

ALD. BENNETT RESIGNS POSITION IN ORDER TO GET TRUTH ABOUT ELECTRIFICATION BEFORE PEOPLE

After Twenty Years' Service as Conductor on Pere Marquette He Gives Up Place in Order That None May Say He Is Interested—Begins an Investigation Into Public Works of City.

Conductor Burleigh W. Bennett, chairman of the board of works, resigned his position with the Pere Marquette Railway Monday after twenty years' service on railroads, in order that he will be able to approach and give his time to the question of the electrification of the London and Port Stanley Railway.

As a railwayman and a member of the city council Mr. Bennett feels that the people of London should get to the bottom of the proposal to spend from $700,000 to $1,000,000 on the road over which he has run for years, and the conditions of which he knows as probably no other man in London.

net believes that the facts concerning electrification have been distorted to such an extent by the blind followers of Adam Beck that someone should devote his time to an effort to open the eyes of everyone to the danger to the city's financial standing if the scheme was entered into.

With many others who have been friendly to the other schemes of Adam Beck, Mr. Bennett feels that it would be ruinous to go into the scheme. He

LONDON LADY ON EAST AFRICAN OSTRICH RANCH INVITES HER OLD SCHOOL FRIENDS TO VISIT

Captain and Mrs. Attenborough, the latter Miss Susie Leathorne, of this city, were among the guests at the annual reception of His Excellency the Governor and Mrs. Belfield, of British East Africa.

Mrs. Attenborough was married some years ago and with her husband, who had been in the British army, moved to California, where they resided for some years. They moved to British East Africa, where Capt. Attenborough engaged in ranching. He now has one of the most extensive ostrich farms in the district, in addition to having great numbers of cattle and ponies.

Mrs. Attenborough recently wrote to some of her old school friends, inviting them to come to her home and spend a long holiday. She retains a warm spot in her heart for London, and has for years kept in touch with its affairs through The Advertiser.

The inference drawn from the London report is that the President has seen it, informally, to indicate to England that a favorable adjustment will be forthcoming so as to forestall early representations from Great Britain, and so that the British Government might understand fully the strategic reason for temporary delay.

DOUBLE MURDER AT DETROIT BROTHERS BLACK HAND VICTIMS

[Canadian Press.] Detroit, April 15.—Alberto Gervaso, 33 years of age, and his brother-in-law, Albert Catalano, 20 years of age, were shot and killed when they returned home from work today. Their assailant, who takes this view as a practical railroad man and as a London businessman. That the citizens should begin to come to a definite conclusion that there will be a desperate effort to force the proposal through, and that they should rouse themselves to prevent it is the alderman's view.

Not Interested at All.
He resolved to resign from the services of the Pere Marquette in order that none might say he was interested one way or the other as to the success of the scheme. In so far as it lies in his power, he will bring the people to a realization of what they are facing, and he serves no other interest than the people's in coming to such a decision.

Ald. Bennett also intends to devote much time to the storm sewer proposal, and to see that this question is brought to the attention of the people as it should be done.

Begin Investigation.
Ald. Bennett and Ald. S. F. Glass started in this morning on a rigid investigation of affairs relating to public works of the city.

The question of a bridge to span the river between South and West London at the Wharfedale road was taken up and thoroughly discussed, as was the question of securing good gravel for the city's use.

The committee is getting ready for its estimates, which will be struck on Thursday night next, and Ald. Bennett intends making a thorough investigation of the storm sewer and the permanent breakwater questions.

In a Terrible Muddle.
"Things are in a terrible muddle in the city at present," said he, "and something will have to be done at once to straighten them out. We are away behind with our estimates and so is every other committee of the council."

Discovers Woman About to Leave City With His Terrier

There is an epidemic of dog-stealing in the city at present. The loss of several valuable dogs has been reported to the police within the past few days. Several nights ago Mr. E. Ruse, city ticket agent of the Grand Trunk, lost a valuable Boston terrier, and although he advertised for it and offered a reward, he received no information as to its whereabouts.

While standing on the Grand Trunk depot at noon today, he noticed a woman and man walking across the platform, the former leading his dog on a chain.

He walked up to the couple, and after learning that the woman was bound for Detroit, he asked her where she got the dog.

She informed him that it had been presented to her by a friend who had purchased it. Mr. Ruse easily proved his ownership, however, for the dog was wearing a heavy brass-studded collar on which his name was inscribed.

AT 2:15 a.m. Today Widows of Titanic Dead Threw Flowers on Waters Where Their Husbands Sank—A Beautiful Tribute to Heroic Men.

At 2:15 a.m. today Mrs. Jacques Futrelle and other widows of men who were drowned in the awful Titanic disaster, scattered flowers over the sea at the place where the great ship sank with her precious cargo of human beings, April 15, 1912.

There were 2,358 people on board. The dead numbered 1,490. Only 868 were saved by the Carpathia, the rescue ship.

The ship was making its maiden trip. The accident was due to a collision with a floating iceberg. Captain E. S. Smith was in charge.

This is the picture of Mrs. Jacques Futrelle, who, with several other bereaved women today arrived at the fatal spot in the Atlantic where that $10,000,000 coffin, the Titanic, went down. This strewing of the sea with flowers in memory of the dead will be one of the most impressive services ever held on a ship's deck.

SEES SPLENDID RESULTS COME FROM CAMPAIGN TO ATTRACT SETTLERS

"On year ago and it did not seem that Ontario was making the slightest endeavor to secure settlers; today it is all changed, and there is a great stir all over the province, and especially in this Western Ontario district," said Mr. John Riggs, Dominion immigration agent in Western Ontario, with headquarters in London.

"Personally, I feel that The Advertiser's Stay-in-Ontario campaign started the ball rolling," said Mr. Riggs. "It crystallized the feeling that something should be done, and aroused the people out of their lethargy."

Faced Bad Condition.
"Think what a condition we had to face! We had been sending our best sons to the West for years and years, depopulating our best counties, while our newspapers did everything they could, unconsciously, to aid the great movement."

"Ontario was coming to a pretty pass, and nothing was being done to check it. Then your campaign came along, and it impressed people right away. It had had the effect of starting a new era not only in Western Ontario, but in the whole province as well, for the idea has spread all over Ontario.

Feel the Change.
"We can feel the change in our work. Where we could not get anyone to come to Ontario a year ago, we are being given our share now. The whole trouble heretofore was that Ontario was not making any organized effort to secure settlers. The province simply did not ask for them, and it was getting to be serious."

This Year To Start It.
"This year will see the beginning of the great movement of British settlers into this province, and it will be only the beginning. Thousands of settlers will pour into Western Ontario within the next few years, and the farmers should prepare to do their part. They should provide homes for the hired man and his wife. They will find it more economical than keeping a hired girl and a hired man. There will be every reason to use the settlers well, for they and their sons will become the future farmers of the country."

"ARSON SQUAD" BURNS HOUSE OF A UNIONIST

Handsomeness of Member for Hastings Put to the Torch.

FILLED ROOMS WITH EXPLOSIVES

Women Enter Vacant House by Methods Customary With Burglars.

[Canadian Press.] Hastings, Eng., April 15.—Militant suffragettes today destroyed the handsome seaside mansion at St. Leonard-on-Sea, belonging to Arthur Philip Du Cret, Unionist member of Parliament for Hastings. The woman not only set fire to the house, but placed explosives in many of the rooms. The residence had only recently been vacated.

The women adopted the methods used by burglars for entering houses. They first spread papers covered with jam over the window, so as to deaden the sound, and then smashed the large panes of glass with hammers, the jam preventing the broken glass from falling.

When the flames were noticed by a passer-by the fire brigade was summoned, and soon after the fireman had begun the work of extinguishing the flames, a loud explosion occurred in one of the rooms, and a fireman was struck on the head by a piece of metal. Other explosions followed in various sections of the house.

A large quantity of suffragette literature was found in the vicinity.

CUT THE WIRES.
[Canadian Press.] Bath, England, April 15.—Sym-pathizers with the militant suffragettes cut the telegraph and telephone wires at the entrance to the box tunnel on the Great Western Railway, near here, this morning. Great inconvenience was caused to the train service.

STRIKERS ARRESTED.
Charlottesville, April 14.—Twenty strikers were arrested today for interfering with workers. The total number on strike in this district is 53,961 out of 78,836 employees in the various trades.

Mr. J. C. Elliott, M.P.P. Learns That Hon. Mr. Lucas Is Not Clear as to Right of Province to Touch a Dominion Railway.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Toronto, April 15.—When the city of London bill was before the committee of the whole yesterday, Mr. J. C. Elliott (West Middlesex), pointed out that the clauses permitting the municipality to control, equip and operate the London and Port Stanley Railway might conflict with the provisions of the Dominion railway act, and the power of the city should be made clear.

Hon. Mr. Lucas said he had not given this phase of the matter consideration, but thought the bill was within reasonable limits, and the clauses should go.

The bill now stands for third reading.

HAMILTON CLOTHING SHOPS TIED UP BY A STRIKE

Two Thousand Garment Workers and Pressers Demand an Increase in Wages—Parade Streets and Hold Great Mass Meeting.

[Canadian Press.] Hamilton, Ont., April 15.—Failure on the part of the employers to meet the demand for a general increase in wages resulted in nearly two thousand garment workers, pressers and other employees of Hamilton clothing shops striking this morning. The strike vote was taken last night and the unions voted by a large majority in favor of the strike. The strikers, who included about six hundred girls, paraded the streets this morning and then held a big mass meeting in the Labor Temple. It was the most complete tie-up of the clothing shops in Hamilton, practically every unit affected, with the exception of the cutters, obeying the strike order.

WOMEN'S AUXILIARY OF THE DIOCESE OF HURON AT ANNUAL MEETING

Bishop of Huron Delivers Sermon at Opening Session in Morning.

Educational Committee Convenes Last Night to Prepare for Convention.

A missionary sermon was delivered in St. Paul's Cathedral this morning by his lordship the Bishop of Huron, at the opening of the annual convention of the Women's Auxiliary of the Diocese of Huron.

The bishop chose his text from St. John xiv, 6: "No man cometh unto the Father but by me. The words were spoken, his lordship believed, not so much with a view of limiting access to the Father, but to give a wider idea of the scope of the action of Jesus."

Not From Human Source.
"Among all the enormous mass of superstition, fable and falsehood which constitutes the bulk of heathen religion and literature, there are a few rays of truth. But what impresses us most is that these rays of truth come not from the human soul, but from Him that lighteth every man that cometh into the world."

Wherever good was found, self-sacrifice, heroism and a seeking for truth, the spirit of Christ was surely working. His lordship declared. But the great need of heathen lands was more of this light.

Their Results Apparent.
"The actual fruits of heathen religious systems may be practically seen in a study of the social, political and moral life of the people who live in the midst of them. Travellers uniformly tell us that the tendency is towards darkness, retrogression, corruption and decay. Human life is cheap; womanhood is degraded, and where womanhood is degraded, the life of the people is degraded."

The fact that the only regenerative moral force in the Christian world is the Christian gospel, and that Christ is the only medium through which men may approach God, was emphasized.

Solitariness of Christ.
His lordship further impressed his hearers with the solitariness of Christ as the Savior of mankind, and urged them to continue in their missionary efforts with this conviction deeply rooted.

A number of the local Anglican clergy assisted at the service, and also in the dispensing of Holy Communion, which was received by a large number of delegates. The annual thank-offering from branches of the auxiliary all over the diocese of Huron was presented at the service.

Adjournment at Noon.
At 1 o'clock the convention adjourned to Bishop Cronyn Hall, where luncheon, provided by the ladies of the various Anglican churches in the city, was served. This afternoon's business was chiefly a session of the board of (Continued on Page Eleven.)

YOUNG BANK CLERK FORMERLY HERE IS MISSING AT COAST

Jack McLennan Employed in Molsons Bank Vancouver Recently.

His Friends and Acquaintances Alarmed—Has Been Gone for a Week.

The disappearance of Jack McLennan, for several years employed in the Molsons Bank in this city at Vancouver, is causing much anxiety among friends and relatives, and a Cornwall, where his father is a prominent barrister.

Mr. McLennan has been missing for some days, and the officials of the bank and the police of Vancouver believe that he has met with foul play. Was Popular Here.

While in London Mr. McLennan boarded with Mrs. Sime on Queen's avenue, and was popular with a host of friends. He was an expert canoeist and a member of the London Rowing Club and the London Golf Club.

Many of his friends in this city have made inquiries concerning him, and a man vining to Vancouver to ask if any word of his whereabouts had been received. He received an answer to the effect that no trace of him had been discovered up to yesterday.

The following is reproduced from a Vancouver paper: "John McLennan, accountant of the east end branch of the Molsons Bank, on Hastings street, near the corner of Main street, has been missing for almost a week."

"Last Saturday night he was out with a few friends. They were standing at the corner of Carroll and Hastings streets. McLennan left his companions, giving them the impression that he would be back in a few minutes."

"Since the moment he left his friends he has not been seen by anyone who knew him. Bank inspectors and auditors have examined the young man's books since he went away, and Manager Jervis stated this morning that they were found to be in perfect order."

"He is about 36 years of age, and had been in the bank's service for about thirteen years, and came here eight months ago from Winnipeg. His home is in Cornwall, Ont., where his father, Mr. D. B. McLennan, is a prominent barrister."

Railways and Express Companies Asked to Extend Delivery Area

The application of the city of London to require the Grand Trunk, Canadian Pacific, Michigan Central and Pere Marquette Railroads to extend their cartage area to include the newly-annexed districts will come up before the railway commission at Toronto, April 30. At the same time the matter of having the express companies extend their area and establish additional call and delivery offices will be considered.

LONDON SURVIVOR TRIES VAINLY TO FORGET SEA TRAGEDY OF YEAR AGO

Mrs. Jean Quick, Formerly Living Here, But Now of Detroit, Mich., Tells on Anniversary of Disaster What She Unwillingly Remembers of the Sinking of Monster Liner, From Whose Decks She Took Refuge in a Boat and Was Saved.

The Detroit News-Tribune of today, marking the anniversary of the Titanic disaster, prints an interview with Mrs. Fred C. Quick, formerly of East London and Pottersburg, who, with her two little children, was a passenger on the ship.

Mrs. Quick and her husband, who went to New York to meet her, left London and went to Detroit on May 11. When his family arrived at New York after the disaster they were met by Mr. Quick, and on their way through London, where they stopped for some hours, Mrs. Quick gave The Advertiser an extended interview.

Remembers It Well.
Her recollections of the disaster return vividly to her, and the interview with her is as follows:

"A year ago yesterday the Titanic was speeding toward the American shore. The passenger list contained many well-known names, a record was about to be established by the gigantic ship on its maiden voyage, and on that Sunday evening everybody was in high spirits. Finally, lights were turned off in staterooms, and sleep came. But that was not all. The speed slackened suddenly just before midnight, and by two o'clock in the morning the great boat was beneath the waves, and some of its company was in the boats."

Child Still Ill.
"She has recovered from the nervous shock she suffered, but not so the older daughter, Winifred. She is a nervous, high-strung child, and suffered greatly when she was taken from the Titanic into the lifeboat and during the hours the little vessel floated about until picked up by the rescue ship. She is 5 years old."

"She is recovering now, but she has been much trouble all year," said Mrs. Quick. "It will still be some time, physicians tell us, before she becomes the same as she was before it happened. Phyllis, who is 5 years old, suffered some, but not so much, as Winifred."

SPEAKER RULES AGAINST MOTION OF SIR WILFRID

Liberal Leader's Amendment on Closure Provided That the Proposal to Change the Rules Be Submitted to Commons' Committee and Speaker.

Ottawa, April 14.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier's amendment to Premier Borden's closure resolution, which the Liberal leader was prevented from presenting to Parliament during the stirring scenes of Wednesday, was moved tonight shortly after 11 o'clock by Mr. Maclean, of Halifax, following a brief and technical discussion of points of order which he raised. The amendment calls for adherence to all British and Canadian precedents by referring the proposed Rogers-Borden closure amendment to the rules of the Commons to a special committee to work with Mr. Speaker in revising the rules.

