Public Utilities Manager Visits City Clerk's Office and "Takes 'Em Back."

SURPRISE ATTACK

'He Did It With a Smile," Says Veteran Official, Describing Operation.

"This is 1923," vouchsafed Manager Buchanan of the public utilities commission at 4 p.m. yesterday, as he invaded the city clerk's office and confiscated the water department pay lists, seized earlier in the day by Mayor Wenige.

The general manager's counterattack was accomplished within the proverbial twinkling of an eye, as it were, according to authentic reports. From Mr. Buchanan's own version of the incident, City Clerk Baker was taken completely by surprise. Back in camp this morning, the manager related his experiences to The Advertiser. "I soon learned that the mayor had been in," he explained, "but I did not make my approach until 4 o'clock. I just dropped in and scooped up the pay lists and was gone with the remark to the clerk that he could tell the mayor that the ray lists were going back to my office where they would remain, as he had no business to remove them."

Taken by Surprise. City Clerk Baker explains that had he known that there were any further developments he would have been on his guard. "Manager Buchanan came in smiling and picked up the list started out, came back again and then left," he said. "I thought he was joking and was going to leave the lists in any event." vestigation led to the arrest of John Recovering from this surprise at-tack, Mayor Wenige sortied again against him he straightened his tunic of the public utilities commission which had been gathered in by his presumably to thresh the question out again. Big news broke in London after five o'clock yesterday afternoon when Ison was arrested.

It came too late for The Advertiser's first edition and too late for the green "Night Final" at five o'clock. But The Advertiser's latest extra, the "Sporting Green," was on the street at six with the whole story, written and rushed into type in thirty-five minutes.

The people who read The Advertiser "Sporting Green" last night knew of big news a day ahead of other people, because no other paper had it.

The "Sporting Green" last night also carried the final scores of all games in both American and National Leagues, and the complete seven race results from both tracks, as well as all the closing markets and late news appearing in the "Night Final" at five.

SCHOOL BIGGER ASSET THAN ARMY AND NAVY

Rev. H. B. Storey Delivers and Address Before Chesley Avenue Mothers' Club.

"The public school is a bigger asset in any country than the army and navy," said Rev. H. B. Storey, of Southern Congregational Church, last evening, addressing Chesley Avenu Mothers' Club on the subject of "Our Duty to the Community."

Continuing, the speaker urged the importance of giving boys and girls as much time as possible in school, suggesting that it would be to the interests of state or community to provide financial assistance for the young people to stay longer in school where it is impossible for parents to afford to keep them there.

The necessity for giving young per ple a wider acquaintance with Canadian and British history, institutions, and the men and women who have made history, was impressed Mr. Storey called attention to the prominence given to honoring the flag in the United States, and familiarizing the people there with their own great men. URGES C.N.R. HEAD TO REDUCE RATES ON ALBERTA COAL

London Chamber of Commerce Sends Petition to Sir Henry Thornton.

FREIGHT TOO HIGH

Representatives Will Attend Canadian Tax Conference at Toronto.

In view of the recommendations of Alfred J. Stevens of the local branch of the engineering institute and of Mr. Pratt of the Alberta government and in view of the fact that in Winnipeg and many of the western cities Alberta coal had been satisfactorily substituted for anthractie, a petition was forwarded yesterday from the meeting of the London Chamber of Commerce to Sir Henry Thornton asking that there might be a reduction of the freight rate to make the use of thi scoal possible in Ontario.

The directors of the chamber also decided to send representatives to the Canadian tax conference that is being held on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week in Toronto. At this conference the representatives of the London Chamber will take up three important points.

Protect Investor. They will recommend that those persons who derive their total income from investments shall not be mulcted in income tax, at least up to the amount that is ordinarily exempt ($1,000 for single men and $2,000 for The chamber will also suggest that the federal and municipal taxes be collected ' through the municipal channels thus insuring a great saving in the cost of collection. The third point the chamber will bring up is, in connection with the sales tax. The directors believed that it would add to the simplific tion of the tax collection, as well as to the speed and efficiency of busione source instead of at many, as at the present time.

Recommend Change. They will recommend that the nanufacturer of the finished article be asked to meet this tax, and that he should be granted a rebate for all finished products used by him in the manufacture of his article. The chamber has aranged for their representatives to accompany Howard Hawtrey and H. J. rallying for the conflict.

On Saturday afternoon next, The Advertiser was informed today, the executive committee of the East Middlesex Liberal Association meets in Hyman Hall to perfect organization plans for the campaign and set a date for the party nomination.

There will be no difficulty in the search for a candidate, the organizers promise, and chief among the possibilities is R. W. Chappel, businessman, in the annexed district of the city, whose name is well received through the constituency, and who, it is reported will accept the nominaion when tendered him.
'In common with other rural districts the Hicks-Drury incident at Toronto has made its impression in East Middlesex, and former Liberals are reported to be swinging back by the score to their old camp.

Not discounting the fact that they will have to figfiht, the Liberal warriors are undismayed, but feel, on the other hand, that their chances are better this campaign than they have een for years past.

