ON NEW CITY TIME

The evening edition of The Advertiser goes to press on Monday afternoon on the new city time In conformity with the moving of the city clocks one hour ahead, the home edition of this paper will be published during the summer under the daylight saving schedule.

By adhering to standard time for the opening of services the morning after the setting on of the clock one hour in London, churches of the city are avoiding the pitfalls Into which congregations in the west stumbled when daylight-saving was adopted in several of the cities and towns of the prairie country, two and three years ago. In practically all cases, it was considered that the changing of the time at midnight Saturday would have a less disorganizing effect than any other time in the week. It would not throw out of gear industries, business concerns and the school system if the one day In seven were allowed for becoming accustomed to the change.

Even in the west there are always some people asleep to the fact that "the world do move," and changes came about. In one city, a capital at that, several individuals overlooked the fact that the city clock was due to take a double-header at midnight, so when they awoke as usual and squinted one eye at the clock, they yawned in thankfulness and turned over for another snooze, the blessed extra Sunday morning nap, Bylaw Specifies Change at Midnight on Saturday.

All New Schedules Will Be Arranged to Meet City Time.

The daylight saving bylaw becomes operative at midnight tonight. There has been some doubt as to the exact hour when it goes into effect, but City was proposed two years ago. Clerk Baker stated that the bylaw states specifically that the hour changes at midnight on Saturday night. However, it is not imperative that a person shall remain up until midnight to move the clock on an hour. That can be done when one retires. But there must be a definite time specified in the bylaw, and midnight on Saturday night is quite satisfactory.

There seems to be some doubt about the thing, but the point was cleared up last evening by City Clerk Baker. He informed The Advertiser that the hour of changing the time was 12 o'clock this Saturday night. Practically all the business concerns, manufacturers, street railway, public schools, and all institutions have agreed to the change, and their schedules will be arranged on city time, not standard time. The railways will continue to run as at present. There will be some friction and inconvenience at the start, but this will not be of serious moment. There will be a ready adjustment in a few days.

UNDER NEW TIME.—The schedule at the Collegiate Institute on Monday will be governed by the new time which goes into effect at midnight. Principal Rogers states that all pupils who are trying examinations should make sure of the time they are to Petrograd, June 10 .- Via London .- The war office announced today that, continuing their successes in Volhynia and Galicia, the Russians have captured 97 officers and 5,500 men, in addition to the total previously announced. Eleven more cannon have been taken.

GERMANS RUSH TO AID. London, June 10.—Strong German forces have rushed to aid the hard-pressed Austro-Hungarian armies in stemming the tide of the Russian offensive on the 250-mile front in Volhynia, Southeastern Galicia and the Bukowina. These reinforcements have been unable thus far to check the Russian advance along the whole front, but have been caught in the hurricane of Russian shells and the furious assaults of the Muscovite infantry legions. The czar's forces have pushed the Austro-Hungarian lines in Volhynia more than 26 miles to the west, driving a wedge that threatens to break the Teuton front at any moment and force a general retreat.

CAPTURE BRIDGEHEAD. They have captured the bridgehead of Rojastibo, twelve miles northwest of Lutsk, foreboding serious menace to the fortified city and important railway sector of Kovel.

In the south, on the Bukowina border, they have pushed their advance by crossing the Stripa and reaching the River Ziota Lipa, threatening Buczacz, the key to Czernowitz, with envelopment. They have captured a total number of 65,857 officers and men, including many Germans. The Austro-Hungarian war office admits none of the above assertions, but in its report tonight says that Russian attacks at various vital points of the southeastern front were repulsed. It states that in the northeast the fighting has been of a less violent character, and that the situation in Bessarabia

A large crowd witnessed the exhibition of bayonet fighting and physical ill put on at Queen's Park last evening by the class in bayonet fighting and physical training being held at the bar-racks. The exhibition was one of the finest of its kind ever witnessed in this city, and was greatly enjoyed by the throng who turned out to see it.

Under direction of Sergt.-Major Instructor Green, the men were put through physical drill and bayonet exercises. Agile and graceful in white sweaters gleaming under the glare of the lights, the men presented a strikng appearance as they went through he different movements. The strong light served to accentuate the splendid time which the men kept, throwing their figures in bold relief against the dark background of sky.

The exhibition opened with a drill in physical exercises, which was followed by three brisk sparring bouts, which were keenly enjoyed by the audience. The exhibiton in bayonet fighting was the feature of the evening, and was enthusiastically received.

CRISIS NOW IN COLLEGES

War Is Depleting Many Institutions of Their Students.