The Halifax member buttressed his amendment with the point of order that the motion of Mr. Hazen, that the question be now put, was out of order under rule 40, in that it had failed to be preceded by the required two days' notice. It was the second point of order raised. Speaker Sproule promptly negatived its predecessor, and intimated that he was inclined to take a similar course in the new point raised. "I would, however," he added, "like to look into the authorities on the matter, and will reserve my decision till tomorrow." Thereupon Mr. Maclean submitted the Laurier amendment pending the decision of the Speaker.

A Vigorous Argument.
Mr. Maclean raised his points of order at the conclusion of a short and vigorous speech, in which he earnestly counselled the Government to take a course which would retrieve its lost prestige and enable Canada to return to the unanimity which existed in 1909 in undertaking her share of national and imperial defence, backed and endorsed by a united Canadian people. Two courses were open to the Government: either to appeal to the people at once and allow the Canadian citizenship to speak for itself, or if the Government did not desire to meet the people at the present time to withdraw the bill until such time as the present Parliament expired and the issue then being submitted to the people. Mr. Maclean directed the Speaker's attention to the fact that the Borden-Rogers closure rule, 40, in that the required two days' notice was not given. Notice of the resolution was given at a late hour on Monday night, while it was moved in the House on Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock.

Rogers Evades Point.
Hon. Robert Rogers, who was leading the House, protested. Mr. Maclean, he said, was not a parliamentarian to have really made the point of order seriously. He drew the Speaker's attention to the fact that the same procedure had been followed in similar cases in Parliament for 40 years. "I can assure the Minister of Public Works that am now leading the House," Mr. Maclean said, "that I also call your attention, Mr. Speaker, to the fact that the honorable minister who is now leading the House has not given a single reason to veto the point of order I have raised. I do not know what the practice has been for the past forty years on this matter, but I do know that the variable practice has been to have the rules of the House can only be amended by appointing a committee to consider and report upon the proposed changes. That practice has not been observed." (Liberal cheers.)

"The excuse of the minister who leads the House cannot be accepted," commented Hon. George P. Graham, "The Government has itself thrown all practice and rules to the winds. We are down to the letter of the law now. We have been confronted with the unusual situation of an old rule which many did not even know existed. The Hazen motion was new to this House. It was the first time in Canadian history it had ever been sought to be applied, so we are justified in demanding the letter of the law. It is submitted accordingly that the notice given to the Premier's resolution, since the rules of the House are in conformity with the point of order raised." (Renewed Liberal cheering.)

Ruled Out of Order.
Speaker Sproule stated that from his knowledge and experience he knew that the two days' notice required by the rule quoted was intended only to prevent members of Parliament being taken unawares. It was the general acceptance that two days' notice meant that the resolution must appear on the order paper twice, the day after it was given and the day upon which it could be considered. It was solely for the convenience of the officials of the House that it was deemed it should be given before six o'clock. From a personal inquiry from the previous clerk

WHITNEY ONCE MORE DELAYS WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION

Mr. Rowell Points Out Unreasonable Delay in Bringing in Legislation So Important to People of Province, But Govt. Refuses to Do Anything This Session.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Toronto, April 15.—No workmen's compensation legislation this year. That is the purport of an announcement made by Sir James Whitney in the Legislature yesterday afternoon. Mr. Rowell asked the Prime Minister if he had heard anything further that would indicate when the report might be received.

"I have not the right to say," said Sir James, "but probably the commissioner himself does not know." There was no reason why Mr. Rowell himself should not inquire from the commissioner.

Mr. Rowell pointed out that the inference from the second interim report from Sir William Meredith was that his final recommendations might be expected during the current session, but he understood from prior remarks by the Prime Minister that no legislation would be forthcoming this year.

Whitney Explains.

Explaining the Government's position, Sir James Whitney said that no doubt they would be subjected to criticism, but were quite prepared to meet it. He was satisfied that a great deal of good work had been done by the proceedings taken by the commissioner, which would redound to the advantage of both employer and employee in the Province. The Government proposed, in view of the great importance of the subject, to do nothing hastily, but in the recess would consider the matter in the light of what had been ascertained from any additional information that could be gathered. "When we come to the next session," continued Sir James, "we will be prepared to show to the people of this Province, to both employer and employee, the results of considerable anxiety and considerable labor with regard to this very important question, and we will probably, at least we expect to ask this House to take into consideration a measure which will be desirable, and which will probably be a model for legislation for some of the other provinces."

Mr. Rowell was not satisfied. He wanted to draw attention to the unreasonable delay that had attended a matter of so much importance to a majority of the people of the province. A bill was introduced into the Legislature in 1907 by the member for Centre Huron (Mr. Proudfoot), seeking to bring the Ontario act in harmony with the British legislation, but at the request of the Prime Minister it was withdrawn on the understanding that a commission would be appointed. Nothing was done in 1908 or 1909, but in 1910 the speech from the throne intimated that a commission would issue, and in June of that year Sir William Meredith was appointed following a deputation from the labor interests. Nothing was done by the commission until a few weeks before the election in 1911, when the commissioner made such progress that an act was presented at the opening of the succeeding session of the House. That report pointed out that the present law in the province was entirely inadequate and that the industries should bear the burden of providing compensation for workmen for injuries. The only excuse for the delay was that the Government was slow in making up its mind what should be done in the premises. That was quite true in view of the difference of opinion between those concerned in the form of the draft bill that had been presented. It was the plain duty of the Government to take some immediate action. Unless action was passed at this session of the House, the workmen would have to wait another year to set plain justice, and hundreds of homes in the province would be affected and might have to suffer.

Power to Make Grants Without Ratepayers' Vote

Liberal Leader in Legislature Suggests Important Amendments to Housing Bill. Several of Which Are Adopted by the Government.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Toronto, April 15.—Mr. Rowell thinks the Government should go further than they have gone with their housing bill, introduced last week by Hon. Mr. Hanna. The Opposition leader yesterday afternoon suggested amending the clause giving municipal councils the power to make grants without consulting the ratepayers, and also advised the insertion of a provision that would require cities to obtain from the provincial board of health a certificate to the effect that conditions in their municipality warranted the expenditure of money on improved housing accommodation.

Hon. Mr. Hanna said the suggestions of the Opposition leader had not been overlooked. He agreed entirely with what Mr. Rowell said regarding the board of health.

The Liberal leader suggested that the chief enumerators in unorganized districts should be the judges of the districts, but the suggestion was rejected.

Hon. Dr. Pyne introduced a bill to amend the separate schools act.

200,000 BELGIAN WORKERS ARE ON STRIKE FOR SUFFRAGE

Great Walk-Out Remarkable for Absence of Disturbances.

Brussels, April 14.—The great strike of the workmen in Belgium to force the Government to grant them the suffrage began quietly today, and at nightfall it was estimated that 200,000 men throughout the country had quit work. This number is at least 100,000 short of the Socialist predictions, and the Clerical press is beginning to call the movement "a pitiable fiasco." Nevertheless, the strike has shown greater strength than was expected by impartial observers, and because of the fact that the numbers increased as the day advanced it is generally believed that the strikers will be reinforced by several thousands tomorrow.

The strike thus far has been marked by neither disturbances nor special inconveniences to the general public. The gas, water, electric and street cleaning services, and the street cars and railways are in operation as usual, but the Brussels merchants say that trade is at a standstill. The city is full of children of the provincial strikers, who are being cared for by the families of the Liberals.

The only act of "sabotage" occurred in the suburb, where three big machines in a leather factory were damaged.

Brussels is not an industrial center. There are about 50,000 workmen here, of whom less than 20,000 are out.

THE illustrations show how attractive these House Dresses are, and the prices demonstrate the advantage of being in the position to buy in such quantities as insure the lowest possible jobbers' prices, all special numbers being stocked for catalogue as well as counter sale. Such advantages must be appreciated when you realize that the prices for these dresses, all ready to wear, are only what you would expect to pay for the material alone, say nothing of the expense or trouble of making.

There is no branch of the ready-to-wear business which has developed to such an extent, or so entirely satisfactory as the wash dress line. All are new styles, well made, and prettily trimmed. See assortment while complete.

THE COST OF LIVING.
The Dominion Government has issued a large volume of statistics, the third of an annual series, bearing on a subject that affects every person, viz.: the high cost of living. This volume refers more especially to wholesale prices, which, we are informed, have advanced 9 per cent. during the past year. Retail prices have not made quite as high a jump; but the report intimates that "a weekly family budget worked out at average prices, cost $12.24 in 1910, $12.59 in 1911, and $13.63 in 1912." This brings prices higher than they have been before in a generation.

It is not necessary here to enter into a careful review of the great mass of information presented in this report. It is, of course, valuable; but to the parties interested it is not very profitable. The housekeeper whose grocery bill has been growing understands the conditions; the workman whose dinner pail requires more money to fill it, does not need a table of statistics to impress it on his mind.
Every person is fully aware of the fact that the cost of living has increased, and whether that increase has been 9 per cent. or 9.5 per cent. is not the point that is worrying him. What he wants to know is the cause, and above all the remedy. Unfortunately, the Government's report is of little value in this direction.

Is it possible to throw any light on this subject? There are certain conditions which we know affect the cost of living. In the first place, all restrictions on trade make living more expensive. Everything that comes between the buyer and the seller makes the retail price of the article higher.
Whether the extra money goes into the hands of several middlemen, or the customers officer, is immaterial. It is so much more added to the original value, and must be ultimately paid by the consumer.

Then whatever tends to monopoly has a tendency to raise prices. Special legislative privileges to any class, combines, trusts, all have their effect in varying degrees. There is a growing and perhaps inevitable tendency to concentration in industry, and, theoretically, production on a larger scale should reduce the cost; but in practice this advantage seldom goes to consumers. The combinations as a rule use their power to extort inordinate profits. It may be impossible, even undesirable, to go back to the old competitive conditions, but it is imperatively that monopolies or semi-monopolies shall be controlled for the protection of the public.

Personal extravagance does not actually increase the cost of what is purchased, but it is an important element in the sum total of one's expenditure. Men now think in dollars where they used to think in dimes. Too many people indulge in luxuries that their incomes do not justify, and too many people squander the necessities they really need. But that is a personal fault for which comes a personal punishment. The victim is himself to blame, and the remedy is in his own hands.

But while there are causes which cannot be remedied, there are some not so easily reached. Money is of less value than it used to be. Gold, which is the monetary standard of most nations, is being mined in much larger quantities.
Last year the production amounted in round figures to $470,000,000. There is a close relation between supply and value. A gold dollar will not buy as much today as it would ten years ago.

While the output of gold has increased, credit has increased, banking facilities are greater, the total amount of trade possible on the basis of a given amount of gold reserve is much greater. The political economist who adopts what is called the "quantity theory of money," tells us that the purchasing power of money varies in proportion to its quantity. He would summarize the effect of his theory in relation to the cost of living by words like these: "The general level of prices is equal to the quantity of money (currency and credit) in existence, multiplied by its velocity of circulation, and divided by the total quantity of goods bought and sold."

If, then, these be the principal elements in the increased cost of living, the available remedies are simple;
that is to say, simple in themselves, but very far from simple in bringing them into operation. Legislation against oppressive tariffs; improved methods of production; closer relations between producer and consumer; economy in social and domestic transactions—these may be of some effect in bringing about a better ratio between the individual's income and his expenditure. Perhaps nothing will bring down the cost of living to the standard of by-gone days. For the value of money as a purchasing medium, whether of labor or of the products of labor, has gone down, and there is no likelihood of any considerable reduction of the supply or output of gold in the measurable future.

"NO CONSIDERATION."
When the City of London bill was before the Legislature in committee of the whole, Mr. Elliott, West Middlesex, asserted that the clauses empowering the municipality to control, equip and operate the London and Port Stanley Railway might conflict with the Dominion Railway Act.
The chairman, Mr. Lucas, said he "had not given this phase of the matter consideration, but thought the bill was within reasonable limits, and the clauses should pass." The bill now stands for a third reading.

The point raised by Mr. Elliott was well taken. The L. and P. S. R. is a Dominion railway, over which the Province has no jurisdiction. Only the Dominion Parliament can give authority to operate a Dominion road.
A Dominion act of 1903 also says that no further charge against the L. and P. S. R. shall be created until existing debentures are paid. This act is entirely ignored in the City of London bill, which provides for the raising of another $700,000 to be spent on the road. Yet the chairman of the Private Bills Committee, and of the committee of the whole House, Mr. Lucas, a cabinet minister, and a lawyer, confesses that he has given no consideration to the matter. Furthermore, he refuses consideration, and drives the clauses through.

The position of the city of London with respect to the London and Port Stanley Railway will be untenable, unless it is regularized by the Dominion Parliament, and it may find that grave questions as to the propriety of the city's conduct will be raised at Ottawa if the matter is carried there.

A RECORD OF DELAY.
The law's delay is no slower than Sir James Whitney's administration.
Although the Opposition has expressed its willingness to protract the present session in order to get a compensation bill passed, the Premier once again defers action.

The truth is, Sir James is the born enemy of reform. He has little conception of the common man's right, as against established custom, privilege and property interests. The plan outlined by Sir William Meredith is too radical for Sir James, and he wants time to frame a measure that will seem to grant the workman his deserts, while cunningly withholding some important points.

He proposes "to do nothing hasty."
All will believe him. No one ever charged him with being hasty. "Let us sleep upon it" was the saying of a great Austrian reactionist to every reform advocated. Go away and let me sleep, said Sir James for three years (1907-1910), and brushed off Labor, which buzzed about his head, seeking a revised workmen's compensation law. Then for over a year more, until the election of 1911, a commissioner kept watch over the master's slumber, and stood Labor off. Now, after another year and a half, the commissioner is allowed to make a report, which the Premier, rubbing his eyes, rejects. "Take it away; too radical;
young men like this Sir William are too bold. I'll have to settle the matter myself. Give me another six months or a year and I'll evolve a bill myself that will be a model to—"
(Yawns and snores off again.)

Mr. Rowell fights hard to have a settlement of this question now. Six years have elapsed with their toll of loss and suffering to thousands of homes. Another year's delay is intolerable to think of. Mr. Rowell tries to awaken the sluggish imagination of the Premier, to make him see what others see and feel, to guide him into action on this all-important matter of the conservation of men, women, and children.

Contrast Sir James as a life con-server with the efforts made and expense incurred by the steamship lines, without delay, to forestall a repetition of the Titanic accident. They did not potter around for seven years and then want more time lest they do anything
"hasty."

Mr. Rowell will have the backing of the Province in his effort after expedition in the passing of a fair and modern compensation act, that will work without the legal difficulties which hamper the poor man under the present law. Stick to him, keep him to it, Mr. Rowell. Make it the act of 1913, instead of goodness knows when.

Carl Hagenbeck has gone to the happy hunting ground.
"Chechez la femme" has become thoroughly Anglicized. Wherever there is trouble in the old land now they look for a suffragette.

Mr. Lucas' confession that he gave no consideration to the city of London bill, is thoroughly characteristic of the slipshod methods of the Whitney Government.

There have been gold mine prospectuses more glittering than this electrification scheme. Not all, however, are so patiently self-contradicting in large detail.

Perhaps the members of the arson squad among the British suffragettes may be recommended as honor-keepers on one ground. They are experienced in getting up early and lighting the fire.

Mr. Borden's "emergency" embraces two or three factors, holding treacherous Nationalists in line, pile-driving through a Russian closure, and minding Mr. Rogers' eye. The three things are in ascending order of moment.

Adam Beck would not cross the street to become Premier of Ontario or Premier of Canada. Mr. Beck has no political ambition other than the ambition to associate his name with the glory of blessings won for the people.—Toronto Telegram.