Recalling the stirring campaign waged during the last federal elec-tion by Major Ross and his followers, Liberals believe that the return of the party to Ottawa has created even a greater change for the better in East Middlesex, as well as in other for the attack.

In all probability the contest will be three-cornered. The indications are that J. Freeborn, the sitting mem ber will again lead the U. F. O. forces while the Conservatives give assur-ance that they also will start an entry in the race.

By JOHN W. KANE. Ex-Convict No. 1666.

WHO IS JOHN W. KANE?

Author of "Up From the Death Cell" Writes Only the Facts of His Own Life.

Four years ago (April 19, 1919) murderer, serving life, applied for parole under a new law whose existence on the statute books of the state was due to his own spirit of regeneration and his own efforts with the knowledge of law and affairs which he had won by hard study in prison.

Today he is not only a paroled prisoner, but a free man

This is John W. Kane-that is the name he uses in his recital. It is a pseudonym, but all the rest is truth

He is Convict No. 1666 no longer. He has made good. What he has done with his life since it went on the rocks nearly twenty years ago is enough to shield him from inquiries into his identity.

But he is a real man. He lives today; he chuckles when a certain two-year-old boy holds out his arms and calls "Dadda."

All that he writes is fact. He has lived through it. The names are disguised; save for that, there is no tampering with actuality. No. 1666 sinned, suffered, saw lowed it. His story is a message gleam in the darkness and folof hope whose lesson applies not merely to those who are lodged in real cells but to others to whom adverse odds are like the stones of a prison.

"Up From the Death Cell" starts today exclusively in The Advertiser. An installment will appear each day:

This serial is not fiction; it is the fact-story of a soul that descended It is the biography of Convict No in it, no tear-squeezing. "I killed," he says. "I wish I hadn't." From there he follows the line of his hopes—a wavering line at first, but it rises. It leads at last to redemption and to freedom. No. 1666 remade himself. Now he has his place in the world, his home, his family.

John W. Kane is a later Jean Valfean. Within its scope his biography is as absorbing as that of the tragic figure in Victor Hugo's "Les Miserables." But in the end he wins.

The newsboy had come around the corner just to my right. I was standing in a doorway at the foot of the dingy stairs that led up to my room. "Morning paper, sir?" he inquired. catching sight of me there.

"Yes." And I reached for my last hve-cent piece, while he deftly slipped one of the papers from the bundle and shoved it toward me.

I folded the paper and quickly tucked it under my coat, then stepped out upon the walk and to a place where I could see the clock over the bar of an all-night saloon next door. It lacked five minutes to four. As I turned back toward my room the foiting wind from off the snow-coverad mountains to the west chilled me through. The rickety stairway creaked loudly from my weight, and with chattering teeth I glanced in nervous fright first behind me and then down the half-lighted hallway ahead. No one was in sight. A half dozen steps brought me to the door of my room, and the next moment I was inside and rapidly scanning those ominous headlines:

TWO LIVES RUTHLESSLY TAKEN IN AN ATTEMPTED ROBBERY.

Those eight black-lettered words seemed to burn themselves right into my brain. For a moment it seemed as if all effort at thought was seared and paralyzed by them. Then my sense of sight reminded me that the newspaper in my hands was shaking violently. I was suddenly aware of great weakness in my legs. Two steps took me to the bed upon which my companion was sleeping soundly. "I Thought I'd Shot Just One."

All Things To All People.

Toronto Conservative Women's Club had a meeting et the King Edward Hotel. For the occasion, they had a speaker from West York, a Mr. A. J. Anderson, who came forth with the assurance that the O. T. A. would not be disfigured by the Conservatives.

The Mail and Empire report says "Mr. Anderson gave an account of the events leading up to the present situation in provincial politics, intimating, in passing that the Conservatives stood for the O. T. A. 'I feel Mr. Ferguson is going to give satisfaction not only to the Conservatives but to every right-thinking person in this province."

Is this the measure of the courage of Howard Ferguson? Was this man Anderson speaking officially for the Conservative leader, or was he simply told off for the afternoon to talk to the ladies, who, of course, would be interested in temperance and prohibition

There is no foundation for the statements Mr. Anderson made. He may have been quite sincere in fairly slow, but very sure, process employed by nature, what he said, but he certainly has not from his leader and road builders are wise if they will work in conany clear-cut, straight from the shoulder statement on junction with these forces. the matter at all the attorney-general. What sort of a job would Mr. Lennox make of it? It would require an elastic imagination to picture the O. T. A. in the hands of such a man it restored to its right shape. as Lennox. Mr. Anderson "intimated, in passing, that the Conservatives stood for the O. T. A.," while a short Herbert Lennox as the man to whom its enforcement would be entrusted.

This double-facing will deceive no one outside of passage. those who want to be deceived, or those to whom the fruits of office are greater than the upholding of a principle.

Hon. Howard Ferguson apparently prefers to have his campaigners run loose, suiting their message to the moods of their various congregations.