About fifty of the Baptist business-men of London met Chancellor Mc-Crimmon of McMaster University at a luncheon last evening in the Sunday of the Talbot Street Baptist Church, The luncheon was presided over by Capt. W. C. Riddiford, chaplain of the 142nd Battalion and president of of the Baptist Ministerial Association of this city. He introduced Rev. G. W. of the Baptist Ministerial roung president-elect of the associathe audience, Mr. Young being elected at a meeting in the afternoon. Rev. James Hamilton was elected secretary-treasurer.

Chancellor McCrimmon delivered an inspiring address on the subject of "Education, its relation and value to the national life and the importance of educational institutions in the work of reconstruction after the present war."

He emphasized the value of a Christian education. Unless educational institutions were Christian at heart, teaching the right ideals and ideas of life, there will be nothing to prevent catastrophes such as the present struggle, which in the beginning was caused wrong ideals McMaster University had given liberally of its students to "This," said the chancellor, "is not to be wondered at, for Baptists have always led in the matter of liberty. Our forefathers bled and died for it, and Baptist sons today should be and are ever ready to defend these liberties.'

He showed the crisis which is now facing educational institutions in the depletion of students and consequently of finances. He called upon Baptist businessmen and churches at large in the denomination to rally around them, seeking students to enter them and assisting to the greatest extent in their Chancellor MacCrimmon, who is one

Mrs. Cooper, assistant treasurer, is in charge of the list, and of the special donations for this purpose. Enormous quantities of extra materials have had to be bought of course. Mrs. Regan, the convener of the buying committee, and her assistants, have been ceaselessly active in examining, sampling, computing, the thousands of yards of materials, the battalions of buttons, the lashions of lampwicks, etc., that are needed. Joseph's brethren, of course, were "some" buyers. But there were nearly a dozen of them! Splendid Systemized Work, Two hundred cases of supplies per month is the average output of this branch of the Red Cross. We hope not to fall below this number for June. Good work all through Western Ontario will (700 in all) is going to tax our powers answer this special call.

Splendid support is being given by the Sir John Carling Chapthe Lord Elgin, Lord Roberts. and Princess Patricia Chapters, and others are taking a virile interest in the work, and turning out quality and quantity of the very highest order. The Personal Service Club, Victoria Hospital Auxiliary, and many other societies too numerous to mention are all doing much helpful work for this special "drive."

Even people who are not members anything (if there are such people in the world today!), but who are just good citizenesses and good workers, are all doing their various bits, shoulder to shoulder round the long tables. And, shoulder to shoulder we will all have to work if the five hundred cases are to be filled in time Is there anyone who isn't helping, and who wants to help? If you are a regular worker, you can surely make time for this extra bit of work. All regular workers have a kind of private daylight-saving scheme that enables them when they are doing their itmost, to increase their output in some marvellous way. But if you have never worked before, do enlist in the Cross ranks now. Don't let the unit go away without carrying some of your work with it. You needn't be a Red Cross member to join in this work. All you need is to have an interest in your own district, your own town, your own

VOICE OF WEST MAY FORCE UNION UPON ASSEMBLY

Eastern Delegates Adverse to Taking Up Question Now.

OPPOSITION IS STRONG

Dr. Campbell Prepares to Put Up Fight for the Minority.

[Special to The Advertiser.] WINNIPEG, Man., June 9 .- Owing to the prospective strenuous opposition of the minority to church union at the Presbyterian General Assembly, some of the eastern unionists are wavering as to the advisability of pressing the majority report to a vote at this assembly, considering it preferable to wait until after the war. The west is determined, however, and will press the Winnipeg Presbytery's motion on the assembly that church union be adopted at once.

Union churches are springing up all over the West. In one section of Saskatchewan there are seven, and these and many more will be lost to Presbyterian if union is not adopted. Rev. Dr. Campbell, clerk of the as sembly, asked for an assistant today to give himself more time to take part in the debate next week. He is leader of the anti-unionists, and no one knows the laws of the church as well as he.

Greetings From Methodists. Principal Crummy of Wesleyan College and Sir James Aikens appeared before the assembly here today to convey the greetings of the Methodist Church of Canada.

The assembly broke out in tumultuous applause, which was repeated again and again as the two speakers proceeded with their addresses.

Sir James Aikens declared nothing he could say would so fully express the cordial greetings of the Methodist Church to the sister organization as the practically unanimous vote of that church to unite its fortunes with those of the Presbyterian body.

The visitors referred to the great subject of church union, and said that if the Presbyterian Church should decide adversely on the issue the feeling of the Methodists to it would continue as warm and cordial as it had ever been, and the two churches would go on their way with mutual regard.