The Telegram's faculty for hero-worship sometimes makes it ridiculous.
Our local contemporary argues that the payment of $20,000 to the city by the Pere Marquette and Michigan Central for running rights over the L. and P. S. R. would be more profitable than gross receipts of $80,000 derived by a city road for carrying Pere Marquette and Michigan Central freight. What railway could survive if its operating expenses were 75 per cent. of its gross receipts?

YOUTH'S AGITATIONS.
[By Matthew Arnold.]
When I shall be divorced, some ten years hence
From this poor present self which I am now;
When youth has done its tedious vain expense
Of passions that forever ebb and flow;
Shall I not joy youth's heats are left behind.

Ah no! for then I shall begin to find
A thousand virtues in the hated thing.
Then I shall wish its agonies back,
And all its thwarting currents of desire;
Then I shall praise the heat which then I lack,
And call this, hurrying fever, generous fire.
And sigh that one thing only has been lent
To youth and age in common—discontent.

ENGLAND'S BREAKFAST.
[New York Herald.]
It is reported from London that a recent attempt to introduce a grapefruit as a breakfast food has failed, and that a heavy importation of those delicacies has caused such a slump in the market that costermongers are selling them from barrows for a penny apiece.

This will surprise no one who has ever lived in England. That country has known many changes during the last few years. Castle lines have been obliterated, the silk hat is no longer an object of reverential worship; actors have been knighted and bands introduced into restaurants. But the breakfast table is the last ditch of British conservatism. The Englishman eats bacon and eggs 365 mornings in the year and welcomes leap year because it enables him to indulge in that delightful dish 366 times.
The monarchy may be abolished and the House of Lords deprived of its prerogatives, but the English breakfast will remain as it was in the days of the Conqueror. Grapefruit will never have a place in it.

DRAWING THE LINE.

young man who comes to see you in the evenings a message.
Mabel (blushing)—Yes, father.
Father—Tell him that we've got no objection to him running up the gas bills, but we'd rather he didn't carry away the morning paper when he leaves.

NOBLE BOY.
[Yonker's Statesman.]

"You'll be sick, child."
"Well, mother, you see if anybody was going to be sick I didn't want to be Mabel."

[Canadian Courier.]
Last week I heard an illustrated lecture, by Professor Anderson, of the University of Toronto, on the cities of Vienna and Munich, and I realized as never before how crude Canadian cities are. There is a tendency for one to become complacent if one hears no trenchant criticism of one's conduct, I was in danger of being complacent until I saw Professor Anderson's selection of maps and pictures.

As compared with the cities of Europe, Canadian and United States cities are decidedly crude, faint and unkempt. They are crude, because badly planned, because there is such a conglomeration of styles of architecture, and because there are no public buildings worthy of the name. Toronto has only one public building, the Arts Building of the University of Toronto, which would be looked at twice by one familiar with the architectural beauty and near-perfection of the public buildings of Munich or Vienna.
American cities are fantastic because they put fifteen story buildings in the midst of four and five story buildings, and put a Corinthian front on a bank building which sits between a three-story saloon and a one-story barber shop. They are unkempt because their squares are bare of ornamentation, our parks are mere open spaces and our streets are misdecorated with telegraph, telephone and electric light poles.

Too many citizens regard the city as a place to make money, not as an artistic home for generation after generation of progressive and enlightened people. In brief, Canadian cities bear the evidence of our lack of an intelligent and unselfish city spirit.

A Novel of Newspaper Life

[By Special Arrangement With the Winnipeg Telegram.]

Novels dealing with newspaper life become more and more numerous.
Enoch Wentworth was a New York journalist. We read that "he seated himself before the desk, cleared off the blotter, laid out a heap of copy paper, filled the ink-well, and adjusted a new pen. He leaned his head upon his hand for a few minutes and his listless eyes fell upon a calendar. He discovered that it bore the dates of March instead of April. He tore off the record of weeks which had passed and dropped it into the waste basket. The pen rested listlessly between his fingers. When he tried to write with it the ink had dried. He did not dip it into the bottle again." The fact of the matter was that Enoch was going through the journalistic doldrums—that is, he couldn't churn up any inspiration, an experience with which every writer is familiar. But Enoch was not trying to write a police court story or an account of a fashionable wedding; he was writing his best, and he was possessed of a great ability, but somehow or other the dialogue wouldn't come. All his life this prominent newspaper man had been fired with the ambition to write a drama, but it was not in him; he did not have the spark of genius, the creative instinct.

And it was this consuming ambition which brought Enoch into a pages of a novel, entitled, "The Lapse of Enoch Wentworth" by Isabel Gordon (Curtis McClelland & Goodchild, Toronto).
Enoch had a great friend, Andrew Merry, a great actor, who was possessed of a great ability, but had no ambition.
Every once in a while Merry would disappear, perhaps in the height of an engagement, would go to pieces because of his dissipated habits, and would be brought back to work and sobriety only by the efforts of his steady friend Enoch. Now, it chanced that at a poker game one evening, or rather in the early morning, Wentworth and Merry played on a document which the loser was to sign. It was a curious fancy, this of Wentworth, as may be seen from the wording of the agreement:

"I hereby pledge myself to you until death to do your every bidding—to obey your every demand—to the extent of my physical and mental ability—you to furnish me with support."

Andrew lost the game and signed the document. Neither man thought anything of it at the time, but Wentworth preserved the paper. Later on Andrew fell in love with Dorcas, Enoch's sister. This put ambition into him and he went away and did what he wrote a play, full of emotion, full of thrills, full of snappy dialogue. When he read it over to Wentworth the latter was green with envy. Then in an evil moment he remembered the bond.
The temptation was too great, and he disguised, Wentworth commanded him to hand over the manuscript to him and to promise never to divulge the secret of the play. Enoch did as he was commanded, and the play was produced with Andrew and Dorcas as stars, how it captured New York by storm, and how Wentworth, after acting like a villain for a whole season, repented, and was reconciled to Andrew. There are improbabilities, it is true—for instance, "tis a fine pipe dream that actor Andrew could toss off that play, but, never mind, the story is interesting.

THIS SUFFRAGETTE MAY BE OF UNSOUND MIND

Annie Bell Carried a Revolver
and Threatened to Shoot If Interfered With.

[Canadian Press.]
London, April 15.—Annie Bell, the suffragette who was arrested outside Holloway jail on the night of April 9
during the imprisonment of Mrs. Pankhurst, and found to be in the possession of a revolver, was brought up again
in the police court today and further remanded without bail in order that physicians may make a report as to the state of her mind. The police magistrate said he doubted her sanity.

When she was first brought up at the police court, Miss Bell told the magistrate that she carried a revolver
for self-protection, but with the full intention of using it if personal violence were offered to her. She said:
"If any man had interfered with me
I would have shot him."

Boys Who Loitered on Street Corners Appear Before Police Court

Roland Rusk, a blacksmith, was wanted
in police court this morning to answer
a charge of breach of the wife maintenance act. When his name was called he did not appear, so the magistrate, after leaving Detective Down swear that he served him with a summons, directed
that a warrant for his arrest be issued.
Five young lads, the oldest not 18, appeared charged with loitering in the vicinity of Adelaide and Trafalgar streets and using bad language on the night of April 8.

Several complaints of rowdiness in that section had been registered with the police by the residents, and Constable
McRoberts was sent to investigate.
He claimed that the boys did some loud talking and used bad language, but only one boy admitted swearing. After receiving a promise from each of the lads
to stay away from the corners after dark,
the court allowed them to go.

Edward Bugler did not take out his
teamster's license when he should have,
and as a result it cost him $5 cents extra
for summons to police court this morning. Thomas Wilkins committed a breach of the traffic bylaw and paid $2.

Kills His Children
and Shoots Himself

Fitchburg, Mass., April 14.—Ernest
Moschner, aged 35, murdered his four children, and then killed himself by shooting, at his home on Rollstone
street today. Continued ill-health made the man temporarily insane, the police believe.

Returning from work, discovered the bodies of her children and husband
with bullet holes in their heads. The murdered children are Elsie, aged 12;
Myrtle, aged 11; Norman, aged 8; and
Ernest, aged 6.

A Message From a Woman to Women

Every Woman Should Take
"Fruit-a-lives"

"Kindly publish this letter of mine
if you think it will benefit other women who might be afflicted with the diseases I have had in the past, but am now, thanks to 'Fruit-a-lives,' completely cured of. It is my firm belief that every woman should take 'Fruita-lives' if she wants to keep herself in good health.

"Before taking 'Fruit-a-lives,' I was constantly troubled with what is commonly known as 'Nerves' or severe Nervousness. This Nervousness brought on the most violent attacks of Sick Headache, for which I was constantly taking doctors' medicine without any permanent relief. Constipation was also a source of great trouble to me and for which the Doctors said: 'I would have to take medicine all my life,' but 'Fruit-a-lives' banished all these troubles and now I am a well woman.

died within a few hours of each other,
and there was a double funeral in the little village on Monday.

[Canadian Press.]
Rome, April 15.—Prof. Ettore Marchsaffava, the pope's physician, said today:

"The illness of the Pope is now taking its normal course. The patient was much better during the hours of the forenoon after his night's rest. He had had a slight setback late yesterday afternoon when his temperature rose slightly.

"If it is possible to induce Pope Pius to follow the orders of his medical advisers, the amelioration in his condition will bring with it a revival of strength.

"In other words, the recovery of the Pope is chiefly in his difficult patient to deal with. While apparently giving in to the recommendations of his physicians, the moment he feels slightly better he insists on having his own way, saying: 'I command here.'"

Annie Bell Carried a Revolver
and Threatened to Shoot If Interfered With.

London, April 15.—Annie Bell, the
suffragette who was arrested outside Holloway jail on the night of April 9
during the imprisonment of Mrs. Pank-
hurst, and found to be in the possession of a revolver, was brought up again
in the police court today and further
remanded without bail in order that physicians may make a report as to the state of her mind. The police magistrate said he doubted her sanity.

When she was first brought up at
the police court, Miss Bell told the
magistrate that she carried a revolver
for self-protection, but with the full
intention of using it if personal violence were offered to her. She said:
"If any man had interfered with me
I would have shot him."

Roland Rusk, a blacksmith, was wanted
in police court this morning to answer
a charge of breach of the wife maintenance act. When his name was called he did not appear, so the magistrate, after
served him with a summons, directed
that a warrant for his arrest be issued.
Five young lads, the oldest not 18, appeared charged with loitering in the vicinity of Adelaide and Trafalgar streets
and using bad language on the night of April 8.

Several complaints of rowdiness in that section had been registered with the police by the residents, and Constable
McRoberts was sent to investigate.
He claimed that the boys did some loud
talking and used bad language, but only one boy admitted swearing. After receiving a promise from each of the lads
to stay away from the corners after dark,
the court allowed them to go.

Edward Bugler did not take out his
teamster's license when he should have,
and as a result it cost him $5 cents extra
for summons to police court this morning. Thomas Wilkins committed a breach of the traffic bylaw and paid $2.

Kills His Children
and Shoots Himself

Fitchburg, Mass., April 14.—Ernest
Moschner, aged 35, murdered his four children, and then killed himself by shooting, at his home on Rollstone
street today. Continued ill-health
made the man temporarily insane, the
police believe.

Returning from work, discovered the
bodies of her children and husband
with bullet holes in their heads. The murdered children are Elsie, aged 12;
Myrtle, aged 11; Norman, aged 8; and
Ernest, aged 6.

LONDON, TUESDAY, APRIL 15.

THE COST OF LIVING.

The Dominion Government has issued a large volume of statistics, the third of an annual series, bearing on a subject that affects every person, viz.: the high cost of living. This volume refers more especially to wholesale prices, which, we are informed, have advanced 9 per cent. during the past year. Retail prices have not made quite as high a jump; but the report intimates that "a weekly family budget worked out at average prices, cost $12.24 in 1910, $12.89 in 1911, and $13.63 in 1912." This brings prices higher than they have been before in a generation.

It is not necessary just here to enter into a careful review of the great mass of information presented in this report. It is, of course, valuable; but to the parties interested it is not very profitable. The housekeeper whose grocery bill has been growing under-stands the conditions; the workman, whose dinner pail requires more money to fill it, does not need a table of statistics to impress it on his mind. Every person is fully aware of the fact that the cost of living has increased, and whether that increase has been 9 per cent. or 9.5 per cent. is not the point that is worrying him. What he wants to know is the cause, and above all the remedy. Unfortunately, the Government's report is of little value in this direction.

Is it possible to throw any light on this subject? There are certain conditions which we know affect the cost of living. In the first place, all restrictions on trade make living more expensive. Everything that comes between the buyer and the seller makes the retail price of the article higher. Whether the extra money goes into the hands of several middlemen, or the customs officer, is immaterial. It is so much more added to the original value, and must be ultimately paid by the consumer.

Then whatever tends to monopoly has a tendency to raise prices. Special legislative privileges to any class, combines, trusts, all have their effect in varying degrees. There is a growing and perhaps inevitable tendency to concentration in industry, and, theoretically, production on a larger scale should reduce the cost; but in practice this advantage seldom goes to consumers. The combinations as a rule use their power to extort inordinate profits. It may be impossible, even undesirable, to go back to the old competitive conditions, but it is imperative that monopolies or semi-monopolies shall be controlled for the protection of the public.

Personal extravagance does not actually increase the cost of what is purchased, but it is an important element in the sum total of one's expenditure. Men now think in dollars where they used to think in dimes. Too many people indulge in luxuries that their incomes do not justify, and too many people squander the necessities they really need. But that is a personal fault for which comes a personal punishment. The victim is himself to blame, and the remedy is in his own hands.

But while there are causes which can be remedied, there are some not so easily reached. Money is of less value than it used to be. Gold, which is the monetary standard of most nations, is being mined in much larger quantities. Last year the production amounted in round figures to $470,000,000. There is a close relation between supply and value. A gold dollar will not buy as much today as it would ten years ago.

While the output of gold has increased, credit has increased, banking facilities are greater, the total amount of trade possible on the basis of a given amount of gold reserve is much greater. The political economist who adopts what is called the "quantity theory of money," tells us that the purchasing power of money varies in proportion to its quantity. He would summarize the effect of his theory in relation to the cost of living by words like these: "The general level of prices is equal to the quantity of money (currency and credit) in existence, multiplied by its velocity of circulation, and divided by the total quantity of goods bought and sold."

If, then, these be the principal elements in the increased cost of living, the available remedies are simple; that is to say, simple in themselves, but very far from simple in bringing them into operation. Legislation against oppressive tariffs; improved methods of production; closer relations between producer and consumer; economy in social and domestic transactions—these may be of some effect in bringing about a better ratio between the individual's income and his expenditure. Perhaps nothing will bring down the cost of living to the standard of by-gone days. For the value of money as a purchasing medium, whether of labor or of the products of labor, has gone down, and there is no likelihood of any considerable reduction of the supply or output of gold in the measurable future.

"NO CONSIDERATION."

When the City of London bill was before the Legislature in committee of the whole, Mr. Elliott, West Middlesex, asserted that the clauses empowering the municipality to control, equip and operate the London and Port Stanley Railway might conflict with the Dominion Railway Act.

The chairman, Mr. Lucas, said he "had not given this phase of the matter consideration, but thought the bill was within reasonable limits, and the clauses should pass." The bill now stands for a third reading.

The point raised by Mr. Elliott was well taken. The L. and P. S. R. is a Dominion railway, over which the Province has no jurisdiction. Only the Dominion Parliament can give authority to operate a Dominion road. A Dominion act of 1903 also says that no further charge against the L. and P. S. R. shall be created until existing debentures are paid. This act is entirely ignored in the City of London bill, which provides for the raising of another $700,000 to be spent on the road. Yet the chairman of the private bills committee, and of the committee of the whole House, Mr. Lucas, a cabinet minister, and a lawyer, confesses that he has given no consideration to the matter. Furthermore, he refuses consideration, and drives the clauses through.

The position of the city of London with respect to the London and Port Stanley Railway will be untenable, unless it is regularized by the Dominion Parliament, and it may find that grave questions as to the propriety of the city's conduct will be raised at Ottawa if the matter is carried there.