Paying Duty on Our Own Goods.

British Columbia salmon canners have goods on hand to the extent of several millions of dollars. For a portion of these they have an offer from the maritime provinces. The cheapest way to ship is via the Pacific coast and Panama canal. If a shipment is made that way, the goods have to pay duty when they reach Halifax, because they are regarded as coming from New York, a foreign port.

The Vancouver Sun published a telegram received from the minister of customs at Ottawa. It says:

"Under present regulations and conditions canned salmon shipped from British Columbia to Halifax via New York and Panama canal would not admitted to Halifax without payment of duty.

Vancouver is a long way from Halifax, and there are two ways of covering the distance, (1) by an allrail haul, or (2) by the water route and Panama canal. The latter is cheaper than the former, hence the logical way to ship if the Canadian consumer is going to have any benefit from the existence of the Panama canal.

Were there a Canadian customs officer at New would be no duty charged.

The idea of charging duty on Canadian goods made in British Columbia when they enter Nova Scotia is or the practice of developing trade in Canada. Here is another instance: The Premier Mine, in British Columbia, was considering purchasing from a Canadian firm in Owen Sound twenty tons of grinding purse the principle of an even and sustained temperature and so gain our appreciation of their endeavors to lighten the goods could compete with American products, but after finding that because there was no Canadian customs officer at New York, the company would have to ship all-rail or, in the alternative, pay duty on Canadian goods, they found that it would be cheaper to buy American goods. This was done.

There is surely something seriously wrong in this system of doing business. It is unthinkable that this long transcontinental haul is being insisted upon to hold the business for Canadian railways at the expense of Canadian consumers and the development of Canadian business.

A Warning at the Right Time. Premier Taschereau of Quebec has issued a warning to those who may be thinking of investing in gold mines in the newly-exploited districts of that province.

He advises that "before investing money in alleged gold discoveries, let the people be sure that experts have found them to be in accordance with their descrip-

"Let the people be wise and take advice from their bank managers or businessmen before placing their savings in such enterprises. More than all, let them beware of fine talkers."

This reads almost like the words and wisdom of Solomon applied to the follies of 1923.

If more of our leaders were to speak out boldly upon such matters there would be fewer financial scars engraved on people not able to bear them.

Could Not Inspire on Facts.

The Brantford Expositor must have been paying heed to the meeting of Conservatives in London, for it

"A speaker at the gathering of Western Ontario Conservatives, held in London on Friday evening last, after giving a deplorable picture of the exodus to the U.S. which is now going on, declared that it was because the King government has done away with hearth. American industries He did not was because the king government has done away with branch American industries. He did not mention, however, any specific industries which had thus been lost, and he forgot to state that the present tariff policy of Canada was drafted by the man who prepared the tariff under which Canadian manufacturers enjoyed their greatest period of

come in for a half-day's inspiration. It was just a sort of limbering up affair; they wanted to know how it felt to get up on their hind legs on a platform, and those who had to sit still and listen were being schooled to say "Hear, hear" at the right time, and how to kick their feet on the floor when the signal was given for "prolonged applause."

The Brantford paper is quite wrong in expecting an adherence to facts at such a gathering-it would squeeze out every last drop of inspiration, and it was inspiration above all else that the Tories were in need of when the troops were called to London on that eventful Friday.

Give The Roads a Chance.

A few weeks ago the automobile could make the roads any place around here. Today they go out and sink to the hubs in mud, and often have to stay right there until arrangements are made to dig or pry them

The frost is coming out of the ground, and the roads are right now at the point where they can be spoiled for weeks to come by cars and trucks churning them up. There is no artificial means that can be employed to take the frost out of the ground overnight. It is a

WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT DISEASE WE CALL MUMPS.

By ROYAL S. COPFLAND, M.D. Inited States Senator from New York. Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

A few days ago, in a tailor shop, saw a man with the mumps. He blood-pressure, anemia, constipation, was going about his affairs, apparently unconscious of the fact that he is but a unit in society. He continued at his work, needing the wages undoubtedly, but exposing others to either one may show the cause. If the pain and inconvenience of the not, have a thorough physical exam-rarely fatal. Re-cently some Eng-lish writer said that in ten years there have been British Isles. In too, there is a pos-sibility that diphtheria was re sponsible rather than mumps.

It is rather unommon, but not unheard of by any means, to have mumps in adult life. Children under fifteen and past ten, boys particularly, are likely victims. Even nursing children may have the mumps.

There are certain glands under the jaw which communicate with the mouth. Their purpose is to furnish saliva to keep the mouth moist. They are known as the salivary glands. Mumps is a disease characterized by inflammation of these glands. It is an acute disease, appearing sud-denly and marked by high fever. The fever varies from 101 or 102 to 104. There is marked pain and great swelling on one side of the face.

