wide and of 2 1/2 laps to the mile. Inside that will be a running track 25 feet wide and three laps to the mile.

Then there will be a swimming tank 100 metres long, and the remainder inside will be turfed for lawn tennis and numerous other contests. The programme for next year's games has only been provisionally fixed, for each nation is at present considering the conditional form.

But the principal athletic events will in all probability include the following: Flat racing, hurdle racing, jumping, throwing the hammer, putting the shot, tug-of-war, throwing the discus and hurling the javelin.

There will also be competitions in cycling and archery for men and women, fencing, golf, gymnastics, football, hockey, lacrosse, lawn tennis, swimming and wrestling. In addition, shooting competitions will be arranged at Bisley, rowing contests at Henley, automobile races at the new track at Brooklands, racing for motor boats in Southampton water, yachting races in the Solent, polo matches at Hurlingham, skating contests at one of the London rinks, and racquettes and tennis matches at Queen's Club.

Entries Limited.
Entries from each country will be limited in number for various events, twelve being the maximum for most of the athletic competitions. They will be made by the association covering the sports in each country, and will be confined strictly to amateurs.

The Olympic games, it may be recalled, were revived in Athens in 1896, after an interval of 1,500 years. Paris followed in 1900, and St. Louis in 1904. New England had its turn, and the British Olympic Association hopes, with international co-operation, to succeed in making London the center of a sporting carnival unsurpassed in the history of the world.

Means Professional Lacrosse in West

The Saturday Sunset published at Vancouver, B.C., says: The Tecumseh of the National Lacrosse Union have been engaged to come west and play a series of exhibition games with the three British Columbia senior teams. The lacrosse tournament is to be one of the principal athletic attractions of the big provincial fair fair in the Royal City, and bids fair to be one of the most notable ever played in the west, as the visiting team from the east will have a chance to measure their speed, style and skill against what are conceded to be the cream of lacrosse experts in Western Canada. But there is one feature about this tournament that is being almost overlooked, and that is the fact that the Tecumsehs are out-and-out professionals, as, in fact, all teams in the N.L.U. are. In playing them, the Vancouver and New Westminster teams will be competing with a professional organization. Not only that, but cash purses amounting to $800 in good Canadian coin are being hung up by the exhibition management as prizes for the tournament. Even the tail-enders in the tournament will get a nice little consolation prize of $200. Now, this can only mean one thing as far as lacrosse is concerned in British Columbia. It will mean that either the C.A.A.U. or the recently organized Canadian Athletic Federation will be supreme as a governing body of athletics and field sports. The C.A.A.U. stands for Simon-pure amateurism, and refuses to allow the contaminating touch of a professional in any amateur team. The C.A.F., on the other hand, sets forth in its constitution that for the best interests in field sports or all "team" games that professionals and amateurs may be allowed to compete together without the amateur losing his amateur standing if he wishes to compete in any individual contest as an amateur. In any event, the coming lacrosse tournament will raise a number of very interesting and delicate points. It may even mean the passing of so-called amateur lacrosse in British Columbia and the introduction of the out-and-out professional game. No matter what the outcome may be, it will bring matters to a head in lacrosse circles that have been smouldering for a long time.

CURRENT GOSSIP OF THE HORSES

[Written expressly for The Advertiser by J. V. McAree, of Toronto.]

A document of importance to every horseman in Canada is the report of the commission appointed to investigate the horse-breeding industry in the Province of Ontario. As is well known, the scarcity of good horses has been the subject of much discussion for the past half dozen years, and there was a widespread demand that the Government should take the matter in hand, for horsemen remembered how the old breed of French-Canadian horses, one of the most useful ever developed in any country was permitted to become extinct, when a little care on the part of the proper authorities would have saved it.