The application of the Ottawa Ladies' College for assistance met with opposition, and final decision was deferred. Permanent Church Funds.

Reports of finance committees of the eastern and western sections of the church, which were presented, showed that the eastern section had permanent funds to the amount of $400,000 and the western section permanent funds to the amount of $1,000,000. Rev. Dr. Somerville stated that the invested funds yielded about five and a half per cent. Rev. Dr. Baird, moderator, named special committee to discuss and decide the issue on which two clerks of the assembly has disagreed. This was the

A SPLENDID WAY TO RE. DUCE ONE'S WEIGHT.

There is, perhaps, no one thing that shows the passing of our youth so much as the horrible tendency of some of us to put on too much weight after we have reached the age of 25 or 30. However young our faces may approximately have reached the age of 25 or 30. However young our faces may appear, our figures "give us away."

The cause of this over-stoutness is that our stomachs convert the food we eat into fat because there is not enough eat into fat because there is not enough oxygen in the blood to produce a proper combustion to destroy the fatty tissue. To reduce your weight go to a good druggist and get oil of orliene in capsule form, and take one after each meal. It is sold only in original sealed packages. Oil of orliene taken at meal times gives you all the benefit of the food you eat, and at the same time dissolves the fatty tissue from any part of the body where there is excessive fat. In this way many have reduced their weight at the rate of about a pound a day, and no flabblness is left.

"Had a Middy Lost His Temper"

Written for The Advertiser by Judge Barron of Stratford

Dedicated to the Boy Scouts of Canada.