Pretty soon the other side may become involved.

that the patient can hardly open his mouth. This symptom three, four or five days. This symptom persists for Most of the acute infectious diseases have shorter periods of incubation than mumps. This disease continues for two to four weeks, usually about three weeks. You will be surprised to know that it is sometimes difficult to tell the difference between mumps and diphheria. Slight swelling, pain, difficult swallowing and fever may give a suspicion of diphtheria. Of course, in diphtheria there is a membrane in the throat which is lacking in This leads me to say that when ever a child is taken sick, having chill or convulsions, vomiting, running nose and fever, the parent should nspect the throat. In very young children diphtheria is a serious and too frequently fatal disease. Early recognition is of tremendous im pertance, because the early antitoxin may save the child's life, while if the recognition is post-poned the disease may be fatal in pite of all treatment.

There seems little need of mistak-ing diphtheria for mumps, but it does happen and we must not take chances. It may happen, of course, that mumps and diphtheria appear together. The family doctor will settle all these problems.

The victim of mumps should be kept separate and apart from the rest of the family. The secretions of the nose and throat contain the organisms of the virus responsible for the disease. The other children must be guarded against exposure the whole family or a whole The family doctor will direct the treatment, although there is little to do except to keep the patient quiet. Sponging he body may lower the Hot compresses or antiphlogistine may be applied locally. In other cases cold, even an ice pack, will prove more pleasant.

Philip Pocock in Toronto To Urge This Point on the Gregory Commission.

TO EXPLAIN STAND

Suggests Permission to Munici palities to Buy Rights and Control.

Philip Pocock of the public utili ties commission is appearing before the Gregory commission in Toronte today to tell why he thinks the government should turn over the affairs of the hydro-electric commission to the municipalities concerned. A resolution to this effect was passed at a meeting of the Municipal Electrical Association held in Hamilton two weeks ago. Mr. Po-cock who with T. McFarland repre-sented London, was one of the strongest supporters of the move-

The matter is being taken up by the Gregory commission this week which is preparing a report on the resolution for the provincial government. To secure further information the chairman invited Mr. Pocock to explain his views before the

For Municipal Control. Mr. Pocock feels that the various municipalities, ten in number, who are the users of hydro-electric and therefore are the real backers of the bonds, should control the business of the system rather than a body of

With others who attended the convention in Toronto, Mr. Pocock be-lieves that there is too much inter-ference by commissions and individuals who are not directly interested in the affairs of hydro. This he claims is not fair to the municipalities who are backing the scheme. The municipalities using power are fully responsible for the bonds issued, and yet at the present time have no representative on the Recent agitations and investiga-tions into the affairs of the system have stirred the municipalities into trol should pass to these who are vitally interested carry out the plan the provincial government is to be asked to allow the different municipalities to issue debentures to pay off the bonds issued by the government. In this way they will have full control of development. Such a move Mr. Pocock contends will make little difference as far as consumers of hydro power is con-cerned. The transfer will cause no disruption in business. The muni-cipalities will be running no great risk by assuming full responsibility for in Mr. Pocock's opinion, the sys-tem has already proven itself as tem has already proven itself regarded, and was disappointed that the regarded, and was disappointed that the nerger was the explanation for the advance rather than the $4 dividend talk.

Profit-taking made itself felt in recent favorites like Fleischmann and Colorado Fuel. Declaration of the dividend at the rate of $3 on Household Products appeared to have been anticipated fully by the late advance. Reports of a dividend which have been current for some time were responsible for the rise in New York Air Brake. Remington Typewriter was taken up following uncofficial estimates of earnings, which run pretty high. Tobacco Products was well supported, as it has been ever since the entry of the new interests into the market for the stock, referred to first two weeks ago.

Winnipeg. April 24. — Cnfavorable weather over the Canadian West and higher cables resulted in a strong wheat market here today. Around opening figures, about 1c above yesterday, there was considerable short covering, and a good volume of trade was worked. Some of the seaboard trade appeared to be buying Winnipeg, July wheat and self-ing Chicago July and September. The close was %c higher for both May and July.

In this connection France was reported as actively bidding for wheat at Liverpool. With snow and rain more or less general throughout the Northwest, and seeding delayed as a consequence, bears were at a double disadvantage, and during no part of the day were prices as low as yesterday's finish.

Corn and oats derived their strength chiefly from the action of wheat values. Shorts in the May delivery of corn gave signs of being uneasy, and May advanced considerably more than other months.

MONTHEAL.

Montreal. April 25.—Receipts of live stock on the two markets on Tuesday amounted to 53 cattle. 49 sheep and lambs, 807 hogs and 1.634 calves. The cattle were of common and medium quality; cows, heifers and bulls of dairy type, and the few sold brought steady prices. The calf market was rather draggy, and only a few lots were sold early. Prices ranged from $4 to $5.50. One straight ist of fairly good calves averaging 100 lbs brought $5.50. A number of lots were unsold at 11 o'clock.

WEDNESDAY'S OPENING PRICES.
Chicago, April 25.—With indications of considerable export business being done, wheat averaged a little higher in price today during the early dealings. May delivery in particular. The fact that Liverpool market showed Jess firmness than the majority of traders here had looked for tended somewhat to restrain buyers, especially in regard to the new crop months, July and September. Opening prices, which ranged from 1/3c decline to 3/3c advance, were followed by some slight declines and then by an all-around rise above yes-WEDNESDAY'S OPENING PRICES. then by an all-around rise above yesterday's finish.