Some of the most remarkable features of the condition revealed by the investigation may be summarized as follows: One out of every three stallions standing for service in the Province of Ontario is a mongrel, and six out of every hundred moneys are unsound. The registered stallions are about twice as sound as the grades; and this is one of the most significant facts in the whole report, because it has been said that the reason the grades have any business at all is that there were so many pure-bred weeds at service—horses with pedigree and nothing else. There can be no doubt that at one time there was a good deal of truth in this contention, but the figures of the Government inspectors show that whereas only six registered stallions out of 66 are found sound, six

Londoners and Richard Mansfield

It was with sincere regret that Londoners hear of the retirement of Mr. Richard Mansfield, the famous American actor, from the stage.

The dispatches give no special reason for the retirement, other than that Mr. Mansfield is very ill. He was stricken in Montreal, and Dr. Leemieux, of that city, has stated that his retirement will be permanent. The nature of his complaint is not mentioned.

Mr. Mansfield last played in London two years ago, when he appeared at the Grand Opera House in "Old Heidelberg."

Though it was in June, the theater was packed to the doors, and the famous actor and his splendid company were accorded liberal applause, Mr. Mansfield being compelled to appear before the curtain.

Last season Mr. Mansfield scored a tremendous triumph in "Julius Caesar," and it is thought he was overworked.

It was with Mr. Mansfield that Miss Margaret Anglin, the accomplished Canadian actress, secured her early training on the stage, and she gives the well-known actor very much credit for the start he gave her in the profession.

LADIES INJURED; LOOK FOR DAMAGES

covered. Miss Hardingham's right right arm was very badly crushed in the accident, and as yet it is useless. She can use the hand, but the arm seems to be powerless, Miss Hardingham not being able to raise it at all.

Dr. Kingsmill, who is attending her, says the muscles are badly crushed, but believes they will come all right in time. It will be a long time, however, before Miss Hardingham will be able to work. Miss Hardingham's nerves have hardly recovered from the shock as yet, and acting upon medical advice, she is leaving this week for Granton, where it is hoped the complete rest will improve her condition greatly.

Mr. Hardingham has not definitely decided about suing for damages, but with Mr. Earl feels that someone should bear the extra expense incurred.

Miss Smith Worst of All.

Miss Lissy Smith of 317 Simcoe street, is in the worst condition of any of the victims. When taken from the wreck her left foot was crushed out of shape. Her ankle now is practically useless, the chords being stretched until the foot has lost its power and cannot be moved at all. Ever since the accident.

Miss Smith has been confined strictly to the house, being unable to walk. She usually goes out on the veranda in the afternoons, but owing to her ankle is unable to go farther. At first it was thought an operation would be necessary, but this idea was given up. At present Miss Smith's foot is in a plaster of paris mold having a thorough rest.

Physician Puzzled.

Dr. John D. Wilson, who is attending Miss Smith states that he can hardly tell how serious she is hurt. At best, however, it will be several months before the ankle will become sufficiently strong to allow of its being used for walking without a crutch.

All the young ladies are suffering still from the shock. In the day time, when people are with them, little is said of the accident, but in the night the yare continually starting up in their sleep, thinking that again they hear the crash of the falling walls.

"I wouldn't go through it again for a million dollars," remarked Miss Earl, and apparently the others feel the same way.

THE SUMMER SCHOOL

At Alexandra Park is Drawing Large Crowd—Work is Practical.

The attendance at the summer school now in session at Alexandra Park, Lambeth, is larger this year than ever before. Many went out with tents on Monday, and now the grounds look like a small military camp. There are twelve tents in all, holding from six to twelve people each, so it can be seen there are about 80 people right on the grounds.

Many young people from the city are driving out to the meetings, which are proving most practical. All are entering into the different branches with great enthusiasm.

Tonight the regular routine programme will be carried out, but on Thursday the Rev. Mr. Baird, Sarnia, is expected to deliver an illustrated lecture on Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progress."

ALLEGED TO BE INSANE

William Ollett, of Mount Brydges, Appears Before Squire Chittick.

Wm. Ollett, who lives three miles from Mount Brydges, was arrested by Constable B. W. Fisher and appeared before Squire Chittick this morning, charged with being insane.

He was remanded until next Thursday, by which time more investigations will be made.