Few people recall, if indeed any more than a few ever knew, how near Britain was to war with Russia in 1878. It is regrettable that the facts are forgotten-that at the time, "had a midshipman even lost his temper, he might have run the Empire into war." It should always be remembered that what then preserved peace was Britain's navy, the up-keep of which, with colonial fleets, we are told by altruists, simply provoke the catastrophe they are meant to prevent. There is no more sane maxim than the so-called pagan view "Si vis pacem, para bellum" and the presence of a British fleet before Constantinople in 1878 proves it conclusively. The goddess of the olive branch, worship her as we may, was powerless to stop the Russian advance on Constantinople. Plevna had fallen. The Balkans were passed. In a little while the Bosphorus would be reached, and then all the money of the allied powers, all the bloodshed, all eminiscent of Sappho's passionate the lives lost at Alma, Inkerman, Odessa, Sebastopol, lays, was it not? He is a rascal for Balaklava-all would have gone for nothing, and England and Russia would have been at it again-hammer and tongs, practically over the same ground. It cannot be too often repeated that what prevented the then pending catastrophe was Britain's navy, and the incident is a complete answer to the argument. "No armament-no war," as often as it is made. How it happened is interesting. It proves the heroism of many, rather than the heroic acts of one or two. It gives an example of most splendid organization, self-control and discipline, and to future generations it gives another instance of that high and lofty sense of duty, which throughout all history has so distinguished the British sailor. To fall into a trap one thing, but to walk, or rather sail, into it deliberately is quite another thing. This, however, is what the fleet did on this occasion, and did it, too, with as much unconcern as if going to anchor in a friendly roadstead. Great Britain hates to break a treaty. To this day she mourns over the forged treaty given to Ormichund. But the Dardanelles had to be forced, otherwise the foreseen breach by Russia would, when it came, be a certain prelude to serious complications, if not to war. Better, it was thought, to break a treaty and maintain peace han respect it and have war. Even then, so chary was Whitehall of taking a false step that orders were given, annulled, and given again. Sir Geoffrey Hornby was on the spot. His fleet was anchored in Besika Bay. knew the conditions at first hand. He urged that 3,000 troops should be brought from Malta to Gallipoli, for which purpose he would detach a part of his squadron. That 500 of a naval brigade should land and the approaches be flanked with ships. But diplomacy halted. Orders and counter-orders were given and received until what was done had to be done at the last minute by the fleet itself. Then came a "Rush" order. "Proceed at once to the Sea of Marmora. Do not fire until your ships are struck, then return the fire and silence the forts, but injure houses as little as possible." This meant, of course, that the admiral must not take the offensive. Now the Dardanelles, or more properly, the Hellespont, is a long, narrow, sinuous strip of water connecting the Sea of Marmora with the Mediterranean. The Dardanelles is the name of the narrows of the western end, where the width across it a little more than half a mile, but further on the straits broaden out to a distance, shore from shore, of from four to five miles, the whole length of the water route being from 45 to 50 miles. Nature even resents, so to speak, the passage of ships, for the current is from one to five knots, exceeding five at the Dardanelles. This rapid flow made the passage doubly hazardous, for to strike a mine at seven knots is practically to stop over it, and this is anything but pleasant. The warning had come from both the British consul at Gallipoli and the commandant at Fort Namasghia, that the channel from end to end was closely mined and obstructed by torpedoes. Besides, the fleet had to run the gauntlet of Turkish forts on either side, for the parties taking in this excursion. firman previously issued by the sultan for the fleet to Tickets and full information pass held good no further than for the occasion first pro- city ticket office, corner Dundas and posed. But the hidden dangers beneath the sea, or defying the sultan in his treaty rights had no effect on the intrepid commander of Britain's fleet. He selected the Temeraire, Sultan, Alexandra, Achilles, Agincourt, Swiftsure and Salamis-ships that have long since found an abiding place in the scrap heap-and, with these he determined to force the passage. In line ahead, the Alexandra leading, they passed to the west of Tenedos with Lemnos and Inbro on their port, and in this order they approached the mouth of the channel. The impressive sight of seven huge monsters proceeding leisurely with a sort of human dignity, with barrels trailing so as to keep the line, the fog being thick, into a veritable culde-sac mounted on both shores with Krupps and Armstrongs, against whose shots armor would present but a poor resistance, with hidden mines and explosives to impede the passage and blow a trespasser to pieces, was apprehensive and impressively solemn. Every man was at his post-one ready to throw the tompion from the muzzle, others to run out the gun, and its captain, sphinx-like and motionless, waiting, lanyard in hand, to jerk the friction tube and start a mighty missile on its errand of destruction. At the entrance, on the north side of the channel, was the old castle of Europe, or what was left of it, and across on the south side, its twin-the castle of Asia. Close by in order lay the forts of Chanak, perhaps the most formidable of any, then Zocala and Hamazleh. A little further in the dreaded Fort Namasghia, with twenty heavy modern guns, and on the oppisite side Saltanieli. The Agincourt and Achilles were to attend to the latter should from either a puff of smoke be seen Every eye was strained, hoping to be the first to catch the signal, if it came. In like manner the Alexandra and Sultan were with their starboard guns to engage Fort Tohernak and from their port side to silence any fire from European forts, for all along the north shore were strong redoubts of earth and turf embrasured for cannon at short intervals. While this was going on, the Swift sure and Temeraire were to slip by, pass old Abydos and attack Fort Medgidich, the strongest fort of all. This was the order, but only part of it-the peaceful partwas carried out. A dense fog with snow, sleet and a heavy headwind made the passage still more difficult, but such was the splendid nerve of every man and the magnificent discipline of all concerned that not the slightest excuse was given the sultan to offer resistance, while at the same time everything was ready on the instant to reply with fire, had any fire been shown. daylight on the 13th of February the movement began. At daylight on the 15th, two days later, the fleet dropped anchor below the walls of Constantinople in full view of Scutare, to find and surprise the Russian force encamped but a league away. This incident turned the Russian front to the right about. The danger to Constantinople had passed, and the terrible consequence to Europe of its conquest by Russia was finally averted.

To the peace-loving Belgians two years ago the possibility that the twentieth century concealed its Goths and Vandals and its Attila seemed too remote to be seriously considered. The scourge of Napoleonism had been a European nightmare that would never be repeated. ONLY A PANSY BLOSSOM.

Than all in earth's fair bower;

Bringing me back the June-time

Oft from this pale, dead blossom

From out of its faded heart.

Than all in earth's fair bower:

That made that summer sweet.

From under the churchyard grasses

Bringing me back the June-time

The fairest, sunniest summer

'Tis only a pansy blossom, Only a wither'd flower,

Of a summer long ago, The fairest, brighest summer

I see a fair face start, A face like a sweet wild flower,

That I shall ever know.

Only a pansy blossim,

Only a wither'd flower, Yet to me 'tis dearer

Of a summer long ago,

That I shall ever know.