Eastern buying gave some indepenent strength to corn. After opening of to a shade advance, the conarket scored gains for all deliveries.

MINING NEWS

O'Brien mine was the only shipper from Cobalt during the week of April 60, having consigned three carloads of the aggregate weight of 199,346 pounds

The most outstanding event of the week in mining will likely prove to be the auction sale of the Quinze power rights, over the Quebec border, and only a few miles from Cobait. This particular site, good for 50,000-horsepower, is up for sale on Wednesday, the 25th, and it is looked upon as the key to settlement of the power question for the Ontario gold mining industry, as well as the source of supply for the new fields in the Rouyn district, Quebec.

The McKinley-Darragh is handling approximately 140 tons of ore daily, and producing an average of about 1,600 cunces of silver per day, amounting to 5,000 tons of ore monthly and an outlit of close to 50,000 sunces of silver. A high degree of efficiency is shown in the fact that the balance sheet at the end of each month since resuming work nearly a year ago has shown a satisfactory net profit in spite of the average value of the ore having ranged from only $7.50 to $9 a ton.

The lease on the Long Sault Rapids has been signed, sealed and delivered to the Hollinger Consolidated Gold Mines, according to information secured during an interview with A. F. Eriginam manager of the Hollinger Brigham, manager of the Hollinger. Asked as to the probable date on which development of the new power site would commence, Mr. Brigham repiled: prefer to actually do so before offering any predictions."

underground workings having dewatered, the new developme program has been commenced on the Victory Silver Mines. A station is being cut at the 300-foot level, preparatory to carrying lateral work along the highto carrying lateral work along the high-grade vein encountered during the course of sinking the shaft. Later work will also include continuing a cross-cut at the lower level, with the object of inter-secting a big vein which carries encour-aging patches of high-grade ore at the surface, as well as at a depth of 185 feet.

Shareholders of the King Kirkland Shareholders of the King Kirkland Cold Mines, Limited, at a special meeting unanimously ratified an agreement with the Tonopah Mining Company, under which the latter company will perate the property. More than 180,000 shares were represented at the meeting, either in person or by proxy. C. F. Jordan, president of the company, was in the chair, and stated that operations would be started as soon as possible.

Summerhayes, a former manager of the Porcupine Crown, has joined the staff of the Argonaut, and will supervise the operation of the mill. The mill will be operated at about 50 tons of ore daily, and will be gradually increased with a view toward ultimately handling close to 200 tons daily. There is a considerable tonnage of good grade ore already developed, thus assuring steady proable tonnage of good grade ore already developed, thus assuring steady pro-duction. Also development work is be-ing extended in such a way at the 500-foot level as to hold out promise of greatly adding to the visible resources.

Provinces Must Help

The affairs of several mining companies in the Porcupine district are in the melting pot, including the Porcupine Crown, Thompson-Krist, Inspiration, Moneta and possibly the Vipond Consolidated. If the Porcupine Crown Company can sell its mine and mill, the proceeds, added to the present surplus of atound $200,000, would place the company in excellent position to make an attempt to secure a new mine. An official of the company made the remark that he would like to see the Porcupine Crown engaged in developing property near that of the parent Crown Reserve Company at Pancake Lake. The mill on the Porcupine Crown is modern, and has a rated capacity of about 140 tons of ore daily. The various properties now mentioned as having prospects of figuring in a big merger all lie around the Porcupine Crown, and with the exception of the Vipond, are all lying in idleness, despite their promising geological structure and their close-proximity to the Hollinger. Rumors in Timmins are that a deal for the Porcupine Crown is now in an advanced stage.

Your Backyard Garden

Attractive Window Boxes Are as Geranium, Marguerites, Verbenas, Tuberous and Fibrous-Rooted Bayes, Most Desirable to Beautify gonias and Fuchsias. the Home.

Window boxes are a decided asset in making the home attractive and should be much more common than they are in our cities. If well filled with the proper plants suitable for this purpose, they are a pleasing feature in house decoration.

In making a window box it will pay to spend considerable time in the making of the box itself. Hastily-constructed boxes are short lived and unsatisfactory. One of the best ways to make a window box for outside display is to take two beards planed and sandpapered and the exact length of the outside window sill. A third board of the same length and at least ten inches in width, is nailed on the bottom edges of the two sides. The ends must be cut to fit exactly into the ends of the box, and should not be nailed on the outside edges of the side boards, as it will not be neat or strong. Holes to permit of good drainage should be bored here and there through the bottom board, and the whole inside of the box should be given a light coat of pitch or tar. The outside should be given two coats of paint in any color that will harmonize with the paint work of the house. Ornamental trimmings in the form of beading strips, scroll work, etc., are better omitted, as they add little to the appearance of the box. and are continually coming off and become unsightly. See that some suitable provision is made to hold TENDERS FOR DREDGING.