Mrs. Morgan leave for New York tomorrow, from where the former will proceed on the new German Lloyd steamer Crown Prince Cecilie for Egypt.

DON'T YOU WORRY ABOUT THE COAL

Local Dealers Say Lift in Prices Will Not Affect Londoners.

"Local consumers of anthracite coal have no cause to worry over the reported raise of hard coal in Philadelphia and New York," declared a prominent local coal dealer this morning.

"It is customary to raise the price of hard coal at this time of the year in the east, but so far as is known this raise will not affect local or Canadian markets in the least."

"The reported raise," declared another local dealer, "will only affect rice and buckwheat coal and there is practically none of that used in Canada. There is a little pea coal used here, but not enough to warrant a raise. If anybody has to stand a loss of 25 cents a ton it will be the dealer's. Hard coal is now selling for $7.50 and that is 50 cents more than last year's price. Hard coal is used more extensively on the other side in cities where strict smoke ordinances are enforced, and those places will be hit fairly hard."

CONDENSED LOCAL NEWS

—A silver-mounted parasol was recently left in the city ticket office of the G. T. R.

—Mr. Robert Fraser, of the local Government stores department, has gone to Halifax to represent the local claim at the convention of Scottish clans in that city.

—The following officers and members of the Seventh Regiment will take part in the Ontario rifle matches at Toronto next Tuesday: Mayor Hays, Capt. McCrimmon, Capt. Murray, Capt. Taylor, Color-Sergeant Galbraith, Color-Sergeant Galbraith, E. N. Allen and W. Robson.

—Miss Buttery and Miss Dickenson sailed today from Port Huron to Alpena, Soo, and other lake ports. Mr. Lewis and family sailed by the White Star and D. & C. Line to Cleveland.

—Mr. R. Avelson and wife, to the Georgian Bay, Mr. F. C. Davis and Mr. Charles Davis, to the old country. These are among the passengers booked by F. B. Clarke, steamship agent, this week.

At Police Court.

Arthur Hefghway was assessed $1 this morning in police court for riding a bicycle on the sidewalk.

Edward Fountain, a colored man, who has appeared quite frequently for drunkenness, agreed to take the pledge and was discharged.

A minor case was withdrawn and one first-timer dismissed.

Bad Luck Brought Good Luck.

Yesterday afternoon Herbert Kelly, a little newsboy living on Horton street, had the misfortune to step in front of a rig being driven by Mrs. Griffiths, of 326 Dundas street. His right foot was badly bruised.

Bystanders, among them Ald. Gillelan, bought out the lad's stock of papers, and he was placed in the rig and driven to his home. He was attended by Dr. J. B. Campbell.

SAVED BY HER HAIR COMB

Defects Bullet from Revolver of Murderous Chicago Man.

Chicago, Aug. 15.—Michael De Train, an Italian, last night, shot and instantly killed Alvina Vultmann, seriously wounded her cousin, Alvina Awald, and then killed himself. De Train and Miss Vultmann were said to have been engaged at one time, but the girl had recently refused to marry him because of his wild conduct. The man blamed the girl's cousin for his dismissal. Miss Awald received a severe scalp wound, but will recover. The bullet was deflected by a comb she wore in her hair.

GOT ITS THIRD READING

All-Night Session Over Deceased Wife's Sister Bill.

London, Aug. 15.—The House of Commons devoted the entire night to the report stage of the deceased's wife's sister bill, which finally passed its third reading at 6 o'clock this morning.

BILLY SUNDAY HURT

Oskaloosa, Iowa, Aug. 15.—The Rev. William Sunday, formerly baseball player, now an evangelist, was so severely hurt last night by the overturning of a buggy that he will be confined to his room for several days.

DISFRANCHISED.

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 15.—By a vote of 159 to 16 the House yesterday passed the negro disfranchisement bill, which was previously adopted by the senate.

The lower branch of the Legislature made a few minor amendments to be concurred in by the senate.

companies' attitude toward the strikers, said:

"The men and women now in our employ will not be replaced by any of those who walked out. Not a man will be discharged to make room for those now out."