I gathered at her feet,

Still in this pansy blossom

Her tender face I see,

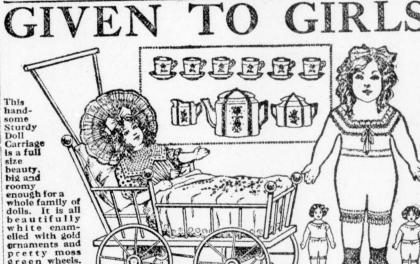

Bringing her back to me

Only a pansy blossom

Faded, unlike the love,

Yet to me 'tis dearer

That dignified matron with silver hair and clear grey eyes—a prominent physician's wife, I learn—is to me just Polly Allan, the most satisfying school chum girl ever had—a veritable friend in childhood's need. In the dainty little body nearly opposite, with pathetic brown eyes and childlike dimpled chin, I trace Pansy Blair-not so pathetic as her appearance would imply in those days, but a fun-loving elf who played havoc with the affections of boy riends through her confiding manner. Another, in widow's weeds, is Lucy Dale, gentle, timid Lucy, who a month since laid away her millionaire husband whose idol she was. There were Nancy Lee, the best dancer in town, and Clarice Jones, who, it was told, received three proposals of marriage during one evening, and Anna Brown, with whom I tumbled into the brook-oh, so long ago! Also Bell Stair, who could outrun all others on the playground, whose eyes still sparkle with mischief, although a grandmother.

Thus incidents attached to each of these former associates crowd upon me and in fancy we are again a merry bunch, rebelling at the irksomeness of school tasks, or laughing away our girlish trials. Was there ever a time in the history of the world when so grand an opportunity offered to a maritime country with coal, iron and flux at her seaboard, to take up such an industry? In this matter British Columbia has made a eginning. A main desideratum in the uilding of modern ships we know to be steel plates. Besides the native iron and coal in millions of tons, we have steel mills at tide water. This is surely a felicitous combination of requisites, as a starting point. But as in the case of preparing for the return of our sons-in arms, so must we be well beforehand with any plans for shipbuilding, in both cases Government help will be necessary, and if railways can be richly assisted, would it be a great matter if the builders of steel ships were given the ecessary initial support to secure employment for any released skilled and other labor to the end that an unex-cated. Coming next to the gearset, re move the lubricant and wash the gears bearings and shifting forks. Test shafts for end play and if adjustable eliminate the lost motion. Also test the mesh or alignment of the gears, and if faulty correct same. The shifting mechanism may require a slight adjustment, particularly if a gear shifts itself when in service. Examine the dogs of the high speed gear, and if badly worn have them trued up. The linkage between the lever and gearbox should be cleaned and lubricated.

Remove all lubricants from the rear axle, clean and inspect the gears, particularly the mesh of the pinion and gear, and if there be side or end play, correct same. If roller bearings are employed care must be taken not to adjust them too snugly, else damage will result. The universal joints should be cleaned and the supply of lubricant renewed, and the radius rods or torque arm cleaned, adjusted and lubricated. If the car has been in service some time, disassemble the muffler and remove the deposits. A clogged muffler is often responsible for hard starting and loss of power. Disassemble the brake mechanism and its linkage. cleaning and lubricating its working parts before attempting to reline or adjust the brakes. This part of the overhaul requires extreme care, for any friction between the facing and brake drums cuts down power and decreases fuel efficiency. Eliminate play from the rear wheel bearings if of the adjustable type, for with considerable lost motion it will not be possible to obtain efficient action of the brakes without their dragging.

Steering Gear Important. The overhaul of the steering gear i most important, and no part of the work should be slighted. End play of the steering column can be eliminated and lost motion in the wheel corrected by remeshing the gears, bringing a new section in mesh. Play in the drag link can usually be removed by adjusting the position of the plug in relation to the ball end of the arms, but extreme wear of the linkage of the tierod, yokes, etc., will require new bushings and

These parts should be lubricated and where bolts are utilized these repacked with grease. The bearings of the front and adjusted, and if the cones, races and balls are worn, replaced with new. Never use one or more new balls with old. After completing this work test the wheels for alignment, and any error can be corrected by lengthening or shortening the tierod. A test of the alignment of the wheels should be made monthly, as wheels out of true nuickly destroy tires.

The springs should be either disas sembled or the leaves spread apart for cleaning lubrication. A mixture of graphite and oil, forming a thick paste is excellent for springs, and the same material can be successfully employed on the tire rims, which should first be Worn spring bolts and hangers should be replaced with new when ensiderable play exists, and the spring clips set up snug. The rivets of the rame and cross members should be inspected, and the nuts and bolts reaining the fender frons and running boards gone over with the wrench, as one or more loose parts may be the cause of that annoying squeak. After the work of overhauling the chassis is completed it should be taken out and given a road test. This is important, as minor corrections and ad-justments are more easily made with the stripped chassis than with the body attached. If the fuel tank be ocated in the body, the gasoline supply can be obtained by rigging a five-gallon can on the testing seat and making a temporary connection to the corburetter. Production and

Do the great variety of Sixes and the fluctuating prices seem confusing and perplexing?