A RECORD OF DELAY.

The law's delay is no slower than Sir James Whitney's administration. Although the Opposition has expressed its willingness to protract the present session in order to get a compensation bill passed, the Premier once again defers action.

The truth is, Sir James is the born enemy of reform. He has little conception of the common man's right, as against established custom, privilege and property interests. The plan outlined by Sir William Meredith is too radical for Sir James, and he wants time to frame a measure that will seem to grant the workman his deserts, while cunningly withholding some important points.

He proposes "to do nothing hasty." All will believe him. No one ever charged him with being hasty. "Let us sleep upon it" was the saying of a great Austrian reactionist to every reform advocated. Go away and let me sleep, said Sir James for three years (1907-1910), and brushed off Labor, which buzzed about his head, seeking a revised workmen's compensation law. Then for over a year more, until the election of 1911, a commissioner kept watch over the master's slumber, and stood Labor off. Now, after another year and a half, the commissioner is allowed to make a report, which the Premier, rubbing his eyes, rejects. "Take it away; too radical; young men like this Sir William are too bold. I'll have to settle the matter myself. Give me another six months or a year and I'll evolve a bill myself that will be a model to—"

Mr. Rowell fights hard to have a settlement of this question now. Six years have elapsed with their toll of loss and suffering to thousands of homes. Another year's delay is intolerable to think of. Mr. Rowell tries to awaken the sluggish imagination of the Premier, to make him see what others see and feel, to goad him into action on this all-important matter of the conservation of men, women, and children.

Contrast Sir James as a life conserver with the efforts made and expense incurred by the steamship lines, without delay, to forestall a repetition of the Titanic accident. They did not potter around for seven years and then want more time lest they do anything "hasty."

Mr. Rowell will have the backing of the Province in his effort after expedition in the passing of a fair and modern compensation act, that will work without the legal difficulties which hamper the poor man under the present law. Stick to him, keep him to it, Mr. Rowell. Make it the act of 1913, instead of goodness knows when.

Carl Hagenbeck has gone to the happy hunting ground.

"Chechez la femme" has become thoroughly Anglicized. Wherever there is trouble in the old land now they look for a suffragette.

Mr. Lucas' confession that he gave no consideration to the city of London bill, is thoroughly characteristic of the slipshod methods of the Whitney Government.

There have been gold mine prospects more glittering than this electrification scheme. Not all, however, are so patiently self-contradicting in large detail.

Perhaps the members of the arson squad among the British suffragettes may be recommended as honor-keepers on one ground. They are experienced in getting up early and lighting the fire.

Mr. Borden's "emergency" embraces two or three factors, holding treacherous Nationalists in line, pile-driving through a Russian closure, and minding Mr. Rogers' eye. The three things are in ascending order of merit.

Adam Beck would not cross the street to become Premier of Ontario or Premier of Canada. Mr. Beck has no political ambition other than the ambition to associate his name with the glory of blessings won for the people—Toronto Telegram.

The Telegram's faculty for hero-worship sometimes makes it ridiculous. Our local contemporary argues that the payment of $20,000 to the city by the Pere Marquette and Michigan Central for running rights over the L. and P. S. R., would be more profitable than gross receipts of $80,000 derived by a city road for carrying Pere Marquette and Michigan Central freight. What railway could survive if its operating expenses were 75 per cent. of its gross receipts?

YOUTH'S AGITATIONS.

[By Matthew Arnold.]

When I shall be divorced, some ten years hence,
From this poor present self which I am now,

And sigh that one thing only has been lent
To youth and age in common—discontent.

ENGLAND'S BREAKFAST.

[New York Herald.]

It is reported from London that a recent attempt to produce grapefruit as a breakfast food has failed, and that a heavy importation of those delicacies has caused such a slump in the market that costermongers are selling them from barrows for a penny apiece.

This will surprise no one who has ever lived in England. That country has known many changes during the last few years. Castle lines have been obliterated; the silk hat is no longer an object of reverent worship; actors have been knighted and hands introduced into restaurants. But the breakfast table is the last ditch of British conservatism. The Englishman eats bacon and eggs 365 mornings in the year and welcomes leap year because it enables him to indulge in that delightful dish 366 times.

The monarchy may be abolished and the House of Lords deprived of its prerogatives, but the English breakfast will remain as it was in the days of the Conqueror. Grapefruit will never have a place in it.

DRAWING THE LINE.

[Tit-Bits.]

Father—Mabel, you might give that young man who comes to see you in the evenings a message.
Mabel (blushing)—Yes, father.
Father—Tell him that we've got no objection to him running up the gas bills, but we'd rather he didn't carry away the morning paper when he leaves.

NOBLE BOY.

[Yorker's Statesman.]

"You ate all your own cake and Mabel's too, Tommy?" said the mother.
"Yes'm," replied Tommy.
"You'll be sick, child."
"Well, mother, you see if anybody was going to be sick I didn't want to be Mabel."

"Well," said Jimson, "it keeps about six months ahead of my income, generally."

[Canadian Courier.]

Last week, I heard an illustrated lecture by Professor Anderson, of the University of Toronto, on the cities of Vienna and Munich, and I realized as never before, how crude Canadian cities are. There is a tendency for one to be trenchant and critical of one's own country, but I was in danger of being complacent until I saw Professor Anderson's selection of maps and pictures.

As compared with the cities of Europe, Canadian and United States cities are decidedly crude, fantastic and unkempt. They are crude, because badly planned, because there is such a conglomeration of styles of architecture, and because there are no public buildings worthy of the name. Toronto has only one public building, the Arts Building of the University of Toronto, which would be looked at twice by one familiar with the architectural beauty and near-perfection of the public buildings of Vienna.

The American cities are fantastic because they put fifteen story buildings in the midst of four and five story buildings, and put a Corinthian front on a bank building which sits between a three-story saloon and a one-story barber shop. They are unkempt because our squares are bare of ornamentation, our parks are mere open spaces and our streets are misdecorated with telegraph, telephone and electric light poles.

Too many citizens regard the city as a place to make money, not as an artistic home for generation after generation of progressive and enlightened people. In brief, Canadian cities bear the evidence of our lack of an intelligent and unselfish civic spirit.

A Novel of Newspaper Life

[By Special Arrangement With the Winnipeg Telegram.]

Novels dealing with newspaper life become more and more numerous.

Enoch Wentworth was a New York Journalist. We read that "he seated himself before the desk, cleared off the blotter, laid out a heap of copy paper, filled the ink-well, and adjusted a new pen. He leaned his head upon his hand for a few minutes and his listless eyes fell upon a calendar. He discovered that it bore the dates of March instead of April. He tore off the record of weeks which had passed and dropped it into the waste basket. The pen rested listlessly between his fingers. When he tried to write with it the ink had dried. He did not dip it into the bottle again." The fact of the matter was that Enoch was going through the journalistic doldrums—that is, he couldn't churn up any inspiration, an experience with which every writer is familiar. But Enoch was not trying to write a police court story or an account of a fashionable wedding. He was doing his best to write a play. He had invented a plot, but somehow or other the dialogue wouldn't come. All his life this prominent newspaper man had been fired with the ambition to write a dramatic work, but in him, he did not have the spark of genius, the creative instinct.

And it was this consuming ambition which brought Enoch into the pages of a novel, entitled, "The Game of Enoch Wentworth," by Isabel Gordon Curtis (McClelland & Goodchild, Toronto).

Enoch had a great friend, Andrew Merri, a comic actor, who was possessed of great ability, but had no ambition. Every once in a while Merry would disappear, perhaps in the height of an engagement, would go to pieces because of his dissipated habits, and would be brought back to work and sobered up by the efforts of his steady friend Enoch. Now, it chanced that at a poker game one evening, or rather in the early morning, Wentworth and Andrew played for a document which the loser was to sign. It was a curious favor, that of Wentworth, as may be seen from the wording of the agreement:

"I hereby pledge myself to you until death, to do anything and to obey your every demand—to the extent of my physical and mental ability—to you to furnish me with support."

Andrew lost the game and signed the document. Neither man thought anything of it at the time, but Wentworth preserved the paper. Later on Andrew fell in love with Dorcas, Enoch's high-souled sister. This put ambition into Enoch and he went away and did what he pleased. He was trying to do for years—he wrote a play, full of emotion, full of thrills, full of snappy dialogue. When he read it over to Wentworth the latter was green with envy. Then in a moment of inspiration, he remembered the bond. The temptation was too great, and he fell. To Andrew's surprise, dismay and disgust, Wentworth commanded him to hand over the manuscript to him and to promise never to divulge the secret of the friendship. He was to be a producer with Andrew and Dorcas as stars, how it captured New York by storm, and how Wentworth, after acting like a villain for a whole season, repented and was reconciled to Andrew—all this makes up the rapid and engrossing story.

There are improbabilities, it is true—for instance, "tis a fine pipe dream that a poor actor could toss off that play, but, never mind, the story is interesting.

A Message From a Woman to Women

Every Woman Should Take

"Fruit-a-lives"

Lakelet, Ont., May 12, 1911.

"Kindly publish this letter of mine if you think it will benefit other women who might be afflicted with the diseases I have had in the past, but am now, thanks to 'Fruit-a-lives', completely cured of. It is my firm belief that every woman should take 'Fruit-a-lives' if she wants to keep herself in good health."

"Before taking 'Fruit-a-lives' I was constantly troubled with what is commonly known as 'Nerves' or severe Nervousness. This Nervousness brought on the most violent attacks of Sick Headache, for which I was constantly taking doctors' medicine without any permanent relief. Constipation was also a source of great trouble to me and for which the doctors said: 'I would have to take medicine all my life,' but 'Fruit-a-lives' banished all these troubles and now I am a well woman."

"MRS. FRED GADKE."
Fifty cents a box, 6 for $2.50—trial size, 25c. At dealers or sent prepaid on receipt of price by Fruit-a-lives Limited, Ottawa.

Frontenac, suffered the loss by death of their two children, a girl of two and a half years, and an infant son of four months. It is thought that their deaths were caused by milk from a cow which ate poisonous weeds. The children died within a few hours of each other, and there was a double funeral in the little village on Monday.

REAL ESTATE FOR SALE.

Real Estate for Sale By Tender
50 Acres More or Less South of Oxford St. in the City of London

IN THE ESTATE OF SAMUEL S. HUNT, DECEASED.

Sealed tenders for the purchase of the north half of the north half of Lot No. 10, in the first concession of the Township of London, in the County of Middlesex, now in the City of London, containing by admeasurement fifty acres more or less, addressed to The Canada Trust Company, London, will be received up to 12 o'clock noon on Tuesday, the 22nd day of April next.

The highest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

The terms of sale are: 5 per cent of the purchase price to be paid when tender accepted, and within fourteen days thereafter sufficient to make 25 per cent of the purchase price, and balance in three equal annual instalments from the date of such acceptance, with interest payable half-yearly on the unpaid principal at the rate of six per cent per annum, to be computed from the date of sale acceptance. The purchaser to have the privilege of paying up the whole amount of principal at any time. When 25 per cent of the purchase price has been paid, a deed is to be given, and mortgage taken in accordance with the terms of sale.

As the purchaser may desire to subdivide the property into building lots and sell the same, the purchaser will have the further privilege of releasing any lot or lots so sold from said mortgage upon payment of a proportionate sum to be agreed on between the vendor and purchaser.

The said property contains 50 acres more or less. There are agreements existing between the late Samuel S. Hunt and adjoining owners with reference to certain rights of way, and the purchaser will be entitled to the benefit of these agreements. The property is situated south of Oxford Street and east of the survey known as "The Highlands," "Hunt's Annex to the City of London." It is very suitable for subdividing into city lots. There are at present on the land a two-story dwelling with barn and outhouses.

For further terms and particulars and conditions of sale, apply to The Canada Trust Company, to Meredith & Fisher, barristers, London, Ont. or to Purdon & Purdon, barristers, London, Ont. A. S. 10, 12, 15, 17, 19, 21.

WHAT EVERY WOMAN WANTS TO KNOW

Billie Burke Describes Her New Spring Bonnets.
Katherine Leslie's Chat.

Some of My New Spring Hats

By Billie Burke.

The spring hats are small, but the small hat is not youthful, so I have compromised a little and bought hats that are very small, hats that are medium size, and hats that are quite large. You see, I am rather an extravagant woman when it comes to hats.

I think every woman likes something to wear on her head. Almost the first thing a peasant girl buys when she gets over here, is a hat, to replace the shawl she has been wearing over her head, and whenever I feel somewhat cast down I go and treat myself to a hat.

A woman can't be very unhappy when she knows her head is crowned with a beautiful flower-trimmed hat—at least, I can't.

I am very fond of an all black hat for utility, in fact I am fond of a black hat at any time on a woman with red hair. It is a stunning hat to wear with an elaborate dress. It makes a nice frame for the picture, but if you wear a black hat you must also always wear a smile. Nothing veils one's beauty points to such an extent as a black hat over a sad or fretful face.

You will notice that my black hat is of fine straw, simply trimmed with black satin ribbon and two black nummie quills over the back.

One hat that I like very much because it makes a fine background for my profile is a wide-brimmed dark blue henn, with a wide brim and a medium sized crown. This is trimmed with a dull blue moire ribbon with a spray of American Beauty roses at the side. I wear this hat with a dark blue serge frock made very simply and trimmed with a sash of soft Bulgarian colors wound around the skirt twice, and tied very low at the side. I call this hat my "comfy" hat, as I feel so good in it.

My little silk hat is one of my special favorites. It is of dull greenish blue charmeuse puffed about the entire frame, and the only trimming on it is two little bunches of thistles in the bluish pink of the natural weed. wear this hat with a very short coat of the same color, which is open at the neck over a soft waist of net.

A hat of cerise straw with a bunch of lighter pink ostrich feathers at the side is very stylish in color and shape, and it has a saucy air that makes one's eyes brighter and helps the youthful contour of the face. If this color is becoming you cannot help but feel happy in this shaped hat, but if you have lots of color in your cheeks beware.

Don't buy hats because they are pretty in the stores or because some one else looks good in them, and be sure that your hats look well on you from all angles.

If you have a round face a small hat, with collar and cuffs of white lace, with your hair curling softly from under is very becoming, but it will not be as comfortable when the weather comes as the larger hat that shades your face.

You will surely find a hat that is becoming to you this spring, as they are much prettier than they were last.

Don't you think so?

PROBLEMS OF THE FAIR SEX SOLVED BY CYNTHIA GREY

[Correspondents are requested to make their inquiries as brief as possible, and to write on one side of the paper only. It is impossible to give replies within a stated time, as all letters have to be answered in turn as they are received. No letters can be answered privately.]

A Mole Trouble.

Dear Miss Grey: I lately have made an appearance of a mole in a very conspicuous place on my face. Do you know of anything that would remove it, or have you ever known of anyone to have them removed successfully? I am anxious to have it off, as they say it is very noticeable.

Trusting you can give me some advice, yours,

LULA.

A.—Moles are rather dangerous things to tamper with. A certain kind of acid will destroy them, but it is apt to eat into the flesh and leave an unsightly scar. To saturate a piece of absorbent cotton with castor oil and touch the spot frequently with this has removed moles for some people. And an old remedy is to tie a piece of silk thread at the base of the mole. It is said that the excrescence will then drop off in time.

A Chance for Someone.

Dear Miss Grey—Do you think it would be possible to get a refined person who had a large back lawn and play room, to look after, say six or eight children over two years of age from three to six every afternoon but Saturday? There are many young mothers keeping help who otherwise would not if they had someone reliable to leave the little ones with. Do you think the plan possible? Thanking you,

A LONDON MOTHER.

A.—I do not see any reason why, ever, why the plan should not be carried out in London. It sounds very feasible to me, and in view of the fact that many women seek some form of employment which enables them to remain in their homes, I should think some one woman, at least, would be glad to find an opening of this sort.