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned and indersed "Tender for dredging, Bowmanville," etc., as the case may be, will be received until the box in position on the window As to the plants you may use for the filling of the box, there are hundreds from which to choose. Leaving the selection of kinds for the time being, it will be well to draw attention to the essential types that should be employed in filling the box. Along the front it is necessary to plant some form of a creeping plant which will shade the front surface of the box before the hot weather arrives, and which will in time comdredging, Bowmanville." etc., as the case may be, will be received until 12 o'clock noon, Friday, May 11, 1923, for dredging required at Bowmanville, Midland, Penetanguishene, Port Hope, Sauit Ste, Marie, Point Traverse, Ont., Nicolet, River St. Charles, Riviere du Loup and St. Pierre les Becquets, P.Q. Tenders will not be considered unless made on the forms supplied by the Department and according to conditions set forth therein.

Combined specification and form of tender can be obtained on application to the undersigned, also at the offices of the District Engineers, Equity Building, Toronto, Ont., Shaughnessy Building, Toronto, Ont., Shaughnessy Building, Toronto, Three Rivers, P.Q. Tenders must include the towing of the plant to and from the work.

The dredges and other plant which The second row should be filled with' a short plant that will overtop the first row, but will not hide the third or back row in the box. In the third and last row plant some upstanding variety which will slightly shade the window, and at the same time act as a background to the less conspicuous plants in front. Before commencing to fill your box with earth, it will be well to place a layer of pebbles or broken flower pots pletely cover the front of the

to and from the work.

The dredges and other plant which are intended to be used on the work shall have been duly registered in Canada at the time of the filing of the tender with the Department, or shall have been built in Canada after the filling of the tender.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted check on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Minister of Public Works, for 5 per cent of the contract price, but no check to be for less than fifteen hundred dollars. War Loan Bonds of the Dominion will also be accepted as security, or War Bonds and checks if required to make up an odd amount.

By order in the bottom of the box in order to prevent clogging of the drainage holes. Having filled the box with good garden earth mixed with one-third its bulk of well-rotted manure, you are now ready to proceed with the planting. For the front row of your planting. For the front row of your box use one or more of the following kinds: Canary Creeper, Nasturtiums (tall or trailing sorts), Creeping Jenny, and Ivy-Leaved Geraniums. Department of Public Works, Ottawa, April 23, 1923 A25-M2,9

For the centre row use such plants

As a background use taller plants such as Ostrich Plume Asters, Ten-Week Stocks, etc., or if a solid green background is wanted get a quantity nmon woods ferns.

These are only a few of the betta known plants that can be used for this work, and if the gardener wishes he has many more from which to

KNOLLWOOD PARK PICKS FLETCHER FOR ALDERMAN

Residents Name Candidate To Contest By-Election In Ward Four.

NOMINEE ACCEPTS

Association Will Endeavor To Obtain Extension of Street Car System.

Knollwood Park will have a standard-bearer in the civic by-election which is to be held on May 12 to fill a vacancy on the city council created by the death of Alderman T. Pat-

Captain John C. Fletcher, a wellknown contractor, was unanimously selected as candidate at a meeting of the Knollwood Park Improvement Association last night. He will go into the fight with the promised backing of every member of the organiza-

Want District Represented.

It was the belief of everyone present that the district should have a representative on the council. The chairman, John Waud, was careful to explain that the decision cast no reflection on this year's council as a whole but it was felt that if a resi-dent of the district was a member of the council many problems which af-fect Knollwood Park would receive close attention.

Mr. Fletcher accepted the nomination although he declared it came as a complete surprise to him. "I would like to be a member of the council," he asserted, "so that I would be in a position to serve my neighbors. For twenty years I have privilege and concession that I have received. If I were on the council perhaps I would be in a position to make things easier for others."

Mr. Fletcher served as captain of "B" company in the 135th Battalion during the war. He is still on the reserve lists as a fully qualified colonel. His progressiveness is shown in the fact that he enlisted in the British army 30 years ago as bugler boy and has since then worked himself up step by step to the top of the the progressive and has since then worked himself up step by step to the top of the the progressive and the progressive and an adequate navy to signed the Washington agreet who signed the Washington

A public meeting is to be held at Knollwood Park soon after nominations to rally voters and to organize for the election. It is expected that 50 members of the society will serve as canvassers and 23 more will be named as scrutineers.

DUKE OF YORK'S BRIDE CHUMS WITH FAMILY GHOSTS

LADY ELIZABETH OF SCOTLAND BIDS FAREWELL TOMORROW TO HER CHILDHOOD SPENT AMID GHOSTS OF GLAMIS CASTLE, WHEN SHE BECOMES THE BRIDE OF A ROYAL BRITISH PRINCE

This Simple-Hearted Girl Is the Idol of Her Clansmen, and While Old London Celebrates They Will Light Bonfires on the Northern Hills.