Let's reason it out.

What controls price? Production.

As a manufacturer's production increases, his production cost, per car, decreases.

Therefore the plant with the largest production is in a position to give more of everything and charge less for it.

We are the world's largest producers of Six and Four Cylinder Automobiles.

Consequently you get in the Overland Six a larger and more powerful motor—a longer wheelbase—the convenience of electric control buttons on the steering column and an almost endless list of other comforts and refinements.

—yet what is the price?

Not $1700 or $1850 but $1600.

And when it comes to a Six Cylinder performance, remember the Overland Six is the star of them all.

One ride will convince you.

and the muffler, therefore, is often neglected or misused. The muffler is placed on the end of the exhaust pipe and its sole purpose is to silence the driver of an automobile, while taking pleasure himself, does not deprive others of it. The exhaust valve opens while the burned gas is still under pressure of from twenty-five to thirty pounds a directly into the air the resulting noise would drown out conversation in the car, annoy everybody along the street and very quickly get the driver into difficulty with the police. The muffler prevents all this. It provides a chamber in which these exhausted gases may expand and cool somewhat, and at the same time breaks up the pressure by allowing it to leak out slowly instead of letting it loose in one 'big

In the early history of the automooile mufflers were not used and everybody for blocks around knew when an auto was coming. As the automobiles increased in number this became a nuisance, and was stopped by law. They sought-indeed, had been seeking —a means of muffling the sound. In the early muffler there was trouble because the gas would back up in the cylinder and decrease the power of the motor. It was thought there was no way to decrease the sound without decreasing the power; therefore, the automobile manufacturers devised a valve to 'cut out' the muffler on the Sometimes the back pressure was so great as to interfere when driving through heavy roads or up hills. The 'cut out' let the gas exhaust directly into the air, instead of going through the muffler. At the present time nearly every city has a law prohibiting the use of muffler 'cut outs.'

As a matter of fact, those well posted on automobile engines understand that the 'cut out' is absolutely unnecessary if the muffler is kept in proper condition. Muffler manufacturers have been able to produce a design with which there is no back pressure at all. The average driver, however, does not know that his muffler needs as careful attention as any other part of the mechanism and so he neglects it n these days of noiseless cars it requires a great number of very small opens inside the muffler, and these become clogged with soot or carbon from the exhaust. The deposit colects very rapidly, especially when the grade of oil is poor or too much oil is used. It collects also when the carbureter is adjusted to give a too rich mixture. When these openings become clogged the exhaust cannot escape readily, and naturally the cylinder of the engine is not clean at the exhaust stroke. Result, it is mpossible to bring in a full cylinder of new gas on the next intake stroke. There is not a full charge to explode and this means a loss of power to the

There have been cases where the throttle was opened wide without any increase in the speed of the car. Try ng to find out what was the matter. the driver opened the muffler 'cut out and this caused the machine to accelerate very rapidly. There have also been a number of other cases where, when the engine was cranked, there would be a few explosions, a sputter and a stop, and the reason was that the muffler was so clogged that it was impossible to exhaust the gas from these few explosions, the cylinder remained full of burnt gas and of course could not take in a further supply. These, of course, are extreme cases. Of course, if the engine stopped or there was a decided decrease in power the operator would hunt around and find out what the trouble was. might not notice the lesser cases where, the muffler was somewhat clogged, it was not enough to decrease the power strikingly; but even when these extreme cases are met it will often be found that the power of the motor may be materially increased by having the muffler cleaned. Impossible To Get So Much Motor Car Value For The Money

E FIND this is the attitude of many people who come into our salesroombefore they know anything about the Maxwell.

Not until the Maxwell is shown and demonstrated to them-until they sit in it and examine the finish—until they ride in it—or perhaps not until they drive it themselves, do they realize what a tremendous value is offered in the Maxwell car.

It is not unusual that Maxwell value should not be known to everyone, because it is uncommon to find such a car for a good margin more than the Maxwell price.

The Maxwell stands absolutely alone in a highly competitive field, for the amount of value it offers for the price.

Appearance—The lines of the Maxwell are decidedly attractive. There is no break in the contour from the radiator to the back of the car. The fenders are gracefully shaped. All metal parts are enameled or nickel-plated. The upholstery is deep and well-finished. From any angle it is a car that the owner can be proud of.

Motor-The engine in the Maxwell car is not equalled by any other four-cylinder engine of its size. And we know of larger and more expensive cars that have less able power plants. The Maxwell engine carries its load through mud and sand or over the steepest grades without a falter.