In there not some woman who reads this column who can fill the requirements—namely, a good-sized room for play and a large lawn, and whose love of children would make the work a pleasure to her? I should indeed be pleased to hear from any of my correspondents in regard to the matter, and shall forward any addresses sent to me to the London Mother, whose street address I hold.

At an Evening Wedding.

My Dear Miss Grey: As I am a constant reader of The Advertiser have taken great pleasure out of your column, and hope in the near future you will be able to find time to answer my question.

1. Is it proper for men to wear full dress at a little evening wedding held in a church, or is the frock suit the correct thing?

Thanking you very much, ROSIE.

A.—The regulation "dress suit" is required.

Who Has It?

Dear Miss Grey: Would you kindly publish in your column a recipe for grapefruit marmalade, and oblige.

MRS. J. C. H.

A.—I cannot locate a recipe for grapefruit marmalade at the present moment, so refer the query to some kindly reader. Does anyone happen to possess this recipe?

Going Out West.

Dear Miss Grey: 1. Could you tell me where I could get a book containing speech and debate forms?

2. What would be the necessary things for a 16-year-old girl taking a two months' trip out west, stopping at all the places of interest?

3. Will white shoes be worn much this summer?

4. Is the play called "Love and Honor" in book form, and who is the author?

5. I have a very beautiful calendar, but the firm that gave them away have their name printed across the top. Could you tell me something to remove the printing and not spoil the picture?

6. If a person is acquainted with some member of the family but they have never met them, and they speak to you, is it proper for you to speak to them?

AUDRE.

P. S.—Will you kindly publish your correct address if this one is not right.

A.—1. Ask at a book store.

2. Would suggest: A Russian blouse suit of light weight bedford in navy blue, with collar and cuffs of white serge; one separate skirt in dark serge to be worn with middie and sailor blouses of which you will need several; two one-piece dresses in wash goods; one white dress of embroidered flouncing; or a colored frock of meringue silk for best wear; one long coat for travelling. This may be of linen serge, or if desired a raincoat makes a practical substitute. I should think that four changes of underwear would be necessary, six pairs stockings, one small plain hat and one more dressy; two pairs shoes and one pair slippers. This should make a very complete outfit for a girl of your age.

Is Inexperienced.

Dear Miss Grey: I have received advice once before from you, so I have come again for more information.

1. Could you tell me through your circle if young women, working in London as servants, are permitted to bring in girl and boy friends into their mistress' house? And must they always entertain them in the kitchen or are they allotted a room to take their company in? Would any young woman be telling her experience along this line to the circle?

2. What does Clara mean?

3. Do girls that pay for their keep at a boarding-house get their laundry done there, too? I am inexperienced, and would like to know these things before I venture out. PERPLEXED.

A.—1. Different mistresses make different rules regarding the entertaining of company by their "help," but generally speaking, servants entertain their friends in the kitchen. You have, perhaps unwittingly, sounded one of the vital notes of the "servant problem" upon which chapters, you whole books, have been written. I shall cheerfully publish any letters received from young women with reference to this welshy problem.

2. Bright, or illustrious.

3. The laundry has to be paid for separately, and it (as is usually the case), it is not possible to get your washing done at the boarding-house. It is necessary to engage a laundress for the purpose.

Write me again if there is any help I can give you about life in the city.

Tea Shop Girls In British Metropolis

[From London Daily News.]

Unlike most official or semi-official documents, the report issued yesterday of an inquiry conducted by the Women's Industrial Council on the life and status of the tea-shop girl is something more than a dry statistical survey, made up of gruesome statistics, tables and cold, indigestible facts.

It is a human document, and the insight into the psychology of the tea-shop girl revealed by the writer, Miss Barbara Drake, is a feature of the report that will carry an appeal far beyond the circumscribed circles of economists and social reformers.

"The place of the tea-shop waitress in the social scale," Miss Barbara Drake explains, "is somewhat difficult to fix. More refined than the factory girl, she is said to be a degree less educated than the shop-assistant, and a degree more independent than the domestic servant. The type varies, however, with that of the customer she serves."

"In the cheaper kind of tea-shops many girls come from, and some return to, factory work; others have been hotel or domestic servants, and many are daughters of tradesmen. Another type, again, is one nearer to that of the actress or chorus girl, and in an occasional instance here or there the waitress by birth and breeding is a lady."

All waitresses, however, have one characteristic in common. Each of them is a marrying girl, and to the workgirl of 18 who means to marry, to marry well, the tea-shop has something of the fascination of the ballroom for the leisured lady of another class.

Small Pay, Long Hours.
When Miss Drake comes to the background of the picture, she lays on the colors with relentless realism. One pound a week, or a little over, is the maximum wage of the tea-shop waitress.

An average of 13s net is a first-class wage. A more common sum, after the usual 6d deduction for the midday meal, is 12s 6d. For the most modest wage always received in full, for in addition to the deduction for food many firms charge for breakfast.

The deal life is the pay for long hours of work, for the tea-shop day works out to ten and a half or eleven hours.

Out of twelve typical cases of waitress earnings and hours of work enumerated in the report, two or three may be taken as examples. One girl, employed by a firm which has 2,200 waitresses, received in all 15s 9d a week for which she worked 63 hours.

She lived at a hostel, the cost of board and lodging amounting to 10s 6d. Another girl, employed by a firm with a staff of 1,000, had to work 60 hours a week for 16s 3d. Another case quoted is that of a girl who has to work 78 hours for 13s a week.

Not an Unhappy Life.

Yet Miss Barbara Drake assures us the life of the tea-shop waitress is not, on the whole, an unhappy one. "Something at least is hers of the gaiety and excitement which in many of the least of us are three or four girls, out of every staff of twelve or fourteen, are said to be taken out or otherwise treated by customers. The drive in the taxi, the dinner at the restaurant, the excitement of the theatre, sweet flattery and pretty things, after a long day in the shop—the delights of the evening are almost irresistible."

To simply address the preceding as innocent enough. With the young man, the clerk or the shop-assistant, little or nothing removed from the class of the waitress herself, marriage is not the infrequent result. It is the older man, the married man, the so-called "gentleman" of another class, who is said to be responsible for the dark places of a waitress' career.

One thing to remember in planning window boxes is that it is better to have a color scheme in mind and to buy flowers which conform to this scheme. For instance, pink and white can be carried out with pink geraniums and marguerites; scarlet and green, with red geraniums and ivy; Sweet alyssum, ageratum and marguerites, with white-edged vinca, make a charming combination of blue and white. Heliotrope, white geraniums and ivy are interesting for a lavender and white box.

Potted plants, sunk in a box of moss, can be used, or else the flowers and vines can be planted directly in the soil. If the moss-filled box is used the plants can be changed from time to time without much trouble, but possibly they do better when they are rooted in the soil of the box.

A metal box is suitable for holding the moss, but wood makes the best box in which flowers are to be planted directly. Cypress, authorities say, is the best wood, and although it costs a little more to begin with it outlasts any other kind.

The soil should be very rich—the smaller the box the richer the soil must be. The bottom of the box should be punctured with inch-wide holes in several places, and bits of broken flower pots should be so arranged over these holes as to make good drainage sure. Rich soil can be bought from a florist, or it can be bought from the woods in bags or boxes. Wood soil should generally be mixed with sand for use in winter boxes.

Nasturtiums Good.
Nasturtiums are satisfactory growers in boxes. The dwarf variety should be used, and the plants should be thinned out to stand six inches apart. The flowers should be picked regularly. If this method is followed blossoms can be had all summer, until frost kills the plants in the fall.

Climbing nasturtiums can be combined with those of dwarf habit. Two climbing plants at each of the two corners of the box nearest the window can be trained over a cord or a trellis made of wood which follows the outline of the window frame. It is not well to train any plant on wire, as the wire heats quickly in hot sun, and the stems twisted about it and ultimately causes the death of the plant.

Nevertheless, comparatively few girls to organize a trade union of tea-shop come to grief altogether—the waitress employees have failed so far, the only is little known to the rescue worker, remedy left, according to the writer, Her trade requires her to be a girl of for raising the present low standard of "savoir-faire" and quick parts, and she conditions, is an extension of the trade is able as a rule to take care of her-boards act.

The Remedy.
The need for reform in the tea-shop from 15s to 17s for a 55 hours' week, trade, the report states in conclusion, the writer claims that this is indeed a most interesting character to a house than well filled and cared for window boxes. In France this fact is fully understood. The humblest cottages are often gay with flowers blooming on the windowsills. Even the business houses there have made use of the window boxes, says a writer in the New York Sun.

One of the great dressmakers, whose name is known all over the world, appreciating the suggestion of charm and coyness which flowers give, has the windows of his business establishment fitted out with boxes filled with perfect, growing flowers. In the summer, the time when many of his foreign patrons visit Paris, his business house makes an altogether beautiful spot in a neighborhood which is itself attractive enough. Surely if the fair Canadian has any money to spend she will gladly spend it there.

Follow Color Scheme.
One thing to remember in planning window boxes is that it is better to have a color scheme in mind and to buy flowers which conform to this scheme. For instance, pink and white can be carried out with pink geraniums and marguerites; scarlet and green, with red geraniums and ivy; Sweet alyssum, ageratum and marguerites, with white-edged vinca, make a charming combination of blue and white. THE JUST AND THE JUST

By Vaughan Kester

The Prodigal Judge

Copyright, 1912, The Bobbs-Merrill Company.

But at last the end was in sight! If Moxlow had the brains he credited him with, North would be contented, the law satisfied, and his case cease to be of vital interest to anyone. Then of a sudden his fears would go from him, he would be born afresh into a heritage of new hope and new aspirations! He had suffered to the very limit of his capacity, there was such a thing as expiation, and surely he had expiated his crime.

Now Moxlow, lank and awkward, with long black locks sweeping the collar of his rusty coat, slipped from his chair and stood before the judge's desk. For an instant, Langham's glance shifted from his father to the accused man. He felt intense hatred of him; to his warped and twisted consciousness, he was mad as he was with drink and drugs. North's life seemed the one thing that stood between himself and safety—and clearly North had forfeited the right to live!

When Moxlow's even tones fell on the expectant hush, Langham writhed in his seat. Each word, he felt, had a dreadful significance. The big linen handkerchief went back and forth across his face as he sought to mop away the sweat that oozed from every pore. He had gone as deep in the prosecutor's course as he dared to go, he knew the man's power of invective and his sledge-hammer force in argument; he wanted him to cut loose and overwhelm North all in a breath! The blood in him leaped and tingled with suppressed excitement, his twitching lips shaped themselves with Moxlow's words. He felt that Moxlow was letting his opportunity pass him by that after all he was not equal to the task before him, that it was one thing to plan and quite another to perform. Men such as those jurors, must be powerfully moved or they would shrink from a verdict of guilty.

But Moxlow persisted in his level tones, he was not to be hurried. He felt the case as good as won, and there was the taste of triumph in his mouth. He was going to convict his man in spite of the best criminal lawyer in the state. Yet presently the level tones became more and more incisive, and Moxlow would walk toward North, his long finger extended, to loose a perfect storm of words that cut and stung and insulted. He went deep into North's past, and stripped him bare; shabby, mean and profligate, he pictured those few short years of his manhood until he became the broken spendthrift, desperately in debt, and was rendered deranged by the ruin that had overtaken him.

Moxlow's speech lasted three hours, and when he ended a burning mist was before North's eyes. He saw vaguely the tall figure of the judge, and he saw himself sink into a chair, and he gave a great sigh of relief. Perhaps North expected Belknap to perform a miracle, a feat of vindication in his behalf, certainly when his counsel advanced to the rail that guarded the bench there were both authority and confidence in his manner, and soon the dingy court room was echoing to the strident tones of the old criminal lawyer's voice. As the minutes passed, however, it became a certainty with North that no miracle would happen.

Health and Beauty Advice

BY MRS. MAE MARTYN.

Annette: (1) Sometimes a druggist endeavors to discourage the making of home-remedies because he thinks it interferes with his business. I never suggest the use of any of these remedies in first-class drug stores. (2) To make karene spring blood-tonic and liver remedy get 1 ounce of cod liver oil, 1 cupful of sugar, and add ½ pint of alcohol and ½ pint of hot water. This formula makes 1 tablespoonful 5 minutes before each meal and before retiring. As an all-around tonic this has no superior. It will restore your lost appetite and tend to strengthen and build you up. It purifies blood and your pimples and ugly blotches will soon disappear.

Virginia: A good "liquid-purifier" or face-wash, which when on seeds a part of the skin, is made by dissolving 4 ounces of epsom salt in 1 pint of hot water or witch hazel and adding 2 teaspoonfuls of glycerine. This home-made complexion-beautifier whitens the skin without the use of powder and is particularly recommended for the use of anyone who has a sallowness, dark or oily skin.

Constance: To remove dandruff and stop falling hair, apply once a week a quinine hair-tonic, made by dissolving 1 ounce of quinine in ½ pint of alcohol, adding ½ pint of cold water. Rub into the scalp and hair with the finger tips until absorbed. This treatment will promote the growth of hair and tend to make it lustrous and glossy. (See answer to Molly.)

Molly: It is not necessary to shampoo the hair oftener than twice a month if you use a shampoo that will thoroughly cleanse the hair and scalp. An inexpensive shampoo that makes the hair feel good and helps the hair is made by dissolving a teaspoonful of carboxin in a cupful of hot water. Pour on the hair and rub well. You will find that this makes a good lather—and plenty of it—thoroughly cleanses the hair and scalp and relieves irritation and stimulates roots to healthy action.

Viola: Yes, healthy eyes are clear and sparkling. If yours are dull, red and inflamed you need an eye-tonic. Get an ounce of crystals from your druggist and dissolve it in a pint of water. One or two drops in each eye every day is all that is required. This eye-tonic will not smart or burn and will give relief when the eyes are tired, containing salts and oils that the eyes will benefit you if you wear glasses.

Laura: Your friend is right in saying that I know a certain wrinkle-remover which can be made at home at a very little expense. It is a vegetable product and is known as "Orrine." It is made from the cream of a certain plant and is so simple to use that it is almost fool-proof. It is neither greasy nor makes the flesh loose and flabby. Just dissolve an ounce of orrine in one-half pint of cold water and add 2 teaspoonfuls of glycerine. This makes a thick coat of cream-jelly and leave on overnight. This protects the skin and allows the blood to circulate and in constructing new texture. Then wash it out of the pores and massage thoroughly with more orrine. It makes the skin soft and velvety, while it is unequalled in reducing large pores.

Student: It will be good news to you to learn that what you eat is now thought to be of great importance. A healthy woman may eat what she wants. To half starve oneself means to look haggard and eat, even water, and don't drink alcoholic beverages at any time. The food you eat should be of the best. Get from your druggist an original 4-ounce package of orrine, take it home and dissolve in ½ pint of hot water. Take one tablespoonful three times a day, before meals.

Otha N.: The disfiguring hairy growth can be permanently banished by using a delicate paste. Get a small, original package of orrine and mix with enough of the powder with water to cover the objectionable hairs. Let remain 2 or 3 minutes, then remove and wash the skin. This simple treatment dissolves the hairs and leaves the skin free from blemish.

MAGISTRATE SPEARS FOR ZAM-BUK

Magistrate Perry, of Goldfields, B.C., believes in making a good thing known. Writing of Zam-Buk, the great household balm, he says:—"After a very fair trial I have proved Zam-Buk eminently satisfactory. In my case it cured a skin rash of five years' standing which no doctor had been able to do any good for. I would certainly encourage anyone to keep Zam-Buk in his home." The magistrate is quite right. Every home needs Zam-Buk! Unequalled for cuts, burns, bruises, eczema, blood poisoning and all skin diseases. All stores and druggists sell it at 50 cents a box. Sure cure for piles.

DON'T NEGLECT THAT SORE!