The Associated Press is moving its news dispatches and under steadily improving conditions. Last night service was resumed to a number of additional points, and these were further increased today.

Bitter Fight at Toronto.

Toronto, Aug. 14.—The telegraphers' strike here will continue. This morning a deputation of striking operators—men and women—waited on General Manager Isaac McMichael, of the Great Northwestern, and proposed to go back to their keys on condition that they would not be asked to work on "scab" wires. The answer was that if they returned they would have to take the instructions of the company.

The conference lasted 20 minutes. The operators say now that they will fight it out. Meantime the Great Northwestern wires are for the most part idle, but Mr. McMichael says that many operators from outside are offering their services, and are being given permanent positions. A few more are at work today than yesterday, but none of the strikers have gone back. Some of the men from where they have been chief of departments, and half from the old days of the company. Easson, the veteran head of the press branch, who was chief operator 30 years ago, is again handling a ticker.

Roosevelt Declines.

Oyster Bay, Aug. 14.—President Roosevelt will not concern himself personally with the telegraphers' strike, according to the best information obtainable here tonight.

Appeals to the President to take some action looking to a settlement of the strike were received at the executive office here today from boards of trade and commercial bodies of large number of cities, and from the Chicago Board of Trade. Each emphasized the importance of the direct action by the President.

The communications have been referred to the commissioner of labor, Charles P. Neill. It is understood that no instructions or recommendations have been forwarded to Mr. Neill.

From the first Mr. Neill has been active in an endeavor to effect a settlement of the trouble. He is reported to have made no report to the President, nor has he received any messages from Mr. Roosevelt, touching upon the matter in hand. Mr. Neill's movements, however, have been closely followed, and while the direct statement is not made, the impression is given that Mr. Neill's efforts at the administration considers that the limit of its functions and authority in the matter is being exercised.

STRIKE VICTIM MEMORIAL

Buckingham Erecting Memorial to Men Killed at Riot.

Ottawa, Aug. 15.—The labor element of the town of Buckingham is planning a monster demonstration for Labor Day, and have invited delegates from unions from the surrounding towns and the cities of Hull, Ottawa and Montreal to attend. A feature of the celebration will be the unveiling of a monument which has been erected by public subscription to the memory of the men killed at the riot of October 30, 1911.

The unveiling will be marked by an address by Mr. Alphonse Verville, M. P. of Montreal. The monument to be unveiled is of solid granite and marble, and is surmounted with a white cross. Besides bearing the names and the history connected with the death of both, the base of the stone is inscribed with the words, "Glory to the brave."

BATTLE IN THE BALKANS

Bulgarians and Turkish Troops Lose Heavily in Conflict.

Athens, Aug. 15.—A dispatch received here from Saloniki reports a heavy engagement between Turkish troops and a band of Bulgarians at Dermandjios, near Melnik, in Seres Province, European Turkey. Thirty Bulgarians and the leader of the band were killed. The Turkish losses were also heavy. The Bulgarians made use of bombs and set fire to 30 houses in Dermandjios. Several peasants were badly burned.

TO WED WHITE'S PARTNER

Stanford White's Widow to Marry Charles McKim.

New York, Aug. 15.—A dispatch to the World from Paris says: Formal announcement of the forthcoming marriage of Charles F. McKim and Mrs. Stanford White, whose husband was shot and killed a year ago by Harry K. Thaw, was made yesterday. The marriage will take place in London next month in St. Margaret's Church, Westminster, the scene of so many ultra-fashionable weddings.

Mrs. Stanford White will stay at a villa in Merton, Surrey, England, until the wedding.

After the wedding Mr. and Mrs. McKim will visit Paris and other continental cities until December, when they will return to New York.

Charles F. McKim is the head of the firm of McKim, Mead & White, architects, of which Stanford White was a member.

Mr. McKim is 60 years old and is the president of the American Institute of Architects. He was presented with the royal gold medal for the promotion of architecture by King Edward in 1903.