QUEEN MARY ALREADY TUCKS HER INTO BED

When Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon marries the Duke of York tomorrow. no other woman will stand between her and succession to the British throne, as the Prince of Wales, heir to the crown, is still a bachelor. On her marriage, Lady Elizabeth, as a royalty, will be beyond interviews; below appears the only interdiew granted by her. It is a remarkable and frank picture of a charming girl who was won by true love—the picture of her character as disclosed by herself in her chat on her childhood, the ghosts she has met in her family's castle, Glamis—built in 1376—and her trousseau and wedding gifts. She tells much else besides and gives an unusual picture of the home life of the British royal family.

This interview was interdicted by high command in England, but permission was given for its publication abroad. It was passed on by Lady Elizabeth and by Commander Greig, the Duke of York's equerry. It appears exclusively in The Advertiser and was secured by the North American Newspaper Alliance.

Lady Elizabeth herself, in a note written and signed in her own hand, gave permission for publication here, after having granted the interview to Jean Victor Bates, one of the foremost of British newspaper women and herself the member of a distinguished family.

Has Met Ghosts Like Conan Dovle

As a child and in later life, Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon, fiancee of the Duke of York, has been the chum of the ghosts in her family's fourteenth century castle, Glamis. And she isn't afraid of them. She is more intimate with spirits than even Sir Conan Doyle, student of spirits. She savs:

"To us the ghosts are just members of the family. Old Beardie is our oldest and best ghost, and the Gray Lady the gentlest and kindest. They frightened Walter Scott out of his senses. As a child I have walked up and looked our ghosts in the face, and they have never hurt me. Queen Mary Stuart comes at times, carrying a sealed letter in her hands. She is very like her portraits."

This is the first interview worthy of the name that Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon has given to a representative of the press. Being now absolutely insured by royal command against unwelcome journalistic invasion, she is all but unapproachable.

Fortune, therefore, favored me greatly when, thanks to a personal acquaintance, I found myself admitted to the town house of her father, the Earl of Strathmore, 17 Bruton street, and privileged to put questions freely to the Duke of York's flancee, soon to be the fourth lady in the United Kingdom, and, if anything should prevent the accession of the Prince of Wales, one day England's queen.

It was in a room of Victorian atmosphere that I waited, rose-tinted as to curtains and covers, with great pots of spring flowers distributed on mantels and tables. There were bookfilled shelves, topped with large autographed photographs of the King, the Queen and the Duke of York.

Liberally covering the sofas, tables and the floor were cases of wedding presents, which had been unpacked and the gifts put back again for removal, I inferred, to Buckingham Palace, where the royal presents are London, April 24.—The most talked to be displayed after the reception on

Thistles and Shamrocks Both Confident On Eve Of Tilt

Experts Waver As They Try To Pick Tonight's Winner

Uncertainty of Feminine Temperament Leaves Male Dopesters Uncertain and Hanging Fire-Tilt Will Pack Armories.

"If' and "maybe" were two poor overworked little words which crept into the buzzing conversation of the city basketball fans on the eve of tonight's great struggle between Thistles and Shamrocks at the Armories. Odds should have favored the Shamrocks, because they have appeared before the public more often than the Thistles, and against probably better teams on several occasions, and it is believed they did in certain of the low male gaming places. But among the feminine plungers the largest wager recorded was a box of chocolates to a hair net, and the Thistle bettor was offering the odds.

What the best girls' basketball team in the world would do under one set of circumstances and still under a totally different set is something that the mere male mind refuses to grapple with, hence the constant use of "if" and "maybe" by the experts. The "jump" and all the rest of the factors that enter into boys' games is highly intensified and multiplied, it seems, when it comes to trying to dope out the variations of the feminine temperament in athletics. No uncertainty of the outcome was apparent in either of the camps last evening, and, according to the latest curl paper reports, both teams were supremely confident of the outcome. Players of both teams retired early last night for reposeful slumber, and all will be fit and ready for the affray this evening. With all the modesty with which managers of fistic artists announce their predictions, the two rival girl managers last night each openly stated that their team would win. Either one of them is going to be contradicted this evening. Early in the evening a drawing for the referee was made, and O. Miller of Central Y, Toronto, drew the assignment. Both teams will get instructions to play cleanly, which, according to the teams, will be entirely superfluous.

Fans who were rather privately hoping for a dishevelled affair apparently are going to be disappointed. Vanity cases are not barred, but pretty nearly everything else will be. Those who know the two teams best and who are unprejudiced say the game will be extremely close no matter which way it goes, but they are addicted to the "if," too-"if" Shamrocks don't get rattled or Thistles get crowd-struck. And thus it goes, and will go on until the game tonight has proved either one of two or three sets of contentions about the two rivals correct.

About the most certain fact of the whole affair is that the biggest crowd that ever attended a basketball game, or any other indoor game, for that matter, not even excluding hockey, will be on hand tonight at the Armories to witness the first set-to of the series which will decide the argument once and for all as far as the capabilities of the two teams on the basketball court are concerned.