A Chicago man has just died from blood poisoning arising from neglect of a small sore. Don't neglect a cut, a patch of eczema, or an open sore of any kind. The air is full of poison germs waiting to start up their evil results in neglected sores, wounds, etc. In Zam-Buk is safety. Zam-Buk is so highly antiseptic that applied to any kind of sore or injury it makes blood poisoning impossible. In using Zam-Buk you have three processes going on at once for Zam-Buk is healing, soothing and antiseptic. Try it without delay.

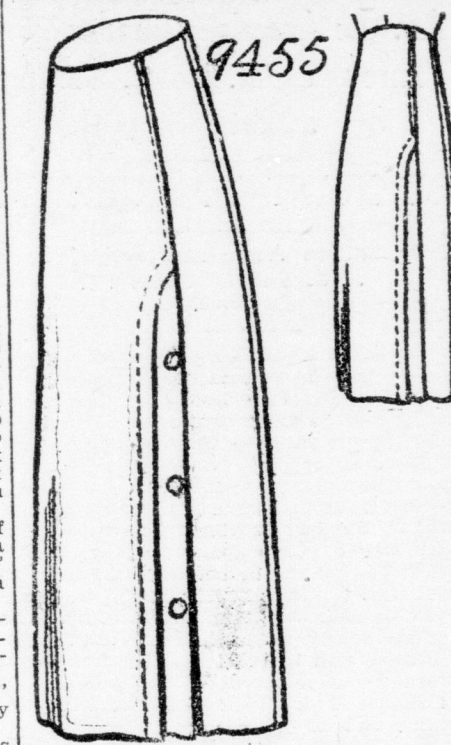

A GENUINE OFFER.

TEST ZAM-BUK AT OUR EXPENSE!

We appreciate the position taken by the man or woman who says:—"If your preparation is what you claim, you should have no objection to letting us try it before spending our money on it." To every person taking this view we say, send one cent stamp (to pay return postage) and name and date of this paper to Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, and we will mail you a free trial box for. Zam-Buk is purely herbal, suitable for the delicate skin of little children, yet powerful enough to heal chronic sores of long years' standing. All druggists and stores, 50c. per box, 3 for $1.25.

DIED AT MUIRKIRK

Mrs. J. Goodbrand, Was One of the Oldest Settlers in the District.

(Special to The Advertiser.)

Muirkirk, April 15.—The funeral of Mrs. J. Goodbrand held to the Duart Cemetery, was conducted by Rev. J. Bannatyne. Mrs. Goodbrand was 88 years old, and one of the oldest residents of the district. Besides her husband she leaves three sons on the homestead, Alex, of Rodney, and William, of Sault Ste. Marie, and two daughters, Mrs. McIntyre, of St. Thomas, and Mrs. Blain, of Oil Springs.

Very little work has been done on the land in this vicinity yet, but if the weather keeps fine this week spring work will be going on. The wheat and corn in the fields are in good condition, and are in good condition. Help seems scarce than ever, which means that less land will be cropped and more pasture.

Miss Allie Bannatyne was in London recently.

Miss Nellie Fisher is visiting with friends in Harwich.

Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Stimers were in St. Thomas recently.

Mr. H. H. Templeman, of London, was here during the past week making improvements on his farm.

Miss Kate Beebe, of Ridgeway, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. J. W. Clark.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. McPhail spent Saturday in London.

The remains of Mrs. A. Diamond, whose death occurred in Detroit, arrived via the M. C. R. yesterday, and interment was made in the Duart Cemetery.

James Dunham Dies.

Was for Years a Farmer in London Township—Resided in City Recently.

James Dunham, an aged resident of this city, and formerly a farmer in London Township, died at his home, 63 Wellington road, on Sunday. He was confined to his bed for the past two years as a result of an accident to his hip five years ago.

Mr. Dunham was born in Devonshire, England, 80 years ago, and when a young boy came to Canada. Until ten years ago he resided at the corner of the first gore and Hale street.

Deceased was a well-known agriculturist, and won fame in winning many old-time playing contests which were in vogue a few decades ago. He is survived by his wife, one daughter and two sons.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. tomorrow at the residence of the daughter, Mrs. J. W. Clark, 63 Wellington road.

Interment will be in the Duart Cemetery.

W. T. Strong, 154 Dundas Street.

WEDDING BELLS

COSMAN—FORD.

(Special to The Advertiser.)

Dorchester, April 15.—Word has been received here of a very pretty wedding which took place in Winnipeg recently when Miss Winnifred Ford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Ford, of Dorchester, was married to Mr. Harry O. Cosman, of Calgary, by Rev. Wm. B. Heenan, rector of St. Luke's Church.

The bride was given away by her uncle, Mr. R. J. Sanderson, and was assisted by her sister, Miss Nettie Ford, of Winnipeg, while Mr. William Waugh acted as best man.

Immediately after the ceremony the young couple and their friends partook of a wedding dinner, after which Mr. and Mrs. Cosman left for their future home in Calgary. The bride's mother, Mrs. J. J. Ford, was present for the occasion.

PINCOMBE—BULLER.

(Special to The Advertiser.)

Lambeth, April 15.—A quiet wedding took place at the parsonage here yesterday afternoon when Miss Ellen R. Buller, of Brich street, became the bride of Mr. John H. Pincombe, Rev. Mr. Garbutt performed the ceremony. The couple were unattended, and after a honeymoon trip to Buffalo and other eastern points, will reside on concession 2, of Westminster.

BLENHEIM DEADLOCK

Council Will Try to Settle Trouble Next Friday Evening.

(Special to The Advertiser.)

Blenheim, April 15.—For the second time in a week a deadlock has occurred in the town council. On Friday evening a special meeting was called to award the contract for street sprinkling and road work, but business was blocked by the even division of the council. The two tenders under discussion were those of Wm. Snow and Jas. Stewart. Mr. Stewart's tender was higher, but it was claimed he had always done the work satisfactorily and therefore should receive the contract. The opposite parties claimed it was business to give it to the lowest. The council decided to meet again next Friday evening.

THREE YEARS OF MISERY

Mrs. Burnside Escaped an Operation by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mahoningtown, Pa.—"For three years I suffered untold misery every month, and had to stay in bed the first two or three days. I also had a displacement and other ailments peculiar to women. I became so weak and run down I could scarcely walk across the floor."

"The doctor told me I would never be well unless I would undergo an operation, but I was advised by my mother to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and after I had taken four bottles I am strong and well. I have got others to take your medicine with the same good results and they cannot say enough for it."—Mrs. J. A. BURNSIDE, Mahoningtown, Pa.

Thousands of unsolicited and genuine testimonials like the above prove the efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Women who suffer from those distressing ills should not lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

EMISSARIES FROM MANITOBA TAKEN BY ALBERTA POLICE

Four Placed Under Arrest Charged With Violation of the Elections Act—Famous "Workers" Invade Alberta to Fight the Liberals.

Edmonton, April 14.—Two hundred and fifty emissaries, who were specially appointed by the Government of Alberta last week to preserve the respectability of the present election campaign, are beginning to show results. Reports of the arrival of four of the Hon. Robert Rogers' political emissaries from Manitoba were received at the office of the provincial Liberal organizer here today. A man who calls himself Crutcher, but who is really said to be a famous worker who figured prominently in the MacDonald by-election last fall, was taken into custody at Carmanagay on suspicion. He was tried and remanded for eight days. The charge against him is that of bribery under the election act, and also that of supplying liquor to an elector.

Money and Whiskey.
Amadeo Lapointe, who was said to be a Manitoba political worker, was arrested this morning at St. Paul de Metis, in the St. Paul constituency. He has been copiously supplied with money, whiskey, and other port wine, and it is alleged he has been carrying on corrupt operations in this particular locality during the past week. Another man, who has given his name as Stevens in one place and as Stephenson in another, and who says that he is a special homestead inspector, was arrested near Youngstown, in the constituency of Acadia, on a charge of bribery connected with the issuance of patents. A late report from Warner constituency, in the southern part of the province, says that an arrest of an unknown man was made there today.

Rogers' Band Busy.
The Liberal organizers here say that they have been closely in touch with advisers in Winnipeg and at different parts of Saskatchewan for the past six weeks, and that their officers had followed several bands of Mr. Rogers' political warriors into Alberta, one of them from as far east as Ottawa. The famous Marsh Jackman is a Canadian from Winnipeg named Budnowick, who, with four men, has been working amongst his countrymen around Vegreville and Vermillion.

Main Estimates for Province

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Toronto, April 14.—Old Man Ontario's preliminary bill of expenses for 1913-14 is $9,524,537.66, comprising the main estimates for the fiscal year commencing Nov. 1 next, which were presented to the Legislature yesterday. The main estimates for last year were $8,444,966.66, and the increase is largely accounted for in salary increases and higher maintenance charges on public institutions, as well as a natural growth in the provincial services. The amount is divided as follows: Current expenditure for 1913-14, $8,553,387; capital expenditure, $1,042,000; other purposes, $129,000. The distribution under the various headings is as follows: Civil Government, $778,024; legislation, $299,355; administration of justice, $771,259.96; education, $2,139,841; public institutions maintenance, $1,462,612; agriculture, $731,936; colonization and immigration, $122,600; hospitals and charities, $810,000; colonization and departmental buildings, $172,020; public buildings—(1) repairs, $82,700; (2) capital account, $958,800; public works, $83,200; colonization and mining roads, $129,000; charges on crown lands, $679,500; refunds account, $92,500; miscellaneous expenditure, $609,345. The larger items of expenditure are a rebate of $100,000 for the new Government House, London. Asylum is to be improved at a cost of $7,000; $150,000 goes to the new Central Prison for lands, buildings, live stock and farm equipment. Ontario Agricultural College gets a new dining hall to cost $50,000. The cost of the Ontario Veterinary College at Toronto will be $110,000, with $20,000 for equipment. Saint John's, Marjorie and Sudbury are to have industrial farms if a suitable location can be found; $20,000 is the vote in each case. Port Arthur may get $20,000 towards a courthouse, and Port William $10,000 for a registry office, under certain conditions. The new courthouse for Temiskaming district will cost $25,000 to complete. A miscellaneous item of $125,000 goes to complete public buildings at the end of the fiscal year, to be paid under order from the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council. Colonization roads get $129,000. The fourth payment of $50,000 is to be made to the provincial museum, and another $20,000 goes to survey the boundary between Ontario and Manitoba.

INTERNAL STRIFE IN TORONTO HYDRO OFFICE

General Manager Says Inside Politics Is Injuring Department and Wants New Chairman.

Toronto, April 15.—Internal conditions in the Toronto hydro-electric commission have been brought to a head by a letter signed by W. R. Sweeney and his associates on the staff, sent to the mayor and the board of control, in which they alleged "inside politics," charge the deterioration of the institution, and ask the immediate appointment of a successor to P. W. Ellis, the chairman, whose term has just expired. It has been noted about the city hall for several days that there was dissatisfaction in the ranks, and a request made to Mayor Hocken yesterday afternoon brought forth the letter which had been sent to him and the members of the board of control.

To Hold Inquiry.
It is said that since Mr. Geary left the commission, and Mr. Drayton became a member of the Dominion railway board, and resigned from the hydro, there has been more or less strife in the organization. Mayor Hocken is a member of the commission, but is naturally engaged a large part of his time in his duties as the city's chief executive, and the management has been left in the hands of Mr. Ellis.

The board of control was to have considered the letter yesterday, but was busy with the estimates and could not reach this matter. Mr. Ellis last evening stated that the Toronto hydro-electric commission would take immediate steps to investigate the situation which brought forth the letter from Mr. Sweeney and his associates. The course which will be pursued is not yet known because of the sudden manner in which the affair was opened.

The club has rented a plot of ground from the Forest Pleasure Park Company, and is making arrangements for three indoor courts. The work has already commenced. The following officers were elected: Honorary President—Dr. J. H. Pickering. Honorary Vice-President—Dr. E. B. Blain. President—D. M. Tait. Secretary—Will Seaton. Treasurer—Mr. Tait. Grounds Committee—Mr. Cole, Mr. Tait, Dr. Huffman. Membership Committee—Forrie Steele, Dr. Huffman and Fred Douglas.

EXPERT TO GIVE TALK ON POULTRY RAISING

Farmers Around Wardville Are Preparing to Spray Their Orchards Shortly.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Wardville, April 15.—An open meeting of the Farmers' Club is to be held in the town hall on Thursday night. The topic, "Poultry Culture," will be discussed by Rev. B. Snell, who has given considerable attention to the poultry question. Good music is promised. Ladies are especially invited. A great number of farmers in this community are preparing to spray their orchards. The spray material is prepared at a steam plant in the village. The use of this material is so effective last year that there is an increased demand for it this year.

Mr. Jardine, ex-principal of the high school, has made some improvement. After being in a comatose condition for six days, he has regained consciousness, and hopes for his recovery are entertained. Rev. McRae, of Arthur, occupied the Presbyterian church pulpits at Wardville and Newbury on Sunday. The Local W. M. S. will hold their anniversary services in the Methodist church on Sunday next. The society held its annual meeting for election of officers recently, and chose the following: President, Mrs. J. A. Dowdell; first vice-president, Mrs. Branton; second vice-president, Mrs. H. Brimmon; recording secretary, Mrs. J. Bilton; corresponding secretary and treasurer, Miss B. Gardiner.

PAISLEY LACROSSE TEAM ORGANIZED

"The Bunch" Will Be Open for Exhibition Matches Only.
[Special to The Advertiser.]
Paisley, April 15.—At a largely attended and very enthusiastic meeting a lacrosse club was organized with the following officers: President—J. S. Dewar. First Vice-President—Wm. McDonald, M. P. P. Second Vice-President—J. G. Donnelly, M. P. Secretary—James Mitchell. Captain—James Ellis. Manager—Wm. Archer. The team will be known as "The Bunch," and is open only for exhibition matches.

FIRST BOAT LEAVES GODERICH FOR THE SOO

Navigation Will Be in Full Swing in a Day or Two.

Goderich, April 15.—Navigation opened yesterday at Goderich. The steamer Drummond, of the Algoma Central Line, left for the Sault to load rails for Fort William, and in the afternoon the Empress of Fort William left for the Sault.

The lake and harbor is clear of ice and the other freighters are getting up steam so that in a few days the large fleet of freighters that harbored here will all be in commission. General Brough Chapter, I. O. E., had their annual meeting yesterday afternoon in the jury room at the court house. Mr. Hume, principal of the Collegiate Institute, gave a very interesting address.

WILL HAVE TO REPORT MEASLES OUTBREAKS

Stanley Township Board of Health Will Issue Instructions at Once.
[Special to The Advertiser.]
Brucefield, April 15.—The Stanley board of health met Saturday and decided to issue a few placards and place them in prominent places to notify people that the law requires them to notify the medical health officer when they know or suspect that any person within their family or household has any communicable disease. The law requires them to give notification within twelve hours, and any person concealing any disease would be dealt with according to the law, which says that a fine shall not exceed $20. The reason for this is on account of the outbreak of measles in other places, and there are a few cases getting in here, and so many people think that measles has not to be reported, but it is now on the list of communicable diseases, and has to be reported and quarantined.

Word has been received here by Mr. John Foote, Bannockburn, that his brother, David, in Seattle, was dead. He had been ill for some time with a complication of diseases. Mr. Foote was known here, as he visited here several times. He was in the Klondike for many years. It is likely that a barber shop will soon be opened in Brucefield. Mr. George Little, who learned the trade with Charles Clark, Seaford, is home to assist his father for the summer on the farm, and will open a shop for at least two nights a week. It will fill a long-felt want, and George should do a good trade.

Farmers in this vicinity have not been able to do any work on the land, but with the coming of fair weather of the past few days it will not be long before they start. Captain Tom Robson, of London, was here recently. Brucefield public library now has over the 100 members required to get the Government grant. The library is in a flourishing condition, and few places can boast of as fine an assortment of books.

TIED OF LIFE

Girl Near St. Catharines Kills Herself With Carbolic Acid.
[Canadian Press.]
St. Catharines, April 14.—Maud Bowman, daughter of Ezra Bowman, a farmer, residing in Bramham Township, five miles from here, ended her life on Saturday night by swallowing carbolic acid. A note was found on her person saying she was tired of life. Her parents were unable to account for the girl's rash act.