LONDON MEN NAMED FOR THE COMMITTEE

Yesterday's Session of the Canadian Association of Stationary Engineers

Two London men were yesterday elected members of the standing committee of the Canadian Exhibitors' Association, formed by the Canadian Association of Stationary Engineers, which is in session at Guelph.

The secretary's report, which was presented yesterday, was as follows:

1. That the Government be asked to indorse a graded certificate. 2. That steps be taken to inform manufacturers of the true conditions and objects of the association. 3. That we endeavor to get better recognition from the Government.

An amendment to the constitution regarding the eligibility of members for the executive president was considered, but no alteration was made.

Yesterday afternoon the delegates visited the Ontario Agricultural College and last night a banquet was held.

In connection with the convention an association was formed, to be known as the Canadian Exhibitors' Association. The officers elected were:

President—John T. Carling, Toronto.
Vice-President—Wm. Baird, Galt, Ont.
Second Vice-President—H. W. Cook, Toronto.

Treasurer—Arch W. Smith, Toronto.
Secretary—E. F. Featherington, of Galt.

Committee—J. H. Rummage, chairman, Buffalo; A. E. Hawker, Toronto; H. E. Rowell, London; O. A. Cole, Toronto; Jos. N. Gregory, Buffalo; W. H. Adair, Troy, N. Y.; R. J. Smith, Toronto; S. S. Glass, London; H. C. Austin, Toronto; H. E. Stone, Indian Orchard, Mass.

RAISE FOR MEMBERS

Australian Government Grants In Crease of $1,000 Yearly.

Melbourne, Aug. 15.—The Government has introduced a bill raising the salaries of members from $2,400 to $2,600 yearly. Stormy objections come from the Economy party, who claim that electors should be consulted, but admit the need of an increase.

The Labor party's tariff committee has produced a scheme for protecting workers by obliging employers not paying a fair wage to affix duty stamps to their goods, also for creating a permanent board of trade to advise the Government and Parliament in cases of manufacturers charging for goods protected by the tariff. The board will be empowered to recommend the suspension of the duty in proved instances. Laborites also want protected goods, complying with fair labor conditions, to carry the commonwealth trade mark.

HONEY CROP IS SMALL

Fifty Per Cent of Bees in Ontario Perished Last Winter.

Toronto, Ont., Aug. 15.—The honey crop committee, Messrs. Sibbald, Coyle and Craig, of the Ontario Beekeepers' Association have received reports indicating that fully 50 per cent of the bees throughout the country perished last winter and spring and that the honey flow in many districts has been very poor; in not a few instances the crop has been altogether nil, making in all a very low average, considerably less than last season. The quality, however, is much superior to that of last season.

In view of the shortage in the fruit crop and the high prices prevailing on this and farm products generally, it is the opinion of the committee that an advance of prices over those of last season should be obtained. The wholesale price for No. 1 white honey should range from 11½ to 12½ cents per pound. Retail 14 to 15 cents per pound. Comb honey will be very scarce and should bring for No. 1 grade $2.50 to $2.75. No. 2 grade, $1.75 to $2.25.

ever occurred in that portion of the works. "Latell," said he, "no business leaning over the tank in the manner he did. We have long tools for work of that nature."

Latell is single, and boards with his brother, Matthew Latell, at 127 Fullarton street. He came to this country in 1903, but returned to the old country two years later. About fifteen months ago he returned to London, and has been employed at McClary's about six months.

Latell's brother is employed at the Empire Brass works on Talbot street, and is a well-known and popular member of the local Italian colony.

Superintendent Head of the Victoria Hospital this afternoon stated that Latell's chances of recovery were very slim.

Latell may recover, but he is frightfully burned. His is one of the worst cases ever taken into the institution. Many who have been much less injured have failed to recover. It may be 24 hours before Latell's fate is known.

THE MASTER BAKERS

Convention at Toronto Elects Londoner

Vice-President.