The players announced for the game tonight by the managers last night tre as follows:

Shamrocks—Pearl Blackwell, Carrie Blackwell, Isobel Duncan, forwards; Lottle Garrett, center; Mary Lindsay, Mary Clarke and Grace Sing, guards. Thistles-Ann Hazelgrove, Rene Curnoe, forwards; Georgie Murray center; Lucy Milne, Bessie Groves, Frances Talbot, M. Stevenson, L. Van-

Mic Macs and Swastikas will provide the preliminary game of the night. The main game should, therefore, take up from here at 8:30.

The left handers look as if they will bother the Braves of the Bronx as much on that side of the river as they were went to bother them when they played on the borrowed polo grounds. It seemed to escape the "hol pollol" in the excitement of opening the new circus maximus, that the Yankees were being put to a lot of hard fighting to win from Boston, a club to which booby honors were attributed before a single umpire had a chance to pull a bone.

Then Washington came along with a better defence and fully as much an attack, and the Yankees have not been able to subdue them. And Washington is not beginning to give them the fight they will get later.

The Wembley Park Stadium, the largest in the world, will be officially opened with the game. His Majesty the King and the Prince of Wales have promised to attend the opening ceretmony, and it is likely that a record attendance for the final game will be established. The stadium, situated in one of London's suburbs, was started soon after armistice, but the construction for various reasons has been halted several times. Wembley Stadium will seat 126,500 persons, and is four times the size of the Coliseum of Rome. The structure will be used in connection with the British Empire Exhibition, to be held in 1924, where a great sports festival will take place, in which Canada, is fully expected to be represented in field and track events, lacrosse, field hockey, association football, etc.

The probable line-ups for Saturday's great game is as follows:

Bolton Wanderers—Pym, Chambers, Thirkell, Nuttal, Matthews, Jennings, Jones, Jack, Smith (J. R.), Smith (J.), and Vizard.

Port Elgin, April 24.—At a large and enthusiastic meeting held here last night a lacrosse club was organized with the following officers: Honorary president, Rev. V. T. Mooney: president, S. Roy Wesley: vice-president, Fin Hepburn; secretary-treasurer, Harry Marshall; executive committee, J. W. Reinhart, Dr. W. P. Power, A. Schell, B. Eby, D. Roppel and D. Macarthur. This town has been out of lacrosse for over fifteen years, but there is enough material to insure fast teams. The executive decided not to enter a team in the O. A. L. A. this present season, but to form a town league. 1 "Stevens-Hepner brush factory has the nucleus for at least two teams. It was also suggested to organize a school lagram.

Momentous announcements may be expected. But, on the other hand, conservative influences may prevail and Floyd Johnson be sanctioned as Jess Willard's opponent next month. It is hard to tell just what will be done, as a matter of fact. Discussion at the meeting agreed that the schedule be arranged so as not to conflict with the seniors. It was also decided to send a delegation to the Public Utilities Commission with a view to having the senting accommodation of rails on the eye of the hattle of Gattraence of Augustus Caesar and his captains before the battle of Philippi, the wind-jamming of Meade and his generals on the eve of the battle of Gettysburg, and all the famous preliminary dope events of history have nothing on this current conference of the leaders of Fistiana's army.

Johnson won over Fulton on points, the decision being rendered by a committee of five good newspapermen and true, but in order to have set himself up in the eyes of the public as a slamwhanging opponent for the Heculean Willard, Floyd should have administered a soporofic dose to the lanky plasterer. This he did not do. He took nine of the twelve rounds, but one-pounder solid shots never glanced off twelve inches of Harveyized steel with the celerity that Floyd's gloves ricocheted off Fulton's pale chrome features. ricocheted off Fulton's pale chrome features.

What is the answer? Why nothing other than that Johnson is willing, that he has the true fighter's heart, the real puglistic instinct, but that he can't sock. At least he could not sock hard enough to send Fulton into dreamland, and since other fighters, such as At Palzer, Billy Miske, Harry Wills and Jack Dempsey, had done this trick, the Iowan suffered by comparison, and to this extent Johnson's status as an opponent for the Pottowatomia glant has dwindled, for if he cannot knock Fulton out after hitting him with everything but the ring stools, what can he do to Jess?

He was born at Demerara, British Guiana in Toulouse, France, April 25.—Pierrot Mascaras is only a nine-year-old boy, but he once had quite a reputation as a spirit medium, much to the financial advantage of his father.

Pierrot's specialty was to lie in his bed, ostensibly going into a trance. Always, following a sufficient lapse of time, there came queer knockings, and a little bell under the bed would begin to answer questions of mere mortals in spirit language. Pierrot apparently never moved.

All went well for several weeks.

Then an inquisitive reporter attended a seance. He thought he detected a hand under the bed.

Just before the next seance he managed to smear fresh black paint on the little bell.

Everything worked perfectly. The "spirits" answered as usual. But they proved to be black "spirits" for Pierrot and his father. The boy's hands, after the seance, were covered now serving in Palestine; Douglas in With black paint, and the exposer of the fraud revealed the source of the fraud to the others present.