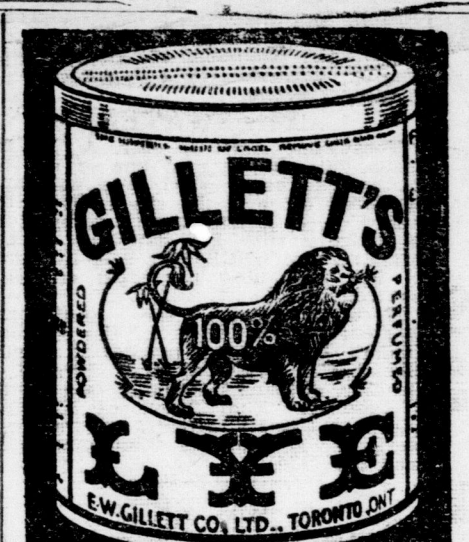

Could Not Sleep Well For Four Years.

HEART AND NERVES WERE BAD.

To the thousands of people who toss on a sleepless pillow night after night, or who pace the bedroom floor with nerves unhealed, heart action wrong, and to whose eye sleep will not come, Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills offer the blessing of sound, refreshing slumber. They restore the equilibrium of the deranged nerve centres and correct the wrong action of the heart. Mrs. Wm. Douglas, Thessalon, Ont., writes:—"I am going to send you my testimonial for what your Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills did for me. For four years I could not sleep well at night, as my heart and nerves were so bad. I tried all the doctors here, but none of them helped me. I read of your Heart and Nerve Pills, and tried only a few boxes, and I can certainly say they did me a great amount of good. I can now sleep as well as ever, and can advise anyone who suffers from heart trouble to try them."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50 cents a box; 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Sir Wilfrid Moves In Russian's Behalf

Ottawa, April 14.—Three Russians by birth, now Canadian citizens and Alberta homesteaders, have been sent to Siberia for life for failing to undertake military duty for the land of their birth during the Russo-Japanese war, according to the report from Calgary, to which Sir Wilfrid Laurier, briefly directed attention of Parliament this afternoon. It was stated that the British authorities found it impossible to interfere in their behalf. "The case illustrates the difficulties which may arise in connection with naturalization in Canada, to which the attention of the Government has already been directed," observed the Liberal chief, "and the need for some uniformity and co-operation in British naturalization in the overseas Dominions." He asked if it was the intention of the Government to take up the matter with the British authorities, with a view to having them take action on behalf of the three men in question. Premier Borden said he had not heard of the cases. He would, however, take up the matter with the Minister of Justice, with a view to seeing whether representations should be made by Canada.

How to make a stew—a really good stew.

Here is just the weather for a grand, hot, steaming stew; below is just the recipe for one of the finest stews that ever a good cook made—a real, good Irish Stew. The secret of a successful Irish stew is in the last few lines of the recipe below. Make the stew as the recipe tells you—don't forget the Edwards' Soup—and well, you'll be sorry to see the bottom of the plate through.

EDWARDS' SOUPS
50c. per packet.

Edwards' Soup imparts nourishment, strength, flavour, and colour—it is just as good for scores of other things as it is for Irish stews. Get a few packets and see. This is how to make it—IRISH STEW. Put in a saucepan twelve peeled potatoes, sliced in thin slices of a penny, four large onions sliced—a layer of each—well salt and pepper to taste. Put in one and a half pints of water. Boil for one hour. Add a can of Edwards' Soup for thirty minutes; add it to the contents of the stew-pan, and simmer altogether for twenty minutes. The soup is ready to eat.

ST. MARYS BLAZE
Fire in Long Grass for a Time Threatened Property.
[Special to The Advertiser.]
St. Marys, April 15.—Fire got into some long grass below the Thames quaries last evening, and as the blaze spread rapidly, the fire whistle was sounded, and the brigade responded quickly, and soon extinguished the flames. For a time there were fears that the fire might spread to valuable property. St. Marys annual spring fair will be held on Thursday, April 17. Mr. Elliott Dunn, of West Nissouri, left yesterday afternoon for Long-grace, Man., where he intends to go extensively into farming. Some farmers up the river road have done some seeding, but many others have been delayed in getting onto the land as a result of recent rains. There is also a great scarcity of farm help. The case of Abner Fuller vs. the Thames Quarry Company is to be tried in London on April 21. The plaintiff has summoned 18 witnesses. Forty years in use, twenty years the standard, prescribed and recommended by physicians. For Woman's Ailments, Dr. Martell's Female Pills, at your druggist's.

Ever Have Cramps, Nausea, Vomiting

THEN USE NERVILINE.
For Stomach Pains and Cramps, No Remedy So Prompt as Nerviline.
A Westerner's Experience Related.

"It's in an unsettled part of the country like our West that proves how valuable Nerviline is. I have written Mr. Patrick M. Dehaney, from Fort Saskatchewan, 'Chills are frequent—a hot drink of Nerviline sends me circulating through the body in three minutes. Cramps or sudden illness at night is one of our terrors. No druggist or doctor is near, but if Nerviline is handy you can get relief. The worst cramps I have known of have been in my children in half a minute. I don't think any farmer's wife has any right to be without the protection of Nerviline. In our family we use it for all hundred ills, and it cures them all. One night one of my kiddies had ear-ache and another toothache. Without Nerviline no one could have slept—I applied it as directed, and the child's pains disappeared. My husband uses Nerviline for lame back, rheumatism, aching joints and all sorts of muscular pains. It is a good inside as outside, and is as much a part of my home as my kitchen stove. You find a thousand uses for a good family remedy like Nerviline. Get the 50c family size bottle; it's more economical than the 25c trial size. Sold by all storekeepers and druggists, or The Catarthozone Co., Kingston, Ont."

WHEN A LAXATIVE IS NEEDED—"CASCARETS"

Gently Clean Your Liver and Constipated Bowels While You Sleep

Take a Cascaret tonight and thoroughly cleanse your Liver, Stomach and Bowels, and you will sleep great by morning. You men and women who have headache, coated tongue, can't sleep, are bilious, nervous and upset, bowels with a sick, gassy, disordered stomach, or have backache and are all worn out. Are you keeping your bowels clean with Cascarets—or merely forcing a passage every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil? This is important. Cascarets immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver, and carry off the constipated waste matter and poison from the intestines and bowels. Remember, a Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning. A 10-cent box from your druggist means healthy bowel action; a clear head and cheerfulness for months. Don't forget the children.

SETTLED IN MISSOURI SEVENTY YEARS AGO

Funeral of Donald Patience Was Held to Ingersoll Rural Cemetery.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Ingersoll, April 15.—The funeral of Donald Patience, an East Nissouri pioneer, was held to the Ingersoll rural cemetery yesterday afternoon, and was largely attended. Deceased had reached the advanced age of 93 years, and was the oldest pioneer of East Nissouri, and one of the oldest residents of Oxford County. He came to Canada upwards of 70 years ago, and settled in the Township of East Nissouri, where for a long period he was a most successful farmer. He was born in Avoch, Ross-shire, Scotland. For the past eighty years he has made his home with his daughter, Mrs. Robert Bartindale. He possessed a very retentive memory, and his accounts of early pioneer life were extremely interesting. He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Bartindale and Mrs. Day, Ingersoll, and three sons, C. R., Toronto; Donald, of Jackson, Mich., and John, on the homestead, East Nissouri.

Death has claimed one of the oldest and most respected residents in the person of Samuel D. Embury, who passed away at the age of 82 years. He had for many years been a resident of the township, and was widely known. About ten days ago he was stricken with paralysis, and from the first his condition was serious. The funeral will take place to the Harris street cemetery.

Norman McPherson Had Resided There For the Past Fifty Years.
[Special to The Advertiser.]
Kincardine, April 15.—Norman McPherson, aged 68, for 50 years a resident of Kincardine, is dead at his home here after a brief illness. He conducted the milling business on the Penetanguishene River with his father. Wm. Temple, partner in the shoe business of Selleny & Temple, has been appointed lighthouse keeper for Kincardine harbor, and took over his duties today.

FATAT STRIKE RIOTS

One Man Killed in Clash Between Railway Laborers and Police.

[Canadian Press.]
New York, April 14.—One man was shot and killed, one was mortally wounded, and several others injured in a battle at Mamaroneck today between the police and several hundred strike laborers on the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad. Five strikers are under arrest charged with rioting in the county jail at White Plains. The sheriff of West Chester County has gone to Mamaroneck with a force of deputies in anticipation of further rioting.

STRIKE PRACTICALLY OVER.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Owen Sound, April 14.—Practically all of the men who were locked out recently at the Wm. Kennedy steel plant are back at work again. The firm does not recognize the union, but agreed to pay $3 per day, the union scale.

MELROSE.
Melrose, April 15.—Cecil, youngest son of Mr. George Bowman, Lobo, is ill with appendicitis. Miss Nellie Weston has returned to her home in London.

TEESWATER.
Teeswater, April 15.—Mr. A. M. Robinson, late manager of one of the local banks, has been called to a position in the head office in the city of Hamilton. Mrs. R. J. Evans is going to live in Calgary with her daughter, Mrs. C. Maharg, and will have a sale by auction of her farm and household effects on Saturday next.

Notwithstanding the unfavorable weather the W. M. S. of the Methodist Church had a very successful meeting. The pastor presided, and Rev. W. A. Bradley, of Knox Church, gave a splendid address on "The Claims of Missionary Work in the Northwest." Refreshments were served, and the thankoffering was well over $20.

PAISLEY.

Paisley, April 15.—The creamery commenced the season's work on Monday. Farmers are busy plowing. Spring work has been very much hindered by a wet season, and also by the need of repairing the heavy damage which was done by the windstorm on Good Friday. Mr. L. Rankin has sold his livery business to Mr. D. Sparrow, who has taken possession, and intends adding a couple of motor cars to the livery for public service. Mrs. W. Callum and daughter Margaret, of Calvin, North Dakota, are visiting the Messrs. Miller.

Mrs. P. O. Fisher, of Regina, Sask., is a guest at the home of her father, Mr. Archibald Fisher. Mr. Richard Stait, of Fergus, is here on a business trip. Mrs. H. Porter, of Olds, Alta., is visiting her mother, Mrs. A. McKenzie. Mrs. D. McArthur and the Misses McArthur, McKerracher, McLeod, Mundell, Sutherland, and Messrs. J. A. Loe, J. Johnston, D. McKerracher, J. H. Steele, A. A. Sinclair and Dr. Hueston attended the bachelors' and benedicts' ball in Port Elgin.

BRUSSELS.

Brussels, April 15.—Prof. Zavitz of the Ontario Agricultural College, has been secured to address the Canadian Club at Ethel on the evening of May 16. James and Miss Botz, well-known residents of this locality, have left for a trip to the West. The former has leased his 160-acre farm. Norman McLeod, of Ripley, was married to Miss Eliza J. Burke of Grey Township, recently. Rev. D. Wren officiated. St. John's Church Guild will hold a bazaar and concert in the town hall on Friday, April 18.

Mrs. James Maxwell, an old resident of Brussels, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Cameron, at Galesburg, Mich., recently. She was in her 79th year, and is survived by a grown-up family. An effort is being made to secure an earlier mail from the east on the W. G. and E. B., so that the first train will get here about 9 a.m. instead of 11 a.m., and so east about 4 instead of 3 p.m., as at present.

BENCH WARRANTS FOR NEW HAVEN HEADS
[Canadian Press.]
Bridgeport, Conn., April 15.—Bench warrants for President Chas. S. Mellen and Vice-President E. H. McHenry, of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad, were issued this morning by Judge Green in the criminal side of the superior court. They charge the two officials with gross negligence and manslaughter in connection with the Westport wreck last October, in which several lives were lost.

The Advertiser Staff Greet the Joyous Spring

BILL'S SPRING POEM—THAT'S ALL.

PA'S SPRING POETIC EFFORT

Why is it pa sits sadly,
Mouth all puckered, frowning badly,
And in silence eats his frugal morning meal?
Don't he hear the birds a-twitter?
Can't he see the dewdrops glitter?
Won't he feel the gladsome springtime? Not a fee!

Can a simple Easter bonnet,
With a peck of fruit upon it,
The bill for which came in the early mail,
Make him look so morbid?
Does he have thoughts so sordid?
Can't he hail the vernal season? Not a hail!

Oh, no! Pa's not a squealer;
It's no hat or drygoods dealer
That gives his shoulders such a woeful hump;
For he knows all men are liars, Though it's springtime we must have fires.
Have we coal to keep 'em going?
Not a lump!

THE NEWS EDITOR'S POME.
Oh, bring the good old sulphur out,
Molasses, too, alack;
This time to take
All kinds of dope,
Sweet springtime has come back!

KATY'S POME.
THAT'S ALL.

OH! YOU GAY SPRINGTIME!

THE GOLDEN SUN IN THE ARCH OF THE EAST IS PAINTING THE TIDES OF THE HILLS, HE'S REDDENING THE LARCH AND TINTING
THE BANKS OF VIOLETS ALONG THE RILLS.
SPRING! SPRING! BEAUTIFUL

THE WARM BREEZE RUSTLES THE DEAD
GREY MARSH,
SURE SIGN OF WINTER'S WANE
WHILE HIGH OVER HEAD SPREADS A TURKISH SKY.
NO IT AIN'T! IT'S STARTING TO RAIN
SPRING! SPRING! SLOPPY SPRING!

THE RAIN ROUNDS DOWN IN CRYSTAL SHEETS
IT FLOODS THE HILL AND DALE,
NOW LET ME SEE WHAT RHYMES WITH DALEY!

GOOD GOSH! IT'S STARTING TO HAIL
SPRING! SPRING! CHANGEABLE

THE CLOUD TOSSED SKYS ARE PUTTING PEARLS
AS BIG AS ANY OF THOSE THAT CIRCLE LADY'S CREAMY (KATCHEE!)
WELL I'LL BE DARNED! IT SNOWS!

(HOLD YOUR NOSE AND SPEAK THIS VERSE SLOWLY)

DA WID ID WHISLE AROUND BY EYES
DA RIBID HAD DEAD ID AWAY,
DILL RIDISH DIS DOGGASSED POBE, WHED SPRIG GEDS 'ERE DO STAY
SPRING! SPRING! DARNED ODE

When the Spring Fever

Gets the Spring Poet

It's All Off!

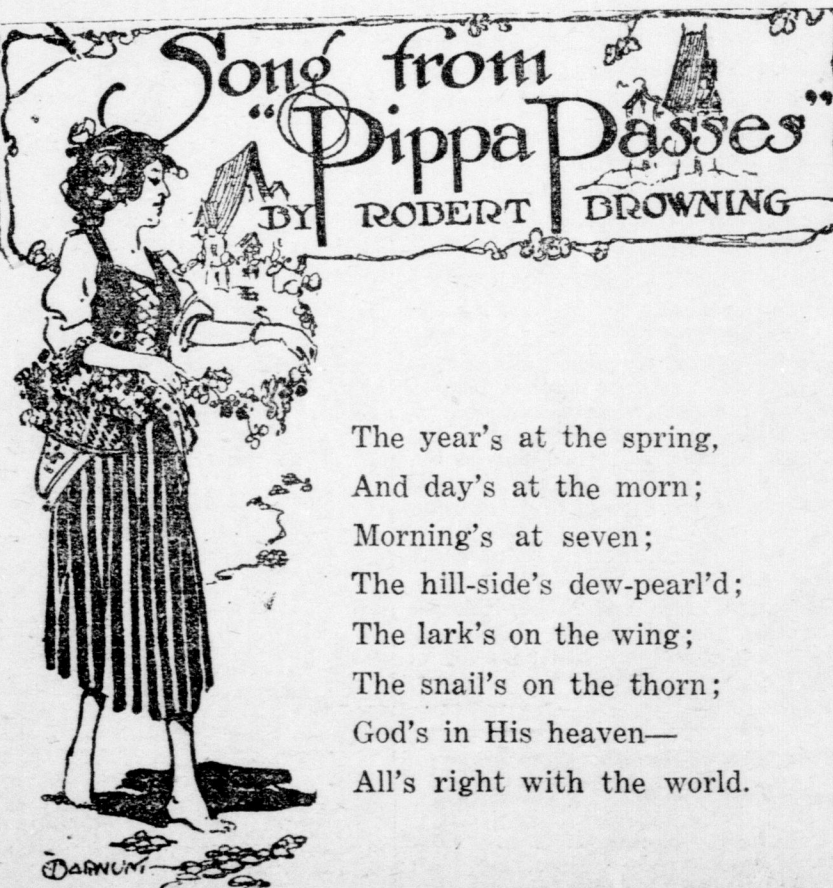

Oh, you soft and balmy breeze,
Sighing gently through the trees;
Oh, you pleasant April rain,
Coaxing things to grow again,
Bringing out the hue of green,
Fresh and lush and sweet and clean:
Oh, you lethargy that steals Over one until he feels Only fit to lie and dream
By some fair and sunlit stream;
Oh, you wonderlust that thrills
With the lure of distant hills;
Oh, you maids in springtime dress,
Setting off your loveliness;
Oh, you deep despair which fills Fathers when they see the bills;
Oh, you spell of bat and ball
Which will hold men till the fall;
Oh, you lovers making love;
Oh, you smiling skies above;
Oh, you life—and everything;
Oh, you April—oh, you spring!