Toronto, Aug. 14.—Today some valuable papers were read at the Master Bakers' convention in the Temple Building. Mr. Rutherford, of Toronto, gave some pointers on advertising. "Every man in business," said he, "has a business worth advertising. It would be better business for him to be busy with some other man who has a business worth advertising. Like most other mortals, you are in business for profit, and I overhear one of you whispering to his friend-at-elbow, 'and we kneed the dough.' Naturally the newspaper stands in the forefront. Buy all the space you can afford, and you can afford more than you think you can." The new officers are: President, Mr. John Turnbull, Toronto; vice-presidents, R. H. Toye, Kingston; G. W. Shoulds, Ottawa; A. M. Ewing, Hamilton, and James Budd, London; secretary, H. E. Trent, Toronto; treasurer, A. Carrick, Toronto; executive, Zeph. Hilt, Toronto; Wm. Pratt, Cobourg; Albert Lee, Hamilton; R. Harrison, Woodstock, and H. C. Tomlin, Toronto.

MEETING OF MONARCHS

helsinki, and that they may be advanced, especially should circumstances later necessitate a broadening of the mandate which France and Spain received at Algiers.

Cassel, Aug. 15.—King Edward left

His highness shortly before midnight. His visit with Emperor William was of short duration, but nevertheless, it is regarded as most important, and it is stated in well-informed political circles that in the course of the conversation between the two monarchs the most friendly terms of discussion were the most friendly terms. Prince Von Buelow and Sir Charles Hardinge also had a long and earnest conversation, and it is the general opinion that the results of the visit will be far-reaching, and place the nations of Great Britain and Germany upon a better footing.

The toasts at the dinner in the palace were most cordial, Emperor William thanked King Edward warmly for his visit, which he said he considered as an expression of the most friendly feeling. He then referred to the good relations which had existed between the two countries during the reigns of King Frederick and Queen Victoria, and added that the friendship he considered that King Edward represented the English nation, and that his visit was an expression of the desire for a good understanding between the two nations.

King Edward replied that his dearest wish was to see good relations between the German and English people, and he assured the Emperor that on the occasion of his coming visit to England he would receive a most hearty and popular welcome.

WATCHING THE CORPORATIONS.
Chicago, Aug. 15.—The Record-Herald today says: Secret service agents of the United States department of justice working through the bureau of corporations, are said to be on the payrolls of all the big railway corporations and trust combines in the country. In Chicago alone, it is said there are at least 150 special men who are working for railroads and for packing house companies, and are watching every move that is made with a view of ascertaining whether the corporation laws are observed in letter and spirit.

STANDARD OIL DIVIDEND.

New York, Aug. 15.—The directors of the Standard Oil Company today declared a quarterly dividend of six dollars a share. This was unchanged from the corresponding quarter last year.

Willis-Conn.

A pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. James Conn, 138 William street, yesterday afternoon, when his daughter, Miss Bessie Conn, was united in marriage to Mr. William Henry Willis, of this city. The groom's present to the bride was a silver tea set, and to the bridesmaid

a pearl crescent, a gold locket to the flower girl, and a pair of gold cuff links to the best man. The young couple left on the evening train for a trip to Buffalo and other points. At its conclusion they will reside in London.

Death of Mrs. Archer.

Mrs. Wm. Archer, of Dundas, died

yesterday at the residence of her father, Mr. Thos. Pearson, Pine Line road, Westminster Township. For the past year Mrs. Archer has been ailing, having come home to visit her father some months ago. Besides her parents, her husband and one child survive.

Five sisters and two brothers also mourn Mrs. Archer's loss. The sisters

are: Mrs. Geo. Jackson, and Miss

Susie Pearson, Detroit; Mrs. E. Gar-

side, South London; Mrs. Isaac Hot-ham, Quebec street, and Mrs. Jos.

Doyle, Rectory street, city. Messrs.

Thomas and Robert Pearson, of this city, are the brothers of the deceased.

The funeral will take place on Friday afternoon from her father's residence to Woodland Cemetery. The Rev. Dean Davis will conduct the services.