Quality—The materials in the Maxwell car are the best that can be bought and the workmanship that turns them into finished parts is no less excellent. It is only the large production of the Maxwell factories that makes it possible to put such quality of materials and workmanship into a car selling at the Maxwell price.

Economy - With its other attractive features. the Maxwell is a most economical car to own, Owners get 22 to 25 miles per Imperial gallon of gasoline and 8,000 to 12,000 miles per set of tires. And the car is so durably built that repair expense is negligible.

We are sure you want a car such as we have described the Maxwell to be. If you will give us a few minutes of your time we are sure we can convince you that the Maxwell Car is an exceptional value. Come in today.

Four New Ideas Today there are four new ideas in motor car design:

Light Weight High-Speed Motor Yacht-Line Body

Increased Riding Comfort for all Passengers.

All four of these modern ideas you find incorporated in the new Saxon

Light weight comes from right design and right materials. Nickel steel in axles, steering gear and other vital parts is lighter and stronger than ordinary carbon steel. Vanadium steel not only makes better springs but reduces their weight. Saxon high-speed motor design gets more power with less gas out of a small motor than men used to get out of big heavy motors. Besides, this is a six-cylinder motor-with the even pull and marvelous flexibility that only a "Six" can give. Except for starting the car, gear shifting is practically unknown to Saxon "Six" owners.

The yacht-line body of Saxon "Six" exemplifies the latest motor car fashion. Body finish is highest quality and floor boards and running boards are linoleum covered.

Riding comfort for all five passengers is foud in the exceptional roominess of tonneau and driving compartment. Long resilient cantilever springs make rough roads easy. If you seek speed—Saxon "Six" has it. This car ran 490 miles, from Los Angeles to San Francisco in 131/2 hours-15 minutes faster than the "Lark," the Southern Pacific's fastest train. If you seek power-Saxon "Six" has demonstrated it on every famous testing hill in the country. At Uniontown, Pa., it climbed the twisting three-mile mountain road in four minutes and four seconds, defeating all cars in its price class. If you seek economy-Saxon "Six" has it.

105 "Sixes" driven home from the factory by dealers covered 26,360 miles and averaged 21 miles to the gallon. Today in your touring car of course you want a "Six." Don't try to be content with less, when you can enjoy "Six" luxury in a well-proved Saxon for $1,115.

The kerosene cleans the carbon from the cylinder walls and that is what makes the trouble, for it is exhausted right into the muffler. Some drivers understand this and when using kerosene for this purpose open the muffler 'cut out;' this allows the greater part of the carbon to charge into the air, but even then some of it finds its way into the muffler and in time makes trouble. A muffler of modern design, if kept clean, needs no 'cut out' arrangement, but if it is allowed to become clogged it is necessary to use a 'cut out' where the full power of the engine is needed. The consequence is usually a trip to the police station and then to the court and then a fine to be paid. It

Hot water should never be used for washing a car. It has a deteriorating effect on the varnish of a well-finished body. A single application of hot water and soap will remove the lustre. Lukewarm water will not harm. Wood alcohol applied with a sponge or cloth is one of the best methods of cleaning either cloth or leather upholstery. A mixture of linseed oil and turpentine is sometimes recommended for cleaning leather. Among the necessaries when touring should be a supply of tire valves and caps. A slight leak in a valve will cause as much delay as a blowout. A good valve is often hard to obtain when on the road and considerable annoyance can be avoided by carrying these accessories. A valve tap and die should also be added.

The difference between the tire mile age of different drivers depends quite largely upon the care used to avoid sharp substances in the road. A small. sharp-cornered stone will sometimes cut a large hole. Tire wear also in-creases in a fourfold ratio compared with speed. Almost any good make of tire will run 5,000 miles if used care-

PARIS. June 9.-4:45 a.m.-The demobilization of the Greek army, which was signed yesterday by King Constantine, is regarded here as the direct outcome of the energetic measures by the ailied governments recently taken in making joint representations to King Constantine, followed by an embarge virtually closing Greek ports.

The demobilization of twelve classes of the army means the sending back to civil life of 150,000 men, exactly half of the army, ordinarily composed of 24

The mobilization has been unpopular from the outset with the Greek people, owing to its harmful economic effects. and this is considered to have further influenced the taking of he step as well as the fact that the Government hopes thus to gratify a large numbe of supporters of Former-Premier Venizelos in the army who desire to recover their civil rights.