Larry Ho's Spring Poem

It isn't raining rain to me,
It's raining garden-sass;
It's raining carrots, beans and peas,
And O, it's raining grass—
And when the grass begins to grow
I must arise at dawn
And push the mower to and fro
Upon the wistful lawn.

It isn't raining rain to me—
It's raining angleworms,
With many an acrobatic stunt
Of twists and crawls and squirms
O, angleworms be funny things,
Yet wonderfully wise—
Lest they should see improper sights
They never bring their eyes.

It isn't raining rain to me,
It's raining pumpkin pies,
Although it never rains enough
Or rains them the right size;
I almost fear the rain will stop
And that the clouds will break—
It's raining pumpkin pies for me,
And also stummik-ache.

The program opened with a piano recital by Misses Verna Dobbyn, Maud Jupp, Margaret Johnston and Mrs. Vining. Miss Shirley and Master Carson Lind appeared in a piano duet, as did also Miss Margaret Johnston and Verna Dobbyn. The young pianists, none of whom were over 16 years of age, were: Margaret Brennan, Mildred Chantler, Florence Line, George Taylor, Marlon Grant, Shirley Lind, Ruth Davis, Grace Sing, Emma Harkness, Maud Jupp, Eleanor Grant, Dorothy Davis, Gwendolyn Scandrett, Dorothy McConvery, Carson Lind, Margaret Johnston, Marjorie Croden, Verna Dobbyn, Marian Tanton, Mary Ashton and Carrie Beer. The numbers throughout were artistically rendered.

Suit Against Birkbeck
Dismissed at Osgoode
A case, Leslie vs. Canadian Birkbeck, tried in the trial court at Osgoode Hall before Judge Britton on Monday, is of considerable importance locally, as the defendant company was engaged in the loaning business in this city some years ago before winding-up proceedings were commenced.

Action by Helen Hill Leslie, a Kingston shareholder of defendant company, for an account to be taken of profits earned by the company in respect of the moneys paid in by her to the said company, and that amount of such earnings applicable to plaintiff's shares be applied in payment up in full of her shares so that said shares shall rank as fully paid up stock to the amount of $1,000.
Judgment: There was not in my opinion any such contract as plaintiff alleges, either with the old company or the defendants. If any such with the old company it was broken by the new in passing the bylaw of March 3, 1902. The matter of surplus profits available for distribution must be determined by the directors in the honest administration of the affairs of defendant company. Action dismissed without costs. Thirty days stay.
W. Nesbitt, K.C., appeared for the plaintiff, and Messrs. B. Osler & E. D. Wallace for the defendants.

Appeal Against Award of $230 Damages Dismissed

The appeal of the Mitchell Garage and Sales Company, of this city, against the judgment given by Judge Macbeth on Feb. 12, 1929, in the action of R. Hueston & Sons, also of London, was dismissed in the appellate division at Osgoode Hall on Monday.
The action was commenced by the plaintiffs, owners of a lively stable, to recover $500 for damages to a cab and for the death of a horse caused by a collision at the corner of Waterloo and Dundas streets between a cab owned by the plaintiffs and a taxi the property of the defendants. The collision was alleged to have been caused by the negligence of the driver of the taxi.
At the time of the trial in the county court, Judge Macbeth awarded the plaintiffs damages amounting to $230 and also costs. The defendants were also ordered to pay the costs of the appeal. L. McCarthy, of Toronto, for the appellants and G. S. Gibbons for the plaintiffs.
The court was composed of Chief Justice Mulock and Judges Clute, Riddell, Sutherland and Leitch.

Hyatt Avenue Methodist Choir Concert a Success

The annual choir concert of the Hyatt Avenue Methodist Church on Monday evening was pleasing and successful to a marked degree. The first part consisted of a miscellaneous program in which the choir was assisted by Mr. W. H. Adams, Mr. McAdams, and Miss Georgia Newbury. A male quartette of members of the choir, Messrs. Patterson, Tutt, Moyer and Baker, rendered "Excelsior" (Balfie), in a very creditable manner.
Much interest was manifested in the cantata "Ruth," which was then presented by leader, N. Burleigh Adams, and his excellent choir. The principal parts were taken by Mrs. R. H. Chouven, Miss Laura Phoenix, Miss Viola Williams, and Mr. J. Howard Moyer, all of whom took their parts well.
The chorus work was splendid, the closing number, "Rejoice, for Blessings Round Us Fall," being the best.
The members of the choir and their friends were afterwards treated to an inviting supper by the Ladies' Aid Society. Speeches, embodying many compliments to Mr. Adams and his excellent singers, followed. Mr. Adams is just completing his second year with the Hyatt Avenue Church, and his work is greatly appreciated.

GROWING BEETS FOR BIG AMERICAN FIRM Production Around Blackwell
Will Be Worth Thousands
This Season.

SARNIA BRANCH OFFICE, 209 Front Street.
Office hours, 9 a.m. to 5:30 a.m., 2:30 p.m. to 5:00 p.m.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Sarnia, April 15.—Many more thousands of dollars' worth of beets than have been grown in the last two years will be planted by the Michigan Sugar Company in the vicinity of Blackwell. This concern, which is one of, if not the largest sugar beet industry in the States, has acreage all over the Wolverine state, and some time ago skilled experts in their employ decided that the land around Blackwell was excellent for the growing of beets. Since then the company has steadily been increasing its holdings in that territory, with satisfactory results.
Most of the beets are raised on a contract basis similar to that of the canning companies. An agreement is made with the farmer to turn so many of his acres into beets, seed furnished free, and also contract labor for the care of the plants from the time they sprout till they are shipped away.
Estimators of acreage for the concern have been in Sarnia and Blackwell for the last two weeks, making contracts for the year. One of these men stated to The Advertiser that this year's production would be far in excess of the preceding seasons.
The beets when pulled are shipped back to the States by way of the tunnel, where they are transferred to the Pere Marquette and taken to Crosswell, the headquarters of the Michigan Sugar Company. Most of the labor supplied to the farmers is foreign, principally Belgians.

HEAVY SENTENCE FOR GIRL WHO SKIPPED
Annie Swanson, Aged 16, Sent Down Because of Her Bad Record.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Sarnia, April 15.—Not more than five or less than two years in the Mercer was meted out to Annie Swanson, a 16-year-old girl, in police court today. The girl was one of those caught in the raid on a disorderly house conducted by Mrs. Tree, which took place about two weeks ago. She promised that she would appear in court the following morning, but instead of keeping her word, she skipped to Port Huron, where she was nabbed by the United States Immigration officials and detained until yesterday, when the necessary deportation papers were forwarded from department headquarters.
The girl's previous record isn't what it ought to be and went strongly against her. Lena Tree, daughter of Mrs. Tree, the proprietress of the house, another girl not more than 15, who was caught in the same raid, and who also skipped to Port Huron, is held by the American immigration authorities, and will be turned over to the police here as soon as the required papers are signed.

BOYS WERE CAUGHT.
[Special to The Advertiser.]
Sarnia, April 15.—Two young boys who ran away from the Industrial School at Mimico were caught at the home of one of the lady's parents last night by the chief and Inspector Crosbie, after having been informed of their whereabouts. The boys will be returned to the school.

FIRST LOAD OF LUMBER FROM UP THE LAKES
Steamer H. R. Harvey Arrives
With Five Hundred Thousand Feet of Hemlock.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
The steamer Hugh R. Harvey arrived in Sarnia yesterday with the first load of lumber of the season for this port. The boat was loaded with five hundred thousand feet of hemlock. The steamer Miami is expected to arrive shortly with another cargo of lumber.
The duties of the Northern Navigation Company's freight sheds at Point Edward, on which work was started some time ago, is nearly completed, and the new extension will very likely be ready for use by the time the boats of the line start running. The steady increase in the line's freight traffic created an absolute necessity for larger quarters.
The little ferry running between Point Edward and North Port Huron was forced to discontinue service yesterday owing to the strong north wind sweeping down the lake. Cessation of service by the little vessel caused the Canadians employed in the Grand Trunk shops in the north section of the American city no small inconvenience, as they are forced to come down the river and cross on the large ferries, and then take a car to the Point.

ENGINEERS MAKING
WATERWAY SURVEY
Col. Lamb and Party Getting Charts Ready for Government.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Sarnia, April 15.—Col. Lamb, the engineer and Port Dover, is in Sarnia with his Government work between Kincardine and Port Dover, and is making a waterway survey, is working along the river in this vicinity taking soundings, sweeping, etc., for the preparation of charts for the Department of Marine. Greater depth of water is found this year than several years ago owing to the considerable amount of dredging that has been done in the last two or three years.

FEW BOATS OUT
Insurance Rates on the Lakes Go Into Effect Today.
[Special to The Advertiser.]
Sarnia, April 15.—Three boats of the Windward Line passed here yesterday bound up. Although it is the fifteenth (the formal opening of navigation as far as the insurance is concerned), there are only a few boats out so far. At Harbor Beach, the first port of shelter on the American side between here and the Straits, no vessels have been reported by the lifesaving station as seeking shelter there so far this year. More than one transport of lumber, however, have cleared from northern Lake Huron ports loaded for southern points.

OHIO PEOPLE THANK
SARNIANS FOR HELP
Letter of Appreciation Was Received From Governor Cox.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Sarnia, April 15.—A letter of appreciation and thanks was received by Mayor Bell from Governor Cox of Ohio, expressing the appreciation and gratitude of the State of Ohio to the people of Sarnia for their contribution to the flood sufferers. The letter reads as follows: "My Dear Friends:—For the stricken people of Ohio I want to thank you for your offering. We are touched not more by these substantial generosity than by the largeness of the hearts of those from whom they flow. The elements have wrought us a staggering havoc. But this is a great state. She will recover. The lights of hope and hope will point the way. Sincerely yours, JAMES M. COX."

Little Old Red School House
Scores Another

For the second time this season, the playlet, "The Little Old Red Schoolhouse," was presented to a large Auditorium audience by No. 8 Class of the Dundas Centre Methodist Church. The band of theses in the cast being more familiar with their roles, and feeling at home to a greater degree on the stage, scored a greater success than on the previous occasion.
The singing of Mr. Andrews and Miss Shaw were two of the features of the evening, while the quartette number, which poked wholesome fun at the city legislators, produced a great amount of merriment and laughter. In fact there was laughter, every minute of the performance.
Miss Belle Brown and Miss G. M. Newbury, of the Conservatory of Music, under whose direction the play was presented, deserved credit for the balance and quality displayed in the production.

Fifty Settlers on Way to London to Make New Homes

The first party of settlers looked by the Government for this part of the country will arrive in the city tonight. There will be thirteen families, upwards of fifty persons, in the party, and they will be in charge of Immigration Officer John Riggs until Wednesday morning, when they will be assigned to farmers and others who wish to secure laborers.
The Britishers will be available for those who come first, whether to work in the cities or in the country.
"All will have an equal chance to secure these men," said Mr. Riggs. "Anyone who wants a man should apply to me in the Cootie Block, Wednesday morning."
Mr. Riggs states that there is a great shortage of houses for workmen in the city.
"My small homes at reasonable rental are required," said he. "I would be one of fifty men to put up a house to be rented to new arrivals."

Health Institute
Has Apparatus
For Analyzing

In announcing courses of public health for physicians, dentists, and medical officers of health, the Institute of Public Health makes known that it is equipped with apparatus to undertake analysis and diagnosis for London and the western district of the province.
The institute will undertake the work of analysis now performed by the provincial board of health for the municipalities in this district. This will include the examination of throats for diphtheria, the examination of sputum for tuberculosis germs, the examination of blood for typhoid, and various other examinations.
The duties of the institute will be to examine water for sanitary purposes, and to report upon the milk and sewage supply when requested by the municipalities.
The examination of foods and drugs is not contained in the duties of the institute, so that any examinations made will be charged for.

Fractured Leg

[Canadian Press.]
White Plains, N. Y., April 15.—A verdict for $25,000 damages for fractures of his left leg was given by Joseph Lauzon, a brakeman, from a jury in the supreme court here late last night. It is the largest verdict of its kind ever heard of here. The defendant is the Railroad Company, on whose line at Bridgeport the accident occurred in September, 1912. Lauzon was on the car of an Adam express train, which was being shunted to a side track at night, when it struck a baggage truck on the station platform. Lauzon claims

You Should Buy
The Best Paint
When you come to paint your house you must figure on investing a certain amount—say $25 to $50, two-thirds of which is for labor. If you spend $2 or $3 more than a cheap so-called paint would cost and get the best paint you will save more than the few dollars extra outlay because you will be assured of utmost service.

Low Brothers
High Standard Liquid Paint is not only the best paint but the most economical. It gives you most for your money—most in wear, in looks and in hiding power. It may cost more per gallon but less for the job and you can depend on it.

Measure to Amend County Court Act

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Toronto, April 15.—In the Legislature yesterday Mr. J. C. Elliott secured the adoption of the principle of his bill to amend the county courts act to provide that questions of the jurisdiction of the court should be noted when the statement of defence was filed. He said that the indorsement on the writ usually gave little information upon which to base a question of jurisdiction, and this matter often did not come into dispute until the statement of claim was filed, and it would facilitate litigation and make for better justice if the law was so amended. The second reading was granted.

Stomach Always Baulked,
Had Constant Indigestion Smell of Cooking Made Him Sick
—Bilious Two Days a Week.

Cured by Dr. Hamilton's Pills.
Mr. Clemmons' experience is not unusual. Nowadays poor stomachs are more the rule than the exception. But the proper treatment is sure to depend on the cause. If they reach the trouble at once, go right to business, work while you sleep, and have you feeling better if not cured next morning.
"My food seemed to decompose in my stomach," writes Mr. Ralph Clemmons, of Newbridge, P. O. "I had stomach that failed in some way to perform its work. Digestion seemed more or less arrested and I grew thin, yellow, nervous. The stomach became distended and impeded apparently the action of the heart for often at night I would vomit a mucous mass, and at these times my head ached most terribly. A friend who had been cured of a similar condition, advised me to take Dr. Hamilton's Pills regularly, which I did. The result in my case was simply marvelous. Dr. Hamilton's Pills removed the cause, strengthened the stomach, excited the liver to normal action, the kidneys were released of excessive work. Health soon grew within me. I can now eat, sleep and live like a live man."
Be advised—use Dr. Hamilton's Pills—they are sure to do you good. 25c per box, five for $1, at all druggists and storekeepers, or sent from The Catarrhzone Co., Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Canada.
