WHERE ARE FACTS NEW LIQUOR VOTE ASKED IN ONTARIO?

Hon. W. E. Raney, in Open Letter, Urges Premier Ferguson To Present His Reasons For Setting Date for Plebiscite-Who Appealed For Vote?—Who Wants To Spend Money?

An expose of the methods employed by Hon. G. Howard Ferguson in presenting his plebiscite on the O. T. A. to the people of this province is contained in an open letter just issued by Hon. W. E. Raney, former attorney-general.

Charges of a complete change of front without any apparent and sufficient reason, of withholding from the electors necessary and vital information in regard to the desire for a plebiscite, and of totally unwarranted expenditures in the face of an deficit for the year of $6,000,000, as estimated by the provincial treasurer, are also part of this denunciation of government tactics.

"You could scarcely have treated the subject more casually." says Mr. Raney, "if it were your opinion that all the friends of the act had been supporters of the late Drury government, but may I say to you that in my opinion there are in Ontario thousands o temperance Conservatives who are awaiting your reasons for the right about face from the month of June last year, when on the eve of the election you announced yourself as a firm believer of the law, to July of this year, when you signed what a majority of the members of your government hope will be the death warrant of Pardon a Member.

Colbert Claims Move To Cut Council But Deeper Politics.

John Colbert, president of the London Labor Party, views the proposal to abolish the ward system of electing aldermen to the city council as a direct attack on labor representation in the city, and as part of an organized plan to put the control of the city in the hands of big busi-

"This suggestion," he says, "to abolish the ward system of electing the council should be most actively combated by labor in the city. It is combated by labor in the city. It is merely the thin edge of the wedge to oust labor from its just representation on the council, and in the affairs of the city. The origination of the plan, in my opinion, is the London Chamber of Commerce, and it is merely city manager form of civid government under another name.

"As things are at presentative in London from Ward Three, and to do away with the ward is to put labor. London from Ward Three and to do away with the ward is to put labor off the civic map entirely. The reduction of the council from twelve to eight, or for that matter to four, is simply concentrating the government in the hands of fewer men, and allowing fewer opinion on any movement. It will not remove politics from city government, but will rather add to the already bitter political atmosphere of the council. The latter plan to elect four aldermen (for two-year terms), means that there ter plan to elect four aldermen (for two-year terms), means that there would only be two to elect each year. Now it is impossible under these conditions to keep politics out of city hall matters, and it would be a movement from the frying par into really democratic representation on Milton, July 31 .- In the third fatal level crossing accident in Central Ontario in three days, Alfred H Terrill and his aged father, James N. As the car approached the crossing, which double-tracked, the westbound C. R. express, known as "The Canadian," went by, evidently cutting off the sight of the eastbound train. As Mr. Terrill, still travelling at 18 miles an hour, went to cross behind the westbound train his car was struck by the oncoming eastbound express and hurled about 50 feet. The bodies of father and son were cked up 50 feet farther on at the ottom of a steep embankment. The car was a total wreck, and the bodies of the victims were badly mangled their faces being mutilated almost beyond recognition, vriting in the London Spectator, demolishes many popular errors to which most of us still cling, although they are vestiges of uncritical ages.

Some Popular Beliefs Vilhjalmur Stefansson, the Arctic explorer,

Many people have been indignant that their ime-honored beliefs should thus be attacked and have written letters protesting against the

2. Another popular belief is that ostriches bury their heads in the sand. This superstition, Stefansson says, is thousands of years old, but The return of Matthews gives the Ferguson exists only among races unfamiliar with ostriches' habits. Colonel Roosevelt told Stefansson that when n Africa he had diligently inquired of all negroe he ever met whether they had ever seen ostriches bury their heads. They had never heard of such thing, and on the contrary expressed the greatest respect for the bird's astuteness. "You see," said Colonel Roosevelt, "those

"This, he declares, "is an interesting survival in folk lore of one of the most fundamental priniples of ancient logic, that 'like cures like.' He tells us that the Eskimo never employs this method, and when it is suggested to him he ejects it as in the highest degree absurd and

This is a very open question and many people will, of course, have different ideas. Some will say the drive, some the approach, and others the putt. Personally, I don't see why one should be more important than the other. I think that every shot is the most important. To get any where nowadays a golfer must be good at all shots. It would not be of much use to be a good driver if you couldn't play an iron or an approach shot. What would vou benefit by it, after playing beautiful irons and approach shots, you were not to hole a putt? The golfer that counts is the one that goes ahead and follows every good shot by trying to execute a better.

The guess taken out of Oil

WHAT oil is, or does, or enables your engine to do, is no longer a theory or a guess.

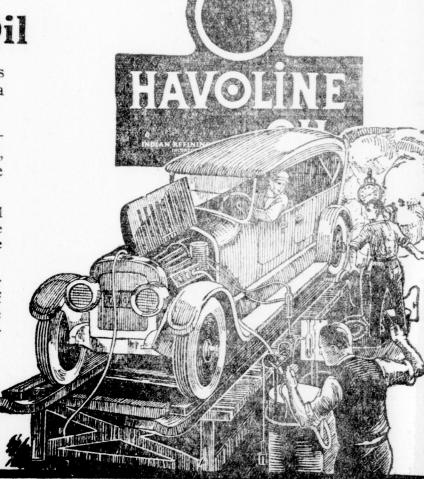

The Wasson Motor Check tells infallibly what oil means in your engine, just as a speedometer registers the speed and mileage of your car.

For instance, it tells you that good oil like Havoline means up to 25 per cent more power in your engine than you get with the 'gimme-a-quart" kind of oil.

Havoline Oil makes a perfect seal for your pistons, so that they receive the full force of the explosion-no compression or gasoline past the cylinders-more power and less dilution of oil.

All you have to do is drain your crank case, fill it with Havoline and prove it for yourself.

MINISTER BACKS EGG GRADING IDEA

Federal Minister of Agriculture Believes Scheme Will Work Out.

URGES FAIR TRIAL

That the proper grading of eggs is a necessary factor in the marketing of eggs, and that such grading wil be found satisfactory to the producer wholesaler, retailer and consumer was the statement made yesterday by the Hon. W. R. Motherwell, federal minister of agriculture, who arrived in London late yesterday afternoon "The principle of egg grading is sound." stated the minister. "We may not as yet have arrived at the proper solution of the problem. Addustments may have to be made in the present laws to insure satisfactory results to all. Reasonable adjustments will be made wherever necesfary."

"The purpose of egg grading is not to inflict hardships upon the people. Egg grading amounts to a duty to all concerned. It is to see that all get fair treatment. I hope that the will give egg grading a fair

The minister was optimistic re-tarding the wheat crop of Western Ontario. Rains in all parts of the country had practically assured a crop comparing favorably with the crops of the past ten years, if nothing untoward happened.