The Entente Allies told the Greek overnment that as a result of its egotiations with Bulgaria and Germany, they would take all measures cessary to enforce the treaties safeguarding Greek unity. The Greek commander of the port of Saloniki has been eplaced by a French naval officer, and entry to the port has been refused to Greek ships.

tele, and of the increasing wealth and inclination to save in the community The balance-sheet now accounts for no less than $96,361,363 of assets, an increase of more than ter millions in the year, and of thirteen millions in the two years since April, 1914, and this increase is wholly due to the very rapid growth of the deposits and note circulation of the bank. terest-bearing deposits are higher by five million dollars, non-interest deposit by four and a half millions, and circulation by more than a million. Against these increased liabilities the public, the bank holds unprecedented reserves of liquid assets. Its cash and equivalent-to-cash items exceed 20 millions, added to which there are more than 20 millions of gilt-edged securities and call loans, bringing the total liquid reserve up to $40,960,486, as compared with $32,086,572 in 1915, and $24,923,404 in 1914 (before the war). The bank now holds over five millions of Canadian Government and municipal securities, of which more than four millions were acquired during the year, along with five millions of railway and other securities, and nearly eight millions of call loans, all of which constitute not only an excellent liquid asset, but a very good source of revenue. Commercial loans are nearly a million and a half greater than a year ago, but are still a long way from the pre-war figures. Profits for the year were in onsequence considerably below the rate of two years ago, but they amply sufficed for the payment of the regular dividend after meeting all requirements in the way of taxes, donations, and contingency appropriations. The directors and the general manager have succeeded in keeping the bank in a post tion of great strength.

Seven Hundred Thousand Acres Less Sown This Year Than Last.

WINNIPEG, June 9. - Manitoba's wheat crop for this year amounts to 2,994,529. Last year it was 3,664,281 acres, the largest on record. This was announced this morning by the minister of agriculture. The reason for the decrease is ascribed to the high wage demanded by farm laborers rather than to an actual shortage of help; also to the desire of many harvesters to summer fallow large portions of their land, after last year's heavy Rev. Horton, the Anglican minister of Many low-lying fields were too wet for seeding, and this also contrib- lowing him to go, the bench cautioned uted to the decrease.

Only 2,122 acres are in fall wheat. The fall wheat area in 1915 was 3,351 May 5.

CITY NOT NEGLIGENT IN SEWAGE PROVISION, ENGINEER

Willis Chipman Points Out Mistake in Report.

TAKES CARE OF WATER

Storm Sewers Are Doing All That Was Expected of Them.

At a meeting of the board of control yesterday afternoon, Willis Chipman, paid his respects to the report of the provincial board of health, in which the storm and sanitary sewer systems

He pointed out several discrepancies in the report, and declared that the city is doing all that can reasonably be expected in taking care of the sewage. The storm sewer system was not designed, he said, to relieve the sanitary system of sewage. All it was intended o do was to take care of the storm water, which it would do. Sewage would not be dumped directly into the river as the report stated. Mr. Chipo per cent of the raw sewage was lumped in the river direct was abso-

Two more cases were tried yesterlay afternoon at the general sessions and June sitting of the county court, pefore Judge Macbeth.

In the case of the London and Westrn Trusts vs. I. T. Fox. judgment was iven against the defendant for $113.76 ithout costs. The plaintiffs sold the ttings of a bankrupt store to Fox at rate of 33 2-3 per cent on the dollar. ox claimed the goods were unsatisctory and too high-priced, and stoped payments on them.

The company was forced to sell the ttings elsewhere at a rate of only 30 er cent on the dollar. According to the judgment Fox will ave to pay the difference caused by selling at a lower rate.

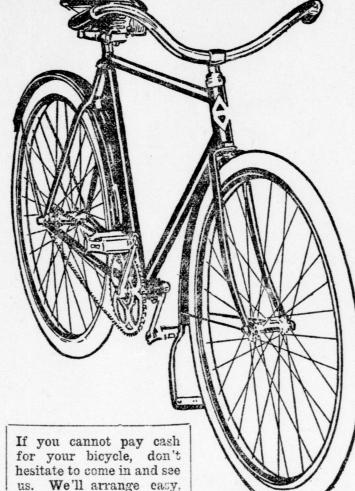

Decision was reserved in the case of Levy vs. Greene Swift Company. He brought a claim against them, his

THE NAVAL AND MILITARY TOURNAMENT AT SHEEPS HEAD BAY SPEEDWAY
Attracted many thousands on the opening day, May 20th. Those present were treated to the sight of a real war game, in which the regular army and National Guard took part. One of the attractions was the anti-aircraft gun which was supposed to repel the invaders in the air.
